Student contest winners to be awarded tonight

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The theme was "If I Could Give the World a Gift" and 390 Big Spring Independent School District students took it to heart when they participated in the Cultural Arts and EPA Environmental Contests.

The contests are sponsored by the Big Spring PTA City Council and are conducted each year in the kindergarten through fifth grade classes in BSISD. Each student entered a project in one of several cultural categories such as literature, visual arts, photography and music or the child could enter the environmental contest by drawing a picture that would fit the theme "Save Our Seas: Help Stop Marine Debris."

"After the projects were completed, each school would vote on first, second and third place winners to go to the PTA City Council for judging by people within the community. From there, the judges would pick overall first, second and third place

Single parent problems topic of seminar

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Being a parent these days can be challenging and at times even harder if you are a single parent. Addressing the special problems of raising children alone is something that Howard College will be doing at Tuesday's Brown Bag Seminar.

There are reports that indicate a 50 percent divorce rate in the country and many of those divorced have children. "There is a significant number of single parents in our area as well as others in the country. This is an issue we found to be present at the college and we want to address those needs," said Howard College Child Care and Development Specialist Rebecca Moughon.

"There are special needs of single parents and there seems to be a lack of support groups in our area for these people. They need the attention and support to cope with this issue," said Moughon.

Being a single parent can be hard because the mother or father does not have the backup they need to make decisions in the household. "There is no one for you to bounce ideas off of, you have to rely on yourself and your experiences to discipline a child."

"There is only one income and I'm sure there are lots of single parents here who have to rely on federal assistance to make ends meet. Also not having family members or a wealth of friends is something the single parent has to deal with," Moughon said.

"The world is getting tougher and the cost of living keeps going up. There is a need and desire for single parents to further their education and it can be challenging."

Moughon will be addressing the Brown Bag Seminar tomorrow in the Howard College Tumbleweed Room located in the Student Union Building. The course runs from noon until 1 p.m. and is free of charge and open to the public.

However, seating is limited so contact the college at 264-5020 to make sure there is room. The cafeteria will be open for you to purchase a lunch or you can bring your own food if you wish.

BSSH passes

Inspection team finds few faults

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

"Well, the bottom line is we passed," Big Spring State Hospital Superintendent Robert von Rosenberg told employees Friday afternoon at a general assembly marking the conclusion of a week-long hospital accreditation survey by the Joint Commission for Accreditation of Health Care Organizations.

"The surveyors were extremely impressed with the staff's attitude and team approach," said von Rosenberg. "We made an impact on them with our cleanliness and how neat the grounds were. They said we were so far ahead in the Information Management section, that they might send people from Chicago to learn from us."

However, while reports of the successful survey drew applause from employees, von Rosenberg announced that there were also four "Type 1" contingencies. Receiving a Type 1 contingency means the hospital is only accredited if certain corrections are made.

It is the first time BSSH has ever received a Type 1 contingency. However, 1994 also marks a different approach to hospital accreditation surveying.

"There are a whole new set of standards that are scored differently and we were the first state hospital to be surveyed under those standards," von Rosenberg explained. "We were told that we would still be surveyed under the 1993 guidelines but that wasn't the case."

Assistant superintendent Ed Moughon said, "This survey looked every bit as good as the others we've been through, maybe better. But this year, they looked very differently."

Receiving a contingency doesn't reflect poor hospital care. The national guidelines cover every working aspect of the health care organization.

BSSH received their contingencies primarily for not having written plans in place showing futuristic goals.

"What they want is a plan in writing and a curriculum in place for accomplishing that plan," von Rosenberg explained. He said that many of the programs in place at the hospital impressed the surveyors but the surveyors wanted those programs to "look more to the future."

The community mental health care services were also commended. "They said we were providing high quality service with the resources we have available," explained Shelley Smith, Director of Community Services. "They were especially impressed by the team attitude exhibited by the staff."

Von Rosenberg thanked the staff for their diligence in preparing for the survey.

BSFCI making plans to contain prison growth

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Prison overcrowding is a problem that continues to grow as more and more people are being put behind bars.

In fact, there are 90,000 federal inmates in the United States and there will continue to be a growth of about 1,000 new inmates per month at the federal level.

Officials at the Big Spring Federal Correctional Institute are aware of this growth and within the next five years may make some changes to house 400 to 800 more inmates, according to Executive Assistant Larry Steward.

"We are looking at our options. We could renovate the existing buildings or build new housing. We will look at what is the most cost effective and wise," said Steward.

The U.S. Department of Justice has recently released the Bureau of Prisons' goals for 1994 and building more space to house inmates is just one of the goals the Big Spring institution is looking at.

Another goal for the prison is to hire more minorities. "Right now, we have 258 people on staff and we would like more minorities in the workforce. We live in a diverse community in Big Spring and we want our workforce to reflect that," said Steward.

"Sixty percent of our inmates are Hispanic and of that, 57 percent are non-U.S. citizens," he added. "We need more Hispanic and bilingual employees for that reason. We have 12 Native Americans, 14 African-Americans, 30 females and 45 Hispanic employees right now and we are looking to increase that."

One other goal the prison is working toward is having a Special Operation and Response Team (SORT). "We don't have one right now at this institution and the nearest SORT team is 300 miles away," Steward explained. "We have requested budgeting and funding for our own SORT. We need one locally that is equipped and trained to respond immediately to any situation we may have."

Another thing the Federal Bureau of Prisons

Area youth win big at livestock show

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

Several area youth gained top honors at the Houston Livestock Show held recently.

As a crowd of more than 65,000 watched on video monitors in the Houston Astrodome, Garden City's Angie Strube's eyes filled with tears when her 241 pound pig, Hermon, was named Grand Champion Barrow.

"My dreams came true," said Strube, a senior at Garden City High School.

Strube attributes her success to treating Hermon as a pet and teaching the hog a few tricks, endearing him to the crowd and to the judges.

Strube has taught her pig how to roll over and play dead. Before the contest, Strube said, "I just hope Hermon doesn't play dead tonight when the judge will choose the Grand Champion Barrow!" Strube is the daughter of Jimmy and Carolyn Strube. She has a twin sister, Audrie, who won fourth place in the Duroc division of the Junior Market Barrow Show.

"After 10 years, Angie finally did it!" exclaimed Audrie.

Strube has been exhibiting livestock at the show for 10 years. Strube said she will use Hermon's winnings to pay feed bills and to set up a college fund.

In the Spotted Poland division of the Barrow show, a Coahoma youth, Mandi Hanslik, took the Champion Reserve trophy with her pig Rolly. Hanslik was a first-time exhibitor to the show, winning second in the heavy weight class.

Hanslik, a sixth grader at Coahoma Elementary school, is the daughter of Sid and Iva Jo Hanslik. She also exhibited a lamb.

Hanslik, 11, said her agriculture

In the Junior Market Steer Show, Meagan Mims of Stanton walked away with the Reserve Champion Hereford Steer title. Her steer, Moses, weighed 1,211 pounds.

Mims is an eleven-year-old sixth grader at Grady Elementary school and is the daughter of Brenda and Ricky Mims. Mims is no stranger to the showing. She exhibited the Champion Hereford Market Steer last year.

The Calf Scramble Awards Banquet was March 4. Garden City's Jason Phillips proudly accepted five awards for outstanding achievement.

FISD recipient of award for its employee safety

By BARBARA MORRISON Staff Writer

FORSAN — "We've just been lucky," was Forsan school superintendent George White's response when asked how he felt about receiving an award for outstanding employee safety recently.

The award is given annually by the North Texas Educational Insurance Association. The association consists of 104 participating school districts throughout northern and central Texas.

The purpose of the award is to recognize districts that have had both the number and severity of employee accidents to a very low level.

