College's Educational Pursuit Day well attended

By JANET AUSBURY Staff Writer

The sixth annual Educational Pursuit Day at Howard College gave area students a chance to browse for the higher education of their choice on Wednesday.

The Dorothy Garrett Coliseum hosted students from 10 a.m. to noon. High schools in Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Garden City, as well as Howard College students, were invited to attend.

Amy Burchette, dean of students at Howard College, said high school seniors from Colorado City had also been invited but she was not sure if they would attend. About 100 colleges, universities and technical institutions from all over the country were invited. At last count, 36 institutions, including the armed forces, were planning to send representatives and more could be expected at the last minute, according to

AUSTIN — New high school health textbooks have won tentative *approval from the State Board of Education despite concerns raised about their references to sex, homosexuality and birth control.

But the board, in a 10-5 vote, made adoption of the books contingent on changes it might want to make in them and a staff review of concerns that were raised in lengthy testimony Thursday.

Final action was scheduled for today. Any changes, along with the staff report, would be considered in

"I don't think the people of Texas are supportive of what we have in these books," said board member Monte Hasie of Lubbock, who voted against adopting the five textbooks.

Another opponent, Robert Offutt of San Antonio, said, "This is not New York City and this is not San Francisco, California. This is Texas, and this is middle America. But board member Will Davis of Austin said youngsters receiving the books would be at least 15 years old and are aware of sex.

"Why do we have to withhold facts from almost-adults?" he asked. "Why do we want them to find it out in the back seat of a Ford pickup?"

The preliminary vote came Thursday night, after the board heard from supporters and opponents of the

They cost $9.4 million, while the health books would cost $7.5 million. Other subjects include pre-calculus, analytic geometry, business law and supplementary readers.

Many of the textbook contents that conservative groups objected to were in the teacher's editions, although some were in student books.

Among teacher edition examples were a suggested student game that uses such terms as foreplay, and a discussion of adoption by homosexuals. Fisher also objected to a student edition excerpt that said, "More than ever before, the single word that described families today is diversity."

Ms. Newman and Fisher also objected to such topics in the books as parent-child divorce and physician-assisted suicide.

Pantex getting national research lab

The Associated Press

AMARILLO - The nation's nuclear bomb dismantling plant will gain a national research lab if Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary gets her way.

Ms. O'Leary announced plans Thursday for a program to study safe means to take nuclear bombs apart and handle their radioactive, explo-

The lab would be built in conjunction with Pantex, a 16,000-acre facility where workers already are storing plutonium they remove from retired weapons.

"Nobody in America clearly has the idea of ... how best to manage and dispose of the materials used to build the nuclear weapons," Ms. O'Leary said after addressing a crowd of about 250 at a fund-raiser for U.S. Rep. Bill Sarpalius, D-Amar-

"We have proceeded to dismantle, without clearly understanding over the long term, what is the best way to accomplish that. The research work will focus us on how to get that done: how to manage the plutonium as well as how to manage the high explosives that are part of these weapons.

When asked how much the lab would cost, she said: "Our commitment in this administration as we plan for a five-year cycle is for in excess of $60 million. But the scoping work will tell us what is required beyond that.

Many business leaders and those at Sarpalius' function considered the lab a scientific and economic plum for the Texas Panhandle.

But critics called it a political move that would only duplicate the expertise of labs already in place.

"I just can't say that I think this is truly a valuable use of our resources, the nation's money," said Beverly Gattis, president of-Serious Texans

Doris Smith, who lives near the plant, criticized what she saw as Sarpalius agreeing to support the North American Free Trade Agreement in exchange for Pantex landing the lab. Sarpalius has not announced how he stands on NAFTA.

"It looks to me like we're mixing politics and policy together," Ms. Smith said. "This lab announcement is being made strictly in exchange for a vote. ... The integrity of the American citizens is being squandered."

Ms. O'Leary wouldn't divulge estimates of the number of new jobs. But she said they would be scientific and technological.

Vietnam Women's Memorial dedicated

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Vietnam Veterans Memorial, already one of the most visited sites in the capital, now has an added attraction: the first statue in the country to honor women who served in the military.

With tears, hugs and solemn remembrance, the Vietnam Women's Memorial was dedicated Thursday. It says for all time that women served and suffered, too, in that most controversial of wars.

