Botulism threatens local baby

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

A Big Spring infant is fighting for his life in a Lubbock hospital after suffering an infection of the deadly botulism bacteria.

Six-week-old Lane Gammons remains in critical condition, breathing only with the help of a ventilator machine, according to Dr. Balu Biswanathan, a pediatric intensive care specialist at Lubbock's Methodist Children's Hospital.

It is not clear exactly how the baby acquired the disease, but it is known children under six months of age are susceptible to internal infections of the botulism bacteria, whereas adults are not.

The child has been in intensive care since first developing the disease about three weeks ago. According to his mother, Lana Gammons, the baby began to act as if he were ill and the child's doctor was called. An antibiotic was administered and the child eventually went to sleep.

"I went in about 7 (a.m.) and he was limp — just limp," said Mrs. Gammons. The child was rushed to Scenic Mountain Medical Center and was eventually placed in the intensive care unit because of breathing problems.

He was later flown to Lubbock for care in a pediatric intensive care ward.

Cases of infection are rare, with only about 150 cases reported annually in the U.S., according to Dr. Biswanathan. However, since the

BSHS implements alcohol education to SAVE students

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Since the mid 1980s, law enforcement has added education to their ammunition in fighting alcohol abuse among youth.

Big Spring High School officials are supplementing their alcohol awareness program this year with a new project, called Specialized Alcohol Violation Education (S.A.V.E.).

"It's a reality check because this shows photographs and slides of victims of alcohol-related fatalities to show it can happen to you," said Big Spring Police Officer Stan Parker, a BSBS law enforcement instructor. "It's more personalized."

Sponsored by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, the program is slated to begin next month.

Formerly, law enforcement officials participated in educating youth by attending classes and lecturing about the adverse affects of alcohol abuse.

Lectures included information on legal intoxication, physical deterioration and addiction.

Project S.A.V.E. is scheduled to be conducted by John Deering, TABC educational training officer for a 31-county district and James White, a TABC agent, who covers a five-county area.

Targeting junior high and high school students, officials want to curb major violations by decreasing the demand.

"It is a slide program in three phases. We try to make them aware they're going to be held responsible," Deering said. "We do it to stimulate the people ... that there is something dangerous about drinking and driving."

Part one covers alcohol-related collisions.

"There are a couple of pictures that show serious injuries," Deering said.

The second phase is a question and answer session.

"We try to generate questions about the facts of drinking, penalties and court procedures," he said. "We're trying to tell them facts and what they can expect if they are caught."

"Some of the penalties for second offense crimes have increased dramatically," he added.

Starting this week, fines have as much as doubled on maximum penalties for second offenses.

The third portion of the program is a "victim impact statement," Deering said.

"Pictures of young people, real stories of people affected. This is an emotional impact statement," he said. "It brings it home that nobody is immune to this."

Courts to begin notifying parents in alcohol cases

By CONNIE SWINNEY
Staff Writer

Parents may no longer be the last to know about their children's involvement in alcohol-related offenses, officials said.

Although police supply the school with an offense list, parents will soon be notified by the court, said Municipal Clerk Mary Maines.

"Some of the parents were upset because the school was finding out before they were," Maines said of juveniles cited for alcohol-related offenses. "We're going to start doing it as a courtesy, as soon as we get a letter drafted."

A police official, supplying school officials with names of students cited for alcohol offenses, said some parents would not get word of their child's offense until they were told by the school.

"I go over and check for names in cases filed against minors. The names are open record, and anyone could go and check them," said Big Spring Police Officer Stan Parker, who sponsors Drug-Free Youth in Texas (D-FY-IT) in Big Spring Independent School District.

"If I find names of minors, I pass it along to the school," said Parker, a law enforcement instructor at Big Spring High School. "We have no other way to tell if these kids are involved with drinking or not."

The list, along with being a gauge for determining some alcohol use in D-FY-IT, can pinpoint underage

Area growers check cotton tests

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Business Editor

More than 200 area farmers joined a Thursday morning tour of local cotton breeding experiments conducted by Holland Cottonseed.

"His cotton is looking better than I've ever seen," said Larry Shaw, who has his own test plot of 15 varieties and planted six varieties for his cash crop on 2,000 acres near Knott. Shaw's cash crop includes three of the four varieties developed and marketed by Holland. About a dozen varieties in all are marketed by the company.

Cotton breeders develop longer, stronger and finer fibers, plants with high yields and natural resistance to herbicides and bugs, said plant breeder David Bush of Waco, overseeing efforts by Holland and four other seed companies. Fast maturing varieties are developed for second plantings and for protection against the boll weevil, which eats and plants eggs in young cotton bolls.

Some companies are working to develop plants with natural insecticides, said Bush, who has a doctorate in plant pathology and owns Crop Genetics Service. Scientists are working to develop cotton that produces a protein that kills boll worms and tobacco bud worms when consumed.

"These are still in the development stage," he stressed.

Holland is currently experimenting with 3,000 strains of cotton in Howard County but only four right now are candidates for the market, said Jearl Holland, salesman for the company. A new variety may be marketed next year, the fifth for the company. Research takes eight years.

The breeding program was started in the early 1970s by Custom Ag Service in Lorraine and taken over by Holland Cottonseed in 1985. Roy Holland, president and general manager of Holland, was with Custom Ag.

"One of the advantages is it's bred and grown right here. We can see it under our conditions," said Jerry Rogers, who this year planted five varieties of cotton on 1,000 acres near Fairview, including two of Holland's.

"It's one of the best things that ever happened, when we got a seed breeder right under our nose," Shaw said.

Clinton: Price controls not needed

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton promises his health reforms will create jobs and slow the growth of Medicare and Medicaid spending without price controls. But a fellow Democrat says the White House is heading "down the wrong road without a road map."

Clinton is still nailing down the final details on his health reform package and how to pay for it, but his intentions came under attack Thursday.

A research group sponsored by the restaurant industry released a study contending that forcing employers to pay for workers' insurance could cost 3.1 million Americans their jobs. But Clinton spokesman Bob Boorstin called the Employment Policies Institute report "ludicrous" and said it was "based on ridiculous assumptions."

Rep. Jim McDermott, D-Wash., a physician who was briefed Wednesday by Clinton's health policy lieutenants, issued a stinging criticism of the White House effort.

McDermott, who has 87 Democratic co-sponsors for his bill to abandon private insurance and switch to a Canadian-style, government-financed health system, said the administration officials were unable to provide cost estimates or any details on Medicare and Medicaid financing.

"The White House appears to be going down the wrong road without a road map on health care reform," he said.

McDermott predicted "wholesale defections from the Democratic side of aisle" and said health spending could "soar through the roof" without cost controls between now and 1998.

"And I'm a friend. I want them to succeed," he said in a telephone interview. "If they are as ill-prepared

President Clinton gestures while appearing in the Rose Garden with Russian Prime Minister Victor Chernomyrdin Thursday. On the same day that the president said his plan to restructure health care in the United States would not require cost controls, the U.S. and Russia agreed to a joint venture that could place Russians and Americans working side by side in a space station before the end of the decade.

Suspended Los Angeles police officer Theodore Briseno gives his account of the Rodney King beating while testifying during a Board of Rights hearing in Los Angeles Thursday. Briseno stands in front of a drawing he made depicting the locations of the cars at the scene of the beating. Briseno, who is fighting to get his job back, said he still doesn't understand why King was beaten as badly as he was.

Trying To regain job, Briseno recalls night Rodney King beaten

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — A policeman suspended for the Rodney King beating gave his account of the episode to a police board Thursday as he tried to get his job back, and said he still doesn't understand why King was beaten so badly.

"When he moved, he got hit. I'm sorry to say it, but I don't know why and it's bothered me for 2 1/2 years and it will bother me for the rest of my life," Officer Theodore Briseno said of the March 3, 1991, beating.

Briseno said he tried desperately to stop Officer Laurence Powell as Powell pummeled King with his baton. Briseno said he saw Powell hit King in the head and was concerned the black motorist would be killed.

"When I watched Larry, I saw Mr. King getting up and I thought, 'Oh my God, I don't know what's going to happen.' I thought either Larry's going to shoot him or somebody is, maybe me," Briseno said.

By then, he said, Powell was exhausted and breathing in deep gasps, which Briseno imitated. He said at that point King moved and "I put my foot on him. I used force. I've never denied it."

"I yelled at him to stay down. It didn't work. ... It's not my fault how he reacted. I went in to hold him down. I tried to control this."

