Voters to decide civil service issue

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

More than enough signatures have been collected to let voters decide — possibly on a May 1 ballot — whether the Big Spring Police Department should be under state civil service law.

"We've got all the signatures we need, but we're still getting more," said patrol officer Jimmy Mayes, vice president of the local Fraternal Order of Police chapter whose members have circulated petitions door to door.

"We're in no hurry. Not at this point in time," Mayes said. "We're probably going to present the petitions to the city sometime at the end of the month or sometime in March. That'll give the city secretary time to go through and verify."

Approximately 300 registered voters' signatures are needed to place the issue on a ballot, according to City Secretary Tom Ferguson. That's 10 percent of voter turnout in the last citywide council election, May 1992.

Four voting boxes would have to be added May 1 because it's a two-district council election, increasing costs from about $1,000 to $2,000, Ferguson said.

Civil service law is designed to eliminate politics and favoritism in hiring, promotion and firing through detailed written procedures that include testing. It does not allow for collective bargaining or strikes.

Those favoring civil service say it creates job stability, provides better benefits and will save money by reducing turnover. Opponents contend it hinders management and could be costly because of increased legal advice.

A majority of Big Spring City Council members have expressed opposition, and a majority of the city's police officers, members of the FOP, are believed to favor civil service.

Both sides are keeping their campaigns low key. Examinations of costs and benefits of civil service for the fire department, in effect since 1985, are expected.

"When we start our campaign, we'll show them," said Mayes, who contends civil service would reduce costs. "We don't want to burn people out on this."

Council members and management also want to wait. "I don't have any comment yet," said City Manager Lagny Lambert.

Early voting for the May 1 election runs from April 12 through April 27. Dates to file for a council seat race are from Feb. 15 through March 17.

Ferguson said he is unsure when the deadline is for verification of signatures on petitions.

Federal agents arrest 12 during eight fraud raids

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — A task force of about 90 federal agents raided eight locations in South Texas and arrested 12 people on mail fraud charges in connection with a multi-million-dollar unemployment claims scam, authorities say.

Federal authorities said the scam mostly benefited people who were spending the winter in Mexico.

"We think this is quite significant. Here we have a number of locations in Roma and McAllen," said Julian De La Rosa, inspector general of the Labor Department in Washington. "This is millions of dollars that could go to other claimants."

"Based on the information I'm getting up here, the amount of evidence seized far exceeded our expectations. They had to go out and rent a truck to transport the evidence to a secure location," he told the San Antonio Express-News in a telephone interview.

The South Texas case comes less than two years after the Department of Labor broke up a similar fraud operation run by the Ibarra family in Eagle Pass. Several family members pleaded guilty in that case.

Authorities say that in both cases, thousands of unemployment claims were fraudulently submitted, complete with forged job searches, to other states.

Unemployment checks were received at addresses around the area and were allegedly cashed by the defendants, who then sent the proceeds to the claimants in Mexico after withholding about 15 percent as a service fee, authorities said.

"In order to get an unemployment benefit check, the claimant must certify that he or she is available for work and is making efforts to get work." Charles Dause, an assistant U.S. Attorney in McAllen said. "The certification requires that they list three places they have applied for a job for each check that is issued."

The 12 people arrested, Dause said, were forging the claims on behalf of Mexican workers, most of whom were not in the United States, much less looking for work.

Most of the complaints listed offenses only against California, but it is expected that many other states have been victimized, he said.

One of the people arrested was identified as Carlos Sanchez Jr., 44, of Roma, described as the operator of Postal Services Co., a private mail service in the border town.

All of the 12 people have been released after posting bond, authorities said.

Reinspection gives SMMC clean bill of health

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Scenic Mountain Medical Center received a clean bill of health from Texas Department of Health inspectors following a Thursday tour of the facility.

The hospital had been under a notice of termination regarding the state's Medicare contract, primarily due to a medication error by a Midland anesthesiologist.

Surveyors from the TDH Health Facility Licensure and Certification Division found all previously noted SMMC deficiencies had been corrected as a result of an intensive refurbishing program, replacing flooring with more sanitary surfaces.

All patient rooms and hallways are being painted and a new quality assurance program has also been established.

"They said everything looked wonderful," Julie Miller-Wolf, director of marketing for SMMC said.

There was not a single deficiency noted in the facility's reinspection, a rarity for any health care facility, said David Wiley, SMMC executive director.

Wiley had high praise for SMMC employees, some of whom have been working late into the night since the TDH inspection. "It's been a real team effort," he said.

All pending action against SMMC has been lifted, following implementation of the hospital's plan of corrections. TDH officials accepted the hospital's plan of corrections, submitted following an unsatisfactory inspection in November.

SMMC initiated a $250,000 refurbishment program, complimenting an ongoing upgrade of equipment in the facility. SMMC has received $2.5 million in new equipment, including a new CAT scanner and an endoscopy room with five, $40,000 scopes, according to Wiley.

Tubman, others provided freedom network

This is the fifth in a series of stories looking at Black History Month, which is celebrated in February.

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

Born into slavery, Harriet Ross Tubman escaped then returned to free more than 300 slaves becoming the "greatest" Underground Railroad conductor.

At age 25, Tubman left her family in 1848 escaping to the North. She returned later for her family and then made more than 17 trips freeing others.

The Underground Railroad was part of a blossoming secret antislavery network, beginning in the 1820s with challenges to the slave trade and circulation of underground journals of escape.

"In 1829, David Walker, a free black, made the first known African-American challenge against slavery with a published pamphlet, 'An Appeal to the Colored People of the World.' The appeal aroused a furor among slaveholders," according to "The Negro Almanac: A Reference Work on the Afro American" edited by Harry A. Ploski and James Williams.

It also instilled fear of a revolt by slaves against the slaveholders, said history professor Catherine Clinton, who teaches at Harvard University's DuBois Institute of African-American Studies.

"The battle then became what was the status of a runaway slave," she said. In the 1850s, fugitive laws allowed southern sheriffs to be deputized by the federal government to retrieve runaways in the North.

"The South saw it as recovering stolen property," Clinton said. "Runaway slaves stole themselves from their owner."

"Captured runaways were almost never returned to the slaveowner, but branded, mutilated sold to others."

As antislavery sentiment grew, so did the amount of danger involved in attempting to escape or housing a runaway. Because of the severe repercussions, details of how the Underground Railroad worked are sketchy.

"Have to imagine that reading some of the account description would shut down the network," Clinton said.

