County sets tax collection fee

By TIM JONES
Staff Writer

Approval of a collection fee budget for taxing entities, a jail inmate commissary service, and pursuing a contract for an alternative location for paper-ready inmates was approved by the Howard County Commissioners' Court Monday.

Kathy Sayles, county tax assessor/collector, said the collection fee is not a line item in the budget, and needs to be re-approved yearly by the commissioners. Sayles said the slight increase over last year is due to salary increases and more forms.

Salaries were budgeted at $62,346 this year and expenses at $22,005 for a total collection fee budget of $84,351, approved unanimously by the commissioners.

Some of the budgeted expenses were postage, $11,000; tax roll forms, $2,650; telephone expenses, $700; mineral role conversions, $1,300; and a computer for $3,600.

The budget will be mailed to the taxing entities for their approval.

A contract with Limestone County's contract jail facility will allow Howard County to be provided a bed for paper-ready inmates, should the need arise, at the rate of $40 per man per day. The contract has provisions to terminate the agreement upon 60 days written notice by either party, and the term of the agreement is for one year.

The facility is located in East Texas near Groesbeck, which is east of Waco, on the way to Huntsville. The contract provides Sheriff A.N. Standard and his department with a backdrop on paper-ready inmates, when and if the local county jail population exceeds the compliance figure of 44 prisoners.

The computerized jail commissary program meet with complete approval as it will free up sheriff department personnel from bookkeeping. It will especially save the county auditor time at the end of the month. Excess revenue from the fund will be put into the inmate trust fund.

Pollard Chevrolet was awarded a $15,235 bid to provide a Chevrolet Astro Van to the county and Bob Brock Ford will provide two 1994 four-door sedans at $22,367 with two 1990 Chevrolet Caprice as trade-ins.

Keith Toomire with the Howard County Tax Appraisal District presented the following amounts of a $19,000 budget surplus that will be refunded to taxing entities at the same proportion paid in.

The amounts are: $3,529.35 for Howard County; $1,795.59 for Howard College; $7,992.37 for Big Spring ISD; $1,594.08 for city of Big Spring; $2,314.31 for Coahoma ISD; $63.84 for city of Coahoma; $2,647.49 for Forsan ISD; $7.98 for city of Forsan; and $5.98 for Permian Water District.

The county will retain the fund, which is real close to the percentage of their obligation, for future use. "That will save us from having to come up with it later on," said County Judge Ben Lockhart.

Police seeking robbers

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

An overnight robbery at a convenience store in Big Spring has police searching for two suspects.

According to reports, two Hispanic males entered the 7-11 store at 902 Willia around 1:30 this morning and stole $18.98 worth of beer.

As the suspects were leaving the store, one of them picked up a two foot tall ashtray and threw it at the clerk, striking him in the right arm. The clerk was not injured in the incident.

"Once outside, one of the subjects picked up a trash can and threw it at the clerk, hitting the front door and cracking the glass," said Sgt. Scott Griffin of the police department.

The two men then fled on foot in an unknown direction.

One of the suspects is being described as an Hispanic male between 18 and 20 years old. He is five foot, eight inches tall and weighs about 170 pounds. Reports say he has black hair and brown eyes. He was last seen wearing a white sweatshirt and brown baggy pants. The subject has a moustache and his hair was slicked back. The clerk also said this subject had two teardrop tattoos under his left eye.

The second suspect is also an Hispanic male between 18 and 20 years old. He is five foot, nine inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. He was wearing a black T-shirt and black jeans. He has a moustache and goatee beard with bushy hair.

If you have any information about this incident or the whereabouts of the suspects, you are asked to contact the Big Spring Police Department.

Victims' fund to increase benefits

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Victims of crime will be compensated 100 percent for medical and other crime-related expenses they incur on or after March 15.

For the past year, the Texas Crime Victims' Compensation Fund was only able to pay victims 60 percent of their benefits but now the Attorney General's office says the fees charged to criminals has been doubled, thereby providing an increase in funding for the program.

Because of an increase in the number of claims by victims and a decrease in processing time for each claim, the fund was nearing depletion in early 1993. Since the fund is prohibited by law from having a deficit, payments on claims had to be reduced to 60 percent.

According to figures from the Attorney General's Office, crime victims in Howard County submitted 30 applications for assistance during fiscal 1993. The CVC awarded $76,332 to those victims while the criminals in Howard County contributed only $51,225 to the fund.

During the recent legislative session, lawmakers approved the following fees:

- Doubled the fees criminals must pay into the fund
- Required parolees to pay a monthly fee of $8
- Authorized the fund to accept gifts, grants and donations
- Felony convicts pay $45 into the fund
- Class B misdemeanor and certain municipal convictions are assessed $35

"Slowly, but surely we are creating a new trend - one that puts consideration for the victims of crime above concern for the rights of criminals," said Attorney General Dan Morales. "Criminals are having to bear more of this burden for the costs of their crimes. The increase in court fees paid by criminals is allowing us to provide full benefits to more victims."

The Crime Victims' Compensation Fund, passed by the Texas Legislature in 1979, provides reimbursement of specific expenses not covered by insurance or other sources, to certain innocent victims of

Howard County's top 25 taxpayers beasts of burden

By TIM JONES
Staff Writer

As the Howard County tax base declines, ad valorem taxes which are applied to the value of real and personal property being taxed, is going up.

The taxable value of Howard County fell 10.763 percent from 1990 to 1993, from $1.297 billion to $1.132 billion, a $165 million plunge in three years.

As taxing entities generate less money, they have less funds from which to provide services.

Either taxes go up to continue the current level of service, or, if taxes do not increase, then the services declining in amount or quality is inevitable.

To offset this, present business will bear the burden until economic development brings in new business.

The top 25 commercial and industrial taxpayers the county tax assessor/collector's office listed in August 1993 who shoulder this burden (along with the private sector) are:

Fina Oil & Chemical, $108,626,500; Power Resources Inc., $81,811,600; Texaco Producing Inc., $14,516,900; Western Container Inc., $10,465,930; Malone & Hogan Hospital Inc., $7,966,857; Richardson Sid Carbon Co., $6,897,400; First National Bank, $3,021,400; Cerros Morado Corporation, $2,963,776; Scenic Mountain Med-

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado Independent School District will meet for a study group beginning March 23 at 4 p.m. in the CISD curriculum room for anyone concerned about discipline in the home and in the schools.

The cost is $20 which will include the text, "Discipline With Dignity."

The group format is a casual discussion which lasts approximately one hour per week for a four to five week session.

For more information, call Kitten Arthur at 728-5581.

Scurry County voters set record in primary

SNYDER — Scurry County saw a record number of voters go to the polls for the March 8 primary elections.

Normally a district which has an average of 6 percent of the registered voters vote in a primary, this past election tallied a total of 33.7 percent despite freezing weather, snow, high winds and sleet.

Credit for the record turnout is being passed to a local group of UWSA who held six forums representing candidates from all levels of government.

Contributions sought for scholarship fund

The 1941 Study Club has named its annual scholarship in honor of Doris Tiller, who had been a club member for 30 years. This scholarship is given annually to a senior from Coahoma High School, where Tiller taught for more than 25 years.

The scholarship has been set up at Coahoma State Bank and anyone may contribute. Contributions may be given in person or sent to Coahoma State Bank, P.O. Box 140, Coahoma, Texas 79511.

Essay contest for seniors sponsored

The Big Spring Board of Realtors is sponsoring an essay contest for high school seniors from Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma and Ackerly. The topic is "The American Dream."

Essays must be 500 words or less and can be turned in to school counselors through March 31.

The winning essay writer will receive a $500 savings bond. The board will announce the winner at its next meeting, tentatively scheduled for April 21.

The contest is being sponsored in conjunction with American Home Week, the last week of March.

TSCRA schedules annual convention

FORT WORTH — The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's 117th annual convention will be in Fort Worth March 27-30, offering ranchers, farmers and other interested individuals one of the largest livestock-related trade shows in the southwestern United States.

TSCRA is a livestock trade association based in Fort Worth with approximately 15,000 cattle producers as members in Texas, Oklahoma and surrounding states.

The show will feature more than 225 exhibitors, officially beginning Sunday, March 27. Cost for the trade show admission is $5 per day.

Anyone interested in exhibiting in the trade show or donating to the silent auction should contact Jim Kelley, TSCRA, 1301 W. Seventh St., Fort Worth, Texas 76102-2260 or call 817-332-7064.

Steer Band Boosters selling discount books

Big Spring High School Band Boosters are currently selling discount coupon cards to raise funds for band projects including the annual end-of-the-year band banquet and the 1995 band tour.

The cards, designed like a credit card for convenience, are identified by the Steer Band name and logo and feature valuable discounts at area merchants.

Discounts available through the card are categorized into a restaurant section, automotive section and bonus section.

The total redeemable value of the cards is more than $1,200 and they have an expiration date of Jan. 31, 1995.

Priced at $15 each, the cards may be purchased from band parents and students. They may also be purchased from band directors.