Briseno, standing at a chalkboard where he drew pictures of King's positions at various times in the beating, declared, "I never once kicked, stomped, whatever you want to call it, Mr. King in the head or neck."

U.S., Russia agree to joint space venture

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States and Russia agreed Thursday to a joint venture that could place Russians and Americans working side-by-side in a space station before the end of the decade.

"The combined space station will be significantly better than any of the options we could orbit on our own," said Vice President Al Gore at a signing ceremony that ended two days of meetings with Russian Prime Minister Viktor Chernomyrdin.

"It is time to leave behind the vestiges of the Cold War and reach for a new partnership between the United States and Russia," said the vice president.

The agreement, formally ending decades of competition in space, includes payment for the cash-hungry Russians of $100 million in the next year and another $300 million by 1997.

Gore said Russian participation in the international space station will enable it to go into orbit years earlier than originally planned and at far lower cost.

NASA Administrator Daniel S. Goldin said the deal "offers considerable economic advantages for both countries."

"The cross pollination of ideas between our two spacefaring nations will be health and potentially profitable," Golden said in a statement. "Russian participation will have a significant impact on U.S. jobs."

Also participating in the international project are European, Japanese, and Canadian space agencies.

In addition to the space agreement, officials signed documents designed to encourage investment by U.S. energy companies in Russia. Chernomyrdin and Gore also signed a memorandum of understanding that commits Russia to abide by an international agreement that prohibits export of missile technology that could be used for weaponry.

The Overseas Private Investment Cooperation signed agreements to create a privately managed investment fund and to provide $28 million in loan guarantees and insurance to help Texaco pursue an oil well restoration project in Siberia.

Just a little clarifying

Before I get started, I'd like to thank those people who called me and expressed support for my statements in last Friday's column.

Gary Shanks

I've had better than 10 people call or stop me around town to tell me how much they enjoyed and agreed with last week's opinions. That means a lot.

The column was about people hampering economic development by enforcing their moral standards on the rest of the community.

Several of the folks who spoke to me were older residents, and that means a lot as well. Like the man said, "You don't get to be old by being a fool."

There was one guy that though I was picking on the new Methodist minister, and that wasn't the case. I don't even know the man.

Anyway, I know how much easier it is to call, write or complain when something makes you angry. And I certainly have no problem with making people angry - it doesn't bother me. If someone writes in upset, at least I know I've made them think.

But for people to go out of their way, just to say, "thanks" and "keep it up," I deeply appreciate that.

Oh, as long as we're discussing past columns, there was a guy who wrote in last week saying I was wrong, because Big Spring's lousy water is somehow the city council's fault.

I just wanted to add that we all know the city charges too much for various utilities and services - there's a lot of factors that go into that. But the bad water is sold to us by the CRMWD.

He said the city has rusty pipes that cause red stains in sinks and tubs. Whereas I say, all the corrosive salts in the water is what gives the city rusty pipes in the first place.

Just wanted to clear that up.

People taking time out to give me a pat on the back makes me want to do the same for two police officers who conducted themselves in a way that credits not only themselves, but the entire department. These are officers Wayne Wright and Mark Couch of the Big Spring Police Department.

I met these officers under unfortunate circumstances. This idiot decided to turn left from the middle lane of W. Third and knock my car into a

The makings of a good school

PETER D. RELIC
Scripps Howard News Service

How close can parents get to the policymakers who are debating the quality of America's schools? For most parents, not very close at all.

So what can a parent, any parent, do in the national effort to improve education? The answer is clear: you can help your child and the school which your child attends. And the best way to do that is to understand all the potential that exists in the school for you, the parent, to contribute.

The starting point for parents is to reorganize what constitutes a good school. No matter which kind of school your child attends - public, religious, independent - the signs of an effective school are essentially the same. Whether we examine the research of Ronald Edmonds, Lawrence Lezotte or Barbara Taylor or just use our own common sense, there are consistent indicators of quality.

This list of questions and characteristics includes many of the most important aspects of the effective school:

- Is the school open in inquiry about your child's progress? A mark of the healthy school is the willingness, even enthusiasm, of the principal and teachers to establish a process for parent communication, including visits to the school. Obviously, there will be inconvenient times for you to sit down with your child's teacher, but it is a real danger sign if school officials do not have time to meet with parents, never initiating communication with you or responding positively to your overtures.

- Based upon the mission - whether it is written or simply understood - is there an action plan defining where the school is now, where it is going and how it plans to get there? Is there a written curriculum, or is the school a hodgepodge of courses, activities and services without focus and coordination? Common sense suggests that order is imperative, but many schools today seem chaotic!

Whale of a story!

I took a child to a movie. Surely, if I had done something like that before, I would have remembered it.

Her name is Jordan and she is 5. She has blonde hair and big, green eyes. Her mother survived my recent heart surgery.

Jordan wanted to go see "Free Willy." I didn't know who or what that was at first. I thought it might be some sort of rock group.

I realize 5 is a little young to be wanting to go see a rock group, but kids get older faster than they used to.

And "Free Willy" could have been a rock group for all I knew. I heard somebody say they were going to see Duran Duran recently.

I said, "Really? Who's he fighting?"

But "Free Willy" turned out to be a movie playing at a theater near me. I looked it up in the papers and it had a "G" rating, which means if an adult takes a kid to see it, the adult will not be shocked at a lot of what might occur upon the screen.

Kids get into movies for half-price. That's one advantage to taking a youngster to a movie. I thought.

I also noticed a sign that read, "Ask your cashier about using your credit card for concessions."

Odd. Then, once we were inside the theater, Jordan saw all those giant boxes of candy at the concession stand. Why is it, in movie theaters, candy comes in sizes about four times bigger than usual? Now I know.

Once a kid has eaten all the Goobers inside one of those boxes, a kid can spend the rest of the afternoon playing inside of it.

Jordan got some candy, buttered popcorn and a Coke. I would have put the bill on my credit card, but I was too near my limit. They've gone up on movie junk since I bought it last.

Jordan spilled half her popcorn while sitting down.

She said, "There's not any butter on my popcorn." I tried to explain: "That's because buttered popcorn is a rip-off in a movie theater. They wait to butter it until the bag is filled, so only the top part gets any butter on it. You spilled the part with butter."

I ended up giving her mine. "Free Willy" was a pretty good movie. In the opening, these people capture a whale.

They trapped the whale between several boats and then caught it in a net. The whale's name was Willy, although it never came up in the movie how it got its name.

"They're going to kill Willy!" screamed Jordan during the capture scene.

I assured her it was far too early to be killing the star of the show, and I also mentioned to Jordan that she shouldn't scream out in a movie.

"Why?" she asked me. "Bad manners," I answered. "Why?" she asked again.

"Have another Goober," I said. The plot turned out to be this troubled kid befriends Willy, who is taken to an amusement park and is supposed to be trained to perform for paying customers.

Oh! Willy is homesick for his family and balks. The owner of the park happens to have a $1 million insurance policy on Willy (I suppose you could get such a thing) and decides the whale is more valuable to him dead than alive.

So he concocts a scheme to kill the whale and collect. But the troubled kid finds out, and - you likely already guessed this from the name of the movie - he and a couple of friends decide to, well, free Willy.

Ever seen the look on a child's face when a child sees the magic they can put on a movie screen? It is a mixture of amazement and amusement and could light up a room on its own.

It was the first time I had seen such a thing. To have been able to put it in a box and pull it out on a day desperately in need of brightening.

"Did you enjoy the movie?" I asked Jordan as we walked out of the theater.

She smiled and said she did, and some of the radiance was still on her face - the butter on her chin off the top of my popcorn.

Water an area problem

There has been a lot of hullabaloo lately about poor quality water and the notion that this is peculiar to Big Spring. As a former Big Spring city councilman, I think we lose sight that this is an area problem, just as we forget the blessing of water security for the next generations.

Nobody argues that our water is anywhere near the quality we would like, but I can remember before the CRMWD completed its first project, we were draining our bathtubs to keep household plants and shrubbery alive. The district rushed to our rescue and got us a temporary supply in less than a year. Since then, we never have been asked to curtail use.

If West Texas had not grown because of plenty of water, maybe we still would be on Lake Thomas water, but Big Spring would be lucky to be half its present size. To meet our demands, the district had to build Lake Spence and most recently Lake Ivie.

