EPC meeting

The Local Emergency Planning Committee is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in Building 1106 at the Big Spring McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

A post-incident stress management session will be included. "We're going to attempt to form a stress management team," said committee member C. Roy Wright.

Mid-American Pipeline will also present a session on liquefied petroleum gas pipeline systems it has in Howard County.

Members and others interested are welcome. It's free.

BSHS play

Big Spring High School choir and theater students will present a "rock musical" version of Euripides' Greek tragedy Medea at 7:30 p.m. today through Saturday in the high school auditorium.

Tickets for children and students are $3 and $4 for adults.

The tragedy features singing and dancing in an updated style with rock, ballads and rap. Students will dramatize the play with a chorus as well as act, sing and dance.

Students' costumes are designed in a futuristic punk-rock style.

The stage is draped with 18-foot hangings, also situated behind the audience. Surround-sound speakers will provide the stereo effect.

The 2,500-year-old play is about Medea seeking revenge on her mate for his adulterous affair.

Clinton becomes 42nd president

Karla Woolf and Wendell Leatherwood take a moment to watch President Clinton take the oath of office on Inauguration Day Wednesday morning. The two were watching the bank of televisions from the Sears store in the Big Spring Mall.

Promises he'll face hard truths take strong steps

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — William Jefferson Clinton was inaugurated the 42nd president of the United States on Wednesday before a cheering crowd of a quarter-million, bringing a new generation to power and pledging "to face hard truths and take strong steps."

Inheriting a weak economy, a $4 trillion federal debt and a galaxy of foreign-policy problems, Clinton called for national renewal but acknowledged, "It will not be easy; it will require sacrifice." He specified none in his inaugural address, leaving that for later.

Clinton used the word change 11 times, and promised his Democratic administration would end the "deadlock and drift" of government.

"There is nothing wrong with America that cannot be cured by what is right with America," Clinton said at a Capitol ceremony bathed in sunlight on a chill winter day.

Cheers, whistles and applause swelled from the huge crowd. Around the world, countless millions paused to watch the ceremony on television.

It was a day of emotional celebration and colorful pageantry. Pennsylvania Avenue was packed with an estimated 800,000 well-wishers as the new president and his wife, Hillary, walked several blocks of the parade route to their new home at the White House. Hand in hand, they walked inside after staying past dark to watch marching units from every state.

Later, they headed out for a late night of partying, beginning with a dinner honoring Medal of Honor winners. "As you might imagine, this has been a long, wonderful, unique day in the lives of Bill and Hillary Clinton," the president told military dignitaries. "We wanted to begin here because of your commitment to our nation." Next came 11 inaugural balls and a stop at a dance sponsored by the rock video network MTV.

A saxophone was presented to Clinton at the Arkansas ball and he delighted the crowd by playing along as Ben E. King sang, "Your Momma Don't Dance and Your Daddy Don't Rock 'n' Roll."

He picked up the instrument at other galas, drawing cheers from the boogeying crowds and quipping after one performance, "I think I'd better stick with my day job, but I had a great time."

Looking a bit weary, the first couple returned early Thursday for their first night in the White House.

Outgoing President Bush, denied a second term by a restive electorate demanding change, watched stoically at the Capitol as Clinton was sworn in by Chief Justice William Rehnquist. Suddenly an ex-president, Bush stepped forward to shake his successor's hand.

FOP, council at odds on civil service

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Debates on whether voters should put the Big Spring Police Department under state civil service law — possibly on the May 1 ballot — may pit management against rank and file officers.

A majority of the Big Spring City Council members oppose it. But a majority of local police officers are members of the Fraternal Order of Police, the organization circulating petitions to get the issue on the ballot. Most of the required signatures — nearly 300 — are reportedly collected.

Civil service law is designed to eliminate politics and favoritism in hiring, promotion and firing through detailed written procedures that include testing. It does not allow for collective bargaining or strikes.

Those for civil servant status say it creates job stability, provides better benefits and will save money by reducing turnover. A half dozen officers left the 39-member department during the past six months, including two this month. Those against it say it hinders management and could be costly because of increased legal advice.

For now, opinions from both sides are being kept low key.

"We want to keep low as long as possible without any bad words, mudslinging... We don't want it to get out of hand," said Patrol Officer Jimmy Mayes, vice president of the local FOP chapter.

"I think we ought to cool down here for a couple months and get all the facts," said Councilman Mark Sheedy, who along with Mayor Tim Blackshear and council members Corky Harris and Ladd Smith oppose putting the department under civil service. Council member Pat DeAnda said she is still looking into the matter.

Mayes said the FOP will work out campaign strategy after all needed signatures from registered voters have been received and verified. He expects the needed signatures to be complete by next week. "I don't know the exact count right now. I'm sure we're pretty close," he said Wednesday.

Because council elections are

May 1, the issue can be added to the ballot at no extra cost.

Mayes said the move to put the issue on the ballot is not related to a reorganization of the department, announced three weeks ago by Police Chief Joe Cook and City Manager Lanny Lambert. The move would put some detectives back in the field to increase the number of officers on patrol from an average of three to five per shift.

"It's got nothing to do with the reorganization," Mayes said. "A majority of officers have no problem with the reorganization."

Cook and Lambert said they will reserve comment until later.

Locals aid students in replacing materials

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Big Spring residents made it possible for a local elementary school to replace and update reference materials, some dating back 20 years, through its support of a youth reading program.

The reference books — like encyclopedia volumes, dictionaries, youth information books and atlases — were sorely needed, according to school officials.

Washington Elementary School educators inspired students to read and renewed their stock of reference books at the same time through a program known as "Partners In Excellence," according to Principal Bill Tarleton.

World Book Encyclopedia developed the program in which students raised money by asking community members to sponsor their book reading marathon.

The school raised $3,250 and with Worldbook matching the funds classes received $5,000 in materials.

"The community responded in a first class way," Tarleton said. "It was through their generosity that we were able to raise this much money."

Teacher Joy Armstrong and her third-grade class raised the most money, higher than the school goal set for each student to read seven books in seven weeks with seven sponsors.

Her sponsors include eight businesses as well as friends and family of the students.

Top student collectors in Armstrong's class contributed to about $600 raised for references with Worldbook adding almost $200 in matching funds.

The top readers and the amount of money they raised were: Jocelyn Price, $52; Tommy Guyman, $35 and Amber Alvarez, $32.50.

"My students not only got the enjoyment of reading the books, but now we have a wonderful class set of encyclopedias," Armstrong said. "These will be great for our room because our old set of books had volumes missing and they were 25 years old."

Chamber committee targeting minorities

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

The newly-formed Minority Involvement Planning Committee plans to follow through on the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's commitment to increase the role minorities play in chamber activities.

Spearheaded by chamber president-elect Kent Newsom, the committee's purpose is to devise a long term plan to increase the involvement of minority business owners and professionals in chamber activities.

As determined by the chamber's mailing list, of its 577 members, 148 members could be considered minority. Of those, 136 are women and 12 members are Hispanic, African-American, Asian or other ethnicities. The total minority make-up is calculated at 25.65 percent but when the women's membership is omitted it is 2 percent.

At its first meeting Wednesday, Newsom, chamber president Ben Bancroft, executive vice president Linda Roger and chamber member Gary Larceneire met with minority community members who were invited to join the committee.

In an informal setting the committee reviewed its preliminary objectives. The first being to implement initiatives to assist existing minority-owned businesses and to increase the number of minority-owned businesses. Other initiatives will identify and develop minority leaders to assume position of leadership in the chamber.

Committee members agreed innovative ideas would have to be im-

Radical polygamists convicted of 1988 slayings, civil rights offenses

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Three members of a radical polygamist group were convicted Wednesday of civil rights violations and other federal charges in the 1988 slayings of three former sect members and a young girl.

The defendants each were convicted on nine counts and acquitted on one weapons charge in the killings, which prosecutors claimed were carried out to bring on the "kingdom of God."

However, the jury said it had not yet reached a decision on four charges alleging conspiracy and murder-for-hire. U.S. District Judge Simeon Lake urged the jurors to go back and try to reach a verdict on the remaining charges.

Jurors deliberated for about an hour before telling the judge they wanted to review some testimony. The judge let them go home for the day, telling them to return Thursday morning when the requested evidence would be available.

William Heber LeBaron, 28, Patricia LeBaron, 27, and Douglas Lee Barlow, 31, were convicted of charges stemming from the July 27, 1988, fatal shootings, which occurred almost simultaneously in three locations.

The three were found guilty of several charges, including tampering with a witness, conspiracy, a weapon's violation and interfering with a person's religious beliefs. They also were convicted of the Racketeering Influenced Corrupt Organizations Act.

Prosecutor Mike Shelby said it was the first time in the nation the obstruction charge has been used since enacted June 24, 1988 — just three days before the murders. The law, part of the hate crimes legislation, makes it illegal to obstruct a person's right to practice their religion.

So far, each defendant faces up to life in prison without parole, plus 25 years, when sentenced by the judge.

Jennifer Chynoweth, 8, her father, Duane Chynoweth, 31, his brother, Mark Chynoweth, 36, and Ed Marston, 32, were gunned down at three sites in Houston and suburban Dallas.

The three men had been targeted for death because they left the Church of the First Born of the Lamb of God, founded by the late polygamist leader Ervil LeBaron, prosecutors said. The girl was killed because she was a witness to her father's death, they said.

"I'm in shock. I'm happy for what they got. I'm relieved," said a smiling Lura Chynoweth, whose husband and daughter were killed. She said the case was especially painful since she had known the defendants for years, and once considered them part of her family.

"I feel a lot for them (the defendants). I still have good memories from the past," she said. "But I know that they killed."

The defendants showed little emotion when the partial verdict was read.

"We have prepared them for a verdict like this," said defense attorney Tom Berg, who represents William Heber LeBaron. Berg and the other two defense attorneys said they planned to appeal.

Patricia and William are the natural children of Ervil LeBaron, and Barlow is his stepson. In all, LeBaron had 54 children by 13 wives.

Prosecutors said Ervil LeBaron's writings promised that the group members who killed those who had abandoned the church would help bring on the kingdom of God and would inherit the world's riches.

Man videotaped killing wife arrested in Fort Stockton

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI — Three days after a television camera filmed him shooting his ex-wife near the grave of their daughter, a Florida man was arrested in Texas as he got off a bus for a bogus alien check authorities staged to catch him.

