American Heart Walk is set for Saturday

The American Heart Association is sponsoring American Heart Walk, a new national and annual walking event, Saturday at Scenic Mountain State Park. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. at park headquarters on the top of the hill.

The event will raise money to be used in the fight against heart disease, the nation's number one killer.

Participants will collect donations from co-workers, family and friends which will be turned in at the event. Prizes will be awarded based on collections. Prizes include t-shirts, water bottles, watches, beverage coolers, locker bags and much more.

For more information call Marcia Merrell at 263-2039.

Red Ribbon campaign

Texas's War on Drugs Red Ribbon Campaign is Oct. 24-Nov. 1. The red ribbon symbolizes a commitment in fighting to reduce both the demand and supply of illegal drugs and the unlawful use of alcohol.

People are urged to wear a red ribbon during the week to show their support for the fight against drugs.

Literacy workshop set

A Literacy workshop will be Oct. 28 at 6:30 p.m. at the Howard County Library. People interested in tutoring for Howard County Learn to Read are asked to attend.

For more information call Rose von Hassell at 264-2260.

Boosters go to Odessa

Steer Band supporters will travel to Odessa for marching contest Saturday at Rateliff Stadium. The contest begins at 10 a.m. and the Steer Band is scheduled to march at 5:30 p.m.

The show includes "Montera," "Yesterday," "Sombbrero" and will close with "Turn, Turn, Turn."

The public is invited and there is an admission fee of $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Other 4A bands entered are Monahans, Andrews, Pecos and Fort Stockton.

Spill diverts Highway 87 traffic

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Traffic was blocked for about half an hour earlier today on North U.S. Highway 87 due to a slippery spill.

Big Spring police blocked and diverted traffic while Texas Department of Transportation personnel spread absorbent sand on the substance.

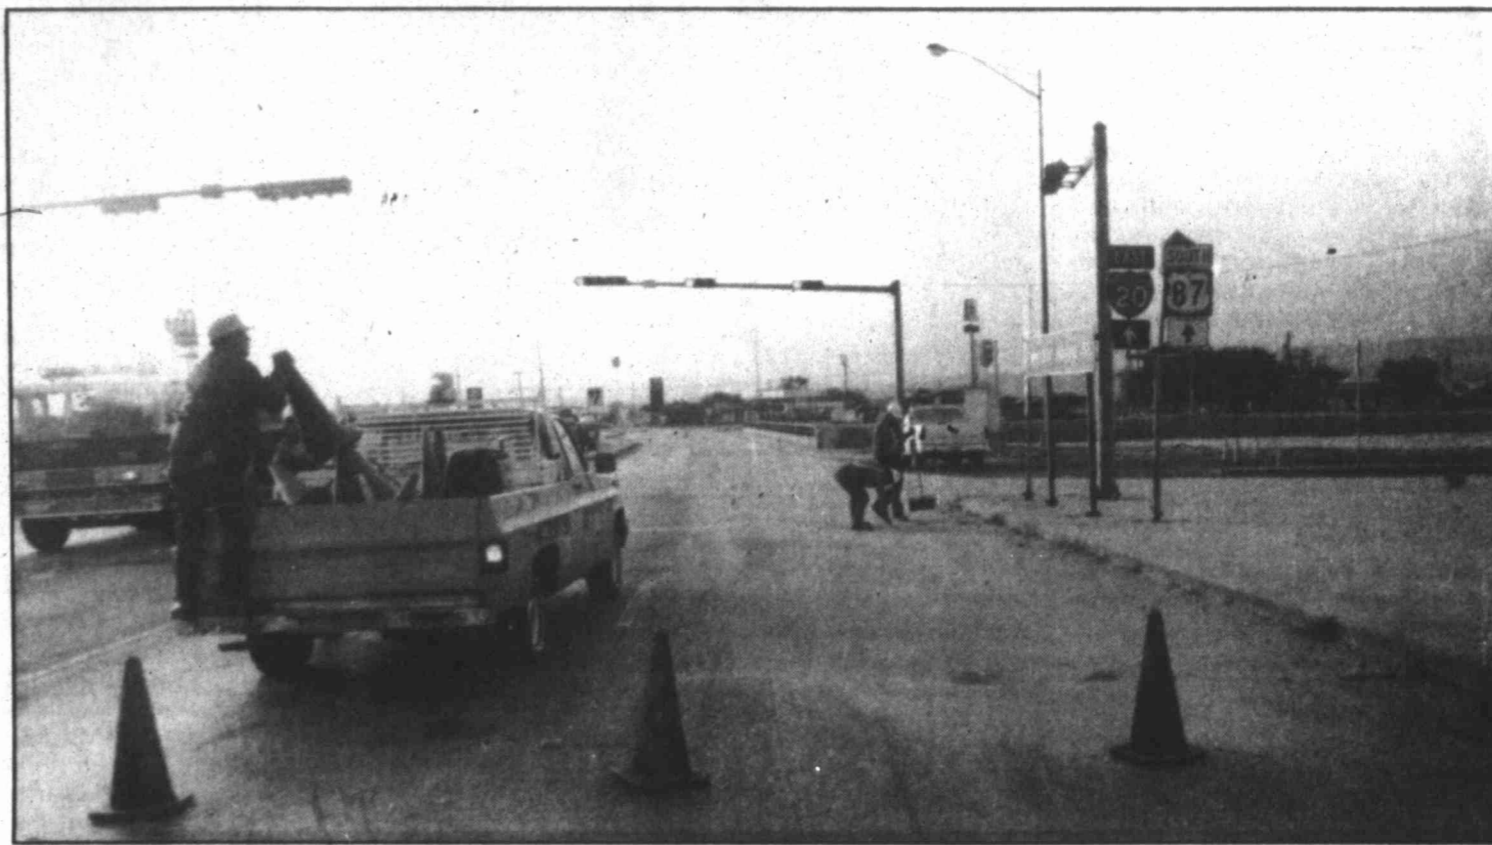

"It's oil based . . . of some kind," a road crewman said of the unknown mixture. A leaking truck trailer is thought to be the culprit, according to police at the scene.

Although the spill began at the overpass of U.S. 87 at Interstate 20, near Rip Griffin's Truck Stop, the trail indicates the truck was passing south on U.S. 87 with the leak, which left a large puddle as the truck waited for the light to change, crews at the scene theorized.

This pattern of puddles was repeated all along the right, southbound lane Gregg Street as the vehicle passed through the city. "He's going to be awfully mad when he gets to where he's going," a crewman joked about the unknown truck driver.

As the substance was being absorbed by the sand, police reopened the left, southbound lane within 30 minutes.

The exit ramp to the north access road of the interstate, however, remained blocked as the spill had been tracked across the merging area by

Texas Department of Transportation U.S. Highway 87 to spread absorbent sand on a substance leaking out of a truck passing through the area this morning. The spill started at Rip Griffin's and continued along Gregg Street. One lane of traffic was unblocked after about 30 minutes.

passing cars.

Police responded to the scene at about 8 a.m. when people, who's vehicles had spun in the slick, called in. No collisions were reported.

Another unidentified spill was found at the corner of Lancaster and Third Street. This was thought to be unrelated, however.

State needs to spend less elsewhere, more on education

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Passing a state income tax would not decrease spending and only affirm to legislators that we approve of what they are doing in education, said State Board of Education member Monte Hasie.

Hasie spoke Wednesday to the Big Spring Rotary Club concerning education issues facing Texans in the upcoming special session in November called by the governor.

"Our state needs to quit spending so much on other things," he said. "What it looks like is legislators will try to pass a constitutional amendment to support our current education funding system."

The state developed County Education Districts (CEDs) two years ago, comprised of area schools to collect property taxes to be redistributed within the CED to help fund schools.

Other than school finance, Hasie addressed issues including school district consolidation, extended school years, career ladder for teachers, term limitations for legislators, pupil to teacher ratios, textbook selection and site-based management.

Regarding site-based decision making, he said, "Centralizing education is not working and in House Bill 72 (current mandates for education), there was big government," he said. "The closer you are to where the education process is taking place, the more likely you are to fulfill the needs of your students."

Hasie said he, along with State Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno, supports rigorous reforms in education to change the way Texans view the process.

"Before, educators had to worry about following the program," he said. "The negotiable is the program. The non-negotiable is helping students achieve."

Outlining the problems with House Bill 72, passed in 1984, Hasie said the commissioner will push to:

- Eliminate career ladders, the system for distributing bonuses, because it promotes competition.
 - Eliminate the 1:22 teacher-student ratio because it imposes unnecessary spending on districts for additional students.
 - Protect the Permanent School Fund to ensure minimum required funding for education as well as textbook funding.
 - Prohibit state mandates requiring local funding.
- Hasie outlined changes in the Texas budget during the last two decades. In 1972, the state budget totaled $7.9 billion. Eighteen years later, it totaled $46.9 billion. Two years later in 1992, the budget increased to $62 billion.
- "It happens that we can't afford all that we need," he said. "State income tax is not an answer to our problem . . . About $30 billion is what the state budget should be."

Check out fire detectors when setting clocks back

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Smoke detectors save lives but only if they are maintained so they work, fire officials say.

To help people remember to change batteries in detectors, Big Spring Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles recommends batteries be changed when clocks are set forward an hour in spring and moved back an hour in the fall. The used batteries can be further used in non-emergency appliances.

Clocks are to be moved back an hour Sunday morning.

"What we've been urging the last few years is changing your batteries twice a year," Settles said.

Detectors flash a light or sound a chirp when batteries are low, Settles said. But, he added, "If you don't change it when you first hear it, you forget."

Smoke detectors are so important in saving lives that the National Fire Protection Association's theme for Fire Prevention

Week earlier this month was, "Test Your Detector — It's Sound Advice."

The chance of dying in a fire is reduced by 40 percent for those who have smoke detectors, the association reports. However, an estimated one-third of all home smoke detectors are not working, usually because of dead or missing batteries.

Six out of every seven households now have at least one smoke detector compared to five out of 100 less than two decades ago. But a majority of household with detectors do not have all the detectors they need for minimum protection.

Also, the association reports, most fatal home fires occur between midnight and 4 a.m. when most people are sleeping, even though that is when fires are least likely to occur.

Recommendations:

- Test detectors once a week and replace batteries at least once

AUSTIN — If Democratic candidate Lena Guerrero wins election to the Texas Railroad Commission, she should step down, Gov. Ann Richards top ethics adviser says.

Barbara Jordan, a former congresswoman, said Guerrero has failed to adhere to ethical standards that public officials should maintain "and that is a very sad situation."

Guerrero resigned from the commission after it was revealed that for 12 years she claimed to have a college degree when she never received.

But she has stayed in the race against Republican Barry Williamson, asking voters to forgive her. Guerrero was appointed to the post last year by the Democratic governor. Richards also named Jordan her special ethics adviser.

The governor, in comments during an appearance Tuesday night in Corpus Christi, said the voters will make their feelings known.

"The ultimate arbiters are the voters of Texas. They will decide that, and that's how it should be. I feel so strongly that the place we must turn to is the highest authority, the electorate. And I feel that that's what she (Guerrero) has done," Richards said.

The governor said she talked to Jordan several weeks ago, after it was reported that Guerrero didn't have the college credentials that she claimed on her resume and campaign literature.

"I wanted her to be aware of what had just happened," Richards said.

Asked if she had discussed the Guerrero campaign with Jordan, the governor said: "I didn't think it was appropriate to influence her thoughts. I thought Barbara should be aware of what had happened."

Asked if she still supports Guerrero, whom she accompanied around the state in campaign tours before the controversy, Richards said she voted early.

"I looked down the list and didn't find any attractive alternatives," she said. Jordan raised her doubts about Guerrero during a news conference.

"In my opinion if Lena Guerrero is elected Railroad Commissioner, the high ethical ground position would be for Lena Guerrero to resign that seat and allow the governor to have a new appointment," Jordan said Tuesday.