There's a lot of salt in this part of West Texas, and it finds its way into most tributaries, even to Lake Thomas, and more so to Lake Spence because it has a much larger watershed. That's the reason it has about two and one-half times as much water.

I know from my dealings as a councilman that CRMWD has recognized and has worked on quality problems since it got started. It has spent millions of dollars to keep bad water flow out of Lake Spence. In the short term, some of these projects have benefited one area more than another, but in the long run, everyone has benefited equally. I believe this will continue to be so.

It seems like a lot of people fear Big Spring is getting the shaft by getting all the bad water. That's not so. Midland and Odessa get exactly the same water that Big Spring does. I can't imagine that it would be otherwise in the future. So why not be patient and see if that is not still the policy. It wouldn't be fair otherwise, and the District is in a position that it can't do anything but be fair to all its communities.

So I say let's cool it and spend our energies in working together - not in blaming some one. This is not a case of we or them - it is us.

Heartfelt thanks

I'd like to express our heartfelt thanks to our firefighters in the Tubbs Addition. This is the second time in three years that we have had a terrible experience. First a mobile home was totaled three days after Christmas three years ago, and this time we could have lost our home. Lightning struck a pole and if it had not been for our neighbors on the south of us that called our business, our very nice neighbor Albert Carlile who wet down the whole east end of our house to keep it from catching fire, our fire chief's wife, Debbie Calley and the rest of the fire crew that I can't call by name. Many thanks to all of you. I urge all the people of the Tubbs Addition to make a contribution to our Fire Department to help keep our trucks in good running condition, as I understand it isn't running 100 percent now. It could mean the difference between losing everything you own and protecting it, as we and the Lloyd Hale family was faced with Mon. Aug. 23.

Thanks again firefighters and neighbors for your help.

THE LESLIE LLOYDS

Different opinion

To the editor: "About Time on the Water" by Gary Shanks, places his paper in a more unfavorable light than the Colorado River Municipal Water District that he slams. I remember Bob Whipkey writing editorials and the paper running numerous articles urging the people of Big Spring to conserve water until the new Dam on the Colorado River could be finished and the pipe line completed. Mandatory water rationing was talked about but the District never imposed it. Everyone was made aware that Spence would provide a less desirable quality of water, "at least it will be wet" was an often heard remark. Take or pay contracts were signed with no guarantees as to quality other than those imposed by the permit. The Herald pointed out that no substantial growth would be possible with only the old contingency plan of hauling water to Big Spring in tank cars during times of draught for back up.

The CRMWD began low water dams and side reservoirs to improve the quality of Lake Spence almost immediately and probably had more influence on open pit and proper plugging regulations by the railroad commission than any other entity. Millions of dollars have been spent to improve the quality without threats, intimidation, or regulatory requirements. The Mayor and all Council Members who signed their ill-advised letter, qualified by Shanks could better serve the citizens of Big Spring by taking care of their own responsibilities in controlling the quality and price of their water after they take delivery from the district.

Water rates in Sulphur Springs are only slightly less than in Big Spring and considering the problems related to sources of supply, I think the Water District has done a remarkable job of controlling cost. Water quality is a problem everywhere and I am sure the CRMWD and the City of Big Spring will be both understanding enough to work on the problem in a way that will be fair to the other member and contract cities.

Emotional tirades, advocating defaulting on contracts, and unreasonable expectations and desires can only result in increased costs and a breakdown in the spirit of cooperation that have given the West Texas Area so much for the last 45 years.

P.S. Could Mr. Shanks direct his filiform mind and his oracularity skills toward "Websters" and try to absorb the word "filter", does the city "filter plant" admit they are giving us perfect service??

Arafat criticized by allies for secret diplomacy

The Associated Press

TUNIS, Tunisia — Yasser Arafat pressed leaders of his mainstream PLO faction today to support his peace agreement with Israel, but drew criticism from some officials for leaving them in the dark about the secret talks.

Despite the complaints from Fatah's 18-man Central Committee, there was no indication Arafat's opponents would derail the deal.

Arafat needs the endorsement of Fatah, the PLO's biggest and wealthiest faction, before he takes the accord to the powerful PLO Executive Committee and the Palestinian National Council, the Palestinian parliament in exile. The meetings resumed today after an overnight break.

Israeli officials have said the deal — both the autonomy plan and the agreement for mutual recognition — could be signed within days. Foreign Minister Shimon Peres said Palestinian self-rule in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank town of Jericho could start immediately.

In a sign that the PLO was preparing to assume power, Arafat ordered his commanders in Yemen to start training their guerrillas as police for duty in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

"You will see the PLO back in its homeland," Arafat told a gathering at Bir Zeit University in the West Bank in a letter faxed Thursday from his headquarters in Tunis. "We will go together to our Jerusalem."

Clashes in south Lebanon and the occupied territories, however, showed that some factions have no immediate intention of laying down their weapons.

Shiite Muslim guerrillas exchanged machine-gun and mortar fire with an Israeli-allied Lebanese militia in southern Lebanon today. It was the second day of battles, but no casualties were reported.

In the West Bank, gunmen killed one Israeli soldier and injured another on Thursday near the village of Dura, near Hebron, Israel television said.

It was the first such attack since Israel and the PLO said they were negotiating Palestinian self-rule. No one claimed responsibility for the attack, but radical Palestinian groups have threatened to sabotage the accord.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said it would not affect the planned agreement.

"Terror was, is and will be," Rabin said. "The horizons of peace are clear."

Arafat convened the meeting of Fatah late Thursday. Palestine Liberation Organization officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the heaviest criticism of Arafat came from committee member Abbas Zaki.

He said Arafat ignored key issues such as the status of Jerusalem and Israeli settlements in the occupied territories, the officials said.

Zaki also criticized Arafat for conducting the eight months of talks in secret and complained that Palestinian leaders were embarrassed to find out about the deal through the news media.

"Such an issue cannot be cooked up quickly, and we should not approve it easily," Zaki told The Associated Press today. He declined to go into details about the meeting.

The officials said several other Fatah leaders expressed similar irritation. But they said Fatah would probably endorse the deal eventually, describing the pact's outright opponents as a small minority on the committee.

On another front, talks between the PLO and Israel on mutual recognition hit a snag Thursday.

The obstacles — minor when compared to those surmounted during negotiations for the autonomy agreement — were expected to be worked out within days.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat welcomes Belgian Minister for European Affairs and Foreign Trade Robert Urban at the PLO headquarters in Tunis late Thursday before Arafat's meeting with leaders of his Fatah faction about his peace agreement with Israel. The meeting resumed today after breaking off overnight.

Dangerous medicines dumped under guise of humanitarian aid

The Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — In hospitals so needy that doctors sometimes must sterilize cotton gauze for surgery, tons of antibiotics and other drugs are gathering dust awaiting destruction.

Sarajevo's plea for medicine has sometimes been answered by donors who, under the guise of providing humanitarian aid, are dumping medicine so old that to use it would do more harm than good.

The worthless medicines represent just a small percentage of the medical aid the besieged city receives from around the world. But they take up precious space on relief convoys and airlifts and delay deliveries of other urgently needed medicines.

They also cost aid organizations tens of thousands of dollars to buy and ship.

"We have the feeling some companies are just cleaning out their warehouses and dumping the useless medicines on us," said Pasan Sehic, a pharmacist whose job is to take inventory of medical aid for Sarajevo's Kosevo Hospital.

In one case, the hospital received 12,000 boxes of the antibiotic Ampicillin that expired 14 years ago, said Sehic, standing in a basement surrounded by 6-foot-high stacks of outdated drugs.

Sehic said the hospital has at least 22 tons of useless medicine, as well as tons of other outdated supplies for use only in emergencies after being tested.

Sarajevo ran out of medical supplies a year ago and has relied since then on donations from around the world, said Dr. Bakis Nakis, who heads the Ministry of Health's committee on distribution of medical supplies.

Nakis said most of the worthless medicine is sent by small, private aid organizations that possibly were duped into delivering it.

"The independent aid organizations try to help us, but they get donations from companies who want to get rid of their outdated stocks by sending us a present," said Nakis.

A recent shipment from the United States included 8,600 tubes of a topical antibiotic used for skin ailments and infected wounds — all with expiration dates of 1984 or 1986.

Sehic said someone had painstakingly ripped the expiration-date labels off cartons visible through the packing crate, which was shipped by Relief International.

