Members of the 1993 graduating class of Big Spring High School throw their mortarboards into the air at the conclusion of commencement exercises at the Coliseum Thursday evening. Diplomas were given to 213 students who crossed the stage during the hour-long program.

But 213 reserved seniors of the Class of 1993, who orderly filed in by twos to start Big Spring High School's graduation ceremony Thursday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, cut loose by the time it was over an hour and 10 minutes later.

After hats were thrown in the air upon conclusion, the yelling, screaming and hugging began. The floor of the coliseum was quickly packed, leaving little room to pass through.

"Best graduation since I've been here," said Principal Kent Bowerman. "They took care of business. They were the best behaved in the six years that I've been here.

This class is loaded with potential," he said. "I think that they are going to make Big Spring extremely proud.

"Seize the day," implored valedic-torian Jeremy Peacock in his speech to classmates. "I'm asking you to take advantage of the hand life will deal you.'

He warned them not to allow themselves to end up looking back one day and wishing things were better. Analyze and evaluate each moment for its potential, he said.

Garza acquitted; jury finds death was self defense

By CONNIE SWINNEY

COLORADO CITY - Robert Garza, 39, of Colorado City was acquitted of murder charges by reason of self defense Thursday in 32nd District Court by an eight man, four woman jury.

Comprised of 11 Anglos and one Hispanic, the jury discounted a story that Garza and his nephew Jessie Aguilar Jr., 20, of Odessa went to a Colorado City apartment complex in August 1992 looking for a fight and to

Due to declining enrollment and public demand, the Big Spring Independent School Board of Trustees is considering adopting an open transfer policy.

If adopted at the board's June meeting, the change would allow students to transfer from other Howard County districts in grades six through 12. The policy will not extend to grades kindergarten through fifth, due to high enrollment in those grades.

The current policy, which severely curtailed transfers into the district, was adopted in 1987 due to high enrollment.

"We are not trying to recruit any students," said Superintendent Bill McQueary. "We are trying to accommodate parents who work in Big Spring.

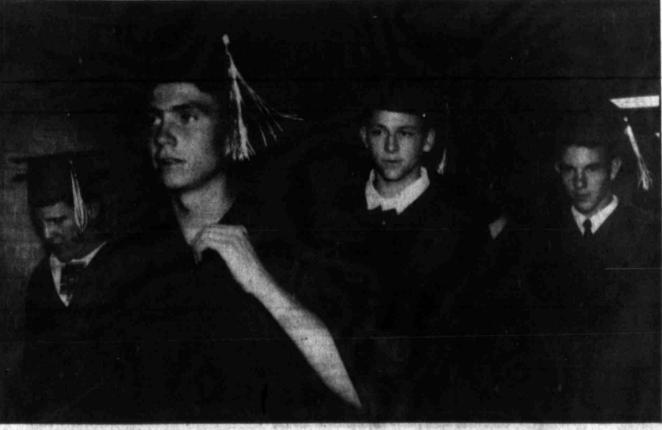

McQueary said the district receives at least 50 calls each year regarding the policy.

Transfer requests may be made at the administra-tion building, 708 11th Place. The transfer will be reviewed annually. The district will not provide out of district transportation.

Amendment provisions include rejection of transfers if they pose a financial hardship on the district.

Loren Spencer, vocational education administrator, presented 1993 vocational award winners to the board. Winners are Shayne Kotara, Dawn Kennedy, Dusty Cornelius, Erica Hughes, Melissa Birrell, Amanda Roberston and Melinda Wilhelm.

"The students are highly-motivated and highlyactive," Spencer said. "Their achievements speak well of the students of Big Spring High School." see BOARD, page 8A

"It may have been budgetary, but it was certainly symbolic," said Krueger, a Democrat. Krueger served in the Texas Legislature and in Congress before losing two previous races for the U.S. Senate.

Lawmaker accuses Hutchison of hiring for an endorsement

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Republicans are crying foul over a speech made by a Democratic lawmaker in which he accused GOP Senate candidate Kay Bailey Hutchison of hiring a person in return for an endorsement in her 1990 treasurer's race.

"It's just a cheap political trick," Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson said Thursday.

"To say this isn't politically motivated just flies in the face of common sense," said Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco.

In a privileged speech on the Senate floor, Sen. Eddie Lucio, D-Brownsville, alleged that there was "hard evidence" Mrs. Hutchison gave the "job-for-endorsement."

He refused to identify the person. But he made references to Tom Bowden, a former San Saba County judge who unsuccessfully sought the Democratic Party nomination for state treasurer in 1990. Bowden was defeated in the Democratic runoff, and then endorsed Mrs. Hutchison.

Less than two weeks after Mrs.

Hutchison took office, Bowden was given a $31,000 job at the state Treasury, according to a Houston Chroni-

Lucio called for an investigation by the Travis County District Attorney public integrity unit. "This is not just unethical. This is potentially criminal," he said.

Mrs. Hutchison's campaign spokesman David Beckwith said the accusation was a desperate move by the Krueger campaign, which is trailing in the polls.

A statewide poll published Thursday by The Dallas Morning News showed that 54 percent of likely voters favor Mrs. Hutchison, compared to 35 percent for Krueger.

"This is clearly a political act, coordinated with the Krueger campaign that is 19 points behind and sinking fast," Beckwith said of Lucio's charges.

Beckwith defended Mrs. Hutchison's hiring of Bowden. "Who is she supposed to appoint, her enemies? Bob Krueger just appointed nine people to the federal bench who gave money to his campaign," he said.

AUSTIN — Backers of a school finance reform plan that has won Senate approval say it should pass muster with the Texas Supreme Court. But opponents don't think it will end a long-running court battle on the issue.

"I absolutely believe that this comes as close as humanly possible to meeting the (court) test," said Senate Education Committee Chairman Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, of the plan worked out by House-Senate negotiators.

However, some Republican senators criticized the funding plan and predicted Thursday it won't solve the court fight over the school funding system.