In response, Guerrero said that she respected Jordan, but believed that she acted properly by resigning her post and seeking election.

"I have placed this matter before the people of Texas," she said. Her campaign spokesman Chuck McDonald said he was "flabbergasted" by Jordan's remarks.

"I truly believe that when Barbara Jordan looks at it she will see that Lena Guerrero has done the proper thing. The people of Texas are the highest ethical authority we have to go before, and it is their decision."

Bentsen sees disaster for Freeport area

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

FREEPORT — Unless an 8-mile concrete restraining wall is built at Sargent, waters from the Gulf of Mexico can break into the Intracoastal Waterway, spelling economic disaster for Freeport and Texas, U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said.

"What we see is a serious vulnerability to transportation," Bentsen said. "If there's a breakthrough on the Intracoastal, you'd have about 20 percent of the traffic of freight in Texas affected."

"You'd have a loss of income of about $20 million a day. So it's absolutely critical. If you had a break in a major storm, there's no way the highway and railway system would be able to supplant what's being taken care of by barge now."

Bentsen toured the Matagorda County coastline by helicopter Tuesday, emphasizing the need for the $67.6 million U.S. Army Corps of Engineers anti-erosion project.

"We're off to a fast start in our efforts to prevent a breach of the barrier but we still have our work cut out in the years ahead," Bentsen said.

Erosion is threatening to wipe away the thin sliver of land that separates the gulf from the waterway.

Encroachment of the waterway would sever barge and ship traffic on the waterway, which handles hundreds of millions dollars worth of cargo in Texas from Brownsville to Beaumont.

"Without the waterway, the Freeport area as we know it would cease to exist," Bentsen said.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is proposing to build the 8-mile-long concrete block retaining wall to halt the erosion.

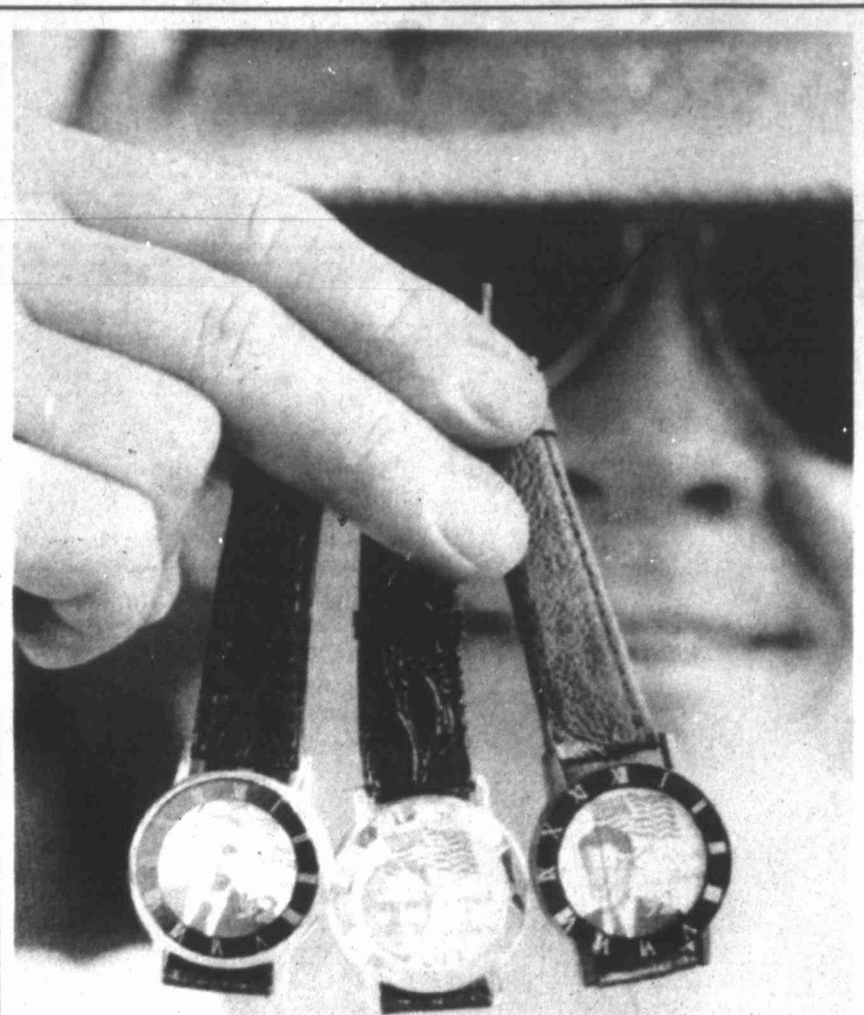

Over the years, hundreds of yards of beach have fallen victim to the incessant Gulf of Mexico waves, wiping out dozens of barrier island homes and leaving just 200 yards separating the waterway from the gulf at the narrowest point at Sargent, about 30 miles southwest of Freeport.

Officials have estimated erosion takes as much as 70 feet of land a year.

Breaching of the 18-foot-deep waterway would fill it with silt. The canal, which extends all the way east to Florida, also makes it possible for craft to navigate the choppy gulf waters.

The project, recently approved by Congress, still awaits President Bush's signature, although Bentsen said it likely would be signed.

Bentsen cited a Texas A&M University-based Texas Transportation Institute study that estimated as many as 2,700 people would lose their jobs in Freeport and economic losses would reach $900 million annually.

District attorney, angry over verdict, scolds jury

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — Jurors who found a Seguin man innocent of capital murder but convicted him on a charge of driving the victim's car without her permission have been scolded by an angry prosecutor.

Assistant District Attorney James Kopp criticized jurors Tuesday during final arguments before they voted to place Gregory Watson, 20, on probation for 10 years for driving the car owned by Cheryl Ann Phinney, 17, of Converse.

Watson had been tried on a charge of capital murder in Phinney's Sept. 24, 1991, slaying.

Kopp said the acquittal left him "disappointed and mad."

"That proves to me I still care what happens to people in the community," Kopp said.

Jurors deliberated about four hours Monday before acquitting Watson of capital murder and such lesser offenses as aggravated sexual assault, robbery and kidnapping. They did find Watson guilty of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a third-degree felony that carries a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison. Phinney, a Judson High School senior, was shot nine times at an isolated spot between Converse and Universal City after Gregory Watson and Lenox Boone Watson, 17, also of Seguin, hitchhiked a ride with her at a convenience store.

The girl's body, nude from the waist down, was found near a railroad underpass in Bexar County.

Lenox Watson's mother, Carolyn Watson, testified she turned him in to police after she heard him say he and Gregory Watson, who are not related, killed the girl.

Lenox Watson pleaded guilty to capital murder and received a life prison sentence. Under a law that went into effect a year ago, he must serve 35 years before being eligible for parole.

Lenox Watson testified both he and Gregory killed and robbed the girl, with Gregory Watson firing the first shots.

Gregory Watson testified he didn't know Lenox planned to kill the girl and didn't take part in the slaying.

Probe launched into fee for freedom allegations

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — A federal investigation has been launched into allegations that former Parole Board Chairman James Granberry took hundreds of dollars from the families of Texas prison inmates by promising freedom for a fee, a Houston newspaper reported today.

The Houston Chronicle quoted prison board sources as saying Tuesday that the investigation involves allegations of influence peddling and corruption by the 59-year-old former Lubbock mayor and 1974 gubernatorial candidate.

Granberry is blamed, in part, for the early release of killer Kenneth McDuff.

Sources said the investigation is being conducted by the U.S. Attorney's office in Waco and that prison system internal affairs investigators are assisting in the probe.

Bill Johnston, the U.S. attorney in Waco, told the newspaper he could neither confirm nor deny the existence of an investigation.

Granberry, who resigned from the parole board in May 1991 and immediately went into the parole consulting business, reportedly got parole staff members to provide him with lists of prisoners being considered for parole.

The former officials would then contact the prisoners' families, promising them he could assure the inmates' release if they hired him as a consultant, the sources said.

One source said the investigation showed Granberry had bilked parents of prisoners out of fees ranging from $500 to $2,000 in cases where the prisoners were almost assured of being paroled anyway.

It is unclear whether there is evidence of other prisoners being released who might not have been freed without Granberry's help or whether some inmates were denied parole because they couldn't afford the consulting fee.

Sources also said another aspect being investigated is whether parole staff members provided the confidential list of proposed parolees, knowing Granberry's alleged intentions.

In some instances, sources said, Granberry's promises of freedom for a price may have been made while he was still chairman of the 18-member parole board, composed of political appointees. Granberry was appointed to the board in May 1989 by Gov. Bill Clements and became chairman the following January.

Granberry could not be located for comment, and his Austin attorney, Herman Gotcher, did not return the newspaper's telephone calls.

Granberry is not the only consultant who represents convicts before the parole board, but when he went into the consulting business immediately after resigning.

The former official also has been the target of a Texas Senate investigation into parole practices.

Capital murder trial of rapist begins

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — A 35-year-old convicted rapist was to go on trial today, charged with capital murder in the deaths of six girls and women between the age of 14 and 24 whose bodies were unearthed in shallow desert graves five years ago near El Paso.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys took five weeks to pare 170 prospective jurors to the final panel of six men, six women and two alternates for the trial of David Leonard Wood, 35.

State District Judge Peter Peca told both sides to be in place today for opening arguments in a trial that is expected to last six to eight weeks.

The trial was moved to Dallas because of extensive news coverage the border city.

Wood is charged with killing Ivy Susanna Williams, 23; Desiree Wheatley, 15; Karen Baker, 20; Angelica Frausto, 17; Rosa Maria Casio, 24; and Dawn Marie Smith, 14.

Officials described most of the victims as either runaways or young women with troubled lives.

Wood, who had been raised in El Paso, has been in and out of prison several times on sex-related times. His first parole came in 1980, after serving 3½ years of a 5-year sentence for indecency with child.

Later that year he was convicted of raping a 19-year-old and a 13-year-old and sentenced to concurrent 20 year sentences.

Seven years later, he was paroled again and headed home for El Paso.

A month after he got there, girls started disappearing.

Their bodies were unearthed from graves in the Northeast El Paso desert in 1987 and 1988.

On Sept. 4, 1987, a utility worker digging in the desert uncovered the decomposed body of a woman who had also been reported missing.

During the next six weeks, police searching a 10-square-mile area using state prison dogs and heat-sensing equipment mounted on airplanes uncovered the remains of four other missing women and girls.

Police had given up the search when aluminum can collectors stumbled on another body five months later. Three other missing women have not been found.

Residents are blasé about predicted quake

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARKFIELD, Calif. — A dozen harness bells hang above Robert Durham's fireplace, reminding him of just how often the ground shifts beneath his house.

"I heard those old bells again last night," Durham said Tuesday as he leafed through a scrapbook that chronicles the dozens of earthquakes large and small that have rattled this remote ranching town during Durham's own lifetime.

Like many in Parkfield, Durham shrugged off a warning from scientists that there's a 1-in-3 chance of a large earthquake by late Thursday.

The prediction, prompted by a quake Monday night measuring 4.7 on the Richter scale, was the first warning issued by the U.S. Geological Survey's Parkfield project, the world's most comprehensive quake prediction experiment.

"You can't stop Mother Nature when she feels like shaking, so what's the worry?" said Durham, 68. "Besides, earthquakes put this town on the map. I figure we're making history."

An earthquake of 5.5 to 6.0 would fulfill a 1985 agency forecast that a strong quake would strike the area by the end of 1992.

A sign outside the Parkfield Cafe took perverse delight in the prediction: "Earthquake Capital of the World. Be Here When It Happens."

The cafe served Richter Scale Ale to a handful of residents who settled in Tuesday evening to watch the World Series on television.