Pasan Sehic, the pharmacist responsible for receiving medical aid at Sarajevo's Kosevo hospital, stands among some of the 20 to 30 metric tons of expired medications sent to Bosnia under the guise of humanitarian aid. Some of the drugs sent by non-governmental organizations were nearly 10 years past their expiration date and doctors said they would be dangerous to patients if used.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You will have to pay the piper for a recent overindulgence. Lick your wounds during the day. Another doesn't understand what happened. Be open to a parent or other loved one you consider an authority figure. Tonight: Explore a new opening. ***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A change in plans and news from a distance may put you in sour mood. Take some time for yourself to work out the pressure. Evening surprises you with a special offer. Tonight: Say yes. **

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Worry less about what someone else is doing. Stay centered. Allow yourself to be vulnerable during a conversation; it will bring a positive response from another. Make time to drop in on a friend's get-together. Go where the fun is. Tonight: Another chimes in. ***

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The attention you are getting from others is making a partner jealous. Don't insist that another behave in a manner that suits you. Good communications follow. Listen to a friend's great idea. Tonight: Let another make the overtures. ***

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Count on dragging a little today. There's just too much to do. Indulge yourself and another by doing something especially nurturing this afternoon. You might need to watch the weekend celebrations from the sidelines. Tonight: Only if you're up for it. ****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What seems like a problem in early morning turns out not to be. Expressing your feelings clearly will open up new horizons. Creativity flows, and one-on-one relationships flourish. Share your wilder ideas. Tonight: Enjoy all of the excitement. ****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An uproar dominates the day. Let a partner express other views, but don't be surprised if you encounter a sudden reversal. Tonight: Say yes to a loved one's invitation. ****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You still feel fed by all you have been through this week. Take the day off and get lots of R&R. Some surprising news has you rearranging your weekend. Tonight: A friend's invitation intrigues you. **

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Write down your dreams instead of worrying about them. Being more childlike and open works for you. Use caution on financial matters; listen to a trusted adviser. Tonight: Remember an obligation or promise. ****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your home is your castle, and although you have mixed feelings right now, later you will enjoy entertaining there. Make a phone call to a loved one at a distance. Express your versatility. Tonight: The action is at your pad. ***

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your intuition is off this morning. Later, you will find a deception, one-to-one, with a partner. Renew your vows and try to increase the good feelings between you. Follow your instincts with a neighbor. Tonight: Go for the gusto. ****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A partner or friend has a change of mind - again. Count on one thing. It will change at least one more time. Good communications and discussions about what both of you want are successful in the later afternoon. Tonight: Your treat. **

IF SEPTEMBER 4 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Good communications and a happier daily life will mark the year ahead, with one-to-one relating bringing financial success. Don't worry when the chips are down, because things will reverse themselves out of the blue. Those of you who are involved in relationships should expect a stronger bond to develop - or perhaps the birth of a child. If single, it is during winter or spring that you might meet someone special while doing daily errands. ARIES helps you make money.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Live-in girlfriend more maid than maiden

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have been living together for a year and a half. We just had a baby girl. The problem is that he told me we would get married before the baby was born, and we didn't. He also told me we would get married before the holidays, but we didn't.

I want to get married very much, but I don't want to push him. I love him and the baby, but it doesn't seem like a real family to me. I feel like a live-in maid.

It's hard for me to tell him how I feel face-to-face, so will you please print this so he will read it and know how I feel? I have the feeling that if I keep living with him, he'll think he never has to marry me. So what do you think I should do? — THE LIVE-IN MAID

DEAR LIVE-IN: When you quit acting like a live-in maid, he will quit treating you like one. You don't say how old you are or how much education you've had, but it's time you started thinking in terms of learning to take care of yourself and your child, so that you will not be dependent on this — or any other — man. Get as much education as you can, and learn a skill. It is possible to do this on a welfare program, for which you may qualify as an unwed mother. Don't beg him to marry you. He's no prize. ***

DEAR ABBY: In reference to people who slam doors:

When I was a young girl, I was mad at my mother, so I went out the door and slammed it hard. My mother called me back and said, "Now, young lady, I want you to go out that door and close it like you should — and don't you ever slam a door like that again."

That was a lesson I have lived with all my life and have never forgotten. I am now 88 years old, living in a senior retirement home, and notice that there are certain people who cannot seem to close a door — it must be slammed. Why? — O.V.N., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR O.V.N.: There are people who do everything with a vengeance, enthusiasm and emphasis.

Erma Bombeck once wrote, "A slammed door is worth 10,000 words." She's right on the button, as usual. The words that were left unspoken were best left unspoken!

DEAR ABBY: Last December, I wrote to you asking for an idea for a gift for my aunt who was retiring. She lives alone and has no other family. You said I should try to be unique in choosing a gift. I thought you might like to know how I resolved it.

After giving it a lot of thought and searching for the right gift, I offered to have a security system installed in her home and pay the first six months monitoring fee. Abby, I don't think the lady could have been happier. — DAVID LEE JONES

DEAR DAVID: A security system was an excellent idea for a gift — especially for a person living alone in retirement. Thanks for the update. Your aunt is fortunate to have such a generous and caring nephew. ***

Good advice for everyone — teens and seniors — is in "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

HWP planning Diez y Seis celebration

MARTHA E. FLORES
Regional Editor

Hispanic Women for Progress are asking the public to help them celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month.

The civic organization, with the cooperation of the Heritage Museum, is organizing a all-day event Sept. 25 in honor of the area's Hispanic heritage. Beginning at noon, the festivities will include food, entertainment, storytelling, displays, traditional dance performances and a car show.

Members are encouraging everyone from the community to join in the fun, but they are also asking for the Hispanic community to take a bigger role by donating family memorabilia and other artifacts to be used for a display, standing throughout the month.

"We want people to contribute to the event by lending us things that illustrate the rich heritage we came from," said Margaret Trevino, event coordinator. She said traditional wedding dresses, quinceanera dresses, other period clothing, kitchen wares and family pictures are needed.

"We, the organization with the museum, want children along with others to see the display, be part of the celebration and take pride in what role Hispanics, particularly Mexicans and Mexican-Americans, have had in local history," said Diolanda Moore, HWP president. "We also want something people, especially children, can see in the museum and relate to Hispanic heritage."

Members have not only taken up the task of organizing the large scale event, but they will also be cooking the food for the event. Some of the delicacies available for sampling include empanadas, viscochitos (wedding cookies), chile con queso, beans, tortillas, tamarindo (fruit drink) and chocolate drink with cinnamon.

Entertainment will be provided by a Tejano band, a church choir, mariachis and a children's dance troupe.

"We will have someone singing the mananitas (a song used to serenade someone on their birthday)," Trevino said. "We will also have two children's groups dancing folkloric."

Children will also have the opportunity to participate in a pinata breaking, loteria (bingo), and arts and crafts. Several of the HWP members will be storytellers, sharing Mexican and Spanish folklore.

If the weather permits, a low-rider car show will be located in the north museum parking lot and a Tejano band will play on the museum platform.

"We want everyone in Big Spring to come out and join the celebration," Moore said. "There will be plenty to do for children and adults."

For more information call Margaret Trevino at 264-5021, Diolanda Moore 264-5116, Martha Hernandez at 263-1307, museum curator Angie Way at 267-8255 or Clara Hernandez at 263-4303.

Contribution deadline is Sept. 11.

Drinkers who run the risk of penalties by the school as well as the court.

"The school officials' philosophy is if you're going to be involved in any extracurricular activity, it's a privilege," Parker said. "They set the standards for involvement. One of those rules is stay away from drugs and alcohol."

The school policy penalizes students involved in extra-curricular activities, punishing students for alcohol offenses, said Big Spring High School Principal Kent Bowerman.

Botulism

bacteria excretes the most toxic substance known to man, each case is serious.

In 60-70 percent of cases, respiratory muscles are paralyzed by the toxin, and death would result without the use of ventilators.

Machines are keeping the baby's lungs working, and he has begun to move his arms again, which is a good sign. "He's not out of the woods yet. He (Biswanathan) said it was just going to take time," Lana Gammons said.

There are two ways to get the botulism toxin into the blood stream. As in baby Gammon's case, the bacteria's spores can be ingested or inhaled and grow in the intestine, producing the toxin. Or the bacteria can grow in food products with the toxin ingested in a most deadly form

Another such tool, in its fourth year, is the D-FY-IT program.

To become a card-carrying D-FY-IT member, a youth must take random drug tests.

