Lambert freezes two funds
General, utility funds frozen for six months

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

All city hiring, salary increases, personnel adjustments and capital expenditures in the general and utility fund were frozen last week by City Manager Lanny Lambert.

It's in effect at least six months and includes $62,000 to add four jailers to the police department and a $25,000 employee merit pay plan in this year's budget, which went into effect Oct. 1., said City Manager Lanny Lambert, who reported his decision to the Big Spring City Council at a meeting Tuesday.

RELATED STORY — 10A

"It looks like to me, guys, we're going to have to borrow money on a short term basis to get through the first six months in the utility fund," Lambert told the council. He said he has a "special concern" about low volume-water sales the past three years.

"I plan to keep the freeze on for six months and reevaluate our financial condition at that time to see if the freeze can be removed," he said. "This will not affect the city prisons or airport funds which are self-funding."

Council members did not comment on the announcement at the meeting.

Mayor Tim Blackshear said afterwards, "I think it (would) be good. It'll give Lambert some time to get his hand on the situation. It'll give us some time."

Lambert said he needs to check to see what has been implemented in this year's budget so far before he can determine how much money is involved.

Besides four jailers and the merit pay program, this year's budget included:

- Two added dispatchers for the police department. Cost, $25,670.
- Upgrading jobs of two clerk typists in the police department. Cost, $6,400.
- Upgrading captain positions in the fire department to assistant chiefs. Cost, $13,500.
- Upgrading payroll clerk in personnel department. Cost, $1,859.
- Upgrading senior account clerk in finance office to secretary. Cost, $1,859.
- Added clerk to finance office. Cost, $15,000.
- Upgrading computer programmer in data processing. Cost, $3,000.
- Upgrading crew leader in sanitation collection to welder. Cost, $2,000.

Investigation continues into allegations against Jerry Stone

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

The Borden County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service continues to wait for the Office of the Inspector General's investigation results on allegations against County Director Jerry Stone.

Stone's suspension without pay was effective June 29 after allegations of wrongdoing were brought to the attention of the district office, state and national offices, said ASCS District Director Don Tatum in an earlier interview.

The Texas State ASCS Committee, overseeing the operations of all 260 ASCS offices in Texas, is waiting for results from the investigation the OIG has conducted.

"The office has been in and out of Borden County several times since they began their investigation," said Jerry Harris, committee chairman. "They are interviewing and getting statements from people in the county who dealt with Jerry. They wanted to talk to as many cotton producers as they could."

Harris said it is not uncommon for an investigation to last six months or more, but he anticipated an OIG report soon. ASCS officials are not at liberty to divulge the nature of the allegations against Stone until all reports are in and a decision is made.

In a Aug. 2 Big Spring Herald article, Stone denied any wrongdoing warranting an investigation.

Some Borden County cotton producers expressed dissatisfaction with Stone's performance. Allegations by the producers ranged from records not being sent to private insurance companies to not being recorded at the ASCS office. At least one farmer claims he has lost money because Stone did not measure his crops in time for him to comply with program regulations.

During Stone's suspension, ASCS directors from surrounding counties are assigned Stone's duties.

The general procedure which results in an investigation by the OIG begins with a complaint or complaints received by the Texas State ASCS Committee. The committee reviews the complaint, ruling on its validity.

If valid, the OIG will be informed of the allegations. The OIG will review the allegations deciding on the need of a suspension and further investigation.

Big Spring State Hospital business manager David Osterhout closes his eyes as a wet sponge sails towards him at a fundraising carnival Tuesday evening. So far, United Way has raised a total of $124,000 and is at 52 percent of its goal for this year.

A city smoking ordinance goes to the public
Public hearing Thursday

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A public meeting for input on a proposed city smoking ordinance is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at the Municipal Auditorium.

"The purpose of the meeting is to get the feedback from the community and their feeling on a smoking ordinance, specifically this ordinance," said Big Spring City Councilman Corky Harris, spearheading the ordinance effort.

An eight-member citizens committee, with smokers and non-smokers appointed by the council last month, unanimously approved the proposed ordinance after four meetings.

It would be up to each business owner or those in charge of enclosed public places — including stores, restaurants, movie theaters — to create smoking areas large enough to handle users, according to the proposal. But smoking areas could not include service lines or cashier areas.

There are exceptions, such as bars, tobacco shops and private functions in public places.

Violations would be a misdemeanor offense punishable by a fine that accrue daily.

Gore speech cancelled when crude bomb found

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — A speech by Al Gore at a high school was canceled after a crude bomb was found in the gymnasium.

The explosive was discovered Tuesday under wooden bleachers at Rocky Mountain High School in the afternoon, several hours before the Democratic vice-presidential candidate was to speak, Secret Service spokesman Carl Meyer said.

Ordnance teams from the Secret Service and the military were called in to dismantle it.

The bomb, containing black powder, was a "very crude, elementary type of device incapable of causing structural damage but could have caused injury to people in the vicinity," Meyer said. However, he said Gore would not have passed by the bomb and probably would not have been hurt had it gone off.

Principal Karen Dickson said a bomb threat had been telephoned to the school, but Meyer said the

"In order to protect the health and welfare of citizens, as well as to protect the rights of smokers and nonsmokers, it is necessary to restrict smoking in public places except in areas designed as smoking areas," states an introduction to the six-page first draft.

It states:

- Smoking areas must be of a justifiable size, with ventilation, marked by clearly visible signs in and at entrances of establishments, have ashtrays or other extinguishing containers and be separated from non-smoking areas.
- Public places are exempt if smokers constitute such a large portion of users that structural or "significant expenditures" would be needed. However, clearly marked signs would still be required and service lines and cashier areas must be non-smoking areas.
- Smoking areas in places of employment must be agreeable to all non-smokers. It does not include employees with duties that include routine interaction with the general public. And no expense or structural changes would be required by employers.
- Taxicabs can be smoking or non-smoking but must have signs inside and out designating which.

"There were no threats. No one claimed responsibility, and we have no suspects."

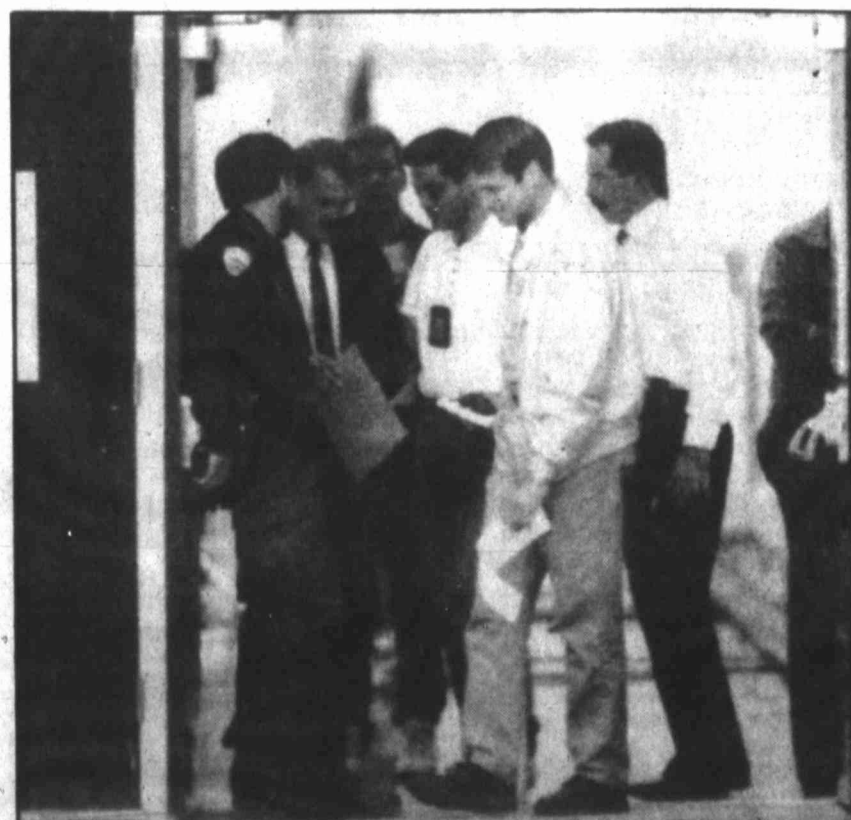

Carl Meyer
Secret Service

Secret Service was never made aware of any threat.

"There were no threats. No one claimed responsibility, and we have no suspects," Meyer said.

When Gore arrived at the airport here on Tuesday evening, he made light of the incident, saying he had planned to give a "dynamite" speech and "blow the roof off" the gym. Fort Collins is about 70 miles north of Denver.

Students described the bomb as two cylindrical objects taped together, with a clock attached and wires protruding. "It was right under the bleachers. It was easy to see, but it didn't look like much to me," Heather Kopp said.

Secret Service agents join local law enforcement officials in a conference outside a door to the gymnasium in Fort Collins, Colo., Rocky Mountain High School where an explosive device was found before an appearance by Democratic vice presidential candidate Al Gore Tuesday. Gore was en route to Fort Collins when the event was cancelled and was never in immediate danger.

Second grand jury indicts rape suspect

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — A rape suspect who wore a condom at the woman's request has been indicted after an earlier grand jury refused to bring charges.

"We think that the right message is being sent now," District Attorney Ronnie Earle said after 27-year-old Joel Rene Valdez was indicted Tuesday on rape and burglary charges carrying a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Police said Valdez broke into the woman's home Sept. 16 and held a knife on her; he admitted hiding in her home but said that she consented to sex and that her offering him a condom proved it.

The woman said she told the second grand jury she wanted protection from sexually transmitted diseases. "I said that just because I protected myself from rotting of AIDS for seven years doesn't mean I consented," she said.

On Sept. 30, a grand jury refused to indict Valdez, touching off protests from women's groups. More than 100 demonstrators rallied outside the courthouse Oct. 12.

The district attorney said he was "flabbergasted" by the first grand jury's decision, and in a rare move announced he would submit the case to another panel.

Grand jury proceedings are secret under law, and prosecutors wouldn't discuss the reasons for the first panel's action. But on Tuesday, Earle cited public speculation that the panel thought the woman's request indicated consent.

"The issue here is survival, staying alive. We think that whatever a woman has to do to survive this kind of encounter can't be used against her," Earle said.

Earle said the same facts and evidence were presented to the second grand jury. But this time, Valdez's accuser testified.

Valdez remained in jail on $100,000 bail. After the first grand jury's action, he was immediately arrested and charged in the break-in.

His accuser said she was ecstatic about the indictment. "I'd like to thank all the people that took an interest in my case," she said. "It gives me a new faith in people."

The woman had voiced outrage over the initial refusal to indict the man, saying, "I was raped by a man and now I'm being raped by society."

Valdez responded at the time: "She's the one who gave me the condoms. If she didn't want to, why would she give me the condoms?"

