United Way donations closing on '92 goal

$214,687 collected so far

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The United Way of Big Spring-Howard County fund drive officially closed with yesterday's celebration dinner, but some work remains, said Sherrie Bordofske, executive director.

The celebration dinner at the Big Spring Country Club marks the end of the formal fund-raising drive, but donations are expected, and needed, to continue coming in, Bordofske said.

As of today, total collections in the fund drive is $214,687, or 91.36 percent of the goal of $235,000. At this period in the drive last year, however, collected donations totaled only $182,000, Bordofske said. "We're ahead, yet we're behind."

Gloria Hopkins, left, speaks to the audience as Kay McDaniel listens in the background during the celebration dinner at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday evening. As of this morning, the United Way has collected over $214,000, short of the $235,000 goal, but efforts are continuing to reach the mark.

At the dinner were about 50 United Way volunteers, contributors, board members and directors of the 10 United-Way-funded agencies, said United Way President Jeff Morris. "I'm very optimistic we will come close to, or surpass, our goal this year," Morris said.

Morris had praise for the United Way volunteers, including campaign co-chairpersons, John Toone and Kay McDaniel. "I'm really pleased. It was a really fine effort," Morris said.

Although there remains $20,209 to be collected, in order to reach the goal, some of this money is pledged, but not received as yet, Bordofske said.

"We urge those that have been given their cards to go ahead and send them in," Bordofske said. Funds collected in this drive will be allocated to 10 community service agencies within the community, beginning Jan. 1, she said.

This year's goal is the same as last year's. In last-year's drive, a total of $244,223 was collected, surpassing the goal by almost $10,000. Funds were distributed by the allocation committee to the various agencies funded under the United Way umbrella, Bordofske said.

Hearing is set
Firefighter denies cause for firing

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The September firing of city firefighter Jimmy Bertran — for failing to accept suspension in connection with alleged illegal drug use — is scheduled to have a third-party hearing Jan. 7.

Bertran, who could not be reached for comment, in a letter dated Sept. 30 rejected the suspension, requested the hearing, denied the truth of the charges as made and took exception to the legal sufficiency of the charge.

"I further state that the recommended action does not or would not fit the alleged offense," says the letter, signed by Bertran and Paul Brown, president of Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association.

It was determined by tests that Bertran ingested cocaine on or before Sept. 11 when a 1992 city fire truck he was driving was involved in a minor accident, reportedly was his fault, said Fire Chief Frank Anderson. The truck sustained about $300 in damage as Bertran backed it out of a driveway.

Bertran submitted a urine sample that day for drug testing in accordance with city policy, Anderson said. Tests at Scenic Mountain Medical Center and at a Dallas laboratory showed the presence of cocaine. A test on a urine sample taken a week later showed no presence of cocaine.

"He's not guilty," said Brown, who contends city policy was not followed correctly for drug testing. "They violated city policy," he said without going into detail.

Bertran rejected a 90-day suspension offer from Anderson that included no appeal, mandated drug testing for a year and after a year Bertran would have had to "voluntarily" place his name on the random drug screening list.

"Should you decide to reject this offer then I am exercising the maximum discipline, that of an indefinite suspension (termination) for the use of cocaine," Anderson said in a two-page letter dated Sept. 25 to Bertran.

Deciding the case will be Don B. Hayes of Texas, who was chosen by both sides from a list of seven from Texas submitted by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in Washington. "We requested that they all be from Texas so that they're familiar with all the state laws we're governed by," Anderson said.

The hearing examiner's decision is final, with no appeal available.

Folk rocker performs in Coahoma Saturday

Special to the Herald

Saturday, San Antonio singer-songwriter Ken Gaines will perform in Coahoma. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Gaines moved to Texas more than two years ago from upstate New York and he's been making a name for himself ever since in the Austin music scene and on the coffee house circuit across the country.

He performs original folk, folk-rock, and blues with occasional short stories. He writes in "personal" style reflecting the deep conflicts and humorous insights of life in America. His subject matter ranges from the plight of homeless children, to sacred and profane love, to how he wakes up in the morning.

Over the past year, Gaines has performed from Tucson to the east coast of Georgia with stops in El Paso, Kerrville, Austin, Houston, New Orleans, and southern Mississippi as well as San Antonio. In the fall he toured the northeast playing throughout New York state and Massachusetts. He has played the Tucson and San Antonio Folk Festivals as well as doing a sunset concert at this year's Kerrville Folk Festival.

Last summer, Gaines was featured in Mississippi Coast Magazine in which writer Max Biedenbarn described him as "a singer/songwriter with a beautifully clear voice and articulate guitar accompaniment. Ken has played and studied a lot of music, but it's obvious that he's also studied himself and his craft and is committed to finding what's original and at the same time universal in his experiences."

Ron Young, music critic for the San Antonio Light calls Ken "the package. . . Gaines is the one who has it all. He's a clever lyricist who builds his songs on sturdy folk-based melodies and who accompanies himself with some excellent and understated guitar work and sings in a clear and mellifluous tenor voice."

Since coming to San Antonio he has immersed himself in the new Texas songwriter scene. "There is an explosion in songwriting going on right now in this country and Texas' songwriters are at the epicenter of that explosion. It's an

Abandoned baby becomes a gift for adopted mother

Hannah Marie Angel Davis, 3, shares a laugh with adoptive brother Caleb, 1, left and adoptive mother Yvette Davis at their home in Victoria recently. Hannah was adopted by Yvette after the child was found stuffed in a shopping bag shortly after her birth in the parking lot of DeTar Hospital in September 1989.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

VICTORIA — A tragedy felt by all Victorians has turned into a gift for one.

And at the center of it all is a little girl who was found stuffed in a shopping bag in the parking lot of DeTar Hospital in September 1989. She once was known as Baby Angel, but now she's Hannah Marie Angel Davis, the healthy, happy 3-year-old daughter of Yvette Davis.

"I changed her name to Hannah because it means 'Grace of God' and I feel like it was by the grace of God that she was OK after she was abandoned. Marie is in honor of the Virgin Mary," Davis said. "I kept the name Angel because it was the only thing I can give her that her birth mother gave her. I can at least tell her her mother gave her a name."

Davis knows the child was named Angel because of a note that was left with the baby when she was abandoned.

It read, "Her name is Angel. I love her but just cannot afford to keep her. Find a good home for her."

Hannah lives with her adoptive mother, her year-old adoptive brother, Caleb, and a foster sister in a house in the Hamlet subdivision.

She takes dance lessons and gymnastics and attends Nazareth Academy Day Care Center while her mother teaches fourth grade at the school.

Davis said health is one of the first things people ask about when they learn of Hannah's origins.

In an effort to find the biological mother, the child's plight was highly publicized after she was found.

The baby was clad in a pair of booties and a diaper and was wrapped in a yellow sheet. Her umbilical cord was tied with a piece of household string, and she was placed inside a shopping bag.

Although Hannah has been healthy thus far, Davis said she would like to talk to the biological mother to get some medical history for Hannah's sake.

After Hannah was found in the parking lot, she was first placed with a foster couple.

Then, with the intent to adopt the child, Davis became her foster mother when the baby was 6-months-old. After cutting through what she said was an exhaustive amount of red tape, Davis legally adopted the child when she was 27 months old.

What Davis got was a child who recognized all the letters of the alphabet on sight, out of order, by the time she was 21 months old.

At age 3, she can recite the Pledge of Allegiance.

"And she knows her 'Our Father' and 'Hail Mary,'" her mother adds. Davis knows it's only a matter of time before her inquisitive daughter asks questions about the circumstances of her birth, and she is prepared for them.

"I've decided I can't hide anything from her, and I don't want to," Davis said, although, she adds, there isn't much to tell.

"With Caleb, I can show him pictures of his birth mother if he's interested. I know who she is. With Hannah, I can't give her that."

"But it's a happy ending to a rough beginning."

TWC develops recycling programs to help cities

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — The Texas Water Commission has put its money where its mouth is by announcing a new $4 million program to help cities develop recycling and composting programs.

"These programs are very important because in Texas today, local governments are spending over $1.2 billion to pay for the disposal of the trash that we generate," said John Hall, water commission chairman.

Hall said the program, dubbed "Clean Cities 2000," provides financial and technical assistance for 30 cities to begin recycling household and workplace trash, yard waste, used motor oil and tires.

The program also will help cities to find markets for recyclable goods, he said.

Hall said Fort Worth, Lubbock, Beaumont and Harlingen and rural areas in East Texas, Central Texas and the Panhandle have already been designated to receive funds.

More communities will be announced later, he said.

"We recognize at the Texas Water Commission that we will not be successful in our endeavors unless we actually form a strong partnership with local governments and with the private sector," Hall said.

Water Commissioner Pam Reed said the program represents a change in the way money generally flows between the commission and local governments.

"Obviously this program is a rarity because we're going to be giving money back," Reed said. "What we're announcing today is a return of millions of dollars to local governments and obviously it doesn't happen very often, and hopefully we're going to see a big return on our investment."

Fort Worth will receive $500,000, Lubbock and Beaumont will each get $400,000, Harlingen will get $350,000.

A Central Texas area of Bastrop, LaGrange, Schulenburg and Smithville will share $250,000. A Panhandle cluster of towns including Borger, Fritch, Pampa, Panhandle and Stinnett will receive $350,000 and the East Texas communities of Lufkin and Nacogdoches will split $400,000.

The program is an offshoot of the commission's Clean Texas 2000, a statewide campaign to reduce pollution.

Crude oil leak forces trailer park evacuation

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — Several dozen San Antonio residents were evacuated from their trailer homes for several hours today following an oil leak, authorities said.

As much as 300 gallons of crude oil leaked from an old well at the Lakeside Trailer Park on the city's southwest side, said Fire Chief Ralph A. Medina.

Oil from the old water well at one of the lots bubbled out about 9:30 p.m. Thursday, covering a large area with a strong petroleum smell, he said. Crews dammed up a nearby creek, dug trenches and used sand and other absorbent materials.

About 50 gallons of oil went into Indian Creek, said Medina. But the well was plugged and residents were allowed back into their homes after a large pump was used to retrieve oil.

Heavy rains had caused pressure to build up in the old well, popping a cover off, investigators said.

The fire department said crews remained at the trailer park overnight to monitor the oil spill.

New Mexico, Texas sign water study agreement

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

EL PASO — Texas and New Mexico officials have launched a joint study of regional surface water supplies in the wake of a bitter 13-year water war.

They signed an agreement here Wednesday, setting in motion the first phase of the three-part, $250,000 study of how best to provide surface water for the area's fast-spreading urban sprawl.

