Scholastic Book Fair conducted all week

Students, teachers and parents can purchase their favorite books at the Marcy Elementary School library this week for the Scholastic Book Fair.

From 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today through Thursday, the book fair will feature the new and the classics as well as book marks and posters. The book list targets pre-school through sixth grade levels.

Proceeds of the fair go back into the Marcy library to buy more books or add more learning equipment.

Moore board to meet

Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. is scheduled to meet Thursday in executive session to discuss land contracts.

The city-funded business development group will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Repairing water valves

Wednesday, the city of Big Spring will be working on water valves, causing lack of water or fluctuating water supply, along Goliad to Donley streets from 5th to 6th streets between 8:30-4:30 p.m.

Coahoma school board

The Coahoma Independent School Board of Trustees will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in special session. Items on the agenda include special reports from Global Roofing Co. and attorney Lance Hall; roof damage insurance claim; and an executive session.

Heart walk earns $1,000

Over 30 walkers earned about $1,000 in donations for the American Heart Association while making their way around the Big Spring State Park on Scenic Mountain Saturday.

"It (the walk) is one of my favorite events, because the Heart Association raises money and it promotes a heart-healthy activity," said board member Diane Linhart.

Money raised by the Howard County division of the American Heart Association is used to provide teaching materials to physician's offices, schools and other facilities, Linhart said.

State park officials allowed Heart Association walkers free use of the mountain, she said. And H-E-B provided juice for participants.

The local Heart Association works closely with the Howard College fitness center and is involved with Scenic Mountain Medical Center's new cardiovascular rehabilitation program, she said.

Israeli warplanes hit Lebanon

One killed, five injured in Arab guerrilla rocket salvo

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

JERUSALEM — Israeli warplanes and howitzers pounded guerrilla bases in Lebanon today for a second straight day, and radio reports said the army moved tanks into the Israeli-occupied buffer zone inside southern Lebanon.

Arab guerrillas who have stepped up attacks on Israeli forces in an attempt to wreck the Middle East peace talks fought back with Katyusha rockets. One salvo slammed into a northern Israeli town before dawn, killing a 14-year-old boy and wounding five people, the Israeli army said.

The reported movement of Israeli reinforcements into the buffer zone raised the possibility that Israel might be planning ground attacks on guerrilla bases, which could strain the latest round of peace talks in Washington.

Israel radio first reported the movement of tanks without citing a source, but army radio later broadcast a similar story it attributed to "foreign sources in Lebanon." Army radio also said Israel had deployed "large numbers of troops" along the border with Lebanon.

The army spokesman's office refused to comment on the reports. But security sources in southern Lebanon said they had no reports of tank movements across the Israeli border.

On Monday, Israel moved at least 16 more howitzers into the zone accompanied by armored personnel carriers and 500 soldiers, security sources said.

At least 12 people have been killed and 30 wounded in fighting that began Sunday when guerrillas set off a roadside bomb that killed five Israeli soldiers in the security zone. Hezbollah, the pro-Iranian fundamentalist Shiite Muslim movement, claimed responsibility for the bombing.

Today's rocket attack on northern Israel brought a strong response from Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin,

Teacher appraisals, insurance issues addressed by TSTA

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Local Texas State Teachers Association members met their new UniServ consultant on Monday to meet Elwood Thomson, newly selected representative who services TSTA groups in 25 counties in Texas.

About 40 educators from Big Spring Independent School District attended the meeting at Spanish Inn to meet Elwood Thomson, newly selected representative who services TSTA groups in 25 counties in Texas.

The group, affiliated with the National Education Association, has 65,000 members statewide.

The Texas Teacher Appraisal System is of some concern to educators because teachers are forced to compete for higher ratings leading to bonus considerations, said Thompson.

"If the appraisal system could be carried out in an objective manner it could work. The state should fully fund it," he said. "Teachers have to do a dog-and-pony show. Teachers should not have salaries based on who can grab the bone. It's not natural."

The Career Ladder System is based on teacher evaluations which determine eligibility for salary bonuses. Currently, the state requires local districts to partially-fund the bonuses.

"We try to make sure teachers take the proper actions if they are not satisfied with their evaluations," he said. "We let them know about their legal rights and rebuttals."

Discussion included the group's recent endorsement of presidential candidate Gov. Bill Clinton.

"(President) Bush claims to be the education president, but he hasn't spoken to us. We really didn't have a choice," Thompson said. "Even the Arkansas group fought for a while to be able to work with Clinton, but now they have a good relationship with the governor."

Hearing petition is filed against juvenile suspected in murder case

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A petition alleging juvenile delinquent conduct was filed Monday against a 16-year-old boy in connection with the Oct. 16 death of Bill Kuykendall, 65, in Big Spring.

Murder is suspected, said Howard County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson, who filed the petition. "It alleges he knowingly and intentionally caused the death of Bill Kuykendall with a deadly weapon, to wit, a firearm."

The youth, whose identity is not being released, has been detained by juvenile authorities since he reportedly turned himself in to police the day after Kuykendall's body was discovered at his home on the 1700 block of Yale. Kuykendall had four bullet wounds on his head and other injuries.

Wilkerson said he will attempt to have the youth certified as competent to stand trial for murder as an adult. County Judge Ben Lockhart will determine competency following the psychiatric examination of the youth.

"I think it's going to take a month," Wilkerson said. "We're going to get it taken care of as quick as we can."

"There's been no dates of any kind set for anything," Lockhart said this morning.

Because bonds are not set in juvenile cases, the youth must have another hearing within 10 days of being held to determine if there is cause to continue holding him. Wilkerson said he plans to request hearings within every 10 days to have the youth held until disposition of the case.

A detention hearing is planned for this week. "It's going to be Wednesday or Thursday, I imagine," said Lockhart, who will determine if authorities should continue detention.

Meanwhile, criteria for competency as an adult includes aggressiveness and premeditation of the crime, if it was against a person or property, the sophistication and maturation of the youth, whether evidence can bring a grand jury indictment and the record and history of the suspect.

Adult sentences for murder range from two years in prison to life or death, depending on the degree of murder. Juvenile sentences for murder range from zero up to 40 years under determinate sentencing and incarceration in the Texas Youth Commission up to 21 years old under indeterminate sentencing.

Budget amendments were made to compensate for higher health care costs, according to County Auditor Jackie Olson. The hike in health care came in January, but commissioners waited to make necessary line-item amendments until the ending fund balance was calculated.

Other amendments were made in the capital expenditures fund, primarily for computer equipment and software for county offices, Olson said.

The ending balance for fiscal year 1991-92 is about $3.1 million, Olson said.

Girl Scouts help girls build self-esteem

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Girl Scouts have been serving all area girls between the ages of 5 and 17 years since 1947, according to their charter.

One of 10 agencies partially funded by United Way of Big Spring-Howard County, Big Spring Girl Scouts includes 200 girls from Howard and Martin counties, said Lorinda Herrod, Big Spring Girl Scout service unit director.

Big Spring Girl Scouts is administered from the Abilene District, which includes 16 counties, said Nancy Henderson, executive director of the West Texas Girl Scout Council.

"Big Spring has been a very important community to West Texas Girl Scouts," Henderson said.

United Way gives $7,548 to the Abilene District office, where it is combined with other funds to be used for Big Spring Girl Scouting.

"In this organization, girls are encouraged to be themselves, but to be the best self they can be,"

Herrod said. "Girls learn what is great about being a girl, how to develop self-confidence, how to be a good citizen and what their self-potential is."

"Girl Scouts do many things, from weekly troop meetings, skating events, father-daughter events, mother-daughter events, badge workshops, camp-outs, slumber parties, ceremonies, field trips, day camp, summer camp, cookie sales and lost more," Herrod said.

In addition to the girls, 60 Big Spring adults are currently active in local Girl Scouting.

Girl Scouts are separated by age groups, with each group involved in activities tailored to their needs, Herrod said.

Local Girl Scouts sit in the back of a truck as they participated in the annual Homecoming parade last Friday afternoon. The Girl Scouts, funded in part by the United Way, are involved in many civic activities around the city.

Bush's lawyer bashing remarks earn new trial

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

GALVESTON — A judge has ruled that a jury considering how much money to award a Galveston man in his lawsuit against two railroad companies may have been influenced by President Bush's lawyer bashing remarks in a speech at the Republican National Convention.

State District Judge Ed Harris on Monday ordered a new trial in the case of railroad worker Tom E. Lightsey, 47.

A jury awarded Lightsey only $11,000 in his lawsuit in which he sought more than $60,000 in medical expenses for an on-the-job back injury.

Lightsey's attorney had argued that Bush's speech accepting the Republican nomination, given at the Astrodome in nearby Houston the night before the jury began deliberating Lightsey's case, may have influenced jurors.

"Texas law gives the trial court the power to grant a new trial in the interest of justice as well as for errors of law and fact," Harris said.