The number of conductors, escaped slaves or the number of recovered slaves cannot be accurately estimated, she said.

Tubman's success as a conductor was considered to be so dangerous, rewards for her capture ranged from $4,000 to $12,000, Clinton said.

But freed slaves were not the only ones who assisted in liberation efforts. Sympathetic Quakers, as well as others, helped by giving shelter. "Traveling at night hundreds of miles, the slaves would hide during the days at the homes of anonymous sympathetic Americans," Clinton said.

The railroad was very active throughout the 20 years preceding the Civil War.

During the war, Tubman served as a scout and spy for the Union army. "She walked in to the Confederacy, liberated slaves encouraging them to join the armed services for the Union," Clinton said. History scholars believe she recruited about 800 black soldiers in the summer of 1862.

After the war, Tubman was denied her pension. She was only paid $200 for the years she served, Clinton said.

Tubman died in poverty in 1913.

Astronaut complains about training style

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Space station Freedom will be occupied by burned-out and unhappy astronauts unless NASA changes its plans for training crews, the payload commander of the next shuttle flight said Thursday.

Three-time space flier Jerry Ross said he and Bernard Harris Jr. spent about 28 weeks in Germany preparing for the German Spacelab mission aboard Columbia.

Ross said that for one entire year, he and Harris went back and forth between Germany and NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston every other month, spending a month at a time in each place.

"Quite frankly, the way that we trained for this mission, which is very similar to the way we expect to train for space station Freedom, I don't think is a very viable way to do business," Ross said. "We spent long periods of time in Germany away from family and friends, and that's not the nicest way to do business over extended periods of time."

The scientific portion of Columbia's 1 1/2-week mission, tentatively set to begin Feb. 25, will be managed from a German control center near Munich. A shuttle mission has been directed from outside the United States only once before, during a 1985 German Spacelab flight by Challenger.

Orbiter operations will be run from Mission Control at Johnson.

Ross spent much of Thursday's preflight news conference, normally a noncontroversial affair, talking about the difficulties in training for a space flight in more than one country. The briefing was held at Johnson and broadcast at NASA centers nationwide.

The three other Americans assigned to the crew did not travel nearly as much to Germany since they will be focusing on shuttle chores in orbit rather than Spacelab work. The two German astronauts said being away from home hasn't been so hard on them because their families accompanied them to Houston in August.

Since August, the seven crewmen have spent most of their time at Johnson concentrating on the orbiter portion of the flight. And that's been a problem, too, since the training equipment for the experiments is in Germany, Ross said.

Most of the 88 Spacelab experiments are German.

"In some cases, we haven't seen experimental hardware or been able to train on it for near six months," Ross said.

Music duet touts environment

AUSTIN — After 20 years, Bill Oliver and Glen Waldeck have finally landed their first officially sponsored concert tour.

But don't look for these guitar strummers in auditoriums or nightclubs. You'll find them at zoos, aquariums and schools.

On Thursday, Oliver and Waldeck kicked off the Texas leg of the Gulf of Mexico Musical Science Tour at the governor's mansion, playing to a rousing crowd of fourth- and fifth-graders.

Unlike most concert tours these days, which have sponsors like beer companies, Oliver and Waldeck are being funded by the Environmental Protection Agency and the Center for Marine Conservation.

Linda Maraniss, director of the CMC's Gulf Coast regional office in Austin, organized the tour, to promote protection of the Gulf of Mexico.

"The children of today are our best hope for preserving and protecting the richness and diversity of the Gulf of Mexico ecosystem," Ms. Maraniss said. "With Bill and Glen, it's a tour that is half beach party and half science lesson rolled into one."

"They truly believe in protecting the environment, so it's an honest message."

The singers mix acoustic guitar with harmonica and bongos while performing songs dubbed "Have a Habitat," "Styrofoam Wrap" and "Recycle City."

Their audiences tend to be college crowds and conferences of environmental activists, such as the Sierra Crystal Favors, a student at Boone Elementary in Austin dances in a turtle costume with other students as Bill Oliver plays the guitar during the kickoff of the Gulf of Mexico Science Tour Thursday.

Sponsored by the Center for Marine Conservation, the tour is designed to teach students how special the gulf is.

Club and National Audubon Society.

While Oliver, 44, of Austin, and Waldeck, 35, of Philadelphia, are serious about what they do, they do not take themselves seriously.

They constantly spoof on stage, impersonating birds and encouraging their crowds to let out coyote yelps.

But the lyrics make a point.

"These kids are listening," says Oliver. "Now, we gotta have the kids go home and send a message to the people calling the shots today."

McDuff antsy, angered by witnesses

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Capital-murder suspect Kenneth McDuff snarled angry words at one witness, called him a liar and moved his chair to glare at several others Thursday as testimony continued in his trial.

McDuff, 46, is charged in the March 1, 1992, robbery-slaying of Waco convenience store clerk Melissa Northrup, 22, who was two months pregnant.

McDuff maintains he was in Temple during the slaying.

McDuff, who had appeared disinterested during previous testimony, clearly was agitated by the proceedings Thursday. As several witnesses were sworn in before State District Judge Bob Burdette, McDuff stood glaring at the group. As they began to leave the courtroom, he called out to one of them, former friend Mark Davis, who responded to McDuff with an obscene hand gesture.

"He asked him something like, 'Did you steal a Nissan?' and something about $50 cash," Assistant McLennan County District Attorney Mike Freeman told reporters. "I think we finally are beginning to see the real Mr. McDuff."

McDuff's attorneys reached to restrain him as Davis left the courtroom, but minutes later while Davis testified, McDuff clenched his teeth and shook his head, saying to himself, "He's lying."

Davis and McDuff lived in the same dormitory at Texas State Technical Institute in the months before Mrs. Northrup disappeared from the Waco Quick Pak where she worked. Davis said the two drove around in McDuff's pickup one night, drinking beer and chatting.

"He said something to the effect that we could go rob this Quick Pak," Davis, 32, said. "He said the girl that works there, she goes out to empty the trash at midnight every night."

Another former technical school student and drinking buddy, Lewis Gray, testified that McDuff had talked to him about robbing the store, saying that there was no security and that it was in a rural area.

Gray, 23, on parole for forgery and car theft, said he never went along with the idea because he didn't want to violate his parole.

Gray testified that McDuff also told him how to kill a person and stash a body.

"He said you could wrap a person's feet in chains and you could slice their abdomen and they would float (in water) and they would never be found," Gray said.

