Comanche Trail Nursing Center facing loss of state certification

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The Comanche Trail Nursing Center is back on the state's hot seat as another investigation uncovers potentially harmful deficiencies.

Following a visit by state inspectors on Oct. 10, a notice of termination of the center's certification was delivered to Ray Bissonnette, administrator of the facility. The termination is to be effective Nov. 23.

Effective immediately, the state no longer will pay for any admissions to the facility, said Jeanoyce Wilson, Texas Department of Health information services specialist.

This inspection came only days after a second visit by state inspectors. The facility had been given until Nov. 4 to correct more than 30 deficiencies found in an initial inspection in midsummer.

The Nov. 4 deadline was lifted after this visit, according to TDH reports. After the most recent inspection, however, the center was given about one month until state certification is voided, according to reports. Inspectors were acting on further complaints filed when making this visit, Wilson said.

Bissonnette refutes the findings of the state examiners, however. There is mitigating information that was not considered in these original inspections, leading to erroneous findings, he said.

"We will be making an informal presentation to the Texas Department of Health in Midland," Bissonnette said. The presentation of this documentation begins at 10 a.m. today, he said.

State inspectors are invited back to the facility on Nov. 19, four days prior to the date of termination of contract. Inspectors can lift the termination date at this time, if they so choose, he said.

The most serious deficiency identified in the state's findings regards a female patient taking anticoagulant (blood thinning) medication. According to reports from Gary Allen, TDH Institutional Programs Section manager.

Because necessary blood tests were not performed, the woman's blood lost the ability to clot and bruising began spreading across the woman's chest and shoulder. The resident was admitted to Scenic Mountain Medical Center in critical condition. "The physician stated he did not expect her to survive the night," said Gary Allen, TDH Institutional Programs Section manager, at the time.

TDH officials in Midland and Austin could not reveal whether the woman lived or died, they said.

The inspection team noted other occasions when "critical labs were not done as ordered...resulting in critical life-threatening situations," according to the report.

"Staff interviews revealed that they felt unsafe in the care they were able to provide due to inadequate numbers," according to the report. "Resident interviews reveal call lights were not answered due to not enough staff to answer them."

"Facility staff, ie. housekeepers functioning outside their usual jobs due to inadequate numbers of aides. Aides perform nursing functions due to inadequate nursing personnel; shutting off feeding pumps and tying a knot in the tubing," inspectors wrote in their reports to Austin.

List of deficiencies

Individual deficiencies identified at Comanche Trail Nursing Center by the Texas Department of Health:

• On several occasions, center staff failed to provide blood tests as ordered by physician.

• Based on eight of eight clinical records reviewed, staff failed to identify significant side effects caused by the patient's medication.

• Comprehensive care plans were not developed for each resident of the center.

• The center failed to meet professional standards of quality. This determination was made on the basis of records reviews and interviews with staff and residents.

• Staff failed to properly position urinary catheter bags to facilitate drainage and prevent bladder infections.

• Anti-psychotic medications were given to patients who had no diagnosis requiring the use of these drugs.

• A 10-percent medication error ratio was observed. Staff made errors in dispensing drugs six times out of 56 opportunities for error.

• Consultant pharmacist did not identify potential drug therapy problems.

• Staff failed to wash hands between each instance of direct contact with residents.

• Soiled linens were improperly handled and stored.

• Management failed to ensure appropriate systems were in place to prevent potential harm to residents.

• Residents were restrained (tied) without a physician's order indicating the need for the restraint.

• Accurate reassessments of residents were not made following significant changes in the residents' condition.

• Staff failed to properly bathe, dress and groom fully dependent residents.

• Proper care and technique were not used when caring for patients with feeding tubes.

• The center was found to have insufficient nursing staff.

• Housekeepers were seen to carry out the duties of a nurses aide.

• Staff failed to notify attending physicians of significant findings in the condition of residents.

Compromise reached in a taxi permit dispute

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Two public transportation companies agreed to work out a compromise, eliminating the need for the Big Spring City Council to decide a permit dispute.

"I'm excited about it," said David Mitchem, who holds the city's only non-emergency transportation permit and who opposed a permit application here in August by West Texas Opportunities Inc. of Lamesa, also known as TRAX.

Mitchem, who owns Taxi Big Spring, said Texas Opportunities is putting him out of business, meaning the loss of the city's only 24-hour, every day service.

Texas Opportunities has operated seven years using federal grants to provide low-priced rides for elderly, handicapped and low-income riders during business hours Monday through Friday. But a recent change in federal law requires Texas Opportunities to give rides to anyone requesting.

That change takes more business from Taxi Big Spring, Mitchem said.

It also means Texas Opportunities must have a city permit.

"If they come to an agreement then any permit working will come under Mitchem's permit," said City Manager Lanny Lambert, who informed the council Tuesday on the intended compromise. "If they can't then we'll reconsider."

"I think that would really be the best way to handle it," Mitchem said. "I didn't want to see (TRAX) leave. I just didn't want her to take all of the taxi business."

Texas Opportunities Executive Director Janet Everheart could not be reached for comment this morning.

Based on preliminary discussions, Mitchem said, he may handle 10 to 15 TRAX customers a day. He is not sure what he would be paid. "We just have to sit down and talk about it."

Other options of the council included deregulating transportation, applying for grants Texas Opportunities uses and then contracting the work out, giving Texas Opportunities a permit, or denying the permit application. The council appears split on the options.

JC Penney closing in January

The JC Penney Co. Inc. store at Big Spring Mall is scheduled to close on or before Jan. 30.

It employs 23 people. "Economic realities have given us no other option," District Manager Roland Tullos told employees at the store Tuesday.

"The store has not met company expectations for sales and profit for a number of years," Tullos said in a release. "We can no longer provide the kind of merchandise selection and service that our customers expect."

It's not good for Big Spring, said Linda Roger, director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. The chamber was aware the store was being considered for closure and efforts were being made to prevent it.

"Everything that can be done has been done to keep this store open," Roger said. "The 'Shop At Home' logo is not just a catchy phrase, we must support the businesses we have."

Things were starting to look good before Tullos' an-

Houston mayor refuses stop library from obtaining Madonna's new book

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Mayor Bob Lanier says he will not attempt to stop the Houston Public Library from obtaining "Sex," the controversial new Madonna book.

Lanier made the decision Tuesday after Geneva Kirk Brooks, president of a group called Citizens Against Pornography, asked the mayor to keep the library from placing the explicit pictorial of the pop star's sexual fantasies on library shelves.

"Some of the worst pornography is in our libraries and schools," Brooks said.

But Lanier called the matter a free speech issue and said it is not his "management style" to intervene in such disputes.

"This is an area where people feel very strongly," Lanier said. "Unfortunately, it's also an area where the guidelines aren't as clear as they could be."

Funded by an anonymous donor, the Houston Public Library has ordered four copies of Madonna's controversial book.

Two will be available in the Fine Arts section for circulation and two will be shelved in the main library's reference section, said David Bates, the library's public information officer.

Although the books have been ordered, he said, the library may never receive them because the $49.95 editions are on back-order.

Bates defended the decision to buy the book, which has been under fire since its publication last month.

"Madonna is a cultural phenomenon. Most of what she does is news. And our patrons would have an interest in what she's doing," Bates said.

It is important, he said, to keep books in the library that represent a broad range of viewpoints.

"The library adds something to the collection every day that somebody's going to disagree with," said Bates, who said he has more than a dozen complaints since the order was made.

Brooks, who has picketed convenience stores for selling Playboy and Penthouse, said "Sex" violates the city's community standards resolution drafted in 1978.

"This book violates our community standards on almost every page," Brooks told council members Tuesday.

The resolution, which has no

legal force, cited as "particularly objectionable public portrayal of sodomy, masturbation, sado-masochistic acts and any lewd exhibition of the genitals."

Before the resolution was adopted, a federal judge nullified an anti-pornography ordinance on the grounds that it was too vague, too broad and tried to eliminate, not regulate, establishments selling explicit sexual books and films.

Officer's death related to attempted drug buy

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — An off-duty police officer slain in gunfire that wounded another man had driven to a crack house so his friend could purchase drugs, according to a published report today.

The Dallas Morning News, in a copyright story, said a suspect told police that officer Reginald House and his boyfriend friend, Lenny Allen, were robbed and then attacked.

But the rookie officer, who was to be buried later today, did not try to buy drugs, one of three suspects in the weekend attack told police.

Police sources said investigators believe that House drove Allen to the house to buy $50 worth of crack cocaine, but the two were robbed and ordered to leave.

House and Allen were shot repeatedly in the officer's private car when they drove around the building, according to the sources who wished to remain anonymous.

The suspect provided details that matched findings from the crime scene investigation, the newspaper said. Police had said Tuesday that toxicology reports showed no drugs in the officer's system.

Also, two teen-agers were arrested Tuesday in connection with the robbery and shooting of the 31-year-old Allen.

Xavier Mornes, 17, of Dallas, was charged with aggravated robbery and jailed in lieu of $50,000 bail bond. An 18-year-old Dallas man also was arrested for investigation of aggravated robbery.

Police were seeking a third suspect, said police Sgt. Jim Chandler.

House, 29, and Allen were shot early Sunday morning. Allen was listed in critical condition today at Parkland Memorial Hospital.

"The drug screen was negative. There had been some interest, because of the circumstances," Chandler said of tests on the slain officer. "So, we're pleased to say the medical examiner's office says there was no drugs in his system."

Chandler said, "After the third suspect is apprehended, I hope we'll be able to identify and charge the shooter, but at this time, we're just not able to do that."

Dates are changed but the 'Worst Show' goes on

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — A program that gave explicit instructions on how to commit suicide has resulted in schedule changes and non-published viewing dates at a local cable station.

Still Paragon Cable TV will air "The Worst Show" again, according to The San Antonio Express-News.

The scheduling moves were in response to a flood of complaints by viewers who had seen the suicide show earlier.

But the company said it is not censoring its programs.

"You don't want to punish everybody because of one (producer), but we may have no choice," said company spokesman T.J. Connolly. He added that all public-access producers must be treated equally under current federal laws.

Dora Hauser, chairwoman of the San Antonio Cable Television Advisory Committee, said Paragon and City Hall were flooded with complaints by viewers who saw the suicide show.

But Ms. Hauser said she wants to ensure San Antonio's First Amendment rights.

"The trouble with that is there is no precise legal definition of what is protected speech," she said.

New regulations that are expected to take effect in April would grant cable companies more control on programs offered for public access.

At present, cable companies can only cancel public-access programs that would incite a riot at a specific place on a specific day and time, Connolly said. Otherwise, all programs submitted for public access must be broadcast.

Paragon's only regulatory authority is setting the date and time the show will be aired.

Pleas McNeel, one of the original access producers, said he believed that Paragon was using the show as an excuse to get rid of public access for "purely economic reasons."

"Paragon carries a hard-core channel of their own that would make a swinger blush. Perhaps they just don't want sex or violence on their system that they can't charge for," he said.

Grant programs funds distributed Programs pushed by Bush

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Education Department distributed $63 million in election-time grants for programs pushed by President Bush to cut dropout rates, remove language barriers for immigrants and help students make the transition from school to work.

The largest amount, $38 million, went to 86 programs that work to reduce the number of students who leave school before graduating. Of that amount, $8 million would go for new projects and the remainder would continue projects started last year.