Sue James, director of the Dallas County Rape Crisis Center, said the woman had the presence of mind to protect herself in the age of AIDS. "It in no way negates that this man made an illegal entry into her house and threatened her with a knife," she said.

Travis County officials in Austin Tuesday, discuss the sexual assault indictment against a man who wore a condom at the woman victim's request. District Attorney Ronnie Earle, center, comments outside the county jail facility. Dana Baird, left, and LaRu Woody, both from the district attorney's office, look on. An earlier grand jury refused to bring charges against the man indicted Tuesday.

100 delegates attend sex education summit

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — The president of Texas United for Life says most "mainstream, pro-life, pro-family organizations" were left out of a summit on preventing teen-age pregnancy.

"There are about 10 people who believe in abstinence-based sex education in this room," Bill Price said of the three-day summit, which began Tuesday and has 100 delegates.

"The rest of them believe the whole Planned Parenthood program, the pass-out-the-condoms routine..." he said.

But Peggy Romberg, a member of the summit's steering committee and executive director of the Texas Family Planning Association, said delegates were representative of many interests, including those espoused by Price.

"I think all of us would like to see teen-agers delay sexual activity, but... some are going to become sexually active. I think it's our goal as citizens to be sure that they are responsible," she said.

The delegates included teen-agers, parents, religious leaders, educators, health care professionals, business leaders and other concerned citizens, according to a summit statement.

Gov. Ann Richards told those at the conference that Texans must realize the need to educate young people about sex so they can make "wise choices."

"I for one have never been able to understand those who would propose ignorance of sexuality as a solution," Richards said.

Guerrero encouraged by the undecided vote

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — Democrat Lena Guerrero says she's encouraged that large numbers of voters apparently haven't yet made up their minds about the Railroad Commission race.

Several opinion polls published this week showed Republican candidate Barry Williamson leading Ms. Guerrero by margins ranging from 4 to 17 percentage points.

"I remember all those polls in 1990 showed Ann Richards trailing, too. I think people are overpolled, probably," she said.

Once the front-runner, Ms. Guerrero has struggled since resigning from the commission last month after acknowledging that she lacked the college diploma she had claimed for 12 years.

Ms. Guerrero appeared upbeat Tuesday, while casting an early ballot and saying she voted a "straight Democratic ticket." But she said the race has taken its toll. "It has been very tough on me. It has been very tough on my family. It has been very tough on my friends," she said.

Ms. Guerrero said "it seems worth it" when she can discuss issues such as state energy policy, natural gas markets or trucking deregulation. "I'm very proud of the record I've established on the Railroad Commission. And no one's been able to criticize that record. I think that's real telling."

Williamson campaigned in Corpus Christi, where he visited an oilfield service company.

Earlier, Williamson said the polls showing him leading indicate that "my message of creating jobs is being welcomed across this state."

"People are excited about getting our rigs up and running again, about reinvesting in our energy industry, and about creating a better business environment," he said.

Teased gunman fires on co-workers; one killed

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — A grocery warehouse employee who gunned down two co-workers, killing one and wounding another, had endured teasing for days about his marital problems, police say.

"They've been ribbing him about it, and he took it pretty hard," police homicide Lt. Larry Birney said Tuesday.

Roger Martinez, 24, was charged with one count of murder and one count of attempted murder late Tuesday, according to San Antonio police. Martinez, an HEB employee, was being taken to the Bexar County Jail late Tuesday where he will stay pending a $150,000 bond, the city's magistrate office said.

The gunman walked into a freezer area at the HEB Food Stores warehouse shortly after 2:30 p.m. Tuesday and fired at least 15 or 20 shots with a 9mm automatic weapon and a .22-caliber handgun, Birney said.

A 25-year-old man whose name was not immediately released, was killed, Birney said.

Another man, 28-year-old Jose Galvan, was grazed in the head and wounded in the shoulder and was still being treated at Northeast Baptist Hospital. No condition was immediately available Tuesday night.

Martinez surrendered to police shortly after the shootings, tossing the guns into a trash can inside the warehouse before walking outside, police said.

Birney said the incident at the northeast San Antonio warehouse apparently stemmed from a dispute that began last Wednesday, when a group of employees gathered at a local bar. The gunman, who reportedly had been having marital problems, saw his wife dancing there with other male employees, the police lieutenant said.

"In the days that ensued since that incident, they've been making a little bit of fun of him," Birney said. The man got off work early Tuesday and returned later with the guns, Birney said.

HEB spokesman Mike De La Garza said many frightened employees were able to scramble to hide behind racks and doors in the freezer section when the shooting started.

Although police initially feared someone was in the warehouse randomly shooting, "it appears that he was after specific people," Birney said.

"It was an employee dispute involving something that doesn't concern HEB in any way, shape or form," Birney said.

As police investigated, dozens of worried relatives gathered outside a chain-link fence surrounding the warehouse, waiting to learn if their loved ones had been injured. A number of workers who had arrived for afternoon shifts were kept away.

Bush puts the finger on Clinton's spending

Reports raise questions about Bush's spending

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Bush's campaign is suggesting a "desperate" Bill Clinton may try cheating on his campaign finances during the final stretch. But the president's own spending reports raise questions as well.

An Associated Press review has found the Bush campaign:

—Used placards and booklets in the fall campaign that read "Paid for by Bush-Quayle Primary Committee" despite a legal requirement that it cannot use things paid with primary donations in the general election.

—Has been slow to reimburse the Treasury for its political travel aboard government jets.

—According to its spending reports, may be renting office space from Republican Party groups at lower-than-market rates. Candidates are required to pay fair market value.

In the battle to stretch the $65.5 million the presidential campaigns can spend on the fall election, the campaigns may engage in accounting games.

"I think both parties have possibly engaged in this sort of thing. I think they say you do what you have to do to win and you worry about the consequences later," said Joshua Goldstein, an analyst with the Center for Responsive Politics, a campaign finance watchdog group.

An AP review earlier this year found Clinton's campaign had left off about a half-million dollars of his general election expenses from his July report.

It also spent a small amount of primary donations to pay for hotels and other expenses on its first cross-country bus trip of the fall campaign. It blamed the errors on oversights.

In an "urgent alert" sent by fax Tuesday, the Bush campaign asked its staff to be on the lookout for more evidence that Clinton and the Democrats might try to "steal this election" in the final days of the campaign.

"The Clinton campaign is becoming desperate... We expect them to cut corners or completely ignore the federal spending limitations," the fax charged.

Max Parker, a Clinton spokeswoman, said Democrats were being "very diligent" in complying with laws. "I think they got the wrong campaign mentioned there," she said.

Alise Glen, a Bush campaign spokeswoman, said the fax was mistakenly sent to the news media. "But since you did get it you should look at some of the things in it," she said.

Muslims, Croats withdraw; fight continues with Serbs

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Muslim and Croat troops began withdrawing today from a city they had fought over, Bosnian radio said. But relations between the erstwhile allies remained strained.

In the northern town of Jajce, meanwhile, Muslim-led government troops fought Serb rebels in fierce battles. Serb fighters have been trying to enlarge a northern corridor linking Serbia with Serb-held land in Bosnia and Croatia.

Government forces and ethnic Croatian militia were withdrawing from Prozor, about 30 miles west of Sarajevo, as agreed Tuesday, Bosnian radio reported.

Prozor, Novi Travnik and Vitez, where Croats and government forces had clashed in recent days, were quiet overnight and this morning, the radio said.

Both Serbs and Muslims reported heavy fighting around the besieged town of Jajce, 60 miles northwest of Sarajevo, but gave differing accounts.

The Serb rebels' news agency, SRNA, reported that Serb forces had "liberated" Jajce on Tuesday.

But the Bosnian army denied the report and said its forces had actually moved their lines forward about 200 yards. It claimed the Serbs were bringing fresh reinforcements by helicopter from Banja Luka to the north.

That would be in violation of a U.N. resolution mandating that Serb aircraft in Bosnia be grounded. Ethnic Serb leader Radovan Karadzic has pledged to honor the resolution, but some of his commanders have vowed defiance.

Bosnian radio reported that government forces repelled an infantry attack on the northern town of Gradacac.

Sarajevo was fairly calm overnight, but the center of the Bosnian capital was shelled from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 a.m.

Bosnia's war began when Serbs rebelled against the majority Muslims and Croats, who voted for secession from Yugoslavia on Feb. 29.

More than 14,000 people have died.

French police arrest convicted health official on return home

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — The former French health official convicted of allowing AIDS-contaminated blood products to be given to hemophiliacs was jailed in Paris today immediately after returning from Boston.

Police waiting on the tarmac placed Dr. Michel Garretta, former head of France's National Blood Transfusion Center, in a patrol car as soon as he descended from the commercial jetliner.

He was later taken to La Sante prison in southern Paris.

A judge last week sentenced Gar-retta to four years in prison and fined him $100,000 for his part in allowing transfusions that have killed nearly 300 hemophiliacs.

Garretta protested the sentence before leaving Boston, where he had been working.

"The judgment that was pronounced is a judgment that's not, in the end, about facts, but about a rumor," he told reporters late Tuesday at Logan International Airport. "It was the collective fault of the system."

He echoed the complaints of many AIDS-stricken hemophiliacs and their relatives, who consider Garretta a scapegoat in a chain of events that leads to the highest levels of government.

Two other people also were convicted Friday, but the court deemed Garretta, who received the maximum sentence, "uncontestably the inspirer and director" of the policy.

Garretta's lawyers said they did not yet know whether he would appeal.

Garretta was convicted of "deception in the basic qualities of a product" for which he got the maximum sentence.

Real witches are trying to dispel stereotypical images

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

STARKS, Maine — Fred Griffith thought it was just another college blind date, but his companion turned out to be a witch.

Now, 15 years later, so is he.

Unlike the stereotypical image of a wart-nosed hag, witches such as Griffith, a state employee, don't stand out in a crowd. They work regular jobs and lead what most would consider normal lives — except during a full moon.

"We're trying to get rid of the stereotypes," said Leigh Griffith, 37, who married Fred and taught him "wicca" — the religion of witches.

As for other stereotypes: The Griffiths aren't devil worshipers, they don't wear pointed hats and they don't own black cats.

But they do hold candlelight rituals at their home.

Wicca, patterned on early pagan religions, is founded on a reverence for the Earth and its inhabitants.

"We think the term 'good witch' is redundant. The basic tenet of our faith is as long as you're harming none, you can do what you want," Leigh Griffith said.

It's not uncommon for neighbors to hear chants at night as the Griffiths teach their religion to a small coven. Often there is burning of incense, chanting and sometimes dancing as they summon the Earth's energy.

"They tend to be white, upper-class women. They're on a spiritual journey," said Judith Monroe, author of "Widdershins," a novel about modern-day witches in Maine.

