Howard County turnout on propositions sparse

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Votes continue to trickle in with less than a day left in early voting on 16 proposed state constitutional amendments on Tuesday's ballot.

As of this morning, 315 votes had been cast, just 2 percent of 15,594 eligible to vote in Howard County.

"We don't even have half as many as the last election (presidential in November)," said County Deputy Clerk Pat Underwood. "Elections never do quite as good when there's people not running."

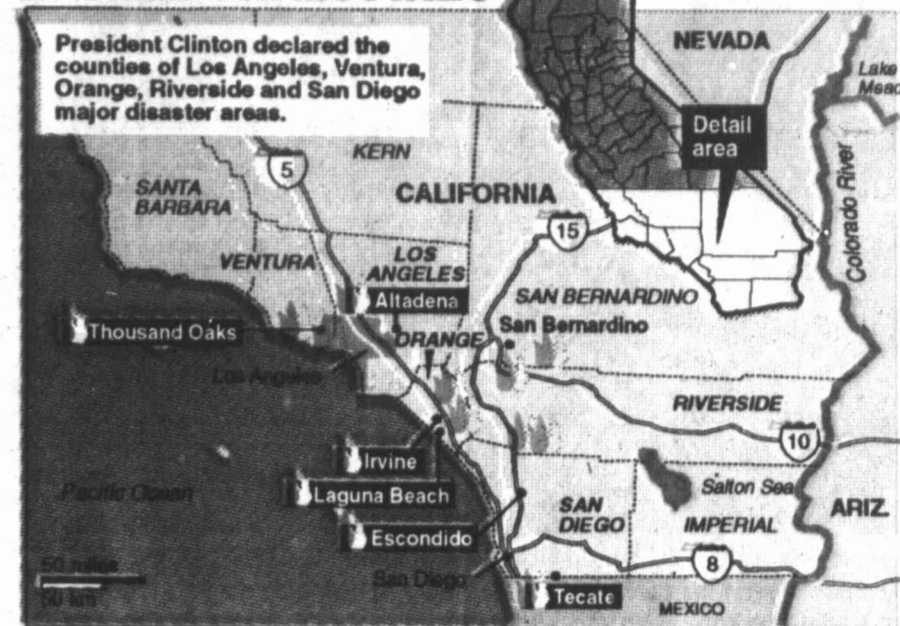

Early voting at area courthouses continues until 5 p.m. today. Polls will be open Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Issues range from requiring a popular vote on a state income tax to allowing denial of bail to parolees and probationers accused of violent or sexual crimes. Included are bond authorizations for correction facilities, loans for value-added businesses, underutilized businesses and veteran home loans.

Also included are property tax exemptions for pollution controls, relinquishing state interest in disputed land, allowing requirements to be set for sheriffs, allowing abolishing of surveyor offices, repealing requirements on stock and bond issues, reducing foreclosure redemption rights to six months, setting pension fund trustee requirements, and sharing funds with Texas State Technical College.

The Big Spring Herald published a series detailing pros and cons of each proposition from Oct. 10 through Tuesday of this week.

Teacher's Heimlich saves student

Brandon Greathouse decides on change of candy, anyway

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

Becky Helsley, a fourth grade teacher at Washington Elementary School, never thought she would have to use the Heimlich maneuver techniques she learned nearly 2-1/2 years ago. She was not sure she could remember the procedure even if necessary.

She does remember, and 10-year-old student Brandon Greathouse is thankful.

Friday, Oct. 15, began like any other school day. Helsley passed out candy to the students as a reward for earlier good behavior. Brandon chose a candy called a Warhead, a small hard candy about the size and shape of a butterscotch. Warheads are very sour and/or hot and are meant to be eaten like suckers, not popped into the mouth like milder candies. "I was sucking on it real hard," Brandon recalled, "and I sucked it down into my throat."

Brandon could not talk and remembers looking at Helsley to get her attention. Other children heard his gagging noises as he struggled for air, and alerted Helsley. "Some of the kids were laughing at first because they thought he was joking," said Helsley. "I watched him for a few seconds and I could tell he was getting scared."

Helsley picked up Brandon and raised his arm, hoping to ease his breathing, and realized the Heimlich maneuver would be necessary. She hit Brandon's back three times, then performed two abdominal thrusts; on the second thrust, the candy popped out into Brandon's hand.

"He leaned against the wall for a few minutes. He was okay but really shaken up," said Helsley. "He told me the next day that when he went home that evening, he said, 'Mom, I thought I was going to die.'" Brandon was taken to the school nurse for observation. After half an hour of rest and some spray for the sore throat caused by the obstruction, Brandon returned to class and finished the day with no further problems.

"The nurse did call Brandon's parents just to let them know what happened, tell them he was okay, and make sure they would watch him in case any problems from the obstruction or the Heimlich maneuver would happen," said Helsley. Brandon's mother, herself a nurse, called Helsley that evening to thank her.

Helsley noticed that the other students had learned from this experience. When she handed out candy again several days later, children avoided the Warheads or ate them carefully. Brandon chose Sweet Tarts.

When asked if he would eat Warheads anymore, Brandon shook his head and answered with a firm "No." Helsley debated upon removing the Warheads and decided that the children now knew how to eat this candy properly and avoid a choking hazard. "They're going to face this every day of their lives," she said.

Helsley and Brandon both feel adults and children should learn the Heimlich maneuver. Brandon would like to learn it in case he needs to help someone else, or even himself. "My mom said if you're choking and you're by yourself, put your back to the wall and hit yourself in the stomach," said Brandon, referring to the abdominal thrusts used in the maneuver.

Glenda Low, school nurse for Anderson Kindergarten-Center, taught the course in which Helsley learned the Heimlich maneuver. Low urged people to learn the lifesaving technique but emphasized taking a class in which mannequins are used for practice. "Never practice the Heimlich on someone who's okay," she said.

Low added that if a person has something caught in the throat but can still talk and get air, the Heimlich maneuver should not be used unless the person's condition worsens. She described the maneuver as an "artificial cough" to help a choking victim expel an obstruction when the victim is not able to get enough air to cough. "The Heimlich is for when the airway is clearly obstructed," she said.

Hazardous waste course brings, saves big money

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Business Editor

A two-week hazardous waste operation course sponsored by a local union benefits the community in other ways aside from having a safer environment.

Besides injecting thousands of dollars into the local economy by bringing in instructors and equipment from around the country, it'll save thousands more because extra efforts were made to certify 18 graduates as instructors, who can train others as technicians.

"The intent is to have every employee trained in these areas," said Paul Hinton, administrative manager of the 250-employee Fina Oil & Chemical plant here.

Without having local instructors it would cost up to $900 for certification of each technician. The 40-hour courses would have had to be taken in Midland or elsewhere.

Fina has 12 graduating from the Train The Trainer course, which certifies under U.S. Occupational Health and Safety Administration standards. Two Fina contractors have a graduate each and a sodium sulfate producer in the area has four.

It was conducted by the National HAZMAT Response Team out of Beckley, W.Va., part of the International Union of Operating Engineers. It costs some $10,000 to bring in equipment and seven instructors from areas such as Chicago, Louisiana and West Virginia.

"I think our coup was in persuading them to come here and conduct this course," said Barney Allen, business manager of the local IUOE. "It'll be a big benefit to Fina and possibly some other people."

"They've been able to help us out with a very important service." Please see COURSE, page 8

After donning protective clothing, Fina Refinery employees head into a pitch-black room in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum to simulate a smoke-filled situation during a training exercise. Several employees have been learning about hazardous materials training for two weeks.

Center sees 'crisis' on death row

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Texas' system for representing indigent death-row prisoners needs a major overhaul, says the executive director of a group that recruits and helps lawyers for the condemned.

"We call on lawyers in the state and the judiciary to sit down with us and help us find a solution to this grave problem," said Mandy Welch of the Texas Resource Center.

Of about 370 death-row prisoners, more than 70 don't have lawyers to pursue appeals beyond their initial, direct appeals to the state's high criminal court, the center said. Some defense issues might only be raised in later appeals.

Seven inmates with execution dates scheduled before year's end — including Frank McFarland, who was scheduled to die after Tuesday midnight — are among those without lawyers, the center said. McFarland was convicted of stabbing an Arlington woman to death.

"The people of Texas ... favor the death penalty, and that's fine, but they should also be willing to pay for it," said Dallas lawyer Vincent W. Perini, who is on the center's board and heads a State Bar of Texas committee on death row representation. "This is as much of a cost of administering the death penalty as ... the cost of the executioner," he said. Texas is the only state with a sizable death row that doesn't have a statewide public defender system, the lawyers said.

Dick DeGuerin, attorney for U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, argues a point during a hearing with District Judge Bob Perkins Thursday in Austin. DeGuerin wants to be allowed to present his side to the grand jury, as well as explain laws to them. A new grand jury is looking into alleged wrongdoings during Hutchison's tenure as state treasurer.

Hutchison attorneys say she won't make grand jury's meeting

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison will not voluntarily appear before a grand jury unless her attorneys can present their side of the case to the panel, her defense team said Thursday.

Attorney Dick DeGuerin of Houston asked State District Judge Robert Perkins to allow him to give a half-day presentation to the 12-member grand jury.

He accused prosecutors of misleading the panel in its investigation of Mrs. Hutchison's tenure as state treasurer. Mrs. Hutchison was indicted last month on charges of official misconduct, but the charges were dismissed because of a technicality. The investigation has been taken up by another grand jury.

DeGuerin also asked Perkins to explain to the new grand jury state laws concerning the conduct of public officials.

"We're not asking for special treatment, only fair treatment," he said. The Travis County District Attorney's office said Mrs. Hutchison was asking for privileges that no one else is allowed before a grand jury.