"Let's stop glaring at each other from across the table and get the information we need for a good solution," said New Mexico State University president James Halligan.

Las Cruces, N.M., Mayor Ruben Smith said this sort of agreement is what should have been done all along. El Paso Mayor Bill Tilney said the project creates an opportunity.

El Paso Public Service Board had sued New Mexico in 1980, seeking access to more than 96.5 billion gallons of water annually from Dona Ana County and hoping to overturn New Mexico's 1941 law barring ground-water exportation.

The 1941 law was replaced with one that said ground water could be exported under certain conditions, and federal judges ruled in New Mexico's favor in 1984. El Paso had sought to reopen the case twice without success.

Hubble Telescope views a black hole

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A photograph by the Hubble Space Telescope shows the churning center of a galaxy that may be the closest view yet of a black hole.

Walter Jaffe of the Leiden Observatory in The Netherlands announced at a NASA news conference Thursday that the photograph provides support for the theory of black holes because it shows several features that had been predicted to surround such celestial objects.

Jaffe said the picture from the orbiting Hubble telescope gives a view into the middle of a galaxy that is 10 million times more massive than the sun and that is spewing energy at a gigantic rate. "This is the best look we have ever had of the nuclear engine at the center of an active galaxy," Jaffe told reporters. "We haven't seen a black hole itself, but we're viewing as close to a black hole as we've ever seen before."

The photograph is of a galaxy called NGC4261, one of many galaxies in the grouping known as the Virgo Cluster, about 45 million light years from Earth.

Jaffe said the galaxy was studied because radio telescopes, which study invisible radiation from stars, had detected a powerful signal. That signal, he said, came from two jets of material, stretching across almost 100,000 light years, that are streaking way from the galaxy at millions of miles an hour. Such jets are thought to be a feature of black holes.

"Black hole" is the name theoreticians have given to the invisible celestial object they predict is formed after the collapse of a very large star. Matter from the star compresses and eventually becomes so dense that its gravitational force will not permit anything — not even light — to escape. Because it retains all light, a black hole cannot be seen. Astronomers for some 30 years have speculated about the existence of black holes.

Relief convoys fired on; French peacekeepers return gun fire

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Two U.N. relief convoys came under fire in Bosnia, in one case prompting French peacekeepers to shoot back, a U.N. spokesman said today.

The United Nations has authorized peacekeepers to use "aggressive defense" to block attempts to interfere with their missions, and the troops have used their weapons even before Thursday's exchanges.

The only casualty reported in the two incidents Thursday was a civilian driver. He was seriously hurt when his vehicle smashed into a British reconnaissance vehicle during an attack on a convoy returning from the eastern Bosnian city of Tuzla, said Maj. Juan Villalon of Spain.

The first attack occurred around 4 p.m. Thursday on a French escorted convoy of relief food supplies to the northwestern town of Bosanska Krupa.

Villalon said civilian workers came under fire, and French peacekeepers fired back until the shooting stopped. He had no information about the attackers.

Relief vehicles suffered slight damage, he added.

Thursday evening, a British-escorted convoy returning from the government-held city of Tuzla came under small-arms fire near Kladanj, about 30 miles north of Sarajevo. The British peacekeepers did not return fire, Villalon said.

Two weeks ago, British peacekeepers returned fire when their reconnaissance convoy came under heavy attack near Tuzla. No one was injured. About four months ago, Canadian peacekeepers returned fire at snipers in Sarajevo.

Bosnian radio carried an appeal today from citizens of eastern and southeastern Bosnia complaining that Serb militia commanders were preventing U.N. relief convoys from reaching their areas.

The appeal accused the U.N. peacekeeping force of failing to respond vigorously and asked Sarajevo citizens to refuse to accept U.N. food aid until convoys reached the Muslim enclave of Srebrenica, in a Serb-held area of eastern Bosnia.

The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees is trying to provide food to 1.6 million people throughout Bosnia, many of them displaced by the war that broke out when Bosnian Serbs rejected a Feb. 29 vote by majority Muslims and Croats to break from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia. More than 14,000 people have been killed in eight months of warfare.

Meanwhile, the UNHCR hosted a visit to Sarajevo Friday by three Hollywood personalities: actor Mike Farrell of the long-running TV series "MASH", film director Phil Robinson of "Field of Dreams" fame and scriptwriter Stephanie Liss. They said they would try to raise public interest in the Bosnian conflict when they returned to the United States.

Bush loses his mother to stroke

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — For President Bush, a time of political loss has also become a time of personal grief.

As his mother, Dorothy Walker Bush, died Thursday, the president was deep in the melancholy task of preparing to turn over the keys of government to Bill Clinton. Barbara Bush had just finished showing her home of four years to Hillary Clinton, who will have it for the next four.

The president got the news from his sister, Nancy Ellis, who called from Boston. The White House said Mrs. Bush died shortly after 5 p.m. at the family home. Her funeral will be Monday morning in Greenwich and the president will be there.

Bush had rushed to his mother's bedside in Greenwich, Conn., earlier in the day on a small Air Force executive jet after hearing of her stroke the previous night. He stayed a little more than an hour and returned to the White House.

Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater described his mood as "very sober."

Such questions as whether Bush was able to speak with his mother and whether she was aware of his presence went unanswered by the White House.

Clinton, on his way to a private dinner in Washington on Thursday evening, told reporters outside the Hay-Adams Hotel that he had just called Bush to offer his condolences.

"She was one remarkable woman, his mother," Clinton said. "Hillary and Chelsea and I met her and spent some time with her in 1983 when the governors met in Maine. Then-Vice President Bush hosted us. I know she was very proud of her son and I think she had a lot to do with him. This is a sad and difficult day for him."

Bhutto cancels protest trip

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

KARACHI, Pakistan — Ousted Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto said today that she and her supporters would travel cross-country by train to encourage people to rebel against the conservative, Islamic government.

Bhutto made the announcement shortly after calling off a rally and protest march in northern Pakistan. She said she would begin a 27-hour rail trip on Monday to win support for her allegations of government corruption and repression.

There was no immediate reaction from Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif or his government, which earlier this week barred Bhutto from the Pakistani capital, Islamabad, for 30 days for defying a ban against public protests.

Bhutto, 39, said she intended to get off the train before it reached Islamabad. "We aren't retreating. We will keep up the pressure," she said.

Bhutto had planned to lead an anti-government demonstration today in the Northwest Frontier Province and its capital, Peshawar. But late Thursday, the government banned Bhutto and her ailing mother, Nusrat, from the province for 30 days, accusing them of trying to create anarchy and invite martial law.

ATTENTION PATIENTS AND EMPLOYERS
DON'T PAY TOO MUCH FOR YOUR HEALTH CARE

"In practice for life"

Did you know that failure to compare physicians fees could result in paying more than twice as much for the same medical services offered in your community? The American Medical Association (AMA) has encouraged physicians, hospitals, and pharmacies to make available the price or their products and services so that price becomes a factor in patient selection of their healthcare provider. A recent Gallup Poll conducted for the AMA suggests that most patients do not discuss fees with their physicians before treatment, and the AMA's interpretation of these results is that healthcare consumers are making uninformed choices.

Even if you have medical insurance, higher fees mean larger co-payments, rising premiums, and a reduction in other benefits offered by your employer. Shopping around for the lowest fee is not the primary way to select your physician, but if both providers are qualified and provide the same service, it only makes sense to save both you and your employer money.

In accordance with the AMA's recommendation, below are a list of my fees for the ten most common procedures of my specialty. Fees for other services are available on request and we are always willing to explain our charges:

Repeat ultrasound	$90
Tubal ligation after delivery	$550
Abdominal hysterectomy	$1,700
Vaginal hysterectomy	$1,700
Bandaid surgery tubal ligation	$750
Abdominal hysterectomy & bladder repair	$2,000
Bandaid surgery with removal of ovary or tube for tubal pregnancy	$1,500

You could save a lot of money and still receive the highest quality healthcare services if you'd just take the time to compare physician and hospital charges. Use the money you save to hold down the cost of insurance premiums and provide your employees more benefits.

Thanks for Senior Center help

I would like to personally thank Joyce Crooker for the donation of all the marvelous Holiday Decorations and then for spending five days putting it all together to decorate the Senior Center for Christmas. Everything looks so beautiful and is enjoyed by so many people.

I would like to thank Roberta Shive for all the hours she spent putting together the Fashion Show that was presented November 17. This was the biggest event the Center has ever had. More than 300 people attended.

I want to thank the local merchants for furnishing the clothing for the models.

Thanks to the models that volunteered so much of their time to us. They all looked so pretty!

Also, I want to thank my staff and all of the volunteers that worked so hard to make the fashion show such a big success.

All of these volunteers and the time that they put in, is appreciated so much, by myself and all of the participants at the Center.

Media and Clinton are in a cat fight

Bill Clinton is angry because the press has been bothering his daughter's cat. The animal has been lured into camera range with catnip, held aloft by a TV person, surrounded by photographers, and subjected to other indignities.

And they did this despite warnings from the President-elect that the cat was off-limits.

So a strongly worded statement was issued by Clinton's spokesperson, who said: "The photographers don't have the common decency to leave a little girl's cat alone."

Clinton's anger is understandable. He is a father, and what is he to say when his daughter cries: "Daddy, why is that man holding Socks up in the air? And why are those other men poking cameras in Socks' eyes?"

I suppose he could answer: "I know, child, it is a terrible thing. But I am now the President-elect of the greatest nation on Earth. That makes me a public figure. And you are the President-elect's daughter. So you are a public figure. And Socks is the President-elect's daughter's cat. As such, Socks the cat has become a public figure. And the public has a right to know about public figures."

Which would probably prompt the daughter to ask: "The right to know what?"

And that is a difficult question to answer, unless you are a journalism professor and spend your days thinking about such weighty matters, which I'm not.

But as I understand the modern rules of journalism, a public figure forfeits all rights to privacy. The creed of today's enterprising journalism is: "A cameraman in every laundry hamper, a reporter under every bed."

In this case, though, we are talking about a cat. So the question is: Can a cat be a public figure? If so, how much does the public have the right to know about that cat?

For example, does Socks faithfully use the litter box? Or is Socks the sort of cat that sometimes causes one member of the family to shout to the others: "Be careful when you step off the bottom of the steps."

Has Socks ever stalked and killed a little tweety bird? Or torn the life from a tiny mouse?

And is Socks the sort of cat that likes to sneak out at night to roam and seek the company of cats of the opposite sex, which then leads to all sorts of loud yowling and moaning. In other words, is Socks the promiscuous sort. (This probably falls under the public's right to know, based on the Gary Hart Precedent.)

