Insurance companies oppose package

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a seven-part series exploring the effect President Clinton's health care reform package will have on local residents if it is passed in its original form.

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Insurance companies will be effected if the Clinton Health Care Reform Package is passed, but vast uncertainties remain in the plan and in the minds of insurance representatives as to what these changes will be.

The core of the Clinton reform plan is the health care alliance. In these alliances, states will set up large pools of workers to purchase health insurance, using the economics of scale to reduce costs, according to the plan.

This facet of the plan, if implemented, may in the future be a windfall for larger insurance companies, and obliterate some of the smaller providers, according to Lee Jones of the Texas Board of Insurance.

Other facets of the plan are extremely elusive in regard to insurance companies, according to Bob Blevins of the Texas Life Insurance Association. "It (the plan) seems to change with every whistle stop on the tour," Blevins said.

Although actual effects are unknown, at this time, a Washington, D.C.-based association of insurance companies is conjoining to fight the plan, according to Jones.

Blevins said the plan, as presented, will not be a cost effective way to combat skyrocketing health care costs. "The funding of it is going to take some really, really, really big dollars — and this has been understated by the president," Blevins said.

Although this complicated health-care reform package is subject to change by both houses of Congress, some of the basic tenets are of importance to the health-care insurer and consumer.

Under the new plan, health-care recipients could choose from the managed care of the HMO for lowest costs, a fee-for service method at the highest cost, which includes the choice of physician, or a hybrid of both plans, according to the plan as presented.

One part of the Clinton plan would ensure that all pre-existing conditions would be covered, eliminating many today's vast numbers who cannot obtain insurance.

Texas is already taking steps in this direction, however, Jones explained. Proposed legislation has been written that, if passed, would require Texas insurers to cover those individuals with preexisting conditions.

Insurance providers would be forced to adapt to service larger groups under these guidelines.

Between 1965 and 1991, health care spending rose from 5.9 percent to 13.2 percent of the U.S. Gross Domestic Product, according to figures from the U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Although 80 percent of Americans are satisfied with their insurance, according to national polls, more than 30 million Americans have no health-care insurance at all.

Participants of the Human Service Council's Forum listen to Shannon Nabors of the Howard County Mental Health Center speak at the Thursday afternoon meeting at Howard College. Representatives from 24 area agencies were on hand to speak about the services provided by their respective agencies.

Human service groups forming 'clearinghouse'

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

The Human Services Council presented a forum Thursday in the Cactus Room of the Howard College Student Union Building. Twenty-one groups were represented, with speakers providing a short description of the services their organizations provide to the Permian Basin region.

HSC Coordinator Shannon Nabors noted in her opening remarks the need and willingness to promote these community services exceeded the council's original expectations. Nabors said original plans were for approximately 12 organizations to participate; nearly twice that number sent representatives to the meeting. "These agencies are really looking for a way," said Nabors of the HSC's efforts to increase public awareness of their services.

The meeting, co-sponsored by the Howard County Mental Health Center, included the following agencies. The public is encouraged to contact agency representatives at the following phone numbers for a full description of services available, as well as to determine eligibility for assistance:

American Heart Association—Permian Basin Regional Office. Marcia Merrill, 1-915-520-7041 OR contact Marcia at the local VA Hospital, 263-7361. Provides assistance and information relating to heart problems, strokes.

Big Spring-Howard County Health Department—Field office for Texas Department of Health. Linda Norman, 264-2370. Provides low-cost medical care to adults and children; offers immunizations, prenatal care, family planning, dental services.

Big Spring Independent School District—Chapter 1 Program. Rudy Gutierrez, 264-4154. Helps parents provide educational assistance for their children at home, offers programs to strengthen parenting skills and encourages communication between parents of educationally disadvantaged children and the school.

Birthright of Big Spring. Pat Sutton, 264-9110. All-volunteer agency supporting the care and health of children.

Big Spring State Hospital—The Corral. Diane Linhart, 263-0900. Treats mental illness in adults age 18 and up. Teaches independent living skills, how to access community resources, offers socialization programs, assists in finding employment for clients.

Howard County Mental Health Center. Shannon Nabors, 263-0027. Provides counseling, mental health services, case management, residential services, emergency 24-hour service, Tuesday night late clinic.

Canterbury Retirement Homes. Pat Johnston, 263-1265. Provides clean, safe housing for low-income individuals (must have income verified to be eligible), elderly or disabled (must have disability verified by primary doctor). Exceptions made for homeless, involuntarily displaced, or those who are paying at least 50 percent of their income toward housing.

Proposition 12 would provide denial of bonds

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th of a daily 15-part series looking at pros and cons of 16 proposed constitutional amendments.

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Proposition 12 on the Nov. 2 ballot would allow judges to deny bail to those on probation or parole who are charged with a violent or sexual offense.

Bail could only be denied after a hearing and upon presentation of substantial evidence pointing to guilt, according to the House Research Organization's analysis of the proposition. It could be withheld up to 60 days unless a trial is held or a trial continuance is granted at the accused's request.

Opponents argue that there are enough provisions in current law to deny bail, such as warrants from parole boards, revocation of probation and certain criteria in felony cases. In addition, bails can be set as high as needed.

Judges can now deny bail up to 60 days for non-capital offenses if the accused has either two successive felony convictions, been indicted for another felony and was free on bail at the time of the new offense, or has a prior felony conviction and the new offense involved a deadly weapon.

"We have enough things on the books, let's just use them," said Don Richard, a local defense attorney who handles pro bono cases.

But when parole boards don't issue a "blue" warrant to revoke parole, or if it's not accepted or is withdrawn, the amendment would give judges an option to keep accused parolees behind bars.

"It's not mandatory, but it gives the judge the option," Please see PROPOSITION, page 7

One woman injured

Elsa Hernandez, 36, of 538 Westover Road, is listed in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center following an automobile accident at 4:19 p.m. Thursday.

According to police reports, a 1993 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by Elizabeth Peachy of Freeport, was southbound in the 200 block of North Gregg and attempting to turn left onto Northwest Second, and a 1987 Pontiac, driven by Aguilardo Martinez, who listed a Big Spring Post Office box address, was southbound on Gregg when the two vehicles collided.

The collision catapulted Peachy's truck into oncoming traffic in the northbound lanes of Gregg where it collided head-on with Hernandez's 1987 Chevrolet.

Peachy and Hernandez were also taken to SMMC by American Medical Transport personnel. They were treated for their injuries and released.

Palau brings message to N. America

The Associated Press

FORT WORTH — A polite smile slides across evangelist Luis Palau's lips as he prepares to answer the question he's heard dozens of times.

"What about Billy Graham?" Palau, a 58-year-old international preacher with immense popularity in South and Central America, has been pegged by some to replace Graham as the United States' pre-eminent evangelist.

Graham, 74, has been diagnosed with Parkinson's disease, and is expected to slow his hectic, global schedule. His empire raises an estimated $100 million per year.

But can a minister who quietly accepts that MTV cartoon characters like Beavis and Butt-head are cultural fixtures really step into Graham's shoes?

Palau thinks so. "It's elating. Who doesn't want to be compared to the best of the best?" asks Palau, who was born in Argentina and immigrated in 1960.

Not so fast, says William Martin, a Rice University sociologist who wrote a biography of Graham.

"I don't think there is an heir apparent to Billy Graham," Martin said. "I don't think anybody will be able to move into his position when he retires or dies."

Martin calls Palau one of the major second-tier evangelists.

"I think he's extraordinarily good," Martin said. "He has about as good results as you would find among contemporary evangelists."

Palau models his ministry and organization after Graham. Graham has influenced Palau since 1962, when he served as a translator at a Graham crusade in California.

In the 31 years since, an estimated 10 million people in 60 countries have attended more than 300 of Palau's cross-denominational crusades and rallies. The Luis Palau Evangelistic Association, his Portland, Ore.-based non-profit organization, cites more than 500,000 "known decisions for Jesus Christ" as a result of the crusades.

A listing of his crusades reads like a world atlas: Jakarta, Kiev, Buenos Aires, San Antonio. He has preached on every continent except Antarctica. From Aberdeen, Scotland, to Zurich, Switzerland, Palau has tried to awaken cities to their need for God.

Now, Palau plans to step up operations in the United States.

Evangelist Luis Palau discusses his five-day crusade at the Tarrant County Convention Center in Fort Worth Monday. Palau has been pegged by many to replace Billy Graham as the United States' pre-eminent religious crusader.

Nabers' mail, phone soliciting criticized by watch dog group

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — A mailing sent at state expense by Texas Railroad Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers has been criticized by a public watchdog group as a "fund-raising package" for her 1994 political campaign.

The 40-page mailing from Ms. Nabers, a Democrat, went out in mid-July to 107 oil and gas company executives primarily based in Dallas. Campaign records show a handful of the companies already have contributed a total of $10,000 to her election bid next November.

Ms. Nabers, who was appointed to the commission in February by Gov. Ann Richards, defended the mailing, which was obtained by The Associated Press.

"If I continued to do this (type of mailing) forever, maybe so (it would be a problem), but when you are just appointed to an elected position, and you are trying to get people to know who you are, and what your issues are going to be, and you're trying to solicit a partnership between those people, I think they do need to know me," Ms. Nabers told The Associated Press in an interview Wednesday.

Tom Smith, state director of the watchdog group Public Citizen, said the mailing "looks more like a fund-raising package than something that should be sent out at state expense."

"The last test is, is this mailing paid for by the state sent to the general public or only to likely donors?" Smith said. "And it's clear that this was targeted to people from whom she may be soliciting funds and is saying, 'Look what a good job I have done for you.'"

Ms. Nabers, 53, said the mailings were sent following a meeting in Dallas July 13 with oil and gas executives. The first five pages of the packet outline the duties of the Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's oil, gas and trucking industries.

The remaining 35 pages include articles written by or about Ms. Nabers on various subjects, primarily her opposition to the Btu tax — a hugely unpopular energy tax proposal by President Clinton that had died a month earlier.

"They are articles I have written, but the articles are talking about issues, stands, initiatives I thought the private sector needed to know about," said Ms. Nabers, who launched her 1994 campaign last month.

Sections of the packet are titled, "Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers, Railroad Commission of Texas: The First Four Months" and "And Just So You Know Who Your New Commissioner Is and a Little Bit About her Background."

The mailing includes eight pictures of Ms. Nabers, one of which measures 6 inches wide by 7 inches tall. The Appropriations Act of Texas, a statute which carries no sanctions but is written by the state's lawmakers, states:

"It is the intent of the Legislature that appropriated funds not be used to print publications of any type which prominently displays the name or picture of statewide elected officials."

Ms. Nabers contends the mailing cost $260.12.

"We are not talking about a lot of money," she said. "It was done on a copying machine. There will be a genuine attempt on my part to get people to interact with people in this office."

But Smith said, "This kind of abuse of state mailings is a time-honored practice among Texas politicians and there ought to be a law against it."

"At every level of politics there is a temptation to use mailings to boost your name recognition and the number of people willing to contribute to your campaign," Smith said.

The political action committee of Maxus Energy Corp., one of the companies that received the mailing, has contributed $1,500 to Ms. Nabers' campaign.

Death of collider hurting everyone

The Associated Press

WAXAHACHIE — For retired rancher Winston Winn and other super collider backers, there is no light at the end of the tunnel.

"They ought to have never started the damn thing if they couldn't finish it," he said Thursday at the Kountry Cafe, six miles from the construction site in the green, rolling hills south of Dallas.