"Welcome home, daughters of America," said Diane Carlson Evans, an Army nurse in Vietnam in 1968-69, who campaigned for 10 years to make the monument a reality.

"Welcome home, our sister veterans," said Evans. "Thank you for what you did. Let no one ever forget what you did."

The U.S. Park Police estimated 25,000 people came to the memorial on Veterans Day. Thousands of them, men and women, were Vietnam veterans. Many came bearing wreaths to place at the monument, or the new sculpture, or the statue of three fighting men - all in the same area of the

White House wheels, deals to sell NAFTA

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Figuring the White House is in a mood to deal, a tobacco state lawmaker is offering to vote for the North American Free Trade Agreement if President Clinton will back down on a proposed cigarette tax increase.

So far, the White House is saying there's no way it would bargain on the cigarette tax, which is a major underpinning of Clinton's health care reform package.

"The financing of the health care package is not for sale," one White House adviser bristled.

But just about everything else is on the table, say critics of the Clinton administration's wheel-anddeal search for the 218 votes it will need Wednesday to get the trade pact through the House.

The White House and some congressional supporters claim the president has about 200 votes. NAFTA opponents on Capitol Hill say they already have 221 solid votes, more than enough to defeat the trade agreement.

Cargo planes, an aircraft carrier, a sewer line, a community development bank, a retreat on grazing fee increases, reductions in an airline tax and protections for orange juice, sugar, tomatoes and wheat all reportedly have been dangled in front of lawmakers to get their

CAIRO, Egypt — Showing no sign of backing down, Libya denounced new U.N. sanctions to force it to surrender for trial two suspects in the bombing of Pan Am flight 103.

After Thursday's vote in the Security Council, the official Libyan news agency JANA portrayed the resolu-

Time to stop that 'bad black brother'

Chicagoans were cnagrined, especially black Chicagoans.

They shuddered when gangs of young night crawlers - most of the Warlords" and "Vice Lords" and "Crips" and "Devils Disciples" converged for a meeting they tried to dignify by calling "a gang summit." There have been 97 gang-related murders in Chicago this year. And black Chicagoans were chagrined by the predominance of blacks among these young hoodlums. The conference organizer, Gator Bradley, set the theme for the meeting with his invocation: 'Father, I ask of you that all those who stand in our way - that you will blind them, snap the limbs from their bodies and wipe them from the face of the earth.' Similar meetings of street gangsters are scheduled this year in Kansas City, Cleveland and Minneapolis. Before the year ends, they intend to strut around Washington, D.C.

Unless responsible black citizens in these cities talk back.

They are beginning to.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson says, "We (blacks) have lost more lives to the black crime. Until this year, such admonitions from black leaders came mostly from

Professor Walter Williams, who thus got himself labeled as an "Uncle

Now, his evaluation of the situation is increasingly described as "overdue" by some of the same individuals who criticized him.

There are still organizations which perpetuate themselves by blaming black problems on "denial of opportunity" and by persistently begging for handouts.

But blacks moving into the American mainstream are embarrassed by the numbers: Illegitimacy among blacks is 65 percent; in some cities 80 percent.

Girls as young as 9 are becoming mothers. Sixty percent of black children live in female-headed households. In some cities, the dropout rate among black school-age children exceeds 50 percent. And often, those who manage to graduate receive fraudulent diplomas that are worthless in the marketplace.

Professor Williams notes that in many cities the economic wasteland has become so dangerous that no whites dare intrude and black children in the projects often have their meals served on the floor so as not to be hit by stray bullets.

These are not "civil rights problems," says Williams. "That fight has been won.

He notes that since 1965, $3.5 trillion has been spent in the name of eliminating poverty.

"That didn't work." Yet last Halloween in the most violent areas of Camden, N.J., and Detroit, where thugs had established a tradition of arson, black residents unable to count on police protection patrolled their own streets, and arson was minimized. Williams says, "We blacks do not need parasitic poverty pimps or more bureaucrats. We need local citizens on foot patrols 'ganging up on gang-reporter she secured the administration's support for two additional C-17 cargo planes to be built in her Dallas district. Congress, of course, would have to approve that appropriation as it would any other spending project Clinton promises.

NAFTA foes are planning even more fun with it. A "NAFTA Claus," complete with red suit, was headed to Capitol Hill today to draw attention to all the goodies that NAFTA opponents argues have been given out.