For those wishing to purchase a card or those needing additional information, call 264-3641, extension 170, and ask for band director Steve Hankins.

Filing for college board continues

Two seats on the Howard College

District Board of Trustees will be up for election May 7.

Place 3, representing the southwest part of the county and the same as Howard County Precinct 3, and Place 4, representing the northeast part of the county and the same as County Precinct 4, are open.

To file for either position it is required that the person live in the precinct they chose to run for. Filing papers may be picked up at the president's office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. The deadline for filing is March 23.

Teachers can receive a pass to 'Epcot '94'

Certified public and private teachers in grades K-12 may receive an "Epcot '94 Teacher's Pass" for unlimited visits to Epcot Center.

Teachers may obtain passes by presenting at Epcot Guest Relations a copy of their active teaching credential and a signed letter from the school administration on school stationery verifying their position.

"We want to honor teachers and share the unique resources at Epcot," said Judson Green, president of Walt Disney Attractions. "Epcot's ever-changing attractions will provide insightful and fun experiences for teachers to take back to the classroom."

The teachers' pass is valid for unlimited visits through Dec. 30, 1994, with the exception of July 4.

Senate votes to aid high-tech manufacturers

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Small and medium-sized manufacturers of high-tech products would get help from the government under an administration-backed plan approved today in the Senate.

The National Competitiveness Act authorizes spending $1.9 billion in fiscal years 1995 and 1996 for programs to help private companies develop and adopt advanced technologies.

The measure passed 59-40 and was sent to a House-Senate conference committee to work out differences with the House-passed bill.

The Senate bill had been locked in a Republican filibuster for more than a week because the GOP objected to the amount of spending it authorized and the power it would give the Commerce Department to pick and choose companies to assist.

After a floor vote Tuesday failed to muster the 60 votes needed to end the filibuster, Democrats agreed to a compromise cutting the bill from $2.8 billion to $1.9 billion in spending authorization.

With that obstacle surmounted, approval was all but assured, though senators still were at odds over whether the bill should provide venture capital loan guarantees. The Senate voted today to protect the provision by turning down, 55-44, an amendment that would have eliminated it.

White mother wants out of Vidor complex

VIDOR (AP) — A white mother who moved to a controversial housing complex last month now wants out, saying she received threats after a recent television talk-show appearance.

Linda McKinney, who has racially mixed children, described her fears about living at the recently desegregated complex, during an appearance on the nationally syndicated Sally Jesse Raphael show about two weeks ago.

Ms. McKinney, who came to Texas from Portland, Ore., said she considers locks inadequate and is ready to move.

"I've had threats on the phone and in the mail. ... I've had bomb threats, a phone call telling me I have 30 days to move out or I'll be dead," Ms. McKinney told the Beaumont Enterprise.

Off-duty Vidor police officers patrol and stand guard at the complex, which U.S. housing officials took over in October 1993 after earlier attempts at desegregation failed. U.S. marshals work out of a temporary office at the site.

Theft center to help recover stolen autos

EL PASO (AP) — A U.S. information center that helps Mexican authorities detect stolen cars is expected to strengthen international efforts to combat border auto theft.

Gov. Ann Richards and Gov. Francisco Barrio of Chihuahua formally inaugurated the Border Auto Theft Information Center on Tuesday, hailing the cooperative effort the facility represents.

"We feel that this center is the real link in fighting the war on auto theft" along the border, said Richards.

The center answers inquiries about stolen cars from law enforcement agencies in both countries, but is being hailed as an innovation because it solidifies links between Mexican and U.S. law enforcement.

"It is absolutely a positive program because it will centralize communication between Texas and the Mexican states," said Brownsville police Chief Victor Rodriguez, who attended the ribbon-cutting for the center.

Black farmers suing agriculture secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy is being sued by four black farmers who contend he has refused to remedy racial discrimination acknowledged by his department.

The four each filed suit in federal district court here Tuesday, seeking $5 million to redress the discrimination they faced from the Farmers Home Administration.

The USDA's Office of Civil Rights Enforcement has issued findings confirming that the four were discriminated against by FmHA, the lending arm of the department.

"All of them have suffered grievous financial losses, loss of credit and certainly serious emotional mental anguish," said Les Mendelsohn, a San Antonio, Texas, attorney who is representing the four.

"I believe ... that Secretary Espy is very sympathetic to the plight of these minority farmers who have been discriminated against by prior administrations, but his failure to act decisively is a ratification of the past discrimination," Mendelsohn said in an interview.

Amarillo's city fathers back American Airlines

AMARILLO (AP) — American Airlines will continue full service to Amarillo — through the end of the year, at least — thanks to a subsidy from the city.

City commissioners on Tuesday unanimously approved a plan covering American's losses in Amarillo up to $1 million, using tax dollars collected from a half-cent sales tax for economic development.

"We're delighted," American spokesman Al Becker said.

Supporters of the plan say jet service to and from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport is vital to maintain a sound business recruitment and retention policy in Amarillo and the Texas Panhandle.

About 90 minutes of public comment and debate preceded the city commission's 4-0 vote Tuesday, Mayor Kel Seliger said.

Even your driveway's unsafe today in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Having an expensive car and living in a nice neighborhood are the spoils of success. For some North Dallas residents, it seems to have made them targets in a horrifying crime wave.

A constant flow of Lotto customers keeps manager Cindi Beard and Raymond Getman, left, more than busy Tuesday in Texarkana. The Texas Lotto jackpot of $75 million has had people standing in long lines.

Out-of-state Lotto players flocking to Texas outlets

The Associated Press

From border to border to border, Texas Lottery retailers Tuesday were ringing up big sales to out-of-state residents, even if they had their own lottery game at home.

"It's nonstop," said Melissa Flanigan at White's Northway Chevron in Orange, one of the state's busiest lotto ticket sellers, as players flocked for chances at Wednesday night's $75 million jackpot.

Lotto officials said the Orange retailer had sold more than 5,000 tickets by 10:30 a.m., the state's fastest Tuesday morning pace.

The story was much the same statewide and all day long, said lottery spokesman Steve Levine.

By 9:10 p.m., sales already had hit $11.5 million, another new daily record, Levine said. The previous high for a Tuesday had been $6.78 million.

Ms. Flanigan said many of the tickets she sold went to Louisiana residents who prefer Texas' huge prize to the $9 million jackpot being offered in their own state's game on Saturday.

"They say they like ours because our jackpots go up faster than theirs," Ms. Flanigan said.

She said the crush of customers began Sunday, shortly after Saturday's $55 million jackpot went unclaimed when no one picked the six numbers drawn.

"We've got 'em backed up out here," she said.

Her comments were echoed on the Texas-New Mexico border.

Al Hester hired extra part-time workers two weeks ago at Hester State Line Oil Co., the Seminole gas station that tops all Texas retailers in lottery sales.

Seventy-percent of Hester's lottery players come from Hobbs, N.M., four miles to the west.

Business was brisk starting when his drive-through window opened at 7 a.m. Tuesday, Hester said. "Tomorrow will just be like DFW (airport)," he quipped.

He predicted the biggest surge in sales in the hours just before Wednesday night's drawing, especially after work shifts end at 5 p.m. Excitement is building, he said.

"I feel lucky," said Hester, who bought $15 worth of tickets himself. "You've gotta have a positive outlook on that. You've got to feel like you can win."

Fort Worth oil barons gain fame and fortune in any way necessary

The Associated Press

FORT WORTH — They were tough, rowdy, gutsy, shrewd and often ruthless.

They were usually hard-drinking, hard-working, skirt-chasing, fiercely independent rounders with rugged charm, rainbow vision and hearts of pitch black gold.

Gamblers all, they were the wildcatters and early oilmen who built vast fortunes and family empires and forged a vibrant industry that stands today as their enduring legacy.

They were the "Oil Legends of Fort Worth," so named and immortalized in a new non-profit book produced by the Fort Worth Petroleum Club.

"We couldn't tell the whole truth about these guys," chuckled Jack Tunstall, who, with co-chairman Lesbia Word Roberts, guided the project to completion.

"But we've preserved a lot of history that would have been forgotten."

Giants of their era, the names of the most successful and benevolent now adorn museums, parks, monuments and great foundations:

Amon Carter, Sid Richardson, Burk Burnett, W.A. Moncrief, "Mad" Eddie Chiles, Kay Kimbell, Ed Landreth, Pappy Waggoner, Arch and Charlie Rowan, Roy Westbrook, Robert Windfohr, Jack Danciger.

"Stinky" Davis. "Hog Creek" Caruth. "Babe" Fuqua.

These, and dozens of others, were magical names in the oil patch and later in the board room. Many, of course, lost their shirts. Some went to jail.

Asserting that legends are made, not born, and often the result of dreams and daring, the Petroleum Club dedicated its historical masterpiece to the "pioneers and promoters, the wildcatters and empire builders who created a vital new industry, powered their nation's engine of progress, brought their state to the forefront of national affairs and built a great city. ..."

