New TCDHI director pays visit on SWCID

By JANET AUSBURY

Staff Writer

David W. Myers, the new executive director for the Texas Commission for the Deaf and Hearing Impaired, visited the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf on Monday.

Myers was at the college to introduce himself to SWCID officials and the community in general. Through interpreter Mike McMillion, Myers, who himself is deaf, said he loves his new job.

"This is the job I've wanted for a long time," said Myers. "I applied for it 15 years ago, and someone else was selected. This time, I applied again and I got it."

Myers was chosen in August to replace interim director Ralph H. White and took over as executive director three weeks ago.

Prior to his position with the TCDHI, Myers was a rehabilitation program specialist at the Rehabilitation Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Education for five years.

Myers has also served as a state consultant on deafness for Michigan Rehabilitation Services and as executive director of the Louisiana Commission for the Deaf.

The TCDHI, according to Myers, ensures that the deaf and hard of hearing in Texas have access to a variety of available services.

Based in Austin, the TCDHI not only helps provide interpreters but evaluates and licenses them, as well. TCDHI also works with the state legislature on matters concerning the deaf and hearing impaired.

As executive director, Myers hopes to improve TCDHI's services already available to deaf and hearing-impaired individuals. "We hope to get additional funding and more services that deaf people in the state need," he said.

"We can't fund services for the deaf to the extent that we would like.

Myers added that because funding is scarcer than it used to be, there has been no real increase in programs and institutes for the deaf such as SWCID.

"Many students do come here from out of

Was she attacked because of what she was wearing or because of her isolation?

She was likely attacked because she was vulnerable, says Big Spring Police officer Terry Hudson, not because of how she looked. Women who wear tight dresses and high heels may be asking for it, but because that makes it hard for them to flee.

"That blows another myth," said Hudson, who on Tuesday taught "Personal Safety: Some ideas regarding your physical protection," the 10th of a 12-course "Brown Bag Seminars" program at Howard Col-

Police claiming suspect should have been in jail

DALLAS (AP) — Police Chief Ben Click says he's instructed his staff to find out why a man charged in the Nov. 9 slaying of a Dallas police officer had been given early release following an earlier arrest on a weapons charge.

Markus Wicks should never have been released, Click said Tuesday.

Wicks and another teen-ager were charged last week with capital murder in the shotgun slaying of Senior Cpl. Richard Lawrence.

In September, Wicks was arrested and accused of firing a semi-automatic pistol near Dallas police officers. He was charged with unlawfully carrying a weapon and possession of marijuana.

At the time, he was on "intensive supervision" and wearing an electronic monitoring device, but still was given pretrial release as a nonviolent offender.

Drugs, jilted lover sparked murders?

The Associated Press

FORT WORTH — Drug deals, drug debts, lesbian relationships gone sour are the darker side uncovered in the double murder of two seemingly all-American teens.

Two women were in custody today. accused of hiring a gunmen to kill college students Channing Elizabeth Freelove, 19, and Melanie Golchert, 18, whose bodies were found Saturday in a vacant lot in southwest Fort

The pair first were mourned as hardworking, outgoing, athletic teens studying on scholarships. Then police reports revealed they had been dealing drugs and that Freelove was in debt to her dealer for $6,000.

On Tuesday, police revealed yet another secret — a hostile lesbian love triangle.

Jailed for allegedly hiring two hitmen were Sherrie Lynn Sikes, 24, and Brandi Michelle Cirelli, 20, both former lovers of Freelove, police say. Golchert, they say, was killed because she was with her friend.

Sikes and Cirelli, who police say also sold drugs, were jailed in Tarrant County on bonds of $50,000 each. Still at large were the gunmen, police said.

Police were led to Sikes and Cirelli by two men who told detectives that the women had asked them to "take care of Channing." After the men said no, Sikes and Cirelli said they would find someone else to kill Freelove, police said.

A police affidavit obtained from the two men revealed that all four women were lesbians.

