Cisneros' hearing is set

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO - The U.S. Senate committee charged with scrutinizing the nomination of former Mayor Henry Cisneros as secretary of Housing and Urban Development has set a Jan. 12 confirmation hearing.

The hearing is expected to last a day, said a spokeswoman for Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., the Michigan Democrat who chairs the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs.

Senators are expected to quiz Cisneros about his professional and personal background and about issues facing the federal agency.

Because the Senate is controlled by Democrats, Cisneros is expected to win confirmation. But Cisneros has said he expects to be asked about an extramarital affair he acknowledged in 1988. Some observers say if Cisneros runs into an obstacle, it will be with Sen. Alfonse D'Amato of New York, the committee's ranking Republican. U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, the committee's No. 2 Republican, said he will support his fellow Texan. If the nomination goes to the full Senate, Cisneros will need a favorable vote from a majority in the 100-member body. Cisneros is in Washington this week working with President-elect Clinton's transition team. He is helping screen resumes of highlevel job applicants and focusing on Hispanic applicants, said Cisneros spokesman John Rosales.

Cisneros met last week with HUD Secretary Jack Kemp, said San Antonio City Councilman Roger Perez Cisneros' brother-in-

Birrell moves on to state essay competition

By GARY SHANKS Staff Writer

A Big Spring High School senior has won regional competition in an essay and speech competition and is now waiting for the state-wide contest on Jan. 15.

On Nov. 18, Melissa Birrell won the Howard County competition in the essay contest sponsored by the national Veterans of Foreign Wars organization. The topic for the essay and speech was, "My Voice in America's Future." Birrell, who turned 18 on Wednesday, said she spent two weeks writing and revising the essay prior to the Howard County contest. This contest was sponsored by the local VFW Chapter 2013.

Birrell originally taped her speech on a home stereo system, . but later was able to re-record it on professional equipment at the KBST radio station, she said. 'That one sounded a lot better."

The regional contest was judged in Midland and included winners from VFW chapters in Permian-Basin counties including Midland, Ector, Monahans, Andrews and other counties.

MELISSA BIRRELL

Birrell won a $100 college savings bond in the Howard County contest and won another $300 for college in the regional contest

If Birrell were to win state, she would then go on to national competition in Washington D.C. In this final contest, students can win $20,000 for first place down to $1,000 for 27th place.

Every new day we encounter is a small piece of our eternity, and we must take action during each of these days instead of waiting for a time that may never come . . .' Excerpt from Melissa Birrell's speech

Birrell, daughter of Greg and much because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory nor her audio essay with the following thoughts:

"Every new day we encounter is a small piece of our eternity, and we must take action during each of these days instead of waiting for a time that may never come. The future is too uncertain for any delays. Our only choice is to live each day with the fear it will be our last. Then the voice of tomorrow will be comprised of the words we use today.

The VFW and VFW Ladies Auxiliary have sponsored these contests since 1946, according to Leo Welch, VFW post commander.

The speech begins with this quote from Theodore Roosevelt: "Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checked by failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer defeat." Each contestant is graded on delivery (including enunciation, pronunciation, expressiveness and sincerity of tone), originality and content (including logical development and clarity of ideas). Birrell intends to pursue a career in some part of the medical field when she goes to college. She is considering attending Texas Tech or Angelo State University. Birrell also works part time as a physical therapy aide at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. She has been working in the physical therapy department for about 1½ years, she said. Birrell is president of the local Vocational Industrial Clubs of America and, is active in the Business Professionals of America, D-FY-IT, National Honor Society and is a past Rotary Club Student of the Month.

Psychiatric hospital, state settle

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN - A national chain of psychiatric hospitals has agreed to change its marketing and admission standards in Texas following an investigation by the state attorney general's office, officials said Thursday.

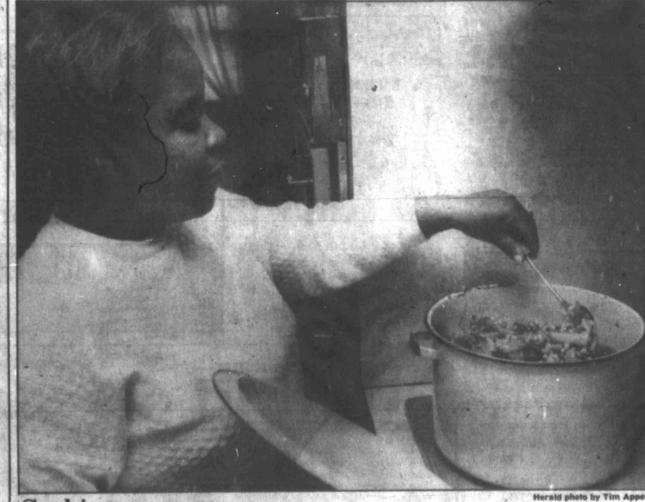

Charter Medical Corp., which operates 11 psychiatric hospitals in Texas, agreed in a final judgment filed in state district court in Travis County to refrain from a number of practices considered questionable by patients and state regulators.

Investigations of psychiatric hospitals statewide have uncovered a pattern of incentives being offered to employees to help fill hospital beds while overlooking patients' needs, officials in the at-torney general's office said.

Patients have also been admitted without, being told of the costs for services, officials said.

"This settlement is the continuation of the reform of the psychiatric hospital industry in Texas," Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said Thursday.

Menger mango ice cream to be served at inauguration

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO - Here's a scoop.

The Menger Hotel's famous mango ice cream - described by Bill Clinton as "one of the great treasures in American life" - will be served during the presidentelect's inauguration.

The exact event has not been determined, "but at some point during the week, there is going to be mango ice cream served," said Kerry Gurtler, a spokeswoman for the 52nd Presidential Inauguration. The slightly tart, yellow-colored sweet piqued the president-elect's interest in 1972, when he was coordinating Democratic candidate George McGovern's Texas campaign. Last summer, when Clinton was in San Antonio to speak to the League of United Latin American Citizens, he asked a local aide whether the historic Menger Hotel still served its mango ice cream. Within minutes, Clinton and his entourage were at the Menger happily eating what Clinton called "one of the great treasures in American life."

"Clinton and I had a nice chat about the mango," Menger Hotel General Manager Mac McMillin told the San Antonio Light. "He's sort of a junk food junkie, and this is one of the things he likes."

The visit provided the kind of tasty story the ever-hungry national news media eats up.

The ice cream was described in the Wall Street Journal, Time and the Economist. The Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel ran the ice cream recipe in its food section.

The 133-year-old hotel has served mango ice cream for at least a century, McMillin said. It is believed to have first been made with fruit from a mango tree growing in the hotel garden.

The ice cream is made with fresh mangoes, lemon juice, cream and sugar. It costs $2.95 a helping.

McMillin said he has not heard when the ice cream will be served during the inauguration.

"We're willing, and we'd be honored to participate, but we haven't made any plans yet," he said. "We think this is one of the few culinary connections Texas has to the new administration, so we'd be happy to do our civic

Barton suggests Richards fill Bentsen vacancy with Republican

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN - Democratic Gov. Ann Richards has declined a suggestion to appoint a Republican to the seat being vacated by Sen. Lloyd

With tongue in cheek, U.S. Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, on Wednesday asked Richards to "cross party lines and appoint a Republican to fill the position.'

