NAACP fundraiser set for Saturday night

Parade of Stars, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's annual fundraiser, will take place Saturday at 7:15 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

At the event, participants will be recognized for the most money raised. The competition was open to children ages 0 through 6-years-old.

Liz Smith, the former NAACP publicity chairperson, will be recognized for her contributions to the organization.

There is no admission.

Corral garage sale

The Corral members-directed garage sale is today and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Corral, 611 E. 3rd St.

Clothes, toys and household items are being sold. Corral Director Diane Linhart said she hopes to exceed the amount raised last year.

The money collected will go to the costs of a Christmas dinner and dance for the members. The Corral is a Big Spring State Hospital community based vocational training center.

For more information call Linhart at 263-0900.

Fundraiser hosts sought

The Heritage Museum is looking for hosts for their "Let's Solve a Murder Mystery" fundraiser Oct. 24.

The evening will begin with a buffet dinner at 6 p.m. at the museum. Guests will dress appropriately for the characters they have been assigned. At 7:15 p.m., guests will adjourn to homes of 18 hosts' home to play their roles and solve the murder. Each host will have eight guest at their home.

The event will end about 10:30 p.m. or when the murderer has been identified.

For more information contact Angie Way at 267-8255.

Open houses this week

Local elementary school Parent/Teacher Associations kicked off their "Meet the Teacher" open houses this week.

The Washington Elementary PTA conducts its meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in the elementary's cafeteria.

Bauer, Marcy and Kentwood Elementary PTAs rolled into the week with meetings Monday and Tuesday.

Cable bill easily passes House

Narrow passage expected in Senate; Bush threatens veto

By DAVID HAWKING
Thomson News Service

WASHINGTON — Despite switched positions by four Texans, the House has approved legislation to regulate cable television, help broadcasters and promote video competition.

Supporters said the 280-128 vote showed the House would easily vote to override a veto promised by President Bush.

Four Democratic lawmakers changed their votes from "yes," when the House endorsed a similar bill in July, to "no" on Thursday: Charles Wilson of Lufkin, Albert G. Bustamante of San Antonio, Kika de la Garza of Mission and Jack Brooks of Beaumont.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where the victory margin is expected to be much narrower next week. If the measure passes with less than a two-thirds majority, Bush could probably uphold his veto in the Senate.

When the Senate passed its version of the bill 73-18 in January, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen supported it and Republican Phil Gramm opposed it. Spokesmen for both Texans said Thursday that these positions would not change.

In a letter to Capitol Hill leaders, the president said the bill's "massive re-regulation" would drive up cable prices and "drag our economy down."

But since Congress deregulated the fledgling cable TV industry seven years ago, prices have increased at nearly triple the rate of inflation. Consumers have also expressed anger about indifferent service. And cable companies, which now serve three-fifths of American homes, have local monopolies in almost every community.

Under the bill, the Federal Communications Commission would cap what these companies could charge monthly for the New legislation passed by the U.S. Congress will raise Big Spring cable rates, according to Big Spring Cable TV Inc. Manager Larson Lloyd.

Although it was first thought President George Bush would veto the bill, it appears as though he will not use his veto unless he is assured of the 34 Senate votes needed to sustain the veto, Lloyd said.

most effect area cable bills are the re transmission and "mandated-addressability" portions, he said.

Re transmission of local broadcast affiliates has always been free to the consumer, Lloyd said. In the bill are requirements to make cable companies pay the broadcast companies for airing their channels.

"One — we'll be forced to carry them. And two — we'll be forced to pay for them, which will drive up the cost of cable TV," Lloyd said.

POW-MIA Recognition Day being remembered

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs asks all citizens to remember those who served in the armed forces and are missing or imprisoned throughout the world.

Today is National POW-MIA Recognition Day, and area veteran and POW-MIA organizations plan a candlelight vigil and prayer service at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

The prayer service is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, said MIA activist Don Bolin. The memorial is located on Rackley Street (one of three streets named after Howard County's three missing in action) on the eastern side of the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus.

The vigil was scheduled for Saturday so as not to compete with the first home football game at Big Spring High School. Bolin and others plan to continue the vigil throughout the night, he said.

Earlier, at 7 p.m., the Rackley-

Swords Chapter 379 of the Vietnam Veterans of America will host a viewing of "Americans Abandoned," a video recently released by the American Defense Institute, Bolin said.

The video, which explores the evidence of Americans still held captive and abandoned by their own government, is being shown at the VFW Hall on Driver Road, Bolin said.

Today, all former POWs are invited to attend a special program and dinner at 6:30 p.m., compliments of the local Vietnam Veterans of America.

The keynote speaker will be Brig. Gen. Richard A. Ingram, U.S. Air Force, ret. Ingram, a decorated pilot, was instrumental in the development of the American Air Power Heritage Foundation and the Confederate Air Force.

Mayor Tim Blackshear has officially proclaimed Sept. 18 as POW-MIA Day in Big Spring. Local singing personality Kristi West will entertain.

Guerrero cancels debate

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Railroad Commission Chairwoman Lena Guerrero, who debated Republican challenger Barry Williamson twice this week, backed out of a Dallas debate but later agreed to appear on camera alone.

Yollette Garcia, an executive producer at Dallas public television station KERA, said a joint interview with Guerrero and Williamson had been scheduled to be taped Thursday morning for broadcast later in the day.

The two candidates participated in television debates this week in Austin and San Antonio.

Garcia said Guerrero's campaign manager, Chuck McDonald, agreed to the appearance Monday. McDonald was told Williamson had been invited to the station but had not yet accepted, Garcia said.

When a KERA representative arrived at a downtown hotel to pick up McDonald and Guerrero Thursday morning, McDonald said Guerrero would not appear with Williamson.

"He said he was unaware that Williamson had confirmed. In essence I can't say that he's lying," Garcia said. "They worked it out to where Guerrero could appear for 10 minutes at the head of the show. We reluctantly agreed to this."

Guerrero's campaign office in Austin did not immediately return telephone calls from The Associated Press late Thursday.

Guerrero has been under fire since acknowledging her academic record was misrepresented.

Somalia airlift suspended

Cargo plane struck by bullet when landing

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NAIROBI, Kenya — The United States temporarily suspended its food airlift today after one of its cargo planes was struck by a bullet.

The Americans did not know the source of the bullet that struck their C-130 plane, but said it hit the aircraft's right rear near the tail.

None of the six crew members, six ground crew members and three Red Cross workers on the plane was injured, said spokesman Marine Warrant Officer Hartman Slate, 32, of San Antonio, Texas.

He said there was no apparent gun battle on or near the airstrip, but that the security situation on the ground deteriorated as the plane was being unloaded.

"The crew reported seeing a lot of people, a lot of guns, a lot of chaos," said Slate, speaking by telephone from Kenya's coastal city of Mombasa, the base of the U.S. relief operation. "They just wanted to get the plane unloaded and get out."

Widespread insecurity and banditry have severely hobbled international efforts to feed Somalia's starving millions. Some aid officials estimate as much as half the 150,000 tons of supplies delivered to the Horn of Africa nation have been stolen.

The U.S. C-130 returned safely to Mombasa after unloading 10 tons of rice, lentils and cooking oil provided by and delivered for the International Committee of the Red Cross.

The other two American planes scheduled to fly to Belet Huen were canceled, said Slate.

However, the United States on Friday delivered 78 tons of maize meal on six flights to the town of Baidoa, and 13 tons of cereal for malnourished children to the northeastern Kenyan town of Wajir.

Slate said Marine Brig. Gen. Frank Libutti, 47, of Huntington, N.Y., ordered the Belet Huen airlift suspended until the Somali elders and humanitarian agencies on the ground there have brought the airfield under control.

Hispanics more susceptible to diabetes

Editor's Note: In recognition of Hispanic Heritage Month, the Big Spring Herald will publish daily articles and features on Hispanics and Hispanic culture.

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

A 1990 Texas Department of Health survey found that out of 830,000 diabetics 234,000 were Hispanic.

The Texas population of Hispanics is 23 percent and the percentage of Hispanic diabetics nearly equals that number. Factors contributing to the high incident rate include genetics, diet and obesity.

Genetically, Hispanics share some traits of native Americans, who also have a high incident rate of diabetes.

"In some native American tribes more than half of the adults are diabetic," said Dr. Daniel Goldman, physician consultant of the chronic disease prevention bureau at TDH.

Hispanic Heritage Month

Although the tendency to develop the disease is in the genes, an environmental trigger, such as a sedentary lifestyle, is needed for diabetes to occur, he said.

A United States Department of Health survey conducted in 1980 concluded that 42 percent of Hispanics are overweight, 25 percent white and 44 percent black. The high prevalence of obesity among the United States population is often cited as a factor in the high diabetes rate.

"Adult onset diabetes (type 2) is largely preventable by maintaining normal weight and regular exercise," Goldman said. "The best thing to do is to help people not put on the weight. But the Hispanic diet contains a lot of fat in it and culturally, it is accepted if Hispanics are overweight."

If diabetes is not controlled, there is a high risk that heart diseases and blindness may develop. Diabetes is also the leading cause of amputation, Goldman said.

"The vascular flow to the lower extremities deteriorates causes foot ulcers or other complications," he said. "With the poor blood circulation, the injury may go undetected until physical changes occur."

Of the total number of people with renal failure, between two-thirds and a quarter of the people also had diabetes.

Goldman says diabetics can live a normal life if they adopt good eating and exercise habits. Unfortunately, many don't have the resources to do that, he said.

Locally, the Howard County Commissioners Court in 1986 appropriated funds to establish a program for diabetics under Indigent Health Care.

Participants must be Howard County residents and meet income and household composition criteria, said Irene Dominguez, program director.

Each week the group of about 50 diabetics meet. They have their blood pressure and blood sugar checked. Once a month a class is taught in Spanish on the basic management of diabetes.

Last Spring, Naomi Hunt with the Howard County Extension Agency conducted a conference for health care professional on diabetes, focusing on the high incident rate of diabetes among Hispanics. Another conference on diabetes is being planned for next spring.

Free blood screenings are available at the IHC, third floor at the Howard County Courthouse, Tuesday and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Tragedy again hits San Antonio family Car-train accident claims four; shooting incident latest Amy Cameron, 19, of Odessa makes the acquaintance of a Budweiser Clydesdale in a livestock barn at the Permian Basin Fair and Expo Thursday.

