Grant sought to continue paving projects

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

More paving of Westside city streets using a state grant is proposed but a decision will not be made until two public hearings are held, the first on Tuesday.

It could be decided to apply for something else in an application for $300,000 in Texas Community Development Program grant money. Public input will be sought and rules covered by the Big Spring City Council Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. It'll be in Building 1106 at Big Spring McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

"The purpose of this meeting is to allow citizens an opportunity to discuss the citizen participation plan, the development of local housing and community development needs, the amount of TCDP funds available, all eligible TCDP activities and the use of past TCDP funds," said Mayor Jim Blackshear.

"The city encourages citizens to participate in the development of this TCDP application and to make their views known at this public hearing," Blackshear said. Those who cannot attend can submit views and proposals to City Manager Lanny Lambert, Blackshear said. Handicapped individuals wishing to attend should contact City Hall to arrange for assistance.

Councilwoman Stephanie Horton has worked with city staff to apply for paving of Westside streets. This spring, streets from Fourth to Ninth and Alams to Sunset were paved with a previous grant from the program. Four-fifths of $406,210 was state money, the rest city.

"That's what we're proposing to do (again) but we've got to solicit input from the public," Lambert said.

The grant will be submitted to the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs. But first it will be prioritized by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission with applications from a 17-county.

Former Councilwoman Pat DeAnda, unseated by Horton in May, is on the commission's review committee that approves grant applications. Ironically, DeAnda was in a position to vote approval for the recent grant, which she had worked on.

Council considers budget Tuesday

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A public hearing on the city's 1993-94 budget is scheduled by the Big Spring City Council Tuesday.

The first of two readings of an ordinance to enact the $12.9 million budget is also scheduled Tuesday. Planned expenditures are down $755,812, or 6 percent, from projected spending this year.

The council meets at 5:30 p.m. in Building 1106 in Big Spring McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

According to preliminary figures two weeks ago, a garbage rate increase is needed to pay for federal landfill mandates. City Manager Lanny Lambert said in recent months that garbage bills could as much as double.

Property taxes are going up 7 or 8 cents per $100 valuation to pay for $1.1 million in street bonds approved by voters in October. Also, effective property tax rates, what's needed to generate the same property tax revenue as the previous year, are expected to go up some because property valuations dropped. No other tax increases are planned.

Discussions so far indicate two new landfill employees, three new firemen, a new $130,000 fire truck, five new police cars, a new $150,000 computer system and 500 dumpsters will be included. A pay raise for department heads was discussed but no agreement reached. Non-management employees received a 5 percent raise in May.

In other council business, College Heights Baptist Church will present petitions to the council asking that alcohol be banned in all public places, including Moss Creek Lake. The council is considering a ban at the lake, except by permit.

"Just from a logical perspective, alcohol is bad for society," said College Heights Pastor Ken McMeans. "If people like to drink, they should drink on their own property."

McMeans said this morning he does not know yet how many signatures were collected. The effort was joined by several churches.

The council will also consider appointments to the Civil Service Commission.

Personalities...

Ward has mapped out life

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Setting goals and arranging priorities propels one's life forward and gives direction, said local resident David Ward.

The 34-year-old dentist designs a blueprint for his life, using those techniques as a basis for action.

"Basically, (setting priorities) means whether talking about business or whatever, you have to keep everything in perspective," Ward said. "Anybody can benefit by setting goals in their life."

"I've noticed times in my life where if I didn't have goals, you just drift," he added. "It's hard to accomplish anything if you don't have a road map."

Born in Dallas in 1959, Ward was raised in a small East Texas town called Buckingham.

"I grew up trying to keep up with my brother and sister. One time I brought home a 'C,' and my father said, 'Don't bring home any more,'" he said. "So, I didn't."

"We had a fairly idyllic existence," added Ward, whose town population was 250 people. "We didn't have money, but we didn't know it."

Ward's father dabbled in the investment brokerage field; his mother, an administrative assistant for a defense contractor.

In high school he experienced the responsibilities of work; starting in the 10th grade, as a custodian for the school district.

"Most of the money I made was set aside for college because I knew I was going to need all I could get," he said.

Aside from working and school, Ward nurtured his passion for competition.

"At five years old, I remember being on my horse, Chico, doing one of the events," said Ward who competed in timed-event competitions. "Until I was 17, I was running timed events like barrels, poles and flags."

Before graduating in 1977 from a Richardson high school, Ward had set a goal to enter the dentistry practice.

"While I was in junior high, I saw an orthodontist frequently. That's what got me involved in it," he said. "When I was in high school, I decided to be a dentist."

With loans, scholarships and his savings, Ward studied at Texas A&M. "When I went to A&M, I had the goal of making good grades and getting into dental school. I considered it my job," he said. "I studied real hard." He graduated Summa Cum Laude in 1980.

He attended the University of Texas Health Sciences Center at San Antonio, heralded as the top dental school in Texas, he said. "My goal in dental school was to survive."

DAVID WARD

While in dental school, I met my wife, Ann, who is currently a homemaker, raising their children, April, 8, and Crystal, 3.

After dental school, Ward applied in 1984 for a general practice residency in the U.S. Air Force.

"I never expected to be in the military," he said. "I felt like it was a good place to start."

Transferred to Nebraska, he served as a captain at strategic air command headquarters. Soon after, he and his new family were assigned to Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene.

"I didn't really want to go back to the big city. My wife's family lived in the (Big Spring) area," he said. "By 1988, the Dallas area became a nice place to visit, but I didn't want to live there."

Looking for a practice "anywhere west of Fort Worth," Ward settled in Big Spring upon exiting the military.

"It was about as smooth transition into private practice for the first time," he said. He bought a practice from a local retiring dentist and added his name to the local roster of dentists.

Since joining the community, Ward and his family have become active members of the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

He serves on the board of directors of a local home health service. He is also a designated dentist for the local Headstart program. His hobby include jogging.

"With the limited time I have, my time is more valuably spent with my family and church," he said. "It's been said, that you never hear anybody on their death bed say, 'Gee, I wished I spent more time at work.'"

"As a father, I want to try and ensure that my children grow up happy and well adjusted and faithful Christians," Ward added. "Whether talking about business or whatever, you have to keep everything in perspective. The relationship with you family, with friends and with the Lord is what counts."

McQueary named to state board

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent Bill McQueary has been selected to serve on a statewide advisory committee.

Selected for the Texas Education Commissioner's Advisory Committee of Superintendents, McQueary will represent 33 school districts from Region 18, including Howard County.

McQueary will report on these districts, detailing their special needs to the committee and the Texas commissioner of education.

"I look forward, in this time of tremendous educational change, to the opportunity to serve in this capacity — so close to the one in our state who has the greatest influence on educational policy and direction," McQueary said.

I am sure it will be an enlightening and challenging experience," he added.

Flexibility key to schools' new method of operations

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Pressured by the state and parents alike, Davis High School officials have opted for a less traditional approach to teaching and learning.