I'm sure Sam Donaldson would say these are all legitimate areas of inquiry, and he would race Dan Rather to the litter box for the answers.

But as much as I respect the public's right to know, even when it doesn't want to, I think Clinton's anger is justified.

That's because the press went beyond the legitimate forms of inquiry — frenzied pursuit and howling questions — and laid hands upon the cat.

In this case, the cat was grabbed and held aloft. And that could set a dangerous precedent.

If the cat, as a public creature, can be held aloft by a TV person, who is next? Will some enterprising reporter decide to grab Hillary Clinton, hoist her in the air, and say "whoopie" for the benefit of the viewing audience?

Will some sports columnist decide that it isn't enough to declare Mike Ditka hopelessly and homicidally insane and leap upon Ditka's back to see if he will buck like a crazed bull?

No, touching, grabbing, groping, neck biting and any other physical contact should be off-limits. Even public people and public cats should be afforded that minimal right to privacy. Of course, if a public figure invites the press to grab and grope, that's a matter of choice. And with public figures like Madonna, you never know.

So an effort should be made to reach a compromise. Clinton should try to understand the needs of the army of photographers and TV creatures who are assigned to follow him, his family, his cat and his flunkies. There are only so many pictures they can take of him in that goofy jogging outfit, buying a munchy at the local McDonald's.

They should be given the opportunity to occasionally snap pictures of the cat, ask the cat questions, and record its pitiful meows.

But it should be made clear to them that they are not to touch the cat unless they are invited to do so, which is unlikely, although an exception might be made for Larry King.

And one other small piece of advice for Clinton: Buy the kid a Doberman or a pit bull.

Gather round! Grunt your territorial imperative and rejoice in the burly proplastic grandeur that is manlyman!

While Gary is off somewhere hand painting Old World Santa Claus figurines, or some other pansy thing, I'll discuss proper behaviors to perform and pitfalls to avoid lest someone doubt your masculinity (manlymanhood) during the holiday season.

Please turn to page 4310 in your Manlymanual.

With Thanksgiving just around the corner, the true, testosterone-laden manlyman must be properly able to carve a turkey.

After one's girlygirl has spent the last 48 hours preparing Thanksgiving dinner, including the avian carcass in question, the manlyman will be called upon for the most important Thanksgiving duty.

Only when one's dining table is properly filled with holiday favorites, and time for the feasting has come, does the true manlyman become involved. All are seated about the table as one's girlygirl brings the only cooking utensil a manlyman owns — a large, stainless steel knife with a serrated edge (Also useful for skinning cats, but there are other ways).

Insist this knife be brought out on a satin pillow, ceremonially held at the manlyman's right hand.

Caution: Anyone showing uncertainty or inability during the carving phase might fall into the contemptible category of girlyman. Girlymen, of course, are stripped of their hunting privileges, forbidden public belching and prohibited from performing the "I'm definitely heterosexual" frown while in a locker room.

The secret to turkey carving (for the younger manlymen) is to carve the breast in a straight plane, keeping the knife blade parallel, and the cut about 45 degrees tangential to the breast bone.

It is common to begin carving a concave pattern into the breast. This, however, keeps the slices from laying flat on the plate, leaving one's friends and family to (gasp!) question one's manlymanhood.

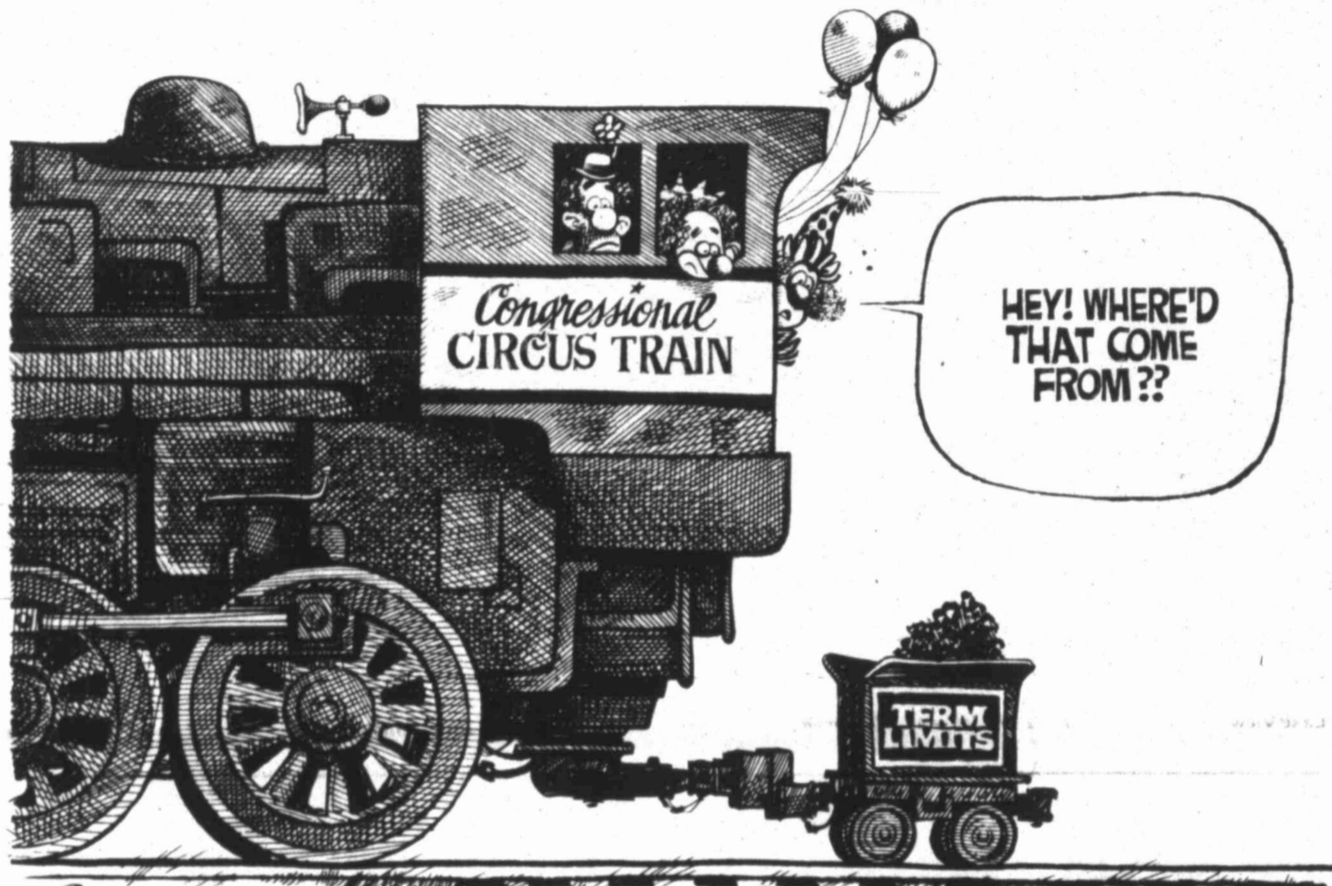

The rest of the turkey is for leftovers, so carving is not a problem. Just wing it, so to speak.

Now it's time to sit and consume one's bountiful feast — until one is almost sick.

At this point, the true manlyman, by virtue of his cosmic significance, will adjourn to the couch with his fellow manlymen, take in a little football and a nap, awaken about 4 p.m. and fix a turkey sandwich. One's girlygirl should have the dishes done by then.

Next time: How to find a new girlygirl without showing any real emotions. A piece entitled, "I Am a Fighter Pilot — Trust Me."

Gays in military a problem

By LEONARD LARSEN Scripps Howard News Service

WASHINGTON — It's suggested — even by President-elect Clinton himself — that the last remaining opponents to homosexuals in the military are fuddy-duddies in Congress and the military along with homophobic crazies of the Christian right, their minds clouded by misinformation, macho myths and superstitions.

Clinton, whose closest brush with the military came in a long-ago exchange of letters with ROTC officers who somehow got the mistaken impression he was joining up, insists the critics are wrong and he is right and he will lift the ban against gays and lesbians serving in the military.

Nobody — not Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, not retired Adm. William Crowe, the former chairman and a Clinton campaign supporter, not Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, not anybody — will deter him, Clinton has made clear.

And, all the fuddy-duddies to the contrary notwithstanding, Clinton's declaration that he'll stick with his campaign promise has been universally praised by politically correct groups and individuals whose military experience and insights are about the equal of Clinton's.

The only cloud over the prospect of the bright new day of gay rights in the American military might be that Clinton's supporters on this issue are, for the most part, strangers to the nation's military.

Career activists, urban reformers, marchers in whatever god cause needs a champion, liberated women and men, AIDS demonstrators, a fair number of members of Congress and the trailing media band most assuredly represent a cross section of America.

But, also most assuredly, that collection is not a cross section of the American military, most of whose recruits still come from blue-collar and rural America, from state universities and community colleges, from urban ghettos and unprivileged suburbia and bring with them long traditions of upbringing and belief.

And however exasperating it may be to the activists and the causists who are otherwise hostile or indifferent to the military, a part of that belief — right or wrong — is that homosexuality is unnatural, a disgusting abomination to be shunned.

What Clinton and activists for military homosexual "rights" might come to learn is that opponents on this question number more than myth-ridden fuddy-duddies and religious cuckoos.

It's said repeatedly and it's no doubt true that thousands, maybe tens of thousands, of homosexuals are already in the military, hiding their sexuality but often known and tolerated by co-workers and superiors.

So, it's asked, where's the harm in a Clinton policy reversal that would allow homosexuals "out of the closet" and even welcome homosexual enlistments in the military?

The harm is that other young men and women recruited to careers in the military would be unwilling to serve in intimate surroundings with openly homosexual personnel and they would refuse to join or they'd quit the services.

The harm is that openly homosexual men and women in the military would be subject to a continuing hostility, verbal harassment and worse, a serious and continuing cruelty that could produce a new military segregation in which homosexuals worked and lived apart from the "straights."

Beyond any power of Clinton to undo it is the reality that open homosexuality — whether prancing drag queens or same-sex couples dancing in the officers club or homosexuals demonstrating to assert their rights — is too much to ask of the American military.

It's not a question of fairness. It's common sense.

Clinton has said he'll "consult with a lot of people" before he ends the ban. Hopefully, one or another of the consultants will remind Clinton that the military's function is not as some vast sociological laboratory.

He might be reminded that the basic role of the military is to protect the nation as the instrument of American foreign policy, to threaten the use of force, in some cases to use force and, ultimately, to obey orders to go to war.

