A day for remembering

Different wars, same sentiments

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

For 75 years now, the United States has been honoring its veterans on Nov. 11. Originally dubbed Armistice Day, the date Nov. 11 was chosen in honor of the date on which World War I ended.

On June 1, 1954, Congress changed the name to Veterans Day to include post-World War I veterans in the national recognition.

Several local veterans of World War II, Korea, Vietnam and the Persian Gulf shared their Veterans Day memories and thoughts.

Billy T. Smith, 70, served in the Army from January 1944 to May 1946. A staff sergeant in a chemical warfare battalion, he served in several United States locations before being sent to Europe.

Smith was sent to England, France and Austria during his time in Europe. He escaped injury; some of his buddies weren't so lucky.

"There was a supply sergeant that I was particularly close to. Of all the people who didn't make it back, he was probably the one I was closest to. Even now, I still think about him," said Smith.

"Veterans Day makes me wonder why mankind has to settle problems with these kinds of operations. It doesn't seem like we've improved a lot since then."

Smith appreciates memorials to veterans of all wars, and is not particularly fond of specialized attention to veterans of any particular conflict.

He feels some Vietnam veterans, who felt mistreated upon their return, may have expected too much attention to be heaped upon them. "The best way to honor veterans is to do it across the board," Smith added.

President Bill Clinton's opposition to the Vietnam War is another topic of which Smith is not particularly fond. "I don't know that he should be president since he tried to dodge the Vietnam war," he said.

Smith is proud that he still has his

John Tarlton, 98, World War I veteran in Big Spring, holds commemorative medal given to him and others in recognition of 75 years since the end of the century's first big war on Nov. 11, 1918. Veterans Day originated from recognition of World War I victims and veterans.

World War I memories: VA to honor Tarlton, other Doughboys

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Veterans Day, today, has a 75-year history, dating back to the end of the century's first big war, World War I.

"It just means the war was over," said John Tarlton, 98, who served in the war four months as a cook.

To Tarlton and those who remember, or have learned since, it was the "war to end all wars." First it was known as the European War and later the Great War or World War. Of course, after the next world war, a numeral had to be added.

"Most historians agree that the 19th century didn't truly end until the 'Guns of August' sounded in 1914, ushering in the 20th with its devastating wars and changing mores. The 'roaring '20s' could never have occurred in that old, dead era," wrote Vermont Royster, a World War II Navy veteran, in the September issue of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"So while it is right that we should hold in memory World War II, Korea and Vietnam, and honor those who fought these wars, we should not let that 'first' Great War fade from our national consciousness," Royster said. "Curiously, wars fought even longer ago (such as the Civil War) are better remembered."

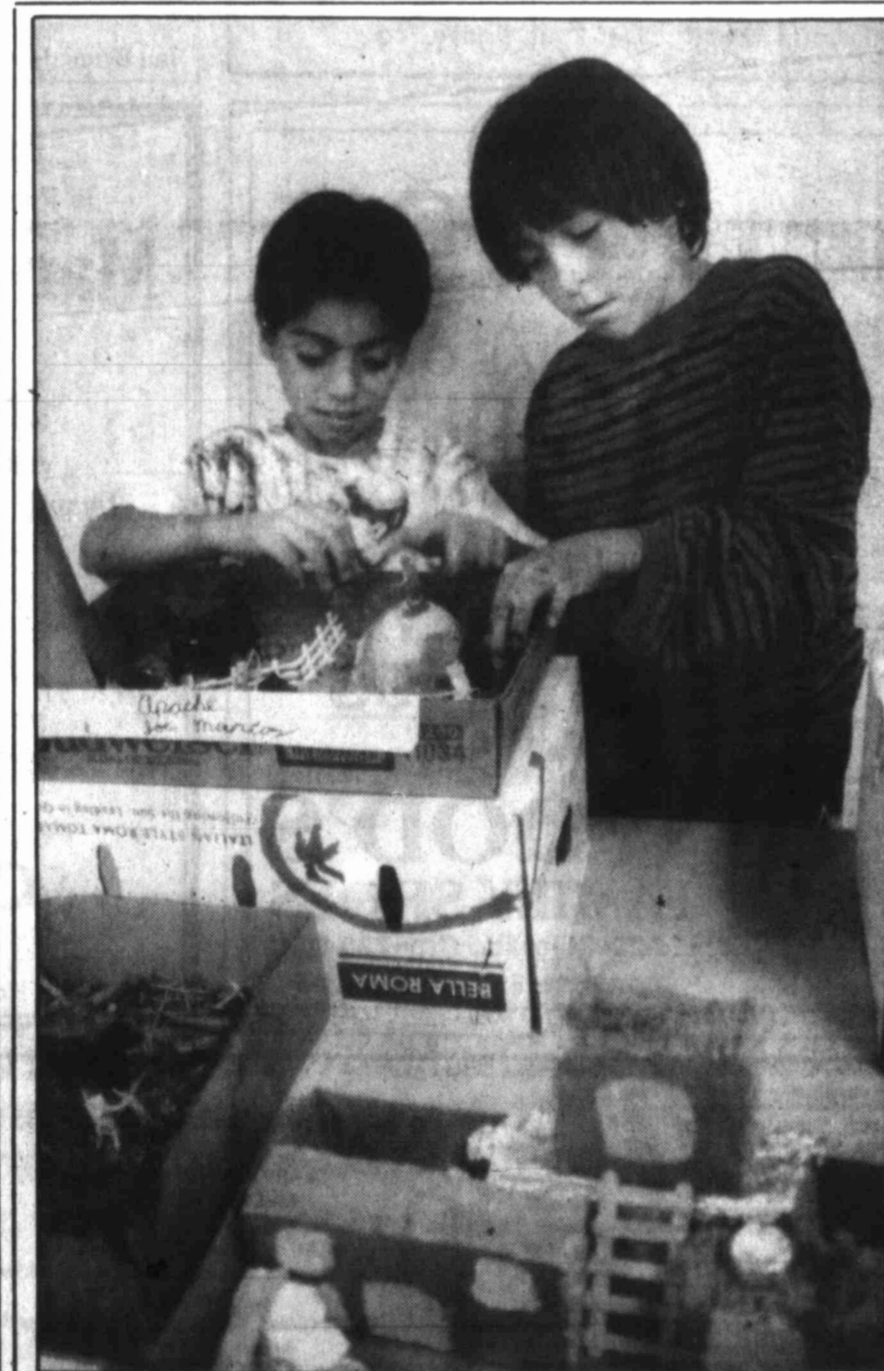

The VA Medical Center in Big Spring is honoring that wish today with 75-year commemorative medals to be given to Tarlton and about 19 other World War I vets.

Ceremonies began at 11 a.m. at the center. Medals will be given later or forwarded to vets who couldn't attend.

The Veterans Day tradition began in 1920, two years after the war ended, when England and France began recognizing unknown victims, according to Veterans of Foreign Wars. The U.S. Congress officially dubbed Nov. 11 as Armistice Day in 1926.

It became a U.S. national holiday in 1938. It was changed to Veterans Day in 1954 to recognize World War II and Korean veterans. In 1971, it was changed to the last Monday of October to give workers a three-day weekend, but by 1977, veterans had exerted enough political muscle to have it changed back to Nov. 11 in 46 states.

Colorado City couple's death believed suicide

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY - As a seven-year-old boy lay unconscious in a hospital in critical condition from a blow to the head, his foster parents committed what appears to be suicide.

James R. Lappe, 57, the only suspect in an investigation of abuse to the child, died Monday morning from a gunshot wound to the right temple, said Colorado City Police Chief David Montgomery. A .22-caliber Magnum derringer was found next to his body in the back yard of his home, 541 Locust. Preliminary tests indicate he fired the weapon.

Marie Anna Lappe, 47, was found dead Wednesday morning in her bedroom, Montgomery said. There were more than half a dozen prescription medicine bottles found in the bed. Prior to her death, she had been cooperating with the investigation.

"The only thing we've got next to determine, is what happened to the boy," Montgomery said. "I think the public has a right to know."

The child is suffering blunt trauma to the back of the head. He was brought to Mitchell County Hospital just before midnight Sunday and later airlifted to Lubbock Methodist Hospital where he remains in critical condition. He has not yet regained consciousness.

Lappe told authorities the boy had fallen down stairs after running up and down them for punishment.

When the Lappes brought their five adopted children and the boys' four siblings, ranging from six months to nine years old, to the hospital in Lubbock, state welfare workers took custody of the children. The foster children, who were all under care of the Lappes, are cousins of the adopted children.

The foster children were put in care of the Lappes as the result of an investigation of a satanic cult in Upshur County. The children were physically and sexually abused. A trial is pending on eight people indicted.

The Lappes moved from Kilgore to Colorado City about eight months ago. Montgomery and welfare officials reported no criminal history or record of domestic problems.

"I think they were wanting a small community where they could get away from everything," Montgomery said. "Something just went terribly wrong."

Lappe, an Air Force retiree, suffered a work injury last year and had been unemployed since July, according to Montgomery. His wife had told investigators he was in severe pain and frustrated at not having a job.

Texas nurse remembers Vietnam

For Ann Lee, it is enough just to know

The Associated Press

SAN ANGELO — In August 1992, more than 20 years after she served a yearlong tour as an Army nurse in a Vietnam evacuation hospital, Ann Lee visited the The Wall at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington.

It was Lee's first trip to the memorial, which contains the names of U.S. military personnel killed in Vietnam.

"I put it off for a long time," said Lee, director of the Medical-Surgical Division at Shannon Medical Center. "A friend of mine, another Vietnam vet, had never seen it either. I just told him, 'It's time to go. It's time to do it.'"

She spent three hours at the wall and left behind the following poem, a poem she had written beforehand:

Oh, God!! Why can't I remember their names??
I stand before these black marble panels
And I know,
Everyone on these panels in front of me died in 1969.
And I know,
I touched so many of them as they died.
And I know,
Each one took a small part of me with them when they died.
And I know,
I tried to protect myself by not learning their names.
And I know,
I can never forget them even though I can't remember their names.
And I know,
That's OK. It is enough to know I was there to care for them and be there for them.
And I know,
That's what being a nurse is all about.
Oh, God!! You know who they are. Tell them that they will always be a part of me and I hold them in my heart of hearts.

"I had this need to put some stuff on paper," Lee said. "I hadn't really dealt with my feelings about Vietnam before. Putting that on paper did more for me than anything."

Lee will return to The Wall this week for the dedication of the Vietnam Women's Memorial. Another Vietnam nurse, Linda Knightstep, will accompany Lee. Knightstep is director of Critical Care at Shannon.

The week of ceremonies, marches and reunions will be an emotional time for the Vietnam veterans, Lee predicted. "Maybe we'll cry now," said Lee.

"You didn't cry over there. I don't know — maybe we thought we were supposed to be stoic. Or maybe there just wasn't time."

Lee began her Vietnam tour in 1969 as head nurse in an intensive care unit with the 312th Evacuation

Hospital in Chu Lai. She later served as head nurse in the emergency room in the 91st Evac.

Helicopters brought soldiers directly from the field to the evac hospitals — often around the clock.

"In the emergency room, I estimate we saw 200 to 300 boys a day," she said. "It was just constant most of the time."

She remembers the constant struggle to save lives.

"Sometimes in the pre-op, a holding area where we got them ready for surgery, there was a 24-hour backlog. The docs were operating round-the-clock. The nurses and medics were doing a lot of the local stuff."

"It was nightmarish. Not so much at the time it was happening, but later. When it was happening, we were so busy that we didn't think in those terms."