After a vote of the faculty, the parents and the students adopted a schedule of four 90-minute classes a day to replace the old system of six 50-minute classes.

The move is just one of many being taken by schools like Davis. Texas schools are taking advantage of a nationwide move to give individual campuses more flexibility in the way they operate.

The shift, called site-based management, gives principals, teachers and communities more discretion to tailor their curriculum, their spending and their hiring practices.

By changing the schedule, students are able complete eight credit-hours of courses in a year, compared to six credit-hours under the old system.

"The benefits have been greater than we even anticipated," said Davis Principal Emily Cole.

Like Davis, campuses wanting to bend the rules to try new strategies can seek waivers from both district policy and state regulations. This year, Houston Independent School District officials approved more than 1,000 waivers for 233 campuses, up significantly from last year.

Schools under a site-based system are run by committees. The makeup and the decision-making rules vary from school to school. The 15-member committee at Davis includes Ms. Cole, six teachers, two parents, two business partners and a student.

Last year at Montgomery Elementary in south Houston, the school's committee of 12 teachers, the principal and two parents looked for ways to boost sagging test scores.

The effort paid off. In 1991-92, only 18 percent of the school's third-graders had passed the state exam. But last fall, 88 percent passed. As a result, Montgomery received a $68,000 reward from the state.

Montgomery Principal Cynthia Arterbery credits teamwork. Among the team strategies: adopting a strong phonetic-based reading program, holding writing workshops for parents as well as students and lining up Texas Southern University tutors to help the children hone their writing skills.

"Montgomery is a prime example of site-based management because Montgomery is a model school now," said Vicki Creeks-Lacy, a kindergarten teacher at the school. "We are proof it works."

But site-based management hasn't worked everywhere. Texas Education Agency auditors found last spring that although 72 of the 114 campuses had shown academic improvement, 42 schools still had fewer than 20 percent of their students passing the state test.

Community and educational leaders looking to reform public schools say that site-based management too often is seen as the end-all to improving student performance.

Jurors deciding life or death in Kaslow murder

The Associated Press

WICHITA FALLS — Life or death? That is the question a jury will have to answer for a young honor student convicted in the vicious slaying of Fort Worth socialite Caren Koslow.

Jurors return to court Monday to begin hearing testimony in the penalty phase of Jeffrey Dillingham's capital murder trial.

The panel of eight women and four men deliberated one hour and 40 minutes Saturday before convicting Dillingham.

Dillingham, 20, was accused of the March 12, 1992, beating death of Mrs. Koslow, 40, and the slaying and bludgeoning of her husband, ex-banker Jack Koslow.

Koslow, 49, recovered and provided key testimony against his assailant.

The state maintains Dillingham killed out of "greed and avarice," an assassin in a million-dollar murder-for-hire scheme orchestrated by Jack Koslow's 18-year-old adopted daughter.

Kristi Koslow and her boyfriend, Brian Salter, 21, are awaiting trial.

In his closing summation, chief prosecutor Alan Levy branded Dillingham a "butcher" with a "heart filled with a nest of scorpions" and said he must pay for his crime.

"And he will," he added ominously.

Under Texas law, the conviction gives jurors only two options: Death by legal injection or life in prison. Should they spare his life, Dillingham would spend a minimum 35 years behind bars.

Ironically, the state previously offered Dillingham a life sentence in exchange for a guilty plea. The Associated Press learned, and he rejected it.

Dillingham, described by a lawyer as "scared, despondent and suicidal," buried his head in his hands, shuddering and trembling, as state District Judge Bob Gill revealed the verdict.

Illegal businesses spring up around immigrants

The Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Tucked away in enclaves of Dallas-Fort Worth neighborhoods, thousands of Asians sit behind clattering sewing machines for 10 hours a day or more, stitching jackets, blouses and dresses for about $3 each.

To these immigrants, their work is the thread to the "American Dream." But authorities say it's also illegal.

Labor officials and Vietnamese community leaders estimate that between 10,000 and 30,000 home sewers operate illegal, clandestine businesses locally, particularly in Asian-dominated neighborhoods in Arlington, Grand Prairie, Haltom City and Richardson.

Hundreds of thousands more nationwide eagerly work under terms that most American laborers would reject — in violation of laws governing minimum wage, child labor and overtime.

In June 1992, the U.S. Department of Labor issued injunctions against 35 sewing contractors in Tarrant and Dallas counties. Fines for contractors can start at $1,000 per worker.

Officials say the increased enforcement is meant to protect the workers. But home sewers say it will destroy the only livelihood they've known.

"You have to understand the situation in Vietnam. What I have right now is the best I have ever had," a 64-year-old home sewer told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The worker spoke on the condition of anonymity.

At the Grand Prairie home of another Vietnamese family, money from home sewing helped to buy extras, such as a big-screen television and living-room furniture.

"We did not come here to be home sewers. We think of the children," said the 49-year-old wife. "We could not find other work. If they don't let us do this, we might not be able to send the children to school."

Two winning lotto tickets picked

The Associated Press

Two tickets purchased in San Antonio and Central Texas correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth at least $19 million.

The numbers drawn Saturday night from a field of 50 were: 4, 15, 31, 33, 40, 45.

In addition to the jackpot winner, there were 191 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,824. There were 10,129 tickets with four of six numbers worth $123 each. And there were 204,791 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $3 million.

Sales from last Wednesday to Saturday's draw were $13.8 million.

power outage at Six Flags Over Texas halted the fun for about 17,000 park-goers for four hours and had officials rescuing people from rides throughout the amusement park.

Park officials used a backup power system to rescue customers from stopped rides, said spokesman Bruce Neal. Most rides were evacuated within about 15 minutes, and no injuries were reported, he said.

The power outage occurred about 2:45 p.m. Saturday, one of the busiest days for the park. TU Electric and park maintenance workers restored power by about 7 p.m., Neal said. All but four rides came back on line by 7:30 p.m.

Neal said workers planned to work overnight to identify the source of the problem.

Hundreds of customers opted not to wait for the power to come back and streamed out of the park, taking advantage of rain checks offered by park management. Out-of-towners were given refunds, Neal said.

Most park-goers took the power loss in stride, mulling about the 205-acre grounds.

'Smoking huts' now available for students

AUSTIN (AP) — Smokers at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston no longer have to hike to the outer limits of campus to get their nicotine fixes.

Now they can just wander to the nearest of four "smoking huts," three-walled shelters recently built by the medical center.

The "huts," which look more like bus stops than thatched-roof bungalows, signify a retreat from the school's stringent campus-wide no-smoking policy, which was instituted even before the UT system adopted in 1990 a ban on smoking inside buildings.

"We believe that our institution is a leader in health policy and research and from that perspective we felt it was only appropriate that we take the lead and ban smoking," said Richard McFee, assistant vice president for operations at the UT medical facility.

The new smoking areas, open on one side, have been strategically located.

