Bond tax increase explained

Polling places open at 7 a.m. for Saturday bond election

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

If the flood-control and street paving bond issues on Saturday's ballot are passed, the required increase in property taxes will cost an average 8.2 cents per home per day.

RELATED STORIES — 4A, 8A

That's no problem, some say. Others say it's just another burden that keeps adding up.

City officials estimate the $1.4 million for flood control along Beals Creek would require a property tax increase of 5 cents per $100 of taxable valuation and the $1.1 million for street paving would require a 4-cent hike to pay off bonds in 17 to 18 years.

A 9 cent tax rate increase on an average Big Spring home of $33,300, according to the 1990 U.S. Census, would amount to $29.97 a year or 8.2 cents per day. But tax exemptions — including homestead, over 65 and veterans — can exclude about half the valuation of an average home from city taxation.

"What your getting for it, it would be fine," said Gail Earls, a former city council member who would see an annual tax increase of about $12 a year on her $20,260 home, after homestead and veterans exemptions exclude $7,000 from taxation. "You can get rid of the cokes and the cookies," she said.

"The 10 cents is not the total picture. It's all these other nitpicking things," said Jack Watkins, also a former city councilman who could see a tax increase of about $100 a year for 11 properties he owns in the city that were valued at $110,000 in 1991. Watkins got $13,000 of valuation exempted for a homestead with over 65 status on his home.

Watkins pointed out the total property tax rate for city residents, including city, schools and county, already increased 12 cents this year, from $2.54 in 1991 to $2.66. The 1992-93 city tax rate of 66.09 cents is lower than last year's but property valuation increases in effect raised city taxes by 3 percent.

On top of that, Watkins said, city water and sewer rates were increased beginning this month. The base water rate increased 17 cents, to $1.80 per 1,000 gallons, to pay for water pipe

Bond tax increase effect

If both bond issues on Saturday's ballot are passed, the required property tax rate hike — a total estimate of 9 cents — to pay off the debt in 17 or 18 years would affect taxable property valuations as shown in this chart.

- On 10,000 it's $9 per year or 2.5 cents per day
- On 15,000 it's $13.5 or 3.7 cents per day
- On 20,000 it's $18 or 4.9 cents per day
- On 25,000 it's $22.50 per year or 6.2 cents per day
- On 30,000 it's $27 or 7.4 cents per day
- On 35,000 it's $31.50 or 8.6 cents per day
- On 40,000 it's $36 per year or 9.9 cents per day
- On 50,000 it's $45 or 12.3 cents per day
- On 60,000 it's $54 or 14.8 cents per day
- On 70,000 it's $63 per year or 17.3 cents per day
- On 80,000 it's $72 or 19.8 cents per day
- On 90,000 it's $81 or 22.2 cents per day
- On 100,000 it's $90 or 24.7 cents per day

replacement and repairs. The sewer rate increased $3.25, to $10.75 per month, to fund upgrades of the water plant to meet state and federal mandates.

Watkins said he supports the street-paving bonds but opposes the flood-control project because it will not control floods in the 25-year and 100-year flood plains and water could bottleneck east of Benton Street and defeat ef-ports, he said.

Proponents dispute the water bottleneck argument, saying Beals Creek is sufficiently wide and deep enough after Benton. Also, they say, controlling of floods up to magnitudes that occur an average of once every 10 years would reduce the impact of larger floods.

"I just think we need to progress and that's one way of doing it," Earls said.

School board approves two committees

Big Spring Independent School District trustees approved transferring additional funds to the health insurance account as well as approving Textbook Selection and Career Ladder Advisory Committees at its Thursday meeting.

Due to large medical claims during the summer, $100,000 from reserves was requested by the business superintendent to fund additional coverages.

"These funds will be returned when there is sufficient reserve built up in the health insurance account..." according to Assistant Superintendent for Business Ron Plumlee.

Health insurance officials for the district projected additional savings this year due to approval of a partially self-funded health insurance plan.

Among the two committees trustees approved, the Career Ladder Advisory Committee generated discussion regarding the possibility of this being its last year.

The partially state-funded process uses teacher appraisals to determine eligibility for bonuses. The state education commissioner also proposed to legislators on Thursday eliminating the process because it causes competitiveness as well as places the burden on districts to provide most of the funds.

The members of the Career Ladder Advisory Committee are Glynn Mouton; Larry Hollar; Bill Tarleton; Royce Cox; Virginia Martin; Rita Faulkner and Murray Murphy.

Trustees also approved the Textbook Selection Committee made up of educators who will analyze textbooks to be used starting the 1993-94 school year.

"Our Textbook Committee works real hard to study and become thoroughly familiar with these areas," said Superintendent Bill McQueary. The areas of study include English, chemistry and history.

Trustees also approved: ● Final budget amendments for Chapter 1 and Chapter 2 programs assisting students in education weakness areas such as testing and academics.

Discussion among trustees included homecoming activities; enrollment figures which are down about 100 students and attending a Texas Association of School Boards Forum in Midland next week.

A Salvation Army van collided with a cable company truck Thursday at the intersection of W. 10th and Gregg streets resulting in an injury. Joseph Oglethorpe, 23, was treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center. Oglethorpe was driving the TCA Cable Co. small-sized pickup truck travelling south on Gregg when Albert Villafuerte, 31, travelling north, attempted to make a left turn at W. 10th.

"I thought I had the right-of-way," said Villafuerte, a Salvation Army lieutenant. Officer Charles Calvert said,

"Based on witness statements, the gentlemen (Villafuerte) did fail to yield the right-of-way."

Oglethorpe was given a citation for not wearing a seat belt and Villafuerte was cited for failing to yield the right-of-way.

Traffic was slowed and detoured for about 30 minutes at the site of the collision which occurred about 10:30 a.m.

Martinez helps salvage lives

Editor's Note: In recognition of Hispanic Heritage Month, the Big Spring Herald will publish daily articles on Hispanics and Hispanic culture.

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Nowadays, due to his position, Frank Martinez restricts his active campaigning for political change, but he has fought to bring about the political awareness of many in Big Spring's Hispanic community.

FRANK MARTINEZ

Martinez is the chief probation officer at the 118th District Community Supervision and Corrections Department. He brings to the department an extensive background of redirecting, assisting and salvaging the lives of those in need of assistance, said Bob McDonough, who directs Star House, an independent, non-profit institution that serves as an alternative to the state penitentiary for non-violent criminals who suffer from drug and alcohol addiction. The institution is located in Ft. Worth.

Martinez's office was one of the first in the state to use this less expensive alternative sentencing, McDonough said. "Frank set a good example for the rest of the state. . . The people in Big Spring and Howard County are just very fortunate to have him."

Those probationers sent to Star House have an 85-percent recovery rate, giving them a second chance, which is what probation is all about, McDonough said.

A Big Spring native, Martinez graduated from the Metropolitan State College of Denver after serving in the U.S. Army in the early 1960s. With a degree in sociology and minors in political science and Meso-American history, Martinez saw a need to get members of the Hispanic community involved in politics and the problems facing the community, he said.

Recognizing that Hispanics would someday be the majority in many areas, Martinez in Denver and, after moving back to Big Spring in 1975, worked to increase the political awareness of the Hispanic community.

In 1974 and 1975 in Denver, Martinez worked to bring youths, who had dropped out of school, off the streets helping them earn GEDs and giving them assistance in finding employment and training. "We were responsible for establishing a link between the (retrained) youths and employers," he said.

Big Spring City Council member Pat DeAnda credits her success to Martinez's teaching, she said. "He's a good advisor and a good leader. He's strong but not radical."

After returning to Big Spring, Martinez worked for the Texas Employment Commission, and was one of three people in the state working as migrant and seasonal farm worker representatives.

With his 17-county catchment area, Martinez was responsible for seeing that child-labor laws were observed and that those transpor-

The Senate approves a project to reduce the salt in Lake Meredith

Speaking

Charlie Wilson, Democratic incumbent in Texas' 2nd Congressional District, meets supporters on the town green Thursday in Jasper. Wilson is running against Donna Peterson, who is posing a strong challenge to Wilson.