But several friends said they do not think Golchert was a lesbian or bisexual, but was just in the wrong place when she was killed.

"Brandi stated that she was tired of playing Channing's 'high-school games' to make her jealous," according to the affidavit. "Brandi stated she wanted someone she could count on to be there for her and that Sherrie was now her girlfriend.

Grieving friends of slain student Channing Freelove leave Calvary Cathedral in Fort Worth after funeral services Tuesday. Freelove and Melanie Golchert were shot to death in a deserted field in southwest Fort Worth Saturday.

"Brandi also stated that she needed to find someone to take care of Channing because she was becoming a real problem. She couldn't have her coming over because it was bad for her business," the affidavit states.

Channing and Freelove were last seen alive Friday night, when they told friends and family they were going out to celebrate Freelove's 19th birthday.

But police records indicate they instead were headed for a meeting with a man to sell a pound of marijuana. Because of clothes and other items in their car, authorities believe they then were leaving town in an attempt to flee the $6,000 drug debt.

The day before her death, Freelove had asked her parents for $6,000 to pay off her drug dealer, according to police reports. She told them she had been dealing drugs and that 10 pounds of marijuana had been stolen from her apartment. Her parents did not give her the money, police said.

Neighbors said Cirelli had had a string of roommates at her apartment, as well as friends who included members of local gangs.

Sikes, Cirelli, Freelove and other women in their circle were open about their bisexuality, said Peter Creech, a 21-year-old National Guardsman who lived next door in the apartment complex.

'They all had relationships with each other; they made no secret about it," said Creech, who had been a dinner guest of the women and sometimes shared beer with them. "I wouldn't say they were lesbians. Bisexual is more like it. ... And they were all kind of jealous of each

Smaller hike recommended for TU Electric

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — A rate increase recommended for Dallas-based TU Electric Co. by Public Utility Commission hearings examiners has drawn fire from both sides — the company says it's too small and consumer advocates say it's too high.

The PUC is scheduled to consider the case in late December.

The hearings examiners recommended Tuesday that TU Electric Co. get a 10.66 percent increase, smaller than the 15.3 percent increase the company implemented arbitrarily in August on a temporary basis.

If the lower increase is adopted, customers would get refunds through a credit on their bills, company spokeswoman Kathi Miller said. But she said the company will continue to push for the higher amount.

The proposed increase was immediately called inadequate by the company and excessive by the Office of Public Utility Counsel, which represents residential and small commercial ratepayers in cases before the

'Considering that we have only had a 10.2 percent rate increase in almost 10 years (granted in 1990), we believe this increase is minimal and reasonable," Erle Nye said of the rate now being charged.

"Over that period of time, inflation Texas customers, requested a $760.2 has increased overall consumer costs million increase from the PUC. Its in this area by almost 30 percent,"

But Steve Fogel, deputy public But PUC hearings examiners, in a counsel, said the recommended increase appears "excessively high." The $530 million is "higher than any party other than the company had recommended," he said. The public counsel's office had proposed an increase of about $200 million. Utility commissioners in October conducted public hearings in Dallas and Fort Worth on the proposed increase, with many people calling 15.3 percent too high. 'We are having to make a decision of whether to eat or pay the utility bill," resident Bennie Williams said at the Dallas hearing. But Ms. Miller said TU Electric needs the full increase to improve the company's financial condition and hold down borrowing costs. That would hold down customers' future rates, she said.

Before the company's proposed in August, the charge for a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a month was $80.74 in the summer and $69.34 in the winter.

The company's proposal brought that to $93.93 in the summer and $80.97 in the winter. The examiners' recommendation would mean bills of $87.74 in the summer and $80.33 in the winter.

TU Electric serves about one-third of Texas, from the Oklahoma border to Central Texas and from near the Louisiana border to far West Texas.

Clinton's riding momentum into House's voting

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Clinton's full-court press for votes gives him and his free-trade allies the upper hand as the House prepares for a showdown vote this evening on the North American Free Trade Agreement.