The arrest successfully concluded a round-the-clock nationwide search narrowed by a tip that Emilio Nunez was on a Greyhound bus bound for Los Angeles.

Nunez, 34, disappeared Monday after he pushed past a Telemundo network reporter and cameraman in North Lauderdale's Queen of Heaven Cemetery to shoot his former wife, 33-year-old Maritza Martin Munoz, in the head at point-blank range.

Authorities snared Nunez, of Delray Beach, on Wednesday afternoon near Fort Stockton. Also Wednesday in North Lauderdale, Martin was buried near their daughter.

Police attended the funeral, and had been at her wake the night before, on the chance Nunez might show up.

The killing, caught on cameraman Jorge Delgado's video, showed Nunez firing all 12 bullets in his 9mm pistol at Martin.

Minutes earlier, Nunez had told the Telemundo reporter, Ingrid Cruz, that his 15-year-old daughter Yoandra committed suicide last Thanksgiving after Munoz slapped her upon learning the teen-ager was pregnant.

The final image of the video, after Delgado had dropped the still-running camera to dial 911 on a mobile phone, was of Nunez speeding off in his Jeep Cherokee.

Police found the vehicle in Hialeah later Monday, but only got on Nunez's trail the next day after an anonymous tipster called the Metro-Dade Crime Stoppers Unit, North Lauderdale Det. Robert Edgerton said Wednesday at a news conference announcing Nunez's arrest in Texas.

Edgerton said he spoke with the tipster by phone Tuesday afternoon and was told Nunez boarded a bus in Hialeah on Monday night, heading for Los Angeles.

Edgerton and Det. Lou Cavallo said Greyhound officials cooperated and quickly determined that two tickets had been bought for the Los Angeles area within minutes of a Hialeah bus departure Monday night. They then tracked the route and determined which bus Nunez was on.

He was travelling with a male companion, whom the investigators refused to identify.

"The companion was calling home to his family (in Miami) telling him he was going to L.A. with the fugitive, who unbeknownst to him was a fugitive," said Edgerton. "He was a friend of his from Cuba, and there's some indication they were in jail together" in Cuba.

Asked why Nunez might have been in prison in his native Cuba before settling in Florida, Edgerton said "We believe political persecution."

But the man was not an active participant in Nunez's interstate flight, Edgerton said, and was not detained when Nunez was arrested.

Both Edgerton and Cavallo denied the companion was the anonymous tipster who led them to Nunez. They said they suspect the tipster was "an associate" of the companion's family.

Outside Fort Stockton, Nunez was disarmed and arrested by Border Patrol agents acting with agents of the FBI and Pecos County Sheriff's investigators who stopped the bus and asked everyone to get out for an ID check.

"It was a border patrol simulation, a routine alien check. Everyone exited from the bus, a struggle ensued. He went for his weapon that was in his pouch, and he was restrained," Cavallo said.

The 9mm stainless steel automatic pistol taken from Nunez, Cavallo said, was believed to be the one he used to kill his ex-wife.

Nunez, who faces state murder charges and federal charges for unlawful flight, was then taken to Midland, Texas, where he appeared before U.S. Magistrate Louis Guirola Jr.

The judge granted a federal prosecutor's motion to detain Nunez at the Midland County Central Detention Facility without bond while authorities work on his transfer back to Florida. Guirola also set a detention hearing for Monday morning.

North Lauderdale police said they planned to send an investigator to the Midland County Detention Center today to interview Nunez.

Clinton puts pen to work immediately

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Bill Clinton was quick to exercise his presidential pen — and to put his signature — upon becoming the nation's 42nd chief executive.

While still at the Capitol after his inaugural address Wednesday, Clinton signed his first executive orders, including new ethics rules for his administration, as "William J. Clinton." As governor of Arkansas, he had signed documents as "Bill Clinton."

He was to sign more such orders today, and was expected to hold his first Cabinet meeting. Clinton's first executive acts also included the formal nomination of his already-announced Cabinet and sub-Cabinet appointees, and a proclamation asking all citizens "to join me in renewing our commitment to the American ideals of fellowship and hope."

At one point during the campaign Clinton promised to have legislation on his economic program ready to go on the day after his inauguration — but the timetable has slipped. Clinton blamed reports showing the deficit larger than anticipated.

Meanwhile, aides say, the new president will be signing a number of executive orders, partly to maintain a sense of action while his legislative agenda is crafted.

One order he could sign today would create the National Economic Council. It's a new White House group Clinton created to coordinate economic policy much like the National Security Council coordinates defense and foreign policy.

Clinton already has named New York investment banker Robert Rubin to head the council.

On Friday, Clinton plans to mark the 20th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion by signing an order revoking Bush's "gag rule" prohibiting anyone except doctors at federally funded clinics from offering abortion counseling.

Clinton also vowed during the campaign to reverse Bush's ban on fetal tissue research, a prohibition that is supported by anti-abortion forces.

Presidential aides said the president also could do that by executive order, but most likely will submit legislation.

Other executive orders aides say Clinton will sign in the first days of his presidency would:

— Curtail the number of government officials who have cars and drivers assigned to them. Aides said Clinton's order would provide that perk only to Cabinet members and a select few senior administration officials.

— Order federal agency managers to cut administrative costs by 3 percent.

— Direct agency heads to find cuts to meet Clinton's promise to reduce the federal payroll by 100,000 jobs, through attrition.

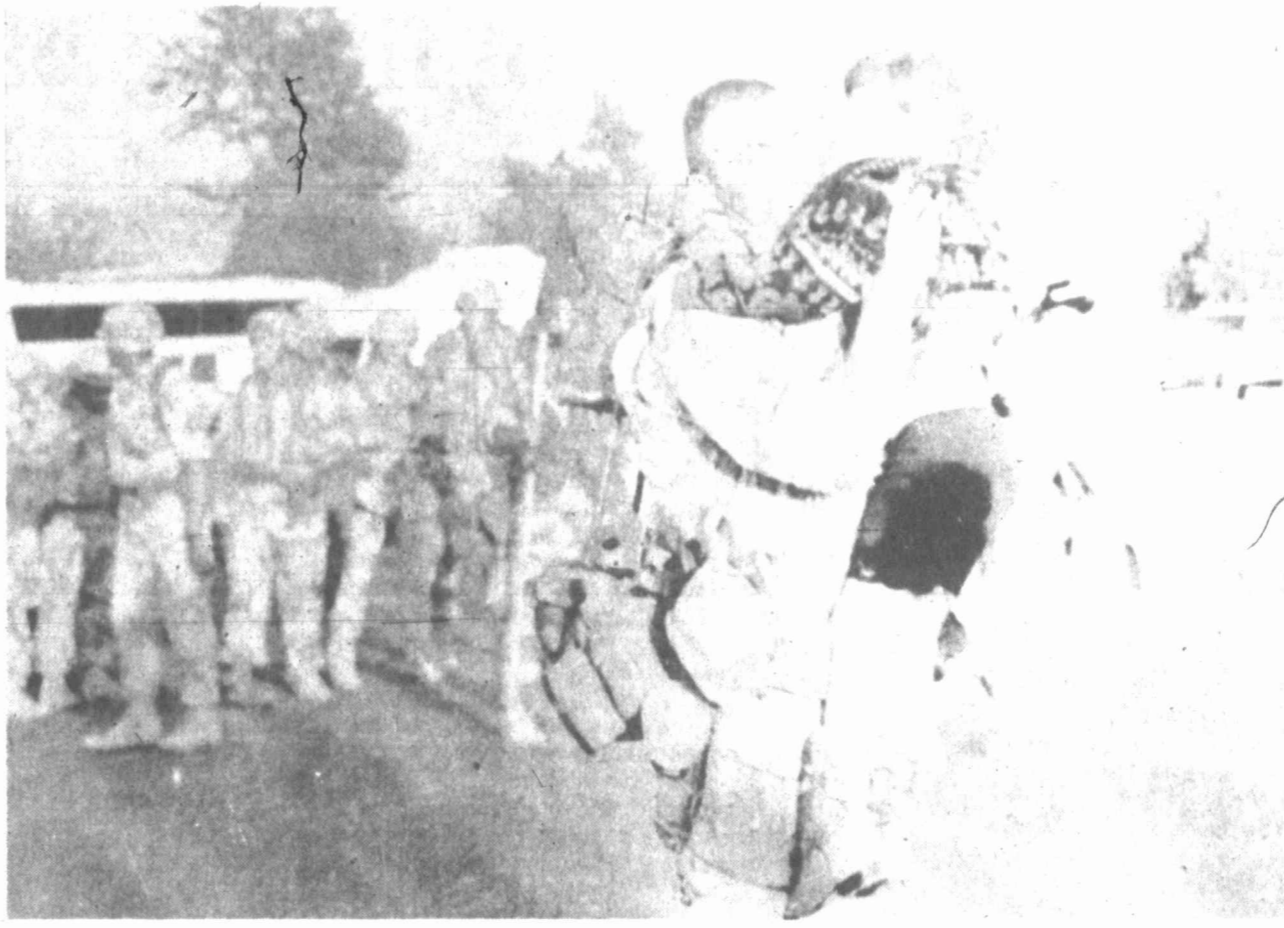

When Clinton signed his first two executive orders in the Capitol, he used a black-and-gold pen inscribed "Bill Clinton, The White House." But he signed the documents "William J. Clinton."

Clinton, who has always campaigned as Bill Clinton, was born William Jefferson Blythe IV, then adopted the last name of his stepfather when he was a teen-ager.

When the White House press office put out a text of his inaugural address, it called it the address of "William Jefferson Clinton."

The new ethics guidelines prohibit senior administration officials from lobbying the government in their area of work for five years after leaving their posts, and include a lifetime ban on lobbying for foreign interests.

Meanwhile, there was one last piece of paperwork left by Bush — a personal note the outgoing president left in his desk in the Oval Office.

Lance Cpl. Gavin Lathrop catches his 6-year-old daughter, Sarah, as she jumps into his arms upon his return to Camp Pendleton, Calif., Wednesday from Somalia. The Marines returned to find southern California ravaged by almost two weeks of stormy weather.

Homecoming a muddy one for Marines

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. — The first combat troops to return from Somalia brought back images of suffering they won't soon forget.