Congress, Clinton push for more cuts

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With a deficit reduction package approved, the Clinton administration and congressional Democrats promised Sunday to push for additional spending cuts later this year, including a new look at Social Security and Medicare programs.

Vice President Al Gore said the administration planned to submit additional budget cuts to Congress in October and Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., said he will push for curbs on cost of living increases for Social Security recipients.

Some curb on Social Security spending such as limiting annual increases to a percentage below inflation is "a reasonable thing to consider," said Kerrey on NBC's "Meet the Press."

The Nebraska senator, who held off support for President Clinton's deficit-reduction package until the final hour last week because of misgivings about a lack of spending cuts, suggested that tinkering with Social Security might be acceptable if Congress sets an example by cutting its own pay and budget.

Gore, although not embracing Kerrey's proposal, conceded on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley" program: "I don't think we can take entitlements (such as Medicare and Social Security) out of the equation."

The $496 billion, five-year deficit reduction package that was approved by a whisker last week in Congress has yet to be signed by Clinton. Nevertheless, administration officials and congressional leaders are making clear the battle to control the deficit is far from over.

"This is not the end of the process," said House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., agreeing that new spending reductions — including proposals to be submitted by the White House — will be considered in October.

"Almost all of the additional deficit reduction is going to come from cuts in spending," said Foley on CNN's "Newsmaker Sunday." He added that while Social Security cost-of-living adjustments may be highly controversial they will be on the table as "every possible means of reducing this deficit" has to be considered.

Foley said he has been told the administration would propose a rollback in some spending already approved for the 1994 fiscal year that begins in October, as well as savings from studies now under way to make government more efficient.

But Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas suggested that GOP lawmakers may not be eager to join the campaign to make further spending cuts, and that without at least some GOP support any substantial budget reductions are likely to be impossible.

Dole said he and other Republicans want the new income taxes on the wealthy — a central part of the just-passed deficit-reduction package — not to apply to all of this year. As approved by Congress, the higher taxes are retroactive to Jan. 1.

"Republicans will insist we go back and take out retroactivity... then we'll talk about spending cuts," said Dole on "Meet the Press." He received support from two other lawmakers, including a Democrat.

Staying open

A crowd of people enter the Virgin Megastore on Paris' Camps Elysees Sunday under a banner which states "In the name of Sunday, we're going all the way." The store faces mega-fines if it does not comply with court orders to stop selling its products on its most profitable day - Sunday. At stake is whether France, choking on recession and 11.6 percent unemployment, will shed an 87-year-old law banning most businesses from opening on Sundays.

It's just about the truth, it is

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — You wouldn't believe what happened to Norman Faurot.

One day when he was out hunting, he simultaneously killed a bear and a moose with his double-barreled shotgun.

Then, while he was going to find a horse to pull the dead animals back to his cabin, he discovered that a cleaning rod from his gun had landed in a stream and speared five speckled trout.

He cleaned the fish and inside one of them found a 1913 Liberty Head nickel. He later sold the nickel for $10,000.

And that's the truth. Well, more or less. Now that he thinks about it, Faurot says maybe he only got four trout.

Still sound like a tall tale? That's because Faurot is the "greatest Liar in central Illinois" — a title he won Saturday at the Heritage Day celebration in Pontiac, beating out 20 other fibbers.

Faurot, 61, a former truck driver from Braidwood, said it took him about a week to come up with the story. He said he was surprised he won.

"I didn't think I was that good of a liar," he said.

His wife laughed at that. "She says she knows better," he said.

Youngster holds the gun in robbery attempt

BALTIMORE (AP) — A boy no older than 9 held a shotgun on a security guard at a General Motors storage lot while an adult tied the man up and stole a new van, police said.

Another security guard was beaten with a pipe and stabbed by the adult man during Sunday's holdup.

Several hours later, police stopped a van with a license plate matching the stolen van's and took a man, woman and three juveniles into custody.

Police were not sure if the child who held the shotgun was among those in the van.

Twins delivered 19 days apart

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Spencer Cameron Horn and Whiteley Blaine Horn are twins, but their birthdays are almost three weeks apart.

Their mother, Gerri Horn, 46, gave birth in a rare case of delayed pregnancy, the first reported occurrence in the world since 1953, doctors said Friday.

In fact, the medical journal Obstetrics and Gynecology lists only 21 such cases reported anywhere since 1880, according to doctors at Morristown Memorial Hospital.

Taking the jump in homemade machines

BOGNOR REGIS, England (AP) — Dozens of people demonstrated more fancy than flight at two competitions requiring participants to jump off piers in homemade flying machines.

The Birdman Rally at the southern seaside resort of Bognor Regis has been drawing daredevils for 21 years, but this Sunday it had competition from an equally loony rally in Eastbourne, on the Sussex coast in southeast England.

Eastbourne attracted 50,000 sightseers compared with 5,000 to 6,000 at Bognor. However, experienced Bognor jumpers got the distance.

Hang-glider Antonino Madonia, from Freiburg, Germany, skimmed over the sea for 73 yards to win the $1,500 prize at the Bognor event.

At Eastbourne, 50 miles to the east, local woodworm exterminator Darrin Powell, 28, managed just 16 yards in his Flying Beetle to take the $450 top prize.

In honor of the 21st birthday of the event, one Bognor competitor was decked out as a birthday cake with a parachute on top.

Somali ambush kills four U.S. soldiers

The Associated Press

MOGADISHU, Somalia — Four American soldiers were killed Sunday when Somali gunmen ambushed their vehicle after it hit a land mine in southern Mogadishu, a U.N. military spokeswoman said.

Maj. Leann Swieczkowski said three Americans were killed immediately, and a fourth died at an American field hospital nearby. The dead were not identified, and the Pentagon was not immediately available for comment.

They were the first Americans killed since U.N. forces took over May 4 from an American-led coalition that protected food shipments to starving Somalis.

The battle erupted Sunday morning when the gunmen opened fire on the American vehicle after it hit a land mine near a market south of U.N. headquarters, said U.N. spokesman Capt. Jonathan Dahms.

The convoy was headed from the military airport about a mile away to the headquarters complex.

The blast reverberated across the headquarters. The soldiers and gunmen exchanged small-arms fire for at least 40 minutes.

Helicopter gunships later attacked, and American, Egyptian and Pakistani ground troops went to assist the convoy. They sealed off the area in the Medina suburb of southern Mogadishu.

Reporters at the scene said U.S. Blackhawk helicopters swooped down near the battle to evacuate casualties to the main American field hospital inside the headquarters compound.

It was not immediately clear how many American soldiers were injured. There was no immediate word on Somali casualties.

"I can tell you Americans have been wounded. I don't have numbers and I don't have their condition," Dahms said.

Sporadic firing continued at noon. Dahms said U.N. forces at the scene were fired on by snipers hidden in residential buildings.

The attack was the third ambush on U.N. forces since Thursday.

Two Americans were wounded in a convoy attack northwest of Mogadishu on Thursday. On Saturday, five Somali gunmen were killed and 15 were captured in an ambush on a supply convoy.