Lady Steers, Lady Hawks win classic openers

Cook leads BSBS to 1st victory

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Big Spring Lady Steers basketball coach Ron Taylor is glad he's got the first one out of the way. Now he and his team can go on to something else.

The Lady Steers won their first game of the season, defeating the Cisco Lady Lobos 58-47 in the opening round of the Howard College Crossroads Tournament at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The outcome gives both teams 1-1 season records. The Lady Steers play Jayton tonight at 6, with the winner going to the championship game on Saturday.

"We made a lot of mistakes, but it's like I asked the kids at halftime — they felt the pressure of needing to win," said Taylor. "When you put that much pressure on yourself, more than likely you're going to make a lot of mistakes. Basically what we did is we finally settled down."

The Lady Steers were paced by senior point guard Casey Cook, who turned in a fine all-around game. Cook finished the contest with 20 points, 10 rebounds and five assists.

Junior post player Amy Earnst rebounded from a 0-for-10 shooting night against Midland High in Tuesday's opener with 14 points and nine rebounds. Leslie Fryar and Bernie Valles followed with eight points each.

Leading 11-10 after the first quarter of play, the Lady Steers got the upper hand with a 11-0 run in the second quarter. After Cisco's Treva Webb tied the game at 17-17 with a three-point play, Big Spring's run began. Fryar started it with a three-pointer, which was followed by a basket and two free throws by Cook.

After several Cisco turnovers, Big Spring continued with two free throws each by Earnst and Fryar. Underwood, giving Big Spring a 28-17 lead with 1:23 left in the half. Big Spring went in at halftime leading 32-22.

The Lady Lobos scored the first six points of the second half to cut the deficit to 32-28. Cook cooled the rally however, with a short jumper and a three-pointer. The Lady Steers led 45-35 going into the final quarter.

Cisco pulled to within 47-43 early in the fourth when Ginger Rhyme hit an outside shot. The Lady Steers responded with two foul shots by Valles, a basket by Underwood and two baskets by Earnst. Big Spring was in command with a 55-43 lead with 3:40 left.

"Cisco played well, they got after us," said Taylor. "Another thing you have to look at is they (Cisco) have been in the gym 15 weeks, or however long school has been going on. We didn't give them very many second shots, Midland High killed us with three and four shots. I'll take it. We needed that win."

Defeat of Grayson makes HC 7-0

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Royce Chadwick wanted to see how his team would respond against a competitive opponent. If his Howard College Lady Hawks' performance was indicative of what's to come, the Lady Hawks will do just fine.

Howard ran its record to 7-0 by thumping the Grayson County College Lady Vikings 81-53 on opening night of the Howard College Classic at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Howard dominated the game from start to finish as Grayson fell to 1-5. The defending Northern Junior College Athletic Conference champions were overwhelmed by a Howard team that shot 61 percent from the floor in the first half.

The Lady Hawks shot well throughout the game, finishing the contest making 54 percent of their shots from the floor and 83 percent (15 of 18) from the foul line.

"I was pleased," said Chadwick. "The first 20 minutes was the best we've played all year long. If we keep that up we'll be all right."

The Lady Hawks' man-to-man defense set the tone in the first half as Howard sophomore guards Yumeca White and LeKisha Wiley and freshman forward Becky Barnes constantly forced Grayson ball handlers into turnovers. The trio combined for 12 steals, with Barnes' five topping the list. "Becky has played well all season. She always seems to have her hands on the ball. She's always there," said Chadwick of the Roscoe product.

"If Lekisha is the top guard (in the country), Yumeca is right behind her. All three of them played the point tonight, and they all played great."

The closest Grayson came to Howard was 5-2 early in the game. Howard then went on a 13-4 spurt in a six minute span to take an 18-6 lead with 13:40 left in the first half.

The Lady Hawks concluded the half with Barnes blocking a shot by Danille Paley, resulting in Wiley feeding White for a layup. Charlene Payton and Vernetra Allen finished things with two free throws each. Howard led 48-28 at the half.

The fast start enabled Chadwick to play everyone and reserve post player Angel Spinks made the most of it. The freshman from Houston scored 12 points and got seven rebounds. White led all Howard scorers with 15 points. Annette Robinson, a freshmen post player from Killeen, had 12 points and seven rebounds. Wiley had 11 points and 10 assists. Barnes scored 10 points and had five assists, and Allen came off the bench and scored eight points.

Grayson reserve guard Candice Forsgren kept the game from getting totally out of hand with her outside shooting. Forsgren made her first five shots and finished the game with 14 points. Kireen Ellis also scored 14 points for the Lady Vikings.

"Our post players really played good against some big kids," said Chadwick. "We didn't play that bad in the second half, it's just that Grayson played a little bit better."

The Lady Hawks play Blim College tonight at 8.

Fort Hancock no simple task for Borden County

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Borden County Coyotes coach Bobby Avery has it all figured out when it comes to beating the Fort Hancock Mustangs in six-man area play Saturday night at 7 p.m. in Monahans.

Avery has it narrowed down to two major tasks — control the ball on offense and stop Fort Hancock running back Vicente Ramirez. Sounds simple enough. Then you consider that Fort Hancock is the defending state champion and hasn't been beaten in 67 games, which includes four consecutive state championships.

Avery is not shirking from his task. Like many of his peers throughout the state, they feel this year may be the end of Fort Hancock's dominance. Fort Hancock coach Danny Medina says he can see why they feel that way.

"We're having to use a lot of freshmen and sophomores, and in the years before we had seniors," said Medina. "Before, we could 45-point everybody in the district. This year we couldn't. The district was tougher, the competition was tougher. "The kids have been taking their lumps and bruises, they've been learning. I was hoping they would learn from their mistakes, and they have."

Medina is starting two freshmen and one sophomore on defense and two freshmen on offense. His key reserves are freshmen and sophomores.

But what the District 8 champions do have is Ramirez, called "Cheetah" by his teammates. Ramirez is easily the best six-man running back in the state. This year alone he's rushed for more than 3,000 yards and passed for more than 1,000 yards. In his last game two weeks ago, he rushed for 478 yards against Dell City.

"A lot of that credit goes to Brent Henderson," said Medina of his quarterback. Henderson moved to QB from the blocking back position he played last year. "He's doing a tremendous job, he made the transition well." Medina said that blocking back Jesus Cordero has filled in well in his first season starting at the position.

Borden County's answer to Ramirez is senior tailback Clint

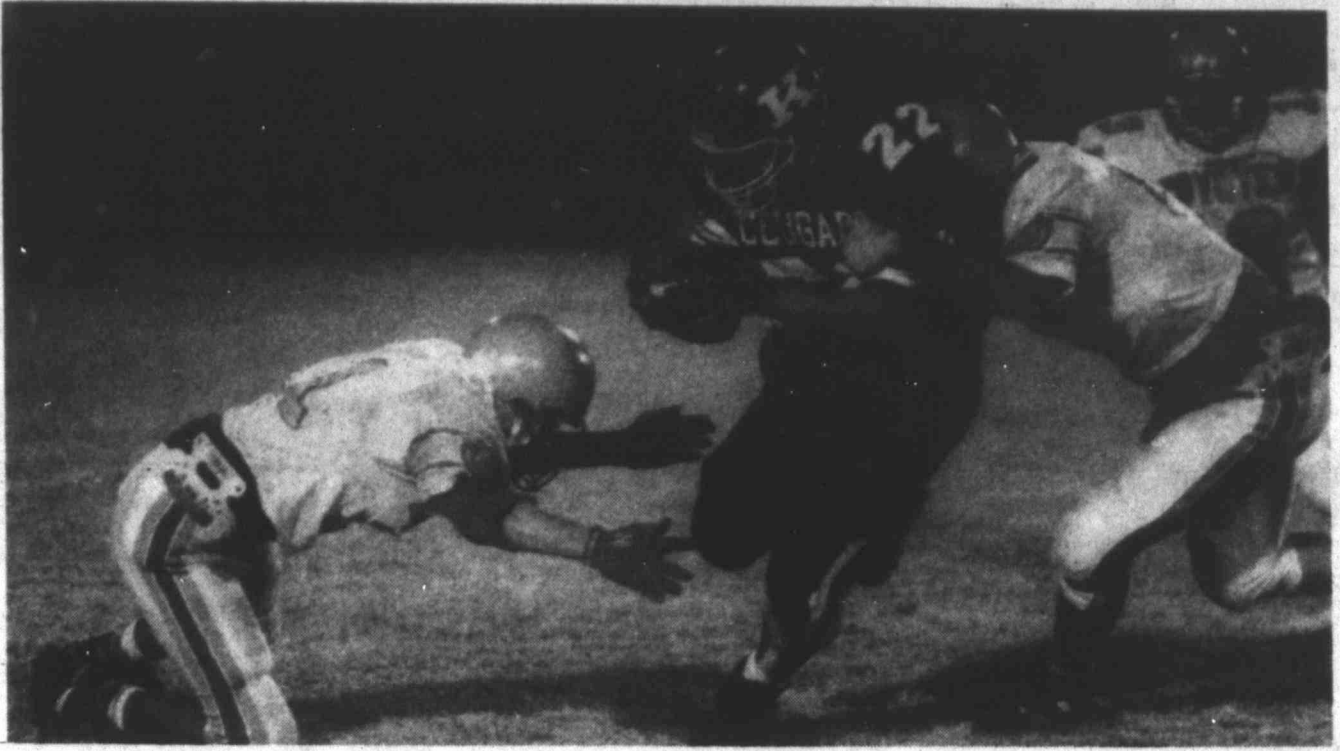

Wills, who's rushed for 2,261 yards and passed for 342 more. Last week in a 63-20 bi-district win over Klondike, he rushed for 156 yards in one half's work.

Medina said Borden County's physical strength worries him. "They're a good sized group of kids that strong," he said. "They've got a good running back. I hope we don't get beat at the line of scrimmage, they will be trouble."

"They'll try to keep the ball away and grind it out. We've got to step it up on defense and make some key plays."

Medina hit the nail right on the head, listening to Coach Avery. "We've got to control the ballgame," he said. "I think we will be able to make five yards a carry. We have to be patient, take five yards anyway when we can get it. We want to take the ball away from them. We don't want to get into passing situations."

"The other key is stopping Vincente Ramirez. He's fast, quick and has a good head on him. We've got to make him pass, but he can be lethal with the pass, too. When he gets caught in the backfield he'll dish the ball off real quick, they'll

Reagan Co. faces No. 1 Southlake Carroll

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Reagan County coach Sam Harrell doesn't want his players to fear Southlake Carroll, but he knows a healthy measure of respect is necessary going into this week's playoff game against Class 3A's No. 1 team.

