Local oilmen eye Clinton initiative

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Business Editor

A Clinton administration initiative to revive the battered oil industry is pessimistically eyed by some in West Texas but is recognized as a step in the right direction.

The problem is it doesn't do enough for crude oil production, said Harry Spannus, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, a 1,250-member organization of mostly independent as well as major oil producers. A floor price on crude is sought.

"We admit it has some beneficial features for the nation's energy posture," Spannus said of the 36-page Clinton plan unveiled Thursday. But "it deters around the issue of domestic crude oil production and the problem we face and it puts it second fiddle to any and all other energy issues."

World crude prices plummeted to five-year lows late last week, to under $15 a barrel, since an Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meeting last month failed to produce an agreement on limiting production, according to wire reports. Small U.S. producers have been hit hardest. Declining prices are blamed for 450,000 lost jobs the past decade.

Clinton's plan would help independent producers use new technology to cut exploration and drilling costs to benefit in the long run, ease environmental regulations for refiners, make it easier to market natural gas and lower royalties for drilling offshore and on government land.

"It's a step in the right direction but we're going to have to do quite a bit more in the way of a national energy policy," said U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm.

Stenholm and some other oil patch lawmakers want to see an oil import fee to provide a floor price on crude oil. Somewhere around $22 to $25 would be good, he said.

"That obviously would put a lot of people to work in the oil patch," he said. "Otherwise, I think we would be completely at the whims of other countries, that would be OPEC."

In addition, Stenholm and others are calling for use of a $70 million surplus in the Strategic Petroleum Reserve to buy oil and stabilize prices.

Among more positive aspects of the administration initiative is efforts to make it easier to market natural gas, Stenholm said. That would help investments.

Other initiatives are also welcomed, such as easing of regulations on refineries.

"Of course we would endorse that but we don't know what that means," said Jeff Morris, manager of the local Fina Inc. refinery, who says he hasn't seen details of the plan yet.

Couple hurt in bar fight

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

A fight at the Park Inn, 2711 Wasson Road, resulted in the stabbing of a Big Spring couple Saturday night.

Alan Winn, 29, suffered lacerations to the head and shoulders and was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center in critical condition. He underwent surgery Sunday to treat his injuries and is currently listed in good condition.

Winn's wife, Teresa, 36, was treated and released from the hospital for minor injuries sustained in the fight.

Several officers from the Big Spring Police Department were sent to the scene in response to the 10 p.m. incident. The attackers had fled the scene by the time police arrived.

Sgt. Scott Griffin said several witnesses to the incident have been interviewed and three of the five suspects in the attempted murder have been identified.

The suspects are well known by the witnesses and victims, but no motive for the attack has yet been determined.

Griffin said police are continuing to investigate the attack and a report will be made to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, which requests reports of all violent incidents at bars.

Skiing holiday great memory for one family

MURRAY MURPHY

Most people probably think back to their childhood when thinking of their most memorable Christmas. As I think back to Christmases past, I have many pleasant memories as a child, but when I pinpoint my favorite Christmas, I recall the Christmas my family spent in Ruidoso, N.M.

Diane, the four children and I have always had a great love for snow-skiing and we have spent much time on the slopes of Ski Apache. We usually spend Christmas with the family, but this particular year, circumstances did not allow this to happen.

A last-minute decision put us on the road to Ruidoso for Christmas Eve and Christmas Day at our cabin. Of course, with four young children, this required moving a great deal of presents to a new destination.

Once we arrived, we had to find a Christmas tree, because what would Christmas be without a Christmas tree?

Several hours of making decorations and trimming the tree provided fun for everyone in the family and put all of us in the Christmas spirit. After all, it was Christmas Eve.

This particular year, the snow was not plentiful in Ruidoso, but we were all determined to ski on Christmas Day. I think we all dreamed of a white Christmas, and I

'Black Widow' leaves trail of husbands

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — A woman in a Colorado jail leaves a trail of husbands, as many as three at one time.

Two were killed, a third claims, attempts were made on his life and a fourth died of natural causes after adopting Jill Coit, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday.

"She's a psychotic, vicious, ruthless black widow," said Stan Lewis, a Houston private investigator hired to research Coit's background. "She takes a sadistic, fiendish delight in preying on well-meaning men to facilitate her ultimate goal of furthering her financial welfare."

Jill Coit, who's been known by a litany of names, now is in a Steamboat Springs, Colo., jail on charges of murdering Gerald W. Boggs, her ninth husband. She also was a suspect in the 1972 Houston murder of one of her husbands.

Born Jill Lonita Billiot in New Orleans, the woman is most likely in her late 40s.

She left home while in high school and moved to Indiana, eventually marrying Larry Ilnen in 1961. The union ended in less than a year.

Two years later, she met husband No. 2 in Louisiana, Steven Moore.

By January 1966, Jill became Mrs. William Clark Coit Jr., after marrying the Tenneco engineer in Houston. The divorce from her second husband was final in March 1967.

On March 29, 1972, Coit was found dead in his southwest Houston home. Houston homicide Sgt. Jim Binford said it appeared Coit had let the killer in the back door.

Jill had filed for divorce 20 days before and he had complained she was trying to take his money.

Jill disappeared immediately after her husband's death and turned up in New Orleans, where she hired attorney Louis DiRosa, a future husband, to fight her extradition.

She admitted herself to a psychiatric institution and refused all contact with Houston detectives, they say.

After months of legal wrangling that failed to get Jill before a grand jury, the case became inactive, and she left for California. While there, Bruce Johansen, a wealthy retiree in his 90s, adopted her. DiRosa handled the procedure, and after Johansen's death the next year, DiRosa was involved in the settlement of the estate. Jill received several pieces of property and some money.

"There was something real suspicious about her being in the will," said Judy Prier-Lewis, another private investigator looking into Jill's past. "I don't think there was any foul play (in Johansen's death), but I don't know."

During her California stay, she was married to husband No. 4, Marine Maj. Donald Brodie.