WASHINGTON — A project to reduce salt pollution at Lake Meredith, the drinking water source for nearly a million Texans, now goes before President Bush. It's unclear, however, whether Bush will sign the water reclamation legislation. Several advisers, including Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan, have urged him to veto it. The Senate on Thursday approved a measure to reduce the salt pollution. In one of the final actions of the 102nd Congress, the Senate passed an omnibus water reclamation bill that included the Panhandle lake project pushed by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen since 1988. "I am pleased Congress has now completed action on it," said Bentsen, D-Texas. Unless the situation is remedied, the naturally occurring salt in Lake Meredith could eventually render its water useless for human consumption. Eleven cities depend on Lake Meredith for drinking water: Lubbock, Amarillo, Plainview, Pampa, Borger, Levelland, Lamesa, Brownfield, Slaton, Tahoka and O'Donnell. Studies show that 70 percent of salt entering the lake originates in a shallow brine aquifer in New Mexico. The aquifer is under artesian pressure and is leaking into the Canadian River, which feeds Lake Meredith. Salt levels already exceed Environmental Protection Agency and state health standards, said

John Williams, general manager of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. The legislation authorizes the Bureau of Reclamation to pay for design preparation and construction management, which is an estimated to be one-third of the total $9 million project. The state and water authority will pay the remaining two-thirds for construction, operation and maintenance of the facility to be built near Logan, N.M. downstream from the Ute Dam. The project involves drilling wells into the brine artesian aquifer and pumping out water to relieve the pressure and keep the aquifer's briny water from flowing into the river. Brine removed from the aquifer will be pumped into deep injection wells. Construction of the facility would take about a year, Williams said. It would take a year or two to see decline in the salt content of the lake's water, he said. "It really depends how much it rains," he said. "We already have Lake Meredith full of salty water. There is some salt that is in the sandy material in the river bed. We'll need to flush all of that out by receiving some inflow from storms and dilute the water now in Lake Meredith before we really begin to see improvement." While the purpose of the project is to benefit Texas, New Mexico also will gain, Williams said. "There will be some benefit to New Mexico by virtue of improvement of the water quality in the river," he said.

State Regulators check into Southwestern Bell

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — State regulators say they have launched an investigation into allegations of unfair business practices by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Competitors of Southwestern Bell have accused the company of using discriminatory marketing practices in installing voice message services in the Houston area, the Public Utility Commission said Thursday. Southwestern Bell is providing its subsidiary in the voice mail market, Bell Messaging Services Inc., with services it does not provide to other, similar firms, according to the allegations. Bell denied the accusations. "The competing voice mail firms told the PUC that their customers were experiencing problems due to Bell software configurations. The service problems started about one week before Bell Messaging Services started marketing its own voice mail service, the PUC stated. "Further, the firms alleged that Bell marketing representatives then began attempting to solicit those firms' clients," according to the PUC. The competing companies also allege that Southwestern Bell is forcing them to pay a monthly fee for certain activation services while charging its subsidiary a one-time fee. Southwestern Bell spokesman Bob Digneo denied the allegations. "We do not discriminate between companies and charge one a different price than anyone else," he said.

Africanized bees are now in Travis County

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — Travis County has been added to a quarantine restricting the movement of beehive operations after officials confirmed the presence of Africanized "killer" bees. A farmer encountered the bees, which are descended from an African strain, last week near Garfield southeast of Austin. As he was shredding weeds, James Foradory said, he noticed a small swarm in a tree beside his well. "I saw them up in the tree and called my neighbor, who is a beekeeper," Foradory said. "I thought if he wanted more bees, he was welcome to get them." Bill Hines came over with his protective beekeeper's suit. But the bees swarmed him when he tried to remove them. "He found out they were the wrong ones. They attacked him," Foradory said Wednesday. "We had no idea they were 'killer' bees. Had it not been for the suit he was wearing, he would have been in trouble." Foradory then called the Austin-Travis County health department. Department officials destroyed the swarm, which weighed less than a pound, and sent samples to the Texas Apiary Inspection Service at Texas A&M University.

Woman wins discrimination suit

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — A jury has awarded an Austin woman $357,000 in damages for being fired because she was pregnant. Sherry Aaron's damages stem from a sex discrimination suit against the property management company she worked for in 1989. She filed suit in 1990, and after a three-day trial this week before state District Judge Pete Lowry, the jury returned its verdict Thursday. Ms. Aaron had been manager of the Woodscape Apartments in Northwest Hills for several years when a new company, CentreFirst Management Corp. of Dallas, took over management of the complex in September 1989. Ms. Aaron continued as manager, but she was fired by her Austin supervisor less than three months later, after she became pregnant. "I am very pleased, very excited and relieved that it is finally over," Ms. Aaron. "I hope that a lot of people learn something from this, and that nobody ever will have to be treated as I was."

Symptom-free HIV patients might be key to solution

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Australian investigators say they have identified six patients with the same strain of AIDS virus who have remained free of symptoms for up to a decade, a finding which may provide clues for developing a vaccine.

The findings, published in the Oct. 10 issue of The Lancet, a British Medical Journal, also lend credence to speculation that some forms of HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, may be less dangerous than others.

The researchers spotted five people who got the virus from the same blood donor between 1982 and 1984. As of June, these recipients and the donor have no symptoms of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

A sixth recipient, who suffered from a second immune disorder, has since died of AIDS.

"This is the first report in the world of a single common HIV-1 infected donor and a group of transfusion recipients who have all remained symptom-free," said Brett Tyndall, an investigator at the National Center in HIV Epidemiology and Clinical Research at the University of New South Wales in Sydney, Australia.

"Certainly, if you have a virus the host recognizes as the AIDS virus but doesn't cause disease, you are many steps forward in making a vaccine," he said in a telephone interview.

A vaccine is a weakened culture of a disease-causing agent given to an individual to build up protective antibodies.

James Curran, director of HIV and AIDS programs at the U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, commented in a telephone interview that "it's an interesting and important study that needs further follow-up and a better understanding of what's going on, but it's a long way to finding a vaccine."

Although a vaccine would not be made from this strain of HIV, research on the strain could give genetic clues about why it is weaker than others.

People watch as smoke and fire billow from a Texaco oil refinery in the Wilmington section of Los Angeles last Thursday night. 16 people suffered mostly minor injuries from flying debris.

Refinery explosion injures 16

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — A powerful explosion at an oil refinery rocked a wide area of south Los Angeles, injuring 16 people, chasing at least 600 residents from their homes and leaving a fire burning early today.

The blast Thursday night occurred in a 6-by-10 foot tank that mixes oil with hydrocarbons to make gasoline, but the cause wasn't known, Deputy Fire Chief Davis Parsons said.

The blast shattered windows on cars, homes and businesses two miles from the Texaco refinery in suburban Wilmington, 20 miles south of downtown. The explosion was felt 15 miles away.

"There was just a huge blast that shook the whole house and broke some of the windows," said Noel Peacock, who lives a quarter-mile from the company's 350-mile complex. "A huge ball of flame went up in the sky, and the heat from it was tremendous."

A light haze and putrid smell of hydrogen sulfide hung in the air, but company officials said no toxic gases were released. Authorities who were worried about toxic fumes called on nearby residents to evacuate, said police Sgt. Dan Pugel. About 600 people spent the night in shelters.

Firefighters didn't use water or foam on the blaze because the presence of ammonia, methanol and chlorine posed a toxic and explosive threat. Plant officials shut off reservoirs feeding hydrogen to the complex, hoping the fire would burn itself out, fire Capt. George Bauman said.

Firefighters doused nearby tanks with water as a precaution. Fire Battalion Chief Rick Ward said the blast apparently knocked out an automatic shutdown system and firefighters had to manually shut valves feeding fuel to the blaze.

Russ Kauriloto, who lives about five miles away, said flames reached more than 100 feet into the air soon after the explosion.

"There was a rumbling and the house just shook," he said.

All of about 50 workers who were in the plant when the explosion occurred at 9:45 p.m. were accounted for, said Bill Sahy, a Texaco operations spokesman.

Most of the injuries were minor, said Carolyn Cohen, a spokeswoman for St. Mary Medical Center. Fourteen of 16 people injured were treated at hospitals, she said.

One worker, Lyndal Mize, who escaped with minor injuries, said the blast pitched him through the air.

"I was literally catapulted — it blew me about 12 feet," he said. "I tumbled in midair, did kind of a half-somersault shoulder roll I remembered from my football days and came up running."