First Assistant District Attorney Steve McCleery said grand juries only determine whether there is enough evidence to bring someone to trial.

"What they (Mrs. Hutchison's attorneys) are trying to do is turn the grand jury presentation into a trial. That's not what it's for. That's what jury trials are for," he said.

Prosecutors insisted that they also present evidence favorable to Mrs. Hutchison to the grand jury.

McCleery said he believes the grand jury would like to hear from Mrs. Hutchison, but DeGuerin said she will not appear unless he can give her side of the case to the grand jury.

"We're not going to play on a field where the DA holds all the rules, makes all the rulings, controls all the information. That's not fair," he said.

Asked if Mrs. Hutchison would testify, DeGuerin said, "If we get equal access to the grand jury she'll be there with bells on and the grand jury won't indict."

Perkins said he would rule Nov. 5 on DeGuerin's requests and one by prosecutors who have asked for an order to prevent Mrs. Hutchison's lawyers from mailing anything to the grand jury.

Hutchison's attorneys had sent a 200-page packet of material stating the senator's case to members of the earlier grand jury.

That grand jury indicted Mrs. Hutchison, 50, on charges that while she was treasurer she used the office for personal and political purposes and then destroyed records as part of a coverup.

But those indictments were dismissed earlier this week after Mrs. Hutchison's attorneys found there was a grand juror who was ineligible to serve because of a pending theft charge.

Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican, has denied any wrongdoing and calls the charges a Democratic plot to discredit her.

She appeared before the first grand jury after being subpoenaed. McCleery said no decision has been made on whether to subpoena her again.

During the hearing before Perkins, both sides accused each other of trying to drag out the proceedings and playing to the media.

On Wednesday, prosecutors confirmed that they granted limited immunity from prosecution to several witnesses in the case.

Court documents showed that Martha Wolfe, a former assistant to Mrs. Hutchison had received limited immunity, and The Dallas Morning News reported that three others had.

They are Mike Barron, who was deputy treasurer for operations under Mrs. Hutchison; and Leslie Rawl and Shea Woodard, who were her schedulers.

Barron and another former aide to Mrs. Hutchison, David Criss, were also indicted by the first grand jury on charges of official misconduct. Evidence concerning them is being re-presented to the new grand jury, the district attorney's office said.

Greetings, Dear Gentle Folk of Big Spring

It is that wonderful, festive time of year when the leaves die, drowned in yellow and brown, and the great, gray beast, Winter, stalks across the heavens, waiting for the precise moment to embrace us in its frigid, dripping arms. It is the time of ghosts, ghouls, phantoms, witches, black cats, and tale after frightening tale. It is Halloween. And in accordance, Cinemark Movies 4 and I, Alardyce Sunday, have dug up something extra special. Saturday, October 30th, the night before All Hallows Eve, Movies 4 will have a midnight showing of "The First Power", a terror-filled, nail biting, edge of your seat, roller coaster ride into the very pit of horror itself. It stars Lou Diamond Phillips as a police detective on the trail of a psychopathic madman who leaves body after body for Phillips to follow. So, come and join us on this night of nights and feel the chilling, shivering fingers of mortal fear clawing at your throat. It should be a hair-raising screamfest for all. See you there if you dare.

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Suppose they gave an election and nobody voted?

That's about what's happening in Texas, Secretary of State John Hannah says.

Hannah said Thursday that only 1.22 percent of the state's 8.5 million registered voters have cast ballots in early voting so far.

Such low participation indicates that total turnout for the election could be as low as 7 percent, he said.

"I don't think I have ever been more disheartened about the state of democracy in Texas," said Hannah, the state's chief elections official.

Hannah said he's worried by voter apathy about the 16 pending amendments, which include critical questions on criminal justice, environmental and tax policies.

"The election that we're going to have on Nov. 2 ... is more important and will affect the lives of the people of the state of Texas more than any particular governor, state senator, state representative, U.S. senator they might elect," he said.

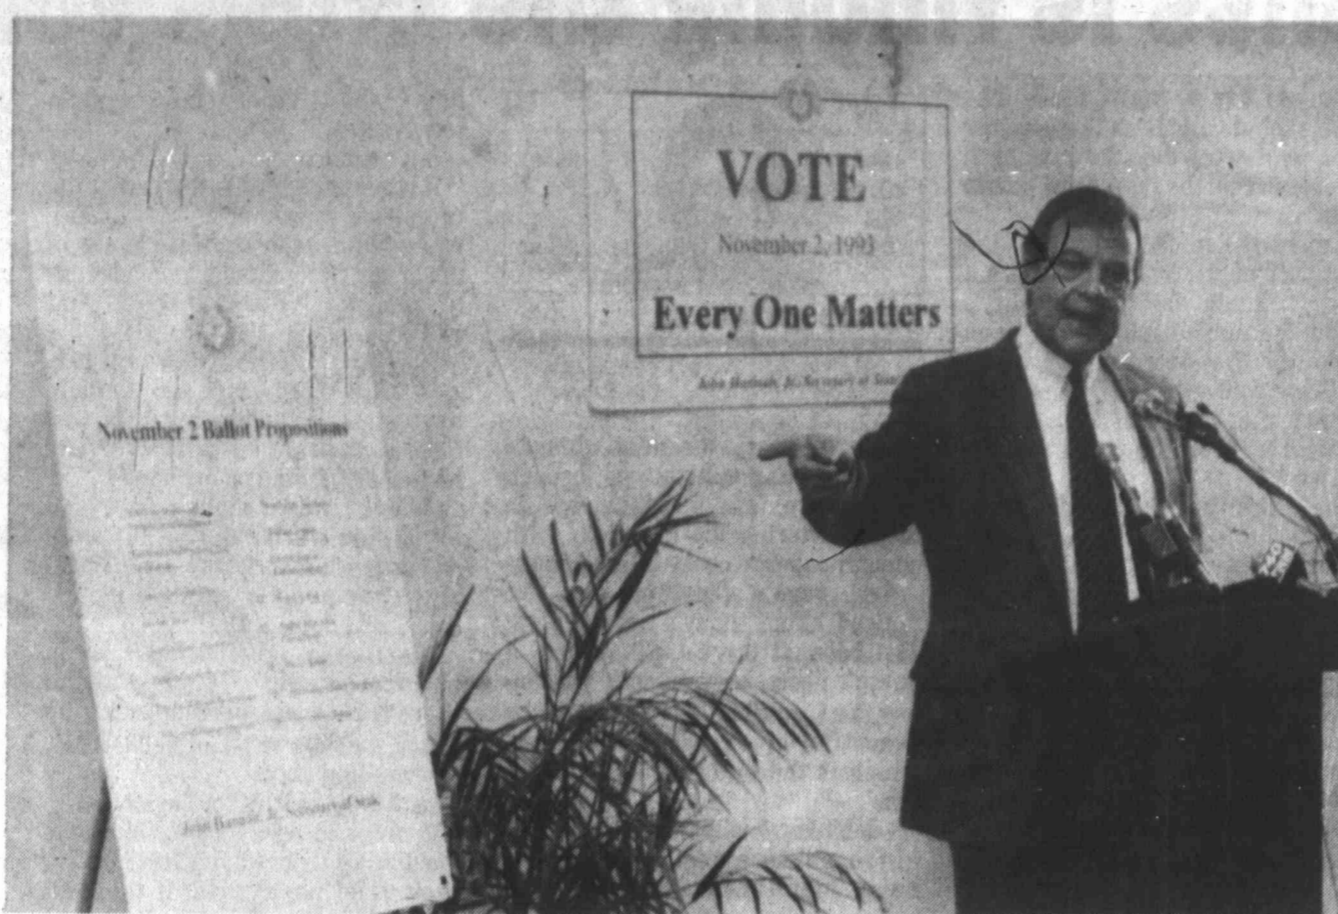

"We have more important amendments on this particular ballot than I've noticed since 1960."

The secretary of state's office said turnout of under 10 percent would be the lowest in a constitutional amendment election since 1979, when it hit 7.5 percent.

Lacking candidates and high-profile advertising campaigns, constitutional amendment elections generally draw fewer voters than other elections.

In 1987, with a horse racing referendum on the ballot, turnout was 30.6 percent. And in 1991, with an amendment to legalize lottery, turnout was 26.2 percent.

"In most of the state, there are no candidates on the ballot to raise controversy, to insult each other, wage dirty campaigns or smear their opponents. That apparently has put many to sleep," Hannah said.

But he said a number of the amendments in this year's election are extremely important, including:

— Proposition 4, which would prohibit a state personal income tax without voter approval.

— Proposition 12, to allow denial of bail to people charged with violent crimes.

— Proposition 14, to issue $1 billion in state bonds for building more prisons.

"Everybody, as far as I know, has an opinion about an income tax," Hannah said.

And should the prison bond issue fail, he said, "it would be catastrophic for the criminal justice system ...

The state jails, the increase in penalties, the tightening up of parole, all of that is based on that particular amendment."

Hannah said he has heard plenty of callers on talk radio programs complain about being disconnected from government. "They've got more people calling in saying they can't participate in their government than have voted."

Screening juries: Some judges say it's time

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Some Texas judges say it's time to screen jurors aggressively to prevent mistrials and the scrapped indictments that shook Harris and Travis counties, including the indictments against U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison.

"This is kind of a wake-up call," said Tarrant County Criminal District

Judge Joe Drago, who took the unusual step of checking the backgrounds of grand jurors he empaneled earlier this month. "Judges need to be very sure everyone is qualified."

Although judges in Dallas County already screen grand jurors, Drago said his wake-up call came last month when he saw what happened in Harris County.

Court officials there discovered that a grand jury foreman had been indicted on a bad-check charge, forcing them to toss out 500 indictments.

