Highland Mall effort rumored to be successful

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Some two dozen rumors circulated in Big Spring last week as part of Highland Mall's rumor control sale.

"Some pretty wild and wacky ones, a couple ones we wouldn't care to have published," said Greg Brooks of Blum's Jewelers at Highland Mall. "It probably got people thinking about us more and let them know that not every rumor you hear is true."

The sale was used to take advantage of rumors circulated since February that the mall may be sold, which hurt business. According to city officials, Wal-Mart is negotiating to buy the mall to locate a five-acre Supercenter there. Rumors in February that K-Mart was considering purchase of the mall were unfounded.

Turning the tables to use rumors for advertising helped.

"I think it's just doing wonders, of course Browns (Shoe Fit) is having a sale this week," said Mall Manager Betty Gossett. "The mall's just buzzing with people."

Rumor of the week, announced Wednesday, went to Dean and Jo Anne Forrest. They received was a $100 gift certificate as winner of the week and a $10 certificate as winner of the day Wednesday.

The rumor: "Swartz is coming home to Big Spring; opening two new stores in the east wing of Highland Mall. A new and upscale resell shop will feature the best in hand-me-downs ... while the old Mr. G's Garden Center will turn into a recycling center called simply 'The Grinder.'"

"And, everybody rest easy ... there will be a new Wal-Mart Supercenter ... located at the corner of Third and Runnels in the old Settles Hotel. It will be the only high-rise supercenter in the country."

"Street cars will furnish a shuttle for customers from Wal-Mart's parking lot located on 11th Place at the old Furr's location to the Supercenter."

Here's the top rumors of each day:

• Monday: "The Branch Davidians have narrowed the Highland Mall as one of their top five new locations." By Lawrence Hein.

• Tuesday: "The city of Big Spring declares bankruptcy and Wal-Mart buys it and renames it Wally Central instead of Rumor Central." By Tommy Ward.

March of Dimes volunteers gear for lengthy walk

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Volunteers for the March of Dimes are gearing up for a walk, collecting donations for the prevention of birth defects in children.

Saturday, 250-300 walkers will gather at the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park at 8:30 a.m., according to organizer Sandy Smith.

Walkers from a number of area businesses and other organizations will make the annual walk, collecting donations from their business sponsor.

Each walker will be eligible for a raffle to follow, where prizes donated by the supporting businesses will be given away.

Businesses and organizations participating in the walk include: Taco Villa, Fina Inc., Big Spring Federal Correctional Institution, Blackshear Rentals, Howard County, the city of Big Spring, Scenic Mountain Medical Center, Texaco, Wal-Mart, Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home, First National Bank of Big Spring, Howard College, Girl Scouts and Jaycees.

Other organizations supporting the event include the Midland Angels and Aladdin Castle. Providing food and beverages for the walkers are: H-E-B, Frito Lay, Coca-Cola, Third Coast Water and Blue Bell Creameries.

City of Big Spring employees will be cooking at the pavilion and the Big Spring Police Department will be operating water stops along the 5 1/2 mile course, Smith said.

"People always enjoy it — it's a lot of fun," Smith said.

The course takes the walkers around FM 700 to the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, then to the Caphart Addition, to Wasson Road and back to the Old Settlers Pavilion.

There will be a stop over at the Senior Citizens Center in the Airpark. The stopover allows walkers to cool off and protect from heat exhaustion.

Just in case a problem arises, however, American Medical Transport will have a unit patrolling the course, ensuring walker's safety.

For more information on the March of Dimes event, call Smith at 263-8311.

The primary goal of the national March of Dimes organization is the prevention of birth defects. The majority of the money collected is used to fund research, finding ways to prevent crippling congenital abnormalities.

The March of Dime's original goal was to find a way to stop the devastating disease of polio, Smith said. Much of their funding was used in the laboratories of Jonas Salk and Albert Sabin, researchers who eventually produced vaccines for the polio virus.

Chamber pushing clean-up effort for coming weekend

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Saturday is volunteer cleanup day for main thoroughfares in Big Spring. It's being pushed as a family and educational experience.

Volunteers are being asked to go to the Box parking on South Gregg from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. to receive assignments, said Terri Blackshear, chairwoman of the Clean Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

"We'd like for it to be something that families can do together," she said. "I also feel that if kids are out there picking up trash, learning how to clean up, then they're going to be less likely to be litterbugs when they grow up."

Areas to be cleaned include Gregg Street, FM 700, U.S. Highway 80, Third and Fourth streets and parks, Blackshear said. Families with small children can be assigned to parks to keep away from traffic. Trash bags See CHAMBER, page 8A

Salvation Army Lt. Albert Villafuerte and Sharon Meiser man the scissors at a ribbon cutting to officially open the newly-remodeled Salvation Army Thrift Store at 503 N. Gregg St.

Salvation Army thrift store re-opens in old location on N. Gregg Street

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Thanks to the help of numerous volunteers and employees, the Salvation Army Thrift Store has reopened at its newly-remodeled, original location, 503 N. Gregg St.

The remodeling and reopening of the original location was a personal project of Salvation Army Lt. Albert Villafuerte. "It's been about two years since the store operated at this location. It wouldn't be possible without all the volunteers," Villafuerte said.

Sharon Meiser, who runs the thrift store, praised the efforts of Roy Davis, who manages the Salvation Army emergency shelter in Big Spring. Davis is credited with seeking out the numerous volunteers from the community to help with the project.

The thrift store is an important part of Salvation Army services, Villafuerte said. The store provides an outlet for gathering useful items that would otherwise be thrown away, and provides needed clothing and other items to families that could otherwise not afford them, he said.

The store also provides an employment base for the Salvation Army, keeping people working and self-sufficient. "When I arrived (in Big Spring), we had five employees, now we have nine employees," Villafuerte said.

The store provides free clothing to those who complete a qualification interview with Salvation Army staff, said Villafuerte. It also provides inexpensive clothing and merchandise to those hunting bargains or who do not wish to interview, Villafuerte said.

"It's important for people to keep their self-esteem. . . Some people will just not ask for help," Villafuerte said.

Salaries and operating expenses are paid from the store, any remaining funds are used for the Salvation atmosphere for the customers. And only serviceable merchandise will be maintained. "Just because you can't buy clothes — you shouldn't have to go through a pile of rags," Villafuerte said.

Army's other programs.

The building needed extensive remodeling, including a new roof and electrical repairs, according to Villafuerte. "We're not through yet — but we're open for business."

Villafuerte said he wants the store run as professionally as other retail outlets, maintaining a pleasant

Judge orders child mother into custody

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A judge has ordered a 12-year-old girl and her infant daughter into state custody after learning the girl's parents allowed a 23-year-old man to have a sexual relationship with the girl since she was 10.

"Her parents were accepting money for giving their daughter to this man," District Judge Carmen Kelsey said Thursday.

The girl testified during a hearing Wednesday and also wrote a letter to the judge saying she loved her 23-year-old boyfriend and wants to marry him.

The girl's parents didn't testify at the hearing, nor did the neighbor. The girl's mother is 37 and her father is 40, according to court records.

The girl testified at the hearing that her parents didn't know she was having sex with the neighbor, although court documents suggest otherwise.

The girl did admit her parents knew the man spent the night with her in the family's home. The neighbor was paying the family $200 a week, court documents said.

The judge said she wants a criminal investigation into the 23-year-old man for aggravated sexual assault of a child.

"Why aren't these people in jail?" Kelsey asked. "Why aren't they being prosecuted?"

House approves bill to deregulate AT&T

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House has given final approval to a bill that would end most state control over long-distance telephone giant AT&T.

Consumer advocates have expressed concern that the measure would allow AT&T to undercut smaller companies and put them out of business, ultimately resulting in higher rates. But backers say the Public Utility Commission could fully regulate any company that engages in predatory pricing.

The bill, given final approval Thursday, will return to senators for consideration of House amendments.

AT&T currently is more stringently regulated than other long-distance companies because it is considered dominant. The company says it has about 55 percent of the state's long-distance business.

Among other requirements, AT&T now must set rates within a range set by the PUC; file more comprehensive rate filing packages; and notify competitors of changes and new service offerings.

The PUC also must review all major price changes and new services proposals by AT&T.

Mayor found guilty of fondling girl

HOUSTON (AP) — Baytown Mayor Bobby Joe Credille has been convicted of sexually molesting a 7-year-old girl at his home last year while his wife was away.

Jurors in 262nd State District Court deliberated about 10 hours Thursday before returning the guilty verdict against Credille, a 43-year-old insurance agent.

The issue of public school finance is once again the hottest topic in Austin. Gov. Ann Richards, shown here talking with students and parents at Kennedy Elementary School in Texarkana prior to last Saturday's defeat of a proposed constitutional amendment for school finance, is exhorting the Legislature to come up with an acceptable plan before the courts take over.

Committees to hear opposition opinions

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards is stressing the urgency of meeting a June 1 court deadline for school funding reform, and a judge is predicting the state is headed for a "constitutional crisis" over the issue.

If lawmakers don't meet the Texas Supreme Court deadline for reform, they face a court-ordered cutoff of state aid to schools. School districts rely on state aid and local property taxes to survive.

"I truly believe that every member of this Legislature wants to do the right thing for our children," Richards told a special joint hearing by the House and Senate public education committees Thursday.

"God speed you in your deliberations, and God help Texas if you should fail," she said.

A crowd estimated at about 400 spilled over from the hearing room into the hallway and adjacent rooms, which had either television or audio connections to the hearing.

That meeting began just hours after a court hearing before State District Judge F. Scott McCown, who oversees the school funding case, concerning the possible aid cutoff.

Voters on Saturday turned down a share-the-wealth school ballot proposal, which was designed to help meet a court order to equalize funding by shifting some property tax money among school districts.

Some state leaders have suggested that school consolidation, which would not require voter approval, may be the only realistic option left.

Some alternatives offered at Thursday's legislative hearing call for a constitutional amendment to define school finance equity. That would require voter approval, and couldn't go on the ballot before June 1.

Tempers flew at one point. Rep. John Carona, R-Dallas, lashed out under intense questioning by House Public Education Committee member Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont. Carona said he and others testifying shouldn't be subject to "badgering," drawing applause from the audience.

One share-the-wealth opponent, Dallas businessman Boone Pickens, sent a letter declining to appear. He and other high-profile Republican opponents of that measure were specifically asked to attend by the committee chairs.

"Giving me two days to develop a solution to the school finance crisis when the Texas Legislature has spent years grappling with this issue is a sad commentary on government's tendency to focus on publicity stunts rather than problem-solving," Pickens wrote.