Parkfield is 170 miles southeast of San Francisco, along the San Andreas fault. A sign at the entrance to town says the population is 34, but residents say at least 100 people live in the area.

Parkfield quakes of about magnitude 6 occurred in 1857, 1881, 1901, 1922, 1934 and 1966. Although such earthquakes can cause severe destruction, the damage here has been light because the area is sparsely populated.

Local lore has it that a rancher's stubbed toe was the only injury ever caused by an earthquake here.

"I'd worry if I was in Los Angeles in some skyscraper. But nothing is going to happen here," said Lilly Massey, whose family runs the Parkfield Cafe and Parkfield Inn.

Not everyone was so nonchalant. "Most of the old-timers know how to handle all this, but it still makes me insecure. I don't know what I'd do if the big one hit," said librarian Marge Miller, 65. "It's just like a train when they come."

Project violence leads to closure

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — Cabrini-Green is 70 acres of some of the most dangerous turf in the nation — a housing project so violent that the new horror movie "Candyman" blames its evils on a supernatural killer buried on its grounds.

On Monday, police began closing four of its high-rise buildings and tightening security after the sniper slaying of a 7-year-old. But the chairman of the Chicago Housing Authority said tearing them down makes more sense.

Vincent Lane said the real problem at Chicago's second-largest housing project is the high-rise design that packs nearly 7,000 people in 33 buildings.

"We have got to change the fundamental flaw that stacks poor people on top of poor people," Lane said Tuesday. He said he favors razing the four buildings and "selective demolition" at other high-rise projects.

In high-rise housing complexes, "you're concentrating poverty and misery, drugs, alcoholism, people with mental disabilities and people unemployable," said Ed Marciniak, president of Loyola University's Institute of Urban Life in Chicago. "It leads to hopeless and hapless people who can be very easily victimized."

Mayor Richard M. Daley ordered the crackdown after Dantrel Davis was slain last week by a sniper as his mother walked him to school at Cabrini-Green. A man who police said was aiming at teenagers has been charged in the slaying.

In addition to sealing the four nearly empty buildings, including the one from which the shot was fired, police plan to sweep all the Cabrini-Green high-rises for drugs and weapons. They also will require ID cards for entry, post guards and metal detectors at the doors and clear out tenants on the ground floors.

The same measures eventually will be applied to all 160 public-housing high-rises in Chicago. About 100 of them already have guarded entrances built in the past year and a half.

Eddie Leason, 38, watching police search the 10- and 19-story towers and set up guard stations and metal detectors, said it looks like just another crackdown at his housing project.

"A lot of what's going on here is B.S.," he said. "Six months from now, everything is going to come back."

Whether the defenses hold or not, they have reinforced Cabrini-Green's image as a crime-infested no-man's land. Adding to that reputation is "Candyman," now playing within a mile of the housing project.

Cabrini, named for St. Francis Xavier Cabrini, the Roman Catholic patron saint of emigrants, began as a complex of row houses in 1942. High-rises were added in the late 1950s. The William Green Homes, also high-rises, were finished in 1962, and the complex became known as Cabrini-Green.

It is less than a mile from the city's well-to-do Gold Coast residential district and the high-priced shopping strip of North Michigan Avenue.

It was beset by crime and a bloody gang war in the 1970s and early '80s. In 1981, then-Mayor Jane Byrne moved in for three weeks. When she returned to her Gold Coast home, she declared that crime at the complex "is almost zilch."

Gang crossfire killed a 9-year-old girl in 1985, bringing fresh security measures, but the violence continued. In the past eight months, three children attending the elementary school at Cabrini-Green have been shot and killed.

Based on the crime rate at the project through August, the Chicago Housing Authority projects an increase in violent crimes, robberies and burglaries at Cabrini-Green this year to 571 from 453, agency spokesman Andre Garner said.

NATO outlines new role in changing world

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

GLENEAGLES, Scotland — The United States and its NATO allies met today to outline a new role in the post-Cold War era, including provisions for sending peacekeeping troops into European conflicts.

At the start of the two-day meeting on Tuesday, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and his colleagues ordered aides to draw up plans by year's end for using the alliance's expertise in peacekeeping.

"There is general agreement that indeed one of the new roles of NATO is peacekeeping," said the group's secretary-general, Manfred Woerner.

He said the allies needed to flesh out plans for training their soldiers and using their facilities in humanitarian tasks.

NATO foreign ministers decided in early June their troops and equipment could be dispatched on peacekeeping operations if asked by the 52-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

The decision reversed a decades-old policy limiting the deployment of forces to the territory of NATO countries.

No requests for peacekeeping help have been received. But some NATO nations intend by early December to deploy some 5,000 soldiers in Bosnia-Herzegovina to protect convoys carrying food and medicine.

Britain, Canada, France and Spain have agreed to send troops, in line with an alliance decision in early September to offer soldiers to the United Nations for relief work.

German Defense Minister Volker Ruehe said he would urge his government to come up with $39 million for a program of logistical support, likely for transportation, in Bosnia.

But his country, he said, should not be relegated to being simply a "paymaster." Germany's constitution bars it from sending soldiers outside alliance territory.

The ministers also have agreed on new guidelines and procedures for managing a slimmed-down nuclear arsenal. Details were not disclosed.

The guidelines were drawn up after President Bush and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization leaders agreed last year in Rome on a new military strategy.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

- I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
- II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
- III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
- IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $70.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Make your voice heard!

Too many times we have heard someone say that their single vote doesn't make a difference in an election. In the late 1970s, Martin Allday lost the mayor's race in Midland by seven votes.

But the line can become even finer. Consider that in 1645, one vote gave Oliver Cromwell control of England.

In 1649, one vote caused Charles I of England to be executed.

In 1776, one vote gave America the English language instead of German.

In 1845, one vote brought Texas into the Union.

In 1876, one vote gave Rutherford B. Hayes the presidency of the United States of America.

In 1923, one vote gave Adolph Hitler leadership of the Nazi Party.

Can your one vote make a difference? You bet your life it can.

We encourage you to vote for the candidates you feel will best represent the interests of Howard County, the State of Texas and the United States of America.

Don't forget freedom of choice

To the editor: Isn't this a wonderful country in which we live! We all have the freedom to make choices for our own lives. As we discuss a possible smoking ordinance for our city, the freedom of choice must not be forgotten.

We make choices everyday for ourselves. I choose the clothes I wish to wear (though my wife does have veto power). The music I enjoy and the movies I watch are my own choices. Unwanted political ideas cannot be forced upon me. I vote for the candidates of my choice. Whether I smoke or not is my choice. It is a freedom we all have in this country. Would we want it any other way?

I must admit, though, that my freedoms are limited in some areas. I listen to any music I wish, but I am not allowed to play that music for the whole neighborhood at midnight. I can travel on any public road I wish, but the speed I drive is limited by law. Is it right for laws to be enacted to limit some freedoms? I think most of us would have to admit that it is right and necessary in some cases.

When we look at it honestly we will have to admit that a public smoking ordinance doesn't take away my right to smoke, it only limits it. Why, then, should my right to choose be limited in public places?

I believe the freedom we have to choose to smoke is the reason for an ordinance. When I choose to smoke in a public place, it is a choice that affects those around me. As I smoke everyone around me is forced to smoke as well. (The smoke does not magically disappear.) Does my right to smoke take away someone else's right to choose not to smoke? It shouldn't.

No one has proposed a Prohibition-style ban on smoking for Big Spring, just a limit for public places. Actually it's not limiting my right to choose, but guaranteeing everyone's right to choose. I could live with that.

What role does High Court play?

To the editor: A challenge presented to Betty Johansen: Because of her obvious diligence in documenting her articles, could she please tell us what major events occurred in 1962 and 1963 that could have been important contributing factors in what was the beginning of the decline in our economy, morals, and school test scores, and the beginning of the increase in violent crimes, teenage pregnancy, and divorce. Could there possibly be a correlation between the 1962 and 1963 Supreme Court decisions regarding prayer and Bible reading in the schools?

Thanks to the Big Spring Herald for allowing Betty Johansen to provide us with unbiased factual information.

Letter policy

The Big Spring Herald recognizes the importance of the "Letters to the Editor" column and letters on issues of general interest are welcomed.

Letters must be signed and must include a street address and daytime phone number for verification, although the address will not be published.

Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. While some lengthy letters are published, we reserve the right to edit when necessary due to space limitations.

Letters should be typewritten and double-spaced if possible. If handwritten, letters must be legible.

Form letters will not be published. Representative letters will be published when numerous letters are received on the same topic.

Letters of political endorsement will be published on local and regional campaigns. No letter regarding an election will be published within seven days of said election.

Candidates are allowed one letter to present their position. Candidate letters are subject to the same guidelines as other letters.

Letters should be sent to: The Editor, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79721.

Television: A vast garbage dump

Last week, I was flipping through the paper and I noticed a headline that said, "Hemingway to Bare All on 'Civil Wars' Episode."

Hemingway? Ernest? I thought he was dead.

Then, I read the article under the headline, which explained it was Mariel Hemingway, the actress, who would soon appear in a nude scene on an ABC program called "Civil Wars."

I don't watch much network television and I have no earthly idea what "Civil Wars" is about, and I don't want to know.

The less a person knows about network television the better off that person is. Ignorance of what's going on with the networks keeps one's intelligence from being insulted, and affords one the opportunity to seek entertainment on a higher plane — like on the new all-cartoon network.

I'd rather watch Fred and Barney any day than some mindless network sitcom. You get to see a lot better acting and writing.

But I did know network television eventually would come to this. As the value system weakens in other forms of entertainment such as music and the movies (cable too), the networks don't want to be left out, so actresses have children out of wedlock on comedy shows — and, now, nudity.

Lewis Grizzard

It really didn't matter which actress was going to appear nude or on what series such an occurrence would take place.

The headline should have read "Woman to Get Naked on Network Television," signalling a new era in the continuing march of sleaze.

A long time ago a man called network television "a vast wasteland."

If it were a wasteland way back then, now it's a garbage dump. The language has gotten racier, the plots steamier, and nudity was a natural to follow.

The article quoted an ABC spokesflack as saying of the Hemingway nude scene, "We consider it tastefully done and in keeping with the series."

How can there be anything tasteful about an actress appearing naked on network television?

By tasteful did the ABC flack mean that nudity wasn't frontal? OK, we get to see Mariel Hemingway's naked butt. Naked butts are tasteful?

And what is this thing about "in keeping with the series"?

What have I missed by not watching "Civil Wars"? If a nude shot is in keeping with the series, what else have they done or talked about on this show?

The government long ago decided the airwaves belonged to the public, and nobody could abuse it.

That led to Standards and Practices and there was a time television sought never to offend. You couldn't even say the word "pregnant" on network television. The only thing you got to see nude was Mr. Ed.

Married couples even slept in separate beds and a darn or two was about as racy as the language could get.

But slowly the reins have been loosened. Perhaps making married couples sleep in separate beds and not allowing the word "pregnant" was taking it a little too far, but now the Standards and Practices departments are like the office of the baseball commissioner. They are there as symbols only.

Imagine all this 30 years ago, when the headlines might have read:

● Ethel Mertz Takes It All Off on "Lucy"

● Jim and Margaret Anderson Push Beds Together on "Father Knows a Lot More Than Anybody Thought"

● Lois Lane Finds Out What Else Is Super about "Superman"

There's also a "Leave It to Beaver" line here, but I'll leave it to your imagination now that the networks don't anymore.

When the history of this election is recorded, the people who will be given all the credit are the "spin doctors" — those indomitable party loyalists who showed up in every press room and television studio to put the spin on how their candidate had done in the debates.

If it weren't for them, the voters would never have known who won and who lost the contest.

I was sitting in front of my laptop computer in the press room of the debate headquarters last Monday when a man wearing a Bush-Quayle banner stood behind my desk and announced, "Bush just hit one over the fence and out of the ballpark and the fat lady started to sing."