Families feud while child wants life back

The Associated Press

SARASOTA, Fla. — As Kimberly Mays was testifying about the fears she faces at the center of a baby swap tug-of-war, she suddenly stopped, buried her face in her hands and sobbed.

It drew only blank stares from the biological parents who have pursued the girl since they discovered the switch five years ago.

"I saw no emotion from them," said Robert Mays, the man who raised Kimberly from birth. "I would think that somebody who loves and cares for her as much as they claim they love and care for her would show more emotion than that."

Such is the bad blood that has been simmering through the trial that will leave a judge with the Solomon-like quandary of how, or if, to divide a 14-year-old girl between two feuding families.

Kimberly is seeking to cut all ties from birth parents Ernest and Regina Twigg so she can preserve the life she shares with Mays, the man she has known as her father since the swap at a rural Florida hospital in 1978.

The Twiggs want visiting rights. "I don't want anything to do with them," Kimberly testified last week. "I want them out of my life. I want my life back."

Circuit Judge Stephen Dakan was scheduled to resume hearing testimony Monday. A court-appointed psychologist, Herbert Goldstein, was expected to testify that he has concluded Mrs. Twigg has psychological problems that result in her putting her needs ahead of her child's.

Kimberly has turned so adamantly against her birth parents because of Mrs. Twigg's suspicions — which she repeated on the stand during the trial — that Mays was somehow involved in the hospital baby switch.

YOU CAN MAKE THUNDER! by Jax Place

Send your question to: Beakman & Jax, P.O. Box 30177, Kansas City, MO 64112

Dear Amy Marie, Thunder is not made out of a thing. Thunder is a thing that happens. If we could see thunder, it would probably look like the design behind this comic — sound waves pushed and pushing through the air.

Thunder is a huge, enormous push of sound waves. The push is from the heat of a tremendous electrical spark — the lightning. Thunder is the sound we hear from an explosion.

experiment #1
Poppa's Got A Brand-New Bag!
WHAT YOU NEED: Paper bag

WHAT TO DO: Hold the bag to your mouth and blow it up. When the bag is full of air, close the end. I'll bet you already know what's next: Pop the bag!

Maybe you've done this before but never thought about thunder before. So think about thunder for a minute.

SO WHAT: When you popped the bag, you gave the air inside a big squeeze. It rushed out the hole, pushing against the air outside the bag. It was kind of a shoving match. The air in the bag pushed against the air outside, which kept pushing air and pushing air until these shock waves got to your eardrum — which turned them into hearable sounds. That's a lot like thunder, only thunder is a lot bigger.

experiment #2
Expanding Air
WHAT YOU NEED: Balloon - glass soda bottle - saucepan - water - stove - help and permission from a grown-up

WHAT TO DO: Stretch the mouth of the balloon over the mouth of the bottle. Place the bottle in the saucepan and slowly pour steaming hot water around the bottle — about 2 inches. (Ask a grown-up to boil the water and to pour it.) Sit back and watch what happens to the balloon.

WHAT IS GOING ON: The heat energy you put into the air inside the bottle made the molecules of air move more quickly, and to do that, they need more room. So the air just expands and takes up more room. That's why the balloon filled up with air. Thunder is air getting real hot from a lightning bolt, and expanding so quickly that it explodes.

Keep Congressional watch going strong

The federal budget, deficit reduction plan is a done deal now. The bill barely slithered through Congress but President Bill Clinton is claiming victory. Now, both the president and Congress claim each will push for more spending cuts. Sounds like something that should have been done already. Vice President Al Gore has said the administration plans to come back to Congress in October with additional spending cuts. Among the programs that will be looked at for cutting will be Medicare and Social Security. The question you have to ask is why didn't Congress look at the cuts before passing the budget and adding more taxes to the American citizens? Why wait until the budget is passed, more spending approved and then add more cuts? The cuts should have been made in the first place, added to the deletions already proposed at the time. But, now the pressure is off. With the budget in place and American citizens adjusting to new taxes, there won't be as close a watch on Congress as there was during the debate. Once again, Congress is off the hook about curbing its spending. But, only if we let them. We watched what they did during the budget debate very closely. We need to continue that scrutiny of Congress on every bill they pass, not just when the budget comes along. Keeping Congress on its toes is a full time occupation but one we need to employ ourselves in.

'Race Matters': Must read

Professor Cornell West's book, 'Race Matters' was reviewed in the New York Times last week. It also did a profile on the author who teaches religion and is the director of Afro-American Studies at Princeton University. Despite the book being on the New York Times Best Sellers list, finding it proved quite difficult. I tried the Howard County Library first, trying to save a little money. They didn't have it so I tried two bookstores in Midland with no luck. After trying two bookstores in Lubbock, I finally found it in a bookstore in the South Plains Mall.

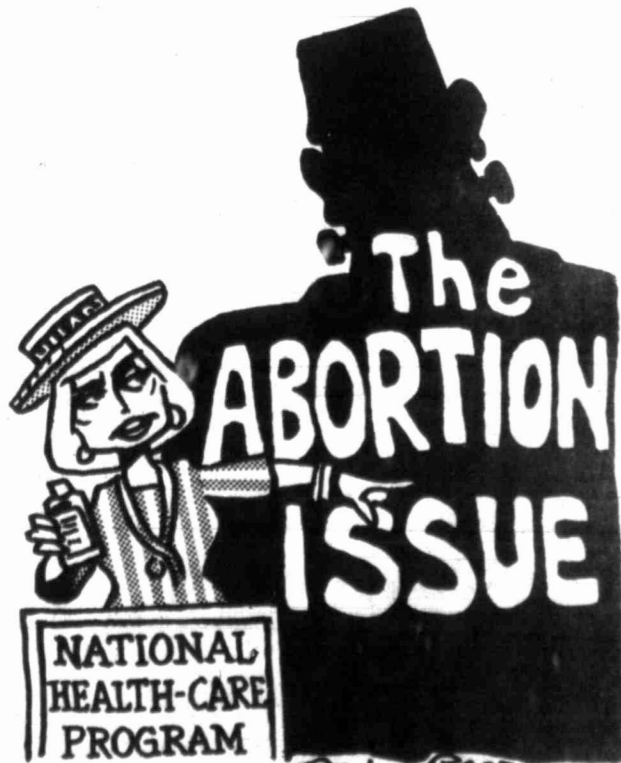

Brenda Brooks

Terms such as 'liberal,' 'conservative,' 'Democrats' and 'Republicans' hinder any meaningful dialogue. By trying to force the many complex issues into two small trains of thought, 'leaves us intellectually debilitated, morally disempowered, and personally depressed.' I found Professor West's book to be right on target in discussing the declining moral climate we live in. Discussions must center on what is not politically correct, but what is morally right. We must find new leaders beyond the old elite. Professor West writes 'this new leadership must be grounded in grass-roots organizing that highlights democratic accountability. Whoever our leaders will be as we approach the 21st Century, their challenge will be to help Americans determine whether a genuine multiracial democracy can be created and sustained in an era of global economy and a moment of xenophobic frenzy.' This book is important, please take a couple of hours and read it. Brenda Brooks is a Herald correspondent. Her column appears twice monthly in Monday's Herald.