"Because of the scourge of witches in the past, a lot of people are nervous about identifying themselves as witches because that brings out all of hatred that sometimes occurs in our country."

In Blue Hill, few people know that Geoff Miller is a witch. "It's an odd combination. I don't hide it, but people have to basically ask me about it. There are some members of my family, my parents, who don't know," Miller said.

Appeals Court election vital

While the Court of Criminal Appeals is not as well known as the Texas Supreme Court, it is the highest court in the state pertaining to criminal matters.

As the highest authority over criminal law enforcement in the state, the Court of Criminal Appeals makes decisions that directly affect your rights, as well as the public safety of every Texan.

The Court of Criminal Appeals consists of nine judges elected in statewide elections to six-year terms. On Nov. 3, voters will determine three of these important seats.

Election to the Court of Criminal Appeals often have more to do with contrasting judicial philosophies than political party labels.

We recommend the following candidates for your consideration:

Place 1

Joseph Devaney

A 39-year veteran of the judiciary, Devaney began practicing law in 1953. He has served as a Justice on the 5th Court of Appeals and as Presiding Justice of that court. His solid record of experience makes him the best candidate for the position.

Devaney's commitment to the people of Texas to help keep criminals behind bars sets him far apart from his opponent. That opponent, Judge Charles Baird is considered to be a "defendant's judge." A study released in 1990 by Texas People Against Crime shows that Baird's vote consistently goes with the criminal and that he is 41 percent more likely to free a criminal if his is the swing vote in the decision.

Baird specialized in defending accused murderers in private practice. Since being named to the court in 1990, he has been 64 percent more likely to free an accused murderer if his is the swing vote in the decision.

The study reveals Baird to be 28 percent less likely to convict child molesters and sex offenders than the other eight judges and is the third least likely judge to allow punishment of these crimes overall.

We encourage you to support Joseph Devaney.

Place 2

Sue Legarde

Legarde has served as an Assistant District Attorney in Dallas County and as Presiding Justice of the 5th Court of Appeals in Dallas since 1986.

Legarde believes the role of the judiciary to be the interpretation of the law as passed by the Legislature — not to recreate those laws in the image of the judge and his or her own philosophy and personal beliefs.

We believe these ideals are the ones with which most Texans are comfortable. Additionally, Judge Legarde is more experienced than her opponent.

While her opponent, Judge Morris Overstreet, has compiled a strong record, we have a problem with his inability to keep drug offenders behind bars.

Overstreet votes to uphold criminal sanctions in only 41 percent of all drug cases and has never voted to affirm a conviction if his is the deciding vote.

Since his arrival on the bench on Jan. 2, 1991, 525 opinions have been issued by the court. Of all the cases heard by the court, Judge Overstreet wrote opinions in 55 cases. Although murder and capital murder cases make up approximately half of the court's docket, Overstreet most often wrote opinions in drug-related cases.

In opinions involving controlled substances, Overstreet voted to reverse convictions 85 percent of the time and only votes to affirm a conviction when his vote doesn't matter.

We encourage you to support Judge Barbara Legarde.

Place 3

Pete Benavides

The only judge on the court presently with both trial and appellate experience prior to serving on the Court of Criminal Appeals, Judge Benavides is clearly qualified to represent the people of Texas.

His voting record shows that he is in the middle of the court philosophically.

Judge Benavides began practicing law in 1974 and began his public service in 1977 as judge of the Hidalgo County Court at Law No. 2. He has served as 92nd District Judge, as commissioner of the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission, as Justice, 13th Court of Appeals and as a Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals.

His opponent, Judge Lawrence Meyers, is well-qualified for the position but would bring little new or better to the court.

We encourage you to support Judge Pete Benavides.

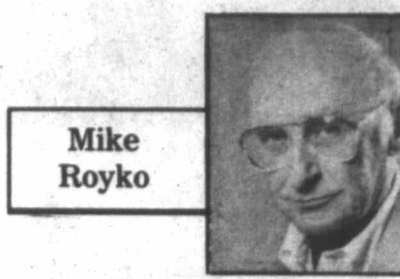

A number of major news organizations refuse to let their reporters be on the panel of questioners at presidential debates. They consider the debates staged political events and say it would be unethical for them to take part.

But I don't have any such qualms. I won't be asked, but just in case, I have prepared my list of questions for President Bush, Gov. Bill Clinton and Ross Perot. They cover, I believe, most of the major issues of this campaign.

President Bush, you say you were not part of "the loop" in the Iran-contra arms deal. Doesn't that make you feel silly? I mean, there you were, the Vice President of the United States, the second-biggest enchilada, and they didn't even tell you what was going on? What was the deal — did they think you'd blab? And would you have blabbed? You want to blab now?

Gov. Clinton, you attended Oxford University in England and Yale Law School in the Ivy League, two of the finest institutions of learning in the world. So how come you still talk like a hillbilly?

Mr. Perot, this question concerns the relationship between one's height and how one uses power. Have you noticed that Napoleon, Attila the Hun and you are all short guys, and would you care to comment on that?

Mike Royko

President Bush, did Prime Minister Kitchi Miyazawa of Japan ever send you the dry-cleaning bill after you threw up on his trousers, and did you pay it?

Gov. Clinton, is your choice of jogging attire an indication that you are seeking the nerd vote?

Mr. Perot, you made most of your billions in the computer industry. Could you tell the American people what the heck they should do when their PC sends the message, "Abort, Retry, Fail"?

President Bush, you are, in all likelihood, the last American president who will have grown up during the Great Depression.

Would you care to share with those younger Americans, who are now suffering through hard times, your memories of what it was like to look upon a depressed nation through the window of the family limo that was driving you to your prep school?

Gov. Clinton, after that blond bimbo got up on TV and said you had been her lover boy for years, you and your wife went on TV and your wife was affectionate, supportive and calm. Would you care to share with millions of American men how the heck you managed to talk your way out of that pickle?

Mr. Perot, as a successful businessman, don't you think it would be a more prudent use of your resources to go find a small, undeveloped country, buy the whole thing and declare yourself king?

President Bush, you live in the White House, you own a huge home on the coast of Maine, but you insist on voting in Texas and claiming to be a Texan. Are you ashamed of being a natural-born Eastern elitist?

Gov. Clinton, you have said that if you are elected president, you will continue to make bus tours around the United States to stay in touch with grass-roots Americans. Do you promise to do it only on weekends so you don't screw up rush-hour traffic?

Mr. Perot, from where we're sitting, we can't see — are you standing on a phone book?

President Bush, when that reporter asked you about reports that you were once lovey-dovey with a female aide, you really got indignant and mad. Why did you get mad? I mean, come on, you're a successful, healthy, normal, tall, good-looking guy, with a full head of hair, and, hey, stuff happens, right?

Gov. Clinton, President Carter called himself Jimmy. You call yourself Bill. Don't any of you Southerners have real grown-up names?

Mr. Perot, after this election is over, and assuming you do not win, if Larry King has to make a choice between having you on his show or Zsa Zsa Gabor, what do you think your chances will be, and do you want to make a bet?

President Bush, during his two terms in the White House, Ronald Reagan frequently took naps, dozed off during meetings and took kind of a laid-back approach to governing our nation. And he was one of the most popular presidents of modern times. In contrast, you are always wide awake, on the go, jetting from one place to another, frantically flailing at golf balls and speeding off in golf carts, or zipping around in a boat in pursuit of fish, yet your popularity is low. So if you had it all to do over again, would you have popped a few Valiums?

Gov. Clinton, after the election is over, win or lose, are you going to finally inhale?

Mr. Perot, or are those two phone books?

WHY DOESN'T SOME CANDIDATE HAVE THE COURAGE TO TELL ME THE TRUTH THAT WILL COST HIM MY VOTE?

Discounting the crackpot

I've mulled today's column over in my mind for a couple of days ... ever since watching CBS' "60 Minutes" on Sunday.

The thing that disturbs me are the unsubstantiated charges leveled by H. Ross Perot. Perot himself admitted he had no proof. CBS admitted it could find no evidence of any wrongdoing. The FBI said it could find no evidence of any wrongdoing.

Yet here we are, on network television, with this Napoleonic-like character with Dumbo-like ears able to sit and make his allegations at will.

George Bush says his wife even told Perot's wife there was nothing to the claims at one of the presidential debates.

According to a story filed by Associated Press writer Evan Ramstad, Perot's past is peppered with instances in which he made conspiracy allegations that turned out to be unprovable or false.

This time, he says, Republican operatives drove him from the campaign in July by threatening to embarrass one of his daughters. The charge has been stoutly denied by President Bush's campaign.

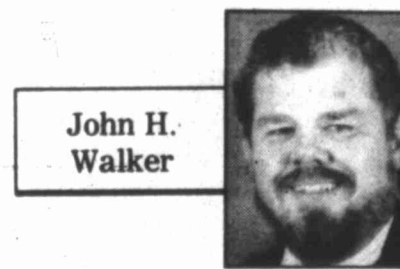

And, as before, Perot took offense when pressed for evidence.

"I am sick and tired of you all questioning my integrity without a basis for it," Perot told reporters in a surprise appearance at his campaign's daily news briefing Monday.

Sick and tired ... ?

Gee, Ross, it seems like the kitchen is getting too hot for you once again. You're running for president ... or is that king ... and you need to be ready to answer questions. You can't just walk away from everything.

I forgot, you've already walked away from everything once this campaign.

Perot repeatedly has raised allegations against competitors, clients, government officials and reporters as he built a multimillion-dollar fortune in the computer services business. He has even alleged assassination conspiracies against him and his family by enemies as varied as North Vietnam, the Black Panthers and Texas drug dealers.

In the last presidential debate, Perot repeated his account that in 1970, "The Vietnamese had sent people into Canada to make arrangements to have me and my family killed. The most significant effort they had one night is five people coming across my front yard with rifles."

Perot said Monday that a guard turned a dog loose on the intruders and it bit one of them. He declined to identify the guard, saying, "I don't have to prove anything to you people."

Dallas police say there is no record of any such event. Paul McCaghren, who headed the Dallas police intelligence operations at the time, told ABC News that "It did not happen. ... If five members of the First Baptist Church with rifles had come onto his lawn, we would have found out about it."

And Chicken Little kept claiming, "The sky is falling, the sky is falling!"

It's interesting that both Perot and Chicken Little display similar tendencies of almost constant paranoia.

Perot also charges GOP operatives tried to wiretap his Dallas office. But an FBI "sting" operation against Texas Bush-Quayle chairman Jim Oberwetter turned up nothing.

"At this point, there is no evidence that we have found that would indicate that any of the presidential campaigns, at least here in Dallas, have directed any dirty tricks at any other campaign," Buck Revell, agent in charge of the Dallas FBI bureau, told "60 Minutes." FBI Director William Sessions said the wiretap allegation "was investigated and no evidence of criminality was found."