The district is a member of a uniquely designed partially self-funded workers' compensation program. The combined savings during the 1992 - 93 school year, for all participating districts was over $1.4 million when compared to the cost of fully insured programs.

"We really haven't implemented a single program that made the difference," White explained, "but instead we've just had a good record for the past couple of years. I guess we just stay pretty safety conscious."

According to Hibbs-Hallmark & Co., program developer, the total savings for all districts since inception of the program in 1991 has exceeded $11 million dollars.

The Forsan Independent School District was a "Diamond" award recipient with the actual losses from employee accidents equaling less than 10 percent of the fund set aside by the district for claims expenses. This resulted in an actual savings to the FISD of $43,144.

Barry Jones, president of Claims Administrative Services, Inc., administrator of the program, stated "the taxpayers should also be pleased to know that the board of trustees and the administrative staff of the FISD is doing everything possible to insure a safe working environment for its employees while reducing the cost of workers' compensation insurance."

Police

The Big Spring Police Department's office reported the following incidents:

- A major accident at the intersection of 7th and Scurry sent two individuals, Addie Byrd and Demetria Marin Reyna, to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, where they both were treated for minor injuries, and released. Byrd was ticketed for failure to yield right of way.
- Ben Torres was arrested for assault/family violence; bonded out.
- Jose Cervantes was arrested for assault/family violence; paid fine and was released.
- Arrested for public intoxication over the spring break weekend were: Jimmy E. Rodriguez, Michael Miller, Frank Ramirez Cortinez, Martin Flores Mata, Edward Orlando Ramirez, Jose Manuel Holguin and David S. Rodriguez. All were released, either after bonding out, paying fine, or laying out fine.
- Robert E. Tindol was arrested for local warrants; laid out fine.
- Gilbert Martanez arrested for DWI, transferred to county jail.
- Assault/family violence complaints were filed in the 900 block of S. Goliad, the 1100 block of E. 2 and in the 1700 block of E. Marcy.
- J.D. Stoker was arrested for DWI and transferred to county jail.
- A dormitory room at Howard College was burglarized; 30 compact discs, an expensive pair of tennis shoes and a jacket were stolen.
- At 306 E. 6, a burglary reported the theft of a color T.V., a telephone and answering machine, a VCR, and a $875 rack-stereo system.
- Other thefts/burglaries were reported at 1002 Stanford, 1415 E. 6, 1507 Lancaster and 1217 Mobile.

Prison

wants its local entities to do is provide a healthy environment by getting staff and inmates involved in recycling and energy conservation.

The prison is environmentally conscious and is mandated by federal law to recycle. "We recycle cardboard, aluminum and steel cans, paint, freon, oil, computer ribbons and white paper," Steward noted.

Another goal is to enhance inmate programs and services such as providing productive work and education so that the inmates are not idle.

"We have an electronic cable factory that employs 250 to 300 inmates," Steward explained. "Also, as U.S. citizen's, inmates are required to take 120 hours towards getting their GED if they don't have it. Also, Howard College provides courses to the inmates here at the prison."

"We have vocational training in electrical, plumbing, building trades and brick masonry. We provide meaningful educational work so the inmates are not idle all the time," Steward said.

Quite a few of the inmates are non-U.S. citizens, such as illegal aliens or Mexicans who cross the border to sell drugs. The prison offers a plan of action.

"Most of the inmates are here on drug related charges," Steward said. "We require them to take a 40-hour drug abuse educational and informative program."

"We want to end the revolving door syndrome where an inmate keeps coming back because they lack the education and skills to stay out."

Sheriff

The Howard County Sheriff Department's office reported the following incidents:

- Emzie Woodard Jr., 36 of Big Spring, arrested for issuance of a bad check in Tom Green County; $300 bond mailed to TGCSO.
- Thomas Wayne Olson, 17, of Lubbock was arrested for burglary of a coin-operated machine, posted $2000 bond.
- An air-conditioner was reported stolen from a house on the north IH-20 service road in Sand Springs, at Rt. 1, Box 582.

Council to discuss 'State-Use' program at Tuesday meeting

By TIM JONES Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council will meet Tuesday night at 5:30 p.m. at 2000 Air Park Drive West in Building 1106, to discuss:

- A State-Use program called "Unlimited Projects Inc.", an outreach program of the Abilene State School, to provide the City/County Health department with custodial services until the new building is occupied in the fall.
- A request for an animal permit at 900 Ohio by the family living there, which has met opposition by petitions signed by 66 residents living south of that residence in the Banks addition. During last Monday's city commission planning and zoning meeting, the animal permit proposal was called for a motion to approve or disapprove, and died for lack of a motion.
- A request to buy a vehicle for the Fire Department, for $14,840.66, out of the city's capitol revolving fund, to be repaid over a five year period at five percent interest.
- Consideration of an ordinance creating and approving a subdivision from a 0.3857 acre tract named the Gower subdivision.

Consideration of contributing financially to the coalition to assist getting Interstate 27 through Big Spring, Lamesa and San Angelo, via selection of U.S. 87 as a corridor route.

Some of the other items of business are: Considering an ordinance calling a special May 7, 1994 election and also to vote on amendments to the city charter, implementation of an employee salary program by the city manager, seeking a grant from the state's transportation department to retune the traffic lights at 3rd, 4th and Gregg Streets, consider approving a deferred compensation program and workers compensation amendments, finalizing an agreement with the Texas Department of Health, considering a lease of Air Park acreage for non-food crop farming, contracting for the upkeep of the Mt. Olive Memorial Park Cemetery, discussing the Moore Development Board and to discuss a city water system audit.

'Operation Blockade' drops border crime

By The Associated Press

EL PASO — "Operation Blockade" originally was supposed to be a two-week experiment.

That was six months ago, and officials say it has had such a dramatic effect reducing several categories of border crime that it will continue indefinitely and serve as a model for all along the Texas-Mexico border.

Since the operation began, auto theft has dropped 24 percent and illegal border crossings have dropped significantly, authorities say.

In addition, officials say, countless residents of Juarez, Mexico, who worked illegally as maids and gardeners in El Paso have found other jobs.

Silvestre Reyes, chief of Border Patrol operations in El Paso, devised the plan, which began Sept. 19. It's based upon more than 400 agents working around the clock along 20 miles of the border.

Reyes calls it "an overwhelming success of historical proportions." He has renamed it, "Operation Hold the Line."

Immigration and Naturalization Service Commissioner Doris Meissner praised the blockade during a visit to El Paso last week.

"Hold the Line was an extraordinarily successful innovation," she said. "My wish is that we maintain it and propagate it in other places throughout the border."

The plan is popular with the public, according to pollster Bill Kaigh of El Paso. He said polls he took during this month's primaries showed 84 percent to 95 percent support for it.

In the first four months of the program, overall crime reported in El Paso dropped nearly 10 percent compared with a year before.

In the first five months, arrests of undocumented immigrants in El Paso dropped 73 percent compared with a year ago, officials say.

Around the city, retail sales are reported up.

But the program does have detractors who say the tight watch has brought out undesirable traits in some residents.

"I've seen bigotry increase because of the rhetoric it was introduced with, all the fanfare about crime decreasing," said Suzan Kern of the Border Rights Coalition.

"All the implications were that the undesirable elements of our community were all illegal immigrants. A lot of people took that as permission to say all kinds of nasty things about illegal immigrants," she said.

A spokesman for the Mexican Consulate in El Paso said the measures have created "unnecessary tension" in U.S.-Mexican relations.

Fire department investigators examine one of the two World War II-era vintage airplanes that touched wings in midair and crashed near downtown San Antonio Saturday, killing all four passengers, authorities said. The crash occurred shortly before 2 p.m. near the Alamodome as three planes flew in formation, fire officials said. The two aircraft that crashed were on a photo session, taking photographs of a third airplane, which returned safely to the ground.