A similar misdemeanor charge against a grand juror in Travis County jeopardized 463 indictments besides those of Hutchison, two of her aides and the indictment of convicted murderer Kenneth McDuff, who is charged in another killing.

At issue is an 1876 law that does not allow people to serve on juries if they have been "convicted of or who may be under indictment for theft or any felony." Although lawmakers may have included theft in the original statute to cover horse stealing, which was a hanging offense in the 1800s, modern legislatures have left the law unchanged.

A bounced-check offense is considered a theft, and neither judges nor lawyers interviewed yesterday had a quarrel with the law.

"I have no problem with it," said Harris County District Attorney John Holmes, who pursued new indictments when the old ones were scrapped.

Witness in murder recants testimony

HOUSTON (AP) — A key witness to the slaying of the last black holdout in an all-white Vidor housing project has recanted her statements against the prime suspect in the slaying and other witnesses would not make credible witnesses against the man, according to a published report.

In a copyright story, the Houston Chronicle today quoted sources familiar with the case as saying that Lydia Washington, the key witness, has recanted what she said about Michael Victor, identified as the main suspect.

The newspaper also reported that sources say that some other witnesses were so fuddled on drugs or alcohol at the time of the murder that their testimony would lack credibility in court.

Authorities say that not even an $11,000 Crime Stoppers reward has brought any good information.

Many residents in the crime-ridden inner city neighborhood where the killing occurred still refuse to talk to police, they added.

Paid assassin found guilty in tot's death

HOUSTON (AP) — Nearly 13 years after he was first sent to death row, a paid assassin again has been convicted of shooting an infant to death as he lay in his crib so the child's uncle could get a sizable inheritance.

It took the jury slightly more than four hours to decide that Allen Wayne Janecka was guilty of capital murder in the July 5, 1979, killing of 14-month-old Kevin Wanstrath.

Jurors in state District Judge Woody Densen's court will be asked today to sentence Janecka to death by injection.

Janecka's first conviction and death sentence were overturned in 1990 because an appellate court said the indictment did not allege who paid him for the killing.

Janecka also is charged with the capital murder of the child's parents, Diana and John Wanstrath, and the 1975 capital murder of the baby's grandmother, Gertrude Zabolio.

Officer receives bonus following investigation

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — The Texas National Guard gave a performance bonus to a colonel after an investigation found that he played a role in denying promotions to two Hispanics and was not credible in explaining his actions.

A personnel document, obtained by the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, shows that the Guard approved the $1,830 award for Col. Gary Walston, commander of the 149th Fighter Group in San Antonio, on Sept. 29.

The award was approved about 10 months after Texas Guard officials received a report on the yearlong state and federal investigation of complaints that the Guard discriminated against Hispanics.

The investigators' report was sent to top Guard officials and the Governor's Office, which has refused to release it on the grounds that it relates to litigation.

"I can't see how he could get an outstanding rating when the minorities have been treated as badly as that," said Maj. Gen. Belisario Flores, a retired assistant adjutant general for the Texas Air Guard. "I just didn't think that was the correct thing to do."

Republicans give Sharp Silver Boot for Snout

AUSTIN (AP) — Announcing that State Comptroller John Sharp had stuck his foot in his mouth over a proposal to replace food stamps with a plastic card system, the Texas GOP has given him a "Silver Boot" award.

Bids for a state pilot project for the plastic card system were rejected recently because they were four times higher than expected.

"The problem is the company's food stamps turned out to be far cheaper for taxpayers than the credit card system for food stamp recipients Mr. Sharp has been touting," State Republican Executive Director Karen Hughes said Thursday.

The Texas GOP said Sharp was wrong to criticize a New York food stamp printer that opposes his plastic card system.

In September, Sharp gave a "Silver Snout" award to Stanley Kreitman, president of U.S. Banknote Corp. Sharp criticized Kreitman for trying to protect his own food stamp printing empire by working against the plastic card system.

Woman's curiosity leads to finding lost siblings

ALICE (AP) — Lisa De Reese always wondered why the name "Sherry Lynn" was tattooed on the arm of her father, who died eight years ago.

Her father, Sam Magaro, had told her the tattoo represented a military vessel on which he once had served. But as she grew older, she suspected it might have been an old girlfriend.

In August, an uncle finally told her the truth: The tattoo commemorated the birth of a half-sister she never knew she had. "Sherry Lynn" was her father's daughter from a previous marriage.

The discovery led Mrs. De Reese to yet another — Sherry Lynn was not her only long-lost sibling. Mrs. De Reese found out her mother had four children by a previous marriage.

BIG SPRING Herald Opinions expressed in this column are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless otherwise indicated. Patrick J. Morgan, DD Turner, John A. Moseley

We salute!

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local citizens or groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community.

Saying goodbye is hard

As I watched the first two sandhill cranes of the season pass overhead, Wednesday, it finally struck home — I'm going to miss working in Big Spring.

Gary Shanks

I'm going to miss meeting people around town and I'm going to miss all the people who stop me to say what they thought about my last column (even the ones that were ticked off).

It's the nature of this business. If you want to move up you've got to pull up roots and move on.

I'm moving to the Midland newspaper in about a week, and it's left me in kind of a quandary — I don't know how to write the last column.

I've got one more after this, and I haven't the faintest idea what would be appropriate.

I could do something sentimental, but I'm sentimental right now.

I could write something political, picking a politician with whose views I don't agree and skewer him. (As ya'll know, I'd rather pry my kneecaps off with a screwdriver than to say something bad about someone, but I could whine and fuss about Fungus Phil Gramme for more than an hour without stopping for a breath.)

I could do something grammatical — something cute about the English language. (A preposition is not something I usually end a sentence with. Sometimes, however, that's where I leave it at.)

We could talk about how most states don't end in the letter "A," only 21 of the 50 states end in "A" (22 if you count Missouri).

Well, how about this: I'll write one of those stupid Manlyman lessons. Only this time we'll find out the guy's actually a closet homosexual or something.

Naaaaaaa, too weird. Well darn it! Next week is going to be the last column after almost three years. It ought to be something special.

I could redo the column about building a bungee jumping platform off the Settles Hotel. When I first wrote that one, a guy called me up laughing and said:

"You know who the first person I'd like to see jump is?" "No, who?" "Johnnie Lou Avery!"

I nearly died — I mean I just bust-out laughing. No disrespect meant Johnnie Lou, but to those of us who know and love

Bliss is finding the crossword again

Lewis Grizzard

I would like to thank those who make such decisions at the newspaper I read every day, for making it possible to find the crossword puzzle again.

Sombody had decided to hide the crossword puzzle from the readers. I don't know who that somebody is, but he or she must have been thinking, "Crossword puzzle workers like a challenge, so I'll give them another one. They will have to find the puzzle before they can attempt to solve it."

The crossword puzzle, for what seemed the longest time, had been located somewhere in classified. One day it was on page P-8. The next on page K-12. Once the newspaper didn't even have P and K sections. They had an A section for the hard news, a B for the soft news, like what's on television, C for the business news, and D for the sports news.

Now newspapers have sections out the wazoo. There are food sections, and automobile sections, and home and garden sections, and sections that don't have any names. They're just sections.

To get to sections P or K to find the crossword puzzle meant an ultimate paper chase. You had to go through all the previous sections, which meant littering the den floor with enough paper to choke a large hog.

And there's something else I've noticed about today's newspapers: Just because there's a P section, it doesn't necessarily mean it will follow the O section. It could follow the F section or even the J section, which is the bungee-jumping section.

I don't know why that is. I majored in journalism in college, but they never mentioned anything about how one day newspaper sections might not always appear in alphabetical order.

So there we were spending more time trying to locate the puzzle than to solve it.

But no more. It was announced recently that the crossword puzzle of my newspaper will appear each day on page 2 of the Living Section, which, incidentally, often carries stories about what will kill you.

I began working crossword puzzles about three years ago. I would have started earlier, but that was before I became an early riser and had plenty of time on my hands.

Before I was a night person and often didn't arise until afternoon. Anybody who works crossword puzzles after noon is either a lounge lizard or a dope dealer.

Now that the crossword puzzle can be located again, it might mean there'll be more people taking up what I consider to be an intellectually rewarding hobby.

So, a few pointers for beginners: In order to be a successful crossword puzzle solver you have got to know a lot about fowl. If the clue mentions a duck, and the word is made up of four letters, try teal.

The answer to the clue "quod — demonstrandum" is "erat." If the clue is a dash followed by "facto," the answer is "ipso." You should have known that already.

A French cleric is an "abbe"; hardens is "sets"; courage can be "sand" (as in "grit") and the clue "shortly" usually is "anon."

The way you learn all these answers is to keep the puzzle you did today and look at tomorrow's answers to fill in the spaces you didn't know.

Soon, you'll come to know the clue "plot" is "cabal."

And you will also know a lot of names of islands, Zola heroines, tenors, composers, Irish poets, state nicknames (New Mexico's is "Land of Enchantment," or "Sunshine"), ports, sailing terms, fish, and the answer to baseball's Slaughter, is "Enos." And don't forget "Ava," as in Ava Gardner, who will live forever in puzzeldom.

That's about as far as I can go. Good luck and welcome to the crossword puzzle club. You'll be as addicted as the rest of us very soon and none of us will ever face looking for a puzzle in a paperstack again.

Senate has righteousness spasm

Leonard Larsen

WASHINGTON — The Senate inquiry into the behavior of Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., plods along to its foregone conclusion that Packwood's been a lout who's insulted and abused women. Aside from adding to his embarrassment, the Senate won't do much else about it.

Whenever the Packwood investigation is finally over — now the Senate needs more time to rummage around in old Packwood diaries — and whatever's to be learned, the Senate won't do much about it because it can't do much about it.

