BSSH program advances recycling effort

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Recycling is growing in Big Spring due to increased public awareness, state law mandates and, more recently, a work/therapy program enacted by the Big Spring State Hospital.

Reclaimers, the BSSH group coordinated by Monty Farmer, recently asked local governments to provide computer and bond paper in anticipation of buying a new shredder. The operation, on Texas 350 across from Westex Auto Parts Inc., has been collecting cardboard, metal and newsprint for five months.

Deliveries are encouraged. "Right now, it's one of the fastest growing industries in the United States," Farmer said. "We can let it (Reclaimers) grow as big as it wants to. We haven't even covered Big Spring yet."

Changing laws in wake of increased public concern are a big reason. A 1991 state law requires all state agencies in communities of 5,000 or more population to recycle. Big Spring City Manager Lanny Lambert announced this week that recycling options are being studied by city officials in anticipation of future mandates.

Selling recycled materials for a profit, or at least recouping expenses, has been a concern in recent years due to glutted markets from increased recycling.

Farmer, hired in February 1992, spent about six months shopping for outlets before deciding to use the services of a Lubbock brokerage firm, Vista Fibers, to operated by the Big Spring State Hospital, was started to comply with a state law requiring recycling measures by state agencies.

Big cats have always been part of a good circus. These trained cats are part of several beasts from lions to jaguars that will take center stage today and

Jaycees circus performances today

Elephants, clowns, tigers and highly-conditioned performers will be spotlighted this afternoon and evening during the Howard County Jaycees' circus, featuring Circus Gatti.

Currently celebrating the circus' 30th anniversary, Circus Gatti officials have added new attractions to their stable of performers and trainers.

Much larger than her Asian cousins, Kenya is a 10-year-old African elephant who executes complex maneuvers on the vocal command of her trainer, Sabu. Performances are scheduled for 4 p.m. and 8. Adult tickets are $8 at the door.

Jaycees have been passing out tickets to area schools and many businesses in the area are offering free tickets to children, according to coordinator Betty Hale.

Proceeds from the circus are being donated to the D-FY-IT organization, Hale said, noting that members of the organization will be helping out, working the gates at the event.

Another of Circus Gatti's featured performers is "Sir Lancelot" whose act includes two black Nubian lions, two Bengal tigers, a jaguar, two black panthers and a lioness.

A staple of the circus, "The Flying Lunas" are joined by other trapeze and acrobatic performers.

Other attractions include the "Gypsy Bears" trained bear act, the "BMX" bicycle acrobats and the Circus Gatti clowns ensure the action never stops during each two-hour performance.

Stereotypical roles long a problem for black actors

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

Since the first black was cast in a French film in 1902, only a handful of African-Americans in film and television have managed to break away from stereotypical portrayals.

A cache of films produced and starring African-Americans in the 1920s to the 1950s were found in Tyler in 1984.

"The production values were very low on the films," said Rick Worland, film history professor at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. "They also perpetuated the same stereotypes mainstream films did."

During that era, the movie industry was closed to African-Americans with the only roles for blacks being subservient, Worland said.

The films were the work of mainly two producers, Oscar Micheaux and Noble Johnson. They were produced for a specialized market — an all-black audience. Johnson later became an actor in mainstream movies.

African-American roles began increasing in the 1930s. Clarence Brooks received roles which were commonly associated with white heroes. In Arrows-

Black History Month

mith, Brooks played a physician.

With the release of the epic "Gone with the Wind" in 1939 came the first black to receive an Academy Award. Hattie McDaniel won a supporting role award for her performance of a stereotypical "Mammy."

But with increased film roles for African-Americans also came a great number of films perpetuating stereotypes.

"The 1930s for the most part was an era of commercial exploitation, as singers, dancers and jazz musicians," according to The Negro Almanac: A Reference Work on the Afro American, fourth edition, edited by Harry A. Ploeki and James Williams. "At the same time, the myth of the (black) as irrepressible "rhythm man" was reinforced — a myth which has found its most demeaning expression in the grinning, shuffling, eye-rolling antics of Stepin Fetchit, Mantan Moreland and Sleep 'n' Eat, among others."

After World War II, the range of roles for blacks increased, leaving behind the glorification of the Old South.

"Gradually, following the war, the worst racial offenses began to disappear from the scene," the almanac states. "The scatterbrained maid, shuffle-foot janitor and crazed savage have virtually disappeared."

With the invention of television, shows such as "Buella" about a black maid appeared. In the 1960s, Bill Cosby was the star of "I-Spy."

"Bill Cosby's role of a sleuth was atypical, but more important was the relationship with his partner," Worland said. "You saw a white and black man together as buddies."

On the big screen, the most commonly cast face was that of Sydney Poitier. "He was virtually the only one for the most part," Worland said. "If there was a meaningful role for a black man it would be Sydney Poitier."

In the 1970s, a second wave of exploitation films were produced. Instead of jazz singers and dancers, the films such as "Superfly" and "Shaft" had pimps, hookers and con-men. "The films were virtually attacked by the political spectrum denouncing the films," Worland said. "There was a lot of sex and violence. They were real controversial."

In the early 1980s, Keenan Ivory Wayans produced "I'm Gonna Git Ya Sucka," a spoof on the 1970s exploitation films.

Wayans with other directors marked a new wave of films produced by African-Americans. Many African-Americans were graduating from film school, including Spike Lee, John Sayles and Ernest Dickerson.

Cosby had a hit series with "The Cosby Show." A situation comedy about an African-American physician married to an African-American attorney living in New York City with their five children. Cosby's show received some criticism for its unrealistic views. "Cosby's reply was 'I don't care, there are so few positive images of blacks and I am going to this,'" Worland said.

