Crooker says he'll back downtown jail

By TIM JONES Staff Writer

A downtown city-county jail site has gained support from Commissioner W.B. "Bill" Crooker, making a downtown site a stronger contender against the remote Douglas/10th street

"We need to get with the city council, city manager, assistant city manager and the mayor together with us if we are going to do this," Crooker said.

City and county officials will probably be meeting next Monday at 10:30 a.m. to jointly determine where and what kind of jail, law enforcement center and/or juvenile detention facility will get built in Big Spring.

Monday's regular commissioners court meeting was attended by 30 people as the final site feasibility report to the Howard County Commissioners' by Aguirre Associates' architects demonstrated six possible configurations. The in-depth study accurately breaks down all the costs to facilitate joint discussion of the construction project.

The report figured a $3,090,767 jail construction cost figure into every option. The plans are structured around building a 96 bed facility with a pod to allow for expansion to a 144 bed capacity.

"On your mark, get set, go!" Then it's over. A split second race - a pop, a whooshing noise, and just that quickly, it's

This was the scene last Friday at Coahoma High School in the gymnasium during the "Metric 500."

The "500" as it has become known in CHS tradition, is a special race involving cars designed and built by the students of industrial technology instructor Mark McLean.

McLean explains there is definitely no "happenstance" involved in the design and completion of the cars. He explains that each student must follow a very specific set of 26 different criteria and each car must be built using the metric system.

The cars come as a single block of balsa wood with a kit containing the wheels and all necessary parts for the vehicle. The challenge to the student is to convert the specifications to the metric system and come up with the fastest design. "It's for the "fastest" car. That individual gets a about a ten day project," explains McLean.

The cars are propelled by a single CO2 cartridge similar to a BB gun cylinder, according to McLean. The cartridge is placed in a cavity at the rear of the vehi-ed and the winning car advances on.

The average real time for the cars is 55 miles per hour on a track of 66 feet in length. The winning cars will reach speeds up to 65 or 70 miles per hour.

"The trick is to design a body that won't crack under those conditions," explains McLean. "The car is disqualified if the body cracks."

The race continues until one final vehicle emerges the victor, receiving the prize special bonus by being able to race McLean who has designed and built his

This year, the fastest car honor went to Jackie Lang. In addition, a prize was awarded to the car with the "best appearance." Ronnie Blakely won that one for his creativity in creating a purple roadster with flame decals on each side.

"That was a tough one," McLean explained. "We had all kinds of entries trucks, cars, roadsters. You name it.

This was the fourth year for CHS students to take part in the "Metric 500." The winners will advance to compete in regional and state competition.

So, what about the McLean - Lang match? McLean "lucked out."

"We ran out of time," he explained. "I guess we'll never know.

TAAS testing 'tough'

By KELLIE JONES

Staff Writer

Taking tests in school is never easy, there is a lot preparation a student must do in order to pass.

Taking the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills is no exception.

Fourth graders in the Big Spring Independent School District recently completed the essay portion of their TAAS test, with more to come before school lets out the last part of May.

Teachers and students prepare all year long for the TAAS tests which can be a very stressful time, especially as the time draws nearer to take

In fact, teachers begin preparation in first grade by teaching their students how to write complete sentences with correct spelling and punctuation. First graders must know how to write five complete sentences on one topic. "By second grade, students learn how to write a complete paragraph; by third grade multiple paragraphs and by the time they reach fourth grade, the students are ready to write a five paragraph essay which includes an introduction, three body paragraphs and a conclusion paragraph," according to Moss Elementary fourth grade teacher Jeannine McKimmey.

"There are five types of essays each fourth grader must know how to write for the TAAS test. They must know what narrative, persuasive, how-to, classificatory and descriptive essays are. We have no idea which one will be on the test so children must be well-prepared in all five," said McKimmey.

McKimmey says generally fourth graders end up writing a narrative essay, in eighth grade a classificatory one and for the exit TAAS, a persuasive essay in order to graduate from high school.

"It was a stressful time for me, the kid and their parents while preparing for the essay part of the TAAS. But we must maintain a certain score or it shows that the school system is not meeting state standards," said McKimmey. Although the essay portion of the

GOP's guns blast Richards on gun control

By TIM JONES

Texan Republican voters last Tuesday supported by a 3-to-1 margin a handgun proposition GOP officials are calling a rebuke of Gov. Ann Richards' veto of a similar measure last year.

Richards' campaign called the non-binding referendum a political stunt.

The proposition read: Should the citizens of Texas be allowed to vote on the following question: "The Department of Public Safety should be authorized to adopt rules for licensing and training qualified citizens to carry handguns for self protection?"

Last June, Richards vetoed a measure that would have let Texans vote on a non-binding question that would have asked whether they should be allowed to carry

At that time, she called the proposal a taxpayer-fund-ed opinion poll for gun interests, expressing a belief that such legislation would make Texas more dangerous. Her veto effectively killed the bill, and Richards was backed by law enforcement, crime victims and other

Former Reagan administration press secretary James Brady, who was shot during David Hinckley's assassina-tion attempt on Reagan, praised the Texas governor's

An unnamed sergeant with the Howard County Sheriff's Office took a somewhat non-commital stance when asked about the topic. "I'm not a politician," the deputy explained. "I'm a law enforcement official, and as such, I will wholeheartedly support whatever action the Texas Legislature takes toward gun control. I only speak for myself."