At a hearing on the request earlier this month, Harris said about Bush's speech: "I heard it and I was quite upset about it. I was appalled."

Alvin attorney Gordon Davenport, who represented Lightsey, had argued that Bush's criticism of trial lawyers during his nationally televised acceptance speech poisoned jurors' minds. He maintained that some members of the panel must have heard, seen or read the speech.

"Sharp lawyers are running wild. Doctors are afraid to practice medicine. And some moms and pops won't even coach Little League anymore," Bush said during the speech. "We must sue each other less and care for each other more. I'm fighting to reform our legal system, to put an end to crazy lawsuits."

Lightsey underwent several operations after injuring his back while working as a switchman in July 1990. He alleged that Galveston Railway Inc. and Burlington Northern Railroad Co. were negligent.

Houston lawyer Dan Spain, who represented Burlington Northern in the trial, said he was disappointed and surprised by the judge's ruling.

"It was a very novel approach, and, as they say, 'Timing is everything.'"

15-year-old kills mom's boyfriend

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — A 15-year-old boy walked into his mother's bedroom, pulled a pistol and shot her boyfriend to death because he claims the man had been beating his mother, police say.

"Supposedly no words were exchanged at the time, he just walked in and shot him," homicide commander Lt. Larry Birney said Monday.

Johnny Mata, 33, was pronounced dead at the scene early Monday. He had been shot in the abdomen with bullets fired from a .32-caliber pistol.

The mother and the boy were not identified because the boy is a juvenile.

The teen-ager, a dropout who has a history of alcohol-related crimes, was being held in the Juvenile Detention Center on a murder charge in connection with the shooting.

'He just got tired of this guy whipping up on his mom. It happened time and time again.'

Bill Delano
Youth's attorney

In a detention hearing Monday before District Judge Tom Rickhoff, the youth's court-appointed attorney, Bill Delano, said the mother's boyfriend repeatedly had assaulted her.

"He just got tired of this guy whipping up on his mom," Delano said. "It happened time and time again."

The boy's mother was not at the hearing. The youth's father, with whom the teen alternately lived, also was not present.

Mata had lived for about a year with the youth and his mother at their home, Birney said.

When police arrived at the shooting scene, they found the youth sitting on the front porch with a gun on the sidewalk in front of him.

"There's the gun," a police report on the incident quotes the teen saying to the first officer on the scene. "I shot him twice."

The youth told police that after he shot Mata, he ran out of the house but then returned to the bedroom. He told police he pointed the gun to Mata's head and attempted to pull the trigger.

But the gun jammed. The last round was fired as the boy tried to fix the weapon, the police report said.

"All we have is what the mother said," Birney said. "Basically, the story is he (the youth) came home drunk, he has a violent temper when he's drunk."

Police said after the boy returned home, his mother twice told him to go to sleep and he turned off the lights in the house and appeared to be going to sleep.

But then he approached the bedroom where the couple was in bed watching television.

"He had said he was going to kill the boyfriend for beating his mother," Birney said, but did not elaborate on when the statement was made.

"The mother made a statement that the (boyfriend) had struck her several times in the past and that may be why he did it."

PRINCETON, N.J. — The cities of Dallas, Houston and Lubbock have received grants from a health care philanthropy to develop plans to immunize preschool children.

The cities were among 23 to receive grants under the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation's initiative, ALL KIDS COUNT. The cities will use the funds in part to develop computerized databases to track immunization of preschoolers.

The Lubbock Health Department will administer a grant of $132,926 for a proposed database that will link the 41 counties in the Panhandle and South Plains.

DALLAS — The state health department has run out of tuberculosis skin tests caused by a supply shortage on the part of the Italian manufacturer, a newspaper reports.

The Texas Department of Health, which supplies local health departments, finished off its supply of the tests three weeks ago, The Dallas Morning News reported Tuesday.

The state doesn't have any more tests because the manufacturer voluntarily recalled them.

Nation's school boards grade

WASHINGTON — The nation's school boards are least effective in providing education, according to a report released Tuesday.

Nation's school board members grade selves down

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Members of the nation's school boards say they are least effective at the tasks most important to improving the quality of education, according to a report released today.

The report by the Institute for Educational Leadership echoed the findings of a task force earlier this year that urged local boards to take charge of policy and avoid getting bogged down by small, routine issues.

"The nation's education reform objectives require strong leadership and governance," the institute said. "Too many current school boards are not leading and governing on the level required to recreate the structure and substance of public education."

The institute, a non-profit group that develops strategies for improving education, surveyed members of 300 school boards in 16 states. They were asked to rate their boards' performance in 15 areas on a scale of 1 to 15, with 15 being least effective.

They gave themselves grades of failing or barely passing, between 13 and 15, on key governance areas such as leadership, policy oversight, involving parents and community leaders, setting goals, improving their own performance and influencing other decision-makers.

Board members gave themselves the highest marks, between 1 and 4, for their ability to communicate, make decisions, set standards of board conduct and allocate resources equitably.

The institute called on states to rethink what functions school boards should perform.

"School boards are, in large part, still organized and focused on issues more appropriate for a turn-of-the-century era," the study said. "The current structure, role and operations of school boards are not sufficient to meet the new challenges."

The report urged states to encourage or at least allow boards to experiment with alternatives like:

- Merging with children's policy panels to avoid overlap of services.
- Making school districts a government department that reports to elected officials.

Hanoi Hilton torn down

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BANGKOK, Thailand — The prison dubbed the Hanoi Hilton by American fliers who endured its brutal conditions during the Vietnam War is being torn down to make room for a hotel and office complex, a news report says.

The fortress-like Hoa Lo Central Prison was built nearly a century ago by the French, then Vietnam's colonial rulers. The North Vietnamese used it during the Vietnam War, holding downed American pilots within its high walls.

The official Vietnam News Agency said a Vietnamese-Singaporean joint venture will next year begin building two 22-story buildings on the site.

The buildings, to be called the Hanoi Tower Center, will include a five-star hotel and another housing the offices of foreign companies and banks. The compound also will include a supermarket.

The Vietnam News Agency report was dated Saturday and seen in Bangkok on Tuesday.

Many of the Hoa Lo prison's American POWs were held for years with meager food and deprived of medical attention; some were tortured to extract propaganda statements.

The facility has since been used for Vietnamese criminals.

New toll bridge opened

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — A little-traveled highway to Texas, inaugurated this week by President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, could rank among the most expensive toll roads in the world.

To drive the 117-mile four-lane highway between Monterrey and Laredo, Texas, costs $21 for a four-wheel vehicle — one way. Trucks are charged $43 and motorcycles $12.

Only 106 miles of the $119 million highway were completed by Monday, when Salinas inaugurated it before some 400 business and government officials seated next to the highway entrance.

The road, financed by private enterprise, is one of dozens being built under a government plan to improve Mexico's infrastructure in preparation for the North American Free Trade Accord, which takes effect in 1994 if approved by lawmakers in Mexico, the United States and Canada.

"Seventy percent of our exports pass through this stretch," Salinas said Monday. "This highway means productivity."

Until now, however, the new highway has not caught on with motorists — perhaps because of the price.

Canadians vote down constitutional reform package

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Constitutional reform was a dead issue today after Canadians overwhelmingly rejected a reform package aimed at cooling Quebec's secessionist passions and giving the country's provinces and natives wider powers.

The defeat in Monday's nationwide referendum — the overall vote was 54.4 percent against and 42.4 percent in favor — will shelve efforts to change the system for the immediate future.

It could, however, revive separatist aspirations in French-speaking Quebec, the country's second most populous province after Ontario.

Political leaders immediately turned their attention to other pressing issues, especially Canada's lackluster economy.

"The Charlottetown agreement is history," Prime Minister Brian Mulroney said early today, referring to the capital of Prince Edward Island where the package of reforms was forged on Aug. 28.

"The principal and overriding complex task and obligation before us is to foster strong and durable economic renewal and to maintain a high Canadian standard of living in a relentlessly competitive international climate."

The reforms were voted down in six provinces and one territory, approved only by Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Northwest Territories and Ontario, where it passed by just 49.8 percent to 49.6 percent.

Quebec, home to 6.9 million of Canada's 27 million inhabitants, roundly defeated the package by a 55.4 percent to 42.4 percent margin. British Columbia's voters rejected it by an even wider margin — 67.9 percent to 31.7 percent, with the remaining 0.4 percent of the ballots ruled invalid.

Nationally, voter turnout was about 72 percent.

Negotiations to reform the constitution were originally undertaken to meet Quebec's demands for special status to protect its language and culture. Over time, however, other provinces and the natives began pushing their own concerns.

A major issue in the west was replacing the present appointed Senate with an elected body including an equal number of senators from each province. That would give provinces with small populations a better balance of power with the Parliament's lower house, which is controlled by Ontario and Quebec.