Tin, corrugated metal and glass were scattered around the plant early today. The explosion damaged several shops and an office building in the complex.

Exit and entrance ramps to two highways in the area were temporarily closed and the Coast Guard sent out crews to make sure no oil was spilling into a harbor nearby.

Randy Jewett, supervisor of Texaco's environmental department, said the plant would close for a few days. The plant refines oil and gasoline from crude.

Debate could bring a loose cannon, but no icemen expected

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Bush and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton come to the debate stage with mixed reviews for past performances. Ross Perot comes as a loose cannon.

"Wouldn't it be nice to be the iceman so you never make a mistake?" Bush asked during his first 1988 debate with Democrat Michael Dukakis in a backhanded tribute to Dukakis' presumed superior debating skills.

But history shows mistakes abound in such a pressure-cooker environment. And sometimes the best that can be hoped for is just to get through unscathed.

Some mannerisms of the debaters facing off Sunday night for the first of three debates are well-known.

Bush can wave his arms too much and can seem strident and inarticulate; Clinton can drone on with long-winded, multipart answers, and can seem irritable and evasive.

Perot, although he hasn't had any recent debate experience, can sometimes appear thin-skinned and prickly when confronted with questions he doesn't like at forums such as news conferences.

Bush and Clinton have had their share of uncomfortable moments, as well as a few political triumphs, in past debates.

Debate experts said Bush came across as shrill and patronizing in his 1984 vice presidential debate with Democrat Geraldine Ferraro, although some of the same analysts said she did, too.

In a 1980 presidential debate in Nashua, N.H., Bush was clearly outfoxed by Ronald Reagan, whose "I paid for this microphone" line became more memorable than anything either candidate said on the issues.

In his first debate with Dukakis in 1988, Bush made a narrow escape after suggesting women seeking abortions — as well as the physicians who perform them — should be held criminally liable under anti-abortion laws.

Sensing that the comment would backfire if it wasn't retracted,

Bush's campaign chief James A. Baker III came out early the next morning to say Bush misspoke and didn't really think such women should be prosecuted.

Bush's greatest debate success came from a blunder by his opponent: Dukakis' flat response to a hypothetical question on whether he would support the death penalty for someone who would rape and kill his wife, Kitty.

"No, I don't," Dukakis replied without emotion.

Dukakis was done in my own "iceman" image. Bush, by contrast, looked less mechanical, more human.

Clinton underwent his trial by debate fire last winter and spring, when he engaged in more than a dozen debates and mini-debates in the rough-and-tumble primary season.

He was battered with questions on his playing golf at an all-white club in Little Rock, his draft status during the Vietnam War and assertions he had an affair with former lounge singer Jennifer Flowers.

In an hourlong debate in Chicago in March, Jerry Brown accused Clinton of involvement in a "scandal of major proportions" and said the Arkansas governor was funneling state tax dollars to his wife's law firm.

Clinton exploded that Brown's charge was a "lying accusation" and suggested his Democratic rival was not worthy to appear on the same stage as his wife, Hillary.

Clinton turned the tables on Brown in a debate in Buffalo, N.Y., the following week when he accused Brown's law firm of taking $178,000 in taxpayer dollars for lobbying against California's contribution limits. That prompted Brown to angrily jump up and grab the microphone and demand more time.

And Clinton didn't reserve his harsh words for Brown, once accusing former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas of wanting to pound the middle class "into the dirt."

Bush, down between 9 points and 15 points in most national polls, desperately needs to recoup lost ground.

Vote 'YES' Saturday for future

Tomorrow, Big Spring voters go to the polls to decide the fate of two important bond issues.

One bond issue addresses the long-standing problem of flooding on Beals Creek.

Under this proposal, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers would begin a channelization project just east of One Mile Lake. The channel would be concrete, but would be covered with sod.

The project would also clean up the area along the creek — in turn, eliminating many of the problems that residents in the Jones Valley and Banks Addition areas have worked on so hard this summer.

By eliminating the existing problem of highspots in the current creek channel, the flood control project would allow water to flow all the way to the Owens Street area, where formal project work would stop.

The elimination of high spots also eliminates the problem of backed-up and stagnant water. In eliminating this problem, the potential health hazard of mosquito breeding grounds are also eliminated. The general cleaning of the entire area also eliminates the problems of snakes and skunks and other wildlife that have plagued residents in neighborhoods that are remotely close to the creek.

We also close an open wound that runs down the middle of our community.

Instead of the trash and weeds and stagnant water, it would be clean and landscaped. As shown in the plan, there would be walking trails and bicycle trails and trees planted.

In approving the Beals Creek Flood Control Project, we turn a liability into an asset.

The other bond issue addresses street repairs in our city.

This bond issue was first approved 12 years ago, but the bonds were never issued.

Again, this is a problem that needs attention. And it is a problem that will continue to worsen unless we address it now.

Opponents of the proposals simply say, "We just don't need to do it" or "Let's buy them out and move them."

Well, we do need to approve both projects. We do need to address both problems because both problems continue to be more and more of a liability to our community — just like the head-in-the-sand attitude of "Buy 'em out."

The "buy 'em out" folks would be willing to spend nearly $1 million on that effort — which would still leave us with the flooding and the eyesore — but don't want to spend additional money it would take to address the problem.

The investment this community is being asked to make to address these two problems is a maximum of $2.5 million — $1.4 million for the flood control project and $1.1 million for street repairs.

The $1.4 million for flood control represents the maximum amount of bonds the city would be required to issue. Because of contingency funds and estimated land costs that might not be expended, the amount could be less.

On the Beals Creek project, the federal government will spend $3.2 million on the project alone. That doesn't count the money spent in the community by those Corps members or contractors while they work here . . . money spent on rent, food, clothing, movies, gasoline.

It is estimated by city officials that passage of both bond issues will raise property taxes 9 cents per $100 valuation. A 9 cent tax increase on a property valued at $100,000 is only $7.50 per month or 25 cents per day. A chart on the front page of today's newspaper gives several examples of what the increase would mean.

The bottom line to the entire issue is whether or not members of this community are willing to make the commitment to address the problems of the past.

If we don't, they won't go away.

If we don't, their effect on our community will only worsen.

We ask you to look at our community and ask if you are satisfied with where we are . . . with the status quo.

If the legacy of Beals Creek flooding and bad streets is one you are willing to leave behind for your children to address, then vote against the proposals.

If you feel like we do . . . that it's time to address these problems . . . that it's time to join the residents of Jones Valley and the Banks Addition in cleaning up our town . . . that's it time to take our community into the future, then you will join us in voting for both proposals.

We recommend that you vote for both proposals when you go to the polls Saturday.

Chickens, peyote, & Tom Jefferson

WASHINGTON — Well, said the city of Hialeah, Fla., these people might not take proper care of the chickens. They might not slaughter them humanely. They might leave entrails of goats on public streets. Besides, the used car lot wasn't zoned for use as a slaughterhouse.

On these civic grounds, Hialeah's city council in 1987 adopted four ordinances intended to prevent the Church of the Lukumi Babalu Aye from following its traditional practices in Hialeah.

Do the several ordinances violate the Constitution? We will find out after the Supreme Court hears argument on Nov. 4. The case has aroused great interest at the high court. It ties into a movement on Capitol Hill to tell the court a thing or two about interpreting the First Amendment. All in all, a lovely knockdown argument lies ahead.

Let me go back a bit. On April 17, 1990, the Supreme Court decided the case of Alfred L. Smith. He was fired from his job because he ingested peyote, a variety of cactus, at a sacramental ceremony of the Native American Church. Oregon's Employment Commission denied his claim for unemployment compensation because ingesting peyote, for whatever reason, is a crime under

James J. Kilpatrick

Oregon law. The Oregon Supreme Court reversed the agency's decision and ordered the claim paid.

The U.S. Supreme Court reversing that. Speaking through Justice Antonin Scalia, five members of the high court agreed that the states may enact their own laws on such intoxicants as peyote. If the laws interfere with the free exercise of religion, too bad. The state's intention is not to burden religion but to keep stoned citizens off the streets. Under these circumstances it is not necessary for a state to show a "compelling interest" in enforcing its criminal laws.