Richards said state leaders were ready to work. "Playing politics with this issue is literally playing with kids' lives, and it is unconscionable," she said.

McCown, of Travis County, said at his hearing that it's not the court's fault if state aid to schools must be stopped. He noted that the initial ruling against the funding system came in 1987.

"The Legislature has been free now for years to substitute a different system," he said. "So if there is no money for the schools, it's not because the courts have closed the schools, it's because the Legislature hasn't provided a constitutional way to fund the system."

He expressed concern over the emphasis on the prospect of aid being stopped.

"It seems to me that we're really headed here for a constitutional crisis, because we're focusing on all of the hurt and pain that's going to be felt by students and parents and teachers as a result of cutting off the funds to the schools," McCown said.

"Our attention has shifted from the decades of deprivation that many school children have had under this unconstitutional system. That pain and that hurt ... far, far outweighs the present problems that are so immediate," he said.

McCown raised the possibility that if state funds are stopped June 1, the money due to school districts this summer could later be distributed under whatever constitutional system is developed by lawmakers.

That includes about $1.3 billion in state aid, out of about $7 billion allocated this school year. It also would stop disbursement of property taxes collected by county education districts, totaling about $156 million of the $5.2 billion in countywide taxes.

If state aid is halted, McCown said, school districts that can't meet their contractual obligations could ask the court for some state aid to be released. He said he would rule quickly on such requests.

House tentatively approves $1 billion for prison bonds

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Several minority House members say they'll try to defeat a $1 billion bond issue to build more prisons because the money should go to education instead.

The Texas House tentatively approved a proposed constitutional amendment Thursday that would ask voters in November for $1 billion to build more than 22,000 new prison beds.

Members of the House Black and Hispanic caucuses said that until the state's public school finance crisis was solved, however, they would lobby against the bond issue.

The House approved the prison bond proposal by a vote of 91-50. But the measure needs 100 votes to be placed on the November ballot. It faces another vote in the House.

Rep. Irma Rangel, D-Kingsville, who heads the House Hispanic Caucus, said the Black and Hispanic caucuses may have the votes to keep the measure off the ballot.

"I think our priorities are misplaced and I want to make sure that we are going to respond to the issue on public education before we are going to put a $1 billion prison bond issue before the people," Ms. Rangel said.

Three dead in postal shootings

The Associated Press

Postal officials practically saw it coming — and responded with a court order, locked doors and counseling — but it wasn't enough to stop two deadly shooting rampages by postal workers in California and Michigan.

The attacks — which left three people dead — came just hours apart Thursday and were blamed on men described as angry loners: one of them infatuated with a woman co-worker, the other embittered over losing out on a job to a woman.

In Dearborn, Mich., postal mechanic Larry Jason, 45, shot and killed a co-worker and wounded his supervisor and the woman who got the job he wanted. Then he killed himself with a shot to the head at the post office garage.

In Dana Point, Calif., 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles, police said a fired postal worker wearing a "Psycho" T-shirt fatally shot a letter carrier and wounded a clerk at the post office. The woman he had allegedly stalked for months wasn't hurt.

Police today searched for the former worker, Mark Richard Hilbun, 38. Police said he also stabbed his mother to death before the shootings and may have shot and wounded two other people away from the post office.

U.S. Postal Inspector David Smith said a restraining order barring Hilbun from the building had been issued and security was heightened when the stalking victim returned to work from a leave Thursday because post office managers were concerned he would attempt to harm her.

In Michigan, Jason, a 24-year postal employee had filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission after he lost out on a clerk's job. The complaint was rejected six weeks ago.

"A postal inspector sat down with him at that time and counseled him and told him he had other appeals,"

The body of a U.S. Postal Service worker is removed from the Dana Point, Calif., post office Thursday afternoon after a former employee opened fire, killing one and wounding another.

Postal Inspector Fred Van de Putte said.

But a former garage supervisor, Robert Fryz, said Jason threatened him after a mail carrier killed 14 people at an Oklahoma post office in 1986. Fryz said Jason told him: "You're going to be next."

"He'd walk by my office and make machine gun noises and go, 'Bang bang' and point his finger at me," Fryz said. He said he quit as garage supervisor in 1987 partly because he feared Jason.

Dearborn Police Chief Ronald Deziel said officers were called to the post office in March to handle an unspecified complaint against Jason, but no arrests were made. He said

Jason had 26 guns registered to him. Hilbun, who lived alone, kept to himself, and covered his home's windows with newspaper last fall, said Pamela Capozzoli, who lived nearby.

"He was kind of a strange character," she said. "He wasn't real friendly with us."

Hilbun, who was fired last year for disciplinary problems, was diagnosed as manic depressive while committed to a mental hospital following a drunken driving arrest last summer, said his attorney, Donald Glenn Rubright.

"We'd see him go in at night with a six-pack and that was it," said neighbor Caj Bronson. "It always looks like nobody's ever there."

Postmaster General Marvin Runyon ordered an investigation and arrived in Dearborn late Thursday. He sent a top deputy to California.

Before Thursday, the most recent U.S. post office shooting was in 1991 in Royal Oak, Mich., when a former employee killed four people, then himself. The deadliest post office rampage was the Edmond, Okla., shooting in 1986.

Experts say the stress of constant deadlines, coupled with perceptions of low status and a management style that can make it seem as though managers don't care make postal workers vulnerable to potential violence.

Sixth suspect charged with WTC bombing

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A Palestinian accused of entering the United States carrying books on how to make bombs of the sort used to blow up the World Trade Center became the sixth person charged in the attack.

Ahmad Ajaj, a 27-year-old who was deported from Israel in 1991, was charged Thursday with conspiracy to destroy the twin, 110-story towers.

He has been in jail for most of the past eight months — including the day of the Feb. 26 blast — for illegally entering the country with a forged Swedish passport.

The federal charges linked him directly to at least one of the men previously charged, but the precise role Ajaj is alleged to have played in the bombing was not immediately known.

His lawyer, Lynne Stewart, faxed the charges to The Associated Press. U.S. prosecutors were not immediately available for comment. Stewart said in a statement that Ajaj would be arraigned this afternoon.

The bombing killed six people and injured more than 1,000. Investigators said some 500 pounds of chemical explosives were detonated in a van parked in a garage underneath the complex.

The men charged previously all have been linked to mosques in Brooklyn and Jersey City, N.J., where a radical cleric often preached. Stewart said Wednesday that Ajaj did not know any of the others charged in the blast.

Ajaj told The Associated Press recently that he entered the country last year carrying bogus passports and books on making bombs — claims confirmed in the federal charges. Ajaj also told the AP that he came to this country "working for Islam," but he refused to elaborate.

The charges said Ajaj arrived in the United States on Sept. 1 with about 12 bomb-making books, which were seized by federal authorities.

The charges said the manuals contained instructions on the use of chemicals like those found in a New Jersey storage locker where investigators believe the World Trade Center bomb was mixed.

According to charges, the fingerprints of another suspect in the bombing, Ramzi Ahmed Yousef, were found on two of the manuals.

And in another link between the two men, the charges said, Ajaj entered the country with identification documents using the same alias used by Yousef.

Yousef, 25, previously of Jersey City, N.J., has not been arrested, and investigators believe he has fled the country.

In addition to Ajaj, the others charged, and being held, are: Mahmud Abouhalima, 33, of Avenel, N.J., allegedly a key organizer of the bombing; Nidal Ayyad, 25, of Maplewood, N.J.; Mohammad A. Salameh, 25, of Jersey City; and Bilal Alkaiji, 26, of Brooklyn.

A seventh person, Ibrahim Elgabrowny, 42, of New York City, is being held without bail,

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local persons or groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community:

- Mel Prather, for receiving the Pride of Big Spring award for 20 years of community service.
- Christmas in April volunteers for making someone else's life a little better.
- Area nurses who provide needed services. May 3-7 is "Nurses Week."
- Howard College for sponsoring "Kid's College," to promote learning.
- Sands Elementary for commemorating Earth Day by planting a tree.
- Winn-Dixie for hosting "Youth Managers," allowing young people to find out what management is about.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for voting no on amendments

I would like to thank the voters of Howard County for helping to save me from myself.

I own 320 acres of land four miles south of Stanton. This farm has 85 acres in Martin County and 235 acres in Glasscock County. The total taxes on this land are $375.90. Glasscock County ISD gets $66.50. $209.79 goes to Howard County CED.

I believed and still believe that all school children should have an equal chance at a good education and although Proposition One would not guarantee this it should help some at least.

I voted for Proposition One even though I was sure it could cost me money, but the good people of Howard County and the rest of the State saved me from myself.

I am sure Glasscock County will be able to lower taxes now and since the voters will not let me to put my money in education I think I will invest what I save in a fishing trip and next summer when I am on the river fishing I will say "Thanks again Howard County voters. You are making my day."

Thanks for efforts

The Big Spring/Howard County Office of Emergency Management wishes to express a thank you to everyone involved in fighting the fire on April 10, 1993.

The Howard County Volunteer Fire Department is an asset to this community. They were assisted by city and county employees, city police and sheriff's department.

Surrounding counties of Glasscock, Sterling, Midland, Mitchell, and Reagan volunteer firefighters joined the effort. Many private companies donated equipment and operators.

Everyone involved was on the fire scene for many hours.

Food and drinks were supplied by Winn-Dixie, H-B, Neighbors Convenience Store and Kwikie.

Without the support of everyone involved, losses would have been much greater.

Once again, thank you to everyone who assisted during this emergency situation.

More than a hero

I would like to thank our neighbor Ruth Flores for helping my mother when she had a car accident. The accident occurred on Wed, April 14, 1993. She did more than she had to; an unnoticed "Hero."

Also, I would like to thank the paramedics/ambulance service, the Fire and Police Departments on their good job as well.

A wagging thanks

A sincere thank you goes to Lanny

Lambert, Jesse Barker and the folks at City Hall who were so helpful to the Big Spring Humane Society when Saturday night's high winds brought havoc to our shelter. The roof of our trailer, donated to us two years ago by Scott Emerson, blew over into Stan Partee's equipment yard which is adjacent to our shelter. Insulation was wall to wall on Mr. Partee's property. Mr. Partee has been a wonderful benefactor to the Humane Society in donating the property which is now our shelter. Not only did roofs blow off of our dog houses, which were replaced by Bettie Cox and the community service workers, but dogs in fear and panic climbed their fences and left their runs. However, they remained at the shelter and did not choose to go AWOL, thank goodness.

Humane Society members are deeply grateful to Mr. Lambert and his city employees who went above and beyond the call of duty to extend a helping hand to us and the 250 animals at our shelter.