Berry's World

'Get away from me, boy — ya bother me!'

Passing of the old soldiers

It's happened to me before, running into men who served with my late father in World War II. This time I was in Greensboro, N.C., at a bookstore. I was signing copies of one of mine. I noticed the old man during the first of the hour. He stood at the entrance of the store, looking at me. After the hour, the signing was over. Meekly, the man walked to where I was sitting. He had one of those faces that said, here's somebody's beloved grandfather. There was a lot of knowledge and caring in it. Without another word, he said, 'Your daddy was my first sergeant in World War II.'

like that? I certainly was proud of my father at that moment to think that this man, for half a century, had carried the memories of what my father did that day. And to think he would come to me after all this time. It was like he was trying to thank me for something my father did 50 years ago. I think I managed a "bless you," or a "thanks for looking me up." We shook hands and the old man walked away. My eyes teared as he did. My parents' generation, I sincerely believe, had more to bear than any other in this country's history. Their lives were affected and some were ruined by the Great Depression, World War II, Korea, and Vietnam, where some lost sons and daughters. And, now, the last of them are fading into the shadows cast by the young they brought into this world. A national magazine, noting the passing of the Bush presidency, offered a spread titled, "Goodbye, Old Soldier." George Bush was the youngest fighter pilot in the Navy during World War II. Now, he has gone to his retirement having been replaced by one with no military experience whatsoever; one whose dealings with the draft system still leave a number of unanswered questions. The Old Soldiers have moved out, and the Baby Boomers have moved in. That is unsettling to me. The country's leadership, save a few veteran members of Congress, is in the hands of those never tested by fire. Few of my generation really know the meaning of sacrifice. What did we ever want for and couldn't have? When have we ever been hungry? When did most of us ever have to run through a hail of bullets in a foreign land in order to save comrades? I never have and neither has Bill Clinton. After the man in Greensboro had walked away, I realized I had made a mistake by not sitting with him and asking him to tell me what happened that day in Germany. I would have liked to have known about it from a survivor, not from some document. But you know how it is. We're all in a hurry. We just don't know where it is we're hurrying to. Goodbye, Old Soldiers, and thank you. You are the very best of us.

shell, according to Vicki. She says her daughter's role is substantial. All over the South the Hollywood production team held auditions, from Biloxi to Birmingham, calling back for numerous tryouts those children with potential. So, soon-to-be sixth-grader Jennifer learned some lines and wowed 'em, or at least she proved satisfactory. "I do fine when I say my lines with my mother," she admits, "but sometimes I mess up when I have to do them with someone else." She hasn't met Costner, he's busy making another movie. But soon she will. And how will she feel about that? Inquiring, middle-aged women want to know. Jennifer shrugs. Then she tucks a lock of gold hair behind an ear and looks at the floor. Her favorite actor? Jennifer looks imploringly at her teen-aged sister, Natalie. "Why are you looking at me?" asks Natalie. How it must feel to be 11, beautiful and on your way to Atlanta to film a major motion picture, as "Entertainment Tonight" calls 'em, with major league hunk Kevin Costner. Why, it must be almost as wonderful as having the cute boy who sits behind you in school slip you a note. I couldn't help but think of perspective, as I sat inhaling a neighbor's permanent solution and watching Jennifer so oblivious to the arduous beauty rituals women endure. Kevin Costner could move any woman under this roof to madness, but to Jennifer he must seem a balding old man. Oh, well. With age comes wisdom. I remember preferring Robert Redford to Paul Newman in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." That preference didn't last long. I wonder if Jennifer will ever rue the day she trucked down to the auditorium and tried out for the Big Screen. After she's said the same lines 900 times and stood in the heat and turned up her perfect pug at the movie set sandwiches, will she wish she were at the swimming pool with her friends? Maybe. But when she's 40, 65, 92, and "The War" comes on late-night television, she can tell her children and grandchildren that once upon a time, on a hot day, busy women in a beauty shop were stepping out of their routine to ask for her autograph because she had a part in a movie with Kevin Costner. And her offspring will be impressed. "Who?" they will say. Tax dollars at work

WASHINGTON — It's been American tax dollars at work again, this time in Southern Lebanon in one of the largest and most intense military operations against an unarmed civilian population since World War II. Americans, whose annual $4.3 billion in congressionally-approved grants to Israel are the largest allocation of U.S. foreign aid, might find the Israeli attacks can be compared with collective punishments and hostage-taking carried out by Nazi Germany in Eastern Europe. In much the same rationale in which the Germans destroyed villages and sometimes killed townspeople suspected of protecting guerrillas in captured nations, Israel launched a seven-day bombardment of Southern Lebanon, inflicting widespread suffering on non-combatant men, women and children as the way to halt Hezbollah guerrilla operations. Discussing the military operations which forced an estimated 500,000 Lebanese to flee northward as Israeli aircraft and artillery destroyed entire towns, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin made it clear that Lebanese civilians — not Hezbollah guerrillas — were the primary targets. In a statement to a parliamentary committee, Rabin described the plan of the Israeli military as a widespread attack to create a flood of terror-stricken refugees, prodded toward Beirut by relentless Israeli shellfire and attacking aircraft. This mass punishment of an entire population, Rabin said, would force the weak Lebanese government to halt Hezbollah operations, believed armed principally by Iran and fought with the approval of Syria. Rabin vowed that the pounding of Southern Lebanon would continue until Hezbollah stopped firing Katyusha rockets at towns in Northern Israel, attacks that began after the start of the Israeli bombardment. At the time Secretary of State Warren Christopher negotiated a temporary truce, Israel had used an estimated 25,000 artillery shells and another 1,000 rockets and bombs against 22 Lebanese towns and villages, killing at least 140 people — almost all of them civilians — and wounding more than 500. Lebanese and United Nations officials also estimated that about 150,000 of the 500,000 Lebanese who fled north were left homeless by the devastating Israeli bombardment, which destroyed more than 10,000 dwellings and severely damaged another 20,000. Three Israelis — two civilians and one soldier — reportedly were killed in the rocket attacks, and there were reports of limited damage in several Israeli towns targeted by the Hezbollah gunners. As has often happened in Israeli accounts of military actions, Rabin and other Israeli officials sidestepped events in the most recent chain of Middle East violence. Israel has periodically launched air raids and artillery attacks into Southern Lebanon. The most recent came after five Israeli soldiers were killed in guerrilla combat operations in that portion of Southern Lebanon claimed by Israel since 1985 as its "security" zone. The zone was not established in response to attacks from Lebanon, but as Israel withdrew from its 1982 invasion of Lebanon, a military siege that killed an estimated 20,000 people, most of them Lebanese civilians. No treaty or other agreement has turned 450 square miles of Southern Lebanon over to the Israeli military. The "security" zone is an Israeli invention. And if some in the Lebanese government and among its people would favor disarming Hezbollah, there are few who don't share the anger of Israel's occupation of Southern Lebanon, a military operation which not only has taken Lebanese land but confiscated Lebanese water and other resources. Most nations of the world have condemned the periodic fighting in Southern Lebanon, and most have also acknowledged efforts to expel the Israeli invaders as a predictable response of an occupied people. Not surprisingly, considering that the Israeli lobby makes campaign contributions to most congressional incumbents, there's been no congressional discussion of this use of American taxpayer money as the latest version of the foreign aid bill favoring Israel is quietly pushed through Congress. Leonard E. Larsen writes commentaries twice weekly for Scripps Howard News Service.