SAN ANTONIO — Tragedy struck a family again when a handgun owned by a man killed in a car-train accident discharged while three of his sons were examining his personal possessions. Sergio Zepeda, 30, died Thursday when a .25-caliber handgun discharged as he and his two brothers examined the possessions of Alonzo Zepeda.

Alonzo Zepeda died along with three of his grandchildren on Aug. 10 when his pickup was struck by a train in southwest Bexar County.

Authorities said Sergio Zepeda, Pedro Zepeda and Rudy Zepeda were looking at the pistol and Pedro Zepeda had it in his hand when it discharged, killing Sergio Zepeda.

"It's just an accident," said sheriff's Capt. Kenneth Bilhartz. "The statements by witnesses and family is there was no criminal intent."

About 40 members of the family and close friends from Wisconsin, South Texas and California gathered Thursday at the home of the widowed mother, who has been dealt two cruel blows within six weeks.

"Everybody was just barely getting out of a bad tragedy," said Abel Zepeda, the brothers' uncle who consoled family members on the same porch Aug. 10. "Things happen. There's nothing we can do about it. This is an accident just like the other one."

Abel Zepeda said the three brothers and a sister arrived Tuesday in Bexar County to bring their mother, Maria, back from Milwaukee, where funeral services were held for the three grandchildren Aug. 14.

They had planned to return to Milwaukee today, but the youngest brother, Rudy, now will stay with his mother.

Abel Zepeda said Pedro was showing Sergio how to use the automatic pistol when it discharged.

"They're all from the city," the uncle said. "They don't know much about guns. He forgot that the safety wasn't on and a bullet was in the chamber."

Sergio was struck in front of other family members in the kitchen, where they just had finished breakfast together.

"(Pedro) probably won't touch another gun for the rest of his life," Abel Zepeda said.

Sergio and Pedro Zepeda worked during the day at stainless steel company and worked at night as bouncers at a bar.

Sergio's survivors include his wife, Hope, and two children, 3-year-old Brittany and 6-year-old Kyle. The funeral will be in Milwaukee.

"It's hard," Abel Zepeda said, nodding his head toward quiet family members. "It's hard for them, coming and going out of town. They don't know what to do. They don't know whether to stay or to go. She (the mother) was telling me she's scared to stay here now. I believe though that she's going to stay here no matter what."

Charges are unlikely, Bilhartz said.

The train accident claimed the lives of Alonzo Zepeda, 63, and his three granddaughters, Joltilda Molla, 12; Martina Molla, 9; and Jolanda Molla, 2, all of Milwaukee.

Organization driving to register homeless

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — A homeless advocacy group has launched a drive to register an estimated 6,000 homeless adults to allow them to vote in the upcoming general election.

The drive will be held by an organization called Helping Our Brothers Out (HOB0).

The advocacy group invited Nelda Wells Spears, the Travis County tax assessor-collector and voter registrar, to their headquarters Thursday to swear in seven staff members as deputy registrars.

The deputies will take to the street helping homeless people fill out voter registration forms that will allow them to cast their ballots on Nov. 3.

"You don't disenfranchise people just because they've fallen on hard times and don't have a place to live," said Ms. Spears. "We want everyone's voice to be heard."

Herbert Myers is one of the homeless to be targeted by the drive. He says he'll vote, but he's not sure which candidate he will support.

"It better be somebody who will get us more work and a place to stay besides the goddurn road," he said.

HOB0 director Bob Schwab said homeless people will be urged to use the HOB0 headquarters as their mailing address so that their voter registration certificates can be mailed back to them.

They are also encouraged to list public places, such as downtown parks, as their "residence" so they will be assigned to convenient, downtown voting precincts.

Joe Montgomery, one of the registrars sworn in by Spears, said the ability to vote makes a homeless person feel a part of society.

"I was on the road for two years myself, and I know how alone you can be," he said. "Voting keeps you connected to the world."

Daycare worker accused in attempted smotherings

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKLIN — A Robertson County grand jury has indicted a former Hearne daycare worker on charges of accusing her of trying to smother four infants.

The indictments were returned Thursday against Martha Gayle Mayo of the Elliot community. She is accused of injury to a child, a first-degree felony. Maximum punishment for each charge would be 5-99 years in prison and a fine of up to $10,000, prosecutors said.

The grand jury was given evidence that four infants, two girls and two boys, stopped breathing when a hand was cupped over their face, according to court records.

According to court documents, the alleged incidents occurred on March 2, 4, 13 and 16. After at least one of those incidents, a baby stayed in a hospital overnight for observation, police said.

Ms. Mayo worked at the Kid-die Kamp daycare for 16 months before being banned from the center Aug. 12 when a co-worker reported the incidents to the Department of Human Services, authorities said.

Mayo could not be reached for comment Thursday, the Bryan-College Station Eagle reported today.

Assistant district attorney Linda Stutt would not say how many witnesses testified Thursday, but did say the only people subpoenaed were Ms. Mayo and Jeanette Cooper, owner of Kid-die Kamp.

Ms. Cooper declined to comment on the indictment, the newspaper reported.

The daycare was placed on a nine-month probation two weeks ago after DHS cited the daycare for a series of unrelated violations, including that toddlers were tied to chairs with blankets and that unsanitary conditions existed in the kitchen.

Republicans criticize business tax change

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — Texas Republicans are on a two-day tour criticizing Democrats who supported changing the state's major business tax.

But Democrats said Thursday the new tax law replaced an out-of-date system that unfairly taxed certain businesses, while allowing others to escape from paying their fair share.

State GOP Chairman Fred Meyer accused the Democrats of a cover-up by refusing to call the levy a corporate income tax.

"When it is a tax on income, it is an income tax," he said.

Don Summers, president of a small Austin welding and generator service, said his state tax bill increased 1300 percent under the tax revision that took effect this year.

He said the Legislature has forced him to pass the increased cost of business to his customers.

But Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, a Democrat, released a 10-page report on the business tax that said 72 percent of business taxpayers paid less under the revised law.

Under the tax, businesses pay the higher amount of a $2.50 tax per $1,000 of assets, or 4.5 percent on profits.

Democratic leaders said the tax reduced the tax burden on heavy industries, while increasing taxes on fast-growing service industries.

But Meyer said the tax was keeping businesses from growing, and that the revenue it raised was not needed by state government.

Meyer urged voters to reject Democratic lawmakers who voted for the tax change, but he refused to call for the same treatment of Republicans who supported the tax change.

"There always are individuals that differ. We don't demand that everybody vote 100 percent on every single issue," he said.

There are always individuals that differ. We don't demand that everybody vote 100 percent on every single issue, he said.

Violence expected after capture of guerrilla leader

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
LIMA, Peru — Relatives of imprisoned Shining Path rebels said Thursday they believe the leftist rebel movement will unleash a wave of violence in response to the government's capture of guerrilla leader Abimael Guzman.
 Mothers and sisters of captured rebels, speaking on condition of anonymity out of fear their loved ones might suffer retribution, spoke outside Santa Monica Prison in the Lima suburb of Chorrillos, where they had been denied permission to visit their relatives.
 One middle-aged woman said she "was sorry" when she learned Guzman was captured.
 "Not because I share his beliefs, but I do admire him," she said. "He's someone who fights for what he believes and I think his vision is at least one of a better world, a more honest system."
 The woman, who has a 20-year old daughter and 28-year-old son held in jail on subversion charges, said she feared "the butchery to come" in response to Guzman's capture Saturday.

 "They say that if he's fallen, they'll lift him up higher," said another woman, whose daughter was held inside.
 Fresh red paint appeared on walls in the Huaycan shantytown outside Lima on Thursday morning saying "Defend President Gonzalo!" — Guzman's nom de guerre.
 Guzman met with his lawyer, Alfredo Crespo, for the first time Wednesday. Crespo said Guzman was being treated well, was in good spirits and had requested copies of legislation regarding crimes of subversion to help prepare his own defense.
 More than 25,000 people have been killed in political violence since the Shining Path took up arms in 1980. The movement has spread through most of Peru, concentrating lately in Lima, Peru's most populous city.

 A member of the arresting police team told The Associated Press on Thursday that police determined Guzman was in the house by routinely checking through the trash set out on the curb. They found an unusual brand of cigarette which they knew Guzman preferred.
 "When it was time to go in, we were all trembling," he said, speaking on condition of anonymity. "We knew they couldn't beat us, but we didn't want to lose any of our men."
 He said gunfire heard when police moved into the house were celebratory shots fired in the air when they realized they'd caught Guzman.
 Guzman remained calmly seated at his desk when police crashed into his upstairs room.
 Guzman's companion, Elena Iparaguire, and another leading rebel, Laura Zembrano threw themselves in front of Guzman to protect him. Then, Iparaguire grabbed a tiny communist flag and began singing the Internationale.

 In a video of the arrest reviewed by the AP, Guzman, dressed in a collarless blue Mao Tse-tung-style jacket, sits in a chair, quietly puffing on a cigarette as antiterrorist police chief Gen. Antonio Ketin Vidal enters.
 The official said Guzman told Vidal: "You can kill me, but you can't erase what's in my head. It will all continue in the minds of the members of the P.C.P." The Shining Path considers its formal name to the Peruvian Communist Party.
 A search of his pockets turned up a button bearing Mao's face. Guzman asked that it be returned to him, saying Mao had personally given to him during a trip to China in the 1960s.

ANC calls from military ruler's removal at vigil

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
KING WILLIAM'S TOWN, South Africa — African National Congress leaders called at a funeral vigil today for the removal of the military ruler whose troops gunned down 28 protesters.
 Chris Hani, a senior African National Congress official, said people were no longer prepared to endure the rule of Ciskei's Brig. Gen. Oupa Gqozo.
 "There's a mood of militancy here," said Hani, who also is general secretary of the South African Communist Party.
 Thousands of people gathered today for the burial of 15 of the 28 protesters killed when Ciskei troops opened fire Sept. 7 on an ANC march calling for Gqozo's removal.
 The killings plunged South Africa deeper into political crisis. The ANC and other black opposition groups claim President F.W. de Klerk's government was responsible for the deaths because the white-led government created the homeland system.

 People streamed to the funeral in buses, taxis, pickup trucks and on foot. The ceremony was being held in a stadium in King William's Town, just across the border from Ciskei.
 Armored police vehicles and policemen and soldiers, some carrying automatic rifles and others in riot gear, patrolled outside the stadium. Calm was reported in the nearby Ciskei capital of Bisho.
 De Klerk today told a meeting of his ruling National Party in Johannesburg that progress was being made on getting the ANC to return to talks.