Assistance appreciated

Grimmett Brothers, Inc. would like to make a public thank you to the many people of Glasscock County who assisted in saving the life of our employee William Earl Willis in the range fire in Glasscock County on May 24, 1993.

A special "God Bless You" goes out to Delmar Batla and Scott Hillger who risked their own safety to get Earl to safety and in giving us needed information.

Thanks to Judy Kingston who has given us much needed information and for arranging for the assistance fund set up for the Willis family.

Thanks to M. Dale Little and the fire department of Midland County and the ambulance crew who cared for and delivered Earl to Midland Memorial Hospital and for giving us information.

Thanks to Frank Stewart, Poke Brown and the members of the Sterling County Volunteer Fire Department who also helped in many ways.

Thanks to Fred Schroyer for giving us needed information.

Thanks also to all the other people whose names we do not have who helped.

Information sought

I wonder if you could help us. My wife has just had triple bypass surgery. That part went fine but she has asthma, bronchitis and diabetic. So after surgery everything went down hill. Her doctor told her to move to a dry climate so she could breathe better. Could you please tell us a little about Big Spring. How is the humidity there, do you have good doctors and hospital? Both of us have heart trouble in addition my wife has a pace maker. We are both retired. How's is real estate there? We met Trooper Hogue while we were pulling our trailer from Arizona back to Alabama and had a blow out. I had recently had 5 bypasses so he took control and changed the tire and directed us to a tire store in Big Spring. We presently own a 3 bedroom, 2 bath brick home in Montgomery, Alabama.

If you could tell us a little about Big Spring we would really appreciate it. We were stationed in Wichita Falls for 3-1/2 years and love Texas but it is too humid there.

Thank you so much.

Editor's Note: While Lewis Grizzard is recovering from heart surgery, previously run columns will be used.

Somebody who cares for me despite my bad habits and track record, gave me a birthday present this year—a jukebox.

It's a Seberg 100, manufactured in 1954. It was a complete surprise. I knew I wasn't getting a pony. I gave up on a pony when I was 12.

I was thinking in terms of perhaps a typewriter with a carriage that doesn't stick, some golf balls or a book on how to play gin rummy, something I desperately need before I go broke and have to take a second job at a convenience store.

Instead, I got a jukebox built in 1954. I turned it on in 1954, back when Cleveland had a good baseball team and Americans built things that lasted.

There were a few records on my jukebox, but the kind person who gave it to me said, "I wanted to give you a chance to put all of your favorites in."

I have a wonderful opportunity here, the opportunity to select my favorite songs of all times.

It is not a task I am taking lightly. I must dig deep into my memory here, careful to select from each of the musical eras that have played a part in my life.

A man can learn a great deal about himself in such an endeavor. He can put himself into context by looking at the sort of music that is dearest to him.

I was caught in the birth of rock and roll in the '50s.

But something happened to rock and roll in the mid-'60s, something that was not to my taste, so I went to country music, where I remain, with but a few exceptions such as big band, Sinatra, Nat King Cole, and even some gospel here and there.

I've already stated the list of the eventual 100 selections for my jukebox.

If they are symbols of a man out of step with the sounds of modern music, so be it. Frankly, I haven't understood much of anything since the American League adopted the designated hitter.

The partial list:

- "Old Dogs, Children and Watermelon Wine," Tom T. Hall.
- "Smoky Places," The Corsairs.
- "Stubborn Kind of Fellow," Marvin Gaye.
- "My Girl," The Temptations.
- "Peace in the Valley," Red Foley.
- "The Tennessee Waltz," Eddie Arnold or Patti Page.
- "To All the Girls I've Loved

Before," Willie Nelson and Julio Iglesias.

"Are You Lonesome Tonight?" Elvis.

"Chances Are," Johnny Mathis.

"There Used to Be a Ballpark Right Here," Frank Sinatra.

"In the Mood," Glenn Miller.

"Happy Trails," Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

"When Whoever's in New England's Through with You," Reba McEntire.

"Midnight Train to Georgia," Gladys Knight and The Pips.

"Mona Lisa Lost Her Smile," David Allan Coe.

"There Stands the Glass," Webb Pierce.

"Mama Tried," Merle Haggard.

I'll get to George Jones and Luciano Pavarotti as soon as possible.

Now that all the hoopla about the Koresch followers has died down to a dim roar, there's a few things I've been wanting to say about false prophets.

Anyone with a little imagination can pose as a prophet. I've made this point before, but it seems pertinent now.

Pretty much everybody has heard about the great and sinister-sounding prophecies of Nostradamus.

The guy wrote his prophecies in four different languages, so you can bet I haven't read the original text. But this is what he is ~~supposed~~ to have written.

According to various authors, and a documentary narrated by Orson "Rosebud" Wells, Nostradamus predicted the year and month his body would be exhumed by grave robbers.

"That's interesting," I thought.

But the story goes on to say this guy predicted the coming of Napoleon, Hitler, the Kennedy brothers, Lincoln and a half-dozen other historical potentates. I mean, according to the Nostradamus gurus, he predicted everything including, the microwave oven and Dan Quayle.

I haven't read any of Koresch's writings, but I would - for column fodder. But this is how Nostradamus did it:

First of all, bear in mind that in the 16th century, there was no TV and precious few books, even for those who could read.

Nowadays, people don't make up stories and fairy tales to entertain the neighbors, but it was a big deal back then. People used to offer food and shelter to travelers in exchange for stories.

And Nostradamus was good at this form of entertainment. He was a young physician, a bit of a dark horse. And, because of his predictions, he was in great demand at kingly dinners. (At least that's what Orson said)

I figure, people picked up his predictions and rumors and passed them around. They probably spiced them up a bit in doing so.

Think about it. If a traveler could raise goosebumps on an old housewife with some tale of the future - well, that's got to be more entertaining than say, "Hansel and Gretel." Shoot! Old Nostradamus could probably keep a guy in bread and beans for years.

So that's why. Now let's talk about how.

The Nostradamian technique for amazing the populace long after you're dead is as follows:

Ahah!

1. Write about Europe. Europe has had more wars, famine, pestilence, revolutions and general history than just about any other place.
2. Master the style of vague, grandiose writing. Never write something like, "There was this king, OK, but somebody killed him."

Nostradamian style is: "The young lion will overcome the old one, on the battlefield in single combat in a cage of gold, his eyes will be put out. Two wounds in one and then to die a cruel death."

See how that works? Could be John Wayne - could be George Bush.

3. Make a lot of predictions. Nostradamus made more than 1,000 predictions. I've only heard about 30 or 40.

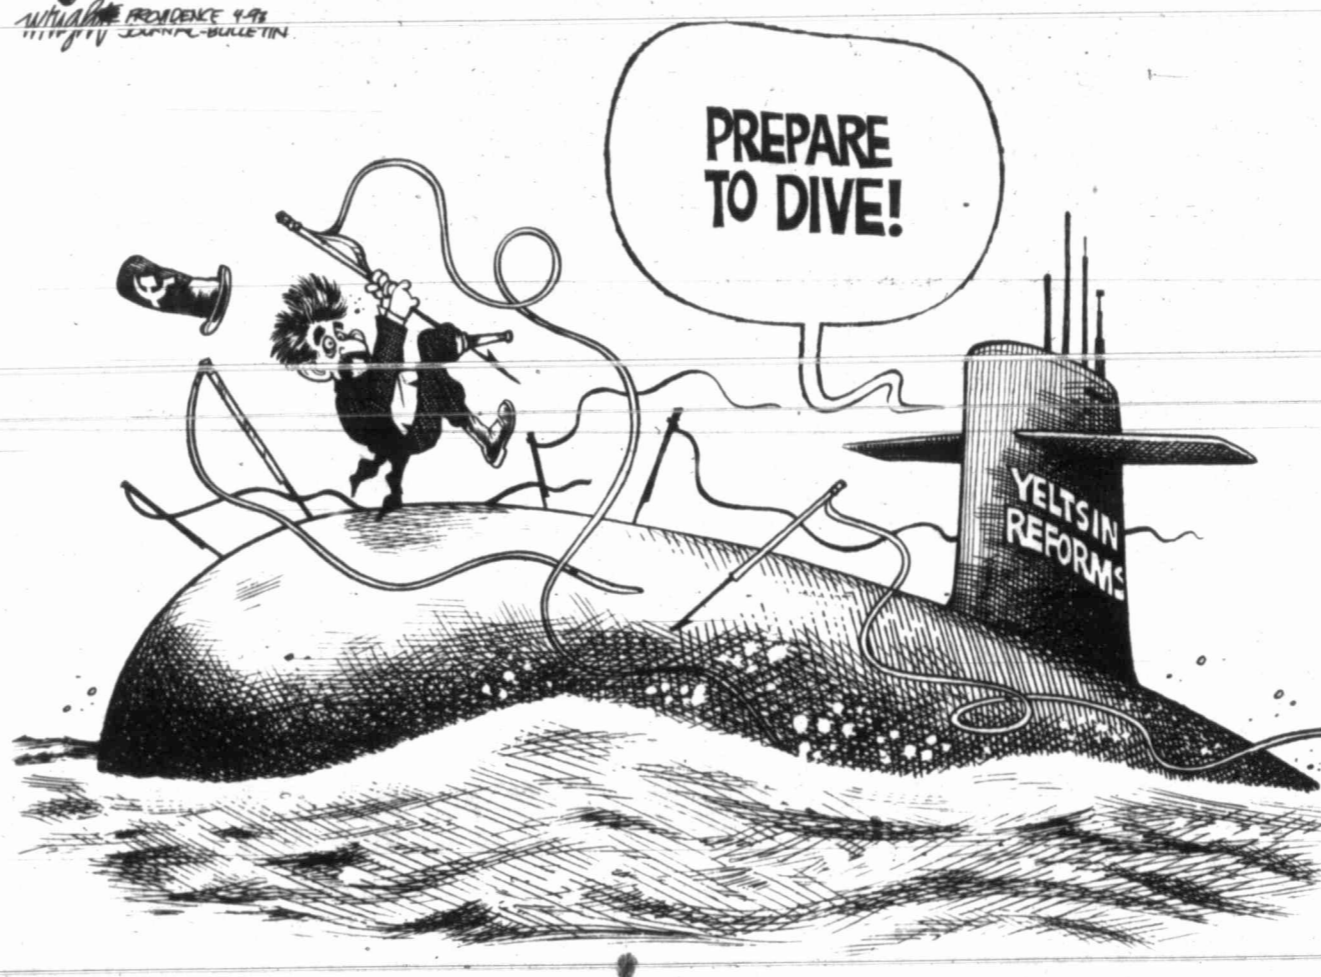

Given enough time, world events are bound to match up with some of them.