Vintage aircraft group struggles to recoup after crash kills three

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — As members of the Alamo Liaison Squadron mourn the loss of three co-workers in a weekend plane crash near downtown San Antonio, they also are struggling to recoup the loss of half their fleet.

Four people were killed about 2 p.m. Saturday when two World War II-era vintage airplanes crashed near the Alamodome. Now the group is seeking donations to help rebuild, a squadron official said.

The 13-year-old unit specializes in rebuilding and flying World War II vintage artillery spotters.

"We're going to raise money and get more (aircraft). We've already got some in mind," squadron spokesman J.B. Phillips said Sunday, adding that the group has received calls from people about potential acquisitions.

"Be advised, as we say, we are continuing on," he said. "We are a flying museum. We will continue to fly."

Wreckage appeared to confirm eyewitness reports that the wings of the two planes that crashed touched while they were flying in what is called a "fingertip formation," where the center plane is slightly ahead of a plane on each side. They were going to photograph another squadron plane against the backdrop of the Tower of the Americas. An air safety investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board said a preliminary investigation of the impact sites revealed little about what caused the aircraft to clip wings while flying in formation.

The planes were in communication with the tower at Stinson Municipal Airport, but tapes revealed no sign of trouble leading up to the impact, said the investigator, Warren Wandel.

The pilot of the third squadron plane radioed a mayday moments after the collision, Wandel said.

The Alamo Liaison Squadron, which has about 60 members, was formed by Retired Maj. Gen. Paul David Straw, one of the crash victims.

The other victims were squadron leader William J. Houston Jr., 69, a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel who flew B-24s during World War II; squadron photographer Roger Beery, 61, former owner of Beery Insurance Co.; and Craig D. Yohe of Ohio, brother-in-law of Earl Collins, the pilot of the Piper J-3, which landed safely at Cannon Field.

Rangeland fire began as experiment

By The Associated Press

LUBBOCK — A fire that burned more than 100,000 acres of rangeland and caused some evacuations began as a burn experiment by range management students at Texas Tech.

Henry Wright, a professor of range and wildlife management, and his students were conducting the experiment Saturday afternoon when flames jumped safety barriers in a phenomena Wright described as a "fire whirl."

"We were doing a prescribed burn to basically control the brush and increase the grass production," Wright said.

"It was an educational thing for the students," he said. "The purpose was to get rid of the juniper and enhance the grass production."

The burn was started at about 2:15 p.m. on 2,200 acres of the Masterson Ranch east of Guthrie.

Fire blocks, measuring 400 feet wide, had been set up on the north and east side of the burn area as a precaution, Wright said.

But about 45 minutes into the experiment, the flames jumped the barriers. High winds whipped the fire out of control, authorities said.

More than 200 firefighters and volunteers from seven counties were fighting the blaze Sunday.

Helicopters from the Texas Forest Service and the Texas National Guard were expected to begin water drops on the fire today.

"It's in some real rough country," King County Sheriff Jim Waller said. "It's not contained yet."

The fire rapidly devoured sparsely populated rangeland.

One man suffered smoke inhalation while battling the fire, Waller said. No other injuries were reported.

At least one crawler-type tractor used to combat the blaze was destroyed, he said, as were some barns and other empty structures. No homes or business were destroyed, although some isolated ranch homes had to be evacuated.

Child found dead in car, grandmother is missing

By The Associated Press

LANCASTER — Cheryl Roberts said she last talked to her son and mother on the telephone Friday night and told them to have a good time at Lake Whitney the next day.

But on Saturday afternoon, there were two troubling messages that had been left by her mother's boyfriend, wondering why Robbie Jean Biggar, 53, and her grandson, Kasey Wyatt Roberts, 2, never showed up at the lake.

A missing persons report was filed about 5 p.m. Saturday.

Kasey's body was found 24 hours later, strapped into his child safety seat in the back seat of his grandmother's car at an apartment complex in the community of Red Oak, about 5 miles south of Ms. Biggar's residence in Lancaster.

"It appears the baby suffocated in the heat of the car, as temperatures rose into the high 80s on Sunday," Lancaster Police Chief M.E. "Mac" McGuire said Sunday. "Temperatures inside the closed car could have been well over 100 degrees."

McGuire said his department's efforts are concentrated on finding Ms. Biggar, who was described as about 5-foot-6 with dark brown hair and brown eyes.

"We're assuming foul play because the situation is so out of character for Ms. Biggar," McGuire said.

A resident said Ms. Biggar's white Thunderbird had been parked at the parking complex in Red Oak since at least 9 p.m. Saturday.

Parents of the child are Kevin and Cheryl Roberts, who live in Mabank, about 40 miles southeast of Lancaster. Roberts is a police officer in Mabank.

The Roberts said they returned from a shopping trip Saturday afternoon and found two messages from Ms. Biggar's boyfriend, Larry Samples, wanting to know what had happened to Ms. Biggar and Kasey.

Mrs. Roberts said Samples told her he had last seen her mother at 10 p.m. Friday and that she told him she was going to do some last-minute shopping.

That was unusual, Mrs. Roberts said, because her mother "is the type of person who usually calls me when she leaves the house." She said her mother telephoned her Friday night to say good night, a daily routine. Her mother called her up to five times a day, she said.

"My mother said, 'Good night.' And Kasey said, 'Good night, Mom. I love you. Sweet dreams.'"

Ms. Biggar had picked Kasey up Friday afternoon at a day care center in Lancaster and took him to her home to spend the night.

"The two are very close," Mrs. Roberts said before her son's body was discovered. "Kasey is her only grandson, and they're as close as my husband and I are."

Paula Call, who described herself as a close friend of Ms. Biggar, said the woman would have fought to the death to keep anyone from harming her grandson.

"There is no way they can get to that grandbaby. Her daughter and her grandbaby were" her life, said another friend, Pat Howard.

Ms. Biggar was very safety-conscious. She carried Mace and always locked her doors after she got into her car, they said.

Shuttles could be gone by end of the century

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — By the next century NASA should be phasing out the space shuttle and its aging fleet of rockets, replacing them with a cheaper, fully reusable single-stage launcher, an in-house study shows.

The cornerstone of the space agency proposal is a single-stage-to-orbit rocket that incorporates new lightweight materials and production technologies, automated flight controls and a leaner ground operations team.

"This certainly differs from the classic NASA solution of the past decade, which is that the shuttle is the solution to everything no matter what the question is," said Ivan Bekey, of NASA's planning department in Washington. "We've broken with that."

If NASA's recommended single-stage-to-orbit rocket is introduced by 2008, the cost total for the period falls to $169 billion compared with more than $230 billion for upgrading the space shuttle and the nation's expendable rockets.

Superintendent resigns over 'joke' marriage

MALLEN (AP) — Ousted McAllen school Superintendent Jose Lopez says it's easy now to look back on his January 1993 "joke" wedding ceremony in Las Vegas to a middle school administrator as an awful mistake.

The stunt with Barbara Day, whom he described as only a friend, cost both of them their jobs on Sunday.

After a lengthy closed session of the school board, trustees met in open session to accept the resignations of both Lopez and Mrs. Day, effective immediately. Lopez made $92,000 a year.

The trustees approved payments of $24,540 to Lopez and $11,000 to Mrs. Day.

"Let me readily admit it (the marriage) was a stupid mistake," Lopez said Sunday. "But it's been blown totally out of proportion. I did not believe in my wildest dreams that this would happen."

Chamber has problems with 'dome' operations

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, which was instrumental in getting the Alamodome built, now is grumbling about the building's operation.

The chamber is working on an in-depth report targeting its displeasure with the depletion of a reserve fund to $1.9 million from a planned $25 million and with city officials' unwillingness to market the stadium with the city's convention center.

The report is to be delivered late next month to Mayor Nelson Wolff and the San Antonio City Council.