Hartfield represents local NAACP at national conference

MARTHA E. FLORES
Regional Editor

Clarence Hartfield Jr. represented the local chapter of National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at its national conference in Indianapolis, Ind., in July.

During the week-long conference, chapter president Hartfield attended workshops, listened to national and international political leaders, such as Nelson Mandela, Vice President Al Gore, Kweisi Mfume, leader of the Congressional Black Caucus, and Lani Guinere.

"Each of them expressed the importance of voting," Hartfield said. "Mr. Mandela spoke about the strides taken in Africa with the upcoming election. He also spoke about the things that still have not been addressed."

Hartfield, a charter member of the local chapter, said he hopes his chapter will be strengthened by some of the things he learned at the conference. "I brought back cassettes of the workshops, branch administration, membership, finance and political action. I think we can learn a lot from them. We could have a better chapter."

Hartfield will give a presentation about the conference today at 6:30 p.m. at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

The national organization has more than 220,000 chapters nationwide, including the local chapter, rechartered in 1983.

"We have about 100 members on the roll," Hartfield said. "Throughout the year, the chapter works with the community in promoting education and political action."

The NAACP was founded on Feb. 12, 1909 - the 100th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

After a conference discussing the "present evils, the voicing of protests and the renewal of the struggle for civil rights and political liberty" the organization took form by conducting regular meetings, increasing membership and founding the NAACP magazine "Crisis," according to the "Negro Almanac: A Reference Work on the African American."

In 1954, the organization triumphed with its judicial victory of Brown v. Board of Education. The United States Supreme Court ruling threw out the "separate but equal" doctrine, established with Plessy v. Ferguson.

Deaths

Julie Gillihan

GILLIHAN

Julie Jacqueline Gillihan, 37, of Irving, formerly of Big Spring, passed away Thursday, Aug. 5, 1993, at home after fighting multiple sclerosis for a number of years. Funeral services will be 10 a.m., Monday at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel with Pastor Carroll Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church officiating. Interment will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. Gillihan was born June 16, 1956, in Thief River Falls, Minn. She graduated from Big Spring High School in 1975. She married Lonnie Gillihan on Nov. 29, 1975, in Big Spring, Texas, at which time they moved to Irving. She had done volunteer work at the Irving Community Hospital.

Julie enjoyed life and everyone and everything in it.

Survivors include her husband, Lonnie Gillihan of Irving; her parents: Earl and Marge Kolden of Big Spring; two brothers: Dale Kolden of Jacksonville, Fla., and Jerry Kolden of Big Spring; a sister, Michele Lipski of Dallas; and her father-in-law and mother-in-law: Rayford and Wanda Gillihan of Big Spring. Pallbearers will be Bruce Abbe, Roy Kolden, Junior Little, George Colgin, Chris Spencer and David Smith.

The family suggests memorials to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, 2101 Wall St., Midland, Tx. 79701.

PAID OBITUARY

Portugal still owns Giants

By The Associated Press

Mark Portugal improved to 10-3 lifetime against San Francisco and earned his fifth straight victory as Houston downed the Giants, 4-1.

The Astros got home runs from Jeff Bagwell, Scott Servais and Steve Finley to take two of three games at Candlestick Park.

Doug Jones pitched the final two innings for his 20th save. Bryan Hickerson (5-4) allowed six hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Cubs 2

Cardinals 1

Tom Pagnozzi — say hello to Mr. 1-for-38.

"The first time I batted, Pagnozzi said, 'Here's Mr. 0-for-35.'" Chicago Cubs pitcher Greg Hibbard recalled during the most improbable interview of his life.

He was discussing his offensive prowess, something the St. Louis Cardinals won't forget if they finish one game behind the Philadelphia Phillies in the NL East.

"I guess he was trying to rattle me," Hibbard said of the St. Louis catcher's third-inning razzing.

In his third at-bat, Hibbard followed a two-out intentional walk to Steve Lake with his first major league hit, a sixth-inning double off Donovan Osborne that gave the visiting Cubs a 2-1 victory Sunday.

"I knew it was a hit when the bat made contact," Hibbard said.

Osborne (9-6) offered no excuses. "I threw him a fastball inside, and he hit it," Osborne said. "Those things are going to happen."

Marlins 6

Phillies 5

Charlie Hough, 45, allowed five runs in 6 2-3 innings and Bryan Harvey recorded his 34th save as Florida beat Philadelphia at Joe Robbie Stadium, taking two of three in the series. The Marlins got homers from Benito Santiago, Henry Cotto and Bret Barberie off Terry Mulholland (11-9).

Hough (7-11) survived home runs by Pete Incaviglia and Mariano Duncan for his first victory over the Phillies since May 7, 1976.

Braves 3

Expos 2

Ron Gant hit a two-run homer and drove in all of Atlanta's runs in support of Steve Avery (12-4) as the Braves ended a three-game losing streak.

Gant's 27th homer — his second in two games — broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning against Jeff Fassero (7-2), ending the left-hander's six-game winning streak. Larry Walker homered and drove in the runs for visiting Montreal.

Avery gave up five hits, walked none and struck out four in seven innings. Greg McMichael got the final three outs for his fifth save.

Reds 8

Dodgers 5

Brian Dorsett and Jeff Branson hit two-run singles, and Cincinnati rallied from five runs down with consecutive four-run innings at Dodger Stadium.

Reliever Johnny Ruffin, making his major league debut, won by pitching a scoreless fifth before the Reds took the lead.

Roger McDowell dropped to 4-1.

Rockies 5

Padres 2

Visiting Colorado got seven strong innings from Mo Sanford (1-0) and ended a 13-game losing streak — the longest in the majors this season.

Vinny Castilla had a two-run triple, Danny Sheaffer two RBIs, Charlie Hayes doubled twice and scored two runs and Sanford won for the first time as a Rocky.

Doug Brocail (2-8) lost his fifth straight decision.

Pirates 3

Mets 2

Zane Smith allowed five hits, and Jeff King drove in the decisive run with visiting Pittsburgh's fourth straight hit of the fifth inning.