4. Start your own cult before you die. This is very important. If, like Koresch, you can fool a few toadies into believing you're clairvoyant, you'll live forever in the minds of morons.

So, now that we know how it's done, I'll close with a prediction. And, in doing so, I'll illustrate another technique called, "playing the odds."

I predict - In the year of our Lord, 19 hundred and 93, in the State of the Single Star, a person of low mind will claim to have spoken with the arisen David Koresch.

See? An odds-on favorite!

Writer's art

A resonating segue into wonkery

It is time for one of our periodic reports on fashionable words. Writers who are truly au courant, as we say, or otherwise on the ball, should know that "dysfunctional" has had its day. My dears, "dysfunctional" is gone, simply gone!

What has arrived in its place? You will never guess. This spring the word is: resonate.

U.S. News & World Report says the president's call for shared sacrifice "resonates among the voters."

USA Weekend says that one of President Clinton's favorite lines "resonates deep within us."

In the Rocky Mountain News, columnist Jon Talton says that "Clintonomics may resonate well with people who want government to play Mommy."

In The New York Times, feature writer Alison Cook has kind words for Gov. Ann Richards of Texas. "She has battled alcoholism and weathered a painful divorce, victories that resonate with the times."

In "Double Deuce," Robert Parker's latest Spenser novel, a TV anchorwoman had "an on-camera persona that resonated with compassion."

Newsweek magazine took an uncertain look at the 1980s. "The battle over the meaning of that especially resonant decade is just getting going." Newsweek also took a look at AIDS. As a cultural metaphor, AIDS "brings up life, death, class, sex, in a way that makes it resonate for everybody."

The Miami Herald headlined a story in its Sunday travel section: "Diversity resonates in Clinton country." A book reviewer for the Herald had praise for Robyn Davidson's new book about her trek across Australia: "Her very personal story resonates forcefully."

Had enough? Playboy magazine says Tony Bennett's records still resonate with listeners. Rolling Stone says the thought of driving influence peddlers from democracy's temple "resonates with Americans like an old Frank Capra movie."

In the Chicago Sun-Times, "Hitler Parable Resonates as Fascism Re-emerges."

In the winter Bulletin of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, those of us in the news business are made aware of our shortcomings: "Old criticisms of the media resonate in recent post-rift evaluations."

It will take six to nine months for the last echoes of "resonate" to subside, but fear not! Other fad words are nipping at its heels. Leading the pack is "segue."

Webster's dates "segue" (seg-way) as a verb from 1854. As a direction in music, it means "to proceed to what follows without pause."

It wasn't until 1961 that Webster's assumed the noun to poine society. "That's a nice segue, Dan."

Now "segue" is in vogue. The Congress will segue from taxes to health care. The country last month segued from basketball to baseball. Newsweek speaks of a radio interviewer who "segued effortlessly" from the feminist revival to a commercial break. Newsweek's Rich Thomas says the Clinton campaign motto, "It's the economy, stupid," is segueing into a catch phrase for governance.

USA Today commends talk show host Sally Jessy Raphael for a smooth segue. USA Weekend likes Mark DeCarlo: "His smooth talk and sexy segues make his sophomoric 'Studs' watchable."

Right behind "segue" is "wonk." A wonk; for those who live in climes more civilized than those of Washington, D.C., is an excessively studious person, one who knows more than anyone needs to know about whatever it is that engrosses the wonk. Health care. Grazing fees. The value-added tax.

A Washington correspondent for Knight-Ridder Newspapers recently dubbed "wonk" the buzzword of the year for political writers. A computer search found that The Washington Post had used "wonk" only twice in 1992, but had used the word 24 times already in 1993. The New York Times, perhaps a bit wonkier, made five references in 1992 to "wonk," 27 in 1993.

A derivative noun appeared in Newsweek in December: "One wonders what Bill Clinton was really thinking when Elaine Kamarck ... dragged his economic conference from the rarefied mesas of high wonkery to the funky swamps of political reality ..."

Warning: Have care with wonk, wonking and wonkery. In British slang it carries a meaning that goes back to Genesis 38:9. All things considered, it's arguably time for me to bid a fond farewell to dysfunctional, to applaud the demise of parameters and quantum leap, and segue back to resonance. My nominee for 1994: "fungible." Or maybe "proactive." Citations will be welcome.

According to officials, five people were injured, including Mayor Raymond Flynn, and three others arrested when blacks and whites clashed.

Boston school 'walkout' turns into wild melee

The Associated Press

BOSTON — Blacks and whites battled each other in a rock-throwing melee outside South Boston High School, the site of some of the fiercest battles over court-ordered busing in the 1970s. Five people, including the mayor, were hurt.

Three people were arrested, and classes were canceled today to allow things to cool off.

The melee Thursday in the mostly Irish, working-class neighborhood involved as many as 100 people and was over within minutes.

It began after a peaceful demonstration by about 100 black and white students who had walked out to protest what they said was lax security at the school.

"People are bringing guns and knives to school — blacks and whites," said a white student who refused to give her name.

After the students returned and met with Mayor Raymond Flynn and other officials, classes were dismissed early.

But a crowd of whites that had gathered during the protest began throwing rocks and bottles at the black students boarding buses for home. The melee escalated. Several people were knocked down and racial slurs were exchanged.

Flynn, who was hit in the neck with a bottle, was treated at a hospital and released. A police officer and two girls were also treated for minor injuries, and an officer who was knocked unconscious was hospitalized in good condition.

Two men, ages 20 and 21, were arrested, as was a 16-year-old student.

The melee recalled the racial violence that wracked South Boston in the mid-1970s when the school was integrated. During the height of that crisis, crowds stoned buses carrying black students, and police were stationed on rooftops.

"We went through this 20 years ago, and we cannot go through it again," Police Superintendent William Bratton said.

Tensions have been building in recent weeks in the neighborhood.

A black man from the neighborhood was arrested two weeks ago in the beating of a white woman. And at recent community meetings, residents have blamed crime on "outsiders," including students bused to the 1,000-student school.

Briefs

Disney FBI informant book's author alleges

NEW YORK (AP) — Walt Disney was an FBI informant for nearly three decades, reporting on alleged subversives in Hollywood, a forthcoming book says.

Disney also allowed FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover access to some scripts and made slight changes in his studio's lesser-known movies when Hoover complained they might portray the FBI in a bad light, according to "Walt Disney: Hollywood's Dark Prince," an unauthorized biography by Marc Eliot.

FBI agents also had access to Disneyland for business and recreation purposes.

In exchange, Hoover let Disney film at FBI headquarters in Washington.

The New York Times reported Thursday on the author's findings. The book is to be published in July.

According to the book, Disney, whose right-wing leanings were well known, was an informant from 1940 until his death in 1966. He reported on activities among actors, writers, producers, directors and union activists in Hollywood.

The author provided the Times with copies of the FBI documents he obtained under the Freedom of Information Act. Many of the documents were heavily censored, so it cannot be determined what names Disney passed on to the bureau.

Powell, Koon request new federal trials

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The two policemen convicted in the Rodney King beating are asking for a new trial, accusing prosecutors of using false testimony from one of the two co-defendants acquitted in the case.

Officer Laurence Powell and Sgt. Stacey Koon were convicted by a federal jury April 17 of violating King's civil rights in the videotaped beating of the motorist.

The motion for a new trial, made Thursday, will be heard Aug. 4, the same day Powell and Koon are to be sentenced. They face up to 10 years in prison.

Officer Theodore Briseno and former Officer Timothy Wind were acquitted.

Among the evidence used by the prosecution was a videotape of Briseno testifying at the officers' 1992 state trial that his colleagues had used unreasonable force. The state trial ended in the officers' acquittal.

Briseno didn't testify in person at the federal trial, and Koon's attorney, Michael Stone, said the earlier testimony wasn't truthful. He added that prosecutors even maintained Briseno had lied.

Fetal alcohol syndrome reports have tripled

ATLANTA (AP) — The number of babies diagnosed with fetal alcohol syndrome has more than tripled since 1979, mainly because doctors are doing a better job of recognizing it, the government reported.

The number of cases rose from one in 10,000 births in 1979 to 3.7 in 10,000 by 1992, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported Thursday. A total of 1,782 cases were reported during those years.

Dr. David Erickson, chief of the CDC's birth defects and genetic disease branch, said the numbers have gone up as doctors have gotten better at recognizing the ailment.

Increased drinking by mothers may also play a role in the increase, Erickson said, but he added there's no proof of that.

The ailment is still not easily diagnosed and still more than the 3.7 in 10,000 babies may suffer from it, he said.

Fetal alcohol syndrome, caused by women drinking while pregnant, can leave their infants with retardation, abnormal facial features, central nervous system disorders, behavioral problems and growth deficiencies.

Libel suit jury sent home to read

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The jury that will decide whether a magazine writer libeled a psychoanalyst was sent home with a weekend assignment to read the two-part article in question before testimony in the trial begins.

The federal jury was seated Thursday to hear the libel battle between psychoanalyst Jeffrey Masson and journalist Janet Malcolm.

Latin America cannot repay foreign debts

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Latin America simply cannot repay its $400 billion foreign debt, lawmakers from the region and from Europe say.

In a 31-point document approved at the end of the 11th European Community-Latin America Interparliamentary Conference Thursday, the legislators also warned that free market reforms are causing widespread poverty.

More than 150 European and Latin American legislators took part in the four-day meeting at the Latin American Parliament's new headquarters in Sao Paulo.

Debt-mired Latin American governments have repeatedly asked for relief from foreign lenders. But new debt rescheduling agreements have been slow in coming because of global recession, Latin American economic instability and political differences.

Doctors finding crime, cholera hard to fight

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Doctors battling a cholera epidemic in Angola also must fight thieves who steal drugs, cots, surgical tubing, hypodermic needles, gauze and even disinfectant.

"As fast as we carry drugs through the door of the cholera wards, they disappear through the window," said Dr. Vincent Bercruysse, director of doctors without borders in the Angolan capital, Luanda. He spoke in a telephone interview Thursday.

Andre Brandao, Angola's transportation minister, said the problem was "critical" and that corrupt police were involved in the thefts.

Much of the stealing occurs in Angola's ports, before the supplies even reach the hospitals, Brandao said in a telephone interview.

More than 1,200 people a week were admitted to the city's cholera wards last month, surpassing the 850 per week registered in 1989 during what was then the worst epidemic in the history of the war-torn former Portuguese colony.

On some days, up to 200 hospitalized adults die of cholera, Dr. N'doza Luwawa of the National Cholera Program said by telephone.