The programs were financed largely through measures passed in 1988 and announced over a 13-day period surrounding last week's election.

Etta Fielek, a spokeswoman for the Education Department, said tens of millions of dollars in grants have been awarded throughout Bush's presidency, and "they have never been handled politically. ... Just because of the elections, we don't stop doing business."

"The same thing goes on every year at this time" — the end of one fiscal year and the beginning of another, she said Tuesday.

In announcing the grants, the department described how each helped fulfill various aspects of the America 2000 plan, backed by Bush, that seeks to make sure all children are ready to learn when they start school and are capable of entering the work force once they graduate.

They also reflected Bush's 1988 campaign promise to be the "education president," when he pledged to boost spending on the major federal program for disadvantaged elementary and secondary school children.

The Education Department also issued a $2 million contract to finance, for one more year, an evaluation of dropout prevention programs.

EC, U.S. negotiators to meet; trying to avoid a trade war

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The European Community said today it will send its negotiators back to the bargaining table with U.S. officials as soon as possible in an effort to avert a damaging trade war.

Britain, Germany and others have been pressing for a compromise on Washington's demands for more cuts in the community's farm subsidies, threatening to isolate France as the only major opponent of concessions.

The United States has said it will impose punitive import duties on $300 million in European goods, primarily French white wines, if the dispute is not resolved by Dec. 5. France has been trying to get the EC to retaliate.

Washington contends the subsidies keep prices for European farm goods unfairly low and rob American farmers of international sales. France, the EC's biggest agricultural producer, says cuts could drive many of its small farmers out of business.

EC spokesman Bruno Dethomas said the community's two top negotiators might travel to Washington early next week to resume talks. Another spokesman, Nico Wegter, said the talks could begin by the end of this week.

"There is an urgent need to come to terms with the Americans," Wegter said. "There is a very good reason to believe ... that a deal can be made," he added, without elaborating.

Frans Andriessen, a Dutchman and the EC's top trade official, and Ray MacSharry of Ireland, its chief farm negotiator, are to meet with Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan and Trade Representative Carla Hills.

The EC announcement came a few hours after MacSharry agreed to resume his bargaining duties. He had stepped down in protest Thursday, complaining privately of interference by the EC's chief executive, Jacques Delors.

MacSharry's move temporarily threw the 12-nation EC into turmoil, undermining its bargaining position.

Delors, a French Socialist, was accused of maneuvering behind the scenes to try to prevent more concessions to the United States.

Letter claims Liberian rebels killed five nuns

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A witness who claims to have seen Liberian rebels kill five American nuns says three were shot at their convent as one begged for her life and two others were slain in a roadside ambush.

The account was smuggled out of Liberia to a neighboring African country, said Sister Mildred Gross, the nuns' mother superior in Ruma, Ill.

The message corroborates accounts by Roman Catholic officials that the rebels were to blame for the slayings last month. The rebels have denied responsibility.

"Through networking with other mission personnel and our friends in west Africa, we were able to obtain this message," Sister Mildred Gross said in a statement Monday.

Gross, who heads the Ruma convent of the Adorers of the Blood of Christ, said the message was received Saturday and shared with the State Department. She said department officials told her the message was consistent with reports they had received.

Gross said she could not reveal the source but believed it to be reliable. It was the first detailed account of the nuns' last days.

The message blamed the slayings on members of the National Patriotic Front of Liberia, who have been battling for control of the country for nearly three years, overrunning all but the capital of Monrovia.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — The Red Cross evacuated nearly 1,500 women, children and elderly from besieged Sarajevo, but logistical problems and disputes with fighters stranded another 750 in the capital today.

A new cease-fire was to go into effect late today. But it was far from certain whether all sides had the will or means to end months of bloodletting in which 14,000 people have been killed and hundreds of thousands have been driven from their homes.

On Tuesday, Muslims on a convoy to Croatia were stopped by rebel Serbs who said they would not grant the buses safe passage until all Serbs on a separate convoy to Belgrade had left central Sarajevo.

The Serbs later allowed the Muslims to pass, and the Red Cross said the 1,100 civilians arrived at the Croat-held town of Kiseljak northwest of Sarajevo in the late evening.

Some 750 Serb civilians however, remained behind Tuesday because only one bus was available to ferry them to the Serb-held western suburb of Lukavica. An earlier convoy successfully evacuated 350 Serbs.

A total of 6,000 civilians have authorization to leave Sarajevo, which is besieged by Serb fighters, but the problems Tuesday apparently delayed the departure of today's convoys.

Tuesday's agreement on the Bosnian cease-fire was to take effect at midnight today. It was reached during negotiations among Serb, Muslim and Croat military commanders who have been meeting for two weeks at the Sarajevo airport on a plan to demilitarize the capital.

Dozens of truces have failed in Bosnia in the past — many within hours. Fighters in the field often appear to defy the orders of their commanders.

Previous cease-fire agreements often have been preceded by an upsurge of fighting as warring factions seek to consolidate their positions.

Bosnian radio reported shelling overnight on government-held towns in northern Bosnia and Croat-held positions in western Herzegovina. It said two crop-dusters fitted with weapons attacked Srebrenica in eastern Bosnia. That could not be confirmed.

The success of the cease-fire could depend on whether Serbs and Croats feel satisfied with their battlefield gains and whether the Muslims are willing to settle in hopes of not losing more territory.

Bosnia's Serbian leader Radovan Karadzic proposed a seven-point peace plan Monday that would leave the Serbs in control of the territory they hold — about 70 percent of Bosnia. Croats control most of the rest.

Muslims, who made up about 43 percent of the prewar population, hold only small pockets of territory. The government, which is led by Muslims, opposes the ethnic cantonization of Bosnia and rejected the Serb peace plan.

International mediators have proposed establishment of nine multi-ethnic provinces with a centralized government. Serbs and Croats have rejected that proposal.

Houston mayor refuses stop library from obtaining Madonna's new book

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Mayor Bob Lanier says he will not attempt to stop the Houston Public Library from obtaining "Sex," the controversial new Madonna book.

Lanier made the decision Tuesday after Geneva Kirk Brooks, president of a group called Citizens Against Pornography, asked the mayor to keep the library from placing the explicit pictorial of the pop star's sexual fantasies on library shelves.

"Some of the worst pornography is in our libraries and schools," Brooks said.

But Lanier called the matter a free speech issue and said it is not his "management style" to intervene in such disputes.

"This is an area where people feel very strongly," Lanier said. "Unfortunately, it's also an area where the guidelines aren't as clear as they could be."

Funded by an anonymous donor, the Houston Public Library has ordered four copies of Madonna's controversial book.

Two will be available in the Fine Arts section for circulation and two will be shelved in the main library's reference section, said David Bates, the library's public information officer.

Although the books have been ordered, he said, the library may never receive them because the $49.95 editions are on back-order.

Bob Lanier

Bates defended the decision to buy the book, which has been under fire since its publication last month.

"Madonna is a cultural phenomenon. Most of what she does is news. And our patrons would have an interest in what she's doing," Bates said.

It is important, he said, to keep books in the library that represent a broad range of viewpoints.

"The library adds something to the collection every day that somebody's going to disagree with," said Bates, who said he has more than a dozen complaints since the order was made.

Brooks, who has picketed convenience stores for selling Playboy and Penthouse, said "Sex" violates the city's community standards resolution drafted in 1978.

"This book violates our community standards on almost every page," Brooks told council members Tuesday.

The resolution, which has no

legal force, cited as "particularly objectionable public portrayal of

sodomy, masturbation, sadomasochistic acts and any lewd exhibition of the genitals."

Before the resolution was adopted, a federal judge nullified an anti-pornography ordinance on the grounds that it was too vague, too broad and tried to eliminate, not regulate, establishments selling explicit sexual books and films.

Officer's death related to attempted drug buy

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — An off-duty police officer slain in gunfire that wounded another man had driven to a crack house so his friend could purchase drugs, according to a published report today.

The Dallas Morning News, in a copyright story, said a suspect told police that officer Reginald House and his boyfriend friend, Lenny Allen, were robbed and then attacked.

But the rookie officer, who was to be buried later today, did not try to buy drugs, one of three suspects in the weekend attack told police.

The Dallas Morning News, in a copyright story, said a suspect told police that officer Reginald House and his boyfriend friend, Lenny Allen, were robbed and then attacked.

Police sources said investigators believe that House drove Allen to the house to buy $50 worth of crack cocaine, but the two were robbed and ordered to leave.

House and Allen were shot repeatedly in the officer's private car when they drove around the building, according to the sources who wished to remain anonymous.

The suspect provided details that matched findings from the crime scene investigation, the newspaper said. Police had said Tuesday that toxicology reports showed no drugs in the officer's system.

Also, two teen-agers were arrested Tuesday in connection with the robbery and shooting of the 31-year-old Allen.

Xavier Mornes, 17, of Dallas, was charged with aggravated robbery and jailed in lieu of $50,000 bail bond. An 18-year-old Dallas man also was arrested for investigation of aggravated robbery.

Police were seeking a third suspect, said police Sgt. Jim Chandler.

House, 29, and Allen were shot early Sunday morning. Allen was listed in critical condition today at Parkland Memorial Hospital.

"The drug screen was negative. There had been some interest, because of the circumstances," Chandler said of tests on the slain officer. "So, we're pleased to say the medical examiner's office says there was no drugs in his system."

Chandler said, "After the third suspect is apprehended, I hope we'll be able to identify and charge the shooter, but at this time, we're just not able to do that."

Dates are changed but the 'Worst Show' goes on

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — A program that gave explicit instructions on how to commit suicide has resulted in schedule changes and non-published viewing dates at a local cable station.

Still Paragon Cable TV will air "The Worst Show" again, according to The San Antonio Express-News.

The scheduling moves were in response to a flood of complaints by viewers who had seen the suicide show earlier.

But the company said it is not censoring its programs.

"You don't want to punish everybody because of one (producer), but we may have no choice," said company spokesman T.J. Connolly. He added that all public-access producers must be treated equally under current federal laws.

Dora Hauser, chairwoman of the San Antonio Cable Television Advisory Committee, said Paragon and City Hall were flooded with complaints by viewers who saw the suicide show.

But Ms. Hauser said she wants to ensure San Antonio's First Amendment rights.

"The trouble with that is there is no precise legal definition of what is protected speech," she said.

New regulations that are expected to take effect in April would grant cable companies more control on programs offered for public access.

At present, cable companies can only cancel public-access programs that would incite a riot at a specific place on a specific day and time, Connolly said. Otherwise, all programs submitted for public access must be broadcast.

Paragon's only regulatory authority is setting the date and time the show will be aired.

Pleas McNeel, one of the original access producers, said he believed that Paragon was using the show as an excuse to get rid of public access for "purely economic reasons."

"Paragon carries a hard-core channel of their own that would make a swinger blush. Perhaps they just don't want sex or violence on their system that they can't charge for," he said.

Grant programs funds distributed

Programs pushed by Bush

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Education Department distributed $63 million in election-time grants for programs pushed by President Bush to cut dropout rates, remove language barriers for immigrants and help students make the transition from school to work.

The largest amount, $38 million, went to 86 programs that work to reduce the number of students who leave school before graduating. Of that amount, $8 million would go for new projects and the remainder would continue projects started last year.