Supporters keep putting Perot on the ballot

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON — Ross Perot's small army of die-hard supporters insist their maybe-again candidate is still a potential powder keg in the presidential race. The latest spark ignites today with his name being certified on the 50th state ballot — Arizona.
 But political analysts still dismiss the potency of any Perot factor. They predict his will be a mostly negligible impact regardless of whether the Dallas billionaire gets back in the race.

 Up to 18 percent of registered voters in the latest national polls say they would vote for Perot in a three-way race with President Bush and Democrat Bill Clinton.
 But far fewer volunteer Perot's name when asked their preference between Bush and Clinton. The polls are unclear on Perot's potential vote, but they indicate he can draw down Bush's support by 5 to 8 percentage points and Clinton's support by 7 to 10 percentage points — margins that could be crucial in

 "It's about a draw — it seems to be coming out of both parties' hides," said Republican pollster David Hill, who has surveyed voters in Texas and other states and found that Perot drains votes away at about the same rate from Clinton and Bush, proportional to their original support.
 Perot's impact might be greatest in individual states, such as in states once considered part of Bush's base, like Florida or Texas.
 In a close race in which a protest vote to Perot drained off points from Bush, it could make the difference and alter the arithmetic of the electoral college. Florida and Texas have 57 electoral votes between them; it takes 270 to win.

 "Perot could complicate Bush's life in some of these states," said Democratic pollster Geoff Garin. "All the evidence I've seen shows Perot's support is coming from disenchanted Republicans who can't bring themselves to vote for George Bush."

Shuttle crew continues trying medical experiments

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
SPACE CENTER — Endeavour's astronauts today tested a system to deliver intravenous fluids in weightlessness, a step toward meeting the possible medical needs of astronauts who stay in space long-term.
 "We're very happy with the results we got," said NASA scientist

Charles Lloyd, who is overseeing the experiment from Earth.
 When patients on Earth need intravenous fluids, a bag is hung above them and gravity propels the liquid through a tube into the body. That would not work in space, where there is no gravity.
 The system designed for NASA's proposed space station Freedom uses a pump to administer liquids.

The system also sterilizes shuttle water and mixes solutions from concentrates, reducing the need to transport ready-to-use medical fluids to space.
 Astronauts Jan Davis and Mae Jemison tested the pump today by moving sugar and salt solutions from one bag to another through an IV tube. Jemison, a doctor, also gave an IV to a mannequin arm with simulated veins.

 The system was tested on a previous shuttle flight, but computer problems interfered with the collection of data, Lloyd said.
 Endeavour's eight-day Spacelab flight is due to end with a Sunday landing at Kennedy Space Center. It is the first U.S. space mission devoted to Japanese research.

BSH salutes:

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local persons and groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community.

- Stephanie Horton and her neighbors in the Banks Addition, for their efforts in cleaning up their neighborhood. More than 100 persons turned out on both Saturday and Sunday to help with the effort. Included were a number of volunteers from the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Medical Center and the City of Big Spring.

- Frances Wheat, who accepted the responsibility of service as a member of the board of directors of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

- Larry Hollar, named to fill a vacancy on the Big Spring Independent School District's board of trustees.

- Residents who have taken the time to help the John Viera family. The Viera's home was burglarized and burned while the family attended the Howard County Fair. As a result, the family lost all of their belongings.

- Teen Center proponents, who are seeking ways to provide activities for local teens other than driving the strip and parking in front of businesses on Gregg Street.

- Howard County Ministerial Alliance for its continued support of the Bible Fund, and Howard County residents for their continued financial support of the fund. Donations through the last reporting period exceeded $8,300.

- Borden County athletes John Paul Harris and Clint Wills, named offensive and defensive players of the week, respectively, by the Big Spring Herald based on their play last Friday night.

Letters

Support West Texas Opportunities

To the editor:
I'm writing this letter on behalf of West Texas Opportunities. I am a disabled citizen and about 90 percent of the time when I have to go someplace, I use West Texas Opportunities. Taxis are too high and since I can't drive and live on a limited income, I appreciate West Texas Opportunities making inexpensive transportation available. While I do use friends sometimes on the weekend or during the week, your friends have jobs and families and it's not fair for me to monopolize their time.
The staff at West Texas Oppor-ties is dependable and treat me with respect instead of being treated as another number. There are some that want to monopolize the town and charge extra to help some with a wheelchair or groceries. I feel that West Texas Opportunities should be allowed to continue to serve members of our community. They are cheaper than taxis and for a person who has other bills to pay, that says a lot. People who take advantage of handicapped people shouldn't be in business at all.

Consumer upset with TU policy

To the editor:
I recently asked Texas Utilities to leave the electricity on at one of my rental properties (and bill me) so that I could have power while getting it cleaned up. I was told I would have to give them my social security number and driver's license number to get the service. I did not feel they had a right to require such an invasion of my legal right to privacy.

I wrote to the Texas Public Utilities Commission to complain. They replied that TU has no right to even ask for people's social security number. TU does have the right to some sort of identification sufficient to check ones credit worthiness, either a driver's license or other form of identification. TU cannot insist on a driver's license as the only form of identification. Regardless of the United States Constitution, Federal Law, or Texas Law, TU is still the only electric utility in town. Does anyone out there have any ideas?

Casino gambling different on coast

So why was I aboard a gambling boat when I think legalized gaming is the worst bet Mississippi could make to solve its woes? To see the crowds. To hear the intoxicating clatter of money. To determine if the carpet pattern was as dizzying as it looked in the out-of-register picture in the newspaper.

To try and catch just a little of the excitement so many civic boosters feel about having ships loaded with slots, tables and gamblers docked next to what used to be a relatively peaceful, if economically depressed, shore. The President Casino, fresh from Iowa, was about as elegant as the pink souvenir shop down the street, the one with the shell that blinks.

It's true I went at midday to avoid the worst of the crowds, but even at noon I expected more glamour. Something like the casino scene from "Bugsy" — women in shimmering gowns meandering between uncrowded tables, hummingbirds in a garden. Instead, the crowd mostly wore Bermuda shorts and sandals. Most could have walked from the boat to the beach here at Biloxi without changing or subtracting a stitch. Every now and then you would see a couple in faux-Vegas glitter trying to look like high-rollers, but they were the exception, not the rule. These were working-class people and tourists, wagering funds you can bet were limited. It was only the second day of this casino's operation, and already the women who brought change for your tens and twenties looked tired and down at the heels. Most of them were a too old for the short skirts, heels and heavy make-up that seemed to be the official uniform. That country song about the girls all looking better at closing time came to mind, only The President never closes.

Locals who have found employment are the positive side of the situation. And promoters would argue the crowd were indicative of a general tourism boost. It was hard to find an open slot. When I did, I poured my $10 in tokens into a plastic cup. Then I looked at my watch. At an unbridled pace I fed the tokens into a hole that might as well have gone straight to the ocean. Four minutes later I was out of tokens. For those in need, there was an anytime-teller in one corner of the bright room. There was a bar at one end of the boat, but if you sat at the bar you did not have to waste time merely drinking. Video poker machines were made into the counter top.

Just days after my visit to the inaugural of The President, Hurricane Andrew threatened to roar into Biloxi and pummel the coast. The President didn't gamble. It moved to a shelter in the nearby Gulfport Industrial Seaway. From Monday to Friday, it sat there, silent out of business.

I heard there was an incident on its way back to the Biloxi dock. When I called to ask about it I was put on hold, listening to Kenny Rogers singing "The Gambler."

A chirpy woman eventually came on and said, yes, there had been a collision between The President and a shrimp boat, which also was returning to work from safe harbor. The shrimp boat cut across the bow of the bigger boat, she said. The President's captain put his engines in reverse, but it was too late.

There was a dent in The President. The accident caused the gambling ship to open 20 minutes later than was scheduled. The shrimp boat capsized.

PANIC AND SPEND INCUMBENT

Is 'love' a relationship?

He was staring morosely into his beer and every so often he'd sigh deeply. The bartender was too smart to ask him what the problem was. But I wasn't. What's bothering you? I asked. He shook his head and said: "I just ended a... we just ended..." And his voice choked and cracked.

Ended what? "We ended... a... relationship." A relationship? "Yeah. She broke off our relationship."

I bought him a beer, advised him not to let life wear him down, and quickly moved on.

I'm not without sympathy, but I hate the word "relationship." If he had told me he had suffered a shattered romance or a broken love affair, I'd have stuck around and endured the boredom. But I refuse to listen to someone blubber about a "relationship."

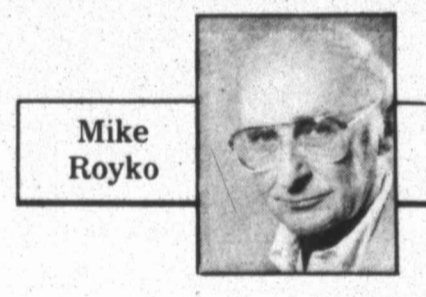

What an awful word. It's the kind of sterile word used by lawyers and sociologists and other menaces.

Exactly when the word "relationship" began being used as a substitute for a romance or love affair, I don't know. But that's the way people talk now.

And not only does it sound like something out of this impersonal, computerized, digital, credit card era, but what does it rhyme with? That's the real question. Try to rhyme relationship with something. Battleship? Landing strip? Broken hip? Scholarship?

With words like that, how are we ever going to have schmaltzy poems and heart-plunking love songs? And without them, some day the ultimate romantic statement will be: "Your place or mine?" Maybe it is already.

Sure, you can string together a few words like relationship. But can you imagine anyone ever saying "They're playing our song" when they hear: "We started our relationship, on a landing strip, while watching a Messerschmidt fly by?"

If the word "relationship" had been in use over the years, I hate to even think about the kind of popular love songs we would have been hearing.

How about this: "I'm in the mood for a relationship, simply because you're near me."

Or: "You've got to give a little, take a little and let your poor heart break a little: That's the story of, that's the glory of a relationship."

How about the classic "Stardust"? "Tho' I dream in vain, in my heart it always will remain: My stardust melody, the memory of relationship's refrain."