"We have plenty of good candidates in the Democratic Party, and I think that Joe Barton will discover that," said Richards' press spokesman Bill Cryer.

Barton noted that Presidentelect Clinton named Bentsen his designee for Treasury Secretary on Dec. 10. Since then, Barton said, Clinton has completed filling his Cabinet while Richards has yet to name a replacement for Bentsen. Richards has said she will make an announcement next week. "There is no real reason to rush to appoint someone," said Cryer, who said Bentsen's seat will not be vacant until he starts his new job in late January or early February. Richards has said she wants to appoint someone who will be able to win the special election for the remainder of Bentsen's term, which most likely will be held in

Two Democrats considered by many to have been front runners for the appointment took themselves out of consideration. Former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros was named by Clinton to head the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and State Comptroller John Sharp said he was not interested in the job. State employees to get paychecks late

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN - With holiday bills coming due, some state employees are upset that their paychecks will be arriving a few days late this month, thanks to the Legis attempt to save money more than five years ago.

In 1987, lawmakers moved employees' payday from the last day of the month to the first, thus reducing the number of pay periods from 12 to 11 that year and averting a budget shortfall.

But when the first of the month falls on a holiday, state employees are supposed to be paid on the second unless that falls on a

Because Friday is New Year's

Day, a state holiday, followed by the weekend, state employees won't get their paychecks until Monday, Jan. 4.

"It's unfortunate," state comptroller's office spokesman Andy Welch said Wednesday. "The state law says that state employees do not get paid until the first working day of the month. With the first being a holiday and the second and the third being Saturday and Sunday, the first working day of the month is the fourth."

There are 226,000 state

Since then, state employees who have direct deposit fret about possible bounced checks whenever the first of the month falls on a holiday or a weekend.

"I don't know of any other class of employees who are in this situation, but we're basically hung out to dry," Welch said. "We tried to warn people. A lot of people are unfortunate, this being a holiday

Lane Zivley, executive director of the Texas Public Employees Association, said his group has received complaints from its members when their checks have

"We're going to try to do some legislation that will correct it." Zivley said. "The only trouble is, it's going to cost the state money, so it's going to be very tough to do.

Vehicle sticker thefts increasing

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS - Thefts of vehicle registration stickers and license plates have risen since a state law last year began requiring motorists to show proof of insurance before they are able to get a renewal sticker.

Through October, 7,555 license plates and stickers had been stolen in 1992 in Dallas, said Dallas Police spokesman Sgt. Jim Chandler. In all of 1991, motorists reported 6,931 license plate and sticker thefts. Police say increasing thefts of

Joy killers claim sixth victim

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DAYTON, Ohio - A convenience store clerk who was shot in the face last weekend during a murder-robbery spree died Thursday, becoming the sixth fatality.

Sarah Abraham, 37, died shortly after noon, said a woman who answered the telephone at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She would not identify herself.

Abraham had been in critical condition since she was taken to the hospital after the Saturday

A customer in the store also was shot. Jones Pettus remained in Miami Valley Hospital, which refused to disclose his condition.

Police Sgt. Larry Grossnickle said police believe robbery was the motive behind the rampage, which began Christmas Eve and ended Saturday. Earlier, another police official had said robbery was the original motive but that the crimes escalated into "joy killing."

Charged with aggravated murder and robbery are Marvallous Matthew Keene, 19, and Heather Nicole Mathews, 20. Prosecutors said they would seek the death penalty for both. They are being held on $5 million bond.

Stamps, new Presley releases go together

Elvis Presley's record label, RCA, couldn't bring him back in person, but in one of several new Presley releases planned for 1993 RCA will include about 275,000 of the new Elvis postal stamps as part of a promotional insert.

The canceled stamps, together worth a face value of almost $80,000, "will be affixed to a special envelope" included in CD and cassette copies of the new release, said RCA spokeswoman Catherine Loiacano in New York.

RCA's stamp order is big, but not Robin Minard, a spokeswoman for and Graceland and will be the U.S. Postal Service. She said Graceland has expressed interest in ordering up to 1 million stamps, and another order has been placed for about 1.6 million stamps.

Minard said she doesn't know who placed the order for 1.6 million stamps. "But I'm guessing it's somebody who's going to do something commercial with them.'

At least 250,000 of Graceland's stamps will be used on first-day covers. About 215,000 of those will be canceled at Graceland on the biggest in the country, said envelopes with artwork of Elvis available at Graceland or by mail order at $5 each from the day of issue through Jan. 31.

Another 35,000, also at $5 each, will be on the same envelopes, but with the words "I was there" printed on the envelopes. Those can be bought only at Graceland and in person on Jan. 8, said Todd Morgan, director of communications at Graceland. After Jan. 8, any remaining "I was there" covers will be destroyed.

He said the rest of Graceland's stamps "will be put aside for the archives ... Nothing's planned for them vet

'93 trends predicted

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER — Used cowboy boots, scented fingernails, powdered wine and checks in clothing will be hot in 1993, while miniature pot-bellied pigs and country music will become fading fads, according to The American Forecaster Almanac 1993.

Nostalgia for the '70s, the "outdoor gym," super beds and Dominican cuisine are other trends to watch in '93, according to Denver writer-prognosticator Kim Long's 10th annual almanac will appear for the first time exclusively on floppy disk as an "electronic book," an example of Long practicing what he preaches.

"I talk about the future, so it seems the perfect format — to be in the electronic arena," said Long. "You only have to crate them when orders come in. With a traditional book, you're stuck before the first sale with figuring out how many people want it, printing it, binding it and storing it. Long said the "baby-boom" generation — the one-third of the population born between 1946 and 1964 - continues to dictate the major trends, because of the boomers' numbers and spending clout.

'The aging of the baby-boomers is one of the big deals affecting society in a number of ways," he

In the workplace, forced retirements because of company downsizing have put many upscale boomers out of work, laying the groundwork for "a renaissance of innovation and invention," Long

"They're not going into the soup lines. People in their late 30s to late 40s are starting things on their own. With a fax machine and a very inexpensive computer, you can, do high-tech work in your home," he said.

Hot jobs in 1993 will include home health aides, paralegals, physical therapists and medical assistants. Occupations in decline are farming, bookkeeping, word-processing and garment-making, the Forecaster said.

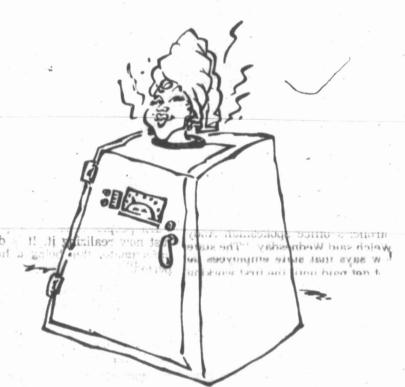

From a fashion perspective, the boomers also will remain trendsetters in '93, Long says. First, they wore jeans once owned by actual cowboys. Now, used cowboy * boots are in.

"The fashion statement is, 'I've been doing this for awhile," said Long. "The idea is to find a pair" that's had a little life in them.'