Smith (2-4) had a season-high nine strikeouts

Sanders speeds to Lakefest victory

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Qualifying was over Sunday at the West Texas Drag Boat Races and Lakefest. The question was not only how fast, but who won?

The brightest star among local competitors was race director Robert Sanders of Big Spring, who drives Alcohol on Water. He won the blown alcohol flatbottom division for the third time in the four-year history of the race at Moss Creek Lake. Sanders, who directs the race along with his wife, Debra, had a semifinal bye, then won the finals in 7.339 seconds at a speed of 148.026 mph.

"It's never easy," Sanders, 50, said, "but we just ran consistent this weekend. Each pass we made was

Another winner from the local area was Bobby Joe Tucker, who drove Mouse Trap to victory in the 11-second bracket of the amateur competition. Tucker's elapsed time was 11.460 in the finals, and his speed was 88.063.

Some of the talk after Saturday's qualifying was about Mark Kastens, a racer from Kansas who set the first leg of a record in the blown alcohol hydroplanes. Kastens could not set the record — in the Southern Drag Boat Association, a driver must break a record twice to make it official — and lost in the finals to Larry Shreckengaust. Shreckengaust, driving Financial Abuse, won with an elapsed time of 6.681 and a speed of 176.125 mph.

The top fuel jets category came down to brother vs. brother. Michael Young, driving Prime Time, defeated Rusty Young in the finals by turning in a time of 7.914. His speed was 139.535 mph.

The hills around the lake are natural barriers against wind, but Sunday morning the races were threatened to be blown out.

"It was white-capping out there," Sanders said as he looked at the lake. "We didn't know what we were going to do. We thought about shortening the course...but we decided to wait, and sure enough it stopped."

"It was really iffy this morning," said SDBA president Stephen Everett, who like Sanders drives a blown alcohol flatbottom. "The wind was really strong, but about 1 o'clock it started laying down, and we were able to race.

"Bob and Debra Sanders really deserve a pat on the back for putting on a great race."

The SDBA's next race will be in Marble Falls.

Detroit quarterback Rodney Peete is sacked by Dallas' Charles Haley during the first quarter of the American Bowl exhibition game at London's Wembley Stadium Sunday.

Elliott boots chance for Cowboy victory

By The Associated Press

The American Bowl in England wound up tied when Dallas kicker Lin Elliott missed three field goal tries in overtime.

Elliott missed from 38 yards six minutes into the extra session, and missed from 54 and 44 yards in the final minute as the Cowboys and Lions ended in a 13-all deadlock. He was 2-for-6 during the game, which drew 43,522 fans to Wembley Stadium.

Super Bowl quarterback Troy Aikman, recovering from back surgery, did not play for the Cowboys (0-1-1). Hugh Millen, acquired from New England in the offseason, played three quarters and completed 22 of 33 passes for 187 yards.

NFL rushing leader Emmitt Smith also did not play for Dallas. He is a holdout, and rookie Derrick Lassic carried 16 times for 35 yards.

Barry Sanders ran five times for Detroit and gained 17 yards.

Eagles 13

Bears 9

Like his predecessor, new Chicago Bears coach Dave Wannstedt has his team playing tough. In time, the Bears also hope to be tough to beat.

The Bears, playing for the first time since coach Mike Ditka was fired following a 5-11 season, lost their exhibition opener 13-9 Sunday night to the Philadelphia Eagles.

Wannstedt was the defensive coordinator for the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys last season. The Bears know it will take awhile to adjust to Wannstedt's style.

Philadelphia's Vaughn Hebronn scored the only touchdown at Veterans Stadium. He was not drafted, and signed with the Eagles as a free agent from Virginia Tech.

49ers 27

Raiders 0

Quarterback Steve Young, MVP of the NFL last season, sustained a hairline fracture of his left thumb, and it is uncertain whether he will be ready for San Francisco's regular-season opener.

Young, who became the league's highest-paid player last month when he signed a five-year, $26.75 million contract, was hurt early in the game when his hand hit the helmet of Los Angeles linebacker Aaron Wallace.

Young said he hoped to return for the 49ers' final exhibition game. But the team doctor said Young might not be back for the opener on Sept. 5 at Pittsburgh.

The 49ers (2-0) won their 12th straight exhibition game. Jeff Hostetler and Vince Evans each threw two interceptions for the Raiders (1-1) in the game at Stanford Stadium.

Vikings 20

Bills 6

Jim McMahon completed seven of nine passes for 67 yards as Minnesota beat Buffalo before 67,132 fans at Olympic Stadium in Berlin.

Steelers 17

Jets 13

At Pittsburgh, the Steelers overcame three turnovers by rookie quarterback Alex Van Pelt and took the lead for good on Leroy Thompson's 2-yard TD run with 5:13 left. New York's Boomer Esiason completed 10 of 16 passes for 88 yards.

Diaz line drive puts Seattle pitcher in hospital

By The Associated Press

By the looks of it, Brad Holman never had a chance.

In a frightening scene, the Seattle pitcher was hit in the forehead by a line drive Sunday night, apparently fracturing his sinus cavity.

Holman was awake and alert at Arlington Memorial Hospital after being taken off the field on a stretcher, and Mariners spokesman Pete Vanderwarker said a CAT scan revealed "no serious injury." Further tests were planned for today.