DiRosa became husband Nos. 5 and 6. He and Jill were married once in Mississippi and once in Louisiana. They divorced twice.

DiRosa, now a civil court judge in New Orleans, did not return numerous calls from the Chronicle. Telephone calls placed by The Associated Press to DiRosa's home went unanswered Sunday.

While still DiRosa's wife, Jill married husbands No. 7 and No. 8: Eldon Metzger, an Indiana auctioneer, and Carl Steely, a teacher at Culver Academy in Indiana, according to police.

Steely was married to her for nine years, but she left him after seven, taking with her his furniture, family inheritance and bank accounts, he said.

He said a motorist once tried to run him down while he was riding a bicycle. He says the incident was an attempt on his life.

After a vacation with his wife to Steamboat Springs, Steely wanted to buy some property and retire there. His wife bought a bed and breakfast.

While renovating the building, she met her ninth husband, Gerald Boggs, whose hardware store was around the corner. The Steelys split.

Jill and Boggs were married April 4, 1991. Boggs got an annulment seven months later after learning his wife was still married to Steely.

Jill sued Boggs for the deed of trust, valued at $100,000, that he held on the bed and breakfast. The voluminous case file, about a foot thick, is filled with accusations and counter accusations. Boggs finally signed over the deed.

Jill then moved in with a 48-year-old telephone company employee named Michael O. Backus in Greeley, Colo., while keeping a residence and husband No. 10 Roy Carroll, 68, in Houston.

Arrest warrants and affidavits say Backus approached a fellow employee about having Boggs killed.

Police say Jill, posing as a psychologist, made similar propositions to a woman she was counseling. The woman refused.

Insurance board examines for bias

DALLAS (AP) — The state's 40 largest insurers are analyzing all their policies to determine whether there's discrimination against any areas under an order from Insurance Commissioner Robert Hunter.

The examination is being conducted by using zip codes and is due to the Texas Department of Insurance by Jan. 17.

"I am determined that Texas will take steps to improve insurance availability," he said. "The key to such a program is adequate data."

Hunter said he's looking at making new rules to prohibit discriminatory sales of auto, homeowners and other types of insurance.

The most common form of insurance bias is called redlining. It occurs when an insurance company charges high premiums or refuses to write policies in certain areas because they are considered bad risks, such as high-crime neighborhoods.

Court martial begins in Gulf War assault

FORT BLISS (AP) — A 1991 charge that an Army reserve sergeant sexually assaulted a female reservist during Operation Desert Storm is finally headed to court.

Jury selection was to begin today in the court-martial of Sgt. 1st Class David Martinez. Prosecution could begin if Martinez waives the right to have a jury hear his case, Fort Bliss spokesman Tony Cuciniello said.

Martinez is charged with single counts of forcible sodomy and indecent assault and four counts of falsifying documents. If convicted, he could face 40 years of confinement, forfeiture of pay and allowances, a reduction in rank and a dishonorable discharge. He has pleaded innocent.

The charges stem from accusations made by former reservist Jacqueline Ortiz, who said that on Jan. 19, 1991, Martinez summoned her to his tent and forced her to perform oral sex. Both were members of Company D of the 52nd Engineering Battalion at the time.

The Army investigated Ms. Ortiz's complaint and initially concluded the sex was consensual. Both Martinez and Ms. Ortiz were reprimanded.

Tanning salons now feature nude dancers

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Tanning salons in the San Antonio area that feature nude, female dancers are comparable to the massage parlors of the 1980s — they're both sexually oriented businesses, authorities say. "This is just the latest twist to the same thing," said Lt. Rudy Vernon, vice commander of the San Antonio Police Department.

"In the past (the city and the police have) developed ordinances and law enforcement techniques to deal with other versions, massage parlors, modeling studios.

"It's standard practice: We address it with an ordinance, they put a new twist on it," Vernon said.

San Antonio police vice officers and building inspectors raided and closed two salons last week. The businesses were cited for violating the city's human bodily display ordinance after acquiring certificates of occupancy for tanning salons, but not adult establishments.

Implant studies yield conflicting results

AUSTIN (AP) — The American Medical Association, the largest group of U.S. physicians, has advocated lifting the restrictions of silicone gel breast implants that were imposed by the government in 1992.

But the AMA says its advisory council had determined there was a lack of convincing evidence that the implants are harmful. An article in the September issue of Texas Medicine, the journal of the Texas Medical Association, drew a similar conclusion.

Margaret Harris, a 66-year-old La Grange resident, doesn't care what the journals or the doctors say.

Ms. Harris lost a breast to cancer in 1985 and got a silicone gel implant as a replacement. Seven years later, suffering what she said were terrible muscle aches and an allergic reaction to the implant, she had it removed.

"These doctors ought to have to live in these women's bodies to see what it's like," said Ms. Harris, who is recovering from a hip replacement her doctor blames on immune system problems caused by her implant. "I'd beat cancer, mind you. Then the darn implant makes me fall apart."

Treasurer's seat political launching pad for women

AUSTIN (AP) — Some female leaders are opposing a proposal to abolish the state treasury position, saying the prominent strides made by the last two officeholders have turned the job into a political launching pad for women.

Gov. Ann Richards, the first woman elected state treasurer, appointed Martha Whitehead to the post last summer. Ms. Whitehead replaced Kay Bailey Hutchison, a Republican who gave up the job when she was elected U.S. senator.

EPA wants ban on oil well brine

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Federal environmental officials and the Texas Railroad Commission are at odds over the discharge of oil well brine along the Texas coast.

Government biologists say brine, an orange liquid high in saline and toxic chemicals, have killed marsh vegetation at various locations on the coast.

In measurements at one High Island well, the liquid was about five times saltier than sea water, said Will Roach, a biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

In response to such findings, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency wants brine discharges banned. The salty, toxic liquid already is prohibited in the state's inland waters — in wetlands, bays, streams and other areas along the Texas coast, as well.

But the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the oil and gas industry, is fighting the coastal ban.