Women's hats may make a comeback because women over 40 afflicted by thinning hair will be looking for ways to camouflage it, the Forecaster said, and checks will reappear as an important part of a revved-up pre-World War II fashion look that will include houndstooth and seersucker.

Long said scented fingernails also will be fashionable.

Are today's children that different?

Jordan, experiencing her fourth Christmas, dove into the mound of packages under the tree with a terrible resolve.

All laws of space and time were suspended. The child was ripping through two and sometimes three packages at once.

Wrapping paper flew. Ribbons flew. She was Jordan Sissorhands. She was Jordan Chainsawhands. 'Slow down!" admonished her called "Frog Soccer." I did not give Jordan the soccer game, because I don't even like soccer when it is played by participants who don't eat flies.

I did play a quick game of "Frog Soccer" with Jordan because she asked me to. She beat me 7-3, which is the most scoring in the history of soccer.

I gave Jordan a dollhouse. I paid a guy $50 to put it together. There were parts that attached to other parts that could not be seen by the naked eye. Frank Lloyd Wright would have had a difficult time assembling the thing.

As I was unloading the dollhouse out of my car, however, the top floor came apart. I spent a great deal of Christmas Eve trying to do what I'd pay the guy the $50 to do. But to no avail.

When Jordan saw the house, she was excited, but she wanted to know, "What happened to the top floor?"

"Termites," I said. Somewhat confused, Jordan leapt at one last unwrapped gift. It was from Santa

When she opened the box, I couldn't believe what I saw.

It was a Slinky. Surely you remember Slinkies. They've been around since I was a child.

A Slinky is nothing more than a series of circular divisions of a long wire that has an accordion effect to it.

Pull one of the circular divisions and the rest follow

You can make a Slinky jump from one of your hands to the other. A Slinky can even walk down steps.

Slinkies were big for Christmas when I was a kid, and now little Jordan's got one for Christmas

"Show me how this works?" Jordan said to me

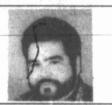

I made the Slinky go from my right hand to my left. I played the Slinky like a yo-yo. I made it take two consecutive leaps along the carpet.

Jordan was beside herself with wonder and glee, and I'm thinking, here are all these expensive, complicated gifts -- including a dollhouse with 14,806 different parts, 4,739 of which are no longer attached -- and it's this cheap, simple, good ol' standby, Slinky, that has her attention.

So maybe kids aren't that different today. Remember opening your toys in the morning and then spending the afternoon playing with the boxes?

Something else did finally take Jordan's attention away from the Slinky. It was the packing around the toys that had been mailed to her. It was the cellophane. substance with bubble-like protrusions in it. When you stomped on those bubbles they made neat popping sounds.

Jordan stomped out every bubble and never again mentioned the insect-ridden dollhouse I had given her.

Well, it's the start of another year. Now we'll see if my New Year's resolutions will outlast the milk in my refrigerator.

I'm really tickled to see the folks down at the Chamber of Commerce's Conventions and Visitors Bureau are organizing a festival to celebrate the annual accumulation of sandhill cranes at One Mile Lake.

It is pretty impressive to watch all of them coming in at dusk. I highly recommend having a look.

Folks down at the old C of C are needing a bit of assistance in naming said festival, however, and are asking for input from anyone with ideas.

When I first began writing this gested we should use the cranes as the focus for a festival, but I wasn't very creative with the name. In fact, I said we should call it the Annual Greater Big Spring Area Sandhill Crane Festival Barbecue and Rodeo, or Crane Fest for short.

Like I said, not very creative. The problem I'm having is the more creative the name, the less people are going to know what the heck it means.

Like, we could call it Sandhills of Winter, but a lot of folks would stare at you with that Dan Quayle look of consummate confusion. We could call it the Flock Party or Flock Fest, but you'd have to be careful saying it. I dunno. How about the Big Spring Sandhill Conglomeration? OK, maybe not. Maybe something more esoteric like Cranes Among Us - 20,000 Cranes Over Texas or the Sandhill Flight Line?

Something simple perhaps, like Dance Like a Crane, The Crane Jamboree, Cranes of Big Spring, The Sandhill Flock Party, or the Crane Watch Festival.

Well, obviously I'm not going to think of anything. But if you do, give 'em a call down at the Chamber, 263-7641 (ask for Marae).

But I think the festival is a good idea. Like I said in that original column, we have the cranes so we might as well exploit them - its American. Somebody had to be the first one to suggest the Terlingua Chili Cookoff, and look how big that's become.

If it's done right, it could be a lot of fun. How about a $1,000 cash prize for the best sandhill crane costume? I still like the idea of sandhill crane hats with wings that flap when you pull a string.

I've got it - Mess o' Cranes?

Honking with the Cranes?

I give up. Gary Shanks is a staff writer for the Big Spring Herald. His col-

While Israel's expulsion of 415 suspected Palestinian terrorists threatens the Middle East peace talks and could make martyrs of the deportees, Americans should keep a few things in mind in judging Israel's decision.

The banishment of the 415 to the freezing no-man's land between Israeli-controlled southern Lebanon and Lebanon proper appears harsh. By Middle Eastern standards, it is moderate. ...

Israel is surrounded by countries that rule by terror, secret police and rigged elections. Dissidents or minorities, such as the Kurds in northern Iraq, are exterminated.

When you face that kind of threat each day, you tend to get tough with those who threaten you. Americans should not judge what Israel does by U.S. standards.

Doves within the Israeli government are calling for direct peace talks for the first time with the PLO, but in such a neighborhood. Israel has survived by being tough, even though it is a democracy. Those expelled Muslims could count themselves as lucky.

Play-or-pay would require companies to "play" by offering their workers health insurance or "pay" into a government program that does. Everyone would be covered under either concept. But they differ markedly.

Play-or-pay would leave the current ranges of small and large insurance companies largely intact, while managed competition would favor large companies that offer economies of scale ...

With $800 billion - the amount the nations spends yearly on health care - at stake, voters should insist on full and fair appraisal of all possible options before a final decision is reached.

New conservatives' worry

American conservatives are natural-born worriers. Last week we had a new worry. When Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin becomes secretary of defense, Rep. Ron Dellums of California will become chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services. Aaargh! Urk! And woe is us.

Dellums is the most radical leftwinger in the House of Representatives. He is on record in favor of drastic reductions in military manpower. He would cut the Army to ribbons. He would reduce the Navy to little more than a flotilla of rowboats. The man is a

As committee chairman, Dellums will exercise autocratic powers. He alone will decide which bills will go to hearings. He will select the key witnesses. His hand will be the final hand in the writing of committee reports. He will manage his committee's bills on the floor. Sackcloth! Ashes!

Well, it is not a pleasant prospect, but it is not a real disaster. The House committee has a few Two individuals who have been sensible Democrats, notably Dave McCurdy of Oklahoma. It has a few responsible Republicans, notably Floyd Spence of South Carolina. On the Senate side, Democrat Sam Nunn of Georgia and Republican John Warner of Virginia will check the worst of Dellums' maneuvers.

Old-fashioned political forces also will prevent a gutting of the nation's military might. Dellums may hunger to close Army posts and naval bases, but the prospect of massive local unemployment and huge economic losses will galvanize even the most liberal members of the House committee.