Yet "60 Minutes" gave Perot free rein to make the charges time and again — citing two mysterious GOP sources he could not name and a fellow named Scott Barnes.

Almost every time Perot said he couldn't reveal his sources or give proof, CBS would parrot with a similar "We can't find any proof" line.

And yet CBS gave Perot free rein to make his claims.

The only thing Perot has proven with this latest "sky is falling" episode is that he doesn't have what it takes to be president. He reminds me of Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew in that everyone is after him and there's a conspiracy around every corner.

I honestly believe that the only wasted vote is the one that is never cast. It's just becoming more and more evident that a vote for Perot might as well never have been cast.

Rockies name Baylor manager

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER — Don Baylor became the fourth minority manager in the major leagues when he signed a three-year contract with the expansion Colorado Rockies.

Baylor, 43, played for six AL teams in a 19-year career as an outfielder, first baseman and designated hitter, playing in three World Series and seven AL playoffs. He had a .260 career average, 338 homers and 1,276 RBIs and was hit by pitches a record 255 times. He was the AL's most valuable player in 1979 with California.

Baylor was St. Louis' batting coach last season after being a finalist for the team's manager position in 1990. Baylor was Milwaukee's batting coach in 1990 and 1991.

NEW YORK — Tony La Russa, who led Oakland to its fourth AL West title in five years, won his third American League manager of the year award.

Milwaukee's Phil Garner was second with 76 points. He received two first-place votes, 21 seconds and three thirds.

Saints waive Louis Lipps

NEW ORLEANS — Louis Lipps was waived by the New Orleans Saints, 4½ weeks after they signed the 30-year-old receiver.

Lipps played in just two games for the Saints before he pulled his right hamstring and was placed on injured reserve.

A nine-year veteran and two-time All-Pro, Lipps was waived early in the season by Pittsburgh after missing the first two regular-season games in a holdout. He was one of 10 players who filed suit seeking immediate free agency after a Minneapolis jury negated the Plan B system.

NHL players in Olympics?

NEW YORK — While the NHL would like to send Wayne Gretzky and Mario Lemieux to the 1994 Olympics, league president Gil Stein said that participation of the league's best players is still uncertain.

"There are many loose ends that would have to be cleared up if we were to interrupt our season for several weeks," said Stein, who met for three hours with the league's board of governors to discuss several topics.

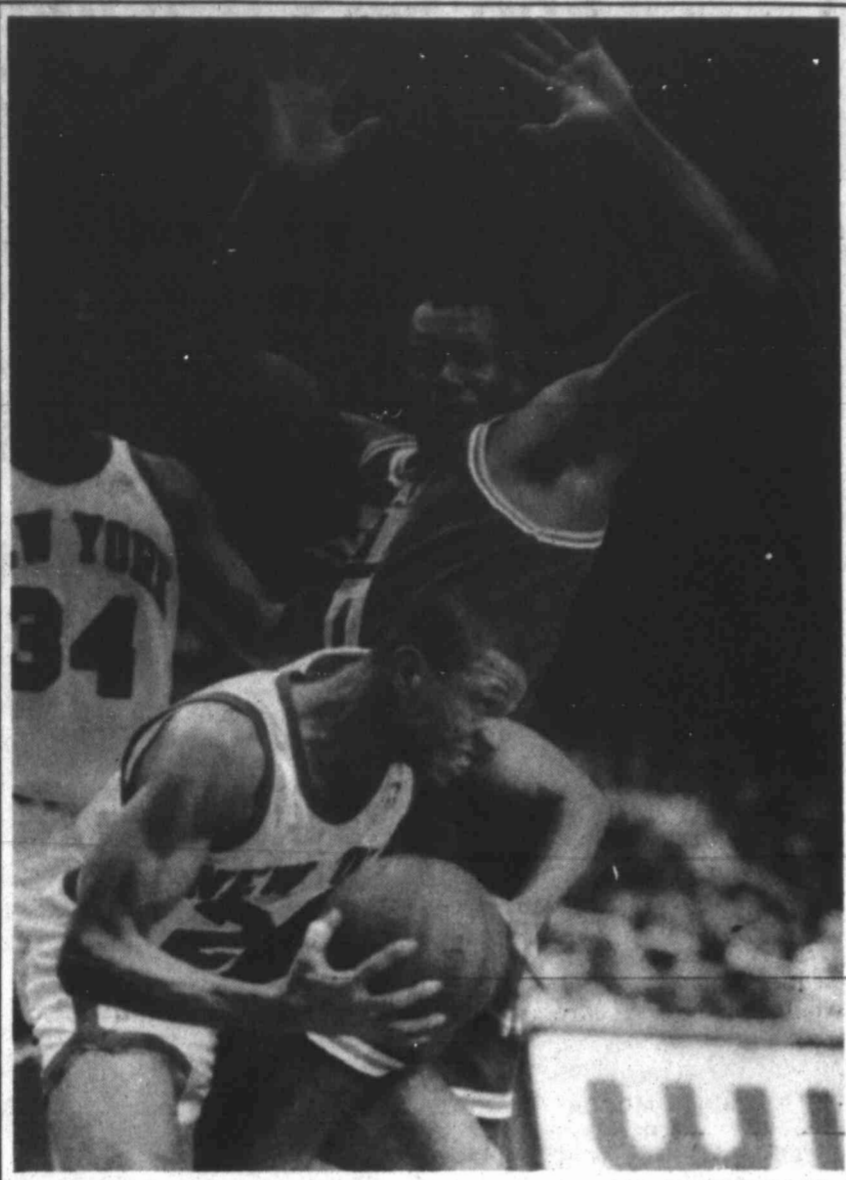

An eight-member search committee will report to the board in December, when the league could then choose from among three options: an outright rejection of the proposal; a league stoppage; or league slowdown, during which one or two games would be played while some players left for the Olympics.

ST. LOUIS — Gary Sheffield of San Diego Padres was selected as major league player of the year by The Sporting News.

Steelers focusing in on Moon in Oiler rematch

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITTSBURGH — They intercepted him five times last season in Pittsburgh. They intercepted him five times in the season opener Sept. 6 in Houston.

Everywhere Warren Moon turns when he plays the Pittsburgh Steelers, it seems, he sees Rod Woodson or Carnell Lake or D.J. Johnson covering one of his receivers, knocking down a pass, intercepting the ball, making life difficult for him.

But what is Steelers coach Bill Cowher's biggest concern before Sunday's game against the Houston Oilers (5-2) for the AFC Central Division lead?

Obviously it's shutting down Moon, one of the most productive and prolific passers in NFL history.

"This obviously is a big game, but Warren Moon's played in a lot of big games," Cowher said Tuesday. "We've got a lot of respect for him. What we did the last time will have no bearing on this game. I don't know if you ever stop him; you just try to contain him."

Cowher knows there will be no surprising the Oilers this time, not like before when Houston seemed to relax after quickly opening a 14-point lead over the Steelers, who were 13½-point underdogs.

Moon will be prepared for the changeup coverages and multiple schemes of a Pittsburgh defense that has intercepted him 11 times in their last three games. Cowher knows the Oilers will be looking for every trick, every gimmick, every gadget the Steelers have shown, and they'll also be guessing what new tricks he's got.

"By now, people are looking at us and they know who we are," Cowher said. "We're not fooling anybody. We're got 11 players who are playing hard and playing sound football. And we're playing very well at this point."

Cowher said it would be a mistake for the Steelers to get away from what's been successful — wearing down teams with their running game and ball control offense and big-play defense — just to try to outlick the Oilers.

"I don't anticipate there being too much difference on either side of the ball (from the first Oilers-Steelers game)," Cowher said.

Neither does Barry Foster, who has gone from being a part-time running back last season to the NFL's leading rusher. Foster had only 16 carries for 60 yards as the Steelers and Oilers split their two regular-season games last season, but he's already had five 100-yard games in the Steelers' first seven games this season.

Foster leads the NFL with 747 yards after rushing for 105 yards on 24 carries in the Steelers' 27-3 victory Sunday in Kansas City. Foster began his string of 100-yard games — the most by any Steelers back since Franco Harris had five in 1983 — by rushing for 107 yards against the Oilers.

"I don't think they're shaking in their boots," he said. "The Houston Oilers are going to play their game. We just have to play ours."

Like his coach, Foster is aware the Oilers know what they're getting into this time. This will be no September surprise; the Oilers know they must win in Pittsburgh to re-establish themselves as the premier team in the division.

"Kansas City was strong and aggressive on both sides of the ball and we went out and showed we belong with the best," Foster said. "I think people now will look at Pittsburgh and say, 'Hey, these guys are pretty good.'"

It's also the biggest game the Steelers have played in November in a few years. They've made the playoffs only once since 1984, but they're already in a position where just a few more wins will clearly throw them into the playoff picture. They also have the home-field advantage in six of their last nine games — and Cowher hopes it will be an advantage.

The NFL instructed coaches to refrain from asking their fans to create a significant home-field noise advantage, as Cowher did before the Steelers' home opener.

Football races taking shape

It's eight weeks into the high school football season, and the district playoff pictures are beginning to come into focus. It looks like the Crossroads Country area could have as many as four football teams in the state playoffs.

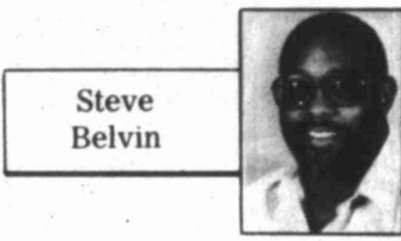

The Big Spring Steers pretty much eliminated themselves during the first three weeks of district play, tying Monahans and losing to Andrews and Sweetwater. I know it's sounds like an old cliché, but Big Spring has to be one of the best Class 4A teams in the state with a losing record.

It's all in the draw. Every two years district officials get together and put all the names of the teams in a hat and draw to see who plays who. It's just bad luck Big Spring drew the top three teams three weeks in a row. The Steers will face that killer lineup one more year before the names go back into the hat.

Incidentally, Sweetwater drew a similar schedule in 1989. The Mustangs didn't make the playoffs either, Big Spring and Monahans did. The Steers beat Monahans 20-19 in the state quarterfinals and then lost to eventual state champion Chapel Hill 59-6 in the semifinals.

Game of the Week in District 3-4A — Monahans at Andrews. Let's go with Andrews, say 17-13.

The district race with the most possibilities is District 6-2A, with five teams — Wall (4-0), Iraan (3-1), Ozona (3-2), Eldorado (2-2) and Coahoma (2-2), still having playoff shots. Coahoma coach Steve Park has it figured out. First of all, for his Bulldogs to get in the playoffs, they must beat McCamey this week at home and Ozona on the road the last game of the season. The Bulldogs also need Eldorado to either lose to Iraan or McCamey and for Wall to beat Iraan in Iraan the last game of the season.