"You think about your own kids, how lucky they are just to have running water and electricity," Marine Capt. Greg Hauck said Wednesday. "I hope they never have to see anything like that."

Hauck, 33, cried as he hugged his wife, Pamela, and their three children. "It's good to see them, they're so healthy," he said.

After arriving by bus from March Air Force Base, the 550 members of the Marine 3rd Battalion, 9th Regiment marched into a parking lot as family members carrying flags, roses, balloons and homemade signs cried and cheered.

After weeks in the dry, dusty African nation, they returned to a swamp. Camp Pendleton was digging out from two weeks of heavy rain.

Bush: 'Now it's back to the real world...'

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — George and Barbara Bush, now just Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, took a final aerial tour of this capital where they had spent nearly three decades, then flew home to Houston "looking forward to a new life."

As the capital welcomed Bill Clinton and his new administration with a joyous parade, hundreds of people who worked for Bush in the White House and other executive offices, gathered at Andrews Air Force Base in the Maryland suburbs to bid him farewell.

His last act before the Air Force jet rolled down the tarmac was to pose for a picture with members of the Air Force maintenance crews who kept his planes flying. About three hours later, they arrived at Ellington Air Force Base in Houston.

"Now it's back to the real world for the Bushes, privileged to have served and to have had this wonderful opportunity to be in the White House. ... All I can say, is it's been one hell of a ride," Bush told a small crowd that greeted him.

And offering a glimpse of his plans, Bush said "we're going to try to do something helpful" for Houston, the city where a rented hotel suite supported his hometown claim.

Only an hour before, Bush had watched stoically as Clinton took the oath that made him the 42nd president of the United States. The new chief executive lauded Bush "for his half century of service to America," then turned and saluted his predecessor.

There was a smile on Bush's face as the two men faced one another — symbols of their generations. Bush, 68, a World War II hero; Clinton 46, a Vietnam war resister.

But in contrast to the animated expression on Clinton's face throughout the celebration of the peaceful passage of power, Bush was solemn for the most part.

A helicopter was waiting on the Capitol grounds. President and Mrs. Clinton escorted Mr. and Mrs. Bush to it. Bush turned and gave a double thumbs up before he got on board. Dan Quayle, the vice president who left office with Bush, and his wife, Marilyn, also went aboard. The chopper lifted, circled the Capitol and then the White House before bringing the Bushes to the air base.

About 2,000 people awaited them there, cheering lustily as they alighted. A Navy band played marches. The brilliant sun glinted off the plane that Bush rode so often as Air Force One.

The 747 on which he flew Wednesday did not carry that designation because that name is given only to the plane carrying the president. Instead, for this flight, it was SAM 28000. SAM stands for special air mission.

The big blue and white jumbo jet was familiar to Bush. In his 1,462 days as president, he traveled 612,394 miles to all 50 states and 35 foreign countries, most of them aboard the 747.

Bush's longtime spokesman Marlin Fitzwater also held one last press briefing. A brief one. Asked how Bush felt, he said, "He's fine, looking forward to a new life."

Fitzwater who was wearing a cowboy hat, almost shouted the sentence in glee.

Something else was different. The Navy band, on the tarmac to play for Bush's departure, no longer sounded the familiar "Hail to the Chief," which honors the incumbent president.

With the inauguration ceremony at the Capitol, Bush became one of five former presidents still living, a record equaled on inauguration day only when Abraham Lincoln was sworn in for the first time.

"History will record George Bush's presidency as having been well done," said Bob Simon, who was a White House speech writer for Bush. He said he bore no ill will towards the Clinton administration.

"It's their turn. Let them have it. We'll be back in four years."

On the flight home, the Bushes took along a number of friends, including a bunch of former officeholders: his Chief of Staff Jim Baker, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Jack Kemp, White House counsel C. Boyden Gray, and political director Ron Kaufman.

Get your copy of ordinance

Without much fuss and fanfare, Big Spring City Council passed a smoking ordinance. There wasn't much controversy surrounding the ordinance because it seems the committee who drew it up kept in mind the rights of both smokers and non-smokers. Businesses now have 90 days to take "reasonable measures" to make their places comply with the ordinance. The ordinance asks business owners to take those "reasonable measures" to prevent smoking in such places as stores, restaurants and movie theaters. Smoking areas can be created but can only be large enough to accommodate normal usage. These areas have to be separated off from the non-smoking areas, ventilated to minimize effects on non-smokers. Smoking has been restricted at service lines or cashier areas. Smoking in places of employment have to be agreeable to non-smokers not including employees with regular interaction with the general public. No expense or structural changes will be required of the employer. A written policy announced and posted must be given by the employer by March 31. The ordinance becomes effect March 1. Non-compliance with the ordinance is a Class C misdemeanor, punishable by up to $500 a day. At first, copies of the ordinance were to be mailed to all business owners in the city. But, the city found it would cost between $3,000 and $4,000 to mail the ordinance. City officials are asking people who would like a copy of the ordinance to call city hall at 263-8311 or stop by the offices at Fourth and Nolan streets, to pick up a copy. Each copy costs $3.50. Be sure to get your copy. It is better to comply than face the fine.