Always the Senate is bound in its own rituals of palmsmanship and pretense, which serve to block or mitigate punishment of senators in all but the most serious offenses, sometimes even causing the Senate to blink at criminal activity.

In the Packwood case — horrendous as the tales are in the telling by feminist activists — the stories actually speak of dumbbell boorishness, of a bumbling, often drunk Packwood grabbing, pawing and kissing unwilling women, making a fool of himself and humiliating his victims.

Even its kindest reading shows Packwood's been a lecherous, goofy drunk and a politician who's intimidated women with the power of his office.

But most of the accusations gathered against Packwood — the total is said to be around 24 now — are old ones, some remembered as something that happened but went officially unreported and not complained of in the 1960s, the 1970s and the 1980s.

There's never been a suggestion of rape or physical battery in complaints at Packwood's sexual harassment and there's probably nothing that a prosecutor would take to court, certainly not 10 or 20 years after the fact.

These are the times, though, when the Senate has added an appearance of concern for the complaints of women to its catalogue of hypocrisy and the Packwood scandal was bundled up and taken to the Senate ethics committee as a proper subject of inquiry.

The taint on the entire Senate for its own treatment of Anita Hill in the Supreme Court nomination of Justice Clarence Thomas made the Packwood case more urgent as a show of Senate seriousness in feminist matters and the Packwood probe has now been ongoing for nearly a year.

The end of the congressional version of a show trial almost certainly will be a wrist-slap for Packwood, at worst a reprimand that he sinned but not so seriously that the rest of the Senate should be upset with a dear friend and colleague.

The trouble with the Senate, as usual, is that it can't do even that: Get-on with the sham committee hearing, the sham deliberations and the closing Packwood whitewash.

While Packwood's angriest antagonists wait in vain for his expulsion from the clubby Senate or, perhaps, a vote to censure him, the Senate barely inches toward that obvious result, when Packwood will be saved from the mob and — hopefully — the mob won't turn on the Senate.

What the Senate is most likely to show in the Packwood inquiry is that Packwood, for whatever reasons and inadequacies, has — like dozens of others in the Senate and House — stayed there too long, becoming in the process an almost pathetic prisoner of the institution in which he serves.

Last year Packwood barely ducked accumulating reports of the crude and bizarre behavior in his past and was re-elected to a fifth six-year term, a success that has further embittered critics who won't have another chance until 1998 at knocking him off in an election.

One problem that the Senate has in dealing with a senator override in his service, a senator whose abuse of power and privilege has made him a problem for the Senate, for himself and his family, is that so many of them, too, are similarly override.

There are other Packwoods in the Senate and House, not many of them bumbling lechers to compare with Packwood, but members of Congress seemingly institutionalized by the trappings and the privileges of just staying on, some of them long past the years of what was once useful work.

It is the nature of the congressional beast that every once in a while — at a great waste of time and effort and at an enormous cost to the American taxpayers — they go through these spasms of righteousness, like the Packwood inquiry.

Winners, each one

We want to publicly commend the members of the Big Spring High School Steer Band and their director Steve Hankins for the very fine performance they gave on Saturday, October 23 at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa at marching contest.

Although you may not have received the rating you were striving for, you represented Big Spring and your high school very well. In our opinion you are all winners, and you are a #1 band! We understand that you have worked hard for several months and have made personal sacrifices in a team effort to perform well at football games and ultimately at your contest last Saturday. Thank you for being individuals and a group that brings honor to Big Spring. We are proud of you!

Support appreciated

On behalf of the Big Spring High School Golf Boosters Club, we would like to say a big "THANK YOU" to the Chicano Golf Association. On Saturday last, the Chicano Golf Association held a golf tournament and presented a check in excess of $800 to the Golf Booster Club.

What a "class" organization! Your group does as much or more for this community as any other organization in town. Not only do you make contributions to groups such as ours, you also contribute in a big way to the United Way. You have tournaments for individuals less fortunate, and have been very successful in donating scholarships for students from Big Spring to attend college.

Our "hats off" to the Chicano Golf Association for many jobs well done. Because of you our high school golf team will be better equipped for the coming year and years to come.

Thanks to all who have purchased Golf Booster Club bag tags. Your donations will go far in making high school golf successful at Big Spring High School.

President Clinton gestures as he addresses the Conference of the Americas, sponsored by the Wall Street Journal, at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Thursday night. Clinton discussed the North American Free Trade Agreement and called for the support of business leaders.

Clinton says JFK's view of world could be instructive today

The Associated Press

BOSTON — President Clinton is paying tribute to John F. Kennedy and holding out the former president's legacy of "engagement in the world" as an argument for the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Clinton was helping dedicate a museum at the John F. Kennedy Library today and planned to use the appearance as an opportunity to highlight Kennedy's role in world events and his commitment to democracy.

The dedication comes less than a month before the 30th anniversary of Kennedy's assassination in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. The new museum is designed to help educate schoolchildren and other visitors too young to have personal memories of Kennedy or his administration.

Clinton often mentions Kennedy as one of his heroes and he loves to relate the story of meeting him. The young Bill Clinton got a chance to shake Kennedy's hand in the Rose Garden as a Boys Nation delegate in 1963. The president says he came away from the trip with a desire to spend his life in public service.

Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers said that in his museum speech, Clinton would discuss "the Kennedy legacy of engagement in the world" and his commitment to democracy in the Americas. Tying that to a contemporary issue, Myers said, Clinton argues that NAFTA is a part of efforts to promote global economic growth and stability.

The agreement would eliminate most barriers to open trade with Mexico and Canada. The pact is in deep trouble in the House because of strong opposition of organized labor, which contends it would encourage U.S. companies to move jobs to Mexico in pursuit of lower wages.

Clinton's visit to the Kennedy Library was sandwiched between two appearances fully dedicated to mobilizing support for NAFTA.

This afternoon, the president was visiting Gillette Co. in South Boston. The company, known for razors and personal hygiene products, expects its export business to expand if NAFTA is approved.

On Thursday, Clinton urged business leaders in New York City to mobilize for an "all hands on deck" effort to push the trade agreement through Congress. Addressing The Wall Street Journal's Conference on the Americas, Clinton acknowledged that early on he had misjudged the strength of opposition to the agreement.

Clinton said NAFTA, for many, has come to symbolize all of America's economic ills, although he contended it would in fact ease those problems.

Homes in ashes, many vow to rebuild

The Associated Press

Walking through a veil of smoke and drifting ash, dazed residents returned to count their losses — and their blessings — in neighborhoods lost to one of the most destructive strings of wildfires in California this century.

"We're happy for one thing," Gerry Bonaccorso said Thursday, hugging her son amid the blackened debris of what had been their Altadena home.

"My baby is here. Everything can be replaced, right? Everything except this."

With the help of cool sea breezes, firefighters gained the upper hand on most of the 13 big blazes that burned across nearly 187,000 acres and chased some 25,000 people from their homes along a swath of Southern California from Ventura County south to the Mexican border.

While the hot desert winds that drove the fires earlier this week died down Thursday, they were forecast to regain strength later today. Emergency crews continued their battle against hot spots and flareups.

The flames that began chewing through five counties Tuesday have caused more than $60 million in damage, and that estimate is sure to rise. Arson is suspected in four of the blazes.

There have been no arrests in the suspected arson fires, but a homeless man has been arrested on suspicion of recklessly setting the Altadena fire that damaged 8,000 acres and 118 homes. He was due in court today.

Gov. Pete Wilson offered a $50,000 reward for the arrest of arsonists, and police patrolled neighborhoods to prevent looting.

In Laguna Beach, Fred Stemmler was luckier than most of his neighbors.

When he fled his home in the posh Emerald Bay area the roof was on fire. But the house still stood when he returned.

"We have some skylights we didn't plan on originally," Stemmler said, joking about the holes burned through the roof.

"We feel we're just very, very lucky," he said.

Firefighters were able to contain the 10,000-acre fire that destroyed or damaged 330 homes in Laguna Beach, including dozens of million-dollar mansions overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

As firefighters battled the remaining flames, others lined up to help the victims.

Refugees were allowed to stay for free at the Ritz-Carlton hotel in Laguna Niguel, said general manager John Dravinski. Whole families checked with pets in tow, he said.

"It was business second," he said. "We just allowed that, and said, 'If you find time in the future to pay us, please do.'"

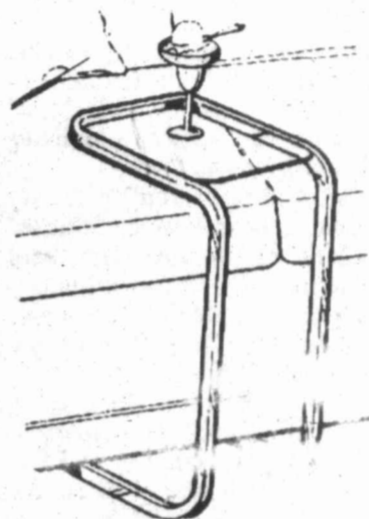

In Pasadena, Mike Henderson volunteered his Boy Scout troop to clean up rubble over the weekend.

"We'll do just about anything," Henderson said. "We're not picky. This doesn't qualify for a merit badge, but it is what scouting is all about."

A helicopter makes a water drop on a flareup threatening a cluster of homes in Altadena, Calif., shortly after sunset Thursday. The flareup comes a day after the brushfire rushed through the area on Wednesday destroying a reported 118 homes and causing an estimated $58 million in damages.

Cedras seeking an edge

The Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Haiti's army chief, already successful in blocking President Jean-Bertrand Aristide's return, said only he and Aristide can decide whether a U.N. peace plan can continue beyond Saturday.

Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras made his comments in a 2-hour late-night interview with right-wing Radio Liberte that was broadcast today.