Entertaining and enlightening, "Oil Legends" revolves around Fort Worth but, in fact, is a story of Texas oil and oilmen and their impact on U.S. and world affairs.

Although known far and wide as Cowtown, Fort Worth "sailed to fame and fortune on a sea of oil," not cattle, says one of the book's four authors.

Even more ironic, billions of barrels of black gold have gushed from the Texas ground, but little more than a drop or two came from Fort Worth and Tarrant County.

It was the West Texas strikes that transformed Fort Worth from a dusty cowtown to a lusty oil capital, beginning with the "McCleskey strike" at Ranger in 1917.

A 1920 postcard from Ranger, 100 miles to the west, depicts men, horses and wagons in muddy, crowded streets and bears the inscriptions "End of the Rainbow" and "Fields of Liquid Gold."

Soon, Fort Worth's grand old Westbrook Hotel was a hotbed of oil action.

Wildcatters and promoters rented rooms, cots or even chairs and met in a lobby famous for deal-making and a 12-foot statue christened "The Golden Goddess."

Wearing only a thin veil, the Goddess held aloft a symbolic torch of good fortune.

Hundreds of wildcatters, promoters, investors, geologists, crooks and connen flocked to the Goddess, believing they enhanced their luck by rubbing her derriere.

Alas, she was a fickle lady.

The ultimate expression of free speech lies not in the ideas with which we agree, but in those ideas that offend and irritate us.

Take care of victims

As you watch this country go more and more violent, and see how carefully the rights of the criminal are protected, it makes you wonder what happens to the victim.

Yes, for every trial, for every crime there is a victim. And, more often than not, the one who criminally suffered at the hands of another is forgotten.

They are left to pick up the pieces of their lives, pay off the bills incurred from the crime. All together too often you don't hear much about the victim, only the offender.

In part that's why the Crime Victim's Compensation Fund was created by the Texas Legislature in 1979.

Most of the funding for this fund comes from the criminals themselves as fees for certain levels of crimes.

Unfortunately, there have been more claims than the fund has money for. In Howard County alone 30 applications were made for a total of $76,332 in awards.

Because of a lack of funds, victims were only being paid at 60 percent instead of at 100 percent.

Now, the Legislature has again stepped in, increasing the amount of fines and allowing the fund to accept grants, gifts and donations.

This fund is worth giving to, because someday you might be a victim of a crime and in need of this fund.

While that is a horrifying thought, given this country's climate of violence, it is almost a given.

The only comfort is the victim of these crimes is being remembered and taken care of.

More books wanted

I just don't have enough - books that is.

Since I am going to get new carpet in my place and have to pack the things up anyway, I decided to catalog all the books I have at the house.

What a chore - especially since I was doing it manually and not on a typewriter. That would have been too easy. No, I had to wear my hand out and still be disappointed in the end.

I have 739 books. I used to think that was a lot of books. That was until someone else told me they had 2,000 books, approximately. Wow, 2,000 books. Somehow I have a feeling I won't get there for a while.

But, I intend to. I called my Dad and told him. He didn't understand. He actually thought I should do away with some of them! Heresy, blasphemy - throw away a book! I just can't pick which one because I enjoy re-reading most of them.

He just didn't understand that I was sad because I only had just over 700 and that I wanted that number to be 1,000! But, then he has actually lifted those boxes of books more than I have during my many moves around this state.

I want to get the number up by the end of this year. Seems impossible, not too mention expensive. However, there are 290 days left in this year so it is possible. It the expense that holds me up.

I don't know why I feel this sense of competition about numbers of books I own. I just do. I want someday to be able to say "I own, all by myself, more than 1,000 books."

There is one way, believe it or not, in which I can do this and still have books by someone I enjoy reading. Yep, find and buy every Isaac Asimov book ever written. He only wrote well over 800 books in his lifetime, on a variety of subjects, fiction and non-fiction. I couldn't get bored with Asimov.

Or, there is all those books I have read at various libraries that I always wanted to own.

DD Turner

Libraries are good for test-reading before buying. Actually, that is not the only thing libraries are good for. A library is a repository of knowledge and other things good to read.

I can't imagine not having a library around. So what you're on a deserted island, away from it all if there isn't a library around in which to find something to read.

But, then I am a reader from way, way back. I always hated filling out those questionnaires about hobbies. About all I had to list was reading. Seems so passive. At least body wise, but it sure does exercise the mind muscles. I simply can't imagine not reading something during each day of the year.

I was happy buying a book here and there until someone else said they had more than me. The competition, such as it is, is all on my part. For some reason, 739 books seems like a paltry number.

I want more, more, more. For my birthday, for Christmas, for any holiday under the sun. Poor Mom gets tired of asking what I want for Christmas because I give her a list a mile long of book titles. She always wants to know if books is really all that I want.

Yes, Mom, that is really all that I want - books, books and more books.

Ah, curled up on the couch with the monster cat purring away and a good book in hand. In my mind it don't get no better than that.

Especially if there are a 1,000 books to choose from.

Controlling the golfing passion

His name is Joe and he's a friend. But he is also an addict. You wouldn't know it to look at him. Family man, regular job, house, mortgage, receding hairline.

But there are hundreds of thousands just like him in this country. At one time, he would have denied his addiction. Now he is open about it. He laughs bitterly when describing the inner demon he can't control.

"This is the time of year when it gets the worst," he said. "Let me tell you what happened the other day."

"I went to this place. It's where I go when it gets so bad that I think I'm going to jump out of my skin."

"But I've been trying to resist it. So even though I went there, I made up my mind that I was going to be strong. I'd fight it."

As he talked, his left hand twitched.

"I walked in and went right to the back of the place. Sat down, didn't look at anything that might set me off."

"The pro comes up to me and says: 'What do you need?'"

"I told him: 'I want one pair, size 11, regular width. Waterproof. Regular spikes. Brown if you have them. If not, any color will do, except two-tone. Hate two-tone.'"

Now his right hand was twitching.

"Everything was going fine. I bought the shoes. I had just slipped one on and they fit good. I started to relax. I could tell that my craving was being satisfied. I'd buy the shoes, satisfy my craving and get out with only a minor hit. Then it happened. Oh, it was awful."

Both twitching hands came together, fingers hooking.

"This other guy came walking up and he's carrying a club and he says to the pro: 'Customer bought this driver here last season. Now he wants to trade it in on something else.'"

Both twitching hands were now joined as one. He looked down at them with glazed eyes and mumbled: "To be or not to be? Overlap or interlock? That is the question."

But what happened next?

He shook his head and came back to the moment.

"Yes. So I'm just getting fitted for the new spikes, which, incidentally, have graphite in the sole and titanium in the spikes and teetium in the toe. The very latest in golf shoe technology."

"Then this damn fool comes over with that club. And do you know what it was? It was a Fat Phyllis driver, the chubbier driver on the market, with a 46-inch iridescent Coofonium shaft and the new Fingerkisser grip. I mean, that is as high-tech a driver as there is in the civilized world. And some fool was trading it in."

Now his wrists were flexing and his left arm was stiff. He resumed the sordid story.

"The pro told his assistant: 'OK, take it in trade. And I couldn't help myself. I gasped: 'I want it, I need it, I crave it, I demand it, I'll buy it.'"

You are a sick person, you know that.

"Yes. And I can't help myself. I thought I could get by with the titanium-spike shoes. But just the sight of that magnificent driver pushed me over the brink. I had to have it."

And you bought it.

"No. The pro put his hand on my shoulder and said: 'You don't want it. It isn't right for you. Wrong flex point. I have just what you need. Believe me.'"

"And the next thing I knew, I was looking at the newest driver on the market: Obese Ophelia. It had a bigger head than my wife's. Prettier, too. It had a 50-inch, glow-dark, vibration-calibrated, resonance-resistant Loonite-Moronium blend shaft."

You didn't buy it. "Of course I did. Like a moth to the flame. I can't help myself. But you should see it. The greatest driver ever made. It will add at least 20 yards to my tee shots."

That's what you said Massive Martha would do, the one you bought last year. And that is what you said about your last 15 drivers. According to my calculations, with 20 yards extra per driver, you should hit the ball at least 500 yards - making you the most awesome golfer in the world. But despite spending a fortune, you have never hit a ball more than 220 yards. Don't you see what folly this is?"

"Of course. But what can I do? You know, I went to see a shrink about this."

What did he say? "He said he is getting 20 yards more with his Gigantic Gertie."

Have you thought about becoming a putter addict? Putterers are considerably cheaper than drivers.

"Are you insane? Putterers are for old wimps. No, the driver is where it's at. I believe it is the greatest phallic symbol of sports. That is why buying new drivers has become the addiction of middle-class, middle-age guys."

Ah, the golf driver as a phallic symbol. A profound thought. Did you mention that observation to your shrink?"

"Yes, I did. And he said he agreed entirely because golf caused his wife to loot their savings accounts and to run off from him."

With a golf pro?

"No, with his golf bag."

A sad story.