Travis Pate, with Dibrell's Gun Ammunition Reloading and Shooting Supply Store, is a member of the Western Hills Sportsmans Club and the National Rifle Association. Pate says gun control laws "have no effect on whether or not real criminals have guns. They can easily buy a gun under the current laws, and if that's any hassle, they'll just steal one.

"Under present law, the interpretation of illegal possesion is left up to the individual discretion of law enforcement officials," Pate explained. "What Richard's needs to understand is that there are plenty of people in Texas who want to get a chance to vote about this issue. I think the honest citizen should have as many rights as the criminal." Pate said that women are carrying handguns "illegally" for their protection in today's society. "They're kind of forced to break the law, as it is written today," he said. Currently, Texas law does not allow citizens to be licensed to carry concealed handguns. It restricts Texans to keeping handguns at home, carrying them from a purchase, taking them on a hunting or fishing trip, or if they are traveling. Please see GUNS, page 2

Republican gubernatorial nominee George W. Bush has said he supports allowing voters to decide the issue, and several GOP lawmakers plan to introduce legislation to allow that in the 1995 regular session, Hughes said. Howard County Republican Party Chairman Everett

"Focus on the circumstances that lead to the loss of moral self-restraint, while moving against the violent criminals who are currently on the street,' is what our party platform says," Binder explained. Binder said the current national legislative gun control effort, the highly touted Brady Bill, doesn't adequately address the fact that 30 percent of murders annually are committed by criminals who at the time of their attack are out on bail, or bond, or are on probation and parole.

Binder added that 40 percent of convicted violent offenders are given probationary sentences and serve no time behind bars.

AUSTIN — Government agencies have been warned by top Texas leaders that they must plan their budgets without hoping for a tax increase in the next legislative session, despite the demand for state services.

Texans "are firm in their opposition to higher new taxes," said a letter to agency chiefs signed by Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, House Speaker Pete Laney and other top lawmakers who serve on the Legislative Budget

"You must now exercise the responsibility entrusted to you and decide the best possible way to proceed," they told the agency heads Monday.

The leaders conceded that when lawmakers start next January to draw up a 1996-97 budget, "We can be assured that revenues ... will be insufficient to fund the expected demand for state services."

But they told agencies not to request additional funds for the budget year except to comply with court mandates or settlements, meet constitutional or federal requirements, or in an emergency.

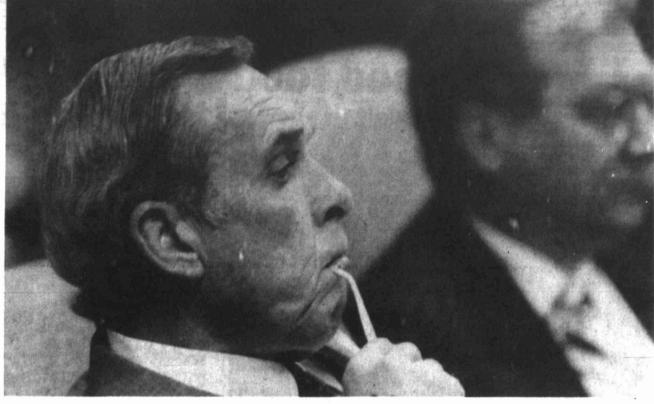

Public schools, expansion of state prisons and jails, and federal requirements on health and human services top the coming budget's demands, the letter said.

Bullock cited an estimated $2 billion increase needed to fund public schools, another $2 billion likely necessary for health and human services, and $1 billion just to operate

"We've got a real big foot in a small shoe," said Bullock, who presides over the Senate. "It'll be a tight fit, but ... it will be done.

The letter follows a similar one sent to agencies last week by Laney, Bullock and Gov. Ann Richards.

The budget board also reviewed a comptroller's report saying agencies that must shave $100 million from their general revenue spending by

"I'm kind of under the impression they think this (budget reduction) is not going to happen, and as we all know, it is going to happen," said Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont. "It would be much easier for them to do it rather than us. But we will do it."

Jurors to be asked feelings on abortion

HOUSTON (AP) - Prospective jurors in a high-profile abortion lawsuit have been asked to answer 66 questions exploring how they feel about abortion.

On Monday, 110 potential jurors filled out detailed questionnaires to help lawyers determine any biases that could influence the outcome of a lawsuit filed against some anti-abortion groups accusing them of violating a judge's order not to block clinics during Houston's Republican National Convention in 1992.

Questions in addition to their attitude about abortion, prospective jurors were asked how much news coverage they have seen on the issue, what they know of violent acts at abortion clinics and related matters.

State District Judge Eileen F. O'Neill, who will preside at the trial next week, had ruled previously that potential women jurors did not have to reveal on the query form whether they've ever had an abortion.

Attorneys for Planned Parenthood and doctors suing the protesters had argued that the question is intrusive and goes beyond a citizen's duty to serve on a jury.

C. Kelly Kirk, 24, who worked part time at a dairy near Stephenville, had been treated since March 1 at Harris Methodist Hospital in Fort Worth. He died Friday and was buried Monday in Decatur.