Some of her memories from that year are very bad.

She remembers a young soldier, unconscious with a bad head injury.

"His tracheotomy eroded a major artery in his neck, and it was pumping blood. There was nothing we could do. We stood there and watched him bleed to death. We stood there totally helpless while he died."

She remembers early one June morning when enemy mortar fire fell on the hospital, ripping through a nearby Quonset hut, killing another nurse.

"I was going with a Marine pilot at the time. He called me later, and I remember yelling, 'They were aiming at us! They meant to do this!' I was really upset. He said, 'Wait a minute! Who do you think you are? When you put on that green uniform, you accept the risks. You're a soldier, this is war, and, yeah, they were aiming at you. That comes with it.'"

Hispanics weigh ups, downs with NAFTA

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Hispanic activists, business people and ordinary citizens have opinions on the North American Free Trade Agreement ranging from outright opposition to full-fledged support.

And, like other Americans, some Hispanics don't know what to make of the proposed pact.

"There have been so many controversies either way that I really don't know what the whole argument is," said Domingo Garza, who works in his sister's small grocery store on the city's predominantly Hispanic west side.

"Really, nobody knows what it's all about," Garza said.

Hispanic labor leaders, like their union counterparts nationwide, are leading a charge against NAFTA. They rallied Wednesday at a San Antonio cafe and outside a factory.

Truckers angry about NAFTA, fuel prices

DALLAS (AP) — The free trade agreement has independent truckers fighting mad, with many ready to halt their rigs in protest over the proposed treaty, soaring fuel prices and other economic concerns.

United Drivers of America said its members were ready to quit work as of 12:01 a.m. today in a weeklong shutdown expected to involve thousands of truck owner-operators and company drivers.

The group's representatives also met Tuesday with Ross Perot's grassroots group. A spokeswoman of the Dallas billionaire's United We Stand America Inc. confirmed the meeting but gave no details.

"We are against NAFTA in the present form," said Mary Vialle of Garland, Texas, acting spokeswoman for United Drivers. "There's no way we can compete with the Mexican drivers. The laws are so different between the countries, and the U.S. has not even harmonized trucking laws from state to state."

She said the nonviolent shutdown was scheduled to last until midnight Nov. 17. U.S. House members were scheduled to cast votes on the trade agreement next Wednesday, with supporters still short of a majority needed to pass the measure.

Celeste makes pitch for Clinton reforms

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. Richard Celeste, working to sell President Clinton's health care plan, says the congressional vote will be a "major test" for candidates in 1994.

"I don't believe that any member of Congress is going to want to come back and run for office next year and not be able to say, 'I voted for a meaningful health reform bill,'" said Celeste, head of the Democratic National Committee's National Health Care Campaign.

In a speech Wednesday at the Third Annual State Policy Analysis Conference sponsored by the Texas comptroller, Celeste warned Texans to watch for "bogus" health care reform plans.

"Since the president addressed the country ... everyone is now for health reform. (Republican U.S. Sen.) Phil Gramm is as enthusiastic about health care reform as Bill Clinton. I don't think they mean the same thing," he said, going on to use an old joke to make his point.

Energy secretary set to announce new lab

FORT WORTH (AP) — Work was expected tonight on a prestigious National Research Laboratory to complement the Pantex nuclear weapons complex in the Texas Panhandle.

Sources said Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary would announce the lab's creation at a dinner for U.S. Rep. Bill Sarpalius. President Clinton is courting the Amarillo Democrat to vote for the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Judge in McDuff case says location problem

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — It won't be easy to find a court to accommodate the expected lengthy trial in the latest capital murder case for convicted killer Kenneth McDuff, a judge says.

"I'm not certain where it (the trial) is going," said State District Judge Wilford Flowers of Austin, who has agreed to move the case from Austin because of extensive news coverage.

"It's going to be a difficult task to find some place ... for that long of a period of time," Flowers said. He said at a Wednesday hearing he expects the trial to take at least eight weeks, including jury selection.

The judge said there's "no guarantee" he can find a court to take the case beginning Jan. 3, a date discussed for starting the trial. He suggested that state lawyers check to see if their witnesses have any conflicts in March.

McDuff, 47, is charged with capital murder in the death of Colleen Reed, who disappeared from an Austin car wash in 1991. Her body has not been found.

If convicted, McDuff could face the death sentence. He previously was sentenced to death in two other murders.

"I think it's more than likely that it (the trial) will be beyond Jan. 3," said Chris Gunter, an attorney for McDuff who has sought a trial delay. "That particular week is a bad week for courts everywhere," with cases gearing up after the Christmas holiday lull.

Flowers didn't rule on the motion for delay. McDuff's lawyers have said they need more time to prepare because prosecutors plan to present evidence from a case in which McDuff was found guilty this year of killing Waco convenience store clerk Melissa Northrup.

McDuff also was sentenced to death in 1966 in the murder of a teen-age girl in Fort Worth. But that sentence was commuted to life in prison when the Texas death penalty was declared unconstitutional, and McDuff was paroled in 1989.

Prosecutors opposed the defense motion for delay, saying they're eager to try the case.

"It's pretty frustrating," Assistant District Attorney David Counts of Travis County said about the difficulty in finding a county whose court can take the trial. "We're ready to go to trial."

NAFTA opponents breaking with Perot

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Ross Perot was making the rounds of House offices trying to line up more votes against free-trade legislation...

"I'm not concerned. This is not an athletic contest," Perot said testily when asked at a news conference Wednesday whether a weak performance in his face-off with Gore was costing votes for the North American Free Trade Agreement.

By most accounts, Gore outmaneuvered the Dallas billionaire in their 90-minute debate Tuesday night on CNN's "Larry King Live" program.

On Wednesday, organized labor and others who had lined up with Perot in opposition to the measure — and who earlier had sung his praises — were putting some distance between themselves and Perot's prickly debate performance.

"The debate is not between Ross Perot and Al Gore," said Teamsters President Ron Carey, sounding a note that was echoed across Washington as other opponents of the pact weighed the impact of Perot's lackluster performance.

And the chief House opponent of the agreement, House Democratic Whip David Bonior of Michigan, sought to minimize Perot's role in rallying opposition to the pact, which would phase out trade barriers among Mexico, Canada and the United States.

Asked if the debate was having any impact on the vote, Bonior playfully asked which debate they were referring to.

Was he as comfortable standing with Perot on the subject? Bonior paused and said he was "comfortable being with the auto workers and electrical workers" and other union members who are opposed to the treaty. Perot told a throng of reporters outside the Capitol that he was able to line up more House members to vote against the trade agreement, but wouldn't say how many or who they were.

"I don't think it's smart to show the other side your cards," Perot said. Organizers cut the news conference short when questions began to focus on the debate itself — and not the trade agreement.

Perot declined to talk about the debate, just saying: "I'm here busy trying to make sure we have the votes on Wednesday."

Clinton predicts win on NAFTA, but foes say they will prevail

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Both sides are predicting victory in next Wednesday's House showdown over the North American Free Trade Agreement, but supporters concede they'll need to find about 30 more votes to succeed.

A day after Ross Perot and Vice President Al Gore held a televised debate over the pact, a buoyant President Clinton used a news conference Wednesday to talk up the deal with Mexico and Canada.

"We have a lot of job losses every year in America we can't prevent," he said during the White House session. "So when we have an opportunity to create more jobs, we are almost morally bound to do it."

But outside the Capitol, Perot wasn't buying. The billionaire businessman and one-time presidential candidate, perhaps the best-known NAFTA foe, told reporters that he had won over some undecided House members Wednesday, though he refused to reveal their names.

"I don't think it's smart to show the other side your cards," he said.

Both sides were following that strategy, making it hard to evaluate where the votes stood. One leading critic, Rep. Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y., said there were 221 solid votes against the agreement, four more than are needed to kill it. But Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., a chief supporter, said there were 190 members ready to vote for the pact, 60 undecided and 185 against. Estimates of undecided lawmakers ranged from 30 to 70.

Still, Clinton predicted, "I believe the House will do the right thing."

The pact would eliminate tariffs among the three North American countries over the next 15 years. Supporters say it would boost U.S. exports and create jobs; critics say it would cost American jobs as companies move to Mexico to take advantage of cheaper wages and lower environmental standards.

With the outcome uncertain, both sides were planning heavy lobbying in hopes of finding votes right up to the last minute.

The Citizens Trade Campaign, a coalition of anti-NAFTA groups, said it was targeting 60 to 70 congressional districts for an all-out effort to sway votes during the four-day congressional recess that began today.

Taking opportunity to say 'Thank you'

We, the officers of the Big Spring High School Student Council, would like to take this opportunity to say "Thank You" for the support of the Red Ribbon Week Campaign which was held Oct. 23-30.

Why is gas higher?

It's time to ask the question most asked at the Tourist Information Center. Why is gasoline so much higher in Big Spring than any of the surrounding towns?

I believe that is a legitimate question and deserves a legitimate answer.

We have done some traveling recently and here are some comparative gas prices for different states and areas within our state.

Jordan and time won't fly

Mike Royko

Between sips, Slat Grobnik jabbed at a pocket calculator, then said: "It's time to look at the bright side."

Of what? "Michael Jordan quitting his job." You mean his retirement? "I don't like the word 'retire' when I'm talking about some healthy 30-year-old kid."

OK, but what could possibly be the bright side of Chicago's all-time greatest athlete quitting his job? "That's what I've been figuring on my calculator."

What does your calculator have to do with it? "Lemme tell you. With the playoffs, the Bulls played 101 games last season. How many of those games did you watch?"

Right. OK, you watched about 90 games. The average game lasts about two and a half hours. That means you spent about 225 hours watching the Bulls."

Hey, think about it. That comes to more than nine days. I mean, 24-hour days that you did nothing but sit there looking at some guys in short pants trying to put a ball through a hoop.

a week and two days, all day and all night. "I've never thought of it that way. "Naturally, you couldn't do it non-stop because you'd keep falling asleep."

What about lunch and coffee breaks? "Maybe during halftime. Now tell me this: What about the season before last? And the one before that. All three championship years."

Uh-huh. So that means you put in almost a month of 24-hour days. Or more than four months of working days doing nothing but watching the Bulls. The numbers don't lie."

What are you, stupid? They mean that Jordan has turned you loose. He has given you freedom. With him gone, they figure to be a second-rate team, not real bad, not real good, sort of blah.

Practice shooting free throws. Why? "Who knows, they might need me."

"Me, too. The only highlight this season might be if Will Perdue ever uses his size-22 feet to step on that tiny Muggsy guy."

Big Will is not that nimble. "So now you're gonna have all that time to yourself. Imagine what you can do with those 225 hours."

That would get kind of monotonous. And the food is mediocre. "You could drive your car at 65 miles an hour and cover almost 15,000 miles. Imagine that: In the time you spend watching the Bulls one season, you could drive from Chicago to the South Pole and back again."

Just what I've always wanted to do. Especially with the kids in the back seat asking if we're there yet.

OK, then what if you used those 225 hours to pump iron? You'd look like Sylvester Stallone."

I don't want to look like Stallone. He's real short. "You could study something like the tricks of trading pork bellies or soybeans and maybe wind up getting really rich."

Why bother? Hillary will just find a way to take the loot away from me. "Then look at the big picture. There's got to be tens of thousands of Jordan junkies like you and me, goofs who watched all those games. But now they won't. So that means that all of a sudden there's gonna be hundreds of thousands of hours available. What do you think that is going to do?"