"The state of Texas ought to sue the federal government for stopping it," the 74-year-old Maypearl resident said.

But Monnie Bratcher rejoiced as Congress decided to halt construction on the $11 billion project.

Earlier this year, she was forced to give up her birthplace and move her cattle herd and 56 years of accumulated furniture and other belongings several miles away from the collider site.

Even if she returned to the former community of Boz, where more than 100 other residents' property was condemned, it wouldn't be the same.

"My home was bulldozed," she said. "They blocked it off and padlocked it the night I left."

Ms. Bratcher had refused for about two years to surrender her ancestral homestead to the government so workers could continue clearing thousands of acres for the 54-mile collider tunnel.

"I had never been bitter before," the 85-year-old woman said. "But now I hope everyone who had anything to do with this collider suffers as much as I did."

After she received an eviction notice, she moved from her 48-acre homestead. The government paid for her purchase of a pink brick home and an acre more than she once had.

But she needs $12,000 to $15,000 more for repairs, along with a barn to protect her 17 head of cattle for the winter.

"A bunch of lives were just destroyed," she said. "And mine was the worst of all."

About 190 other Ellis County homeowners displaced for the giant atom smasher, plus others who have invested in businesses and land, wondered who would fill the tunnel that was to encircle Waxahachie.

House and Senate negotiators who wrestled for two hours Thursday over termination conditions agreed to a plan that provides for a phased-in instead of immediate shutdown. About $2 billion in taxpayer money has already been spent.

"Right now, it's a billion-dollar hole in the ground. And they're arguing about whether to fill it back up," said Allan Oakley, a Waxahachie Police officer and co-owner of the Kountry Cafe in Maypearl, about 10 miles to the southwest. "People here have a hard time understanding how we could spend so much money and not follow through."

"They say it will cost $300 million to close it down," he said. "But what are they going to do with that 17,000 acres?"

Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., the collider's key Senate backer, and other key senators who twice previously rode to the collider's rescue decided that a third attempt was futile in the face of enduring House opposition.

"I really sort of still can't believe it that the country won't fund it," said physicist Roy Schwitters, who has headed the project 35 miles south of Dallas since 1988.

Nearly 15 miles of tunnel has been dug and a complex of laboratories and test facilities erected. About 2,000 scientists, engineers and others at the Texas site now must plot their futures without the super collider.

Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary said an amendment being worked out on Capitol Hill would direct her agency to completely assess all of the country's big science projects.

"We've got an opportunity now to reshape our strategy and convince the American public that science and technology are important," O'Leary said.

But merchants in Maypearl, about six miles down the road from the collider, didn't have much hope for success.

A grocery store in the community of about 800 people was already struggling with fewer customers, said R.C. Smith, who farms 1,200 acres a mile from the collider site.

Richards hopes to salvage something from SSC

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards said Thursday she hopes the federal government can be convinced to salvage something of value from the wreckage of the super collider project.

In the face of U.S. House opposition to the $11 billion atom smasher under construction near Waxahachie, supporters now want the U.S. Energy Department to save some of the giant machine's technology and equipment.

"There has been an incredible amount of effort and money go into that project. It cannot be, in my mind, abandoned without salvaging the very best that we possibly can of what exists," Richards said.

However, she added, "I can't tell you that it will."

Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary declined to elaborate on possible plans for the partially developed site south of Dallas. An amendment being worked out on Capitol Hill, she said, would direct her agency to completely assess all of the country's big science projects.

"They are asking that we come back within that July time with recommendations as to what we can do with the site so as not to throw it all away," O'Leary said in a conference call with reporters.

Among those options, she said, could be a stronger international collaboration on the project. She refused to speculate on how many jobs might be saved at the project, saying only that the department hoped to do a thorough, discreet report.

"I will use this report ... to really build a very broad examination of the nation's science projects," O'Leary said.

"We've got an opportunity now to reshape our strategy and convince the American public that science and technology are important."

The House earlier this week reiterated its opposition to the collider, rejecting for a third time in 16 months new spending on a project that already has cost $2 billion.

O'Leary said saving the collider had been a top priority of the Clinton administration.

"It's a devastating blow for basic science in America," she said.

The long term benefits, O'Leary said, far outweigh the short term budget cuts.

"The capability of the U.S. to stay on top in the basic sciences is something that is as important as anything I can think of," she said.

Scientists had hoped to discover new subatomic particles and learn more about the origin of matter by colliding beams of subatomic particles at near-light speeds in the collider's 54-mile underground tunnel.

In the wake of the latest legislative defeat, Richards said she hopes that clear thinking outside the political arena would guide decisions about what's next.

"They need to leave the future of the project to some planning strategy of the Department of Energy. I don't think that rational discussion or decisions can be made in the present atmosphere," Richards said.

"They need to have the scientists look at it, study it. I don't think the American people literally want to throw billions of dollars away."

The governor said she and other collider supporters have known for some time that saving the project would be a hard sell.

"To be able to turn around that overwhelming majority (of House opponents,) none of our hopes were high," she said.

"There is a sort of feeding frenzy in Washington that has been fueled by a number of things that they have to do something symbolic to the rest of the country to say that they're cutting government."

Elderly woman fights eviction by grandson

AUSTIN (AP) — An elderly woman is saddened by her grandson's efforts to evict her from the duplex they share in Leander.

"I never expected to be doing this on my birthday," said Dorothy Webb, who turned 85 Wednesday and spent the morning in court fighting the eviction. "I'm not dying fast enough, I guess."

Her grandson, 26-year-old John Mattingly Jr., didn't react to whispers of "greed" and "shame" from the back of the quiet courtroom, where his grandmother sat with a half-dozen indignant friends.

"I haven't been able to talk to her," Mattingly said. "Sure, I feel singled out as a bad guy. I was more than willing to work it out with her (outside of court), but I never had the chance to do it."

Their attorneys huddled Wednesday. When a settlement appeared near, Williamson County Justice of the Peace D.W. Hays rescheduled the hearing for Oct. 28 to give them more time.

The family disagreement became a public battle after Mattingly served his grandmother with an eviction notice this month, contending she hadn't paid rent, flooded the property by overfilling the bathroom sink and almost started fires twice by leaving a stove burner on.

Ms. Webb moved into the duplex after selling her stately three-story home this year because she was slowly going blind and losing her hearing. She moved into a retirement community, saying she wanted to remain independent.

But Ms. Webb said Mattingly approached her with a money-saving offer, saying if she would put up the duplex down payment, he would take care of the property and let her live rent-free. She said the property then would be turned over to her son when she died.

Mattingly said there was no such agreement, but little else on the advice of his attorney, John Greenway.

"I will say that the facts aren't always what they seem to be," Greenway said. He said during the hearing that without rent, Mattingly risked losing the duplex.

Ms. Webb signed ownership of the duplex over to Mattingly on Aug. 1. But she said in a lawsuit that she thought she was signing a paper giving it to him only after her death.

After Wednesday's hearing, the two hugged in the hallway. "He said, 'I love you Grandma,'" Ms. Webb said later. "And I said, 'I love you too.' But I wanted to say, 'Then why are you doing this to me?'"

Gov. Richards seeking Proposition 14 help

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards is asking county officials to help turn out voters to support the prison-building Proposition 14 on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The proposed constitutional amendment would allow the state to issue $1 billion in bonds and use the money to build more prisons and other facilities.

"The state simply must be able to build these additional prison cells if we are to follow through with the tougher sentencing guidelines established during the last legislative session," Richards said in remarks prepared for delivery Thursday to the County Judges and Commissioners Association meeting in Amarillo.

Houston attorney files for Supreme Court race

AUSTIN (AP) — Priscilla Owen, a Republican attorney from Houston, has filed papers indicating she will run for the Texas Supreme Court seat now held by Justice Floyd Doggett, a Democrat.

Ms. Owen, 39, a partner in the law firm of Andrews & Kurat, named Roy Barrera Jr. as her campaign treasurer.

Ms. Owen said she believes state Supreme Court contributions should be limited to $5,000 per individual. She said she will also strive to raise half of her money from outside the legal community.

Perot produces new anti-NAFTA program

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas businessman Ross Perot has produced a new 30-minute television program, "Say No to NAFTA," critical of the pending North American Free Trade Agreement.

So far, the video is slated only to run on one Chicago station Sunday and Oct. 30 on the Fox network, Perot said Thursday.

Perot's most recent previous anti-NAFTA TV program ran May 30, she said.

Perot, who waged an independent campaign for president last year, has been one of the most vocal opponents of the proposed trade pact. The agreement would gradually eliminate most tariffs and other barriers to free movement of goods and services between the United States, Mexico and Canada.

United We Stand America, the organization founded by Perot, said the TV program is intended to illuminate many details of the accord, without using the well-known charts or video slides.

"Every American who is adversely affected by this future forever, you will be expected to learn about some of the provisions in this agreement," Perot said in a statement.

Program pushes shots for tots

AUSTIN (AP) — The state is kicking off a new program aimed at vaccinating more Texas children.

Failing to do so, they say, has both health and economic costs that are excessive.

"There's no doubt in my mind that this ... will have an impact on the lives of every one of those children," Gov. Ann Richards said Thursday. "It saves not only needless suffering, it saves tax dollars."

Although the national rate for immunization of 2-year-olds is 60 percent, in Texas it is 40 percent, Health Commissioner Roy Smith said. In some parts of the state, the rate is lower than in some third-world countries, he said.

Hunters indicted by grand jurors in death of deer

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — Two Texans are facing felony charges of illegally killing a prized deer under what state prosecutors say is one of the most stringent hunting-related indictments in Texas history.

A Bexar County grand jury on Thursday indicted Susan Janet Mangum, 46, of Hill Country Village, and Jimmy Bartee, 42, a Houston businessman.

They are charged with theft and criminal mischief in the killing of a 27-point white-tailed buck last year. The charges are third-degree felonies carrying a maximum punishment of 10 years in prison.

The indictments are the first in state history charging anyone with a felony for killing a deer, state prosecutors said. Charges for illegally killing wildlife, or poaching, normally are filed by game wardens as Class C misdemeanors.

"This will give the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife another weapon to use in their work," said Assistant District Attorney Mark Luitjen.

The buck was rated as the most prized trophy taken in Bexar County in 1992 by the Boone & Crockett Club rating system, and scored the 13th best in Texas history, Luitjen said.

Get the best value

Value for your money. That is what every citizen in Big Spring is looking for when they purchase something. And, for businesses, making the most out of limited advertising dollars is a must.

But, how to get the value for the money spent is often a difficult decision. There are many ways to spend the money but which is the best for you?

This year alone, there have been six map companies telemarketing in our community, each producing a map of Big Spring with the sponsors on it.

Terry Burns, executive director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said, although the advertiser is given maps, the maps are given out to customers who already shop at the store, which is throwing advertising dollars away.

And, the chamber is also given a portion of these maps, which Burns said may last for a month.

If the map, with your advertisement on it, is only around for a few short months, then some of the value is lost.

Burns is proposing the chamber bid out for one "official" map of Big Spring. Included in the bid would be the number of maps needed for one year. Then, the maps would be distributed through the chamber, visitor's and conventions bureau and businesses.

This would help those businesses who sponsor maps of the city to get the best value for their advertising dollar. The map would be distributed to visitors who don't know where the stores are and what is offered.

The chamber is asking for support of this venture. It would be the best value to consider it.