Kirk, a graduate of Chico High School and Tarleton State, had won numerous agricultural awards at the State Fair and at livestock shows in San Antonio and Houston.

He had been hospitalized for an undiagnosed respiratory illness and had been treated against the possibility of hantavirus.

His father, James Kirk of Decatur, said the death may be related to arthritis medications that his son had taken for years.

DALLAS (AP) - Officials with state lotteries in California, Florida and Pennsylvania are looking longingly toward Texas, where $75 million worth of Lotto mania is spreading

"We've been in somewhat of a dry spell in terms of mega-jackpots,' said Bob Taylor, spokesman for the California Lottery, which had an alltime record pot of $118.8 million in April 1991. "Seventy-five million dollars is indeed an exciting situation."

Mark Schreiber with Pennsylvania's lottery said his state hasn't had a decent pot since October. But he added that Pennsylvania has offered games of chance since 1972, so it takes some time for the excitement to build and the jackpots to grow.

"It's funny the way the game works," he said. "So enjoy it while you can.

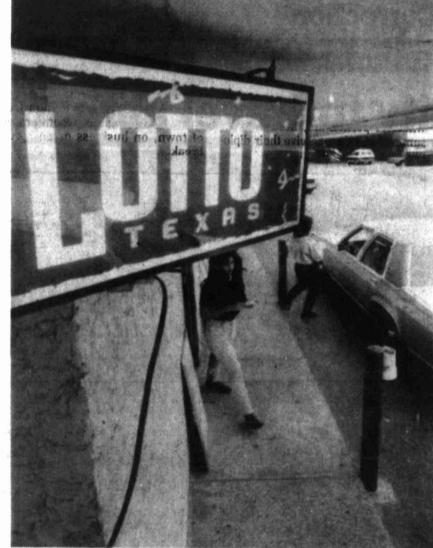

Agency eyes complaints against nursing homes

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials say staff shortages are largely responsible for a backlog of more than 900 complaints about health and safety problems at Texas nursing homes.

The oldest of the 933 complaints was filed with the Department of Human Services nearly a year ago, the Austin American-Statesman reported Monday.

But DHS officials said the backlog doesn't include reports of life- or health-threatening conditions. The agency must investigate such complaints within 24 hours or two weeks. depending on the urgency of the complaint.

Good grades equals good food

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

Jumburrito Restaurant's Big Spring location is jumping on the bandwagon to provide school children with an incentive to earn good grades.

Owner Jose Cuervas of Midland adopted the incentive program in his Odessa and Midland restaurants in 1986 and decided to expand it to serve children in Big Spring.

What is the incentive? Free tacos! Any child that earns an A on his or her report card can receive the free food, up to three tacos. If the student makes four or more As, they can enter a drawing for a $100 cash prize. Of course, those students making lots of As also get the free tacos.

"We are real concerned about education and usually there are numerous awards given out for sports, but none for academic success, so we started the program," said Cuervas.

Since Jumburrito has been in town only two months, residents probably do not know about the free taco program. The latest sixweek grading period ended when report cards went out on March 2. "If the child received an A on his or her card in March or any other time during the school year, they can bring in a copy of their report card and receive the tacos," said Big Spring manager Jose

"The kids that have come into our Odessa and Midland stores are so proud of themselves and are beaming when they receive the tacos for making good grades. This helps the kids to succeed and the parents are so supportive," said Cuervas.

"We give out about 2,500 tacos per location every six weeks over

If a student has not made an A yet, there are still two more chances to win free food and register to win $100 in cash. The next six-week grading period ends April 20 and the last one is May 26. Students should bring in their report cards from any BSISD school and show the card to a Jumburrito employee.

Good Reef

Where do retired airplanes go? To Florida, where else?

At least, that's where one old 727 Boeing airplane recently retired. The plane — stripped of its doors and windows - was lowered to the ocean floor off the coast of Florida. It is now winging it as an artificial coral reef!

Sounds plane crazy? Not at all, says Ben Mostkoff, head of Florida's artificial reef program. Since 1981, 89 ships, barges and bridges have been turned into underwater homes for marine plants and animals. The 727 is the first plane to be shipped

So what do you call a fish that lives in a 727? A flying fish!

What Causes Shooting Stars to Burn Out?

When people see a streak of light flash across the sky, they call it a shooting star. But it isn't a star at all. It's a big chunk of rock. This rock, called a meteoroid, can be as big as a boulder or as small as a grain of sand.

Meteoroids are particles from space, sometimes comets or asteroids. They pass through the Earth's atmosphere. When they do, they are moving at very fast speeds. As they race across the sky, they smash against air molecules.

Programs offer teens opportunity to travel abroad

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Jarrett Seals says he can't begin to enumerate all he learned during a summer trip to Brazil.

"For one thing, I became fluent in Portuguese and learned how Brazilians see the world. I began to think globally and started to question things in my own life that I had never thought about before."

The New Yorker, a freshman at Wesleyan University in Middletown. Conn., went to Brazil as a 16-yearold as part of World Learning's Experiment in International Living

He spent three weeks in Brazil. sharing experiences with a dozen peers of various ethnic backgrounds from around the country. Students lived apart, each with an assigned family, but met daily for classes, discussion groups and sightseeing.

'That summer really broadened my horizons and changed me totally as a person," Seals says. "I got to know about another culture, but I also got to know about being American.'