Perils of finding babysitter revealed

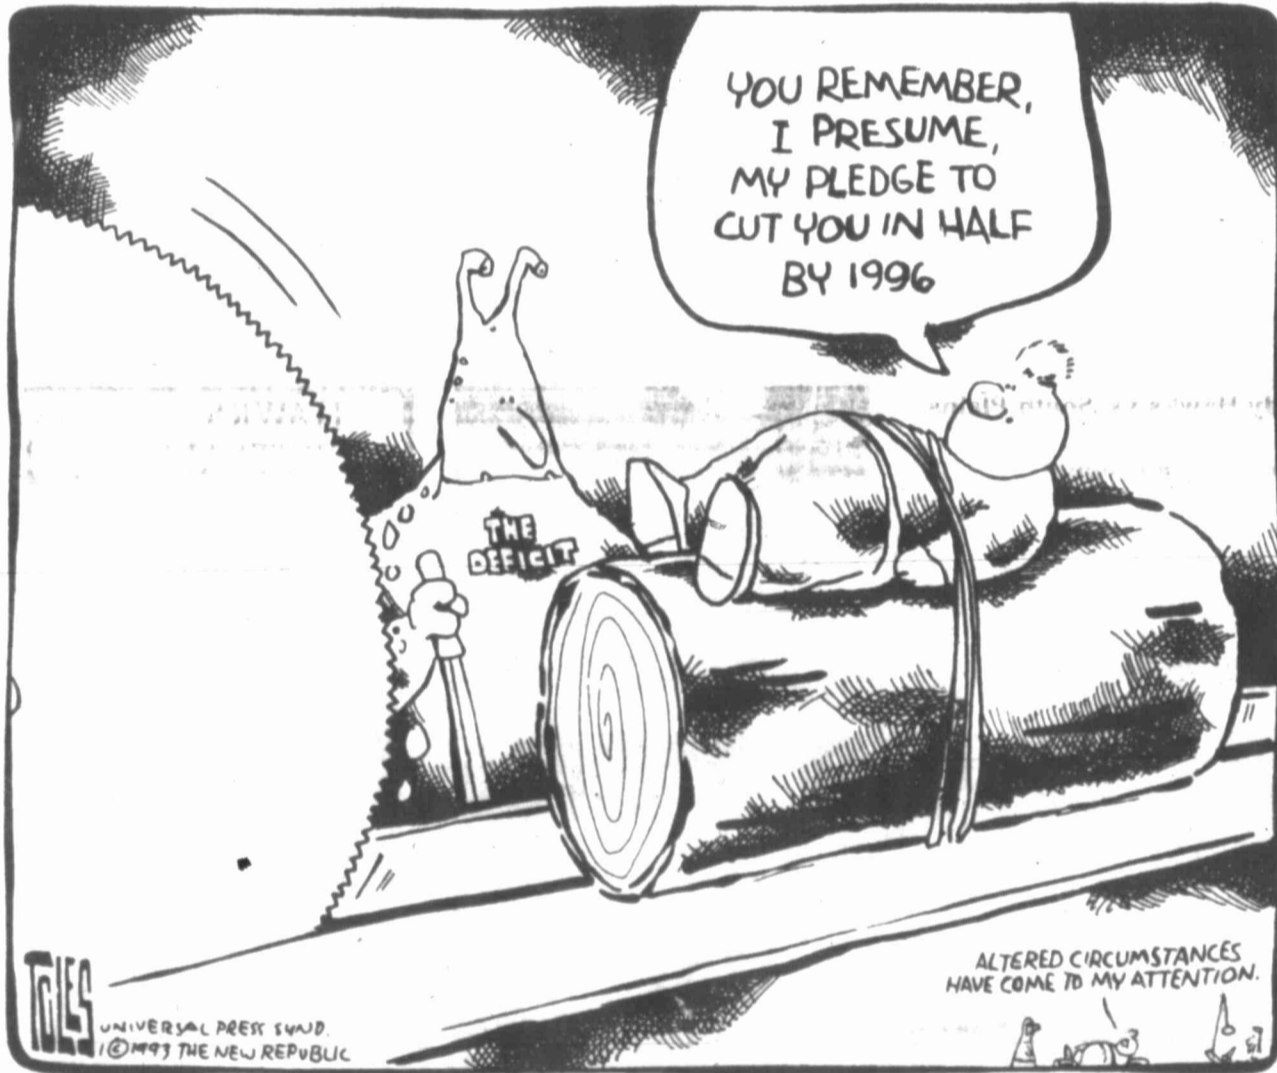

Mike Royko

There they sat, all those distinguished United States senators. Hour after hour, they poked and probed the mind of the person nominated to be the highest ranking law enforcement official in the United States. And what were they talking about most of the time? Babysitting. That's what the Senate confirmation hearing for Zoe Baird boiled down to -- how a working mother goes about finding a trustworthy baby sitter. Once in a while, a senator would toss in a question about something else, such as her qualifications to run the Justice Department, which includes about 90,000 people. But most of the time, they wanted every detail of how Baird and her law-professor husband employed a Peruvian couple as live-in domestic help: the wife as a baby sitter and the husband as a driver. It was a big deal because the Peruvians are illegal aliens. Or "undocumented workers," as the politically correct crowd suggests that we call them. And there is a law against hiring undocumented workers. So that meant that Zoe Baird and her husband broke the law, which she readily admitted. It was an even bigger deal because she did not immediately pay Social Security tax for her employees. Although she has since paid it -- plus exorbitant penalties -- that, too, was a violation of the law, which she also admitted. Of course, we aren't talking serious crime here. She didn't chance to ask them if they knew how to change a diaper or dial an emergency phone number. That's why I ended up hiring an illegal. I'm not going to pay someone to change diapers and have them act like they belong to the Teamsters." Another told me this story: "I was looking for a live-in. The pay was good, and it included a very nice, fully furnished garden apartment in my home. I swear, most of the American women who applied acted like I was imposing on them. One of them actually asked if I'd mind if her boyfriend lived with her. I told her that was out of the question. And she got indignant. When I told another one that she might have to work some Saturdays and take a weekday off, she said that was out of the question because her weekends were 'structured.' That was the word she used. Of course, she couldn't spell it." We're at a time when more women are working than ever before, except maybe during World War II. Some are single mothers. Some are married and in need of the extra income. There aren't enough day-care centers or other facilities for their kids. And to hire someone without getting in trouble with the law, you almost have to have a degree in personnel management and tax accounting. If the Senate testimony told us anything, it wasn't that Zoe Baird is some sort of fringe criminal. It told us that the federal laws and bureaucracy can turn almost anyone into a law-breaker. Yes, Ms. Baird hired a couple of illegals. The woman took care of the child, the husband spent a few hours a day driving Ms. Baird to and from her powerhouse law job. If you include room and board, she was paying them about $30,000 a year, which isn't bad for unskilled work. In the meantime, she was trying to get one of them the precious green card. Despite the tone of some of the senators' questions, she didn't chain them in a corner of the basement at night or make them pick grapes for 5 cents a bushel. While the senators were pondering the enormity of Ms. Baird's crime, some undocumented workers were flying or boating large quantities of cocaine into this country. We can't stop that. The undocumented drug merchants are armed with automatic military weapons, which they use to kill rival gangs or hapless bystanders. We can't stop that. Other foreign profiteers are hiring lobbyists to buy the votes of senators, and we can't stop that. But while that's going on, the senators and a lot of people who can't handle a successful woman like Zoe Baird are cluck-clucking about an offense that isn't as serious as driving under the influence. The same committee that was brain-addled in dealing with Clarence Thomas and Anita Hill is now boldly facing up to the issue of baby-sitting. How the mighty have fallen. Except they weren't mighty then, and they aren't much better now.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Thursday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 1993. There are 344 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: Two hundred years ago, on Jan. 21, 1793, during the French Revolution, King Louis XVI, condemned for treason by the National Convention, was executed by the guillotine. On this date: In 1861, Jefferson Davis of Mississippi and four other Southerners resigned from the U.S. Senate. In 1908, New York City's Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance that effectively prohibited women from smoking in public. However, the measure was vetoed by Mayor George B. McClellan Jr. In 1915, the first Kiwanis Club was founded, in Detroit. In 1924, Russian revolutionary Vladimir Ilyich Lenin died at age 54. In 1942, Count Basie and His Orchestra recorded "One O'Clock Jump" in New York for Okeh Records. In 1950, a federal jury in New York found former State Department official Alger Hiss guilty of perjury. In 1950, George Orwell, author of "1984," died in London. In 1954, the first atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, was launched at Groton, Conn. In 1976, the supersonic Concorde jet was put into service by Britain and France. In 1977, President Carter pardoned almost all Vietnam War draft evaders. In 1979, the Pittsburgh Steelers became the first team to win three Super Bowls as they defeated the Dallas Cowboys in Super Bowl 13, by a score of 35-31. In 1991, during the Persian Gulf War, CBS News correspondent Bob Simon, CBS News London bureau chief Peter Bluff, a cameraman and soundman were captured by Iraqi forces; they were released March 2. Ten years ago: The State Department, ignoring protests from human rights groups, told Congress the government of El Salvador had curbed political brutality, and remained eligible for military assistance. Five years ago: An anti- acne drug known as Retin-A got a boost with the release of a study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association that said the skin cream could also reduce wrinkles caused by exposure to the sun.

Just a simple clock would do

Bob Greene

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. -- Choices, choices. All the traveler wants is to know what time it is. Unfortunately, here in the place where the traveler has stopped to spend the night, there is no clock. Well, there is a clock, sort of a clock, but ... Before the traveler explains this to you, he must make a choice. First, he must determine which continent it is whose time he is curious about. There is a choice on the miniaturized computer screen that is built into his telephone. Does the traveler wish to select the time in North America? South America? Europe? The Far East? Australia? Africa/Middle East? Each of these land masses has been assigned a tiny square on the computer screen. A message on the screen advises the traveler to "Touch For Time Zone Selection." The traveler is groggy. All the traveler wants to know is the time right here, in this hotel room. The traveler cannot argue with this machine. He touches the box marked "North America." Instantly, either as the result of pressure or of warmth, the names of the following cities appear on the computer screen: Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Honolulu, Mexico City, Montreal, New York, San Francisco, Toronto, Washington, D.C. All the traveler wants is to know what time it is in this room, so he can decide if he has to get up yet. Oh -- there it is. It just flashed on, above the names of the other cities, Beverly Hills, 7:42. It is 7:42 a.m. here. This has taken the traveler about three minutes to figure out. There is such a thing as too much technology. The traveler has vaguely sensed this for years, but now here he is, trapped in a technological cul de sac in Beverly Hills. In the darkness of this room, he is endeavoring to figure out the brave new world that is controlled from the telephone by his bed. Does he want to turn a lamp on or off? The traveler is not to approach the lamp itself. On the computerized control panel on the traveler's phone, there is a menu for that. The traveler is to access the menu by pressing a computerized symbol that looks like a lightbulb with simulated rays jutting out of it. There is a little square on the computer screen that represents the lamp on the left side of the traveler's bed. There is a little square that represents the lamp on the right side of the bed. A square for the floor lamp, a square for the desk lamp, a square for the light above the mini-bar. In the dark, the traveler tries to understand how to do this. It is too cold in the room. To remedy this, the traveler must access the climate control menu. Onto the screen comes a computerized picture of a thermometer. The traveler touches certain squares. The computer-ed mercury in the thermometer, which has been on 60 degrees, beeps and moves slowly toward 70. The traveler hits the wrong square. A new menu appears. This is for the traveler's entertainment complex. Even though the TV set is only about eight feet away, the traveler is supposed to control it via his telephone computer screen. There are arrows -- up arrows, down arrows, channel arrows, volume arrows. There are radio arrows and CD arrows. In deep personal darkness, the traveler stares at the computer-generated arrows. The traveler does something wrong again. Instead of turning on the television set, the traveler accesses a new menu, asking him which language he wishes to see his instructions in from now on. The traveler's choices: English, Espanol, Deutsch, Francais, and two languages that appear to be Chinese and Japanese. This seems to be a lot of trouble to go through to find out what time it is and to make the room a little warmer. The traveler hits the "Deutsch" square on the computer screen. An alarm clock function appears on the screen. Does the traveler wish the alarm clock to be "Aus" or "Ein"? Is he interested in setting the "Stunden" or the "Minuten"? The traveler wants only to know the time. He hits another button, close to desperate. He is back to trying to turn the lights on. In French. Does he wish to turn on the "Lit Gauche"? The "Lit Droite"? Perhaps he wishes "Tout Eteint"? He wants to know what time it is.

Letters to the Editor

A Godless country?

To the editor: You people can rest easily now. I am, back in my padded room, the door is locked and the straight-jacket, is on so tight, that I, can hardly breathe. And the gag in my mouth is so tight, that I can hardly swallow. I don't know why I write letters. God wrote a book, called the Bible. And if you look around you, you will see, that his book is not good enough, to teach in school, but this other trash is great. A friend of mine said, that God will let man go as far as man can go, before he comes again. I understand that, but when I read the word of God, to me he said for man to limit man on his works, or the whole nation will be hurting. Like this one is now. How can people be so heartless, to put $14 million in an air craft, but wont, put food in a hungry babes mouth. And you are going to stand there and tell me, that this is a Godly nation. People think that America is so great that God will not hurt this nation. But so did Babylon. Can you show me where Babylon is on the map. All I can find is the ruins of the hanging gardens.

Hawks seeking bench support

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

Close observers of Western Junior College Athletic Conference mens basketball divide the league into two tiers.

Midland, Howard, South Plains and Odessa Colleges ranked one, two, three and four in the conference's preseason poll. Those teams make up the top tier. And those school's home courts are undoubtedly the hardest places to win in the conference.

The task of winning on a top team's home court faces the Howard College Hawks tonight at 8 at Levelland's Texas Dome as the Hawks take on the South Plains Texans. The tenth-ranked Hawks (18-2) are tied for first in the conference with Odessa at 4-1. South Plains (15-6) stands tied for second with New Mexico Junior College at 3-2.

When the WJCAC dropped two teams (Western Texas and Clarendon) this season and the conference schedule went from 16 to 12 games, it made each conference contest even more significant, Hawk coach Jeff Kidder says. But he says road games are particularly important because winning on the road is how a team wins the conference.

"When you're trying to win the conference, every game that you can win on the road puts a lot of pressure on the rest of the pack," Kidder says. "It's not going to kill us if we lose (to South Plains), but if we win it will be a tremendous boost. (It would) really put us in the driver's seat."

South Plains boasts a perimeter game built around the three point shooting of 6-foot-4 sophomore Artie Griffin. Griffin averaged 18.3 points a game going into the Texans 110-108 overtime loss at Frank Phillips Monday, a game in which he had 37 points. He also easily led the conference in three point

Howard College Hawks freshman guard Jovan Hamburg goes to the hoop in action earlier this season at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Tonight the Hawks play South Plains at 8 p.m.

Hawks at South Plains 8 p.m., Texan Dome times the teams met last year. Howard won in Big Spring 99-85 and beat the Texans at the Texas Dome 74-70. Kidder hesitates to give much importance to the Hawks having won in Levelland last season.

"I don't think it hurts, but I don't know how much it aids you," he says. "There are so many different players on the teams (this year). I will say having played (there) and won we have a stronger conviction that we can win the game (this year)."

The Howard coach says two keys for the Hawks will be their defensive play and offensive bench play.

"I can't tell if we're going to shot well, but we have to play good defense," Kidder says. "(And) we're going to have to get more support off our bench than we've gotten the last three games offensively."