If I had to make a guess, the crime rate will go up. And maybe the birthrate. By the way, what are you going to do with your extra 225 hours?"

"Practice shooting free throws." Why? "Who knows, they might need me."

What's lost when franchise is won

Bob Greene

Perhaps you saw the news coverage from Charlotte: of people hooting, screaming, literally crying for joy.

Or the coverage from St. Louis and Baltimore and Memphis and Jacksonville, Fla.: of sullen, angry people, embittered and suspicious and dour, looking as if their homesteads were about to be snatched away from them.

What happened last week was that the National Football League awarded a new franchise to a group of North Carolina investors, and delayed a decision on which one of four other locales — St. Louis, Baltimore, Memphis, Jacksonville — would get the second available franchise.

There were fireworks in the night in Charlotte, and T-shirts being snapped up for a team that won't even take the field until 1995. The financial aspects of this are already legend: how a North Carolina businessman persuaded 42,000 people to pay an average of $2,200 each, not for tickets to football games, not even for tickets to games to be played by a team that might not ever exist — but instead for "permanent seat licenses," which provided their bearers merely the (ital) right (end ital) to buy season tickets for a team that, had the NFL not selected Charlotte, would have lived only in a are hyperventilating and feeling wounded and low.

Can you really say that a non-big-league town — the lovely Kentucky cities of Lexington and Louisville come to mind — is a poorer place to live than, say, Houston or Miami? Is life in New York City truly more satisfying than life in Greenville, S.C.?

What was the excitement for? It was for the privilege of having an NFL team call one of these cities home. It was — for want of a better term — for one of these cities to lay claim to being big league.

The only real civic requirements for sports happiness can be counted on three fingers: a high school gym, a TV set with cable, and — if you're really lucky — a minor-league baseball franchise with a nice old stadium and a squad of eager young players.

Wait worth the lives

I never became enamored with guns — for protection or otherwise. It probably has a lot to do with the fact there were no guns at home, except for one of grandfather's which didn't work.

Over the years I have come to realize that the National Rifle Association was right about one thing — guns don't kill. Neither guns nor ammunition kills — it the person behind the gun, loading the ammunition into it that is doing the killing.

So, I guess what bothers me the most about all this is anyone can get a gun without having to have any type of instruction on how to use it. I could go and buy a gun right now and, unless I paid to learn, that's it.

And, it is those idiots with guns that hurt the cause of responsible gun owners. A responsible gun owner knows not to keep a loaded gun in the house, keep it out of the reach of children and basically knows how to handle a gun.

But, for every one of those responsible gun owners, there is an idiot with a gun. I believe there are probably more idiots with guns than responsible ones, but I am not sure about that.

What I do know is a lot of those idiots with guns are on my family tree or were friends. Probably, the stupidest thing that can be done is to play around with a loaded gun. A friend of mine lost a testicle playing with a loaded .357 Magnum. My aunt lost the toes on one foot because she didn't have her safety on and Granddad got excited about seeing a deer, startled her and the gun went off.

On Wednesday, the U.S. House of Representatives approved the Brady bill — by a 238-189 vote as part of a wide-ranging crime bill. The Brady bill was named for ex-press secretary James Brady who was shot during a 1981 assassination attempt on President Ronald Reagan.

The bills requires a five-day waiting period and a background check on people who want to buy handguns. It also includes a NRA-backed five-year limit on developing a computerized, nationwide system of instant background checks and a phaseout of the waiting period.

As we all know, federal law preempts state law, unless the state rules are more stringent. Laws in 27 states will be wiped out in five years.

What does it hurt to wait for a gun? Actually, what does it hurt to wait for anything we really want? The waiting isn't going to kill us and we will get what we want just a little bit later.

If the waiting period, also called a "cooling off" period, can save one life, isn't it worth it? I think so.

Sen. Pat Moynihan has proposed huge tax increases on ammunition for various types of handguns. His reasoning is guns don't kill, bullets do. And, that the supply of guns is more than the supply of ammunition so Congress should concentrate on making the ammunition extremely hard to obtain.

But, this really isn't going to cure the problem of people dying by the gun. As long as guns are out there, there will always be more idiots with guns than responsible owners. And, the criminals will always have an access that we, as law abiding citizens, don't have.

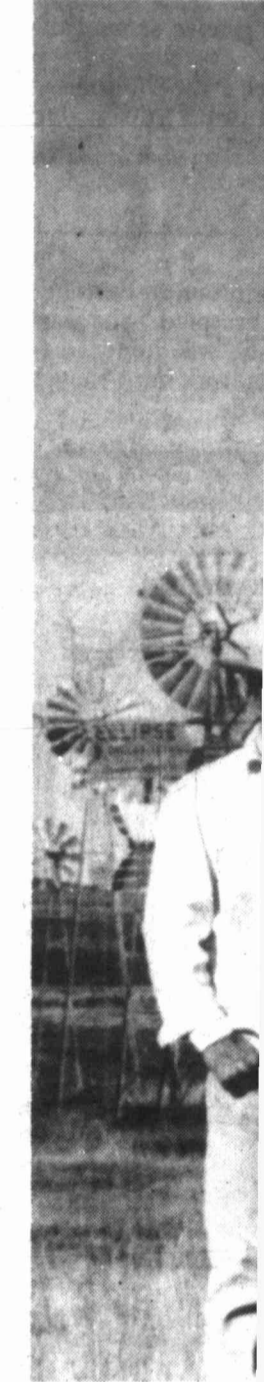

Guns are going to be a part of our society, that fact just has to be accepted. It's in the Constitution, the right to bear arms, and I don't think any Supreme Court is going to throw out that amendment.

But what we should consider is something like having each gun owner licensed to carry that gun, only after learning how to use it. Something along the lines of getting our driver's license.

That would ensure the handler's safety as well as that of others.

And, isn't that the main idea where guns are concerned, safety? DD Turner is managing editor of the Herald. Her column appears Thursday and Sunday.

Windmills provide hint about Larry Glass' life

By GLENDA CUMMINGS
Staff Writer

STERLING CITY — Windmills are anything but an uncommon sight in West Texas. But finding 20 of them jammed into one little space isn't commonplace.

As a result, there are occasions when those traveling down State Highway 158 between Sterling City and Garden City are forced into a doubletake. For there, amid the desolate rangeland, looms a miniature metropolis of sorts.

Actually, Larry Glass' ranch headquarters boasts five homes and a couple of large barns and the usual complement of smaller outbuildings.

That, however, is not what grabs the traveler's eye from four miles away. Nor is it the vast array of ranching equipment, rolling stock and stock trailers located near the barns.

Instead, it is that aforementioned gathering of windmills ... each of them unique from the other that intrigues and makes those with time ponder the advisability of a small side trip.

Glass, a long time Sterling County rancher, is most happy to tell the story about his windmills and several others, too.

In the process, Glass displays a sparkling wit and personality that many of his neighbors never suspect.

It is a personality, in fact, that even Glass is wont to downplay with a joke or two. "Personality ... what personality?" he quips, just a little at his wife Lynda's expense. "My wife says I don't have any."

And with tongue firmly planted in cheek, Glass begins to relate the same "school of hard knocks" story that virtually every adult of his generation tells of poverty and character formed from a disadvantaged childhood, including his not having shoes until the age of 15 and walking five miles to school.

He tells that his family homesteaded the ranch 102 years ago, and therein belies his lengthy tale of woe.

He did grow up on the ranch, left home to attend Texas Christian University and there, he says, "graduated twice!"

"He tells me that having a bachelor's and a master's in geology, he knows exactly what kind of rocks he throws at the cattle!" laughs Lynda.

Working for Pan American Oil Co. and tour of duty as a bomber navigator while an officer in the U.S. Air Force, helped him make up his mind to return home and ranch. The impression he gives is that he kissed the ground when he arrived home.

Years spent in raising crossbred cattle, Rambouillet sheep and quarter horses, and their children, of course, have kept the Glasses busy.

They continue to stay busy, which makes collecting windmills a little difficult.

"It started with a little broken down windmill, standing alone on some land in Dickens County," he explains. "After we had it repaired, we put it back up here, and it (collection) just grow from there."

Now there are 20 on display and two or three being repaired.

"More!, more!" Lynda mouths silently, half-heartedly making jest behind Larry's back.

All but one of the windmills have been galvanized to help keep them from deteriorating in West Texas' often harsh summer and winter extremes. Several sit atop reproduced towers, since only the head was available for purchase — the original towers having been destroyed by weather, age or neglect.

The windmills have come from as near as the Dickens County original, and as far away as Australia.