The programs were financed largely through measures passed in 1988 and announced over a 13-day period surrounding last week's election.

Etta Fjelek, a spokeswoman for the Education Department, said tens of millions of dollars in grants have been awarded throughout Bush's presidency, and "they have never been handled politically. ... Just because of the elections, we don't stop doing business."

"The same thing goes on every year at this time" — the end of one fiscal year and the beginning of another, she said Tuesday.

In announcing the grants, the department described how each helped fulfill various aspects of the America 2000 plan, backed by Bush, that seeks to make sure all children are ready to learn when they start school and are capable of entering the work force once they graduate.

They also reflected Bush's 1988 campaign promise to be the "education president," when he pledged to boost spending on the major federal program for disadvantaged elementary and secondary school children.

The Education Department also issued a $2 million contract to finance, for one more year, an evaluation of dropout prevention programs.

EC, U.S. negotiators to meet; trying to avoid a trade war

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The European Community said today it will send its negotiators back to the bargaining table with U.S. officials as soon as possible in an effort to avert a damaging trade war.

Britain, Germany and others have been pressing for a compromise on Washington's demands for more cuts in the community's farm subsidies, threatening to isolate France as the only major opponent of concessions.

The United States has said it will impose punitive import duties on $300 million in European goods, primarily French white wines, if the dispute is not resolved by Dec. 5. France has been trying to get the EC to retaliate.

Washington contends the subsidies keep prices for European farm goods unfairly low and rob American farmers of international sales. France, the EC's biggest agricultural producer, says cuts could drive many of its small farmers out of business.

EC spokesman Bruno Dethomais said the community's two top negotiators might travel to Washington early next week to resume talks. Another spokesman, Nico Wegter, said the talks could begin by the end of this week.

"There is an urgent need to come to terms with the Americans," Wegter said. "There is a very good reason to believe ... that a deal can be made," he added, without elaborating.

Frans Andriessen, a Dutchman and the EC's top trade official, and Ray MacSharry of Ireland, its chief farm negotiator, are to meet with Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan and Trade Representative Carla Hills.

The EC announcement came a few hours after MacSharry agreed to resume his bargaining duties. He had stepped down in protest Thursday, complaining privately of interference by the EC's chief executive, Jacques Delors.

MacSharry's move temporarily threw the 12-nation EC into turmoil, undermining its bargaining position.

Delors, a French Socialist, was accused of maneuvering behind the scenes to try to prevent more concessions to the United States.

Letter claims Liberian rebels killed five nuns

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A witness who claims to have seen Liberian rebels kill five American nuns says three were shot at their convent as one begged for her life and two others were slain in a roadside ambush.

The account was smuggled out of Liberia to a neighboring African country, said Sister Mildred Gross, the nuns' mother superior in Ruma, Ill.

The message corroborates accounts by Roman Catholic officials that the rebels were to blame for the slayings last month. The rebels have denied responsibility.

"Through networking with other mission personnel and our friends in west Africa, we were able to obtain this message," Sister Mildred Gross said in a statement Monday.

Gross, who heads the Ruma convent of the Adorers of the Blood of Christ, said the message was received Saturday and shared with the State Department. She said department officials told her the message was consistent with reports they had received.

Gross said she could not reveal the source but believed it to be reliable. It was the first detailed account of the nuns' last days.

The message blamed the slayings on members of the National Patriotic Front of Liberia, who have been battling for control of the country for nearly three years, overrunning all but the capital of Monrovia.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — The Red Cross evacuated nearly 1,500 women, children and elderly from besieged Sarajevo, but logistical problems and disputes with fighters stranded another 750 in the capital today.

A new cease-fire was to go into effect late today. But it was far from certain whether all sides had the will or means to end months of bloodletting in which 14,000 people have been killed and hundreds of thousands have been driven from their homes.

On Tuesday, Muslims on a convoy to Croatia were stopped by rebel Serbs who said they would not grant the buses safe passage until all Serbs on a separate convoy to Belgrade had left central Sarajevo.

The Serbs later allowed the Muslims to pass, and the Red Cross said the 1,100 civilians arrived at the Croat-held town of Kiseljak northwest of Sarajevo in the late evening.

Some 750 Serb civilians, however, remained behind Tuesday because only one bus was available to ferry them to the Serb-held western suburb of Lukavica. An earlier convoy successfully evacuated 350 Serbs.

A total of 6,000 civilians have authorization to leave Sarajevo, which is besieged by Serb fighters, but the problems Tuesday apparently delayed the departure of today's convoys.

Tuesday's agreement on the Bosnian cease-fire was to take effect at midnight today. It was reached during negotiations among Serb, Muslim and Croat military commanders who have been meeting for two weeks at the Sarajevo airport on a plan to demilitarize the capital.

Dozens of truces have failed in Bosnia in the past — many within hours. Fighters in the field often appear to defy the orders of their commanders.

Previous cease-fire agreements often have been preceded by an upsurge of fighting as warring factions seek to consolidate their positions.

Bosnian radio reported shelling overnight on government-held towns in northern Bosnia and Croat-held positions in western Herzegovina. It said two crop-dusters fitted with weapons attacked Srebrenica in eastern Bosnia. That could not be confirmed.

The success of the cease-fire could depend on whether Serbs and Croats feel satisfied with their battlefield gains and whether the Muslims are willing to settle in hopes of not losing more territory.

Bosnia's Serbian leader Radovan Karadzic proposed a seven-point peace plan Monday that would leave the Serbs in control of the territory they hold — about 70 percent of Bosnia. Croats control most of the rest.

Muslims, who made up about 43 percent of the prewar population, hold only small pockets of territory. The government, which is led by Muslims, opposes the ethnic cantonization of Bosnia and rejected the Serb peace plan.

International mediators have proposed establishment of nine multi-ethnic provinces with a centralized government. Serbs and Croats have rejected that proposal.

Appreciation for veterans

Today is Veteran's Day — a time when we remember all those who served our country in the military.

Veteran's Day had its beginnings on Nov. 11, 1918, when fighting in World War I came to an end with the signing of an armistice between the Allies and Germany.

At a time in history when more and more men and women have not served in the military, it is even more important that we recognize and honor those who accepted the responsibility of service to country.

Because of the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Medical Center we have the opportunity to show our appreciation to a number of veterans.

But let us not forget those who made the supreme sacrifice in the service to their homeland at places like the Marne River, the Argonne Forest, Pearl Harbor, Iwo Jima, Normandy, Korean, Vietnam, Granada, Panama and Kuwait and Iraq.

Those who fell gave their lives so that we might have the opportunity to live free... to worship as we choose... to openly voice our opinions... to choose our own leaders.

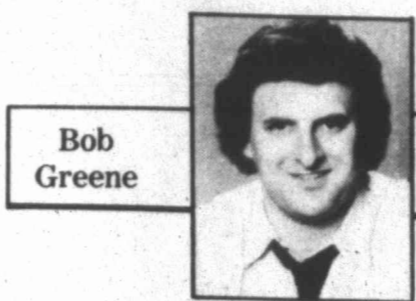

In large part, it is because of those we recognize and remember today that we have the opportunities we do. Let's not forget that.

Luck and prayers to the newly elected president, but he and his staff would be well-advised not to mistake the electoral landslide for love.

It must feel like love; any man could be excused for making that assumption when tens of millions of his countrymen and countrywomen cast their ballots for him and evict a sitting president from the White House. The nation is not in an especially romantic political mood, though, and Bill Clinton's wisest move right now would be to understand that — which he probably does — and to act accordingly.

Simply put, Clinton was elected not because Americans were dewy-eyed over him, and not because they idealized him into a perfect knight. Those political days are over. All talk of mandates and majesty aside, the cold truth is that Clinton has been hired to do a job of work. It was a hiring decision made with utmost seriousness by the voters doing the hiring, but the fact remains that Clinton is a hired hand in an austere and nervous era, and all that is expected of him is to do the job he has been assigned.

Which is to fix things. In the weeks between now and inauguration day, you will read a long litany of predictable government-in-transition stories. You will read about how a new generation, born after World War II, has finally come to power; you will read whimsical pieces about the Arkansasization of Washington, D.C. You will read analyses of how a Democratic White House will operate with a Democratic Congress, and you will read endless stories about how Hillary Clinton differs from Barbara Bush. You will read about Chelsea in the White House, and about George Bush in his dwindling days of control, and about what will become of Dan Quayle. The stories will range from deadening to entertaining, and the one thing they will have in common is that they will not matter.

All that will matter is the job Clinton has been hired to do. We are in different times than we've been in before; Clinton is likely to sense early on that few people are really interested in what the "style" of the new White House is, or the "tone" of the new administration in Washington. Thinking about those types of things is a luxury that neither we or our president can afford; Jackie Kennedy inviting violinists to the White House was fine for its time, but that time was yesterday, when the country took weekends off.

Of all the statistics and figures that were thrown into the air on election night, the most moving and impressive one — the one that will stick — is the more than 100 million people who cast their ballots in the presidential race. There were polling places around the country where men and women had to wait three hours and more in line before they got their chance to vote; they waited. There were places where the weather was bitter and mean, where the storms would have provided every excuse for the voters to stay home; the voters ventured out into the storms.

They didn't do it because it was fun. They didn't do it because it was a civics lesson. They did it because they needed to hire someone. More than 100 million voters — in a country that is reputed to be filled with apathetic cynics. The music may have blasted through the Little Rock night, but the voting that preceded the music was an event of immense gravity, an event that spoke to the depths of the nation's yearning to turn things around. Love, even political love, is nice; this was something different, which does not mean it was something less important.

Presidents are permitted honeymoons. Another word that hints at love. But however long Clinton's honeymoon with the voters may be, its duration will be determined by one factor only: how effective he performs the task for which he has been hired. In our won't-get-fooled-again age, even a brand-new president is observed by a nation's eyes that are as child and unforgiving as a camera lens. There will be dancing in Washington on the night of Clinton's inauguration, but around the country the music will wait by, a mere distraction.

A town called Hope

HOPE, Ark. — It was the day after in a town that would never be the same. On Nov. 3 it was Hope, home of the world's largest watermelon. On Nov. 4 it was Hope, birthplace of a president.

Chamber of Commerce officials quickly rounded up the usual suspects to make it easy for television reporters: a Clinton cousin, a few early boyhood friends. When you leave a town forever at age 7, friends tend to remember how well you caught flies and grounders, not your character.

Ambitious camera crews were taking pictures of Hope's working depot, a sweetly nostalgic place begging to be photographed. Reporters milled the downtown streets, where a Fred's Discount and a paperback book shop and a cafe were open early. You couldn't help noticing that the misguided hand of urban revitalization had, at some point, made a mess of simple things like Main Street.

Everywhere in this town of 10,000 were brick-and-mortar hints about Bill Clinton. And we were here to find them, a journalistic scavenger hunt played in the name of history.

At 321 E. 13th Street, was the stepfather's house. Roger Clinton owned the Buick dealership. The house is small, but it sits on a large corner lot on a tidy street.

The world knows now that this typical-looking household was dysfunctional; Roger Clinton was an alcoholic. Maybe it was here, sleeping under Eisenhower stars, that young Bill determined that his goal in life had nothing to do with selling Buicks.