NOTES: Howard signed two guards this week that will be eligible to play on the team next season. Six-foot Andre Owens is a transfer point guard from Tallahassee (Fla.) Junior College. "I think he'll give us what Marcus Albert gives us this year — a lot of energy and leadership at the point," Kidder says. Tori Fossett is a mid-term high school graduate from St. Louis who plays scoring guard. Kidder says Fossett could be eligible this season but he wants to save him so he can play for Howard the next two seasons.

The Howard College Lady Hawks will get a major test right after rising to the number one spot in the national junior college womens basketball poll. And it comes in the form of the South Plains Lady Texans who entered the JUCO poll Tuesday for the first time this season with a No. 18 ranking.

Howard plays South Plains tonight at 6 p.m. in Levelland's Texas Dome.

South Plains has always given the Lady Hawks problems in Chadwick's four-year tenure at Howard. In fact, it's the only team Chadwick has a losing record against. In 11 meetings, South Plains has won six

The Lady Hawks, 20-0 for the season, lead the conference race with a 4-0 record. South Plains, 13-4 for the season, is 1-2 in league play. Monday the Lady Texans defeated Frank Phillips 73-70. South Plains lost to Odessa College in Levelland 91-90 and New Mexico Junior College 99-90. Howard defeated Odessa College in Odessa 80-67 Saturday.

Reeves new Giants coach?

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Former Denver coach Dan Reeves reportedly is close to reaching an agreement with the New York Giants to become the team's coach.

The New York Times reported today that three sources, including a member of the Denver coaching staff, said Wednesday that Giants general manager George Young had offered the job to Reeves.

"I really don't have any comment," Reeves told New York

Newsday on Wednesday. "I had a conversation with George (Tuesday), but it was definitely preliminary. I'm waiting to hear from him again."

Young refused to comment. "I've got nothing to say. I have nothing to repeat," Young said. "I've just been doing my work, which has been difficult to do because I've gotten 35 phone calls."

In Denver, the Rocky Mountain News and Denver Post reported today that Reeves spent part of the day Wednesday ironing out details of a multiyear contract with Young.

Schott responds to allegations

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati Reds owner Marge Schott formally responded to allegations she made racial and ethnic slurs, submitting her evidence to National League counsel Robert Kheel in New York. Schott, accused of slurring blacks, Jews and Asians, is to meet Friday with baseball's executive council in Grapevine, Texas. The executive council, which has ruled baseball since Sept. 7 in the absence of a commissioner, has the power to suspend Schott or fine her up to $250,000.

Reds sign Joe Oliver

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati Reds catcher Joe

Oliver agreed to a one-year contract for $1.2 million, a raise of $940,000. Oliver hit .270 with 10 homers and 57 RBIs last season.

The settlement was the first in the major leagues since 100 players exchanged arbitration figures Tuesday. Oliver sought $1.35 million and was offered $1 million.

In other baseball news, Houston Astros manager Art Howe agreed to a one-year contract and said that a multiyear deal will be discussed during the upcoming season. Houston, 81-81 last season, is 307-341 in four seasons under Howe. National League president Bill White said he's willing to stay in office beyond the scheduled expiration of his term on March 31 because a successor has not been chosen.

MELBOURNE, Australia — Third-seeded Pete Sampras of the United States offset eight double-faults with 13 aces to beat Magnus Larsson of Sweden 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 today in the second round of the Australian Open.

The unseasonably cool 64-degree weather was a sharp contrast to the previous day's 129-degree court-side temperature and morning drizzle forced officials to close the retractable roof on Center Court and push back the schedule on the outside courts.

Second-seeded Steffi Graf of Germany, fourth-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario of Spain and fifth-seeded Mary Joe Fernandez of the United States advanced to the third round of the women's competition.

Graf beat Jennifer Santrock of the United States 6-1, 6-1. Sanchez Vicario defeated Laura Gildemeister of Peru 6-0, 6-1 and Fernandez beat Shi-Ting Wang of Taiwan 7-6 (7-1), 6-4.

Seventh-seeded Jennifer Capriati, recuperating from a virus that forced her to withdraw from the doubles competition, beat Florencia Labat of Argentina 6-7 (8-10), 7-5, 6-2.

in early October. South Plains won that scrimmage and Chadwick said his team learned a valuable lesson. "It was a learning session because we did go in there cocky. It's a lesson that has helped us throughout the year," said Chadwick.

Chadwick expects the Lady Texans to try to take away Howard's inside game. "They'll probably play us a real soft man-to-man and won't allow us to get the ball inside. They'll run a zone with pretty much the same thing in mind," he said.

"They have one girl (Nicole Maxfield) that is a true post player. They'll play an up-tempo game and try to press us. They want to try to keep us from getting into our halfcourt game, and when we get into our halfcourt game, they want to deny the ball to the post player." Chadwick said with guards

LeKisha Wiley and Yumecca White he feels that his squad can handle the Lady Texans' pressure and fast pace if it comes to that. "I really anticipate the game to be a guard show, our guards against their guards. If they stand in the paint we'll have to shoot from the perimeter and be creative with our guards."

"They have excellent guards."

The Stockett girl (Janale) is scoring about 20 points a night and Saresa Butler from Lamesa is also scoring about 20 a night. Niko Wade is an excellent three-point shooter.

Chadwick said the Lady Hawks will come out in a tough man defense.

"We hope to stay in their face because they'll air it out," he said.

U.N. inspectors arrive to good Iraqi reception

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD, Iraq — State-run newspapers today called for a "new page" in U.S.-Iraqi relations as U.N. weapons inspectors landed in Baghdad, testing assurances that they will be able to do their work unhindered.

"We had a good reception," Paul Brough, an American who heads a 25-member team of chemical weapons inspectors, said as he arrived at the experts' hotel. His team is part of a U.N. group that flew into the Habbaniya military airport outside the city.

The dispute over unrestricted travel inside Iraq for U.N. weapons teams was one of the issues that prompted George Bush to order attacks on Iraq during his last week as president.

Saddam Hussein apparently hopes for better treatment from Bill Clinton.

Inspectors had waited in Bahrain for two weeks for Saddam's government to relent on its demand that they use Iraqi planes rather than U.N. aircraft.

Under the terms of the U.N. resolutions that ended the Persian Gulf War, the inspectors are overseeing the destruction of Iraqi weapons of mass destruction. The U.N. insists they be able to work free of Iraqi oversight.

Asked if he were worried about the possible dangers of attempting the flight, Brough said: "No, we're not concerned about that. We are just anxious to get back here and get the job done."

He said the team would be in Iraq for three to six months, then be replaced by other experts, by rotation, as it goes about destroying chemical weapons.

The Iraqi retreat on weapons inspections was coupled with a unilateral cease-fire, which Baghdad presented as a gesture of good will to Clinton following a week of U.S.-led air and missile strikes.

"From the news reports it appears that Saddam and the government are making an open pitch ... to appeal to the new administration," said Kevin St. Louis, the American head of the special U.N. weapons operation in Baghdad.

"So I guess we are going in hopeful that they are cooperative, more cooperative."

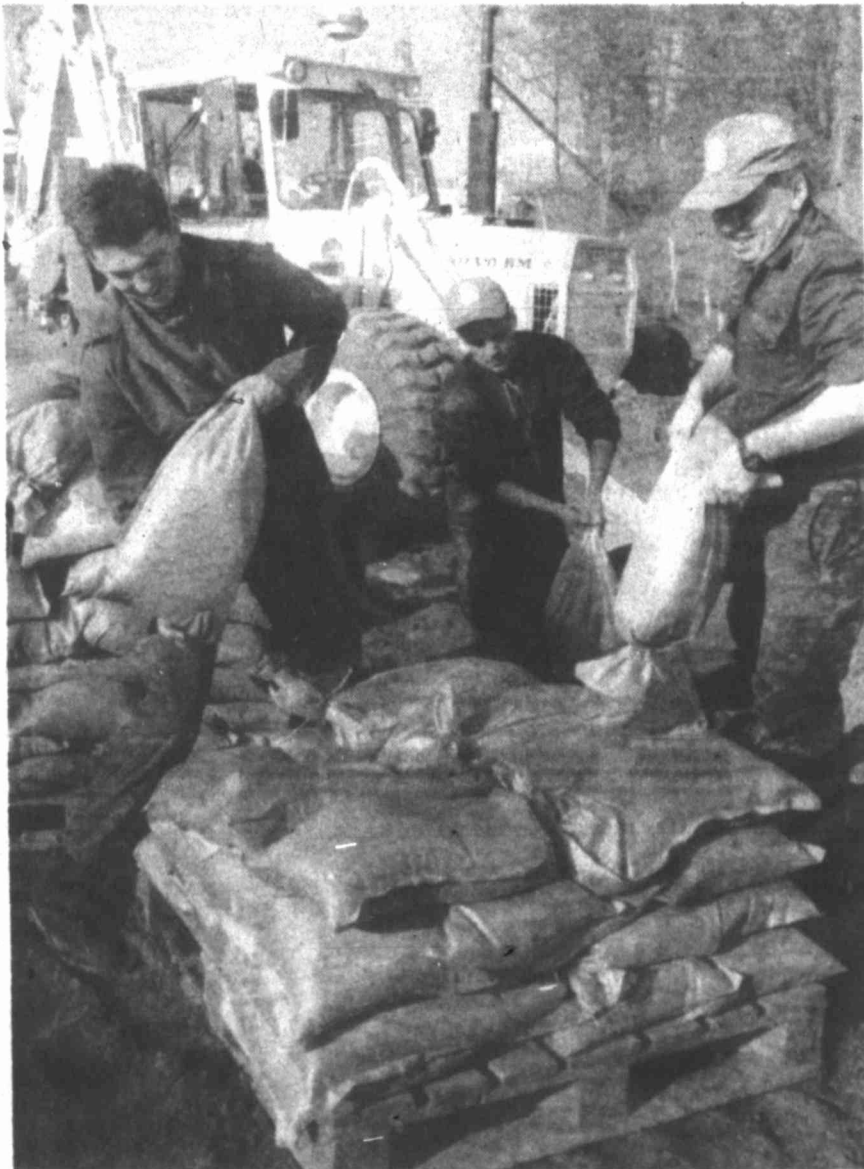

He spoke in Bahrain just before leaving for Baghdad with 52 of the 70 U.N. inspectors and staff who had been waiting in Bahrain since Jan. 3. The others are to fly to Baghdad on Friday, St. Louis said.