Mrs. Northrup's partially clothed body was found floating in a Dallas-area gravel pit about two months after she disappeared from her job. Her hands were tied and her feet were bound and weighted and her body so badly decomposed that authorities have been unable to determine the cause of death.

Throughout the testimony, McDuff wore his glasses and scribbled notes in his attorneys. When defense attorney Michael Charlton continued to shake his head and put the notes aside, McDuff moved his chair closer to the attorney and later beside the attorney so that he could glare at the witnesses.

Bruce Nichols, of Temple, testified that McDuff, a woman and another man came to his hotel room where the four drank beer and smoked crack cocaine in the early morning hours of March 1, the day of the slaying.

Prosecutor opts against pursuing pathologist case

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LUBBOCK, Texas — A special prosecutor has decided not to present grand jurors with evidence Friday against discredited pathologist Ralph Erdmann, a police detective said.

Detective Doug Davenport said Johnny Atkinson, district attorney for Bailey and Parmer counties, decided Erdmann's September plea bargain on seven felony charges covered all cases for which he was under investigation in Lubbock County.

Erdmann pleaded no contest to falsifying autopsy reports in three West Texas counties, including Lubbock County.

State District Judge Thomas L. Clinton, who oversees the grand jury, named Atkinson as special prosecutor for the new case. Atkinson declined to comment Thursday.

Friday's grand jury presentation was to be at the request of the police department, Clinton said.

Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney Travis Ware had asked Clinton to appoint a special prosecutor because Ware could have been a witness.

Erdmann performed hundreds of Lubbock County autopsies and testified at many trials Ware's office prosecuted.

Attorneys last February began accusing Erdmann of botching dozens of death investigations in the 40 West Texas counties where he performed autopsies.

His plea bargain in September forced him to relinquish his medical license during 10 years' probation. He also agreed to pay about $16,000 in restitution for autopsies he now acknowledges he never performed.

Numerous civil suits are pending against him, including one filed Tuesday in federal court in Amarillo. The suit accuses Erdmann, Ware and other officials of retaliating against a Georgia attorney and two Lubbock police officers who spoke out against Erdmann's work.

Hawks clobber struggling Chaps

By MIKE BUTTS Staff Writer

MIDLAND - Thursday night at the Chaparral Center in Midland two junior college basketball teams met briefly as they travelled in distinctly different directions.

The fifth-ranked Howard College Hawks gave the Midland College Chaparrals their third-worst defeat in school history, 88-65. The victory all but assured Howard of a spot in the junior college region playoffs. Fifth-place Midland fell to 3-6 in conference play and is one game out of the fourth-place position needed to make the playoffs.

The Chaps are winless in six games against the four teams ahead of them in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference standings. They have lost six of their last 18.

"I think Midland has lost a lot of confidence right now," Hawk coach Jeff Kidder said. "I really feel for Midland. I feel for (Midland) coach (Steve) Green... it's a real difficult time for their basketball team."

Howard (6-1 in conference, 21-2 overall) has now won three games on the road against the top five teams in the WJAC - Midland, South Plains College and New Mexico Junior College. It has a four-game lead on fifth-place Midland with five conference games to play.

The Chaps (16-8), were a preseason favorite to win the conference. Midland has had trouble shooting the ball in recent games. That problem continued Thursday as they hit only 33 percent of their field goal attempts. Poor shooting could be blamed on the Midland offense. But Kidder's post game comments suggested Howard was as much a cause of the Chaps' inaccurate shooting as anything.

"I thought we played great defense," Kidder said. "As far as putting offense and defense together, it's the best game we've played."

Down 14-11 with 13:13 to go in the first half, Howard used a 15-3 run to take control of the game. After that the Chaps were never able to get closer than six points. The final margin of 23 points was as big a lead as the Hawks had all night.

Sophomore forward Demeitrous Drew, Midland's leading scorer with a 21-point average, managed only 14 points, most of which came after the game was out of reach for the Chaps. He shot 6-16 field goals and committed three offensive fouls.

"He's left handed and we were just trying to keep him from going to the left because his best shots come from there," said forward Chuckie Robinson, one of five Howard players who scored in double figures.

Lady Hawks go to 24-0

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

For the No. 1 ranked Howard College Lady Hawks, it was just another day at the office.

Howard ran its record to 24-0 by defeating the Lubbock Christian University junior varsity Lady Chaparrals 79-52 in non-conference basketball action Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Coach Royce Chadwick made sure all of his team got ample playing action and it showed with a balanced scoring attack. The Lady Hawks came out with fullcourt pressure in the opening minutes of the game and it totally baffled LCU. Howard stayed with the pressure the first six minutes and took a 16-8 lead.

A Lubbock Christian University junior varsity player finds herself surrounded by Howard College Lady Hawk players Annette Robinson (40), Kim Stanley (52) and Becky Barnes in first half action Thursday night.

Chadwick played his starting lineup for most of the first half and Howard led 43-28 at the half. Howard's first half barrage was led by guard Yumeca White, forward Regina Huff and post player Angel Spinks, who each scored eight points.

LCU freshman guard Kelly Gregory helped keep the contest from becoming a total rout in the first half as she made three three-pointers. Chadwick called his team's play lackadaisical. "It was a good opportunity for our bench to get some quality minutes. I thought they (reserves) played well in the second half. We pressed them about the first six minutes of the game and they turned it over at least four times. Then we decided to pick them up at halfcourt and work on our halfcourt defense. We're trying to sharpen our skills for Monday (against New Mexico Junior College)."

Starting point guard LeKisha Wiley paced Howard in the second half with 12 points. Reserve post player Annette Robinson also helped carry the second half scoring load with three baskets. Spinks led Howard with 14 points, followed by Wiley with 13, White and Huff with 12 and Robinson with 10 points.

Julie Baker was the leading scorer for LCU with 15 points. Gregory finished the contest with 11 points.

Chadwick praised the play of Spinks, a freshman from Houston. "I think she is playing to her maximum potential," he said. "LeKisha Wiley had a good offensive game and I thought we got a good performance out of our post players. Annette had a good game tonight, she hasn't had that the last few games."

Chadwick said his team must be ready for NMJC Monday at 6 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. "We have been off for a week. We really didn't try to jack them up for this one. We want to get them ready for Monday," he said.

"When we played them up there (Hobbs, N.M.) they had us down by 12 in the first half. They (NMJC) had Odessa beat. They were up by five with a minute to go in Odessa and ended up losing by one. They'll run a zone and try to stop our inside game. They'll make the guards open up holes in the zone. Our guards will have to be prepared to do that."