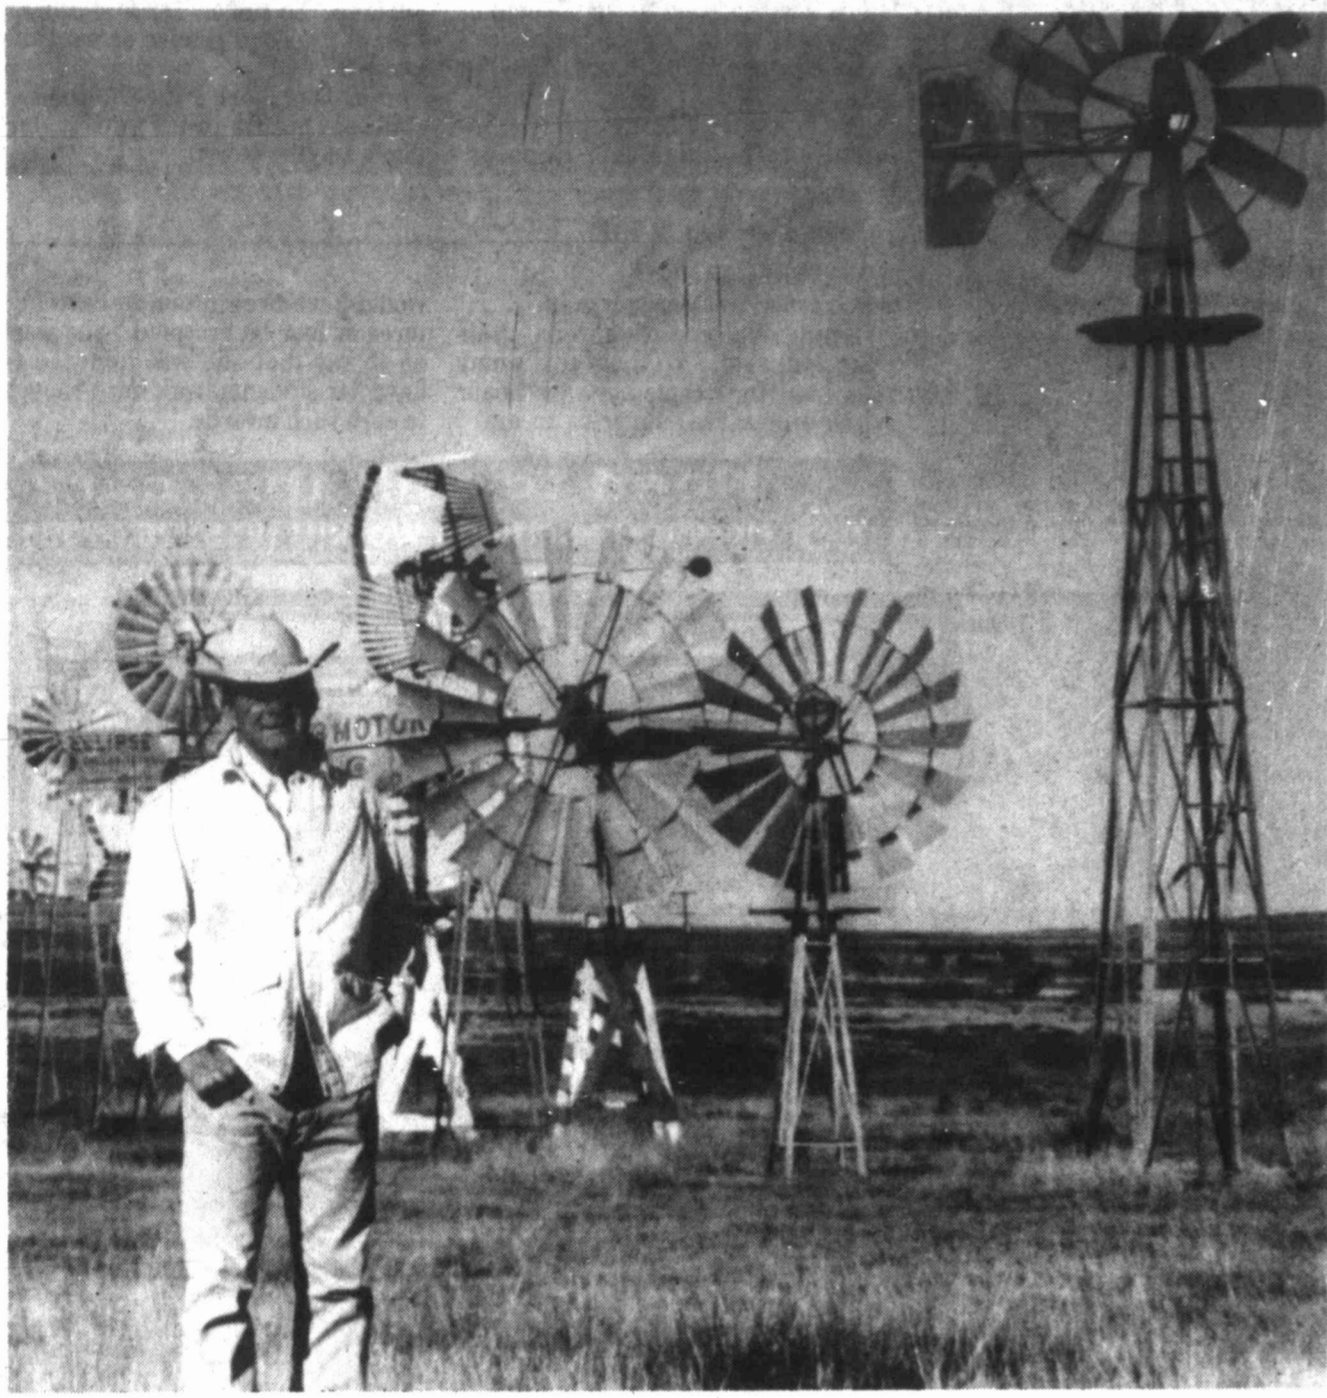

The latest addition to the collection came from Sanderson. An Aeromotor, it was designed to be oiled once a week and was crusted with a two-inch covering of grease.

"We worked about two days to bring this mill out of a canyon, about 40 miles from the Mexican border," Larry explains, the look in his eyes indicating a memorable experience.

Glass uses the book, "A Field Guide to American Windmills" by T. Lindsey Baker as his "Bible" on restoring the windmills.

It is a labor of love that Lynda notes is "his way of helping to preserve the past."

Please see GLASS, page 6

Sterling County rancher Larry Glass has the area's only collection of windmills. Displayed on his ranch west of Sterling City, he can offer an explanation about the history of each one and how it they found their way to his home.

Angelic voices: Coahoma students take Big Country choir award

By GLENDA CUMMINGS
Staff Writer

You've heard the expression, "voice of an angel"? There are twelve Coahoma junior high school students with those kind of voices, according to the judges of the Big Country Choir Auditions.

Held Sat., Oct. 30, in Wylie, these winners will join other outstanding singers in a 125-voice choir which will meet at Lincoln Jr. High in Abilene on Nov. 20, to rehearse the music they have learned with a guest clinician. At the end of the day's rehearsal, they will perform for the parents and the community.

This is the Second Annual Big Country Concert, which includes students from Abilene and the surrounding area, including Wylie, Sweetwater, Clydeand Coahoma.

Of all the schools that competed,

Coahoma placed the second largest number of students in the choir. Of 18 students auditioning, 12 made the Honor Choir.

Seventh graders winning places in the choir were Amber Bennett, Kelli Buchanan, Latisha Milliken, Cheryl Coates, Daniel Clark and Randy Overton.

Eighth graders were Felisha Cevallos, Jill Allen, Allison West, Tasha Grummitt, Anthony Gonzales and Kurt Bennett.

This contest was excellent practice for the students, as it was held in the same manner as is required at U.I.L. contest. Students must learn three pieces, and sing to a taped accompaniment before three hidden judges. They must know the music, but are allowed to use it.

One student received a special honor; Daniel Clark was placed first. Please see CHOIR, page 6

Cap Rock sponsoring 'Youth Tour' contest

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative sponsors an essay contest every year, awarding two student winners a "Government-in-Action Tour".

To participate in the competition, each student should write a 1-to 2-page essay on the topic, "A Cap Rock Career".

Any student between the ages of 14-19 is eligible. The deadline for this year's competition is March 10.

Finalists will spend a day at Cap Rock enjoying a pizza lunch, penny arcade competition, and rides in a bucket truck.

Entrants merely have to reside in a school district in which there is at least one Cap Rock meter.

The two winners will accompany about 100 other Texas youngsters on a 10 day all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C.

These seventh- and eighth-grade students from Coahoma made the Big Country Honor Choir under the tutelage of choir director Sandra Wallace.

Glass

When not busy ranching or collecting windmills, Glass plays the piano. He is accomplished enough, some in the county say, to play concert dates. He counters with a laugh. "No, I'm strictly amateur."

Once again showing the wit, he admits to having other hobbies.

"Well, we collect trailers. I have some vintage 1960 model stock trailers here," he smiles. "And, of course, I drive the road grader around the ranch for fun!"

And then there's the 900-pound concrete gorilla in his yard ... but that's another story.

Nine Americans, one Briton killed in tour bus crash

The Associated Press

CANTERBURY, England — A cathedral and castle tour turned to tragedy for a busload of American tourists when their bus hit a van and plunged down a soggy embankment in southern England. Ten people died and 36 were injured.

An elderly Louisiana woman was injured and lost two of her daughters in Wednesday's crash on a rain-drenched highway.

Forty-six people were aboard, all but four of them Americans.

A witness, truck driver John Walraven, told of terrified people screaming, and bodies lying where they had been hurled through the rear window.

"People had appalling injuries caused by broken glass. Some were trying to stand up but couldn't because of broken limbs," Walraven said.

He reached the scene — near Faversham, about 50 miles southeast of London — seconds after the crash.

The tour group, organized by British Airways, was on a day's outing to Leeds Castle and to Canterbury Cathedral, ancient seat of the Church of England.

Kent and Canterbury Hospital kept 19 people overnight, including six who had surgery for broken limbs, hospital administrator Steve Sheath reported.

He said the two most badly hurt were in satisfactory condition, and the rest were comfortable.

Police said the bus clipped a van from behind before it careened 20 feet down an embankment on the M2 highway.

"Clearly we don't know what was in the driver's mind," said Peter Hermitage, Kent County Police Assistant Chief Constable. "I wish he was here to tell us."

The nine other dead were Americans, the U.S. State Department said in Washington.

Two U.S. Embassy officials were sent to the hospital to help victims' relatives and survivors.

Patricia Becnel, 75, of Lafayette, La. was traveling with four daughters. Two were killed — Deborah Weimer, 34, of Lafayette and Frances Hubbard, 52, of Houston, a relative said in Lafayette. The other two — Barbara Champagne, 38, and Sandra McConnell, 40 of Lafayette, were injured.

A mobile crane lifts a tour bus from the embankment and on to the roadside Wednesday. Earlier the bus carrying American tourists crashed off the M2 motorway near Faversham in Kent, killing at least 10 and injuring 30 others. The tourists were on their way to Canterbury.

Mexicans declare Gore winner of NAFTA debate, now seeing sign of hope

The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY — New hopes that the North American Free Trade Agreement will be approved set off frenzied trading on the Mexican stock exchange that contributed to a record-high close Wednesday.

Mexicans declared Vice President Al Gore the winner of Tuesday night's free trade debate with NAFTA opponent Ross Perot. Even their anger at Perot's suggestions that Mexicans all live in poverty soon gave way to satisfaction that the Texas tycoon had been put in his place.

"NAFTA opponents are using arguments without much substance," Trade Minister Jaime Serra Puche said in a radio interview.

"For the first time the distortions of the (NAFTA) opponents, led by Ross Perot, got concrete, positive responses. Vice President Gore put them forward with complete clarity."

At day's end, the stock exchange had soared 81.49 points, or more than 4 percent, to 2,035.33. The previous record was 2,029.06, set last month.

In addition, the dollar fell almost 2 percent against the peso, indicating more confidence in the Mexican economy and reflecting higher Mexican interest rates.

Published reports that the Mexican central bank has been selling billions of dollars to bolster the peso also contributed to the stock market climb, analysts said.

The dollar, which rose about 4 percent against the peso Tuesday, fell Wednesday to finish at 3.21 pesos.

A spokesman for the Mexican stock exchange, Adalberto Fernandez Flores, said the heavy stock trading appeared to be "a sign of confidence" in NAFTA.

"It's going up because of hopes that the agreement will be approved," said David Cohen of the Casa de Bolsa Inverlat trading house. "After last night, we no longer consider Ross Perot a threat."

The agreement between Mexico, the United States and Canada would create the world's largest economic market. Over 15 years it would phase out most remaining barriers to the free flow of goods, services and investment.

Businessmen and analysts who watched the debate on CNN were initially angered by Perot's portrayal of a destitute, politically oppressive Mexico.

"I think that Perot is taking advantage of the prejudices that already exist against Mexican people," said Gabriel Cohen, finance director for PEMSA, a Mexican pasta and pizza maker. "Most people in the states think Mexico is like Tijuana, like this is a wilderness, and a poor one at that."

Israelis closer to PLO's view on withdrawal

The Associated Press

CAIRO, Egypt — The PLO's chief negotiator said today that Palestinians agreed to reopen peace talks after Israel backed off demands to deploy troops in much of the Gaza Strip.

"They have moved closer to the concept of withdrawal. That has encouraged us to continue the negotiations," Nabil Shaath told The Associated Press.

Shaath, who walked out of the talks in the Red Sea resort of Taba on Nov. 2, accusing Israel of trying to redeploy its troops in Gaza under the pretext of protecting Jewish settlers instead of pulling out its forces.

An eight-man committee led by Shaath and Israeli Maj. Gen. Amnon Shahak met Monday and Tuesday in Cairo to settle the differences. It announced Tuesday that talks would resume next week.

The Taba talks broke down after Israel presented its troop withdrawal plan. Under terms of a PLO-Israeli accord signed Sept. 13 in Washington, Israel is to turn over security in Gaza and the West Bank town of Jericho to Palestinians, but keep responsibility for protecting Gaza's Jewish settlements.

Shaath said the Palestine Liberation Organization sees this as meaning Israel can keep troops inside the settlements. But he said Israel also wanted to station soldiers outside, command key roads and control more than half of Gaza's land.

"They shouldn't have anybody outside the settlements. ... They should have no military presence on roads," Shaath said.