"Twas the night before NAFTA and all through the House, the prez was a dealin' so no one would grouse," begins a poem put out by the Citizens Trade Campaign, a coalition of labor, environmental and consumer groups opposed to NAFTA.

Recognizing that my home state is full of Bubbas regurgitating the National Rifle Association's mantra concerning gun control, I'm well aware that in many corners yours truly will be labeled "anti-hunter," "anti-hunting" and the like.

Nothing could be more distant from the truth.

Granted, I'm not a hunter, but there's a relatively good reason ... I was never taught to hunt.

My parents, you see, simply aren't the outdoors type. I learned to fish, camp and an appreciation for the outdoors from my maternal grandfather. We just called him Dad.

Back in the early 1960s, just about the time he decided his oldest grandson was old enough to begin hunting. cataract surgery robbed him of peripheral vision. He decided he was no longer safe carrying a firearm, sold his guns and I, as a result, was never exposed to the sport.

However, that makes me anything but anti-hunter or anti-hunting.

As a matter of fact, the rotund one is as fond of well-prepared venison, quail, rabbit and squirrel as anyone.

I'm even a card carrying Ducks Unlimited member and have been for years. Never did learn to like the taste of duck and you couldn't get me out in a duck blind on a frosty winter morning without a bulldozer, but I'm quite fond of the photography in DU's magazine.

What's more, I'm an especially big supporter of DU's conservation and habitat restoration programs.

But contrary to the ridiculous protestations offered by the NRA, the Brady bill and virtually every other so-called "gun control" effort proposed in recent years had had nothing whatsoever to do with banning hunting.

They have, instead, had everything to do with trying to control who is allowed to own firearms and what types of firearms they're allowed to

With all due respect, even to some of my closest friends, anyone telling me they need an AR-15 or an AK-47 for hunting purposes might as well

It won't wash. Come to think of it, it's practically insulting the intelligence of anyone with a modicum of gray matter. Five-day waiting periods for the purchase of handguns aren't going to keep hunters out of the field. Why, most of my friends spend more time planning for deer camp every fall than they ever put into preparations for their weddings. There simply is no reason our

Clinton predicted passage of the Brady bill and said he was intrigued with the idea promoted by New York Democratic Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan to tax certain forms of ammunition and use the money to help pay for national health care

Come to think of it, so am I!

The man for whom the bill is named, former White House press secretary James Brady, who was seriously wounded in the 1981 attempt to kill President Reagan, said he was "euphoric" at the outcome.

But Brady bill supporters said they would work to eliminate a provision, added at the NRA's suggestion, to cancel the waiting period if a national computerized system to permit instant background checks hasn't been perfected in five years time.

I can only hope that's the reason Charles Stenholm voted against the Brady bill.

Israel's 'water strategy'

WASHINGTON - A core dispute in the Israeli-Arab negotiations concerns water and whether - or to what extent — decades of Israeli water conversions of neighboring property can be accommodated in a permanent peace treaty.

The conversions have been enormous and invariably at the expense of Palestinians and Arabs, some of whom still live on the lands from which Israeli water is now drawn.

Everywhere Israel has expanded since the 1967 Six-Day War — the West Bank, the Gaza Strip, the Golan Heights, even, as some reports hold, the Israeli-occupied "security zone" in Southern Lebanon — new Israeli water conversions have occurred.

The Israeli water acquisitions are seen less charitably by Palestinian and Arab victims as outright water thefts, enforced by the Israeli military against people whose water rights, lands and homes have been taken by the Israelis.

The dimensions of 26 years of Israeli water conversions have been reported from time to time, and they still illustrate the serious concerns in eace negouations at now much has been done and whether any of it can or will be undone.

Since the early 1980s and to an ever-increasing extent, most of the fresh water supplies for all of Israel have been drawn from the occupied territories, mainly the West Bank, where deepening Israeli wells now pump water faster than the aquifers can be naturally recharged. Palestinians on the West Bank are prevented from digging deeper wells for their own supplies.

On the occupied West Bank itself. where Israelis live in more than 100 settlements built since 1967, Israel controls all the surface and underground water supplies and West Bank Palestinians are charged at rates substantially higher than Israeli settlers.

Under Israeli military rationing, each Israeli West Bank settler receives four times the amount of water available to each Palestinian. The Israeli water rationing reported on the Gaza Strip reserves five times as much water for each Israeli as for each Palestinian.