"How could he hit a home run? The debate hasn't even started yet."

The spin doctor looked at his "talking points" instruction fax. "You're right. It was Quayle who hit a home run. Bush is coming up to bat in a few minutes. He's going to send one right into the bleachers where the middle class now sits because it can no longer afford the grandstand. Would you like to see an autographed picture of Ho Chi Minh dedicated to Bill Clinton leading an anti-war demonstration in London?"

Clinton's spin doctor saw what was happening, ran over to me and said, "Don't listen to him. Clinton will win the debate because our boy is going to stick with the issues and talk about a tarnished Justice Department, a wounded CIA and an FBI that can't shoot straight."

The Bush-Quayle man said, "You should write that everyone thought Dan Quayle would lose his debate with Al Gore because Gore went to private school and Quayle went to public school. When people saw him, they all agreed that maybe there was more to Dan Quayle than the fact that he can't spell potato."

The Clinton man joined in, "This flack is paid to say that. Every time Quayle spoke he hit into a double play, and the polls showed Quayle was sacked 24 times — not by Gore but by Admiral Stockdale. Can I help you write your story? I'm good on computers."

I was getting nervous having both spin doctors stand over me while I worked. "I appreciate your guidance," I told them, "but I would prefer to write the debate story with my own little fat fingers."

The Bush man said, "We're not telling you what to write, but here is a black loose-leaf notebook with all the information on Clinton's draft evasion papers, his pilfered files from the State Department and pictures of him taking a sauna with Josef Stalin in the buff. Bush may not get an opportunity to ask him questions about all of it tonight."

The Clinton spin doctor responded, "They are only trying to distract your attention from the debate and Clinton's eight-point plan to save the economy, which has been approved by nine Nobel prize winners as well as Barbra Streisand."

I said, "Would either one of you have any objection if I waited until the debate was over before I decided who won?"

The Clinton man told me, "I don't, but as a professional spin doctor I am disappointed that you would take so long."

The Bush staffer said, "It doesn't matter what you see or hear in the next 90 minutes. What counts is what we saw in the Atlanta Braves-Pittsburgh playoff game. You're behind 2-0, bases are loaded and our man is at the plate and hits a single to win the game. That's what presidential politics is all about."

Reasons to shop at home

Maybe it's just me and the fact I refuse to go around looking for the dark side of everything, but there seems to be a new vibrancy within our community.

Yes, we mentioned it in editorials last week, but I think it's worth noting again that a new attitude is apparent around town.

I suppose there are several reasons for it in addition to the opening of two new businesses and the relocation of another... the community-wide effort to pass two bond elections... the arrival of new city manager Larry Lambert... the increased retail traffic around town.

Over the past few weeks, I've checked prices in Big Spring and compared them to prices in Midland, Odessa and San Angelo and was pleasantly surprised.

Yes, there are some prices in the larger communities that are lower than those in Big Spring — but there are prices in Big Spring that are lower than those in the larger communities, too.

In fact, a trip to Sam's revealed some staples — at least in our household — that are better priced here at home than in the warehouse.

Tuna, coffee and soft drinks — just to name three items — were lower by an appreciable amount. In fact, the difference was enough to make me wonder why someone would spend two hours' driving time plus gas and oil and wear and tear on their vehicle to save a few cents or few dollars.

Yes, this is an old drum I'm banging, but I'll bang it slowly in an effort to get my point across.

If you shop at home, you spend 10 minutes' total driving time. If you shop at the warehouse, you spend 120 minutes. To determine the value of your time, take the amount you are paid on an hourly basis.

Let's say you make $400 per week... or $10 per hour. Thus, the cost of your driving time is $20. At the 38 cents per mile it is now estimated to operate an average vehicle, you add another $38.

So before you ever walk into the store — and after you've paid the membership fee — you're $58 down.

And even if you could save 20 cents on the dollar, you'd have to spend $290 to cover the cost of your trip to "save" money.

And what do your savings cost the community and your neighbors?

Lost sales at home mean less volume for local merchants — which means higher prices.

Lost sales at home mean less volume for local merchants — which means lost jobs.

Lost sales at home mean less volume for local merchants — which means lost tax revenue for the city and county which comes back to cost you.

So, how much did you save — and how much did it cost you? Shopping at home is a two-way street, however.

I recall complaints in San Angelo about certain merchants who were willing to pass up 100 sales at $1 each in hopes they would get that one sale at $100.

I remember looking unsuccessfully for items in a mall store and asking if they knew where I might check for the product and simply being told "No" rather than being referred to another mall store.

I've always been willing to pay a little bit more if I could purchase it at home and get service at the same time... and like it or not, except for a few stores, we aren't real strong on customer service here.

Bits and pieces...

I was glad to hear a Fina commercial this week echoing a slogan we first printed last April — be MAD about Big Spring. MAD stands for Making A Difference and it's something each and every one of us can do to make this a better community.

From the some people never learn department...

Former GOP gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams was in Big Spring last Thursday for the opening of the local Republican headquarters.

I attended the GOP luncheon — just like I did the Lena Guerrero reception and John Montford fundraiser — and listened to Claytie pound the appointment of Guerrero to the Railroad Commission.

He then repeated his statement on KBST's "Focus" program. It was picked up statewide and could have the same bearing on the race for the RRC seat as his down-to-the-wire comments did on his race for governor.

Like I said, some people never learn.

TORONTO — Candy Maldonado and the Toronto Blue Jays turned Atlanta upside down and moved on top after three games of the first World Series played in Canada.

Maldonado singled over the drawn-in outfield with one out in the ninth inning, giving the Blue Jays a 3-2 victory Tuesday night for a 2-1 lead.

The hit came with the bases loaded on a 0-2 pitch from Jeff Reardon, who also served up pinch-hitter Ed Sprague's winning two-run homer in the ninth inning Sunday night in Atlanta.

A tight game featuring home runs by Joe Carter and slumping Kelly Gruber, a near triple play and a rare ejection came down to the bottom of the ninth.

Roberto Alomar began the inning with a single off Steve Avery, and stole second while reliever Mark Wohlers was pitching to Carter.

After an intentional walk to Carter and Dave Winfield's second sacrifice bunt of the season, lefty Mike Stanton was summoned to face John Olerud.

Sprague pinch hit and was intentionally walked, and Maldonado met Reardon with a drive over Otis Nixon's head in center field.

Duane Ward pitched one inning for the victory, and extended the Blue Jays' bullpen streak to 7 2-3 scoreless innings in the series. He relieved Juan Guzman, who allowed one earned run in eight innings. Avery was the loser.

Both teams scored in the eighth.

Nixon began the Braves' half with a liner off Gruber's glove for an error and stole second on the second pitch. David Justice was intentionally walked with two outs and Lonnie Smith, whose baserunning cost Atlanta a chance to win Game 7 last October, singled for a 2-1 lead.

In the bottom half, Gruber broke an all-time postseason record 0-for-23 slump in a big way, with a leadoff homer to left.

The Braves lost Cox in the top of the ninth when he was ejected by home plate umpire Joe West. Pinch-runner Brian Hunter was on first with no out and he became the first runner thrown out in 10 steal attempts by Toronto catcher Pat Borders. On the play, Jeff Blauser was called out on a checked swing and Cox threw a helmet which left the dugout and meant his ejection.

Then, in the fourth, things started to happen in a hurry.

Deion Sanders began the inning with a chop in front of the plate and slid into first for a single, and took second on Terry Pendleton's single.

Justice, blown away in his first at-bat, followed with a deep drive to center field. Devon White showed why he's won three Gold Gloves by grabbing the ball just before catching into the padded fence, and the catch caused immediate confusion on the bases.

As the runners retreated, Pendleton passed Sanders a few steps to the left of second base — the same spot where Smith got lost last year in Game 7 of the World Series — and was called out. But when the Blue Jays threw the ball to first base just to make sure, Sanders took off for third.

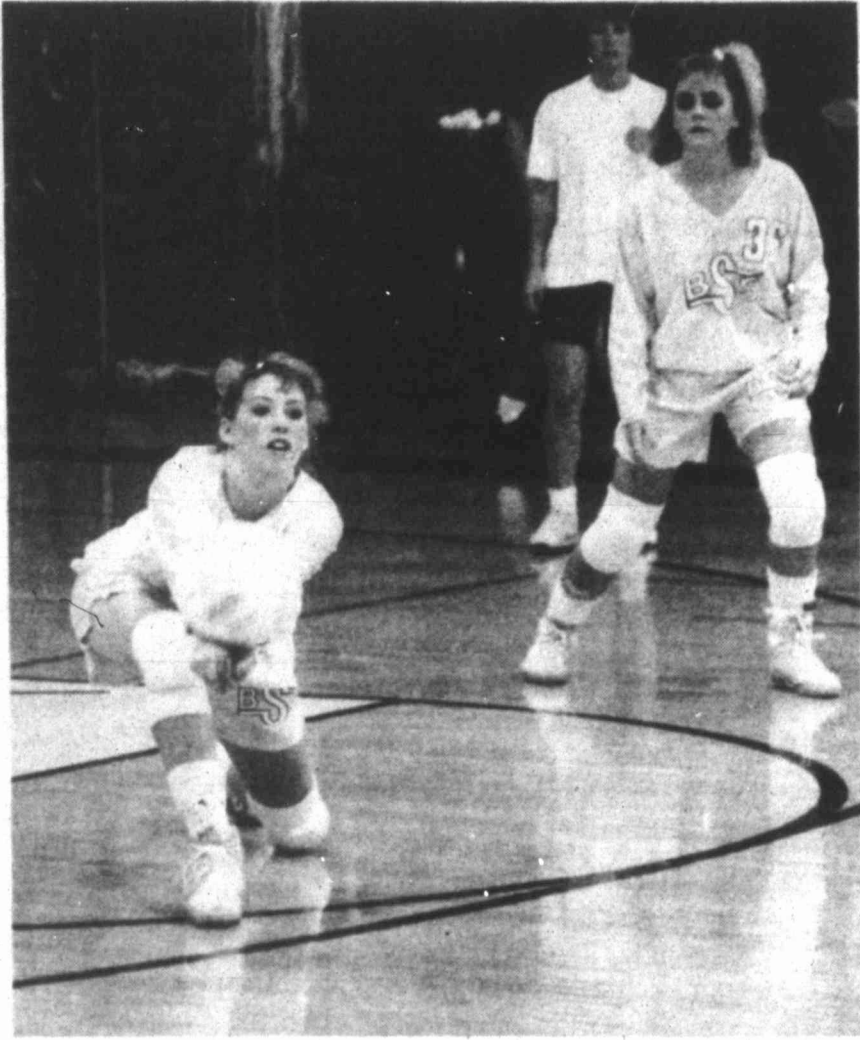

Olerud whipped the ball across the diamond to Gruber at third base, and he chased Sanders back toward second. Sanders had a sizable speed advantage, and Gruber dove for him at the last second, and TV replays seemed to show him tagging Sanders on the leg.

Lady Steers survive Sweetwater

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

It all seemed like a bad dream for the Big Spring Lady Steers.

Second place Big Spring was fighting for its life against winless-in-district Sweetwater. It trailed 7-3 in the third game with its leading spiker Tee Marion on the bench with a knee injury. But the Lady Steers prevented the nightmare as they rallied for a 15-13 win, giving them the match 15-3, 11-15, 15-13.

DISTRICT STANDINGS

Pecos	8-2
Big Spring	7-3
Monahans	6-3
Fort Stockton	4-4
Andrews	5-4
Lake View	1-8
Sweetwater	0-9

Tuesday's Results
Big Spring def. Sweetwater 15-3, 11-15, 15-13;
Monahans def. Pecos 15-9, 13-15, 15-8; Andrews def. Fort Stockton.

Saturday's Schedule
Andrews at Big Spring; Monahans at San Angelo; Lake View; Sweetwater at Pecos.