In 1991, between 20 and 25 films with an all-black cast were produced. • Please see HISTORY, Page 5A

Space station, collider foes go for jugular

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Senate opponents of the space station and super collider exhorted their colleagues Thursday to prove their willingness to slash the deficit by killing the two multi-billion-dollar programs.

"Here are the two biggest-ticket items on the table that ought to be taken off if we are really serious about deficit reduction," said Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.

A longtime critic of both projects, Bumpers on Thursday joined with four colleagues to introduce legislation that would terminate the two giant projects which some call science; others pork barrel.

Sen. John Warner, R-Va., urged fellow lawmakers to kill the programs even if it means job losses for their states.

"Our state will suffer if the Congress adopts these two cuts," Warner said as he and Bumpers introduced their legislation. "There are many Virginians that have either direct or indirect employment in both of these programs, but this is the type of courage that individual members of this body and indeed the Congress as a whole must take."

The $30 billion-plus space station and $8.25 billion super collider face difficult funding battles in Congress every year. But the programs, which mean billions of dollars and thousands of jobs to Texas, may be particularly vulnerable this year.

Some conservative Democrats are urging deeper spending cuts to provide them the political cover necessary to support President Clinton's call for higher taxes and a $30 billion economic stimulus program.

Also troubling to many is word of cost overruns in both programs.

NASA has acknowledged that cost overruns in the space station program at the Johnson Space Center near Houston could total $500 million.

Collider overseers steadfastly deny cost overruns at the project under construction south of Dallas. But a General Accounting Office report released Wednesday said the giant atom smasher could come in millions of dollars over budget.

The Clinton administration will seek $2.3 billion for the space station next year and $640 million for the super collider. More than $8 billion has been spent to date on the space station, and $1.6 billion on the giant atom smasher.

The Congressional Budget Office estimates that killing the super collider could save as much as $3 billion over five years, while more than $10 billion could be saved by terminating the space station.

Some have speculated that Clinton's support for both projects is soft. Critics point to Clinton's desire to stretch completion of the super collider from 1999 to 2003, which would add to its final price tag. They also note that Clinton has told NASA to dismantle the existing space station program and come up with a cheaper, more efficient design.

John Hearnberger, a deputy constable in Angelina County, uncovers a secret compartment in a mini-van where he discovered 71 kilos of cocaine Wednesday night in Lufkin. The estimated street value was more than $6 million. Louis Gonzalez, 51, of New York City, was arrested on a charge of aggravated possession of a controlled substance and held on $3 million bond.

Angelina County officers net 211 pounds of cocaine in bust

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DIBOLL, Texas — Angelina County officials confiscated 96 kilos of cocaine in separate busts and arrested two people accused of trying to smuggle the drugs from Houston to New York.

The first arrest was in Diboll Wednesday afternoon, when a county constable stopped a car and discovered 25 kilos of cocaine hidden in the trunk, officials said.

Luis Gonzalez, 51, of New York City was charged with possession of a controlled substance. He remained jailed Thursday on $3 million bail.

A woman and two young children in Gonzalez's van were released Wednesday night.

Wednesday night in Diboll, an officer stopped a car carrying a woman and two children. The officer became suspicious when the woman, Neyda Lemus, 43, of New York City, and a 16-year-old boy in the vehicle gave conflicting stories about where they had been.

The officer's drug-sniffing dog found the cocaine, in 25 one-kilo packages, in a hidden compartment in the trunk, officials said.

Ms. Lemus was arrested and held in the Angelina County jail on a $1 million bond, officials said. The 16-year-old boy and a 4-year-old child in her car were placed in the charge of state Child Protective Services.

Both vehicles were headed from Houston to New York, said county Constable Eddie Horton. The estimated value of the combined busts was $10 million.

Ex-officers sentenced to 30 years

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Two former Dallas police officers have been sentenced to 30 years in federal prison on charges of extorting money, guns and drugs from drug dealers in the area they patrolled.

Randy Harris and Swany Davenport, both 27, will not be eligible for parole, U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders said Thursday. Both claim they are innocent and their attorneys have said they plan to appeal the convictions.

The former officers were convicted of extorting more than $50,000, plus guns and drugs, from crack dealers in a southeast Oak Cliff neighborhood. Witnesses said they were nicknamed "Cruiser" and "Bruiser."

The case has been described by Dallas police as the most serious incident of corruption in department history. The officers were fired by Police Chief Bill Rathburn in December 1991.

The officers have steadfastly maintained that they were framed by vindictive drug dealers who manufactured the charges against them.

"If what happened in this courtroom had happened in a totalitarian system of government, maybe I could understand," an impassioned Harris told Sanders. "But not in America, your honor. I cannot understand it."

He also called "inherently unfair" comments by the defendants and character witnesses who charged that the ex-officers were convicted solely on the testimony of drug dealers who are now running free.

Richards pitching school funding

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PLAINVIEW, Texas — Gov. Ann Richards solicited the help of schoolchildren Thursday in her campaign to sell a "Robin Hood" education funding plan.

Richards asked 400 Hillcrest Elementary students to tell their parents that Texans must pass a constitutional amendment to keep the state's public school doors open and business climate healthy.

"We don't want our schools to close. Vote 'Yes' May 1," Richards chanted loudly with the children.

The Legislature earlier this month approved the amendment under threat of a June 1 court deadline to equalize the way Texas funds public schools. The measure would allow the state to shift property tax revenues from wealthier school districts to those with lower property values.

If voters turn down the amendment May 1 and lawmakers can't come up with a hurried alternative plan, most education funds will be frozen by the courts June 1.

Richards told the children and their parents and teachers that she took the threat seriously.

Richards spokesman Chuck McDonald said Thursday a school visit was the first of many on behalf of a plan the governor said was more palatable than school consolidation or a state income tax.

Richards, a Democrat, predicted Republican attempts to derail the amendment.