"On film it seems like other teams get overwhelmed and give up. We just may not have enough sense to know any better," Harrell said.

Carroll (11-0) enters Friday night's game against Reagan County (11-0) after finishing its sixth consecutive undefeated season. The Dragons are seeking their second state title in five seasons.

"We're removed from Metroplex so we know who they are, but we don't hear about their record every day and get bombarded by it," Harrell said.

Their 3A battle is one of several highly anticipated games for the area round of the playoffs. Although it's only the second of five games needed for a state title, this weekend's results should clear up the roads to the seven championships.

Several opposing coaches and other experienced observers call the Dragons a "machine-like" team. They seldom make mistakes and seem to always capitalize on the ones they force opponents to commit.

"Something has to be done to get them out of their routine. Of course, they're also good at getting you out of yours," Harrell said.

Carroll's only unknown quality is whether it can come from behind. The Dragons haven't been tested this season because they've seldom, if ever, been down.

"We hope to be right in there with them late in the third quarter," said Harrell, whose Owls overcame a 14-0 halftime deficit last week.

After 26 years Trujillo's body returned home

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — A Marine Corps bugler played taps over Joseph Trujillo's flag-draped coffin, 26 years after the gunnery sergeant was killed by an exploding mine in Vietnam.

The remains of Trujillo, who was 20 when he died, were brought Thursday to northern California. They were returned to the United States in June by the Vietnamese following their discovery during joint U.S.-Vietnamese field investigations.

About 200 spectators, including representatives of local veterans groups and a Marine honor guard, attended the brief ceremony on the Tarmac at the air base 45 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Solemn marines in full-dress uniforms carried Trujillo's coffin from the hold of a C-141 Air Force transport. An honor guard presented colors and military spectators saluted Trujillo's coffin as it passed.

Trujillo, from Deming, N.M., was killed on Sept. 13, 1966, while he was in the field with a detachment in Quang Nam Province.

The Air Force said Trujillo, a lance corporal who was promoted posthumously to gunnery sergeant, "was lost when a mine exploded in the vicinity of the unit with which he was operating."

Trujillo was identified through dental records at a military laboratory in Hawaii. The remains were released by the Vietnamese on June 1.

His casket was flown Thursday to northern California from Hawaii.

According to the Air Force, Trujillo is the 319th American previously reported missing in Southeast Asia to be accounted for.

In Florida, a Jacksonville woman has learned the fate of her husband shot down nearly 23 years ago over Laos.

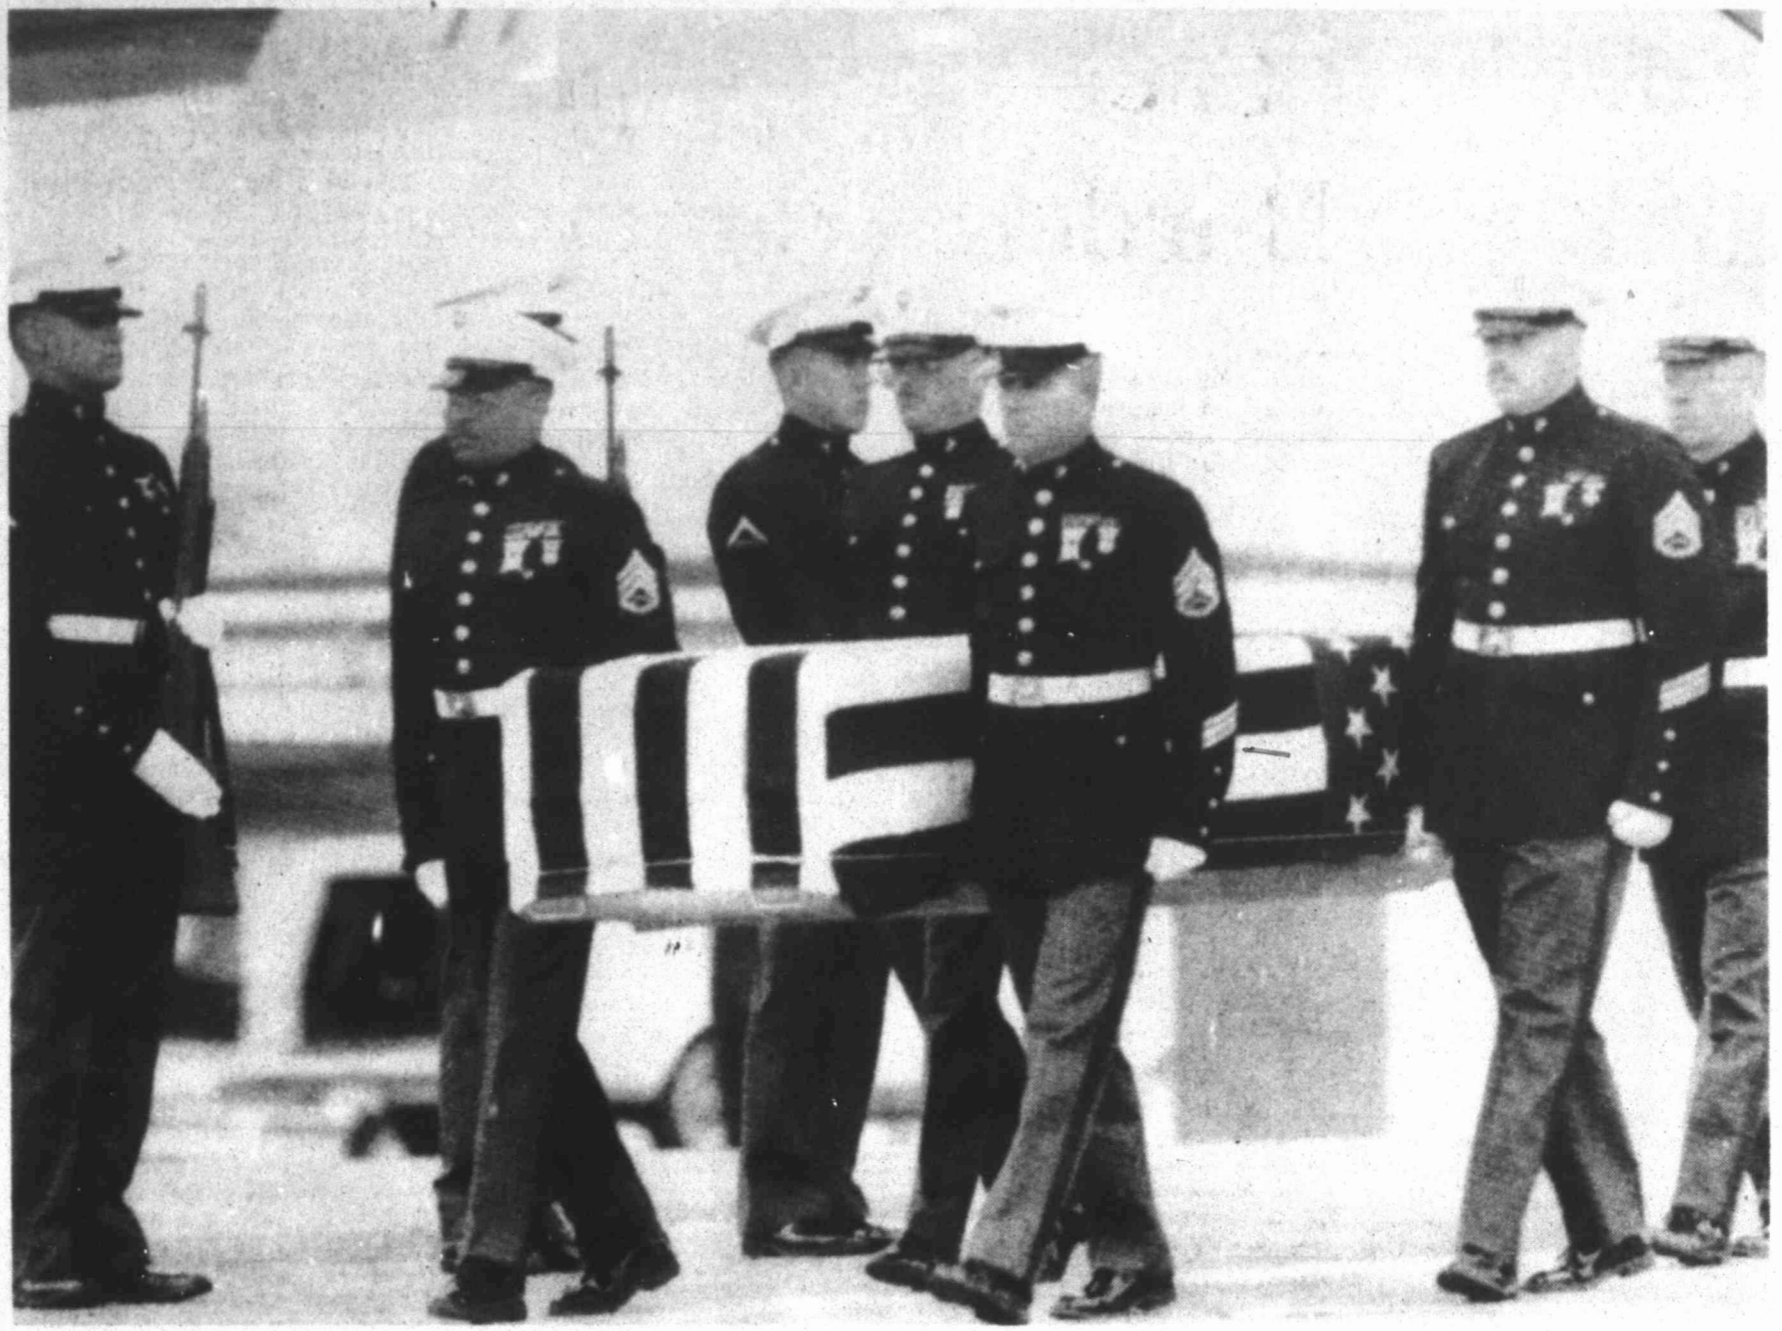

Mary Hoff got a letter Saturday from the Navy telling her a U.S.-Laotian team in June investigated a crash site near the Ho Chi Minh Trail. It said the team learned that her husband, Cmdr. Michael G. Hoff, was killed when his plane was hit and his parachute failed to fully open when he ejected.

"I feel now that it's almost a blessing to know. That last thread of hope has been severed," Mrs. Hoff told The Florida Times-Union on Wednesday.