In a remarkable reversal, supporters of the pact, who once trailed badly, moved into a commanding lead in the last few days, according to an Associated Press survey of lawmakers' publicly declared positions.

The AP count showed 209 House members supporting the pact and eight others likely to do so. Declared opponents numbered 183, with 14 leaning against.

The White House and its allies need 218 votes for passage.

On an issue that defied party lines, Republicans were behind the pact by a nearly 3-1 margin; three Democrats in five were against.

That left 20 lawmakers undecided about the pact that would eliminate tariffs and other trade barriers on everything from automobile parts to ziti ingredients between the United States, Canada and Mexico over 15 years.

"We can compete and win," Clinton told governors attending a NAFTA pep rally at the White House on Tuesday.

The president was talking up American workers and companies facing new international challenges, but he could just as well have been describing his own votegetting prowess.

As momentum shifted toward the agreement, droves of lawmakers flocked aboard like a crowd of commuters leaping onto a departing train. Twenty-four of them came out for NAFTA on Tuesday alone — including seven who had previously said they probably would vote to kill the compact.

Among the converts were several lawmakers from Florida, who earlier were concerned that NAFTA would let Mexican citrus products, tomatoes and vegetables

"Florida farmers will be treated fairly under NAFTA," said Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla., who switched from an opponent to a supporter of the agreement.

The shifts were the product of dozens of phone calls and meetings by Clinton himself and countless others by his Cabinet and chief aides. Side agreements were cut to soften the competitive blows to wheat, textiles and apparel, all aimed at securing an agreement that has gained enormous political importance for the president.

Price must be paid

While Howard County commissioners may have been handed a surprise last week when confronted with the cost of making the courthouse handicapped accessible, it's a price that must be paid.

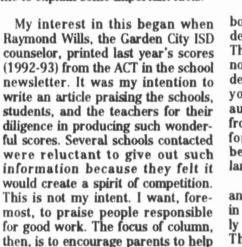

Commissioners learned that handicapped accessibility means more than getting those in wheelchairs in and out of the courthouse's various offices. The blind and deaf must also be considered. And the proposed price tag is certainly more than most would have expected. A.H. Elevator of Colorado City listed a proposed cost of $12,430 just for bringing the building's elevator into compliance with handicapped0 accessibility guidelines, well more than the $8,128 the county figures to spend on renovations to first-floor bathrooms and the district courtroom on the third floor.

But the bottom line, as they say in the financial world, is that the handicapped are taxpayers. They should be able to reach any county office which administers or spends tax money ... and that's all of them.

Why ACT is important for graduating seniors

I hope to give information in today's column of great importance to all high school students and their parents. It has been brought to my attention that many area students, for one reason or another, do not take any college entrance exams. The area counselors have all been very gracious in extending time to me to explain some important facts.

The Texas legislature, in passing House Bill 72, (ves. that one!) called for a system of accountability based primarily on student learning. From that effort came the Academic Excellence Indicator System. The five indicators set for the state standards are as follows:

and students to bravely step out and take these tests for the results it can

1. TAAS (The test all high school students MUST take): Each campus should have 90 percent of their students passing.

2. Attendance: 97 percent (this is why schools place such emphasis on your child being present every day) 3. Drop-out rate less than I per-

4. Graduation rate of 99 percent

5. College Admissions Tests - 70 percent of graduating seniors taking either SAT or ACT; 35 percent of graduates scoring above the criteri-

Basically, what this says to me, as a teacher and a mother, is that educated people think our children learn better if they are present, can pass tests, graduate and go to college to prepare for a better life, if the schools, parents, and students all do their job. That is the EXCELLENT situation we all want to exist! The state uses these indicators to try to determine if all these things are hap-

The College Entrance Exams are important for several reasons. They provide an indicator, a measurement of how well the secondary schools are performing. They instill confidence in the students. If students can do well enough to match required scores for universities they might only dream about, they realize that they could have a chance. These scores can get scholarship monies for students. They can also get credit for the students, saving them money on courses that they won't even have