The reform package would have recognized Quebec as a "distinct society" and guaranteed it 25 percent of the seats in the lower house.

It also would guarantee the present practice filling at least three of the nine seats on the Supreme Court with Quebec judges.

In addition, the agreement would have given the provinces additional jurisdiction and recognized the inherent right of natives to self-government.

Nick auf der Maur, a Montreal city councillor, called rejection of the complicated reform package inevitable.

"We've had a populist revolt," he said. "Usually a populist revolt is in favor of change. Here, we've had a populist revolt in favor of the status quo. That's typically Canadian."

In Quebec, the agreement's defeat was a shot in the arm for the separatist movement. "This is another victory on the road to sovereignty," said Mireille Lachance, an organizer for the separatist Parti Quebecois.

Pre-referendum polls had predicted the defeat, and many people considered the vote a rebuke to Mulroney, the most unpopular Canadian prime minister since pollsters have been taking the pulse of the nation.

Hugh Segal, the prime minister's chief of staff, nevertheless said there was no doubt Mulroney would lead the Conservatives into the next national election, which he must call by November 1993.

The biggest losers in the referendum were Canada's Indians and Eskimos, who had won a hard-fought battle for recognition of their right to self-government.

"You've kept apartheid alive in Canada," said Ron George, head of the Native Council of Canada.

In the last 2 months, I have tried to visit and see everyone that lives and votes in Precinct 3. There are several things we need to work on in our county. With your support and letting me know what we can do together, we can accomplish much more.

My past experience working with the Industrial Board of the San Angelo Board of City Development will help me work more closely with the City Council and the Moore Development Board bringing Industry to Big Spring and Howard County. There are several areas in which I would like to work together with the City by combining projects, which will save both the city and county money.

Montford best for West Texas

John T. Montford has the reputation as a no-nonsense worker who fights for the 28th senatorial district of Texas.

We believe voters should return him to Austin where he can continue to represent our interests.

Montford first went to Austin following the November 1982 elections and has received overwhelming voter support year after year.

He currently chairs the powerful Senate Finance Committee and his name comes up regularly when the discussion moves to elected officials with strong leadership qualities.

Montford has been to Big Spring time and again, addressing such issues as Howard College and the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf as well as the Texas Trunk Highway Program and the extension of Interstate 27.

And while several other communities in his district have been more successful than Big Spring in their efforts to land a state prison, Montford still says "We'll get one some day."

Whether it's a prison or not, we hope our "someday" comes soon.

When it does, you can bet John Montford will have had a say in the decision and will be one of the first to let us know the good news.

We encourage your vote and support of State Sen. John T. Montford.

Vote to protect rights in election

To the editor: I would like to take this opportunity to speak to the citizens of the Howard County concerning the need to vote in this important election.

We often take pride in, and are thankful for the privilege of being Americans. We are the recipients of more privileges than any other nation in the world. We boast in the rights that our constitution was designed to protect, such as free speech, the right to bear arms, etc. yet we neglect the most valuable right of all, namely, the right to vote.

I have heard several people say, "My vote could not possibly make any difference, so I'm not going to the polls." If we do a small check on our history, we find some alarming data that supports the importance of one vote. During the American Revolution of 1776, a bill was presented to the Continental Congress which favored a change from the official language of English to German. The bill was defeated by one vote. In 1845, the senate voted 26 to 25 to admit Texas into the union.

I would not only like to call on you to vote, I would also like to call on you to vote your values, rather than your pocketbook, party, or denominational affiliation. I believe, as most of you do, that the character of our political leaders does make a difference.

I share the attitude of patriot Everett Hale, "I am only one, but I am one. I cannot do everything, but I can do something. What I can do, I should do and, with the help of God, I will do!" Each of us can and should vote, and with the help of God, should vote our values.

L. JEFF HARRIS Big Spring

Council should act best for citizens

The City Council's task, to reach a decision in conflicting situations was pointed out in the Sunday's front page article, "Permit snafu worries taxi company". Two of the four options that were proposed in the article would exempt either non-profit or all organizations from the requirement of obtaining permits to operate. The loss being "about $500 a year in franchise fees..." One could surmise that if the council doesn't choose either of these two options, their decision will be based or partially so upon the loss of revenue. The actual factor in the decision might well be an effort to be fair to all concerned rather than to the loss of a few dollars in franchise receipts. Still a third option could be chosen, "City imposed limitations... so they can only serve handicapped, elderly and low income people." This appears to be an unacceptable choice unless the Council can find a legal precedent to restrict a second taxi company to serving only those who are not "handicapped, elderly and low income people". The fourth and final proposed option was to petition for the control of next year's grant from the State. The idea here being that if the Council has control of the purse strings then they can prevent circumstances arising that place them in this uncomfortable position.

On the one hand the Council will want to appear to be reasonably committed to private business interests and on the other hand sensitive to the transportation needs of our community. The newspaper article made clear how two valid aspects of municipal government can present a dilemma when seeking direction. When granting exclusive rights to a business to provide a service one must be in a position to assure that all of our citizens needs are considered. In the case of granting a permit the Council would be ill-advised to take any action that will limit reasonably priced transportation for all of it's citizens, regardless of the status of their health or the level of their income.

Anticipating Christmas adds flavor

My enterprising neighbor, Irven Baker, takes orders for stuffed crabs each Tuesday and brings them to your door on Thursday.

I now look for his blue pickup to signal the approach of good food and a fresh weekend. It's a big moment when he bounds up the porch steps with crustaceans nesting in a beer flat.

To say you've had a stuffed crab before you taste one of his is like leaping a puddle and claiming to have crossed the ocean. They are heavenly, as full of white meat as they are of bread dressing, and seasoned by a sensitive hand. You tend to trust a crab that used to live only a block away.

He came by right on schedule last week with crabs in a box and reindeer on his mind. Mr. Baker was anticipating his Christmas decorations, thinking aloud about adding reindeer to his rooftop. He already had big plans and two sheets of plywood and was looking for a draftsman.

I like a man who worries early about Christmas and isn't afraid to admit it. Shows an imaginative spirit and a healthy set of priorities, not to mention a certain security in one's own manhood.

Rheta Grimsley Johnson

And I don't mean shopping early. Shopping early usually means you are organized, thrifty, industrious. Probably means you have a dirty clothes hamper and use it. That kind of teeth-flossing personality.

But fretting over decorations is something else; it says you can't get enough of that almost-embarrassing feeling that sticks in your throat the first time your tree lights are lit, or when carolers deliver a high long one from the end of the driveway.

You're the type who is never ready for Christmas when it gets here, but you never want it to end, either. Every year you plan to spend less and you spend more. You hum along with Muzak when nobody's looking.

You have a box of Christmas cards from 1971 in a dark kitchen cabinet, ostensibly because you might need the addresses, but really because you mean to do something with the pretty pictures, even if it's only look at them one more time.

Now I know the beef many thoughtful people have with businesses that begin pumping Christmas for profit earlier each year. It's legitimate.

Santa Claus is sitting right next to warty witches and Little Ninja Hero costumes in shop windows, confusing the children and blinding the sensitive eye. Sandwiched between the commercial potential of Halloween and Christmas, the more subtle Thanksgiving gets lost in the shuffle.

It was a funny feeling to walk the Mississippi beach at night in barefoot weather last week and see the lighted Christmas trees across the road in the display window of the Blue Rose Antiques.

But it didn't make me mad. It was more akin to seeing the wisteria bloom late in summer after a cool spell — seasonally out of sync but pleasant nonetheless.

Annie's Restaurant here in Pass Christian, Miss., has an elaborate oil painting of Santa that stays out all year, and I say, "So what?"

Their picture of the Pope does, too.

It's a wonderful painting, intricate and velvety, Matisse if he'd worked for Hallmark.

Besides, if television can stretch a football season from July to January, doesn't Christmas deserve a few extra weeks?

This time of year it's hard not to jump the gun on everything. Already I have sweated in my favorite flannel shirt that was fished out of a box on a cool morning and shed when the temperature hit 80 at noon.

Three times I have brought the ferns inside to winter, only to cart them out the next day for one more breath of fresh fall air.

It would take an industrial-strength dose of self-discipline for me to avoid buying mums before October and poinsettias before December. By the time Christmas arrives, my tree is kindling.

But I err on the side of caution — suppose I got sick Christmas week? — and manage to squeeze a baker's dozen from the 12 days of Christmas.

And if Irven Baker wants to hunt reindeer out of season, it's fine by me.

Art Buchwald

We are now winding up what many experts consider the perfect presidential campaign.

I have on my desk hundreds of queries concerning the outcome, and I will try to answer as many as I can.

From Scottsville, Miss.: "If George Bush loses the election, will he move back to his one-room studio in Houston, which he claims as his primary residence to avoid paying taxes in Washington?"