Big Spring goes to 7-3 in district play and 13-12 overall. Sweetwater falls to 0-9 in league play.

The Lady Mustangs didn't play like a winless squad the last two games, after playing an error-filled first game. In one stretch during the first game, Big Spring gained five straight points on missed Sweetwater kill attempts.

It appeared the Lady Steers would dominate the second game as well, jumping to a 8-1 lead behind the service of Sarah Cranford and Lana Henderson. Sweetwater changed the momentum of the game behind the net play of Neisa Williams, Jamela Owens, Jennifer McCain and Ray Ann Willis. The Lady Mustangs rallied for seven unanswered points, before Big Spring stretched its lead to 10-7 thanks to points by Kathy Smith and Anne Rodriguez.

Then Willis took control of the game with some timely kills and finished it off by serving the last three points, two of them aces. The Lady Mustangs outscored Big Spring 8-1 down the stretch to win the game.

Sweetwater kept the momentum on its side by scoring the first three points of the third game. Things looked worse when Marion injured her knee on a spike attempt with Sweetwater leading 7-3.

Big Spring got the serve back when Owens was whistled for being in the net. Rodriguez finished the game by serving the final two points. Both points came with Cassie Underwood setting Bristow for kills.

"Thank goodness for my bench," said a drained Lady Steer coach Lois Ann McKenzie after the game. "Robbi Hall came in and did a real good job. We got bored in the first game. Sweetwater played like an 0-8 team that game. We lost our concentration the second game. We started playing too conservative. They're going to wear me out doing this. I'm tired of it.

"Before the third game Tee told me her knee was bothering her but she said she could play. I told Cassie not to set her but she told Cassie to go ahead and set her. I don't know how serious it is."

The Lady Steers downed 27 of 64 kills for 42 percent. Bristow led the way, downing 7 of 14 while Smith was 7 of 15 and Marion 6 of 15. Sweetwater downed 30 of 62 kills for 48 percent. Both Williams and Owens were 7 of 13.

The win helped McKenzie keep a promise to husband Kirke, who celebrated his 50th birthday Tuesday. "I promised him a win for his birthday present," she said. "He said if we didn't win he wasn't coming back (to the games)."

Sweetwater won the freshmen and junior varsity matches. The Lady Steers frosh lost 9-15, 9-15 and the JV lost 8-15, 11-15. The JV falls to 14-11 for the season and the freshmen fall to 5-13.

The Lady Steers play their last home game of the season Saturday against Andrews. Because of band marching contests, the matches will have early starts. The freshmen play at 10 a.m. at Runnels gym, the JV plays at 10:30 a.m. at Steer Gym, followed by varsity play.

Crowd a major part of volleyball wins

The Big Spring Lady Steers volleyball team is doing a great impression of the Cardiac Kids this season.

Tuesday night against last place Sweetwater was no exception. The Lady Mustangs played like a top division team the last two games and gave the Big Spring Lady Steers all they could handle.

It marked the fourth consecutive home match in which the Lady Steers had to go three games to win. All but one of those three game decisions were close. The only breather was a 15-3 win over Monahans. In the others Big Spring beat Pecos 17-15 and San Angelo Lake View and Sweetwater 15-13.

Coach Lois Ann McKenzie credited those three game wins to the crowd. What? A crowd at a volleyball game? As unrealistic as it may seem in good ole West Texas, there is actually interest growing in volleyball, at least in Big Spring.

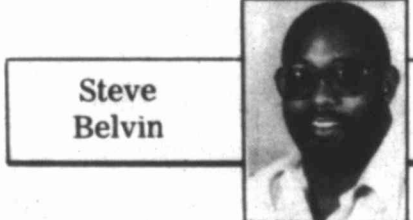

The crowd at the last few home games have been very vocal. There's nothing more intimidating for an opposing server to have match point and the crowd on their feet yelling "Break that serve." I've seen several times this year when the server hit a wounded duck into the net.

"The crowd has definitely helped us win the last three (home) games," said McKenzie. "It started with the district games on Tuesday nights and the crowds have gotten a lot bigger. Our crowds are much bigger than the other teams' when we go on the road."

Another thing you'll notice at a Big Spring home volleyball game is that the majority of the coaching staffs, middle school included, are in attendance. I've never noticed that at other schools. At the Pecos game last week, McKenzie said the Pecos Athletic Director Daylan Whitehurst, the trainer and one other coach was there. Even Big Spring AD Dwight Butler travelled to Pecos to support the Lady Steers.

I've always wondered why volleyball attracted such little interest. You can't say it's a boring sport, because the action is always quick moving. Watching a well played volleyball game is comparable to watching a football team move down the field in its two minute offense. Only in volleyball you're inside, away from the wind, cold and rain.

A co-worker of my suggested to cut down on man hours I should send a photographer to the home games and get the results on the phone. I asked why didn't I do the same thing for a Friday night football game. The answer to the question was because more people want to read about football and we've got to give the people what they want.

I can't argue with that fact. It's my job to give our readers the best sports coverage possible. That coverage means giving these football-crazed fans as much local football as possible.

But the Lady Steers are locked in a heated district race, one game out of first place and a half game in second place. There are two more district games left for Big Spring. The last home game is Saturday against Andrews, the Lady Steers conclude the season Oct. 31 against Monahans, who just happen to be a half game out of second place.

So if you want to see some real good volleyball action, I suggest you come to Steer Gym Saturday. Your support could mean the difference between the Lady Steers ending their season Oct. 31 or continuing into post season play. Steve Belvin is Sports Editor of the Big Spring Herald. His column appears on Wednesday.

Decision could put girls on gridiron

STAFF and WIRE REPORT

AUSTIN — Thirteen-year-old Adrian Evans doesn't know if she wants to play high school football, but she believes that she and other girls should have the chance to try out.

Adrian, an eighth grade tackle on the Lamar middle school team in Austin, said Tuesday she is happy that state officials recommended allowing girls to play high school football.

The proposal was adopted 16-4 by the University Interscholastic League Legislative Council. The State Board of Education will probably consider it early next year.

If approved by the board, girls could try out for their high school squads Aug. 1, 1993.

Big Spring High School Head Football Coach and Athletic Director Dwight Butler said he forsees problems with dressing facilities and equipment if girls played football.

"I have no problem with athletes playing whatever sport they want to play, but there's a lot of problems I don't think (the UIL) took into consideration," Butler said.

Lack of equipment suitable for girls is one of those problems, the Big Spring coach said.

"I don't think it's a sexist reaction, I just think it's realistic," Butler said.

Butler feels the UIL made the decision to avoid the controversy that would result if they had ruled girls could not play. He said now they can pass the decision on to the State Board of Education.

"They wanted somebody else to do the dirty work," Butler said. "What they're going to do is put (the decision) back on the school and the coaches."

B-County RB turns in superior performance to head Honor Roll

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

To beat the Ira Bulldogs Borden County coach Bobby Avery knew he had to get the ball to senior tailback Clint Wills. Avery was figuring on getting it to him at least 40 times.

Wills didn't need it that much. He took care of the pre-district favorites with almost half the work. Wills carried the ball 24 times for 341 yards in leading the Coyotes to a 71-44 six-man victory Friday. For his effort, he is the Crossroads Country Honor Roll Offensive Player of the Week.

In gaining his second Player of the Week award, Wills scored on runs of 58, 48, 45, 11, 5, 32 and 37 yards. He was equally busy at safety, making 19 tackles and averaging 31 yards a punt in three kicks.

Having a similarly fulfilling night was Garden City senior middle linebacker Jody Bradford. Bradford was recently moved from safety to linebacker because of injuries. Bradford gains Defensive Player of the Week honors for leading the Bearkats with 16 tackles.

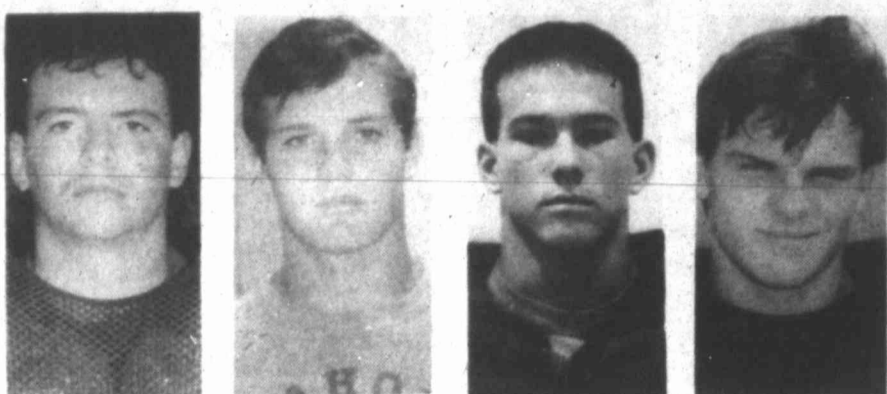

In addition to his defensive exploits, Bradford carried the ball from his tailback position for 294 yards in 27 carries, scoring two TDs. He also kicked five extra points.

Other top defensive efforts were:
• In Garden City's win, safety Gerald Salazar made 10 tackles and linebacker Matt Seidenberger made 14 tackles.

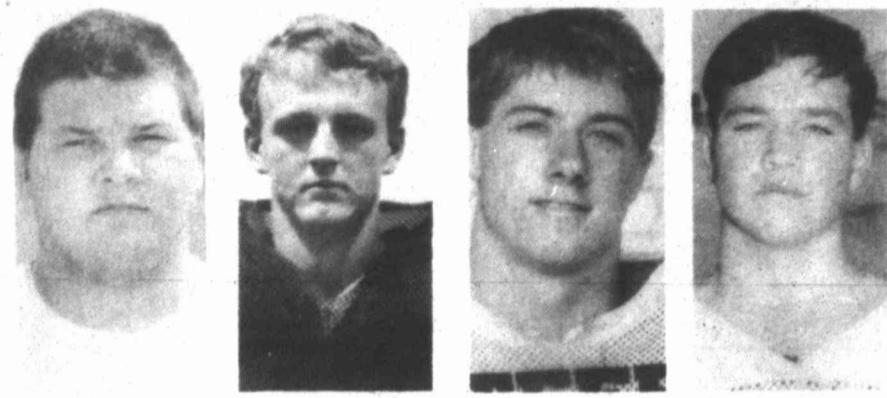

• In Greenwood's 40-7 loss to Reagan County, tackle Monte Mayo made 15 tackles.

• In Colorado City's 10-8 win over Crane, noseguard Mike Dossey made 10 tackles.

• In Big Spring's 21-14 loss to Sweetwater, cornerback Stacey Martin made 10 tackles, two for losses, and broke up a pass.

• In Borden County's win, cornerback John Paul Harris made 18 tackles and returned an intercepted pass 17 yards for a score.
• In Forsan's 35-12 loss to Robert Lee, linebacker Oscar Barreza made 15 tackles.

• In Coahoma's 35-18 win over Stanton, linebacker Chris Schneider made 16 tackles and tackle Mario Martinez made nine stops.

• In Grady's 50-28 loss to Wellman, linebacker Joe Moreno made 12 tackles.

• In Klondike's 42-14 win over Sands, end Tanner Etheredge made 10 tackles.

Top offensive performances were:

• Clearing the path for more than 400 yards of offense was the Garden City front of Chris Schraeder, David Blalock, Derek Schraeder, Jesse Salazar, Warren Wills, Cody Cummings and Juan Martinez.

• In Forsan's loss, fullback Chad Kemper graded out 85 percent on all his assignments. He carried eight times for 45 yards.

• In Coahoma's win, tailback Greg Atkinson had 131 yards in 21 carries and fullback Steve New had 13 carries for 127 yards.

• In Grady's loss to Wellman, Timmy Garza completed 8 of 21 passes for 154 yards and two scores.