World Learning Inc.'s Summer Abroad Program organizes supervised programs both at home and abroad — with language study, community service and ecological adventure components. Students aged 14 to 20 are eligible, but most are high schoolers.

'The program gives young Americans from various socio-economic and ethnic backgrounds a chance to meet each other while they're learning about, are saturated in, another culture," says Mike Koonce, director of the Summer Abroad Program.

"It's the sort of experience that elevates one's sense of identity and promotes self-confidence," he says. "It makes goals clearer and motivates one to work harder to achieve them."

Founded in 1932 as The Experiment in International Living, World Learning Inc., a non-profit group in Brattleboro, Vt., claims 45,000 Summer Abroad alumni, including singer Tracy Chapman, Peace Corps founder Sargent Shriver, actor Larry Hagman and Newsweek columnist Jonathan Alter.

This year, there are 17 destinations in Africa, Asia, Australia, the Caribbean, Europe and Latin

Some of the programs require one or two years of language study.

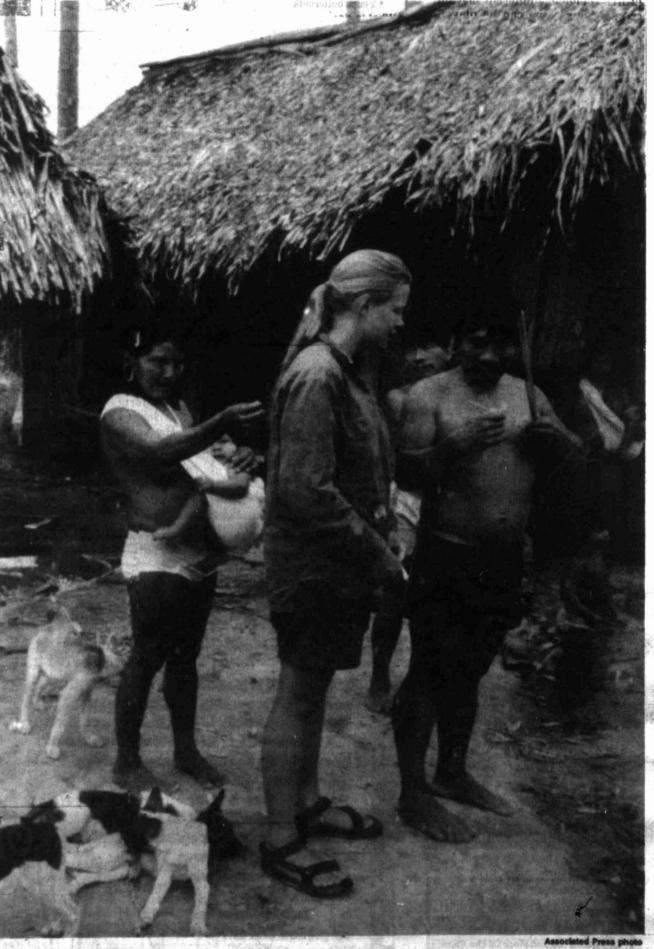

The programs last three to five weeks. Most begin June 28, with supervised travel from Boston, Los Angeles, Miami, Mexico City and New York, depending upon destina-

Fees range from $1,900 to $5,000, including round-trip airfare from designated gateway cities in the United States, travel within the host country, orientation and room and board with host families. Fees also include hotels, meals and admission to program-related events while traveling as a group, plus health and accident insurance. Round-trip travel between home and gateway cities is additional.

Scholarships, based on need and merit, are available, with a good share of the money coming from the DeWitt Wallace Youth Travel Enrichment Fund established by the co-founder of Reader's Digest.

"Many scholarships are granted to inner-city students," says John Wright, the program's financial director. "We think of this as an investment in the future. We want to help make it possible for these kids to accomplish their goals."

PLOT SUMMARY: The mirages rise up off the asphalt as you open the rusty gate. You let the ball slip out from under your arm as you pull the gate closed behind you. As the ball hits the ground, all the other players stop their little games and

You catch the ball as it bounces up, plant your feet and land a fullcourt shot. As the basketball swishes through the net, you calmly say "Anybody up for a game?" All the guys line up against the fence, you survey them all and finally pick your partner.

Two other guys walk up to you. "Yeah, we'll play," they say as they look you and your partner over.

They get the ball first. The bigger of the two tries to drive the lane, but you're there. You elbow him in the face and he falls flat. Your teammate grabs the ball, runs down court and slams the ball into the basket so hard, the pole wobbles. The guy you laid out gets up and chases after the ball. Real men don't call fouls. You get hurt, you take it in stride and get back into the game.

This is what "Charles Barkley: Shut up and Jam" is all about. This ain't no sissy sport, this is street ball. So quit your whining. Shut up and jam!

STRUCTURE: "Barkley: Shut Up and Jam" is the roughest two-ontwo basketball action you'll ever see, so in order to play well you're going to want the best two-man team you can find. Shut Up and Jam offers a selection of 16 players, each with unique statistics and a look all his own. Among them is the legendary king of the court, Sir Charles Barkley.

The player's stats show, on a scale from one to eight, their speed, ability to sink 2- and 3-point shots, slam dunk, steal the ball and snatch a rebound. Once you've picked your players, it's off to play.