The letter told her the body was found by villagers who stripped off its clothing and boots to trade for rice. The body was left in a bamboo thicket and was not buried. The team plans to return and search for Hoff's remains.

Hoff, who was 33 when he died, was on a secret attack mission over Laos on Jan. 7, 1970, when his A-7 Corsair was hit by anti-aircraft fire.

An estimated 2,264 Americans, most of them reported lost in Vietnam, remain missing.

A Marine honor guard carries the flag draped coffin containing the remains of Marine Gunnery Sgt. Joseph Trujillo to a waiting hearse from Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii. Trujillo, of Deming Luna, N.M., was killed by a mine in 1966 while with a special forces team in Quang Nam Province, Vietnam.

Alaska's wolf kill plan to be fought

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — The state plans to kill wolves to boost caribou and moose populations over 20,000 square miles of wilderness and create an attraction for tourists akin to the African Serengeti.

The state Board of Game approved the plan Wednesday, but conservation groups said shooting wolves from helicopters isn't necessary and isn't good science.

The Alaska Wildlife Alliance said the number of caribou and moose in two targeted areas southeast of Fairbanks could be increased over time if the state allowed nature to run its course.

"This won't end here," said Stephen Wells, associate director of the alliance. "A lot of people are outraged."

The group was considering lawsuits and pursuit of federal anti-wolf control legislation.

Chris Smith, Fairbanks regional supervisor for the state Division of Wildlife Conservation, said the wolf kill will begin next year and last three to five years.

For decades, private hunters have been allowed to kill gray wolves elsewhere in Alaska, but the state kill, to be done by wildlife managers, is a "fairly dramatic management action and not a step we're taking lightly," Smith said.

WASHINGTON — President-elect Clinton wooed Washington much as he courted the voters, mixing down-home symbolism with lofty talk of the nation's goals as he walked both the streets and the corridors of power.

In just two days, Clinton managed to touch a broad swath of the power spectrum. He visited with President Bush, lunched with congressional leaders, consulted with the nation's top military man and attended a tony Georgetown social gathering.

He also rubbed elbows with people on an urban business strip and talked to a homeless man at a downtown McDonald's.

"He's a different kind of president ... and that's the way it's going to be throughout the administration," promised spokesman George Stephanopoulos.

WASHINGTON — The United States and the 12-nation European Community failed once again to resolve a bitter farm trade fight, but both sides insist they are getting closer to a breakthrough.

Officials said negotiators would meet again soon, after they had time to review the latest proposals put on the table before the talks broke off Thursday.

Both sides are facing a Dec. 5 deadline for resolving the dispute. Without agreement by then, the Bush administration has said it will begin imposing a 200 percent import tax on $300 million worth of European products, primarily white wine.

They allow songwriters to work up new material for an appreciative audience and also allow newcomers to cut their teeth on performing."

"I've watched shy, inexperienced people develop into seasoned writers and performers in a period of as little as a year. The spirit that surrounds those performances is very precious. There is also a blossoming of small coffeehouses and house concerts across the country that are bringing songwriters to listening audiences in an intimate setting. As far as I'm concerned it's the way this type of music is supposed to be presented."

Gaines' first release, No One Else, a live concert album.

Police beat

An eight-year-old girl received minor injuries Tuesday when a school bus was hit at 4th and U.S. 80 by a two-door Dodge Colt driven by Elva Perkins, 27, of Big Spring, the Big Spring Police Department reported. Two other children were on the bus.

Perkins was traveling east on Fourth, changed lanes "when unsafe" and struck the bus on the side as it was being turned onto U.S. 80, police said.

The same day, in an unrelated vehicle accident, two women received minor injuries when one back-ended the other as she was stopped for a school bus loading children on Westover. The driver of vehicle that failed to stop said she didn't see the bus, which had flashing lights enacted.

Members of Howard College's Baptist Student Union meet each week for lunch, conversation and fellowship.

Baptist Student Union

Bible study, friendship for HC students

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

For Howard College students who want to keep faith in God and Christian principles alive during their two years at school, there is a way.

The Baptist Student Union, open to young men and women of all Christian denominations, meets each week and sponsors numerous activities throughout the year. Mostly student-led, it relies heavily on the coordination of David Roberts, pastor of Garden City First Baptist Church.

"Students are the leaders and organizers," Roberts explained. "They have a regular prayer group, a fine arts team for music and drama, a co-ed Bible study, and we have Thursday lunches together."

Members said they like BSU for a variety of reasons — with fellowship foremost.

"I've been involved in church activities since I was big enough to go to church," said Laura Love. "I like having Christian friends that I can be around. And I feel like it's an organization for a good cause."

'I like having Christian friends that I can be around.'

Laura Love
BSU member

Shirrel Brumley got into BSU on the advice of a friend. She had been looking for a group that would share the gospel.

"I enjoy the people in it, and the things we do," Brumley said. "I'm excited to be around people that have the love for Jesus that I do."

Roberts said BSU's members this year include some Catholics, Charismatics and others. Although supported by the Baptist General Convention of Texas, the group is not limited to Baptist membership.

"BSU is important because there's nothing else on the campus really to facilitate spiritual growth," Roberts said. He added many young people need support during college — often a time of questioning their values.

"Most kids here are from small towns, they've never questioned things too much. They get here, and they start questioning."

The group, members say, is not like a church. In fact, Roberts said he encourages them to be part of a local church along with their activities in BSU.

Members occasionally take an outing together, such as bowling. They went on a combined retreat with a group from Alpine earlier this year and attended a leadership training conference.

Brumley said the group has allowed her to use her talents and interests. She formed "Faith," a religious-oriented singing and performance group, this year.

BSU mainly recruits through freshmen orientation, but Roberts said they are always looking for new members and interested students.

Roberts said fellowship and sharing of faith are important, but the group may serve another purpose.

"Most Baptists who decide to go into full-time church careers decide in college," Roberts said. "This could be a way to that."

Rotary ready for cultural exchanges

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Sending local residents to experience the culture of other countries breaks down barriers and opens eyes to diversity, said Murray Murphy, Rotary youth exchange counselor.

Rotary District 5730 has kicked off another year of its youth exchange program with three local youth vying for a chance to spend summers in various foreign countries.

The program is a part of a worldwide effort through Rotary International. Both local clubs are involved.

"At the present time, we've sent applications to the district out-bound chairman" who is reviewing the applications in preparation for district-wide interviews on Dec. 5, Murphy said.

The local contenders are Chris Bongers, Leslie Fryar and Tina Hilario, all Big Spring High School students.

Bongers said, "I want to meet new friends, experience the customs, and see the good and bad points. The best part is I would get to bring somebody back to experience the United States."

Lee George, district chairman for the program, said, "In both exchanges, they gain a maturity of international travel. They gain an understanding of a different culture. They gain a lot of independence."

In the upcoming school year, Big Spring will host a student from Ukraine, Murphy said. "That's very select and there are a limited number of those students able to come over."

Both George and Murphy said the standards of local youth in contrast to those in Europe is an enlightening experience for participants.

"Basically, having a student come into our community that's very conservative, it may be hard for them adjust," Murphy said. "Big Spring has host families that are caring and accepting of these kids."

The Rotary district estimates sending about 20 students from Amarillo to Odessa for summer and year-long exchanges, George said.

The criterion for youths ages 15 to 18 includes being in the top 50 percent of their classes.

George said, "We determine if they're good kids through the interviews and with recommendations." Eligible students will be chosen in January.

Show is success

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

About 300 local residents turned out Tuesday for the second fashion show of the year at Spring City Senior Citizens Center in Industrial Park.

"It was just like the shows we used to have when the base was here," said Roberta Shive, leader for the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's senior council. A veteran of 18 fashion shows during the heyday of Webb Air Force Base, Shive was well-rehearsed for Tuesday's event.

The show was much appreciated by those who attended — and many did.

"We got there early, and the lines were very long to get in," said Marae Brooks, conventions and visitors bureau director. "The food was wonderful and the building was just beautiful."

Twelve models showed holiday clothes from local stores, including Carlisle, Casual Shop, Connie's, The Look, Tom Boy, Bojangles and Maxine's Fashions.

"I named the show, 'Holiday Fashions,'" Shive said. "We found things that looked like Christmas or Thanksgiving, things they could enjoy wearing during the holidays."

Helen Green entertained on the piano.

"Then we all sang 'White Christmas' at the last," said Shive. "The center was decorated with two beautiful Christmas trees and it was very much in the holiday spirit."

Director Bobbie Leonard said the fashion show was one of the biggest events the center has ever had.

Joyce Crooker spent several days coordinating decorations for the show.

Models were: Beverly Warren, Roxie Rutledge, Kate Irons, Gloria Hopkins, Diane Wood, Jan Foresyth, Betty Smith, Pam Wiley, Wanda Driver, Patti Therman, Pat Underwood, Pam Welch, Beth Roman and Wanda Driver.

Singers

Last Saturday, the Highway 80 Church of Christ had its seventh annual musical with area choirs participating. At right, Midland Northside Youth Group Director Vicky Johnson leads the youth choir. The Highway 80 Church of Christ youth and adult choirs shared the stage with choirs from Abilene, Odessa, Midland, and Colorado City. The event is coordinated by Highway 80 Church of Christ Choir President Ullis Johnson.

Michael Patrick Williams in front of the new church he founded when ousted by Antioch Missionary Baptist Church in Houston.

Church ousts its pastor

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Michael Patrick Williams was an anomaly. It was 1985. Williams, then 34, was pastor at Antioch Missionary Baptist Church. And he was being sued by members of the church he led.

What began as a dispute about a church constitution festered. Ultimately, Williams, credited with bringing 1,400 new members into the church, was ousted when the congregation ratified a decision by church deacons and trustees to remove him.

A state district judge was asked to set aside the vote, but refused. Instead, the judge ordered a court-appointed master to preside over a new vote. However, before a second election was held, Williams agreed to leave the 125-year-old church. He took 800 members with him and founded Joy Tabernacle.

When Williams left, the 10 parishioners who filed the original lawsuit agreed to dismiss their case.

At the time, Antioch's story was novel: a historical, large church suing to oust its pastor.

Today, a surprising number of churches, most of them smaller and not as well-known as Antioch, have followed suit, so to speak. At least half a dozen have been filed in the past five months in Harris County's state district courts.

"They (churches) have caught the American disease — sue over anything," said attorney Peter Riga, a former Jesuit priest.

"(Americans) are becoming the most litigious society in the world ... (and) that goes for congregations as well," Riga said. "When power and money and prestige are on the line, the clergy can be every bit as grasping as anybody else."