The comments came hours after Aristide demanded the immediate firing of the army high command or the strengthening of international sanctions to force out the soldiers who overthrew him in September 1991.

Aristide supporters and the international community have effectively ruled out Aristide's return Saturday as outlined in the U.N. plan, but they said the plan would remain in effect until his return.

Cedras said he, too, must determine if the plan could continue. "The two who signed it (the plan) must decide" if it can be prolonged, he told the radio station.

Aristide and Cedras signed the plan in July in New York. It called for the separation of the army and the police, the resignation of Cedras and return of Aristide on Saturday.

Cedras has refused to step down, and army-backed groups have also demanded the pact be renegotiated and new elections for president held.

The general said Aristide's comments Thursday before the United Nations, presumably his insistence on the resignation of the entire high command, were a violation of the constitution and a tacit "rejection" of the agreement.

"I wonder whether he read the accord or has forgotten it," Cedras said, reiterating his demand for a general amnesty for coup supporters.

Aristide's speech also got a rough reception at home from lawmakers, some ordinary people and even those trying to return the exiled president.

Someone who heard Aristide's call for a total embargo on Haiti to punish the army for refusing to relinquish power hoped there could be a better way.

German Chancellor Helmut Kohl (right) looks at French President Francois Mitterrand (left), as he shows a box of Belgian candles to French Premier Edouard Balladur before the start of the first session of the one-day meeting of the 12 European Community leaders in Brussels Friday.

Leaders renewing drive toward a United Europe

The Associated Press

BRUSSELS, Belgium — European Community leaders met today to lay the groundwork for a common foreign policy and single currency by 1999, but their drive to unite Europe was overshadowed by recession and rising unemployment.

The leaders of the 12 nations were mindful of their economic woes as they entered EC headquarters in downtown Brussels for the one-day summit.

"The cruel economic reality that concerns most people are jobs and growth," said British Prime Minister John Major. "Those are the things I think we need to concentrate on today."

The meeting was scheduled after Germany's high court this month cleared away the last hurdle to ratification of the Treaty on European Union. The pact, which creates a political, monetary and eventually military union, goes into effect Monday, nearly a year later.

Opposition in Britain, Denmark, France and Germany had raised doubts that the agreement would ever take effect. Some voters objected to turning over national sovereignty to a powerful EC government in Brussels.

"For the first time, the Europeans will have a common instrument to coordinate monetary policies," France's European Affairs Minister Alain Lamassoure said today.

But despite overcoming treaty opposition, Belgian Foreign Minister Willy Claes, the summit host, said there was no cause for celebration.

"There is no reason whatsoever, considering some 20 million people are out of work," he said.

A strike by Belgian workers to protest rising unemployment partially paralyzed train, subway and bus traffic here. Barricades of metal and barbed wire ringed EC headquarters to keep demonstrators away from the site.

Britain, always wary of tying itself too tightly to its continental partners, will likely try to keep the brakes on the drive for European unity.

Britain was expected to object to any new commitment to the accord's timetable for creating a joint central bank and a single currency by 1999. Britain and Denmark have won exemptions from the common currency.

But Claes said such commitments are exactly what the summit will do.

The EC leaders today were expected to agree on a site for the European Monetary Institute, the forerunner of the EC's central bank, and confirm Belgian international banker Alexandre Lamfalussy to head it.

The treaty calls for the opening of the ECU on Jan. 1. The central bank would issue a single currency by 1999. To take part, nations would have to meet strict criteria for low inflation, modest budget deficits and stable currencies.

The question of the ECU's seat will likely be the most controversial part of the summit, but Frankfurt, Germany is expected to get it.

The leaders also were expected to choose foreign policy areas in which they would be willing to work together as outlined in the Maastricht treaty, named after the Dutch town where it was negotiated in December 1991.

Possible candidates were the Middle East, Central Europe and South Africa.

Salinas insisting NAFTA must go into effect Jan. 1

The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY - President Carlos Salinas de Gortari said in an interview to be broadcast in the United States on Friday that reopening talks on the North American Free Trade Agreement would risk the pact's success.

If the NAFTA isn't approved by Jan. 1 as scheduled it could get bogged down in U.S. and Mexican election year politics, Salinas told David Frost in a PBS network interview released before Friday's 9 p.m. EDT broadcast.

"I believe that this treaty is an opportunity that opens once in a generation," Salinas said.

Canada's newly elected Prime Minister designate Jean Chretien has hinted that he may seek some changes in the proposed pact between Mexico, Canada and the United States.

Chretien has pointed out that although the NAFTA has been approved by Canadian lawmakers, Canadian laws do not go into effect until they have been officially proclaimed and that he could prevent that from happening.

"When the agreement was negotiated, it was stated that it will go into effect Jan. 1, 1994. That is the date we agreed upon ... and we stick by that date," Salinas said.

Asked Frost: "So, you won't change it?"

"It is so because then the U.S. has (congressional) elections next year and Mexico has elections next year," said Salinas, who leaves office in 1994 after a six-year term highlighted by Mexican free market reforms and pursuit of the trade treaty.

"From our part, we have stated that the negotiation is concluded. That is, we have concluded the negotiation is concluded, government-to-government. Now it's up to the legislative procedure to ratify," added Salinas.

The Mexican president added that he had received no requests from Chretien for renegotiation.

"What if it comes?" asked Frost. Salinas responded: "If you open a single line of the 2,000-page text, you open everything else up for renegotiation."

Salinas also said he expected the U.S. Congress to ratify NAFTA on Nov. 17, declaring "I am confident they will be up to their historical responsibility."

Harley owners display big heart

Fund raising efforts help handicapped

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

They ride big bikes and have big hearts. Looking rough and tough isn't necessarily the object of owning a Harley motorcycle. A lot of it's just plain fun but look closer and you might see the big hearts they have.

Big Spring Harley Owners Group recently raised $1,800 for a muscular dystrophy camp outside Canyon, called MDA West Texas Summer Camp. It came from one of four fundraising events they do a year to help others. Next is a Dec. 4 Toy Run in Big Spring to get toy donations for local needy children.

"People have an idea just because you ride a Harley ... you're an outlaw or something. But everything we do is family events. There's always lots of children around," said Cecil Bynum, president of the group.

Money for the MDA camp was raised at a poker run two weeks ago, where riders go to five designated spots, draw and card and meet back at Water Valley outside San Angelo to see who has the winning hand. It cost $15 to enter. Afterwards, they gorged on barbecue while a band struck up.

"Some of the best barbecue I ever put in my mouth," said Howard Walker, owner of the Harley Davidson Shop and sponsor of the club.

This is the first year the money went directly to the camp, which provides documentation of expenses, instead of going to offices of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. This is the 10th year they've raised money for the cause.

"We know some people that have a son that goes to this camp," Bynum explained. "It goes to people that live in Texas. We want to give it back to the people that use it."

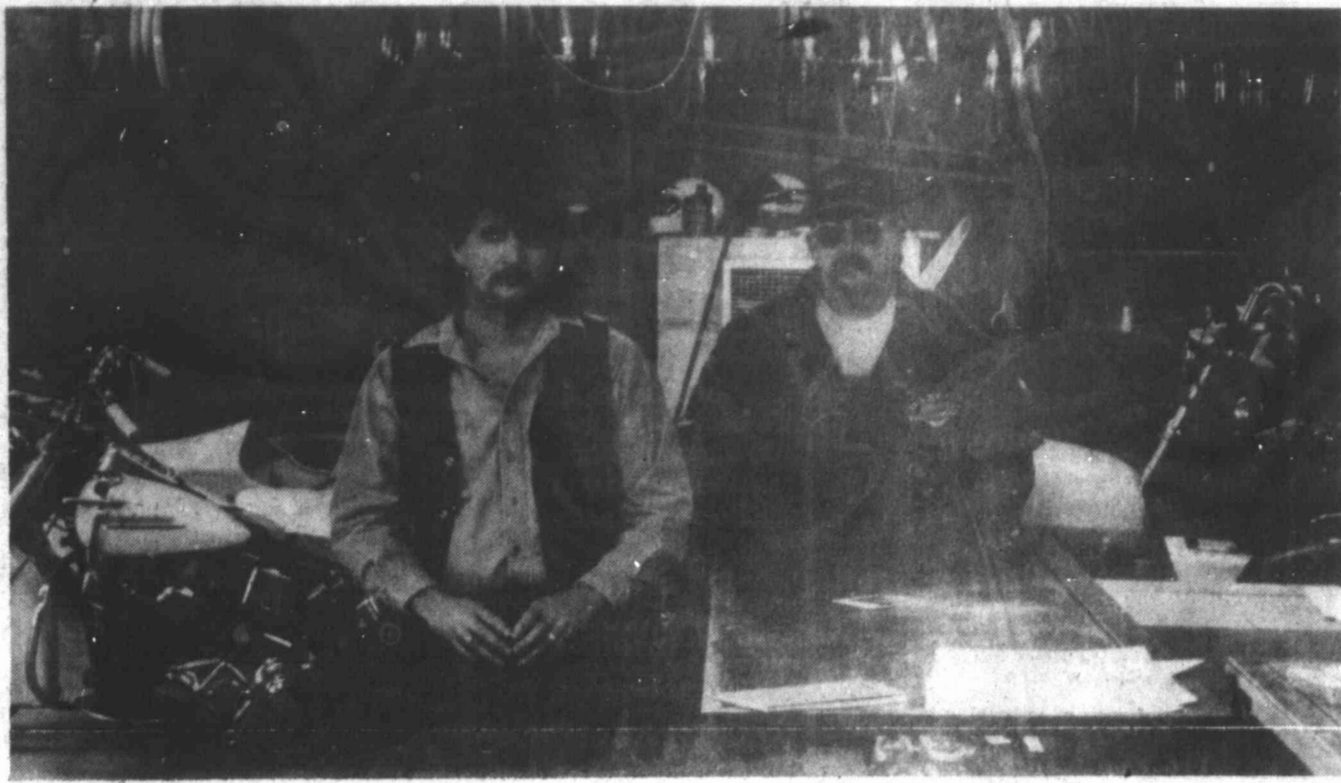

The 15 club members aren't on their own when they put on fundraisers. Many wives who hold things together aren't a member of the club. Local businesses also provide support.