"It just doesn't look like any of the other presidential homes," remarked a young reporter from Kansas City. Like groupies following a map of the stars' homes in Hollywood, all of us sooner or later went by 321 E. 13th. And sooner or later we compared notes in Cherry's Old Tyme Soda Fountain.

"It's just not, you know, very neat," the reporter gaped. It's true. This child of the modern age, as Al Gore characterized Clinton, is much too young to hail from a log cabin or a Southern mansion. His is the age of vinyl siding and cement stumps masquerading as front porches.

Brookwood Public School, where Clinton attended first grade, has a muddy playground and a sycamore out front. It probably was here that he learned the rudiments of scholastic life: to pledge allegiance to the flag, to line up for lunch and recess, to share, to read, to write his name, to tie his shoes.

And surely it was here that Bill Clinton first heard, as all of us baby boomers did, that anyone could grow up to be president, regardless of our station in life, no matter what our religion or where we lived.

John Kennedy soon would test the religion part. Much later Jimmy Carter would conquer regional bias.

There were other places to look for Clinton dust: Miss Mary Purkins' School for Little Folks, now a residence. The grandparents' old homeplace, now rental property and dilapidated.

It was a feeling, though, more than a structure, that revealed the most. This was a working town, with no mansions on either side of the tracks. There were shopkeepers and farmers and a camp of migrant workers. This place had seen better, if not richer, times.

The people Clinton has pledged to help live here: the unemployed from the defunct Champion plant, the welfare recipients, the middle class.

They had been divided by the election — you saw at least as many Bush-Quayle signs as Clinton-Gore. But now the home boy had won. He would lead, for better or worse.

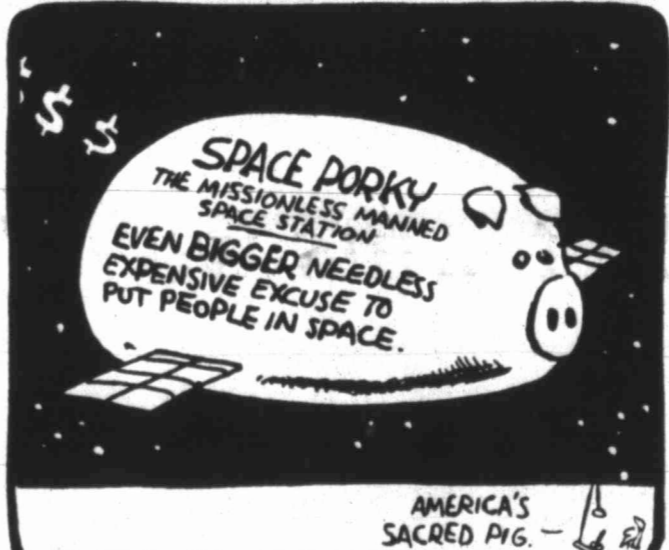

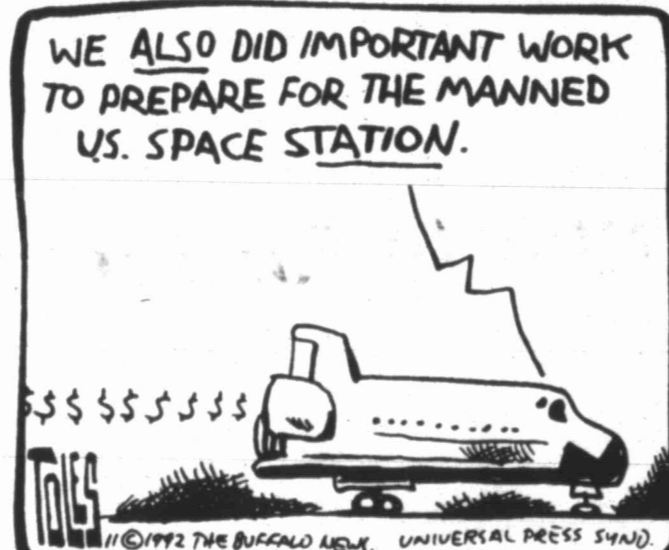

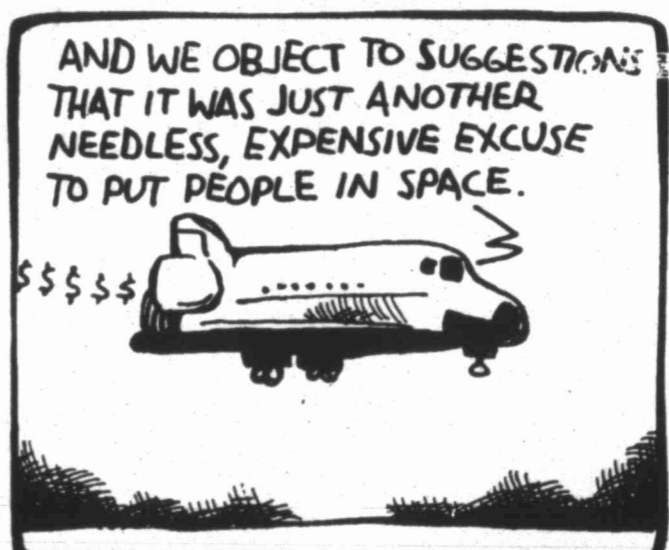

There has been a lot of criticism about an ambitious Clinton's teen-aged plans to become president. That criticism, at least, is unfounded.

A child from the nation's poorest region, with an alcoholic parent, decided to believe what they told him in school: With hard work and determination, you can rise above your circumstances.

Then, with an incredible amount of discipline and hard work, Clinton excelled in school and triumphed in politics. He made changes for the better in his home state.

His neighbor, Ross Perot, is admired for rising from meager circumstance and becoming a billionaire. Too bad so many have less respect for public service.

Flugelman-606 cuts haze

By CHARLES McDOWELL
Media General Newspapers

In setting forth the outcome and significance of a national election, it is possible in the frenzy of the newsroom that night to become rattled and maybe not quite all-knowing. In my case, fortunately, I could turn for guidance to Flugelman-606, the ultimate synthesizer among election-analyzing computers.

This remarkable machine was plugged into a dozen news agencies, three candidates' headquarters, a dozen professors of the instant quote, a crucial if secret source of Election Day exit polls and, just for old-times' sake, a precinct in Virginia named Short Pump that was looking for Ross Perot decades ago.

The following messages were among those printed out by Flugelman from midafternoon into the night:

● 3:20 p.m.: "Those Bozos, as President Bush called them, apparently are going to win this thing, although you shouldn't spread the word yet and ruin the fun for California. Meanwhile, if you newsmen want to drink too much coffee in your time-honored way, you'd better get started. Landslides don't go on very long into the night."

I typed a message back into the machine: I would need specific exit polls or I could not in good conscience suggest even to my colleagues in the newsroom that the Democratic ticket of Bill Clinton and Al Gore was leading George Bush and Dan Quayle.

● 3:22 p.m.: "New Hampshire: Clinton 46 percent, Bush 36 percent, Perot 18 percent. Illinois: Clinton 52 percent, Bush 34 percent, Perot 13 percent. Michigan: Clinton 48 percent, Bush 36 percent, Perot 16 percent. Those are states, of course, that Bush pretty much has to win. It goes on like that state after state, although Bush is close in Florida and Texas. But there aren't many of those states where he's close enough to Clinton and Gore even to apologize for calling them Bozos."

● 4:35 p.m.: "It's time to turn away from those horse races and concentrate on the significance of the election. Give your attention to the turnout at the polls. Come on, get into it. Start drinking too much coffee."

"The indications are that the turnout will be massive, even historic. By historic, I mean as many as 55 percent of Americans of voting age may well go to the polls. That would be the highest figure since 1972. Remember, turnout has been declining since the 1950s and 1960s, when the percentage was in the 60s. The rise of television as the medium of politics somehow coincided with the decline of voting-age participation, from 62 percent in 1960 to 50.1 percent in 1988."

"Get into turnout. It's telling us something. Think about it over several cups of coffee and get back to me with your wisdom."

After half an hour or so, nothing seemed obvious to me except that this caffeine habit in newsrooms is not as helpful in promoting wisdom as I used to think.

● 5:15 p.m.: "Flugelman won't abandon you. Consider that a recession provokes people to try to do something, even to vote, to make politicians pay attention. Consider people 18 to 30, who haven't voted much. Now they need jobs and maybe political change could help them get jobs. Consider that women have a special interest in politics this year — the Hill-Thomas hearings, the abortion issue, more women candidates for Congress."

"Another big stimulant to turnout this year was Ross Perot. He stirred people by not being a politician and by making a lot of sense a lot of the time, even if it was absolutely preposterous some of the time. Perot, the businessman, said he could fix the economy. As for politicians, he said, 'If you had a car that's broken, you wouldn't take it to a dentist.'"

"One of the things that worried people about Perot, by the way, was their notion that he thought of himself as a car mechanic and somehow reminded them more of a dentist."

"The point I'm making is, there were a lot of people ready to get interested in this campaign. And it took a turn — talk shows, call-ins, the debates — that let people take a real part in the campaign. As was shown, especially in the Richmond debate, the people could even make the politicians talk about the issues the people cared about."

● 7:45 p.m.: "Hey, we've got a state here that's gone for somebody on the basis of real votes cast, not exit polls. It's for Bush. It's Virginia, comfortably. We still live in a world that's at least vaguely recognizable."

● 9 p.m.: "Nebraska has been called for Bush. That makes 33 electoral votes for the president vs. 238 for Clinton. Perot doesn't have electoral votes, but he's 16 or 17 percent in the popular vote and that's a big hit for third-party guys. But don't make too much of Perot's showing. He'll take it for a personal landslide, all his own, that tempts him to buy a few hours a week on national television for the next four years."

● 9:15 p.m.: "The Rev. Pat Robertson, the fundamentalist tiger from Virginia, denies that he was too strident at the Republican convention, putting the party in trouble. The problem, he said, was that George Bush simply ran a poor campaign."

● 10:55 p.m.: "Two-thirds of the key indicators have now called Ohio for Bill Clinton, and I authorize you to make his electoral majority official." Flugelman-606 printed on the screen. "We've all handled a rough campaign pretty well, if I do say so, and tonight there's not a Bozo in sight."

Hawks stand tall over Ranger with 127-97 win

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

Howard College's Hawks taught an age-old basketball lesson to the Ranger Junior College Rangers Tuesday night. If you own the paint, you almost always own the scoreboard.

The Hawk's 127-97 win at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum started out as a simple case of the Hawks winning the battle of the boards and turned into a runaway dunkfest. Howard recorded 12 steals in the game, including three of the last five baskets, to go 3-0 on the year. The Rangers fell to 3-3.

Ranger freshman guard Chapanez Hale found the range on his jumper for 40 points, including four three-pointers. But the Hawks countered with five players in double figures and a big advantage under the basket.

"That was the first team we played a team that had a lot of prolific scorers," Hawk coach Jeff Kidder said. "We had to do a lot of one-on-one guarding. Overall I think our effort was outstanding."

The Hawk scoring parade was led by forward Reco Burt who came off the bench to pour in 29 points. Burt had six steals. Chuckie Robinson added 25 for Howard.

In the early going the Hawks inside scoring and rebounding dominance had Ranger struggling to keep up.

"I knew going in we had to do two things: retreat on defense and really hit the boards, which we did," Kidder said.