In a letter to the EPA, one Railroad Commission official questioned the validity of worries about brine discharges in areas along the coast.

David Garlick, director of the commission's oil and gas division, said officials of the state agency were "extremely concerned that the economic harm caused by (the ban) will substantially outweigh environmental benefits, if any, that would be gained."

The railroad commission has argued that the EPA should place new restrictions only on those brine discharges found to cause problems, instead of a total ban, said Leslie Savage, the agency's waste management coordinator.

EPA officials had hoped to reach a decision by now on whether to issue the ban, which was proposed last December and also would apply to Louisiana.

Other states already ban coastal brine discharges. Discharges into marshes are being banned in Louisiana. The usual alternative to dumping brine is to collect and then re-inject it underground.

But the railroad commission in Texas has been the center of the holdup on a total ban.

The EPA delayed final action on its ban so it could study additional Texas Railroad Commission data about brine discharges.

Vandalized Nicole Jones, manager of a church group home for six severely retarded elderly women in Carrollton shows the damage done by vandals to the front seat of the home's vehicle. For the last three months, someone has been terrorizing the house with spray-paint forays into the back yard, slashing raids on the home's only vehicle and menacing late-night visits.

Texas' bridges most substandard in nation

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Texas' bridges are aging causing many of the structures to fail to meet federal standards, a study says.

"County bridges are the ones we're really concerned about," says Bert Lundell, the state's supervisor of permitting for large haulers. "A lot of those bridges were constructed in the '20s and '30s."

"Stress on a structure is a cumulative thing," he says.

The state leads the nation in the number of substandard bridges in its highway system, with almost one-third failing to meet federal standards, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.

A study by the newspaper of inspection records indicates 14,395 "structurally deficient" or "functionally obsolete" bridges — more than any other state.

The percentage of substandard bridges ranged from 5 percent around Odessa in West Texas to 47 percent around Waco.

Too narrow or weak, many of the bridges are in a midlife crisis and may be unsafe for today's heavier trucks and construction and farm equipment, say officials at the Texas Department of Transportation.

"We are approaching middle age in our bridges," says Ralph Banks, the state's primary bridge engineer.

Banks estimates it would cost $2 billion for repair and replacement projects to bring all Texas bridges up to minimum federal standards. Road officials say that's both unrealistic and unnecessary.

The substandard bridges aren't "falling in or in a position of imminent collapse," Banks says. Bridges that are unsafe for passenger vehicles would be closed immediately, Banks says. Records show that 210 Texas bridges are closed.

Some bridges that aren't wide enough by modern standards, Banks said. Some also have cracked concrete, rusted metal or rotted timbers: 7 percent of Texas' bridges have been rated poor or worse for their deck, piers or other structural components.

The problem is especially bad on the back roads of Texas, according to a computer-assisted study of the National Bridge Inventory, a federal database with information on every bridge in the United States.

The study by Cox Newspapers and the Austin American-Statesman found that about 6,100, or 18 percent, of the 33,400 bridges on Texas' state highways were listed as substandard. But of the 14,500 bridges maintained by county and city governments, about 8,300 — or 57 percent — were below federal standards.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Seven Endeavour astronauts returned home in triumph today after accomplishing the biggest repair job in space history — refurbishing the Hubble Space Telescope.

Yeltsin behind early

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Extreme nationalists and Communists opposed to President Boris Yeltsin surged ahead in early parliamentary election results today, riding a wave of public anger over the stinging cost of economic reforms.

Racial segregation is spreading worse now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Racial segregation is spreading in America's public schools to a degree unseen since the 1960s, according to a study. But educators say today the quality of a class is more important than the color of a classmate.

The study by the Harvard Project on School Desegregation found that two of every three black children attended schools where blacks were more than half of the student population during the 1991-92 school term.

That's the highest percentage since 1968, when 77 percent of black students attended predominantly black schools.

"This report reflects what may be the beginning of a historic reversal," said Harvard Project director Gary Orfield. "The civil rights impulse from the 1960s is dead in the water and the ship is floating backward toward the shoals of racial segregation."

More remains of U.S. servicemen returned

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — A top U.S. official arrived today for a ceremony marking Vietnam's turnover of eight sets of remains of Americans killed in the Vietnam War.

"I'm here to look for progress on the MIA question," Assistant Secretary of State Winston Lord said as he stepped off his small jet at Hanoi's Noi Bai airport.

Lord was to meet with Vietnamese leaders on Tuesday. The State Department said he would urge them to step up efforts further to meet President Clinton's demands for the fullest possible accounting of Americans missing in action.

The remains being repatriated today were found in searches in October and November. This was the sixth turnover of American remains by the Vietnamese this year, bringing the total for the year to 67 sets of remains.

Suicide bombing could ignite more violence

GAZA CITY, Occupied Gaza Strip (AP) — A Palestinian, driving a stolen ambulance rigged with explosives, rammed an Israeli jeep today and died in an explosion. The army said an Israeli soldier was injured in the blast.

The suicide bombing, the fifth such attack since the Israel-PLO accord was signed Sept. 13, came amid fears that the delay of the start of the Palestinian autonomy plan would ignite a fresh round of violence.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin convened a special session of Israel's Cabinet.

Two hard-line Muscovites read leaflets calling for a vote against the pro-reform Russia's Choice bloc in Sunday's parliamentary elections at the Lenin museum in Moscow. President Boris Yeltsin is behind in early returns.

Pro-Yeltsin groups were hurt by failing to unite in the campaign. Yeltsin's top aides and allies lead several of the 13 parties that ran for parliament. He endorsed no party.

"I believe democrats were tactically wrong from the very beginning by rejecting coordinated actions. This pushed the people away because they need reliability," said Sergei Filatov, Yeltsin's chief of staff.

A marginal political figure just three years ago, Zhirinovskiy has surged in popularity among the many Russians hurt by Yeltsin's free-market reforms. He gained a huge following during the election campaign with his peppery attacks on ethnic minorities and the West.