Wolff said the city will look at ways to beef up the reserve fund, but he firmly rejected the chamber's historic position that the dome should be marketed by the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

"That was the way it was sold in the campaign, but it doesn't work. Marketing the dome is entirely different from the convention center. It requires a whole different expertise," Wolff said.

Government fleet grounded after GM tank warning

HOUSTON (AP) — The future of natural gas sits idle in a downtown parking lot.

A government fleet of natural gas-powered pickups worth nearly $2 million has been grounded because of a warning from General Motors of possible tank explosions, The Houston Post reported Sunday.

The warning to Houston and Harris County officials comes after two separate explosions in trucks in San Francisco and Minnesota. The Post's copyright story reported. GM still is investigating the cause of the explosions but may have to recall all such vehicles sold nationwide in 1992 and 1993.

In San Francisco and Minnesota, the explosions occurred when drivers were refueling their vehicles.

The development has proved frustrating for Houston's City Hall, which owns 106 of the compressed natural gas trucks and was preparing to buy 70 more. That order is now on hold.

Spring breakers killed on way home in crash

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two men were killed and four persons were injured in a two-car accident involving people who were believed to be returning from spring break activities on Padre Island, authorities say.

Robert Rodriguez Jr., 20, and Paul Iruegas, 20, both of San Antonio, died following the accident on Texas 361 near Corpus Christi, according to Nueces County Sheriff J.P. Luby said.

Luby said a car driven by Rodriguez struck a trailer on Sunday.

Two other San Antonio residents were hospitalized.

Luby said the four men were believed to have been at the Coastal Bend resort to celebrate the opening weekend of Spring Break festivities.

The wreck cast a pall over what seemed to be a quiet Spring Break weekend for authorities patrolling Nueces County beaches between Corpus Christi and Port Aransas, Luby said.

"Last year we had drugs, weapons and fights on the beaches," he said. "This has been one of the calmest years we've had, with the exception of this accident."

One winning Lotto ticket Saturday

One ticket purchased in El Paso correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The ticket is worth an estimated $3 million.

The numbers drawn Saturday night from a field of 50 were: 4, 6, 10, 15, 17, 45.

In addition to the jackpot winner, there were 139 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,484. There were 7,972 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $95. And there were 151,704 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $3 million.

Richards announces Interfaith grant

DALLAS (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards responded to a multicultural religious group's request to help create more jobs by announcing a $1 million grant Sunday.

"I believe that the government's job is to allow people to take responsibility for their own lives, and that's why I so strongly support your job training request," Richards told several thousand Dallas Interfaith members gathered at Southern Methodist University.

The group outlined to politicians and business leaders their concerns for the community, including such issues as education, crime prevention, health care and job training.

Across the nation, interfaith groups work with government to try to address social problems.

Shouldn't be forgotten

All too often, the only youth news around is news about a child who has killed someone, participated in a drug ring or in a drive-by shooting. And, from the looks of it, it would seem that the youth of this country are going to hell in a handbasket. But, here in Howard County and in the surrounding areas, it seems this news is heard less often than news of children doing good. Tonight, there will be an awards ceremony for 390 kids who participated in a cultural arts and environmental poster contest. There are the students from Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma and Garden City who are doing well in the livestock shows both locally and across the state. There are our athletes, our scholars. But, mainly there are the children, who may not win at a sporting event or in a contest, but who are still winners because they manage to stay out of trouble. You don't find their name on the police reports, on detention rosters. They are just kids going through their lives, making the best of things. These kids are all but forgotten as we struggle to understand youth crime. But, they shouldn't be.

Another Big Spring controversy brewing

Spring is in the air, and with it brings our annual Big Spring Controversy. The first year I moved here, it was the drinking issue in Comanche Trail Park. The second year, it was the location of our soon-to-be Wal-Mart Superstore. This year, it looks as if it will be Amendment No. 8. For those of you who don't even know what Amendment No. 8 is, don't feel like the Lone Ranger. Until last Tuesday, I hadn't the slightest idea either. So, let me try to explain what I know about it. It seems the powers-that-be decided our city charter needed updating. So there have been several amendments proposed (11 in fact), which if passed by the city council will appear on the May 7 ballot. My personal favorite is Amendment 10 which deals with a city council member who may be a "habitual drunkard and/or a person of unsound mind." However, that's not the amendment which is causing all the furor. Amendment No. 8 concerns disciplinary hearings for policemen. I won't even try to explain what it says because that is the crux of the matter. Everyone who reads the darn thing has a different understanding of exactly what it says and exactly what it means. I have heard the following interpretations: 1) It was designed to eliminate the Citizen's Advisory Board 2) It will eliminate the ability of the chief of police and/or city manager to terminate, suspend or demote a police officer or 3) it's a way for police officers to have an appeals process if they are treated unfairly. Whatever the intent of Amendment No. 8 is, the city council should make sure the amendment is clear, so we the citizens can make an intelligent decision. But despite the amendment being so unclear and vague, the battle lines have already been drawn. It would appear, this year won't be any different from last year nor the year before that. It could just be a Big Spring thang, and me, being a relative newcomer, I just don't understand. Perhaps, the annual Spring Bash serves a purpose. You know a good ol' fight to help folks shake off the winter blahs. The only good thing I can see, is more people take notice of what's going on in their town. Perhaps Amendment No. 8 by stirring up controversy, will make people aware of the coming election and proposed changes to the city charter. Maybe the voters will actually get a copy of these amendments and attend the city council meeting tomorrow and voice their feelings. Every city council member should have to deal with a room full of angry shouting folks at least once and there are a few new faces on the council who haven't had that pleasure yet! Of course, I do wonder what kind of place Big Spring would be, if we'd maintain that level of interest year round and be constructive in trying to find win-win solutions to the problems we face instead of merely playing politics. My personal feelings about Amendment No. 8? It needs to be rewritten so I can decide. It needs to be as clear as Amendment No. 10! Brenda Brooks is a freelance columnist for the Herald.

Getting what they paid for

Mike Royko

One of the first calls this morning was from a woman who was furious about the way she was being treated in Divorce Court. The judge, she said, was an indifferent, insensitive fool. She also suspected that he was a male chauvinist. And he seemed to treat her estranged husband's lawyer with greater respect than he did her lawyer. Worst of all, the case had been dragging on and on. That, too, she blamed on the judge. She thought he might be moping along to permit the lawyers to run up bigger fees. When she finished her long list of grievances, I asked a question: "Do you have your stub from yesterday?" She said: "Stub? What are you talking about? What stub?" I told her I was talking about the stub you get after you vote. You hand the ballot to a person who tears off the stub and gives it to you. Sort of like a store receipt. "What do you want to know that for?" she asked. "I'll get to that in a minute. But do you have your voting stub?" She hesitated for a few seconds, then said: "No." "Why not?" "Sounding irritated, she said: "Because I didn't vote, that's why." (I give her credit for honesty; she could have said she lost it or threw it away.) "Why are you asking me about that anyway?" she asked. So I told her an outrageous lie. "I ask you that because it is our policy to investigate complaints about government only when they are made by someone who has voted. "You are complaining about a judge. Yesterday, there were all sorts of judicial candidates on the ballot, but you didn't bother to cast your vote.