"We have to rely on the help of volunteers and area merchants," Bynum said.

"We get a lot of help," said Vance Weaver, the group's road captain.

Other fundraising events include a poker run at Heart of the City Festival in June and a triathlon in July, both in Big Spring. A January chili cookoff is to raise money for the club.

By the way, new or like-new toys for the Toy Run can be dropped off at the Harley Davidson Shop, 908 W. Third. The run, which has been done for several years, may include a parade down Fourth Street.

Vance Weaver, left, road captain of Big Spring Harley Owners Group, and Cecil Bynum, president, are among 15 club members who not only ride big bikes but have big hearts. Recently the group raised $1,800 for muscular dystrophy. Next is a Dec. 4 Toy Run for local needy children.

'Red Hot Review' pleases audience at Howard College

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

Howard College presented the first Red Hot Revue variety/talent show Monday to an audience that practically filled the college's auditorium.

The revue, sponsored by the college's special events committee, included 19 acts featuring students, faculty and staff.

Emceed by Student Government President Chris Armendarez, the event included acts as diverse as a Christian metal band, country singers, comedy sketches and faculty members performing their own "Sister Act" dressed as nuns.

The Red Hot Revue also featured the debut of the Howard College Hawk Ensemble, a musical act which will perform at community and college events throughout the year.

The initial Howard College Red

Hot Revue, in 1985, was an original production which involved the theater and music departments and toured local high schools, said Dean of Students Amy Burchette.

This revue borrowed the name but changed the concept, becoming a showcase for any student, staff or faculty member who wished to perform.

The acts were not judged, and auditions were not required to be part of the show.

"We just wanted it to be a variety show," said Burchette, who explained it took about two weeks to plan and rehearse the show. "We got more talent than we expected. It was a lot of fun."

Burchette added that the revue will become a yearly event. "Hopefully, since students saw it this year, we'll get more of them to perform next year," she said. "We were really pleased with the show. It was a success."

Legion Auxiliary slates fund raiser

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Members of the Big Spring American Legion Auxiliary are preparing for Nov. 5-6 fund raising campaign to benefit those Americans who served their country in times of war.

ALA members will be at the Big Spring Post Office that Friday and Saturday, accepting donations and handing out red poppies, constructed by patients in veterans hospitals.

The red poppy has been designated as a symbol of sacrifice of lives in war, according to a Big Spring mayoral proclamation.

"This memorial poppy of the American Legion Auxiliary is made by hospitalized veterans. It is distributed to the public near Memorial Day and all donations received are used only to benefit America's veterans," according to ALA literature.

"All the donations go to veterans at hospitals and helping their wives and children," said Jean Graham, local coordinator for the Auxiliary.

Poppy arrangements given away in Big Spring are made by veterans hospitalized in Temple, Graham said.

In his proclamation, Mayor Tim Blackshear designated Nov. 6 as "Poppy Day" to commemorate the millions who have answered the call to arms and have died on the field of battle.

"A nation at peace must be reminded of the price of war and the debt owed to those who have died in war," according to the proclamation.

 on a conscious victim, a rescuer should stand behind the victim and wrap his arms around the victim's waist, and make a fist with one hand. The thumb side is placed against the victim's abdomen, slightly above the navel and well below the tip of the breastbone. Grasp the fist with the other hand and press into the victim's abdomen with a quick upward thrust. Repeat until the object is expelled or the patient becomes unconscious. If the patient becomes unconscious, call 911 and continue performing the maneuver.

Heimlich procedures for infants, pregnant or obese victims, and unconscious victims differ from the above. Courses in the Heimlich maneuver and other lifesaving techniques are available through Howard College, Scenic Mountain Medical Center, the American Heart Association, and the American Red Cross.

sacrifices of past service men and women, poppy arrangement and poppy-poster contests between first, second and third-grade students have been organized.

Big Spring Auxiliary members have the criteria for the national contests.

For more information on the poppy contests contact Graham at 267-6148.

All citizens are asked to pay tribute to those who have made the ultimate sacrifice in the name of freedom by wearing the Memorial Poppy on Nov. 6, according to the proclamation.

Two members of the American Legion Auxiliary will be distributing the memorial flowers, keeping them available at the post office for several hours on Nov. 5 and 6.

The American Legion Auxiliary was born following World War I and is active nationwide in the rehabilitation of disabled veterans, youth activities, community service and disaster relief activities.

"The Auxiliary believes that the principles and ideals upon which the American republic was founded, and for which American blood has been shed, are still the cornerstones of our democracy, and as such should be safeguarded for the welfare of our future generations," according to the ALA handbook.

Stephen and Aline Howard pack boxes at their new store, Cornerstone Christian Resource Center, to open Monday at 1909 Gregg St. It will offer Christian books, cards, gifts as well as services and supplies for teachers and churches. Howard said he hopes the business will become a central location for unifying activities among local churches.

Cornerstone: Center to help lay Thee foundation

By DEBBIE LINCECUM

Stephen and Aline Howard don't just want to sell books.

The owners of the soon-to-open Cornerstone Christian Resource Center hope their business will be a place for unification of local churches, and a center for religious action.

"We want to make it the central location for all kinds of events," said Howard, coordinator of this summer's successful March for Jesus. He and his wife recently purchased Sonshine Christian Bookstore, which had been operating in Highland Mall.

They renamed the operation, plan to update and change a few other things, and moved it to 1909 Gregg St., where Crown Decorating used to be. A grand opening celebration begins Monday.

"We're broadening our spectrum," said Howard. "The name 'resource center' really says it - we can do many things."

The Howards plan not only to sell Bibles, books, cards, clothing and Christian gifts, they will add some upscale gift items, and continue the teacher's supply program that Sonshine operated. They will do gift wrapping, laminating and pack-and-send services and hope to begin supplying churches with materials.

"Once I get moved in and set up, I want to start catering to what churches need," he said. "We'll get supplies for Sunday school, vacation Bible school supplies and even office supplies."

Buying the store from Sonshine owner Susan Alexander has been in the works for three years, Howard said.

"We have just been thinking about how we could do it, and we've prayed about it a lot," he said. "It felt like something we really wanted to do."

Howard, whose goal with March for Jesus was to bring churches together, wants to continue that with his store.

"This can be a place where the community comes together," Howard said. "We can bring in concerts and utilize the other resources in our community, like the amphitheater."

"I'd like to see us become more visible and impact the community as a whole."

Howard said he hopes to let people know that Christians don't have to fit a certain image.

"You don't have to be a perfect person to become a Christian," he said. "We'll have the resources and materials that help create that in people. It's a way of life."

In addition, Howard said he hopes to offer services that weren't previously available, except by going to Midland-Odessa.

"Shopping at home is a commitment," he said. "Even as a Christian bookstore, we will compete. We intend to do some creative things."

Somewhere down the road, Howard said he might add another service to Cornerstone, but wouldn't give details.

"I've got to keep some surprises," he said.

Cornerstone's hours will be 10 a.m.-6 p.m. During the first month, daily door prizes, weekly prizes and other promotions are planned. In addition, Howard said, many items will be on sale.

"I want to encourage people to give us their ideas," he said. "We're going to be open to suggestions about what people want to see."

Spiritual happiness permanent

By FLOYD GREEN
 Baker's Chapel AME

There are various types of happiness. There is the happiness of wealth, the happiness of health, the happiness of family, the happiness of friends, the happiness of achievement.

But spiritual happiness is the only type of permanent happiness. Lasting happiness must spring from the things of the spirit.

Happiness is knowing that God is your father. We can be proud to be the sons of God through our faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Certainly it is happiness to know that you are a child of God. It is happiness to know that He loves you with all of His heart. It is happiness to know that you can always call on Him, to know that He is always ready to pour out His blessings upon you.

It is happiness to know that He cares for us more tenderly than any earthly father cares for his child.