"Yeah, but with her gone, he gets to play 36 holes on Sunday."

Glimpsing future of health care

I went to see my government-appointed local precinct health captain. Under the Clinton Health Plan, passed recently by Congress, that's the first thing one must do to seek medical help.

"And what seems to be our little problem today?" asks Miss Gildershoot, my health captain's secretary.

"It's my foot," I said, holding it in my hand to show her I cut it off with the lawn mower.

"Oh, a TR-3277WX," replied Miss Gildershoot. "Gasoline-powered-mowing-device-induced loss of limb. You'll need to fill out these forms."

"And what is that you're getting all over my floor?" she asked.

"Blood," I answered. "Life-sustaining liquid oozing from affected appendage onto floor," an RT-8881YU," she said. "We'll have to bill you for carpet damage. Here's another form for that."

I explained to Miss Gildershoot I was in a great deal of pain and was feeling quite faint from the loss of blood and didn't feel I should be spending the time filling out forms.

"What do you think this is?" she replied, "a 1994 emergency room? Fill out the forms."

I limped to a nearby desk carrying my foot in my hand. There was no pen attached to the chain that was connected to the desk.

I pointed this out to Miss Gildershoot.

"No wonder the federal deficit is so high," she said. "They're stealing us blind in pens."

"Use this one," she said, pulling a pen from her desk. And please fill out this form indicating you have been given an auxiliary pen and promising to give it back or face a harsh penalty."

"What sort of penalty?" I asked.

"How much would you like to keep that other foot?" she answered.

I began filling out the forms. A man next to me was holding his right ear, which had been detached from his head.

"What happened to you?" I asked him.

"An EW-6993TM," he said. "Loss of hearing apparatus due to oral attack by alcohol-influenced aggressor. A drunk bit off my ear in a bar fight."

Once I had finished, I handed my forms back to Miss Gildershoot.

"Take this number and wait," she said. "Mr. van der Garten will see you as soon as he can. My, you look pale."

"I'm still bleeding," I said.

"And it's gonna cost you," said Miss Gildershoot.

I waited an hour. Finally I was called into the office of Mr. van der Garten, my health captain. He looked at my forms.

"Have you ever filed for treatment on a detached ear before?" he asked.

I told him he was looking at the wrong set of forms.

"Sorry," he said. "These EW-6993TMs look a lot like the TR-3277WXs."

"May I see said foot? We get a lot of fakers around here."

I showed it to him.

"Nasty," he said. "You may see Dr. Gillingham a week from Friday."

I pointed out I could bleed to death by then.

"Not in this office, you won't," he warned. "We don't have any forms for that."

I went home and reattached my foot myself with piano wire. When I finally saw Dr. Gillingham, he recommended I get a hearing aid.

Whitewater media relief given

WASHINGTON - Even when it's clear the emerging Whitewater scandal will eclipse everything here since the Lincoln assassination, official Washington took the time to notice other developments of extraordinary company town importance.

For one, there was the first missed rolcall in more than 40 years for an aged House member whose stone one day will note that he was and always will be the congressional record-holder in the category of consecutive voting for no particular reason.

For another, the Senate majority leader whose name is on America's lips (quick, name him) announced he would retire, leaving a terrible void and time for a year of Washington testimonial dinners.

Putting aside for the moment the pack coverage of the emerging Whitewater scandal and all the media-fed suspicions of murder, robbery, sexual hijinks and paper-shredding allows more attention to the missed rolcall by Rep. William Natcher, D-Ky., and the retirement announcement by Sen. George Mitchell, D-Me.

Much like Whitewater, it's "inside the Beltway" stuff and interesting mainly in the tribal workings of a Washington establishment entranced with both government ritual and government scandal.

The story of Congressman Natcher's record of casting 18,401 consecutive rolcall votes in the House of Representatives since 1954 compares nicely with the pointless dedication of flagpole sitters and people who count ceiling tiles in the dentist's office.

He did it - but so what? It's instructive that among his last votes before Natcher, 84, decided he was too sick to keep the unbroken string going, the congressman voted to approve the previous day's House journal.

To perform that service to the nation, Natcher had to be transported by ambulance from the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital and wheeled by attendants into the House chamber on a hospital gurney so he could vote.

It was after that exertion that the Natcher record came to its glorious end at 18,401 consecutive votes. Actually, the House leaders earlier had indulged the pointlessness by shutting down for a day so the hospitalized Natcher wouldn't be counted absent.

When the long, foolish ordeal was over, President Clinton went to Natcher's hospital room to award him the Presidential Citizen's Medal, the nation's second highest civilian award. House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., led a round of cheers and congratulations for Natcher in the House.

There's no dispute that Natcher's record will be long-remembered and probably never broken. And it's also true that no flagpole-sitter ever stirred himself to vote thousands of times for such trivia as National Carnation Month or Love Your Cat Week or endless bits of procedural nonsense which have never advanced the national government one inch off dead center.

It's also informative that while Natcher lay in the hospital, his string of consecutive votes broken, the political infighting got underway to replace him as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

It wasn't the infirmities of old age that prompted Mitchell's announcement that he would retire from the Senate at the end of his current term next January. It sounded more like Mitchell's common sense had caught up to him.

In a comparatively short Senate career - only 14 years and for six years the majority leader - Mitchell has been a low-key but effective leader and a man seemingly not infected with desire for power and personal fame.

It was said in the Washington establishment that his announcement of retirement came as a surprise. Maybe it shouldn't be such a surprise.

It's said Mitchell has some bright job prospects: Maybe he'll become the next highly-paid czar of big league baseball. Or maybe he'll get the next nomination to the Supreme Court.

It's also possible - perhaps likely - that Mitchell just got fed up with all of it, the glacial legislative process, the senseless ritual, the forced toleration of fools and prima donnas, indulgence in a process that can be more burden than inspiration.

Who needs it?

The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Haunted by a federal investigation and hampered by reapportionment, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski still emerged victorious from the toughest re-election battle of his career.

It also was a victory for President Clinton, who campaigned personally for Rostenkowski and is counting on the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee to rally support for health care reform. Rostenkowski returned the salute Tuesday night as he claimed a surprisingly comfortable victory over a field of four Democratic primary challengers.

"There was a point, a pivotal moment in the campaign, when a very, very gutsy and honorable and courageous man named Bill Clinton came to town," Rostenkowski told cheering supporters.

"I'm proud to be a soldier in the president's march for change. I'm forever grateful for his kind words."

Clinton's Feb. 28 visit and a hard-working street-level political organization helped give Rostenkowski a 20 percentage point win Tuesday in his primary battle. He goes into November's general election as the favorite in his heavily Democratic district.

With 98 percent of precincts reporting in unofficial returns, Rostenkowski had 50 percent of the vote. State Sen. John Cullerton had 30 percent and former Alderman Dick Simpson had 14 percent. Two other candidates split the remaining 6 percent.

"The critics say that I'm not perfect and they're right," Rostenkowski said. "I worked hard to win this race, but I plan to work even harder in the future to deliver on my promises."

The vote shows Clinton's political appeal remains strong, according to Rostenkowski adviser David Axelrod. "Clearly, he was an important player in this campaign," Axelrod said.

In an interview today on the NBC "Today" show, Rostenkowski agreed, saying, "The bottom line here is that the people are supporting this president and the programs that he is trying to get through Congress." He said he was surprised and grateful for the 50 percent plurality.

Rostenkowski's re-election bid has been clouded by questions about his campaign and congressional finances.

In the spring of 1992, his name surfaced in an investigation of whether lawmakers used phony stamp transactions at the House Post Office to convert congressional expense funds for personal use. Newspaper reports documented that Rostenkowski used taxpayer money to buy three cars, used campaign funds to pay himself for a little-used office and controlled a payroll that included employees who did not show up for work.

Rostenkowski, who was first elected to Congress in 1958, also had to run in a district that was radically reshaped in 1992 by a Republican-drawn reapportionment map.

Israelis alert for suicide attacks

The Associated Press

TEL AVIV, Israel — Tens of thousands of right-wing demonstrators, including many Jewish settlers from the occupied lands, defied threatened Muslim fundamentalist attacks Tuesday to protest the government's peace policies.

The army was on high alert against the Muslims who threatened suicide attacks if settlers in five areas didn't evacuate by Tuesday. Troops set up roadblocks and clashed with Palestinians in Jerusalem and the Gaza Strip.

One Arab gunman was killed after ambushing a jeep, but by midnight, no suicide attacks were reported.

The government also broadened its crackdown against anti-Arab Jewish extremists, hauling the founding father of the settlement movement, Rabbi Moshe Levinger, into court on a relatively minor two-year-old charge.

The protesters, a few toting rifles and some pushing baby carriages, marched from Tel Aviv's main square to the nearby defense ministry. They waved torches and Israeli flags, and shouted slogans against Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

They booed opposition leader Benjamin Netanyahu when he called the Hebron massacre a crime, but cheered when he said: "If we don't have the right to live in Hebron, we don't have the right to live anywhere in this country."