All area schools offer the chance for high school sophomores to take both the PSAT and the PLAN, which are practice college entrance exams. Much material is available to help students prepare for these practice book to help others feel more confident and to learn in their language. The book is hysterical in content and not only guaranteed to keep the student's attention, it is only $10.95 at your local mall bookstore. (The authors also felt the money gained from the book sales might help pay for their education.) I personally benefited from the section on test

There are also tapes, both audio and video. The cassette tapes can go in walkmans and no one will actually know that students are studying! There is the Princeton Review (1-800-995-5565) which has some very good material on the New SAT, (the SAT changed this year) including also a book on paying for college. Students and parents should check local libraries for materials that will not cost. Talk to your school counselors. They each have their

Many area schools pay for students to take one of the tests as sophomores and again as juniors. The cost for them is very nominal, usually $7.50 or $8. Several counselors told me that if a student is unable to pay, they will work with

One added benefit of this study, is that it usually helps grades to improve and most teachers will back me up on this.

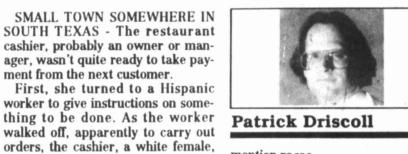

I am told repeatedly that many students in the area do not take either test because they plan to attend Howard College and know that it does not require either exam. I went to the college and checked on several things. They do not require SAT or ACT, but do require TASP. However, if a student makes a 25 on the ACT (English and Math), they will get three semester hours credit for English and three for Math. If they make a 28 on the ACT (math and English), they can get credit for six hours math and six of English).

This can be a considerable savings, both of money and time. Other colleges and universities also give credit for test scores. Howard Payne, for example, gives three hours of elective credit for Act/28 scores of SAT/530 in Reading and three hours elective credit for ACT/26 or above in Science reasoning, in addition to the credit for English and math.

The ACT is the test most frequently taken test in Big Spring, by area students. Howard College administers ACT five times a year for this reason. Dates for this year are: Oct. 23. Dec.11, Feb. 5, 1994, April 9.1994 and June 11,1994. Some counselors feel that two things contribute to the popularity of the ACT. One is a longstanding rumor that it is easier. Another is that in the students' perception, the ACT is an achievement test and the SAT is a projection of aptitude. Neither is true, but some ideas are hard to

Seminar

While walking on streets, walk with purpose and confidence. Keep your head up, eyes ahead, shoulders back and your pace steady.

When shopping, pay with credit cards whenever possible. But do carry some cash because street criminals may react violently if you have nothing to give them.

Expensive clothing or jewelry increases you risk of assault.

If attacked, remain calm because sudden movements or emotional outbursts may cause a criminal to attack. Act quickly to comply with demands. Not cooperating may lead to injury.

Resistance is four times more likely to cause you injury. But if you feel that self defense maneuvers may be effective, attempt to incapacitate the attacker so you can escape. Go for sensitive spots likes eyes, ears, upper lip, groin and instep of the foot. Potential weapons include car keys held in one's fist with point jutting out between fingers, fingernail files, rattail combs, ballpoint pens, canes, books or other heavy, blunt items.

If you have a firearm, be prepared physically, through practice, and mentally to use it. Know handgun regulations. Remember, your gun could be turned on you.

Don't let repairmen into your home until they've identified themselves and you've verified it with someone else. If alone, call a friend while the repairman is in the house, and let the friend know the repairman is there. Never give information out over the phone or to strangers. A good scam buster is to ask for a name and phone number so you can call back. Discuss with children possible scenarios and possible actions you and they could take.

Join groups such as Neighborhood Watch and other crime prevention agencies. Learn to recognize suspicious persons and situations.

ACS: Kick the habit Thursday

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Features Editor

It's a day full of hope for many, but it just gives others the shakes.

The Great American Smokeout will be observed for the 17th time Thursday. That's the American Cancer Society's effort to encourage smokers to give up the habit for 24 hours.

Many who quit for the day soon find they can quit for good.