We salute!

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local citizens or groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community:

- To all local and area students named to the honor roll. Congratulations for earning the grades.
Lydia Arguello and her son, Johnnie III, for trying to help a walkaway from the state hospital.
Local human services providers for sponsoring a meeting to inform on what they can provide and to work toward a single conduit through which those seeking help can find it.

MDA run huge success

Editor:
Thanks to a number of people, the Harley Owner's Group Annual MDA Run was a huge success. This year we were able to raise close to $1,800 which will go to a children's camp known as the MDA West Texas Summer Space Camp located outside Canyon, Texas. This camp is especially for children with Muscular Dystrophy, and gives these kids an opportunity to enjoy many activities such as horseback riding, swimming, scuba diving, arts and crafts, and much more.

I would like to thank the following companies and individuals for their contributions in food, beverages and door prizes: Merle Norman, Premiere Video, The Dollar Store, Holson Bread Store (Julie), Don's IGA, Borden, West Texas Fire Extinguisher, Trimway, Coors, Budweiser, Texaco, East Vealmoor Gas Plant, Third Coast Water Co., Betty and Wayne Wilcox, Harley Davidson Shop, and Liberty Machine.

A special thanks goes to several people who helped make this run a success. Thank you Patsy Barnett and Charla Weaver for all your time and effort in getting and gathering the supplies needed for the Bar-B-Que and picking up door prizes. Thank you Randy Crockett for your help in getting sponsors to donate supplies, and the use of the Buffalo Country Fina as one of our checkpoints. Thank you Jim Marlow and "Texas" for contributing your time and music for all our enjoyment. And thank you Ben Douglas and the Big Spring Texas Low Lifes for your time in cooking the delicious Bar-B-Que.

I cannot name each and every individual who helped out, but I do thank you, all of you, and you know who you are.

Betting on the super collider

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives has voted a second time to halt federal spending on an $11 billion scientific boondoggle in Texas and crepe-hangers are mourning the "death" of the Superconducting Super Collider.

It was reported that the House vote had "killed" the SSC or "delivered a fatal blow" to the enormous underground atom-smasher under construction near Dallas, a federal project that in a few years grew from an original cost estimate of $4.5 billion to the present $11 billion with no guaranteed cap in sight.

That's wild spending, but a betting man would put money on the likelihood that Congress, with its bipartisan history of back-scratching in porkbarrel favors, will cave in to the SSC special interest peddlers and keep the public money flowing.

Promptly after the House vote, lobbyists and congressional clatrapras were out warning of a tragedy if Congress stops funding for the SSC.

The nation, it was said, would slow to a jog in the pursuit of science and America could be turned into a backwater country, all if spending were stopped on the $11 billion SSC.

The overkill argument suggested that others — the Japanese, the Chinese, the French, maybe even the dreaded North Koreans or the Iraqis ... maybe anyone — will overtake America in technological supremacy if we don't keep spending vast and growing amounts of money on the SSC.

As the SSC promoters suggested, it would be terrible to think about an America without a 54-mile Superconducting Super Collider by the year 2002, without a facility where physicists could accelerate protons to the speed of light and "resolve basic questions about the nature of matter."

Playing the trump that's available whenever congressional spending has been started on some enormous project with no end in sight, the SSC defenders stressed an estimated $2 billion has already been spent on the SSC.

The current request for $640 million to continue the project would be a well-spent drop in the bucket, the SSC supporters said, and they stressed it would cost an estimated $1 billion in project-ending costs just to shut down the SSC construction.

What should be remembered in any forecast of approaching doom for the SSC is a congressional rule of thumb that the larger the spending proposal, the more certain its success. There's an accompanying rule that once spending gets started, it's impossible to stop.

Billions after billions of federal dollars spent on the accumulating space project failures of NASA, the $2 billion congressional craziness in continued funding for the obsolete Seawolf submarine project and an unneeded $1 billion federal office building project in downtown Washington are only a few prominent examples of unstoppable congressional spending.

In the workings of the bipartisan incumbency party watching over the major spending decisions of Congress, is a vast web of payoffs for past and future favors, a web that reaches into most congressional districts and every state.

Members of the House were reminded in the SSC debate that if they pulled at one edge of the web in shutting off funds to the SSC, they were in peril of a cut in federal handouts at their edge of the web. As always, they were reminded, it's best to go along to get along.

The House vote against the SSC was actually on a procedural question, not a real life-death decision for the project. Brightening the prospects for the survival of SSC is the obvious ploy that House members running for re-election can now say they voted to stop the spending, all the while knowing it wouldn't stop.

To acknowledge that valuable scientific work would be done by the SSC is not to concede that SSC special interests have won the spending argument.

If — as some of the most fervent SSC supporters maintain — the nation faces a continuing budget crisis, that deep spending cuts must be made and that higher priorities for federal spending are everywhere, the SSC spending ought to be pushed out of line. The nation could wait a while to get the SSC cranked up and take us out to the new frontiers of knowledge.

But — bet on it — the bipartisan back-scratchers in Congress will win on the SSC.

Control is an awesome responsibility

Ever go over to somebody's house that is just immaculately clean?

Everything is neat, dusted, and not so much as a magazine laying out. Doesn't that make you want to leave?

There's a quantifiable human phenomenon at work here. I'll call it "vitrophobia."

(Which actually, I think, means "fear of glass," but what the heck. I'm making it up. I can use it any way I want.)

In the movie "Demolition Man," a serious case of vitrophobia is encountered by the main character.

First, I guess I better tell you about the flick.

The show can be classified as a standard, high-body-count, blast-em-up, action adventure. The main characters are a hyper-bad gang lord and Rambo-type cop who get sentenced to 30-plus years of being frozen in cryogenic hibernation.

After they thaw out and wake up, they find themselves in a different version of George Orwell's 1984. In this future world, like Orwell's, everyone is totally controlled.

But instead of being dominated into strict government servitude, everyone is forced to be NICE.

And everyone has been forced to be nice for so long, they can't imagine anyone not wanting to be nice.

The whole country has been turned into a Walt Disney day at the park with Granny and the kids.

There are no violent criminals, no guns, no drugs, the streets are perfectly safe. On the surface it looks like a utopia — everything is perfect. The computers keep track of everybody through implanted identification chips and no one can do anything without the computers knowing about it.

It's actually quite horrible. Everyone is forced to be a goody-goody.

Now, I like the idea of utopia. I think mankind should always strive toward that ultimate goal of a perfect world. But we ought to keep in mind, however, that nothing perfect can physically exist in this universe.

Gary Shanks

Entropy ensures perfection is always being torn away, while nature is continually building toward perfection. There always seems to be a give and take.

So if we ever come up with a utopia, this give and take will have to be factored in — you can't please all the people all the time.

So anyway, in the film, the whole world has been made into the likeness of Ward and June Cleaver, and a growing number of people are chafing at the confines.

So there's this growing populosity of people who (and I think this quite fair) reserve the right to occasionally be a jerk. They want to be able to use bad language, eat red meat, smoke and engage in other outlawed activities.

The revolution doesn't take too long — the nicey-nice people all but hide under their beds.

So that, and a lot of people getting killed, is just about the whole movie.

But it got me to thinking (we all know how dangerous that can be).

There's getting to be more and more laws restricting U.S. citizens' God-given right to be different.

The law has already transgressed into paternalism with the advent of the seat-belt law. Who asked for this law? Not me. Not you. We used to load up into a pickup bed for a kind of chauffeured ride in a cowboy convertible — not any more, it's against the law.

The people who push for these kinds of paternalistic laws are the same people, we made fun of for putting the "Baby on Board" stickers on their cars in the 80s. "We're protecting you from yourself, Mr. Shanks."

Well, I don't WANT to be protected from myself. I mean, whose life is it anyway?

There's lots of stuff that makes me bristle with vitrophobia.

They're taxing booze and smokes now — most people can live with that.

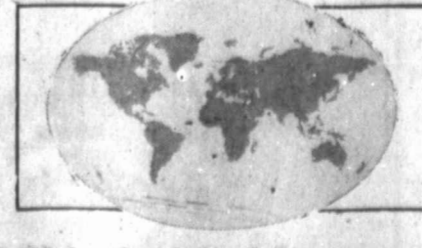

But the same argument they use to tax THESE items can be used against eating beef, buying a sports car, water skiing, hot-air ballooning, owning a cat, kissing a friend . . .

Oh! Here's a good one I just read about — legislation is proposed, stating a woman who has been drinking (not unconscious, just drinking) cannot consent to sex, so any sexual act with said woman amounts to rape.

What happens when everything that could possibly be bad for you is taxed or outlawed. And every adult is considered an infant by the law and unable to care for themselves.

In parts of the country, society is tearing itself apart. Something has to be done. But the power to control society is an awesome responsibility — and the only ones to wield this power, when it comes, will be politicians.

Why does that scare me? Gary Shanks is a staff writer for the Herald. His column appears each Friday.

Imelda bought them all

The new Paris fashions have been introduced, but I can't seem to find out if there will be any new breakthroughs in women's shoes.

I am quite concerned about this. I have been noticing a disturbing trend in female footwear recently.

More and more women I see are wearing, well, ugly shoes.

I mean, really ugly shoes, shoes women wouldn't previously have been caught wearing at a tractor-pull.

Of course, many women who attend tractor-pulls wear no shoes at all, which brings up how to compliment a woman at a tractor-pull, wrestling match or bowling tournament.

"Nice tooth."
I know a woman who is a young, attractive single woman. She turns heads. She is also intelligent and in business for herself, so no letters, please.

The other day this woman was in my home. "My God," I said to her, "what happened to your feet?"

"What do you mean?" she asked, looking downward.

"There are what appears to be two black animals attached to them," I pointed out.

"Those are my shoes," she said.

So they were. In fact, black, high-top sneakers, the kind boys wear when we were 8. The only uglier shoe ever created was the Hush Puppy.

Now, here is a lovely career woman, otherwise dressed quite fashionably in a pair of black high-top sneakers.

"They're comfortable," she said.

"The Bowery Boy look," I added.

I've actually seen women wearing uglier shoes lately than black high-top sneakers. Or, at least, just as ugly.

There's the Russian female rail-worker's shoe, for instance.

I don't know if that's what they are called, but it's what they look like to me. I was in the Soviet Union once and rode a train from Leningrad to Moscow.

Women working on the railbeds (equality is a marvelous thing) all wore these black, ankle-length, corrective-looking shoes I see women in this country wearing.

"Nice shoes, Svetlana," I said to a female friend in shoes like that.

"These are aerobic shoes," she explained.

"Aerobize this," I said, and hummed a few bars of "John Henry Was a Steel Drivin' Man."

I've seen other women lately wearing granny button-up shoes. The problem with those shoes is granny wore them with a long skirt.

I saw a woman at a mall wearing a very short skirt with granny button-ups. Ellie Mae had looked in the wrong closet again.

I can't decide what all this is about. Is it simply about comfort? Does it have to do with the unisex factor?

I've seen women wearing neckties lately, too.

And a lot of women don't have nearly as much hair as John Kruk, the famous hirsute baseball player.

Are women of today wearing black high-top sneakers because they were denied such a thing as children lest they would have been called tomboys?

Or is it just one of those modern statements people make today? People are always making statements. I got my hair cut out of town and the hairdresser asked me, "What kind of statement are you trying to make with your hair, so I will know how to cut it?"