• In Klondike's win, Mike Lee gained 206 yards in 31 carries and quarterback Etheredge was 7 of 14 for 126 yards.

• In Sands' loss to Klondike, Heath Gillespie gained 174 yards on 18 carries.

Jack Frost hits the pumpkin market

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DES MOINES, Iowa — A cool summer has left a lot of green pumpkins on the vine and a frost on the jack-o'-lantern market.

Consumers who wait until the last minute may have a tougher time finding the Halloween pumpkin that they want and may have to pay more than last year to get it.

"There's not a coup by the pumpkin growers. It's a fact of life, it's a fact of farming," said Ray Waterman, who runs a produce store in Collins, N.Y., and is president of the World Pumpkin Confederation.

The culprit: perverse weather. "Because it was dry in June they did not germinate. Then in July into August it was cold and wet and they didn't grow the way they were supposed to and they didn't pollinate the way they're supposed to," said Richard Prochaska, whose family has been raising pumpkins in Iowa for four generations.

Prochaska, who farms near Cedar Rapids, estimates 70 percent of his pumpkin crop was lost.

Prochaska is not alone. Michigan had its coldest June-through-August period on record. Iowa had the coldest July-September in 120 years of record-keeping, and June-August was the second-chillest ever in Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota, Chug Wilson, owner of Wilson's Orchard north of Iowa City, Iowa, clips one of the smallest pumpkins of this year's crop Tuesday. Wilson's crop was small and immature, producing only about 25 percent of last year's due to an early-season drought followed by heavy rainfall in July, making weeds heavy.

Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota and Wisconsin. It was the third-coldest June-August in Illinois, Ohio, Oklahoma, New York and North Dakota, according to the Commerce Department. Nationwide, it was the third-coldest June-August on record.

Not all pumpkin patches suffered. Joel Holland of Puyallup, Wash., recently won $7,000 at the World Pumpkin Confederation contest with an 827-pound giant that measured 14 feet around.

buy their pumpkin at the last minute — they're the ones who may have trouble finding them. They're going to run out fast."

In the meantime, prices have been rising.

Prochaska, who sold pumpkins wholesale last year for 5 cents to 6 cents a pound, said that as the harvest began, prices were almost double a year ago. Since then, prices have retreated to about 8 cents a pound for his pumpkins.

At Waterman's store about 30 miles south of Buffalo, N.Y., jack-o'-lantern pumpkins that last year went for 7 cents a pound are selling for about 12 cents. For a 35-pound pumpkin, that's an increase of $1.75.

A spot check of major wholesale markets also confirms rising prices but no major shortages this fall.

Boston wholesale prices are ranging from 8 cents to 13 cents a pound for pumpkins sold in 800-pound bins, compared with a range of 10-12 cents a pound a year ago, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Chicago prices ranged around 11 cents a pound Tuesday against 9 cents a year ago. In Los Angeles, pumpkins are 13-16 cents a pound, compared with 9-14 cents last year.

Growers still waiting for their late-developing carving pumpkins to turn orange are running out of time.

Amnesty report condemns killing, torturing of young

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Amnesty International today condemned governments all over the world for killing and torturing children, and sharply criticized American states for executing people for crimes they committed as juveniles.

An Amnesty report released today, "Innocence Betrayed: Human Rights Violations against Children and Young People," describes the arrest of a six-year-old in India, and vigilante squads murdering Brazilian street kids.

It also recounts the tale of a 16-year-old Kurdish girl who died in Turkish police custody, half her head shot away.

"Some children are deliberately targeted for human rights abuses because they are seen as social or political threats, others have been detained or tortured in order to force surrender or confession from their parents," the report says.

The London-based human rights group, which condemns capital punishment in all circumstances, said: "A handful of governments continue to impose the ultimate form of cruel and inhuman punishment (capital punishment) on children."

It said that over the past 10 years, five people were executed in the United States for crimes they committed as children, more than in any other country.

Amnesty cited the February execution by the state of Texas of Johnny Frank Garrett, who was 28 when he was killed.

Death penalty opponents, including Pope John Paul II, had pleaded for mercy for Garrett, convicted of raping and murdering a nun when he was 17. Lawyers had argued that Garrett was driven insane by sexual and physical abuse he endured as a child.

The Amnesty report says that in some countries, extreme poverty forces children onto city streets to fend for themselves.

"Street children are automatically regarded as criminal suspects by many law enforcement officers and are often subjected to harassment, threats or violent attacks Children in India ... as young as six have been arrested and tortured," it says.

It says that in June 1989, 11 young children and teenagers from slums in New Delhi were detained on suspicion of theft.

"Munni, a 13-year-old girl, was stripped naked and beaten and one 12-year-old boy was given electric shocks and beaten with a leather belt. Another boy was stripped, hung upside down from the ceiling and beaten until he fell unconscious," Amnesty said.

The youngest children, including a six-year-old boy, were released the next morning, the report says.

The report says police denied responsibility for the children's injuries, saying the children were roughed up by a family whose goods were stolen.

Amnesty said thousands of poverty-stricken children in Brazil's big cities have been tortured, murdered or have disappeared in recent years after being snatched by death squads often composed or run by police officers.

"Street children (in Brazil) have also been killed by death squads hired by local shopkeepers to remove alleged criminals and petty thieves from the area," the report says.

In Turkey, a 16-year-old Kurdish girl, Biseng Anik, was among 100 people, mostly students, detained by Turkish police in March in Sirnak province in the country's southeast following disturbances during the Kurdish New Year.

She died in police custody. When her mother went to collect the body, she found that half her daughter's head had been shot away, her hands were torn between the fingers, some fingers were broken and her flesh was covered in cigarette burns, cuts and bruises.

Amnesty said police said the girl was put in a cell where a rifle had been accidentally left under the bed and she used it to commit suicide. Police denied she was tortured, the report says.

The Turkish government is cracking down on a Kurdish insurgency.

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials returned from Vietnam with "very important documentation," including photographs, they said could help determine the fates of many Americans missing from the war in Southeast Asia.

The officials arrived back from the weekend trip Tuesday evening amid reports they had gained access to a cache of secret information, including thousands of photographs, that government sources said hold clues to what became of many of the 2,266 American servicemen unaccounted for from the Vietnam War.

"I believe we have brought home very important documentation which will go a long way in resolving many cases that are still listed as missing in action," said Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., a member of the Senate Select Committee on POW-MIA Affairs.

McCain, a former Vietnam prisoner of war, and retired Gen. John Vessey Jr., Bush's special emissary for POW-MIA affairs, each made brief statements to reporters upon their arrival at Andrews Air Force Base, Md. They said they would brief President Bush on their findings Thursday.

They declined to take any questions, but as they walked to their waiting cars, McCain was asked if they had brought any of the documentation back with them. He replied, "Some." Asked if they had photographs, he said, "Yes."

One source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the photographs were all of dead servicemen.

Officials said that if positive identifications are made, families of the missing men will be notified first. After the president is briefed, a public announcement will be made, they said.

On Monday, the official Vietnamese News Agency said Vietnam would expand its help in determining the fate of Americans missing from the Vietnam War by letting U.S. experts study military archives. In a joint communique, Vessey and Vietnamese officials said accelerated cooperation on resolving the cases of the missing will bring more rapid movement by the United States toward normalization of relations with Vietnam.

A Senate source, also speaking on condition of anonymity, said between 4,000 and 5,000 photos were in the newly uncovered archives, but many were duplicates or different shots of the same individuals.

BSISD board to hear report on failing students

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees on Thursday will hear a report on failing students excluded from extra-curricular activities and discuss a state proposal to integrate special education students.

Trustees meet at noon in the Big Spring High School board room.

Topping the board's agenda is reviewing and accepting bids regarding BSISD property demolition, athletic field lights and spring sports supplies.

Superintendent Bill McQueary will give the number of students who will not be able to participate the next six weeks in extra-curricular activities — like band and athletics — for failing at least one class during the first six weeks.

The board will also review a new special education proposal, developed by the Texas Education Agency, requiring special education students to be placed in regular classes.

"We've been doing this for years," said Bill McQueary. "(The state) plan is a little more dramatic."

After purchasing alleged drug-dealing properties across from the high school, school officials will accept a bid to demolish and level the sites.

According to school officials, the cleared area could serve as a potential parking lot.

Trustees will sift through bids from parties wanting to purchase the wooden Blankenship Field light poles replaced in September by updated metal poles.

In other business, trustees will approve fund-raising plans for school organizations.

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. — A man who was studying a book on chess in the library was handcuffed and charged with trespassing after he refused to put away his game board.

Louis Taylor, 41, said he was poring over a 112-page book on a single position Sept. 8 when a librarian told him board games were not allowed. When he balked at putting it away, the librarian called police.

"This is a public library. It's not a recreation center," said library Director Patricia Anderson. Taylor, who is due in City Court on Nov. 20, predicted the charge would be dismissed.

"I think the library will be too embarrassed to appear in court," he said.

Sock hoppin' fun

Event to benefit community center

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

Locals can go back to the fabulous '50s at a dance-fundraiser to benefit the Dora Roberts Community Center Nov. 7.

Advance tickets are on sale for the event, described as a sock-hop reminiscent of the 1950s-60s. Organizers said along with the popular music of the era, there will be special "appearances" by stars such as Sonny and Cher, and Elvis.

"It's going to take people back to their childhoods," said Beverly McMahon, organizer. "They'll be going back to the heyday of the Jet Drive-In."

McMahon is part of a group of local citizens who have begun a full-steam-ahead fundraising effort for the repair and renovation of the community center, located in Comanche Trail Park.

All money raised at the sock-hop will go toward needed work, including roof repairs, heating and air conditioning work, painting and maintenance.

How you can help

Roofing, heating and cooling, accessibility renovations and other work is planned at the Dora Roberts Community Center, located in Comanche Trail Park.

Already, a number of local people with useful skills have volunteered to donate their time and services. But more are needed.

For information about how you can help preserve this historic part of Big Spring, call Beverly McMahon at 263-2825 or the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, 263-7641.

A fund of $122,000 is in place to benefit the center, but more is needed, McMahon said. Donations are still being accepted at First National Bank in the Dora Roberts Community Center fund.

"It's totally separate from the city, and every penny of it will be used for the center," explained McMahon. "That is such a beautiful building and it is deteriorating before our eyes."

McMahon said she and others envision the center as a gathering place for local groups and associations, as well as a showplace for weddings and other special events. They hope the West Texas Center for the Arts, theater group and others will use the center.

The sock-hop — the group's first fundraiser — will be a unique experience, McMahon said. Local decorators are transforming the community center space into a reminders of Big Spring's past.

Tickets are $30 for a couple, $15 for singles. They can be purchased in advance at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, or at the door. McMahon said groups who wish to sit together should make reservations in advance so seating can be arranged.

The event begins at 8 p.m.

"It's going to be fun, a really good time," McMahon said. "And we're going to save the center, so it's a worthwhile cause."

Halloween party treats you can make

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

What's Halloween without snakes, spiders and pumpkins? Striped Green Snakes and Festive Pumpkin cookies are made from the same dough. Huge Scary Spiders are made from a basic chocolate dough that can be made days ahead and frozen.

Festive Pumpkins and Striped Green Snakes

- 2½ cups all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup oil
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

For pumpkin decoration:

- Green sprinkles
- 3 ounces light or Neufchatel cream cheese
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- Red and yellow food color
- Black licorice, cut into small triangles for eyes and thin long pieces for mouth

For snakes:

- Green food color
- Red baking candies or "red, hot" for decoration
- Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly grease a baking sheet.
- In a small bowl, mix flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. In a medium bowl combine sugar, oil, eggs and vanilla. Slowly add flour mixture, mixing well to form a stiff dough. If you want to make both cookies, divide the dough into two balls.