"The children of Texas are going to be dumbed down," said Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas. Sen. Jane Nelson, R-Flower Mound, added, "I personally believe that this will not put an end to this battle.'

The measure passed the Senate 25-6 Thursday. The House may vote Saturday, lawmakers said.

Lawmakers must pass a plan by Tuesday to even out funding available to school districts of differing property wealth - or face a courtordered cutoff of state education aid. School districts rely on state funds and local property tax money.

The plan envisions about $1 billion in additional state public education spending over the next two years, compared with the 1992-93 budget period. Another $100 million would be put in if certified as available by the comptroller.

Leaders have warned that amount won't cover expected enrollment increases at the present spending level per student. A fiscal estimate said a "substantial majority" of school districts would have to raise taxes in the coming school year to maintain current per-pupil expenditures under the plan.

House Public Education Committee Chairwoman Libby Linebarger, D-Manchaca, said she would like to see more public education funding.

However, she said, "We're come a long way from the piddling amount we had in there to begin with ($317

AUSTIN — Hard criminals would do hard time and the backlog of state prisoners in county jails would be relieved under bills approved by the Texas Senate.

Senators overwhelmingly approved a revision of the state's penal code Thursday and adopted a second measure creating 22,000 new "state jail" beds for nonviolent offenders.

"These bills are definitely going to make Texas a safer place to live and work," said Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, chairman of the Senate Criminal Justice Committee.

Currently, people convicted of crimes like murder and rape are required to serve at least one-fourth of their sentences. But the revision of the penal code would require them to serve at least half of their sentence.

"Instead of a guy going to prison for 40 years and serving 10, he will serve at least 20," Whitmire said.

"I think that the penal code and the jail bill will go a long way in keeping the violent criminals locked to for a longer period of time that's the bottom line," said Gov. Ann Richards' press secretary, Bill Cryer. He said the governor likely would sign both measures. The House was expected to consider the bills today. Child molestation would be added to the list of the state's most violent crimes and the minimum time served for capital murder would increase from 35 to 40 years under the penal code revision. "This legislation will do more than anything that has been done at anytime in the last 20 years to make Texas a safer place to live," said Lt.

Gov. Bob Bullock. Other notable changes would allow the state to prosecute the intentional transmission of AIDS as attempted murder, and increase punishment for solicitation of a child by making it a felony instead of a misdemeanor. The new penal code would not allow off-duty police officers to carry weapons, as many police departments across the state had hoped. House and Senate members who worked out differences on the bill in a conference committee could not agree on a statute in the legislation that would continue to outlaw

Voters could decide on income tax issue

AUSI IN (AP) - Voters would have the final say on whether to impose a state income tax under a proposed constitutional amendment that moved a step closer to being placed on the November ballot.

This makes the people of Texas full partners with the Legislature in any future decision on this matter that affects everyone's pocketbook," said Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock on Thurs-

In the past, Bullock has supported a state income tax.

If the House adopts the conference committee proposal, it will be placed on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Voters will be asked if they want to place a constitutional ban on a personal income tax. That ban would remain in effect unless an income tax is later approved by the voters.

Currently, the Legislature could pass an income tax, although politically that would be impossible. Texas is one of only seven states without a personal income tax.

If an income tax is later given the green light by voters, two-thirds of the revenue would go toward reducing local property taxes, and onethird for education, under the proposal. Subsequent increases in the tax would also be subject to voter approval.

We salute:

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local persons or groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community:

•Graduating seniors. Congratulations on making the grade and good luck in the next phase of your life.

•College Heights Elementary School students for reading enough books to create a chain big enough to go around the building.

 March of Dimes volunteers who participated in Walk America. •MDA "arrestees" for helping Jerry's kids.

•Children who participated in the MDA Jump-A-Thon.

Waco ending more akin to manslaughter than murder

Can anyone imagine the House Judiciary Committee falling over itself to praise Hitler or one of his henchmen for personally taking blame for the holocaust?

Something like that happened the other day when Attorney General Janet Reno defended her decision that led to the deaths of 24 children and 62 adults in Waco, Texas.

"You've raised the responsibility and accountability of public service to an incredibly high level in a way we've never seen before," effused Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo. Republican Jim Ramstad from Minnesota couldn't wait to chime in: "You're a lot more than a breath of fresh air."

This is really sick. How come the policemen who beat Rodney King didn't get off for taking responsibility? They admitted that they beat King, and said that they had to in order to subdue him. How does that differ from what Reno is saying?

The real question is why Reno has not been indicted for violating the civil rights of the Branch Davidians. In Great Britain, such a result as occurred in Waco would have brought down the government for utter incompetence. But the House Judiciary Committee members spoke as if the gratuitous deaths were counterbalanced by the attorney general's "quick and forthright acceptance of responsibility.'

Rep. John Conyers, D.-Mich., was the only spoilsport. He told Reno: "I'd like you to know that there's at least one member of Congress who is not going to rationalize the innocent deaths of two dozen children."

It seems clear what happened in Waco. The Branch Davidians were cultists, a loaded term that deprives people of their humanity. Moreover, they were professed to be religious and had guns, and that's enough to deprive them of the protection of the liberal media

The Waco standoff quickly became an embarrassing nuisance for the Clinton administration. It dominated the news, draining focus from Clinton's initiatives and agenda. It used up the attention and energy of his sole Justice Department official in place.

The government got impatient. Why should we federals have to put up with this from a bunch of cultists? And so a plan was hatched that anyone should have known would lead to disaster.

What happened in Waco was not

calculated murder, but it was manslaughter akin to a drunken driver running down a child. Only it appears that the government is going to get away with it. After all, we shouldn't have a bad experience with our first feminist attorney general just because a few innocent women and children were casualties of a government policy gone awry. We mustn't let diversity get a black

Besides, the women weren't really innocent. They were adults and should have known better than to oin a cult and have illicit sex with a madman. As for the children, well, they might have grown up to become gun-toting cultists, too.