But where? This game features EIGHT completely different playing courts! Your game can be played anywhere from the spectator-filled indoor arena in Phoenix to the backalley court in the ghettos of Brooklyn, or even to the sandy beaches of Miami, Fla.

Every game you play will be a bone-crunching feat of speed, strength and stamina, but you can choose to play your team in any of three different game options. You can play in a single game just for fun, or you can go head-to-head with another team in a series of either five or seven consecutive games If you get really good, you can pit your team against everyone else in a giant tournament to prove onceand-for-all who's the fastest, the toughest, the best player on the streets.

BRITT'S COMMENTS: "Barkley: Shut Up and Jam" is street basketball at its finest. It's pure 3-point, slam dunk, high above the rim, norules street ball. I have never enjoyed a game, especially a sports game, as much as I have this.

It's incredibly fun, easy to play and master and every game is different. For even more fun, a friend can join in as a teammate or a competitor. If you buy a multiplayer control adapter, you and your friends can play all four players at once!

This is the most enjoyable game I have played in a very long time, and a definite must for any Genesis BRIAN'S COMMENTS: This game was really fun to play! I loved to watch the characters do their super dunks. The only real downfall of this game is the music. It is very repetitive and is quite boring.

Other than that, "Shut Up and Jam" is a great game. The best part is that you can team up with a friend and really blow the competition away. Even if you aren't a sports game fan, try this game out. You'll like it.

HAPPY ST. PATRICK'S DAY! March 17

Are you planning to wear something green or even a shamrock on St. Patrick's Day? Many of us celebrate it — even if we're not Irish!

Catholic patron saint of Ireland.

of Maryland was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence

Charles Carroll

One reason we celebrate this day is that there are so many U.S. folks who trace their roots back to Ireland Let's find out more about Irish

Americans. Early arrivals The Irish were among the early settlers of the United States Many paid for their passage over by agreeing to work as servants for a certain number of years after they got here.

The Irish were the first group to immigrate to the United States in large numbers.

The first big wave (or group) arrived after the potato famine that struck Ireland in 1845.

A statue of an Irish girl, Annie Moore, stands at Ellis Island. In 1892, she became the first immigrant to enter the United States through the immigration station on this island in New York Harbor. By that time in our history, millions of Irish had already arrived.

The Irish peasants depended on the potato as their main food source. When a blight hit the potato crops, they had nothing to eat. Some starved. Many came to the United States and Canada.

How many Irish?

Every 10 years Uncle Sam takes a census, or counts to see how many people live here. (These figures are from 1990.)

Total U.S. population: 249,000,000

Uncle Sam asked people about their ancestors. Where did they come from?

More people said they are of German ancestry than any other group:

• 58,000,000.

The Irish were second: 39,000,000.

Of our total population, 15.6 percent said they were Irish.

Where are they now?

The following is a list of states where the percent of people with an Irish background is equal to or above the national average. Can you

Teacher's Guide

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school. For use with issue: Irish Americans

Main idea: This issue is about Irish Americans. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty, with the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following:

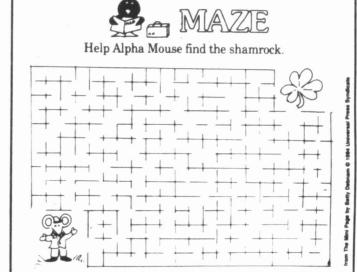

1. We associate the color green with St. Patrick's Day. Look through your newspaper for pictures of things that are green. Have a race with a friend to see who can find the most.

2. Design a St. Patrick's Day card 3. Discuss the following: Why is St. Patrick's Day so important to Irish Americans? Where did your ancestors come from? Is your state one of those from the list with a lot of Irish Americans? Can you think of any more famous Irish

Americans to add to the list? 4. Look in the weather section of your newspaper to find the weather in a city

5. Find the following words: contributions, heritage, settle, famine, laborers, background, toiled, immigrant, oversee. Define and make up a new sentence for

6. Make a graph of the states' percentages of people with an Irish background.

Most Irish moved to the big cities in the East.

They did not have the money to buy farms and become farmers. Also, farming had been so hard in Ireland, most wanted to do

Book tells story of Arthur Ashe, daughter, illness

By The Associated Press

"Daddy and Me" is a photo story of tennis star Arthur Ashe, who died of AIDS-related complications in 1993, and his 6-year-old daughter, Camera. The black-and-white photos were taken by Ashe's wife, Jeanne Moutoussamy-Ashe. The text that appears with the photos is written in Camera's words (Alfred A. Knopf).

The book shows a loving relationship between a father and his daughter, as he helps her get dressed for school and she helps him take his medicine.

Moutoussamy-Ashe writes in her author's note: "What you will see here is a portrait of Arthur and Camera as they care for each other on bad days and play together as father and daughter on good days. What you will hear in Camera's own words is that love is the best medi-

Lady Hawks want to keep the score down

By STEVE REAGAN Sportswriter 5 cm

TYLER - Not to put too dramatic of a spin on things, but the Howard College Lady Hawks' first-round game at the national junior college basketball tournament might come down to a clash of wills.