To make pumpkin cookies, shape dough into 2-inch circles; flatten. Add a stem to the top. Cover stem with green sprinkles. Place on prepared baking sheet. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from baking sheet; let cool.

To make frosting, mix cream cheese and vanilla. Add powdered sugar; mix thoroughly until smooth. Add equal amounts of yellow and red food colors to make orange. Spread over cooled pumpkins. Make the face with licorice. Makes about 16 cookies if dough is divided in half.

To make snakes, add 8 to 10 drops green color to dough; mix in. The coloring will not mix in evenly, yielding striped snakes. Roll out the dough to be about 6 to 7 inches long and ¼ inch wide. Shape the dough into snakes with two "S" curves. Use two red candies for the eyes. Place on prepared baking sheet. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 8 to 10 minutes; be careful not to overbake. Carefully remove from baking sheet and let cool. Makes about 20 snakes if dough is divided in half.

Nutrition information per snake cookie: 74 cal., 10.6 g carbo., 1.1 g pro., 3.1 g fat, 10.6 mg chol., 55.6 mg sodium.

Huge Scary Spiders

- 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
- 1¼ cups all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Red baking candies or "red, hot" for decoration

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Lightly grease a baking sheet.

In a saucepan melt chocolate over low heat. Let cool. In a small bowl mix flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium bowl, beat margarine on low speed until smooth. Add sugar and beat until creamy. Stir in egg, vanilla and chocolate. Add flour mixture and mix well, forming a stiff dough.

To make a spider, shape a 2-inch flat oval for the body. Make the spider's head by flattening a circle about ½ inch wide. Shape dough for eight legs, each about 2 inches long and less than ¼ inch wide. Attach the head and legs to the body. Use two red candies for the eyes. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 5 to 8 minutes. Let spiders cool on baking sheet to avoid breaking when removing. Makes about 20 spiders.

Nutrition information per spider cookie: 104 cal., 16.3 g carbo., 1.4 g pro., 4.1 g fat, 10.6 mg chol., 77.5 mg sodium.

Homemade gift ideas: Right for the holiday season

With Thanksgiving and Christmas just ahead, now is not too soon to begin making homemade gifts from your kitchen. Friends and neighbors love to receive baskets of delicious foods during the holidays when most are busy with food preparations, decorating, shopping and trying to squeeze 36 hours out of a 24-hour day.

Each year I try to come up with a different assortment for gift-giving. One of the most popular has been my homemade summer sausage, cheese ball, fancy mustard, crackers, apples and wine combination. You could substitute sparkling or mineral water, apple cider or any other suitable beverage if you do not choose to give wine. It also makes a great housewarming gift, when you might consider inserting a set of coasters.

For Christmas giving, you can use natural-colored wicker baskets, or spray them red or green and line with a colorful napkin or fabric in a Christmas motif.

If you want an elegant presentation, spray basket gold or silver and insert gold or silver lame fabric and add a bow or ribbon in the same color. You could add a tree ornament. There are endless possibilities.

I have used a wicker picnic basket, added a checkered tablecloth with color-coordinated paper plates, glasses, napkins and plastic silverware. This one is great for your out-of-door, nature-loving friends.

The sausage basket is also appreciated by Sunday afternoon or Monday night TV football fans. Even my couch-potato friends are worthy of it.

Another variety basket I enjoy making and giving is a combination of beverage mixes, such as spiced tea, hot chocolate and gourmet coffees, combined with Russian tea cookies, snickerdoodles or any other assortment of homemade cookies. Tuck in a fancy coffee mug and you have a winner to take to a friend in the hospital or a shut-in.

For your bean-loving friends a fun gift would be a soup kettle which you have purchased and packed with a bean soup mix, small canned ham and oyster crackers. Add a couple of hot pads or fancy trivet, or both.

To dress up your gift before giving, you might want to add a fancy bow or wrap it in clear colored cellophane bunched at the top and tied with ribbon.

Be creative and original. Let your imagination be your guide. Most of all, have fun in the kitchen and take pride in something you have put yourself into. Personal gifts are appreciated by everyone.

Summer Sausage

- 5 pounds ground beef
- 5 tbsp. Morton's tenderquick salt
- 1 tbsp. coarse ground black pepper
- 1 tsp. mustard seed
- 1 tsp. onion powder
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 tsp. hickory salt
- 1 tsp. dried red pepper flakes, optional
- 1 tsp. liquid hickory smoke

Mix ground beef with salt in large bowl or pan. Mix together black pepper, mustard seed, onion powder, garlic powder, hickory salt and red pepper flakes in small bowl. Sprinkle over meat mixture and add liquid smoke. Mix together with hands. Cover and refrigerate four days, mixing well each day.

On the fourth day, divide and shape into five single 2-inch rolls about 8 inches long. Bake at 200 degrees for 5 hours. Turn halfway through baking time. Drain well and cool. Wrap in foil and keep refrigerated. Bake logs on broiler pan.

Christmas Cheese Ball

- 1 — 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, room temp.
- 3 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup crumbled bleu cheese
- 1 small onion, finely minced
- 1 — 4-oz. jar mushroom pieces, drained and chopped fine
- 1 small jar pimientos, drained and chopped fine
- 1 small green pepper, chopped
- 1/4 tsp. Tabasco sauce

Mix all ingredients together with hands and shape into 2 round balls. Refrigerate wrapped in cellophane wrap. Next day roll in 1/2 cup chopped pecans and 1/2 cup parsley browned in 1/4 stick margarine.

Food for thought: One thing you can give and still keep is your word. Sue Haugh's cooking and decorating ideas appear Wednesdays in the Big Spring Herald.

TV boycott slated

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WILMINGTON, Del. — In a recent episode of ABC's "Civil Wars," actress Mariel Hemingway disrobed in what some say marked the introduction of nudity on prime-time network television.

Vicki Riley did not like what she saw.

"It was very risqué," she says. "It was very unnecessary."

Mrs. Riley, the chairwoman for national "Turn Off TV Day," is asking viewers to protest what they perceive as offensive programming by turning off their televisions on Friday, Nov. 13, during sweeps week.

She started the one-day television boycott in Delaware in 1990 through her fledgling Concerned Viewers for Quality Television. That group since has disbanded, but she's taking on the national project for New York-based Morality in Media, which co-sponsored last year's Turn Off Day.

"The reason for the Turn Off TV Day is to appeal to the networks — prove to them that there are people who are concerned with decency standards," Mrs. Riley said.

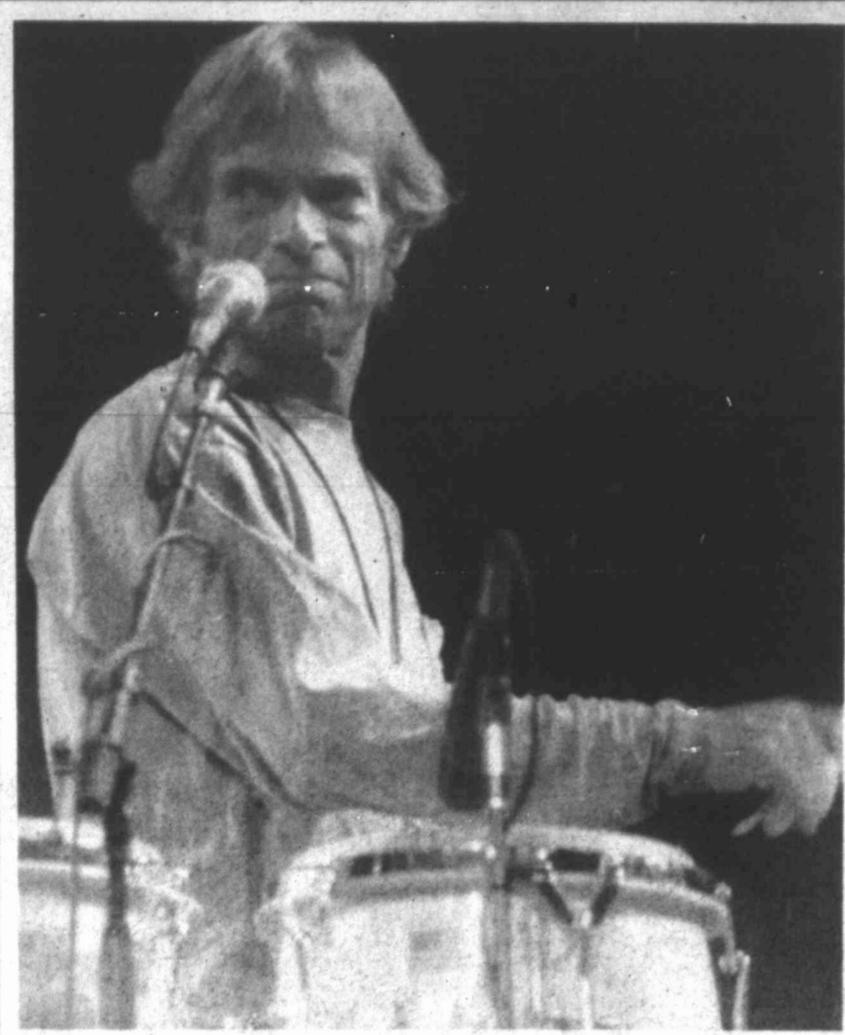

She asks anyone who participates in the boycott to send four letters to Morality in Media, addressed to the presidents of ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox Broadcasting Co. Her organization plans to deliver the letters.

Peter Chrsanthopoulos, president of the Network Television Association, called the last boycott ineffective. He predicts that, again this year, "there will be no effect on network ratings or television ratings as a result of this."

ABC spokeswoman Janice Gretmeyer said the public response to the "Civil Wars" episode that aired Sept. 30 has been minimal.

ABC's policy is not to specify the numbers of audience response, she said, but "we have received no mail. We received several hundred calls," a fraction of the 13.7 million people who watched the show.

Mrs. Rakolta said the networks have lost sight of their responsibility to the public.

Gatemouth: Positively blue

By KATHY KEMP
Scripps Howard News Service

You can almost hear Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown's blood pressure rise when he talks about the current state of popular music.

His voice, "normally sweet with Southern gentility, gets louder. His words come faster. Even though he's speaking by telephone from his home in Slidell, La., you can picture his 68-year-old face contorted in disgust.

"You know, I was riding last night in my van, it was me and my driver, and we went down to Baton Rouge, 'cause I got a big home down there where my wife and my daughter stay. We were coming back and I turned on the radio. I don't know who this guy was, but he was using all kind of profanity in his song. I thought it was terrible.

"Basically, it could have been a nice tune, but he was cussing through it. That's nothing to send out where our children can listen to it. I don't like that at all."

Brown has never been one to follow the masses. Although he's known primarily as a blues guitarist, he bristles when writers put the word "bluesman" in front of his name.

"I hate that, because the blues that whites relate to is the real negative backwoods blues, where you're just feeling sorry for yourself, hating everybody else, and your woman's no good. Like many artists in the past that people thought were real great, if you listen to their lyrics, they're very negative. I just don't like that."

"My blues is positive. Instead of saying bad things about people, I say good things and try to steer them on a better path in life. The blues doesn't have to all be sad."

Don't give a teen a diesel truck

Is it motherhood? Or has rigor mortis of the brain set in?

Warning, warning, Will Robinson aliens are approaching!

(Or maybe it is a teenager. . .)

Me? I still think rigor mortis of the brain starts during teenhood. My husband is totally convinced aliens randomly take "his son," and leave my child.

"Son," my other half stated in his manlyman voice. "We have bought you a pick-up truck."

(The kind that got left out in the rain and shrunk, snickers my brain.)

"This truck has a diesel engine son. You have to put diesel in the tank. Not gasoline, diesel."

The word DIESEL echoed through my house for days and weeks like some obnoxious ghost, the kind of ghost that always seems trap mom in the middle of things.