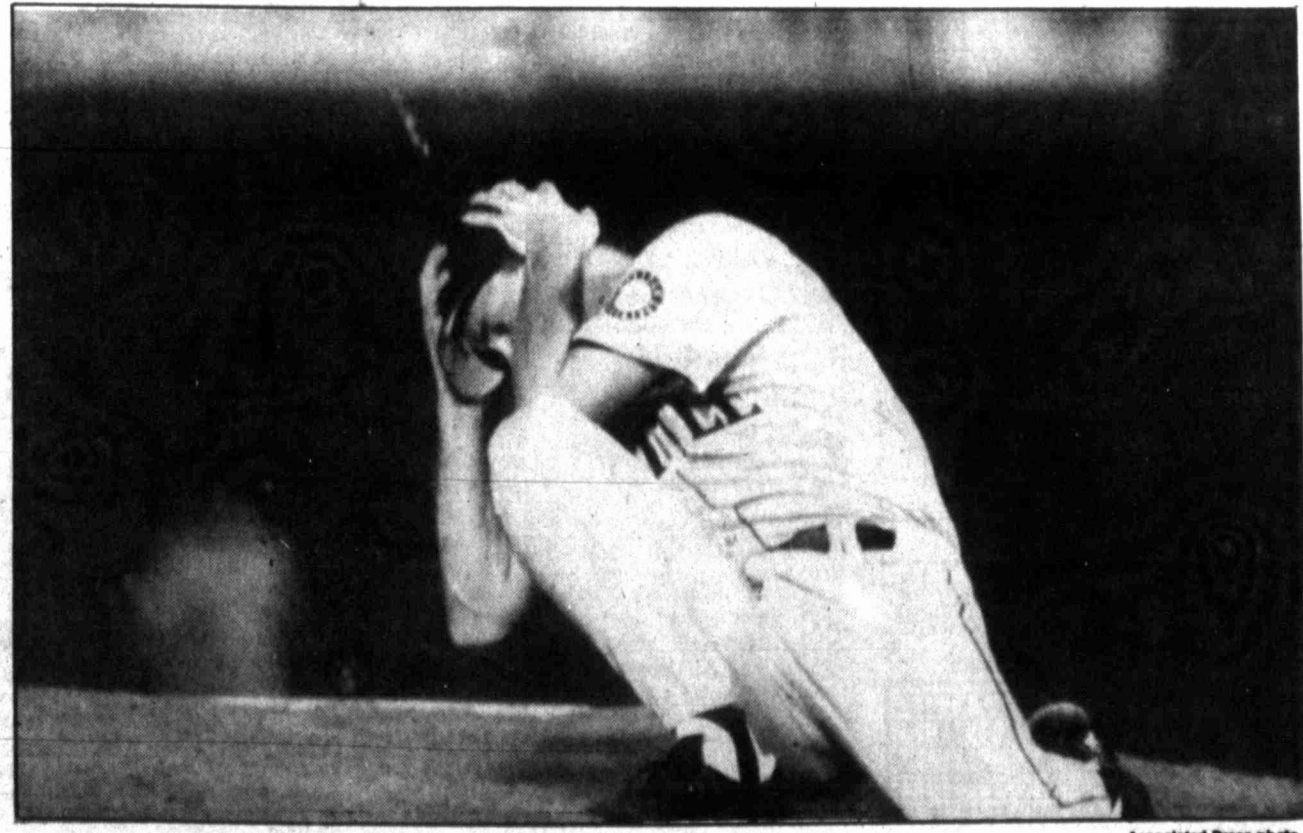

Holman, a rookie reliever, was recalled from the minors hours before being hit by Mario Diaz's liner in the seventh inning of a game Seattle lost to Texas 7-1. His brother, Brian, also is a pitcher for the Mariners.

"This game means very little when you see something like that happen to Brad," Mariners pitcher Randy Johnson said. "It means nothing. Fortunately he was conscious. That's the most important thing. I guess he's all right."

The day was a bad one for the Mariners even before Holman was hurt.

Johnson (11-8) was ejected for hitting Julio Franco with a pitch following Juan Gonzalez's 33rd home run. Piniella also was tossed for arguing a strike call.

Ken Griffey Jr. tied Gorman Thomas' team record of 32 home runs in 1985, but also made his first error since April 16, 1992, ending his AL record of handling 573 consecutive chances without a miscue. And, before the game began, Mariners relief ace Norm Charlton was put on the disabled list with an injured elbow that may sideline him for the rest of the season.

Seattle relief pitcher Brad Holman slumps on the mound after being hit in the forehead by a ball off the bat of Texas' Mario Diaz during the seventh inning in Arlington Sunday night. Holman was taken off the field in a stretcher and taken to an Arlington hospital.

"It really hasn't been a good day," Piniella said.

The night was a lot better for Steve Dreyer. He won his major league debut, shutting out Seattle on five hits for five innings.

Dreyer, a 23-year-old right-hander called up from Triple-A Oklahoma City on Saturday, struck out six and walked six.

"I got myself into trouble here and there, but I made some pitches and the guys made great plays behind me," he said.

Brewers 5

Blue Jays 2

Greg Vaughn hit two home runs and also scored after being hit by a pitch, leading Milwaukee over Toronto. The last-place Brewers won two of three at the SkyDome.

Ricky Bones (7-8) pitched the first complete game of his career, giving up seven hits and striking out four. Pat Hentgen (13-6) also went the distance, allowing eight hits.

Vaughn hit a solo home run in the second inning. He was hit in the left elbow in the fourth and later scored on a double-play grounder. Vaughn hit his 24th homer in the sixth.

John Jaha also hit a solo home run for Milwaukee.

Tigers 5

Red Sox 1

Cecil Fielder homered twice and drove in five runs as Detroit won at Tiger Stadium.

Fielder began the game with no home runs and only one RBI in August. But he hit a solo homer in the second inning, had an RBI double in the fifth and hit a three-run homer in the seventh. He has 28 home runs and leads the majors with 95 RBIs.

Tom Bolton (2-4) beat his former team, giving up five hits in eight-plus innings. He started in place of injured David Wells and won for the first time since April 26.

Yankees 8

Twins 6

Don Mattingly hit a two-run homer in the 10th inning and New York bounced back to win at the Metrodome.

Property Tax Rates in

This notice concerns 1993 property tax rates for Howard County. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Table with columns: Last year's tax rate, This year's effective tax rate. Rows include Last year's operating taxes, Last year's debt taxes, Last year's total taxes, Last year's tax base, Last year's total tax rate, Last year's adjusted taxes, This year's adjusted tax base, This year's effective tax rate.

In the first year a hospital district or city collects the additional sales tax to reduce property taxes, it must insert the following lines unless its first adjustment was made last year.

Table with columns: Sales tax adjustment rate, Effective tax rate. Rows include Sales tax adjustment rate, Effective tax rate.

Table with columns: 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing. Row includes 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing.

Table with columns: This year's rollback tax rate. Rows include Last year's adjusted operating taxes, This year's adjusted tax base, This year's effective operating rate, 1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate, This year's debt rate, This year's rollback rate.

A hospital district or city that collects the additional sales tax to reduce property taxes, including one that collects the tax for the first time this year, must insert the following lines:

Table with columns: Sales tax adjustment rate, Rollback tax rate. Rows include Sales tax adjustment rate, Rollback tax rate.

Schedule A

Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following estimated balances will be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Table with columns: Type of Property Tax Fund, Balance. Row includes General Funds, 2,000,000.

Schedule B

1993 Debt Service

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

Table with columns: Description of Debt, Principal or Contract Payment to be Paid from Property Taxes, Interest to be Paid from Property Taxes, Other Amounts to be Paid, Total Payment. Rows include Total required for 1993 debt service, Amount (if any) paid from funds listed in Schedule A, Excess collections last year, Total to be paid from taxes in 1993, Amount added in anticipation that the unit will collect only % of its taxes in 1993, Total Debt Levy.

Schedule C

Expected Revenue from Additional Sales Tax

(For hospital districts, cities and counties with additional sales tax to reduce property taxes)
In calculating its effective and rollback tax rates, the unit estimated that it will receive $ in additional sales and use tax revenues.

Schedule D

State Criminal Justice Mandate (For Counties)

The Howard County Auditor certifies that Howard County has spent $ 82,982 in the previous 12 months beginning June 1, 1992, for the maintenance and operations cost of keeping inmates sentenced to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Howard County Sheriff has provided information on these costs, minus the state revenues received for reimbursement of such costs.

Schedule E

Transfer of Department, Function or Activity

The spent $ from on the operates this function in all or a majority of the