"I don't think they are quite as deep as we are. They're first seven and our first seven are pretty even."

Big Spring golf teams begin season today

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

For the Big Spring Lady Steers, this golf season could be an improvement, for the Steers, it could be a rebuilding year.

Both teams officially start golf season today and Saturday. The Steers are competing in an Odessa tournament at the Sunset Country Club. The Lady Steers will be in San Angelo at the San Angelo Country Club.

STEERS REBUILDING After a trip to the state golf tournament two years ago, the Steers have found themselves finishing third in district the past two years.

In most 4A districts, Big Spring could've easily qualified for regional, but it just happens 3-4A is one of the strongest golf districts in the state with powerhouses like Andrews, which finished second in the state last year, and Monahans.

The Steers return two players from last year's squad - Kyle Plumlee and Jimmy Cox. Plumlee, a senior, finished in the top 10 in the district and was an all-district selection. Cox is a junior that shot his best round last year at the final district tournament, a 77.

Steers coach Gary Simmons said the early going might be tough for his team. "We're kind of in transition right now. We're putting three guys on the course that have never been in a varsity tournament," he said.

Other members on the varsity team are senior Cody Simmons, sophomore Ryan Williams and freshman Pat Carter. Both Simmons and Carter played junior varsity golf last season.

Simmons said his team must not get discouraged early. "We've got our work cut out for us. We're looking for steady improvement every week. We can't expect to be world-beaters the first week."

"I'm optimistic. Anything can happen in golf. We've got two of the best three teams in the state in our district. I think we've got a chance to finish in the top three."

LADY STEERS RETURN SIX The Big Spring Lady Steers return six players from last year's team. Coach Lois Ann McKenzie is hoping the team can improve from last year's seventh-place finish.

The Lady Steers lost a player when Heather Farris moved to Arlington. But they picked up a player when junior Jennifer Edgar transferred from Albany. The Lady Steers are still very young, only Meredith Baker and Kelly Bowermon are seniors. Mandee Fernandez, Stacey Hollar, Melina Hunter and Katina Palmer are back for their sophomore year.

Freshmen vying for spots are Jessica Sanchez, Nikki Crawford and Kristie Hale. McKenzie said there's a possibility that sophomores Sarah Bristow and Jennifer Broadrick may join the squad after basketball season ends.

Hunter was Big Spring's top player last year, finishing 20th in district. "When the chips are down, she comes through," said McKenzie of Hunter. McKenzie said early practice shows the team is a lot further along that last season. "Last year I had a kid three, maybe four times break 100. Stacy and Melina are shooting in the 40s for nine holes. That's a big accomplishment right there."

"If we don't blow up early we'll be in pretty good shape. Every tournament we should get better. We'll compete a lot better than last year. Andrews has won the thing (district) the last four years. They lost their top player, Lisa McQuarters, but they've got a couple of sophomores that are supposed to be real good."

Edmonds signs with Air Force

Duane Edmonds signs a track scholarship agreement with the Air Force Academy Thursday as his mother Patsy looks on. Edmonds ran on the Big Spring Steers 1,600 meter relay team that finished fourth in state last year. He has the school record of 21.62 in the 200 meters.

Spurs rout Indiana Pacers, 133-115; Bulls get past Clippers in overtime

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

No one can beat the San Antonio Spurs these days. In fact, some teams can't even come close.

Routs have become almost routine for the Spurs, who again won easily Thursday night with a 133-115 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

Sean Elliott scored 22 points and David Robinson had 20 as the Spurs won for the 13th time in 14 games. They've also won 10 straight at the HemisFair Arena and will be home for their next four games against Minnesota, the Los Angeles Clippers, Washington and Boston.

San Antonio set a season-high for points and led by 33 late in the game. Even though coach John Lucas rested his starting five for the entire fourth quarter, the Spurs sent Indiana to its most lopsided loss of the season.

"We just jumped on them and played steady," Elliott said. "We had a zillion points. We've just been playing like this."

In other games, Chicago downed the Clippers 107-105 in overtime. New Jersey stopped Seattle 113-103 in overtime, the Los Angeles Lakers defeated Utah 114-100 and New York beat Golden State 105-101.

Dale Ellis scored nine of his 18 points late in the second quarter as the Spurs took a 62-46 halftime lead. A 10-1 spree made it 76-53 in the third period.

"The guys really came into this game focused. We came out strong and then stayed strong all game. They (Indiana Pacers) didn't play a bad game. We just came out and played one of our best games of the season," San Antonio Spurs coach John Lucas.

The Spurs shot 57 percent for the game. They are 18-3 under Lucas.

"The guys really came into this game focused," Lucas said. "We came out strong and then stayed strong all game. They didn't play a bad game. We just came out and played one of our best games of the season."

Vern Fleming led the Pacers with 24 points and George McCloud had 15.

"Tonight was a case of them getting two steps ahead and we couldn't catch up," Indiana coach Bob Hill said. "They got a lot of easy baskets."

Bulls 107, Clippers 105

Michael Jordan scored 16 of his 33 points in the fourth quarter and overtime as Chicago won in Los Angeles.

The Bulls are 4-3 on their nine-game road trip. The 18-day swing is the longest in the NBA this season. B.J. Armstrong had seven of his 15 points in overtime for the Bulls.

Armstrong was scoreless and Jordan had only seven points in the first half, during which they combined to make just 2 of 18 shots.

Armstrong's two baskets and foul shot rallied Chicago from a three-point deficit to a 105-103 lead with 2.3 seconds left.

Danny Manning scored 25 points and Stanley Roberts had a season-high 22 points and 15 rebounds for Los Angeles.

Nets 113, SuperSonics 103

Drazen Petrovic scored 35 points and Derrick Coleman had 20 points and 22 rebounds as New Jersey won in overtime at home. Seattle lost its third straight game, its longest losing streak since George Karl became coach in January 1992.

The Nets led by 19 points early in the second quarter, then had to overcome a five-point deficit in the fourth period. Nate McMillan stole an in-bounds pass and scored with 37.9 seconds left in the regulation, tying it for the Sonics.

Petrovic put New Jersey ahead for good with a jumper with 3:02 left in overtime for a 101-99 lead. McMillan later dribbled the ball off his foot and out of bounds on two straight possessions.

Rickey Pierce scored 26 points and Eddie Johnson had 23 for Seattle.