"They're afraid if we pass the school issue that you will re-elect me governor," she told about 250 parents and teachers.

But if the amendment doesn't pass, no business or industry is going to want to come to a state that doesn't care about its children."

Richards spent much of the afternoon touring classrooms. She sat at a low desk to watch first-graders sing a tune about vowels, and a second-grader draw trapezoids. "Aren't you kids smart?" she asked, clapping.

Senate passes on courthouse security

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — A bill its sponsor said would help beef up security at county courthouses following two shootings in Dallas and Fort Worth was put off by senators, who were discouraged by the funding for the measure.

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, sponsored a bill that would impose up to a $5 fee on the filing of civil lawsuits in county and district courts to help pay for security.

The bill was criticized Thursday by several senators who claimed the fee was an unfair tax on people seeking justice.

Perot may hold forum for hopefuls

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Representatives from Texas Senate campaigns will meet with Ross Perot Friday to discuss issue forums his political organization may hold for voters before the May 1 special election.

The Perot organization, United We Stand, America, earlier this week asked candidates to come together because Perot wants a role in the rest of the campaign.

"We've talked in terms of candidate forums throughout the state," said Sharon Holman, spokeswoman for the Perot group. "We want to make sure that all candidates have an equal opportunity to speak."

All the major candidates are sending representatives to meet the Dallas billionaire whose independent campaign reshaped the 1992 presidential race.

Former attorney general Jim Mattox, who appears to have adopted Perot's tactic of running without formally declaring a candidacy, plans to personally attend.

Perot, who won about 21 percent of the presidential vote in Texas, reorganized his supporters group last month and is still trying to shape it. A director for the Texas organization was hired two weeks ago.

There have been no decisions about whether to endorse a candidate, Ms. Holman said.

"We're committed to getting the vote out and then making sure that every Texas voter is as well educated as possible," she said.

When he started the United We Stand, America, membership drive Jan. 11, Perot said the race to replace Sen. Lloyd Bentsen would be a first test of the group's organization and power.

"It's safe to say we'll be very active," Perot said then.

Clinton orders unilateral Bosnian aid drop

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Clinton ordered the Pentagon to mount an airdrop of relief supplies into war-torn Bosnia on Thursday, saying it would serve important "humanitarian purposes" but acknowledging it would fall short of alleviating the region's misery.

Officials said the flights would begin soon — possibly as early as Sunday — using U.S. cargo planes based in Germany. They will be flying at night — at some 10,000 feet to lessen any risk of anti-aircraft fire.

"The war that has raged in Bosnia-Herzegovina over the past year has taken a staggering toll: Thousands have been killed or imprisoned, thousands more are at risk due to hunger and exposure, and over two million people have been forced from their homes," Clinton said in a statement issued at the White House.

He said that regular overland deliveries "are the best means to ensure that the long-term needs of the Bosnian population are met," but he maintained the airdrops will provide an important supplement.

The president said the need for food and medicine was greatest in Eastern Bosnia and that the airdrops would be made "without regard to ethnic or religious affiliation."

"These airdrops are being carried out strictly for humanitarian purposes, no combat aircraft will be used in this operation," Clinton said, indicating no fighter escorts would accompany the unarmed transport aircraft.

Clinton's statement made no mention of any other countries joining in the mission, which he said would be coordinated with existing United Nations relief efforts.

But he said later in answer to a question, "We've had several volunteers." He did not elaborate.

Asked why the mission was worth undertaking, he said that in addition to the humanitarian aspect, "we think if we do it we will be able to create a somewhat better climate for negotiations" in the former Yugoslavia.

A senior Pentagon official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the supply-drop was designed to be "of short duration." But bad weather or problems with accuracy of the drops could add to the time, he said.

The aircraft used would be slow-flying C-130 "Hercules" transports. To protect the pilots, the planes are supposed to fly at high altitudes — such as 10,000 feet — to avoid the possibility of anti-aircraft fire from forces on the ground.

However, the higher the flights occur, the less accurate the drops are.

Nigerian soldiers clash with sniper; much of Mogadishu settling down

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOGADISHU, Somalia — Nigerian soldiers traded fire with a sniper this morning, but signs of calm were returning to Mogadishu after two days of rioting.

Merchants began opening up for business in their ramshackle stalls of corrugated steel. The remains of bonfires from burning tires and junk still littered some streets, but traffic navigated around them.

At the city's main traffic circle, Nigerian troops in the U.S.-led coalition fired repeatedly in the air in a show of force.

"Workers heard some loud gunfire this morning, but it's much less hairy than yesterday," Cynthia Osterman of the relief group CARE said today in Nairobi, Kenya, after talking by radio with the group's workers in Mogadishu. Reports say at least six Somalis were killed, and five U.S. Marines and two Nigerian soldiers wounded in violence that started Wednesday when backers of warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid claimed U.S.-led forces helped a rival.

Relief officials say the violence halted some food deliveries, but they do not plan to pull out of the city.

The violence raised questions about when U.S. troops could hand over command to a U.N.-led force and go home, but officials said the transfer itself was not jeopardized.

It was the first major protest against the coalition of 32,000 international troops, including 17,000 Americans, in Somalia to secure relief shipments to millions of Somalis threatened by starvation after two years of civil war and drought.

The cause of the continued violence in Mogadishu was unclear. Aidid, whose angry radio address Tuesday night helped set off the protests, urged calm Wednesday, and on Thursday night accused looters of taking advantage of the situation.

While the U.S.-led Operation Restore Hope has helped get relief to the starving, young Somalis out of work and with few schools to attend crowd the streets with little to do.

This morning, Nigerian troops atop a hotel used by the foreign news media poured heavy gunfire into a building across the street in response to sniper fire. Several troops entered the building, captured seven men and seized one weapon, a Nigerian commander said.