Members are eligible for city-wide business discounts and admission into the D-FY-IT Teen Center opened this summer.

There is no test available to detect if a person has used alcohol in the past, so sponsors constantly remind youth of the dangers, said Parker, who is also the D-FY-IT sponsor.

"I feel like D-FY-IT does help curb the use of drugs, but I know we still have members that drink," he said. "It's important that we continue to try and educate them. You just can't throw up your arms and quit."

of food poisoning, Biswanathan said.

It is theorized that young infants are susceptible to the bacterial infections because their normal intestinal bacterial colonies are not as developed and diverse as those of older people.

As a precaution, parents with children younger than six months should avoid feeding honey or Cairn™ and similar syrups. It has long been known these products can contain the spores of the botulism bacteria, Biswanathan said. They are, however, not a threat to older people, he added.

The spores of the botulism bacteria can be found almost anywhere. They are ubiquitous in the soil, although California has higher spore concentrations in the soil than does West Texas or other parts of the U.S.

"It will show that people get out and become intoxicated and people are in danger," he added.

Austin Emergency Medical Service developed the concept in the 1980s, using on-site photographs of major alcohol-related collisions.

Although juveniles and alcohol-related offenses have not decreased in the last few years, officials say their projects may eventually have an impact.

"I definitely think (alcohol abuse) is a problem among teens," Parker said. "It wasn't until about five years or so ago, law enforcement officials decided that just enforcing the laws wasn't slowing them down, so they decided education was a necessary tool to fighting this."

Local PTA officials

again encouraging parental involvement

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

September has been proclaimed PTA Enrollment Month by Texas Gov. Ann Richards, and reaffirmed as such on a local level by Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent W.A. "Bill" McQueary.

Part of a state-wide push, organizers of the Big Spring Parent Teachers Association are seeking more parental involvement in the education of local children.

"The purpose of the local school PTA is to provide a liaison between teachers, parents and students. Also, to encourage parental involvement in the schools as well as inform the parents about important issues within our educational system," says PTA president Roslind Davis.

The local PTA membership effort has been named, "Put Your Heart in PTA... For All Children."

PTA sponsors a number of activities involving parents and school children, according to Davis. Among these are an area-wide cultural arts contest for kindergarten through fifth-graders and an Environmental Protection Agency contest.

These activities allow students to express themselves and utilize their

Bishop to visit next week

Pfeifer to install Coleman Sunday, meet Thursday with three priests

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

Catholic Bishop Michael Pfeifer will visit Big Spring twice next week - presiding over a formal installation ceremony and meeting informally with local priests.

COLEMAN Sunday morning, Pfeifer will formally install Immaculate Heart of Mary's new pastor, the Rev. Christopher Coleman.

"It will be a formal ceremony during the mass," said Pfeifer this week from his San Angelo office. Immaculate Heart's congregation will gather after the service for a reception in honor of Coleman. The bishop said he will then take time to visit with parishioners.

Service & Worship

"I like to spend some time with people, to let them know I care about them," Pfeifer said. He presides over a 29-county area.

Then the bishop will return to Big Spring Thursday for a meeting with priests of all three Catholic churches, Immaculate Heart, Sacred Heart and St. Thomas.

"Periodically I try to get the priests together in a pastoral visit," said Pfeifer. "They can tell me about needs in the parish, being closer to the people."

"I like to review what they are doing as leaders of those churches, see how things are going," Pfeifer said. "I like to see how we can share and collaborate together."

Much of his visit will be spent just listening, Pfeifer said.

"It should be a very useful meeting for me," said Coleman, "as a new priest in town, to find out what is going on at the city level, with the different churches. I'll be anxious to hear from the bishop himself, what things he'd like to see going ahead in the community."

The Rev. Robert Vreteau, priest of St. Thomas, said the bishop's visit will likely be inspiring.

BISHOP MICHAEL PFEIFER

"He'll be getting a closer look at the things that are going on in our community, which is always good," Vreteau said. "It should be a very spiritual meeting."

His last stop in the local community was in May, the bishop said.

Back to basics

What is a community?

By FLYNN V. LONG Jr.
First Presbyterian Church

An important function of religious faith is to undergird our sense of community. It teaches us that we have an obligation to the common good of all, that we are interdependent, and that we bear a responsibility to the whole of our human society.

The Biblical question "Am I my brother's keeper?" is answered through all the scriptures with an implied "Yes," for "none of us lives to himself" and human beings are created to support and serve one another.

We live our lives in communities - family, neighborhood, town, city, state, nation, and with increasing awareness in a global community.

It is in that context, beginning with family, that we find the possibility of health, learning, security, and freedom. When any member of a community, be it parent, child, adult, youth, citizen, rich, poor, public official or nation refuses to acknowledge an obligation to the community, the social fabric and everyone who is part of it is threatened. The collapse of mutual responsibility results in disorder, anarchy, and chaos which is ruinous to all.

There is reason, it seems to me, for us to worry about occasions where the sense of community is lost.

Public education faces increasing difficulty. One hears it said that the responsibility for education and its support belongs only to those with children. But a community that does not provide a knowledgeable base for citizenship and growth neglects this to its own peril. An uneducated populace is the seed-bed of tyranny and disaster.

The community provides the context for concern about the health of all. Disease, malnutrition, and lack of health care are not simply individual problems, but cross all boundaries and destroy the fabric of society. Whether in families, states, or nations the well being of each person is important to all.

Communities offer mutual protection to life and property and personal security against violence and disaster. If our only defense against these lies only in our own might, there is no safety from any of these - for violence begets only more violence.

And our freedom can only be realized when we live in an ordered, lawful, community where the basic human rights of all are sustained and respected.

Now the instrument whereby this sense of community is implemented is called government. There is a governmental function for families, for cities, for countries, for states and nations. I grant you that this is all pretty basic but when people refuse

Firefighters ready to fill the boot

Herald Staff Report

Big Spring firefighters will be asking local residents to "fill the boot" Saturday in support of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Firefighters will man the intersections of U.S. 87 and FM-790 between 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Saturday, as well as the parking lot of Wal-Mart. They will ask for contributions to MDA.

"Our goal this year is at least $2,000," said Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association president Paul Brown.

All of the money collected locally will go to the association's Midland office, where Big Spring area residents with muscular dystrophy go for treatment. T.J. Smith, a Big Spring third grader with muscular dystrophy, was on hand Wednesday to help firefighters publicize their cause.

He got a tour of a local fire station, got to sit on the department's new pumper, and even got a lesson in handling a fire hose. "This is our biggest fundraising time of the year," said MDA district director Kerry Zubras. "And the firefighters' fill-the-boot campaign is a big part of that."

Big Spring Humane Society 'Please don't dump animals!'

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

Dumping an unwanted pet is like signing its death warrant.

"It's really sad," said Betty Cox, a Big Spring Humane Society volunteer. She dealt firsthand with the problem last weekend.

Cox found an abandoned dog Friday near the humane society shelter's gate on west I-20 and tried to capture it. The dog was skittish and escaped, however, and when Cox came back to find it Saturday, it had been killed, hit by a car on the highway.

"They leave an animal at our gate and think they've done us a favor," said fellow volunteer Margaret Lloyd. "What they don't understand is that this is not safe for the animal."

The shelter is open weekdays from 4-6 p.m. and 3-5 p.m. Sundays. Because of overcrowding, many animals are not being accepted right now.

But Lloyd said if people will call during shelter hours, volunteers will try to work with them to find a home for an unwanted animal.

"There are many things we can do," Lloyd said. "We can list it in our Sunday newspaper column. We can put up signs at the shelter. We place between one and four animals every day."

"We want people to know we're willing to work with them anyway we can."

Just don't dump, the volunteers said.

"We've found boxes of kittens outside our gate - everything you can imagine," Lloyd said. "It's such a shame."

In the last six weeks, incidents of dumping seem to have increased. Ten animals have been left at the shelter's gate in that time period.

"They're dumping their responsibility on us and sharing nothing with us," said Cox. She said the skittish dog is a good example.

"I had been hoping to come back and make friends with that dog and catch him," said Cox. "Even going to the pound would have been better than what happened to him."

Christian concerts

Hear the Ambassadors, in two free concerts, Christian Country-Gospel Music, Sunday at 10:40 a.m. at First Assembly of God, 4th & Lancaster, and 7:30 p.m. at the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre.

The public is invited to attend both.