There is this further consoling thought: If for some reason the chairmanship is not awarded to Ron Dellums, it will go to Rep. Pat Schroeder of Colorado. Her views on military cutbacks generally match his, but she has a certain beguiling charm that Dellums lacks. Count our blessings.

Dellums, then, is an obstacle to a prudent defense policy, but he is not an insurmountable obstacle. Paradoxically, Bill Clinton, who once sought so desperately to avoid the armed services, may yet prove to be their best friend. In an understandable desire to demonstrate that he is not a draftdodging wimp, Clinton could become the hawkiest hawk of them all.

Many conservatives will pray it works out this way. The Cold War may have ended, and the Soviet Union may have crumbled, but no greater folly could be imagined than the precipitate dissolution of our armed forces. A wise policy will draw upon the example of Rome's first emperor: Augustus preserved the peace for 40 years by constantly preparing for war

A sound policy will not attempt to preserve everything, everywhere. Certain Army and Air Force bases clearly must be phased out. It becomes increasingly difficult to justify the Navy's submarine squadrons. Military procurement is still larded with fat. Some U.S. troops must rewardly positioned for whatever the future brings. Be assured of this: The future will bring troubles that will demand military intervention. Ethnic and religious hatreds have > nuclear arsenals of their own. Bill Clinton immediately will inherit our open-ended commitment in Somalia. He will inherit our non-commitment in Bosnia. South Africa is a heap of kindling waiting for a match. An uneasy truce hangs over the two Koreas. Iraq remains a power in the Middle East; Iran promises again to threaten stability in the region; Israelis and Palestinians stand constantly on the brink.

The future is clouded by facile phrases. Everyone agrees that the United States should not function as "policeman to the world." Almost no one agrees on precisely where the U.S. should walk its beat. The doctrine of "selective compassion" has a hollow ring. It is as if some people starve effectively on TV and others do not. Policies may yet be set by drama Most of the talk on the talk shows is talk of domestic concerns - education, health care, the retraining of a work force to compete in a global economy. These will be Clinton's first concerns. Be not misled. Critical issues in foreign policy may be sleeping, but they are light sleepers. In this regard, Chairman Dellums may worry the president, but in the end he won't worry him much.

EL PASO - Record-setting flanker Melvin Bonner caught two touchdown passes and Baylor beat No. 22 Arizona at its own defensive game Thursday, presenting coach Grant Teaff with a career-ending 20-15 victory in the Hancock Bowl.

Teaff, doused with ice and lauded at midfield by the jubilant Bears, is leaving the sidelines to become the school's athletic director. He ended a 21-year coaching career in Waco with a record of 128-105-6.

The 6-foot-3 Bonner, who finished with a Hancock-record 166 yards on 5 receptions, wrecked an Arizona defense that was No. 2 in the nation this season while giving up an average of just 9 points a game.

Bonner caught a 61-yard scoring pass off a halfback option throw from reserve Brandell Jackson and shook loose on the sideline for a 69-yard TD run.

Arizona got a 7-yard scoring run from quarterback George Malauulu and field goals of 22 and 20 yards by Steve McLaughlin.

Bonner burned All-Pac 10 cornerback Keshon Johnson on both of his scoring plays. A beaten Johnson fell down at the Arizona 40 on the Jackson-to-Bonner connection with Malauulu completed 20 of 38 passes for 282 yards.

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota Timberwolves president Bob Stein said Thursday that he can't predict the future. So he wouldn't say how long Jimmy Rodgers will continue coaching the troubled team.

"To make one of those votes of confidence, what the hell does that Stein said one day after the Timberwolves dropped their eighth straight game, 118-92 to the New Jersey Nets, and fell to 5-19.

"As far as predicting the future, that's never productive," Stein said. "He's the coach and there's really no other comment to make. I support him. You can't blame him for everything that's going on."

Wednesday's loss was Minnesota's most decisive home defeat since the team entered the NBA in 1989. The announced crowd of 18.032 was the smallest in Target Center history. The Timberwolves' 19 losses have come by an average of 14.4 points.

And if not for the horrible Dallas Mavericks, who visit Target Center on Saturday, Minnesota would be in line to have the NBA's worst record for the second straight season.

All this comes in a season that opened with great optimism. The Timberwolves hired general manager Jack McCloskey, o pro-

Wake Forest overcomes 19 point

SHREVEPORT, La. - Wide Receiver Bobby Jones hit Todd Dixon with a 61-yard touchdown pass today, and Wake Forest overcame a 19-point deficit to beat Oregon 39-35 in the Independence

Dixon caught five passes for 166 yards and two TDs to earn offensive player of the game honors. Herman O'Berry, who forced two fumbles, recovered them both and ran one 24 yards for a touchdown he also had an interception - was the defensive player of the game. John Leach also had two touchdowns for the Demon

Deacons, who sent retiring coach Bill Dooley out a winner with Wake Forest's first bowl victory since

Wake Forest (8-4) committed six turnovers to spot Oregon to a 29-10 lead with 9:43 left in the third quarter. Their offense wasn't moving the ball - they had a net gain of minus-7 in their last six posessions.

But Dooley had a few tricks left. He had John Leach lateral — it was almost turnover No. 7 — to John Henry Mills on the kickoff, and Mills brought it from the 6 to the 35.

The drive faultered but the Demon Deacons were fired up. On their next posession, Keith West led them 61 yards, hitting Mills for 35 to bring it to the 1 before Ned Moultrie took it in a play later.

They forced Oregon (6-6) to punt, and on the next play Leach broke down the sideline for 48 yards, to the Oregon 31. Three plays later, he hit Dixon for 30 yards an a touchdown to make it 29-24.

Oregon's next punt pinned Wake Forest at their own 8. But Leach ran for 16 to give the Deacons some room and, four plays later, Jones faked an end around, then threw to Dixon who sprinted past the Wake Forest bench for the game-winner.

Now the folks at the Orange Bowl know how the folks at the Rose Bowl feel. The matchup of No. 1 Miami and No. 2 Alabama in the Sugar Bowl almost certainly will determine the national championship, and the other bowls are just playing for the fun of it.

Three of the last five years the winner of the national championship, but the new bowl coalition and third-ranked Florida State as an opponent for Big Eight champion Nebraska (9-2), ranked No. 11.

"We have been both fortunate and unfortunate to play the No. 1 teams in the country the past couple of years," Cornhuskers tight end William Washington said. "We're going to play another team that may be playing as well as anybody in the nation right now."

Since the Rose Bowl has ties to both the Pacific-10 and Big Ten conferences, it is not in the bowl coalition.

The only other New Year's Day bowl that could figure in the the national championship — and that's only if Miami and Alabama play to a tie - is the Cotton Bowl. No. 4 Texas A&M (12-0) meets No. 5 its eighth straight bowl victory,

Fighting breaks out in Mogadishu

Bush aboard U.S. Navy ship; no U.S., allied troops believed involved

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOGADISHU, Somalia - Clans allied with Mogadishu's two main warlords shelled each other with mortars today in the western suburbs of the city as President Bush was aboard a U.S. Navy ship offshore.

No American or allied troops were believed to be involved in the fighting, which broke out about two hours after sundown in an area well removed from any known positions of the multinational peacekeeping force.