"The smokeout is not high-pressure, but it's a way to show you've got control over your smoking rather than it having control over you," said Lisa Brooks, president of the Cancer Society's local unit.

Brooks said she is probably considered somewhat of a fanatic about smoking.

"It's such a destructive habit, and no good comes from it," she said. "Thirty years down the road, you can trade that cigarette for an oxygen tent, or a tank you have to drag behind you everywhere you go, just to get a gasp of air."

Jean Rountree, a local speech pathologist, has seen the worst side of a habit that affects millions.

"I work with people who have had a stroke and cancer patients," she said. "Those are very good reasons to quit smoking.

"And within my own life, I've had people die from the complications of smoking.

But Rountree said quitting has not gotten any easier.

"It's an addiction that is very hard to beat," Rountree said. "I've heard recently that it is harder for women than for men.'

A large part of the Smokeout is devoted to nonsmoker support for smokers who are trying to kick the habit. The American Cancer Society has these tips for a support system:

•Make an effort to stay in contact by phone or in person. ·Help your quitter keep a good sense of humor. Agree to give up something you love, like chocolate or soap operas; and don't cheat. •Provide your friend with a survival kit of carrot and celery sticks, sugarless gum and candy, pencils and straws to hold or chew.

•If you are an ex-smoker, share your quitting experiences, but don't lecture on the dangers.

•At the end of the day, offer congratulations. Then tell your quitter that in just six more days his/her body will be cleansed of nicotine. That's a step toward total freedom from tobacco.

Rountree's advice to a would-be ex-smoker: "Go for it," she said. "Different things work for different people, so find out what will work for you. Nicotine patches work for some people, while "cold turkey" is best for others. Some can cut down gradually, and other need lots of support. "Whatever way you choose, just know it's worth it," Rountree said.

Smokers who are quitting for the day or their supporters can pick up a care package at the U.S. Post Office Thursday between 10 a.m.-1 p.m. "I defy anybody who has loved somebody who has died of cancer to continue to smoke," Brooks said. "It's Scare tactics work for some quitters, as in the American Cancer Society just too dangerous.'

Quick and easy dips for holiday parties

That busy season is upon us again when there never seem to be enough hours in the day to accomplish what we desire.

The following dips are quick and easy and great for holiday enter-

Before you begin your holiday cooking you may want to benefit from the following helpful hints and time saving ideas: 1. Invest in a good oven ther-

2. Replace old, outdated seasonings and spices that have lost their "punch" to insure flavorful results.

3. Prepare and bake two cakes at a time. Serve one now and freeze one for later. Always cook cake before freezing. Large zip-type freezer bags make great storage containers. Frost cake AFTER defrosting.

4. For easy clean-up, spray cheese grater with no-stick cooking spray before grating cheese.

5. Serve dips in bread loves. Form "bowl" by scooping out center of round unsliced bread loaf. Use removed bread as dippers or save to make bread crumbs or croutons.

One would expect a team that has had only a couple of practices with its full squad to be a bit shaky.

One would expect a team whose tallest starter is 6-foot-2 to have trouble against a lineup featuring two players over 6-7.

One would be right. The Big Spring Steers, who haven't had a full week of practice with a full squad, showed their rust in spots, dropping a 68-55 decision to Seminole in the season debut of both teams in Steer Gym Tuesday night.

The Indians used their twin towers of Chris Cherry and Clancy Hall to best effect, combining for 30 points and continually clogging the middle, forcing the smaller Steers to try their luck from the perimeter.

Cherry, Cody Burris and Hall led the Indians with 19, 12 and 11 points, respectively. Big Spring forward Wes Hughes, who drained four three-pointers, led the Steers with 18

Five Steers just joined the team this week after the finish of football season, and BSHS coach Gary Tipton said the lack of adequate preparation showed.

"(Seminole's) just a good basketball team," Tipton said. "They've had all their kids for the past two weeks, quite a few of our guys have had just two practices, three of our kids played their first varsity game, so we got hurt on some things that I think just getting some workouts under our belts will help us on.