The Ambassadors, from Evadale, play Christian gospel music in a variety of styles from Southern Gospel to the 50s and 60s sound to the traditional gospel. They use a variety of instruments - drums, bass guitar, lead and 12-string guitar and also mandolin.

Fall Gospel Meeting

Fall Gospel Meeting with Clem Thurman will take place Sept. 12-15 at Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ.

The theme is "The Grace of God"

(a study of Romans 5:8). Services are 10 a.m. & 6 p.m. Sunday, and Monday through Wednesday at 7:10 a.m. & 7 p.m.

Clem Thurman, from a "preaching family," began his preaching in August of 1948 at Aledo, Texas. He has served as local evangelist for churches of Christ in Texas, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Colorado. For more than 20 years he has preached from six to 10 gospel meetings per year, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Gulf of Mexico to Alaska. He has appeared on a number of area-wide and college lecture programs, and has conducted special workshops for churches in 18 states.

Rodeo preacher

Cowboy inspires others on circuit

By The Associated Press

ROANOKE — His days of rodeo bull riding often landed Darryl Baker face down near the dust-kicking hooves of a raging bovine.

The former rodeo champ never thought a bucking bull would fling him feet-first into a pulpit, but that's where he landed after ending his 17-year bull-riding career last year to lead the Church of Champions in Roanoke.

The 31-year-old pastor, who says he found Jesus while on the bull-riding circuit, preaches the Gospel to about 30 Christians of various denominations in the church he established in 1990.

Although its roots lie in a traveling rodeo ministry, Baker said the Church of Champions is open to everyone, not just cowpunchers.

"People get the wrong idea that this is a cowboy church," said Baker, whose trophy belt buckle from a 1985 bull-riding championship sparkled in the afternoon sun.

"We have a real mix of people. Some of them are full-time rodeo people; some ride every now and then; some have never been on a horse before."

A quick glance around the small chapel, which followers call a sanctuary, found young and old of different races singing hymns before a Wednesday night Bible class.

Just one pair of cowboy boot walked through the door of the sanctuary that night, and Ernie Banks wasn't wearing them.

"I'm definitely not a cowboy," said Banks, 32, who had just completed an hour-long Bible study on Leviticus, Chapters 10 through 17. "I'm a city boy from Detroit."

Banks described himself as a former gang member and drug dealer who spent time in prison for delivery of illegal drugs. He said a bullet from a shootout lodged in his spine, and doctors said he would never walk again.

"I'm living proof that the Lord works miracles," said Banks, who danced in the aisle earlier to the congregation's acoustic guitar-accompanied hymns. "God placed me under Darryl's guidance because Darryl is a teacher. God wants me to learn from him."

Baker wasn't always a teacher. He said he was a beer-drinking, honky-tonk man at 21 when he started listening to religious testimonials from Christian cowboys on the rodeo circuit. Two years later, he became a born-again Christian.

"I lived the cowboy's lifestyle and partied hard on the weekends," said Baker, who grew up in a Catholic home in Arizona. "Somehow the Lord used the rodeo as an avenue for me to find Him."

Signal Mountain Quilters

Thirteen members of the Signal Mountain Quilting Guild met at St. Mary's Episcopal Church Parish Hall Aug. 27 for a workshop on Dimensional Applique. Jean Roberts of Midland, formerly of Coahoma, was the instructor.

Nona Smith of Midland was her assistant and representative from The Needle Nook Shop in Midland. The instruction included methods for flat applique and several dimensional flowers such as blue bells, violets, folded and puffed buds and ruffled roses. The rouching method can also be used to make bluebonnets. This method of applique can be used not only for quilt tops and pillows but also for table cloths, wall hangings, and wearing apparel.

Lejla Lysg was welcomed as a new member.

The next meeting of the guild will be Sept. 10 at St. Mary's Episcopal Church parish hall. Anyone interested in quilting or learning to quilt is welcome to join. For information call 264-7107 or 267-1037.

1941 Study Club

On Aug. 28, the 1941 Study Club held its annual President's breakfast at the Greenhouse, 1102 Scurry, Big Spring. Retiring President, Cheryl Green introduced Joanne McClurg, president-elect of the Western District as speaker. Joanne spoke on federated club work of which she was well acquainted, since her great-grandmother, grandmother and mother were federated club women. She told of 26 clubs in the western district, stretching from Coahoma to El Paso.

Some projects she spoke of are: Scholarships, W.D. Anderson, Monahans State Park, Crime Prevention, Conservation, Fire Prevention, Education, Home Life, International Affairs, Legislative Affairs, Bicycle Safety, Suspension of Drunk Drivers, Licenses and Texas Heritage.

Cheryl Green handed over the presidency to Judy Dobbs, the new president. Sherry Rowden, vice president handed out the yearbooks she to vote; refuse to support public officials; criticize public servants, police and fire departments; suspect every government function; gripe continually about taxes; object to jury duty and constantly complain about having to support their social obligations; then it may be necessary to get back to basics and study our dependence upon one another in communities.

The inclusive community of which we are a part, beyond our family, is the city of Big Spring. It is our community and its function is to sustain our mutual responsibilities. This is not just the job of council, board members, elected officials, or public servants. It is our job, all of us, because we are the community and we are responsible to and for each other.

The same is true of larger and more complex governmental systems which serve the sense of community. We cannot allow suspicion, cynicism, or partisan opinions to destroy the basic need for the community of humankind of which each of us is a part. Sometimes its good to get back to basics.

LEVELLAND at BIG SPRING

Take away a few lapses here and there, and Big Spring's defense has excelled in preseason scrimmages. Steer quarterback Dustin Waters, filling in for Wes Hughes, should get help from the offensive line, which also has been strong in scrimmages.

Levelland's one-back set should pose little problems for the Steers, while Big Spring backs Lonnie Jackson, Josh Jones and others will make life miserable for the Lobos.

BIG SPRING 28, LEVELLAND 13

COAHOMA at GREENWOOD

This one may be the game of the week. The Coahoma Bulldogs will try to avenge last year's season-opening loss when they travel to Greenwood tonight.

There's no secret to what the Rangers will try to do - utilize a large offensive line and speedy backfield in an effort to run the ball down Coahoma's throat. The Bulldogs, meanwhile, are looking for a more diversified attack behind junior quarterback Brandon McGuire.

If all else is even, give the nod to speed.

GREENWOOD 21, COAHOMA 14

FORSAN at GARDEN CITY

Forsan seems to be a much improved team - at least those are the preseason indications. Garden City seems to be on the way down.

Sorry, Buffaloes, but it's going to take more than preseason talk to win this one. Forsan can stay in this ballgame if quarterback Chris Evans can lead a strong passing game, but that's a lot to ask against a team that's outscored Forsan 85-6 over the past two seasons.

GARDEN CITY 37, FORSAN 14

O'DONNELL at STANTON

The Stanton Buffalos, down on their luck the past few years, hope to start reversing that trend tonight when they host the O'Donnell Eagles.

O'Donnell, picked to finish second in District 6-1A, returns seven offensive and eight defensive starters from 1992's 3-7 team. The Battlin' Buffs, meanwhile, return 12 lettermen from last year, plus an offensive backfield loaded with speed.

Remember what we said about speed?

STANTON 27, O'DONNELL 21

SANDS at HERMLEIGH

Hermleigh is on its way up - the Cardinals won four games last season after winning just three in the previous two years combined. It's a team of experienced players, but that won't be enough against Sands.

Like Hermleigh, the Sands Mustangs finished 4-6 last season, and they are under a new coach. Coach Bob Keyes inherited a team with size, depth and a winning tradition. That will be enough against Hermleigh.

SANDS 58, HERMLEIGH 35

HIGHLAND at KLONDIKE

Highland hasn't won a game since 1990, and the streak will continue at Klondike. Klondike is the class of District 5 this season.

Quarterback Tanner Etheredge will keep Klondike fans entertained and Klondike opponents frustrated. Mike Lee handles most of the running duties, and the rest of the Cougars' stars will make Highland search for higher ground.

KLONDIKE 62, HIGHLAND 20

HAWLEY at COLORADO CITY

Hawley, out of District 7-2A, finished 1-9 last season and will give C-City a good team to start off against.

Hawley has a two-way star in running back/noseguard Kevin Leathers, but after that the Bearcats have little. C-City has a lot of question marks, but the Wolves a two-way star of their own - Ron West - and a decent running attack that should be enough against Hawley. C-City coach Mark Howeth will learn a lot about junior quarterback Jason Castillo, who is replacing his older brother, David.