In a possible sign of compromise, presidential spokesman Vyacheslav Kostikov said Yeltsin may be able to cooperate with the Liberal Democrats and the Communists "if they do not adhere to extreme slogans and methods."

But the pro-reform parties said they could not work with extremists. "We are prepared to cooperate with all constructive forces, but it is not likely that we shall cooperate with fascists," said Economics Minister Yegor Gaidar, leader of the main pro-Yeltsin alliance, Russia's Choice.

"Nothing that Zhirinovskiy has promised can be fulfilled," said Deputy Prime Minister Anatoly Chubais, another Russia's Choice leader. "And if we try to fulfill it, there will be World War III."

Among the Communist Party candidates reportedly elected to parliament is Anatoly Lukyanov, the former Soviet parliament speaker.

Men rescued from 40-foot waves 11 hours after abandoning boat

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Eleven hours after they abandoned their foundering sailboat for a tiny, orange raft in 40-foot seas, two men were plucked from the wind-whipped waves by a Japanese freighter bound for Ireland.

Herbert Clarity, 63, of Harrison, N.J., and Fareed Suraleigh, 47, of New York were reported in good condition Sunday aboard the freighter, said Chief Petty Officer John Chindblom, spokesman for the Coast Guard in Boston, which coordinated the rescue effort.

"It's a testimony to their physical fortitude," Chindblom said Sunday.

The men planned to remain aboard the freighter for the seven-day journey to Ireland because bad weather prevented the Coast Guard from picking them up.

In another ordeal, four Miami-area men who had headed out for a day of fishing spent hours bobbing in high seas, clutching two plastic foam ice chests after their boat sank.

Jeff Williams, 39, and Chris Price, 26, were rescued about 5 miles east of Miami Sunday morning after 12 hours in the water. Calvin Hudson and Melvin McCutler, both 42, disappeared.

On Wednesday, Clarity and Suraleigh, both experienced sailors, set out from New York's City Island in Clarity's 30-foot sloop, the Lightfoot, on the 740-mile trip to Bermuda.

But early Saturday, about 225 miles southeast of Long Island, they ran into winds blustering more than 80 mph, heaving seas and driving rain, and sent an emergency signal to the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard asked the Japanese freighter, the Shin Kakogawa Maru, which was about 12 hours away, to head to the scene while a search plane was sent out.

The plane's crew found the sailboat, but the storm made an air rescue impossible.

Wind sheared off the boat's mast and as the craft capsized and sank, the two men leapt into the sea and climbed into their 6-foot inflatable raft, Chindblom said.

The men drifted for 8 hours before the freighter reached them. Then in darkness and stormy seas, the raft and the freighter were tossed together for a perilous 2 hours as the crew tried to rescue the men.

Finally, Clarity and Suraleigh grabbed a cargo net swung on a derrick over the side of the ship and were hoisted to safety, Chindblom said.

Clarity's wife, Betty, who spoke with her husband shortly after his rescue, said she wasn't surprised that he survived.

"We're very relieved, of course," she said. "But my gut feeling was that he was going to make it. He knows what he's doing."

Easy access to guns probably won't be stopped by new law

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Guns are so easy for young people to obtain in crime-ridden urban neighborhoods that new laws controlling their sale probably would not reduce their availability, a Justice Department study concludes.

Twenty-two percent of 758 boys at 10 inner-city high schools reported owning guns in 1991, and 12 percent said they carried weapons routinely, according to the study by two Tulane University sociologists.

In addition, 83 percent of 835 juveniles in the same age group who were incarcerated for serious crimes at six detention centers said they owned guns at the time of their arrest.

Guns were easily available to students and inmates, either at home or "on the street," said the study released Sunday. It was based on responses from schools and detention centers in California, New Jersey, Illinois and Louisiana.

Youths in the inner-city neighborhoods also were reported to have ready access to "easy-to-shoot, accurate, reliable firearms" including high-powered revolvers and automatic and semiautomatic handguns, the report said.

Six percent of high school students said they had possessed a military-style assault weapon at the time of the survey. Among the inmates, 35 percent reported having assault weapons when they were arrested.

Even if young people did not own a firearm, 53 percent of the students surveyed and 45 percent of the inmates said they could borrow guns from family members. And 54 percent of the inmates and 37 percent of the students said they could get guns on the street if they wanted one, according to the study.

Beside family members, drug dealers were seen as a major source of a firearm, the study said. Twenty-two percent of the students and 36 percent of inmates said they could get guns from drug dealers.

"Controls imposed at the point of sale likely would be ineffective, at least by themselves, in preventing the acquisition of guns by juveniles studied here because they rarely obtain their guns through such customary outlets," said the study commissioned by the Justice Department.

The report did not directly comment on the new five-day waiting period for handgun purchases that President Clinton recently signed into law. Nor did it refer specifically to other gun-control proposals, such as one floated last week by the Clinton administration to license gun owners.

But sociologists Joseph F. Sheley and James D. Wright, the report's authors, voiced skepticism that new gun-control laws would keep firearms away from criminals or youth.

"Most of the methods of obtaining guns reported by the juveniles are already against the law," the report said.

The study found a high correlation between gun possession and involvement in illegal drug trafficking with 72 percent of the juvenile inmates and 18 percent of the students reported either having dealt drugs or worked for drug dealers.

The four states were picked because they reported having problems of youth violence in inner-city schools. Thus, the results were not representative of the nation's high school population. No cities, schools or correctional facilities identified.

The study was commissioned during the Bush administration by the Justice Department's National Institute of Justice and the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

Meanwhile, Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., a leading gun control advocate in Congress, said Sunday he expects Congress to pass strong crime legislation next year, including prohibitions against the sale of assault-like weapons.

Winds cause power outage, blamed for two small fires

By JANET AUSBURY Staff Writer

Winds gusting up to 45 miles per hour and bad weather caused intermittent power problems for much of Big Spring Sunday night.