Bush hasn't announced where he will go if he is defeated. But he has always considered the one room in Houston his true home, and it is most likely that that's where he will write his memoirs and cut the sagebrush surrounding his condo.

From Andover, Mass.: "Do you think that if Bill Clinton is elected, he will reinstate the draft?"

Bill has always supported the draft and told friends that one of his biggest regrets is that his number was not called during the Vietnam War. If elected he may ask for a new number so that he can have one more crack at serving in the armed forces.

From Warren, Pa.: "What will happen to Murphy Brown once the election is over?"

It will be curtains for Murphy if Bush wins. The inside dope is that there is a Bush-Quayle victory. Murphy will join the U.S. Navy Tailhook Association in hopes of finding a suitable father for her child.

From Montgomery, Ala.: "Is Ross Perot as big an enigma to you as he is to me?"

Ross is the kind of person in a family who says he's going out to buy a pack of cigarettes and doesn't return for six years. When Ross said that he was pulling out of the race, both the Democratic and Republican camps said, "Good riddance." When he said that he was coming back in, they both said, "Good God!"

From Bakersfield, Calif.: "Why does George Bush try to identify with Harry Truman?"

Because someone told Bush that Truman attended Yale. From Appleton, Wis.: "Any chance of Henry Kissinger becoming our next Secretary of State under George Bush?"

Henry says that even if the President insisted, he has decided to devote the rest of his public life to telling the truth, despite the fact this could mean exposing his enemies for the mean-spirited people they really are. His only interest in Laos and Cambodia now is to sign up both countries as clients for his consulting business.

From Portland, Ore.: "If George Bush was out of the loop on Iran-Contra, where was Dan Quayle when the bottom fell out of the economy?"

He was at Disneyland winding his Mickey Mouse watch. From Rheinbeck, N.Y.: "Should I know who Al Gore is?"

Not necessarily. I'm the only one who knows Al Gore. Al Gore is a friend of mine, and I want to tell you this right now, Al Gore is not Al Gore.

From Missoula, Mont.: "I heard in a bar that Pat Buchanan likes to kick dogs. Any truth to it?" None whatsoever. He likes to bite them.

From Winnet, Ariz.: "Ross Perot?"

That's not the question. Come to think of it, it's not the answer either.

Just 2 supernatural sources

"Star Wars" was all the rage when it debuted in theaters across America. So I went to see it and rated it a big "Ho-hum."

But weeks later, I was still asking myself, "What's this 'force' thing with the good side and the dark side?"

I shouldn't have been so puzzled. I'm familiar with fairy tales, which are full of magic, both black and white. "Star Wars" is just a sophisticated fairy tale with people, instead of mythical beings, wielding the magic.

Some time later, I began to be aware of the propaganda in movies, cartoons, etc. putting forth the philosophy that magic (i.e., supernatural forces) can be either white or black, good or bad.

Well, fairy tales and make-believe are fun. But we need to be rock-solid certain our children understand the sources of supernatural power in the real world.

In reality the only sources of supernatural power (forces that can't be explained scientifically) are God and the devil. No matter how glorious a miracle is, it's not from God unless it is done in the name of Jesus Christ and in a way that brings glory to God's Kingdom.

New flash: the "force" — both sides of it — can only be attributed to Satan, because God doesn't release His power through anyone who is not humbly devoted to His Kingdom. Ever.

I know, I know, "Star Wars" is fiction. It's a fairy tale. In fiction, anything can happen — for any reason. It's just for fun.

I know that and you know that. Let's make sure the children understand too.

And this week, leading up to Halloween, is the ideal time to make sure there's no confusion in our minds about this important subject.

Of course, some of you are already horrified at the idea that anyone still believes in a "personal" devil in this enlightened age. I don't blame you — he's a horrifying idea. But I can't believe the Bible without believing in a literal devil. And I absolutely believe the Bible, every word of it.

But you don't have to take my word for it. Here are some testimonies from first hand experience:

• Sean Sellers in "Web of Darkness": "Satan, I call you forth to serve you. I prayed aloud. I felt the room grow cold and experienced the unmistakable presence of utter evil... then something touched me."

• It felt like ice-cold claws and began to rake my body caressingly... I heard an audible voice speak three words in a whisper, "I love you."

• Mike Warnke in "The Satan Seller": "And then I felt it — the presence. I could almost make out the hazy outline as a demon spirit floated out of that pentagram, and seemed to make a buzzing sound as it dissipated and presumably transferred itself to the locale where it was to do its mischief."

• Walter Martin, quoted in "Demons, Witches, and the Occult" by Josh McDowell and Don Stewart: "... I encountered a case of demonic possession... In this case the girl, who was about 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighed 120 pounds, attacked a 180-pound man and with one arm flipped him 5 or 6 feet away."

The most amazing experience came from Warnke. After his induction into satanism, the high priest pierced an artery and caught his blood, so he could use it to sign his name in a large, black book. As Warnke signed in blood, he noticed a name with a greenish tone. He asked the priest why it was green, and the priest explained that when someone "copped out" on Satan, their name automatically turned green.

Today, Mike Warnke's name is no longer written in that book in dried blood. Today, his name is written in green, because he was delivered from the powers of darkness by the blood of Jesus Christ.

I can't think of a better occasion than Oct. 31, to turn the tables on Satan. I hope that no Christian will honor the devil or any of his lackeys on "his" day this year. Instead, let's throw our whole hearts into honoring and glorifying the Lord of glory this Saturday. Let's celebrate Jesus.

Bearkats anxious to go against Wink

Friday's Garden City Bearkats-Wink Wildcats football game has some added attractions. Friday's District 8-A encounter features two of the top teams in the district, and it's a homecoming of sorts for the Scotts of Wink.

Wink head coach Sam Scott coached at Garden City for five years before accepting the job at Wink this year. Scott's senior son, Shae, passed for more than 2,000 yards last year at Garden City and was an all-state selection.

Dennis Bryant

Garden City coach Dennis Bryant said this is a game his team has been pointing to for a long time.

"The kids are ready to play (against Wink)."

Bryant said. "It's one of those deals where they've been looking forward to playing this game and it's here. Wink is very good, they've improved every ballgame. They've got a great passing game."

Bryant said there were some anxious moments in the Bearkats 48-27 win over Sanderson last week.

"We played pretty well. They jumped out on us and scored, we came back and scored and they scored again," Bryant said. "They ran a fake punt and went in for a touchdown and they ran the kickoff back to our 20 and went on to score. It was scary there for a while."

Here is what other area coaches had to say about last week's games and this week's opponents. Jan East, Forsan, on the 16-0 loss to Roby and this week's game against Sterling City — "Turnovers killed us and they broke a big play, an 85-yard run. We played pretty good defense, they got 188 yards and 85 yards came on that one play. We couldn't put the ball in the end zone. We ran 72 plays where we usually average about 40."

"Against Sterling City we can't turn the ball over and give up the big play. We've been doing that all year." Steve Park, Coahoma, on the 21-13 win over Iraan, and this week's game against McCamey — "The kids rose to the occasion, they really got after it. After their first drive, our defense played a lot better. There were some licks thrown, the kids maintained their composure. The offense moved the ball fairly well and the kickoff return (Greg Atkinson's 95 yarder in the third quarter) turned the tide."

"We can't look past McCamey. We've got to win the rest of our games and hope something good happens around the district. McCamey is a little down. They run a lot of things that you have to look for."

Mark Howeth, on the 46-6 loss to Kermit, and this week's game with Greenwood. — "Kermit's for real. They played a very tough non-district schedule and they didn't score a lot then, but now their offense is coming along. Everything we did went wrong. It was things like we throw a lateral pass, our kid bobbles it and their guy comes by full speed, gets it and returns it for a touchdown. Every ball bounced to their advantage."

"Greenwood is a much better football team than their record indicates. They tied Sonora the other night. Greenwood has played good football all year, they just haven't had very many breaks."

Bob Pursler, Greenwood, on the 17-17 tie with Sonora, and this week's game with Colorado City — "I thought the kids played as hard as they could play. It's about as hard as they've played all year. We had a heck-of-an effort. We had a chance to win the game. We scored and went for a tie with seven minutes left because we figured we had enough time and we did, we had two more possessions."

"Colorado City is a wide open team. You don't know what they're going to do. It's Run-and-Shoot with a lot more shoot than run. The Wolves will get after you."

Dwight Butler, Big Spring, on the 50-0 win over San Angelo Lake View and this week's open date.

"I'm proud of the effort we got. They really could've come in flat after the month they just had to go through. It's a tribute to them they were ready to play."

"We'll cut down on time on the field (this week) and go back to work on our timing and the basics. Duane Edmonds will probably get to come back, he has a strained knee. Other than that, we'll make sure we keep up on our conditioning."

COACHES' CORNER

Bobby Avery, Borden County, on the 67-22 win over Trent and this week's game with Loraine — "We didn't come out in a big ball of fire like we've been doing. We were down 8-6. We scored the first play of the game and missed the extra point. They scored and made it. After a big victory over Ira the week before it was hard for us to get up for a 1-6 team."