Asked if the Israelis had agreed to those limitations, he said: "We are close to that."

Shaath said he would not give more details about the Cairo negotiations.

"We are now in a situation where the possibility to make an agreement is there, but we still have problems," he said.

Shaath said a date still has not been set for the talks to resume next week in Taba. The delegates apparently want the negotiations to get less attention. Earlier, Shaath had complained about news coverage interfering with the talks, and the committee meetings in Cairo were held in secret to keep away reporters.

Shaath said the two sides also are discussing deployment of foreign troops to help provide security in territories vacated by the Israelis.

World War II uniform and can still fit into it. "I'm 70 years old and if they called me tomorrow, I'd do my best to defend this country," he said.

"I don't want to be thought of as the type who would shirk my duties." Joe Matthews, 59, was drafted into the Army toward the end of the Korean War. "They were in the process of signing the armistice when I got over there," he recalled. Matthews was in Korea from July 1953 to January 1954, and left the service in 1955.

Matthews was a demolition specialist with an Army engineering unit. "We were infantry," he said. Neither he nor any of his fellow servicemen were injured, but bouts of guerrilla warfare were a threat. "Sometimes it was rather amusing," Matthews recalled.

He remembered small Korean Piper Cub propeller planes being chased by jet fighters. "One guy shot down five Cubs at different times."

Contrary to many war veterans, Matthews doesn't hold Clinton's Vietnam activities against him. "He followed his convictions at the time, and at that time, a lot of people did the same thing. I don't hold his actions at the time against him now."

Jane Fonda, however, is an entirely different story. "She should've been tried on treason charges," said Matthews.

Veterans' Day is a day for Matthews to feel especially proud of his country. "I've always had a deep feeling of patriotism," he said. He enjoys seeing the flags flying at the VA Medical Center.

Matthews is particularly proud of one way in which he helped after the Vietnam War. "I sponsored five Vietnamese back in 1975, and for eight months they all lived in my house," he recalled.

He later sponsored two brothers of one of the Vietnamese. All are doing well, he said.

For Vietnam veteran Don Boling, Veterans' Day is a time for him to remember the sacrifice all veterans made.

"It's also a time to remember all the friends I had that didn't come back," he said. "We wouldn't have the freedoms we have without these people."

Boling, 43, is now a speech therapist for Moss and Washington elementary schools and Runnels Junior High. He served as a Marine team leader from 1971-1972 and again in 1973.

When he left Vietnam, he left the armed services as well. "I was in three years and they sent me to Vietnam twice," he recalled. "I figured they were trying to get me killed."

At 21, Boling was the oldest man on his team when he first went to Vietnam in 1971. Most of his memories of those days are bad. However, there are good memories as well, mostly memories of friends he still misses.

"There was a closeness, a camaraderie between us," he said of his teammates. "We didn't worry whether anyone was black, white, whatever. That closeness is something you'll never have anywhere else."

The intensity of the Vietnam experience still did not prepare that war's veterans for their chilly reception upon returning home. Boling recalled being spit on twice at the San Francisco airport en route home.

On the plane, the person originally scheduled to sit next to Boling changed seats. At the San Diego airport, another traveler hit Boling with a bag containing dog feces.

Vietnam became a dirty secret, something he didn't discuss. "You didn't bring it up because people were just waiting for you to go nuts and shoot people," said Boling.

He remembers job applications that contained separate checkboxes. "One would ask if you were a veteran and one would specifically ask if you were a Vietnam veteran. If you checked the Vietnam veteran box, you didn't get the job."

"And if you checked the other box and they found out you lied about being in Vietnam, you were still out of a job."

Boling thinks the attitude toward Vietnam veterans began to change after the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial in Washington in 1982. "We went from being scum to heroes," he said, "and I told people to enjoy it because you can't tell when we're going to end up being scum again."

Clinton, who did not serve in Vietnam and went to Russia to protest the war, is no hero to Boling. "I have a problem with a draft dodger being our president and, therefore, commander-in-chief of our armed forces," he said.

"He has no problem sending our young men to war now. I believe his actions back then were genuinely treasonable and genuinely cowardly."

Fonda, who also protested the war vigorously and went to North Vietnam, is not one of Boling's favorites, either. "As far as I'm concerned, the only difference between her and Bill Clinton is that she went to Vietnam," he said.

Boling believes that the positive reaction given to most Persian Gulf veterans is due to many of these people having been Vietnam veterans or the children of these veterans.

"We have a lot of the same problems, too," said Boling. "Vietnam had Agent Orange and now some Persian Gulf vets are having health problems from the war."

Boling's son flew in the Persian Gulf war, and Boling assured him that he would not face the same homecoming his father had. "I told him, 'You won't be spit on, the people won't allow that to happen again,'" he said.

The unpleasant experiences upon returning home did not sour Boling on Veterans' Day. He has noticed that the holiday seems to be celebrated less by the public and more by veterans themselves nowadays. He remembers when it was different.

"I think kids need to be a little more aware of what it's all about," he said.

Boling will take Veterans Day as a holiday and as a time to remember the people who didn't come back from Vietnam and other wars. Still, he doesn't regret his military service. "I'm glad I joined the Marines and I'm glad I served," he said.

As for his Vietnam days, those are a little more difficult to explain. "You had to be there," said Boling.

Dean Gartman, 28, never thought much about Veterans Day as a child. Since taking part in the Persian Gulf War, however, his attitude has changed.

"It's a time to think about the privileges we have and the sacrifices others have made for us," said Gartman. A corporal in the Marine Corps reserve, he was in the Persian Gulf from January to May of 1991.

Gartman drove a logistics vehicle and was roughly two miles from the Kuwait-Iraqi border the entire time. "Everyone I served with came out OK," said Gartman. "We had a few close calls with mine fields in the dark."

Gartman, who also suffered no injuries in the war, said friendly fire was also a concern because many maneuvers were performed after dark.

"Without much radio communication, we could only hope that the other troops out there knew we were the good guys."

During his stint in the war, Gartman received letters from students at Bauer Magnet School, where his wife teaches. "It made me feel good and I really think it helped my wife get through it," he said.

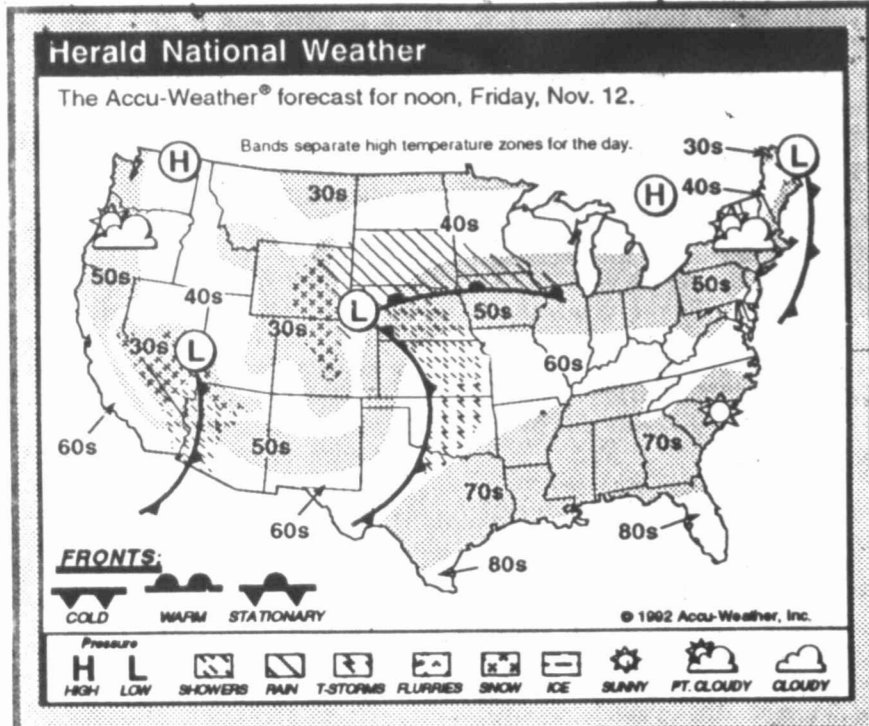

Gartman has been in the Marine Corps reserves for six years. In May he will decide whether it is time for him to leave or whether he will sign on for another few years.

In the meantime, Gartman, who is a manager at Gartman Refrigeration Air Conditioning & Heating, would like to see students learn more about Veterans Day.

"The kids at Bauer really seemed interested in it," he said. "When I was in school, I don't remember learning much about it."

And for the record, he doesn't approve of Clinton's activities during the Vietnam War. "but he's my boss, so I guess I ought to support him."

Different wars, different ages, different men. But one constant remains: they are veterans, and today is the day for all people, not just fellow veterans, to give them recognition.

Sands, Coyotes open playoffs Friday in Lamesa

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

For being so young, the Sands Mustangs and Borden County Coyotes are old hands at this playoff business.

The Mustangs, 9-0-1 and champions of District 5, meet District 6 runner-up Borden (4-5-1) in the bi-district round of the state six-man football playoffs at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Lamesa.

Neither team is loaded with experience - Sands has only two seniors on its squad, while the Coyotes returned only five lettermen from the previous season - but both have made a tradition of making the state playoffs.

This marks the fourth straight year that Borden County has made the playoffs, while Sands is only two seasons removed from its last appearance, in which the Mustangs advanced to the state semifinals.

All this sounds rather impressive, but to hear the respective coaches talk, it is not all that important.

"I don't see it making a big difference, with it being a playoff game," Borden coach Bobby Avery said. "I don't see it as a great advantage either way."

"It helps," Sands coach Bob Keyes said of playoff experience. "But when it gets down to the playoffs, it's a week-to-week thing."

The Mustangs breezed through their district schedule (their smallest margin of victory was 13 points) and are one of only 14 undefeated six-man teams in the nation, according to Tommy Wells' Six-Man Football, a publication that has the 'Stangs ranked 20th in the United States.

The Coyotes, meanwhile, had to figuratively fight, kick and scratch their way to a playoff berth. They started the season 1-4, opened the district campaign with three straight wins, then lost to district champion Loraine by 30 points.

Borden earned the second playoff spot in District 6 by virtue of having the most first downs in a 37-37 tie with Highland last week.

Despite having lost seven seniors from last year's squad, Avery had been busy telling anyone who would listen that the Coyotes had what it took to make the playoffs. Now that the mission has been accomplished, he's not above a bit of "I told you so."

"Our goal has always been to make the playoffs," Avery said. "The reporters would always laugh when they came in and I'd say we were going to make it. Losing seven seniors last year, the odds were stacked against us. This year was a lot harder than last, so this one has to be a lot sweeter."

The secret to the Coyotes' success has been simple: Tailback Cody Cox has been nearly unstoppable this season, gaining 1,908 yards on 272 carries and scoring 30 touchdowns, kicking 14 point-after conversions, catching five passes for 89 yards and one score, completing 7 of 24 passes for 119 yards and 4 TDs, and tacking on 104 tackles on defense for good measure. Avery conceded that the Coyotes have pretty much been a one-trick pony this year. Cox has accounted for almost 2,000 of the 2,800 total yards Borden has gained this season.

Guess who the Mustangs are going to key on?

"Cox runs real hard and shows great effort," Keyes said. "He's very tenacious in his approach. It's going to take gang-tackling to slow him down."