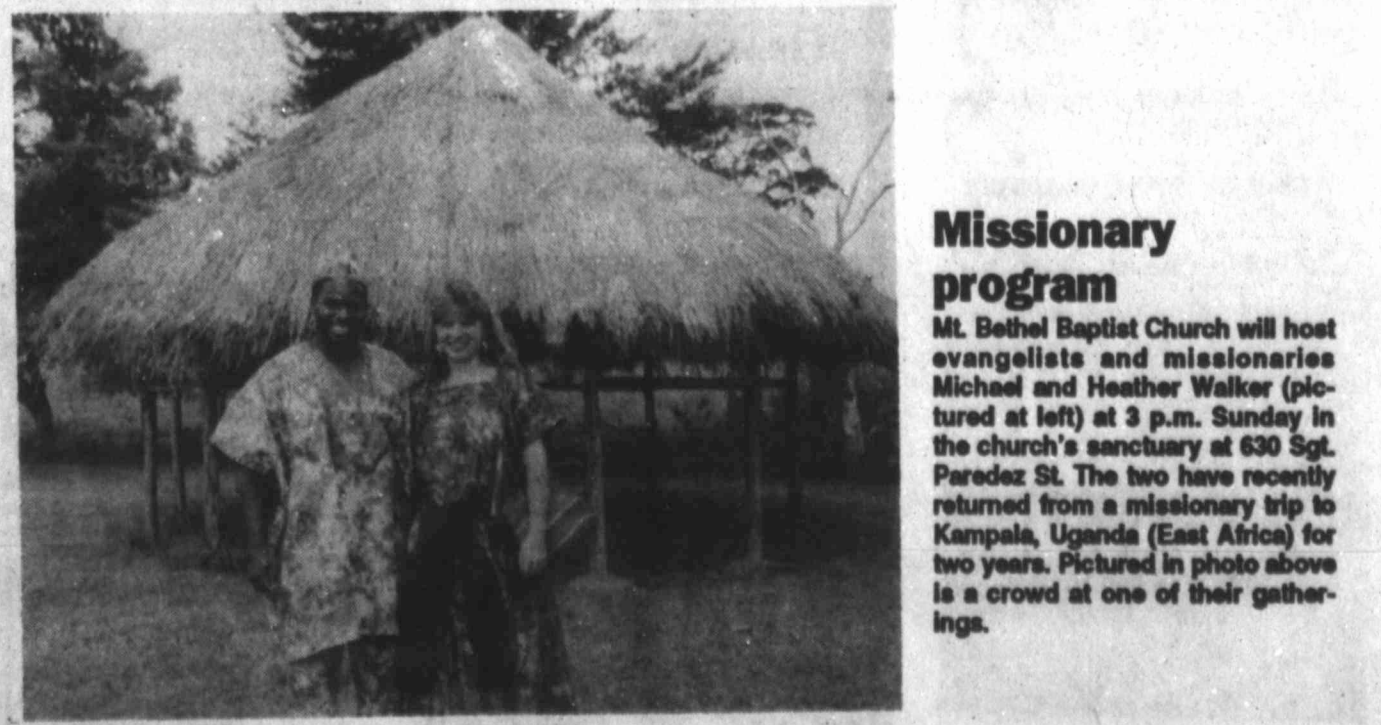

Happiness is knowing that Christ is your Saviour. Happiness is in repenting of your sins and putting your faith in that Saviour. The world is full of people who can't say, "He is mine." They are missing life's greatest joy.

Yes, it is happiness to know that God is our Father and Christ is our Saviour. Nothing in the world can break that tie. Paul said, "I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Happiness is knowing that the Holy Spirit dwells within, and knowing that your sins have been forgiven.

Happiness is knowing that you have the privilege of prayer. I believe prayer makes us better people. When we pray as individuals, we grow in grace. When we pray as a church, we will see mighty things come to pass. If every Christian in the world would set aside a season for private prayer every day, I believe that we

Salmon AL's top rookie

By The Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. — While Tim Salmon didn't get off to a spectacular start and his season ended 2 weeks early, the numbers he posted in between were good enough.

The California Angels outfielder hit .283 with 95 RBIs and 31 home runs, tied for ninth in the AL. For that, he became the SALMON fourth American Leaguer to win Rookie of the Year honors in a unanimous vote.

Salmon's statistics would have been even more impressive if he hadn't missed the final 2 weeks of the season. But an inning after hitting a grand slam in the Angels' 15-1 rout of Seattle on Sept. 15, Salmon broke his left ring finger while fielding a line drive.

"After my season was over, and I got hurt, then I could really get away from the game a little bit and look at what my final numbers were, then I said, 'Hey, I'm going to be the one to win it,'" he said.

Salmon's victory Thursday completed a sweep by the Los Angeles-area teams. A day earlier, Dodgers catcher Mike Piazza was unanimously voted NL Rookie of the Year. The only other time both awards were won unanimously was in 1987, by Oakland's Mark McGwire and San Diego's Benito Santiago.

Salmon, 25, joined McGwire, Carlton Fisk (1972) and Sandy Alomar Jr. (1990) as the only AL rookies to win unanimously and became the first Angel ever to win the award.

"Going into spring training, I wasn't trying to reach any marks," Salmon said by telephone from Hawaii, where he's vacationing. "I wanted to get my feet wet, get a rhythm going, get myself comfortable in the box every day."

"To have the kind of year I had, you can't even describe it. I did not expect that. This is something you dream about achieving, maybe after four or five years in the game, but not in my rookie year."

Chicago White Sox pitcher Jason Bere got 18 second-place votes, well ahead of Boston pitcher Aaron Sele, who had 19 points and finished third.

"There has been a build-up to this point, so it hasn't been a total shock," Salmon said.

Myles returns to action

By The Associated Press

IRVING — There's a bounce in his step and a smile on his face as linebacker Godfrey Myles walks through the Dallas Cowboys dressing room at Valley Ranch. The Super Bowl's forgotten man is back.

For the first time since he suffered an injury while celebrating a touchdown in the Super Bowl in January, Myles is ready to play in a football game.

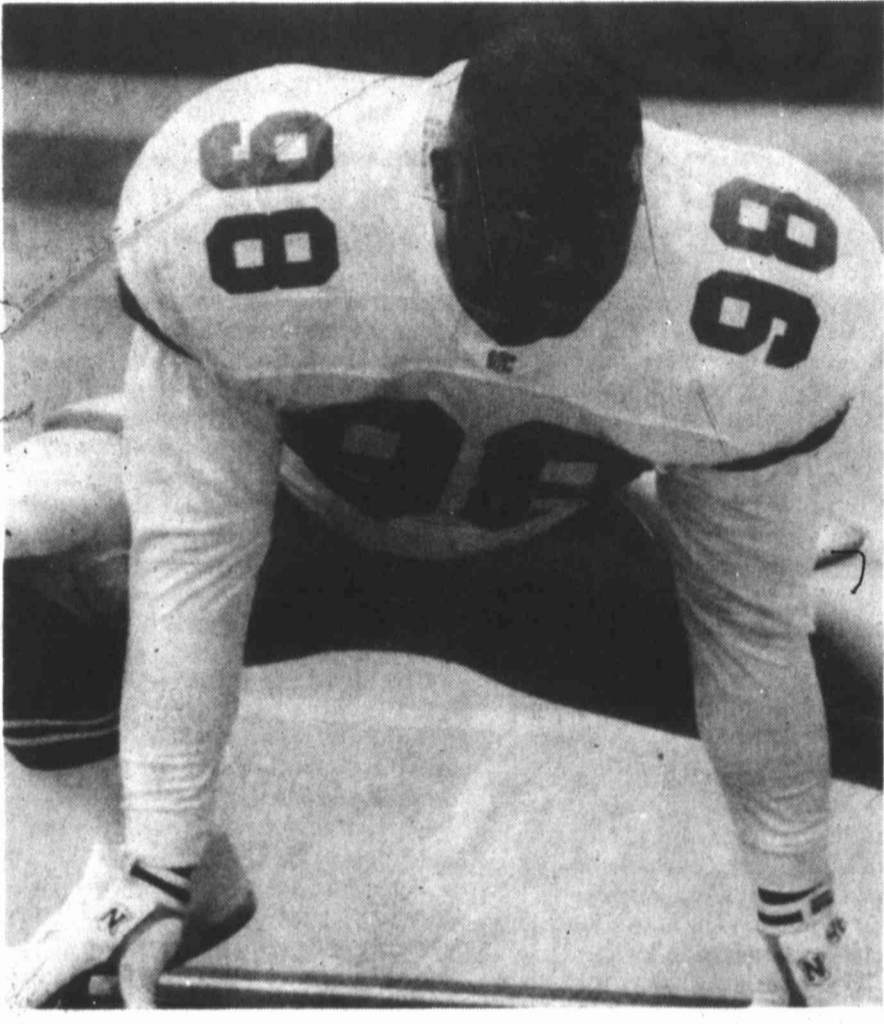

"I'm ready to hit something, hit anybody," Myles said. "It's been a long, long time. It's been frustrating."

Coach Jimmy Johnson decided Thursday to activate Myles for Sunday's game at Philadelphia. Myles is ready for some action to help forget his freak injury in the Super Bowl.

A moment of joy turned into agonizing pain when he ripped the main ligament in the anterior cruciate of his right knee.

Jimmie Jones had just scored a touchdown after Charles Haley blindsided Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly and the ball popped free. As the Cowboys celebrated the go-ahead score, Myles himself was blindsided.

"I got shoved and I tried to brace myself but the grass was wet in that part of the Rose Bowl from the rain the night before," Myles said. "When I planted my right foot, it just got twisted and the knee went. It was just incredible it happened like that."

"You would think something like that would happen in a violent collision on the field."

Myles is well enough now to play outside linebacker and help the special teams. He practiced in pads for the first time on Oct. 14.

Trying to rehabilitate his knee has been a long, hard battle. He's had them before in his short professional career. The 1991 third-round pick out of Florida missed almost all of the 1991 season with an injured right shoulder that required surgery.

His potential has been untapped although he was a mainstay on the special teams last year.

district title is not.

The Sands Mustangs have surpassed most people's expectations and are in control of the district, leaving the Cougars and Wellman to slug it out for second.

That doesn't take any importance away from the contest, however.

"This is the one that will either get us in the playoffs or keep us out of the playoffs," Klondike coach Ed Wilson said.

Wilson's team has had to become masters at mid-season adjustments after losing star running back Mike Lee for the season to a knee injury. Lee may be available for the playoffs should Klondike get that far, Wilson said.

Wilson plugged freshman Eric Arismendez into Lee's slot, and the Cougars have hardly missed a beat since.

"We miss (Lee). With him gone, everything changes as far as offensively and defensively," Wilson said. "But the kids have played well without him. As to whether we're the same team without him? No. But the kids are playing real hard."

Wilson said the keys to tonight's game for Klondike was to cut down on turnovers and shut down Wellman's passing game.

"(Wellman's) starting to play like they can," Wilson said. "They sure are starting to gel. Dawson's got a very good team, and (Wellman) played real well against Dawson."

Game time is 7:30 p.m. in Patricia.