Indeed, some say the lawsuits boil down to a power struggle — often between the pastor and the church's governing board.

"Courts are seen as a first refuge, rather than a last remedy," Williams said last week. "When people can't win within the (church) structure that's set up, they go outside that arena to the courts. And then you create more problems."

Rehearsals

Living Christmas Tree rehearsals and preparations are going smoothly at First United Methodist Church with a 9 a.m.-3 p.m. session planned for Saturday. Lunch will be served in Garrett Hall at noon.

The 1992 production is scheduled for Dec. 5-6, and tickets will be available to the public, free, on Monday, at 9 a.m. in the church office. It's a gift to the community and surrounding area from First United Methodist Church.

Revival tonight

Bakers Chapel AME Church will have the closing of their Revival tonight at 7 p.m. with speaker Elder George Pope of Colorado City, Texas. The church will celebrate their 63rd Church Anniversary Sunday at 3 p.m. The speaker will be Rev. N. H. Franklin of Bethel AME Church, Lubbock, Texas. Rev. Floyd Green, Jr. pastor and members are inviting the community to join us. The church is located 911 N. Lancaster St.

Graham's crusade

Evangelist made strides in former USSR

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Graham, once criticized as being used by the former Soviet Union, seems now to have instead swung many of its people his way — toward Christianity.

Back from his first public crusade in the ideologically shaken, economically struggling land hardened by decades of atheist indoctrination, Graham said he was pleased by his reception.

"I didn't think many people would respond at all. But boy, how they came."

He drew crowds that broke records at Moscow's Olympic Stadium, and he said a bigger percentage of them indicated decisions for Christ than had ever done so in his half century of ministry around the world.

The unusual impact seemed to justify the evangelist's past trips there, including his speaking at a Soviet peace conference in 1982 despite U.S. State Department objections.

"If we hadn't gone in '82, I don't think we would have been going now," he said in an interview. "It was a sort of pioneering that opened the door. A lot of people in the West criticized. But I felt God wanted me to go."

"We have to give all the credit for that to the Lord. I put it in God's hands and I believe he led all the way. I knew from the beginning, he was saying in my heart, you go. It will open doors for you to preach the Gospel. That's exactly what happened."

GRAHAM

Graham, 74, returned to his home near Montreat, N.C., last week from two months in Russia and in Germany where he's planning a "pro-Christ '93" crusade March 17-21 to be telecast via satellite throughout Europe.

He goes to Scotland in January to conduct a school of evangelism and is to be the main speaker at the annual congressional "prayer breakfast" Feb. 3 in Washington.

In Graham's Moscow crusade Oct. 23-25, he said an average of 45,000 people overflowed the stadium each night, exceeding the 38,000 record at the Goodwill Games in 1988. An average 14,000, about 27 percent, made commitments each night.

That was the highest percentage ever in Graham's long career, he said, compared to about 5 percent or 6 percent at crusades in the United States.

"They're searching for something," he said. "They don't know man is made for fellowship with God. They've done without him all these years and feel a big emptiness. What they're searching for is God, but don't know it. They hear the simple Gospel message and they respond to it."

"I tried to tell them how hard it is to be a Christian. I didn't want them to think it was easy. I told them it would be tough, that they may be disowned by family, disowned by people they work with. Atheism is still strong."

In the services, he said "there were no gimmicks, no literature, no music during the invitation," simply the shuffling of thousands of feet coming forward. "It was like the Holy Spirit came down in mighty power."

At the final service, 50,000 people jammed the stadium, he said. "The people broke doors down. The police couldn't hold the people back. Some doors just shattered, and the people just surged in."

Each night, he said thousands were left outside to hear him over big TV screens.

As always, he directed inquirers to their preferred churches, and his policy against denominational proselytizing drew support from Protestant and Russian Orthodox leaders.

"What's thrilling," Graham said, "is all the follow-up going on each week at training centers in Moscow and other parts of Russia for the next three months."

The next meeting will be a salad luncheon in the home of Thelma Carlile. The program will be Christmas time — presented by Mamie Lee Dodds.

Quilters

Ten people were present for the November meeting of the Signal Mountain Quilting Guild. The guild met at the West Texas Center for the Arts on Nov. 13. After an exchange of showing items the members had made, the project for the day was begun. Each member worked on a quilt square using the log cabin pattern. Red and green material with many different Christmas patterns were used.

During a salad lunch, a film of the Ft. Worth Quilters Guild quilt show as shown. The Big Spring quilters were impressed by the variety, novelty and beauty of the quilts shown in the film.

Following lunch, the projects were finished and ideas for future projects were discussed.

The next meeting of the guild will be the second Friday in January, 1993. Anyone interested in learning to quilt or in teaching a class or workshop should call 264-7107 for information.

Child study

The Big Spring Child Study Club met at the home of Lisa Hatfield on Nov. 11. The guest speaker was Suzanne Haney from the Big Spring Symphony. She informed the members about the history of the symphony for Big Spring and about the upcoming concerts for this year. The club welcomes Karen Fraser as its newest member.

The members will again sponsor a boy and a girl from the Angel Tree for Christmas this year.

The December Christmas meeting will meet at the new home of Lauretta Glass whom has moved to Midland. The members are reminded that a Chinese auction will be held and they are to bring toiletries for the Westside Community Center to the December 9 meeting.

Hyperion

Maureen Haddad hosted the meeting of the 1970 Hyperion Club with Cindy Middleton and Dene Sheppard serving as co-hostesses. Cassie Fillingham, C.P.A., presented the program, "Finance from a Woman's Perspective."

Mrs. Fillingham asked, "What is our vision and goal for tomorrow?" She advised club members to learn to live within their means; reduce debts; set budgets; and set reachable goals. She also stressed the value of teaching children to manage money and to teach ourselves the pitfalls of charge cards.

A brief business meeting was conducted by president, Suzanne Haney. The club's December traditional Christmas party will be in the home of Sue and Stan Partee, husbands will be honored guests.

TPEA

Texas Public Employees Association chapter 52 met recently in the auditorium of Allred Building, Big Spring State Hospital. The meeting was presided over by president Beverly Miller and a hotdog lunch was served. About 30 attended.

Member Gloria Fedderson discussed a possible 3 percent increase in state employee salaries.

Upcoming plans include a food drive at BSSH to benefit less fortunate employees.

The next meeting, Dec. 3, will be at La Posada Restaurant, noon. There will be a gift exchange. All state employees are invited.

TPEA is the advocate for public employees during legislative sessions and throughout the year. Chapter 52 meets the first Thursday of each month.

Mary Jane

The Mary Jane Club of Coahoma met November 12 in the home of JoAnne Forrest with Diane Wood as co-hostess. Following refreshments and a brief business meeting conducted by club president Eula Bell Fowler, the group travelled to Stanton for a tour of the historic Convent.

Danny Fryar, City Manager of Stanton as well as President of the Convent Association, conducted the tour and gave the history of the facility which Carmelite Monks began building in 1881 when the community was known as Grelton. Subsequently, Catholic nuns who were of the order of Sisters of Mercy purchased the property and further developed it into a complex forming the only Catholic School between Ft. Worth and El Paso.

Efforts are currently underway to obtain a grant which would make it possible to completely restore this building to its original beauty and to preserve its important place in our area's history.

The group returned to Big Spring and lunched at the Box Car Cafe in Big Spring's Railroad Plaza.

Their exchange of letters leads to vows

DEAR ABBY: When I told my friends I had a pen pal on the USS Midway during the Persian Gulf War, they smiled appreciatively and said, "Gee, that's nice." Little did they (or I) know at the time that what I once considered an innocent correspondence would turn into a full-fledged love affair. Yes, Abby, I, too, succumbed to an age-old romantic technique: writing letters.

After 10 months and hundreds of cards, letters and love notes, we truly opened our hearts to each other and fell in love - sight unseen.

When the war ended, Mike and I agreed to meet when he returned to the States. With butterflies in my stomach, I flew to Long Beach, Calif., to meet "my" sailor while he was on a four-day leave. One kiss, and the rest is history! At our second meeting (after writing to my mother to ask her for my hand in marriage), Mike flew to New York to put a diamond ring on my finger.

Our third meeting: I flew to California again, we rented a car and drove to Las Vegas and were married in one of those romantic little chapels! Some people think I'm crazy. Some people think I'm lucky. Either way, Mike and I are very happy, and we thank God for the wonderful blessing of love.

For those ladies and gents who claim "all the good ones are taken," try reaching out a little, and never underestimate the power of words. I will cherish those letters forever.

So, from my heart to yours, Abby, I thank you for encouraging me, as well as others, to write to "Any Serviceman." It was the best advice I've ever taken in my life. -- MRS. MICHAEL J. PAULI, BABYLON, N.Y.

DEAR MRS. PAULI: While not everybody who has participated in Operation Dear Abby has managed to snatch the gold ring, many have found friendship, and it is a project in which people of all ages can participate. But letters such as yours are especially thrilling. May you and your husband enjoy many happy, healthy, successful years together.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 12-year-old boy who is going into the seventh grade. He is a good student and has never been in trouble.

We live on a quiet street with only two boys his age. Both boys just had their ears pierced, and now our son wants to have his ears pierced, too.

I don't mind him having it done, but my husband says it is feminine, and the only reason he wants it done is because his friends have done it. What is your opinion? -- MOM

DEAR MOM: Your husband is right when he says the only reason the boy wants to pierce his ears is because his friends have done it. But he's wrong to say it's "feminine" - in some circles, it's considered a symbol of "belonging."

Jacqueline Bigar

FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1992

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You might need to see another's point of view before you can resolve a problem. What comes off as irrational anger is really another's hurt. Be willing to find a new answer to ease tensions. Tonight: Lighten up and go for the football.