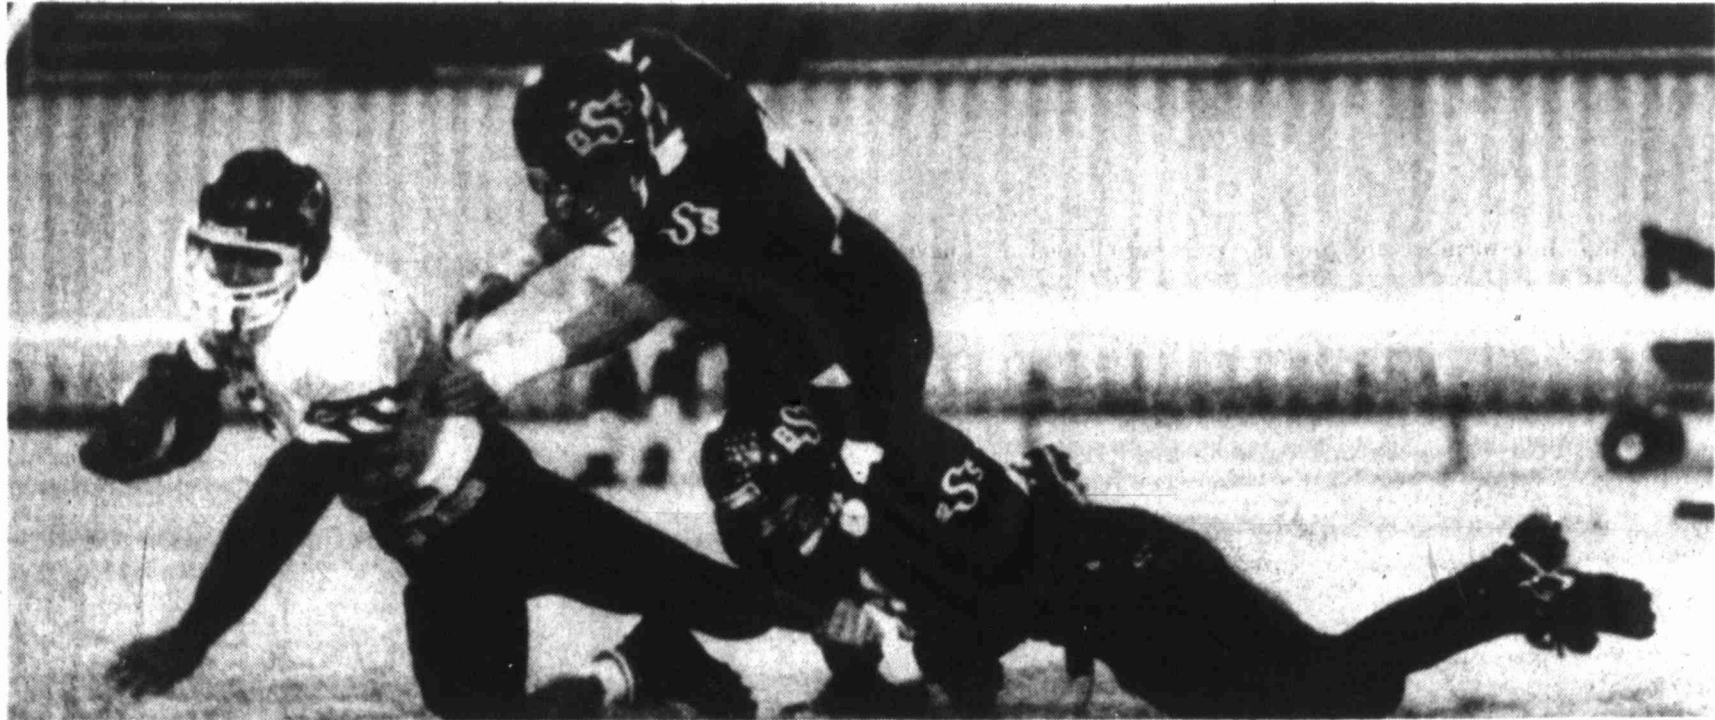

The Mustangs have a main man of their own in tailback Heath Gillespie. Gillespie has rushed 145 times for 963 yards and 24 touchdowns, caught 15 passes for 131 yards and 4 scores and has returned a kickoff for a touchdown this season.

Helping Gillespie on the ground is fullback Clayton Fryar, who has gained 307 yards on 54 carries and 5 TDs and caught 13 passes for 5 scores.

But Avery said that the Mustangs are much more than a one or two-man team.

"They're just a good football team," he said. "They do a lot of things well. There's not really what you'd call a lot of exceptional athletes on the field ... but they're all above-average talent. We're going to have to play really well to be in the ball game."

The winner of Friday's game will face Sierra Blanca in the area round of the playoffs at a time and site to be determined.

Goals remain for Steers' season finale

By DAVE HARGRAVE

The Big Spring Steers don't have a chance of making the playoffs, but that doesn't mean the football players won't be carrying a few goals with them when they hop on the bus for Fort Stockton Friday.

Big Spring (6-3, 3-2 in District 3-4A) takes the long trip to Fort Stockton for what appears to be an easy season-ending win against the lowly Panthers (2-7, 0-5). Of course, there's always some reason why one team can't take another for granted.

In this case, there are 42 of them. That's how many points Fort Stockton scored against Monahans earlier this season. Unfortunately for the Panthers, Monahans scored 62 in the back-and-forth offensive onslaught.

"We were kind of leery about Pecos' defense last week, and this week we're still leery, but it's more the offense that we're worried about," said Big Spring coach Dwight Butler. "We watched the film of their game against Monahans when they scored 42 points. They've got two good receivers who can really catch the ball, and they've got a quality running back."

Judge lets Mojo back into playoffs

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN — A federal judge has signed a restraining order allowing perennial football power Odessa Permian to play in the first round of the state Class 5A playoffs.

The University Interscholastic League had ruled Wednesday that fourth-ranked Permian must forfeit all its district games for using an ineligible player. It was the second time in four years that Permian was barred from the playoffs.

About five hours after the latest UIL order, U.S. District Judge Harry Hudspeth of El Paso signed the restraining order.

Ector County Independent School District attorneys filed the motion in the Midland court of U.S. District Judge Lucius Buntin. The judge said he was disqualified from the case because he is a former ECISD board member, so he passed the case to Hudspeth, who ruled late Wednesday.

A hearing will be held next Wednesday or Thursday, depending on Hudspeth's docket, said Jack Tidwell, the school district's attorney.

Permian (8-0-1) will play Saturday against Lubbock Coronado in a Hughes is third in the district in rushing - he has 914 yards on 142 carries, good for 6.4 yards per carry. The Panthers' top receiver is Alfredo Armendariz, who has caught 25 passes for 360 yards.

Big Spring's defense may be facing a tough task, but it's had few problems handling teams this season. That brings to mind one of the Steers' goals for Friday - becoming the best defense in the district.

Going into Friday's game, Big Spring's defense is second in the district behind Andrews. Andrews has allowed 160.7 yards per game, while Big Spring has surrendered just 177.7 yards per game. Friday, Andrews plays Sweetwater, a team that has displayed an explosive offense at times. A big night for Sweetwater's offense plus another strong performance from the Big Spring defense could move the Steers to the top.

However, another goal is on the Steers' list of things to do. They want senior tailback Lonnie Jackson to break the 1,000-yard mark in his final high school season.

Butler said: "Lonnie Jackson has a chance to reach 1,000 yards, and we haven't had a 1,000-yard rusher since I've been here, in six years. That's one goal that the whole team has kind of dedicated itself to."

Jackson's season total stands at 782 yards on 138 carries.

Still, Butler said the Steers aren't forgetting why they're making the trip. Winning comes first.

"It's a deal where you'd really like these young men to go out winning their last three in a row," Butler said. "We'd like to play everybody we can - we played a lot of them against Pecos in the last quarter and a half, and we'd like to get everybody in this game also."

"Our seniors are a very tight-knit group, and they've been a real joy to be around," Butler added. "They've worked very well together, and they've worked hard. They've tried to do everything we've ever asked of them."

Finishing the season 7-3, should the Steers win Friday, won't be enough to push the Steers into the playoffs. Under the district's point-differential system, there's no chance the Steers can advance from the possible three-way tie for second between them, Monahans and Sweetwater.

CHICAGO — After becoming just the eighth player unanimously voted American League Most Valuable Player, Frank Thomas talked about putting up even better numbers.

He had 112 walks in 1993, fourth-most in the league. He figures he might improve his offensive statistics by swinging at pitches outside the strike zone.

"I was very selective last year," Thomas said Wednesday after the voting was announced. "But probably .340 would be maximum for me, because I'm a home-run hitter, too."

Thomas hit .317, was second in the major leagues with 128 RBIs and set a club record with 41 homers. He easily beat out Toronto's Paul Molitor, who received 13 second-place votes in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Bearkats looking for perfect game Friday

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Most Texas high school football teams are either finished with their seasons or playing in the first round of the playoffs this week. Garden City is an exception.

Or are they? Garden City (2-6, 2-1 in District 8-1A) battles Rankin (7-2, 2-1) Friday in a season finale that amounts to a playoff game. The winners take the district runner-up playoff spot; the loser starts thinking about basketball season.

"If they win, they're in; if we win, we're in - that all the motivation you need," said Garden City coach Dennis Bryant. "It would really be something to go into the playoffs with a 3-6 record, but the kids think they can do it. It's great to be playing a game that means something, instead of just playing our last ball game."

The question is simple: Is Garden City in over its head? Rankin, the top-ranked Class 1A team in the state earlier this season, is still in the other-receiving-votes category, and the game is in Rankin.

"They've got tremendous quickness and speed," Bryant said of the Red Devils. "They're capable of making a big play at any time. If we can just keep them contained, keep them from making those big plays, then we've got a chance."

Playing on the road takes a bite from Garden City's chances, but Bryant said the site of the game isn't all that important.

"We've had a great following this year. The people here have really supported these young men. At Wink, that's a pretty good way, it was cold, windy, but we had more people in the stands than they did."