"All I'm trying to say is, 'A little off the top and sides and trim the sideburns,'" I stated.

Whatever, the state of women's shoes in my estimation is in disarray and the results are often appalling.

And notice, I didn't mention Imelda Marcos once. Hell, she must have bought up all the pretty shoes.

Congress kills collider, lays out termination plan

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress officially pulled the plug on the dying super collider Thursday, halting construction on a giant science machine that's one-fifth complete and has already consumed $2 billion in taxpayer money.

The $540 million sought by the Clinton administration to continue construction on the $11 billion project this year will instead be used to shut it down under an agreement reached Thursday by House and Senate negotiators.

The negotiators wrestled for two hours Thursday over termination conditions, agreeing to a plan that provides for a gradual shutdown in an effort to salvage the scientific developments already made in areas such as superconducting magnet and computer technology.

They also asked the Energy Department to provide by next July a termination plan that addresses possible future uses of the collider's technology, equipment and facilities in Waxahachie, Texas.

"The SSC has been lynched and we have to bury the body," said Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., the collider's key Senate backer.

The atom smasher's death was all but sealed Tuesday when a House fixated on proving its fiscal responsibility rejected further spending on a 264-159 vote. It marked the third time in 16 months and second time since June that the House snubbed the physics project, which critics had branded as luxury science that was too costly in an era of huge budget deficits.

Johnston and other Senate supporters, who twice previously rode to the rescue, argued that a third attempt was futile in the face of enduring House opposition.

"I really sort of still can't believe it that the country won't fund it," said physicist Roy Schwitters, who has headed the collider program since 1988.

"This kind of event and decision is a major negative impact on world science, in my view," he said.

Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, said the negotiations, which she observed, offered the best outcome that could be hoped for. But, she added, "It is disappointing that the House is myopic and that they've exchanged an opportunity for America for a cheap political thrill."

There was little joy in the conference room Thursday as the negotiators, most of whom were pro-collider, hammered out what amounted to funeral plans.

"I think that out of what is a terrible situation for Texas, the SSC and for science, we did the very best we could today," said the only Texas negotiator, Rep. Jim Chapman, D-

Sulphur Springs.

Defenders of the Energy Department program, which has been buffeted in recent months by allegations of cost overruns and management ineptitude, denounced the congressional action as scientific folly and shortsightedness.

But opponents, who sat in on the negotiating session, proclaimed victory and a permanent death for the collider.

"The super collider's dead, the taxpayers have saved $10 billion and I think that's good news for the American public," said Rep. Jim Slatery, the Kansas Democrat who orchestrated the anti-collider House campaign.

Added Rep. Sherwood Boehlert, R-N.Y.: "It shows that we're paying attention. The last election was about change."

The two took issue with backers' claims that shutdown costs could hit more than $1 billion. Johnston and others cautioned they likely would return next year seeking additional funds.

Scientists had hoped to answer centuries-old questions about the origins of matter by observing the collisions at near-light speed of beams of subatomic particles hurtling through the collider's 54-mile underground tunnel.

Senate Energy Committee Chairman Bennett Johnston, D-La., the key senate backer of the super collider, speaks during an appropriations subcommittee meeting Thursday on Capitol Hill. Congress officially pulled the plug on the dying project Thursday, halting construction on a giant science machine that is one fifth complete and has already consumed $2 billion in taxpayer money.

Marines remember Beirut bombing victims

The Associated Press

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. — Former Marine Cpl. Dana Spaulding's face still bears the scars. His mind carries few of the memories.

Spaulding survived the suicide bombing attack in Beirut 10 years ago, one of 175 servicemen wounded when their barracks building collapsed on them. Amnesia caused by the bombing has taken most of his recollections of the attack that killed 241 others.

When Spaulding was asked about the morning of Oct. 23, 1983, his eyes welled with tears, but he could say little. He doesn't even know what happened to some of the men in his unit.

"They didn't know who anybody was, because they were covered with dust. We left with 21 men and came back with six," he said.

Spaulding, 29, now a city worker in Attica, N.Y., returned to Camp Lejeune for events this weekend to remember the Marines who died in the attack. This was the major staging area for the Marines sent to Lebanon.

Retired Lt. Gen. John Miller, who in 1983 was commander of Fleet Marine Force Atlantic, was awakened with the terrible news at 1 a.m. that Sunday at fleet headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

"These were my Marines. I was responsible for them," he said. "It was one of the real tragic events of our time. I suspect it was one of the tragic events in Marine Corps history."

Agonized second-guessing followed the bombing: Why were so many men housed under one roof? Why was the building protected only by a barbed wire fence and a few sand-bagged sentry posts? Could the attack have been prevented?

"I ask myself that question every day," Miller said.

Miller this week visited the Beirut Memorial near here, a wall of gray Georgia marble dedicated on the bombing's third anniversary. On the wall are engraved 273 names — those of the 241 who died in Beirut.

Haiti feeling pinch of U.N. embargo

The Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Lines snaked for more than a block at some gas stations as Haitians felt the first pinch of a U.N.-imposed oil embargo.

Two of three foreign-owned oil companies stopped distributing gasoline Thursday, and people queued at gas stations of the third, Texaco. Shell said it was respecting the embargo aimed at forcing the military to let exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide return. Esso cited security threats to the company and its employees.

The immediate effect of the embargo was inconvenience, but the shortage could grind down the economy, make life difficult for Haitians and hamper operations of Haiti's notoriously repressive army and police.

Soldiers carrying guns ordered a Texaco station that had shut down in the late afternoon to stay open.

Texaco has also pledged to abide by the embargo, but it wasn't immediately clear if that meant it would cease sales of its existing supplies at all of its stations in Haiti.

Aristide's prime minister, Robert Malval, speaking this morning on NBC's "Today" show from Port-au-Prince, said talks with the army on breaking the stalemate could show some results within two or three days.

"I know that the sanctions carry a heavy burden for all of us here. But the message behind the sanctions is that we will not back away. We must be on the way to democracy," Malval said.

When asked whether he feared for his life, Malval said, "We all have our

An argument breaks out over dwindling gasoline supplies in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Thursday, as the U.N.-imposed oil embargo begins to have its effect in Haiti.

life on the line. We know we have a job to do."

On Thursday, prominent Aristide supporter Samuel Milord, a congressman, was reported missing. His family told Radio Tropic FM he was kidnapped, but the president of the lower chamber of parliament, Antoine Joseph, said Milord was in hiding because of death threats.

Milord, a civil engineer, was one of the first lawmakers to publicly denounce the September 1991 coup that ousted Aristide. He had refused to take part in parliament sessions in which lawmakers were forced at gunpoint to declare the presidency vacant.

Other Aristide supporters have been killed, including Justice Minister Guy Malary a week ago and prominent businessman Antoine Izmerly on Sept. 11.

Malval, who heads an Aristide-backed transition Cabinet, has been under heavy security.

Clinton to meet with Yeltsin in Moscow after first of the year

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — President Clinton will hold a summit meeting in mid-January in a show of support for Russian President Boris Yeltsin, who is struggling to convert the onetime communist state into a democracy with a free market economy.

A senior U.S. official said there would be an announcement later today of the summit to be held in Moscow after Secretary of State Warren Christopher meets with Yeltsin in the president's country home outside the capital.

Clinton declined to discuss the meeting while jogging in Washington this morning. Asked if a summit was scheduled for Jan. 11-12, he said only, "I don't believe the date's been set."

Vice President Al Gore, meanwhile, will come to Russia in mid-December. The two visits are designed to emphasize U.S. support for Yeltsin's government and also bring attention to one of the more successful aspects of the administration's foreign policy.

Clinton met with Yeltsin in Canada in April promising $1.6 billion in U.S. aid, and again in Tokyo in July at the summit meeting of the leaders of seven industrialized democracies.

Yeltsin has had unqualified backing from Clinton as he dissolved Parliament last month and then crushed a revolt by hardliners in early October.

In a meeting earlier today with American business executives, Christopher said the Clinton administration would help them move into Russia's markets.

He reported "every cent" of the $2.5 billion approved by Congress to set up a new banking system and revise Russia's legal structure had been obligated to a specific project and that the U.S. Embassy would appoint a fulltime ombudsman to assist in easing restrictions on oil exports and to clear bureaucratic hurdles.

"The State Department is very business-friendly," Christopher said. "We are trying to help in every way we can."

American corporations long have had their eye on Russia, with its rich resources of oil, gold and furs, and a labor pool with no experience with unions or Western wages. The disintegration of the Soviet Union in December 1991 and the Yeltsin government's commitment to a free market economy has prompted Western companies to open offices here and to get in on the ground floor.

Clinton has pledged $1.6 billion in new assistance, on top of the $2.5 billion approved by Congress last month.

The conversion to capitalism is already manifest.

Burundi leaders in hiding

The Associated Press

NAIROBI, Kenya — Coup leaders who overthrew Burundi's first freely elected president declared a state of emergency today and closed the tiny Central African nation to the outside world.

The fate of President Melchior Ndadaye and several leading members of his government wasn't known, but one unconfirmed report said they were killed.

The coup ended Burundi's five-month experience with democracy and raised the specter of fresh blood-letting in a nation where tens of thousands have died in ethnic fighting in recent years.

The country's borders were sealed, communications were cut, the international airport at the capital, Bujumbura, was closed and traffic was halted at Burundi's port on Lake Tanganyika. The army declared a state of emergency.

"The Burundi capital is virtually isolated from the rest of the world," the state radio in Kigali, the capital of neighboring Rwanda, reported today.

Burundi's minister of information told Radio Rwanda by phone from Bujumbura on Thursday that he and other government officials went into hiding after Ndadaye was seized in the predawn coup.

The minister, Jean-Marie Ngendahayo, said soldiers were violently suppressing demonstrations in favor of the toppled government.

"The entire town is currently tightly controlled," he said.

With telecommunications cut, it couldn't be determined if there were any casualties when the army stormed the national palace and other government offices early Thursday.

In Belgium, Burundi's former colonial ruler, BRTN radio said unidentified sources reported that rebels had killed Ndadaye, 40, a former banker, and some of his aides.

Earlier reports from Burundi said Ndadaye and three Cabinet ministers were being held at a military base near the capital. Soldiers reportedly were hunting for other leading government figures in hiding.

The Burundi embassy in Rwanda said the coup was masterminded by former President Jean Baptiste Bagaza.

Ndadaye was elected last June, becoming the first member of the majority Hutu ethnic community and the first non-military man to hold the presidency since Burundi gained its independence in 1962.

Congress objects to NAFTA travelers' fee

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A growing number of lawmakers are calling on the Clinton administration to find something other than a tax increase — no matter how small — to pay for the North American Free Trade Agreement.

"You are in the process of losing supporters without converting any opponents" by advocating a higher fee on international travelers, Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., cautioned.

"I find this troublesome," Sen. Richard Bryan, D-Nev., added Thursday as Mickey Kantor, President Clinton's trade ambassador, testified before the Senate Commerce Committee.

NAFTA, which gradually would eliminate most barriers to free trading among the United States, Mexico and Canada, would lose about $500 million a year by dropping tariffs on imports from Mexico.

To make up that revenue, the administration proposed to double the $5 customs fee now collected from arriving international air and ship passengers. Now, Kantor is advocating a $2.50 increase with the expectation the remainder of the lost revenue would be made up by spending reductions.