The Hawks scored the first three buckets of the game and never trailed. A Hale three-pointer tied the contest at 26-26 with 9:52 left in the first half, but Howard put together a ten-point run and was never threatened again. Mike Blassingame hit a three-pointer and Burt had a dunk and a short bank shot in the run.

The Hawks continued to get second chance baskets and follow shots for the rest of the half and built a 62-41 advantage at intermission. Nine players tallied for Howard in the first half. Sophomore center Bernard Lloyd had 16 of his 17 points before halftime.

Richard Griffin's free throw with 5:42 left brought the Rangers to within 13 at 100-87. But again the Hawks answered, this time with a nine-point run. Robinson's back-to-back 'jams' highlighted the outburst.

Hale got 26 of his total in the second half and his succession of mostly short to medium range jumpers kept the lopsided score from being a lot worse. He had 20 of his team's last 41 points. The Rangers played in the Chaparral Classic in Midland last weekend and may have been feeling the effects of playing several games in a short period.

The Hawks host the Hawk Classic this weekend, playing Southwest Christian Friday at 8 p.m. and Pima Saturday at 8.

Lady Hawks trap Ranger

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Coach Royce Chadwick didn't like the way his team was playing defense, so he changed things.

The halftime switch made a world of difference as the Howard College Lady Hawks handily won their home-opener over the Ranger Junior College Lady Rangers 94-75. The win gives the nationally ranked (No. 19) Lady Hawks a 4-0 record. Ranger drops to 1-2.

The Lady Hawks played man-to-man defense in the first half and managed a 39-33 halftime lead. The second half Howard switched to a halfcourt trapping defense and the Lady Rangers fell to pieces. Howard went on a 19-3 tear in the first five minutes of the half to take a commanding 60-36 lead.

The run started with a jump shot by LeKisha Wiley and a steal by Jennifer Jeffress, resulting in two free throws by Charlene Payton. It continued with a steal and layup by Wiley, followed by another Ranger turnover and two free throws by Regina Huff. The spree concluded with Jeffress feeding Annette Robinson inside for a basket.

The only thing Ranger managed in between was a three-pointer by Danita Anthony. Ranger did a lot of three-point shooting, especially Anthony, but had little luck from the long-range stripe. Anthony led all scorers with 25 points, including four three pointers. Ranger point guard Deborah Alexander followed with 22 points.

Howard fielded a balanced attack led by Huff, a sophomore forward from Corpus Christi. She finished the contest with 19 points and 13 rebounds. Sophomore guard Yumecca White led all Howard scorers with 21 points. She ignited Howard in the first half by hitting four straight jumpers, helping Howard from a 11-10 deficit to a 25-18 lead in a span of five minutes.

Robinson, a freshman post player, scored 15 points and had six rebounds, while Payton, also a freshman, scored 14 points.

"We were playing such bad defense in the first half, but I thought I would stay with it and iron the wrinkles out," said Chadwick. "I decided to put the iron up and play something else."

Chadwick added that his ability to utilize all of his players made a difference also. "I told them (team) at the half, if Ranger was going to play seven girls, we were going to run them down. The halfcourt trap really hurt them, they didn't handle it very well. I thought my bench played well. Yumecca and Annette had great offensive games."

Ranger coach Denny Downing, who played just one sophomore the entire game, said his team's inexperience showed. "I told them in the locker room the first five minutes of the second half would determine the game," he said. "I'm playing all freshmen. They're young and it's hard to get them going sometime."

"We may be better than I thought. They're getting better every game. We'll play anybody, anywhere, that's the only way you get better."

The Lady Hawks play Hill Junior College in Abilene Thursday.

HOWARD (94) — LeKisha Wiley 3-9, 0-0 6; Jennifer Jeffress 0-3, 0-1 0; Anita Wright 2-3, 0-0 4; Regina Huff 8-13, 3-3 19; Angel Spinks 3-8, 0-0 6; Vernetta Allen 1-8, 0-0 2; Becky Barnes 2-7, 0-0 4; Dina Rozner 0-1, 0-0 0; Yumecca White 10-15, 1-1 21; Charlene Payton 6-9, 2-2 14; Annette Robinson 7-9, 1-1 15; Kim Stanley 1-3, 1-1 3; Totals 43-89, 8-10 94.

RANGER (75) — Deborah Alexander 8-12, 5-8 22; Carolyn Guay 3-4, 2-3 9; Keshia Sheppard 0-5, 0-0 0; Danita Anthony 8-26, 5-7 25; Dina Acum 4-12, 2-4 10; April Wall 2-7, 1-2 5; Marcelene Hogg 1-3, 0-1 2; Totals 26-71, 15-25 76.

HALFTIME — Howard 39, Ranger 33.

Turnovers — Howard 13, Ranger 17; Rebounds — Howard 45 (Huff 13, Robinson 6, Spinks 6); Ranger 37 (Anthony 9, Ancrum 7); Three Pointers — Ranger (Anthony 4, Wall 2, Guay 1, Alexander 1); Assists — Howard (Wiley 10, Jeffress 4, Allen 3, Rozner 3); Ranger (Alexander 8, Sheppard 3, Anthony 3); Steals — Howard (Wiley 2); Ranger (Sheppard 2); Blocked Shots — Howard (Robinson 2, Stanley 1); Ranger — (Ancrum 1).

'Dr. J, Big Red' head list of Hall of Fame nominees

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Julius Erving and Bill Walton, who met in the 1977 NBA Finals in which Portland upset Philadelphia, top a list of 10 players nominated for the Basketball Hall of Fame.

Walton, who led UCLA to two NCAA championships and Portland to the NBA title, and Erving were nominated in their first year of eligibility. Both retired in 1987.

A two-thirds vote of the 24-member honors committee is needed for induction.

Streaks some teams would like to forget

It's been a strange football year. Take District 4-5A for instance. The Midland Lee Rebels don't make the playoffs for the first time in 14 years and the Abilene Cooper Cougars are going to the playoffs for the first time in 13 years. Two teams known in the past for having pretty good football teams — Abilene High and Midland High — have fallen on lean times.

Those last two teams have a combined total of four wins over the past two years. With a 34-21 win over Abilene High Friday, Midland High snapped an 18-game losing streak and a 11-game District 4-5A skid. In the process, the monkey now jumps on Abilene High's back. The Eagles now have the district's longest losing streak at seven games and have dropped 10 straight district games.

District 4-5A hasn't turned out to be the powerful district that it was touted to be at the start of the season. Odessa Permian, Lee,

Steve Belvin

Cooper and San Angelo Central can hold their own with most any school in the state. But there's a huge difference between those teams' caliber of play and Midland High, Abilene High and Odessa.

To be truthful, I think the Steers could break about even in the district now.

There was a time, however, when the Steers didn't stand a chance in 4-5A. Big Spring owns 4-5A's record for consecutive district losses. From 1974 to 1980 Big Spring lost 43 straight league games.

The streak started in 1974, the ninth game of the season, a 17-14 loss to Odessa High. It ended the final game of the 1980 season, a 21-20 win over San Angelo Central. It's a good thing the streak was stopped then because Big Spring didn't win another district game until midway through the 1982 season — a 9-6 victory over Midland High.

During Big Spring's losing streak, the Steers had four coaches — Bob Burris, Don Robbins, Ron Logback and Ralph Harris. In those seven years, Big Spring had a combined record of 11-58-1.

That's what I call lean years.

Here's the streak of all streaks. Houston Davis High School wrote itself into the national record books Thursday night with a 41-0 loss to Houston Worthing for its 73rd consecutive defeat.

The Panthers finished the season 0-10 and broke the record of 72 straight losses set between 1965 and 1974 by Iberia, Mo.

Davis' losing streak started after it beat Houston Austin 7-0 on Oct. 11, 1985. After that victory, the Panthers didn't score a point in losing their last five games of the season.

Davis has been shut out 37 times during the streak and their largest margin of defeat was 77-0 to Houston Yates in 1988. They came closest to victory in a 22-18 loss to Houston Milby and 19-15 loss to Houston Austin in 1989.

During this dismal streak, opponents have averaged 40 points per game while Davis has averaged just four.

The Panthers have had three different head coaches during the streak. The present one is Chuck Arnold, who's been there two seasons.

Steve Belvin is Sports Editor of the Big Spring Herald. His column appears on Wednesday.

Oakland Athletics reliever wins Cy Young award

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

OAKLAND, Calif. — Dennis Eckersley is a pitcher looking to make a comeback even after winning the American League Cy Young award.

Eckersley, the Oakland Athletics' bullpen ace and a primary reason behind the team's fourth AL West title in five years, admitted Tuesday he still feels the sting of Roberto Alomar's bat.

"You win the Cy Young and I knew I was going to have to deal with this, but that's OK. I will be back," Eckersley said from his Boston home.

In Game 4 of the AL playoffs with Toronto, Eckersley came on in the eighth with a 6-2 lead. Toronto scored twice before Alomar hit an Eckersley pitch for a two-run homer that sent the game into extra innings.

"I know that I disappointed a lot of people, including myself," said Eckersley, who had a career-high 51 saves during the regular season. He is the second A's pitcher in three years to win the award — Bob Welch won it in 1990.

Eckersley came to Oakland in 1987 intending to be a starter, but instead wound up in the bullpen where he has emerged as one of the best closers in the history of the game. This year, the 38-year-old right-hander converted all but three save opportunities.

Greenwood DB comes up with big play

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Ted Flowers has been a big play man for the Greenwood Rangers secondary all season. A three-year starter, the senior safety was the mainstay in Greenwood's secondary this season.

Flowers concluded his high school football career on a high note in Greenwood's 22-14 upset win over the Kermit Yellow-jackets. The win prevented Kermit from going to the playoffs.

In the Kermit game, Flowers made eight tackles and came up with the game's big play in the waning moments. He intercepted a Kermit pass in the end zone, ensuring the Rangers of the win. For his effort, he's the Crossroads Country Honor Roll's Defensive Player of the Week.

The Offensive Player of the Week gets the award for the third time this season. Borden County senior tailback Clint Wills put on a sterling performance in Borden County's 57-8 win over Highland. Wills went over the 2,000 yard mark for the season by rushing for 307 yards on 18 carries. He scored on TD runs of 7, 64, 3, 12, and 52 yards.

Other top offensive performances were:

• In Garden City's 13-10 win over Grandfalls, Jody Bradford rushed for 189 yards on 32 carries.

• In Klondike's 44-29 win over Dawson, quarterback Tanner Etheredge completed five of eight passes for 145 yards.

• In Greenwood's win over Kermit, tight end Ray Seales caught touchdown passes of 1 and 34 yards.

• In Borden County's win, John Paul Harris carried four times for 43 yards and two touchdowns. Kurt Jones added five carries for 48 yards and one touchdown.

• In Big Spring's 24-14 win over Pecos, Lonnie Jackson carried 22 times for 97 yards.

• In a 28-26 loss to Ozona, Coahoma right guard Kirby Brown and right tackle Mario Martinez helped pave the way for Greg Atkinson to gain 155 yards on 21 carries.

• In Sands' 61-16 loss to Wellman, Heath Gillespie gained 94 yards in 16 carries.

Top defensive performances included:

• In Garden City's win, linebacker Matt Seidenberger made 11 tackles and tackle Derek Schraeder made 10 tackles.