Nicks 105, Warriors 101

Playing without Patrick Ewing, New York improved to 19-4 at Madison Square Garden.

Ewing, out with a hyperextended right knee, missed just his fourth game in six seasons. His status is day-to-day and he may play tonight in Miami.

John Starks scored 30 points, Charles Smith had 20 and Anthony Mason got 12 of his 16 in the fourth quarter. Golden State lost for the 11th time in 13 games despite Chris Mullin's 23 points and Tim Hardaway's 20 points and 12 assists.

Lakers 114, Jazz 110

A.C. Green scored a season-high 23 points and had 11 rebounds as Los Angeles won at home.

Utah trailed 52-33 in the second quarter before rallying to a 76-61 tie late in the third period. The Lakers led by four going into the fourth quarter and held the edge.

Karl Malone scored 15 of his 32 points in the third period for the Jazz.

Hawks

Bernard Lloyd and Reco Burt did a good job on him."

Forward Mark Davis led the Hawks with 18 points and 10 rebounds. He had 14 points in the first half as the Hawks took a 46-36 lead. A 10-0 Howard run keyed by Brian Green's three pointer and a three-point play by Davis put the Hawks ahead 72-55 with eight minutes left in the game.

Freshman guard Luis Cambraia was one of the few Chaps who had a good shooting night. He led Midland in scoring with 16 points on 4-7 three-point shooting.

The Hawks had not played since Jan. 25 win over Clarendon College. And Kidder said the layoff gave his team an advantage.

"I thought the difference was they're a very tired looking team right now," Kidder said. "I think we were fresh-legged and really ready to play."

The Hawks made over 50 percent of their field goals (29-55) and more than doubled Midland's points from the free throw line, 27-13. Afterwards, Kidder's and Robinson's words reflected the confidence with which the team is playing.

"When we step out on the floor we think we're going to win every ball-game right now," Kidder said.

Said Robinson, "If we play within ourselves we have a good chance of winning every night."

Maybe all the confidence Midland has lost this season has been found by the Hawks.

Notes: Hawk coaches wanted the team's fans to know the Mark Lynn Davis who the Big Spring Herald listed as one of the persons arrested in Wednesday's local drug raids is not the Mark Davis on the Howard team... The Hawks next game is Monday against New Mexico Junior College in Big Spring. It marks the first of three important conference home games on consecutive Monday nights. Odessa College comes to Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Feb. 15 and South Plains College visits Feb. 22.

Memorial vandal confesses

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands — A 38-year-old glass-cutter has confessed to vandalizing an Auschwitz Holocaust memorial, claiming he did it under orders to cover up his company's construction flaw.

The man told the Rotterdam daily Algemeen Dagblad he had no racist motive in using a pickax to shatter the glass monument to the millions of Jews murdered by the Nazis in Auschwitz.

But the Van Tetterode glass company that produced the monument denied the charge, and claimed the workman had sought to tarnish its reputation because it refused to help finance a drug addiction.

The attack last weekend shocked a nation sensitive to anti-Semitism after losing nearly all its Jewish community under Nazi occupation in World War II. Flowers covered the shattered monument for days after the attack, and prominent political and religious figures expressed outrage.

Police said they believed the glass cutter was responsible. Police spokesman Klaas Wiltzing said a claim of responsibility received earlier in the week by a previously unknown rightist group proved unfounded.

The memorial, designed by Dutch artist and author Jan Wolkers, consisted of six panes of glass set over mirrors to reflect an inscription engraved on a slab: "Never Again Auschwitz." It was to have been unveiled Sunday in Wertheim Park at the annual Auschwitz memorial ceremony.

"Friday when we cleaned it, we found that two of the panes had leaks, allowing condensation to get in and ruining the mirror effect," the glass cutter, identified only as Ruud S., was quoted today as saying. "For the company it was a terrible embarrassment, especially just before the unveiling."

"I said there was only one way: Smash it," he was quoted saying.

Somali gunmen attack convoy; Teenager killed

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOGADISHU, Somalia — Somali gunmen ambushed a relief convoy just west of Mogadishu, U.N. officials said today, detailing an attack that came less than a week after U.S. troops launched a major operation in the region.

Also today, the United Nations Development Program announced plans for an interim police force in Mogadishu and some rural areas. Training was to begin Monday.

United Nations troops could begin replacing U.S. forces in Somalia in just weeks, U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali said Thursday in his first indication of when the transfer might begin.

The United States, which first sent troops to Somalia on Dec. 9 to help protect deliveries of relief food to starving people, has pushed for a quick withdrawal. It has accused the world body of delaying moves to take over the mission.

The U.S. contingent has found its humanitarian mission marred by bloody conflict.

Thursday, a U.S. Marine shot and killed a 13-year-old boy on Thursday who Marines said was running after a U.S. vehicle with a package in his hand. The Marine thought the package might be a bomb and fired one shot, said Marine spokesman Col. Fred Peck.

Two teen-age bystanders suffered minor injuries and were treated at an Army hospital. The object the boy was carrying had not been found, Peck said.

Although American and allied troops have restored some order in Mogadishu and parts of southern Somalia, the country still swarms with gunmen, and rival clan militias continue to clash.

Some of Somalia's clan fighters are no more than boys.

Two Marines and a civilian U.S. Army employee have been killed since U.S. forces arrived and were followed by troops from 21 allied nations.

Thursday's ambush again illustrated the problems the forces face in trying to enforce order so that relief agencies can deliver food in this famine-stricken country racked by civil war and crime. Last year, 350,000 Somalis died from hunger, disease, and fighting among rival clans and crime.

The U.N. spokesman, Farouk Mawlawi, said seven gunmen armed with rocket propelled grenades pulled off the ambush against a convoy of the relief agency Irish Concern five miles south of Afgoi and about 20 miles west of Mogadishu.

U.N. talks begin; Convoys head to Bosnia

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — U.N. convoys carrying more than 650 tons of aid set out today for some of Bosnia's neediest towns to replenish alarmingly low stocks in Sarajevo and relieve near-starvation elsewhere.

But as rival faction leaders and negotiators prepared to meet in New York to discuss a peace plan, U.N. officials reported convoys were running into trouble in some of the areas where help was most needed.

The supply question took on additional urgency following a U.N. report Thursday that nearly 5,000 hungry Muslims were fleeing two eastern villages on foot, some of them reportedly starving on their trek to safer haven. Another report said Sarajevo was down to its last three days of food stocks.