From the Beatles we would have: "Yesterday, relationship was such an easy game to play: Now I need a place to hide away. Oh, I believe in yesterday." Or: "And I relate to her... A relationship like ours could never die, as long as I have you near me. I can go on and on. So I will. 'Fish got to swim and birds got to fly, I got to have a relationship with one man till I die; can't help relate' to that man of mine."

"I can't give you anything but a relationship, baby; that's the only thing I've plenty of, baby."

"Oh, how we danced on the night we were wed; we vowed our true relationship, though a word wasn't said."

"You made me relate to you, I didn't want to do it, I didn't want to do it."

"What the world needs now is relationship, sweet relationship. It's the only thing there's just too little of."

"Relationship is a many-splendored thing."

"When the moon hits your eye like a big pizza pie, that's a relationship. When the world seems to shine like you've had too much wine, that's a relationship."

"On a day like today, we passed the time away writing relationship letters in the sand. Now my poor heart just aches, with every wave that breaks over relationship letters in the sand."

Then there's another phrase, "Significant Other." It is now used by many people to describe the other party in a relationship. It has become a substitute for words like girlfriend, boyfriend, etc.

You could really make some heart-tugging songs out of "significant other."

How about this? "Let me call you significant other, I'm relating to you. Let me hear you whisper that you're relating to me, too."

There's the oldie: "Five feet two, eyes of blue, but could she relate, could she coo, could she, could she, could she coo — has anybody seen my significant other?"

And there's the old jukebox favorite, "You Are My Sunshine," which would sound like this: "You are my significant other, my only significant other. You make me happy when skies are gray. You'll never know, dear, how much I relate to you. Please don't take my significant other away."

No place in Texas for sludge

I don't know about you, but the thought of some Oklahoma company smearing New York sludge on Texas soil brings out the secessionist in me! If their liquefied human feces is so darned good for the soil, why can't they smear it on their own blasted state!

We really need to fight this right now. I realize that Sierra Blanca is in the middle of the biggest void in the state. But sooner or later, if this program continues, sludge is going to wind up in our watershed.

I don't even care if it is safe. The thought of having New York human wastes in our reservoirs is thoroughly unpalatable, distasteful, sickening, infuriating.

The sad part is, that the people in Sierra Blanca are so desperate for jobs, they're going to Austin, lobbying to keep their sludge-stirring employment. Of course, the Oklahoma company, MERCO, which has contracted with New York City to move the sludge, is orchestrating the rally, according to Texas Attorney General Dan Morales.

Morales is currently the only state official actively fighting the project.

I feel sorry for the people in Sierra Blanca, located about 90 miles east of El Paso, but if this poop-monger of a company gets a good start here, it'll make for a tougher fight later.

Due to past abuses by corporate and governmental bodies, Texas has one of the worst environments in the U.S., but it's getting better, slowly.

To allow any other state to defecate by rail on Texas soil gives the wrong message. "Hey! They don't care what gets smeared on their land. Maybe we can unload this toxic waste on them."

Maybe we'll wind up with a dioxin ranch in Presidio County, and maybe a low-level nuke dump near Pecos.

"Come on! We'll all make some cash. "Bob, you keep these two trailers of chemical residue in your back yard, and I'll keep these drums of spent nuclear-fuel rods in my basement."

"We should gross about $275 a month easy! My wife is keeping PCBs in Mason jars in her sewing room.

"The cat's coughing up blood and the kids have gone bald, but we are making money hand over fist!

"Wayne is smearing New Jersey sludge on his ranch. He's another 200 feet above sea level now... No, I haven't seen him this week. He's not feeling well."

I think this is a good time to make use of the addresses of your elected officials, regularly printed on this page. I'm going to be cutting a half-dozen letters off the old word processor this weekend. Unless you're one of the "I-love-sludge" crew, perhaps you might wish to do the same.

Philippines lose LL title

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MANILA, Philippines — The Philippine district administrator of Little League Baseball resigned today and claimed the international league stripped a Filipino team of the world championship because Americans could not stand losing to Filipinos.

Little League Baseball stripped the Philippines of their World Series title and gave the championship to Long Beach.

Little League Baseball stripped the Philippines of this year's World Series title and gave it to Long Beach, Calif., saying the Filipino team in the competition at Williamsport, Pa., was stacked with ineligible players.

Armando Andaya, the league's district administrator in the Philippines, stepped down, saying the action was "unfair and unjust" and done without due process.

"Our Philippine leaguers defeated the American champions in their own national sport, in their own homeland," Andaya said. "The Americans in Williamsport just could not take it at the hands of the Filipinos. Hence, they scrounged around for some reason to overturn the victory."

Andaya said he was resigning because Little League Baseball had "committed a rank injustice to the innocent Philippine Little Leaguers — the world champions."

The Zamboanga team beat Long Beach, Calif., 15-4 on Aug. 29 in the World Series final.

The Little League decided to declare the game a forfeit following a report by the Philippines Daily Inquirer on Thursday that only six members of the Filipino team lived in the Zamboanga district.

The Inquirer quoted Zamboanga coach Eduardo Toribio as saying that the other members were added by Manila officials who wanted to defeat perennial regional champion Taiwan and advance to the world championship in Williamsport.

Andaya said the replacements of the coaches and the eight players were made for "justifiable reasons," which he did not elaborate.

He said he approved the changes requested by the Philippine team in his capacity as district administrator, in accordance with Little League rules.

President Fidel Ramos has praised the Filipino Little Leaguers as heroes and offered a $40,000 scholarship for them.

Presidential spokeswoman Anabel Abaya told reporters Ramos did not want to comment until he gets more information on the Little League's action.

The report of the title stripping was among the top news stories on early evening radio and television reports.

Several commentators blamed Filipino Little League officials for the fiasco.

ABS-CBN station's Francisco Evangelista said the League's decision to strip the Philippines of the world series championship was a "tragedy."

"It was a very painful slap on the face of our Philippine Little League organizers," said Evangelista. "If they can take that, their faces should be red by now."

Friday Football Forecast

Lubbock High (0-2) at Big Spring (1-1)

The two major questions here are: (1) How will the injury-plagued Steers bounce back from a loss to Lubbock Estacado? (2) When will the Lubbock High Westerners snap their losing streak?

The Steers have shown the ability to move the ball in both of their games, while the defense has played fairly consistent. The Westerners have only moved the ball through the air, and not very well at that.

There'll be plenty of passes in this one because through the air is the only way LHS can move the ball Clay Klatt and Wes Hughes will exploit the Westerners' eight man front. Big Spring's walking wounded will rise to the occasion.

BIG SPRING 35, LUBBOCK HIGH 7

Colorado City (2-0) at Slaton (1-1)

The surprising Colorado City Wolves complete a three-game road swing. The Slaton Tigers are coming off a 35-12 win over Post last week.

The Wolves came up with big plays at the right time in their 14-13 win over Stanton last week. But this week the Wolves will face its first Class 3A opponent of the season, and probably the squad with the most team speed they'll face all year.

A 2-1 record in three road games isn't that bad. SLATON 28, COLORADO CITY 14

Denver City (2-0) at Greenwood (1-1)

The Greenwood Rangers are trying to rebound from a dismal showing in a 26-8 loss to Fort Stockton last week while the Denver City Mustangs were beating up on Kermit 34-6.

The Rangers didn't play very well, but tonight they'll be in front of the home fans for the first time this season. The Mustangs are doing quite well considering they lost 16 starters from last year's playoff team.

The Rangers will put up a good fight, but Denver City's offensive versatility will be the difference. DENVER CITY 21, GREENWOOD 13

Tahoka (1-1) at Coahoma (1-1)

The Battle of the Bulldogs. It's homecoming for the Coahoma Bulldogs. It also marks the return to the area for Tahoka coach Chris Wighting, who's from Ackerly.

Coahoma played much better in a win last week over Rotan. Tahoka is a much improved squad from last year, although turnovers hurt last week. Right now, Coahoma is simply a better polished squad, and not having so many two-way starters will benefit the home team.

COAHOME 24, TAHOKA 14

Post (0-2) at Stanton (1-1)

Homecoming time for the Stanton Buffalos. The Buffs are smarting for a 14-13 loss to Colorado City, a game Stanton dominated. Post's record is misleading, they lost to two good Class 3A teams.

This will be another rugged battle for the Buffs, but Ricky Lucas and Co. will hang on (to the ball) and win make it a happy homecoming. STANTON 20, POST 14

Forsan (0-2) at Plains (2-0)

The Forsan Buffaloes continue a tough non-district schedule against the unbeaten Plains Cowboys.

The Cowboys will test a young Forsan secondary. The Buffaloes are still trying to get their offense untracked. The Cowboys passing attack of Brian Wilson to Brad McMinn will be too much for the Buffaloes.

PLAINS 27, FORSAN 10

Garden City (2-0) at Roscoe (0-2)

This is a very hard one to pick. Two years ago the Garden City Bearkats humiliated a freshmen-filled Roscoe 68-7 in Roscoe. This year those freshmen are all juniors and they haven't forgotten that

Rocket will make $10,000 donation

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Rocket Ismail agreed to make a $10,000 charitable donation rather than be suspended for kicking an opponent in a Canadian Football League melee involving the Toronto Argonauts and Calgary Stampeders.

Ismail will donate his fine to the Special Olympics of Ontario after accepting a recommendation by CFL commissioner Larry Smith.

Smith also fined four other Argos, including head coach Adam Rita, and Andy McVey of the Stampeders for their roles in the second-half brawl last Sunday.

Ismail twice kicked McVey and attempted to jump on McVey's head with both feet, but missed.

Ismail, a former Notre Dame star who signed for more than $4 million per year, went on community television after the game to apologize for his actions.

Steelers say goodbye to Lipps

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Louis Lipps, a Pro Bowler his first two NFL seasons and second-leading receiver in Pittsburgh Steelers history, was waived, ending his two-month contract impasse.

Lipps, an 8-year starter who made $750,000 last season, was deadlocked in contract talks since training camp began in mid-July. He is one of 10 unsigned veterans who filed suit last week seeking immediate free agency after a Minneapolis court ruling effectively overturned the league's Plan B system.

Lipps appeared heir apparent to Lynn Swann as the Steelers' top threat when he caught 104 passes for 1,994 yards and 21 touchdowns in his first two seasons in 1984 and 1985. He made a team record-tying 12 TD catches in 1985.