The FBI was no more inclined to demonstrate feebleness in the face of resistance than the L.A. policemen were in the face of King's resistance. It is not in the nature of law enforcement officers, or government bureaucrats, to roll over quietly while people thumb their noses at them. Just like the L.A. policemen, the FBI got personal.

If the Branch Davidians could hold out, others might get the same idea. Heavens, people might stop paying their taxes. There was too much rebellion in the defiance of authority. And lacking the official status of a 'socially deprived minority," the Davidians had no excuse.

And so, 50 years to the day from the Warsaw uprising massacre, a crazy plan was implemented that led to the fiery deaths of 86 people.

Don't blame me, says Reno, because I stood up like a man and took the blame. No, we won't, says the Judiciary Committee, as it pours whitewash over the defendant. The scapegoat in this affair is Stephen Higgins, director of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms division of the Treasury. His mistaken judgment got four T-men killed. And he's a white male.

"What did you call me?" he asked. "Sorry," I said. "I meant Leroy. How are things in the haircutting game?"

"The price of Vitalis has gone out of sight, My second chair man is out drunk. And the customers are stealing my magazines," he replied. "Business as usual."

"I'm serious, here," I continued. "Have you ever left the barbershop to give a haircut?"

This ain't Domino's Pizza and I don't deliver. You wanna haircut, you get your shaggy head down here and I'll give you a haircut," Leroy responded, turning away from the phone to berate a customer leaving his shop, "Come back here with that magazine! It's brand-new. May of "You don't understand," I argued with Leroy. "I'm very busy today, and I don't think I can get to the shop. Couldn't you run out and meet me somewhere in a parking lot. You can cut my hair in my car."

"You all right, son?" "Apparently you don't watch the news or read the papers," I said.

"I told you my second chair man was out drunk," said Leroy. "I bare-ly got time to take a nip of Vitalis between heads myself."

"Well," I began, "President Clinton was in Los Angels on Air Force One and needed a haircut and he was able to get somebody to come to the plane.

"What kind of barber would do something like that?" Leroy wanted to know.

The president's stylist, Christophe," I said.

"I know Earl Slatz," said Leroy. "He's a barber in L.A. Met him at a barber's convention in Kansas City. And Niles Gilgoffer. Met him, too. He's got a shop in Burbank. He had a few parts in some movies, until the Vitalis made him start slurring his speech. What's this Christophe's last name? Maybe I met him, too." "There's no last name," I said.

"It's just Christophe." "Beauty parlor man," said Leroy. 'Never trusted them beauty parlor men. They ain't holding their scissors real right." I asked LeRoy exactly how much it would take to get him to meet me outside the shop and give me a haircut in my car.

"I'm not going to do it," he said. "But it wouldn't come cheap, and I'm not even sure the Pinto would crank anyway.' "Ball park estimate?" I pressed

"Well," thought Leroy, "I've got three customers waiting for haircuts now. At six dollars apiece, that's eighteen dollars I'd be losing there, and if any of them wanted a shampoo, that's another dollar-fifty I'm

"Then, there's the gas for the Pinto and my trouble. I-wouldn't take a dime less than thirty dollars." I laughed. "You're not going to believe what Christophe got for going out to Air Force One and cutting the president's hair," I said. "Forty dollars?" asked Leroy

"Two hundred big ones," I said,
"You're lyin'," said Leroy, "Ain't no ol' boy from Arkansas gonna pay two hundred dollars for a haircut.'

On budget caps and COLAS

Scripps Howard News Service

Once again, the politicians in Washington are staring the deficit beast in the face. President Clinton wants to tranquilize it mainly with tax increases. Reluctant to take that unpopular course, a crowd of conservative Democrats is demanding a new assault on entitlement spending.

Entitlements are the reason the federal government is on an untenable long-term course. These benefit programs include Social Security, health insurance for the elderly, disabled and poor, veterans' benefits, welfare and federal pensions. They consume half the budget, and they grow relentlessly, as health-care costs far outstrip inflation and as the population ages and lives longer. No wonder the idea of capping entitlement outlays is gaining new adherents. President Bush repeatedly urged this. Just a year ago the Senate voted 66-28 against Bush's call to let entillement spending grow only for eligible population, plus inflation, plus a 2 percent fudge fac-

Now House Democrats like Charles Stenholm of Texas and John Spratt of South Carolina say benefits must be capped before taxes rise. The administration is fighting the idea hard - but knows it needs the votes of at least some of the House's 50 or so centrist Democrats.

In our view a simple cap is crude. Does one shut down emergency rooms when the funds run out? But the insurgent Democrats are pointing to a truth Republicans have long decried. In the words of a recent balanced-budget proposal by GOP Rep. Dick Armey and Sen. Phil Gramm: "The economy cannot sustain and the American people will not tolerate a tax burden high enough to finance the explosive growth in entitlement spending Entitlement spending is doubling in real dollars every eight years. Clearly, the tax burden" can't. Clinton does not entirely ignore the entitlements time bomb; he would tax more Social Security benefits, require higher contributions from better-off Medicare recipients and cut some reimbursements to hospitals. But more must be done.

The retirement age is already slated to rise gradually from 62 to 67 by the year 2027. That change must be phased in sooner. Annual cost-of-living increases, which insulate retirees from inflation, should be scrutinized for possible savings — with protection for those entirely dependent on this modest income.

This will summarize my experience: Teaching is damned hard work. Can the writing art be taught? The art comprises but two elements. The first is to have something to say that is worth saying. The second is to say that something well. No professor, distinguished or otherwise, can do much about Element One. Playwrights, novelists, critics, preachers, sportswriters, and the authors of advice to the lovelorn have this in common: If they mean to succeed, they must come to the writing craft with the necessary ideas, convictions and intellectual equip-

WASHINGTON — Democrats gave President Clinton a badly needed triumph when they muscled his massive deficit-reduction tax increase through the House. But the measure is in for a "tough time" in the Senate, a key Democrat said today.