John Toone, district manager for TU Electric, said the source of the local problems was a power line on the west side of town. The line had come loose due to the high winds and banged repeatedly on the pole, causing another wire to come loose and the circuit breaker to go on and off.

The problems began at approximately 7:29 p.m., said Toone, and were fixed by 8:51 p.m. Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles said at least one small fire in town could be blamed on the wind and power problems. The Fire Department received a call at 7:53 p.m. about a grass fire in the area of the Vietnam Memorial.

By the time the Fire Department arrived, TU Electric was already on the scene and the fire had been put out. Settles said power lines were hitting each other due to the high winds, causing arcing and sparks which set the grass on fire.

Settles said two other Sunday-evening fires may also have been due to power problems. The department responded to a call at 8:05 p.m. Circuit Electronics, 2605 Wasson Road, had an arcing Christmas tree light as a result of an electrical cord that was shorting out. The Fire Department asked the store owner to come in and check the store to make sure no damage had been done.

The department also responded to a call at 8:30 p.m. about an electrical sign fire at Wagon Wheel Drive-In, 2010 Scurry Street. The Fire Department turned off the electricity and recommended the owners have the sign checked and fixed.

Sgt. Scott Griffin of the Big Spring Police Department and Sheriff A.N. Standard of the Howard County Sheriff's Office said they had no incidents on their record logs due to the power or weather problems, apart from reports of the intermittent power shortages.

The Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring said the highest wind speed clocked last night was 44.8 miles per hour, with .02 inches of rain recorded.

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents: - Criminal mischief was reported at the Bowl-A-Rama. $200 in damage was done to the paint of a 1989 Chevrolet Suburban. - Juan Olivas Valencia, 34, was arrested for possession of a firearm.

YOU CAN BEAT THE FIRE by Jax Church. Dear Jax, Why does water put out fire? Tim Murphy Nova, Ohio. Dear Tim, First, fire kills people, animals and plants. It completely destroys whole buildings. It is very dangerous and you should never start a fire yourself. Fire is a chemical reaction. It is the element oxygen combining with other elements very quickly. This chemical reaction requires 3 things to start: heat, oxygen (air) and fuel (something to oxidize). Take away any 1 of the 3, and you put out the fire. Water can do 2 of them. But people should not put water on fires that happen on top of a stove. Those are grease fires, and water will just splatter the fire around more. Dump salt on those fires. It smothers the flames. experiment #1 WHAT YOU NEED: Your family's permission and assistance - birthday candle - empty jar with lid WHAT TO DO: Ask a grown-up for help. They usually like the way it feels to show you something. Again, do not do this experiment without help from a grown-up. Use a bit of melted wax to stick the candle upright in the center of the lid. Light the candle. Place the jar down over the candle. Watch what happens to the flame. WHAT IS GOING ON: All the oxygen in the jar's air combined with carbon in the candle's wax. When there wasn't any more oxygen, the fire went out. Fire is oxygen combining quickly with stuff. No oxygen, no fire. Water on a fire does 2 things. First, it smothers the fire, cutting off the oxygen. It also cools the fuel down, and cold stuff does not burn. Either one will put out a fire. Keeping new air away from a fire is why you should not open the door of a room that is on fire. It will give the fire more air. fire = quick rust When oxygen combines with carbon and does it quickly, we get fire. The chemical reaction creates heat. When oxygen combines with iron, it's almost the same, only it happens very slowly. That's why we usually don't think of rust as the same thing as fire. When oxygen combines with carbon, we get carbon dioxide. When oxygen combines with iron, we get iron oxide, or rust. If there's a fire, call 911! That will bring firefighters.

Cowboys power past Vikings

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Jimmy Johnson, the Dallas Cowboys' full-time coach and part-time shrink, snorted and steamed his way through the postgame question-and-answer session.

"We've got some things we've got to correct," he said, "or we're going to have a very short season."

Johnson wasn't upset about his offense in Sunday's 37-20 victory over the Minnesota Vikings. In fact, he rather enjoyed watching his line manhandle the NFL's second-ranked defense, clearing the way for Emmitt Smith, Troy Aikman and Michael Irvin in the Cowboys' highest-scoring performance since January's Super Bowl blowout of Buffalo.

"No," Johnson said. "Very happy with the offense."

What then?

"Defense."

What about it?

"Oh, a bunch of little things."

Coach, you don't seem very happy — even though your team improved to 9-4, remained a game behind the NFC East-leading New York Giants and moved into a tie with San Francisco for the NFC's second-best record.

"Well, I'm not happy with the way we played."

So no one should assume the Cowboys are on a roll, ready to defend their Super Bowl title?