After its 1967 occupation of Syria's Golan Heights, Israel not only "annexed" the area as part of Israel but grabbed its water resources, including the headwaters of tributaries to the Jordan River and fresh water springs rising on the heights.

Much of that water is now piped to Israel, and reports — most from Arab sources — hold that Israel is also piping water from the Litani River in Southern Lebanon, where, since 1982, Israel has ruled by military occupation.

The Israeli water acquisitions have been in the same pattern as the Israeli land acquisitions and settlement in the Occupied Territories, the Gaza Strip and the Golan Heights.

In that peace, it could be more difficult for Israel to deal with its own citizens on the water issue than to deal with the Arabs and Palestini-

Another precedent: 'Time out!'

Two exciting new precedents have peen set recently. I mentioned the setting of one of them in an earlier offering. It's that, according to the Reginald Denny jury in California, the old Everybody else was doing it" defense is now viable. The jury had a defendant smashing truck driver Reginald Denny in the head with a brick during the South Central L. A. riots on videotape. I repeat, on videotape. But the crafty defense pointed out that the act took place while a lot of other people were also committing similar violent, anti-social acts, so the defendant should basically walk. Believe it or not, the jury agreed. From now on, you might be able to say, "But, Mom, everybody else was doing it," and not get belted.

The touchdown, on a passing play, made the score 33-32, Florida. Georgia would be able to go for a twopoint conversion and have a chance to win the game in a stunning upset. It was thrilling stuff.

But, wait. Florida said, "The touchdown didn't count. We had called time-out.' And a referee agreed. The fact that nobody had blown a whistle or had stopped the play before it began didn't matter. "Sorry, Georgia," said the officials, 'your thrilling, last-play-of-the-game another final play, and won the Think of the precedent that sets. In any unpleasant situation, simply say you had called time-out. Somebody

"Doesn't count," the losers would

"Why not?" would ask the incredulous winners. 'Cause we had called time-out."

But after the fight that would inevitably break out, the winners would always still be the winners.

But no more. An opponent sinks a 30-foot birdie putt on 18 to get deep into your wallet, and you simply say, "Sorry, Warren, but you'll have to putt that over. My partner and I had called time-out.'

Bob Packwood could say, "You'll have to vote again on those diaries. I had called time-out.'

The results right still be the same, but you never know. Think how history might have been changed if the time-out precedent had been set earlier.

"Sorry, Gen. Eisenhower, but you'll have to get your men back in the landing craft. The Germans had called time out just before you hit the beaches at Normandy. Such could have changed my own

Stenholm reverses Brady bill position

By ANA RADELAT

Thomson News Service

WASHINGTON — Reversing his position, Rep. Charles Stenholm voted against a bill requiring gun dealers to wait five working days before completing a handgun sale.

Nonetheless, the bill named for former presidential press secretary James Brady sailed through the House Wednesday on a 238-189 vote.

Stenholm, who voted for a similar measure in 1991, insisted that he did not abandon his support for a handgun waiting period. The Stamford because the Brady bill was not part of a larger crime bill.

"I continue to believe that a waiting period could be an effective crime-fighting tool," Stenholm said. "But it is only one part of a puzzle."

Stenholm said a tough crime bill including the death penalty is needed to solve America's crime problem. The Brady bill's five-day waiting period would allow police to do back ground checks on gun purchasers.

Supporters say the waiting period would help keep guns out of the

The House approved a similar measure by a vote of 239-186 in 1991 with Stenholm's support, but the proposal was killed by a Republican filibuster in the Senate against a broader crime package.

Criticism of care given to an injured whooping crane found near Midland that later died was fueled by misinformation and possibly sour grapes, some involved say.

"It was based on misinformation .. But apparently it has gone beyond that," said Midge Erskine, who operates Eos Bird Sanctuary in Midland, where the bird was nursed after it was found Nov. 1.

Dr. Mel Richardson, a San Antonio Zoo veterinarian and a national coordinator for whooping cranes, complained he was not notified until a day after the whooper was found and

First Presbyterian plans renovations, new staff to accommodate more families, youth

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

Staff Writer

Unlike concerns some churches have about decreasing attendance of young people, First Presbyterian Church doesn't have a problem at

But that leads to another concern, developing and maintaining programs for children of young families, which have been on the increase since at least the mid 1980s, says pastor the Rev. Flynn Long. The Session, composed of church elders, recently decided to search for one or two people to create a youth program and coordinate music.