Various injuries limited Lipps to 18 touchdown catches the last six seasons. He caught at least 50 passes in all but two seasons, but became more of a possession receiver than a big-play threat.

Lipps, from Southern Mississippi, has 358 career receptions to rank second to John Stallworth (537) on the Steelers' all-time list.

Frost leading Hardee by two

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — David Frost shot an 8-under-par 62 to take a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $1 million Hardee's Classic, which was suspended by a 2-hour rain delay.

Tom Lehman, the leading Hogan Tour money-winner last year, Willie Wood, who finished second here last year, and Bart Bryant were tied for second at 64.

Twenty-four golfers were on the course when play was suspended and were to resume their rounds at 7:30 a.m. with the second round to be played as scheduled at Oakwood Country Club.

Walter Davis ends NBA career

DENVER (AP) — Walter Davis, one of the best pure shooters to play basketball, announced his retirement after 15 NBA seasons.

Davis, 38, ended his career as the No. 18 scorer in NBA history with 19,521 points in 1,033 regular-season games — an average of 18.9. The NBA's rookie of the year in 1978, Davis played in six All-Star games.

Davis, who played 11 years for Phoenix but finished with Denver, will remain as Nuggets' "community ambassador."

He was picked fifth overall by Phoenix in the 1977 draft out of North Carolina, signed by Denver as a free agent in 1988 and played 3½ seasons there, spending part of the 1990-91 season in Portland.

Great One having back problems

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Wayne Gretzky, the NHL's career scoring leader, remained hospitalized with a back injury the Los Angeles Kings said wasn't related to his back problem of the last two years.

Gretzky was scheduled to return to training camp at Blue Jay, Calif., late Wednesday, but instead checked into Centinela Hospital Medical Center, where he spent the night.

Gretzky won't play tonight in the Kings' exhibition opener at Vancouver. Because of his previous back problems, extra tests and precautions will be taken.

Mochrie leads Safeco by one

KENT, Wash. (AP) — Dottie Mochrie shot a 3-under-par 69 to grab a one-stroke lead after the opening round of the $450,000 LPGA Safeco Classic.

Her round over 6,222-yard Meridian Valley Country Club course put her ahead of Nanci Bowen, Tina Barrett, Mitzi Edge and Barb Mucha.

Big Spring, Coahoma JVs take victories

BIG SPRING JV 28 LUBBOCK HIGH JV 6

LUBBOCK — Quarterback Dustin Waters threw for two touchdowns and ran for another to help Big Spring's junior varsity team defeat Lubbock High's JV Thursday at Chapman Field in Lubbock. The Steers JV is now 2-1. In the first half the Steers took a 14-6 lead on a six-yard pass from Waters to Manuel Cervantes and a 46-yard Waters run. The Steers scored two insurance touchdowns in the second half as Engleson ran in from six yards out and Waters connected with tight end Tedric McCallister for a 48-yard catch and run. "The offensive line did a good job and our two fullbacks, Kory Ryan and Gary Engleson, ran well," said JV coach Ricky Long. Long also praised the play of defensive tackle Mario Cavazos. Cervantes had an interception in the contest: The JV hosts Snyder

COAHOMA JV 26, TAHOKA 0

TAHOKA — The Coahoma junior varsity Bulldogs kept their record clean at 3-0 by whitewashing Tahoka Thursday. Coahoma's first score came in the second quarter on a 21-yard run by wingback Bucky Williams. In the third quarter Abel Olivares scored from three yards out and Williams ran in the two-point conversion. In the fourth quarter Adam Tindol threw a 32-yard scoring pass to Williams. With three minutes left in the game Brad Harrison made a six-yard touchdown run. Kelby Bailey led Coahoma with 84 yards on 21 carries. Playing well defensively for the Bulldogs were Adam Comer, Eli Sanders, Mike Lopez, Chris Roberts, Brian Fontana, Ricky White and Kevin Olson. BIG SPRING FRESHMEN A 26 LUBBOCK HIGH SOPHOMORES

RUNNELS A 26, LAMESA 0

LAMESA — Runnels A ran its record to 2-0 by pitching a shutout at Lamesa Thursday night. Runnels led 20-0 at the half. Robert Valencia scored on runs of 30 and 7-yards in the first half. The other score was a 35-yard pass from Tyler Murphy to Gabriel Rubio. Murphy passed to Rubio for the two-point conversion. Runnels' final score came on a four-yard run by Toma McVein in the third quarter. Playing well for Runnels were Jesse Bravo, Abel Gomez, Jesse Hernandez, Chris Yanez, Mike Simone, Jody Bennett and Scott Bland. Runnels A will play Snyder Thursday at Big Spring at 6:30 p.m. RUNNELS B 20, LAMESA 6

LAMESA THURSDAY NIGHT

LAMESA — The Runnels B team ran its record to 2-0 by defeating Lamesa Thursday night. Runnels scored twice in the first quarter on a 65-yard punt return by Joe Ontiveros and a 33-yard run by Ontiveros. Ontiveros also ran in the two-point conversion. Runnels closed out its scoring in the second quarter when Richie Dryer returned an interception 40 yards for a score. Offensive standouts for Runnels B were Violoso Garcia, Blake Wright, Elliott Forman and Leon Eddington. Defensive standouts were Martin Martinez, Able Hilario, Jeremy Rios, Raul Cavazos, Heath Wegner, Kade Bowerman, Manuel Castanuela and Daniel Brewster. Runnels B plays Snyder Thursday in Big Spring at 5 p.m. Coahoma will host Colorado City Thursday at 6:30 p.m. GOLIAD A 28, LAMESA 6

COAHOMA PLAYS COLORADO CITY

COAHOMA — The Coahoma seventh grade football team fell to 1-1, losing to Tahoka Thursday night. Anthony Gonzales scored Coahoma's lone touchdown with a 38-yard run. Coahoma plays Colorado City in Colorado City at 5 p.m. Thursday. TAHOKA 22, COAHOMA 8th 6

The Bearkats aren't as strong as they once were, but they're still a good team. The Garden City defense will get down-right nasty this week, and they'll have to if the 'Kats expect a win. GARDEN CITY 14, ROSCOE 13

Sands (1-1) at Christoval (2-0)

The Sands Mustangs are no longer the heavyweights in six-man football. The Christoval Cougars, ranked No. 3 in the state, still are. The young Mustangs will get a whipping tonight, but it will benefit them in the long run, possibly laying the foundation for a return trip to the playoffs. CHRISTOVAL 49, SANDS 12

Grady (1-1) at New Home (1-1)

The Grady Wildcats face a tough task in the New Home Leopards. After getting beat in the season-opener by Borden County, New Home responded with a 38-16 whipping of Klondike. Look for the Troy Fillingham-led Leopards to run wild over a sophomore-filled Grady team. NEW HOME 45, GRADY 20

Klondike (1-1) at Hermleigh (1-1)

The Hermleigh Cardinals didn't lose a single starter from last year and are a much improved team. The Klondike Cougars aren't playing that badly, getting adjusted to a new coach and a new system. The Cardinals are pumped after a win over Southland last week. That momentum will carry over this week. HERMLEIGH 38, KLONDIKE 32

Borden County (2-0) at Wellman (2-0)

This is the game of the week in area six-man circles. Both teams will make the playoffs. The Wellman Wildcats come into the contest ranked No. 11 in the state. Borden County is on the verge of moving into the Top 10, if it can beat the Wildcats. It's power football against power football, but give this one to Wellman because of the home field advantage. The Coyotes will just have to wait to play themselves into the top 10. WELLMAN 36, BORDEN COUNTY 30

Rutgers ends Pittsburgh jinx

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PISCATAWAY, N.J. — Alex Van Pelt got Dan Marino's career passing record at Pitt and threw the longest touchdown pass in Panthers history on the same night. Rutgers, however, got the biggest payoff, a 21-16 victory that ended 11 years of frustration. Bruce Presley caught one of two touchdown passes thrown by Bryan Fortay, who stood out in a return to the starting job. Presley also ran two yards for what proved to be a game-winning touchdown early in the fourth quarter as Rutgers beat Pitt for the first time after nine losses. The win was the second straight for Rutgers (2-1 overall, 1-1 Big East). Pitt (1-2, 0-2) has lost two in a row.

France will decide the fate of a 12 nation unity treaty

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — For three months, French voters have been harangued and cajoled, bombarded with speeches and ads, warned of national catastrophe and continental chaos if they vote the wrong way.

On Sunday, they get to choose for themselves.

With their referendum votes of "oui" or "non," the French will decide the fate of the Maastricht treaty, drafted by leaders of the European Community's 12 member nations to forge closer economic and political union.

As a free-trade zone, the EC will survive a "no" vote. The end of trade barriers within the community is still set for Jan. 1.

But the drive for unified economic and diplomatic policies that could transform Western Europe into a superpower could be set back for years by tedious new negotiations if the treaty is rebuffed by the country which 40 years ago helped erect the Common Market.

"The French have a major responsibility," said Premier Pierre Bérégovoy. "Either Europe gets made, or it doesn't. It depends on us. ... 38 million French voters will decide for 350 million Europeans."

After President Francois Mitterrand announced the referendum in June, polls indicated nearly two-thirds of French voters backed the treaty. Now, the race is too close to call. The many undecided voters will determine the outcome.

Most EC nations are expected to approve the treaty by parliamentary vote. But Mitterrand called a popular referendum following Denmark's narrow rejection of the treaty, calculating that it would win resounding approval.

Instead, Mitterrand has become a focal point of the campaign. Treaty opponents, seeking to capitalize on his unpopularity, are urging "no" votes to repudiate him and 11 years of Socialist rule. Mitterrand, 75, was hospitalized for prostate surgery just nine days before the vote.

The campaign has sparked intense debate on virtually every issue preoccupying French voters, including many not addressed in the treaty. Crime, illegal immigration, AIDS, cross-border trash dumping, fear of German domination — all have been grist for pro- and anti-Maastricht polemics.

One striking phenomenon has been the fissure between the political establishment and the public. More than 80 percent of Parliament's members favor the treaty; their constituents are far more skeptical.

The leaders of every mainstream party have endorsed the accord, while renegades from their ranks have joined an ungainly "no" movement that encompasses the far-right National Front and the Communist Party.

The cleavage created by the campaign is perhaps more sociological than ideological. The

"yes" side includes much of the political and cultural elite; "no" sentiment flourishes among laborers, farmers, those who feel the government ignores them.