Several demonstrators were reportedly arrested when the crowd blocked a main street. Four people carrying anti-Arab Kach group posters were also arrested, reported Israel television. Some demonstrators burned Palestinian flags, the television said.

The government officially closed the offices of the extremist Kach and Kahane Lives groups after banning the two and detaining or disarming several of their leaders this week. Jewish settler Baruch Goldstein, a Kach member, killed 30 Muslims Feb. 25 in a Hebron mosque.

The New York Times reported Wednesday that although the Israeli army insists that soldiers never shot at anyone during the massacre, interviews with dozens of Palestinian witnesses support assertions that at least one guard fired into the stampeding crowd, killing at least one worshiper.

The shooting took place in the passageway outside the main exit to the holy site as Palestinians rushed to escape the bloodbath, the Times said. It said the army insists that any army shots were aimed at the ceiling.

The PLO has demanded better protection for Palestinians, rejecting U.S. attempts Monday to restart peace negotiations. It seeks the removal of settlements in Arab towns like Hebron and international protection.

But four Gaza members of PLO leader Yasser Arafat's Fatah faction attended an unprecedented meeting with Israeli Labor Party members at the Parliament to discuss ways of getting the peace talks restarted.

The Islamic Resistance Movement, or Hamas, threatened suicide attacks if Jewish settlers in five settlement areas didn't evacuate Tuesday.

In response, the army set up surprise roadblocks and searched Arab-owned cars, news reports said.

In northern Gaza, two Palestinians hid in a gas station, opened fire on a passing jeep and fled on foot. Soldiers opened fire, killing one gunman and seriously wounding the other.

St. Patrick's Day: More than shamrocks

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Thursday is the time for the wearing of the green, as another St. Patrick's Day comes around. St. Paddy's Day is more than just green beer and corned beef and cabbage, however.

The real Patrick, patron saint of Ireland, is estimated to have lived from 389-461 A.D. Born in Britain while the country was still controlled by the Romans, he was captured and sold into slavery in Ireland at the age of 16.

During Patrick's captivity, he turned to religion. He toiled as a shepherd for several years and eventually escaped to mainland Europe. He returned to Britain at age 22 and decided to convert the pagan Irish to Christianity.

Patrick studied religion and was ordained a priest around 417 A.D. His first nomination as bishop to the Irish was turned down because of a sin in his past. After the death of the first bishop to the Irish, Patrick was finally ordained and left for Ireland.

He faced opposition from priests of the dominant religion in Ireland but his work led to tolerance for Christians. He converted members of the royal families, developed a clergy of native Irish, promoted the growth of monasteries and monkhood and had church councils.

A few of Patrick's writings still exist, such as his Confession, a reply to his detractors and several letters. A hymn he supposedly wrote, called the Lorica, may actually have been written long after his death.

Perhaps the most famous event associated with Patrick, his driving the snakes out of Ireland, has no basis in fact but is an entertaining story.

The shamrock has also come to be associated with St. Patrick, not because he had any real connection with shamrocks, but because the Irish took to wearing them on St. Patrick's Day as a symbol of Ireland.

A St. Pat's Day 'green' recipe from Big Spring Woman's Club

KIM JONES' CUCUMBER

DILL DIP
1 pkg. cream cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
2 cucumbers, peeled, seeded and chopped
2 tablespoons sliced green onions
1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 teaspoons fresh dill or 1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Beat cream cheese until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients until well mixed. Cover and chill. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

Lucky Leprechaun brownies perfect for St. Patrick's Day

By The Associated Press

This St. Patrick's Day dessert goes by the name, Lucky Leprechaun Brownies. Quick and easy to prepare using light corn oil spread, egg whites and low-fat cocoa, the brownies are mixed and baked in the same pan. This makes cleanup quick and easy, too. A green-tinted frosting is drizzled on top. Each brownie contains 90 calories and 3 grams fat.

Lucky Leprechaun Brownies

6 tablespoons light corn oil spread
1 cup sugar

1 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 egg whites, slightly beaten

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
Easy Drizzle (recipe below)

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly spray an 8-inch square baking pan with vegetable cooking spray.

In medium saucepan over low heat, melt corn oil spread. Add sugar; stir until well blended. Remove from heat; stir in cocoa and vanilla. Add egg whites; stir to blend. Stir in flour and walnuts. Spread batter into prepared pan. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 25 minutes or until edges begin to pull away from sides of the pan. Cool in pan on wire rack. Garnish with Easy Drizzle. Cut into finger shapes. Makes 21 brownies.

Easy Drizzle: In a small bowl, stir together 1-3rd cup powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon low-fat 2 percent milk, 1 or 2 drops green food color and few drops mint extract, if desired, until of drizzling consistency.

Muffins, 'pudding' deliciously easy to make

Muffins made without yeast are considered quick breads and are typical of native American cookery.

The quick bread muffin is leavened with either baking powder or baking soda, while the yeast-raised muffin, such as an English muffin, is made with yeast as the leavening agent.

Unlike the quick bread method, yeast dough is first allowed to rise in a bowl, then beaten well and allowed to rise again before baking. Kneading is sometimes required. Raised muffins have muffin like texture but are finer-grained.

It is important not to overmix quick bread muffin batter. It should look lumpy and rough. Muffins should be baked at a high temperature for a short period of time.

Muffins were once considered a breakfast food but today are served with lunch or dinner.

You will not need a Ph.D. in bread making to prepare and serve these delicious bran muffins. They are easy to prepare and the batter can be refrigerated for up to two months, thus allowing you to quickly serve fresh hot muffins at the snap of a finger. They are of the quick bread variety.

I would also like to share with you a mystery "fun" recipe called Tennessee Pudding. It originated in Tennessee as you might surmise. Why on earth it is called pudding I cannot tell you, because it definitely ends up as a very heavy, coarse-textured, moist cake that is absolutely delicious.

Sue Haugh

When you pour the hot orange sauce over the hot cake you will probably wonder, as I did, if that much liquid could possibly ever soak into the cake. Trust me when I tell you it does—eventually. As the cake cools (in the pan) it absorbs the liquid and the end result is marvelous. This cake is best served as soon as it cools completely. However it does keep well. I think you will enjoy this "pudding."

BRAN MUFFINS
1 (15 oz.) pkg. raisin bran
5 cups flour
3 cups sugar
5 tsp. baking soda
2 tsp. salt
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup oil
1 quart buttermilk
Pour 1/2 cup buttermilk into bowl; add baking soda and let set. Mix dry ingredients (in at least a 3-quart bowl); add eggs, oil, buttermilk and finally the buttermilk/soda mixture. Mix by hand. Batter, at this point, can be stored in refrigerator for up to 2 months. When ready to bake, grease muffin pan; pour in batter filling muffin tin to 2/3 full. Bake at 400 degrees for 18-20 minutes. Makes 5 dozen. These also freeze well.

TENNESSEE "PUDDING"

1 tsp. soda
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 cups sugar
2 sticks margarine (or butter)
4 eggs, beaten
3-1/2 cups flour
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup shredded coconut
1 tsp. vanilla

Dissolve soda in buttermilk. Cream margarine and sugar and add to buttermilk mixture. Add eggs. Sift flour into mixture. Add nuts, dates, coconut and vanilla and mix well. Bake in a greased tube pan at 325 degrees for 1-1/2 hours. Pour hot sauce over hot cake and leave until it cools before removing from pan.

ORANGE SAUCE
1-1/2 cups orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
Heat orange juice and sugar over low heat until sugar dissolves. Stir while heating.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: Man cannot live by bread alone, but he certainly cannot live without it.

Sue Haugh is a free-lance food columnist. Her articles will appear periodically in the Herald's Life! section on Wednesdays.

Lucky Leprechaun brownies are low in fat and calories. They're made with cocoa, light corn oil spread and egg whites. The baked brownies are drizzled with a mint green frosting.

Who makes breakfast these days? According to a survey by Aunt Jemima, it's still Mom in 61 percent of households. Dad and the kids are just about even at 15 percent and 13 percent respectively.

But on weekends, more dads chip in — 21 percent — and more kids —

15 percent.

It's enough to give you a stomachache ... this Easter season, Americans will spend $885 million on candies, Brach's candy makers estimates. Brach's itself will produce 26 million marshmallow and cream eggs.

The United States sent a bread-baking team to France this year for the World Cup of Baking. No winners, but team captain Rick Kirby of Berkeley, Calif., received mention for his baguette.

In coming weeks, you'll find more and more foods have all the ingredients and nutrition information listed on the package, according to Food Insight, a trade information group. Under federal law, all foods must have such information on packages by May 8.

Here's a little cookbook that is utterly out of vogue. "Cooking for Your Evil Twin: Devilishly Tempting Recipes for the Modern Woman" offers recipes full of fat, salt and other ingredients that people crave but have been warned against. The book also urges women to eat for all the wrong reasons — "after your boyfriend leaves, your car payment bounces, your pantyhose runs, your blind date flops."