terical fibs in a divorce case. Yet, the vast majority of registered voters couldn't drag themselves a few blocks to a polling place. But they will grouse, as that woman did. As a nation, we lead the world in many things. Among them is grouching. Also among them is not bothering to vote. So now that I think about it, maybe a "stub rule" wouldn't be a bad idea. A day doesn't pass without someone calling to beef about inept government service, lack of service, injustice or offense. We look into many of the complaints. Some are true, some aren't. Some become stories, most don't. But even in cases that don't make the paper, the problems are often rectified because our inquiries serve as a wakeup call to a bureaucrat or politician. It stands to reason that if 70 percent of the eligible voters skipped Tuesday's primaries, all of the grouching can't be coming from the 30 percent who showed up. And a look at the statistics makes it clear that the most lethargic non-voters are in those parts of Chicago and the suburbs that depend the most on government and complain the loudest about its failings. It doesn't say much for a metropolitan area when a million people will turn out in zero weather to cheer a Super Bowl winner but only a small slice of that number will vote on deciding what kind of society their kids will live in. The fans who recently booed the Bulls were criticized in some circles. But at least they bought tickets and know who the players are. Most of the grouchers about government don't know the players, don't want a scorecard when it is offered, and don't even have a stubs. So they get what they pay for. (C) 1994 By The Chicago Tribune

Lewis Grizzard

Treehouse syndrome

Editor's Note: Lewis Grizzard died Sunday at the age of 47 from complications of heart surgery. This is a "Best of Grizzard" column. SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH FLORIDA — There is this place. I can't tell you the name of it or exactly where it is, but there is this place in South Florida where they have figured out the problem of women on the golf course. I don't have any problem with women playing a little golf occasionally, but I always have thought it would be better if women had their golf courses and men had theirs. That way, women could take their sweet time getting around the course and if they happen to shoot 140, no big deal. Before I catch the wrath of the female golfing populace, allow me to say upfront there are women who are much better golfers than me. My problem is with the high-handicap woman golfer who will not pick up her ball and move on to the next hole once she's hit it 15 or 16 times and it's still not in the cup. There are many slow men players, too, but men understand that once you reach double-bogey, there's no sense in frustrating yourself any further, so it's onward to the next tee. But about this place: The reason I'm not going to put a name or location on it is that some flared-nostril feminist might read this and decide to file suit, and I might never be invited back as a guest. Quite obviously, the place is a golf club. But not only are women forbidden from playing the course — under any circumstances whatsoever — they aren't even allowed on the grounds except once a year. For the annual Christmas party. Your wife drives you to the club. She lets you off at the front gate. Even phone calls from women are discouraged. "And you can play gin rummy naked," a member explained to me. I'm not certain I'd want to play gin rummy naked, but I saw the member's point. There aren't any women within miles of the club, so you're safe to belch or curse or make funny noises with your armpit or, if you so desire, play gin rummy naked. "When will men ever grow up?" flared-nostril women readers perhaps are saying. Most of us never will, because of the Treehouse Syndrome. When men are boys, they build treehouses, or other assorted edifices, in order to have a secret place to go with their friends where there aren't any girls to tell them how stupid they are, or how they should move the orange crate over near the cardboard box that serves as a table, in order to give the room more symmetry. We need this getaway all our lives in order to gather our wits and share the goodness that is brotherhood. And play gin rummy naked if we want to. Men have given up so much of what was once their exclusive space as it is. And some of it we needed to share. Like boardrooms and mastheads and offices on the top floors. But at this club, at least, men have drawn the line at golf. "What I like most about this club," said a friend who was also a guest, "is there aren't even any ladies' tees. You can hit from all the way up front and not feel like a wimp." Indeed. c 1994 by Coules Syndicate Inc.

A boatmaker for our times

REELFOOT LAKE, Tenn. — Dale Carnegie meet Dale Calhoun. Dale Calhoun makes friends as fast and sure as he makes boats — the Reelfoot Boats — boats as famous as the lake's bald eagles and a lot more plentiful. The peculiar wooden, stump-jumpin', flat-bottomed, canoe-pointed, fishing and duck-hunting boats with their distinctive bow-facing oars are as simple as the wheel and just about as handy, at least for getting around in the submerged cypress forest that is Reelfoot. Before him, Calhoun's father and grandfather built the cypress, oak-ribbed boats. But the grandson has modified the business, if not the boat. He has mastered self-promotion as well as boat-building. Friendly and obliging and self-effacing, Calhoun is a willing veteran of exhibitions at the Smithsonian, the new Chattanooga aquarium and the Knoxville World's Fair. He is his own public relations firm. At the same time he seems amazed, if well aware, that what he has done for so long — since he was 14 — and for such practical reasons is today considered by some to be folk art, that the boats are becoming collectors' items and the subject of public television documentaries, that people as far away as Lake Tahoe are regular customers. "Come on in, come on in," he beckons visitors, though the shop lights are out and he clearly is on his way home. The boat works is too new to be particularly picturesque, and the inventory of portable storage sheds Calhoun also builds and sells take up more room than the boats. (They also cost more.) Next door is more vintage Reelfoot, Boyette's fish house, where everything but the waitress comes to the table fried. The crappie is to kill for. And across the road is the lake,

Rheta Grimsley Johnson

the one created by earthquakes in 1811-12, teeming with life and ringed by unpretentious vacation homes, including a lot of ever-so-humble house trailers. Calhoun's, then, is well-situated as the home of practical, no-frills, yet somehow beautiful, boats. "In my spare time I chase women," says Calhoun, the joke being that he has no spare time. He works security at a nearby prison, and before that had other full-time jobs in law enforcement. He makes a boat a week now, each requiring about 40 hours of work. He doesn't have to measure his cuts or look at a blueprint, which never existed. His grandfather Boone, a blacksmith, learned the design from a man named Milligan, who got it from a 19th century Lake County innovator, Herman B. Young. "You make as many as I have, and it just feels right." There are thousands of the stump-jumpers plying the shallow Reelfoot waters, some 45 and 50 years old. Consider that hollowed cypress logs were used to make New Orleans's first water lines, and you understand why the Calhouns use cypress and have few repeat customers. Most of the boats now have inboards, 8-1/2 horsepower, lawnmower-style motors, attached with a shaft to the propeller. The rudder, joined by a long wire to a tiller, tilts when it hits a stump. To steer left, you push the tiller forward; to go right, push back.

"You have to be 2 years old to operate one," says Calhoun. There is no transmission, thus no idle or reverse. You had better have the boat pointed where you want it to go once you start the engine. The motor is loud and the boat vibrates when running wide open. It's an African Queen effect, especially appropriate on cypress swamp Reelfoot. But the whole point is to get where other boats cannot, to slip into the shallows that fish and ducks love. And the Calhoun boat is made to order. Most of his boats are 15-1/2 feet long and 22-28 inches wide. They are painted camouflage green, unless a customer prefers another color. Without an engine, they cost about $1,100, with an engine about $1,900, an amazing price if you only consider the high cost of cypress. But Calhoun can remember the same boat selling for $200 in the 1950s and doesn't seem the type to gouge, even if one of his boats does dock in the Smithsonian. Calhoun has sent boats to Cuba and to Canada. He made his grandson one as a graduation gift. And yet he doesn't have a boat himself. "Every now and then I'll take scraps, bits of this and that, and make myself a boat. But someone comes along and wants to buy it. I tell them the truth. I say, 'You don't want this one.' But they figure if I built it for myself, it must be the best one." Oh well. Who has time to fish? Former judge helping Whitewater investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first major development of Whitewater prosecutor Robert Fiske's investigation, an indicted former judge who has linked President Clinton to a questionable loan will cooperate with investigators, says an individual familiar with the case.

David Hale will avoid a scheduled March 28 trial by entering a plea during an appearance Tuesday before a federal judge in Little Rock, Ark., said the individual, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The plea is part of a deal in which Hale has agreed to tell a federal grand jury all that he knows about involvement in Whitewater by Clinton and his wife Hillary, the individual said. NBC News first reported the plea agreement Sunday evening.

Hale has alleged that he was pressured eight years ago by Clinton, who was Arkansas governor at the time, to make a $300,000 loan to Susan McDougal, a business partner of the Clintons in the Whitewater real estate venture.