TALIES (April 20-May 20): Best while you can, because the early evening certainly carries a powerful wallop. A sudden dispute or struggle could floor you. Be open to a partner, even if you don't like what you are hearing. Tonight: Try kissing and making up.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get together with loved ones and plan a happy, daytime outing. Let the child in you out. Lower your expectations of just how much you can handle. Tonight: Go along with a friend's desires.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take time for family members and plan a fun outing. You need to express your high energy and change into a favorite pastime. Remain playful when dealing with a cantankerous friend. Your creativity is high. Tonight: Do something special for another.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Look at changes that are occurring on the home front. Have a long-overdue conversation with a sibling. You gain a new level of understanding. Be open to your creativity, and let your imagination soar. Tonight: Be a little bit of a wild thing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Despite a momentary flare-up, you get what you want. Dig in, make phone calls and finalize travel plans. A friend might disappoint you, but don't make it more of it than there is. Allow yourself to flow and to understand. Tonight: The party's at your house.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Listen to your sixth sense when dealing with a difficult authority figure. Make time for a long-overdue discussion or conversation, and you'll be more than happy with the results. Catch up on errands, make phone calls and visit friends. Tonight: It could cost.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You get past a hassle or problem that occurs in the early part of the day. Do not put too much energy into trying to understand another's actions. You might need some down time to recenter. Evaluate recent decisions. Tonight: Emerge from the cocoon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friendship is highlighted for you today. Join in a competitive sport or fun activity. You understand far more than you realize. Listen to a partner's gripes, but don't take them too seriously. Tonight: Take some time off, to get away from life's "mists."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): With all the attention you are receiving, you could be pushing another away. Be less uptight about a partnership. Focus on community spirit and togetherness. You are able to make the most of a new, positive winning streak. Tonight: Party on!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have all this energy and willingness, yet you might not be able to get in sync with another's desires. Look to new solutions and a more-winning approach. Step into the limelight and enjoy the attention. Tonight: Be a force to be reckoned with.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A fight with a loved one might have you singing the blues... for maybe an hour or two. You see a different approach and allow for a new understanding. Be more upbeat and let go of the need to control. Tonight: Try something different.

IF NOV. 21 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Get past your expectations in a relationship, especially how the other individual "should" be. If single, you'll discover that the latter part of your birthday year seems designed just for you. Be open to others. Listen and grow by participating. Your money situation will improve steadily. You can count on a SCORPIO.

Jackson leads win over former mates

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was just another game for Mark Jackson — until the game started.

Jackson, the point guard traded by the New York Knicks to the Los Angeles Clippers before the season, led his new team against his former mates Thursday night. He was at the center of a mini-maelstrom as he guided the Clippers to a 101-91 victory.

Was Jackson excited about the matchup?

"At least I wasn't coming into the game," he said. "It was just another game than. But when it got down to crunch time, the emotions took over and it really became inspirational and something that we wanted — not individually, but collectively."

Jackson, dealt to the Clippers in a three-team trade that brought Charles Smith, Doc Rivers and Bo Kimble to New York, had 13 points and nine assists for the Clippers, whose fourth victory in five games also snapped the Knicks' six-game winning streak at the Los Angeles Sports Arena. New York lost its third in a row on a West Coast swing despite 19 points and 13 rebounds by Patrick Ewing.

At Houston, Sleepy Floyd got a rare start and used the opportunity to score 28 points, including nine of the last 11 by the Rockets. Houston has won four in a row, while the Cavaliers dropped their fourth straight.

Hakeem Olajuwon also had 28 points, along with 20 rebounds and five assists, the 38th time in his career he's had at least 20 points and 20 rebounds in a game.

Mark Price led the Cavs with 24 points.
Spurs 123, Mavericks 95

At San Antonio, the Spurs beat Dallas for the seventh straight time as Sean Elliott scored 26 points and David Robinson added 19. San Antonio shot a season-high 53 percent from the field.

Derek Harper's 24 points paced the Mavericks, while Terry Davis added 17. Dallas made only 41 percent of its field goals.

The Spurs won the rebounding battle 52-35 and went to the foul line 39 times, 20 more than Dallas.

Clippers 101, Knicks 91
At Los Angeles, Danny Manning scored 27 points and Harper added 22 as the Clippers ended a 12-game losing streak to the Knicks. Trailing by a point at the start of the fourth quarter, the Clippers used a 15-1 burst to take charge.

NBA Roundup

Bulls 108, SuperSonics 99
At the Seattle Kingdome, the Sonics couldn't provide many thrills for a crowd of 37,401. Instead, the Bulls were inspired.

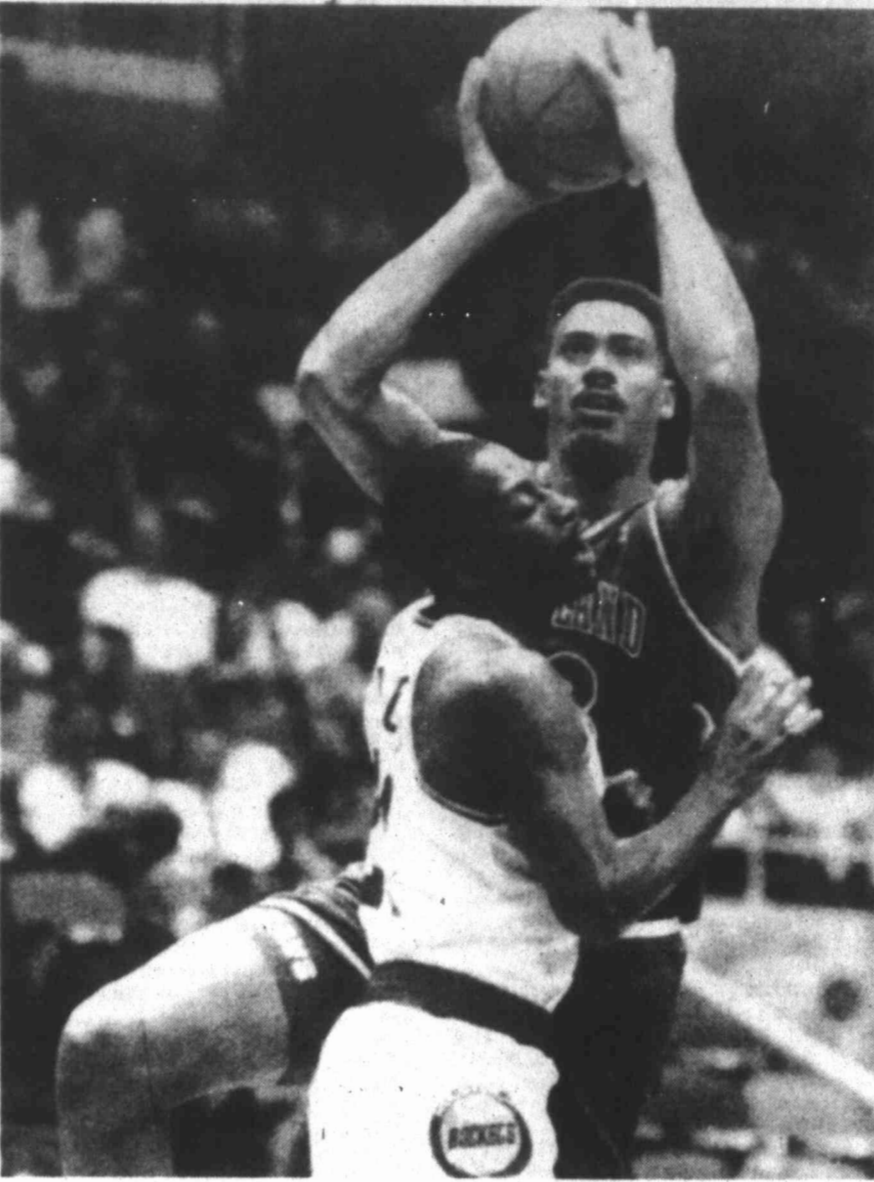

"The crowd pumped us up," Michael Jordan said. "We took the crowd out of the game early and put them on their heels. We consider this a good test."

Magie 126, Warriors 92
At Orlando, the Shaq Show continued. Rookie Shaquille O'Neal, taking full advantage of Golden State's lack of size, had 29 points and 16 rebounds. The victory was the fifth in seven games for the Atlantic Division-leading Magic, off to the best start in the franchise's four-year history. O'Neal, Nick Anderson (30 points) and Dennis Scott (25) have been combining for an average of almost 71 points per game.

"This was the first time I have seen him, and he is a great, great player," Warriors coach Don Nelson said of the 7-foot-1 O'Neal. "I just can't imagine after he gets a few years under his belt what he is going to be like."

Nuggets 99, Pistons 87
At Denver, Dikembe Mutombo had 23 points and 14 rebounds and Denver shot above 50 percent for the first time this season as it broke a five-game slide.

The Pistons played without Isiah Thomas and Dennis Rodman.

Cleveland Cavaliers John Williams, right, goes up for two points against Houston Rockets Sleepy Floyd Thursday in Houston. The Rockets won 99-92.

Slocum refuses to be effected by pollsters

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum can't be accused of running up the score this season to help the No. 4 Aggies in the national rankings.

"I'm not sure we could, but it's something I would never do anyway," Slocum said.

The Aggies (10-0, 5-0) are 24-point favorites to beat Texas Christian (2-7-1, 1-5) Saturday at Kyle Field, but if they get the Horned Frogs on the run don't expect the Aggies to keep scoring just to embellish their position in The Associated Press poll.

"I won't be coerced into a certain philosophy just to impress some pollster in some other part of the country," Slocum said. "If I've got a victory assured, I won't run up the score."

The Aggies have had difficulty scoring points this season anyway. While reaching a 10-0 record for the first time since 1975, the offense has struggled at times, scoring just enough points to win.

And Slocum isn't just being benevolent in not trying to embarrass opponents.

"I do that partly for a self-serving reason of keeping our people healthy and from being on the other side of it, I wouldn't rub somebody's nose in the ground," Slocum said.

The Aggies remained No. 4 and were leapfrogged by Florida State (8-1) in the latest balloting.

Slocum doesn't think comparing scores is the best way to making up rankings.

"Florida State got a lot of credit for scoring 70 points on Tulane. Two weeks before Memphis State scored 62 points on Tulane," Slocum said. "So how come Memphis State is not ranked?"

Want more?

"We beat Stanford, and Stanford goes back and beats Notre Dame 33-16, so if we're that bad, how bad is Notre Dame?"

The Aggies have a chance to wrap up their second straight SWC title if they beat the Horned Frogs and Baylor defeats Texas (6-3, 4-1).

The Aggies would have the Cotton Bowl wrapped up before their Thanksgiving Day game against the Longhorns in Austin.

'I won't be coerced into a certain philosophy just to impress some pollster in some other part of the country.'

R.C. Slocum
Texas A&M head football coach

It's TCU's fault that the Texas A&M-Texas game won't match teams with unbeaten SWC records. The Horned Frogs beat the Longhorns 23-14, ending a 24-game losing streak.

"Texas A&M has the mark of a great football team," TCU coach Pat Sullivan said. "I see no weaknesses. They had trouble throwing early in the season but the thing I notice now is when they throw and catch the ball they get big plays."

The Aggies have won 19 games in a row from the Horned Frogs since TCU won the 1972 game in College Station 13-10.

Kickoff is at 2:30 p.m. CST.