Czechs arrest five in assassination plot

PRAGUE, Czech Republic (AP) — Czech police have arrested five foreigners suspected of planning to assassinate President Vaclav Havel, and a report linked the plot to Havel's stand on Bosnia.

Interior Minister Jan Ruml, speaking Thursday on Czech national television, did not reveal the nationalities of the suspects. A sixth man was still on the run.

Colombian authorities seize forged books

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Nobel laureate Gabriel Garcia Marquez won't have legitimate copies of his books competing with unauthorized editions.

Garcia Marquez's Colombian publishing company, Black Sheep, sued two of its former employees last year for allegedly forging 1 million books. Most of the forgeries were works by Garcia Marquez.

But a Bogota judge ruled there was insufficient evidence to link the forged copies to the former Black Sheep employees and ordered some 800,000 confiscated copies back to bookstores.

Warrior tanks of the Prince of Wales' Own Regiment of Yorkshire disembark from a Danish merchant ship Friday en route to central Bosnia. The 1,000 British peacekeepers are replacing the British Cheshire Regiment, returning to Germany after its tour of duty. The new troops could be vulnerable if the West moves to intervene against Bosnian Serb forces in coming weeks.

Bosnian Serbs losing backers, but still fight

The Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — A Serb assault on one of the last Muslim outposts in eastern Bosnia has left more than 200 civilians dead and forced a mass exodus from the burning town, reports said today.

The capture of Zepa would bring Bosnia's Serbs closer to their goal of uniting the entire region with Serb-dominated Yugoslavia.

But the alliance appeared to have unraveled with the Bosnian Serbs' repeated rejections of peace initiatives. Serbia, the main Yugoslav republic, said Thursday it would stop backing the rebel fighters.

The Clinton administration, meanwhile, seemed to gain some support among allies for air strikes and other military measures to attempt to halt the ethnic war.

Reports by Sarajevo radio and ham operators detailing deaths and destruction in Zepa could not be independently confirmed because there are no foreign observers there.

Fadil Heljic, a spokesman for Zepa civil authorities, said by ham radio that many of the 40,000 residents and refugees escaped from the burning town into the hills, looking for shelter in the forest and caves.

The Bosnian government implored the U.N. Security Council to evacuate more than 200 wounded civilians from Zepa, about 40 miles east of Sarajevo.

The council declared "safe havens" in Zepa and five other mainly Muslim towns besieged by Serbs, but it didn't back up the resolution with force.

U.N. spokesman Fred Eckhard told reporters in New York that Gen. Philippe Morillon, the U.N. commander in Bosnia, had negotiated an agreement on Zepa that would include a cease-fire, deployment of U.N. military observers and establishment of a safe haven. He had no further details.

Serb forces also were attacking in other parts of Bosnia. As many as three mosques were blown up late Thursday and early today in Banja Luka, said Peter Kessler, a U.N. relief spokesman in Zagreb, Croatia.

Belgrade's decision to end support for Bosnian Serbs came hours after the self-styled Bosnian Serb parliament defied pleas by Serbian President Slobodan Milosavic and other Yugoslav leaders to accept a U.N. peace plan that calls for dividing Bosnian among the three warring factions.

The assembly said it wanted to hold a referendum on the plan May 15-16.

During their yearlong fight against Bosnia's Muslims and Croats, the rebels have been dependent on Serbia for their fuel, weapons and ammunition. More than 134,000 people have been killed or are missing since Serbs rebelled after Bosnia's Muslims and Croats voted to secede from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia.

The Bosnian Serbs oppose the plan — already approved by Muslims and Croats — because the territories it gives them are not contiguous. The plan would divide Bosnia into 10 provinces largely along ethnic lines, and give Serbs only 43 percent of the territory — compared to the 70 percent they have seized in the war.

President Clinton condemned the parliament's decision and spelled out his case for U.S. involvement in Yugoslavia.

Conservatives fall in British elections

The Associated Press

LONDON — The governing Conservative Party, virtually wiped out in local balloting and crushed by centrists in a parliament seat race, are pinning hopes of political recovery on an economic upturn.

The defeats Thursday, two weeks after Prime Minister John Major declared Britain's longest postwar recession officially over, appeared to reflect a deep skepticism among voters toward the party that has wielded power since 1979.

"The people of this country will give them no more credit and today they have bounced the check," the centrist Liberal Democrats' David Rendel declared early today after winning the parliamentary district of Newbury.

Fire Prevention Week taking aim on arsons

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

This week was declared Fire Prevention Week by Gov. Ann Richards. As part of it, citizens are encouraged to report suspicious activities, like someone running from a fire.

"Arson is a serious crime that affects each and every person and can only be stopped when citizens realize the severe damage that arson causes," Richards said.

State Fire Marshal Ernest Emerson said, "In recent years fire prevention education has begun to focus on arson prevention."

"By increasing awareness of the arson problem across the state, we at the Texas Commission on Fire Protection hope to help local fire departments reduce arson in their own communities."

According to Texas Fire Incident Reporting System, 31 people died in the nearly 20,000 arson and suspected arson fires in Texas in 1991. Information came from fire departments covering 72 percent of the state's population.

Other Incident Reporting System statistics:

- 20 percent of all fire casualties — death and injuries — were caused by arson and suspicious fires.
- 23 percent of all property lost to fires was lost to arson and suspicious fires. That's $84 million in property lost to arson in 1991, nearly $5 million per person in the state. It effects everyone through of insurance costs.
- 22 percent of all reported fires were incendiary or suspicious.

In Big Spring last year, there were 212 fires and $408,235 in damages, according to a report given to the Big Spring City Council in January. Figures on arson were not included.

Citizens can help.

A statewide arson hotline — toll free at 1-800-835-6422 — was set up in December by the Commission on Fire Protection, National Insurance Crime Bureau and Texas Advisory Council. Similar to "Crime Stoppers," it accepts information on arson cases.

Local citizens are encouraged to call the Big Spring Fire Department.

Real work begins

Primitive Baptist plans church dedication

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Church is preparing for a five day celebration of worship to dedicate its new church building.

Members of the church, with help from the local community, built the new building at the corner of 24th and Johnson streets. The congregation made sacrifices in order to give money toward the $250,000 building project.

But minister Jeff Harris says now that the building is finished, the real work begins.

"Now we're ready to go to work in the spiritual realm," he said. "We believe that the true church is the people, not the building."

"We look at the building as a convention directly related to the providence of God, but our chief concern is ministry to the people."

They are inviting the entire community, no matter what church affiliation, to the dedication services. Meetings begin next week Wednesday Thursday, Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m., and Sunday at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Between formal meeting times, there will be fellowship and food. Harris said 300-400 people are expected for the event, including Primitive Baptists from all over the country.

Preachers will come from throughout Texas, New Mexico and even Georgia. They include M.C. Harris Jr., Jeff Harris' father from Bloomfield, N.M.

"Our main idea is to confirm the doctrine and practice of the Primitive Baptist Church," Harris explained. But another goal is to commit the church to service in the community.

"We're a part of the community," Harris said. "It's important for us to recognize the church as that. We hope to be able to minister to the community."

Church members credit providence of God with allowing them to build the new church and remain debt-free. Harris said a debt is owed to two long-time members, Virt Faries and Leo Parker, who gave many hours of work to the construction.

Also deserving of thanks is Brumley Electric, which donated its time to supervise the electrical work on the building.

After beginning Aug. 1, 1991, the congregation moved into the new building Jan. 2, 1993. Since then, they've added a few finishing touches. Now all that is left to complete are the parking lot and landscaping.

But Harris said the church's new home will do just fine.

"Anybody can build a church building," he said. "But only God can build a church."

Members of Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Church gathered on the steps of their new building before a Bible study meeting recently. The congregation plans five days of worship services next week to dedicate their new home.

Rosebud Garden

The Rosebud Garden Club toured a former nursery, "Gone Native," in Midland on Tuesday, April 27. Burr Williams the owner is a conservationist and proponent of native plants. He is instrumental in preserving many native plant species and encourages people to plan their landscapes for low or zero maintenance.

The members and one guest met for lunch at Annie's Gingerbread House.

The next meeting will be a salad luncheon in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Morehead. The new slate of officers will be installed by Terry Johansen.

Beta Sigma Phi

Beta Sigma Phi in Big Spring and around the world gathered on April 29 to celebrate Founder's Day, a traditional celebration that this year honored the 62nd year history of the largest women's social, service, and cultural organization in the world.

The Founder's Day celebration for Big Spring was celebrated at KC Steak and Seafood House. The anniversary was observed by the Xi Pi Epsilon and Preceptor Delta chapters. Gloria Feddersen, President of Xi Pi Epsilon, and Pat Howell, President of Preceptor Delta, served as chairpersons of these Founder's day activities.

New officers for 1993-94 were installed for both chapters as follows: Xi Pi Epsilon: President Kay Richardson, Vice President Beverly Miller, Treasurer Connie Edgemon, Recording Secretary Connie Schooler, and Corresponding Secretary Patricia Carson.

Donation buys chair for SWCID student

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

A local disabled student can move more easily across the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf (SWCID) campus due to the generosity of the Howard County Jaycees and the Elks Lodge.

The groups donated funds that were used to rent an electric wheelchair for 21-year-old Jake Nunez, who has cerebral palsy and had been using a manually-operated wheelchair or crutches to be mobile.

"It was nice of them to help me," he said. "I can get around faster and on my own instead of depending on other people to go a long distance across campus."