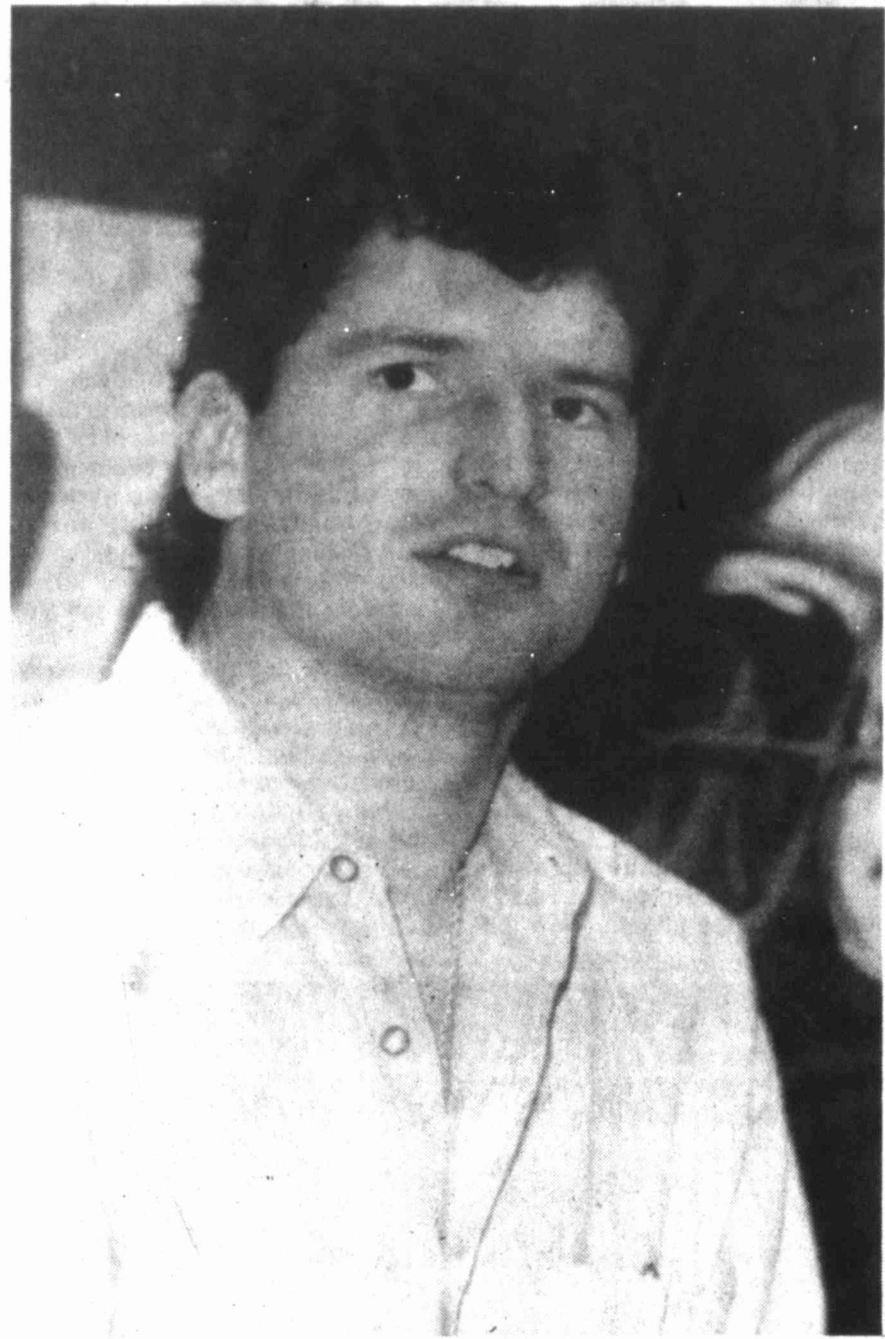

Garden City was off last week, while Rankin frisked Fort Davis 41-10. Just for reference, Garden City won 28-19 at Fort Davis earlier this season.

The Bearkats' Friday following may not see quarterback Brent Seidenberger throw the ball much. Expect to see a lot of carries from Garden City's star rusher, Stuart Wilde (5-foot-8, 132 pounds), who could reach the 1,000-yard mark if he has another big game.

"We're just going to have to line up and run right at them," Bryant said. "With their speed and the way they play defense, throwing the ball is probably not a good idea. We're just going to have to play that 'three yards and a cloud of dust' game and hope we don't make any mistakes. We can't try to go outside on them, it won't work."

Notice Bryant said he hopes Garden City doesn't make any mistakes. Every coach will say that, but in Bryant's case, it's more than just talk.

"We're just going to have to play almost perfect football to beat Rankin."

Bernie Kosar speaks at a news conference at the Dallas Cowboys' practice facility in Irving Wednesday morning after signing a one-year contract with the team.

Kosar signs one-year pact with Cowboys

By The Associated Press

IRVING — Troy Aikman isn't worried about Bernie Kosar being a threat to his job, and Kosar says all he wants is a championship ring.

Kosar signed a one-year deal Wednesday as a backup to the injured Aikman. The ex-Miami Hurricanes quarterback, cut Monday by the Cleveland Browns, made it clear he's not after Aikman's job and just wants a chance at a Super Bowl ring. Three times he led the Browns to the AFC title game only to lose.

"There's no question Troy Aikman is one of the most brilliant quarterbacks in the league and no way am I here competing for his job," Kosar said. "The shot at a Super Bowl ring was a big factor why I came to Dallas."

Miami, Kansas City and Philadelphia tried to woo Kosar, but his loyalty to his old college coach, Jimmy Johnson, was too strong.

"Loyalty means a lot to me," Kosar said. "They showed a lot of confidence and trust in me. I don't intend to let anybody down."

A pulled left hamstring, took the arrival of Kosar in stride and didn't see him as a threat.

"I think it's good," Aikman said. "I think it's good for the team."

Aikman's hamstring was still sore on Wednesday and he said "if there was a game today I couldn't play."

The Cowboys signed Kosar to a one-year deal in the $500,000 range. Kosar got a check for more than $2 million when he was paid off by the Browns.

"We jumped at a chance to get someone the quality of Bernie," said Cowboys owner Jerry Jones. "To have him on this team is a tremendous luxury."

Kosar immediately checked out a uniform with the No. 18 (punter John Jett has No. 19) and began study of the Cowboys playbook. He was on the field for the afternoon practice.

Johnson said he would decide Sunday some 30 minutes before kickoff against the Phoenix Cardinals whether to start Aikman, Jason Garrett or Kosar.

votes," Thomas said. "I was like, 'Wow! There was no better way to win it."

The other unanimous winners of the AL MVP were Hank Greenberg (1935), Al Rosen (1953), Mickey Mantle (1956), Frank Robinson (1966), Denny McLain (1968), Reggie Jackson (1973) and Jose Canseco (1988).

"This was the longest day of my life," said Thomas, who was so pumped up that he slept only about three hours Tuesday night. "There was a lot of anticipation going on, and when the call finally came, I got it on the first ring."

Thomas' victory gave the White Sox three of the four AL postseason awards. Jack McDowell was voted the Cy Young Award and Gene Lamont was voted Manager of the Year. The last team to have three different people capture those awards in the same season was Atlanta in 1991, when Terry Pendleton was the MVP, Tom Glavine was the Cy Young winner and Bobby Cox was the top manager.

Thomas said the White Sox, who lost to Toronto in the AL playoffs, might need another strong bat to get to the next level.

"I'm sure there will be some personnel changes," he said. "We might need to go out and get another hitting threat."

For his own part, Thomas already has started working out for next season. He credits working with weights last winter with adding a measure of power that increased his home run production by 17 over his 1992 total of 24.

One other thing might help him: He won't have to face Nolan Ryan ever again. Ryan, who retired this year, was the only pitcher who always tamed him — Thomas was 0-for-12 with 11 strikeouts in his career against Ryan.

Thomas, meanwhile, wants to improve his defense.

"Defense does not come easily to Frank Thomas," he conceded. He said he did better in 1993 and attributed his 15 errors to more aggressive play.

He also dismissed suggestions that the White Sox might make him a designated hitter and get another first baseman.

"I don't think that's going to happen, not with all the money they've spent on me," he said.

Thomas and the White Sox agreed last month to a $29 million, four-year extension that runs through 1998.

AL batting champion John Olerud, Molitor's teammate, was third in voting, followed by Texas outfielder Juan Gonzalez. Seattle's Ken Griffey Jr. was fifth.

Thomas receives a $100,000 bonus for winning. Molitor and Olerud received $25,000 bonuses.

Ewing, Mailman shake off illness, opponents

By The Associated Press

Patrick Ewing and Karl Malone both were feeling a little low. They made their opponents feel even worse.

The two 1992 Olympians, wheezing with cold or flu symptoms, bounced back Wednesday night from subpar games earlier in the week. Ewing had 28 points and 14 rebounds in the New York Knicks' 92-84 victory over Washington, while Malone had 26 points and 20 rebounds and scored eight points in the final two minutes of Utah's 91-88 decision over Atlanta.

"My last two games have probably been the worst I've ever had," said Malone, who missed 18 of his first 23 shots against the Hawks and was 7-for-21 in a loss to Seattle on Monday night. "But I don't shy away from the ball. I'm not going to stop shooting because they're not giving in. I'll either be the hero for the team or the goat."

Malone converted a three-point play with 1:21 left to put Utah ahead for good, 86-85, and his two free throws gave the Jazz an 88-85 lead with 28 seconds remaining.

"Karl made the big plays down the stretch and we did a good job defensively as a team," coach Jerry Sloan said. "I was concerned about Karl, knowing he was sick. I had to keep him out some of the second half and we got burned. Fortunately we fought back."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 91, Philadelphia 89; Chicago 91, Milwaukee 90; Phoenix 93, San Antonio 93; and Sacramento 112, Los Angeles Lakers 101.

Mookie Blaylock led Atlanta with 21 points, and Dominique Wilkins scored 19. Jeff Malone scored 21 points for Utah.

Ewing scored only eight points Tuesday against Philadelphia, ending a string of 106 straight games in double figures.

Against the Bullets at Landover, Md., he scored 13 points in the third quarter when New York extended its 10-point halftime lead to 79-62. Washington got no closer than six points after that.

"I'm still not feeling well. I have the cold or the flu, whatever the heck it is," he said. "I was able to get some rest today, and it helped."

John Starks had 27 points for the Knicks, who never trailed in winning their fourth straight game without a loss. New York needs one more win to match its best-ever start, set in the 1969-70 season.

"We're undefeated, but we're still not playing particularly well. We're up and down," Ewing said.

Kings 112, Lakers 101

Sacramento beat Los Angeles for only the sixth time in 41 meetings since the team moved from Kansas City to California.

Lionel Simmons scored 33 points — more than doubling his production from his first two games — for the host Kings. He had 16 points in each of Sacramento's first two games.

James Worthy had 20 points in a reserve role and Vlade Divac had 18 points and 15 rebounds for the Lakers. Mitch Richmond scored 20 points for the Kings.

The Lakers trailed by as many as 23 points before closing to 95-88 on a basket by Worthy with 5:55 left. But they could come no closer.

Suns 101, Spurs 93

Charles Barkley had 35 points and 20 rebounds and got both of his assists during a 9-0 fourth-quarter run that boosted Phoenix over visiting San Antonio.

The Spurs scored only nine points in the first 10:28 of the final period, which began with the Suns leading 78-73. In that span, the Spurs opened a 98-82 lead, and they coasted to their third straight win after an opening loss.

Bulls 91, Bucks 90

Toni Kukoc hit a 3-pointer with 1.9 seconds left, lifting Chicago to victory at Milwaukee.

Two free throws by Brad Lohaus with 5.2 seconds left put the Bucks ahead 90-88. But after a timeout, Kukoc got the ball at the top of the key and sank the shot that gave the injury-depleted Bulls their third victory in four games.

Phoenix's Charles Barkley (34) drives over San Antonio's Dennis Rodman (10) Wednesday in Phoenix. The Suns defeated the Spurs 101-93. San Antonio's record fell to 2-2.

Aggies: We didn't do it

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION — For 1,227 repetitive pages, Texas A&M University says its football program is innocent of possible NCAA compliance violations.

Over and over, Texas A&M tells the NCAA in the weekly response released to the media Wednesday that there is no way the school should be held accountable for nine Aggie football players who accepted pay from a booster for work they didn't perform.

Instead, the report, which includes more than 100 interviews with school officials and students, points the finger at Dallas booster Warren Gilbert and the athletes themselves.

Several players, including 1992's top rusher, Greg Hill, served suspensions as a result of the allegations.

The university found that between January 1990 and August 1992, the nine athletes earned a total of $27,800. Of that, $17,855 was unearned, the report said.

"Individual student-athletes learned through personal experience that they could abuse a job opportunity," the report said. "With few exceptions, the student-athletes kept the secret to themselves."

"Consequently, the problem evolved over time as individuals took advantage of poor supervision and paltry workloads at a job site. The improper activity that resulted was unknown to the university's staff."

Crossroads league ready for Super Bowl

Super Bowl Sunday is still months away, but Super Bowl Saturday is almost here.