Tonight, the House said no to gridlock, no to the status quo and no to the special interests," Clinton said Thursday night, shortly after the House approved the $340 billion mix of tax increases and spending cuts on a 219-213 vote.

Tomorrow, we go on to the Senate and we go back to the country," he said.

Sen. John Breaux, a member of the Senate Finance Committee and a Democrat from the oil-producing state of Louisiana, praised Clinton for doing "a heck of a job to get this vic-tory" but predicted the legislation is "going to have a tough time in the Senate.

"I think the Senate will move in the direction of cutting spending more and raising taxes less ... there are going to have to be some changes,' Breaux said on ABC.

"We're not looking for a fight, but for a very engaged discussion," White House Chief of Staff Mack McLarty said today

McLarty, making the rounds of morning television talk shows, held out the hope of compromise.

"The bill was a better bill after going through the House Ways and Means Committee ... and I'm sure that will be the case in the Senate Finance Committee," McLarty said. "We have a lot of work ahead of us ... and that's precisely what we're

U.S. trying to avoid European trade fight

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration is imposing relatively mild trade sanctions on the European Community in an effort to keep a dispute involving U.S. government contracts for telephone equipment from spilling over into bigger trade

EC officials are expressing a desire to contain the damage as well, but they also are threatening to retaliate in a tit-for-tat exchange that could get out of hand.

Starting today, European companies will be barred from bidding on approximately $20 million in government contracts covering a range of items from cafeteria operations in federal buildings to legal services.

U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor imposed the sanctions after the EC refused to eliminate a regulation giving preferential treatment to European companies competing to sell, telegommunications emipment to state-owned enterprises.

Originally, the administration had proposed banning European companies from bidding on nearly $50 million in federal contracts. But that amount was scaled down after U.S. and EC negotiators reached agreement last month to remove preferential contract language in the area of electric power-generating equip-

European negotiators agreed to remove "Buy Europe" regulations that covered generating equipment and U.S. bargainers in turn, agreed to eliminate "Buy America" provide sions governing the Tennessee Valley Authority and other federal powermarketing agencies.

But the administration went ahead with the smaller sanctions when talks in the telecommunications area failed to make headway.

Sir Leon Brittan, the EC's top trade negotiator, said he regretted the administration's decision to impose sanctions, calling the action "neither justified, wise nor necessary."

Brittan said he would begin immediate consultations to determine an appropriate response. Other EC officials said Europe's retaliation could come as soon as June 8, when the EC's Council of Ministers has its next scheduled meeting.

House OKs Clinton tax bill U.S. suspending aid to Guatemala

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The United States is suspending more than $30 million in aid to Guatemala in the hope of pressuring President Jorge Serrano to restore democratic rule.

The decision suspends cash transfers to the Guatemalan government and military and police training programs. The cutoff also applies to development assistance and food aid channeled through the government, but it does not affect aid distributed through private groups.

The announcement Thursday by State Department spokesman Richard Boucher did not provide a figure on the value of the suspended aid, but officials said it was more than $30 million.

On Tuesday, Serrano dissolved the Congress and the judiciary and said he planned to rule by decree until a new constitution is drafted.

He said his actions were prompted by a "breakdown of law and order" and the need to "purge the state of all forms of corruption."

Elliott Abrams, a top Latin America policy-maker in the Reagan administration, said Thursday he believes Serrano's action can be reversed if the United States applies sufficient pressure.

The administration should be active in international financial institutions to suspend payments to Guatemala and we should be very active diplomatically within the country to encourage opposition to Serrano's action," Abrams said in an interview.

Strike replacement bill passed by House panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to stop employers from hiring permanent replacements for striking workers has cleared a House committee.

The legislation, long sought by organized labor, was approved by the full House last year but killed in the Senate by a Republican-led fili-

"The right to strike is severely jeopardized when employers are permitted to hire permanent replacements," Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., said Thursday. He is cjairman of the Public Works and Transportation Committee session.

But Republicans said that if the bill becomes law it would encourage strikes, incur needless costs, cause employers to move high-paying jobs out of the country and erode U.S.

competitiveness in world markets. "I think this bill would upset productivity and the fair balance of power between management and labor," said Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa.

Mineta's committee has jurisdiction only over airline workers. Other House panels will consider other aspects of the legislation.

College students need hepatitis vaccinations

WASHINGTON (AP) — All college students should be vaccinated against hepatitis B, a potentially deadly virus spread mainly by sexual activity, the American College Health Association says.

Those at highest risk are students who have sex with more than one partner in six months, engage in unprotected sex and have had another sexually transmitted disease.

But Dr. MarJeanne Collins, who chairs an association task force on vaccine preventable diseases, said it was "not enough to vaccinate only

NOAA report indicates deaths underreported

WASHINGTON (AP) - Deaths caused by lightning may be underreported by as much as 30 percent, the government says.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration also said Thursday that injuries resulting from lightning could be underreported by as much as 40 percent, Agency scientists said they made the discovery after taking a closer look at lighting-related deaths and injuries reported in Colorado over the past several years.

Researchers checked death certificates kept by the state Health Department and found a total of 50 from 1980 through 1991 that listed lightning as the cause of death. But Storm Data, an agency publication, reported only 36 Colorado deaths

An average of 83 people die annually in the United States as a result of ligh Dqikg, the agency said. Even using possibly understated death figures, lightning causes mor "gaths annually than tornadoes and hurricanes combined, it said.

Senate resolution rips IRS contact with FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in a poke at problems in the White House travel office, has passed a Republican-sponsored resolution seeking to prevent improper contact with the FBI and Internal Revenue Service.

The resolution, which passed by voice vote Thursday, has no binding effect. It expressed the "sense of the Senate" that government employees "shall follow appropriate officially prescribed procedures" in contacts with the two agencies.