Sniper fire also had come from the building the day before.

GOP lawmakers head for retreat joining lobbyists

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — House Republicans piled onto a special train Thursday, destined for a retreat along with dozens of special-interest lobbyists who paid at least $6,000 apiece to pick up the tab for the three-day affair.

On the agenda for the event at Princeton, N.J., was a round of dinners, receptions and work sessions on issues Congress must confront this year, from health care to taxes to foreign policy.

For the lawmakers, the entire trip — room, meals and transportation — is free, the costs paid by those who seek to influence Congress on behalf of corporate America.

For the lobbyists, who represent interests from the Baby Bells to RJR Nabisco, there's the opportunity for private conversations with lawmakers — the kind that are hard to arrange in Washington's frenzied atmosphere.

It was a popular idea — 123 of the 175 House Republicans signed up for the getaway with scores of lobbyists at a private conference center.

"It's surprising to find that this still goes on," said Ellen Miller, director of the Center for Responsive Politics, which studies government ethics and campaign finance issues.

Miller said the private conversations between lobbyists and lawmakers at such events "can't help but have a subtle or direct influence on the outcome of the policy."

"Plus, the lawmakers become beholden to them in some fashion for paying for the trip," she said.

Under House rules, there's nothing wrong with the practice. Lawmakers can't accept gifts valued at more than $250, but there's an exception for fact-finding travel where the lawmaker has "substantial participation" in an event.

Both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill have held such lobbyist-financed getaways for years. The Democrats scaled theirs back recently after drawing criticism for indulgent weekends at the exclusive Greenbrier resort in West Virginia.

Aboard the special Amtrak train, passengers snacked on free pastries and coffee as they relaxed on the 2½-hour trip. Tony Blankley, an aide to Minority Whip Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., noted that both parties rely on money from lobbyists, whom he preferred to call "government relations specialists." The only difference is that Democrats have curtailed the lobbyists' attendance at their events, he noted.

Freshman Rep. Henry Bonilla, R-Texas, had little concern about attending a conference financed by special interests.

"If the alternative is a taxpayer-financed trip, I'd go for the private trip any day," he said. "We're not tied to (the lobbyists) in any way. We can choose to sit at anyone's table or not, or to take a walk, or to come home. There's no guarantee that anyone's going to have anyone's ear at any time."

The tab for the entire trip is being picked up by the Congressional Institute, which obtained donations from more than 70 corporations, trade groups and lobbyists to sponsor the event.

The minimum contribution for a lobbyist to be included was $6,000; lobbying groups could send two people, together with spouses, for $10,000.

Organizer Jerry Climer declined to release a list of sponsors, or to disclose exactly how much the weekend costs. "A couple hundred thousand" dollars, was all he would say.

Alan Kranowitz, chief lobbyist for the National Association of Wholesalers and leader of an anti-tax coalition, said the event is mostly "a chance to have a beer and put some faces with some names, and make some introductions."

Lady Hawk wing Anita Wright produces more than points for HC

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

It would be easy to call Anita Wright the "forgotten" member of the Howard College Lady Hawks. Wright, a 5-foot-8 sophomore wing from Odessa, is not the tallest or fastest of the No. 1 ranked Lady Hawks, nor is she among the leaders in any team statistical category. But Coach Royce Chadwick said that if the game was on the line, he would just as soon have Wright take the shot as anyone else. "She's hit some big shots for us," Chadwick said. "She did it against Odessa and against New Mexico. She just has ice water in her veins." Wright averaged 6.1 points per game this season for Howard, but Chadwick said it's the quality, not quantity, of her points that are important. "She's not supposed to score 27 points a game," he said. "She's supposed to score points that are meaningful — and she usually does." "Not only is she everything she's supposed to be, she's about five or six things she really shouldn't be," Chadwick continued. "She does things a 5-8 girl like her shouldn't be able to do." "Anita settles our team down," he said. "She gets the ball to our post players with the opportunity to score. And she plays exceptional defense, especially help-side defense." Wright was the most valuable player in District 4-5A her senior season at Odessa Permian, as well as a member of the All-South Plains and All-West Texas teams, so she admits it took quite an adjustment to adapt to being a role player at Howard. "It was a big change," Wright said. "It was difficult to handle at first. But Coach Chadwick said we'd eventually get our turn, so I just hung in there until this year." "I'm not out there to score 20 points a game," she added. "I'm out there to help the other girls... I can be an offensive threat, but that's not the big thing. My main goal is to let everybody else score. I'm not concerned with scoring points." Wright, recruited by Chadwick's wife Lisa, the former assistant coach, said sitting on the bench her freshman year at Howard was quite a learning experience. "Sure, I felt like I should have been out there playing, because what I did in high school," she said. "But Coach Chadwick has faith in his sophomores, and what wins for you at the (junior) college level is sophomores." Wright has now reached the point where she's quite happy with her role on the team. "I couldn't be more pleased," she said. "I've improved so much the last two years that it's unbelievable. I thought I was pretty good coming out of high school, but I got my eyes opened real fast in college." Her coach is pleased with her progress as well. "From where she began to where she is now, Anita has about maxed out on her potential," Chadwick said. "It's not so much the talent she was born with, but the things she's developed in her game." And that development has led to some clutch baskets and helped the Lady Hawks rise to their top ranking.

Flemons' late score beats Texas

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will Flemons didn't think he was going to get a chance to score the winning basket for Texas Tech, but when the opportunity bounced into his hands, he took advantage of it. Flemons hit a desperation shot under the basket just before the buzzer Thursday night to give Texas Tech a 105-103 victory over the University of Texas. In the only other Southwest Conference game Thursday night, Southern Methodist defeated Texas A&M 84-73. "I thought (Lance Hughes) shot was going to fall, but when I saw it come off the rim, I just reached for it and was able to grab it and put it in," Flemons said. The last-second heroics by Flemons spoiled the comeback of Texas guard B.J. Tyler, who led the Longhorns with 32 points in his first appearance since missing 15 games with a broken right foot.