The Smith opinion outraged a number of church groups and led to a hearing last month on a bill to overrule the Supreme Court's decision. Sponsored by Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, the bill (S.2929) is called the "Religious Freedom Restoration Act of 1992."

A dozen witnesses turned out for a highly emotional hearing. Kennedy termed the Smith opinion "an unwarranted attack on freedom of religion." A spokesman for the Baptist and Jewish Joint Committee said Smith had "wreaked havoc on religious liberty." The American Civil Liberties Union called the opinion a "devastating blow." The National Association of Evangelicals called the opinion "dreadful." A law professor said the court had ruled, in effect, "that every American has a right to believe in his religion, but no right to practice it."

The Kennedy-Hatch bill came along too late for consideration in this Congress, but it will be back next year. Meanwhile, to get back to Hialeah and the Church of the Lukumi Babalu Aye:

The church may be relatively new to Florida, but according to the record it has been around for the past 4,000 years. It is known as Yoba or Yoruba, but most often as Santeria. It came to the Caribbean with slavery in the 17th century, and came to Florida with Cuban refugees.

Santerians have no formal hierarchy. The church operates mostly out of private homes. It is not clear how priests get to be priests. Counsel for the church says that Santeria has 50,000 to 60,000 adherents in south Florida

"and may have a hundred million Santeria believers worldwide."

Hialeah's city council leaped into action five years ago when the church filed an application to build on a used car lot. On investigation, council learned that Santerians believe in the ritual slaughter of chickens, pigeons, ducks, guinea fowl, goats, sheep and turtles. Worshipers generally eat the meat after sacrifice.

Representatives of the Lukumi Babalu Aye sued in U.S. District Court for an injunction against enforcement of the ordinances. Animal sacrifice, they said, is essential to the free exercise of their religion. The city said, there's not going to be any chicken wings on the streets of Hialeah. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit agreed that the ordinances are a valid exercise of the city's police power.

We will soon see about that. It seems likely that the same groups that defended the use of peyote in Oregon will defend the sacrifice of pigeons in Florida. Peripheral questions spring to mind. If a state may burden the religious rituals of Native Americans and Santerians, what about the rituals of other religions? In the Smith opinion of 1990, the high court set loose a flock of legal chickens. Now they're coming home to roost.

By eliminating the existing problem of highspots in the current creek channel, the flood control project would allow water to flow all the way to the Owens Street area, where formal project work would stop.

The elimination of high spots also eliminates the problem of backed-up and stagnant water. In eliminating this problem, the potential health hazard of mosquito breeding grounds are also eliminated. ## When childhood tops honesty

He found the pirate's treasure between the litter barrel and the beached catamaran, beneath the sign that says "No Glass Bottles or Livestock on the Beach," exactly where the ancient map led him.

You should have seen the look on his 4-year-old face when the spade hit a wooden box full of guilders, pesetas and francs, with a few seashells and an old hoop earring thrown in for effect.

Coltish legs danced in the wet sand, and he held the box above his blond curls and whooped.

I didn't feel guilty, then. I was enjoying myself too much.

It wasn't until later, when he questioned me about the authenticity of the map — "But why did a pirate leave a map in your attic, Aunt Rheta?" — that I began to wonder if the pirate treasure ruse was a good idea.

I'm not the first adult to suffer pangs after perpetuating fanciful fraud on an innocent child. All of us old-timers struggle with the ethics of mythical Easter Bunnies, Tooth Fairies and painless dentistry.

And the tired Santa Claus debate has raged for decades.

Con: Are we really doing children a favor by encouraging them to count on a bearded, all-knowing saint bearing gifts and traveling in a sleigh pulled by flying reindeer? What happens to our credibility when they spy the elastic on the beard?

Pro: Lighten up, for heaven's sake, he'll only have one childhood. Haven't you ever read "Yes, Virginia . . .?"

Maybe Santa gets special dispensation because most adults really do believe in him, too.

But perhaps I was taking things too far by extending the booty of childhood to include pirate's gold. Maybe I should have stopped my lie at a whiter shade, like stuffing a note in a bottle or strewing starfish from the souvenir store in his path.

What about the next time he asks if Ewoks are real, and I answer, "Oh, no, they're just make-believe creatures in a make-believe movie."

Won't I have to add, "They're not real like that box of pirate's treasure you found on a Mississippi beach last fall."

There's a chance the children are putting all of us on, sparing us the embarrassment of failure at our anemic attempts to use dry-roting imaginations again.

"Write it in the newspaper about me finding the treasure." Ben demanded before scampering away to dig in other spots that looked pirate-friendly.

It might have been my guilty conscience, but he seemed to be gauging my reaction. Four-year-olds may be the only people left who believe that if you read it in the newspaper, it must always be the truth. He seemed to be daring me to treat a tourist's foreign currency as pirate's gold in print. To growl a Ben Bradlee-like, "We stand by our story."

This is an election year when television anchors and pundits use (and reuse) the words "character" and "credibility" to cover everything from a governor lying with someone not his wife, to a President lying to Congress.

So here I go, fooling around with those dangerous "C" words, telling a child that a hot grill will burn him and that Pete the Pirate once spent the night in my attic.

The worst part of this moral dilemma is watching him on the beach. The dump truck from Wal-Mart makes few roads or castles. The hermit crabs scuttle undisturbed along the sand. Oyster shells and other natural treasures flop and turn with the tide, unnoticed.

Ben is busy digging up the beach, trying to find more pirate loot, the real kind with Captain Hook's fingerprints, the kind that gets your name in the newspaper.

And what about Aunt Rheta? Well, she's headed at warp speed to the Mardi Gras store to stock up on glass beads and aluminum doubloons.

And that's no lie.

Allergies killing my nose

Those of us about to sneeze, salute you.

Man, I'll be glad when winter gets here and kills everything. My allergies are about to put me in the grave.

Wednesday, I got an extortion notice from my sinuses. They said unless they're cleared up by the 15th, they're going to explode.

I've never before received a threatening message from a body part. It can be quite disturbing. I can't think of anything to do it, either.

So if I happen to be talking to you on, say, Thursday, and my face explodes, please try not to make a scene. I'll be carrying a clean hanky for whomever might be in the way.

Actually, forget the fossil evidence from all across the world, the best evidence in the universe to support the notion that man evolved and was not created in an instant, has to be allergies.

If one studies the physiological origins of allergies, it becomes quite obvious that it's a mistake. There is a mistake in the design of the human immune system. I can't picture God making such a howling error — it had to have just happened.

There is no pathological force at work in allergies. The body simply reacts to something that hasn't any business causing a major problem. An innocuous little piece of pollen is of no danger to the human body in any way.

But there is a type of antibody — "IgE" it is called — which is the immunological equivalent of "chicken little" . . . There's a foreign protein here! There's a foreign protein here! Hide the children! Shoot! Shoot!

And IgE runs through your blood stream, bursting these big bags of caustic materials (including histamine), which are neatly situated in your nose, lungs, eyes, sinuses, etc. This, of course, swells and irritates the tissues causing the running, hacking, crying, wheezing, disgusting symptoms that we allergy sufferers all know and love.

Although some pollens and spores effect me, dust is my bete noir, my black beast.

Have you ever seen an electron photomicrograph of a dust mite? They're horrid little arachnid creatures.

I can just picture them. Evil little things crawling around the sinuses, finally dying. The decaying parts of their anatomy causing the little IgE's to run amuck causing untold congestion, stuffiness and sneezing.

I'm givin' it until noon. Then I'm having my nose surgically removed.

I'll be glad when winter gets here and kills everything.

Cone too cold for Athletics

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Now everyone knows why the Toronto Blue Jays wanted David Cone so much this season, and why everybody else will want him even more next year.

Cone, acquired cheaply from the New York Mets in late August, paid off in a big way Thursday night. He shut down Oakland for eight innings, and pitched the Blue Jays to a 3-1 victory that evened the AL playoffs at one game each.

Kelly Gruber's two-run homer off Mike Moore in the fifth inning broke open a scoreless game. It also provided the latest bang in a series of bruising blows — all but three of the 11 runs so far have scored on homers.

The series now shifts to Oakland, where Juan Guzman will start for Toronto against another ex-Met, Ron Darling, on Saturday afternoon.

Rickey Henderson, Carney Lansford and Ruben Sierra, the top three batters in Oakland's lineup, were a combined 0 for 10 until Sierra tripled to start the ninth. The same three hitters also went 0 for 10 on Wednesday night against Jack Morris.