On the one hand, you will have the Florida Community College Stars saying, in effect, "We are going to run you into the ground." And then you have the Lady

Hawks saying, "Uh-uh." Whoever is most successful in exerting their style of play will in all probability survive the firstround game, which begins at noon Wednesday in Wagstaff Gym on the campus of Tyler Junior

The Stars come into their tourney opener sporting an impressive resume, with a 31-0 record and the top ranking in the nation. The Lady Hawks' credentials are only slightly less dazzling, what with a 31-2 record and a No. 3 national

While the records may be similar, the styles of the two teams are different. The Stars, Howard coach Royce Chadwick said, will field a group of superb athletes who will attempt to run and gun their way to a win. The Lady Hawks, by contrast, will rely on their more patient, system-oriented attack.

"If we don't get out-athleted, we've got a shot," Chadwick said. "But if they just spring by us, we might be in big trouble...Our players realize that if we play them one-on-one, we could be in big trouble. We've got to play them as a single unit.

"We can't get into a runand-gun mode with them. We've got to make them play at least 10-15 seconds of defense every trip. We've got to take advantage of our offensive opportunities when they're there, but if they score 90 points, we won't win."

Royce Chadwick

Coach Lyndal Worth's Stars feature two players that have Chadwick particularly concerned: Sue Jones, a 6-foot-3 swing player from Pahokee, Fla., and Tamara Brown, a 5-10 post from Belle Jones plays down low most of the time but can easily pop out for a quick perimeter shot, Chadwick said. Brown provides FCC with effective help inside.

"We can't stop Jones, but maybe we can contain her, hold her to 25 points instead of 45," Chadwick said. "I think it's going to be a game of transistions. They are very streaky. They can run off 20 points in a row on you in a hurry. We've got to limit those streaks to the minimum number possible."

Howard may be going into its tournament opener short-handed. Sophomore guard Becky Barnes came down with the flu Monday and is questionable for Wednesday's game. If Barnes can't play, freshman Tiffany Johnson

Chadwick concedes that his team might face a talent disadvantage as far as the starting lineups go, but he sees two possible advantages for Howard.

"First, we've got three girls who've played in this thing before," he said. "Number two, we've got some players who can come off the bench, and we'll not lose much, so we could have a little more depth than they do."

Another potential plus for Howard is that FCC may succumb to the same high expectations Howard experienced when the Lady Hawks came into the tournament undefeated and ranked No. 1 last season.

"I met with the Florida people and there's no doubt in my mind they're looking toward the winner's bracket," Chadwick said.

"They feel very confident they're going to beat us. If you come out of Florida undefeated and ranked No. 1, there's a certain amount of confidence that comes with the territory. But once the ball leaves the officials' hands, all teams are Chadwick said Howard's advantages can be quickly negated, however, if the Lady Hawks let FCC set the tempo.

"We can't get into a run-and-gun mode with them. We've got to make them play at least 10-15 seconds of defense every trip. We've got to take advantage of our offensive opportunities when they're there, but if they score 90 points, we won't win."

Wednesday's game will be broadcast locally on KBYG-AM

Howard men take first at Odessa rodeo

The Howard College men's rodeo team took first place over the weekend at the Odessa College NIRA

Howard scored 460 points to outdistance runner-up Western Texas College (310) and third-place Vernon Regional Junior College (245).

The two standouts in a sea of standouts for Howard were Brad Stewart and Ross Hataway. Stewart was first in the long and short gorounds to take first overall in steer wrestling, while Hataway did the same in bull riding.

Other top overall finishers for Howard were Jason Freeman (second, bareback riding), Dane Driver (second, steer wrestling), Ross Lowry (third, steer wrestling), Matt Thomas (fourth, steer wrestling), John Folmer (second, team roping), Wayne Folmer (third, team roping) and Brandon Arrington (third, bull riding).

Sidewinders send girls to state meet

Three local girls in the Level 8 and Level 9 competitions at a district championship gymnastics meet in Odessa March 5 performed well enough to qualify for the state championship meet April 30 in Big Spring.

Stephanie Stewart won first allaround in Level 9's 9-11 age group. Stewart won all events - vault, beam, bars and floor - and finished with an all-around score of 34.1.

Casey McKim took first all-around in the Level 9 14-15 age group with a score of 35.55. McKim was first in all events except the beam, where she came in second.

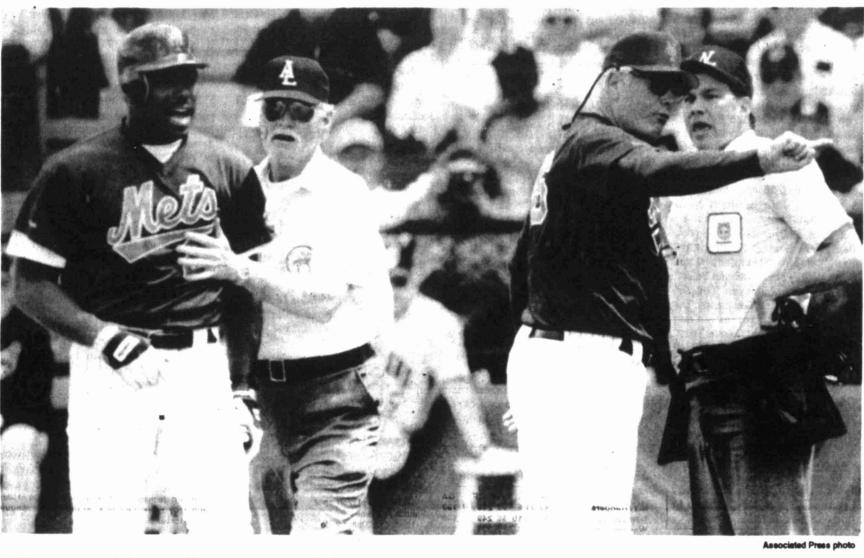

Kristen Myers finished second overall, behind McKim, but she also qualified for the state meet. Myers, whose overall score was 34.3, won the beam and finished second behind McKim in each of the other