About 20 planes, carrying more than 200 tons of aid, were to land in Sarajevo today.

Nine convoys of food and other supplies left for Sarajevo, Vitez to the southeast, Zenica to the northwest, Konjic to the southwest and Bugojno to the west of the Bosnian capital. Peter Kessler of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees in Croatia described it as the largest relief effort in weeks.

Other U.N. officials, who asked not to be identified, said convoys continued to be hindered in southwestern Bosnia by Serb rebels denying access to Gorazde, Cerska and Zepa.

U.N. officials in Tuzla, eastern Bosnia, said Serb militiamen were letting Muslims leave the besieged towns of Cerska and Kamenica to "ethnically cleanse" the region. More than 5,000 refugees were expected to reach Tuzla, 20 miles to the north, by today.

"These people are arriving in very bad medical condition ... and there are reports of deaths along the way," a U.N. statement said Thursday.

More than 18,000 people have died and 1 million people have been driven from their homes since Muslims and Croats voted Feb. 29 to secede from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia.

Bosnian Serbs, backed by Yugoslavia, promptly took up arms to crush the secession, and despite continuing attempts at resolving the conflict through mediation and harsh sanctions against Yugoslavia for its role in the violence, peace has been an elusive goal.

Threat of new volcano eruption has refugees swarming centers

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEGAZPI, Philippines — Thousands more people fled their homes today after the government's chief volcanologist warned that the Mayon volcano could erupt again this weekend.

An eruption and landslides three days ago killed 61, injured 118 and left 25 missing, the Provincial Disaster Coordinating Council said today. The toll has changed quickly over the past days as reports were received from outlying settlements and more bodies were recovered.

Today, the Philippine air force flew in food, medicine and other supplies for refugees, plus additional supplies in case of another eruption.

Rescue teams searched near the volcano for the missing. Heavy rains have delayed recovery operations and raised fears of new landslides.

Members of one rescue team had to abandon two bodies and run for their lives when a fresh avalanche roared down a ravine on the southeastern slope today. A helicopter was sent later to retrieve the bodies.

The bodies of five people who had been airlifted to Manila with critical burns and later died were returned on an air force plane today to Legazpi, a port city 10 miles from the volcano and 200 miles southeast of Manila. Relaves of the dead wept and screamed as the bodies were brought off the plane.

At least 17 people remain hospitalized, mostly with burns suffered when steaming rivers of debris tumbled from the 8,077-foot volcano.

Officials said another 8,000 people had reported to emergency shelters, bringing the number of evacuees to more than 24,000.

Four jailed, one sought in robbery

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Three men and a juvenile were in custody this morning and a fourth man was being sought in connection with the sexual assault and robbery of a 71-year-old woman in Big Spring Thursday.

The suspect still at large has been identified and area law enforcement agencies were notified, said Police Capt. Lonnie Smith. "We know who he is."

Arrested and being held at city jail:

- Ronnie Moncada, 28, 400 E. Fourth. He's charged with burglary of a habitation with intent to commit sexual assault, burglary of a building, two counts of burglary of a vehicle and aggravated robbery. No bond was set because he was wanted on a parole revocation warrant.

- Juan Samora, 22. He's charged with the same. Bond was set at $95,000 but a parole revocation warrant was applied for. If the warrant's granted, no bond would be available.

- Juan Pablo Mendez, 22, charged with burglary of a habitation and two counts of burglary of a vehicle.

A male juvenile is being held in juvenile detention facilities.

A call on an aggravated sexual assault came in from the southwest part of the city about 1:30 a.m., according to a release. The victim's stolen 1979 Chevrolet Caprice was later observed by police and a pursuit ensued, ending in a short foot pursuit. Stolen goods were later recovered from a house, believed to have been hosted in several burglaries Wednesday.

Further details will not be divulged until the fourth suspect is apprehended, said police spokesman Scott Griffin. "We need to get him locked up before we can release some of this stuff."

Courts

The following cases were decided in area courts:

- Christopher Tennyson, 29, of Big Spring pleaded guilty to burglary and was sentenced to 12 years in prison.

Police

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following:

- Ronnie James Coleman, 30, of Houston, was arrested and charged with driving while license suspended.
- Various items were stolen from the 1500 block of South Gregg.
- Losses of $326 from damage to a house and a stolen video recorder occurred on the 1300 block of West Fourth.
- $500 damage was caused to a business on the 900 block of South Johnson.
- $75 damage was caused to a vehicle on the 1000 block of Birdwell.
- $100 damage was caused to a door on the 1600 block of East 11th.

Knights of Columbus committed to faith, family and service

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

Family and faith have been the Knights of Columbus' traditions since its founding in 1882.

The local Knight council was formed more than 40 years ago and presently has more than 50 active members.

Locally, as well as nationally and internationally, members have been committed to providing assistance to families.

"The Catholic fraternal family benefit service's — original and existing — purpose is to help the families of its members," said Richard McMunn with the national organization.

The Rev. Michael McGiven, 110 years ago, established the Knights to provide for Catholic families when the husband/father died. The original death benefit was $1,000.

McMunn said. Today, the Knights have one of the largest life insurance companies in the United States.

The Knights are also a civic organization, assisting with charities, fundraisers and other community services. In 1991, the organization donated more than $95 million to charitable causes and gave more than 42 million volunteer hours, McMunn said.

Locally, the Knights help with Christmas in April, as well as other benefit projects. "We try to get involved with other civic organizations," said Grand Knight Samuel Munoz.

Member G.G. Villa organizes and donates all the materials for the Knights' annual Easter egg hunt, and has backed the event for more than eight years. Villa was named Knight of the Year for 1992. The local council meets about every eight weeks, inviting city officials and other community members. At its last meeting, City Councilwoman Pat DeAnda, Mayor Tim Blackshear and Chief of Police Joe Cook attended. At the next meeting, Feb. 13, City Manager Lanny Lambert will be a guest.

The Knights' membership consists of Catholic men who are over 18 and who are in communion with the orders of the Holy See, Munoz said.

"Although the members are all men, we consider their families as part of the council," he said. "The families help out with benefits and are a part of the social gatherings."

The local council officers are: Alex Calvio, Deputy Grand Knight; D.J. Alviar Jr., financial secretary; Rudy Hernandez Sr., treasurer; and Benito Gonzalez, chancellor. Globally, the Knights have 1.5 million members.

Habitat hopes to do away with poverty housing

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

A few dozen women got together to build a house for a needy family in less than a week — and had the time of their lives.