SWC Roundup

Texas Tech improved to 13-10 overall and 4-7 in the Southwest Conference with the Red Raiders' first victory over Texas (9-14, 3-8) in 12 games. There were nine ties in the game and Texas held brief leads twice in the game, at 65-63 early in the second half and 94-93 late in the game. Tyler's 3-pointer with 17 seconds remaining tied the game at 103-all. Texas Tech was led by Lenny Holly's season-best 30 points. Flemons and Hughes each added 26 points. The Raiders outrebounded the Longhorns 40-30. "That was one of those ballgames that you hate to see anybody lose," said Texas coach Tom Penders. "Both teams played so well and so hard, and you know it is going to come down to a last shot."

Tech coach James Dickey called the victory "a great win for our program, but more importantly, it was a great show for national television and a great statement for our league." The Southwest Conference-leading Mustangs improved to 18-5 overall and 10-1 in league play while dropping Texas A&M to 9-15 and 4-8. SMU, which led 42-39 at halftime, trailed 46-44 in the opening minutes of the second half. But the Mustangs, fueled by Mason and the 3-point shooting of Chad Allen, led by 10 points with 13 minutes to go and as many as 15 points down the stretch. Allen, who hit all four of his 3-point tries, finished with 19 points, while Gerald Lewis added 11. Lance Broderson scored 24 points to lead the Aggies, while Chuck Henderson contributed 18. Texas A&M, which shot 61 percent from the field in the first half, made only 29 percent in the second half.

Cowboys name Irvin as team's first "transitional player"

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

IRVING, Texas — The Dallas Cowboys on Thursday exercised one of three options to protect players from the NFL's first-ever unrestricted free agent pool by designating All-Pro wide receiver Michael Irvin as a "transition player." Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said the team chose not to designate a franchise player for the 1993 season and deferred one of two transition designations under the confounding new system. Irvin's designation means the club can match any team's salary offer to retain him. Because Irvin is under contract for two more years, the designation won't actually be exercised until 1995, Jones said. Transition players receive either

120 percent of their previous year's salary or the average of the top 10-paid players at his position, whichever is higher. A club can use its franchise player designation at any time, but is locked into that player for the length of his contract. The most likely candidates were NFL rushing champion Emmitt Smith and Super Bowl MVP Troy Aikman, but neither of them is covered by the clause this year. The Cowboys have no need to use the franchise designation on Aikman because he is under contract and because the relationship between the Cowboys, Aikman and his agent, Leigh Steinberg, is cordial as they conduct ongoing renegotiation talks. Should Smith test free agency, as he has hinted, the Cowboys would be able to retain him by matching any team's offer. Smith is a restricted player because he only has three seasons of NFL experience. Jones refused to talk about contract negotiations with Smith, but he said he would work hard to match any offer the NFL's top running back might get. Still, he said the team has its limits. "If an offer for Emmitt was outrageous... it wouldn't make sense for us to do that," Jones said. On Monday, a window of unrestricted free agency opens for five-year veterans without contracts. About 350 NFL players are in that category, including Cowboys backup quarterback Steve Beuerlein, who will likely be one of the most sought-after players in the new free agency. The Cowboys have long indicated they were resigned to losing Beuerlein, but Jones said Thursday that he won't let him go without a fight. Jones said he and coach Jimmy Johnson met with Beuerlein Wednesday night. "We are not resigned to losing him," Jones said. "We know that it looks logical that we might lose him." Jones said Beuerlein indicated he might be willing to remain as Aikman's backup if he fails to get an attractive enough offer. The Cowboys and Beuerlein "both agreed that there are some real possibilities to him staying with the team. He might not see the situation that he wants for the coming year," Jones said.

Bulls lose big lead but top Magic by two

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORLANDO, Fla. — The Bulls and Magic both had reasons to be upset Thursday night. Chicago for blowing a 24-point lead and Orlando for failing to completely overcome the deficit. "It's disappointing," Scottie Pippen said after the defending NBA champions prevailed 108-106 Thursday night. "We had a chance to beat this team by 30 points, or at least by 15." The Magic also fretted. "If this was a situation where we had never been competitive with the Bulls, I might feel good," said Orlando's Scott Skiles. "But we've beaten them on more than one occasion... We feel they are a team where we have some matchups to exploit and a team that we can beat." Hornets 111, Spurs 104. In Charlotte, N.C., Larry Johnson led the Hornets with 28 points as San Antonio's David Robinson missed most of the second half with a sprained left thumb. Robinson, who scored 16 points, left the game with 8:20 to go in the third quarter and the injury-riddled Spurs trailing 67-54. NBA Roundup. The Spurs also were without Sean Elliott, who has a strained back. Alonzo Mourning had 18 points and Dell Curry 15 for the Hornets, who won for the eighth time in 11 games. Lloyd Daniels had 26 points for the Spurs, who lost for the second straight time but only the third in 12 games. Rockets 131, Suns 104. In Houston, Hakeem Olajuwon made seven of his first eight shots and finished with 32 points as the surging Rockets cooled off Phoenix. It was the Suns' worst loss this season. Richard Dumas had 21 points and Charles Barkley 17 for Phoenix, which had had won three straight and eight of its previous nine games.