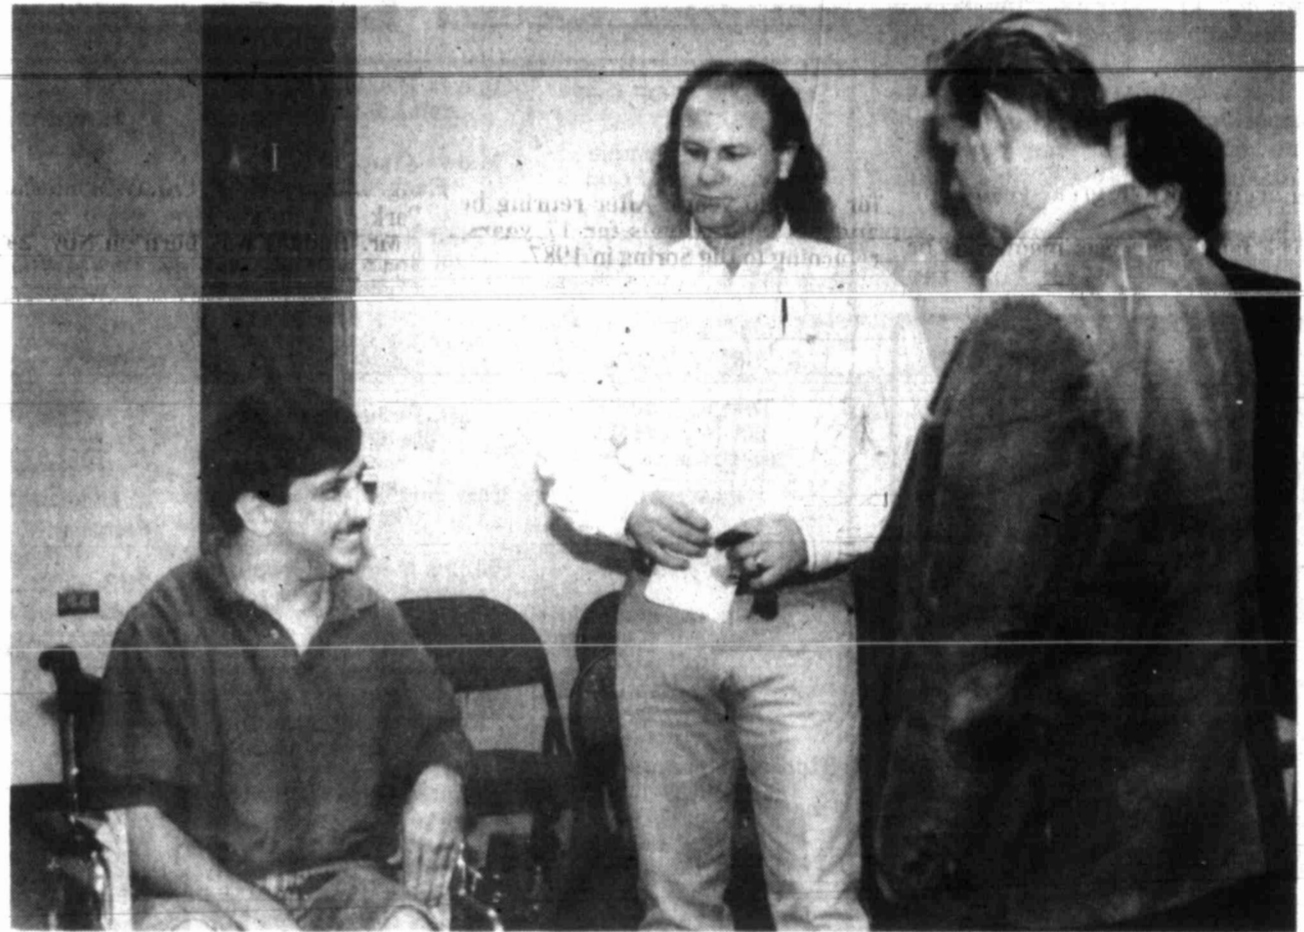

The Beaumont-born Nunez started attending SWCID in the fall, and his first semester proved to be somewhat cumbersome. He either moved around in a regular wheelchair or struggled on crutches.

"Sometimes I didn't have someone to push the wheelchair, and if I was on crutches, it was such a long walk that I'd get physically tired," he added. "It was so much harder for me then."

Organization leaders Frank Crawford of the Elks and Marlon Hale of the Jaycees said helping youth like Nunez has always been a priority for their groups.

"The groups were brought together when SWCID asked us to help out how we can," Crawford said. "We are very pro-youth and disabled, so this fit right into our program."

The Elks Lodge, organized in 1868, is considered to be the largest fraternal charitable organization in the United States.

Some of the charitable activities of the Elks include assisting youth, veterans and the disabled. Support includes a diagnostic center in south Texas for poor families across the state.

The Jaycees, chartered locally in 1986, is a leadership training organization dedicated to training young people to be today's and tomorrow's leaders through community and individual programs.

"Anyway we can help young people; anything we can do to further their education, we try to do," Hale said. This year, the Jaycees are expanding their scope of individual and community assistance. Programs supported by local Jaycees include a Child Safety Campaign, Drug Free Youth in Texas (D-FY-IT) as well as festival and holiday activities.

Reflections on the community: A well-kept secret

By FLYNN LONG
First Presbyterian Church

A minister has a unique perspective on the life of a community.

A pastor is with people in times of immense joy and great distress. While not always directly involved in business, government, social events, or institutional planning, a pastor is often an interested observer, and sometimes a confidant, of those who are.

I have been a resident of Big Spring for most of a decade and a West Texan for over 40 years and have come to love and appreciate the area and people of this crossroads city. I think it may be the location of the best-kept secret in West Texas.

LONG

There are qualities about Big Spring that are seldom mentioned — remarkable evidence that refutes any unwarranted reputation. It is easy to list a community's problems, fears, frustrations, controversy, and failures, and much effort is expended in that venture, but there are more important aspects of this place that are often left unsaid.

One cause is a "laid-back," self-effacing lifestyle. Borrowing a term from modern analysis, Big Spring may suffer from "low self-esteem." I once heard another locale described as "a vale of humility surrounded by enormous mountains of conceit." Howard County could fit that description.

Self-esteem sought at the price of aggressive boosterism, slogans that stretch the truth for material gain, or combative criticism of others — all are unhealthy. A community (or an individual for that matter) that has a quiet confidence in itself without illusions of grandeur, is a healthy one. Big Spring is like that and it enriches life here.

A pastor sees the generosity of people, and Big Spring is marked with a spirit of unusual generosity — not only in material gifts to support institutions, community projects, churches, etc., but also in time, concern and care about others.

The amount of volunteer time given in Big Spring is simply astounding. One is impressed by money donations, but overwhelmed by the personal time spent in caring for others: family, children, grandchildren, elderly, invalid, imprisoned, etc.

Our county is full of people and agencies whose primary concern is other people. We are a people-centered community.

There is an identifiable and singular history here that is a living and present reality. Pastors become aware of individual and family stories, and this place is filled with people who remember "back when."

There are an extraordinary number of residents whose parents and grandparents were part of the beginnings of local history. Stories of the frontier, cattle ranches, homesteads, railroads, and oil booms are ever-present.

Beyond these, a national consciousness that prevents a narrow provincialism is fostered by a legacy of military involvement in Twentieth Century world events, and the presence of state and federal institutions that link this tradition to the wider world. It is a tradition of hard work, devotion, suffering, and sacrifice — but also of success and achievement that has often been heroic.

Such a history and tradition creates a conservative community. It is a constructive conservatism; not based on fear, hatred, avarice, or greed, but on a sense of quiet integrity and the preservation of personal values. It does not, as one might suppose, resist change, but is surprisingly open to the future.

I am constantly amazed at the open-mindedness and tolerance of people in Howard County. That may be the result of a rather sophisticated character of the populace in general.

Our people are derived from many places (even old-timers recall families that came from elsewhere) and are often well-traveled and aware of varying cultural and ethnic backgrounds. Generally educated, bilingual and ethnically diverse, this community is a true reflection of the world while maintaining its own identity. A sophistication that is not boastful or pretentious is a marvelous characteristic that is somewhat unique to this area. Please see Inspiration, page 28

City Extension

City Extension Club met in the home of Jean Cantrell for their last meeting of April.

Stan Parker and Terry Hudson of the Big Spring Police Force gave the program on burglary prevention. We should be sure to lock all doors before we leave the house or go to bed. Be sure to lock all windows and leave lights on when you go out. One could have automatic timers on lights and change them about so no one can see a set pattern all time.

If you are going on vacation, notify the police, tell your neighbors to watch and check out the house. Never publicize your traveling plans either.

All possessions should be marked with your drivers license so they will not be so easy to pawn nor sell. Keep receipts of all purchases in a safe place like your bank box so you can know how to turn in losses to your insurance company.

For the business meeting Frances Zant and Jewell Etchison were elected as nominee elect for State Meeting in Waco Sept. 14-16. Ten members were present.

Two members from City Club attended the District Meeting in Pecos and they gave a report on that. Each club member who attended and wanted to take a Mole block to do handwork for the quilt to be finished and chances sold to raise Roberta Johnson Scholarship money. The next meeting will be with Opal Wooten May 7 at 2 p.m.

Tall Talkers

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club held its weekly meeting May 4.

Table topics were led by Jim Werner, and the word of the day was "fanatic," meaning unreasonably enthusiastic.

Each member was given the opportunity to speak on the topic of the day, which was Athlete's Salaries. Best table topic speaker was Reeves Moren. Loretta Burns was voted best speaker. Her speech was titled, "I Know It's Here Somewhere." The best evaluator was Mike Manley. The goal of Tall Talkers is to educate people to become better leaders and communicators. If you are interested in becoming a Tall Talker Toastmaster, please contact Bailey Anderson at 267-3008.

Spade and Hoe

Spade and Hoe Garden Club met May 4 at Big Spring Country Club with hostesses Dianne Moses and Nancy Abraham. Program was given by Terri Johansen.

An excellent program was presented on "Roses" the "Romance Flower." Most roses originally came from Europe and the Orient. The antique roses are most popular now, such as the "Fairy," "Lady Banks," and "Radiance," all of which can be found locally at Johansen's Nursery. Roses need a minimum of 6 hours sun and good drainage. Terri brought a cutting of several varieties of roses and each member was invited to choose her favorite to take home.

The next meeting on June 1, 1993, will be held at Johansen's Nursery. It will be a "Brown Bag" lunch and each member is asked to bring $5 so that each member can make her own "dish garden."

Officers for the upcoming year were installed. They are Pam Crim, president; Sherri Key, 1st vice president; Pam Welch, 2nd vice president; Sherry Tompkins, secretary; Leighrene Kohl, treasurer and Terri Johansen, parliamentarian.

Polly St. Clair installed the new officers. She donned each of them with a paper hat she had made. They were all decorated with flowers and each was different. They were beautiful. The next meeting will be held in September.

Secret pals were revealed. Mrs. Underwood presented gifts to the outgoing officers. The meeting adjourned.

Singles

Twenty-four members of the Big Spring Singles met on Monday evening and after the business meeting some of the members joined in a game of Spinners, some got a card game going and others visited with both groups.

Cassie Phelps, manager of the Days Inn, spoke to the club about possibly using the meeting rooms there for some of our meetings. They are remodeling the meeting rooms, restaurants and some of the guest rooms and Cassie wanted to extend an invitation to us to use them. They have two meeting rooms, a restaurant and a lounge that she said they would be happy for us to use. We have decided to wait until the next meeting before deciding which meetings to hold there.

Ken Johnson is talking with Kent

Newsom about holding a Singles night at the grocery store. They are thinking of Thursday evening and are in the midst of planning this night out.