The Indians took control of the game in the second quarter. After taking a 14-6 lead at the end of the first, Seminole's offense kicked into overdrive. Burris and Cherry hit back-to-back field goals to key a 17-4 run to put the Indians up 31-12 with 2:08 left in the half.

Big Spring responded with nine unanswered points to pull within 34-21 at the half but never got closer than 11 the rest of the way.

There were some bright spots for the Steers, however. Hughes, after being shackled most of the first half, scored 16 of his points in the second Tipton also found solace in the Steers' 13 turnovers, two under the team's goal of 15 or less. But he admitted the Steers definitely have work to be done.

"I thought we tried to get after them. The effort was there, we just made some mistakes," he said. "One thing you've got to look at, we play a real tough non-conference schedule. Come January, we want to be playing our best basketball ... We didn't want to get beat tonight, but mainly .. we're trying to get ready for

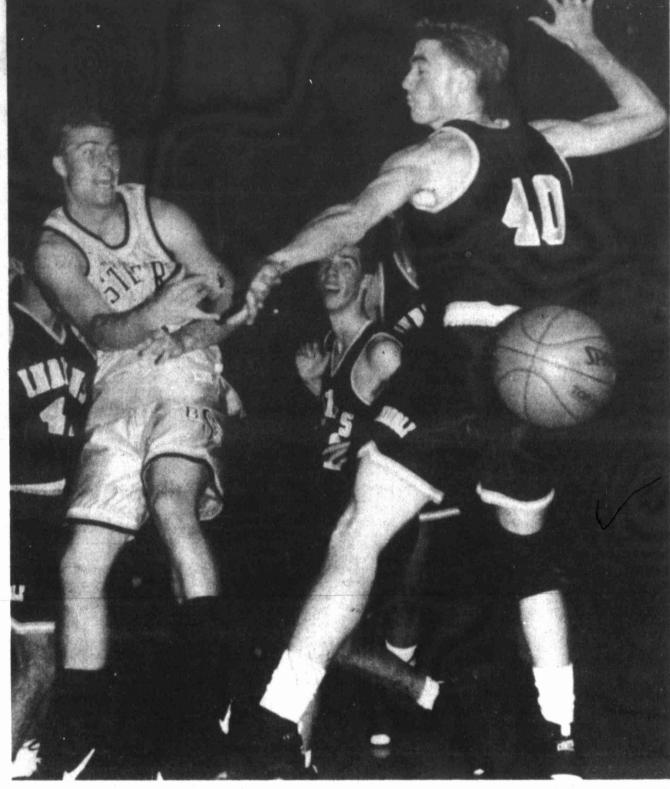

The junior varsity Steers had a much more successful debut, racing to a 41-19 halftime lead, then cruising to a 63-54 win. Tim Rigdon, Drexell Owusu and Keith Monger led the JV Steers with 13, 12 and 11 points, respectively.

The Steers return to action Friday when they travel to Merkel. JV action begins at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity game at 7:30.

MIDLAND - The Big Spring Lady Steers ran into a buzzsaw Tuesday night, dropping a 60-30 decision to Midland in the season opener for both teams.

Midland's defense was the difference in the game. The Lady Bulldogs double-teamed and triple-teamed Earnst, while applying pressure to the Lady Steers' young guards.

The Lady Steers also hurt their chances by hitting on only 12 of 31 foul shots during the game. Midland connected on 9 of 12 free throws.

Two buckets from Alcala and one from Chancellor gave the Lady Bulldogs a 6-0 lead before Big Spring finally got on the board on a Robbi Hall free throw.

Sophomore Leslie Elrod and the rest of the Lady Steers guards were playing in their first varisty game, and it showed in spots. Midland constantly harassed the Big Spring perimeter players, coming away with 18 steals.