President Clinton said Thursday that the' including "unaccounted-for funds." All seven employees of the office were initially fired, but five were reinstated and placed on paid

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., the chief sponsor of the resolution said it was "very serious indeed when powerful figures in the White House believe they can manipulate the FBI."

Terrorist bomb strikes Italy's artistic legacy

The Associated Press

FLORENCE, Italy — Shopowners shuttered their stores and thousands of people marched through the streets of historic Florence today as anger over the bombing of the Uffizi museum spread throughout Italy.

The government said the attack appeared to be the work of the Mafia, noting similarities to a bombing in Rome on May 14 for which the mob is also believed responsible.

Tens of thousands of people poured into Florence, the center of nationwide protests and sympathy

Some 3,000 youths marched to Piazza Signoria behind a banner declaring "Enough of these massacres." Similar protests were held in Rome, Milan and other large cities. 'Our flags are lowered in mourning. You will pay dearly," the marchers chanted.

The bombing killed five people and did millions of dollars in damage to one of the world's great art museums. Police determined the blast was caused by a car bomb.

In Rome, Premier Carlo Ciampi vowed a stern response to anyone seeking to strike at Italy's image abroad at a time the country, after Italy's most popular museums.

Bosnian army sources said.

The election is for an assembly that is to adopt a constitution and form a government. The main contenders are the ruling Cambodian People's Party and the FUNCINPEC party headed by the son of former ruler Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The government includes Khmer Rouge defectors who fought the guerrillas during the nearly 13-year civil war. Many voters interviewed believe that if the government party wins the election, it will fight the Khmer Rouge again. If FUNCINPEC wins, they believe, it would try to appease the group and perhaps include the guerrillas in power-shar-

Staff Writer While Eloy Garcia of Knott lay in intensive care in a Lubbock hospital with nearly half his body burned, a person or persons decided to burglarize his home sometime this week. 'That's a pretty low blow," said Larry Shaw, who employs Garcia as a farm hand. "Of course, when his wife found out about it she cried, as if there weren't enough problems."

Shaw, who continues to pay Garcia wages as he recuperates, on Thursday set up a donation fund for Garcia at State National Bank. Soon, Shaw also plans to begin repairing fire damage to Garcia's house, painting rooms and putting in linoleum. Garcia, his wife and two young children live about a mile from Shaw's farm-

"Hopefully we can find out who done that," Shaw said. "That's the craziest thing I ever heard of."

Garcia, in his early 30s, is doing well after three weeks at the burn center at University Medical Center in Lubbock, where he received skin grafts to his face Tuesday, Shaw said. Former biker, addict sponsors revival

After years of a self-destructive lifestyle, the couple is trying to prevent other people from making their mistakes. With a new ministry aimed at youth, Mr. and Mrs. Mills want to bring others to God.

"When you're on drugs, the devil has a hold on you," said Mills. "You can't mix light and darkness. You have to stop the drugs, the alcohol, and come to the Lord."

He says he has used every drug imaginable. For several years he was addicted to IV drugs. When he had a near-heart attack a couple of years ago, the hospital could barely find a vein to take his blood.

Alcohol was not just a part of celebrations, it was a staple in his life. Mills' job was in "collections" for organized crime.

"I went to collect the money they owed us, and if they didn't pay, l hurt them real bad," he explained.

Two years after he married Kim, however, Mills began to feel bad about the people he had hurt. He started thinking about changing his life. The family moved to South Texas to try to escape the hold of his

To reach youth, Mills arranged for an opening concert by Oracle, a Christian rock band from Midland. Then Victor Rowell and his "Spirit Warrior," a half-motorcycle, halfsports car, will take the stage.

"It's for youth, but other people, too," said Mills, "street people, people in trouble. We want to reach out to anyone in need."

His wife said years ago, when she knew her husband was addicted to drugs and she was sinking into the same trap, she wishes somebody had reached out to her.

"I knew about God, but I didn't know he was real," Mrs. Mills said. "I didn't know what he could do for us.

We want to show that to others." The upcoming event is their first, but the Mills have other plans in the works, including a 24-hour hotline. They have named their endeavor Turning Point Ministries: Help for the Hurting." For information about their ministry or the Spirit Warrior event, call 267-7044 or 264-9526.

Why do we look for a better way?

By LARRY BELL

Coahoma First Methodist

After more than 30 years of industrial and church work (yes, I'm over the half-century mark), I sometimes giggle inside when I hear "There's gotta be a better way.

There usually is, but we seem to take as much or more time to find the better way than if we had gone ahead and done it the old way. One advantage an old way has is it is tried and tested and the problems are known beforehand.

As a society, we keep on trying to find new ways of being married, having and raising children, and living

We have been through the Dr. Spock era of blaming everything on the mother. We have suffered the humanist view that all our problems are due to mom and dad. We have wondered at the Biblicist's view (that's a modern Pharisee, good but Indlination no fun to be around) that we must live strictly according to the "Book". We have come to a wide diversity of opinion on how to live our lives in a better way. We must admit we are with what we are doing now? Jesus says "I am come that you might have life and have it abundantly." (John 10:10) We keep searching for a better way and the only better way is found in the words of a man who was the image of God on earth. He laughed, he cried, he enjoyed a good meal and had close personal friends, both male and female in gender. He was gossiped about, praised, cursed and - when he did not give us what we wanted (which was war) - we turned against him, tortured and cruelly killed him.

The better way we wanted led to the utter destruction of Jerusalem only 40 years after Jesus died.

Get the point? You see, I'm convinced we wouldn't recognize a better way if it came up and bit us on the nose. The only better way I've ever found is described in less than all trying to find a better way to live, 135 pages of a book that tells the or else why are we so disgruntled story of Jesus four times, one after the other, by four different writers. And still some of us are looking for a

> A better way than the way of Jesus? Makes as much sense as putting a sign on your car about theft protective devices. Chances are, the guy that steals your car can't read. Go in the peace of our Lord, Jesus.

Graham's legacy

Evangelist trains others By The Associated Press

The Rev. Billy Graham will not be remembered in bricks and mortar.