Oilers sign quarterback Carlson

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Quarterback Cody Carlson, who stepped in for injured Warren Moon and led the Houston Oilers to the 1992 playoffs, signed a three-year contract Thursday and passed up a chance to become a free agent. Terms of Carlson's contract were not announced, but he will receive a reported $8 million over the period of the contract. "In my mind, I've been competing the last couple of years trying to gain ground on the starting job," Carlson said. "I'm playing behind someone who's been a fantastic quarterback, who has played beyond expectations. "I feel eventually that I will be the starter for the Houston Oilers. I just don't know when that will be." Carlson, the Oilers' third round pick in 1987, could have joined other NFL players who became free agents Thursday under terms of the latest bargaining agreement and shopped his services to other teams. Instead, he remained with the Oilers in hopes of replacing Moon as the starter. He earned $600,000 last season and would have earned $3.3 million for the year if he had been chosen as the Oilers franchise player.

Prayer in action

Church Women United set service March 5

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

Local women will join those around the world for prayer and an effort to help others March 5.

A service in honor of World Day of Prayer is set for 10 a.m. at First Christian Church. Hosted by First Christian members, the event is sponsored by the local chapter of Church Women United.

'It's a day when Christian women all over the world are united in prayer.'

Freda Hoover, member, Church Women United

"We don't believe prayer is a passive thing," said the Rev. Jane Perrine, who will lead the service. "We will pray and then go out and take action."

This year's service was written by women of Guatemala on the theme, "People of God: Instruments of Healing." It will include a piece of music written by the women, and an offering will be taken to send to Guatemala.

Those women will share their background and experiences in their own culture, according to information from Church Women United. The woman will tell of the practices in their religion as well as their social hardships.

"It's a good way to learn about the conditions in Guatemala," Perrine said.

"It's a day when Christian women all over the world are united in prayer," said Freda Hoover, a member of First Christian who will help with the service.

Hoover said the service is by no means limited to women, and many local pastors traditionally attend the annual event.

The service will include readings, hymns and meditations, group members said. It is expected to last less than an hour.

Following the service, attendees are invited to meet in the church parlor for refreshments.

Pianist, organist and vocal soloist Don Hal Haney will present a special concert at First Church of the Nazarene Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Haney, who travels regularly with his ministry, conducts more than 100 concerts a year. His home base is Seattle, Wash.

The public is invited to attend the concert.

Sunday has been designated as McMurry University Sunday at First United Methodist Church. During the 8:30 and 10:50 a.m. services of worship, Dr. Thomas Kim, president of McMurry, will be the speaker. His sermon topic is entitled, "Christian Higher Education." Dr. Kim will be retiring on June 1 after having served as president of the university for 23 years.

At the 10:50 a.m. service, the McMurry University band will accompany the hymns, play the postlude and prelude as well as the offertory.

The public is invited, and a special invitation is extended to all McMurry exes.

The Baker's Chapel AME Methodist Church will celebrate their Founder's Day and Men's Day at 3 p.m. Sunday. The Rev. James Pollard, pastor of New Mount Zion Baptist Church, will be the speaker.

Lions camp helps kids grow, learn

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Area Lions Clubs are recruiting disabled youth for the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children in June.

The camp, located 60 miles north of San Antonio in Kerrville, gathers youth to relate experiences, share personal responsibilities and participate in recreational activities.

"(They) will feel good about themselves, and do things they can't do unless they are outside of the home," said Bob Noyes, the Big Spring Evening Lions Club secretary. "They all work together because kids learn that as they grow up."

For 40 years, college student counselors, and youth from all over the state have attended the camp from June 6 through the end of August.

Among many activities available at the camp, youth ride horses, swim, play basketball, shoot rifles and perform skits.

"Some of these kids have never slept outdoors or even made their own beds," Noyes said. "Everybody's involvement is at their own level, so everybody has accomplishments every day."

One of the new additions of the camp this summer is a recreational center, featuring facilities for all types of sports.

The center has accommodations for handicapped people. Its facilities are specifically designed for physically-challenged youth — including those who are wheelchair-bound or blind.

"If the weather isn't good, the kids can continue with their activities indoors," Noyes explained. More than 1,300 young people from across the state converge along the Guadalupe River in the Hill Country. Camp information says they become "closer to nature and to each other" at the camp.

"A kid (at the camp) shares a lot in common with the other kids there," Noyes said. "They know they won't be picked on, and they know they are not alone."

For information on sending an area youth to the Lions Club camp contact Noyes at 267-5811 or the Lions Clubs of Sand Springs or Coahoma.

The last regular meeting of the Big Spring Prospector's Club was held at the club building Feb. 11, 7 p.m. President Charles Leek presided.

Plans for the annual Gem and Mineral Show, March 6-7, were finalized. The show will take place from 10 a.m.-7 p.m. March 6 and from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. March 7. Admission is $2, children free when with a paying adult.

Nora Nixon, 1993 show chairperson, reported that contracts with dealers had been finalized and all available space will be utilized. Elaine Matteson will chair the snack bar operation.

Mr. Light, Principal of Elbow Elementary School has requested a demonstration and program March 4, by Lola Lamb and Myrtle Griffith. These members will inform the youngsters of the importance Earth sciences play in our world and our lives.

It was also announced that Lola Lamb, secretary-treasurer and bulletin editor, has been selected as one of the judges for the bulletin competition of the American Federation of Mineral societies.

Busy Bees met Feb. 10 at the fellowship hall of the Presbyterian Church at noon with a covered dish meal.

Roll call was answered with what TV shows you watch the most with 10 members present. The club voted to donate $100 to the fire truck fund in Coahoma.

Hostess this month was Jean Rorick and Willie Grant teaching the members how to make leather lace collars and earrings.

The next meeting will be March 19th with Cleo Shive and Freyda Griffin as hostess. The meeting will be at the fellowship hall of the Presbyterian Church.

The Elbow Extension Homemakers Club met Feb. 18 at the home of Not Blackwell. Fifteen members answered roll call with "My Favorite Candy."