"Loraine has always had talent, they just haven't always tapped it. They usually lose half of their football squad to grades. So they'd have a decent record in non-district, but by the time they get to district, they're starters are gone. But this year they've stuck together. They're fast and big. They average about 170 pounds per man."

Karry Owens, Sands, on the 44-41 win over Grady and this week's game with Loop

"Basically the kids played hard, but we made a lot of mistakes. We played hard enough to stay in it though. I felt fortunate to win. Grady played

"Loop has four returning starters, they're short on numbers but they've got some talent. They've played everybody close. Their kids will be high (because) that's where I came from, that might work against us."

Ed Wilson, Klondike, on the 60-18 win over Loop and this week's game with Unbesten and No. 5 ranked Wellman — "We got past Loop, now we hit the titan (Wellman) and they might bring us back to earth I'm afraid. We executed well on offense, ole Tanner (Etheredge, QB) did a pretty good job. It was one of those nights when everything we took out of the books worked. We didn't do a great job defensively really."

"Wellman is real physical, they've got lots of seniors, they're pretty fast and they're machine-like. They don't get flustered. They can run the spread, misdirection — they've got lots of weapons."

Bill Grissom, Stanton, on the 41-13 loss to Eldorado and this week's season finale against Wall

"I felt at times we played as good as we could play. We had great effort, but we had some things go bad, it's been that story all year."

"Wall is a good football team, they're sitting 4-0, leading the district. Traditionally each year, they're a good football team."

Texas Rangers' new manager Kevin Kennedy, left, poses with Rangers managing partner George W. Bush at a news conference Monday afternoon where it was announced that he would manage the American League team. Kennedy, former bench coach of the Montreal Expos, becomes the 13th manager of the club.

Buffalo nips New York

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

EAST RUTHERFORD — Maybe the Buffalo Bills are too talented for their own good.

On Monday night, they were certainly too talented for the New York Jets.

After giving up a late touchdown — and throwing away several chances — the Bills marched 75 yards in 59 seconds for a 12-yard scoring pass from Jim Kelly to Thurman Thomas and a 24-20 victory over the Jets.

"I guess that's about the highlight of the game for me, the last two minutes," said Kelly, who seemingly had run out of opportunities when New York went ahead 20-17 with 1:50 remaining. "We struggled at times, but it comes down to when you've got to make the big play, you have to."

Kelly wasn't the only one making big plays for the Bills (5-2). There was Don Beebe, the receiver just off injured reserve who caught a 34-yard pass on the final drive on second-and-18 at the Bills' 17.

And there was Thomas, whose 18-yard run on the play before set up the final touchdown.

With all that going for Buffalo, it's hard to believe it took 59 minutes to secure its 10th straight victory over the Jets (1-6).

"You're not supposed to have each and every win easy," said Bills defensive end Bruce Smith, who was held in check by the usually erratic Jets offensive line. "You have to have some wins like that. It just shows our patience, our poise and that we hang in there together."

By the fourth quarter, the two-time AFC champion Bills were supposed to be coasting to a lopsided win over one of the worst clubs in the NFL. But New York looked more like the team which went to the playoffs last season and was expected to challenge Buffalo for the AFC East division.

The Bills appeared to have their dominating offense on track several times, but mistakes were costly.

Buffalo moved 62 yards in 43 seconds just before halftime to take a 14-6 lead on James Lofton's 16-yard TD catch from Kelly. Then the Bills got the ball to start the second half and had little trouble getting to the Jets' 34. But an incomplete pass from Kelly to Andre Reed and a failed reverse to Beebe ended that drive.

Ahead 17-13, the Bills again seem ready to roll over New York as Thomas broke free for 36 yards on a delayed draw. This time Reed was hit by New York cornerback Mike Brim, the ball came loose and Buffalo lost another chance.

"It was an interesting game," Lofton said. "We scored in the last minute of each half and still, I think we had some opportunities. For some plays earlier in the game."

Ranger manager to stress basics

Ex-Montreal coach new Texas skipper

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ARLINGTON — Kevin Kennedy knows the Texas Rangers are a power team. He also wants them to learn to run the bases and play defense.

"I'm aware there is a lot of talent on the team, but you can have power and still make things happen on the basepaths," Kennedy said. "And I will stress fundamentals from Day One in spring training."

Kennedy, bench coach of the Montreal Expos, on Monday was given two years to do what 12 managers ahead of him have never done: get the Rangers into the playoffs.

"I think being No. 13 is a good omen," Kennedy said. "I'm about winning, I expect to win."

Kennedy of Tarzana, Calif., succeeded Toby Harrah, who was 32-44 after replacing the fired Bobby Valentine in July.

Harrah was offered another job in the Rangers organization, but general manager Tom Grieve said Harrah has yet to say whether he will stay with the club.

Grieve said Kennedy won't be given time to rebuild.

"Our goal is to win the American League championship," Grieve said. "It's important to me to win next year."

Kennedy immediately went to work on assembling a staff. Texas pitching coach Tom House could be on his way out, replaced by Claude Osteen, who has worked with Kennedy.

"That's the task at hand right now," Kennedy said. "I need to get a staff together."

Kennedy was a successful minor league manager in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization, posting a 533-373 record in eight years from 1984 to 1991. As a player, Kennedy was a minor league catcher, reaching the Triple-A level.

"I've been in the game 18 years and I haven't felt like a rookie since 1976," Kennedy said. "There's no question I'm prepared for this opportunity. I've served my apprenticeship. There was nothing left to do in the minors."

He becomes the eighth current major league manager with a catching background, joining Rene Lachemann, Gene Lamont, Jim Leyland, Johnny Oates, Buck Rodgers, Jeff Torborg and Joe Torre.

"I appreciate the Rangers giving me this opportunity to manage in the major leagues. It's been a long time coming for me," Kennedy said.

The 38-year-old Kennedy said the Rangers will run and play better defense.

"My style is very aggressive," he said. "I like to make things happen. I like to run."

"I expect execution and I stress fundamentals. I believe I'm a good communicator and I enjoy the rapport with players," Kennedy said.

He said he patterns his style after Leyland of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who also never played in the big leagues.

"I respect the way Jim runs a ballclub," Kennedy said. "He runs a good game, and I'd like to do that."

"If you asked me if I'm a disciplinarian or a players' manager, I'd say I'm probably a combination of both. There are times you need discipline and there are times you need to talk to a player and find out what makes him tick. I enjoy being around personalities. It makes it fun. I don't want to have any clones on the team."

Rangers managing partner George W. Bush said the club narrowed its search to four finalists — Kennedy; Harrah; Rene Lachemann, recently named manager of the Florida Marlins; and Jerry Royster, a manager in the Dodgers organization.

"He was a very impressive candidate," Bush said of Kennedy.

Texas offense worries Dykes

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes says watching the dizzying rotation of players on the Texas Longhorns' offense could give someone motion sickness.

"It's like Grand Central Station at 5 o'clock there are so many people in and out of the game. It kind of makes you seasick," Dykes said Monday. "In that situation you just have to play football and not worry about all that movement."

Dykes will have plenty to worry about Saturday as the No. 25 Longhorns invade Lubbock in a game that will help determine who, if anyone, will make a run at No. 5 Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference race.

"They (the players) know what's at stake," said Dykes, whose team is 3-4 overall and 2-1 in the SWC. "That's not something we need to talk about."

Texas dropped opening ballgames to Mississippi State and Syracuse before rolling through its next four games, including victories against Oklahoma and Houston. The Longhorns are 2-0 in the SWC.

"We are playing a team this week that is on a roll with really a high-octane offense," Dykes said. "They just roar up and down the field and score on people."

The Horns, under offensive whiz and new head coach John Mackovic, are averaging 417 yards a game on offense, second in the conference behind pass-crazy Houston.

Dykes had plenty of praise for Texas, namely quarterback Peter Gardere.

"He's probably done as well as any quarterback in this conference for years and years. Gardere's got tremendous scrambling ability and he's just a winner."

And then there's the Longhorns defense.

"They've probably got the best middle linebacker (Winfred Tubbs) in the conference," Dykes said. "They've got a great defensive end in Norman Watkins and they have three defensive backs who will be drafted in the first round. They have a tremendous array of talent."

As for the Red Raiders, Dykes hopes the worst is behind his team.

And judging by Saturday's game against Southern Methodist, things couldn't have gotten much worse.

The Mustangs turned three turnovers by the Red Raiders into touchdowns and took a 19-7 lead before Tech's starting quarterback Robert Hall left the game in the second quarter with a bruised right shoulder.

"I guess Murphy's Law sort of took effect. About everything bad that could happen to us happened there for awhile," Dykes said Monday at his weekly press conference.