Kaye Davidson brought her schedule for the Midland Theater along and the club found out that the Summer Mummies begins June 25. Everyone is looking forward to that. "Dearly Departed" is playing May 14-29. Pauline Long suggested we try carpool to Midland.

Wednesday evening the group will be at the Elks Lodge on FM-700 for the free dance lessons given by the Crude Diamonds Dance Club. Five were at the last lesson and everyone sure had a good time, learning a waltz and the Tush Push.

Saturday a trip to San Angelo with a stroll along the river walk and a tour of the Concho Fort has been planned, leaving Denny's Restaurant at 9 a.m. This trip is being hosted by Ron Allen.

Newsletters were mailed out this week with a calendar of events included.

At the May 10 meeting they will be trying to get a calendar committee together, discussing meeting places and more activities. Bring your favorite game to play after the business meeting.

Inspiration

There is a religious message in this. Real religion is not doctrinaire or cultic. True religion is humility, generosity, integrity, self-sacrifice, openness, and caring about people. There is a lot of religion here.

Occasional worry about the future, state of the world, controversy, and the presence of problems, need not obscure the fact that we live in a good place at a good time. That this is a well-kept secret should not keep us from gratefully being who we are.

Inspiration will appear Fridays, written by local and area ministers from various churches.

Church

Name tags were given as the women arrived with places for name and birth date (month, day, year). They were then asked to find one other person who had same birth-date for same occasion.

Scripture reading included John 10:9-10. Definitions for Abundantly Alive were given as "affluence, wealth, richly supplied, overflowing, more than sufficient measure, not dead and overflowing."

Two persons were introduced, whose lives were changed when they met Jesus.

Praise time included group singing of "Amazing Grace" and "Fully Alive."

Table decorations were complete as each person lighted a candle when they were served refreshments.

The next meeting will be June 7 at 608 West 15th Street.

Mothers honored

Area duo headed to state track meet

Light learns to love hurdles

By MIKE BUTTS
Sports Editor

Seven or eight years have passed since Forsan sent an athlete to the state track meet.

And if not for basketball, that streak might still be going today.

Laurie Light broke Forsan's long state track shutout with a second place finish in the 300 meter hurdles at region last week in Levelland. But when this year's track season began, Light wasn't even running hurdles, much less thinking about winning in track.

"Basketball is one of my main interests, and track is just a time to stay in shape for basketball," Light says. "I never even expected to get out of district."

The smallish Lady Buffalo sophomore started on Forsan's district winning basketball team. She ran on all three relay teams as a freshman, but none of those teams advanced beyond the district meet.

This year coach Johnny Schafer and assistant Gayla Stone thought Light might do well in the hurdles. But Light wasn't exactly overzealous to take up the event.

"In junior high my coach suggested it (the hurdles) and uh-uh, I never did 'em," Light says. "But my other coaches suggested it this year and I thought, 'Oh well, I might as well try 'em.'"

She began by running the 100 meter hurdles. Then Schafer and Stone, who went to state 11 years ago in the hurdles for Coahoma, reasoned the 300 could be a better event for her. Again Light's response was not overwhelming.

"I was just gonna do it (the 300) to prove it wasn't my race, but it didn't end like that," she says. "The first time I ran it I didn't think I was gonna finish it, it was so long."

After Light's first competition in the 300, the will to win took over.

"The first time she ran it she finished third and it started that competitive drive," Schafer says. "From there it just took off.... It's very unusual for somebody to come out the first year (and reach state), especially in the hurdles where you have technique to pick up."

Forsan's District 3-1A has 11 girls track teams, and Light is it's only state qualifier. She placed behind Hart's Shey Bennett, who ran a 48.3, at region.

Forsan sophomore Laurie Light clears a hurdle during a recent practice at Forsan High School. Light, who began running the hurdles this year, will perform at next week's state track meet in Austin.

"The second or third time I ran (the 300) I thought, 'Maybe I have a chance at this.' But I was thinking about getting out of district. I wasn't even considering state yet," Light says.

The Forsan hurdler has one of the higher times among the eight state qualifiers. Her goal, Schafer says, is to beat Bennett in Austin.

"I'm probably the underdog going down there, but I don't want to end up like that," Light says. "I want to finish in the top three."

As a 16-year-old sophomore who had never even been to region before, nerves may be her biggest obstacle at the state meet. Austin's Memorial Stadium will have 15,000-30,000 spectators for the Texas championships, Schafer says. And Light was more than a little jittery at region, where Schafer estimated the crowd at 3,000-4,000.

"I was a nervous wreck," she says. "Every minute of the day I was thinking about what I was going to do and how I was going to do it. After the preliminaries I relaxed a little. (But) I didn't relax totally until the whole meet was over."

Forsan will compete at the 1A level for at least another year. Light has a chance to go back to Austin next year and improve on her time, Schafer says. If Forsan moves up to 2A that accomplishment will be of course harder.

"There's no telling what she's capable of the next couple of years," Schafer says.

And what are Light's thoughts about her athletic future?

"Right now my main concern is next basketball season," she says.

If Light's interest in basketball get any more serious, she might just win a state championship in the hurdles.

Hard-working Hulme to make second appearance

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports Writer

COLORADO CITY - There may be discus throwers with better distances than Christi Hulme, and there may be some with better technique, but she is determined that no one is going to outwork her.

Hulme, a senior at Colorado High School, will make her second straight trip to the state track meet next week in Austin, and her blue-collar ethic is a major reason for the return engagement.

"She's head and shoulders above everyone else in this area," Colorado City coach Wayne Alexander said. "And she deserves most of the credit for doing most of the work on her own."

Almost every day, Hulme can be found in the field just north of the Colorado City football stadium, tossing the discus. These workouts frequently last more than an hour at a time. That, Alexander said, is a key to her success.

"She's out here day after day," he said. "She doesn't lift a lot of weights. (Her success is due to) the repetitiveness of her doing it over and over.... I guess that's dedication or whatever you want to call it."

Last year, Hulme and Rosemary Rosas, who has graduated, both qualified for the state meet in the discus from Colorado City. Alexander said Hulme has missed her training partner but has compensated.

"She's done most of the work on her own," he said. "She lost her discus coach... although most of what he taught her has carried over. She hasn't had Rosemary around, although she stops by every now and then to talk to Christi."

"At first, it was hard to throw by myself," Hulme said. "But around the middle of the year I started to adjust pretty well. Sometimes, Rosemary comes out and practices with me. It's a little harder to practice by myself. I don't have anyone to talk to."

Hulme has shown steady improvement throughout her high school career. As a freshman, she finished third at the 3A regional meet in Odessa. After transferring to Coahoma, she returned to Colorado City for her junior year, and finished second behind Rosas at the regional meet.

After finishing fourth last year at state, both Alexander and Hulme said she has a good shot at capturing the gold medal this time around.

"She's shooting for 140 (feet); she's thrown that in warmups," he said. "Certainly, if she gets to 140 at state, I don't think anybody will get within that."

Hulme has thrown over 137 feet in competition this year, so 140 is not an unrealistic goal.

"I think my chances are pretty good if I keep my nerves calm and do everything like I've been doing it at the meets," she said. "Last year, 135 won it, and around that will probably win it again."

"I just set some goals at the start of the year: to beat my personal best; make it back to the state meet; and hopefully win it this time," she said.

And if determination equals results, Colorado City's blue-collar discus tosser will make it three-out-of-three in the goals department.

Phoenix rising from ashes

By The Associated Press

Paul Westphal, after predicting that the Phoenix Suns would rally from a 2-0 deficit to beat the Los Angeles Lakers, is using unorthodox methods to accomplish the feat.

The Phoenix coach, concerned his players were pressing, avoided talking basketball strategy at halftime before the Suns broke open a close game in the third period and beat the Lakers 101-86 Thursday night. The outcome tied the best-of-5 series 2-2 and brought Westphal within one victory, in Phoenix on Sunday, of seeing his prediction come true.

"We told a few jokes, we didn't talk about basketball," Westphal said. "That was our strategy. It just seemed like the right thing to do at the time. I've never done it before and I'll probably never do it again."

"I just felt we weren't loose enough."

Charles Barkley had 28 points and 11 rebounds for the Suns, who lost the first two games of the series at home. Westphal, noting a 23-game disparity between the two teams in the regular season, said after Game 2 that Phoenix would still win the series.

In Thursday night's other playoff games, the New York Knicks advanced to the second round against Charlotte with a 109-100 overtime victory over Indiana, and Seattle tied Utah 2-2 with a 93-80 win at Salt Lake City.

Tonight's games have Cleveland at New Jersey and Portland at San Antonio in series the Cavaliers and Spurs lead 2-1. In deciding fifth games on Saturday, Utah will be at Seattle and the Los Angeles Clippers at Houston.

Vlade Divac led the Lakers with 17 points and 12 rebounds. Tony Smith scored 15 points and A.C. Green had 15 rebounds for Los Angeles.

KNICKS 100, PACERS 100, OT
Doc Rivers, a 31.7 percent 3-point shooter during the regular season, hit four 3-pointers and scored 14 of

New York's 23 points in the final eight minutes of regulation and overtime at Indiana.

The outcome gave the Knicks a 3-1 series victory and a berth in the Eastern Conference semifinals against Charlotte, which beat Boston in the Hornets' first NBA postseason appearance.

The Pacers stayed winless in six playoff appearances despite Reggie Miller's 33 points, raising his average in the series to 31.5. But Miller scored just three points in the fourth quarter and overtime.

SONICS 93, JAZZ 80
Seattle and Utah split their season series 2-2, with each team winning once at home and once on the road.

That's exactly the way their playoff series stands after Eddie Johnson scored 13 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter of Game 4.

"I wasn't ready to go home," said Johnson, who had two 3-pointers, a three-point play and an off-balance, lean-in 15-footer during his torrid spree.

The Sonics outscored the Jazz 23-16 in the fourth period after taking a 70-64 lead into the final 12 minutes.

THE HOME FRONT

By Kay Moore

Voters around the country have tried to limit property taxes, and sometimes they have succeeded. Trouble is, many states have had to increase sales or income taxes to make up the shortfall.

Now's the time to check and service garden tools. A hedge clipper may need sharpening of the cutting blade; on the edge, it may need to be replaced; the string trimmer may need its nylon string cutter replaced.

Color can change a room. A big one will seem more intimate if it's painted a rich, dark color; lighter paint will open up a small area. Don't be afraid to combine two or three colors, especially pastels.

Outdoor decks look better and last longer if they're cleaned and inspected at least once a year. Scrub with a stiff-bristle brush and a heavy-duty solution of household detergent. Rinse with a hose.