Sierra's triple finished Cone, who appeared upset at being relieved. Harold Baines, who won the opener with a ninth-inning homer, singled off reliever Tom Henke. Mark McGwire, another home run hero in Game 1, followed with a long fly ball that curved foul in left and silenced the crowd for just a minute. Henke got the last two batters for the save, and Cone led the Blue Jays' rush onto the field to congratulate him.

Gruber's home run broke his postseason slump that had produced only one extra base hit in 43 at-bats, and also provided a bit of revenge on Rickey. Gruber was the most upset of the Blue Jays after Henderson showed off by stealing four bases in Game 2 of the 1989 playoffs, and vowed he would get even some day. Henderson seemed to remember that remark, too, and made a snatch catch on Gruber's routine fly ball to end the second. In the fifth, after Candy Maldonado walked with one out, Gruber followed with a line drive directly over Henderson's head in left field and immediately celebrated.

Cone was not perfect. The A's exploited his inability to hold on runners by stealing six bases, tying the AL playoff record Oakland set in 1989 against Toronto. But the A's also ran themselves out of a scoring chance in the eighth when Walt Weiss was thrown out when he tagged up and tried to reach third on Henderson's fly ball to left.

And, in the fifth with the score 0-0, Cone and the Blue Jays benefited from a rules interpretation. Willie Wilson reached on a force play, stole second and Mike Bordick walked.

Big Spring Lady Steers junior spiker Tee Marion hits a spike against Monahans Tuesday night. The Lady Steers are tied for first place in District 3-4A with a 5-1 record. They play Fort Stockton Saturday in Fort Stockton at 3 p.m.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Big Spring (2-2-1, 0-0-1) at Andrews (5-0, 1-0)

Just like Big Spring-Monahans, expect the Big Spring-Andrews game to be a hard-hitting affair. It's no secret there's no love loss between these two teams.

Although they rank low in the district in team defense, Big Spring is pretty tough against the run — and that's what the Mustangs do — run. This is a must win for the Steers. The defense will hold up, the turnover bug won't affect the Steers near as much and Mike Oliva's foot will again be a weapon.

BIG SPRING 17, ANDREWS 14

Colorado City (3-2) at Sonora (3-1)

The Wolves looked very good in their new spread offense last week. But that was against the Muleshoe Mules, who are a far cry from the traditionally tough Sonora Broncos.

Colorado City will put up a game fight, but the Broncos have too much depth and the home field advantage.

SONORA 24, COLORADO CITY 12

Greenwood (2-3) at Crane (0-4)

This one is hard to pick. The Crane Golden Cranes are definitely better than their record shows. They have a tough non-district schedule to thank for that.

The Greenwood Rangers are also better than their record indicates, but they need to eliminate turnovers. Go with the Cranes because of the home field advantage.

CRANE 20, GREENWOOD 14

Coahoma (3-2, 0-1) at Wall (4-1, 2-0)

The Coahoma Bulldogs have faced this problem the past three years: they go against playoff contenders their first two district games and lose.

Unfortunately for the Bulldogs, the Wall Hawks are probably the best team in District 6-2A. This is a game of survival for the 'Dogs and they'll play much better than last week. But Wall has too many weapons.

WALL 28, COAHOMA 21

Ozona (1-4, 1-1) at Stanton (3-2, 1-1)

Another big game in District #2A. Both teams need this one to stay in the district hunt. The Ozona Lions' record is deceiving because of a tough non-district slate and a narrow loss to Wall last week.

Stanton's Buffalos are the darkhorse of the district. Go with the 'Battlin' Buffs because they'll eliminate the turnovers and Ricky Lucas will wear the Lions defense down.

STANTON 20, OZONA 18

Roscoe (5-0) at Forsan (1-3)

The only consolation for the young Forsan Buffalos is they'll get better next year and the Roscoe Plowboys were once a team of freshmen and sophomores.

Now the Plowboys are juniors and seniors and one of the strongest Class A teams around.

ROSCOE 45, FORSAN 7

Dawson (4-1) at Sands (1-4)

If you go by the records, this game will be a rout. After not fielding a team last year, the Dawson Dragons are off to a fantastic start. The Sands Mustangs have played a much tougher non-district schedule however.

The Mustangs will be pumped for this one, they haven't been home in three weeks. And it's not everyday one of your ex-teammates gets married at halftime. Upset Special of the Week.

Division I Steers net first win of season

DIVISION I

Steers 8, Buffaloes 6

The Steers won their first game of the season as Aaron Lattimore scored a touchdown and ran in the two-point conversion.

The Steers are 1-2 and the Buffaloes fall to 0-3.

Lions 12, Oilers 8

The Lions ran their record to 2-1 as Anthony Hernandez and Jason Choate score touchdowns in the win. Playing well defensively in the win were Aaron Armstrong, Chris Valencia and Lezcano Dean.

Ricky Smith scored the touchdown and conversion for the Oilers, 2-2 in league play.

DIVISION II

Packers 18, Bulldogs 14

The Packers remained unbeaten as Brian Vanderbilt scored twice and Aaron Boadle scored a touchdown. Johnathan Paul and Thomas Garza also played well offensively.

Sebastian Gillandean scored a touchdown for the Bulldogs and Jacob Eastham returned an interception for a touchdown.

The Packers go to 4-0 and the Bulldogs fall to 2-1.

Longhorns 22, Buffaloes 12

The Longhorns got two touchdowns from Joe Don Owens and another from Lance Brock to win their first game of the season. Both teams are 1-2.

Blaine Roman and Kyle Newton scored touchdowns for the Buffaloes.

Waters' two TD passes leads JV Steers

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING JV 20
ANDREWS JV 6
 Andrews — Quarterback Dustin Waters ran for a touchdown and threw a touchdown pass as the Steers improved their District 3-4A record to 2-0 Thursday night.
 Waters 15-yard run in the second quarter and Corey Ryan's conversion run put Big Spring up 8-0. In the third stanza Waters threw 10 yards to tight end Justin Taylor making the score 14-0.
 "Defensively... we didn't give them a chance to get anything started," junior varsity coach Ricky Long said. "(Offensively) we made some mistakes that probably kept us from scoring but we moved the ball on them all night."
 Ryan closed out the scoring on a fourth-quarter, one-yard run.
 Brien Burchett intercepted a pass for Big Spring. The Steers are now 4-2 and play at Sweetwater at 7 p.m. Thursday.
COAHOMA JV 6
WALL JV 0
 Kelly Bailey scored on a six-yard run as the Bulldogs bounced back from their only loss of the year to up their record to 5-1 Thursday in Coahoma. Coahoma plays at Stanton next Thursday at 6:30.

 Bailey had 98 yards on 21 carries in the game and Brad Harrison had an interception and a fumble recovery for the Bulldog defense.
 "I can't say enough about the defense," Coahoma coach Kim Nichos said. "They were put in tough positions most of the time and bent but did not break. We had several good drives offensively that just ended in no points."
 Nichols cited Eli Sanders, Jason Arguello, Chris Roberts, Kevin Olson, Brian Fontana and Adam Comer as having good defensive games for the Bulldogs.
ROSCOE 28
FORSAN JV 6
ROSCOE — Shane Sims scored the Forsan Buffaloes' only score in the third quarter Thursday night. Sims scored from one-yard out.
 Forsan, 1-4, will host Robert Lee Thursday at 7:30 p.m.
ANDREWS FRESHMEN 26
BIG SPRING FRESHMEN A

TEAM 8
 Andrews converted three first-quarter fumbles into touchdowns Thursday at Memorial Stadium and hung on to drop the Steers record to 2-3.
 "For three quarters we outthrew them and outplayed them, but it's just that first quarter blues we're having right now," Big Spring coach Gary Simmons said.
 Ray McGee had a 70-yard touchdown run in the second quarter to cut the Mustang advantage to 20-6. The Steers play at Sweetwater Thursday at 6:30.
BIG SPRING FRESHMEN B TEAM 18
ANDREWS FRESHMEN 8
 Quarterback Clint Caudill ran for two touchdowns and defensive tackle Toby Cerda returned a fumble 50 yards for the B team's first win of the year. The Steers are 1-3 after the win at Memorial Stadium Thursday.
 Caudill had a one-yard run in the first half and a two-yard run in the third quarter to put Big Spring up 12-0.
 "They've been playing a lot of JV teams and finally came up against a freshmen team and played real well," Steers coach Gary Simmons said.