First, bad weather and plane breakdowns disrupted their travel plans. Then Baghdad said Jan. 8 that they would have to take Iraqi aircraft.

Bosnians grudgingly accept peace

Danish members of the U.N. force reinforce their position in the Bosnian town of Kiseljak Friday. United Nations soldiers have been working constantly to upgrade their camps all across central Bosnia as the possibility of accidents or attacks grows in the war torn region.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PALE, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Under pressure from the West and Serbian leader Slobodan Milosevic, Bosnian Serbs grudgingly accepted a peace plan. But they appear largely intent on buying time and consolidating gains.

Although the documents they ratified Wednesday do not permit the separate borders within Bosnia that would confirm their military victories, Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic persuaded deputies that nothing would change.

"Serbs undertook the obligation to work on a new constitution of Bosnia, maintaining the right of self-determination," Karadzic told reporters after two days of tense discussions, mainly behind closed doors, in Pale.

Pale is just 10 miles southeast of the besieged Bosnian capital of Sarajevo.

"The Serb parliament and government will continue their work and the Serb republic will exist and function until the Serbian people decide otherwise," Karadzic said.

He said the plan would have to be approved by Serbs in a referendum.

A separate republic with its own borders — and the inferred right to secede from Bosnia to join Serb-dominated Yugoslavia — is the one thing U.N. mediator Cyrus Vance and European Community envoy Lord Owen flatly told Karadzic he could not have.

Clinton

Afterward, Bush flew home to Houston, ending a quarter-century of public service and 12 years of Republican rule in the White House. Bush left behind a note for Clinton in the Oval Office; its contents weren't disclosed.

At 46, Clinton is the nation's third-youngest president and the first of the postwar Baby Boom generation to sit in the White House.

Bush, perhaps the last president of the World War II generation, was the fourth-oldest chief executive when he was sworn in at 64. In his speech, remarkable for its brevity at 14 minutes, Clinton saluted Bush but lamented the state of the nation.

"Raised in unrivaled prosperity, we inherit an economy still the world's strongest but weakened by business failures, stagnant wages, increasing inequality and deep divisions among our people," Clinton said. He decried the high costs of health care, the scourge of crime and the hardships suffered by millions of poor children.

Members of the Permian Basin Drug Task Force seized a vehicle carrying about 50 pounds of marijuana in Ector County near Penwell Tuesday afternoon.

Acting on an informant's tip, task force personnel and Ector County Sheriff's deputies halted a 1979 Ford pickup truck as it made its way along Interstate 20. The marijuana officers confiscated has an estimated street value of $50,000, according to task force commander Tom Finley.

Other committee members are Yolanda Rascon, Debby Valverde, Ester Lopez and Tommy Brooks. Lopez and Brooks were not present at the meeting.

The day was draped in expectations that Clinton would move quickly with an economic program — and more slowly perhaps to recast U.S. policies involving international crises in Somalia and Iraq, Haiti and Bosnia.

Untested in foreign affairs, Clinton was forceful in expressing his resolve.

"When our vital interests are challenged, or the will and conscience of the international community defied, we will act — with peaceful diplomacy when possible, with force when necessary. The brave Americans serving our nation in the Persian Gulf, in Somalia, and wherever else they stand are testament to our resolve."

With U.S. warplanes flying over Iraq, Clinton was the first president since Richard Nixon to take office with American troops on combat duty. Iraq appeared to be abiding by the cease-fire it offered Clinton but there was a fresh challenge, as Baghdad promised to rebuild a factory devastated by a U.S. cruise missile attack.

The inaugural parade was still under way as the Senate confirmed the nominations of key members of Clinton's Cabinet: Warren Christopher, secretary of state; Les Aspin at Defense, and Lloyd Bentsen at Treasury. Clinton may hold his first Cabinet meeting on Thursday. He also plans to personally greet White House visitors at an open house and, aides said, would issue executive orders on unspecified subjects.

Firemen battle blaze across two counties

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Firefighting units from Mitchell and Howard counties converged as brush fires swept across more than 1,000 acres of ranch land in the southeast corner of Howard County Wednesday.

Downed power lines are thought to be the cause of the fire, which kept firefighters busy for more than three hours. The involved land was part of the Bud Rankin and Horace Tubb ranches along FM 821.

Trucks from Coahoma, Sand Springs, Jonesboro, Forsan and Westbrook responded to the blaze when the call came in at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, said Darrell Cypert, assistant county fire chief. A total of 12 Howard County volunteers battled the fire.

Water was trucked to the area by D&H Transports and water trucks from Walts & Watts Oil Company, he said.

Even given the rough terrain, it took the firefighters only about an hour to bring the blaze under control, Cypert said. "If it (the weather) hadn't been as wet as it was, it would have been a lot worse."

After containing the perimeter of the fire, firefighters and others stayed on the scene until 7 p.m.

Several employees of the ranches helped firefighters contain the blaze, Cypert said.

Porras wins bee

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Luis Porras won the Moss Elementary School Geography Bee Jan. 15.

The son of Luis and Viana Porras, the fifth-grader is in Betty Addy's class.

The first round in the fifth annual National Geography Bee was sponsored by National Geographic WORLD, the Society's magazine for children, and Amtrak.

Students answered sixth-through-eighth-grade level questions on state, national and world topics ranging from capitol to regions, rivers and continents.

Moss Elementary School conducted their third local competition in the fifth-annual national event.

Washington Elementary kids operate working post office

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Come rain, hail, sleet or snow — Washington Elementary students will deliver the mail.

Washington's "Wee Deliver" program gives children the chance to operate their own post office. At the same time, educators say, it gives them incentive to write.

"I get the mail and make sure everybody is doing their job," said third-grader and Postmaster Jimmy Faz.

In teacher Charlsa Myers' class, students like Jimmy are collecting and sorting letters, canceling stamps and delivering mail to classrooms.

"We're doing it to improve our writing skills, and I've heard other teachers talk about it, and it is improving their students' skills also," said Myers, coordinator of "Wee Deliver."

It kicked off in December, and students have successfully implemented the program, Principal Bill Tarleton said.

"The idea is to get them to write. It ties in with one of our objectives of raising writing scores," Tarleton said. "It's easy to correct writing, but first you have to get them to want to write. They do (the program) because they get to write about what they want to write."

Operating a postal service is no easy task, agreed Tarleton, teachers and students. Students deliver about 60 letters each week.

"Everyone knows everyone of the other's jobs. We've discussed it and they do it all," Myers said.

Third-grader Casandra Lewis, who works as "nixie clerk," said she works closely with other students to fulfill her responsibilities.

"Me and Laurie (Flores, also nixie clerk,) check everything to see if it's right. We stamp all the letters that are done wrong with 'return to sender,' and give them to Kyland (Wegner, canceler.)"

So far, Meyers class is the only one responsible for employing the post office workers, but soon other classes will share the duties, Tarleton said.

Teachers set aside class time and encourage students to allow spare time for writing letters to students, teachers and the principal.

"I've received about 50 letters, and I write everyone of them back," Tarleton said. "They really write some good stuff."

He added he even received letters from students practicing German in Rita Faulkner's third-grade class.

Tarleton saw success with the "Wee Deliver" program he initiated in Dawson Independent School District, so he contacted the Postal Service and ordered a "Wee Deliver" starter kit for Washington Elementary.

Since November, students and teachers have put their letters in the mail drop in front of Myers' class each morning.

"Students deliver the mail to teachers to distribute to their classes," he said. "We want to eventually have mail boxes (in front of the door of each room.)"

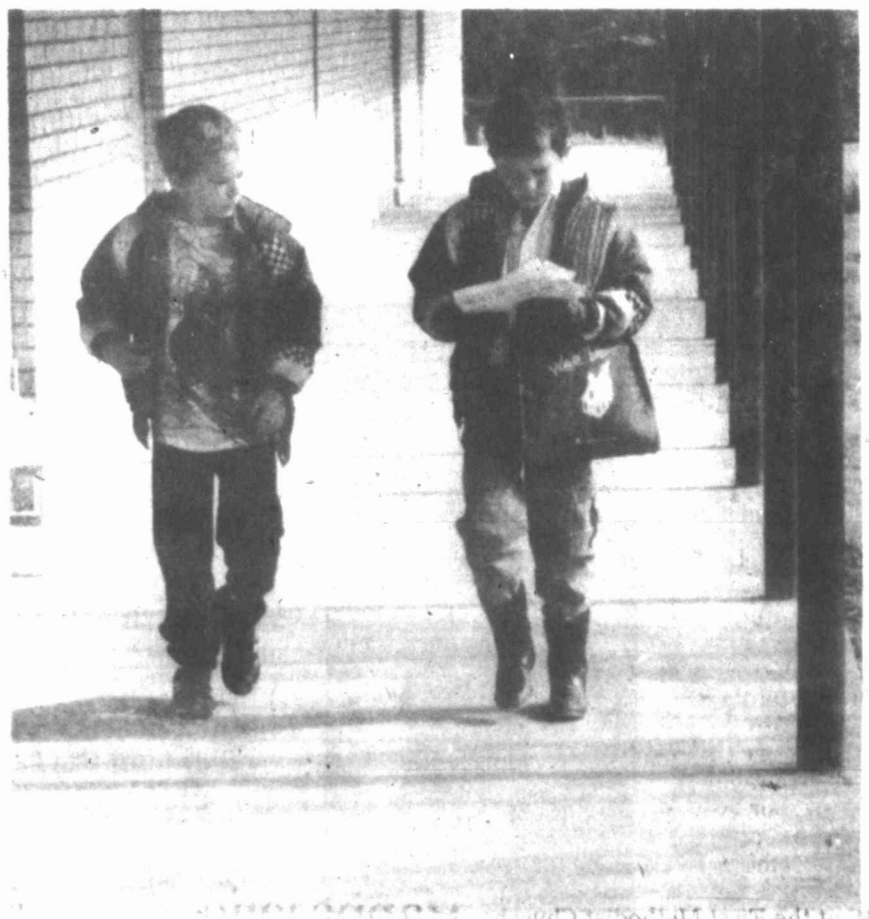

After an 11:15 a.m. pick-up, the canceler (Kyle Richards), canceler and nixie clerks check for properly prepared letters.