"I've never had such a physically tiring and yet uplifting experience in my life," Linda J. Brown wrote in an article in the current issue of Good Housekeeping about her experience with Habitat for Humanity International.

Habitat is a 16-year-old, ecumenical, grass-roots, Christian ministry group that hopes to do away with poverty housing by building or renovating houses using volunteer labor and donated funds and materials.

Prospective homeowners earn "sweat equity" by working on their own and on other Habitat-built homes. They buy their houses at cost and pay interest-free mortgages. Habitat has built or rehabilitated more than 16,500 housing units in some 723 communities in the United States and 37 other countries.

Brown arrived in Washington last June to join the annual Jimmy Carter Work Project, led by the former president and his wife, Rosalynn, who have been active Habitat volunteers

More than 7,000 Bible versions

By TERRY MATTINGLY
Scriptures Howard News Service

The list goes on and on — dysfunctional families, substance abuse, workaholicism, divorce, cults, suicide, eating disorders, AIDS, crisis pregnancies and young people hooked on television.

It's the 1990s. In times like these, church leaders have often urged people to turn to the Bible for help and comfort.

So far, so good. But which version of the Bible? The Bible shelf at the local book store is growing and, more and more, it mirrors this troubled culture. In all, about 7,000 editions are on the market.

For starters, there are editions for Catholics, mainline Protestants, evangelicals, feminists, fundamentalists, "spirit-filled" charismatics and folks in other flocks. Then there are Bibles for single adults, working mothers, stressed-out fathers, co-dependent children or others in various stages of counseling or 12-step recovery programs.

The title of one popular edition says it all — "The Life Recovery Bible."

"The point is to try to meet needs. We also need to admit that it's getting harder to get people to read anything, today," said Ken Abraham, a Christian writer who specializes in youth work.

"Some people think the Bible is too intimidating — so they don't read it. ... So we're trying to create new versions that are easier for people to relate to and read. Does it work? It's hard to tell, sometimes. But it's better to try to do something good than to not try at all."

So as the '90s began, Abraham signed on to help create one of the most talked about Bibles on the market — a New Testament for students called "The King and the Beast: Making Sense Out of Matthew and Revelation and All the Great Stuff in Between."

Polls indicate the vast majority of teens and young adults believe in God. Yet they rarely read the Bible.

Some have asked if it's proper to try to create a "Bible for the Bart Simpson." Many of today's other specialized editions face similar criticisms.

"Kids simply aren't reading their vanilla versions of the King James Bible," said Abraham, whose background includes time as a rock 'n' roll drummer. "We needed to put together something that honors the Bible, but uses the language of today. We also needed to help young readers apply the Bible to their issues."

Thus, "The King and the Beast" uses the Contemporary English Version of the New Testament text, which puts it at a 4th grade reading level. An similar Old Testament text is in the works. The margins of this new edition are lined with answers to basic questions about the chapters and verses on each page.

A 122-page prologue sets the tone. There are snappy chapters with titles such as "Would God Send Me To Hell?", "Why Am I So Depressed?", "I Know Someone Being Abused" and "God Is Not Opposed To Sex."

Suffice it to say that Bibles for young people in the 1950s didn't include 10-page chapters on the occult.

"We didn't make all this up," stressed Abraham. "We went to young people and asked questions like 'What are the issues that kids worry about at your school?' We asked them why they don't read the Bible. We asked how we could apply the Bible to subjects that really matter to them."

The result isn't perfect, he admitted. A book is a book. It is still hard to convince young people to read, in this age of cable television, portable compact disc players and computer games.

New versions of the Bible will come and go, as church leaders strive to apply eternal truths to fleeting headlines and trends.

"The issue is whether we will try to reach this generation with the Gospel, or stand back and let them be reached by occult groups and dozens of other alternative religions," said Abraham. "But all kinds of people are asking all kinds of questions, today. They're out there hunting for answers and they are ripe to be evangelized by somebody. That's the bottom line."

Ultra-Orthodox Jewish leader fails to reveal messiah

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Thousands of members of the worldwide Lubavitcher sect of Hasidic Jews gathered for an appearance by their 90-year-old spiritual leader, who didn't do as some had expected: reveal the Messiah.

About 8,000 of the faithful crammed the Brooklyn headquarters of the ultra-Orthodox sect Sunday and thousands more stood outside for the appearance of Grand Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson.

A gold velvet curtain on a balcony parted to reveal the white-bearded Schneerson sitting on a red chair. Schneerson, left unable to speak and largely paralyzed since he suffered a stroke last year, bobbed his head to rhythmic singing in Hebrew for about 10 minutes.

Schneerson's followers gathered in cities on every continent. A satellite dish beamed the service to Israel and phone links sent audio to the faithful in London, Paris, Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Moscow, Hong Kong, Sydney and Melbourne.

Hundreds in Kfar Habad in Israel danced to Jewish folk tunes in hopes Schneerson would be crowned as Messiah.

Earlier, Rabbi Shmuel Butman told congregants that Schneerson's appearance "is not to be interpreted as a coronation" of the Messiah, but some members of the sect remained convinced after the service that he is the Messiah.

Fourteen-year-old Dina Rubin, who joined the frenzied prayer service at the sect's world headquarters in the Crown Heights neighborhood, said Schneerson "has proven time and time again that he has all the qualifications to be the Messiah. He is a candidate."

The service, which coincided with the 43rd anniversary of Schneerson assuming his leadership of the sect, was "so all of us can announce that God should give our rebbe the directive to reveal the Messiah," Butman said.

Schneerson is known as "the rebbe."

In Yorba Linda, Calif., Rabbi David Eliezrie, the Lubavitch representative in Orange County, said Schneerson "was subdued. I think it was his way of indicating that he was not happy with those people who were trying to proclaim to the public who they think the Messiah is."

Followers of the Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson await his appearance at the ultra-Orthodox Lubavitch sect's world headquarters in Brooklyn Sunday. Schneerson's followers worldwide awaited the grand rabbi's appearance, but Rabbi Shmuel Butman appeared prior to the rabbi and told congregants that Schneerson's appearance "is not to be interpreted as a coronation" of the messiah.

Before his stroke, Schneerson preached that the time of the Messiah was imminent, but never claimed the mantle for himself. But recently, according to But-man, some Lubavitchers concluded the ailing rabbi — by moving his head and hand — was encouraging them to believe he would be revealed as the Messiah.