South Korea to deploy missiles

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea said today it would deploy Patriot missiles and revive plans for military exercises with the United States to counter a security threat posed by its rival to the north.

The decision, made at an emergency national security meeting, came just hours after a strong warning from North Korea that it would follow through on its threat last year to pull out of an international nuclear controls treaty.

President Kim Young-sam ordered the deployment, and directed his 650,000-man army to remain on alert and prepare to reopen suspended joint military exercises with the United States, said chief presidential spokesman Choo Don-shik.

The timing of this year's "Team Spirit" exercises will be decided after Kim visits Japan and China beginning this week, he said. The nuclear problem is expected to be high on the agenda of talks in both countries.

Defense secretary visits Ukrainian missile sites

KIEV, Ukraine (AP) — Defense Secretary William Perry is planning to visit Ukrainian missile sites in hopes of getting some assurance the former Soviet republic is moving to eliminate hundreds of nuclear weapons.

Perry was to sign an agreement today providing Ukraine with $50 million to destroy silos for 46 SS-24 missiles. Each SS-24 can carry 10 nuclear warheads.

Eager to prevent any delay in the shipment of nuclear weapons to Russia for dismantling, he planned an extraordinary visit Tuesday to two Ukrainian nuclear testing and launch facilities.

"This will be an unprecedented trip for the secretary of defense of the United States to go to these two very important sites," Perry said upon arrival late Sunday night from Kazakhstan, where he visited the once-top secret Baikonur space center.

Wheat import dispute raises bumper lobby crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — A simmering dispute with Canada over wheat imports is producing a bumper crop of lobbying — including a senator's not-too-subtle threat to a supposedly independent regulatory body.

After U.S. farmers complained to President Clinton that Canada was dumping wheat into the United States at below-market prices, the White House ordered the International Trade Commission to investigate. Its recommendations are due in July.

But wheat farmers, impatient with what they see as continued damage to their market, have been turning up the heat. They want Clinton to impose an immediate quota to limit the flow of Canadian wheat, and Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy was scheduled to go to Canada today in an effort to negotiate the issue.

Hot Oscar rumor is put to bed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A hot Oscar rumor that surfaced on the eve of tonight's Academy Awards was torpedoed a day before the awards show.

The story had it that in last year's Academy Awards, presenter Jack Palance called "My Cousin Vinny's" Marisa Tomei for best supporting actress when the actual winner had been Vanessa Redgrave from "Howards End."

The rumor, which was circulating throughout Hollywood, carried some credibility because the young Miss Tomei was considered an Oscar longshot for the low-budget comedy. Veteran performer Redgrave, on the other hand, was the favorite for her part in the acclaimed drama.

Aftershock rattles S. California

Third strongest aftershock shatters repairs and calm of the residents

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The nightmare recurred for Diane Williams and others who had begun to forget the deadly Northridge earthquake when a jarring 5.3-magnitude aftershock shook Southern California.

"I had just finally started to calm down," said Williams, 42, of Van Nuys. "This one really shook me up."

The third strongest aftershock since the Jan. 17 quake cracked a newly repaired freeway, triggered rockslides and caused power outages for thousands of customers.

Fire inspectors also believed the quake was to blame for a fire that destroyed a small strip mall and another that erupted in a power transformer.

In Sherman Oaks, about 500 shoppers were evacuated from a mall as plate glass alongside an escalator shattered and overhead spotlights came crashing to the floor.

Just one day earlier, 34 of the complex's 140 stores had reopened for the first time since the 6.7-magnitude quake struck two months ago, killing 61 people and causing billions of dollars in damages.

At 1:20 p.m. Sunday, James Booth of Burbank was filling cracks on the second floor of the California State University, Northridge, science building. "I thought the entire building was going to come down," he said.

The quake couldn't dislodge scores of movie fans camping outside the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion for tonight's Oscar ceremonies.

"I felt some rumbling under my feet and I said: 'Would that be an earthquake?'" said Rhea Sprecher, an art teacher from Wisconsin.

Inside the auditorium, the quake disrupted the final rehearsal for the star-studded ceremony.

"Everybody, stay in your seats!" shouted Oscar director Jeff Margolis as huge light fixtures and velvet-covered seats began to shake and sway.

The 5.3-magnitude aftershock, centered one mile from Panorama City in the San Fernando Valley, left minor wreckage, including:

— Small cracks and chipping — cosmetic only — on state Highway 118, the Simi Valley Freeway. The roadway remained open.

— Rockslides on Angeles Forest Highway in the Angeles National Forest, with one vehicle reportedly struck by a boulder falling onto Malibu Canyon Road in Malibu.

— Temporary loss of power for 70,000 customers in the North Hills, Woodland Hills, Canoga Park and Van Nuys areas. All power was restored within an hour.

— The strip mall fire that destroyed a restaurant, a market and a video store. Fire Battalion Chief Gary Seidel said the cause was under investigation, but there was a "good possibility" it was directly quake-related.

For many, though, Sunday's aftershock — one of more than 6,000 since Jan. 17 — was little more than an annoyance.

At the Santa Anita racetrack, bettors clung to their places in line and spectators were more focused on the racing than the rumbling. And it was business as usual for thousands of people enjoying a sunny day.

"This quake was nothing compared to that big one," said Percy Bennett, whose furniture and appliance store is still boarded up from the Northridge quake. "But yeah, I sure could feel it."

Sunday's quake rocked Los Angeles County as well as Orange, Riverside, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties. It lasted about 30 seconds and was followed by a magnitude 3.4 aftershock at 3:30 p.m. and a 2.7 tremor at 8:03 p.m.

The 5.3 quake was the seventh magnitude-5 or larger aftershock to the Jan. 17 quake. Only two were stronger, at magnitude 5.9 and 5.6, occurring the day of the quake, said

California Institute of Technology seismologist Kate Hutton.

There is a 1 in 3 chance of at least one more magnitude-5 or greater aftershock before year's end, said Hutton.

"We're not that surprised," she said, adding that smaller tremors to the aftershock could be expected in the next few days.

Guns ring Sarejevo during standoff

By The Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Canadian peacekeeping troops pointed their weapons at nearby Bosnian Serb forces today in a high-tension standoff as negotiations began on withdrawing Serb artillery from the forbidden zone around Sarejevo.

Cmdr. Simon McDowall, a spokesman for the peacekeepers, said heavy weapons were found inside the 13-mile circle around Sarejevo that is supposed to be free of big guns. But the Serbs, who use a different center when measuring the exclusion zone, disagreed that they were in violation.

McDowall said the Serbs have positioned three tanks, three anti-aircraft guns, four howitzers and 18 mortars inside the exclusion zone established by a U.N. Security Council resolution.

The resolution authorized NATO to launch air strikes on the Serbs if they did not keep heavy weapons out of the zone or put the weapons under U.N. control. The siege of Sarejevo mostly abated after the Feb. 10 resolution and today's dispute was one of the most uneasy confrontations since then.

The violation, near Ilijas north of Sarejevo, led to a showdown Sunday when about 200 Canadian peacekeepers in armored vehicles surrounded the Serb positions.

The peacekeepers pulled back a few hundred yards after Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic reportedly threatened to shoot or bomb Canadian positions. They remained in position today with their weapons trained on the Serbs.

Lt. Gen. Sir Michael Rose, the U.N. commander in Bosnia, ordered the Canadians to surround the guns to force talks on their removal. The talks between Serb leaders and senior officers of the U.N. Bosnian command began today.

McDowall said other heavy guns — six Serb howitzers — also remained within the zone and suggested the United Nations had given up on trying to get them removed.

"As far as Gen. Rose is concerned, they don't have the range to reach here," he told reporters. "As far as he is concerned they are under our control."