Treaty supporters have staged a pro-Maastricht rap concert, scaled Mont Blanc to plant the EC flag, and recruited scores of celebrity campaigners. Farmers opposing the treaty have stuffed copies of it into trash cans atop tractors headed to Paris for anti-Maastricht protests.

Critics say the treaty itself is legalistic mumbo-jumbo. Its advocates, notably the government, have been faulted for realizing too late that they needed to explain the text and the consequences of the treaty.

"The copies they sent us are difficult to read," said Marcel Roche, mayor of Saint-Clement, a village near Vichy, 240 miles south of Paris. "Many people have used the election pamphlets to start fires without having read them."

The treaty commits EC members to establishing a central European bank and single currency; seeking common foreign and security policies; and allowing EC citizens to participate in local elections if they live in another EC nation.

Treaty foes say these proposals disguise the dangers — loss of control over immigration and fiscal policy, higher taxes to fund the EC, submission to the whims of EC technocrats in Brussels, a likelihood that Germany will dominate EC policymaking.

A municipal employee sticks a poster calling for a yes vote on the Maastricht European unity treaty. On Sunday, the fate of the treaty in the hands of the French electorate.

Tenets of the treaty

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — The Maastricht treaty commits the 12 European Community members to forge closer union through the following main steps:

MONETARY UNION
The EC will form a central bank by 1999 that will issue a single EC currency. Britain can opt out of monetary union. Denmark joins only after a referendum.

POLITICAL UNION
The EC states will forge common foreign and security policies, generally by consensus. In 1996, the EC will review political cooperation and could form a defense arm with a common defense policy.

NEW POLICIES
By replacing unanimity with majority voting at EC meetings, the EC gets more say in education, public health, culture, consumer protection, industry, research and development, environment and development cooperation.

Britain has the right to opt out of decisions on social affairs.

EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT
The EC's 518-member assembly, primarily a consultative body, will get some legislative say, notably in internal trade, environment, education, health and consumer protection.

EC CITIZENSHIP
EC nationals get the right to run and vote in local elections if they live in an EC state other than their own. After 1993, they can get diplomatic assistance from any EC embassy outside the EC.

This part was pushed by the broadcast companies to "create another revenue stream," he said.

The least attractive part of the bill, however, is the "mandated addressability," he said. This would require every cable customer to lease a special converter box with which, cable service could be regulated and altered without sending out a service truck.

Not only are these boxes expensive, but they render any cable-ready features on televisions and VCRs useless. "You spend money for this TV with a remote control that does everything — and it's useless," he said.

Among the items in the bill are provisions for rate regulation. In the Senate version, the bill allows local governments to regulate cable rates.

Big Spring Cable serves close to 9,000 homes in Big Spring, Lloyd said.

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

- A Big Spring woman reported someone known to her threatened her with serious bodily harm.
- Big Spring woman reported that persons known to her signed a security agreement at a local financial institution creating a lien on real estate with intent to hinder enforcement of a security lien. Estimated property damage is $15,000. The offense is a third degree felony.
- Larry Dale Payne, 29, 3400 W Highway 80, was arrested at the 500 block of 4th Street for driving without a license.

Court docket

The following cases were decided in area courts:

- Ray Ragino Sanchez Jr., 31, of Big Spring was found guilty of forgery and revocation of probation. Sanchez was sentenced to two years deferred adjudication, forced to pay $749 in restitution and $84 in court costs.
- Johnny Dean Darden, 36, of Big Spring was found guilty of theft over $20 and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and fined $637.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff's Office reported the following incidents:

- Johnny Dean Darden, 36, of Big Spring was arrested for theft over $20.
- A windshield was reported damaged in the 500 block of Hooser Road.

Cable

basic cable package of broadcast and public TV stations, and could order refunds to customers billed "unreasonable" amounts for higher tiers of service. The cost of cable TV equipment and installation would also be limited, and national minimum customer service standards would be created.

To promote competition for the home viewer's dollar, the bill would force cable conglomerates to sell their own programming on reasonable terms for viewing via other video technologies, including satellite, microwave and the new "wireless cable" systems.

When the House passed its bill in July by 340-73, among Texans, only the state's eight Republicans voted against it. The four who have since changed their votes had two explanations.

Some objected to equal employment requirements for cable companies that were weakened from the initial House version.

But all said their minds were changed at least partly when the House adopted a Senate provision known as "retransmission consent."

This provision would give broadcast stations the right to negotiate payments from local cable companies that place over-the-air signals in their lineups. Cable companies, which now carry local broadcast channels for free, say the cost of these new payments would have to be borne by subscribers and therefore cable rates under the bill will go up.

Bustamante said his border district constituents had overwhelmingly turned against the bill after a TV advertising blitz warning of price hikes.

The provision has angered the politically powerful motion picture industry, which lavishes campaign donations on dozens of members and has vigorously fought the bill. Hollywood producers argue that they should get a share of any new royalties created for local TV signals, since they generate much of the programming.

Brooks, as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, was the leader of the effort to kill the bill on these grounds and lobbied his fellow Texas members hard, spurred on by fellow Texan Jack Valenti, Hollywood's top lobbyist in Washington.

The legislative director of the Consumer Federation of America, Gene Kimmelman, charged that vote switchers "have abandoned their consumer constituents in favor of the special interests of industry, and we are very disappointed."

The National Cable Television Association says rates would increase if the bill is enacted because of the costs of the retransmission fees and new federal regulation, and in his letter Bush said he agreed.

The consumer group claimed the bill should lead to $6 billion in rate reductions. The prime House author of the bill, Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass, said only that cable rates will go up much more slowly than without a new law.

Since starting their airlift to Belet Huen for the Red Cross Aug. 28, the Americans have delivered 816 metric tons to the town near Ethiopia's border where the humanitarian agency is caring for about 200,000 people.

Gregoire Tavernier, a spokesman for the Red Cross in Nairobi, said he was unaware of the shooting incident but that the humanitarian agency Friday already had planned to temporarily shut down the airlift due to deteriorating security in Belet Huen.

Rival clans in the town recently have been involved in disputes over

In recognition of those lost

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The "bombshell" news of U.S. soldiers held captive, in the post-World-War-II Soviet Union, came as no surprise to local POW/MIA activists.

After years of researching reams of documents, including some classified material, Big Spring's Don Bolin and Ken Dunwoody are completely convinced that, not only were U.S. servicemen left behind in Vietnam, but that the U.S. government was aware of, and failed to, acknowledge their existence, they said.

Many were shocked when 20/20 camera crews tramped through graveyards while the names, of those servicemen buried in graves near the former Soviet cities of Odessa and Tambov, were read.

Bolin, however, had reviewed photographs and collaborating testimony from hundreds of eye witnesses.

In Laos, the government would not acknowledge that military operations occurred in that country, and therefore, could not openly negotiate for the men taken prisoner.

Most of these were radar surveillance experts — highly prized by the Soviet government.

Over the years, families of MIA's have been told, by government officials, that their loved ones are dead. While photographs, eye-witness accounts and radio transmissions proved they were alive, Bolin said.

"We know that a good majority of those left behind (in Vietnam and Laos) were dead — bodies not recoverable," Dunwoody said. "Even if there is only one left alive, he or she should come home."

Although Bolin and Dunwoody are active in the local Rackley Swords Chapter 379 of the Vietnam Veterans of America, much of their POW/MIA work is done through the national organization, the American Defense Institute.

"The POW/MIA issue is somewhat of a rallying call (to other veterans organizations)," Dunwoody said. "We've been working on this for many, many years."

Every serviceman who puts on the uniform knows they might be killed, or taken prisoner, Dunwoody said. "But they never expect — and should never expect, to be abandoned by their government. With our efforts, hopefully, this will never happen again."

Vietnam is currently seeking the normalization of relations with the U.S., Bolin said. What he and his organizations want, is for this to be a political issue: no normalization without accountability, he said.

The events surrounding the deaths of those missing and not still living are important, Dunwoody said. "If they died, when did they die, and under what conditions did they die?"

The American Defense Institute is currently offering over $2 million in gold to the first Vietnamese or Laotian citizen to bring a living U.S. POW out of Indochina, Bolin said.

Reviewing the evidence of abandoned POWs

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Russian President Boris Yeltsen announced a few weeks ago that U.S. POWs were interned within the confines of the former Soviet Union.

The ABC documentary program, 20/20, found more evidence, in 47-year-old records and eye witnesses documenting the graves of U.S. soldiers, taken prisoner by Nazi troops in World War II and liberated by Soviet troops in eastern Europe.

According to 20/20, there were 78,000 servicemen listed as missing in action in World War II, 8,000 in the Korean conflict and more than 2,000 in Vietnam.

Ranking military personnel in Korea, including military attache Lt. Col. Delk Simpson, received reports of North Korean POWs being shipped to the Soviet Union by rail. This was confirmed in documents produced by Big Spring POW/MIA activists Don Bolin and Ken Dunwoody.

Author James Sanders spoke of a POW transfer agreement, where U.S. officials decided not to transfer anti-communist prisoners back to the Soviet Union, where they may have faced execution. The Soviets then retained the liberated U.S. soldiers, as retribution.

During the Korean and Vietnam wars, the Soviet Union made great technological advances after acquiring highly-trained U.S. pilots and electronic warfare officers, according to Sanders.

Later, President Dwight D. Eisenhower played down the number of U.S. POWs in an internal memo, making no public affirmation of their presence, according to Sanders and memorandums produced by 20/20 reporters.

On Feb. 12, 1991, Col. Millard A. Peck, chief of the Special Office for Prisoners of War and Missing in Action, resigned in disgust, posting a letter on his door, part of which read: "I was not really in charge of my own office, but was merely a figurehead or whipping boy for a larger, totally Machiavellian group of players outside of DIA. What I witnessed during my tenure as the cardboard cut-out 'Chief' of the POW/MIA could be euphemistically labeled as disillusioning."

U.S. Senator Jesse Helms-R, North Carolina referred to the letter in a correspondence of his own that read: "In a detailed and forthright letter, which did not become public until May, Col. Peck confirmed that a 'cover-up' has been in progress. He spoke of a 'mindset to debunk.' He said that there was no effort to pursue 'live sightings.' He stated that 'any soldier left in Vietnam, even inadvertently, was, in fact, abandoned years ago.' Lastly, he criticized the U.S. government's treatment of the families and friends of the POW/MIAs."