• In Borden County's win, end J.J. Kincheloe made eight tackles from his linebacker spot.

• In Big Spring's win, linebacker Luis Bustamante made 11 tackles and intercepted a pass.

• In Coahoma's win, safety Atkinson made eight tackles and intercepted a pass, and end Murphy Henry made six tackles and intercepted a pass.

Rangers pitcher had fractured rib

ARLINGTON — Kevin Brown, who became the Texas Rangers' first 20-game winner since Ferguson Jenkins in 1974, revealed Tuesday he has a fractured rib.

Brown, who finished sixth in the American League Cy Young voting, said a recent exam found a fracture in a rib near the left shoulder blade.

Brown had discomfort in the area much of the season, but still won 21 games, second-highest in franchise history.

The righthander said doctors have prescribed rest and no throwing. But that should not affect his preparations for next season. He usually doesn't begin pre-season throwing until mid-to late January.

"It's something I had and pitched with, so it can't be that bad," Brown told The Dallas Morning News. "The doctors said rest should take care of it."

Brown also has strained ligaments and soreness in the fingers of his right hand. In the final game this season, he was hit in the pitching hand by a hard grounder.

Sports Briefs

Giants staying on Bay for now

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Giants are staying in San Francisco as Tampa Bay struck out again in its quest for a major league team.

NL owners rejected a $115 million deal to move the Giants to St. Petersburg, Fla., by a 9-4 vote even though the best offer to keep the club in San Francisco was $15 million less.

The city of St. Petersburg has threatened to file lawsuits against the city of San Francisco, the major leagues and a group of investors led by Safeway Inc. chairman Peter Magowan for interfering with their deal. San Francisco filed a lawsuit before the vote was announced to block any legal action by St. Petersburg. Florida Sen. Connie Mack vowed to ask Congress to rescind baseball's antitrust exemption, created by a 1922 Supreme Court ruling.

Truck driver get light sentence

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — A driver whose truck struck and killed Detroit offensive lineman Eric Andolsek received a 30-day jail sentence and $175 fine after pleading no contest to failure to maintain control.

Last week, a parish grand jury declined to indict James E. Bennett of Baton Rouge, for negligent homicide or vehicular homicide.

Andolsek was killed in his yard last summer when Bennett lost control of his 10-wheel flatbed truck on La. 1. Tests revealed traces of cocaine in Bennett's urine, but not enough to sustain a felony conviction.

Washington QB ruled ineligible

SEATTLE (AP) — Billy Joe Hobert was declared ineligible to play intercollegiate sports by Washington after an investigation determined that $50,000 in loans the quarterback received last spring violated NCAA rules.

Athletic director Barbara Hedges said she didn't think athletic officials had acted improperly, and didn't think the Huskies should have to forfeit any of the eight games in which Hobert played this season.

The investigation determined that terms of the loans, obtained from the father-in-law of a friend, were improper in part because a promissory note signed by Hobert included payback terms based on his future earnings as professional football player.

Price early leader in Grand Slam

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) — PGA champion Nick Price shot a 2-under-par 70 for a one-stroke lead over Masters champion Fred Couples after the first round of the Grand Slam of Golf.

British Open champion Nick Faldo opened the 36-hole tournament with a 72 on the 7,126-yard Jack Nicklaus Resort Course at PGA West. U.S. Open champion Tom Kite shot a 75.

Timberwolves bite Mavericks, 118-104

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Doug West scored 15 of his 23 points in the first half, when Minnesota built a 21-point lead, and the Timberwolves earned their first victory, 118-104 Tuesday night over the Dallas Mavericks.

It was the initial win of Minnesota's Christian Laettner Era, and the NBA's third-overall draft pick had 14 points, 12 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Chuck Person and Micheal Williams, also in their first seasons with the Timberwolves, scored 24 and 20 points. Minnesota (1-2) was coming off a 121-119 overtime loss to Golden State.

Walter Bond, a free agent from the University of Minnesota who starts for Dallas because guard Jim Jackson — the league's fourth-overall draft choice — hasn't signed, scored 25 points. Derek Harper added 23 for the Mavericks (0-2).

Person had 10 points and West nine in the first quarter, when the Timberwolves shot 57 percent and took a 38-27 lead.

Bond's 10 third-quarter points kept the Mavericks from getting blown out, though they still trailed 94-77. With Randy White scoring seven points, Dallas began the fourth period with an 18-9 run that made it 103-95 with 6:53 to play.

Dallas trailed 113-104 when Harper hit a 3-pointer with 3:07 left. But the Mavericks, who were blanked in the final 3:32 in their opening 122-106 loss to Utah, didn't score again.

Laettner made two free throws — the Timberwolves were 33 of 36 from the line, including 22 of 23 in the second half — and Person made a long 3-pointer to seal Minnesota's victory.

To Make Money In The Stock Market, You Need A Little Skill. To Make Money From Lotto Texas, You Need A Little Pencil.

LOTTO Texas is a new game from the Texas Lottery, and you could make millions just by filling out a playslip and paying a dollar.

(We apologize to all those who have made their money through skill and savvy.) The purpose of this is to instruct you on how to play.

OK. To play, just pick six numbers from one to fifty. If you happen to pick the same six numbers that come up at the drawings, then you could win millions of dollars.

OK. Step number one. Go to any of the LOTTO Texas retailers. You can only play where you see a red and yellow sign that says LOTTO Texas.

Step number two. While you're at the retailer, pick up a LOTTO Texas playslip and a pencil. There's a picture of the playslip on this page. You may find the playslips in a stand called a play station. If not, just ask for one.

Step number three. (My, we're moving right along now, aren't we?) Just choose SIX numbers from one to fifty. You can play up to five times on each playslip. Completely fill in the numbers that you choose on the playslip ONLY WITH A BLACK OR BLUE BALLPOINT PEN OR A PENCIL. The one featured here would work just fine.

Also, don't erase any mistakes you make. Just fill in the VOID box on that particular play and you will not be charged for it.

Step number four. (Past the halfway mark.) Take a dollar (that's how much it costs to play LOTTO Texas) and give it and the playslip to the retailer. It takes just a few seconds. When you're done, you'll be handed a ticket which will verify which numbers you picked. Please remember to take the time to sign your name on the back of your ticket, so no one else will be able to cash it in.

Step number five. Tune in the televised drawings on Wednesday and Saturday nights at 9:58 p.m. CST to see how well you did.

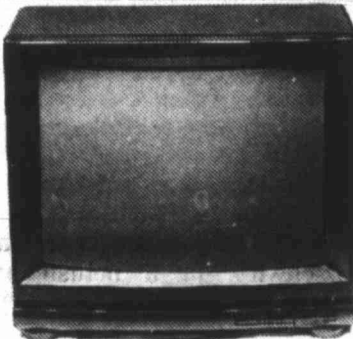

If you picked all six of the numbers which are randomly chosen on the ball machine, then you could become a millionaire. If you missed the drawing, the numbers will be posted the next day at all LOTTO Texas retailers and in your local newspaper. The jackpots are paid in 20 annual installments.

You can also win second and third prizes by matching five out of six or four out of six numbers. Match three out of six and you will win $3 automatically. Win up to $599, and you can collect your prize at any LOTTO Texas retailer. Winnings of $600 or more can be claimed at any of the 24 Texas Lottery claim centers. You can also claim prizes through the mail using a claim form that you may pick up at any Texas Lottery retailer. Please be sure to make copies of the front and back of your ticket before you send it in. The Texas Lottery is not responsible for tickets lost in the mail. All prizes must be claimed within 180 days of the drawing.

Finally, LOTTO Texas can be played up to 10 drawings (that's five weeks) in advance. If you want to play those same numbers for several drawings in a row, fill in the multi-draw box on your playslip with however many drawings you would like to play.

One more thing. You must be 18 years or older to play. And when you watch the televised drawings, there's a chance that your heart may start to pound a little and your palms may begin to sweat. The most important thing for you to remember is to please have fun and enjoy playing the game of LOTTO Texas.

BERLIN — The interpreter's tears told the story.

The talk was about Auschwitz. The place was the Berlin villa where the Nazis approved plans in 1942 for Adolf Hitler's murderous "final solution." The setting was a Germany struggling with an increase in racist violence directed mostly at refugees, but also at Holocaust memorials and Jewish cemeteries.

On Monday, the 54th anniversary of the Nazis' "Crystal Night" attacks on Jews, about 200,000 people marched both to remember fallen Jews and take a stand against neo-Nazism.

Raphael Esrail, head of the Paris-based League of Auschwitz Deportees, had led a group of 43 Auschwitz survivors from France and Belgium to Germany, and he spoke Tuesday about the lies of those who deny the Holocaust.

"We survived because on arrival at Auschwitz, in a hellish atmosphere, the SS sorted out the healthy to go to work. Women and children and the old, or those wearing glasses, were immediately gassed and burned, or a few were taken for terrible medical experiments," Esrail told a news conference, speaking French interpreted into German by a young German woman.

"We saw whole trains of Hungarians who were immediately sent to be gassed. We saw the last look of a mother to her child," he went on.

Esrail said he was deeply worried by neo-Nazi attacks in Germany and elsewhere in Europe, and it was essential to denounce revisionist "falsifiers of history" who try to make Nazism respectable by claiming the Holocaust didn't happen.

"Before you are men and women — not theories. We are a part of history that can't be erased," Esrail said of his group of survivors.

The interpreter broke into tears as he said: "Imagine for a moment: your children and your mother are taken away to be gassed and burned..."

Some of the survivors wept a short while later as they viewed Holocaust exhibits in the Wannsee villa, where bloodthirsty Nazi Reinhard Heydrich chaired a meeting in January 1942 that approved plans to wipe out European Jewry. The villa now is a national memorial and study center designed to combat the notion that the Holocaust didn't occur.

The group of survivors, mostly in their 70s, had come to Berlin to stand as witnesses to the Holocaust and its 6 million Jewish dead. They joined Monday's "Crystal Night" observances and issued a joint statement:

"The young generation in Germany is free of guilt from the past. But they bear responsibility for today. It is up to them to secure democracy in Germany and ... to exclude a repeat of the horrors of the past."

Gerhard Schoenberger, director of the Wannsee memorial, said he supported the suggestions by some Germans that the Bonn government should pay more to maintain the decaying buildings at Auschwitz, which is run by the Polish government as a memorial.

"It is the suitable memorial to what the Nazis did. If it disappears, it would be a catastrophe," Schoenberger said.

Suicide suspected in death of alleged spy

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN DIEGO — Cyanide traces were found in a car in which a purported spy was found dead, and authorities suspect he committed suicide, a newspaper reported today.

The body of Ian Stuart Spiro, an international commodities broker wanted for questioning in the slayings of his wife and three children, was found Sunday in a remote desert park.

The Blade-Citizen of Oceanside, quoting unidentified law enforcement officials, reported Tuesday that sheriff's investigators found what they believe to be cyanide in the car. Deputies suspect Spiro, 46, killed himself using the deadly drug, the newspaper said.

Several British newspapers reported Sunday that Spiro had links to the British and U.S. intelligence agencies. Spiro was wanted in the slayings of his wife, Gail, 40, daughters Sara, 16, and Dina, 11, and son Adam, 14. Their bodies were found Thursday in bedrooms of their posh home in suburban Rancho Santa Fe. All had been shot in the head.