Flashes from mortar explosions lit up the night sky on the western edge of the city and could be seen by reporters on rooftops near the port and airport, where U.S. troops are based.

Maj. Ken Roberts, a U.S. military spokesman in Mogadishu, said in an interview with CNN that the fighting occurred about five to six miles from U.S. positions and involved .50-caliber machine guns, small mortars, light artillery and small-arms fire.

He said it was fighting between "warring factions."

any plans by President Bush to change his plans, which call for a second visit onshore on Friday to look at efforts to deliver food to the nation's starving.

It was not clear if the fighting was visible from the USS Tripoli, the aircraft carrier where Bush was to spend the night.

"There is more than adequate security to protect the president at this time," Roberts said.

It was the heaviest shelling in the city since the U.S. Marines arrived on Dec. 9 and came as Bush was making a New Year's visit to the 18,000 U.S. troops involved in Operation Restore Hope.

Earlier in the day, Bush toured a refugee center and visited U.S.

The blasts and occasional streaks of tracer fire appeared to be several miles inland from the NAIROBI, Kenya — President Daniel arap Moi widened his lead Thursday in Kenya's first multiparty presidential elections, but opposition candidates claimed fraud. They said their supporters might start a new round of political International observers spoke of widespread problems on voting day, but they would not say whether they considered the elections rigged.

Moi, who has led Kenya since 1978, reluctantly abandoned the single-party system last year under pressure from Western aid

Despite deep discontent with his rule, the 68-year-old leader was widely favored to win re-election over seven rivals split by personality clashes and power struggles.

During the tumultuous campaign, Moi's opponents agreed on little except that Moi's supporters bought votes, harassed candidates and gerrymandered districts.

With 131 of 188 districts counted, Moi had 1,318,516 votes, according to state-run Kenya Broadcasting Corp. His nearest opponent, Kenneth Matiba of the FORD-Asili party, had 943,032.

Zaccheus Chesoni, chairman of winner would probably not be an nounced before the weekend because a new vote was ordered in eight polling stations in one district of central Kenya.

No, it's not something out of a science-fiction horror flick but NASA's Dante, a spider-like robot whose descent into a live Antarctic volcano was delayed Thursday. If all goes well, the eightlegged machine will pick up soil and rock samples and send back live video.

The $2 million project is a technology demonstration and science expedition backed by NASA and the National Science Austin, Sugarland, Corpus Christi, Foundation. Carnegie-Mellon University and the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology are also partners. Such technology could be used to explore Mars. The Dante robot is named for the main character in "Inferno," part of the "Divine Comedy" by 14th century Italian poet Dante Alighieri. Dante descends into Erebus, the last stop before Hades in Greek mythology.

Researchers last month took Dante out for a walk on a steep slag pile as a sort of warm-up run for the volcano.

Dante fell and couldn't get up. Four of its legs broke. But the welds that gave way have been, repaired.

DALLAS — The Rev. Don Smith says other preachers kid him about having the biggest congregation in

His congregation is the backstretch community of Trinity Meadows Raceway. "I wouldn't trade this for all the churches in the world," he says.

Like most preachers, he holds worship services on Sundays. On the other six days of the week, he and his wife, Virginia, stretch themselves and their programs to touch almost every aspect of life amid the barns and pickup trucks and horses.

He makes the rounds six days a week, telling people about activities, arranging whatever kind of help people need, praying with those who want to pray, reading devotions to them "while they are rubbing down a horse or mucking a

They help workers make doctors' appointments and take them there if they have no transportation. They organize barbecues and trail rides, prayer meetings and puppet shows. As almost any church would, they try to help track workers through difficult times with food, money and clothing. Track owners are planning a building that can serve not only as a chapel but also for recreation and other activities. Mrs. Smith says he and her husband hope the track eventually can provide a day-care center on the grounds.

BY-TERRY MATTINGLY

Scripps Howard News Service

When it comes to religion, 1992 was another year dominated by politics, gender debates, global bloodshed and, in virtually every U.S. pew, some kind of conflict about homosexuality.

In its annual end-of-the-year poll, the Religion Newswriters Association of America selected the race for the White House, with all of its religious overtones and moral undertows, as the year's top story.

As always, the top 10 list includes events from around the world. But 1992 was also a year when some religion writers investigated a trend that hit closer to home.

A typical headline: "Is coverage headline: "Religion beat unpopular with editors." Pollsters continue to find that 40-plus percent of the U.S. population attends some kind of religious gathering on a regular basis and 59 percent claim active membership in a religious group. And a 1989 study found that Americans want more news about religion - ranking the subject as more important than sports, entertainment and the

First Assembly of God will present John Moody for a ministry in song Sunday during the 10:40 a.m.

Born and raised in San Antonio, Moody heard the call of God to minister in 1974, when he was 13 years old, a press release states.

Since then he has been part of many quartet ministries, including "The Singing Americans," the 'Nelons," and "The Sound." He has also worked in child evangelism and been a youth Moody travels over 50,000 miles a year with his ministry, often taking his family along. His song style is described as traditional gospel or Southern Gospel. Pastor of First Assembly of God is Stephen Grace. The church is at the corner of 4th and Lancaster.

DALLAS - The Rev. Don Smith says other preachers kid him about having the biggest congregation in town.

His congregation is the backstretch community of Trinity Meadows Raceway. "I wouldn't trade this for all the churches in the world," he says. Like most preachers, he holds

He makes the rounds six days a week, telling people about activities, arranging whatever kind of help people need, praying with those who want to pray, reading devotions to them "while they are rubbing down a horse or mucking a

1992's top religion story: Presidential race

By TERRY MATTINGLY Scripps Howard News Service

When it comes to religion, 1992 was another year dominated by politics, gender debates, global bloodshed and, in virtually every U.S. pew, some kind of conflict about homosexuality.

In its annual end-of-the-year poll, the Religion Newswriters Association of America selected the race for the White House, with all of its religious overtones and moral undertows, as the year's top story.

As always, the top 10 list includes events from around the world. But 1992 was also a year when some religion writers investigated a trend that hit closer to home. A typical headline: "Is coverage

PEASTER - For centuries, they have existed in places as far away and as diverse as the rain forests of Indonesia, the deserts of North Africa and the inner cities of the United States.

Few would think that Muslims, the followers of Islam, had a place among the ranches and farms of Parker County. But about 30 miles west of Fort Worth, a small Muslim community lies just outside of Weatherford in the village of Peaster. For years in the United States, the religion was mainly thought to exist only in urban centers where there were concennationals from Arabic countries. Not necessarily, says Jerry Shaheed, 43, imam of Muslims United for Progress, a community of six families living in houses and trailers on 80 acres of farmland.

trations of African-Americans and 'The Nation of Islam was founded by a man from Sandersville, Georgia, the honorable Elijah Muhammad," Shaheed said as he sat in the living room of one of the three Parker County families who took time to talk about their lives and their religion.

The bucolic setting, Shaheed said, makes everyone a little more comfortable. "Even our neighbors, a majority of whom are not Muslim ed them west. and not African-American, will come up to you in a store and say hello. No one is clutching a purse when they see you," he/said.

William Saafir, 44, a construction worker, and Samad Abdur-Razzaq, 37, a security officer at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant, are thousands of miles away from the Watts section of Los Angeles. Literally, and spiritually, they said.