Sorters (Brandon Ferguson, Antoine Scott and Tony Wyrick) put the letters in boxes indicating the mailing locations, and letter carriers (Zack Tubb and Chris Smith) make their deliveries.

"We operate just like the real post office," he said. "During Christmas, we had a rush, and we'll probably see one during Valentine's Day too."

Other postal workers from Myers' class are Donny Juarez and Christina Jimenez (Bundle).

"Street" names for the school halls include Super Kid Blvd and Crooked T Lane. Classroom addresses include Myers Munchkins, Rudigers Rugrats, Armstrong Adventurers and Faulkner Foleys.

Which One Is He Wearing? The President's Many Hats

I AM READING ABOUT HIS PLAN TO CREATE MORE JOBS.

As commander in chief, the president is in charge of our armed forces. He must see that they are ready for combat.

As economic leader, the president has to try to keep prices from going up and up. He also must try to keep our businesses busy and our workers on the job.

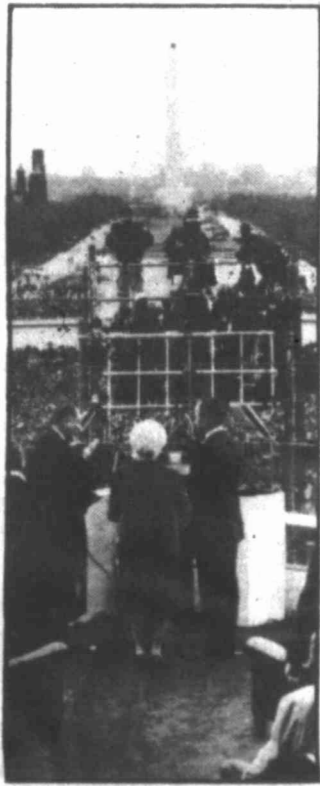

Trace around the president's picture on a piece of cardboard. Glue the photo to the cardboard.

On Jan. 20, Bill Clinton becomes our 42nd president. Each president says a 35-word "oath of office" when he takes over. An oath is a promise: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States." The swearing-in is called an inauguration (in-ah-goor-RAY-shun). Then he delivers his Inauguration speech.

At the last inauguration, in 1989, President George Bush raises his right hand while Mrs. Bush holds the Bible. Chief Justice Rehnquist does the swearing-in. Notice the photographers and the Washington Monument in the background.

The Parade

1 The president will be sworn in outdoors on the west front of the Capitol.

2 Later, he will walk or ride down Pennsylvania Avenue to a viewing stand in front of the White House.

3 In 1977, President Jimmy Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, surprised everyone when they walked some of the way down the parade route.

4 Not many dogs go to the parade, but this one did, all dressed up in a sweater! It is usually cold in Washington at this time of year.

THE PRESIDENT'S MANY HATS

1. CHIEF EXECUTIVE
As chief executive, the president is the boss of millions of U.S. government employees. He also must propose laws to Congress that he thinks should be passed.

2. CHIEF DIPLOMAT
As chief diplomat, the president helps decide how our country will act toward other countries. He selects our ambassadors, whom the Senate must approve.

3. CHIEF OF STATE
As chief of state, the president represents our country here and in other lands. He attends many ceremonies as a symbol of the U.S. A king might carry out these duties in other countries.

4. GOLFER AND JOGGER
As a golfer and jogger, the president tries to keep in shape. (He also likes board games and card games.)

5. PARTY LEADER
As party leader, the president has much influence over the way his political party thinks about national problems. He also makes speeches and tries to raise money for his party.

6. CHIEF DIPLOMAT
As a musician, President Clinton likes to play the saxophone. He went to music camp for six summers when he was growing up. He got many offers for music scholarships. (No hat is shown, but we have a saxophone for you!)

7. CHIEF DIPLOMAT
President Bill Clinton sometimes wears sunglasses.

8. BENEFITS
As leader of our country, the president has a big job. He is also given many advantages. These include:
• the rent-free White House and nearby retreat, Camp David in Maryland.
• jet planes, helicopters and a fleet of cars.
• medical care.
• many chances to travel.

9. SALARY
• The president makes $200,000 a year. He also gets a $50,000 expense account.

10. Read all about the president's Cabinet in next week's Mini Page.

Bufs get first loop win, tripping Coahoma, 71-63

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Stanton Buffalos got a moral victory Tuesday night when they upset the Coahoma Bulldogs 71-63 in District 6-2A basketball Tuesday night in Stanton.

The win was Stanton's first district victory, giving the Buffalos 1-3 record and 7-11 overall mark. Stanton coach Doug Gordon was elated with his young team's performance. "This is the happiest time I've had, even more than the area win last year," he said. "Coahoma is one of the three best teams in the district. It was a big emotional game for us, coming off our worst game (87-57 loss to Wall Friday). We came back and redeemed ourselves. I hope it carries over."

Gordon said the key to the game was the team's ability to take the pressure of leading scorer Jeremy Stallings. "We have a young team and we had to play a perfect game to win and we did. We played team ball. We made it easier for Jeremy to score, he got 36 tonight. We have to work by himself to get a shot, it makes it difficult for him."

Stallings, who's averaging 24 points per game, hit six clutch free throws down the stretch to secure the win. Sophomore guard Michael Paul Martinez also hit four free throws in the waning minutes to help. "Every body did their part," said Gordon. "Billy Joe Marquez hit a jumper with two men on him at the end of the third quarter to give us a four point lead. Everybody on the team played their tails off from Jeremy to Ramon Ramos."

J.J. Ortiz and Robin Barnes were the other Buffalos in double figures with 10 points each. Barnes also had a team-leading 13 rebounds, four above his average.

Bryan Sledge led Coahoma with 17 points. Kirby Brown followed with 14 points. The Buffalos will be on the road Friday against Iraan at 8 p.m.

Youngsters place 168 entries on line for livestock show

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Sixty-five area youth exhibited 168 animals during the three-day run of this year's Martin County Junior Livestock Show which ended Saturday.

The show, just as those in Glasscock and Howard counties, began on Jan. 14. Lambs and horses were shown on Friday and steers were shown Saturday.

Many exhibitors and their families enjoyed the Stock Show Banquet late Saturday, according to Martin County Extension Agent Gregg Jones.

Winners in the livestock show include:

- Lambs, fine wool — Jaybo Webb had the champion and reserve champion entries.

- Lambs, fine-wool cross — The champion lamb belonged to Cindy Webb and Cory Harbison had the reserve champion.

- Lambs, southdown — Hali Tubb had the champion and Jackie Saunders was reserve champion.

- Lambs, medium wool — Angela Tubb had the champion entry and Brian Tubb was reserve champion.

- Lambs — Grand champion was Angela Tubb and reserve grand champion was Brian Tubb.

- Hogs, Duroc — Champion was Stephanie Jones and reserve champion was Cory Harbison.

- Hogs, Hampshire — Brady Peugh had the champion entry and Meagan Mims took reserve champion.

- Hogs, OPB — Champion was Josh Parson and reserve champion was Jody Brooks.

- Hogs, crossbreeds — Champion was Cody Peugh and reserve champion was Tandi Peugh.

- Hogs — Grand champion was Brady Peugh and Cody Peugh took reserve champion.

- Steers, British — Champion went to Samantha Yates and Rawlie Mims took reserve champion.

- Steers, Amercian cross — Champion was Rawlie Mims.

- Steers, European — Katie Jo Yates took the champion ribbon and Kenny Stewart was reserve.

- Steers — Grand champion was Kati Jo Yates and reserve grand champion was Samantha Yates.

Parris attends conference

Dr. Pug Parris, a native of Stanton and professor of physical education at McMurry University in Abilene, joined Dr. Mike Daniel, chairman of the McMurry physical education department, in attending a recent conference sponsored by the Texas Education Agency.

Conference participants discussed and reviewed the TEA's proposition plan for a new "concept of wellness" course as a requirement for graduation from Texas high schools.

In addition, those in attendance also discussed methods for preparing physical education majors to teach the proposed course.

Jaqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 22, 1993

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You see a situation quite differently today. Count on a new beginning for a friendship or a long-term goal. Evaluate ideas and be willing to brainstorm with another. You get what you want. Tonight: Celebrate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be willing to reach out for another and touch base with a friend at work. You get new insight into the boss because of a discussion. Examine what is possible and let your imagination run free. The impossible becomes possible. Tonight: Out and about.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Reach out for another and look at the possibility of doing some traveling. You know what is important in the long run. Get further job security through increased expertise. Matters involving communication are highlighted. Tonight: Split town.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): One-to-one relating proves to be successful today. Listen to your sixth sense regarding an important interpersonal matter. Tonight: Make it a heated night.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Follow another's lead today, and you gain a better perspective. Discussions are revealing and lead to new beginnings and a new understanding. Tonight: Go where the party is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Get into your work as if it's a brand-new job. Examine alternatives that surround a project and find a way to make it more pleasant for you. Clarity and openness make a difference in how you deal with everyday matters. Tonight: Go out with co-workers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let go of previous restrictions and you are able to turn around a situation. Be more childlike in your self-expression. Talks with a loved one open both of you up to happier times and a better understanding. Tonight: Play out your favorite love scene.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Talks open you up to changes with respect to a domestic matter. Look to an investment or a potential change in your home life. Examine what you want and start building toward that. A roommate or family member works with you. Tonight: Settle in.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Buzz around and take care of errands. You get good news as you proceed through your day, if you are open to discussion and expressing your vulnerabilities. Patch up differences and understand where another is coming from. Tonight: Celebrate with friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get a new beginning financially, if you are open to another's input. The unexpected occurs suddenly and allows you to see another in a new way. Tonight: Don't go overboard.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You might feel as if you're on top of the world today. You impress another by how you view a situation. Be direct and let your personality, magnetism and charm flow. Tonight: You call the shots.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You do the necessary soul-searching to get past a barrier. You see another in a different light. Be honest with yourself about a fear or insecurity. Tonight: Slow down.

IF JAN. 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Examine the alternatives in your life this year. You'll be offered many new beginnings — creative, emotional and professional. Be willing to break through rigidity in order to gain new understanding and growth. You'll draw others to you, but be on guard about a tendency to be too self-centered. Do a better job of listening and imagining what it's like to be another. Expect your career to move forward in the late fall.