That would cause a two-way tie for second place between Iraan and Coahoma, both with 4-2 records. Coahoma would advance because it beat Wall in head-to-head competition.

The District 8-A race heats up this week with the return of Sam Scott to Garden City. Last year Scott led Garden City to the regional round of the state playoffs. Then he accepted the job in Wink, which just happens to be in Garden City's district.

Garden City and preseason favorite Rankin are 2-0 in district play. Wink is 1-1, losing 14-7 to Rankin in Wink. If Garden City wins, the stage could be set for a district championship matchup on the last game of the season. Rankin plays in Garden City Nov. 13.

In District 5 six-man, the No. 5 state ranked Wellman Wildcats are the class of the league. The surprising Klondike Cougars have the inside track for the runnerup spot. Both teams are 3-0 and play Friday in Wellman.

Even if Klondike does lose, the Cougs could still reach the playoffs in the runnerup spot with a win over Dawson the following week.

There's a big battle in District 6 six-man Friday in Gail. The Borden County Coyotes will be hosting the Loraine Bulldogs. Both teams are 3-0 in district play. Borden County was expected to be here, along with Ira, who Borden County already beat. Loraine was picked near the bottom of the district.

A Coyotes win would assure them of a playoff spot. Loraine plays Ira the following week in the regular season finale.

Garden City tailback Jody Bradford and Borden County tailback Clint Wills are flirting with 2,000 yard seasons. Bradford has rushed for 1,532 yards and Wills has gained 1,559 yards.

The last area running back to gain 2,000 yards in a 10-game season was Borden County's Chris Cooley in 1985.

Here's a tale of a quick striking offense. The Borden County Coyotes have scored on their first offensive play of the game five times this season.

Another spectacular game for Bearkats running back

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

JODY BRADFORD MONTE MAYO LUIS BUSTAMANTE JEREMY ETHEREDGE

Last year the Garden City Bearkats had an all-state running back named James Soles. Replacing him has not been as difficult as the Bearkats thought it would be.

Soles rushed for more than 5,000 yards in his three-year career at Garden City. Jody Bradford inherited his job this year. In his first full season at starting tailback, Bradford, a senior, is putting up some remarkable stats. Last week's 48-17 win over Sanderson was no exception.

Bradford carried the ball 33 times for 396 yards, scoring on runs of 72, 35 and 11 yards. For his effort, he receives the Crossroads Country Honor Roll Offensive Player of the Week award. It marks the second time this year he's received that award. Last week he was Defensive Player of the Week for his play at middle linebacker in Garden City's win over Fort Davis.

Joining Bradford is Greenwood Rangers senior defensive tackle Monte Mayo. The Rangers put a dent in favored Sonora's playoff hopes last week by saddling the Broncos with a 17-17 tie.

Mayo, who coach Bob Purser said is "having a super year," led the charge with 15 tackles and one fumble recovery. For his effort he is the Defensive Player of the Week.

Other top defensive performances include:

• In Garden City's win, safety Stuart Wilde made eight tackles and returned an interception 68 yards for a score. Linebacker Matt Seidenberger made 11 tackles, one for a loss.

• In Coahoma's 21-13 victory over Iraan; strong safety Greg Atkinson made 13 tackles and broke up a pass and tackle Terry Don Martinez was in on six tackles and recovered a fumble.

• In Sands' 44-41 win over Grady, noseguard Benji Rodriguez made 12 tackles.

• Outside linebackers Torbin Lancaster and Luis Bustamante had a big night in Big Spring's 50-0 victory over San Angelo Lake View. The two combined for 24 tackles, three for losses, and caused three fumbles.

• In Borden County's 67-22 win over Trent, cornerback John Paul Harris made 15 tackles, caused a fumble and returned an interception 15 yards for a score.

• In Klondike's 60-18 win over Loop, safety Kevin Kirkland made 12 tackles and broke up two potential TD passes.

• In Stanton's 41-13 loss to Eldorado, tackle Odie Saldivar made 10 tackles.

Top offensive performances included:

• In Forsan's 16-0 loss to Roby, wingback Jeremy Etheredge graded out 90 percent.

• In Coahoma's win over Iraan, tailback Greg Atkinson carried 25 times for 162 yards and had a 95-yard kickoff return. Fullback Steven New carried 11 times for 84 yards and guard Kirby Brown graded 96 percent.

• In Grady's loss to Sands, Joe Moreno caught five passes for 116 yards.

• In Big Spring's win over San Angelo Lake View, Tim Pearson carried seven times for 82 yards and caught one pass for 48 yards.

• In Borden County's win over Trent, Clint Wills carried 22 times for 351 yards and five TDs. He also passed for a TD. Kurt Jones carried eight times for 77 yards and two scores.

In Klondike's win over Grady, quarterback Tanner Etheredge completed seven of eight passes for 130 yards and four TDs. Mike Lee gained 102 yards on the ground and Matt Hogg added 93 rushing yards.

Padres ship shortstop to Mets

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Rented to play shortstop for the New York Mets in 1993, Tony Fernandez readily accepted the role with no problem.

"Remember, baseball has become a business," Fernandez said Tuesday after the Padres swapped him to New York for pitcher Wally Whitehurst, outfielder D.J. Dozier and a minor league player to be named later.

"I heard people in San Diego complain about attendance and that it was impossible for them to keep paying," he said. "Most of us knew something would happen. We just didn't know who would be affected."

Fernandez became No. 1 on the Padres payroll hit list because of a clause in his contract that called for his 1993 option to be picked up at $2.3 million within 48 hours of the end of the World Series. Otherwise, he could have become a free agent. Given that choice, general manager Joe McIlvaine made the trade.

"I was prepared," Fernandez said. "In baseball, you must be prepared for anything. At the end of the season in Atlanta, one of the owners told us pretty much that something would be happening. If you're gone, it's not personal, it's nothing more than business."

The Padres were one of 18 teams whose attendance dipped last season. San Diego drew 1,721,406, a drop from 1,804,289 last year and 1,856,396 in 1990. The downward direction on the attendance grid prompted a purging of the payroll. Fernandez was first to go. He will not be the last.

For $2.3 million — almost moderate in the current baseball economy — Fernandez solves the Met shortstop dilemma for 1993. Injured Kevin Elster missed all of last year and his replacement, Dick Schofield, batted .205 and is eligible for free agency.

The money Fernandez will cost them did not disturb the Mets treasury terribly since the August trade of pitcher David Cone.

HOWARD COUNTY HAS BEEN AWARDED FEDERAL FUNDS FOR EMERGENCY FOOD AND SHELTER PROGRAMS.

HOWARD COUNTY has been chosen to receive $13,784.00 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the area.

The selection was made by a National Board that is chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and consists of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities, USA, National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA and United Way of America which will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent. The Board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A Local Board made up of Ben Lockhart, County Judge; Sherrie Bordofsky, United Way; Mike Mancil, Energas; Patricia Lawlis, Howard County West Texas Opportunities; Boyd R. Carson, City of Big Spring; John Toone, TU Electric; Marianne Esquilin, Northside Community Center; and Lt. Albert Villafuerte, Salvation Army; will determine how the funds awarded to Howard County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service organizations in the area. The Local Board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds and any additional funds available under this phase of the program.

Under the terms of the grand from the National Board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must: 1) be non-profit, 2) have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, 3) practice nondiscrimination, 4) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 5) if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply.

Howard County has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously with Northside Community Center and Salvation Army participating. These agencies were responsible for providing approximately 1,781 meals and helping 27 families with rent/mortgage payments and 38 families with utility assistance payments.

Israel prepares ground attack; restraint urged

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

TYRE, Lebanon — Israel appeared poised today for a ground thrust into Lebanon after two days of clashes with pro-Iranian guerrillas bent on scuttling Middle East peace talks.

President Bush's administration urged restraint, and delegates to the current round of peace talks in Washington said they did not plan to withdraw.

Following a bombing Sunday that killed five Israeli soldiers, Israel has directed artillery fire at guerrilla bases and launched bombing missions into Lebanon.

Security sources said Israel overnight massed on its northern border a mechanized battalion made up of 500 troops, 10 tanks and 15 armored personnel carriers.

Nine Israeli Merkava tanks were earlier brought across the border into forward positions of the self-proclaimed security zone Israel occupies in southern Lebanon.

They took up positions facing the strongholds of Shiite Muslim guerrillas suspected of firing Katyusha rockets into Israel's Galilee panhandle.

Katyusha barrages on Tuesday killed a teen-age Ukrainian immigrant and wounded five people in northern Israel.

The security sources said the buildup could herald a ground assault on hideouts of Hezbollah, which claimed responsibility for the Sunday roadside bombing in southern Lebanon that killed the five Israeli soldiers.

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said southern Lebanon was calm. The only shooting reported overnight were bouts of machine-gun fire directed at Israeli parachute flares that lit up the night skies, apparently seeking to detect guerrilla movements.

To avenge Sunday's bombing, the bloodiest attack against its soldiers in two years, Israel has blasted guerrilla hideouts in Lebanon with relentless barrages of artillery fire.

It also has sent air force fighter jets and helicopter gunships on bombing missions. The violence has claimed 13 lives and left 35 people wounded in Israel and Lebanon.

Hezbollah clamored Tuesday for Lebanon to withdraw from the peace talks. The Beirut government ignored the demand but said it would lodge a complaint with the U.N. Security Council over the "ferocious Israeli aggressions."

On Tuesday, Israeli planes targeted a command post for Nayef Hawatmeh's radical Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley.

following a rocket attack on northern Israel, killing one and injuring five. As of this morning, the tanks had remained in their positions south of the border.

Clam evidence shows Vikings were first

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — A fossilized North American clam, deposited in Denmark 200 years before Christopher Columbus arrived in the Americas, brings new evidence that Vikings were the first Europeans in the New World.

"This is the first scientific evidence that contacts with the North American continent were made long before Columbus," Kaj Strand Petersen, a senior researcher at the Danish Geological Survey, said Tuesday.

A one-inch fossilized sliver of the American soft-shell clam was found earlier this year near Skagen, the northern tip of Denmark. The Aarhus University dating laboratory said the soft-shell clam lived sometime between 1255 and 1295, with a margin of error of 25 years.

"That was way before Columbus reached America, so it implies that someone must have brought it back earlier. That can only be the Vikings," said Jan Heinemeier of the Aarhus laboratory.

According to Scandinavian sagas, Norwegian explorer Leif Ericsson discovered Vinland, believed to be Newfoundland, Canada, around the year 1000.