They came to Weatherford on a visit five years ago as part of a Muslim agricultural project. The serene setting convinced them to bring their families

"I never thought I would leave Watts, let alone LA," said Saafir. "That (the move) came about after I thought about what W. Deen Muhammad said about seeking model Muslim communities."

And to the Saafirs, Shaheeds and Abdur-Razzaq families, a community free from crime and drugs was a productive community. "We came here for the children," Shaheed said. He and his wife, Elizabeth, 42, both natives of Little Rock, Ark... and another Little Rock family came to Peaster in 1984 after living briefly in Fort Worth that same majoring in astrophysics at Prairie View A&M University, was home for the holidays. "I feel much more mature than college students my age," said

Arletta, who attributes her maturity to her faith. Being young and Muslim is not difficult, she said. In fact, she and her 16-year-old sister, Latifah, say, other kids have more respect for

"People don't curse too much around me," said Latifah, who is still learning at home in the academy. "They might ask me why I wear my scarf," she said, as she fingers the long black cloth covering her head.

Arletta and Latifah say their way of living and dress generate more respect than ridicule.

Belief in life after death remains strong

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The belief in life after death is held by nearly 80 percent of Americans, a percentage that has remained virtually unchanged for two decades.

The findings of a new study by two sociologists at Pennsylvania State University provide compelling evidence of the enduring religious beliefs of Americans, researchers said.

"This is kind of like the dog that didn't bark," said Clyde Wilcox, an associate professor at Georgetown University. "Throughout Europe and much of the industrialized West, religion is declining."

In a generation of widespread decisions increasingly separating religion and public life — there was very little change in the number of Americans who said they believed in life after death.

In analyzing data from the General Social Surveys from 1973 to 1991, Glenn Firebaugh and Brian Hurley found that the number of Americans who said they believed in life after death remained virtually unchanged from year to year at about 78 percent.

Overall by religious groups, 84 percent of Protestants, 76 percent of Catholics and 31 percent of Jews said they believed in life after death.

Neither the jeremiads of conser-social change — including court vatives nor the predictions of some social commentators that secularization was inevitable appear to be accurate, according to the study

'Despite emotional rhetoric on either side, our belief in an afterlife is just about the same as it was 20 years ago," the researchers said.

The annual surveys did not ask respondents each year why they believed in lite after death. In a recent episode of the TV comedy 'Roseanne," the title character put forth the "this can't be all there is" argument.

For many people, biblically based teachings about eternal life are an important source of their beliefs in life after death, Wilcox said.

"Most Americans are nominally Christians, and the very core beliefs about there being a God and an afterlife are the ones they hang on to the most," Wilcox said. There are several references to life after death in the Bible.

The 12th chapter of the Book of Daniel speaks of a time when Many of those who sleep in the dust of the Earth shall awake. some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt.

Both the Gospel of Luke and the Second Letter of Paul to the Corinthians speak of individuals facing their final judgment, with the faithful being cared for after death.

The book captures the area's past with entries from the journal of Captain R.B. Marcy in 1849. It also includes information on native birds, plants and animals as well as "Big Spring Firsts." Other projects of the Howard County Historical Commission include "Birds of Howard County," a listing of birds and migration patterns through the area; historical place mats, featuring sketches of prominent homes; and "Grid Iron Greats," a listing of Big Spring High School graduates who competed in professional football.

Mays said the historical commission works with local civic, school, social and government groups who are helpful in collecting information on the history of Howard County

Under the guidance of the County Commission, the local historical commission operates on about $1,000 a year.

Information about the history of Howard County can be obtained at many area locations, including the Howard County Library, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce or the Heritage-Museum.

On the move, among strangers, in unfamiliar circumstances, people are somehow different than on their home turf. So says a veteran airport chaplain, who finds that travelers seem especially candid about their lives

"It opens people up," said the Rev. John Jamnicky, chaplain at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago and president of the International Association of Civil Aviation Chaplains. "It's a kind of grace moment.

This holiday period is a particularly busy time for the world's 120 airport chaplains, including about 40 of them in the United States. Between Dec. 23 and Jan. 4, an estimated 23 million people move through U.S. airports. That is about 47 percent more than for such average periods. Jamnicky said travelers turn to airport chaplains for a variety of reasons, often in connection with some family tragedy, a death or illness, or personal problems, such as changed employment.

"We try to give them strength, support and encouragement in a time of difficulty," Jamnicky said. 'We try to be with them."

However, most airline travelers are on vacations, honeymoons or business trips, he said. "Away from their common surroundings and routine, they often take advantage of their extra time to spend a little of it with the Lord.

That may be in a regular chapel service, prayer or counseling.

A "ministry of the moment," Jamnicky calls it, noting that people dealt with are known only briefly. But he said those airport interludes often are "moments of take a look at who they really are in that moment." In that unusual situation, he said they tend to face their problems more honestly and clearly

He mentioned an episode the previous day involving a West Coast woman who had left her husband without telling him she was leaving and was headed to Chile. Jamnicky persuaded her to at least telephone him of her intentions.

However, after their telephone conversation, she decided to head back home, and Jamnicky had to help rescue her luggage from Chile-bound airliner on which she was booked

"I had simply told her it was very wrong to walk out and not even speak to him about it," Jamnicky said. "He deserved at least some contact." He wasn't privy to their ensuing conversation, nor sure what changed her mind.

Jamnicky, 47, a Roman Catholic, has been in charge of the O'Hare airport chapel for 12 years. The former Air Force chaplain, has for nine years headed the airport chaplains' association, which marked its 25th anniversary in

He, like other airport chaplains, function ecumenically, helping people of any faith or none. U.S. airport chaplains include about 20 Protestants, 20 Roman Catholics and one rabbi

The first U.S. airport chaplaincy was established in 1952 at Boston's Logan Airport, and later that same year, a chaplaincy was started at New York's then-Idlewild Field, now John F. Kennedy International Besides servicing the traveling population, Jamnicky said major airports also have a weekend round of Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Islamic worship services for airport personnel, run by ministers of those faiths. For travelers, the approach is ecumenical.

The Rev. Charles Smith, a United Church of Christ minister and chaplain at the Charlotte-Douglas Airport in North Carolina, said he doesn't even bring up the subject of religion when he meets

"I just encourage people," he said. "If they want a prayer, that's fine, if prayer is helpful. Sometimes we do nothing more than touch.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. - When Kara Russell asked to sing "The First Noel" in her Nevada school's Christmas pageant, the fifthgrader's principal wouldn't allow

But the principal soon received what educators and government officials around the country have been getting: a crash course in constitutional law and religion from the Rev. Pat Robertson's American Center for Law and Justice.

The ACLJ was established two years ago by Robertson, founder of the Christian Broadcasting Network, as a rival to the American Civil Liberties Union. The stated mission of the center, based at Robertson headquarters in Virginia Beach, is to educate government officials about free religious speech.

The principal at Vegas Verdes Elementary School in Las Vegas forbid "The First Noel" on the ground that the Constitution requires church-state separation.

Kara got to sing her carol at school Friday after ACLJ chief counsel Jay Alan Sekulow told officials in her school district that they "must be reminded that Christian students cannot be treated like second-class citizens," according to an ACLJ press release on the case.