The Crossroads Little Football League's biggest day will be Saturday at Coahoma High School. The action starts at 11 a.m. with the first of two consolation games. At 3 p.m. is the Division I Super Bowl (grades 3-4), and that will be followed by the Division II Super Bowl (grades 5-6).

Admission to Super Bowl Saturday is $1. Here are the results from Saturday's games:

Oilers 20 Steers 6

Mike Smith, Joshua Matthews and Robert Garza each scored a touchdown as the Oilers (4-3) beat the 1-5 Steers. Matthews scored his touchdown on an interception return. Romero Villareal also starred on offense for the winners. The Oilers received strong defense from Kenny Guzman, Fernando Barraza, Justin Nall and Eric Barber.

Clarence Wilkins scored a touchdown for the Steers, and John Barr also played well on offense. Wilkins, Barr, Ray DeLeon and Zack Tuttle played well on defense for the Steers.

Packers 26 Cowboys 0

Jason Choate, Greg Grawunder and Toby Molina scored touchdowns to lead the Packers (2-4) past the Cowboys (0-6).

Those touchdowns were made possible by the excellent blocking of Steven Valencia, Boe Payne and the rest of the offensive line. Packer stars on defense included Shineon Maggett, Jordan Partie, Hamilton Hartfield, Derrek Pope and Josh Arguello.

Division I bi-district playoff game.

Permian likely will remain in the playoffs as long as it wins its games because the case could be tied up in court past Dec. 11, the date of the Division I title game.

"We're going to be ready to play," said Permian coach Tam Hollingshead. "It's been a major distraction, but we've got to bounce back and get focused and be ready to go Saturday afternoon."

Five years ago, the state playoffs were played under a similar legal cloud.

Dallas Carter won the 1988 5A title on the field, beating Converse Judson 31-14. Months later, Carter was forced to give up the title when it lost a court battle. The legal fight was simultaneous with the playoffs.

Permian's battle focuses on whether Ector County ISD, in which Permian is a member, can allow players making majority-to-minority transfers to participate in extracurricular activities upon attending the new school.

To receive a majority-to-minority transfer, a student may move to a school at which he would be in the minority ethnicity. UIL rules state that students must sit out a year no matter how they transfer.

The executive committee resoundingly upheld that decision at a 10

Ricky Smith, B.J. Baeza and Kam Cross starred on offense for the Cowboys. Aaron Lattimore, Jason Matthews and Erik Sellers played well on defense.

Buffaloes 134 Bulldogs 114

Marcus Draper scored four touchdowns as the Buffaloes (3-3) beat the Bulldogs (4-3).

Billy Kinsey added a touchdown for the Buffs, and Zack Johnson also had a strong game on offense. Kinsey and George Garcia led a strong team defensive effort.

Chase Ward threw two touchdown passes for the Bulldogs. Anthony Herrera played well on offense, and Cleto Stone had a good day on defense.

Bulldogs 114 Longhorns 22

Five Bulldogs scored touchdowns in this one.

Scoring for the 6-0 'Dogs were Lance Montleon, Jimmy White, Cody Teeler, Brandon Long and Jacob Eastham. White had two touchdowns, and Montleon scored three extra points in addition to his touchdown.

Tyler Archibald played well on offense for the winners. Leading the Bulldogs defensive effort were Eastham, White, Steven Henry, Chris Freeman, Brett Lane, Lane Belew and Blake Coates.

Lance Brock scored two touchdowns for the Longhorns, and Rene Herrera scored one. Joseph Yanez and Cody Rubio played well offensively for the 'Horns, while Joseph Clark, Jonathan Bagwell and Ricky Solis played well on defense.

Klondike battles Loraine at Memorial Stadium

Big Spring will host a six-man bi-district playoff game tonight at Memorial Stadium.

The 7-3 Klondike Cougars, runners-up in District 5, take on the District 6 champion Loraine Bulldogs (7-3).

Game time is 7:30.

a.m. meeting in Austin. UIL athletic director Bill Farney then told Odessa High it could take Permian's spot in the playoffs.

"It's unfortunate they've defined the rule that way. Nobody else does," Farney said. "This is America and you're allowed to go to court. But it doesn't seem like it fits with our interscholastic goals."

Speculating on what could happen next, Farney said OHS could try seeking a restraining order to uphold the UIL ruling, thus making both teams eligible for the playoffs. OHS coach Bill Barron was traveling back from the UIL meeting in Austin and did not return a phone call to The Associated Press.

No legal action can occur Thursday because it is Veteran's Day, a federal holiday.

"What if Odessa High gets one on Friday and we have conflicting restraining orders?" Farney said.

Any further UIL action is up to the state executive committee, Farney said.

That same committee already ruled that Permian should forfeit its five district victories and a tie for using Benjamin Garcia, a backup defensive tackle.

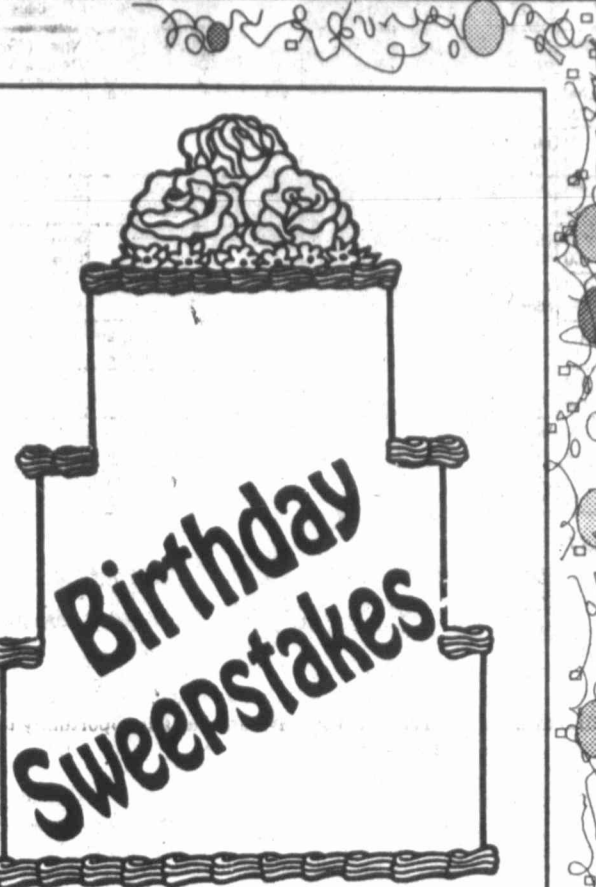

Garcia began playing for Permian immediately after moving from OHS under the majority-to-minority rule.

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1993

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You have an unusual opportunity to be decisive as partners come to you for a decision. Trust your judgment, and don't worry about what others think. Tonight: It could be a very late night. ****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Opportunities present themselves at work. A co-worker apparently feels closer to you than you realize. Be ready to shift gears and approach life in a new way. Understanding where others are coming from is half the battle. Tonight: Out and about. ****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone is there for you more than you originally thought. Don't mope or carry on, as you are in good shape and can have it all. Just be aware of your desires and needs. Be careful with a financial risk. Tonight: It's your treat. ****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): It would be a big mistake today to take for granted someone who is very close to you. Be open to new options. High energy from a loved one inspires you. Tonight: Let your loving side out. ****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It is important to nurture others today. A lack of sleep or an excess of nervous energy has you feeling drained. Still, your resources are excellent and you are able to express your needs clearly. Be aware of your limits. Tonight: Have a long-overdue talk with a family member. ****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Reach out for the stars today, as it seems you have every opportunity in the world to get what you want. The only one who can stop you now is you. Communications flow smoothly and high energy is available. Be careful about overdoing things. Tonight: Have a key chat. ****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An opportunity arises that helps you overcome a financial problem. As all falls into place you find yourself feeling much more at ease. Be positive about a career option. What looks like a brilliant idea really is. Tonight: Work late and then go out. ****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Expressing your feelings clearly today is critical to your success. Don't hold anything back. You have more support than you realize, and the potential to change your direction is high. Be loving in dealing with others. Don't just sit there, take action. Tonight: Go out early and end early. ****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are happiest relating on a one-to-one level today. Opportunities pop up from nowhere, allowing you to take charge of a key event. Many options will appear thanks to your willingness to express deep-rooted feelings. Tonight: Have a heart-to-heart chat. ****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You feel highly desired today, and you are. It's not that hoards are flocking around you - just that those you truly care about seem to be present. To get what you want, just take action. A male friend plays a significant role. Tonight: Talk about what you really want. ****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You gain respect today from someone close to you, and this gives you a new sense for accomplishment. Make sure you are not settling for less than you want. Your creativity flows freely. Tonight: Make a must appearance. ****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are filled with creative ideas today. Brainstorm with another, make important phone calls and check out a piece of news; the research will help you make a key decision. Accept an invitation. Tonight: Act out your favorite romantic scene. ****

IF NOVEMBER 12 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You'll gain a stronger handle on life this year. Your energy, enthusiasm and high intellect will draw others to you. It could be one of your luckiest years ever, but be careful about doing things to extremes. Confusion will surround a romantic opportunity. Don't exaggerate your feelings. If single, be open to different kinds of people. If attached, expect new intensity in your relationship. You'll be on a roll from Thanksgiving on. CANCER adores you.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Son who needs a life taxing to parents

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new one: Can a parent divorce a child? I have a 35-year-old son. He is a college graduate, successfully employed, but all I have ever heard from him is whine, whine, whine. He has no friends or outside interests. When he complains to me about his loneliness and unhappiness and I suggest he get interested in outside activities, he calls me "controlling." He has drained me emotionally ever since he was a teen-ager.

He says he doesn't need counseling — after all, he was a psychology major. He went for help once but didn't continue because he knew everything.

I have three other children who are responsible and productive. Also, I am wheelchair-bound, but don't consider myself a victim. I feel better when we have no contact. What should I do? — FRUSTRATED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A parent cannot "divorce" a child, but she can certainly tune him out, and after having been emotionally drained by your son for so long, you deserve a reprieve.

He says he needs no counseling, yet he complains about his loneliness and unhappiness. He should try another therapist and find out why, with all he has going for him, he has no social life.

Meanwhile, if you feel better when you have no contact with him, keep it that way until he changes his attitude, or you change your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Auntie J. in L.A.," who decided after years of sending gifts to her nieces and nephews and receiving not one note of thanks from any of them, that she was sending no more.

If she really cares about their learning the importance of saying "thank you," she should tell them — rather than simply cutting off all cards and gifts when they turn 18. If the cards and gifts simply cease, the children will have no idea why — and they may assume that Auntie J. has run out of funds.

Abby, if we decide to punish people for their shortcomings, it is absolutely vital to tell them that is what we are doing — otherwise they may draw incorrect conclusions. It's hard to confront people, but it is the only way they will learn.

Thank you for decades of fascinating reading. — EVELYN W. DAHLIN, HOUSTON

P.S. I remember being about 7 years old (50 years ago) when I received 25 cents from a beloved aunt for being the first among her nieces and nephews to send her a thank-you note for her Christmas gift. Wonderful reinforcement, back when 25 cents would buy you a movie ticket and a candy bar.

DEAR EVELYN: Thank you for expressing so well what many need to learn.

WORTH REMEMBERING: "I cannot give you the formula for success, but I can give you the formula for failure — which is: Try to please everybody." — HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE

To receive a collection of Abby's most memorable — and most frequently requested — poems and essays, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's "Keepers," P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? Get it off your chest by writing to: Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