Archaeologists previously have found a Viking bronze needle and a weight stone from a spinning wheel in northeastern Canada.

In addition, a North American Indian arrowhead has been unearthed in a tomb near a Viking settlement in Greenland.

Petersen said the edible clam was brought back by man as it cannot attach itself to the hulls of ships as other mollusks do.

"There is also zoological evidence that the larvae could not have spread to Europe from America by itself," he said. "The Vikings may have brought them back to eat them on the way," he said.

The soft-shell clam, known by the scientific name Mya Arenaria, died out in Europe in the last Ice Age, but continued to live along the northeastern coast of North America, according to an Oct. 22 article in the scientific magazine, Nature. Scientists have known the clam returned to Europe during the current millennium, but assumed it was brought back after 1492, when Columbus arrived in America.

Petersen believes his fossil, found at a depth of three feet in mollusk-studded terrain near the sea, indicates the clam returned to Europe much earlier.

Discussion of taxi permits is tabled

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Regulation of transportation services in the city will be discussed at a Big Spring City Council workshop an hour before the next regular meeting, the council decided Tuesday.

The two transportation businesses in the city provide different but overlapping services that council members agreed are each needed by residents. But they disagreed on whether both can survive or if one should be protected.

"I can't tell you a solution that's going to please everyone," City Manager Lanny Lambert told the council. "I'd like to recommend that you table this and take it to a special workshop."

Taxi Big Spring, the city's only permitted service and only 24-hour every day service, is opposing a permit application by West Texas Opportunities, known as TRAX, saying the competition is putting them out of business.

West Texas gets federal subsidies — which Taxi Big Spring has also applied for — to provide service for 50-cents a ride during regular business hours for handicapped, elderly and low-income people. They've operated here seven years but learned this summer they need a city permit.

Complicating the issue is a federal law change earlier this year requiring West Texas to provide service to anyone asking.

Councilman Charles Beal said he is concerned about a free-enterprise company having to compete with a government-subsidized company. "I don't think that's right," he said. But Councilman Mark Sheedy pointed out that both companies still target different riders. West Texas "is not a taxi service per se," he said. "I'd just as soon deregulate this thing and get out of the taxicab business all together."

Besides doing away with permits, other options outlined to the council include:

- The city applying for the federal subsidy that West Texas gets and then contracting the work out.
- Giving a permit to West Texas, which means the requirement to have meters in vehicles would have to be waived. Another suggestion: only allow them to serve handicapped, elderly and low-income riders. But City Attorney Mike Thomas said the city may not be able to restrict riders.
- Denying West Texas' permit.

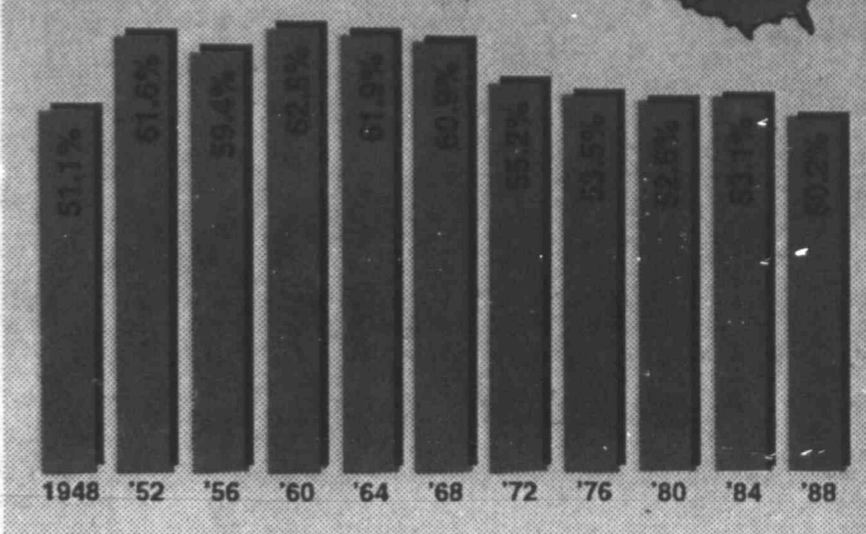

"We're sure going to shoot ourselves in the foot to deny them a permit," Sheedy said. Pat Johnson of Canterbury addressed the council saying residents of that retirement home cannot afford regular taxi service and they would "be very glad to provide" petitions on behalf of West Texas.

Taxi Big Spring owner David Mitchem says he could provide the same service if he had the subsidy. He said he could not afford to accept an offer in 1989 to split the subsidy with Taxi Big Spring getting $1,000 for transporting and West Texas $800 for dispatching. Most of the work is transporting, he said.

The workshop will begin Nov. 10 at 4:30 p.m., followed by the regular council meeting.

Santa's Workshop

Arts center offers how-to, sale of many holiday items

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

This gift-giving season, local residents can deck the halls with bundles of chile ristras.

Christmas is less than two months away, so the Spade & Hoe Garden Club is sponsoring Santa's Workshop from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the West Texas Center for the Arts, 125 E. 3rd St.

Local and area businesses will be demonstrating how to make Christmas decor items and gifts.

"It takes a lot of time to do these things," said Pam Welch, workshop chairperson. "You need to start early to be done by Christmas."

Items to be demonstrated and sold include:

- Chile ristras — a bundle of long, red peppers tied together and decorated with pepper corns from the yucca plant, dried flowers and other multi-colored grains.
 - Holiday pine cones.
 - Painted fabrics.
 - Silk scarves, hair bows, gift baskets and wreaths.
 - Straw paper angels.
 - Seasonal plant arrangements.
- Craftspersons will be making Father Christmas figures and passing along gift-wrapping and tree-decorating ideas.

"A gift is more special when more thought, effort and time are put into making it," Welch said.

She said the workshop will have an authentic holiday atmosphere.

"It's going to smell like Christmas (and) look like Christmas with a fireplace mantle decorated with stockings, life-size wooden Santas and red and green everywhere," she said. "It should put you in the Christmas spirit."

The workshop proved such a success last year that the garden club attracted more businesses from Ackerly to Lubbock to kick off its second year.

The admittance is $5 per person at the door with proceeds going toward landscaping the Howard County Courthouse area, Welch

Stitching know-how

Alice Allen has it

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

Interest in sewing and stitchery is on the upswing, said former Big Springer Alice Allen.

Allen, a 1962 graduate of Big Spring High School, runs Salado Creek Studio near Austin. She travels all over the country teaching the art of stitchery and recently wrote a book for Bernina of America called "Sashiko Made Simple," about translating the art of Japanese quilting to the sewing machine.

"There's interest growing in art wearables," Allen said. "People are using a lot of embellishments, and a very sophisticated use of appliques and fabrics. They're finding a creative edge to it."

Interest is so high in stitching, Allen said she could travel to conferences and courses 50 weeks out of the year. A frequent instructor of new techniques, Allen holds a master's degree in clothing and textiles from Texas Tech.

The book, she said, began more than two years ago.

"It evolved as I looked at the sewing industry to see what hand techniques were adaptable to machine," Allen said. She was teaching courses in the Japanese quilting art, and first conceived the book as a workbook for students.

"Sashiko works well (on the machine) because patterns run in a continuous line," Allen said. "You can start at the edge of the material and don't have to keep stopping and starting."

Allen said she also chose the Japanese art for its beauty.

"Right now there are so many choices of threads and materials, you can really achieve some beautiful things."

Her book explains how to use Sashiko to create such items as jackets, vests, purses, table accessories and bookcovers. It describes the process with step-by-step instructions and detailed drawings.

With Sheryl Russell, her illustrator for the book and partner in the studio, Allen has begun sponsoring weekend stitchery retreats at local bed and breakfasts.

"Salado has an attitude that's much like a resort," Allen said. "It's a nice place to come for a weekend getaway."

The next such event is planned for Jan. 28-31. Stitchers of all skill levels will try new techniques and learn skills on sewing machines provided by Bernina.

"We try to create the attitude that, whatever level you're at, you can create something," Allen said. "The last retreat was really a great success."

Allen and Russell have achieved other successes in their partnership as well. The two created a Sashiko quilt that is currently on display at a gallery in Tokyo.

For more information about Allen's work, call Salado Creek Studio, 1-800-525-5567.

Decorating Tinware appeal

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kitchens dating from 1800 to well into the 19th century used painted tinware. Its charming patterns and colors are just as appealing today, according to Country Kitchen Ideas magazine.

Sometimes called toleware or japanware, colorful painted tinware gave a touch of color to kitchens of the 19th century.

Inexpensive painted tinware, trays, plates, cups, boxes, and canisters were sold by itinerant peddlers who pushed their carts through village streets and along country lanes.

The tinware was more iron than tin. It was made by pressing sheet iron through heavy rollers, then coating the thin material with a light layer of tin. The flat pieces were hammered into shape, soldered, then coated with asphalt or japan — a black varnished background.

Women and young girls (often relatives of the tradesmen who peddled the wares) applied hand-painted or stenciled decorations to the finished pieces. The simple, brightly colored flowers, leaves, and birds were charming and naive.

When buying pieces, look for those that show signs of wear. The paint should have tiny, fine age lines running through the design. Be wary of pieces that are painted inside or on the bottom; this was rarely done by 19th century painters, so these pieces probably aren't old.

Use your microwave — carefully

Planning to bake? Don't forget to use your microwave oven to simplify some cooking steps along the way. Your microwave quick-plumps dried fruit for muffins and cookies, softens cream cheese for cheesecake and precooks a pie crust for a cream pie. And, the list goes on.

• Rehydrate (Plump) Dried Fruit: Place fruit in a 1-quart microwave-safe casserole; cover with water. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) until boiling, stirring once. Allow 1½ to 2½ minutes for ½ cup dried currants or raisins; 2 to 3 minutes for ½ cup mixed dried fruit; 2 to 3 minutes for 1 cup dried apricots; and 3 to 5 minutes for 1 cup dried apples, currants, raisins, figs, mixed fruit, peaches, or prunes. Drain.

• Cook Convenience Pie Crusts: Prepare pastry according to the package directions. Place in a 9-inch microwave-safe pie plate. Flute edges and prick bottom generously with a fork. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) until the surface is dry and bubbly, giving the dish a quarter-turn after every 2 minutes. Allow 5 to 6 minutes for one folded, refrigerated, unbaked pie crust and 7 to 9 minutes for one pastry from a stick or mix. Cool before filling.

• Soften Cream Cheese: Place cream cheese in a microwave-safe container. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) until softened. Allow 15-30 seconds for 3 ounces cream cheese and 45-60 seconds

The use and care of Microwave ovens

If your microwave is more than fifteen years old, it should be checked for output efficiency and radiation leakage. Testing for radiation leakage is best left to a professional repair technician.