"The Session is concerned that we really need a program or someone to assist in creating a program for children and young people," Long said.

Youth membership doubled since 1986, with nearly 100 now. That nearly equals increased membership since 1977, which went from 419 to 467 this year, including 33 new members since January. More than 100 church members joined within the past five years. Only active churchgoers are counted.

"It is enough to where we have had to look carefully at our priorities," Long said. "Especially since so many of these members are mem- Please see Growing, page 7.

He attributes changing membership demographics to several causes:

1. "It's kind of a sign of the time," he said. "I like to think what this church is doing is happening all over ... There's some good stuff happen-

2. "Big Spring has a lot more young people in it than it did 10 years ago.

3. "This is an active, caring church with a strong program of education, music and worship.

He also pointed out that members are actively involved in community volunteer projects. "I think that's important," he said.

One person, two, part-timers or a combination may be hired to develop the youth program, play the organ and conduct the choir, Long said. A Personnel Needs Committee was appointed last month.

They're in the process right now of developing the criteria they want

Dolls, bears launch Salvation Army's holiday help

By DEBBIE LINCECUM

A cowgirl with leather fringe, a brightly dressed Spanish senorita, a cheerleader and a bear in country finery took top honors at a fashion show Tuesday.

As with any fashion show, the designers got the congratulations. But come Christmas morning, the models will get the smiles. Most of them will be Christmas gifts for the community's needy children.

Each year, the Salvation Army recruits local volunteers to make costumes for dolls and stuffed bears. Judges choose the tops in several categories to be sold at an auction that will fund next year's purchase of dolls and bears.

"The judges choose the winners in each category based on creativity, workmanship and how well it fits the category," said Salvation Army Lt. Yvette Villafuerte. First, second, third places and honorable mentions were chosen in six categories: country, casual, international, pajama party, costume/clown and formal.

Top winners in each category are kept until the spring, however, when they are auctioned off to raise money for purchasing next year's dolls.

Dressed dolls and bears ranged from the simply cute to the ultimate in detail. One doll, wearing a floaty, lace skirt, had a custom pair of lace hose underneath. One bear sported dreadlocks. Another had a cowboy hat and gun holster. One doll wore a swirly poodle skirt in '50s style complete with a dog and leash

"They get very creative with it," said Villafuerte, who hosted judges Delia Barraza, Linda Elrod and Alice Haynes at the Salvation Army headquarters for judging. Dolls will be displayed at the annual tea Nov. 19, 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. at First National Doll dressing helps to kick off the Army's Christmas Cheer program, which includes allocations of food and toys for families who cannot afford them during the holidays. Applications are still being taken at the headquarters.

Getting connected

We are parts of a whole

By LEO FREE Living Water Ministries

"They just drove by the house, slowed down and began shooting toward the windows, in the lawn, even at the roof. It seemed like bullets were flying everywhere.

> assumed that he talking was about Angeles or some city like that and when I asked where it happened he said the name of a small, West Texas town. My eyebrows raised in astonishment as he continued to share what he'd heard, "Yea, gang vio-lence is not limited to big cities, its all over the place. They call themselves..."(he mentioned some mean sounding name of the gang). I was just shaking my head, half in astonishment and half in despair, as my mind tried to absorb the reality of a society that is coming more and more unraveled. But that little phrase, "They call themselves... would not leave my thoughts. It stuck so strangely in my mind that I pulled out a piece of scratch paper and jotted it down. I knew that I needed to mull it over and listen for the Lord's voice in my heart.

I've learned over the years of walking as a believer that the Lord speaks in ways and at times that are not usually foreseeable. That phrase was so strong that I knew the tug to get still in my thoughts and opinions and seek to hear what the Lord My concern now is that I will be able to share some of what I began to hear in a way that will be of value. Insights that come from the Holy Spirit are not given to produce judgment and finger pointing.

He, the Holy Spirit, gives that which produces freedom. Freedom first in the inner man and then a liberating to the outer man.

When I listened again to the phrase, "They call themselves", I began to feel a sense of insecurity. I had all sorts of thoughts about how not knowing who we are produces a vacuum that cries out to be filled.