Although he runs a $100 million-ayear evangelistic empire, the most recognizable figure in American Protestantism boasts nothing comparable in bricks and mortar to the City of Faith complex of Oral Roberts or Jerry Falwell's Liberty University. But as he has aged to the point where mortal frailties weigh more heavily on his mind, the evangelist has increasingly turned his attention to the task of equipping others to carry on the work of evangelism. This week, the 74-year-old evangelist dedicated The Billy Graham Training Center at the Cove, a Bible

1905 Hyperion

The 1905 Hyperion Club met May 20 at the Big Spring Country Club for a dinner meeting with 12 members and seven guests attending. Sara Beth Warren, Cecile McDonald, and Virginia Whitten were hostesses for the evening event.

Melissa Shelton and Betsy Hankins provided the entertainment, playing several selections on the flute. Their selections were: "Musical Curiosities" by Klengel, "Badinerie" by Bach, "Fluegel Woogie" by Devinez, and "Minuet" by Beethovan. Additionally they played an Old English Tune, Greenwood Tree". Melissa Shelton, a Big Spring High School senior, played her contest solo "Concerto in G Mayor" by Quantz.

Doris Huibregtse, president presided over a short business meeting. The next meeting will be a luncheon in August.

SMMC Volunteers

Scenic Mountain Medical Center Volunteers' Annual Awards Luncheon was May 5 at The Green House Restaurant. Guest speaker was Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church. He spoke to the luncheon attendees on the topic of humor being good medicine and related a number of humorous anecdotes. Special music for the gathering was shared by Helen Martin who sang "You Light Up My Life."

The volunteers awarded four $500 scholarships to first-year ADN students. The recipients were Judy Pylant, Barbie Stewart, Chery McClendon, and Laurie Starck. The students were accompanied by the Dean of Nursing at Howard College, Sue Ann Hicks, and their instructor, Paula Farquhar.

Sissy Jones, Director of Volunteer Services at SMMC, reported that 11,215 hours had been worked by volunteers during the preceding year. Hour bars and service pins were then awarded with 45 volunteers receiving such awards. Also, outgoing officers were recognized and incoming officers were installed. The outgoing officers for 1992-93

The next business meeting is set for June 7, 7:30 p.m. at the Days Inn. We are going to meet and eat about 6:30 p.m. and then hold the meeting after dinner.

Child Study Club

Big Spring Child Study Club had its last meeting of the year May 12 at the Big Spring Country Club. Gay Herren installed the new officers. Officers for 1993-1994 are: President-Lesia Sturm, Vice President-Karen Fraser, Secretary-Jane Holland, Treasurer-Kathey Kremsky, Historian-Sherri Key, Parliamentarian-Darlene Carroll. Regular club meetings will resume in September.

Quilters

The Signal Mountain Quilting Guild met May 14 at St. Mary's Episcopal Church Parish Hall with eight members in attendance.

The guild has had several requests to finish quilts by people in the community who have pieced tops they received as gifts but have never quilted. Plans were discussed for a place where a quilt frame could be set up so that people could work on the projects at times other than the regular meeting dates. This would be a source of income for the guild.

Guild members, Johnnie Bennett, Maria Leahanna, Ellie Pierce and Polly St. Clair went to Ft. Worth to attend the Trinity Valley Quilting Guild's annual quilt show and antique show.

New members welcomed into the guild are Christina Batterton, Willie ampbell and Lawanda Hamm.

Meetings are held on the second Friday of each month. The guild will be meeting at St. Mary's Episcopal Church from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Novice quilters are welcome and will receive help from more experienced members if needed. Bring a sack lunch

"I think Billy Graham's greatest legacy will not be a university or any institutions, but it will be the tens of thousands of little Billy Grahams, itinerant evangelists, not well-educated, but who will do the simple door-to-door sales work of the evangelist," William Martin, author of "A Prophet with Honor: The Billy Graham Story," said in a 1991 inter-

His latest venture is the Cove, nestled on 1,500 acres in the rolling foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. It is designed to equip those who answer the call to commitment at the end of his crusades to become evangelists themselves.

The training center was started in 1987, and has grown since to include an inn and a Cove Camp for youths ages 9 to 15. The center offers training sessions for about 200 people a week with leading evangelical Bible scholars and preachers. More than 4,000 people attended seminars at the Cove last year, and about 6,000 clergy and laypeople are expected to attend this year, said Jerry Miller, the center's executive director.

Miller said the idea was to offer a place - free of grades, degrees or other pressures — where people could study the Bible and be trained to teach others.

Reflecting the basic philosophy that Graham has held on to through five decades as an evangelist, Miller said, "The Bible says there are only two things that last forever, a man's soul, a woman's soul, and God's Future plans for the Cove also include offering support for young evangelists, Miller said. He expects Graham to spend more time sharing his faith at the Cove as the physical restraints of age become more press-

"He wants his legacy to be in the training of other evangelists," Martin said in an interview this week.

HOUSTON - It should have been a better ending for Dale Murphy's baseball career.

Atlanta, he where his spent glory years hitting home runs and winning Gold Glove awards There should have been an outpouring of appreciation in his honor.

Instead, in a hastily called news conference away from home in a Colorado Rockies uniform he'd worn for only two months, Murphy announced his retirement from baseball.

The end came with Murphy hitting .143 with no home runs and seven RBIs as a backup outfielder for the expansion Rockies.

"I had a few tears this morning ... as I guess most guys do when they say goodbye to something that's close to them," Murphy said. "I'll miss the game of base-

Rockies manager Don Baylor lamented Murphy's passing, but hinted it was time to end a glittering career before it became tarnished.

"I think Murph made a decision that it was his time," Baylor said. "He pushed and pushed and after awhile, you can't push anymore. You get to the stage where (Rockies coach) Don Zimmer and I talked about, embarrassing yourself in the game.