It's by Ann Wall Frank, pictured on the cover with a big smile and a huge, gooey cake. Published by Plume. $8. Small paperback.

Microwaved asparagus makes elegant treat

By WOODENE MERRIMAN
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Those who don't, can't and won't zap, should try asparagus. It could make a believer out of you.

Microwaving asparagus is as easy as breaking off and discarding the tough ends, washing the spears under running water, then placing them, spoke-like, on a round plate with the tender tips toward the center, covering with waxed paper and microwaving on high until they are bright green and crisp tender.

Peeling the stems or not is up to you. Sometimes the peel gets a little prune-like; peeling prevents this.

The asparagus spears also can be cut, on the diagonal, into 2-inch pieces before zapping. Then the pieces can be stirred during the zapping to make them cook more evenly. If you are concerned that the stem pieces are very tough, zap them a minute first, then add the more tender tips.

I tested both these recipes with cut pieces of asparagus, and they worked well.

ASPARAGUS WITH THYME AND ORANGE BUTTER

1 pound asparagus
2 teaspoons butter
1/4 teaspoon grated orange peel
Pinch thyme
Hold each asparagus spear in both hands and snap off the tough part. Use a swivel-bladed vegetable peeler to peel the spears, leaving on a slice of peel here and there for color.

Arrange the spears on a flat plate in a starburst design with the tender tips at the center. Cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave on high (100 percent) for 4 to 5 minutes, depending on the thickness and toughness of the spears. Let them stand for 2 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine the butter, orange peel and thyme in a small bowl, cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave on full power until the butter is melted, about 40 seconds. Toss the asparagus with the butter and serve warm or room temperature. Makes 4 servings.

(Source: "Healthy Microwave Cooking," by Judith Benn Hurley) SESAME FLAVORED ASPARAGUS
1 1/2 pounds pencil-thin asparagus, bottom ends trimmed

Juice of 1/2 lemon

1 tablespoon dark sesame oil
1 tablespoon oyster sauce
2 teaspoons sesame seeds

A little freshly ground black pepper to taste
Place the asparagus in a large shallow dish. Mix together the remaining ingredients and pour over the asparagus. Toss until all the asparagus are lightly coated. Seal airtight and microwave on high for 1/2 minutes. Carefully uncover, toss and serve. Makes 6 servings.

To toast sesame seeds: Spread 2 teaspoons to 1/4 cup sesame seeds evenly over a large plate. Microwave on high, uncovered, for 6 to 8 minutes, until lightly toasted.

Steers knock out Snyder with nine-run fifth

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

After 4 1/2 painfully slow innings Tuesday at Steer Park, Big Spring fans had to be wondering not only if the Steers would beat Snyder, but would both teams beat darkness.

The Steers squashed any worries, however, in the bottom of the fifth.

For their second straight game, the Steers (8-2) crushed opposing pitching in the bottom of the fifth. Saturday, Big Spring scored seven en route to an 8-7 win over Plano at Brownwood, and Tuesday it scored nine to turn a 3-2 duel into a 12-2 walk in the park.

Snyder (4-5) couldn't record an out in its nightmarish fifth. Brandon Rogers led off the inning with a walk, and Todd Parrish doubled to put runners on second and third. A wild pitch brought Rogers home, and then Brandon Hamblin walked. That was all for Snyder starter Curt Rinehart

(1-1) - in came reliever Brian Lickey. Louis Bustamante walked to the load the bases, the Steers leading 4-2. Ricky Gonzales hit a chopper to Rinehart, now at third base, but Rinehart tried for the forceout at home before he grabbed the ball. Rinehart dropped the ball and didn't retire anyone. That was about the time you could smell what was going to happen.

Big Spring led 8-2, the bases still loaded with none out, when Mike Oliva cranked a liner into the gap in right-center field. The result was a 3-run triple for Oliva, who was 3 for 4 on the day. Rogers, batting for the second time in the inning, lined a single up the middle to end the game by way of the 10-run rule. Gonzales, who came on in relief of Parrish in the third, picked up the win in his first decision of the season.

Big Spring statistics were impressive Tuesday - 10 hits and no errors - but Steer coach Bobby Doe is still looking for more.

"I felt like we didn't really play well, we weren't really enthusiastic at first," said Doe, whose team is off to its fastest start in recent memory. "We tried to come on about the fourth inning and play."

Doe said Big Spring's long weekend at the Brownwood tournament had his team looking tired at the start of the game. Whatever the reason, the first few innings hinted at a down-to-the-wire contest.

Parrish started for the Steers and struck out the first two batters of the game, but he struggled after that, walking six of the 13 batters he faced. Snyder loaded the bases in the second and scored the first run of the game on Lickey's single, but Parrish struck out Nathan Zalman and John Clinkenbeard to escape further damage.

Parrish walked three straight batters to start the third, and Doe moved Parrish to center field to bring his designated hitter, Gonzales, to the mound. Gonzales immediately put out the fire, though he had a lot of help from Snyder.

Snyder's Jimmy Henry greeted Gonzales with an RBI single that third baseman Oliva knocked down but had to eat. Snyder led 2-0 and still had the bases loaded with none out, but Hamblin, Big Spring's catcher, caught Henry leading off first a bit too far. Hamblin fired to first baseman Rogers, who ran Henry toward an occupied second base before tagging him out.

Rogers then fired the ball to Oliva, who tagged out Snyder's Gene Pollard as Pollard tried to return to third base. A rare doubleplay - considering it didn't result from a batted ball - cost the Tigers a potentially huge inning.

"When we had a chance to break it open on them, we didn't, and when they had a chance - that's the difference between winning and losing," said Snyder coach Albert Lewis. "The winner finds a way to break it open."

"We're hardly ever afraid to throw the ball when there's people on base," Doe said. "We're confident in our arms, so when we see an opportunity like that, we're going to take advantage of it."

Parrish had a tough day on the mound, but he more than made up for it at the plate. In the third, the Steers had the bases loaded and one out when Parrish delivered on a 3-2 pitch with a two-run single through the left side to tie the game. Big Spring took the lead in the fourth on David Akin's RBI fielder's choice.

Slightly overshadowed by the Steers' fifth-inning onslaught was the fabulous relief work of Gonzales, who in three innings of work allowed one hit, walked one and struck out two. He retired the last four batters he faced.

"That's Ricky's second time to pitch this year, and he came in and throw strikes, and he threw well," Doe said.

Big Spring plays Thursday at 11 a.m. against Lamesa in the first round of the Snyder tournament. If last weekend's third-place finish at Brownwood and the fast start are any indication, the Steers could be bringing home some more hardware before this weekend is through.

Detroit stuns Sonics; Rockets beat Blazers

By The Associated Press

Home losses by Seattle and road victories by Detroit are rarities unlikely to intersect.

The SuperSonics took an NBA-best 25-3 home record into Tuesday night's game at Seattle Coliseum, while the Pistons had a 7-21 road record. But Detroit shocked the home crowd with a 9-1 game-ending run and an 89-87 victory.

"By far, this was our biggest win of the year," Pistons coach Don Chaney said. "We won a game against a team that will most likely be in the finals and possibly win a championship."

Seattle led 86-80 with 2:30 left before Detroit started its 9-1 burst that ended the Sonics' seven-game homecourt winning streak.

Rookie Lindsey Hunter had five points during the spurt, and Terry Mills' long jumper from the corner with 43 seconds left was the game-winner.

For NBA Standings, page 10

Isiah Thomas led the Pistons with 20 points as Detroit won for the fourth time in five games.

"It felt like old times out there," Thomas said, referring to the Pistons' back-to-back NBA titles in 1989 and 1990. They are 17-46 this year, with losing streaks as long as 14 games.

Shawn Kemp led the Sonics with 24 points and 11 rebounds, but Seattle was held scoreless for 8:33 in the second half while Detroit erased a 73-62 deficit.

"We had such a rhythm and confidence that we knew we could beat these guys," said Thomas, who made eight of 12 shots from the field.

Chaney countered Seattle's quickness with a four-guard offense with Thomas, Joe Dumars, Hunter and Allan Houston, along with Mills.

"This should help them (Hunter and Houston) when they get to play in a tough game like this," Thomas said.

Sonics coach George Karl was frustrated by his team's performance.

"I hope we wake up and realize that we have to win against non-playoff teams just as much as we have to play hard against the San Antonio and Houston," Karl said.

Rockets 105, Trail Blazers 99

Hakeem Olajuwon had 41 points and Houston outscored Portland 28-12 in the fourth quarter, extending the Trail Blazers' losing streak to three games.

The Rockets held Portland to six points in the first 10:39 of the fourth quarter, turning an 87-77 deficit into a 100-93 lead.

Otis Thorpe had 24 points and 16 rebounds for Houston, 25-5 at home. Olajuwon, who had his first game with at least 30 points since March 5, also had 13 rebounds, six assists, two steals and two blocks.

Warriors 123, Bulls 93

Golden State won its eighth straight home game behind Chris Gatling's 20 points and 13 rebounds against Washington, now 0-5 on the road against the Pacific Division this season.