Whether believer or not, it is essential to identify. I remembered reading different articles about gangs that spoke to the issue of the breakdown of the family unit and its effect upon gang development. Instead of calling it "gangs" lets say that most of us need CONNECTED-NESS. Most folks NEED to be connected or relate to other folks in some way. It's pretty easy to see that a sort of tribal mentality exists over the whole planet and among all the families and races of men. There are many different things that produce connectedness among people groups. One of the strongest is language. I won't go into the all the causes that help or hinder the idea of connectedness among people groups but as I simply thought about the phrase, "They call themselves..." I could see different people groups of different sizes and colors and culture all over the world. Each one with a different name. Tribal name, national name, family name and even GANG name. While thinking along these lines and seeing the whole world in the same pattern, the picture began to change. I began to think about the religions of the world.

Whoops...there ya go...we're doing it again. Different groups and each one doing the same thing, "They call themselves..." Then the picture changed from all the different world religions to just Christianity. Well, I'll be...here we go again. All over the Christian there are groupings where "They call themselves..." What's going on here?

If I just think about gangs and see the violence and problems it is fairly Please see Inspiration, page 7.

Deputy Woody Howell reported on Community and area crime. There has been a slow-down in activity since the arrest of those people involved in the area burglaries.

The next luncheon is scheduled for Dec. 7, and will be a gift exchange not to exceed $5. A report was given on various community folks who are ill or who have passed away in the previous month.

1955 Hyperion

Carla Walker was the guest speaker for the 1955 Hyperion Club in the home of Mrs. Jay Cunningham. Carla is the owner and photographer of Photo Magic Studio.

She has been involved in photography since she was a small child, anxious to help her mother, who had a dark room, to develop her own prints. Her grandmother was also involved in picture taking.

Carla said one of her main interest in growing up was in writing. One of her first jobs was with the Big Spring Herald. She wrote articles for the paper and took wedding pictures. This led to her present career.

She explained how some of our pictures are fading and losing colors. If they are not stored properly and kept away from light as much as possible, they can be lost forever.

The next meeting will be a Christmas luncheon on Dec. 7 at Mrs. Jimmy Morehead's. We will exchange Christmas gifts at this meeting.

Mojo opens playoffs under black cloud

By The Associated Press

DALLAS — In a game surrounded by an aura of mystery, intrigue and more twists than a mountainside road, No. 4 Odessa Permian will open the postseason against Lubbock Coronado.

Supposedly. Barring any last-minute court rulings or a change of heart by attorneys for Ector County schools, the Panthers (8-0-1) will kick off against the Mustangs (7-3) at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Their game will be among the closest-watched of the first-round playoff games. All six brackets and six-man competition begin this weekend, though some districts are still playing out their regular sea-

Permian is fighting the University Interscholastic League in federal court over whether it should forfeit its 5-0-1 district record for using a player ineligible under UIL rules.

The governing body's executive committee says the Panthers should be out of the playoffs, but a federal judge issued a temporary restraining order hours after Permian was banned, allowing them back in the title chase.

The distractions have been difficult for Permian and for Coronado coach Butch Henderson, who had the unenviable task of spending Wednesday preparing to play Odessa High, only to learn that night that he'd be playing Permian.

"They've got two totally different offenses," Henderson said of the wasted preparations. "But at least their defenses are somewhat simi-

Another interesting Division I game to keep an eye on is No. 2 Converse Judson's first crack at defending, its state title. The Rockets (9-0-1) play San Antonio Harlandale (7-3).

Ninth-ranked Euless Trinity, whom Judson beat 52-0 in last year's title game, opens against Fort Worth Paschal (3-7).

Division II's most notable games involve No. 1 Dallas Carter (10-0) playing Arlington Sam Houston (5-4-1); and No. 3 DeSoto (10-0) playing Plano East (5-5).

Those games are interesting because the winners - likely Carter and DeSoto — will face each other in the second round.

Also in that bracket is defending champion Temple (7-3). The Wildcats open against Round Rock them out in 1991 and they won the 3A title last season. Clyde (6-4) has the unfortunate task of being the first-round opponent for Carroll, which tied a national record with its seventh Woodell, the Bulldogs' sophomore quarterback, accounted for more than 300 yards total offense and five touchdowns to lead Loraine to a 52-42 bi-district six-man playoff win over the Klondike Cougars at Memorial Stadium Thursday night.