COLORADO CITY 27, HAWLEY 10

SOUTHLAND at GRADY

The Grady Wildcats hope to duplicate their fast start of 1992, and begin that task tonight when they host the Southland Eagles.

Southland, 1-9 last season, returns three starters on both offense and defense, but are breaking in a new quarterback in the Eagles'.

Steers blast Midland Lee

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

If the doubles team of Greg Biddison and Robert Lee is any indication, the Big Spring High School tennis team is just about the most determined bunch around.

Biddison and Lee, Big Spring's number-one boys' doubles team, survived match points, nerves, mental errors, blistering serves and hot, humid weather to down Midland Lee's Dave Stark and Michael Pena.

The 6-7 (8-6), 7-6 (7-4), 6-4 BSHS victory was the highlight of the Big Spring-Midland Lee match played at Figure 7 Tennis Center Thursday. The match, the inaugural for both teams this season, was won by Big Spring in convincing fashion, 17-2.

Biddison and Lee said the match, which took almost three hours to complete, wasn't exactly their best.

"It was real loosely played," Biddison said. "There wasn't much pressure; it was our first doubles match since regionals last spring. It was just lackadaisical for me... I missed a lot of easy shots."

The match was close throughout, and either team could have closed out the other in straight sets.

Biddison and Lee's first chance came early in the first set, when Biddison was serving at 5-3 to close out the set. But Stark hit a winner on the sudden-death point (there are no advantage points in high school team tennis play) to get the Midland duo back on even terms.

Biddison and Lee had another shot at the set during the tie-breaker, but Lee double-faulted at set point.

During the second tie-breaker, Biddison and Lee found Pena's serve to be easy pickings and quickly built a 6-3 lead. Stark saved one set point with a smash, but Biddison followed that with an ace to force a third set.

Compared to the first two sets, the third was almost anti-climatic. Lee was broken early to give Midland a 3-2 lead, but the Big Spring pair broke right back.

It stayed that way until Biddison and Lee, who had broken Pena's serve four times in the match... did it again at 4-5 to take the match.

"We really didn't think they were all that good," Lee said. "We thought we could beat them... and we just pulled it through."

Big Spring coach Ralph Davis was understandably pleased with Thursday's results.

Davis said: "I finally got to see them play somebody else, and I'm just tickled to death... The icing on the cake was when Rob and Greg won that three-setter. I couldn't be happier."

Here are results from the Big Spring-Midland Lee tennis match, held Thursday at the Figure 7 Tennis Center (Big Spring players are listed first).

BOYS SINGLES
McKinney def. Evans, 6-0, 6-0; Wegman lost to Chandler, 6-4, 6-4; Johnson def. Kerwin, 6-3, 6-0; Tomm def. Abrams, 6-4, 6-4; Miller def. Bernhardt, 6-1, 6-1.

BOYS DOUBLES
Biddison-Lee def. Stark-Pena, 6-7 (8-6), 7-6 (7-4), 6-4; McKinney-Cantu def. Evans-Chandler, 6-3, 6-1; Delgado-Denard def. Howell-Kerwin, 7-5, 6-3; Tomm-Wegman def. Abrams-Bernhardt, 6-3, 6-3; Miller-Johnson def. Moehle-Peterson, 6-1, 6-2.

GIRLS DOUBLES
Stevenson-Dominguez def. McNeil-Stanton, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1; Griffin-Villareal def. Vernon-Martin, 6-2, 6-3.

McIntyre-Porter def. Rada-Hotwell, 6-3, 6-4; Gutierrez-Moates def. Leonard-Crawford, 6-4, 6-3; Willis-Cunningham lost to Higginbotham-Goddy, 1-6, 6-3, 2-2.

Young BSHS cross country team wants return to district dominance

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

By and large, the Big Spring cross country team is young and inexperienced - and it doesn't bother Randy Britton a bit.

Britton, the track and cross country coach at BSHS for the past 15 years, said the 1993 squad is adequate in numbers (22) but woefully short in running expertise (senior Evy Perez is the only returnee with regional meet experience).

But if Britton is concerned about his team's youth, he's doing a good job of hiding his worries.

"We're not going to be real good right now as a team. In fact, we probably won't run as a team (at meets) right now," he said. "We've got everything pointed toward the district meet (Oct. 30), so we can springboard off that to regionals and hopefully have a good enough team to get to state."

Part of the reason Britton isn't hitting the panic button yet rests with the team's history. The Big Spring girls won the district championship five consecutive years before finishing second the past two seasons.

Another bright spot for Britton has to be Perez. The senior holds the school record for cross country

"Hopefully, we'll make it as a team to state. We'll have to work on it (but) we have some horses this year."

Robert Rios

(12:30) and is considered a good anchor to build a team around.

"She has common sense and intelligence," Britton said. "She's quietly a leader; she's not one of those that jump up and down... I'd put her right up there with (three-time state qualifier) Mimi Regalado."

Perez, who said she likes cross country because she enjoys running on different courses, doesn't consider herself that much of a leader.

"I really don't do anything except run and do my best," she said. "But I do try to encourage the other runners to do better."

Other members of the Lady Steers varsity are: senior Pauline Delbosque; junior Stephanie Mendoza; sophomore Connie Martinez; and freshmen Sally Rivas and Jamie Pennington.

The boys side of the ledger is even thinner than the girls, Britton said, with sophomore Robert Rios the only returning varsity runner. He'll be joined by senior Lehebron Farr and juniors Joe Franklin, Jamie Ontiveros and Jared Halston.

Although Rios is the youngest boy on the varsity, Britton said he will be fine as the leader of the bunch.

"He's had a little bit of aging, he's a little more mature," Britton said. "He's leading the pack right now."

Rios, who joined cross country because a friend talked him into it, said the team has a definite goal this year.

"Hopefully, we'll make it as a team to state," he said. "We'll have to work on it (but) we have some horses this year."

Britton said it will take a few weeks to determine just how good the team will be.

"I think we've got some kids that can come through," he said. "Probably, by the time we have our invitational here (Oct. 2), I'll either be smiling... or saying 'Wait'll next year.' We'll be competitive. I'll guarantee you that."

Britton says San Angelo Lake View, defending district champion for both boys and girls, is the team to beat again this year. "I'll give them the nod until somebody knocks them off."

Man arrested in death of star athlete

By The Associated Press

DALLAS — A 25-year-old man has been arrested in the murder of one of the Adamson High School's most promising young football players, officials say.

Wanazell Jerome Gordon, a running back and captain of his football team, was shot and killed during an early morning argument on Thursday.

Police say the 25-year-old man, who was arrested leaving the scene, has also been accused of wounding another person during the incident.

Gordon, 18, a senior who was expected to sign with either UCLA or Texas A&M after this season, was shot in the face while sitting in his car in Oak Cliff, police said. He was taken to Methodist Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 1:15 a.m.

Police said Gordon and the suspect were involved in an argument early Thursday.

Police didn't reveal a suspected motive or any other details of their investigation.

ACU rallies to win '93 debut

By The Associated Press

ODESSA — Quarterback Rex Lambertini was picked off for an early touchdown, but he recovered, throwing two TD passes to Angel Alvarez that led Abilene Christian to 24-10 victory over Western New Mexico.

Chris Jones gave Western New Mexico an early 7-0 lead in the first quarter with a 38-yard return of one of three first-half interceptions.

But Abilene Christian came back with 17 unanswered points. Lambertini threw touchdown passes of 34 and 6 yards to Alvarez. Harold Adams added a 3-yard run, and Barry Reese added a 34-yard field goal.

Alan Dileo kicked a 37-yard field goal for the Mustangs. It was Lambertini's first college game since 1986 after an absence of six seasons, a span that wouldn't have been allowed at an NCAA Division I school. Lambertini completed 13 of 27 passes for 233 yards.

Moving closer in NL West

Atlanta's Otis Nixon dives home with the winning run Thursday past San Francisco's Kirt Manwaring, right. Atlanta won 5-3 to move within 3 1/2 games of the Giants. For all of the baseball scores from Thursday, turn to page B8.

Big Spring frosh beat Forsan JV; Coahoma, Stanton win JV games

Toma McVae scored two touchdowns Thursday to lead the freshmen Steers to a 14-8 win over Forsan's JV team at Blankenship Field. McVae ran 65 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter, then broke loose for a 10-yard touchdown in the third. After McVae's second score, Robert Valencia added a two-point conversion.