Earnst, the Lady Steers' lone returning starter, did not score until she put back her own rebound midway through the second quarter to make the score 17-

Last-second jumper pushes Coahoma past C-City

By DAVE HARGRAVE Sports Editor

COLORADO CITY - Coahoma's Ian Heath stared at a chance to be a hero and passed it up. Basketball players sometimes never see that second chance, but Heath saw his next opportunity just seconds later.

First, about that second chance.

After a Coahoma timeout, the Bulldogs inbounded the ball in frontcourt with nine seconds showing on the clock. Heath immediately found himself with the ball in the corner, beyond the three-point line, and he was open. He looked at the basket and bent his knees as if he was ready to unleash his jumper, but he instead passed the ball to Jason Milliken near the top of the key. Milliken couldn't find an open shot and passed back to Heath.

COLORADO CITY - If the Coahoma Bulldogettes' entire basketball season could be as easy as the first quarter of their season opener at Colorado City, Coahoma fans could start ordering state finals tickets.

Dear Abby - Letters... Urging smokers to kick the habit

DEAR ABBY: Every year, you have been kind enough to devote a column encouraging our nation's smokers to participate in the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. Your support has helped millions. of men and women across the country make the effort to quit smoking - at least for the Last year, a number of your readers let us know that they were about to "kick the habit" - for good!

Would you please alert your readers again this year? Thank you for all your help in the fight against cancer. —STEPHEN F. SENER, M.D., PRESIDENT, AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

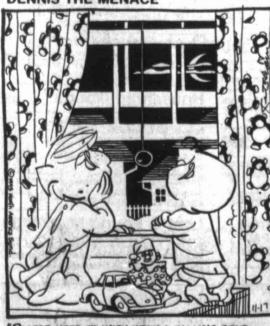

DEAR DR. SENER: I'll do it gladly. DEAR READERS: Tomorrow, Nov. 18, 1993, will mark the 17th Annual Great American Smokeout, a one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours, just to prove they can do it.

Last year, 14 million smokers tried to quit for the day. This represents 28 percent of the nation's 50 million smokers.

Breast cancer used to be the biggest killer for women. But the No. 1 cause of cancer death among women and men today is lung cancer. In fact, women are not quitting at the same rate as men. Therefore, lung cancer is on the decline in men, but on the increase in women. And it is estimated that early in the next century, more women will die of lung cancer than men. Tobacco claims one life every 13 seconds. An estimated 149,000 will die of lung cancer in 1993.

And now a word about smoking-related diseases -emphysema, chronic bronchitis and heart disease: This year, an estimated 424,000 will die from one of these. This total exceeds the number of U.S. battle deaths in

DENNIS THE MENACE

"PEOPLE USED TO WISH UPON A FALLING STAR I THINK THAT WAS BEFORE THEY HAD CATALOGS.

World War II, eight times as many as died in the Vietnam War, and nine times as many people who die in automobile accidents every year.

According to a congressional study, health costs from the adverse effects of smoking have reached a new high of $100 billion a year in increased medical bills and lost productivity. The loss in death and disability cannot be measured.

What about secondhand smoke? Is it damaging to non-smokers to be in the presence of those who are smoking? Oh, yes! A 1993 report on secondhand smoke issued by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency categorizes secondhand smoke as a class A carcinogen on a par with asbestos and radon. One non-smoker dies of secondhand smoke for every eight smokers. And studies reveal that the children of smokers are more prone to lung problems and allergies than are children of non-smokers.

For years I have begged my young readers, "If you smoke, quit now. If you don't smoke, don't start!" Yet an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 kids light up for the first time every day. Cigarette companies sell $1 billion of cigarettes to children every year.

Ouitting "cold turkey" is the hardest way to quit, but my readers tell me it's the most effective, and in the long run, the easiest. Those who need help to break their habit: Call your local chapter of the American Cancer Society, or call (800) 277-2345 for information.

If you're hooked and have been telling yourself, "One of these days I'm going to quit," why not start tomorrow? It won't be easy, but it will be the best Thanksgiving present you can give yourself — and those who love you. — LOVE ABBY