The ACLJ has a $3 million budget and about a dozen lawyers on its staff. They take on such cases as challenges to no-protest zones around abortion clinics, and defending religious pamphleteers in parks.

The group also helped studentrun Bible clubs avoid problems in organizing a nationwide prayer day around public school flagpoles in September.

As for the ACLU, it feels misunderstood.

ACLU spokesman Phil Gutis said that if by "national groups" Sekulow is alluding to the New York-based civil liberties group, he's misguided.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

DEAR READERS: My New Year's column has become an annual tradition since 1973. These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Al-Anon. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my

Just for today I will live through this day only, and not set farreaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 24 hours that would appall me if I thought I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them

P.S. God bless our men and women in uniform in every corner of the world where our flag is flying. And let us not forget those patriotic Americans who are serving their country in the Peace Corps, as well as those who have served and are now in veterans' hospitals and nursing homes.

FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 2, 1993

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You gain new understanding and a more secure financial perspective. Be willing to explore options suggested by a boss or an authority figure. Listen with discerning ears to the feedback you are getting. Tonight: It's your treat.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are in a m- od to explore new options and visualize your goals in a new way. You gain a new perspective through an important discussion. Be aware of what another is really confessing. Tonight: All smiles.

GEMANI May 21 June 20): Get past the immediate and gain a better understanding of where a friendship is heading. Your openness and vulnerability allow another to break through barriers. Think in terms of "we." Tonight: Relax with another CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be clear as to what you want. Touch base with a loved or friend who means much to you. Your understanding is deep. Let go and be more playful. Hook up with friends and get into the celebrations. Tonight: Go where the gang is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be more sensitive to another's ideas. Nevertheless, you still call the shots that dictate the outcome of an important situation. Your more-playful side comes out. Be nurturing with a friend or co-worker. Tonight: Still cruising.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Consider an invitation that may be a bit unusual yet could be a lot of fun. Open up to the adventure. You meet someone quite different from the norm. Be willing to understand where another is coming from. Tonight: Go where the music is LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make it a fun day with a special friend. You feel more loved and cared about than you have in a while. Express your more-loving side. A long-overdue talk makes you feel secure. Understand where another is coming from. Tonight: Look to a close encounter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Let others express their feelings. You are able to gain a clearer understanding as you open new paths of communications. Enjoy the closeness and defer to another's plans today. Tonight: You find yourself still talking and socializing another's plans today. Tonight: You find yourself still talking and socializing.

8AGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You feel much better about your general situation. Act on a resolution to take better care of yourself. Practice better dietary and health habits. Do some overdue shopping just for you. Hook up with a co-worker for an afternoon get-together. Tonight: Call it

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You perk up considerably now that the celebrations are over. You gain a new glow as a loved one or potential suitor comes charging in. Your creativity flourishes. Tonight: Off doing a tango. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are pleased to settle down to a slower pace. Don't hesitate to ask AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are pleased to settle down to a slower pace. Don't hesitate to ask for some time alone; you might need it to clear your head. Talks with a family member help you reef more secure. Tonight: Be a couch potato.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20); A talk brings you good news and a new perspective. You finally understand just how much a friend really cares. Get together with friends and catch up on news. Browse through a favorite store or catch an art show. Tonight: Hang out in a favorite haunt.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE FOR A CORRECTIONAL FACILITY

In accordance with Texas Department of Criminal Justice Request For Proposals (RFP) dated November 1992, and in compliance with the TEX CODE CRIM PRO ANN Art. 42.13 Section 10 (Vernon Supp. 1991-1992), please be advised that RECOR, INC., an Austin, Texas based Corrections Company proposes to finance, design, build and manage a 500 bed Correctional Facility for male or female inmates at a location south of 1-20 and West of Hwy. 87 in Big Spring Air Park. Subject to contract award, this facility will be approximately 100,000 square feet. A public hearing will be held for all interested persons to review conceptual site plans and to receive citizen input on integrating this industry into the community. This hearing will be held at Council Chambers, Bldg. 1106, at Big Spring Air Park, Big Spring, Texas at 7:00 P.M. on Thursday, January 14, 1993. Local community groups and civic leaders as well as Texas Department of Criminal Justice Officials are invited to attend and meet with company officials to discuss the security and economic impact of the secure correctional facility.

Bengals wide receiver Offensive Rookie of the Year

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Carl Pickens will be upset if he has another season like the one that earned him Associated Press Offensive

Rookie of the Year honors. Except for two moments — a 95-yard punt return and a clutch 22-yard touchdown catch — the Cincinnati Bengals receiver had an unremarkable first year.

"Basically, there's only been two big plays, the punt return and the catch," Pickens said. "That's basically the only thing that I've done."

edge New Orleans' Vaughn Dunbar by two votes for the offensive rookie honors announced Thursday, but not good enough to satisfy Pickens. The secondround draft pick from Tennessee was more overwhelmed than overwhelming.

"It's just been a long season," he said. "It's been rough having to come in and try to learn and be competitive and keep my head up and continue to go forward."

Progress came haltingly for Pickens, who failed to hold a starting job as a receiver and lost his job as punt returner near the It was good enough to let him end of the year. But he's not too upset that he didn't do too much. "There's nothing really to be frustrated about," he said. "Coming in, I didn't know what to expect. Last year, we only won three games, so I didn't come in expecting to win the conference or even go to the playoffs.

because I didn't know how much playing time I was going to get. I didn't even know I was going to be returning punts. These things happened unexpectedly, so I've just had to go with the flow."

The expectations begin next year. The Bengals (5-11) will be well into their rebuilding, and Pickens will become either a big part of the offense or a bust.

"I'm going to set my goals: make a certain amounts of catches and touchdowns and try to be one of the top five or six in different categories, among the top receivers in the league," he said.

The Bengals expect the same. "We think he has a very bright "I didn't really set any goals future as he continues to learn the offense and the defenses," coach Dave Shula said. "He has shown the ability to make spectacular plays. I believe he'll just

> He's going to be measured against the two best moments of his rookie year.

> The first was Sept. 20 in a 24-23 loss at Green Bay. He made the mistake of fielding a punt on his own 5-yard line, but turned it into a highlight-film moment by weaving 95 yards for a touchdown.

The second was his touchdown catch against the Chicago Bears that sent the game to overtime and eventually a 31-28 win on Nov. 8. The 6-foot-2 Pickens outjumped 5-foot-9 Lemuel Stinson to catch a 22-yard touchdown pass from Boomer Esiason that tied the game with 59 seconds

That was probably the Bengals' best moment of the year, the only time they rallied in the closing minute. And all the credit went to Pickens.

"It was strictly one-on-one, and he went up and took the ball away from a defensive back," Shula said. "It couldn't have been at a more crucial time in a ballgame for you, and he was able to deliver.

Week-in and week-out, Pickens wasn't so noticeable. He had just 26 receptions for a 12.5-yard average and the one touchdown, and averaged 12.7 yards on punt returns. He never caught more than four passes in a game, and wound up with two or fewer in 14 of the 16 games. He also had a couple of fumbles after catches.