The District 6 champion Bulldogs (8-3), who won their first playoff game since their 11-man days in the early 1950s, advance to meet Dell City in the area round of the playoffs. The game will be played in Monahans at a date and time to be determined.

District 5 runner-up Klondike ends its season with a 7-4 record.

After spotting the Cougars an early 8-0 lead, Woodell and the Bulldogs roared back to score 32 unanswered points in the first quarter to take control of the game.

The second half was an entirely different story, however, as Woodell's opposite number, Klondike quarterback Tanner Etheredge, engineered a comeback that put the Cougars back in the game and had the Bulldogs hanging on by their fin-

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1993

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Misunderstandings pop up out of the blue. Maintain your sense of humor and know that things are not as serious as they appear. Be open to a child or other loved one who is full of ideas and excitement. Tonight: Adjust to a change in plans. ****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Confusion surrounds an important figure in your life. A parent or other respected elder might not be sure of what to do. Partners don't want to go along with plans. Go with the flow as much as you are able. Tonight: Chill out. ***

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It is important to adjust to changes, keep lines of communication open and maintain your sense of humor today. The problem is not coming from another's power play. It's just that your own energy is misfiring. Tonight: Out and about. **** CANCER (June 21-July 22): Watch the tendency to overdo things today. It could affect your pocketbook and your health. Whatever happens, maintain your sense of humor. Tonight: It's your treat. ***

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A financial matter or friendship has you confused today. Stay in touch with your deep feelings and be willing to go after what you want. An obstacle is nothing more than a passing challenge. Try to be positive and smile. Tonight: It's a laugh a minute.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It would be nice to vanish today. Tension is high, and another simply does not understand how you feel. Loosen up, and try not to take the problems too seriously. Tonight: Curl up with a good book. ** LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A friend tells you a little too much about a private situation. Be wise and don't talk about what you've heard. Use sports to get rid of some of your excess energy. Tonight: Zero in on what SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are in a position today to call all the shots, although inner tension could prevent you from taking action. Be aware of how important your image is. Tonight: Make a must appear-SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be understanding today when dealing with loved ones at a distance, who enjoy hearing from you. A sense of humor is important. Worry less about what others are thinking. Tonight: Be indulgent, ** CAPRICORN (Dec., 22-Jan. 19): A misunderstanding over money is likely today. Be aware of another's position, and allow enough space for both of you to make a decision. Adjust a change in plans. Tonight: AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A child or a partner could be difficult today, as others don't see things the way you do. Be more creative in your choices and see what happens. Others seek you out. Tonight: Out and PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Today's focus is on completing a project. Be aware of your drooping energy level. You need to take some time off to relax. Be prepared to go in a new direction. Tonight: Don't push. IF NOVEMBER 13 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You'll be on a high cycle this year and will have every chance of getting what you want, especially come summer. However, there will be tension on the family scene, and you'll have some difficult choices to make. If single, you need to let go of certain fetishes in order to connect. Be more open to new ways of thinking. If married, many options will appear, including the possibility of a new home or addition to the family. Any confusion surrounding those decisions is coming from you, not your partner. LEO adores you.

FOUNDATION

My marriage collapsed after only a year and a half because of my 15-year-old stepson a vicious, hateful, evil brat who became vindictive whenever he didn't get his way. He warned me before the wedding that he intended to make me miserable because he didn't want his dad to marry me. (I should have turned and run then, but no - the eternal optimist in me thought everything would turn out all right eventually — WRONG!!)

During the next year and a half, I got the usual "you're not my mother" back talk, hateful looks, and deliberate attempts to upset me, such as sneezing or coughing across the dinner table without covering his mouth and playing his dad and me against each other.

He was relentless. He demanded almost nightly visits with his former school buddies across town - a 50-mile round trip. He blamed his friend's attempted suicide on us because, since we moved away, "he couldn't be there for him." He carved up his bedroom furniture with a bowie knife and destroyed the glass on my expensive dining room table because he was "mad at us." He threw his cat across the room and called her a "whore" if she tried to sit on his lap after allowing me to pet her, and kicked my dog if he thought I wasn't watching.

The marriage was a horrible, endless nightmare that landed me in the hospital and ruined my health. I am not blaming the boy completely for the breakup. My husband no more knew how to be a father than I knew how to be a mother. But he always sided with his son and never put his foot down - 99 percent of our fights were about that kid.