Two weekend shooting incidents added to the tensions. A Swedish peacekeeper was slightly wounded Sunday by Serb gunfire near Mount Igman, southwest of Sarejevo. Also Sunday, French U.N. soldiers returned Serb gunfire near Jablanica, southwest of Sarejevo, said U.N. officials. There were no injuries.

While tensions grew in Sarejevo, life improved in the long-suffering city of Maglaj when the first aid convoy in five months reached the city Sunday. Convoys had been unable to reach the 100,000 mostly Muslim residents of the Maglaj area because of heavy fighting in Croat-held territory to the south.

Massacre inquiry producing varied tales

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin learned about provocations against Muslims last October and warned security officials to be on alert for extremist acts by Jews at the mosque where a settler killed 30 Arabs, a government source confirmed today.

The report followed testimony to a five-judge inquiry panel from army officials that they were not prepared for an act of terror by Jewish settlers even though there had been frequent clashes and constant tension.

The report, initially published in the Labor Party daily Davar, said Rabin was told about tension between settlers and Arabs in Hebron and incidents of acid being poured on Muslim prayer rugs in the city's Tomb of the Patriarchs, where Jewish settler Baruch Goldstein gunned down worshippers Feb. 25.

A government source who spoke on condition of anonymity quoted Rabin as telling a closed meeting of military and security officials that they had to take measures to prepare for the possibility of Jewish extremist attacks.

Davar quoted Rabin as saying Jewish extremists sought to sabotage Israel-PLO peace accord signed Sept. 13 and might choose a religious site like the Tomb of the Patriarchs to "raise a religious conflict."

Despite Rabin's urging preventative steps, former Brig. Gen. Moshe Yaalon, who retired as army commander in the West Bank shortly before the massacre, today said there were no contingency plans to deal with the possibility of a terror attack carried out by Jewish extremists.

"Something like this was not expected. We do not publish instructions and do not outline scenarios and reactions regarding things that are not expected," he told the panel, now in its third week.

The panel is trying to reconstruct the day's events despite evasive answers and conflicting versions of what happened.

Yaalon also contradicted testimony by paramilitary border police and a junior army officer that there were orders forbidding soldiers from shooting at Jewish settlers under any circumstances. He told five judges he would have shot Goldstein to prevent the killing of Muslim worshippers.

"During disturbances, there is a total ban on opening fire (on Jews)," he said, but added "any soldier who sees someone carrying out a crime must intervene to stop it, including with fire if necessary."

Boston College leads upset parade

By The Associated Press

Longshot lovers finally got what they wanted Sunday, with half of last year's Final Four, including defending champion North Carolina, knocked off in a rash of upsets.

North Carolina, seeded No. 1 in the East, was stunned by No. 9 Boston College 75-72. Kentucky, No. 3 in Southeast and hoping for a return trip to the Final Four, lost to No. 6 Marquette 75-63 and Oklahoma State, No. 4 in the Midwest, fell 82-80 to No. 12 Tulsa in the Midwest.

EAST

Boston College 75, N. Carolina 72

The Tar Heels were down 14 points after 2 1/2 minutes of the second half before going on an 18-3 run. They lost point guard Derrick Phelps during the stretch when he was injured on an intentional foul by Danya Abrams.

BC hung on and Bill Curley scored 10 of the last 11 points for the Eagles, who prevented North Carolina from becoming the winningest team in the history of the NCAA tournament. The Tar Heels and UCLA have won 63 games.

Gerrod Abram, who made six of the Eagles' 12 three-pointers, led Boston College with 21 points. Curley had 18 points and nine rebounds.

The upset came exactly four months after BC produced the biggest upset of the college football season, knocking off No. 1 Notre Dame.

Indiana 67, Temple 58

Todd Leary scored 13 of his 15 points in the second half as Indiana and coach Bob Knight advanced to the final 16 for the fourth straight year.

Knight joined John Wooden of UCLA and North Carolina's Smith as the only coaches to win 40 NCAA tournament games.

The Hoosiers, who lost Sherron Wilkerson with a broken left leg, made seven free throws in the final 1:17. Brian Evans scored 18 points for fifth-seeded Indiana (21-8). Temple (23-8), the fourth seed, got 24 points from Eddie Jones and 18 from Aaron McKie, both playing their last college game.

SOUTHEAST

Marquette 75, Kentucky 63

Marquette survived one of Kentucky's furious second-half rallies and advanced to the Sweet 16 for the first time in 15 years.

Damon Key scored 25 points and Tony Miller broke Kentucky's vaunted full-court trapping defense for a key basket as the sixth-seeded Warriors (24-8) held on after blowing most of an 18-point lead.

Tony Delk scored 22 of his 24 points in the second half as third-seeded Kentucky, which three times this season overcame double-digit deficits to win, rallied from a 42-24 deficit.

But Marquette made 10 of 12 free throws in the final 2:19 to secure the victory.

Duke 85, Michigan State 74

Unlike their Atlantic Coast Conference neighbors from North Carolina, Duke reached the round of 16 behind All-America Grant Hill's 25 points.

Duke shut out high-scoring Shawn Respert until early in the second half as the Blue Devils advanced to the regional semifinals for the eighth time in the last nine years.

Cherokee Parks added 24 points for Duke. Respert used a late flurry to finish with 22.

MIDWEST

Tulsa 82, Oklahoma State 80

Tulsa's victory marked the fifth straight year a 12th seed has advanced to the Sweet 16. This time it was at the expense of rival Oklahoma State.

The Golden Hurricane wiped out a 12-point second-half deficit to overtake the Cowboys. Gary Collier led Tulsa with 25 points and scored the go-ahead basket with 59 seconds to go. Pooch Williamson scored 14 of his 20 points in the second half and Lou Dawkins finished off the Cowboys with a three-pointer from the left corner with 8.6 seconds left.

Bryant Reeves scored 32 for Oklahoma State but missed a crucial short shot with 41 seconds left before Dawkins nailed his clinching trey.

Arkansas 85, Georgetown 73

Playing without No. 2 scorer Scotty Thurman for the second half, top-seeded Arkansas used a 12-2 run to take charge against the Hoyas.

Corliss Williamson scored 21 and Dwight Stewart had 16 as the Razorbacks advanced to the regional semifinals against Tulsa.

Thurman and Georgetown's Don Reid were both ejected for a fight just before halftime. On the ensuing technicals, Arkansas made both its free throws and Georgetown made one of two, giving the Razorbacks a 36-34 lead.

They led by four at halftime and took control for good with the second-half run in which Williamson scored six points, opening a 67-52 lead.

WEST

Arizona 71, Virginia 58

Arizona, which has suffered its share of upsets in this tournament, didn't get caught in Sunday's rash of surprises. The Wildcats rode Khalid Reeves into the round of 16 for the first time since 1991, beating the Cavaliers convincingly.

Reeves started slowly but finished with 30 points and his backcourt partner, Damon Stoudamire, scored 20. Ray Ows had 15 points and 10 rebounds while Joseph Blair added 12 rebounds.

This was still a two-point game with 15:06 to play when Reeves scored nine straight points to give the Wildcats breathing room. Reeves scored just three points in the first 17 minutes but turned things around with three consecutive baskets just before halftime.

Louisville 60, Minnesota 55

Dwayne Morton scored 26 points and Louisville won a battle of 3-pointers to finish off Minnesota.

The two teams combined for 19 long range baskets with Morton nailing five of them. He also scored five straight points that put the Cardinals ahead to stay with 1:20 left.

Minnesota used a 16-0 run to open as 34-22 halftime lead. But Louisville responded with four 3-pointers keying an 18-4 stretch to open the second half.

The lead went back and forth after that until Morton's fifth 3-pointer gave Louisville a 56-55 lead and the Gophers did not score again.

Arkansas' Corey Beck falls back as Georgetown forward Robert Churchwell (22) drives to the basket Sunday during the first half of their second-round NCAA Tournament game in Oklahoma City. Arkansas won 85-73.