Zulu Rhodes and Helen McIntyre gave a program on conducting a personal property inventory. Everyone should make an inventory of all household goods, and take pictures of valuables for insurance purposes in case of fire or theft.

Tamara Sneed won the raffle gift of place mats.

Next meeting will be at Ireba Griffith's home March 4. Visitors are welcome.

the members invite the community to come and share in this service with them. A newly formed male chorus will be featured.

Barry Denison, missionary to Brazil, will speak at Wesley United Methodist during the 10:50 a.m. service on Sunday.

Denison and his family lived in the Amazon jungle as missionaries for more than two years. They had personal experience with "spiritual warfare" required to reach believers where demon worship and idolatry were common practices.

The public is invited to the service. Wesley is at 1206 Owens, one block south of the high school.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church will sponsor a series of special activities on Wednesdays during Lent beginning next week and through April 7, the Rev. Charles E. McIntyre, retired associate rector of St. John's in Odessa, will present special meditations.

Titled "Portraits in the Shadow of the Cross," the series is based on accounts of various biblical characters who witnessed the events surrounding the trial and crucifixion of Jesus. Ted Harris will present two programs, March 10 and 24.

Ten programs will each begin with a prayer at 5:30 p.m., followed by a potluck supper and the meditation. The public is invited, and there is no charge.

Services will also be conducted daily at the church during the season, 12:15 and 5:30 p.m. in the chapel.

East Side Baptist Church plans a revival Sunday through Wednesday. Services will be Sunday at 10:50

Church offers worship to Dallas gays, lesbians

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Dallas hasn't been known for kindness to gays and lesbians.

Community leaders and religious groups in this conservative Bible Belt city have fought to keep homosexuals off the police force. The state's 114-year-old sodomy statute makes homosexual sex a misdemeanor punishable by a $200 fine.

Dallas also is the place where a judge told reporters he gave a killer a lighter sentence because the victims were "queers" out "trying to spread AIDS around."

In that atmosphere, however, a congregation that claims to be the world's largest gay and lesbian church quietly thrives.

The 1,000-member Cathedral of Hope Metropolitan Community Church last week dedicated its new $3 million cathedral, and is looking ahead toward an expanding ministry.

It hopes to develop a nursing home for elderly gays and lesbians. It wants to launch a television ministry to help counter fundamentalist Christian views on homosexuality and religion. It seeks to develop a wellness center and retreat for homosexual teenagers kicked out of their homes, and a soup kitchen to feed the homeless.

It also hopes to get the Dallas community at large to recognize that all homosexuals are not drag queens or gyrating leather-clad participants in gay pride celebrations.

"I'm not putting those people down, because they are a part of what the gay community is. ... But that's not all of it," said senior pastor Michael Piazza.

"What we hope to do is to force people to recognize that lesbian and gay people are people just like them. People who go to work, wear suits and dresses, struggle with relationships, struggle to pay the mortgage.

"You walk into the congregation and you may not even know you're in a lesbian and gay church. We're people just like anyone else. The people who gather here on Sunday are, first and foremost, Christians."

FEB 26 1993

Jesus was about thirty years old when He began His public ministry. That Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, left the Jordan River, being urged by the Spirit, out into the barren wastelands of Judea, where Satan tempted Him for forty days. He ate nothing all that time, and was very hungry. And the devil said to Him, "If You are the Son of God, tell this stone to become bread."

And Jesus answered him, "It is written, 'Man shall not live on bread alone.'"

And he led Him up and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time. And the devil said to Him, "I will give You all this domain and its glory, for it has been handed over to me, and I give it to whomever I wish. Therefore if You worship before me, it shall all be Yours."

And Jesus answered and said to him, "It is written, 'You shall worship the Lord your God and serve Him only.'"

God had told Isaiah the prophet "Let all the world look to Me for salvation! For I am God, there is no other I have sworn by Myself and I will never go back on My Word, for it is true — that every knee in all the world shall bow to Me, and every tongue shall swear allegiance to My name."

(Then Satan) led Him to Jerusalem and had Him stand on the pinnacle of the temple, and said to Him, "If You are the Son of God, throw Yourself down from here; for it is written, 'He will give His angels charge concerning you to guard you,' and 'On their hands they will bear you up, lest you strike your foot against a stone.'"

And Jesus answered and said to him, "It is said, 'You shall not put the Lord your God to the test.' And when the devil had finished every temptation, he departed from Him until an opportune time."

Happy is the man who doesn't give in and do wrong when he is tempted, for afterwards he will get as his reward the crown of life that God has promised those who love Him. And remember, when someone wants to do wrong it is never God who is tempting him.

Taken from Luke 3, 4, Isaiah 45, James 1, The Living Bible.

Observing Ramadan

Iraqi families gather in the courtyard of the Kadhimain Shrine in Iraq Wednesday afternoon, preparing to end their fast for the day. This is the Islamic time of Ramadan, when the faithful fast during daylight hours.

Call to maturity Ministers beginning later in life

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOLEDO, Ohio — Thomas Quinn was a real estate agent in the early 1980s, when success was measured by fat bank accounts, luxury cars and fancy homes. Single and making $45,000 a year, he lived in an eight-room house.

Though he had plenty from the material world, something was missing. He was active in his church, but that wasn't enough.

In his late 40s, he did some soul-searching and came to a decision that would change his life: He wanted to be a priest.

Quinn is among a growing number of middle-aged and older people who have left good-paying jobs to join the clergy, both in Protestant denominations and Roman Catholicism.

"I prayed quite a bit before I made the decision to become a priest," said Quinn, 58, principal of St. Mary's Central Catholic High School in Sandusky, Ohio. "I've never regretted my decision. I really enjoy what I'm doing."