"That's the best option we have been able to come up with," Kantor said, noting that half the extra $2.50 per trip would come from foreigners.

said 118th District Judge Bob Moore. "Maybe not in all cases, but in some cases it's probably appropriate," said District Attorney Rick Hamby.

Also at issue is whether the amendment curbs U.S. guarantees against excessive bail, since denial of bail may be considered excessive. "This is another trend," Richard said. "This goes with the erosion of the presumption of innocence." Bail, under state law, was originally intended to ensure defendants would reappear in court. "But the things that a judge may look at in assessing bail are a lot more than that," Moore said. It can include work history, past bond compliance, criminal history, nature of the offense, whether the offense was aggravated, circumstances of the offense and range of possible punishment.

On Sept. 1, state judges got authority to consider protection of the community in setting bails.

Should Christians observe Halloween?

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Features Editor

For Christians, is the Halloween holiday a night of harmless fun or a glorification of the occult?

The answer depends on who you ask.

"I wish they would take it out of the public schools," said Ed Walker, pastor of Baptist Temple. "It's totally inappropriate and I don't condone it. We don't practice it."

Walker's feelings were echoed by several other local pastors in various denominations, who said they had concerns about the symbols associated with Halloween or wanted it abolished altogether.

"It's one of the 'high days' in demonic worship," said Gary Smith, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene. He has removed his own children from observation of the holiday, and does not promote it at the church, either.

"There are subtle occultic innuendoes there," Smith said. "It comes across as play, but there is underlying meaning."

Several churches observe a "fall festival" or other event for children, complete with candy and games rather than Halloween.

"We celebrate the family," Walker said, "not Satan and Satan worship. (Halloween) was conceived for that purpose and that's what it is."

Bill Banks said certain aspects, such as costumes and candy, are fun for children and not generally dangerous.

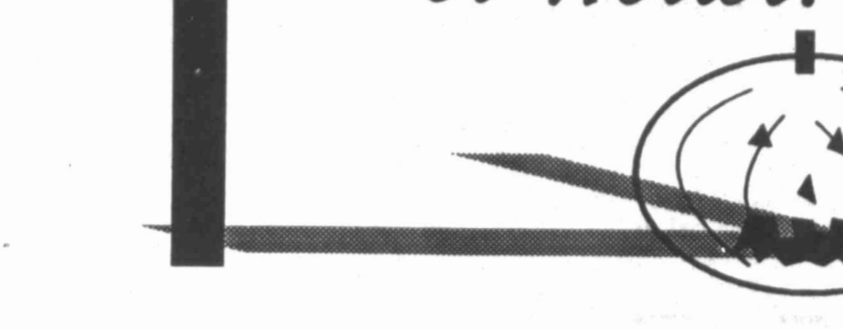

"As a child, it was always fun to go out, trick or treat and receive candy," he said. "I think it's a good thing for children to dress up in silly costumes and have a good time."

Some symbolism worries him, Banks said, but he believes it can be observed in a way that is not harmful.

Flynn Long, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, said the holiday is basically innocuous.

"Most people don't really believe it," he said. "I guess if it were used

Halloween: Harmless or Horror?

by someone who really believed in all that, it could be harmful, but I don't think it's the national holiday of the devil."

"I don't have a problem with the costumes and the carnival type things," said Keith Gibbons of College Heights Christian Church. "But I do have a problem with the idea of glorifying death, spooks, scaring people and being mean."

"I believe in a spirit world," Gibbons said, "but I don't want to glorify that."

For Randy Cotton, pastor at Trinity Baptist Church, the problem with Halloween is that the world around us has changed.

"With the emphasis now on the occult and that sort of thing, we think it's better not to observe it, that's all," he said. "We will have a 'hobo party' in our youth department, but we don't encourage the other."

Halloween was begun to recognize the eve of All Saints Day or All Hallows' Day. That day was - in ancient cultures - believed to be the day the souls of the dead returned to the earth. The word Halloween refers to All Hallows' Eve.

All Saint's Day is observed in Europe and in other countries as a holiday. In some, schools and businesses are closed.

Get answers from the Bible

By FRED POEPEL
St. Paul Lutheran vicar

Can a Christian celebrate Halloween? This is a question that more and more people are asking these days.

Most adults over the age of 25 or 30 probably grew up like I did. We went "Trick or Treating," played harmless pranks, and didn't worry too much whether our costume was a likeness of Mickey Mouse, a hobo, a ghost, Count Dracula, or "The Wicked Witch of the West." The costume was just a disguise so that our neighbors couldn't guess who we were.

Sadly, somewhere in the last 20 years that has all changed. We've all heard about the few mentally sick people who try to poison kids, and the increasing number of reports about Satan worship.

Can a Christian celebrate Halloween? Hopefully, the first place that a Christian would look to answer that question properly is the Bible. Of course you won't find the word Halloween in the Bible, so we have to look a little deeper to deal with the "offending" issues associated with this holiday.

Based on the Bible, we certainly believe that Satan exists, just as Satan knows that Jesus Christ exists. The Bible also teaches us about the existence of angels and demons, good and evil spirits, pain, suffering, and death. In fact one of the most horrible ways to die ever devised by sinful mankind was crucifixion as suffered by our Lord Jesus Christ.

However, thank God, we know that Jesus rose to life again on Easter morning. By His resurrection He has already won the final victory over "sin, death, and the power of the devil." It does no one any good to deny that Satan and occultic applications. A lot of the public seems to be becoming more aware of the dangers of it.

"It's not a Christian holiday," Walker said. "I think Christians should have no part of it."

Dedication services

Installation and dedication services are continuing this weekend at New Jerusalem Apostolic for God #2, 1311 Goliad in Big Spring.

Pastor Elmer Clinton has arranged special services with guest preachers and music by The Messengers of Jesus Christ, a local music group.

Today at 7:30 p.m., Bishop Jimmy Drain will speak. Saturday at 5 p.m., Bishop George Abbott is scheduled, and on Sunday at 7:30 p.m., pastor M.J. Mullins will preach. Anyone is welcome to attend the events, celebrating the organization of this new church in the community.

The date was not unlike "Fat Tuesday" or "Shrove Tuesday" which is celebrated especially in the Mardi Gras revelings and festivities. The idea is that since Lent begins on Ash Wednesday and people are expected to be extra holy during Lent, everyone tries to get in one last round of celebration and partying. So also the eve before All Saints Day, or the Eve of All Saints, or Hallowed Eve or Halloween as it eventually came to be called.

As time passed the people decided that the demons and evil angels should not have all the fun on Halloween and so they dressed up like demons, witches and scary characters and went around playing tricks on their neighbors.

In many sectors of the Christian Church the celebration of All Saints Day has disappeared from the Christian Calendar, especially among Protestants, but the Halloween celebration it spawned has continued to grow larger and larger each year.

To those Christians who are familiar with Church History, one of the interesting corollaries of Halloween is the fact that it was on October 31, 1517 that Dr. Martin Luther nailed his now famous (infamous??) 95 Theses to the door of the Castle Church in Wittenberg. The result was that this eventually brought about the Protestant Reformation and the ultimate birth of all those churches which have come into being since that date.

Interesting isn't it? The way God arranges things. On the Day now set aside for demons, witches, goblins and all sorts of real or perceived evil, God caused the greatest Spiritual Awakening in the history of the Christian church to occur, the Protestant Reformation.

So, next when the kids come by to play "Trick or Treat" you might say a silent prayer of thanksgiving for the greatest "Treat" He has given us, the restoration to the church of the Reformation belief of "Salvation by grace alone, through Faith alone, from God's Word alone."

Patriotism and the gospel

John Wayne look-alike, sound-alike preaches, teaches

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Gene Howard loves to kid around in his seminars for Sunday school teachers and over the years developed some 40 imitations of well known voices like Bugs Bunny and Jimmy Stewart.

After all, says the 53-year-old audio-visual instructor from Bryan, Texas, you need to get someone's attention before you can teach them something. He teaches teachers to use facial expressions, stick-figure drawings, puppets, etc.

But about seven years ago, something unexpected happened.

Friends and others began telling him that he looked like John Wayne. For several years, Howard had already been using a Wayne voice impersonation with little effort in his seminars. He later learned that his normal voice is also similar to Wayne's higher-pitched off-stage voice. So he walks and talks like Wayne without trying.

"Basically, I don't do an impersonation, that's my natural voice," Howard said. "I guarantee you, when I go to an airport, I get attention."

In addition, he shares deeply patriotic feelings Wayne was known for. Also shared are Christian values. According to one of Wayne's sisters, Howard said, Wayne was saved while in the hospital prior to his death in 1979. Howard was saved when he was 19 and ordained as a Baptist minister in 1976.

"I figure the Lord must have done it for a reason," Howard said. Eventually, he began using his gift to spread the message of the gospel.

A few years ago he began doing a show called, "Freedom and Sacrifice." It talks of physical sacrifices citizens made for freedom of the Gene Howard of Bryan, Texas, an ordained minister who looks and sounds like John Wayne, will present his show, "Freedom and Sacrifice," Sunday at 10:50 a.m. at East Side Baptist Church in Big Spring, and at 6 p.m. in Colorado City at Central Baptist Church, 17th and Hickory.

United States and the spiritual sacrifice made by Jesus.

"Not one in 100, one in 1,000, or one in a million could save us from our evil desires," Howard said. "There's only been one born into the world that could do that."

Among the first shows, the first veterans hospital, was one at the VA Medical Center in Big Spring. It quickly grew in popularity, from a few shows the first year to at least one a week now and up one a day. It came out on an album last year.

"It's very humbling," Howard said. "You can hardly give someone the gospel today and here they are lined up to get it."

In April, he orated two of his poems to the national annual convention of the National Rifle Association in Nashville, Tenn., sounding like Wayne, of course. He got a standing ovation and the association board voted on the spot to publish the poems in the June issues of both its monthly publications.

The association had never published poems before, Howard said. "I feel honored."

The poems, "Son, Do You See Old Glory Flying Up There," and "Do You Want My Gun," were included with 10 other poems in an album released this summer. The album's called, "What Made America Great."

Howard is involved in secular projects as well, but maintains Christian and conservative values.

He's in Michigan today filming six introductions to Moore Outdoors, an historical and outdoor show that might be on the USA Network in January. He's done a couple of commercials in Bryan as well.

In one planned show for Moore Outdoors, sounding and looking like Wayne, Howard will interview people about how they feel about the Alamo. He'll also recite two of his poems and a third will be recited by someone else. It's to be filmed in January, using the Alamo replica in Brackettville. That's where the movie, "The Alamo," was filmed, starring John Wayne.

Howard, who has a doctorate in visual communications as well as a theology degree, plans to put together a correspondence course in basic drawing and cartooning for Christian and home schools. He also envisions a commercial art school in College Station that centers around cartooning, with the quality produced by Walt Disney studios.

"But have God's principles in them," he said.

Toastmasters

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club held its weekly meeting Tuesday morning, Oct. 19, 1993.

Table topics were led by Josh Owusu, and the word of the day was "laissez faire," meaning "letting people do as they please."

Each member was given the opportunity to speak on the topic of the day, which was "government control of business." Best table topic speaker was Scott McLaughlin.

LaNelle Witt was voted best speaker. Her speech was titled, "Do You Know This Man?" The best evaluator was Scott McLaughlin.

The goal of Tall Talkers is to educate people to become better leaders and communicators. If you are interested in becoming a Tall Talker Toastmaster, please contact Bailey Anderson at 267-3008.