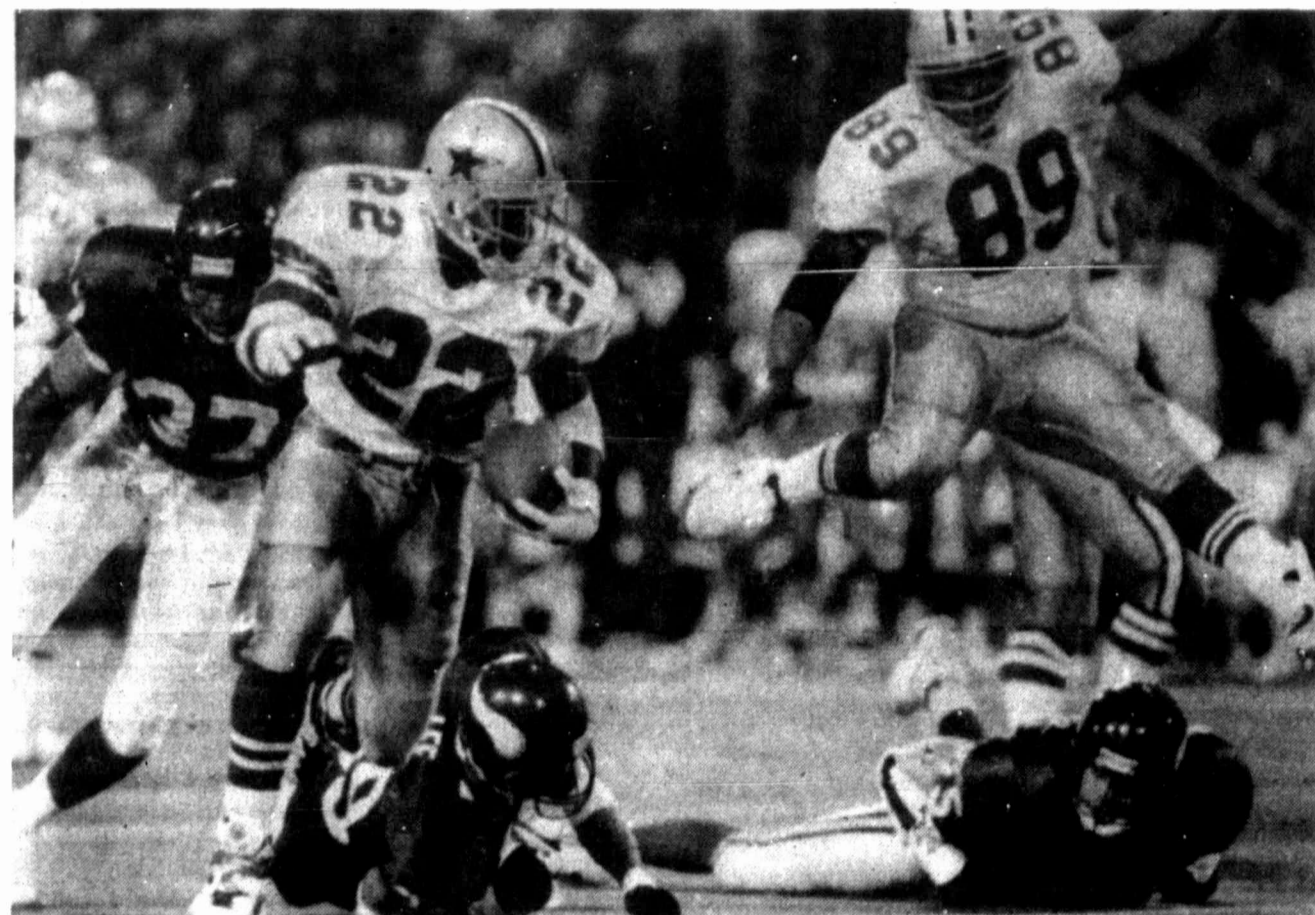

"No."

Anything else?

"We've got to get better."

The Vikings (6-7) should have such problems. In losing a fourth straight home game for the first time since 1984, the defending NFC Central champions fell two games behind Detroit and Green Bay. Minnesota is one game behind Chicago and New Orleans in the race for the final wildcard spot.

"They're talking about how they've been a little frustrated," Sean

Dallas running back Emmitt Smith (22) leaves Minnesota defenders Lamar McGriggs, left, Carl Lee (39) and Jack Del Rio, right, behind for a 22-yard gain in the third quarter in Minneapolis Sunday.

Salisbury said. "We'd all like to be that frustrated."

Dallas players, however, understood Johnson's message.

Sure, he was probably blowing some smoke. But Johnson did see some defensive flaws. And he doesn't want the Cowboys — a cocky lot, indeed — to get too full of themselves.

"You've got to realize, he's probably the best psychologist you'll ever see," defensive back James Washington said. "He's going to make us fight. He wants to win and he wants to win big."

Said cornerback Kevin Smith, whose fourth-quarter interception of Jim McMahon sealed the victory: "I think it was just a lack of attitude. I think we were too content with a big lead. We relaxed at times and Jimmy doesn't like that. Next time, we'll try to catch it before it happens."

In other words, when you're the Super Bowl champs, you can't just be satisfied with wins. You need more.

To win it all, you need to have it all.

"I don't think we're close to last year," said Irvin, who caught eight passes for 125 yards and a touchdown but also dropped a TD pass. "It was a good day offensively, but not a great day. When we have a great day, people will know about it."

Their most recent day was pretty convincing.

Aikman completed 19 of 29 passes for 208 yards, Emmitt Smith rushed for 104 yards and a touchdown and Eddie Murray made field goals of 52, 51 and 46 yards. Murray became the first Cowboy — and 25th kicker NFL history — to make two field goals of 50 yards or longer in a game.

Dallas, which had played poorly in going 2-2 since the win over New York, scored 17 second-quarter points after spotting Minnesota a 6-3 lead after one.

Houston rallies to beat Browns

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — The Houston defense continues winning games while losing personnel.

As injuries mounted and their seven-game winning streak appeared in jeopardy, the Oilers rallied behind Al Del Greco's four field goals and an inspired defensive performance for a 19-17 victory over Cleveland on Sunday.

The Oilers (9-4) trailed 17-16 going into the fourth quarter until Del Greco's 25-yarder put Houston ahead. The defense made it stand, extending the NFL's longest winning streak to eight; the Oilers haven't won eight in a row since 1961.

It was a brutally played game, one the Browns (6-7) had to win, but didn't.

"It's one of those games that if you don't intend to play hard, you shouldn't show up for the game," Cleveland's Eric Metcalf said. "They played hard and we played harder, but it doesn't show in the scoreboard."

The victory was costly for the Oilers, who could win their second AFC Central title in three years by beating the Steelers in Pittsburgh next Sunday.

Free safety Marcus Robertson, tied for second in the NFL with seven interceptions, was lost for the season with a ruptured tendon in his right knee.

"You have injuries and you have to go on," defensive coordinator Buddy Ryan said. "I'm still going to cry about it for 10-12 hours. Outside of Warren Moon, the person we can least afford to lose is Marcus Robertson."

Robertson is the third defensive back the Oilers have lost this season. Mike Dumas suffered an Achilles tendon injury in training camp and is out for the season. Cornerback Darryll Lewis also is out for the year with a knee injury.