The Catholic church has four seminaries in the United States that accept only people at least 30 years of age. Quinn went to one of them — Sacred Heart School of Theology in Hales Corners, Wis. Also at the seminary with Quinn were a doctor, teachers and accountants.

Men over 30 can enter any Catholic seminary. But the four that are strictly for older men are designed to help them give each other support in adjusting to their new life.

a.m. and 6 p.m., as well as Monday-Wednesday at 7 p.m. Evangelist Jimmy Gilmore, director of Camp Masterson and pastor of Riverview Baptist in Borger, will be special guest.

East Side Baptist is located at 1108 E. Sixth. Church members promise "Good preaching, good singing, good praising and a good time." Call pastor Doug Shelley, 267-1915 for information.

The Senior Citizens Committee of First United Methodist Church announces a springtime trip to Fred-ricksburg and the surrounding area, hopefully just in time for the beautiful display of Bluebonnets and other wildflowers.

The trip is scheduled for March 24, departing afternoon Bible Study and returning March 27. It will include shopping and looking in Fredricksburg, a tour of the LBJ Ranch, and a visit to the little town of Wimberly for an art show.

There are openings for this trip — $100 covers transportation, three nights lodging and a German dinner. Reservations must be made by March 8. Call the church office 267-6394 for further details.

Jowli Etehsion at the City Extension Homemakers Club meeting.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations as well as the roll call. Valentines were exchanged among the 10 in attendance. Nadine Hodnett was selected as the Alternate Delegate to the District Meeting April 22 in Mentone.

Carolyn Reed drew the Valentine door prize and Frances Mason drew the hostess door prize.

The program on "Personal Inventory" was given by Nadine Hodnett and Jowli Etehsion.

They told how to prepare a personal inventory of a house and its contents. A person needs to use a video camera in every room, then take pictures of jewelry and small items. Everything should be listed room by room with the price paid and the replacement cost.

Items should be engraved with a Social Security. Most insurance companies have an inventory sheet, or you can get one from the Texas Extension Office.

Mildred Sevey was a guest. The next meeting will be at Lois Johnston's home Feb. 26 at 2 p.m.

The 1905 Hyperion Club met Feb. 18 at the Big Spring Country Club with Mrs. Tom (Maryon) Barber, Mrs. Rich Anderson (Barbara) and Mrs. Lester (Elizabeth) King as hostesses.

Mrs. Flynn (Grace) Long presented Mrs. Floyd (Polly) Mays. The program topic was "A Trip to Russia" but Mays said it could be "An American Lost in Russia" as she showed slides as she talked.

They flew to Helsinki, then to Moscow where they were met by Russian tour director. She showed the beautiful churches which were filled with people. She showed the Kremlin, meaning fortress, built in a triangle shape, with walls all around, and parade ground in front.

From there they went on the Grand Siberian Railroad through Siberia. Her pictures showed Holstein cows, pigs grazing in greenery and lumber — big business in the country.

Then they flew 600 miles into Mongolia, where people were friendlier than in Russia. They traveled by bus through Mongolia showing the way people lived. She rode a camel and was served fermented camel milk.

Mrs. Carl (Joyce) Bradley, vice-president, presided during the business meeting. The Club voted to give $100 to the West Texas Center for the Arts.

Next meeting will be March 18.

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club held its weekly meeting Tuesday morning.

Table topics were led by Bailey Anderson.

Each member was given the opportunity to speak on the topic of the day, which was "My Favorite Things." Best table topic was Charlie Lewis.

LaNelle Witt was voted best speaker. Her speech was titled, "There's Beauty All Around Us." The best evaluator was Carl Johanson.

The goal of Tall Talkers is to educate people to become better leaders and communicators. If you are interested in becoming a Tall Talker Toastmaster, please contact Bailey Anderson at 267-3900.

The Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of DART met Feb. 21 for their annual George Washington tea.

The meeting was held in the parlor of First Baptist Church. Mrs. Fern Alexander and Mrs. Sheri Key were hostesses.

A short business meeting was held. There were 17 members and three guests present. Guests were Mrs. Diane Carter, Mrs. Lora Mae Pollard and Ms. Anne Overhulser.

The next regular meeting will be March 13 at the Big Spring Country Club.

The February meeting of the 1948 Hyperion Club was hosted in the home of Mrs. Robert Miller with Mrs. Al Valdez as co-hostess. Mrs. Jerry Forsyth introduced Angie Way from the Heritage Museum as guest speaker. After a business meeting refreshments were served to 15 members. March meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Wasson.

The Rosebud Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. H.B. Perry Feb. 23. Mrs. Steve Vincent served as co-hostess.

The members enjoyed a program on stained glass — given by Mrs. Jimmy Morehead. Mrs. Morehead went through the steps on how to make a piece of stained glass.

The club voted to send president Mrs. Dwight Blackwell to the District I Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. meeting. The meeting will be held in Lubbock March 2. Mrs. Blackwell and three club members will attend.

The club welcomed two new members, Mrs. Don Hardison and Mrs. Lanny Turrentine. The next meeting will be held March 23 in the home of Betty Wrinkle.

THE HOME FRONT

By Kay Moore

Featured look in home decor: classic, formal furniture shapes expressed in more casual fabrics.

If calcium in "hard" water builds up in the toilet bowl, narrowing the small holes under the rim through which water is supplied, the homeowners has two choices: install a water softener or, less expensive, replace holes periodically with the end of a coat hanger.

Want to make sure you can put an appliance together again after you've read #7 Set down the parts in order you removed them. If the parts have to be moved, tape them onto a large piece of cardboard.

Rather than purchase the homes of transferred employees, some large companies now offer a bonus if owners can sell the house before they move. (It costs the companies less than owning lots of homes.)

Transferred? Let us help you sell your house fast. List with the real estate pros at Home Realtors, 110 W. Marcy. Call 263-1284.