Dunwoody is closely watching a new U.S. Senate subcommittee, which reconvenes in November, charged with reviewing all evidence of POWs left behind in World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

Titled, "To Our Comrades Up North," this painting, by the late Maxine McCaffrey, depicts the Vietnam prisoner of war. The painting, depicting an American POW in the characteristic red-and-white-striped pajamas. There is evidence to suggest U.S. servicemen were alive in captivity as recently as 1989.

Students circle, holding hands, for prayer at Big Spring High School Wednesday morning.

Prayer at the pole

By DEBBIE LINCEUM
Features Editor

A full half hour before the sun rose Wednesday, local young people gathered around school flagpoles to pray.

They were among an estimated 2 million others nationwide who prayed for their schools, teachers and classmates.

"It was a prayer gathering for youth, a time when they could pray for their friends who may not know Christ," said Bill Banks, First Baptist Church youth minister.

He and Gary Phillips, youth minister at Hillcrest Baptist, organized the local event, inviting other local churches to join the effort.

Participants gathered at 7 a.m. at Big Spring High School, Runnels Junior High, Goliad Middle School and Howard College, as well as schools in Coahoma, Forsan, Garden City and Stanton. In Big Spring, organizers said more than 100 students participated.

"Parents and teachers, and youth directors were asked to come this year and stand across the street, to pray for the students," said Karen Wilson, of Hillcrest Baptist. "We had 30-35 get involved in that."

But the flagpole services were totally student-led. They sang songs and prayed in a circle around the pole, then some broke into smaller groups for more prayer.

The U.S. Supreme Court may have banned prayer in schools, but "See You at the Pole" — which is before school hours and does not violate the law — got support from local administrators.

"We were disappointed when they took prayer out of schools," said Superintendent Bill McQueary. "We're going to comply with the law. But if it's before or after school, we'll support it as much as we can."

According to information from the Baptist General Convention of Texas, students are asked to pray that they can make a difference on their campuses — they are to ask God to intervene in influences such as suicide, drugs and alcohol.

"This kept on their minds there are a lot of kids, who are having a number of problems," Banks said. "And, without knowing Christ, they don't know how to take care of those problems."

VA sets ceremony for POW/MIA day

Today has officially been designated as POW/MIA Day. The Big Spring VA Medical Center will recognize this area's 176 known former Prisoners of War and families of military personnel listed as missing in action with a special Avenue of Flags and a display in the main lobby of the medical center.

At 6:30 p.m. today all former POW's are invited to attend a special program, including dinner, at Furr's Cafeteria. The dinner will be provided to former POW's by the Vietnam Veterans of America, Rackley Swords Chapter 379. Keynote speaker will be Brigadier General Richard A. Ingram, United States Air Force, Retired. Music will be provided by Kristi West.

We know our telephone number, our address, and our birthdate. Another important number we should all be aware of is the number of our blood cholesterol level.

For most people, cholesterol levels should be lower than 200 mg/dl. According to Mary Payne, chief of dietetic service, and chairman, wellness committee, the laboratory will perform cholesterol testing for employees any Tuesday from 8 a.m.-noon, and any Thursday from 1-4 p.m. Watch that cholesterol — it can be a killer!

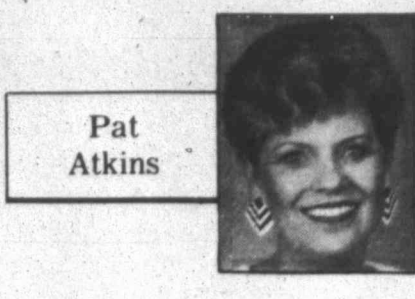

According to Vaughn Martin, safety specialist, fall marks the beginning of the peak season for home fires. New batteries may save your life. Fire experts say that 1/3 of all residential smoke detectors do not work because of old or missing batteries.

Non-working smoke detectors are a factor in many of the estimated 6,000 deaths and 130,000 injuries caused by fires each year. The "change your clock, change your battery campaign" suggests you change your smoke detector batteries when you change your clock back to standard time on October 25, 1992, said Martin.

While on vacation in Ireland, Anne Looney, laboratory supervisor, attended the International Association of Medical Laboratory Technologists' (IAMLT) 20th World Congress held in Dublin, Ireland.

The United States delegates sponsored a "Book Fair" for developing nations. One hundred and thirty-nine textbooks were contributed to 23 colleagues from 15 developing nations. According to Looney, "The Council of IAMLT Pat Atkins was so pleased with the results, the United States delegates were requested to do it again in Hong Kong in 1994."

The World Congress meets every two years on opposite sides of the Globe. U.S. delegates also took home names and addresses of those still needing textbooks. The World Congress held in Dublin was attended by over 1200 participants from 50 countries.

A special welcome to the following new medical center employees: Dean Thomas, medical technologist; Ron Gray, social worker; Amanda Robertson, nursing aid; and Tracy Pruitt, Karen McCormick, Lynda Akin, and Vickie Perry, graduate vocational nurses.

This week we celebrate National Health Care/Environmental Management Service/Laundry Workers Week. Thanks to all employees in that service for a job well done. Environmental management service employees wish to thank all patients, staff, volunteers, and visitors for allowing them to serve their special needs.

This medical center joined forces with VA medical centers nationwide by establishing relief funds to provide assistance to the veterans located in the Hurricane Andrew area and the employees of the Miami VA Medical Center. Nearly 300 employees lost all personal belongings. Local workers shared their West Texas hospitality by donating $830 to this worthwhile cause.

The service attracted a handful of residents as most of the workers, who are among the poorest of the poor, opted to begin rebuilding homes destroyed by Hurricane Andrew.

To stop the killing Minister's coalition is hope for change

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
BALTIMORE — When the Rev. Willie Ray scans the city streets, he doesn't see children playing kick ball or mothers sitting on stoops with babies on their laps. He sees innocent victims.

"Every time I see a child on the doorstep, the child is a potential victim in my mind. They are not even aware of what can happen," he said.

Ray, founder of the Baltimore Coalition to Stop the Killing, has held at least a dozen marches and candlelight vigils this summer to remember children whose lives were cut short, caught in the cross fire of the city's drug wars.

Among the dead: a 3-year-old shot in the back by a stray bullet while playing in front of his house; a 13-year-old boy shot after a revolver was placed in his mouth; a 15-year-old mother shot while holding her 1-year-old son.

"As a nation we have to save our children," said Ray. "It is our children who have gone wild with guns, drugs and violence."

The National Center for Health Statistics issued a report recently that said bullets are the leading cause of death among black males between the ages of 15 and 19. For that age group, homicides increased 61 percent from 1979 to 1989.

"This is a war," said Ray. "I'm in the trenches and people are starting to listen because it is hitting home."

Ray, 43, said the violence is perpetuated by a "lost generation" that lacks morals and is captivated by a glamorized view of drugs, violence and sex.

Mary Carter's 19-year-old daughter and 3-month old granddaughter were shot outside her east Baltimore rowhouse on July 26. The two survived the shooting, but it convinced Ms. Carter to move to a neighborhood where drug dealers don't control every corner.

"They were sitting on the steps and gunfire broke out on the street, and she was hit trying to run into the house," Ms. Carter said. Following the shooting, dozens of people attended a vigil and prayed, lit candles and marched through the neighborhood, chanting, "we aren't going to take it anymore" and "stop the killing, stop the violence."

"It helped for a couple of days," Ms. Carter said. "But you still lay in bed at night and hear the gunfire."

Ray, who also serves as associate pastor of Mount Lebanon Baptist Church, said the marches and vigils give the community the courage to fight back.

"Anytime you have innocent babies and innocent victims blatantly murdered in broad daylight, I don't see how anybody could ignore that," he said.

"The streets are dangerous because we allow them to be dangerous," he said. "If we can generate some enthusiasm, we can run these guys out. If we don't they'll take over."

continue its film series with "Hope for Forgiveness."
It begins at 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary, 1400 Lancaster. The film features a true-to-life segment depicting the need for forgiveness in a husband-wife relationship. The public is invited. It is free. Call 267-7015 for information.

The 1992 session of the Big Spring District Conference of the United Methodist Church will be Sunday from 2:30-4:45 p.m. in Garrett Hall at First United Methodist Church.

There will be a business-of-the-conference meeting at the beginning of the session followed by those in attending dividing into six share groups.

Interested persons are invited to attend. The Big Spring District includes approximately 30 United Methodist Churches with boundaries east of Colorado City, south of Garden City, North of Lamesa and west to and including Midland.

First United Methodist's Senior Citizens Group is planning a trip to Midland Thursday to attend the Midland Community Theater production "Ruffles."

It is a musical about four sisters in the 1950's who form a singing group reminiscent of the Andrews Sisters and the Lennon Sisters.

Tickets are $8 each; all money and reservations must be in the church office today at 5 p.m. The church will furnish vans for transportation to Midland and will leave the church at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 24.

St. Lawrence Catholic Church will sponsor its annual fall festival Oct. 4, at the Parish Hall.

To get there, go 10 miles south of Garden City on Highway 33, then 5 miles west on Highway 2401.

Dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. — a meal of homemade German sausage, barbecue and all the trimmings with homemade cakes and pies for cesserts. Cost is $6 for adults, $4 for children under 12.

Sausage sandwiches, dessert and tea will be served from 5-7 p.m.

Booths will open at 10:30 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. They will include games, contests and the Country Kitchen, handcrafted items and baked goods. Bingo will open at noon and continue to 4 p.m.

An auction of cotton bales and donated items will begin at 2 p.m. Raffles include a handmade quilt, a gun and a trip to Las Vegas.

Country and western band Little Rock will entertain from 7:30-11:30 p.m. Admission will be $5 per person.

Correction

Editor's note: Part of Papa Joe Reed's recipe column was inadvertently cut Wednesday. Here is the final recipe "Green and Gold in Sour Cream" again:

Grapes, 2 cups green seedless
Pineapple, 1 can 13 1/4 oz chunks, drained
Brown sugar, 1/4 cup, packed
Sour cream, 1/3 cup

Mix the grapes and pineapple chunks, reserving one tablespoon of the brown sugar. Stir in remaining sugar into the sour cream. Mix this with the fruit and chill. Just before serving, sprinkle with remaining sugar.

This is a dessert that you can substitute various fruits. It's fast, easy to prepare, and not only looks, but tastes delicious.