Part of the problem was the Bengals' overall problem on offense - no quarterback threw for 200 yards in a game. The Bengals had to scale down the offense after replacing Boomer Esiason with David Klingler in the 12th game.

That's one of the reasons the Bengals' coaching staff wasn't disappointed with Pickens' meager overall contribution.

"The whole offense has been adjusting this year with the quarterback change and getting away from the no-huddle and the fact that we've played a lot of other young players and have had to really back down and simplify things," Shula said.

NFL, players call off their agreement

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK - Spike the optimism. Cancel the contract celebrations. The NFL and the players are at it again.

The tentative agreement between the league and players fell apart Wednesday night, according to Jim Quinn, the lawyer for the players.

"Basically," Quinn said, "they left today saying that their position was the deal was off."

That tentative deal, reached last week, seemed to clear the way for liberalized free agency, a reduced draft and a salary cap. Now, nothing seems clear - except that the sides are far apart

"The most amazing thing was that they wanted to put a limit on free agency itself," Quinn said. "They limited the time to 60 days, even though in other sports in which we have free agency, free is free, not free for a while. F-R-E-E."

League spokesman Joe Browne emphasized that the agreement was tenuous

"We have said all along that there were major unresolved issues," Browne said. "The player negotiators have not given any indication in recent days that they were willing to compromise on any of those key issues.

Of course, Quinn, NFLPA executive director Gene Upshaw and his assistant, Doug Allen, insist it is the league that is not willing to compromise.

'We had an agreement in principle announced last Tuesday (Dec. 22), and none of the issues discussed in the last week changed. There were no new issues raised or discussed," Quinn said. "Apparently a number of hardline owners at the very end insisted upon an increase in the number of years in the deal. They wanted an additional year and then two years more on the draft, going beyond the terms of agreement.'

Buffalo Bills down,

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. - The Buffalo Bills have reason to be bummed out heading into Sunday's AFC playoff game with the Houston Oilers. They also have an opportunity, coach Mary Levy

In a humiliating 27-3 loss to the Oilers in last week's regular season finale at Houston, the Bills failed to secure their fifth straight AFC East title and home-field advantage in the playoffs for what would have been a third straight year.

Not only that, their star quarterback is out with a sprained knee and the status of a half dozen other players is up in the air.

Sorting through the dark clouds, Levy saw a sliver of silver.

"They can be something better (than AFC East champs) that they've never been: Super Bowl champs," he said. "And there's only one way to do it."

The way to a third straight Super Bowl appearance will be an exceedingly hard one for Buffalo, a wild card team won three straight playoff games to make the Super Bowl. Only one — the 1980 claim a championship.

The Bills say they are ready for the challenge. "We'll definitely be up for this seven sacks last week.

one. It's the playoffs," linebacker Shane Conlan said. "We just have a difficult road getting there...

Straight ahead are the Oilers, who have to be pretty optimistic about their chances after the thorough whipping they gave the Bills last Sunday

"It definitely helps our confidence knowing that we can beat them, but there's still a lot more obstacles we have to overcome to beat them in their place, as opposed to playing in our place," Warren

Houston coach Jack Pardee wouldn't say whether Moon, who returned from an arm injury to look sharp in limited action last week, or Cody Carlson would start at quarterback.

Either way, Moon said the Rich Stadium crowd will give Buffalo as much of an advantage as the Oilers had last week in the Astrodome.

'It does make it tougher because you have to go up into their place and play this time," he said. 'Some of the things that you didn't have to worry about like crowd 11-5. Only twice in NFL history has noises and weather conditions, we're going to have to worry about there.

Although a sellout isn't likely, Raiders - has won four straight to Buffalo crowds are among the most noisy in an outdoor stadium and Levy said that will help the Bills offensive line, which gave up

"If there's going to be a factor from which the biggest swing could come from, we'll get it more from our crowd ... then we will from keeping in a tight end, as far as pass protection," Levy said.

The Bills know who they'll have at quarterback, they just wish it was Jim Kelly. With Kelly out, perennial backup Frank Reich will ead Buffalo.

Reich said he's hoping to draw on an experience he had in 1990, when Kelly went down late in the season against the New York Giants.

'I came in and didn't play particulary well in the Giants game but I felt like I played enough," he said. "Then we came back and played the Dolphins (the next week) and I don't think that it took me time to warm up.

Reich led the Bills past Miami in the latest in a number of solid performances he has made in eight years as Kelly's backup.

"I think our players have a lot of confidence in Frank Reich," Levy said. "They have reason to have it based on past performances. They know he has a great grasp of the offense." In Kelly's absence, the Bills will look to Thurman Thomas, the NFL's leader in combined rushing and receiving yards for the past four seasons. Thomas averaged 5.4 yards a carry last week against the

Chiefs DB top defensive rookie in league

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Four years after he dropped out of college and took a job at a fastfood joint, Dale Carter is The Associated Press defensive rookie of the year.

"It looks like I made the right decision to go back to school,' said Kansas City's first-year cornerback-kick returner. "If I hadn't come back, would I be here now? No, I don't think I would.

"Man, this is better than dropping fries and washing dishes. Carter received 22 votes to 19 for Tampa Bay defensive end Santana Dotson in balloting by a nationwide panel of media members.

While helping the Chiefs maintain a tradition of top-flight secondary play, Carter has rarely looked like a rookie. His seven interceptions are one shy of the Chiefs' 30-year-old rookie

He stepped in for injured Albert Lewis, a perennial allpro, and performed with the skill and daring of a savvy veteran. His 36-yard touchdown return of a John Elway pass Sunday helped the Chiefs (10-6) lock up their third straight playoff berth.

He took the first punt he returned in the NFL 46 yards for a touchdown in the 24-10 seasonopening victory at San Diego. As a kick returner, he has also committed some eye-popping boneheaded plays. But his athletic talents almost never had a chance to blossom. Academically ineligible at all the major college programs who recruited him out of Covington, Ga., he wound up at Ellsworth Community College in Iowa Falls, Iowa, where he had 11 interceptions his first season and was named to several junior college All-America squads. But when he wasn't on the football field, Carter found little excitement in the community of about 5,500 north of Des Moines.

"The small town got to me," he said. "A lot of things were going through my mind. So I packed up and left one night.

He went home to Covington and got a job selling burgers and fries. About a month later, a call came from Fran Sisco, wife of then-Ellsworth coach Lloyd "She said, 'You really need to get back in school," Carter said. "My mom was nagging me all the time about it. Plus my brother." Carter's brother, Jake Reed, is a wide receiver with the Minnesota Vikings. "My brother went to Grambling, and he kept telling me I had to get back in school, I had to get back in school," Carter said. "So I said, 'OK, I'm out of Back at Ellsworth for the 1989 season, Carter set a school record with 17 career interceptions and returned six kickoffs for touchdowns. Stepping up in class, he played the next two years at Tennessee and immediately became a consensus all-Southeastern Conference free safety. The Chiefs made him the 20th selection in the 1992 draft. But it was in Dallas last Oct. 18 when he began to feel his confidence rise. The Chiefs lost the game, but Carter drew rave reviews for the way he covered All-Pro Michael Irvin

"After the Dallas game and playing Michael Irvin, I thought if I can guard those guys, I can guard anybody in the NFL," he