Backup quarterback Jason Clemmons settled Tech's sluggish offense and led the team to a 39-25 victory against SMU. The prognosis is day-to-day, but Hall will likely play Saturday against Texas, according to Dykes.

Winfield among MLB free agents

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Barry Bonds, Mark McGwire and Ruben Sierra became free agents and Toronto cleared the way for World Series hero Dave Winfield to join them as baseball's business season began.

Greg Maddux, Doug Drabek, Wade Boggs, Benito Santiago, John Smiley and Chris Bosio were among the 26 players to file for free agency on the first possible day of a 15-day window. There are 166 players potentially eligible to file by the Nov. 8 deadline.

Only 90 minutes after a triumphant parade through the streets of Toronto and rally inside the SkyDome, the Blue Jays said they wouldn't offer salary arbitration to Winfield and Candy Maldonado and declined to exercise 1993 options on pitchers Dave Stieb and Mark Eichhorn.

Toronto wants its players back, but at lower prices. Winfield, following a 26-homer, 108-RBI season, could have possibly doubled his $2.3 million salary in arbitration, and Maldonado, after hitting 20 homers, could have gotten a large raise from his income of $1,375,000.

The Blue Jays decided to pay Eichhorn a $150,000 buyout rather than a $2 million salary next year, and gave the injured Stieb a $1 million buyout rather than a $3.5 million salary.

Bustin' out

Dallas Cowboy running back Emmitt Smith picks up some of the 152 yards rushing he gained Sunday in the Cowboys' 28-13 win over the Los Angeles Raiders. Smith has 733 yards rushing this year, which is ahead of his 1991 league-leading pace.

Philly QB in slump

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA — Randall Cunningham has discovered that coming back after a year's idleness is more difficult than he expected. The quarterback is in a mini-slump.

As a result, the Philadelphia Eagles have scored just 36 points in the last three games, losing to Kansas City and Washington and edging Phoenix 7-3 Sunday. In their first four games the Eagles scored 107.

In the Phoenix game, Cunningham completed just 9 of 20 passes for 121 yards and was sacked five times.

The Eagles won with defense, including a goal-line stand in which they stopped the Cardinals six times inside the 1-yard line.

Eagles coach Rich Kotite on Monday said, "We're inconsistent at this point with our passing game."

That could be very damaging with a game against the Cowboys coming up Sunday in Dallas. The Cowboys are 6-1 and lead the NFC East over the Eagles and Redskins, both 5-2.

What's wrong with Cunningham? In the first four games he completed 71 percent of his passes and the Eagles were unbeaten. He looked like he had completely recovered from the knee surgery that sidelined him for all but one period of last season.

"He still has some timing to get back," Kotite said. "A year off is a year off, especially under the circumstances. Randall agrees. He feels he has to keep doing the fundamentals."

"Things will work out because he understands that he's really not quite the same. He might be pressing a little bit."

Kotite adamantly rejected any suggestion that the team might benefit from replacing Cunningham when he performs poorly.

"The more he plays the more he sees, the more he becomes an anticipatory thrower," he said.

Kotite said he critiqued the offense in Sunday's game and Cunningham recognized some of his shortcomings.

"At one point he said, 'I held the ball too long,' which was true. But a lot of guys who aren't half as tough as him bail out," the coach said.

"I still believe he has a long way to go to get back that timing and rhythm and instinct. And the only way he's going to get it back is working, playing."

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUGUSTA, Ga. — The Democrats are taking advantage of their all-Southern ticket and President Bush's weakness in the polls to press deep into traditionally Republican turf just one week before the election.

"We helped to build the New South, you and I. Let's help to build a new America," Clinton told a cheering rally at North Central Carolina University in Durham on Monday.

Today, he plans campaign stops in Georgia, Florida and Louisiana before heading to Texas. He was scheduled to be in Mississippi — and possibly Alabama and Kentucky later in the week.

"For the first time in 16 years — four presidential elections — the South is up for grabs. And we want to do win it," said Paul Begala, a Clinton strategist.

Focusing on the South also made it easy for Clinton to appear to stay above the charges and countercharges being hurled by the campaigns of President Bush and independent Ross Perot.

"It doesn't really matter, does it? While they're fighting each other we're fighting for the future of our country," Clinton said as he and running mate Al Gore made their eighth and final bus tour of the campaign.

"It's all ending here in Wilson, (N.C.)," Clinton said. "This great odyssey of bus tours."

When Clinton picked Gore as his running mate last July, some analysts suggested that the Arkansas governor might have made a political mistake in having two candidates from the same geographical region on the ticket — especially a region that has gone heavily Republican in presidential contests.

In fact, polls have shown Clinton to be ahead in nearly every Southern state.

And, while GOP analysts say they expect much of the South — including delegate-rich Florida — to end up in Bush's column, strategists in both parties agree that the entire region, expect perhaps certain Clinton-Gore states Arkansas and Tennessee — are in play just seven days before the election.

Gore has been point man on Clinton's effort to win his home region, telling audiences at stop after stop on Monday's bus trip through rural North Carolina that "our part of the country is ready to show some fresh ideas and provide leadership."

That line got huge roars at rallies in the central North Carolina Piedmont villages of Elon, Graham and Hillsborough, and on the predominantly black campus of North Central Carolina University in Durham.

Former Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt, who is trying for a statehouse comeback, said that, in "all, presidential and vice presidential candidates and their wives have visited North Carolina 23 times, including four each by Clinton and Bush.

Hunt said that a Clinton victory in North Carolina would be close, but achievable. He predicted a large turnout, particularly of black voters.

Bush's weakness in the region has forced him to spend considerable time in the South over the past few weeks in states that he should have won by now — instead of concentrating his full attention on traditional battleground states in the Midwest.

Clinton's bus tour seemed to be winning him friends and supporters at every stop along the way.

In Greensboro, Robert MacMahon, a 39-year-old Vietnam veteran from Welcome, N.C., stopped by Robinson's Restaurant for breakfast while his broken truck was being fixed. "When I came here this morning, it was either Bush or Perot," he said.

But Clinton stopped by and chatted with him, and he left a convert. Sherry Hill, 33, who with her husband owns a foreign-car repair business across the street from Robinson's, also got a chance to speak with the candidate.

Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton and running mate Sen. Al Gore wave to the crowd during a rally in Wilson, N.C., Monday night. The Democrats are taking advantage of their all-Southern ticket and the president's weakness in the polls to press deep into traditionally Republican turf just one week before the election.

Bush fleshing out economic campaign message

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Bush is beginning to flesh out his campaign message of "economic renewal" with specific ideas for implementing his plan, a move his aides say is designed to persuade voters one week from Election Day that Bush can deliver.

Bush, with campaign overseer James A. Baker III in tow, continued his non-stop dash to the finish line.

Democratic challenger Bill Clinton, still leading in the national polls, ended his eighth and final bus tour in Georgia then was heading to Florida to campaign for that key battleground state — and stay out of the duel between the Republican camp and independent Ross Perot.

Perot had no public events scheduled after his remarkable news conference Monday in which he leveled unsubstantiated accusations of dirty tricks by the GOP and attacked the media.

In two new tracking polls, Clinton's lead over Bush widened slightly to 11 points.

Clinton led 44-33 in ABC's poll of likely voters and 42-31 in the Cable News Network-USA Today poll. In ABC's poll, Ross Perot rose two points to 19 percent. That poll was conducted from Friday to Sunday, before his first campaign rallies on Sunday. Perot was also at 19 percent in the CNN-USA Today poll, down one point.

Despite numbers that were glum for the Republicans, Vice President Dan Quayle was on television early today with some optimistic forecasts. "We have a lock on Texas ... and Florida, too," he said on CBS' "This Morning."

Bush's travels today were taking him through three states where Clinton is ahead in the polls. Kentucky, with eight electoral votes, and Ohio, with 21, were in Bush's column in 1988. The Democrats took Iowa, with seven electoral votes, last time.

The president used a friendly audience of hardware dealers in Denver on Monday to attempt for the first time to spell out how he would put his economic agenda into practice, and to sharpen the focus on philosophical differences with Clinton.

"With each program Governor Clinton puts forth, you see a philosophy where bureaucrats in Washington or some entrenched members of Congress carve out the exact same programs to try and solve problems facing people in Denver and Dallas or Dover or Delaware," Bush said.

Clinton's poll lead jumps

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Bill Clinton's lead over President Bush is up to 11 points in two new tracking polls.

Clinton led 44-33 in ABC's poll of 1,332 likely voters and 42-31 in the Cable News Network-USA Today poll of 1,000 registered voters. In ABC's poll, taken Friday through Sunday, Ross Perot rose two points to 19 percent. Perot was also at 19 percent in the CNN-USA Today poll taken Saturday and Sunday, putting him down one point from a Friday-Saturday sample.

All the new figures were released Monday.