The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary will have its regular meeting Monday at 402 Young Street. There will be a Weiner roast after the meeting.

The American Gold Star Mother Chapter met Thursday in the home of Odell Turner.

Chapter President, Lora Bell Tom, presided and opened the meeting according to the Ritual. Chaplain Turner opened the Bible and voiced the Ritual Prayer. Josephine Garcia led the Mothers in the Pledge of Allegiance.

A Chapter Past President's Pin was presented to President Tom by Turner for her service to the Chapter for the past year.

Chapter members having September birthdays were remembered with birthday cards included Martha Moody and Melvena Moore.

A Certificate for Outstanding Service was presented to the Chapter from the VAMC during the Year 1991 to 1992.

The next meeting, Oct. 8, will be in the home of Kathryn Thomas.

The Big Spring Country Western Dance Association has free dance lessons every other Thursday evening at 8 p.m. at the Elks Lodge, East FM 700 next to the Golden Corral restaurant. The public is welcome to attend. The next meeting will be Sept. 24.

The Big Spring Elks Lodge has a family night supper planned for Sept. 26. Members and their families or guests are welcome. Brisket and all the trimmings will cost $2.50 per person and will be served at 7 p.m.

The Lodge sponsors bingo every Wednesday night at the Lion's Club on East Fourth Street. Early bird games begin at 6:30 p.m.

Three young people who will be first-time voters in the November elections spoke to a meeting of West Texas Republican Women Sept. 10.

Sharing their youthful perspectives on the political scene were Doug Wallace, a 1992 graduate of Coahoma High School; Melissa McKay, a senior at Forsan High School; and Melinda Wilhelm, a senior at Big Spring High.

Each speaker had conducted a poll at his respective school and reported that a majority of the students called themselves conservatives.

"It is important to remember that the chief way we can affect the government is by voting," said Wallace, who aspires some day to run for public office.

McKay said many students knew more about the scandals surrounding candidates than they did about political platforms.

Wilhelm, who is a state officer in FFA, pointed out the importance of adults setting a good example by studying political platforms and by voting.

The Big Spring Child Study Club met at the home of Sandy Fleharty, Sept. 9 for a planning meeting for the year. Guests attending were Nancy Herrin and Kathlyin Pharoah.

The next meeting will be Oct. 14 at the home of Kelly Graunder. Loretta Burns from Rape Crisis/Victim Services will present the program.

Big Spring-Howard County Retired Teachers will meet at noon Monday in the Cactus Room at Howard College. Jody Streicher, Community Relations Coordinator, will present a program on hospice care in our community.

The Mary Jane Club of Coahoma met for a Fall Breakfast Buffet in the Patio Room of Days Inn Sept. 10, as their season opener. Hand-made magnet table favors of mauve and wine colored calico sunbonnets marked each member's place.

President Eula Bell Fowler called the meeting to order and introduced her co-hostess Pat Nash who gave a memorial in honor of the late Roselle Coates, a long-time member of the Mary Jane Club.

Yearbooks were distributed and a preview of the year's study topic, "Our Western Heritage; Continuing With Its Influence And Education". Officers for the '92-'93 club year are President-Eula Bell Fowler, Vice-President-Joyce Choate, Secretary-Lee Milliken, Treasurer-Ruth Mitchell, Reporter-JoAnne Forrest and Scrapbook Chairperson, Nan McKinney.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 8 in the home of Eula Bell Fowler with Lee Milliken as cohostess.

The Big Spring Art Association met Sept. 15, at the West Texas Center for the Arts.

Jerry Williams presided over the meeting. Mary Horn is chairman of the art show which the club will have on display at the W.T.C.A. 125 E. 3rd Street. The public is invited October 6, 7 and 8th from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club had its weekly meeting Tuesday. Table Topics were led by Reeves Moren.

Each member was given the opportunity to speak on the topic of the day, which was "conflict of interest." Best table topic speaker was Dene Sheppard.

Neel Barnaby was guest speaker. He gave a summary of his background in law enforcement.

You are not a God Who takes pleasure in evil; with You the wicked cannot dwell. The arrogant cannot stand in Your presence; You hate all who do wrong. You destroy those who tell lies; bloodthirsty and deceitful men the Lord abhors.

In His arrogance the wicked man hunts down the weak, who are caught in the schemes he devises. He boasts of the cravings of his heart; he blesses the greedy and reviles the Lord. In his pride the wicked does not seek Him; in all his thoughts there is no room for God. He says to himself, "God has forgotten; He has hidden His face; He will never see it."

The Lord is in His holy temple; the Lord's throne is in heaven; His eyes behold. His eyelids test the sons of men. The Lord tests the righteous and the wicked, and the one who loves violence His soul hates. Upon the wicked He will rain snares; fire and brimstone and burning wind will be the portion of their cup. For the Lord is righteous; He loves righteousness; the upright will behold His face.

There are six things which the Lord hates, yes, seven that are an abomination to Him: haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands, shedding innocent blood, a heart devising wicked schemes, feet quick to run to evil, a false witness breathing out lies, and he who is sowing discord among brothers.

The wicked man is doomed by his own sins; they are ropes that catch and hold him. He shall die because he will not listen to the truth; he has let himself be led away into incredible folly.

Because of your stubbornness and your unrepentant heart, you are storing up wrath against yourself for the day of God's wrath, when His righteous judgment will be revealed.

God "will give to each person according to what he has done." To those who, by persistence in doing good, seek glory, honor and immortality, He will give eternal life. But for those who are self-seeking and who reject the truth and follow evil, there will be wrath and anger.

Son finds father but he's still out of reach

DEAR ABBY: My parents were divorced almost 45 years ago. The last time I saw my father, I was 4 years old.

Now that I am approaching the mid-century mark, I've become more and more curious about my father. After years of trying to track him down, I was finally able to reach his sister. She said my father had remarried after he and my mother were divorced, and he now has three sons by his second wife.

I was thrilled! Growing up as an only child, I had always wondered what it would be like to have brothers or sisters. So far, so good. Now the problem:

My newly found aunt said she had spoken to my father's wife, and she decided that it would not be in anybody's best interest for me to reunite with my father. She said that his other sons were never told of my existence, and it would be opening a can of worms if they found out their father had kept this from them all these years.

They say he is nearly 80 now, has a heart condition, and fear that seeing me again might cause a heart attack.

I would still like to contact my father. What should I do? -- "DOC" IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR "DOC": Have an intermediary (perhaps a lawyer) contact your father, explain the situation, and offer him an opportunity to see you. Your father's wife has no right to deprive your father and his other sons of the opportunity of seeing you. The choice should be theirs.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for six years. We have two beautiful, healthy children: a daughter who is 3 years old and a son who is 6 months old.

I have always wanted a big family. I love kids. I come from a family with only two children, and my husband is one of three. He insists that our family is perfect the way it is, and we shouldn't press our luck.

Abby, I would like to have at least four children. I am strong and healthy and we can afford it. My husband says our family is complete!

This disagreement is putting a strain on our marriage. Have you any advice? -- BORN TO BREED IN KANSAS

DEAR BORN TO BREED: You need not make a decision today, tomorrow -- or even next year. Your youngest is still in diapers; when he's 3 years old and his sister is 5 1/2, review the bidding.

DEAR ABBY: Please give us more "pet peeves" in language and word usage.

The one that gets me is people who begin a sentence with "I would like to," as in:

"I would like to introduce..."
"I would like to say..."
"I would like to close with..."
Abby, I would like to scream, "For Pete's sake, either do it, or hush!" -- GRACE CAMIZZI, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA

FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Let your romantic partner step down from that pedestal and your relationship will become much more meaningful. A part-time job you take in November or December could lead to a new career. Your finances get a big boost early in 1993. You learn a valuable lesson in February. Although a partnership fails, you will emerge stronger. Than ever by next April. Look for new outlets for your organizational skills in May.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: TV host Joan Lunden, actor Jeremy Irons, novelist William Golding, basketball coach Larry Brown.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Vague doubts could be hampering progress. Your ideas are original and quite practical as well. Tonight, steer the love boat into tranquil waters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Missing a connection could take the wind out of your sails temporarily. Do not despair! An interlude with a fascinating companion could make your day really special.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Have fun today, but try not to overdo it. An out-of-town trip to pursue a favorite sport or pastime could be tops on your busy schedule. A new romance is slowly blossoming.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Routine matters could turn complicated. Try to keep your cool if someone you counted on lets you down. There is no use crying over spilled milk or a missed opportunity.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may not be aware of a backstage drama until you hear about it through confidential sources. Resist an urge to get involved. A financial goal moves within closer reach.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go ahead and try some new activities. So long as you keep your head out of the clouds, you will do just fine. Others expect you to keep your word. Avoid disappointing them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A past indiscretion may come back to haunt you, just when you are eager to wipe the slate clean. An old flame may be involved. Do not try to avoid paying your dues.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Someone may be moody. Do not invade his privacy. What you do not know will not hurt you. Think about making long-overdue changes in your living arrangements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You get the go-ahead for a project involving writing or teaching. Your score big by being in the right place at the right time. Keep your head where romance is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Uphold your end of a bargain. Being adamant about a situation you cannot change is pointless. Learn to go with the flow. Slow and steady wins the race.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not let an important matter slide. You need to stay with a project until its completion. Even if you feel impatient, things will work out.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Handle a troubled personal relationship with kid gloves. Pressures you are not aware of have been building. Be willing to change your stance on a family matter.

THE HOME FRONT
 By Kay Moore
 Lace curtain lovely - just hem lace yardage and stitch on rings to slide onto a decorative rod. Gracious drapes can be as formal or informal as the lace you choose.
 Planting a tree? Dig a hole twice as big as the circumference of the root ball and deep enough so the top of the root ball will be at ground level. Set the tree in place, remove the burlap cover and refill the hole with soil. Soak well.
 Color-wash ties together wood tables and decor. Rub in a soft white stain, or tint to match furniture or draperies. Finish off with a clear top coat.
 Even an old refrigerator will look new again if you polish and buff it with automobile wax. Smudges will wipe off easier, too.
 The key to a perfect wall arrangement of pictures and bric-a-brac: plan it carefully on a large sheet of paper on the floor. Outline positions of all the elements before you hammer a single nail.
 The key to getting top dollar for your property in a difficult market: the know-how of our realty experts at: Home Realtors at 110 Marcy Dr., 263-1284.