In the Level 8 12-13 age group, Allison Miller won all-around with a 33.0. Miller was first in vault and bars, second on the beam and sixth Kaitlyn McCarthy took fifth allaround in the same age group, but like all of the preceding names, she second in floor.

The Sidewinders also had two performers in Level 5. Rachelle Guinn and Laura Newman tied for fifth in the 7-8 age group. In Level 6, Ashlee Taylor took second all-around with a 32.15 - she was first on the bars and third on the beam.

Lawn care, Lady Hawks and Rod Stewart

TYLER - By my best estimation I owe Royce Chadwick about 17 stories, six or seven dinners and a lawn-mowing or two. Chadwick and his Howard College Lady Hawks are, after all, responsible for this working vacation of mine. If they hadn't won the Region V title a few days back, they wouldn't be here for the national junior college tournament, and I'd be stuck in the office instead of looking out the window right now admiring some gorgeous pine trees.

Life is so tough when you're a sportswriter.

So, I do owe a bit of a debt to Chadwick, which isn't so bad except that he is not the least bit hesitant to remind me of that fact on a daily basis. Every time I thank him at the end of an interview, he looks at me and, with a sly smile, says, "You owe

Jordan finally breaks 0-for-life hitting slump

By The Associated Press

SARASOTA, Fla. — Michael Jordan had an infield single to end an 0-for-14 skid and stole his first base with a head-first slide Monday night when a Chicago White Sox split squad beat the Minnesota Twins 9-5.

"I'm glad it's over and done with." Jordan said after teammates celebrated his first professional hit by showering him with beer. "Maybe you guys (reporters) will go home

Jordan didn't start against Minnesota, entering as a defensive replacement in right field in the sixth inning. His hit came in the eighth against right-hander Jeff Innis.

Jordan swung and missed the first pitch from the side-armer, took a ball, then bounced the ball toward third baseman Jeff Carter, who knocked it down, but couldn't throw Jordan out at first.

Twice this spring, Jordan had been called out at first on controversial calls. This time, the crowd of 6,410 at Ed Smith Stadium gave Jordan a standing ovation. They were on their feet again as Jordan scored on Dann Howitt's homer, which gave the White Sox a 9-5 lead.

"I promised myself I was going to step toward the pitcher," Jordan said. "I wasn't going to step toward third base. The natural tendency to see the ball coming from the side is to run away from it. I said, 'I'm going to get a hit. I'm not going to run away from it.' I thought I took a good cut the first time, and I saw his curveball, which was high, and then I just stayed in there for the third pitch.

In his first at-bat, with two outs in the sixth against Shawn Bryant, Jordan walked on a 3-1 pitch. Jordan, who didn't swing during the entire at-bat, then stole second, his first attempted theft this spring.

Jordan slid with his arms outstretched in front of him - not the preferred feet first style - and he was safe as the throw from catcher Matt Walbeck was high and wide.

"I told him he could steal," White Sox manager Gene Lamont said.

"It surprised everybody, didn't it?" Jordan said. "I can't slide any other way. I'm working on the other way.

"I was looking for a sign and then finally Gene said, 'Whatever, whatever,' so I just took it on my own to he said. "Once I saw his move, I had a pretty good jump on it. I don't know if I would've been safe if the throw had been there."

White Sox first baseman Frank Thomas was among the players who doused Jordan with beer after the KISSIMMEE, Fla. - Forgetfulness helped Houston's Doug Drabek become one of the top pitchers in baseball. This season, he hopes to forget his way back to

It's a strong personal policy with the 1990 Cy Young Award winner to disregard past accomplishments, and therefore he will invoke the same amnesia to wipe out his non-accomplishments of 1993.

New pitching coach Mel-Stottlemyre is helping out by not underscoring the negative aspects of Drabek's 9-18 record and 3.79

"He just isn't saying much about it except that last year was last year and this is a new year." Drabek said. "That's kind of the way I look at it too. No matter the kind of year, I had before I just don't think about it.'

Drabek has been adept at forgetting good seasons. The pinnacle came in 1990 when his 22-6 record and 2.76 ERA led Pittsburgh to the NL playoffs and earned him the Cy

Now Drabek must try to blot out the worst season of his major league career, only his third losing ever. His 18 losses led the NL and also marked a career high.

Manager Terry Collins quickly analyzed Drabek's season as trying to be perfect when he didn't get enough run support.
"The minute he thinks he has to be perfect, you get in trouble," Collins said. "Just be the kind of guy that got you where are today, change speeds, throw over the plate, mix pitches, keep the hitter off-balance.

That's the Drabek the Astros want to see this season, not a repeat of last year's homecoming.