"We'll have to go out on the street and find somebody," Ryan said.

"You have to give our players credit. They've been on a high for the last four or five weeks so you knew there would be a lull. Plus there was some (bad) coaching. I made some bad calls so they had a lot to overcome."

Webster Slaughter, who entered the game as the AFC's leading receiver with 74 catches, also had to leave the game with rib injuries he suffered a week ago.

Del Greco has made 23 of 27 field goals this season. Three of his four misses have been from 50-plus yards.

His first three kicks were from 27, 48 and 49 yards and Warren Moon completed a 4-yard TD pass to Spencer Tillman for a 16-point run that gave the Oilers a 16-10 halftime lead.

The Browns took a 10-0 first quarter lead on Metcalf's 49-yard TD catch from Vinny Testaverde and Matt Stover's 53-yard field goal.

Cleveland, trying desperately to mount a winning streak after beating New Orleans last week, took the lead one more time on Testaverde's perfectly thrown 28-yard pass to Mark Carrier.

But Cris Dishman's interception early in the fourth quarter, his fourth in as many games, set up Del Greco's go-ahead kick.

Palmeiro signs with Baltimore

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Power hitter Rafael Palmeiro said he doesn't feel pressure to perform any superhuman feats for the Baltimore Orioles, who are handing him the club's biggest free agent contract ever.

"I don't think I have to prove anything," Palmeiro said Sunday night from his Texas home. "I think I've proven what I can do as a player."

"I'm not going up there to be Superman. I'm going up there to do what I've always done — be consistent, play every day and do everything I can to win."

The 29-year-old first baseman, coming off career highs of 37 home runs and 105 RBIs with the Texas Rangers, agreed Sunday night to a multiyear contract believed to be worth about $30 million.

The specific terms of the contract will be disclosed when Palmeiro appears at a news conference today at Camden Yards.

About a fourth of the total guarantee will reportedly be deferred over five years starting after the 1998 season, making the present-day value of the deal closer to $27.5 million.

Palmeiro made $4.55 million in 1993. Because the Rangers didn't offer salary arbitration last week, the Orioles won't lose any draft picks.

Palmeiro is the second prominent free agent the Orioles have signed in the offseason. Pitcher Sid Fernandez, formerly with the New York Mets, got a three-year, $9 million deal Nov. 22.

Palmeiro hit .295 for the Rangers last season. He had hoped to re-sign with Texas, but the Rangers signed Will Clark, his former teammate at Mississippi State, to a $30 million, five-year deal Nov. 22.

"It would have been nice for things to work out (in Texas), but I'm not looking back. I'm an Oriole now," Palmeiro said.

Palmeiro's agent, Jim Bronner, negotiated exclusively for the past 10 days with the Orioles, who made an attempt to sign Clark on Nov. 21 only to have the talks break down.

Murray grabs 5th straight all-around title

By The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — Ty Murray of Stephenville won his fifth straight all-around title and added a bull riding title Sunday at the $2.7 million National Finals Rodeo despite a strong run by Daryl Mills of Canada.

Murray won the bull riding championship by a scant $95 with $124,659 in bull riding earnings this year. Murray set a record for season earnings with his $297,896 haul in three events.

Some 170,297 people attended the 10-day event at Thomas and Mack Center at UNLV.

Bareback rider Deb Greenough of Red Lodge, Mont., claimed his first world championship Sunday, boosted by an 80-point, $12,002 win in the NFR's final round. Greenough collected $128,740 — a bareback riding earnings record — on the season.

Team roper Bobby Hurley of Ceres, Calif., also won his first world championship after he and his roping partner, Allen Bach of Merced, Calif., won the final five rounds of the NFR. Hurley earned $86,858.

Another first-time champ was saddle bronc rider Dan Mortensen of Manhattan, Mont., who earned $150,062 in 1993.

The $26,104 prize for the quickest overall steer wrestling time vaulted Steve Duhon of Opelousas, La., to his third world title. Duhon earned $113,450 this season.

Calf roper Joe Beaver of Huntsville, Texas, earned $118,787 for his fifth calf roping title. Troy Pruitt of Minatare, Neb., the 1990 world champion, climbed from 15th place to second with $68,111 in NFR earnings that boosted his season total to $112,277.

Charmayne Rodman of Galt, Calif., won her 10th consecutive barrel racing title with $103,610 in season earnings, stretching her record for most world championships in a single event. Bull rider Don Gay and calf roper Dean Oliver each have eight titles.

Twila Heller falls from her horse after rounding the third barrel in the Barrel Racing competition when her reins caught the front hoof of her horse. Heller had no score in the 10th and final round of the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas Sunday.

Elway, Broncos maintain Mile High mastery of Kansas City

By The Associated Press

Joe Montana and John Elway. A chance to clinch a playoff berth. A long-running hex.

Kansas City's visit to Denver on Sunday had every ingredient for a classic NFL matchup. And in one of those rare instances this season, the game lived up to expectations.

Elway threw three touchdown passes to Shannon Sharpe, the final one set up by Reggie Rivers' blocked punt, as he outdueled Joe Montana, who had a pair of TD passes, in Denver's 27-21 victory. The Broncos (8-5) rallied from a 14-3 second-quarter deficit for their 11th straight home win against the Chiefs (9-4), who still lead the AFC West by a game over Denver and the Los Angeles Raiders.

"After it's over and you win, you can reflect on how great a game it was and how great the quarterbacks were," Denver coach Wade Phillips said.

Elway hit 20 of 30 for 221 yards. He found Sharpe for touchdowns of 9, 14 and 6 yards.

"There were times I didn't know who was playing where," Elway said. "Shannon was the one constant. He just played off his instinct."

Montana's instincts were pretty good, too. He finished 17 of 30 for 237 yards, with TDs to Jonathan Hayes and Willie Davis.

"The Broncos and Chiefs both played their tails off. It came down to one play — the blocked punt," said KC coach Marty Schottenheimer, now 0-7 at Mile High.