Pope urges Muslim leaders unite with Christians for peace

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARAKOU, Benin — Pope John Paul II passed through two rows of chanting horsemen in flowing robes today to enter this provincial city, where he told Muslim leaders to unite with Christians in the search for peace.

In what seemed a preview of his expected message when he stops next week in Sudan, where Christians are under attack by the Muslim fundamentalist-inspired government, the pope urged cooperation between the two religions.

"You allow me to evoke ... a domain in which Christians and Muslims can work hand in hand — the search for peace," the pontiff told about 100 Muslim clerics in a meeting hall.

As the pope flew to Benin from Rome Wednesday, he championed the rights of Christians in Africa. "Our role is always to remind leaders of Muslim countries that Koranic law cannot be applied to people of other religions," he told reporters in an apparent reference to conflict between Sudan's government and Christians seeking autonomy in that country's south.

'You allow me to evoke ... a domain in which Christians and Muslims can work hand in hand — the search for peace.'

Pope John Paul II

Today, an imam spoke to the pope of conflicts in Africa — mentioning Liberia and Somalia — and violence against Muslims in Bosnia and India.

"In the Middle East, the absence of a just and equitable solution to the Palestinian problem blocks the advent of a durable peace between Arabs and Israelis," added the imam, Issiaka Ligah.

Murmurs of "Allah akbar" — God is Great — rose from the assembled clerics dressed in voluminous robes and pillbox hats.

Most of Benin's 4.9 million people adhere to traditional religions. About a quarter of the population is Christian and 13 percent Muslim.

On the pope's schedule this evening was a meeting with voodoo practitioners. Voodoo was transported to the New World by the tens of thousands of Africans who passed from Benin's shores into slavery.

This morning, the pope led an open-air Mass before 15,000 people. He walked slowly in the procession up to the altar with a twirling umbrella behind him providing shade. A chorus accompanied by drums sang African hymns.

In his homily, he urged religious communities working in Africa to strive to incorporate African cultural expressions into Catholic worship.

The pope flew the 235 miles from Cotonou, the capital, in a French military transport plane and rode his glass-enclosed pope-mobile from the airstrip to the meeting hall.

He passed between two rows of mounted Bariba tribesmen in head-dresses who chanted, strummed one-string bowed instruments and played drums with crooked sticks.

Hundreds of people watched his arrival in the dusty scrubland field around the airstrip.

On Friday, John Paul II flies to Kampala, Uganda, where he remains for five days before the Feb. 10 stopover in Khartoum on his way back to the Vatican.

A good name is more desirable than great riches; to be esteemed is better than silver or gold. Rich and poor have this in common: The Lord is the Maker of them all.

Wives, fit in with your husbands' plans; for then if they refuse to listen when you talk to them about the Lord, they will be won by your respectful, pure behavior. Your godly lives will speak to them better than any words. Don't be concerned about the outward beauty that depends on jewelry, or beautiful clothes, or chair arrangement. Be beautiful inside, in your hearts, with the lasting charm of a gentle and quiet spirit which is so precious to God. That kind of deep beauty was seen in the saintly women of old, who trusted God and fitted in with their husbands' plans. Sarah, for instance, obeyed her husband Abraham, honoring him as head of the house. And if you do the same, you will be following in her steps like good daughters and doing what is right; then, you will not need to fear (offending your husbands).

We are so glad that we can say with utter honesty that in all our dealings we have been pure and sincere, quietly depending upon the Lord for His help, and not on our own skills. Blessed is the man who makes the Lord his trust, who does not look to the proud, to those who turn aside to false gods.

Jesus said, "If you hold to My teaching, you are really My disciples. Then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." Be very careful, then, how you live — not as unwise but as wise, making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil. Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the Lord's will is.

And now this word to all of you. You should be like one big happy family, full of sympathy toward each other, loving one another with tender hearts and humble minds. Don't repay evil for evil. Don't snap back at those who say unkind things about you. Instead, pray for God's help for them, for we are to be kind to others, and God will bless us for it. If you want a happy, good life, keep control of your tongue, and guard your lips from telling lies. Turn away from evil and do good. Try to live in peace even if you must run after it to catch and hold it!

God turns mourning to gladness

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband died two months ago after struggling with heart problems for years. I thought I was prepared for his death, but it has been very hard. I know he is in Heaven, but that doesn't help my loneliness. I pray but I feel guilty because I can't shake my grief. What is wrong? -- Mrs. H.Y.

DEAR MRS. H.Y.: It isn't a sin to grieve over the death of a loved one. Jesus joined with those who wept over the death of His friend Lazarus (see John 11:35-36). God understands your sorrow.

As a Christian you don't grieve because of what has happened to your husband, for he is secure in Heaven and no longer subject to pain or sickness. Think of that wonderful truth! No longer does he struggle with his heart problems, or any other disability. As the Bible says, "Now we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, an eternal house in heaven, not built by human hands" (2 Corinthians 5:1). That's why the Bible commands us not "to grieve like the rest of men, who have no hope" (1 Thessalonians 4:13). Have you thanked God that your husband is now beyond the reach of pain forever?

Instead, you grieve for yourself, and for the loss you now feel -- and there's nothing wrong in that. Right now you wonder if your hurt will ever go away. I want to assure you it will, as you seek God's strength. It will take time -- but God's promise is true: "I will turn their mourning into gladness; I will give them comfort and joy instead of sorrow" (Jeremiah 31:13).

Part of God's process for healing can be for you to reach out to others who have needs.

THE HOME FRONT By Kay Moore

Some homebuilders are offering "trade-ins" on new homes, guaranteeing the purchase of the buyers' old homes. Purchasers look at the incentive as a "safety net" to avoid owning two homes.

Lack of humidity can seriously damage old and antique furniture, causing wood to crack and veneer to come off. Ideal humidity is 55 percent, but some heated homes have a 28 percent level.

To make a bedroom room comfortable, be sure that bedside lamps are tall enough and bright enough to read by. Coordinate shades, wallpaper and dust ruffles to give the room a pulled-together look.

Don't try to remove lead paint yourself; incorrect procedures could make the problem worse. Do clean residues from hard-surface floors, windowsills and baseboards weekly with a lithium phosphate cleaner.

It's hard to choose the just-right blue for a room. Pale blues encourage fantasy, says a color psychologist; the middle tones give a tranquil feeling; the dark tones reflect heat. Tip: mix colors.

It may be hard to choose the just-right home for your family - we can show you so many terrific houses at Home Realtors, 110 W. Marcy, call 263-1284.