Signs of an ailing microwave

- Poor heating
- Electrical arcing
- Unusual noises
- Flashing LED display

DON'T

- operate the oven when it is empty.
- use a dirty oven.
- use scouring pads, cleaning powders or other abrasive materials to clean the oven.
- use metal pans or aluminum foil in the microwave.
- use the oven for anything it was not intended for such as drying newspapers.
- use if door is damaged.

DO

- ✓ use a soft cloth with a mild non-abrasive detergent and warm water to clean inside and outside of oven.
- ✓ follow the manufacturer's instructions for operating and safety precautions.
- ✓ provide a separate electrical circuit for the microwave.

for 8 ounces.

• Soften Brown Sugar: In a 1-cup glass measure, cook ½ cup water, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 1 to 2 minutes or until boiling. Place brown sugar in a microwave-safe container near the hot water. Heat, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 1 to 2

Remembering comfort foods, childhood memories

As a young girl growing up in Kansas City, my mother would serve goulash most every washday.

Back then, washday was always on Monday. Mom spent the day in our basement doing the wash on a Maytag washer with a ringer and washtub to rinse. Then outside, in the extreme heat of summer and the bitter cold of winter, to hang until dry. Ah, the good old days!

When I asked her why we had to have goulash on washday she told me it was a meal to "stick to your ribs," quick to prepare, and a one-pot meal that required less dishwashing than most of our dinners. No dishwashers back then. After a hard day in the basement, I suppose those were very good reasons for goulash.

What seemed to be monotonous and routine meal back then has translated into what I consider a comfort food.

On Sundays we would go to Grandma and Grandpa's where "Papa" did most of the cooking.

However, Grandma did make a chicken and noodle dish that I look back on with fond memories. She, of course, made her own noodles and they were simply wonderful.

I must confess, I do cheat when it comes to making homemade noodles. I have found a close second, however. They are frozen noodles, found in the freezer section of your supermarket under the brand name Reames. They taste almost like Grandma's and are far superior to the dried, package style.

I think you will like this easy, one-pot meal also.

Most of you can drift back into the past and think fondly of some comfort foods that were mainstays in your mother's or grandmother's kitchen.

Perhaps you have tucked away some favorite recipes they left you. Why not get them out, dust them off and try them on your family? Possibly go a step further, jot their recipes down on an index card and give it to your children to pass down through another generation, keeping alive a family tradition of good comfort foods.

Thanks for taking the trip down memory lane with me. Nostalgic moments can be very uplifting in today's hurried world.

MOM'S WASHDAY GOULASH
2 pounds lean ground beef
1 tsp. vegetable oil
1 cup onion, chopped
1 large green pepper, chopped
1 cup celery, chopped
2 (16 oz.) cans tomatoes, chopped with juice
2 cups water
2 beef bouillon cubes
3 Tbsp. Williams chili seasoning

1 (16 oz.) pkg. frozen corn*
Salt and pepper to taste
*When fresh corn on the cob is available, cut corn off cob and use 4 cups of fresh corn. Makes the dish even better.

Brown ground beef in oil in Dutch oven. Drain. Add onion, green pepper, celery, tomatoes with juice, water, bouillon cubes and chili seasoning. Stir. Cook over medium heat 30 minutes. Add corn and salt and pepper and cook an additional 10 minutes. Serve hot in bowls with hot rolls or cornbread.

GRANDMA'S CHICKEN & NOODLES

1 whole chicken, fryer-size
1 onion, chopped
3 stalks celery, chopped
3 carrots, chopped
1 tsp. salt
Place whole chicken in large kettle. Cover with water. Add onion, celery, carrots and salt. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to medium, cover and cook 45 minutes or until chicken is tender. Remove from broth. Reserve broth in kettle, skimming off the fat. When chicken has cooled, remove skin, debone and cut into bite-size pieces. Return chicken to broth and add:

- 1 Tbsp. dried parsley
 - 2 bay leaves
 - 1 tsp. poultry seasoning
 - 4 chicken bouillon cubes
 - ¼ Tsp. Turmeric, optional*
 - Salt and pepper to taste
- Bring to boil and add 4 cups homemade noodles or a 12-oz. package frozen egg noodles. Reduce heat to medium high. Cook uncovered 20-30 minutes or until noodles are done.
- *The turmeric gives a little color to the broth.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: Pretty is as pretty does. It was one of Grandma's favorite sayings that I've tried to live by. My granddaughters hear it quite often.

Arts center welcomes painter Dalhart Windberg

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Internationally celebrated painter Dalhart Windberg is coming to the West Texas Center for the Arts for a lecture-demonstration and print signing.

Quin Martin of QM Custom Frames describes Windberg as "one of the best artists alive today — the equivalent of the Old-World masters."

The Goliad native has been growing in popularity for his exquisitely-detailed style, loosely termed "photorealistic," by some in the business, according to Sherry Kohlert, curator of the Bill Cousins' Townhouse Galleries in New Orleans.

Windberg will be in Big Spring Nov. 6 for a reception from 7-9 p.m. at the West Texas Center for the Arts at 125 E. 3rd St.

On Nov. 7, from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Windberg will lecture and demonstrate his technique at the center, tickets for the event are $15.

Following this, the center again will be open to the public and Windberg sign prints from 3 to 5 p.m.

Martin, along with Carter Furniture, Single Tree Gallery and Lusk Paint & Frame Center, sells Windberg prints in Big Spring. Martin received prints from the latest Windberg line and has sold out within a week, he said.

"It's going to be fantastic to have a man of this stature come to a little town like Big Spring," Martin said.

Tickets for the event are expected to go fast, said Sheree Moates, a student of Windberg and a teacher at the center. For ticket information, call the center at (915) 274-7432.

The painter's famous "Windberg Mist" is an effect created through a special canvas coating, which Windberg perfected. The surface created is very finely grained, allowing the canvas to hold the paint, yet brush marks are not visible.

The mist is created on this surface, Kohlert said. The misty look is not a color, but an effect created by blending several colors so smoothly that it is virtually impossible to tell where one color ends and another begins, she said.

After winning numerous art contests, Windberg was given the key to the city of Las Vegas in 1969. Several of his works are in the Lyndon B. Johnson collection.

Windberg has been inducted into the Texas Ranger Hall of Fame, appointed Honorary Alcalde (mayor) of San Antonio and was named the State Artist of Texas in 1979.

In 1978, American Masters Foundation published a book about

Windberg titled "Dalhart Windberg: In the Path of the Masters."

Another biography, "Dalhart Windberg, Artist of Texas," was published by The University of Texas Press in 1984.

Dalhart himself wrote one instructional book, "The Windberg Technique of Painting."

According to Kohlert, Windberg is an artist who always strives for greater achievements. About this struggle to improve, Windberg is quoted as saying, "When an artist falls in love with his work, he hasn't done the best he can do. He has no room for improvement."

"Windberg's most recent technique is his 'rough brush.' Using a highly prepared canvas, as in his smooth paintings, Windberg paints with looser, broader strokes, but in such a skillful way that the overall effect of the painting seems photorealistic," said Kohlert.

"The broad strokes create a slightly looser, livelier and more dramatic effect than the smooth brush technique."

"Windberg has again proven his artistic excellence and technical perfection," Kohlert said.

A couple of pumpkin-inspired treats

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the arrival of Jack Frost, bringing cooler weather, many of us get the urge to bake. The following recipes for pumpkin-inspired sweet treats are designed to celebrate fall's arrival.

A pumpkin-shaped cake is easily created by sandwiching together two cakes, each baked in a bundt cake pan. It makes an edible centerpiece for a Halloween party at home. Or you can serve it for Thanksgiving, as a nice change of pace from pumpkin pie.

Pumpkin Date Quick Bread can be served at a brunch buffet or as an after-school snack. In keeping with the "spirit" of the Halloween season, you can bake an adult version of this bread that includes "demon" rum. Make two of the breads to use up an entire 16-ounce can of pumpkin. Give one away to a friend or freeze it for later use.

Pumpkin Patch Cake
 Yellow and red food colorings
 4 cups shredded coconut
 3 and 1/3 cups vanilla frosting
 Green food coloring
 1 flat-bottomed ice cream cone (for stem)
 2 cakes that have been baked in a 12-cup bundt cake pan
 1 cup Chocolate-Coated Coconut (recipe follows)

Dilute a few drops each of yellow and red food coloring with about 2 teaspoons of water. Place the coconut in a large bowl or in a plastic bag. Add the food coloring mixture and toss until the coconut is evenly coated with an orange color. Add more food coloring or use paste food coloring for a more intense color.

In a small bowl, stir together 1/2 cup of the vanilla frosting and a few drops of green food coloring. Frost the outside of the ice cream cone with about 1/4 cup of green frosting; set aside. Reserve the remaining green frosting for piping lines on the cake.

Using a small amount of the plain vanilla frosting, attach the two cakes, flat sides together and place them on a serving tray. If desired, use bamboo skewers to secure the layers together.

Frost the cake with the remaining plain frosting. Sprinkle the cake evenly with the orange coconut. Invert the ice cream cone in the hole on top of the cake to form the "stem." Pipe the reserved green frosting on the pumpkin to form lines using a pastry bag fitted with a small plain tip. Arrange the Chocolate-Coated Coconut around the base of the pumpkin to resemble "dirt." Makes 24 servings.

Chocolate-Coated Coconut
 2 ounces semisweet chocolate
 1 and 1/3rd cups shredded coconut

Cook chocolate in a microwave-safe bowl on high (100 percent power) for 1 to 2 minutes until it is almost melted, stirring halfway through the heating time. Stir until the chocolate is completely melted. Add the coconut and mix well. Spread the coconut on a baking sheet, separating the flakes of coconut with a fork. Use a toothpick to separate the clumps. Refrigerate until the chocolate is set. Store in a tightly covered jar.

Pumpkin Date Quick Bread
 1 1/4 cups chopped, pitted dates
 3 tablespoons dark rum (optional)

2 cups all-purpose flour
 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 3/4 teaspoon salt
 1 1/4 teaspoons ground cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
 Dash of ground nutmeg
 1 cup canned pumpkin
 2 large eggs, at room temperature
 1/2 cup vegetable oil
 1-3rd cup buttermilk, at room temperature
 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
 Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.
 Butter a 9 1/2- by 5 1/4- by 3-inch loaf pan.

In a medium bowl, stir together dates and the 3 tablespoons dark rum, if desired. In a large bowl, stir together the flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and nutmeg. In a medium bowl, stir together the pumpkin, eggs, oil, buttermilk and vanilla. Make a well in the center of the flour mixture; add the pumpkin mixture and stir just to combine. Stir in the date mixture.

Scrape the batter into the prepared pan and spread evenly. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 65 to 75 minutes, or until a toothpick tester inserted in the center of the bread comes out clean.