TOPS Club

TOPS Club, Inc., a non-profit weight loss organization recently held an area rally day in Sweetwater with 10 members of the local club in attendance.

The theme for the day was "The Fifties" and members enjoyed dressing in their jeans, big shirts, poodle skirts and saddle oxfords - conducting a parade of costumes.

Group participation activities included a sock hop, singing and a bit of exercise.

Each club in attendance was asked to bring a table decoration depicting the theme for the day and the local chapter came away with a second place ribbon.

Members enjoyed a baggy garment parade - with each participant hav-

Another look at Oct. 31

By CARROLL KOHL
St. Paul Lutheran Church

I am sure you have already seen many of the decorations around town. Each year there seem to be more and more. Some are pretty gruesome and some quite cute. I'm talking about the Halloween decorations.

I am told that Halloween is now the second most popular celebration in our country. Only Christmas exceeds Halloween in retail sales. Of all the celebrations in our country Halloween is the most controversial. It is the Great High Festival of Satanist worshippers and a fun time for kids and pranksters and "Trick-or-Treaters."

What is not known by most present day "Halloweeners" is the origin of this strange day. Actually Halloween came about as a reaction to the next day on the Calendar, November 1. Many years ago, back in what we today call the "Dark Ages" November 1 was one of the most holy of Holy Days. It is called "All Saints Day." It was the day on which the "faithful" gathered and remembered and/or worshiped all the Saints of God who had died and were now with God in heaven.

On this day, tradition said, all the evil forces and evil angels were not allowed out of their dwellings. Since these evil angels and demons were not allowed out of their hellish domains on Nov. 1, they all came out in force on Oct. 31 and people had to be very careful not to be attacked and frightened by them.

On the Day now set aside for demons, witches, goblins and all sorts of real or perceived evil, God caused the greatest Spiritual Awakening in the history of the Christian church, the Protestant Reformation.

The date was not unlike "Fat Tuesday" or "Shrove Tuesday" which is celebrated especially in the Mardi Gras revelings and festivities. Senior ministry

The Senior Citizens Ministries of First United Methodist Church recently prepared a newsletter entitled, "Happy Happenings" listing adventures and opportunities for senior members. On October 14 a group traveled to Midland to attend Midland Community Theatre's presentation of "Glass Menagerie" and on October 16 transportation was provided in order that seniors might attend the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair.

Next is a Fall Journey to the San Antonio, New Braunfels and San Marcos area. The group will leave after Noon Bible Study on Wednesday, Nov. 3 and return on Saturday, Nov. 6. Reservations and a $50 deposit must be made by Oct. 25. For more information, contact the church office at 267-6394.

On Saturday, Nov. 13, the Seniors Committee is sponsoring attendance at Big Spring Symphony's series presenting a home town boy, Larry Wheat as piano soloist. Wheat is the son of Walter and Frances Wheat of Big Spring. Sr. Citizens tickets for this presentation are $7.50 reservations and money must be in the church office by Nov. 8.

Round up slated

It's Round-Up time at Vincent Baptist Church, Oct. 31.

Pastor Aeron Oden will be joined by cowboy poets, singers and speakers for the day long event. Please see Church, page 9.

The Mary Jane Club of Coahoma met in the home of Patricia Barr for their October meeting with Laura Murphree as co-hostess. In keeping with the year's program theme "Food and Fun," guest speaker Gay Herren of Gaze Crystal Kitchen introduced members to "What's New In The Kitchen." As part of her presentation Herren displayed homemade pastries gaily wrapped for holiday giving; these were given as door prizes to Diane Wood, Marie Ethridge, Joyce Choate and Patricia Barr.

Following the program, president Eula Bell Fowler conducted a business meeting. Roll call was answered with Trick or Treat recipes which will go into a recipe book. The club will sponsor a cake walk at the Coahoma Halloween Carnival on October 30. Members were reminded to bring gifts for Big Spring State Hospital Christmas at the next meeting which will convene at the home of Bobbie Nix before going to the Gingerbread House in Midland for lunch.

evil exist, but we do not want to glorify him with our Halloween festivities, either.

Can a Christian celebrate Halloween? Probably the closest parallel situations in the Bible are the concerns that St. Paul addressed about: eating meat sacrificed to idols (1 Corinthians 8, Romans 14), which days are sacred (Romans 14), and the claim by some that non-Jewish Christians must be circumcised (Galatians 2). Even if you're not a Bible scholar, you'll recognize many familiar verses in these chapters.

Unfortunately, the verses are often taken out of context to support arguments for extreme Christian freedom or extreme legalism. As Christians we have a responsibility to be concerned about what others might think of our actions, so that we don't lead them to doubt their faith in Jesus Christ.

On the other hand, it is just as inappropriate for others to question the validity of our faith, just because we might do something that they don't approve of. The Christian walk is often a fine line between two extremes.

Schedule is as follows: 8 a.m., Coffee and donuts; 9 a.m., Cowboy poets and singers; 10-noon, Sunday school and preaching; noon, Dinner on grounds; 1:30 p.m., more poets and gospel singing.

There is no admission and anyone is welcome. Guests are singers: Jody Nix, Emily Smith, Benny Green and others. Poets: Sherry Bryant, Eddie Hooker, Perry Williams, Jackie Green and others.

Witness convention

Area Jehovah's Witnesses will hold a convention Oct. 23-24 at the Lamesa High School Auditorium.

The main theme will be "Keep On Seeking First The Kingdom" based on Matthew 6:33. The talks and practical demonstrations will urge those in attendance to view the Kingdom of God as a reality and as the most important part of daily life.

On Sunday at 1:40 p.m. Gaylord Augustine, a traveling minister, will speak on the topic "What The Kingdom of God Can Do For Humanity."

The program will start Saturday at 9:55 a.m. All sessions will be open to the public. Everyone is invited to attend.

Aglow conference

Local women joined others from an estimated 70 nations in Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Americas in Phoenix, Arizona for the 1993 Women's Aglow Fellowship (WAF) International Conference, Oct. 6-10. Eight thousand attendees of this transdenominational fellowship gathered to pray, worship, and attend workshops.

The conference theme was "Released to the Nations ... Establishing Hope," reflecting Aglow's focus on worldwide prayer and evangelism. In 109 nations around the world Christian women involved in Women's Aglow Fellowship, International, share a common purpose: to pray for their nations and witness the gospel of Jesus Christ.

In addition to the main sessions, the group was given the opportunity to attend a variety of leadership workshops with topics that include prison ministry, support groups, and fund raising. Other special sessions included teen workshops led by Rachel Burchfield, and meetings with regional and international Aglow leaders.

Aglow is an interdenominational Christian women's ministry based in Edmonds, Washington, with 1,496 fellowships in the United States and 1,164 fellowships in 108 other nations. Aglow began in 1967 when four Seattle women desired Christian fellowship for women.

The organization also publishes and internationally distributes literature for women. Women's Aglow Fellowship is an international transdenominational Christian movement that emphasizes the Holy Spirit's work in women's lives.

Parliament report

On Sunday, October 24, 1993, beginning at 9:45 a.m., the Unitarian Universalist Church of Midland will host a program entitled, "The 1993 Parliament of the World's Religions."

The presenter will be Robert G. Volkman, who attended the Parliament and participated as a speaker.

Held in Chicago, Illinois, Aug. 28-Sept. 5, 1993, the 1993 Parliament of the World's Religions drew 6500 participants from all parts of the world, representing most of the world's diverse religious traditions. The objectives of the Parliament included promoting understanding and cooperation among religious communities and institutions.

The public is invited to attend. Child care will be provided.

By The Associated Press

NASHVILLE — Southern Baptists have issued a call for 40 days of prayer for President Clinton.

The prayer booklet, developed by the denomination's Brotherhood Commission, includes various prayers that Clinton and Vice President Al Gore will have the "wisdom" and "courage to stand for what is right."

The denomination's convention last June urged the two, both of whom are Southern Baptists, to reverse their stands for homosexual and abortion rights and to "stand for biblical morality."

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America is raising a special fund to provide additional pension contributions for church workers in low-paying jobs.

The step was generated by a report that of 10,500 church retirees, 1,300 got minimum pensions of $350 a month and $250 for the spouse.

Objective of the special fund is to bring church pensions up to a minimum of $1,000 a month for a single person and $1,250 a month for a couple.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Asked at a news conference why the moral fabric of American society seems to be deteriorating, evangelist Billy Graham blamed lack of moral teaching, especially in schools.

"We have almost completely secularized our textbooks and are paying a terrible price for it," he said.

WASHINGTON — The head of United Methodism's social-concerns agency says terms of the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement do not enforce labor rights and environmental standards.

The Rev. Thom White Wolf Fassett says the terms "are not fair to the people of the United States, Canada and Mexico."

MINNEAPOLIS — A new general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, the Rev. Thomas E. Trask, assumes that top office Nov. 15.

Trask, formerly general treasurer, was elected superintendent at the denomination's general council. He succeeds the Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, who did not seek re-election. He had held the top post since 1986.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

BIG SPRING (4-3, 1-2) at LAKE VIEW (2-4, 0-2)

We get to start with an easy pick this week. The Steers have been banged up the last few weeks, and they've lost twice in a row - but they weren't playing against Lake View's defense. The Chiefs have allowed 440 yards per game this season, worst in District 3-4A by far. Regardless of how well Lake View has thrown the ball - wide receivers Terrance Norris and David Taylor are two of the best pass catchers in the district - the Chiefs' glaring defensive weaknesses have hurt them dearly. If you need any comparisons, Andrews beat Lake View 38-10, and Sweetwater beat the Chiefs 51-3. But comparing common opponents isn't necessary. Take the Steers.

BIG SPRING 35, LAKE VIEW 10

IRAAN (5-2, 2-1) at COAHOMA (2-5, 0-3)

The Coahoma Bulldogs, who have seen their playoff hopes go up in smoke the last three weeks, try to regroup at home tonight against the Iraan Braves. The Bulldogs were bolstered this week by the news that fullback Edward Dunn will return after missing four games with an appendectomy. Teamed with tailback Kelby Bailey, Dunn will provide extra punch to the running game. Iraan is still in the running for a playoff spot, but Coahoma is more than due for good news. We smell an upset.

COAHOMA 28, IRAAN 21

FORSAN (3-4, 0-2) at ROBY (3-4, 0-2)

This week's "Seeing Double" special will be in Roby tonight, as two teams with identical records and makeup meet in a battle of District 9-1A bottom-dwellers. Forsan and Roby have both been victims of youth, lack of depth and injuries. Despite that, both have displayed scoring punch and surprising defense. With two teams so even, you really can't go wrong picking one or the other. We like the Buffs.

FORSAN 21, ROBY 18

COLORADO CITY (1-6, 0-2) at KERMIT (3-4, 1-1)

The Colorado City Wolves desperately need a home game against a weak team. No such luck. The Wolves, riding a six-game losing streak, travel to Kermit tonight, and the outlook isn't good. The Yellowjackets own a 34-14 district win against Sonora, a team that earned its first win of the year with a 37-14 pasting of - you guessed it - C-City. Pity the Wolves. Their next game is at home against Greenwood. That game will be tough enough, but the Wolves finish the season Nov. 5 in Big Lake against Reagan County, which is ranked seventh in Class 3A. Looks like a 1-9 season for C-City.