ANDREWS 24
RUNNELS A TEAM 12
ANDREWS — A fourth-quarter fake punt sparked Andrews to the game-clinching score Thursday. The Yearlings had fought back from a 16-0 deficit to make the score 16-12 before the Mustangs' last quarter score.
 Mike Simon returned a kickoff 75 yards in the second quarter to cut Andrews lead to 16-6. Quarterback Tyler Murphy capped a length-of-the-field Runnels' drive with a third-quarter quarterback sneak for a 16-12 score.
WALL 7th GRADE 20
COAHOMA 7th GRADE 6
WALL — Anthony Gonzales scored on a two-yard run with two minutes left in the second quarter for the Bulldogs' only points.
COAHOMA 8th GRADE 8
WALL 8th GRADE 0
WALL — With 27 seconds left in the second quarter quarterback Judd Cathey threw 11 yards to Matthew Hamilton for the only score of the game Thursday. Freddy Olivas made the conversion on a run.

 The Coahoma defense kept Wall from scoring on one possession inside the five yard line and two inside the 20.
 The Bulldogs' homecoming is next Thursday against Stanton at 6:30. They are now 3-2.
ANDREWS 14
RUNNELS B TEAM 6
 The Yearlings lost for the first time this year as Andrews erased an early deficit to drop Runnels' record to 4-1.
 Joe Ontiveras had a 50-yard touchdown run in the first quarter for the Yearlings.
 Runnels next game is here against Sweetwater at 5:00 p.m. Thursday.
GOLIAD B 8
ANDREWS 6
 Goliad ran its record to 4-1 by taking advantage of a Andrews fumble on the opening kickoff. Goliad scored after the fumble on a 12-yard run by Ricky Perez. The conversion was a pass from Justin Myers to Stephen Smith.

Goliad will play Thursday in Sweetwater at 5 p.m.
GOLIAD A 16
ANDREWS 0
 The Goliad A team ran its mark to 6-0 by whitewashing Andrews at Blankenship Field.
 Goliad A scored in the first quarter on a 26-yard pass from Gabriel Mendoza to Brock Gee. Also in the first quarter the Mavericks scored when Charlie Rodriguez and Frankie Loya tackled an Andrews runner for a safety.
 Goliad's last TD came in the third period, a nine-yard run by Antonio Edwards. Mendoza passed to Gee for the conversion.
 Goliad A will play in Sweetwater Thursday at 6:30 p.m.
ROSCOE 22
FORSAN JUNIOR HIGH 6
ROSCOE — Forsan scored the first points of the game but Roscoe came back with 22 unanswered points for the win.
 Forsan scored in the first quarter on an eight-yard pass from Robert Hiller to Guy Massingill. Forsan, 1-1-1, will play Robert Lee Thursday in Forsan at 6 p.m.

Colorado struggles past Missouri

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Kordell Stewart thought Colorado should have scored 50 points. He'll take the blame for being 44 short.
 "If I'd been yanked it would have been no problem," Stewart said after the ninth-ranked Buffaloes struggled to beat Missouri 6-0 Thursday night. "I'm the quarterback and I have to get this team into the end zone."

 Stewart completed 24 of 45 passes for 335 yards for Colorado (5-0), but got intercepted twice and couldn't produce a touchdown against a team that lost for the ninth time in 10 games. Colorado entered averaging 36 points, but committed four turnovers and ended up with only two field goals from Pat Blottiaux.

 "That's kind of sad on my part," Stewart said.

There are extenuating circumstances. The game, the first ever under the lights at Missouri, was played in a steady rain, gusting winds and 46-degree temperature at game time.
 Also, Stewart, a sophomore, has been bothered by a sprained foot and was replaced by freshman Koy Detmer in the previous two games.
 This was the first time he'd gone the distance, although Coach Bill McCartney said Stewart was not close to 100 percent. Stewart often threw off his back foot to compensate for his injury and ran the ball less.
 "He's a lot more mobile than that," McCartney said.
 Stewart agreed, in more colorful terms.
 "I can do whatever I want, it's just when I make the serious hard cuts it was hurting," Stewart said. "You can't just cut off your right foot, because you'll only have one wheel."

Congress plans to offer alternative fuel incentives

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — In case preserving the environment isn't incentive enough for drivers to buy a car that runs on alternative fuel, Congress is dangling something a little more tried and true: tax breaks as high as $4,000.

Tax incentives for the purchase of vehicles that run on electricity, methanol and other alternatives to gasoline were part of a comprehensive energy bill passed by the Senate on Thursday and sent to President Bush.

The legislation, which the president is expected to sign, also would require that government and private fleet operators begin turning to alternative fuel vehicles.

Michael Baly III, president of the American Gas Association, said his group was pleased with the tax-incentive approach.

"We don't want these non-gasoline vehicles to be forced down the throats of the American people," Baly said. "As has been shown in Canada and other countries, some kind of modest tax benefit does work."

The tax incentives depend on the type of alternative fuel.

For example, buyers of so-called dedicated fuel cars, such as those that run only on natural gas, get a $2,000 deduction on their income taxes. The amount is higher for vehicles heavier than 10,000 pounds, which would be trucks.

But buyers of so-called flexible fuel vehicles, such as those that can run on a combination of methanol and gasoline, get a deduction equal to the difference between the sticker prices of the gasoline- and alternative fuel-powered models, up to $2,000.

Instead of a deduction, electric car buyers get a 10 percent tax credit, or $4,000, whichever is less. That means those buyers can subtract up to $4,000 directly from their tax obligations. A tax deduction, on the other hand, allows a taxpayer to subtract only a percentage of the amount off their taxes.

Chrysler spokesman Jason Vines said the automaker won't charge buyers of Chrysler's flexible fuel vehicles the extra amount the vehicles will cost to make. Under that scenario, the customer won't get the tax break. Chrysler reasons that if it charged customers $400 extra so they could claim the tax deduction, they would pay the $400 more but likely get less than a $100 tax break.

"We are fuel neutral," Vines said. "We're developing many vehicles that run on various fuels. We want to let the consumer decide which fuel they like best."

Environmentalists worry that drivers of the flexible fuel vehicles will take the tax break but never use the alternative fuel since the vehicles can run on pure gasoline.

But Vines said those cars make the most sense to drivers because they don't have to worry about running out of fuel if they find themselves in an area that doesn't sell methanol, for example.

The bill includes a $100,000 tax deduction for creating a refueling station for alternative fuel vehicles.

The legislation also requires that federal government fleet operators, as part of their regular purchases, buy 5,000 alternative fuel vehicles by next year, with the amount increasing to 75 percent of their yearly vehicle purchases by 1999 and thereafter. For state fleets, the requirement is 10 percent of the purchases in 1995, increasing to 75 percent in 2000.

What is at issue on Saturday's bond election

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

The two issues on Saturday's ballot:

- $1.4 million in bonds to control flooding along Beal's Creek up to magnitudes that occur an average of once every 10 years.
- Directly affected areas are from Fourth Street on the south to First Street on the north and from Valley Street on the west to Goliad Street on the east. It would not affect the water level or wildlife habitat of One-Mile Lake.

With $3.2 million in federal help to add a drainage channel and widen Beal's Creek, the work is expected to be completed by 1995.

Opponents point out that it will not prevent larger floods, homes and businesses it is to protect are valued at less than $800,000 and say it may not be money well spent. If passed it would require a property tax increase of 5 cents per $100 of taxable valuation to pay off the debt in 17 or 18 years: Each cent amounts to $1 in taxes per $10,000 valuation. The 1992-93 city tax rate is 66.09 cents.

Proponents say the bonds would be less expensive than flood damages and that home and business values were probably deflated due to past flooding, it would benefit economic development, eliminate an eyesore, help alleviate bug and varmint breeding and the influx of matching federal money would boost the economy."

• $1.1 million for paving of 2 to 4 percent of city streets next year. There is no apparent public opposition.

It would not include many unpaved streets on the Westside because those streets — from Fourth to 11th and Abrams to Sunset — are scheduled to be paved this year under a separate project. Unpaved streets in Jones Valley north of Fourth Street are not to be paved because they are in a 100-year flood zone. Such a flood would ruin them.