Don MacLean scored 35 points on 11-for-19 shooting for the Bulls, but his teammates were 19-for-60 against the Warriors, who shot 60 percent from the field.

Chris Webber added 17 points and 10 rebounds for Golden State.

Clippers 108, Jazz 105

Ron Harper scored 32 points and Dominique Wilkins 31 for Los Angeles, which rallied from 20 points down to beat Utah for its season-high fourth consecutive victory.

The Clippers, who trailed 50-30 midway through the second quarter, won despite Karl Malone's 34 points and 14 rebounds for the visiting Jazz, who lost for only the third time in 12 games. Malone missed a 3-pointer with three seconds left after Harper made it 108-105 with 10 seconds remaining.

Suns 119, Cavaliers 106

Phoenix won its fourth straight, all on the road, behind Dan Majerle's 34 points and a brilliant third quarter against Cleveland.

The Suns made 18 of 20 shots in the third period, outscoring the Cavaliers 42-27.

Cleveland played without all three of its 1993 All-Stars - Mark Price (back spasms), Brad Daugherty (back injury) and Larry Nance (bad knee) - and lost its third straight since matching its franchise record with 11 consecutive wins.

John Williams had 22 points for the Cavaliers and Cedric Ceballos scored 25 for Phoenix.

Knicks 88, Pacers 82

New York extended its winning streak to seven as Patrick Ewing scored 26 points and Hubert Davis and Derek Harper made key plays down the stretch against visiting Indiana.

The Knicks led 70-57 late in the third quarter before a 19-4 run put the Pacers in front with 5:03 left. Davis then put the Knicks ahead with a 3-pointer and Harper followed with a three-point play, making it 80-76.

New York's league-leading defense then held the Pacers to six points in the last five minutes. Reggie Miller led Indiana with 22 points.

Bulls 108, Magic 98

Chicago gained momentum at home when coach Phil Jackson was ejected in the third quarter, sparking a 10-1 run.

Scottie Pippen scored 25 points and Horace Grant 24 for the Bulls, who finished the third period with a 77-75 lead, then outscored the Magic 31-23 in the fourth.

Shaquille O'Neal led Orlando with 23 points.

Heat 101, Bucks 94

Glen Rice scored 14 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter as Miami went eight games over .500 for the first time in franchise history with a victory over visiting Milwaukee.

Steve Smith had 27 points and 10 rebounds, Rony Seikaly 10 points and 14 rebounds and Brian Shaw 14 points and 12 assists for the Heat, while Grant Long added 14 points and nine rebounds.

Eric Murdock scored 32 points for Milwaukee, tying his career high.

Timberwolves 96, 76ers 87

Stacey King scored six straight points in a 10-0 run early in the fourth quarter that helped Minnesota snap an eight-game losing streak.

King had 16 points and eight rebounds to lead a 59-21 bench-scoring advantage for the Wolves, who won for just the third time in 23 games and improved its home record to 11-21. Isiah Rider led Minnesota with 21 points.

Clarence Weatherspoon scored 16 points and Eric Leckner grabbed 17 rebounds for the 76ers, who have lost 16 of 17 games.

The legend lives on

A 20-x-25 foot picture of Nolan Ryan is removed from Arlington Stadium Tuesday. The picture was auctioned off for $1,300 last year to Jim Shaw, who was on hand to have it delivered. He has no immediate plans for it. Arlington Stadium is being dismantled as the new ballpark is being erected.

Here's your March Madness survival guide

Low-budget sitcoms are safe. No television show is more predictable than the NCAA Tournament Selection Show.

"This is such a grueling process," the chairman of the selection committee, whoever it is, whines each year. "We were up well into this morning getting this field together. The upsets in the conference tournaments kept us working."

Cry a blue river! Don't you know three or four people, including yourself, who would gladly take over the selection process?

Get together Saturday night in the hotel room, call the pizza place, bring in the snacks and get on it. Pick and seed the teams in two hours, then chow down while you watch Saturday Night Live. It would be a bona fide blast.

Don't think these NCAA bigshots don't get a power rush tinkering with the field of perhaps the most exciting sports event in the world. They love every minute of it.

At least we've got our own selection committees. We can't pick the teams that go to the tournament, but we can certainly pick the ones that will survive.

The only problem is that little matter of being wrong.

The key to picking the NCAA Tournament is picking the Cinderellas - which of the teams you've never heard of are going to the Sweet 16? If you picked 12th-seeded George Washington and 13th-seeded Southern-Baton Rouge last year, you looked like Nostradamus, since both won first-round games and played each other in the second round. If you picked the Delaware Fightin' Blue Hens, your eggs were smashed. But you have to take the risk. At least one Cinderella makes it to the Sweet 16 ball every year.

If you're trolling for some possible Cinderellas, start looking through the following tourney predictions:

EAST REGION

Sweet 16 Squads - North Carolina, Temple, Nebraska and Connecticut
Best Bet for Upset - No. 12 seed Ohio over No. 5 Indiana
Final Four Team - Watch Carolina beat UConn in the regional final.

The four-team grouping of Nebraska, Pennsylvania, James Madison and Florida is the weakest in the tournament. Florida is the weakest No. 3 seed in years, so by default take Nebraska to the Sweet 16 simply because the 'Huskies are hot, having just won the Big 8 Tournament. What did you say? Nebraska always loses in the first round? You're right - gulp! - but sweat it out with the 'Huskies.

SOUTHEAST REGION

Sweet 16 Squads - Providence, Charleston, Kentucky and Duke
Best Bet for Upset - No. 12 Charleston over No. 5 Wake Forest
Final Four Team - Duke beats Providence to make it to the Final Four in Charlotte, where the house will be rocking for Duke vs. North Carolina.

This is the region to look for

Repeating is in the air. The Dallas Cowboys have won two straight Super Bowls, the Toronto Blue Jays two straight World Series and the Chicago Bulls three straight NBA Finals. With that in mind, plus the fact the Tar Heels happen to be the best team in the country, take North Carolina to beat Louisville in the championship game.

WEST REGION
Sweet 16 Squads - Missouri, California, Louisville, Virginia
Best Bet for Upset - No. 11 Southern Illinois over No. 6 Minnesota
Final Four Team - Louisville slams Missouri in the regional final.

Purdue is an awful No. 1 seed and will lose to Providence in the second round. The selection committee (those poor, overworked folks) made a gutsy call giving an at-large bid to the College of Charleston, and the Cougars will justify their selection. Here's a bonus upset special - take No. 13 Tennessee-Chattanooga over No. 4 Kansas. The Charleston Cougars meet the UTC Moccasins in the second-round game nobody wants.

Pick Virginia not because of their good ACC tournament run; pick it because they'll play Arizona, the worst of the tournament chokers, in the second round. Take the Salukis over Minnesota because the Golden Gophers still haven't found a way to play well away from home.

MIDWEST REGION

Sweet 16 Squads - Arkansas, Oklahoma State, Michigan and Massachusetts sets

Best Bet for Upset - No. 12 Tulsa over No. 5 UCLA

Final Four Team - It's getting old, but take Michigan over Arkansas in the regional final. Once again, Michigan will play a Kentucky team in the Final Four, but this time it's Louisville instead of Kentucky.

Oklahoma State and Tulsa win first-round games in Oklahoma City, then meet in the second round. Texas received a No. 6 seed but drew Western Kentucky, a Sweet 16 team from last season. The Longhorns will exit quickly.

Repeating is in the air. The Dallas Cowboys have won two straight Super Bowls, the Toronto Blue Jays two straight World Series and the Chicago Bulls three straight NBA Finals. With that in mind, plus the fact the Tar Heels happen to be the best team in the country, take North Carolina to beat Louisville in the championship game.

You can take the Tar Heels to the bank. Now, about Charleston making the Sweet 16...

Here's hoping the glass slipper will be the right size.

YMCA forming youth track team

The Big Spring Family YMCA has a coed track team for ages 5 and up that meets Thursdays at 6 p.m. The class emphasize motor skills, agility and stamina. Running events will include the 50-meter run as well as the 100, 200, 400 and 1600. Field events will include the long jump, high jump and softball throw.

The class costs $10 for members and $15 for nonmembers. Call 267-8234 or stop by 801 Owens St. for more information. The deadline to register for the class is April 11, and the first class is April 14.

The YMCA also is planning cheerleading and tumbling classes.

These one-week sessions will meet Monday through Thursdays and will emphasize basic cheerleading skills, such as motions, jumps and stunts. Class will include cheers, choreography and tumbling.

There will be six sessions between May 30 and July 26.

Golf tournament helps quake victims

A golf tournament benefitting the victims of the recent Los Angeles earthquake will be held March 26 at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

The event, which will be a four-man scramble, is sponsored by the Big Spring Federal Correction Institute's Affirmative Action Committee. Registration fee is $11 per person.

All proceeds will go toward earthquake relief efforts.