"Zimmer said Willie Mays was the greatest player he ever saw play, but in the last years where he stumbled and fell...it still sticks in a lot of peoples' minds. So, if you can walk away from the games, sometimes you get to do it on your terms.

Murphy went 0 for 3 in his last game, May 21 against Los Angeles. He struck out in his last atbat. He finished his career two homers short of 400, but he was a seven-time All-Star and fivetime Gold Glove winner.

'You'd like to see a guy like him end up like Ted Williams, with a home run, circle the bases and run out the gate," Baylor said. "It doesn't always work out like that." Murphy said he made the decision Thursday morning that it was time to "become a part of real life. "Playing baseball is not real life, it's a fantasy world. To be able to go out there and play baseball, it's a dream come true,'

Murphy Aggies down Yale as NCAAs start

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION - Jeff Granger got off to a bad start, but it didn't last long as he pitched Texas A&M to an easy victory over Yale in a first-round game at the NCAA Central I Regional.

Granger gave up a leadoff single to Tom Hutchison and then held Yale hitless for seven innings and the Aggies battered three Yale pitchers for 16 hits in a 13-1 victory in a game that ended early today because of rain ac ays earlier in the session.

In other games Thursday, UCLA defeated Lamar 6-1 and Hawaii upset North Carolina 9-8.

The second-ranked Aggies, 49-9, will play Lamar, 44-17, at 3 p.m. today. The Elis, 33-10, will play an elimination game against North Carolina, 40-19, in an 11 a.m. contest. The other game today pits UCLA, 36-21, against Hawaii, 34-23, at 8 p.m.

Granger (13-3) retired the next 21 batters before leaving with a 10-run lead and the school's single-season strikeout record at 136. Granger held the old A&M mark, with 130 strikeouts last season.

Brian Parker, who took over for Granger, lost the shutout in the ninth, giving up one run on three Most games, the Colorado Rockies' best hope for beating anybody is to outscore them.

Doug Drabek made sure that did not happen Thursday night.

Drabek stopped Colorado on seven hits and pitched the Houston Astros to an 8-0 victory, preventing the Rockies from completing their first series sweep.

The other expansion team, the Florida Marlins, lost to Pittsburgh 13-8. It was the highest-scoring game against the Marlins; the Rockies, meanwhile, have allowed 13 or more runs in seven games. In other games, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 5-4 and Chicago defeated San Francisco 5-4.

Drabek (5-5) struck out three and walked one in his second shutout of the season. He has pitched four complete games, only one fewer than the entire Astros staff had last year. David Nied (3-7), meanwhile, lost his sixth straight decision. Luis Gonzalez hit a two-run homer in the fourth and Jeff Bagwell had a tworun double in the fifth. Bagwell has a 14-game hitting streak, longest for

Batboy to get job back

ATLANTA (AP) - The federal labor department Thursday said laws that led to the firing of a 14year-old minor league batboy will not be enforced this season, and Georgia's labor commissioner waived state laws entirely.

The moves clear the way for 14year-old Tommy McCoy to return to work as a batboy for the Savannah Cardinals of the South Atlantic League, and general manager Ric Sisler said McCoy would be back with the team Friday night.

"I'm pretty excited about it," McCoy said at the ballpark Thursday night. "I'm going to get my job

McCoy was fired May 20 after the U.S. Department of Labor told Cardinals general manager Ric Sisler that he was violating child labor laws limiting hours for children under 16.

"The Department of Labor will not enforce any hour violations in organized baseball until the examination of child labor regulations which were ordered by the secretary yesterday is completed," department spokeswoman Mary Meagher said Thursday.

In a statement issued later, Robert Reich, the U.S. labor secretary, said he was suspending enforcement "for the remainder of this baseball sea-

Reich said Wednesday the application of labor laws in regard to batboys appeared silly. He asked the department to examine the regulation to see if it is needed.

Meagher pointed out that the Labor Department did not order Savannah to fire McCoy.

"The department doesn't have the authority to do that," she said. Child labor laws prohibit any child under 14 from working and stipulate that 14- and 15-year-olds must not work past 7 p.m. on a school night or 9 p.m. in the summer.

David Poythress said Thursday he granted a waiver of state laws at the request of Marcia McCoy, Tommy's mother. He said state law allows him. to grant such an exception providing the youngster's health and education are not adversely affected and as long as the job complies with the law's restrictions on the entertainment industry.

"That's what he really wants is to get his job back and to make an exception to this law for 14-and 15-year-old batboys," Marcia McCoy said. "This was just a simple little job for Tommy that was fun for him and a wonderful experience, and it turned into chaos.

"I'm glad to make an exception in Tommy's case," Poythress said.

It's getting awfully crowded atop atop the AL West.

atop AL West

The logiam has two teams tied for first, another just a half-game back and a fourth only one game out.

The California Angels moved into a tie with Chicago for first place by beating Seattle 5-0 Thursday night. It ended a 20-day period in which the Angels stayed in second place, although never more than 2 1/2 games back.

AMERICAN

The White Sox could have retained their one-game lead, but they lost 6-4 to Kansas City. Chicago dropped all three games of the home series against the Royals, the first time it has been swept by Kansas City since August 1991.

The Royals are in fourth place, a half-game behind the Texas Rangers and a full game behind the White Sox and Angels. Just three games back in fifth place are the Mariners.

In the AL East, the Detroit Tigers are four games ahead of the Toronto Blue Jays, who lost 9-3 to the Milwaukee Brewers. In Thursday's only other game, Baltimore beat New York 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Minnesota at Oakland game was rained out.

California gained a share of first career, and gave Sanderson (7-2) a tie with Chicago's Jack McDowell for the most victories in the AL. ROYALS 6, WHITE SOX 4 The Royals, who lost nine of their first 11 games, have come back to win 21 of their last 33.

Kansas City got the job done again Thursday behind Mike Macfarlane's three-run homer and six strong innings from Chris Haney (2-0). Wally Joyner also homered for the Royals.