Okay, so we occasionally try to cover up for our darling, innocent child. Look at it this way, if the alien really does take my husband's son and I am left with a look-alike; so what? He's the baby . . . gotta love him.

(At this point that's all he's good for!)

"Mom?" came the whisper from his bedroom and I headed down the hall. "What would happen if you put gasoline in a diesel engine?"

"Nice try, kid, but your father was right behind me."

It wasn't too bad . . . until his father asked how much gasoline.

Derek's response was a happy, "Only 10 gallons."

I noticed a small rumbling behind me, where my husband said with a loud boom, "The truck only holds 13 gallons total!"

Hey, look, give the kid a break. Remember you're the one who kept trying to convince me you had that mechanic "fix" the truck so he couldn't drive over 65. SO WHY DID HE GET A TICKET FOR DOING 83?

Okay, so he has rigor mortis of the brain. But he comes by it honestly. Look who he has for a mother. What other mother in the world loves her "baby" enough to splash his name all over the newspaper?!

(Of course it's love . . . Why would I want revenge?)

Besides, it could have been worse. He could have been the ONLY child in town who put gasoline in a diesel engine. Or, he could have fuled a gasoline engine with diesel.

Better yet, he could be doing something REAL stupid like Mrs. Miller's son, bull riding. I know teens throw a lot of bull, but that's not the same as some overgrown bull trying to throw her son. (And I thought I had a brain-dead child.)

I've given it a lot of thought and quite honestly, if it were me, there would be a death in the family. — Derek, if I found out before he tried it; me, if I saw him try it.

Yep, I think the sitcom "Dinosaurs" has it right on the money with the baby always saying, "I'm the baby, gotta love me."

Someday my darling — YOU'LL BE THE PARENT AND I'LL BE THE GRANDMOTHER! (Yes Kimberley, there is a God.)

This is part of a series of columns by Kimberley Phillips.

Political pumpkins
 With election day just around the corner, Pumpkin Ltd. of Denver, Colo., has a festive Halloween treat to show your choice in the election. John Bardeen holds up pumpkin patterns of President Bush and Bill Clinton. Ross Perot looms in the background, right. Special saws are used to carve the jack-o-lanterns.

Spooky reading
 Book ideas for Halloween

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — If you're looking for a scary book for Halloween reading, here's some help in deciding "witch" one to choose.

What could be creepier than tales of vampires, those dead-on-their-feet bloodsuckers? "The Mammoth Book of Vampires" (Carroll & Graf, $9.95), edited by Stephen Jones, is a new paperback collection of short tales of vampires. Among its stories are Edgar Allan Poe's "Ligeia," "Hungarian Rhapsody" by Robert Bloch, and "Dracula's Guest" by Bram Stoker, the daddy of Dracula tales.

And speaking of Dracula, the exploits of the count are recounted in the paperback "Bram Stoker's Dracula" (Signet, $4.99), a novelization of the upcoming Francis Ford Coppola film. Written by Fred Saberhagen and James V. Hart, the novel is based on Hart's screenplay and differs from the original "Dracula" novel in that it combines Stoker's fictional character with the historical one.

For purists who would rather sink their fangs into the classic version, Signet also has published "Dracula" ($3.99), a paperback of Stoker's original 1897 novel accompanied by eight pages of photos (in eerie black and white, of course) of scenes from the new film.

And if "Dracula" alone isn't enough to scare you witless, Stoker's tale of that best-known of all Transylvanians is joined by Mary Shelley's "Frankenstein" and Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" in a single paperback volume from Signet ($5.99).

Shelley's is the familiar 1818 story of Dr. Victor Frankenstein, who gives new life to a corpse and creates a monster that eventually destroys him; Stevenson's 1886 novel tells of the good Dr. Jekyll, whose experiment turns him into the evil, murderous Mr. Hyde. Stephen King wrote the introduction to the volume.

A modern-day vampire takes center stage in "The Tale of the Body Thief" (Knopf, $24), the brand-new fourth volume in Anne Rice's popular "Vampire Chronicles" series. In this latest adventure, rock star and vampire-hero Lestat, feeling lonely and full of doubts, embarks on a dangerous journey in a quest to become mortal.

For "a complete guide to the world of the undead," consult "Vampire" (Viking Studio, $20) by Manuela Dunn Mascetti. Text and more than 100 illustrations take readers on a tour of the vampires' world that reveals their traits and lifestyles through literary and eyewitness accounts. Included is a chapter on "How to Kill a Vampire" — just in case.

Don't read "In a Dark Place" (Villard, $19) in a dark place! In this true ghost story, author Ray Garton, with Al and Carmen Snedeker and Ed and Lorraine Warren, tell about the Snedeker family's haunting experience in their rented house in Connecticut. Weird goings-on perpetrated by an evil presence prompted the Snedekers to call in the Warrens, professional ghostbusters, whose research uncovered the root of the evil in the house's dark history.

More real-life hauntings are offered in "Haunted History" (Warner, $4.99) by Rich Rainey. This paperback contains 19 stories that describe the role supernatural phenomenon has played in historical events, including Columbus' voyage to the New World, Gen. Washington at Valley Forge, and the sinking of the Titanic.

But if you'd rather scream with laughter than with horror, look into "The Bewitched Book" (Delta, $14) by Herbie J. Pilato. This large-format paperback is a companion to "Bewitched," the popular TV sitcom of the 1960s that is still seen today in reruns.

"Bewitched" tells of suburban housewife Samantha, the beautiful and gentle witch who tried to lead a life of domestic bliss with her mortal husband, Darrin — who proved to be a source of constant irritation to Samantha's mother, Endora.

The book features a summary of each episode, interviews with the series' stars, 100-plus photos, anecdotes, trivia, and explanations of the show's special effects.

Stepmother frosted by son's cold shoulder

DEAR ABBY: "Gary" and I have been married for six years. This is my first marriage and his second. Gary has three children from his first marriage. They live with their mother in another state, but come to visit their father and me during summer vacations. "Todd," the eldest, has never accepted me because he had always hoped that his parents would get back together. (I had nothing to do with the breakup.) When his father married me, Todd's hopes were shattered. He is now 17, and when he visits, he never even says hello to me. When I mentioned this to Gary, he said, "The divorce really affected Todd." Abby, I've bent over backward trying to get Todd to like me, but it's hopeless. I get along very well

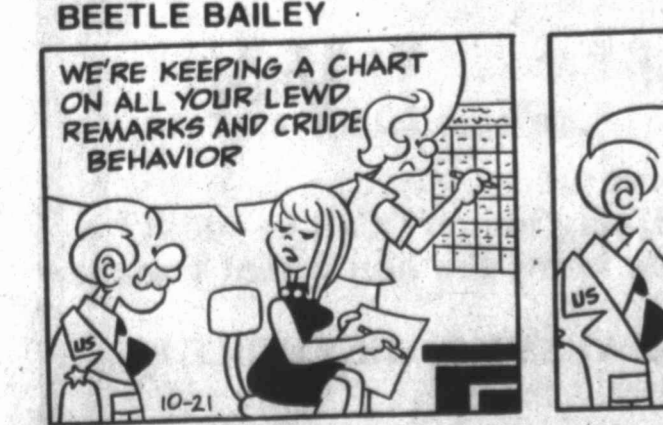

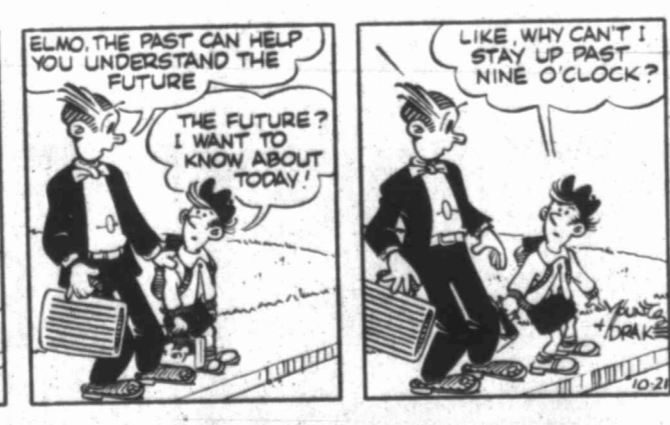

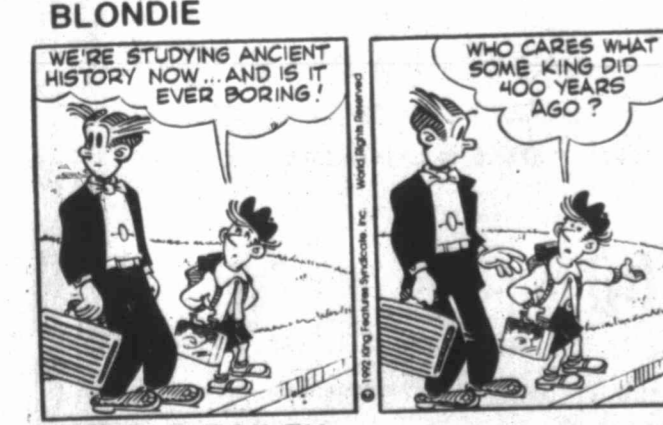

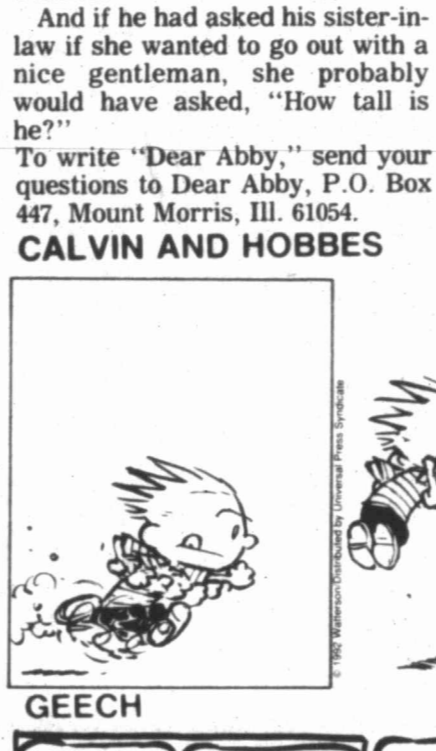

Dear Abby
with his siblings. The problem: Todd wants to go to college here, and Gary wants him to live with us while he's attending college. I am so depressed at the thought of having Todd here for the next four years, I can't handle it. I told Gary how I feel, but he says he can't turn his back on his son, and he can't afford to put him up on campus. Please tell me what to do. -- CAN'T COPE ANYMORE
DEAR CAN'T COPE: This is an assignment for your husband. He must tell Todd that if he is to stay with you, he'd better start behaving like a man. He doesn't have to like you, but he should treat you with respect, which includes saying "hello." And since Todd will be living with you for four years, there should be a clear understanding about the house rules. Who will clean Todd's room? Who will do his laundry? Is there a curfew? A suggestion: To assure no misunderstandings, everything should be in writing. DEAR ABBY: I know a man who took his wife and recently widowed sister-in-law to a baseball game. No sooner had the three of them sat down in their reserved seats when in came a gentleman and his young son, and sat right beside them. The man who had brought the two ladies happened to know the late entry, so he introduced him to the women. The gentleman, who happened to be a widower, had the seat right next to the widowed sister-in-law. The two of them hit it off very well. Six months later they were making wedding plans! Not until then did the widow learn that her brother-in-law had bought ALL FIVE TICKETS, and seated her right next to his friend. Wouldn't you say this was a lot better than trying to arrange a blind date? -- IT HAPPENED IN HOUSTON

DEAR HAPPENED: Much! Had the brother-in-law asked his friend if he wanted to meet a nice widow, the friend would probably have said, "No thanks. I know enough widows." And if he had asked his sister-in-law if she wanted to go out with a nice gentleman, she probably would have asked, "How tall is he?" To write "Dear Abby," send your questions to Dear Abby, P.O.