Despite speculation that the deaths could be spy or terrorist-related, authorities say they're leaning toward murder-suicide with financial problems as an underlying cause.

An autopsy Monday did not reveal how Spiro died. Results of toxicology tests are expected in six to nine days, investigators said.

The Sunday Telegraph and other London newspapers reported that in 1985 Spiro helped arrange meetings in Lebanon between Anglican church envoy Terry Waite and Muslim leaders of Islamic Jihad in a bid to free Western hostages. Waite was kidnapped in 1987 and held captive for nearly five years.

This marked the third week in a row of increased drilling. Currently, there are 853 working rigs in the U.S., compared to 796 a year ago. The number of working rigs is a good indicator of overall oil production.

announcement, said Store Manager Armando Avila.

Store sales increased in September after Avila was transferred here from San Angelo and sales remained strong in October. Also, he said, negotiations on a new rent contract with mall officials that would have benefited the store appeared optimistic.

"I really thought they were going to give us a little more time, I really did," he said of upper management's decision to close the store.

He said he knew the company was considering the closure since his transfer. "They told me I may not be here (in Big Spring) for very long."

Employees will be offered other jobs when possible with other JC Penney stores. Severance pay is available and retirement for some. Severance for long-term key employees could be as much as 15-weeks pay, Avila said.

The Penguin gets student expelled

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLORADO CITY, Ariz. — A 14-year-old has been expelled for wearing a T-shirt to school depicting The Penguin, Batman's arch enemy. His mother said the principal complained that wearing the shirt was a sign of devil worship.

James Bateman said he is fed up with the rigidity in Colorado City, a primarily polygamous, breakaway-Mormon town in the Arizona Strip, a mile from the Utah line.

He said he was hassled by students and teachers two years ago when he wore short-sleeved shirts to school.

"They kept saying that I was wicked," he said in today's Arizona Republic. "But I just think I'm normal."

On Nov. 4, the boy wore the T-shirt picturing actor Danny DeVito as The Penguin. By lunchtime he was in the office of Principal Lawrence Steed, who "told me that my T-shirt was not appropriate in his school," the youth said in an affidavit.

He said Steed told him "that it interferes with my learning" and "that I must go home and change it."

His mother, Trudie Bateman, said she was quick to react.

"I took that shirt up to school, laid it on a table and said, 'Lawrence, how does this shirt affect my boy's education?'" she said. "He just looked at me and said that it's a sign of devil worship. I couldn't believe what I was hearing."

The Republic said Steed was out of town Tuesday and couldn't be reached for comment but that Alvin Barlow, superintendent of Colorado City schools, defended the school district's dress code as being "as liberal as it can be."

"Clothes aren't allowed that depict obscenities, immodestly expose the body, materially interfere with school work, present a hazard or prevent students from achieving their educational goals," he told the newspaper.

"It was Mr. Steed's view that this T-shirt violated our policies, and he has the authority to make that decision."

Colorado City, a town of several thousand, was settled more than a century ago by polygamous, fundamentalist Mormons after the church banned plural marriages.

Bountiful history: Thanksgiving food

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

From the first Thanksgiving to Nov. 26, 1992, food items served for the holiday have varied as much as the seasons of the year.

Traditional turkey dressing, pumpkin pie and cranberry dishes take on unique characteristics from family to family.

Thanksgiving cuisine has evolved, but even through fads and exotic adaptations, a few basics still reign as foods of choice for the holiday.

"It's the busiest day of the year for us — aside from Mother's Day," said Michael Peters, a local restaurant food specialist. "We stick to the basics like turkey and dressing and sweet potatoes and ham. They love it."

According to Thanksgiving by Diana Applebaum, the most accepted origin of the first Thanksgiving dinner is in the fall of 1621.

About 50 settlers and 90 American Indians sat down together and gave thanks for a special meal — not considered a feast at all by today's standards.

The main dishes were fowl and fish, pumpkin, corn and squash.

American Indians helped the Puritans escape starvation by teaching them to plant the corn and squash and hunt for their meats.

Staples like milk, butter, cheese, bread, molasses, apple cider or stuffing were missing from the table.

Even pumpkin pie had been absent from the menu, though pumpkins were abundant — boiled and eaten as frequently as some today snack on chips.

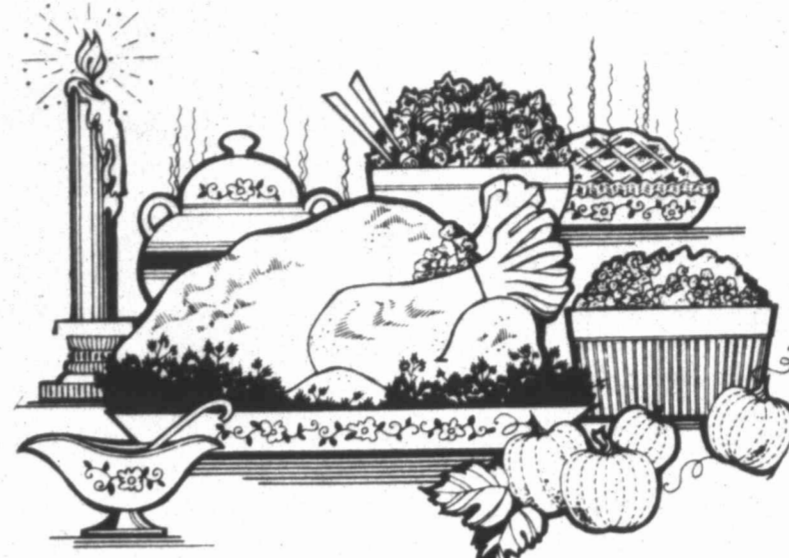

Corn had been ground and kneaded or boiled and creamed for bread and fried cakes or "hasty pudding."

The bounty was considered a feast by the pilgrims and Indians because of the time, care and effort put forth by both groups to produce the meal.

A couple of centuries later, people added other items to the holiday meal, making them part of the tradition.

From the 17th through the 19th Century, roasted turkey became the main holiday meat. Chicken pie — buttered and peppered and covered with puff paste — became a common delicacy.

The winter vegetables had been common Thanksgiving staples as well: mashed pumpkin, turnip and potatoes, cabbage, succotash, creamed onions, pickles, preserves, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, mincemeat pie and apple cider.

The cider was produced from tart and sweet apples and fermented to become a mildly alcoholic beverage.

A holiday meal favorite most varied among families is stuffing — whether made with rice, fruit, sausage, day-old biscuit, fresh bread, soft bread, stale bread or corn bread.

Applebaum writes, "Pleasure is taken from doing things in a traditional way."

She quotes America's great cooking teacher, Fannie Farmer, who said, "What hopes center on the golden-brown turkey, the flaky pastry, the spicy plum pudding? Surely no American will forego these traditional dishes on this traditional day."

When a child has terrible table manners, try these tips

Omaha, Neb., school principal Mary Drew passes a dish to a student during a weekly lunch in the storeroom of the school. The weekly lunches are her solution for students with poor table manners.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Getting your children to be pleasant dinner companions takes patience — and some creativity. At the holidays, with family dinners and guests arriving, parents may be more concerned than ever about table etiquette.

The following tips from Better Homes and Gardens magazine will help you teach them basic guidelines for behavior at mealtimes.

• The best time to start teaching table basics is when a child graduates from a high chair to the dinner table. Show your child, with regular reminders, how to use a fork and spoon and to say "thank you" when handed things.

Teach the child that throwing food, yelling, spitting and hitting are not acceptable.

• Promote mealtimes as family time. To give everyone a chance to talk about the day's happenings, go around the table taking turns talking. This builds speaking and listening skills and helps each person to feel important.

Encourage a positive conversation — no complaining, teasing, or scolding at the table.

• Encourage kids to try at least one small bite of each different food. No one likes all foods, so if a food isn't accepted after a taste, don't force your child to eat it.

Try serving the same food again at a later time. They may like it then.

• Use rhymes, riddles, or mental pictures to help kids remember basic manners.

Placing a napkin in the lap before eating becomes "nap in the lap." For elbows, try this old-time verse: Sally, Sally (use your child's name), strong and able, take your elbows off the table.

Sharp's fudge in Texas cookbook

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Big Springer Louise Sharp doesn't have as much time to cook as she would like, but one of her recipes is going statewide in a new cookbook from a popular TV show.

Sharp's recipe for fudge, which uses no added sugar, is part of the "Texas Country Reporter Cookbook." The book was organized by host Bob Phillips and the staff of Texas Country Reporter, a television program that chronicles places and people in the state.

"I got that recipe from a cousin in Arkansas," confessed Sharp, a Fort Worth transplant to Big Spring three years ago. The TV show originated in the Fort Worth area, but Sharp enjoyed it so much she kept watching after she moved to the local community.

"On one show they asked people to send recipes. I had always collected recipes and enjoyed them," Sharp explained. "I sent in several and they chose this one, which kind of surprised me. I had submitted some others that were more favorites of mine."

She's not sure how old the recipe for "Save-Your-Sugar French Fudge" is, but says she's had it for years. Although the recipe calls for semisweet chocolate chips, Sharp said she likes to use milk chocolate for a change.

"It's really so simple," Sharp said of the recipe. "As you're mixing, it's beginning to form into fudge. I add pecans when we have them, lots of pecans."

Sharp joins more than 400 other state residents as part of the cookbook. It includes colorful quotes about some of the submissions — where they came from and why they are favorites. It contains some rare dishes as well, including one that uses — believe it or not — tumbleweeds.

Some of the more interesting titles include "Preacher Man's Sweet Tater Pie," "End-of-the-Paycheck Pasta Salad" and "Texas Cowboy (Son-of-a-Gun) Stew." It includes many old standbys, such as "Washday Cobbler," several types of preserves and a variety of ethnic and traditional foods. Sharp said she, like many people nowadays, wishes she had more time for cooking recipes like those in the book.

"I just don't cook as much as I used to," she said. "I guess we all do things more for convenience now."

"Texas Country Reporter Cookbook" is available from the Big Spring Herald. Price is $13.95 plus tax.

Save-Your-Sugar French Fudge
3 6-ounce packages semisweet chocolate chips

1 can Eagle Brand sweetened condensed milk
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
pinch of salt
1/2 cup chopped nuts

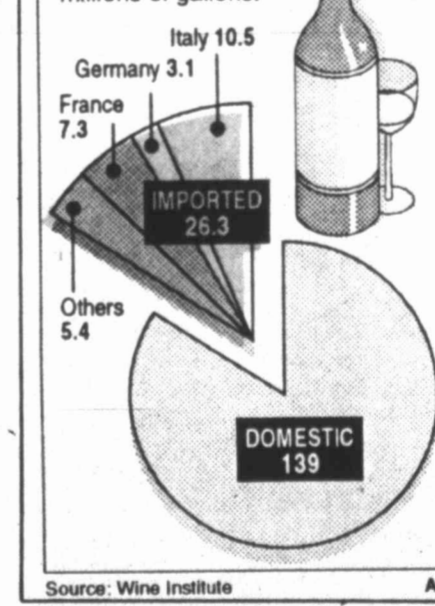

In the top of a double boiler, melt chocolate chips over hot water. Remove from heat, add sweetened condensed milk, vanilla, salt and nuts. Stir until smooth. Turn into a waxed-paper-lined 8-inch square pan. Chill. Store in airtight container.