KERMIT 40, COLORADO CITY 7

SONORA (1-5, 1-1) at GREENWOOD (4-2-1, 1-1)

Speaking of Sonora, the Bulldogs will be at Greenwood tonight. They'll wish they never got on the bus. The Rangers played Reagan County tough in the first half last week before falling, 33-13. Greenwood has a good route to the playoffs - the Rangers can beat Sonora and Colorado City, then fight for a playoff berth Nov. 5 at home against Kermit. Sonora has its own playoff dreams, but it hasn't played Reagan County yet. Give the contender the edge over the pretender.

GREENWOOD 31, SONORA 14

STANTON (5-2, 3-1) at ELDORADO (3-4, 1-2)

Stanton was an up-and-down team earlier this season, but the Battlin' Buffs have been consistent winners lately. Now they face the up-and-down Eldorado Eagles. The Eagles beat Coahoma 26-7 Oct. 3, then shut out Class 1A's then-No. 1 team, Rankin, 14-0. Suddenly Eldorado looked great - then last week Wall beat the Eagles with ease, 31-12. Wall is 7-0 and alone atop District 6-2A, so losing that game was no disgrace for Eldorado. Still, Stanton is on a roll, and Eldorado won't stand in its way.

STANTON 28, ELDORADO 20

SANDERSON (1-4, 0-0) at GARDEN CITY (1-5, 1-0)

Garden City has just one win, but guess what? The Bearkats are in first place in District 8-1A. Garden City beat Fort Davis 28-19 last week on the road, and this week the Bearkats will enjoy their homecoming. The Bearkats have had a sputtering offense, averaging almost 13 points per game, but Sanderson is much worse in that category. The Eagles average just eight points per game. With Rankin and Wink still on the schedule, Garden City's chances of going to the playoffs are next to none. Still, Garden City will be 2-0 and at least tied with Wink for first place when it visits Wink next Friday. That's a bit more excitement than Bearkat fans may have expected after their team's 0-5 start.

GRADY (6-1, 1-1) at SANDS (6-0-1, 2-0)

Six-man fans, take note: This week's Game of the Year is tonight in Ackerly. Grady can no longer be written off as a "surprise" team. The Wildcats, though a bit thin, are blessed with speed on both sides of the ball and an offense that can drive a scoreboard operator crazy. The Sands Mustangs, meanwhile, are not quite as flashy as the 'Cats but have a defense that is downright miserly by six-man standards and an offense that produces enough points to win. Pretty is as pretty does.

SANDS 38, GRADY 35

KLONDIKE (5-2, 1-1) at LOOP (0-7, 0-2)

If the Grady-Sands game is the Game of the Year, this one is the Mismatch of the Month. Klondike, though sorely missing running back Mike Lee, is still a solid team on both offense and defense, while Loop is struggling. The Cougars keep rolling to a playoff spot.

KLONDIKE 54, LOOP 6

TRENT (1-6, 0-2) at BORDEN COUNTY (3-4, 2-0)

Even when the Borden County Coyotes were 1-4, coach Bobby Avery was telling everybody not to count his team out. Two weeks later, the Coyotes are on top of District 6. The Trent Gorillas, meanwhile, have a snazzy nickname but not much else. The Coyotes are making their push for a fourth-straight playoff appearance, and the Gorillas are in the way.

Phils cling to dream with 2-0 win

Philadelphia third baseman Dave Hollins, right, tags out Toronto pinch-runner Willie Canete in the eighth inning of Thursday's fifth game of the World Series. Watching the play is Curt Schilling (38), who pitched a five-hit shutout. Toronto leads the series three games to two, and the two teams will resume the Fall Classic Saturday night at 7 p.m.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Curt Schilling gave everyone a break — except the Toronto Blue Jays.

Schilling pitched a five-hitter for Philadelphia to beat Toronto 2-0, sending the World Series back to the SkyDome on Saturday night with the Blue Jays still needing one win for their second straight championship.

Thursday night's result was quite a contrast to Game 4, when the Blue Jays rallied for six runs in the eighth inning for a 15-14 victory. The teams combined for 32 hits and all sorts of scoring records.

Manager Jim Fregosi said the Phillies needed a complete game from Schilling, the Game 1 loser, and the right-hander gave it to them and much more.

Schilling also gave the Philadelphia fans a World Series victory after a heartbreaking loss. He gave his team some hope and the Blue Jays a few doubts. He also provided the stat people with a chance to rest up a little.

"The fans deserved what they saw tonight," Schilling said. "We were disappointed for what they went through, too."

It was the 39th time that a World Series had stood 3-1. Of the previous 38, the team leading has won 32 titles. The Phillies plan to start Terry Mulholland (1-0) against Dave Stewart (0-1) in Game 6.

"This is a good note to go to Toronto on," said Schilling, the NL Please see SERIES, page 11

Crossroads Country will be Playoff Central

Random thoughts while dreaming of covering the Super Bowl:

With the football season entering its final few weeks, five area teams still hold realistic chances of making the playoffs.

I don't include the Big Spring Steers in that group, although they are far from eliminated. The Steers still have an outside shot at the post-season but no longer control their own destiny.

For Big Spring to make the playoffs, the Steers will have to win the rest of their games (a distinct possibility) and hope that either Andrews or Sweetwater lose three of their remaining games (not so distinct).

But even with the Steers' predicament, area football fans can still look forward to Crossroads Country teams making the playoffs.

Six-man teams are particularly strong this season. All four area teams - Sands, Grady, Klondike and Borden County - stand a good chance at playing in the postseason this year.

Borden County (3-4) started slowly, losing five of its first six games, but it has won its first two District 6 contests to put the Coyotes in a good position for a late-season rush.

The Coyotes' major problems - youth and a lack of depth - may yet derail their playoff hopes, but coach Bobby Avery knows how to win football games, and Borden's players have learned his lessons well (four straight years in the playoffs).

The major problem facing Sands, Klondike and Grady is numbers - three good teams and only two playoff spots available in District 5.

Sands (2-0 in district) has the best position among the three right now, as everybody else in the league has at least one loss. The Mustangs are young, but have more depth than your average six-man team. This depth allows them to platoon players, almost unheard of in lower classifications.

Right behind Sands are the Klondike Cougars. The Cougars were preseason favorites to make the playoffs, and have done little to prove the experts wrong, going 5-2 overall and 1-1 in district action.

The Cougars also have the most favorable schedule from here on. Their three opponents - Loop, Wellman and Dawson - are a combined 2-4 in district play.

All is not rosy for Klondike, however. The Coogs recently lost running back Mike Lee to a knee injury, and he was definitely missed in the team's 30-18 loss to Sands last Friday.

The third team of the District 5 trinity is Grady. The Wildcats have been the wild card of the bunch, expected to finish in the middle of the pack but instead going 6-1 overall and 1-1 in district play.

The 'Cats, however, are also in the toughest position of the three, play-off-wise. They have already lost to Klondike and a loss at Sands tonight would all but eliminate Grady from the postseason.

A win, however, would definitely make things interesting.

Of the area's 11-man teams, only two - Stanton and Greenwood - still have a fighting chance at postseason action.

Of the two, Stanton seems on the shakiest ground. The Buffs already have one loss in District 6-2A play and face two tough contests in a row - Eldorado tonight and district leader Wall next Friday.

Two losses here would sink any hopes for the Buffs.

Greenwood, while not a lead-pipe cinch, seems to have a better chance of making the playoffs. Of the Rangers' three remaining games, only one (against Kermit) is against a winning team.

Hold on tight, football fanatics. It gets interesting from here.

Referee meeting slated for BSHS

Anyone interested in officiating high school or junior high basketball games this season should be at the Big Spring High School gymnasium Wednesday at 7 p.m.

For more information, call 267-6391 or 267-8323 (after 5 p.m.).

Deer season starts Nov. 6

Land owners and hunters are reminded of the regulation changes for Howard County during the upcoming deer season, which opens Nov. 6, 1993 and runs through Jan. 2, 1994.

Special antlerless deer permits are no longer required for harvesting doe deer in Howard County. The new either-sex deer season requires that either-sex deer may be tagged with the appropriate tag from the hunting license. Buck deer must also be tagged with the appropriate tag from the license.

The bag limit is two does and one buck for Howard County and does not represent a change from last year's limit. Anyone harvesting a deer in Texas must cut or punch out the month and day from the license tag and attach the dated tag to the carcass immediately after harvesting the animal.

Recently completed deer population surveys in Howard County allow the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. to issue the following deer harvest recommendations: It is recommended that no antlerless deer be taken north of I-20 due to light population densities. South of I-20, the recommended harvest rate is one antlerless deer per 500 acres.

For further information concerning deer harvest rates or wildlife management, contact wildlife biologist Bill Del Monte at 915-798-3152 in Nolan. Report game violations by calling Operation Game Thief - 1-800-792-4263.

Steers sweep Lake View

If junior varsity and freshman results are any indication, the varsity Big Spring Steers should score more than a few points tonight in San Angelo.

Big Spring JV 41
Lake View JV 30

Ray McGee scored three touchdowns for Big Spring, and the Steers withstood a late Lake View rally at Memorial Stadium to earn their fifth win in eight tries this season.

McGee scored on runs of 4, 8 and 42 yards, in that order. The 8-yard score put Big Spring up 20-0, and Bucky Crenshaw's 1-yard touchdown run put Big Spring ahead 27-0 at halftime.

Jimmy Robles made four of his five extra-point kicks for Big Spring.

Lake View cut the lead to 13 in the third quarter, but Big Spring's Donnie Hill scored his second touchdown of the night on a 3-yard run to put the Steers ahead 34-14. Hill had scored in the first quarter on a 33-yard run.

The Steers sweated a bit as Lake View drew within 34-30 late in the game, but McGee's 42-yard score clinched the win.

The junior varsity Steers are off next week.

Big Spring 9th 34
Lake View 9th 12

SAN ANGELO - Tom McVae scored two touchdowns to lead the Big Spring freshmen to their sixth victory of the year against one loss and a tie.

McVae opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 10-yard touchdown run early in the first quarter. Robert Valencia's 2-point conversion run made the score 8-0. Gabe Rubio tacked on another six points later in the quarter when he scored on a 70-yard TD reception from Tyler Murphy.

Jody Bennett scored on a 25-yard run, and Valencia added a 10-yard TD run in the second quarter to put the Steers up 26-0 at halftime.

McVae closed out Big Spring's scoring in the third when he tallied from 6 yards out.

playoffs MVP with 16 strikeouts on 19 innings against Atlanta. "Our fans are incredible. They were really behind us."

But some of those same fans filled the conversation on the local radio talk shows only hours before, expressing their disbelief that the Phillies blew a 14-9 lead against the Blue Jays in the eighth inning a night earlier. The city was stunned.

Schilling, put in the position of needing a complete game, walked three and struck out six. He made 148 pitches.

"This is my nine innings," Schilling said. "I always feel if I don't go nine innings, I didn't do my job."

Schilling got some early support when John Kruk scored Lenny Dykstra from third in the first inning on a groundout to second off loser Juan Guzman. Dykstra, who has scored eight runs in five games, led off with a walk, stole second and moved to third on catcher Pat Borders' throwing error.

Doubles by Darren Daulton and Kevin Stocker in the second accounted for the only other run off Guzman, who dropped to 5-1 lifetime in the postseason. Guzman gave up five Freshman coach Gary Simmons declined to single out any player for honors, saying that the win was a total team effort. "They're starting to come together, and they're enjoying playing as a team. That's what it's all about," Simmons said.