President Bush waves to a crowd of more than 8,000 supporters who greeted his speech at the Civic Plaza in downtown Albuquerque, N.M., Monday afternoon, hoping to generate an historic comeback over poll-leading Democratic hopeful Bill Clinton.

Herald offers special line of Texas Books

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Herald is offering a special line of Texas Books, which provide a complete reference for six Texas topics. The books are published in New Braunfels and can be purchased from the circulation department of the Herald. Some of the books are kept in stock and others can be ordered through the Herald, said Circulation Manager Dale Ferguson.

The most popular of the references is The Roads of Texas. A book atlas of Texas roads produced from the most detailed maps of every county in the state. Details include all small roads, small communities, which do not appear on most maps, rural cemeteries, river and lake access and much more, according to the cover.

The atlas is just the ticket for antique hunters, genealogist or those who like to explore the state's lesser-known roads. The Roads of Texas is $12.95.

The Texas Country Reporter Cookbook contains over 400 recipes compiled by viewers of Bob Phillips, whose television program, The Texas Country Reporter, documents life in rural Texas.

Each recipe comes with a colorful anecdote about the history of the dish. The cookbook costs $13.95.

Other guides include Wildflowers of Texas and Fishing Texas. Each provides easy-to-use information about their topics. The guides cost $12.95 each.

Texas Chronicles is a collection of observations and lore from Leon Hale, a popular columnist for the Houston Chronicle. Texas Chronicles is $16.95.

Plain Talk is a must for Leon Hale fans. The audio cassette allows readers to hear passages from their favorite Leon Hale writings. Read by the author himself, the cassette is $8.95.

TSTA

TSTA has taken a firm stance in support of continuing contracts for educators. Currently, most public educators in the state and all local teachers receive renewed term contracts each year.

"If officials decide to terminate a teacher's employment at the end of the school year, they just do it," Thompson said. "Going year to year? You don't treat dedicated professionals like that. Teachers should have some kind of tenure."

In other business, Thompson said the state should reevaluate how it views the health care system for educators.

"Health care for educators is too much," he said. "The state needs to put together group insurance for teachers."

On the local level, BSISD Superintendent Bill McQueary has been open to the issues TSTA deems important, Thompson said.

"I have established a good relationship with the superintendent," he said. "Big Spring is lucky. It has a superintendent where you can walk into his office and he is there and ready to listen."

Safe Halloween Get treats, avoid tricks

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Halloween is a holiday that mixes fun and fear. But, the fun stops and a real fear begins for parents when children fall victim to holiday "tricks."

"There is always some person that will try and take advantage of the holiday," said Lt. Terry Chamness of the Big Spring Police Department.

"That person might not like the holiday or children," he added. "We emphasize, especially around Halloween, that parents make their kids stay in well-lit neighborhoods that they know."

A troublesome local problem during Halloween is motorists failing to see trick-or-treaters.

"We want them to trick-or-treat as much as possible in the daylight hours. A constant problem every year is cars not seeing kids in the dark," he said.

Statistics from the We Help Ourselves (WHO) program show one in four girls and one in 10 boys will be victimized before age 18. Halloween places children going door-to-door for treats in an extremely vulnerable situation.

The following tips, from various sources, can be used by parents during this holiday to keep their children safe:

• Dress children in costumes that don't drag, causing the child to trip; make sure shoes are proper fitting.

• Paint children's faces rather than have them wear masks which obstruct vision; avoid skin-irritating substances.

• Make sure costumes are easy to see and nonflammable; use reflective tape on both sides of the costume.

• Instruct older children, trick-or-treating without a parent, to walk on the sidewalk. Give them a flashlight to carry.

• Don't allow children to eat treats before reaching home. Inspect each piece carefully to look for signs of tampering.

• Never let children carve pumpkins.

• Avoid candles; use a flashlight in the pumpkin instead.

• At home, keep the porch light on unless you don't want trick-or-treaters.

Children should avoid houses when the porch light is not on, refuse to go inside anyone's house and always travel in groups, preferably with adult chaperones.

With Halloween and trick-or-treating just around the corner, local police have some tips to help children avoid dangerous situations and stay safe.

TOTS for safety

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Comanche Flats Living Center will sponsor a Trick-or-Treat Safely (TOTS) program Saturday for area young people.

The intergenerational event promises to be fun for both visitors and residents — who will have a chance to enjoy the costumed youngsters and Halloween activities. It will combine Halloween fun with safety for a special evening, organizers said.

Nola Jones, administrator, said safety should be a priority for the holiday.

"Some of our residents are parents themselves, so they understand the importance of educating children about Halloween safety," she said.

Resident Renae Gannon agrees. "We didn't have to be as cautious when trick-or-treating," she said. "But times have changed. All children need to know about safety when they go trick-or-treating."

Local trick-or-treaters are welcome at Comanche Flats from 7-10 p.m. Saturday, at 1315 Baylor. For more information, call 263-1408.

Midland Woman oldest American

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Not much was left of the Midland Woman, but a geologist has used a revamped technique to confirm that she was the oldest American — ever. Like a modern-day Sherlock Holmes, Curtis R. McKinney examined fragments of a skull, ribs and other bones from a site near Midland to find clues to their ages.

Using a technique called alpha spectrometry, which calculates age based on the ratio between uranium 234 and thorium 230, McKinney concluded the remains are about 11,600 years old. McKinney plans to present his findings Monday at The Geological Society of America's annual meeting in Cincinnati.

Michael B. Collins, a research fellow at the Texas Archaeological Research Laboratory at the University of Texas, welcomed continued research on the Midland Woman, but cautioned against easy acceptance of McKinney's conclusion.

While Collins said the dating "is not an unreasonable age," the difference of a 1,000 years one way or another could be significant.

"We've had claims of human skeletons having been dated at 20,000 and 70,000 and other ages like that based on one line of evidence or another and they end up not being corroborated, or being refuted by later and more advanced techniques," Collins said.

"There's a lot more to be done to verify this age determination," he said.

McKinney, while a doctoral candidate at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, confirmed the dating that was first performed after the remains' 1953 discovery. It had placed the age at more than 10,000 years.

But those results were controversial, since the sand dunes where the Midland Woman was found had eroded, with artifacts from higher — and therefore more recent — strata falling into the skeletal remains.

McKinney said he got the idea for the project from John Rosholt, with the U.S. Geological Survey in Denver, who had originally dated the bones in 1955 and 1956.

"Rosholt could not measure uranium 234. But I could with the improved techniques and the result was slightly different," said McKinney, 42, who used a $30,000 grant for the new study.

Believed to have been about 30 years old when she died, the woman was buried in what geologists called a "blowout" between sand dunes about six miles southwest of Midland. Amateur archaeologist Keith Glasscock of Pampa, Texas discovered the remains in June 1953.

McKinney's findings place the Midland Woman among the Clovis Culture, which existed more than 11,000 years ago. Spear points from the culture, known as the "mammoth hunters", have been found with mammoth and mastodon skeletons.

"As far as I know, this is the oldest skeleton in the Americas," McKinney said. "There are a number dated between 10,000 and 11,000 years old, but this is the only one over 11,000 years."

Scientists believe several other archaeological sites in North America are up to 30,000 years old, but none have skeletal remains.

"People argued that the (Midland) skeleton was not as old as the geologic layers said it was," McKinney, who began his tests four years ago, said. "I was expecting to get ages of 9,000 or 8,000 years. But all the numbers falling over 11,000 years showed me this was a representation of the Clovis Culture."

Geologist Dr. Curtis R. McKinney, shown in his lab in Kampsville, Fla., has been examining fragments of a skull, ribs and other bones from a site near Midland. He believes the remains of a woman found there date her as about 11,600 years old.

Veterans Day ceremony on tap at VA, public invited

You are cordially invited to attend a Veterans Day program at the Big Spring VA Medical Center Nov. 11, 11 a.m.

The keynote speaker will be Lt. Gen. Murphy D. Chesney, M.D., USAF (Retired).

The ceremony will feature laying of the wreath and patriotic music sung by soprano soloist Helen Martin. Goliad Middle School students, named winners of an essay contest on "What the Flag Means to Me," will be honored.

In conjunction with the program, a dedication ceremony will name the street in front of the medical center.

On this date in 1918, silence crept over battlefields in Europe, ending four terrible years of fighting in World War I.

Nov. 11, 1942, found Americans in vicious fighting at Guadalcanal — one of the longest, most difficult battles of World War II.

Pat Atkins

On Nov. 11, 1950, Americans were slugging their way to the Yalu River in the freezing winter of Korea.

On Nov. 11, 1965, Americans were entering the La Drang valley in Vietnam for what would be the bloodiest engagement since the Korean war.