"For the first game, we looked good, but we got tired. We'll have to work on that before our next game," said Big Spring freshman coach Gary Simmons.

The freshmen Steers' next game is Thursday at Abilene Cooper.

Big Spring JV team loses heartbreaker

LEVELLAND - Big Spring poured on the offense Thursday, but so did Levelland. Levelland won 27-26.

"Offensively, we made some big plays, but our defense didn't play very well at all," said Big Spring coach Tim Tannehill. "We couldn't stop the option."

Donnie Hill caught a 4-yard pass from Bucky Crenshaw to give the Steers a 14-13 halftime lead. Jose Pesina scored Big Spring's first touchdown on a 2-yard run, and he added the two-point conversion.

Big Spring upped the lead to 20-13 when Crenshaw fired a 7-yard touchdown pass to Roger Eddington, but Levelland came from behind to take a 27-20 lead.

With 45 seconds left, Crenshaw and Eddington connected again, this time for a 25-yard touchdown. The Steers went for the win, but the two-point conversion failed. The junior varsity's next game is Thursday at home against Abilene Cooper.

Coahoma frosh rip Rankin JV

RANKIN - Tailback Freddie Olivas scored three touchdowns to lead the Coahoma freshmen to a 32-6 victory over the Rankin junior varsity here Thursday night.

Tailback Olivas opened the scoring with a 15-yard run early in the first quarter to make the score 6-0. After Rankin tied the score on its ensuing drive, Coahoma fullback Rocky Coates scored from six yards out to give the Bulldogs the lead for good.

Olivas added touchdown runs of 11 and nine yards, while fullback Aron Hernandez tallied from a yard out to close the scoring.

The Coahoma freshmen return to action Thursday at Greenwood. Game time is 6 p.m.

Coahoma JV runs past Greenwood

COAHOMA - From the Department of Understatement: Coahoma's junior varsity had success running the ball Thursday night in a 27-8 win over Greenwood.

Tailback Kelby Bailey and fullback Gerardo Armendariz combined to gain more than 200 yards on just 17 carries Thursday to lead the Coahoma JV to a 27-8 win over their counterparts from Greenwood.

Armendariz, who had 96 yards on nine carries, opened the scoring when, on the Bulldogs' second play from scrimmage, he tallied from 65 yards out. Bailey added the conversion kick for a 7-0 lead.

Later in the quarter, the Bulldogs made it 13-0 when wingback Chris Arguello plunged over from a yard out. Coahoma added a pair of TDs in the second quarter on a 40-yard run by Bailey and a 31-yard run by fullback Brian Fontana.

Bailey ended the evening with 154 yards on eight carries.

Coahoma's next game is Thursday at Rotan. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Stanton JV nips O'Donnell

Stanton's junior varsity overcame a 14-8 halftime deficit Thursday and won 16-14 at O'Donnell.

The comeback was quick. Stanton's Mark Carrillo returned the second-half kickoff 78 yards for a touchdown to tie the game, then Chris Carroll ran for the game-winning two-point conversion.

Carroll scored a touchdown in the first half on a 3-yard run, and Jerrod Stallings added the two-point conversion.

Jimmy Kargl supplied excellent blocking on the offensive line for Stanton, while Carrillo and John Bryan were the leaders on defense.

Stanton's JV returns to action Thursday at home against Colorado City.

No. 3 Edberg makes early exit at US Open

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Night turned to day, day to night, yet on and on toiled Boris Becker. Stefan Edberg came and went, the U.S. Open's two-time defending champ gone in the second round, and still there was Becker playing his 24-hour first-round match.

Becker ended his marathon at last Thursday night, beating the rain, the heat, more rain and a pesty Andrei Cherkasov to advance 3-6, 6-7 (10-8), 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 and land in the second round exactly 82 hours and 23 minutes after the Open began.

Edberg danced on the tightrope until he finally fell off, going down hard. He teetered precariously in the first round, surviving a five-setter just as he did three times before winning the title a year ago. He tried to do it again after losing the first two sets against 18th-ranked Karel Novacek, but this time Edberg fell 7-6 (7-3), 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Edberg's loss marked only the third time in the Open era that a defending champion has lost as early as the second round. Mats Wilander in 1989 and Ilie Nastase in 1973 were the two other champs to suffer such a quick exit.

Edberg also became the sixth men's seed to fall, following five others who departed in the first round. The top women, meanwhile, moved along easily. No. 2 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario reached the third round with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Linda Harvey-Wild, and No. 3 Martina Navratilova beat Sabine Appelmans 6-1, 6-3.

Edberg, indeed, seemed on the verge of coming back in the fourth set. He hit a leaping overhead backhand to hold serve and tie the set 4-4. But Novacek, who out-aced Edberg 14-1, held with a clever combination of attack and baseline tennis.

This notice is required by the Texas Legislature. *The percentage increases shown in the first paragraph below may appear unusually high because it does not reflect 1992 taxes levied by the now-abolished county education district (CED). In 1992, the CED levied a portion of the taxes used for school purposes, and the school district levied the remainder of school taxes. In 1993, school districts will levy all school taxes. For an explanation of the increase, attend the public hearing scheduled below or call your school district.

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The Sands CISD will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1993 by 211.88 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property. The public hearing will be held on 09/07/93 7:00 P.M. at Sands Board Room. FOR the proposal: Joe Barnes-Reggie Hambrick-Tony Glaspie-Ed Billingsley-David Zant-AGAINST the proposal: None Bobby Wigington-Keith Nichols PRESENT and not voting: None ABSENT: None

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the effective tax rate that the unit published on 08/25/93. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	(Optional) Last Year County Education District	Last Year School District	This Year School District
Average home value	$ 20,553	$ 20,553	$ 20,481
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$ 10,000	$ 10,000	$ 10,000
Average taxable value	$ 10,553	$ 10,553	$ 10,481
Tax rate	$ .901	.48 /$100	1.497 /$100
Tax	$ 95.08	$ 50.65	$ 156.90
(Optional) Total 1992 School Taxes	$ 145.73	(Optional) Total 1993 School Taxes	$ 156.90

(School districts publishing optional information must publish the following:) This paragraph compares last year's CED and school district taxes with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $ 11.17 or 8 percent compared with last year's total school taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would increase by $ .12 per $100 of taxable value or .0868 percent compared to last year's total school tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

(All school districts must publish the following:) This paragraph compares last year's school district tax with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $ 106.25 or 309.77 percent compared with last year's school district taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the school district tax rate would increase by $ 1.017 per $100 of taxable value or 31 percent compared to last year's school district tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Forecast

Continued from page 3B spread offense. The ground-oriented Cats, meanwhile, will pin their hopes on an experienced and speedy backfield led by junior Tommy Hewitt.

BORDEN CO. at NEW HOME

The Borden County Coyotes enter 1993 with more questions than in recent years, and will begin to get some answers tonight when they travel to New Home.

The Coyotes, who have made the state playoffs three years running, return only two starters from last year, while New Home, picked to finish second in District 4, is loaded with experience (13 lettermen, five returning starters on offense).

Borden will be OK this year, but it might take a few games to get rolling.

Explanation of Conversion from County Education District Taxes

County Education Districts have been abolished. In order to compare school tax rates from last year to this year, it is necessary to compare the combined school tax rate below to the school district's proposed tax rate for this year.

Last year the Sands School District's tax rate was .48.

Last year the Sands County Education District's tax rate was .901.

The combined School District and County Education District tax rate was 1.381.

The proposed tax rate for Sands School District for this year is 1.497.

THE HOME FRONT
 By Kay Moore
 There's a big new house in New Hampshire—where winters are seriously cold—that has no boiler or furnace. It's heated mostly by the sun and about $300 worth of wood per season. Sun pours in south-facing windows and is "stored" in a concrete slab to warm the house all night.
 Choose a hammer with a comfortable handle. If the hammer weighs 13 to 18 ounces—average for home repairs—the length of the handle should be about 12 inches, not counting the part hidden in the head.
 Arrange a living or family room with comfortable conversation areas. People can't talk to one another across the room. Sofas, chairs and tables should be arranged in intimate groupings.
 Toggle bolts that grip from behind are the appropriate fastener to hold wood to walls of hollow concrete block.
 Eight weeks before you move, sort out what you—or family members—don't want. Sell what you can at a garage sale; then donate the rest to a charity.
 For best results when you put your home on the market, list with