The freshman return to action Nov. 4 against Andrews at Blankenship Field. Game time is 6 p.m.

Iraan JV 7
Coahoma JV 6

IRAAN - Coahoma's dream of a perfect junior varsity season ended Thursday - just barely.

Coahoma (7-1) trailed 7-0 at halftime, but Freddie Olivas scored on a 24-yard run in the third quarter. Coahoma did not convert the extra point, however, and that was costly.

Coahoma had one last chance, but a 35-yard field-goal attempt with 14 seconds left in the game sailed wide left.

Adrian De La Rosa played a strong game on the defense line for the Bulldogs. Jason Gonzalez was equally impressive on the offensive line.

Coahoma	0	0	6	6

Stanton JV 8
Eldorado JV 7

STANTON - Taylor Looney contributed a key punt return, touchdown pass and the all-important two-point conversion pass to lead Stanton's junior varsity past Eldorado Thursday night.

Eldorado had taken a 7-0 lead in the first quarter and held that advantage into the fourth quarter. The momentum began to shift when Looney, helped by a key block from Jimmy Kargin, returned a punt to the Eldorado 10.

On the next play, Looney connected with fullback Mark Carillo to make the score 7-6. Looney then passed to tight end John Bryan to give the Buffs the lead for good.

Stanton's defense then made the lead stand by snatching a pair of interceptions - one by James Villa and the other by Jerrod Stallings - to improve the Buffs' record to 6-2.

The Buffalo JV closes out its season next Thursday when it travels to Wall. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

hits, four walks and struck out six in seven innings.

Manager Cito Gaston could have walked Stocker, in a 1-for-13 slump, to pitch to Schilling, but was hoping the pitcher would lead off the next inning if Guzman got the rookie.

"They have the same type of players we have," Gaston said. "They've done it all year and we have, too."

The Blue Jays had everything in place for a victory celebration, but Schilling just won't let them do it at Veterans Stadium. He had to escape a big jam in the eighth, though.

Borders led off with a single and rookie Willie Canate pinch ran. Rob Butler, batting for Guzman, then singled to send Canate to third with Rickey Henderson, Devon White and Roberto Alomar scheduled to bat.

"I was running out of gas in the seventh inning," Schilling said. "But it was my game and no one was warming up. That pumped me up."

In the key play of the inning, Henderson hit a grounder back to the mound that should have put runners on second and third with one out. But Canate made a big blunder and broke for home. Schilling picked the ball up and easily got him at the plate.

Sands, Grady march off to war

Area 6-man preview

Mustangs, Wildcats duel for district lead

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

The Grady Wildcats hope their lives get complicated in the next few weeks, while the Sands Mustangs are looking to simplify their season.

The Wildcats (6-1 overall, 1-1 in District 5) meet the Mustangs (6-0-1, 2-0) in a crucial district contest at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Ackerly.

For Grady, the math is fairly simple: Defeat Sands, and remain in the hunt for a playoff spot. Lose, and the Wildcats can start planning for the offseason.

A Grady victory tonight would make for a three-way tie for first in the district between the Wildcats, Sands and Klondike, assuming Klondike beats Loop. If the season ends that way, a coin flip would decide the district's two playoff representatives.

That would make life more complicated for the Wildcats, but they understandably prefer that alternative to the other. And Sands, quite naturally, would like to avoid a coin flip.

"This is a big one," Sands coach Bob Keyes said. "This is probably the district championship game. If Grady loses, it drops them out of the playoffs."

Add to the mix the fact that Grady

Sands running back Heath Gillespie, right, runs upfield against the Klondike Cougars during last Friday's action. Sands beat Klondike 30-18 to take the upper hand in the District 5 race.

and Sands have developed quite a rivalry over the years, and tonight's game looks to be doozy.

"(Getting ready for the game) has not really been a problem," Grady coach Roger Smith said. "It is evidently a pretty big rivalry."

Both coaches agree that the key to the game will be how well Sands' defense handles Grady's offense.

"They throw the ball well," Keyes said. "With us losing our safety (Steven Cantu), it's going to be tough. And (Tommy) Hewitt is a good running back, so they force you to defend the whole field. You just can't home in on one aspect of their offense."

Cantu, who also backs up Cory Maxwell at quarterback, broke his wrist against Klondike last Friday and probably will miss tonight's game.

"We're just going to have to move the ball, and avoid making mistakes like we did against Klondike two weeks ago," Smith said, referring to the 'Cats lone defeat of the season. "It's going to come down to whoever makes the fewest mistakes."

Offensive stars to look for include Hewitt (739 yards rushing and 15 touchdowns this season) and quarterback Timmy Garza (more than 700 yards passing) for Grady and running back Heath Gillespie (720 yards rushing) for Sands.

In other area six-man games tonight, Borden County hosts Trent, while Klondike is at Loop.

Trent at Borden County

You'll have to excuse Borden County coach Bobby Avery if he's not exactly doing handstands over the Coyotes' two-game winning streak. Sure, the Coyotes are undefeated in District 6 action - but they're not the only ones.

Borden looks to extend its unblemished district record tonight when it hosts the Trent Gorillas (1-6, 0-2) at 7:30.

Although he is understandably pleased with the Coyotes' district record, Avery is quick to add that a fourth straight trip to the playoffs is by no means assured.

"We still have our two toughest foes to play - and Trent is not one of them," Avery said. "We could be undefeated in district after Friday, but Loraine and Highlands are, too ... If we win Friday and then beat either Loraine or Highland, then we'll be in the playoffs. It's going to come down to the last two weeks of the season."

But Avery adds that his team can't afford to overlook the Gorillas.

"They run the spread offense, and do a good job at it," he said. "(Trent) quarterback David Sanford and receiver Mark Payne) could be a lethal combination for us if we let either of them run wild on us ... The key for us is to stop their quarterback and receiver."

Klondike at Loop

Klondike's backfield just keeps getting younger and younger - but it keeps getting results.

Faced with the loss of tailback Mike Lee (knee injury), Klondike coach Ed Wilson plugged freshman Eric Arismendez into Lee's slot for the Cougars' big game with Sands last Friday. Klondike lost the game, 30-18, but Arismendez responded in a big way, gaining 144 yards on 20 carries.

"The guy stepped up and did a job," Wilson said. "He nearly had as many yards rushing as Sands did ... He took some major league hits, but there were some runs that were major league themselves."

Klondike travels to Loop tonight, and Wilson is hoping for more big-time play from his young team.

"One thing that's crucial is when you play a young team, sometimes their play fluctuates," he said. "You don't know how they'll react."

"Loop has a big team, but not a lot of speed," he added. "We need to get to their running back before he can get accelerated ... and we'll need to pass the ball."

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1993

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This is a day of important decisions concerning a relationship. Certain matters need to be hashed out before you can make peace. Try to understand where another is coming from and be more sensitive to the needs of all. You each deserve the other's support. Tonight: Go out as a couple. *****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your creative energy is high today. If you defer to another you will find the outcome positive. Be aware that another's uproar is a way of letting you know how important an issue is. Do not take it personally. You can straighten out a misunderstanding by adapting to a change in plans. Tonight: A trip out of town. *****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Watch the tendency to act carelessly when dealing with mechanical items today. While frustration in a partnership peaks, nurturing talks will bring positive results. Confusion surrounds a long-distance matter. Tonight: Float with the moment. *****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): One-to-one relating is highlighted as you need to defer to another. Walk in someone else's shoes for a while. Your adaptability saves the day and helps a relationship reach a new level by evening. Tonight: You're hot stuff. *****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It's time to take a deep look at your desires. An argument on the home front has you stressed out. Know that you are able to have more of what you want. Discussions about daily chores and habits prove positive by evening. You gain new insights because of your willingness to understand. Tonight: Out and about. *****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It is time for you and another to have meaningful talks about what works for you. Tempers could flair but don't withhold anything. Be open to another's energy and watch as the discussion lands you in the winner's circle. Tonight: Chill out. *****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Watch the tendency to go overboard or be too demanding today. Your mood could cause a fight when you least expect it. Understand your own limits as well as another's. Discussions prove successful after a bit of an uproar. Tonight: Don't worry about the confusion. *****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Improvement will be noticeable in the next few weeks as you clear out of a negative cycle. A misunderstanding today could have you out of sorts. Don't isolate yourself. Rather, be willing to talk things through. Positive results are likely. Tonight: Do it at home. *****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If a partner is valued, say so, and remember that not everything is judged by monetary worth. Follow your intuition about spending money. Confusion surrounds the correct thing to do concerning a partner. Tonight: Chat over dinner. *****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Look to long-term goals over the next month, focusing on what works best for you. You feel out of sync today - or is it a financial situation that has you worried? Bypass the money matter and you will come to a successful resolution. A friend is very important. Tonight: Go cheap. *****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are full of energy today as the lunar vibes throw you into the limelight. Be ready to assume extra responsibilities; you will be praised for a job well done. Your intuition is correct about an important male in your life. Read through someone's hostility. Tonight: Make a must appearance happily. *****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You need to analyze a problem more carefully if you are to solve it. When a friend lets you down, take over and assume more responsibility. Reach out for another at a distance and prepare to take action. You could be packing your bags before you know it. Tonight: Chill out while you still can. *****

Dear Abby - Letters... Wanted: Neighbors, but not parents

DEAR ABBY: We are a young professional couple in our early 30s who have just celebrated our first anniversary. Five months ago, we purchased a lovely home in the friendly, quiet neighborhood in which I grew up - my parents moved away from it many years ago. We have established wonderful relationships with our neighbors and have begun fixing up our home and yard.

Our problem: My parents dropped in out of the blue and told us they were buying a home nearby (the backyard would adjoin ours). It turned out that they looked at the house one time, signed a contract the same day, and then drove right over to tell us. I was very upset that my parents had not even mentioned moving into this neighborhood before signing anything.

Abby, I told them in a very nice way that I love them very much, but I didn't want them living that close. We felt that we needed our privacy. They did not take this very well, and some harsh words were exchanged. The contract was ultimately canceled, but a rift is still there.

Were we wrong to have confronted them and expressed our feelings, or should we have kept quiet and lived near them? - MADNESS DOWN SOUTH

DEAR MADNESS: I think you were right to have been up-front about your feelings. Better this way than to live indefinitely in resentment with your parents so close by.

DEAR ABBY: I had just lost my sister to cancer and my daughter was going through a very painful divorce. The depression I was feeling was getting to be more than I could handle, so I thought it might be wise to consult a psychiatrist I had heard about.

I called the psychiatrist for an appointment, and his appointment secretary asked me how old I was. When I told her that I was 59, she said, "The doctor doesn't see old people, but I will consult with him and see if he can refer you to a doctor who does." (Abby, those were her exact words!)

She called me back and left a message on my answering machine, but I did not return her call. I was so upset - and still am - I could not bring myself even to speak to that woman. Am I overreacting due to my depression, or do I have a right to be angry? - NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: The appointment secretary was unbelievably tactless. Don't waste your time and energy being angry. Ask your primary physician to refer you to a therapist (I'm sure there are many) who will evaluate your symptoms and help you with your problem. I think the psychiatrist would appreciate being made aware that his appointment secretary lacks common sense!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WORKING GIRL": Burt Bacharach said: "Remember when it took only heaven to protect the working girl? Today, it takes a union, wage-hour law, unemployment insurance, Social Security and a pension plan."

Abby shares more of her favorite, easy-to-prepare recipes. To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, More Favorite Recipes, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)