The calendar would turn to Nov. 11 seven more times before our troops would finally come home from Vietnam — the longest of our

Sponsors needed

The Northside Community Center needs sponsors for its walk-a-thon set for Nov. 8. Most sponsors pledge $1 per mile for the 11 mile course, said center director Marianne Brown-Esquelin. Walkers this year include: Tommy Welch, Troyce Wolf, Pat Atkins, Joan LaFond, Charlie Marmolejo, Linda Richardson, the Rev. Alan Abraham, Thomas Langhorne, Chestnut Brown III, Lupe Liedeker and Raul Marquez. For more information, call 263-2673.

BSSH plans parade

Big Spring State Hospital's Halloween parade is set for Oct. 29, 1:30 p.m. on the grounds of the hospital.

Floats, a Halloween king and queen, and host of ghost and goblins will fill the parade. Special guests will include the Forsan High School band, rodeo clown Quail Dobbs, clown Brenda Banks, Life Cafe Enterprises and the Suez Fire Brigade.

The community is invited to join the fun.

College sets carnival

Howard College will host a Halloween carnival Saturday, 6-9 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building. The carnival is open to the community.

Campus organizations will be sponsoring several game booths, including a dart throwing contest, the popular "prize walk," a pie-throwing contest and more. Food booths will offer Halloween treats.

Free candy will be given away to the kids, and a prize will be given for the best costume. A small fee will be charged to participate in the games, but admission to the carnival is free.

All proceeds will benefit Howard College organizations.

Charles Preston, Social Worker; William Binaxas, Assistant Fiscal Officer; Wendy Aiello, Personnel Assistant; Brenda Hale, Licensed Vocational Nurse; Joe Garfias, Laundry Worker; Rocky Tubb, Marlene Carillo, Cashiers, and Louise Henson, Food Service Worker, VA Canteen Service.

Alice Jones and Nellie Robles, Food Service Workers in Dietetic Service, recently received "Caught in the Act" awards for "going beyond their duty" in assisting patients in the medical center. Their dedication is commendable!

Pat Atkins is the Public Affairs Officer and Patient Representative at the Big Spring VA Medical Center. She can be contacted at 264-4839.

Drunk patch

Turns dark to indicate blood-alcohol

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Hey, bartender. A shot and a patch, please.

A patch stuck to the skin can estimate how much alcohol is in a person's blood, and it may someday be able to tell imbibers when they've had enough, a preliminary study suggests.

The penny-sized white patch starts turning green within about a minute of being stuck on the back of a drinker's hand, said study co-author James Zacny.

Experiments with seven men found that the more alcohol they had drunk, and the higher their blood-alcohol levels rose, the darker the patch turned.

'You can be legal and still be dangerous.'

Psychologist
Elsie Shore

If further research bears out its promise, such a patch might be handed out by bartenders or dispensed with sixpacks to warn people when they're nearing intoxication, said Zacny, a psychologist and assistant professor in the department of anesthesia and critical care at the University of Chicago.

Speaking in a telephone interview, he said the patch would not replace breath-analyzing devices for police work.

In the study, each participant drank a tonic-and-lime drink on four occasions with a different alcohol dose each time. The doses ranged from zero to one that produced blood-alcohol levels just below legal intoxication, Zacny said.

The patch was applied 15 minutes after the drink. Within about 20 minutes of application, the hue of its pea-sized color zone could reveal what dose of alcohol each man had consumed, Zacny said. The hue also was related to each man's blood alcohol concentrations, which were measured by breath tests.

Altering the size of the color zone may cut the 20-minute delay, he said.

The patch detects alcohol vapor that escapes through the skin, he said.

Psychologist Elsie Shore of Wichita State University, who studies alcohol use, said that if the patch proves reliable and inexpensive enough, it might help bartenders convince patrons that they're too drunk to drive.

But she noted that people's ability to drive can be impaired below the legal blood-alcohol limit. "You can be legal and still be dangerous," she said.

She also cautioned that the patch might promote drinking games to see who could turn the patch the darkest.

CAP aimed at minorities

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — The Career Access Program is intended to help get more minorities into science museums and centers — working in them and running them, that is.

Museums and science centers in the program are already saying they're benefiting from the experience, too.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAP is aimed at minorities under-represented in science, African-Americans, Hispanics and American Indians. They'll be offered science-related opportunities at three levels: as young professionals, as fellows and as interns.

All told, 61 minority participants will be involved over these first two years at five participating institutions.

Youth isn't compliment all aged seek

DEAR ABBY: My eldest sister, "Thelma," died of cancer last June. A short time before her death, I took her for a treatment, and afterward we had lunch at a nearby cafe.

The waitress offered me more coffee, then she turned to Thelma and asked, "And how about you, young lady?"

I could see that Thelma was deeply offended. She knew she wasn't young - she was 78 years old and had been fighting cancer for five years. She had lost all her hair because of the chemotherapy treatments and was very thin and frail.

Thelma had been a beauty until she fell ill. She was a talented artist and seamstress and had been ac-ive in community affairs. She refused to give up, and kept going until she just couldn't go any more. She made pretty scarves to cover her hairless head and wore gloves to hide her bony hands.

I resented that waitress thinking she was being complimentary by calling my sister "young lady."

Abby, please tell your readers that not all senior citizens think being addressed as "young" is the ultimate compliment. What's wrong with "ma'am" or "sir"? It sounds more sincere and respectful. Please print this for my wonderful sister. - MISSING MY SISTER

DEAR MISSING: Please accept my sympathy at the loss of your beloved sister. Thank you for writing. I'm printing your letter. Many can learn from it. I did.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but here I am. I have a husband who retired last year, and he is driving me crazy! He gets dressed only when he has to go out, otherwise, he stays in his pajamas until noon - and a lot of times until 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Then he gets back into his pajamas right after 6 o'clock supper.

In the summertime, he wears only the bottoms. It is very embarrassing when people drop in - he won't even put on his trousers.

Are there other husbands like mine? And if there are any wives out there who know how to get their men to dress presentably around the house, I sure hope they write in and share their secret with Dear Abby. - DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: I don't know what your husband's attitude was toward retirement - but from the picture you are painting, he seems to have little incentive to get dressed and go out. This could be a symptom of depression, or possibly a physical problem. Tell your family doctor, and ask him to schedule an appointment for your husband.

If everything checks out A-O-K, perhaps you could explore some senior activities that would interest you both. These are supposed to be the golden years - don't let them tarnish.

FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 28, 1992

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be more open about a relationship. Listen to your sixth sense in an emotional matter. Explore your more altruistic side with a loved one. Focus on friendship and a positive turn of events. Tonight: Roll with the punches.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Remain more specific as to which way to go. Let another share feelings with you. Be open to change and look to bottom lines and better understanding. Realize what a boss is really demanding of you. Tonight: Put in the extra hours necessary.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Let another express a caring toward you. Do more listening than talking, and you can gain powerful insights into a project. Accept an invitation that may be more important to the other party. Tonight: Make merry.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Use a soft approach with associates, and you get a lot further. Let your Cancerian nurturing traits come out. Excitement is the natural order of the day. Allow another to express an upbeat side. Tonight: Get needed rest.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Get moving on a creative idea that can turn your life around. Allow another to share good feelings, and integrate them into your work. You are able to stabilize an important friendship. Tonight: Let the social animal in you lead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get to look at an important matter that touches close to home. Be willing to understand more of what is going on by doing a better job of listening. Remember, honey works better than vinegar. Tonight: Do some reorganizing at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Express your deeper feelings to another. Your understanding of what is going on is far more solid than it has been. You are able to make some positive decisions as a result. Emphasis is on children, romance and a greater commitment. Tonight: Hang out in a favorite haunt.

SERPIS (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Allow another to open up to you and look to more positive vibrations. During lunchtime, buy a card or some other token of your caring for a loved one. Be a lot more in touch with your family. Tonight: Touch base with a family member.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Creativity is high and you are able to move in new directions. Let your personality flow, and be open to changing circumstances. You can break down barriers. Be more upbeat. Tonight: Be your magnetic self.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Allow another to open up to you. Make few judgments and do a better job of listening. Creativity is high, but do not let a money situation bog you down. Don't let in security get to you. Tonight: Get a good night's sleep.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be more upbeat about a personal relationship. The emphasis today is on friendship and expanding your horizons. Allow another to open up to you. You might be more serious than you need to be when it comes to pursuing a long-term goal. Tonight: Celebrate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Try another approach or get more information. Accept responsibilities on the work front. Another acknowledges you in a special way. Put your best foot forward and glow. Don't let another's negativity get to you. Tonight: Accept being in the limelight.

IF OCT. 28 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Expect this year to be extraordinary, although you'll find yourself being overly serious. You could bring in additional funds through your talents or another's goodwill. The real trick is not to overspend. You are able to build more stable foundations. Family life might carry added responsibility, but in the long run it is worthwhile. Be more loving in your day-to-day life. You are clearing out much that does not work for you. SAGITTARIUS is your true friend.

THE ASTERISKS (*) SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-Serious; 1-Difficult.