If passed it would require a property tax increase of 4 cents per $100 of valuation to pay of a 17 or 18-year debt. Voters authorized the street bond issue 12 years ago but it was never used and therefore is up for reauthorization.

Name change wanted to help erase stigma

By GARY SHANKS Staff Writer

The San Antonio Alliance of the Mentally Ill, part of the Texas and National Alliance for the Mentally Ill, is pushing for a name change, as the term 'state hospital' connotes an image of an institution that does not exist anymore.

"The general public's perception of mental illness and state hospitals has not kept pace with the clinical advances in the treatment of mental illness, and the state hospitals that treat people with mental illness," said Alliance President Jim Gerhard.

"The 'asylum' no longer exists, and in reality, neither do the state hospitals of 10 or 20 years ago," Gerhard said to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the San Antonio State Hospital during Mental Illness Awareness Week (Oct. 4-10).

To illustrate his point, Gerhard said the San Antonio State Hospital opened as the Southwest Lunatic Asylum in 1892. In 1925, the name was changed to state hospital.

Mental Illness Awareness Week, passed by both houses of the U.S. Congress and signed into law by President Bush, has a major goal of removing the stigma associated with mental illness.

These eight primary institutions are in Big Spring, Austin, Kerrville, Rusk, San Antonio, Terrell County, Vernon and Wichita Falls.

Gerhard points out that the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, which the state hospitals are a major part, changed its official title, dropping the words "Department of" to appear less institutional. It is now Texas Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Church will meet needs of members

Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet and show my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins.
The Holy Bible
Isaiah 58:1

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

In only two weeks, a group of local Christians made an empty building their church.

On the heels of another congregation's disbanding, Temple of Praise was born.

Local residents Bill Meadors and John Dever recently began the church, at the intersection of 14th and Goliad streets. They describe it as a place that will meet the needs — whatever they might be — of its congregation.

"We're here to lift up the Lord and not criticize people," Dever said, adding that churchgoers will not be expected to be perfect.

"God invested a lot of time in my training," Dever said. "I don't expect people to be anything I'm not."

"We're not the walking revelation of God, or we'd be in Heaven."

They say chapter 38 of the book of Isaiah in the Bible, describes well what the new church will be. It will include healings, miracles and speaking in tongues as part of its services.

Meadors said those are aspects of worship that, although they appear in the New Testament, are no longer common in many church services.

The church plans Thursday night services, beginning at 7 p.m. Sunday gatherings will begin at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

No Sunday School classes are planned yet, but nursery services will be available.

"Right now, our congregation is very small, so it could go in any direction," said Meadors. "We're ready to take whatever God brings to us."

church in Midland, Victory Family Church, that Dever says will serve to help keep it on the right track.

For the present time, Dever will serve as pastor while Meadors assists as adviser and counselor. It is Dever's first pastorate. Meadors has served eight churches as pastor and was visiting minister to many others, as well as working as a missionary in Mexico.

"We may wind up making our own denomination," Meadors said. "Right now we don't fit into any established denominations."

Their building is neither new nor ornate, but it is sturdy and attractive. At present, decorations are sparse, but they plan some simple touches.

Meadors and Dever are focusing not on the building, but on the opportunity to get a church going and begin spreading their message.

With services on Thursday nights, the two said people could attend another church Wednesdays and go to Temple the following night.

Dever also recently bought a business, Water Warehouse Equipment, that is expected to help support the church.

"Whatever funds come off of it, belong to God," he said.

Meadors said the church will welcome local people — whoever they be — with open arms.

"We welcome all races," he said. But added that the church probably won't be everything to everyone.

"This town needs every church it has," Meadors said. "With all of us working together, we can make Big Spring a joyous place to live."

The first after-game fellowship took place at the YMCA Sept. 18. A similar event is planned tonight at FBC's Family Life Center.

"One goal of a city-wide aftergame activity is to promote unity among teenagers from all Christian denominations," said Bill Banks, Associational Youth Minister for the Big Spring Baptist Association.

Ann Castaneda, officer in the FCA/Bible Club added, "This is the first year that FCA and the Bible Club has joined together. I really like that because it allows all Christian teenagers, athlete or not, to come together."

PORTLAND, Ore. — Episcopal bishops of Oregon denounced a ballot proposal that calls homosexuality "wrong, unnatural and perverse" and would overturn laws in several localities barring discrimination against homosexuals.

Bishops Robert Ladehoff and Rustin Kimsey issued a pastoral letter saying the proposal, known as "Measure 9," would create "an environment of suspicion and fear." The issue is on the statewide ballot Nov. 3.

The letter urged Episcopalians to consider the matter in light of their baptismal commitment to "strive for justice and peace among all people and respect the dignity of every human being."

Bible, gospel music companies will merge

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — If there was any doubt that big religion is big business, it should have been erased when the world's largest Bible publisher bought the world's largest gospel music company.

Thomas Nelson Inc., which makes Bibles, doubled its size last month when it bought Dallas-based Word, Inc., whose list of artists includes some of gospel's biggest names — Amy Grant, Sandi Patti and Denice Williams.

The $72 million deal with Capital Cities-ABC, owner of Word, Inc., is awaiting approval from the U.S. Justice Department. If approved, the changes will be mostly corporate in nature: Thomas Nelson will still make Bibles and Word will still produce music.

"It's a sizeable acquisition for them and one that really launches them into the big time," said Michael Kupinski, analyst for A.G. Edwards in St. Louis.

Thomas Nelson and Word represent two of the "Big Three" of religious publishers. The other is Zondervan, based in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Nashville-based Thomas Nelson sold $93.2 million worth of goods last year. Word generated $100 million in revenues in the $2.1 billion religious publishing industry.

In addition to singers, Word's publishing arm includes books by authors including Billy Graham and Chuck Colson.

Thomas Nelson's Bible sales have been growing faster than the industry's 3-5 percent annual rate, but that's not enough to keep an aggressive company happy, Kupinski said.

In 1988, Bible sales represented 71 percent of Thomas Nelson's revenues. Inspirational books accounted for the rest.

The new company's revenues are expected to be 25 percent from Bibles, 35 percent books, 35 percent music and 5 percent gifts, he said.

"If you've already got the sales force in place, have the distribution network in place, then what you need is product to go into the market place. That's what we did in the '80s, we diversified our products," said Joe Powers, Thomas Nelson's vice president and chief financial officer.

"Our product lines are more compatible with one another. Their strengths happen to be our weaknesses, and vice versa."

Cubans can reclaim the church

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAVANA — With religion now sanctioned by the state, Cubans are returning to the church in numbers unseen since the 1959 revolution.

Long-suffering priests and ministers are witnessing the phenomenon with delight, welcoming back prodigal sons and daughters and baptizing new believers by the thousands nationwide.

The religious resurgence holds profound implications for Cuba, expanding the influence of church leaders over the island's 10.8 million inhabitants even as Fidel Castro's Communist regime struggles to survive without Soviet economic and political sponsorship.

New adherents are flocking to a variety of faiths and denominations, from Roman Catholicism to Protestant evangelism to Santeria, the slave-rooted folk creed that blends Catholic and African tribal beliefs.

A dramatic example was supplied by recent, heavily attended masses and processions commemorating the country's Catholic patroness, a likeness of the Virgin Mary known as Our Lady of Charity.

"Yes, I believe!" thousands of Cubans shouted in chorus, over and over, during a homily by the country's archbishop, Jaime Ortega, in a packed and sweltering Old Havana cathedral.

Bystanders called it the biggest turnout since before Castro took power 33 years ago, launching a fierce campaign of religious suppression.

Ortega proudly announced that 35,000 Catholics were baptized last year in Cuba, compared to 17,000 a decade ago. He said they include teen-agers and young married couples who shied away from the church for many years.

While studiously avoiding any direct reference to politics, Ortega defended religion against the Marxist critique.

"Religion is not a myth. It is not something primitive," he declared in his homily.

A strained and wary relationship persists between Castro's regime and most religious leaders, especially those of the traditional "Roman" Catholic church. Castro and Ortega are considered bitter enemies. The state closely monitors and circumscribes church activities.