Rivers blocked the punt, then wrestled with punter Bryan Barker for the ball. Barker knocked it 20 yards back toward his own goal and Denver ended up starting at the Chiefs' 11. Elway and Sharpe connected for the go-ahead score.

The Chiefs' Marcus Allen had a 4-yard run for his 14th touchdown of the season and his NFL-leading 11th rushing TD.

In other games, it was: the New York Giants 20, Indianapolis 6 as the Giants became the first team to qualify for the playoffs; Dallas 37, Minnesota 20; Detroit 27, Phoenix 14; the Los Angeles Raiders 27, Seattle 23; Tampa Bay 13, Chicago 10; Green Bay 20, San Diego 13; Buffalo 10, Philadelphia 7; Houston 19, Cleveland 17; the Los Angeles Rams 23, New Orleans 20; and New England 7, Cincinnati 2.

On Saturday, Atlanta took San Francisco 27-24 and the New York Jets edged Washington 3-0.

Tonight, Pittsburgh plays at Miami.

Giants 20, Colts 6

The Giants have been steady if not spectacular all year with a dose of good fortune. That often leads to the playoffs, as it has for the Giants (10-3).

New York won its fifth straight as Rodney Hampton rushed for a career-high 173 yards and a TD.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1993

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are finally getting the respect you deserve. Accept the limelight, enjoy the support of a partner and know you have every reason to be happy. Significant others touch base with you and want to talk. Concentrate on your needs. Take responsibility in a career matter. Tonight: Work late.***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your creativity helps you see a matter in a new light. A partner lets you know how much you are adored. Be open to change and ready to make a needed adjustment. Your awareness of what works and what doesn't makes a big difference. Tonight: Let your popularity do the speaking.***

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you are willing to defer to another, you will find this an exceptional day. However, you might decide to call in sick or do something else out of the ordinary. Choose love of life over the routine or dull. Know how much you are cared about. Tonight: Be your magnetic self.***

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You feel happier than you have in a long time. Your creativity and understanding are high, and you can make points clearly at work. Be aware of how important your home situation is to your well-being. Opportunities pop up out of nowhere. Tonight: Work late.***

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You need to take a break from the grueling pace. You get a chance to maximize an important opportunity. Creativity and understanding are high and help you gain an awareness of where you are headed. Tonight: Go for the exciting.***

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Work on settling a sticky domestic situation. All will work out if you are loving and are willing to take the next step. Knowing what works for you is crucial. Tonight: Relax.***

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You're on a roll and can make your opinion count. Creative options abound, and you feel able to connect on a deeper level. Be prepared for the unexpected. Touch base with a family member before you take an important action. Tonight: Out and about.***

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It is clear you have gone overboard in a matter but don't really care. Use your instincts concerning a financial matter and you will land on your feet. Your creativity and understanding are high, and there is no stopping you. Tonight: A little shopping spree.***

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You have it all together now. Because so much is happening so quickly, you have many decisions to make. Count on your ability to adjust to changes. Your charisma does all the work today. Tonight: Smile.***

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be less difficult or less intense. You are following strong instincts concerning your career and will fare well as a result. Contact a loved one and you will get your just rewards. Tonight: Don't tell anybody what's going on.***

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Today's focus is on long-distance communications. You need to take some time out and concentrate on your bottom-line needs. Tonight: Make the most of what's happening.***

IF DEC. 14 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Expect this to be an unusual year in which your instincts will be on target. Follow-through will count a lot, and you will need to develop a clearer awareness of your needs. Your sensitivity will be high. Financial matters will be highlighted. Be sure of what you want, because you are entering a phase that will allow you to make it all happen. Reserve some time for "internal housecleaning" to make sure that your decision making is in sync with your life. A CAPRICORN understands your needs better than you.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Phone call led to life together

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you asked your readers to write to you if they ever had one telephone call that changed their lives. Well, I did, and here's my story:

In January 1966, I was a senior at the University of South Carolina in Columbia. One Tuesday night, I strolled into a sorority sister's room, and she was on the phone talking to her fiancé's friend, Dennis. Out of the blue, she just handed me the phone and introduced us. We "clicked" immediately, and he asked if he could call me again. I said, "Sure, call me anytime."

Well, on Friday, Dennis called at midnight and we talked for six hours, but by 3 a.m., I knew that he was the man I was going to marry. In fact, I proposed to him, and he accepted! Mind you, Abby, we had never even SEEN each other. He had no idea what I looked like, nor I him.

Dennis was a highway patrolman and worked six nights a week, so we couldn't arrange to meet until Tuesday. After we met in person, we both knew it was love at first sight.

Most of our courtship was meeting at a local restaurant for dinner, with friends joining us so I could get out of the dormitory. (In the '60s, women couldn't leave the campus at night unless they were accompanied by a male escort or two females.)

We had only three real dates when we eloped on March 11, 1966, and we've been living happily ever after. —CONNIE AND DENNIS PARKER, COLUMBIA, S.C.

DEAR CONNIE AND DENNIS: As you now know, I phoned for permission to use your names, and ask if there were any children. You proudly told me that you had one daughter, Amanda, presently a college student in Madrid, Spain. Congratulations!

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Asian-American From Montgomery, Ala." who complained about strangers who asked him where he was from, reminded me of an amusing incident I witnessed several years ago when I lived in Canton, Ohio.

I was waiting in the office of a dental clinic when a young dentist of Asian descent came out to talk briefly with the clerk. The gentleman next to me seemed fascinated with this situation, and immediately started to tell the dentist about his experiences as a soldier in the Far East after World War II.

The young dentist listened politely, but obviously wanted to return to his patient. The man, however, would not release the dentist from conversing, and finally asked him where he was from.

"I came here from Cleveland," the dentist replied softly. "No! I mean where are you from originally?" insisted the ex-G.I. "Oh! Originally I came from New Jersey," replied the dentist. End of conversation. —GENE CONNELLY, BROOKSVILLE, FLA.