Giving the buyer what he or she wants, some Long Island, New York, developers have created hybrid communities of detached single family homes with condo-like shared recreational facilities.

Reds' rally shocks Astros; Braves cruise

By The Associated Press

Reggie Sanders hit a two-run homer — the second of the ninth inning off relief ace Doug Jones — and the Cincinnati Reds scored all their runs in their final at-bat to stun the Houston Astros 5-4 Thursday night.

Doug Drabek — backed by three homers among Houston's six hits — took a shutout into the ninth, but lost it on a single by Bobby Kelly and a run-scoring double by Jeff Branson. Jones (1-1) came on and got an out before allowing Kevin Mitchell's third homer and a double by Chris Sabo.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Randy Milligan flied out before Sanders hit his fourth homer, a drive into the stands in left field.

Reliever Mill Hill (1-0) worked one inning, allowing eighth-inning solo homers by Jeff Bagwell and Luis Gonzalez. Jeff Reardon pitched the ninth for his third save, retiring Casey Candaele on a foul fly to end the game with the tying and winning runs on base.

Tim Belcher pitched seven innings for Cincinnati, allowing two runs on three hits, striking out eight and walking two. He retired 15 consecutive batters after giving up a leadoff walk to Gonzalez in the third.

Houston scored twice in the first on a two-run homer by Eric Anthony. Bagwell started the rally with a two-out single, then Anthony extended his hitting streak to a career-high eight games with his third homer.

The Astros made it 4-0 in the eighth when both Gonzalez and Bagwell hit their fifth homers.

BRAVES 13, ROCKIES 3

After a brain-rattling collision at first base, one would have thought it would take more than a tiny finger blister to get John Smoltz out of the game.

But Smoltz had already done his job, holding the Colorado Rockies to two runs on two hits deep into the sixth inning, when Atlanta manager Bobby Cox decided to take precautions.

"He got a little bit of a blister (on the ring finger of his pitching hand)," Cox said. "We had a lead, and rather than tear it, we elected to take him out."

The Braves, emerging from a season-long hitting slump, gave Smoltz and two relievers plenty of support, pounding out 15 hits Thursday night to whip the Rockies 13-3.

David Justice and Ron Gant hit homers and drove in four runs apiece to pace the rout. Sid Bream and Jeff Blauser also homered.

"It seems like we've hit into a ton of double plays this year," Cox said. "If we hit them over the fence, they can't catch them."

Justice had a two-run, opposite-field homer in the first inning. Bream had a two-run shot in the seventh, and Blauser had a solo homer and Gant a three-run homer, both in the eighth. The last three came off reliever Mark Knudson, who yielded four runs in both the seventh and eighth innings.

"We've showed signs for about a week now that the guys are starting to hit the ball," Cox said. "It was good to see them break out a little bit."

For one scary moment in the third inning, it appeared Smoltz's night might end prematurely.

The Rockies had a runner on first with pitcher David Nied, an ex-Brave, at the plate. Expecting a bunt, first baseman Bream charged the plate as Nied popped a bunt over his head. Smoltz scrambled for the ball, running into second baseman Mark Lemke and then diving for the ball, where he collided with Nied. The ball popped loose.

Smoltz sat dazed on the dirt for several seconds, exercising an aching jaw.

"I actually got hit twice," Smoltz said. "I'll have a sore jaw for a while. It was one of those plays where we aren't expected to say anything" — just go for the ball. Lemke got caught between the play. I couldn't stop and collided pretty good. After that, David came down the line and there was no way of avoiding him. He was out until the second hit, when I dropped the ball.

"I got hit in the jaw and then in the head. I had to recollect my thoughts, because I had a pretty good headache."

As for the blister, Smoltz said he developed a "stinging feeling when I threw a slider. In the sixth inning, I didn't have much left anyway. Bobby wanted to save me for my next start."

Smoltz (3-3) went 5 2-3 innings, departing with a 5-2 lead.

Nied (3-3) allowed at least one run in each of his first four innings, finally setting the Braves down in the fifth and sixth innings. But whatever comeback hopes the Rockies had evaporated upon Knudson's appearance.

"I was missing with my off-speed pitches and had to throw my fastball in there," Nied said.

Toronto HR barrage sinks Orioles

By The Associated Press

Ben McDonald knew exactly what he wanted to do with the Toronto Blue Jays. Instead, they did it to him.

"The one (Darnell) Coles hit was a slider I left out over the plate," the Baltimore Orioles' pitcher said after a 10-8 loss to Toronto on Thursday night. "(Pat) Borders" was a belly-high fastball. I was trying to pitch (Joe) Carter high, but I didn't get it high enough.

"It was four bad pitches."

Actually, only three. McDonald forgot to mention Ed Sprague's homer, the other of four hit by the Blue Jays.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

"But I do know that the homers come when I fall behind in the count. You make a bad pitch then and you don't get away with it. Really, you're lucky if it stays in the park."

While the Blue Jays preferred to call their barrage good hitting, Carter — who collected his eighth of the season and 250th career home run with a two-run shot for a 5-4 lead in the fourth — said being down by three runs after one inning doesn't faze his club.

"We know we've got the offense to bring us back from almost any deficit," he said. "You look at this lineup — one through five — and it's as good as any in baseball. And when Ed (Sprague) is hitting like he's capable of out of the seven spot and Borders does what he did, we're tough to beat."

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Oakland 6, Boston 3; California 3, New York 1; and Seattle 9, Cleveland 5.

ATHLETICS 6, RED SOX 3

Oakland's Mark McGwire homered twice at Fenway Park, including his first ever off Roger Clemens.

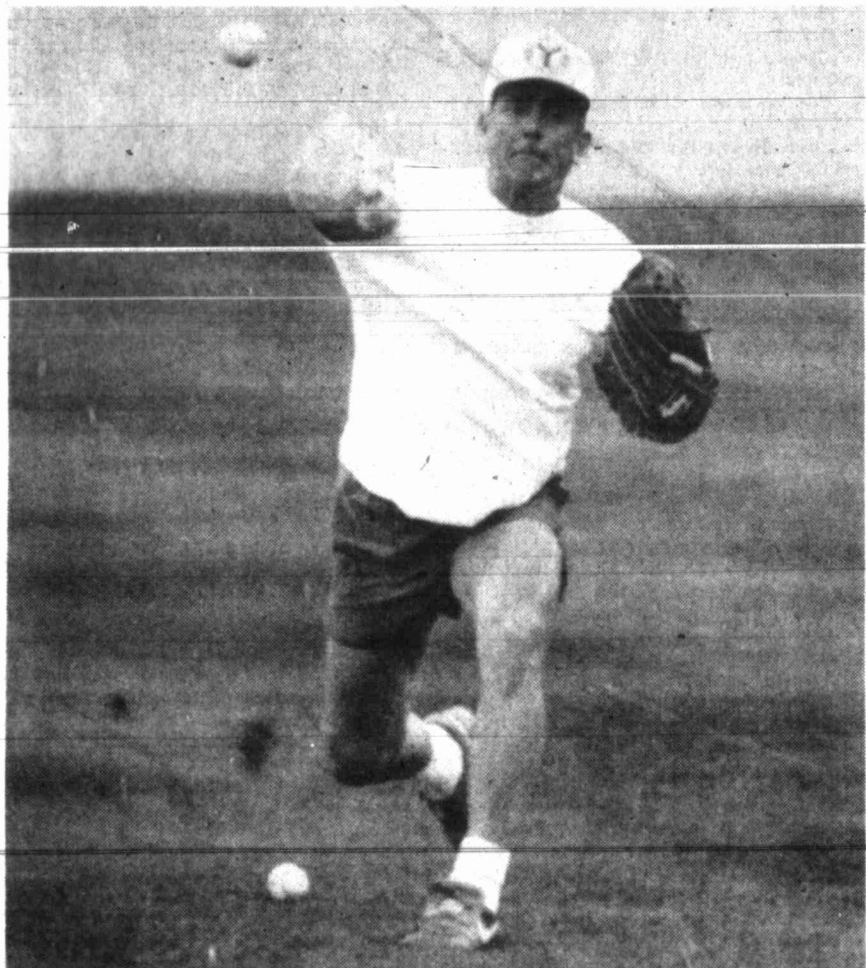

McGwire, who had been 1 for 29 in his career against Clemens, hit his sixth homer for Oakland's first run. Clemens (4-2) fell to 5-10 in 20 starts against the Athletics, the only team against whom he has a losing record.

Bobby Witt (2-1) pitched 6 1-3 innings. Carlos Quintana's single in the first scored Billy Hatcher, who added a two-run single in the second. Dennis Eckersley worked the ninth for his fourth save.

ANGELS 3, YANKEES 1

Chili Davis hit a tie-breaking two-run homer off Steve Howe in the eighth inning as California and former Yankee Scott Sanderson beat New York for the second time after entering the series with five straight losses.

Sanderson (4-1) and Mike Witt staged a pitching duel. Witt, making only his third start of the season following right elbow rehab, gave up just one run, six hits and one walk in seven innings.

Texas pitcher Nolan Ryan works out Wednesday afternoon at Arlington Stadium. Ryan, who has missed the last several weeks with a knee injury, is scheduled to start for the Rangers tonight in Kansas City.

MARINERS 9, INDIANS 5

Pete O'Brien ended an 0-for-16 slide with a single and one of four home runs as Seattle ended Cleveland's five-game winning streak.

Jay Buhner, Ken Griffey Jr. — who had three of the visiting Mariners' 16 hits — and Tino Martinez also homered for Seattle. Alvaro Espinoza and Albert Belle, with his major-league-leading 11th, homered for the Indians.

O'Brien singled during the Mariners' four-run third inning, then hit a two-run homer, his fourth, to chase Jose Mesa (2-2) in the fifth.

Seattle's Randy Johnson (4-2), the major league leader, struck out seven Indians in eight innings, raising his season total to 54 strikeouts.

"Do some homes really save more energy than others?"

Yes, just look for an Energy Action Home with a heat pump. It's built to save energy and provide year round comfort. In summer, the heat pump pumps heat out of your house and replaces it with cool air. In winter, it uses the solar heat trapped in the earth's atmosphere to keep your house warm and comfortable, even on the coldest days. Which means you save on energy, natural resources and your monthly bill. So, if you're looking for savings, look for the Energy Action sign.

A COMMITMENT TO SERVICE

Protect yourself.

Some drugs can make you more sensitive to the sun. Instead of tanning, you might burn. But we can alert you so you'll know to wear extra sunscreen.

Providing you with important information about your prescription is just another way we show you every day that we care about you and your health.