The bottom couldn't have fallen out at a worse time. Drabek and Greg Swindell, both with Houston roots, returned triumphantly home last season, expecting to pitch the Astros into pennant contention.

But both pitchers fizzled and now they're on the rebound.

"I look at the new year and see what I have to do," Drabek said. "I was taught early on that you can't do anything about what happened yesterday. I can only take control of what's in front of me.'

It's the same mental approach Drabek tried to carry throughout

Houston Astro pitcher Doug Drabek delivers a pitch during spring training. Drabek, who won the National League Cy Young Award in 1990, slumped in 1993, his first season with the Astros. He was 9-18 with a 3.79 last season. He kept it up until the All-Star break, when he had a 7-9 record and 3.52 ERA.

Drabek lost his final start before the All-Star break and that initiated a seven-game losing streak that covered 10 starts and didn't end until Aug. 27. "You come to spring training and try to improve," Drabek said. "The thing that I need this year more than anything is consistency. You won't see me get complacent.' Drabek is too diplomatic to mention part of his problem last season was a serious lack of run support. The Astros gave him only 30 runs to work with in his 18 losses, which included three shutquts and scoring one run on six occasions.

Stottlemyre saw the effect, however, of pitching with lack of run

'There won't be any makeover with him," Stottlemyre said. "I think last year he got into situations where he got out of his game and tried to do too much.

He pitched real well the first couple of months and things didn't break right for him. There's nothing really mechanical. I think the majority of assessment have been mental sessions.

"People had very high expectations of him last season and things just didn't break right. That was last year. This year, I expect him to be one of our leaders."

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1994 ARIES (March 21-April 19): You find that you have too many decisions and you don't know which way to go. Be positive; choose to look at the situation as an abundance of offers. You'll feel good if you are positive. Keep a list of "things to do," as there is so much going on. Tonight: Be careful about spending. ***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You might feel like a kid in a candy store. You have so many choices that you are not sure which way to go. Lighten up. Fun comes naturally today. Be aware of your choices and what they really mean. Tonight: Go with the best offer. ***

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You might be considering some positive changes in your life. However, you might be overwhelmed at your potential directions. Check out different offers. You have an abundance of energy. Tackle a project you have been putting off. Tonight: Get into a computer game. ***

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Focus on a friendship and a key offer. You make the right move despite some confusion. Be clear about what you want. Creativity flows naturally, and you come up with the right solution at the right moment. Tonight: Follow that great timing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Focus on leadership and your strong qualities. Buy a present for a relative who needs extra attention. Laugh, and take the manipulation in a good-humored way. Recognize what is important to you. Tonight: Bring extra work

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You're full of ideas and are quite capable of going down a new path. Listen more carefully to your inner voice. Focus on brainstorming, talking to others and extraordinary communications. Be willing to walk in another's shoes. Tonight: Go to a seminar. *****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): One-to-one relating is highlighted in both your personal and business lives. Money matters are important. You come up with new solutions, and you see life much more positively. Be ready to make the needed changes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You might need to think more about what's happening. Another chooses to be close. Is this what you want? Look to new options, and consider offers that are coming your way. Tonight: Don't be home alone. *****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get into a new routine, and eliminate red tape. Improve your communications at work. You are instinctive dealing with another. You have the energy and the wherewithal to tackle a key project. Keep a conversation hush-hush. Tonight: If you can, walk home. ***

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You might be pushing too hard and accepting too much responsibility. However, you enjoy the prestige that naturally comes with it. Focus on getting what you want and balancing a friendship. Tonight: Let the ideas

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are pushed in two different directions. Your domestic side emerges, and you choose to stay close to home. Be willing to meet another's demand. Be aware of what you are really asking from another. Tonight: Handle responsibilities.  PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are extremely talkative right now as you work through a stressful matter. Look toward creating better communications. Put a limit on your calls today, as there is a lot to get done. Tonight: Yakety-yak.

IF MARCH 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Excellent communications will be your trademark in the year ahead. However, you might need to reorganize your day-to-day life and sort through what is necessary. Be careful with power plays, which could backfire, even though you might think you have psyched out an opponent. Your empathy for others will increase. Today is Tuesday, March 15, the 74th day of 1994. There are 291 Day in Hinckley, Ohio.

Today's Highlight in History: On March 15, 44 B.C., Roman Emperor Julius Caesar was assassinated by a group of nobles that included Brutus and Cassius.

On this date: In 1493, Christopher Columbus returned to Spain after his first voyage to the Western Hemisphere.

In 1767, the seventh president of the United States, Andrew Jackson, was born in Waxhaw, S.C. In 1820, Maine became the 23rd state.

In 1875, the Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, John McCloskey, was named the first American cardinal, by Pope Pius IX. In 1913, President Wilson held the first open presidential news confer-

In 1919, 75 years ago, the American Legion was founded, in Paris. In 1944, 50 years ago, during World War II, Allied bombers again raided German-held Monte Cassino. In 1956, the Frederick Loewe-Alan Jay Lerner musical "My Fair Lady," starring Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews, opened on Broadway. In 1964, Elizabeth Taylor married

Richard Burton in Montreal; it was her fifth marriage, his second. In 1965, addressing a joint session of Congress, President Johnson called for new legislation to guarantee every American's right to vote.