Dear Abby - Letters

Poem heals hurt of pet's death

DEAR ABBY: This letter is for "David in Scottsdale" who lost his pet parakeet and suffered such a tremendous loss. His letter touched my heart and brought back memories of my beloved poodle, which I lost several years ago. I had Tink for 17 years, and to this day the tears come when I remember this dear little loved one. Only those who have loved and lost a pet can realize the terrific loss and the hurt that stays.

Shortly after losing Tink, this poem was printed in the paper, and it has meant the world to me. Perhaps it will help to soften the hurt for David.

"Oh, shame on the mothers of mortals,
"Who did not stop to teach
"The sorrow that lies in dear, dumb eyes,
"The sorrow that has no speech.
"For the same force formed the camel
"That fashioned man and king,
"And the God of the whole
"Gave a spark of soul
"To each furred and feathered thing."
Thanks for letting me share this, Abby. —
ROBERTA M. TEW, BRADENTON, FLA.

DEAR ROBERTA: Thank you. That lovely poem appeared in my column in 1984. The author is unknown.

me why I didn't use the men's room. My problem is not just with women; men also mistake me for a man. I am sick of it. I have tried wearing feminine-looking clothes, but I look ridiculous. I have always worn tailored clothes, and I am more comfortable in a pantsuit than in a dress. I was never one for long, fluffy hairdos, but I don't have a mannish haircut either.

Please don't tell me to wear a dress; I feel very uncomfortable in dresses. I am at the end of my rope. Next time a salesperson asks, "May I help you, sir?" — I am going to punch him out! — BIG PROBLEM, VANCOUVER, B.C.

DEAR BIG: From your own description of yourself — your size and the mannish clothes you prefer — you should not blame anyone for mistaking you for a man. Short of singing, "I Am Woman," looking and dressing as you do, there is not much that can be done about the problem — unless you are willing to consider seriously an image overhaul.

A professional makeup artist can teach you how to artfully apply makeup that will make your appearance less masculine. You can "soften" your style of dress by learning to accessorize with silk scarves and/or colorful printed blouses under those tailored suits. Large-scale pieces of costume jewelry (earrings, brooches and bracelets) can also make your appearance more feminine without being "fussy." Think about it, and candidly discuss the investment with a fashion coordinator at one of the larger department stores.

DEAR ABBY: I am a large woman, 5 foot 11 and weigh 152 pounds. I am well-proportioned. My problem is that a lot of people have mistaken me for a man.

I was in the ladies' room a few weeks ago, and a woman got angry with me and asked

Thursday Notes

Local gymnasts win qualifying meet

The Big Spring Sidewinders Level 8 team came away with the team championship at the San Angelo United State Gymnastics Federation Optional and Compulsory District Qualifying meet last week.

Members of the team were (12-14 age group) Jennifer Perez, Kristen Myers, Casey McKim and Bethany Whiles. Valerie Biggs competed in the 15 and over age division.

Biggs swept her division, winning first in the vault, bars, beam and floor exercise. She won the all-around with 31.65 points.

McKim paced the 12-14 age group with a second place all-around finish, scoring 33.95. She placed second on the vault, third on the bars and second on the beam and in floor exercise.

Myers finished third in the All-Around competition, scoring 33.05. Myers finished third on the bars and tied for third in the floor exercise.

Perez scored 31.5 and Whiles 31.0.

The Sidewinders Level 7-0 team finished third in the team standings. Participants were Stephanie Stewart and Lindsee Dickerson (ages 9-11 Div.) and Dee Lynn Frasier (12-14 Div.).

Dickerson scored a 32.9 to finish second in the all-around. She finished second in the vault and second on the bars. Stewart was fifth in the all-around, scoring 31.9. She was third in the vault and tied for third on the bars. Frasier was third in the all-around with a score of 31.4. She was second on the bars and fifth on the beam.

The District Championships will be Feb. 20 at Odessa College. Winners from that meet will compete in the North-South State Semifinals in Dallas March 6.

Local speed roller skating team, the Spring City SK8 Jammerz, got their first taste of national competition when the team competed in Fort Smith, Ark., last week.

One member of the Jammerz, Megan Morrison, skated with a team from Iowa that finished second in the meet. Megan was chosen to skate with the team because a member of the Iowa team cancelled. She finished with two third place finishes. Skating on the Iowa team was Dante Muse, World and Pan American Games champion.

Jammerz Willis Morrison III won the championship in his age division, and came home with second and third-place finishes in other events.

Sarah Fannin ended the meet with a championship in her age division, winning second and third in her events. Fannin teamed with Jason Metcalf to bring home a third place relay trophy. Metcalf also joined Jake McCullough to finish fourth in the two-man relay.

April Metcalf and Stevi Bingham also advanced to the finals. Jammerz assistant coach Barbara Morrison was pleased with the team's performance. "The team did incredibly well," she said. "By the end of the meet they (competition) were referring to us as the Cinderella team. Everyone wanted to know where Big Spring, Texas was."

The Jammerz' next meet will be in Austin in February. They are currently seeking local merchant sponsorship to help with the expenses. For more information contact Barbara Morrison at 267-9668.

Howard College Lady Hawks freshman post player Annette Robinson was named Defensive Player of the Week in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

The Killeen High graduate played a major role in Howard's 80-67 win over Odessa Saturday. She pulled down 15 rebounds, 10 of which were defensive boards. Also included were two steals and five blocked shots to go along with 17 points.

Tuesday the Midland College Board of Trustees agreed to begin a women's basketball program effective with the 1994-95 season.

No doubt Midland College is already thinking about hiring a head coach to head the program. Odessa College coach Ken Hefner said he wouldn't be surprised if several current WJAC coaches would be interested in the position.

It's no secret Midland College has the funds that could lure a good coach to the school and the Chaparral Center is one of the best junior college facilities in the country.

Midland College President Dr. David Daniel said he definitely wants someone with coaching experience. "We'd like to have someone who has coached," he said. "Someone who'll recruit from our region. We'd like very much to have talent from West Texas on this team."

Howard College will be the site of the Harold Davis Shootout basketball tournament Feb. 5-6.

Entry fee is $110 per team with a limit of 10 players per team. Entry deadline is Jan. 29. The top four finishers will receive team trophies and the top two teams will also receive individual trophies. There will also be an all-tournament team and an MVP award.

For more information call 264-5098 or 263-5655 after 8 p.m.

The Special Olympics conducts an area conference for coaches, family members and volunteers Saturday, Jan. 23 at Midland's Carver Center. Attendance is mandatory for certified Special Olympics coaches.

A lunch will be available for $5. The Carver Center is at 1300 E. Wall and the conference lasts from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 684-5024 for more information.

The University of Texas-Permian Basin Kinesiology Club will sponsor a men's five-on-five double elimination basketball tournament Jan. 29 and 30. Entry fee is $100 per team and due by Wednesday, Jan. 27.

Prizes are awarded first and second-place teams. Teams must have at least ten players and rosters are required. There is a two game minimum and the tournament will be played at the UTPB Gymnasium. Call the gym at 367-2172 after 12 noon or Dr. Steve Aicinema at 367-2316 or 368-5623 for more information.

Goliad and Runnels Gyms will be the site of boys basketball tournaments Friday and Saturday.

In the Runnels tournament, action starts at 3:30 p.m. Friday with Sweetwater playing Andrews. At 5 Snyder A plays Runnels B and Brownfield plays Lamesa at 6:30. The final game at 8 pits Snyder B against Runnels A.

In the Goliad tournament, Friday's action begins with Sweetwater playing Andrews at 3:30 p.m. Snyder A plays Goliad B at 5, followed by Brownfield versus Lamesa at 6:30. Snyder B plays Goliad A at 8 p.m.

Saturday's championship games at each tournament start with the consolation game at 3 p.m., followed by the third place game at 5 and the title game at 6:30.

Lady Buffs nip Coahoma, 40-38

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Stanton Lady Buffalos bounced back from Friday's defeat to Wall by edging the Coahoma Bulldogettes 40-38 in 6-2A league basketball play Tuesday night in Stanton.

The win gives Stanton a 4-1 league record, in second place behind Wall. The Lady Buffalos are 12-6 overall. Coahoma falls to 2-4 in district play and 9-14 overall.

Stanton had to rally in the fourth quarter to get the win. Keying the rally was Kendra Woodfin, who scored all six of her points in the fourth quarter. Stanton coach Frank Riney said Laura Herm got two steals and made two critical free throws late in the game.

"We didn't shoot very well in the first half. They were ahead 30-24 going into the fourth quarter," said Riney. "Then we finally put on a spurt and we did it by making free throws. We both had 11 field goals, but we made two more free throws than they did and that was the difference in the game."

Herm was the only Stanton player in double figures, scoring

14 points. Woodfin, Sande Bundas and Sonya Hopper scored six points each.

Coahoma was paced by senior forward Angela Crippen's 21 points, 15 of them coming in the first half. "She (Crippen) did everything. She handled the ball, rebounded and scored. She was their team leader," said Riney. "In the second half we alternated two different post players guarding her. We guarded her with a guard in the first half. She took her down low, posted her up and scored."

Riney said he expected a tough game from the Bulldogettes.

"Everytime we play Coahoma it's a struggle, always a close game. I don't care who has the better record. It's always a big rivalry."

The Lady Buffalos will play Iraan on the road Friday at 6:30 p.m.

NBA punishes Barkley

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHFIELD, Ohio — Charles Barkley watched the Phoenix Suns-Cleveland Cavaliers game from his hotel room as he served a one-game suspension for chafing after a referee.

The NBA announced Barkley's punishment on Wednesday for his actions following Phoenix's loss Monday against New York.

League vice president Rod Thorn fined him $10,000 and suspended him for Wednesday's game against the Cavaliers without pay. Based on Barkley's $2.42 million salary, the suspension cost him an extra $29,500.

With Barkley out of the lineup, Phoenix lost its second straight as Cleveland won 123-119.

"I made a mistake and they're going to suspend me for the game," Barkley said. "I just have to deal with it. I don't think it warranted a suspension. But I know what they got to do. They got to keep people coming, so they've got to control the image of the league. So I understand that."

Barkley missed a shot in the final seconds against the Knicks but thought he was fouled. He leaped over the scorer's table and chased official Jim Clark after the game following an exchange of words.

"Our rules are clear that players and coaches are to go immediately from the court to the locker room, both at halftime and at the end of the game, without any discussion with the game officials," Thorn said.