Try a winner from the famous Terlingua chili cookoff

The 1992 CASI (Chili Appreciation Society International) Championship Chili Cookoff was Saturday in Terlingua, a Ghost Town located in the beautiful Texas Chihuahuan Desert Country of the Big Bend.

"Terlingua" is a corruption of two Spanish words "tres" and "lenguas" meaning "three tongues."

Several hundred dedicated chili cooks have been converging on Terlingua since 1967 to prove they are indeed the best chili cooks in the world! Live music, showmanship displays, skits and costuming are also crowd pleasers which draw thousands of spectators. The event has become a household word throughout the world, and the Woodstock of the chili generation.

A lifelong friend of ours, Rick Poston from Paris, Texas, has been competing in chili cookoffs across the state for several years.

In 1990, my husband, Chuck, and I traveled to the Terlingua contest with Rick and his wife, Teddie, who is also a competitive chili cook. Chuck and I had the honor of serving as judges that year. While Rick's efforts were unrewarded that first year, his determination and dedication to chili culture paid off eventually.

Saturday, he won 7th place in competition against 276 of the best chili cooks in the world! Rick also entered the bean cookoff where he made the Final Table.

Congratulations to our "Chilihead" friend. Rick was kind enough to share his winning recipe with The Big Spring Herald.

Flute and harp soloists join orchestra Symphony concert on tap for Saturday night

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Special to the Herald

Mozart's "Concerto for Flute, Harp and Orchestra in C Major, K. 299" will be featured in the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra's second performance of the season at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Soloists will be Mary York of Abilene flute, and Shana Norton, of Austin, harp. Conductor is Gene Charter Smith.

The program will open with "Overture to Fidelio," Beethoven. After intermission, the orchestra will return with "Symphony No. 6 in F Major (opus 68)," popularly known as "The Pastorale," in five movements.

Norton holds a degree in music from Abilene Christian University, and studied with Ailene Malone at Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. She is a regular soloist with the Abilene Philharmonic Orchestra, Mid/Texas Symphony, Brazos Valley Symphony, and plays second harp with the San Antonio Symphony.

She also plays with a flute/harp Latin American duo, "Chaski," which tours Texas.

York is an adjunct instructor of flute at Hardin-Simmons University and a member of the Logsdon Chamber Ensemble. She was previously principal flute of the Peoria (Ill.) Symphony, and has appeared as a soloist with that orchestra.

She completed her master's degree in flute in 1990 at the St. Louis Conservatory of Music where she studied with Jacob Berg. She also studied with Anne Deiner Giles and Roger S. Stevens at the University of Southern California and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

She has performed with the Santa Barbara Chamber Orchestra, Long Beach Civic Light Opera, Springfield (Ill.) Symphony and has participated in flute master classes with such artists as Carol Wincenc, James Pellerite and others.

Following Saturday's performance, Big Spring Symphony concerts will include: Feb. 27, orchestra with the winner of the 34th annual Hemphill-Wells Sorantin Scholarship Award; March 15, Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra; April 17, Fiesta Pops with guest artist Anacani of the Lawrence Welk Show.

Local nightclub to host Tierra Tejana Saturday

Tierra Tejana will perform in the Big Spring Saturday.

The eight piece Onda Tejana orchestra was awarded their first gold record in 1991 for "Las Hijas de Don Simon," representing a one-half million albums sold in the U.S.

The group, formed by Frank, Joe, Jesse, Lupo and Mike Gonzales in 1962, started as "The Miracles from Segun." Pete joined them when he was 4 years old, becoming the youngest professional Tejana artist.

The new name arrived in 1977, when Frank and Joe Gonzales left the band. Members now include Lupo Gonzales, his twin brother Jesse, who plays saxophone and keyboards; Mike on the drums; Pete on lead vocals; Lupo, Salinas, and Randy Lalame on trumpets; Raymond "Mo" Rangel on bass guitar and Gene Fitch on saxophone.

Their television appearances are too numerous to name, but include the Johnny Canales Show and Ablando. Their most recent album is "Time to Celebrate."

The album sold 3,500 copies before it was released. In all they've released 21 albums, and more than 60 singles.

Now the group is on tour, covering California, Washington, Oregon, New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Colorado and New York.

Saturday's Big Spring show begins at 8 p.m. at Los Amigos, 1-20 West. Tickets are $8 in advance, $10 at the door. Advance tickets are available at the following locations:

Marquez TV, Jimmy Marin Exxon, Tony Dominguez Texaco, David Dominguez One Stop and La Favorita. For more information, contact the advance ticket locations.

Members of the Onda Tejana orchestra Tierra Tejana will perform in Big Spring Saturday. Their most recent album, "Time to Celebrate," produced a gold record for the band, now recognized as one of the greats of Tejana music.

Donahue: 25 years of talk

By THOMAS D. ELIAS
Scripps Howard News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Phil Donahue has heard all the accusations about "tabloid" talk shows like his that put "bizarre" subjects on the air.

But through 25 years of doing live television, he never has accepted the complaint.

"I'd have to ask the critics which show was really bizarre," he says, raising an eyebrow. "When we put a gay guy on in 1967, people said we were bizarre. When we put a Vietnam War protester on, we were called bizarre. Bizarre is a word we use to describe people with whom we politically disagree."

Donahue fans and critics get a rare chance to review both the bizarre and the glitzy at 8 p.m. CST Sunday, when NBC-TV airs a 25th anniversary Donahue special.

Among the guests: Jay Leno, David Letterman, Diane Sawyer, Gloria Steinem, Mike Wallace, Charles Grodin and Phil Hartman.

The guest list also includes a who's who of talk-show hosts who owe their six- and seven-figure incomes to the genre Donahue pioneered: Oprah Winfrey, Montel Williams, Jenny Jones, Larry King, Maury Povich, Geraldo Rivera, Joan Rivers, Sally Jessy Raphael and Dr. Ruth Westheimer.

"This will be a front-row seat at our culture of the last 25 years," says the 56-year-old Donahue, whose program started on a local station in Dayton, Ohio.

Donahue never dreamed he was starting a 25-year gig when he went before his first studio audience. "We had no expectations," he says.

Dare to entertain youth

Special to the Herald

GEORGE DARE and the American Business Club will present George Dare in concert Tuesday.

Admission is free for a series of events, including 3:30 a.m. at San High School, 10:30 a.m. at Spring High School Auditorium, 1 p.m. at Rumels Junior High and Gohard Middle School.

Dare's musical message is aimed at getting students to believe in themselves, encouraging them to dream and resist the temptation of substance abuse and gangs.

Dare actively involves his audience in the presentation.

He has performed with many celebrities. He also composes music, including the themes for the 1987 Oscar Award trophy exhibition, the city of Las Vegas and International Firefighters.

GEORGE DARE

He is sought as a keynote speaker for various engagements, adults and young people.

Boy grieving for pet finds comfort in letter

DEAR ABBY: I am a 9-year-old boy with a problem I can't ask anybody else about.

I had a pet parakeet who died last week. I had named him "Prettyboy." I cried when I found him lying at the bottom of his cage with his little feet sticking straight up in the air.

Everytime I tell somebody about losing Prettyboy, I start to cry. Then they laugh at me and say, "He was only a bird."

Abby, Prettyboy was not just any old bird. He was my best friend and I had him for nearly three years. He was one of a pair, but his mate died. Prettyboy was smart, too. He figured out how to pick the lock on his cage, but he never left his cage but one time after my mother scolded him for flying around the house and soiling everything in writing) about a problem -- instead of keeping it bottled up inside of you -- tends to heal your heart and make you feel better.

DEAR ABBY: Having just read the letter in your column about small children getting lost in department stores, I just had to write and tell you about my daughter, Kathy.

Many years ago, when Kathy was 3 1/2 years old, I took her with me to a large hardware store. While I was busy looking through a bin of small tools for an item I needed, I suddenly realized that Kathy was gone from my side.

As I walked through the aisles looking for her, I was startled to hear my name called over the public address system:

"Attention, please. Will Louise

Drelling please come to the register!"

I hurried to the register, and there I saw little Kathy standing beside the cashier. The cashier whispered in my ear: "Your child came over here and said, 'Will you please call Louise Drelling on the loudspeaker?' She is my mother and she's just..."

LOUISE A. DRELLING, FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CALIF.

P.S. Abby, "little" Kathy is now 19, and in her third year of college.

DEAR MRS. DRELLING: In her third year of college at 19? Not surprising. Thanks for sharing a delightful memory.

DEAR READERS: Today is Veterans Day -- the day we honor the men and women who have served our country in the Armed Forces. Originally called Armistice Day, it marked the end of World War I on Nov. 11, 1918. It was declared a legal holiday in 1938, and in 1954, the name was changed to Veterans Day to honor all of America's veterans.

Our Canadian neighbors also celebrate Nov. 11, calling it Remembrance Day.

Jacqueline Bigar

FOR THURSDAY, NOV. 12, 1992

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Creative endeavors allow you to open up a friendship. Focus on your needs and be more upbeat about your goals. You need to be responsive to an older friend. Experiment with new ideas. Tonight: Swap jokes with a friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Create a stronger bond with a loved one. Be more in tune with your professional status, and accept responsibility at work. You are able to make an impact on a key boss or co-worker. Use care with expenditures. Tonight: Out and about.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): No complaints are allowed today, even if you have to do more than your share in a creative venture. A phone call could change your mood. Do remember, you are in command to answer to another and explain your point of view. Question what is going on with a boss or co-worker. Tonight: Try to leave work on time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be more private about a friendship or an important relationship. You negotiate a new agreement because of your ability to be vulnerable and open with an associate. Go for exactly what you want. Tonight: Shhh, don't tell anyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Aim for precisely what you want, and know that a friend is really in there rooting for you. Touch base with a friend who means much to you, but who may be slightly rigid. Express your caring by helping another realize a goal. Tonight: You are the party.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are worn out and might not be able to push as you have in the past. Be willing to answer to another and explain your point of view. Question what is going on with a boss or co-worker. Tonight: Try to leave work on time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let your more-creative side flow today. You gain a better understanding of a child or a new friend. Be willing to talk through a problem. Listen to your higher self and recognize what is fair. Tonight: Go for the fun and games.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Build a better understanding with a partner. You might be negotiating a business deal that will strengthen your position. Be more forthright with an associate and less critical of another. Keep on a one-to-one level when dealing with others. Tonight: Get in close.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Touch base with a friend who gives you guidance. You feel better after a serious talk and are able to lighten up. Sort through your invitations and follow through on your desires. Your popularity makes a big difference. Tonight: Kick up your heels.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take stock of a money matter and decide which way to go. Plunge into your work and show your stuff. Be more efficient and cut through any unnecessary red tape. Dietary resolutions made today stick. Tonight: Go to the gym and work out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your more-serious side comes out when dealing with a loved one. You might need to take a stand with a child who needs guidance. Your efforts are more worthwhile than you think. Let a more flirtatious side show. Tonight: Dance the night away.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20):

IF NOV. 12 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Be less critical of yourself this year. You might need to take extra time with a family situation. Pay attention to your responsibilities.

THE ASTERISKS (*) SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.