"Now, guys are pulling for each other and moving runners along," Macfarlane said. "It's still early and if our pitching staff holds up, we'll be right in it." BREWERS 9, BLUE JAYS 3

At Toronto, the Brewers won their second straight to finish a sevengame road trip 4-3.

"It could've been an ugly trip, the way it started out," manager Phil Garner said. "This game was extremely important to us.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. - With the flick of his stick, Wayne Gretzky answered his critics and put the Los Angeles Kings within a game of their first Stanley Cup final Gretzky's power-play goal 1:41 into overtime gave Los Angeles a 5-4 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs on Thursday night and forced a seventh game in the Campbell Conference final.

The pass from Luc Robitaille crossed the goal opening and hit the stick of Toronto's Beb Rouse before reaching Gretzky, who beat rookie sensation Felix Potvin on the stick Anything less might move cost the Kings their best chance in 26 years of playing for a championship.

'Now it's best-of-1 and home ice means nothing," Los Angeles coach Barry Melrose said. "We believe in ourselves. Nothing's come easy for us this year, so it wasn't surprising that it didn't come easy tonight."

The Kings face another must-win game Saturday night in Toronto. The winner will meet the Montreal Canadiens in the final.

"I give him (Melrose) so much credit," Gretzky said. "I got hurt at the beginning of the year and he didn't panic. All of a sudden we were 20-8. Then all of a sudden we're 30-30 and everybody thought we'd miss the playoffs.

Gretzky had just one goal and four points in the first five games of the series. Those numbers created talk of a slump coming on the heels of six goals and 13 points against Vancouver in the Smythe Division final. "I said I'm not super-human. I'm not going to get four points a night. It doesn't happen," Gretzky said.

There was no doubting Robitaille's slump. He had just one point in the series and 13 points in 17 playoff games before getting a goal and three assists in Game 6.

"It's just a good feeling," he said.

Rey Sanchez singled home the tiebreaking run in the seventh inning, and Chicago beat San Francisco at Wrigley Field.

Steve Buechele hit a two-run homer in the sixth, giving the Cubs a tie at 4. In the seventh, pinch hitter Eric Yelding singled with one out off Bryan Hickerson (0-1), stole second and scored on a two-out single by Sanchez. Greg Hibbard (5-3) won for the fourth time in five starts. Randy Myers pitched the ninth for his 15th save in 16 chances.

Murphy, 37, said he'd been playing poorly and said club officials had hinted at the need for a roster move and that he could be released. "I have no problem with that, they have to do what they have do," he said. "I haven't really been doing the job, which was fairly obvious." He regrets not getting homer No.

"I should have done it," Murphy said. "I had plenty of pitches and plenty of opportunities to do it. I didn't do it. I'm thankful to be able to be around and hit those that I

Baylor said he hoped Murphy would remain with the club in some

"I talked to him as a human being, not as a manager," Baylor said. "I told him he should stay in the game, because he's such a positive model for younger players."

Murphy didn't even return to the Astrodome to clean out his locker. He went to the aiport prior to Thursday night's game against the Astros. Murphy was Atlanta's first pick in the June 1974 amateur draft. He won Gold Gloves from 1982-86 and A GOOD was the NL MVP in 1982 and 1983. He was traded to the Phillies with pitcher Tommy Greene in August 1990 for Jeff Parrett, Jim Vatcher and Victor Rosario. The Phillies released him on April 3 and he signed with the Rockies.

Murphy was 27th on the career home run list and fourth among active players. This spring, he hit .231 in 14 games as a non-roster player. He played in only 18 games last year because of knee surgery, hitting .161 with two home runs. Retiring, he said, was something he had been thinking about since he was recuperating last summer. "I wanted to give it a shot, try and come back, and I had an opportunity to play," Murphy said "I've decided now that it's time to he ag them up,"

JUANITA JOE HUGHES R. D. DALTON AND WIFE IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF HOWARD COUNTY, TEXAS 118TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

published once each week for four consecutive in Howard County, Texas, the accompanying citation, of which the following is a true copy: CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas heirs, and all unknown owners and heirs or unknown the cause humbered and entitled below.

Spring, Texas, at or before 10:00 a.m. on Monday, the 28th day of June, 1993, being the first Monday next after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this citation, by filing a written answer to Plaintiff's Original Petition that was filed in the Court on the 14th day of April, 1993, numbered 93-04-36489 Plaintiffs, V. R. D. DALTON and wife, ELLA DALTON,

The nature of this suit, briefly stated, is one of trespass to try title, in which Plaintiffs, for cause of on, would show the Court that: (1) Since on or about May 8, 1948, Plaintiffs and their predecessors were lawfully, in fee simple, seized and possessed of realty situated in Howard County, Texas, and legally described as follows: All of the following described tract of land lying outside of the SW/4 of Section 12, Block 32, T-2-N, to-wit:

No. 12, Township 2-North, Block No. 32, T & P Ry Howard County, Texas, described by metes and REGINNING at a 3/4" I.P. in the West line of Section

West 878.4 varas. Said 3/4" I.P. being the Son THENCE South 12'18' East along the East line of Section 11 and the West line of Section 12, 232.9 varas to a 3/4" I.P. in the North line of a patented 23.54 acre tract for a corner of this tract; THENCE North 76'10' East along the North line of said 23.54 acre tract 12.0 varas to a stake in the corner of same and a corner of this tract; intersection for the Southwest corner of this tract; THENCE North 78'47' East along the South side of an East and West country road and the North line of said 23.54 acre tract, 853.5 varas to a stake set for the Northeast corner of said 23.54 acre tract, the Southwest corner of this patented Southeast 144.9

said 144.9 acre tract, 919.0 vrs. to a stake set for the Northwest corner of said 144.9 acre tract and the Northeast corner of this tract; said stake being also the Southwest corner of a patented 13.68 acre tract and the most Southerly Southeast corner of the patented North 302 acre part of Section 12; THENCE South 79'37' West along the South line of said 302 acre tract and the North line of this tract