Loop at Sands

Life has been sweet for the Sands Mustangs this season. Picked to finish in the middle of the District 5 pack, the Mustangs have instead raced through the season undefeated and need only a win tonight against league cellar-dweller Loop to clinch a playoff trip.

The major thing that concerns Sands coach Bob Keyes is that the Mustangs might be overlooking Loop.

"Yes, I'm worried about it," Keyes said. "We didn't have a real good workout Tuesday, and that really had me worried — but we did look better Wednesday."

Keyes added that his team will have to take care of business against the Longhorns.

"They're big. They're not real fast, but they're big and they play hard," Keyes said. "We watched them on film and it seems like they run out of gas at halftime."

Game time is 7:30 p.m. in Ackerly.

Coahoma downs McCamey; Wall falls on Stanton Buffs

Big Spring's junior varsity and freshman teams did not play Thursday night, but there was still plenty of action.

Coahoma JV 20 McCamey JV 8

COAHOMA — The Coahoma junior varsity Bulldogs won their eighth game in nine tries Thursday, shutting down a thin McCamey squad.

McCamey came to Coahoma with just 11 players, said Coahoma coach Kim Nichols.

"It was kind of a strange deal," Nichols said. "They only brought 11 players, but they were good players. They played us tough."

Not tough enough for the Bulldogs, however. Freshman tailback Freddie Olivas scored the first touchdown of the game on a 1-yard run. In the second quarter, Bulldog quarterback Marshall Wright launched a 30-yard touchdown pass to Jonathan Miller.

Thanks in part to two extra-point kicks from Joel Hernandez, Coahoma led 14-0 at halftime.

The lead moved to 20-0 in the third quarter when Wright threw another touchdown pass. This time it was a 2-yard toss to Matthew Hamilton.

Olivas had a big game for the Bulldogs, gaining 116 yards on 14 carries. Coahoma's defense came up big as well, grabbing four interceptions. Wright and Hernandez each picked off one pass, and Jamison Ward picked off two.

Other stars for the Bulldogs were Rocky Coates, Jim Roper and Lee Spurgin.

Nichols said Coahoma's JV players have worked out with the varsity this season, a habit that has helped tremendously. Also, unlike McCamey, the Bulldogs have quantity to go with quality.

Coahoma's freshman season is completed, and some of those players moved up to JV. Four or five JV players moved up to varsity, Nichols said, but the Bulldogs have the players to fill the gaps.

Coahoma's JV season may be finished. Ozona had to cancel Thursday's season finale, Nichols said. Coahoma is searching for an opponent so the Bulldogs can play one more game.

Wall JV 14 Stanton JV 8

WALL — Stanton's junior varsity squad ended its season on a low note Thursday but still had a fine season. The Buffaloes finished 6-3.

Wall scored 14 points in the first quarter — Stanton shut the Hawks down after that.

In the second quarter, Stanton's Mark Carrillo scored on a 5-yard run. Buffalo quarterback Taylor Looney hit Carrillo with a two-point pass.

Stanton's defense was led by Jimmy Kargl, Chris Carroll, David Cazer, Carrillo and Looney. Francisco Garcia starred of offense along with Carrillo and Looney.

Stanton's district mark was 4-2. Coaches Rob Bird and Doug Gordon said they were proud of the squad.

"As eighth-graders last year, these guys only won one game," Gordon said.

Stanton's seventh-grade team beat Wall 40-20 Thursday in Stanton. The seventh-graders finished 8-0, and the eighth-grade team ended at 7-1 after a 28-22 win over the Wall Hawks.

the exact order they are drawn. For example, if you choose 148, you win if 148 are drawn in that order. If you play Any Order, you win if your numbers match the winning numbers regardless of the order they are drawn. So if you choose 345, you win if 345, 354, Play Us In Exact Order!

435, 453, 534 or 543 are drawn. And if you like to play favorites, feel free to play the same number more than once. Like 007. Or 555.

In Pick 3 you can make a $500, $1, $2, $3, $4 or $5 play on your numbers, and you can win up to $500 for each Exact Order $1 play.

Remember, you can play Pick 3 at any Texas Lottery retailer where you play LOTTO Texas. Pick 3 drawings are held at 9:59 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

You can even ask for a Quick Pick, and the computer will pick your three numbers for you. If you need more information, just pick up a how-to-play brochure at any LOTTO Texas retailer, or call 1-800-37-LOTTO.

For Baltimore, there's no such thing as justice

Random thoughts while searching for just the right trick-or-treat costume:

Right about now, pro football fans in Baltimore must be feeling like they're the most jinxed people around.

For years, Baltimore was home to the Colts. You remember the Baltimore Colts, don't you? Johnny Unitas, Raymond Berry, Bubba Smith, Bert Jones, et al? Sure you do.

For years, these and countless other stars plied their trade in Baltimore, and in return the citizenry showered them with adoration. The Colts were Baltimore's team, and Baltimore loved them like kinfolk.

Then came the day a few years ago when team owner Robert Irsay decided to move the team to Indianapolis. Being the courageous sort he is, Irsay moved the team under the cover of night without bothering to tell anyone he was going.

Now you see them, now you don't. Now, the Baltimore Colts are the Indianapolis Colts, and Unitas, Berry, Smith and the rest have been replaced by the likes of Jeff George and a whole lot of other people who's names and talents elude me.

But we're getting away from the story.

Anyway, Baltimore was now a city without a pro football team. A city that had loved its team now was like Mom and Dad after the kids left home for good, only this time the kids wrecked the furniture and smashed the china before they took off.

A sense of betrayal was a common emotion at the time. So was a desire to see Irsay's hat floating in the nearest harbor.

To this day, there's hardly a Baltimore resident who can speak Irsay's name without preceding it with a few choice expletives deleted.

OK, so teams pulling up roots and leaving for better climates is not exactly new these days. But usually, these transplants move because the locals don't "support the team enough," meaning the owner can get a better deal elsewhere.

But this wasn't the case in Baltimore. As I said, they loved their Colts, and non-sellout crowds were a rarity at Memorial Stadium. But Indianapolis sweetened the pot, and Irsay and the team boogied.

Let's fast-forward a few years. The pain of the Colts' departure had subsided somewhat and life was more-or-less back to normal. Then, like a bolt from the blue, the National Football League announced it would accept two new franchises into the league.

Well, you didn't have to tell the folks in Baltimore twice. Not one, but two ownership groups were formed, plans were made to build a new stadium and the citizens mobilized to support bringing pro football back to Baltimore.

There was once again hope. Baltimore, along with Memphis, Jacksonville, St. Louis and Charlotte, was declared a finalist for two new franchises and, popular sentiment being what it is, Baltimore was considered a near-lock to be picked.

Think again, football breath. At their Tuesday meeting, NFL owners awarded one of the franchises to Charlotte and said they would name the other franchise Nov. 30.

With St. Louis having the largest TV market in the nation without an NFL team, guess which city will probably get the second franchise?

And guess which one will be left out in the cold?

Oh well, Baltimoreans, there's always the Orioles.

Fishing report

With return of cooler weather, bass fishing has been picking up in area lakes, and crappie are stirring again. The big striper are beginning to come out at Lake E.V. Spence.

Several bass clubs have held tournaments within recent weeks.

At Lake O.H. Irie, which momentarily topped 1,550 feet elevation last week, the McBee Open Tournament drew 96 entries with 30 fish being weighed over the 18-inch level, and the largest was 6.49 pounds. Water temperature was 73 surface and 62 bottom. Largemouth bass were hitting buzz and crank baits early and late, and plastic worms in 10-20 feet of water. Crappie fishing was picking up, and both yellow and channel catfishing were good particularly on trotlines.

The Silver Bullet Bass Busters had their tourney at Paint Creek with 22 taking part in two days of fishing. Elise Cantu had the best at 4.55 points on Saturday, and David Thomas was best with 2.67 pounds Sunday. Elise Cantu had six bass totaling 15.41 pounds; David Thomas six for 13.14 pounds; and Mike Jones six for 12.04 pounds. All fish were in good shape and were released.

At Wildcat Marina, Jim Hubbard of Robert Lee reeled in a 20 pound, 3/4 ounce striper; Mike Stihwal, Odessa, had three striper 11-3/4, 14 and 19-1/2 pounds; Randy Chambers, Odessa, 12 pound striper; Bobby Green, Robert Lee, 8-3/4 pound black bass; Wayne Palmer, Odessa, 13 pound striper; Timmy Freeman, Wildcat area, a channel catfish; Chuck Pearson, Midland, 4 striper up to 5 pounds; Terry Brown, Odessa, five striper to 12 pounds; second day, five to 6 pounds.

Lake Thomas water dipped to 62 degrees and the Colorado City Bass Club had seven fishermen for its tourney. Fourteen fish aggregated 96 pounds, with Gary Gale first with three fish at 18.11 pounds; Ronnie Carron three for 16.02 pounds; and Steve Walker three for 11.04 pounds.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Sister needs word from the wise

DEAR ABBY: I have a younger sister who is 18, and very naive. She has lived with me since our parents died seven years ago. One night, she went out on a blind date and came home with a hickey on her neck.

DEAR NEITHER HERE NOR THERE: The "right" answer to that question varies from family to family. Because the majority of people find the subject of their own mortality so unpleasant to face, that issue remains unresolved in many families.

DEAR ABBY: As more and more people leave their hometowns and relocate across the country, this important question is usually put "on hold" and is rarely resolved.

When my friends gave a wedding shower for me, they forgot to put my name on the invitation! I'm sure the invitees were scratching their heads in puzzlement until they received a second invitation that read:

I HAD THE NICEST DREAM. I WAS PICKING DENNIS OUT OF A POLICE LINEUP.

"No, Grandma, I'm never asked to clap the erasers. My job is wiping off the computer screens."