But a partial thaw is evident. The government has warned to some Protestant ministers, and Castro himself has admitted that trying to create an atheist Cuba may have been a mistake. In July, his National Assembly ended official discrimination against worshippers.

Now party members speak of church-state collaboration. Speaking privately, a party official in central Cienfuegos province said religious groups were helping in state-backed social programs at a community level. Some local and international church organizations are shipping in medicine and other aid, helping solve severe shortages spawned by the loss of Soviet bloc trade and aid.

The new official attitude is reflected throughout society. Bible sales are booming, and state-run tourist stores sell devotional postcards. Once-taboo allusions to religion abound in local art and music.

"There are those who say their belief has ceased, but they slip out before dawn to meet a priest," sings a Cuban musician, Adalberto Ysuson, in a popular new song.

Painting returns
"The Destruction of the Mission of San Saba," which depicts the 1758 massacre of the mission's 400 residents by Comanches and allied tribes, hangs in the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston recently. The painting was seized by customs agents in a custody dispute, and will be removed from the museum and returned to Mexico, where it is considered a national treasure.

Angels: Many say they believe

Marilynn Webber's first encounter with an angel came as a young girl growing up in Chicago. She was afraid to be in her room alone at night until her mother got her a statue of an angel — her guardian angel, she was told.

But it was an experience as a teen-ager that convinced Webber of the reality of angels. One day when she found herself frozen onto railroad tracks with a train coming toward her, she was pushed off the tracks just in time to avoid disaster, Webber said.

"When I got up off the tracks, no one was there," she said. "I really felt God had saved my life through an angel."

Webber now runs Marilynn's Angels, a Riverside, Calif., mail-order company that sells angel collectibles, and herself has over 2,000 angels. She is not alone in her experience or belief.

In a 1990 Gallup Poll, 13 percent of respondents said they have had what they regard as an encounter with an angel or devil, or some other kind of supernatural experience. Half of Americans, and three-quarters of teen-agers, say they believe in angels.

The beliefs of many, and the teachings of many religious groups, in the existence of angels are largely based on the prevalence of angels in the Bible.

The Bible is filled with hundreds of references to angels, in roles ranging from heavenly avengers to messengers of God's word as in the famous passage in the Gospel of Luke when an angel announces to Mary that she will be the mother of Jesus.

"Open the pages of Scripture and it's a rustle of angels," says Webber.

The best-known passage relating to guardian angels for children is Matthew 18:10, when Jesus tells his disciples: "Take care that you do not despise one of these little ones; for, I tell you, in heaven their angels continually see the face of my father in heaven."

But there are other frequent references to angels in guardian roles.

In the 22nd chapter of Genesis, an angel stops Abraham from slaying Isaac. In the 12th chapter of Acts, an angel releases Peter from prison.

At certain times, when God's divinity was emphasized to the point the divine appeared too transcendent, too august for personal ties, angels have served as less daunting intermediaries, said Carol Newsom, associate professor of Old Testament at Candler School of Theology at Emory University.

"There is something more accessible about the notion of an angel," she said.

For many religious individuals facing hard times today, angels continue to provide a source of comfort.

Green-eyed monster is all he seems to be

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a man I have gone with for a year and a half. He is 56 and I am 48. I was married (no children) and so was he. He has three grown children (and six grandchildren) whom I have never met because he had a falling out with his family and doesn't see any of them.

Abby, I am having problems with his jealous nature and some of his beliefs. For example: Women should not wear shorts, two-piece bathing suits or tight-fitting dresses. He hates to see a woman in pants or jeans. He thinks a woman should dance only with her fiancé or husband. He says all men have dirty minds and all women (except me) are "bitches" and cannot be trusted. He says a married woman should never have a repairman in the house unless her

DEAR ABBY: I just read your booklet "What Every Teen Should Know." I learned a lot, but there is temper. He got angry once and put his fist through a wall.

I suppose he sounds like a monster, but at times he can be very sweet and loving. Please help me sort out my feelings. He is begging me to marry him. -- SERIOUS PROBLEM

DEAR SERIOUS: It's time to face the facts that are abundantly clear. This man has all the qualities that make for a miserable marriage. He wants to control you totally. Worse yet, he is pathologically jealous, suspicious and possessive. Unless you want to live like a prisoner the rest of your life, say goodbye to this evil man. And the sooner, the better!

still a question in my mind about something.

I am 17 and my boyfriend is 19. (I will call him Bob, which is not his real name.) We have been going steady for two years. When we met, I was a virgin but Bob was not. I have never had sex with anybody but Bob, so obviously I do not have any sexually transmitted diseases.

Bob went to a clinic two months ago to be tested for everything -- including AIDS. He came up negative for everything, Abby, since Bob does not have any diseases and neither do I, and we do not cheat on each other, do you think we have to use condoms? -- ANONYMOUS IN VERMONT

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I recommend using a condom every time you have sex -- whether you think you need it or not.

FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1992

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be more upbeat and let your personality flow. Question alternatives in a relationship. Partners are more upbeat and positive than usual. Your lighter, more optimistic side comes out. Enjoy what a situation offers you. Tonight: Be personality-plus.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take some time off for yourself. You need to recharge your batteries. Lighten up about a potential problem, and make the necessary resolutions. Open up to new possibilities. Prepare for a positive change. Tonight: Do something just for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You notice a change for the better in a loved one's attitude. Go for everything you want, especially in the interpersonal realm. Others demonstrate their interest and caring. Be your high-heeled, playful self. Tonight: Focus on romance.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Discuss an idea that you have been entertaining for awhile. Question alternatives. Now is a wonderful time to look at a domestic change. Be more willing to take a risk. Expect the positive. Tonight: Out on the town.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Look past the obvious and be more sensitive to others' views. Put yourself in another's shoes. Your sensitivity renews communications and allows alternatives to blend. Tonight: Go with an unusual suggestion.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You feel lucky, and you are. Your financial success puts you in a more positive frame of mind. Nevertheless, risk-taking is a serious matter -- make sure your decisions are sound. Tonight: Put more spunk into the moment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You feel different and sense that you are entering a new period. Actually, you are initiating a new year cycle, where Lady Luck is with you. Be careful, however, about going to extremes. Be more forthright about what you want. Tonight: Out with your favorite friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Watch a tendency to go to extremes and exhaust yourself. Spend a leisurely day enjoying favorite people and pastimes. Tonight: Continue being good to yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Put your best foot forward in a personal matter. Be generous with others and give them the space to make an important decision. Emphasis is on happiness through greater awareness. Accept an invitation that puts you into new circles. Tonight: Out and about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make time to organize your home and personal life, because soon you will be busy with outside matters. Prepare for a unique professional opportunity. Spend a happy day at home with loved ones. Tonight: Entertain at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Reach for the stars and become involved with dynamic and exciting people, possibilities and thinking. You discover that a foreigner will play a significant role in the coming year. Be more tolerant of differences. Tonight: Try the unique.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You get strong support from another. Explore your options. Don't kid yourself about the flourishes; realize the importance of the basics. Tonight: Play explorer.

IF OCT. 10 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: This is an unusually lucky year, somewhat similar to the same period 11 years ago. Be careful with your weight, going to extremes and overindulging. Your major focus is on people -- both professional and personal -- you will certainly have your options. Consider your dreams and explore how to make them come true. ARIES is on your team.

THE ASTERISKS (*) SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-SO-so; 1-Difficult.

THE HOME FRONT
 By Kay Moore
 Kitchen windows don't really need curtains. Many people prefer hanging plants in a sunny spot, or a wreath of herbs.
 Even beginners can usually install sheet vinyl flooring in a small bath or kitchen in a bathroom, where flooding may occur, it's wisest to anchor the floor with adhesive beneath the entire surface. In other rooms, it can be "loose laid" or fastened around the perimeter only.
 Create a guest room anywhere. One apartment dweller tucks Polynesian cotton throws into banquettes that double as beds. When company comes, roll down blinds hung from the ceiling provide privacy.
 Electric lawn mowers should be used only with appropriate extension cords heavy duty and suitable for outdoor use if the machine has a three prong ground ed plug, the extension should, too.
 Call waiting, providing the equivalent of two incoming phone lines, is commonplace. But, the equivalent of three lines coming through one phone, each with its own number and its own ring, at lower cost than extra lines, is already available in game areas.