For more information, contact Jeff Ganselman or Charlie Marmolejo at FCI. The phone number is 263-8304.

Big Spring softball continues registration

Registration at Neal's Sporting Goods will continue through March 19, and an additional sign-up location will be at the Big Spring Mall March 19.

There will be no late sign-ups. Players should bring a copy of their birth certificate when registering.

For more information, call 263-7206.

Snakefest IV touney slated

The Snakefest IV men's slo-pitch softball tournament will be March 25-27 in Big Spring.

The tournament, which will be at Cotton Mize and Roy Anderson fields, will be a double-elimination format with a three-game guarantee.

Registration fee is $120 per team, and prizes include trophies, bat bags and T-shirts.

In addition, there will be contests for home run hitting, best arm and fastest man.

Entry deadline is March 23. For more information, contact Chuck Martin at 263-5279 or Jesse Rios at 263-6065.

Braves hand Gant his walking papers

By The Associated Press

WEST-PALM BEACH, Fla. — While Ron Gant looks for a new team, the Atlanta Braves will wait to see how much they owe him.

Gant, who reached career highs of 36 home runs and 117 RBIs last season, was released by the Braves on Tuesday. He may not be ready to play until the All-Star break because of a broken leg, injured in a dirt-bike accident Feb. 3, a week after he signed a one-year contract for $5.5 million.

"We are sorry that this unfortunate accident occurred," Braves general manager John Schuerholz said. "Since he is unavailable to perform as a result of this accident and, according to our doctors, will be rehabilitating for an extended period of time, we have decided to take this action."

Because Gant was put on waivers before 2 p.m. EST, it was thought the Braves only owed him 30 days' termination pay, about $906,593. But Braves president Stan Kasten said the team had been advised by the owners' Player Relations Committee to pay Gant nothing at all.

Atlanta could argue that Gant violated his contract by putting himself at risk. Gant's agent, Eric Goldschmidt, said this week that he would ask the Major League Baseball Players Association to file a grievance if Gant was cut, meaning an arbitrator may decide how much the Braves must pay.

"I'm not aware of any basis under the Basic Agreement of how the club could be relieved of all obligations," said Eugene Orza, the union's associate general counsel. "The PRC has had interesting theories in the past, but fortunately, from the player's interest, the theories have been more interesting than sound."

Gant, 29, has averaged almost 30 home runs, 97 RBIs and 31 steals in the last four years. Without him, the Braves will try to win their fourth straight division title with either young Tony Tarasco, Ryan Klesko or Chipper Jones in Gant's spot in left field.

Any team can claim Gant off waivers until 2 p.m. EST Friday, but would be responsible for his entire salary. If Gant is not claimed, he can make a deal with any team at any price. Schuerholz said the Braves would consider re-signing Gant if he is healthy.

The two-time World Series champion Blue Jays were said to be among the teams interested in Gant, mostly because they have only Rob Butler and other youngsters in left field. Toronto general manager Pat Gillick, however, said no way.

OU-Texas will stay in Dallas through '98

By The Associated Press

NORMAN, Okla. — The University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas will continue to play out their 64-year-old rivalry in Dallas, at least until 1998.

The University of Oklahoma Board of Regents voted unanimously Tuesday to keep the annual OU-Texas football game at the Cotton Bowl.

The regents made the decision despite pleas to boost Norman's economy by changing the game to a home-and-away basis.

"There are very few traditions left around any university any more," board Chairman E. Murray Gullatt said before the vote. "We've got a chance to preserve a great one as far as I'm concerned."

OU and Texas fans have met in Dallas since 1930. In recent years, thousands of fans have turned the streets into a chaotic mass of pre- and post-game partying.

The game has helped both schools recruit and win recognition by attracting a national television audience.

"I don't know that there is a bigger college game in Texas," said Donnie Duncan, University of Oklahoma athletic director. "It's a national attraction."

University of Texas athletic director DeLoss Dodds said his school had no intention of ever changing sites.

"It's not an issue down here. We want it in Dallas and Oklahoma wants it in Dallas. And that's business as usual," Dodds said.

The board's decision failed to silence those who had sought to move the event to Norman.

"This is not a decision that favors the students or the people of Oklahoma," said E.Z. Million, a member of the Sooner Chamber of Commerce, which has lobbied adamantly for the move.

The group represents small business owners in central Oklahoma, but Million could not say how many.

The board's decision, he said, will hurt students who get paid to work at athletic events and harm Norman businesses already suffering from declining attendance at home games.

But, he vowed, the fight will continue. "OU will have a new president. The state will have a new governor," Million said.

Dear Abby - Letters...

No reason to hide with whistle-blower law
DEAR ABBY: My employer is being sued for sexual harassment. I, and at least a dozen other employees, must give a deposition very soon. We have discussed whether or not to tell what we have seen for fear of losing our jobs.
The executives, from the top on down (including the head of personnel), have harassed some women and created a hostile environment here.
I have recently heard there is a law in Florida called the "whistle-blower's law," which supposedly protects an employee who has reported an employer for sexual harassment.
DEAR ABBY: I had never heard of the "whistle-blower's law," but my staff called the Florida Department of Labor and Employment Security Office in Tallahassee, and were told there is, indeed, such a law.
DEAR ABBY: Most fast-food places have a policy about pets brought into their establishment: It's OK if the pet is on a leash. My fiancé and I brought our pet iguana into an establishment in Chula Vista.
This place had a sign up that said, "No dogs allowed unless accompanied by a disabled person," but it didn't say anything about other pets on a leash, so we assumed it was OK.

Cowboys' Gesek jumps to Redskins

By The Associated Press
 ASHBURN, Va. — The Redskins under Norv Turner are continuing to rebuild, with Dallas Cowboys offensive lineman John Gesek following Dallas' former offensive coordinator to Washington.
 Redskins officials confirmed late Tuesday they have agreed to terms with the 31-year-old free agent lineman and expect to sign him to a contract in the next day or so.
 The 285-pound Gesek was a guard at Dallas, but the Redskins are signing him as a center, the position he prefers. Washington's current center, Raleigh McKenzie, is expected to move to right guard.
 The Washington Post reported in Wednesday's editions, citing unnamed sources, that the Redskins have made a three-year, $4.2 million offer to Cowboys fullback Daryl Johnston. That would make Johnston the highest-paid fullback in the NFL.
 The newspaper also reported the deal with Gesek is for three years and is worth $3.6 million.
 The Post said Gesek will be paid $800,000 in 1994, $900,000 in 1995 and $1 million in 1996, and will receive a $900,000 signing bonus that will be pro-rated over the three years.
 Dallas dropped out of the bidding at a three-year, $3 million offer, the Post said, citing unnamed sources.
 "We've spent whatever it takes on our main guys," Cowboys vice president Stephen Jones said.
 "We've been through that exercise with Emmitt (Smith) and Troy (Aikman) and all that. So we can't categorize it all one guy is worth putting all of our marbles into ... We knew it was going to be hard from the start with (Gesek). Once it got up into significant numbers, we were trying to be as strong as we could be. But we also knew it was going to be very difficult," Jones said.

National tournament begins for JUCO men

By The Associated Press
 HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Bernard Hopkins scored 8 consecutive overtime points to lead Hagerstown, Md. 97-96 past Polk, Fla. in the National Junior College tournament.
 Other first-round winners Tuesday were Monroe, N.Y., Salt Lake City, Hutchinson, Kan., Chattanooga Valley and Connors State, Okla.
 Hopkins paced Hagerstown (29-4) with 22 points. Duane Rogers scored 32 points to lead Polk (30-6).
 A 14-point second half for Aaron Morrison helped Monroe (30-1) gain an 83-79 victory over Northland Pioneer, Ariz. (29-4).
 Charles Overton and Marcel Johnson scored 19 points apiece to carry Salt Lake (26-8) past Kilgore 71-64. Osita Nwachuku paced Kilgore (21-11) with 13 points.
 Roy Hairston scored 31 points as Hutchinson, Kan., (32-4) beat Bossier Parish, La., 99-83. Bossier Parish (28-5) was led by Anthony Cook with 22 points.
 Rod Richardson scored 19 points in the first half as Chattanooga Valley (29-5) beat Hiwassee 109-87.
 Richardson finished with 29 points, while Damon Johnson led Hiwassee (25-9) with 24 points.
 Cyrus Jones scored 20 points and the 7-foot Haley twins, Simeon and Sammie, combined for 22 rebounds as Connors State (30-3) downed Atlanta, Ga., Metro College 79-68.
 Atlanta Metro (28-7) was led by Curtis Carrington with 27 points.
 Today, Western Nebraska plays Midland, Texas at 1 p.m. and Three Rivers, Mo. faces Lincoln Trail, Ill. at 2:45 p.m. in first round games.
 The Loser's Bracket in second round games pits Bossier Parish against Hiwassee at 4:30 p.m. Playing in the second round winner's bracket, Hutchinson tips off against Chattanooga Valley at 7:30 p.m., while Connors State goes against Salt Lake City at 9:15 p.m.