Transfer the pan to a wire rack. Cool for 15 minutes before removing the bread from the pan. Finish cooling on rack. This bread freezes well. Makes 1 loaf.

Caramel apples, but easier to eat

Caramel apples are very difficult for little tykes to eat. Here's an alternative from Storck USA.

Cut an unpeeled apple into narrow wedges and serve it along with Caramel-Nut Grahams: Use 12 double graham crackers to cover the bottom of a 15x10-inch jelly roll pan. Set aside. In a heavy saucepan, heat 12 to 14 ounces of caramel candies with 1/3 cup whipping cream over low heat, stirring often. Spread melted caramels over the grahams; quickly sprinkle with chopped toasted pecans or roasted peanuts; press in gently. Cool five minutes, then cut into about 60 bars.

Leftover bars may be softened by microwaving 5 to 10 seconds.

Success of cakes no secret

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

You can have your homemade cake, and eat it too, as long as you stick to a few basic cake-making secrets.

Let the eggs, milk and butter, margarine or shortening stand at room temperature about one hour before you mix the batter. This will improve the height of your cake.

For most cakes, you can use either a free-standing or heavy-duty hand mixer. You may need to use the higher speed on the hand mixer when a range is given in the recipe. For stiff batters or egg whites, the power of a free-standing mixer may do the job quicker. While using the free-standing mixer, stay nearby. You'll need to scrape the sides of the bowl occasionally with a rubber scraper to evenly mix the batter and keep it free from lumps.

For white cakes with bright, white color, use only egg whites instead of the whole eggs. To beat the whites, use a deep, straight-sided, small glass or metal bowl. Avoid plastic bowls because they retain oils and prevent the whites from forming peaks. Beat the egg whites until stiff peaks form, about 90 seconds with an electric mixer. The tips of the peaks should stand straight when you lift the beaters.

Grease and lightly flour the baking pans. Use folded waxed paper, paper towels, or a pastry brush to generously apply butter or shortening to the bottoms and sides. Make sure you grease seams and creases. Or, spray with cooking spray. Add a little flour, then tilt and tap the pan to distribute the flour evenly. When the pan is dusted completely, dump out the excess flour.

Use cuttings now to multiply favorite plants

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hardwood cuttings are a simple way to multiply a favorite tree, vine, or shrub. The cuttings are woody shoots cut from a plant and stuck into the ground sometime between autumn and early spring, when the plant is leafless.

In the growing season that follows planting, these apparently lifeless pieces of wood grow roots and shoots, well on their way to bona fide plantdom.

Not every woody plant is easily propagated by hardwood cuttings. Do not use this method to make new apple, maple or oak trees. But expect close to 100 percent "take" with plants such as grape, currant, privet, spiraea, or honeysuckle.

If you want to make your thumbs feel greener, try your hand with hardwood cuttings of willow, a plant that often roots from branches merely left on top of the ground through the winter. Most other plants demand a little more finesse to ensure success with hardwood cuttings.

Before you take cuttings from a woody plant, step back and look at it. Look for the youngest wood, shoots that grew just the previous season. From among those young shoots, the ones most likely to root will be those of moderate vigor — not too fat and not too thin for the particular species.

Once you have one or more young shoots "of moderate vigor" in hand, trim them down to a manageable length of six to 12 inches. On each branch, look for the nodes, which are the points where the leaves were attached and which now have buds. Make the cut for the top of each cutting (the part that was furthest from the roots) just above a node. Professional propagators cut the bottoms off squarely and the tops at an angle so that the ends are not mixed up during planting.

The cuttings can be planted immediately or stored through the winter for early spring planting. Success usually is better with autumn planting, because top growth in spring is apt to get underway before root growth has begun. With no roots to sustain them, the shoots flop over and die.

With cuttings planted in autumn, the roots have the opportunity to grow until the soil freezes. The tops, on the other hand, will not begin to grow until spring, after they have been exposed to a winter's worth of cold. (This is a natural protection mechanism that prevents plants from resuming growth during midwinter warm spells.)

Come spring, the shoots that grow from the tops of the cuttings will already have at least the beginnings of roots to bring sustenance.

Cuttings set in the ground in autumn need to be mulched through winter to prevent frost from heaving them up and out of the soil. Pull back the mulch in early spring.

If you would rather plant in the spring, the cuttings need to be kept cool and moist through the winter. The traditional method of storage is to bundle the cuttings together and bury them upside down in a well drained soil.

Why upside down? Because then the bottom of the cuttings are the first part to feel the warming effects of spring sun beating upon the ground, while the shoot buds are held in check buried deeper in cold ground.

Step by step compost

Scripps Howard News Service

Drive by any suburban residential area when the autumn leaves are falling, and unless the community is unusually progressive, you'll see countless plastic bags of leaves destined for the landfill.

It's an expensive practice. According to the McNelly Group in Saint Cloud, Minn., communities pay up to $100 per household to get rid of leaves, grass and brush. Composting, according to experts, is a better solution.

To compost your yard wastes: First: Collect your leaves, grass clippings, and brush in a pile out of the direct sunlight. The pile should be big enough to generate the necessary heat but small enough so there isn't too much compaction. Include a mixture of "browns" such as fallen leaves, and "greens" such as grass clippings, weeds, spent flowers or vegetable trimmings from your kitchen.

If you only have leaves handy, add a nitrogen source such as manure. Other good nitrogen sources include hair (get it from a barber shop or beauty parlor) or coffee grounds (get them from a local restaurant.) Or you could buy a nitrogen fertilizer at your garden supply store.

Second: Water the pile until it is damp but not soggy.

Third: Take a pitchfork and turn the pile to mix the different layers. Do this every week in summer, every month or so in winter. If the process is going well, the inside of the pile will become hot.

Fourth: The compost is ready to use when it doesn't produce any more heat and has an attractive smell. The material should feel crumbly and it's color will be dark. The dark appearance, by the way, comes from billions and billions of decayed micro-organisms.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three desserts in one, that's what home economist Cindy Young and her team have come up with for a Nov. 3 election night party.

"We are offering three dessert options from one cake in celebration of our right to choose our favorite candidate — and confection," says Young, home economist for Duncan Hines. The three desserts — Very Berry Trifle, Peach Melba Shortcake and Vote-for-Chocolate Loaf — are made from one 13- by 9- by 2-inch cake that's cut into thirds.

Duncan Hines says Very Berry Trifle is packed full of the delicious fruit native to George Bush's Kennebunkport, Maine, home. Peach Melba Shortcake is made from the luscious fruit of the South — where Bill Clinton's Arkansas boasts a crop of its own. As for the Vote-for-Chocolate Loaf? Don't underestimate the popularity of the third choice, Duncan Hines says.

Election Night Dessert Trio
Prepare and bake one box of yellow cake mix according to package directions. Bake in a 13- by 9- by 2-inch pan. Let cool, remove from pan. Cut crosswise into three 9- by 4-inch pieces.

Very Berry Trifle
2 1/4 cups milk
1 package (4-serving size) vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling mix
One 9- by 4-inch yellow cake section
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries, thawed and drained on paper towels

Frozen whipped topping, thawed
Strawberries
Blueberries
Combine milk and pudding mix in medium bowl. Prepare according to package directions.
Cut cake into 1-inch cubes. Arrange in the bottom of a medium glass serving bowl with straight sides. Top with the 1 cup strawberries and the 1 cup blueberries. Spoon pudding over fruit. Serve or refrigerate until ready to serve. Garnish with whipped topping, strawberries and blueberries before serving. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 8 servings.

Peach Melba Shortcake
1 1/2 cups quartered, thawed, frozen unsweetened peach slices (about one-half of a 20-ounce bag)
1 teaspoon sugar
One 9- by 4-inch yellow cake section
3 tablespoons seedless red raspberry jam

Frozen whipped topping, thawed
Combine peaches and sugar in a small bowl. Toss to coat peaches. Cut cake into six pieces. Split each piece in half horizontally. Spread 1 1/2 teaspoons jam on each bottom half. Cover with a single layer of peaches. Replace cake tops. Top each serving with whipped cream and remaining peaches. Makes 8 servings.

Vote-for-Chocolate Loaf
1 1/4 cups milk
1 package (4-serving size) chocolate flavor instant pudding and pie filling mix
1/2 cup frozen chocolate flavor whipped topping, thawed
1/4 cup finely chopped pecans
1/4 cup semisweet miniature chocolate chips
One 9- by 4-inch yellow cake section, split in half
Pecan halves
Semisweet miniature chocolate chips

Combine milk and pudding mix in medium bowl. Prepare according to package directions. Fold in whipped topping. Remove 1/2 cup. Stir the 1/4 cup chopped pecans and the 1/4 cup chocolate chips into the 1/2 cup pudding mixture. Spread between cake layers. Spread remaining pudding mixture over top and sides. Decorate with pecan halves and chocolate chips. Refrigerate at least 1 hour. Cut into slices or squares. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 8 servings.

She's trying to protect baby's father

DEAR ABBY: My 21-year-old daughter, "Chris," was a virgin until she became involved with a married man I'll call "John." Chris is now pregnant and wants to keep the baby, but in order to keep it she will have to apply for public assistance. To qualify, she will have to disclose his identity as the baby's father, and she doesn't want to do that.

I think she should, because as a taxpayer, I resent having to pay for this man's irresponsibility. Chris will have a much more difficult life, and John will not have to suffer any consequences at all.

Chris says she wants no contact with -- or hassle from -- John. She says she knows he can't afford to pay anything toward the baby's support and, besides, she doesn't want to hurt his wife and children by exposing this mess. She just wants to get this man out of her life for good.

Abby, we have argued bitterly about it and have agreed to leave the decision up to you. -- CHRIS' MOM

DEAR MOM: It is unfortunate that John's wife and family will be "hurt" if this mess is revealed, but John should not be left off the hook for any reason.

Your daughter's willingness to protect this man's family is noble, but I think she should name John as her baby's father and make him assume his share of the responsibilities.

DEAR ABBY: America is perhaps the richest country in the world, but has one of the worst fire-death rates. Our problem isn't resources or technology, but a complacent attitude about fire safety.

For example: Although smoke detectors are in 82 percent of American homes, one-third of them don't work because of weak or missing batteries! This is tragic, because a working smoke detector cuts the risk of dying in a home fire nearly in half by providing an early warning and critical extra seconds to escape.

To prevent needless deaths and injuries due to home fires, the International Association of Fire Chiefs, fire departments nationwide and Energizer batteries team up for the annual campaign to urge Americans to adopt a life-saving habit: Change smoke detector batteries when clocks are changed back from daylight-saving time each fall.

It's easy to remember: Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery. -- GARY L. NICHOLS, CHIEF, FIRE DEPARTMENT, SEDGWICK COUNTY, KAN.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

To write "Dear Abby," send your questions to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.