Gretzky scores to tie record

By The Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Calif. — The Great Gretzky matched his idol, the Great Gordie.

Wayne Gretzky tied one of hockey's mightiest records Sunday, scoring twice to tie Gordie Howe's NHL mark of 801 career goals. It took the 33-year-old Gretzky 15 seasons to equal what Howe did in 26 years. And it gave Gretzky a share of the one major offensive mark he didn't yet own.

Soon, he will own that, too. The next game for Gretzky and his Los Angeles Kings is on Wednesday at home against Vancouver.

"This one's pretty special," said Gretzky, who went four games without a goal after reaching 798. He scored once last Wednesday, then got two goals in a 6-6 tie with San Jose on Sunday. "This is a tough record for anybody to beat, but more importantly, the goal came at a crucial time and at a time when we desperately needed a goal."

He has much to be proud of in an unparalleled career that includes 60 NHL records and four Stanley Cups.

Gretzky's milestone score came after the Kings pulled goaltender Kelly Hrudey for an extra skater after the Sharks took a 6-5 lead on Pat Falloon's goal with 2:25 remaining in regulation.

Alex Zhitnik was off to the left side of the net when he took a shot that glanced off Irbe. Gretzky, with position at the opposite side, corralled the rebound and drove the puck in to match Howe's record.

Gretzky got his first goal of the game at 6:16 of the first period, stealing the puck near the San Jose goal and beating Irbe from point-blank range.

Gretzky broke Howe's point-scoring record of 1,850 on Oct. 15, 1989. He now has 2,447 for his career. He is the only player in NHL history with more than 2,000 points.

Howe, playing with the Detroit Red Wings, broke Rocket Richard's NHL record of 544 goals on Nov. 10, 1963. It took Howe 1,132 games to do it. Gretzky tied Howe's mark in his 1,116th game.

The league's scoring champion nine times, Gretzky currently leads the points race with 119. Gretzky has been the league's most valuable player on nine occasions.

Howe scored an additional 174 goals during his six years in the old World Hockey Association. Gretzky had 46 in the WHA before joining the NHL with the Edmonton Oilers.

Gretzky came into the season with 765 goals — 583 in nine NHL seasons in Edmonton where he helped the Oilers win four Cups.

Gretzky said he now feels the pressure is off of him.

"It's a tremendous relief for me, believe me," he said, adding he would like nothing better than to break the record in the Kings' next game at home against Vancouver on Wednesday.

"Let's put it this way," he said. "We're in a playoff race and if I score on Wednesday, it's going to help us win so I hope to do it on Wednesday."

John Druce had given the Kings a 5-4 lead with 17:13 left in regulation. Druce took a lead pass from Robert Lang at the blue line and skated in by himself, waiting till he reached the hash marks to lift the puck into the upper right hand corner of the net.

But the score was tied for a fourth time when Sergei Makarov put in his second goal of the day with 11 minutes left.

Big Spring club team opens home season

By DAVE HARGRAVE Sports Editor

The Jazz, Big Spring's club softball team, will be playing its first home game tonight at the Roy Anderson softball complex.

Big Spring doesn't have an official high school team this season, but it has the next best thing - a 14-player club team with players of high-school age. The team is 1-1 so far, beating Midland Christian 21-2 in its opener but losing 18-9 to Odessa High. It plays Permian tonight at 7.

All of the players are from Big Spring High School, except for one from Forsan, said Gilbert Cobos. Cobos and Clifford Crow coach the team.

"I'd say 90 percent of the girls have played before on our UGSA teams," Cobos said, referring to the Big Spring United Girls Softball Association. "We've got one girl from Forsan, and we were really happy with that because we extended our tryouts to all of Howard County, hoping to get more girls."

The players on the team are Heather James, Jackie Martinez, Kathy Green, Mandy Morrow, Erica Lanspery, Liz Anzuldua, Teri Gonzales, Robbi Hall, Heather Spence, Daina Armstrong, Kathy McGee, Stefanie Kennedy, Cynthia Trevino and Jennifer Ornelas.

"I feel like we've got a lot of talent on this team," Crow said. "We were kind of hoping for more girls to come out. There's a lot of talent that did not come out because they had other commitments. But I'm really pleased with the group we've got."

The team's schedule includes games against Midland Christian, the two Odessa teams and Andrews. There are also two tournaments in April - one in Coahoma and one in San Angelo. Big Spring could face Coahoma, which is playing its first season as a UIL high school team, in the Coahoma tournament.

Big Spring's roster is filled with mostly freshmen and sophomores, which makes the future look bright.

"I think we only lose two seniors for next year's team, so we're at a really good starting point right now," Cobos said. "And the eighth-grade class that will be coming up next year is going to be really strong."

Crow said the experience the players have from playing on UGSA teams should help the team reach his goals for this season.

"I want to be over .500, and I think we'll be there," he said. "We should be undefeated so far, but we kind of blew our second game. But we've got a lot of talent, and we could be way over .500 by the end of the season."

NCAA Women's Tournament

Texas A&M earns spot in Sweet 16

By The Associated Press

It was Lisa Branch to the rescue again as Texas A&M continued its magical ride into the Sweet 16 of the NCAA women's basketball tournament.

The Aggies player, who provided the winning points in the team's opening round upset of Florida, came through Sunday with a go-ahead layup in overtime. That gave 13th-seeded Texas A&M a 75-72 victory over host San Diego State (26-5) in a West second-round game.

The winners (23-7) advanced to a regional semifinal Thursday in Palo Alto, Calif., against the West's top seed, Purdue (27-4), an 86-59 winner over Washington on Sunday.

The other West semifinal will match host Stanford (24-5), the No. 2 seed, against third-seeded Colorado (27-4), which eliminated the Cardinal in the same round last year.

Texas A&M, in its first NCAA tournament, trailed 72-69 in the overtime when Andrea Williams hit a basket to bring the Aggies within a point of the Aztecs.

After San Diego State's Tammy Blackburn threw the ball away with 31 seconds left, the Aggies took a timeout and found Branch for the go-ahead basket.

On the ensuing possession, San Diego State's Sorii Epps missed a jumper and Marianne Miller hit two free throws with :02 remaining for the final margin.

Branch led Texas A&M with 19 points, while Martha McClelland had 16 points and 10 rebounds.

EAST

Top-seeded Connecticut (29-2) earned its first trip to the regional semifinals since 1991 by defeating visiting Auburn 81-59. The inside combination of All-American junior Rebecca Lobo and freshman Kara Wolters was too much for the Tigers (20-10).
 Lobo scored 21 points, while

Wolters had a career-high 20 points on 10-for-11 from the floor. Each had 10 rebounds and combined for nine blocked shots.

Jennifer Rizzotti added the outside threat for the Huskies, scoring 18 points on 7-for-10 shooting, including 4-for-7 from 3-point range. The Huskies hit 58 percent from the field, while holding Auburn to a season-low 26.6 percent.

Connecticut will face fourth-seeded Southern Mississippi (25-4) on Thursday night at Piscataway, N.J. The other game will match second-seeded Vanderbilt against third-seeded North Carolina.

Vanderbilt beat visiting Minnesota 98-72, while Southern Mississippi beat visiting Western Kentucky 72-69.

The Tar Heels (29-2) advanced Sunday with a 63-52 win over visiting Old Dominion, but the victory had a price. Charlotte Smith, who scored 15 points and had a season-high 16 rebounds, was ejected for fighting late in the game. Smith, who averages 15.1 points a game and 8.6 rebounds, must now serve a one-game suspension.

MIDWEST

Sixth-seeded Alabama earned its first trip to a regional semifinal when the Crimson Tide upset third-seeded Iowa, 84-78 in the Hawkeyes arena. It was the third time Iowa lost an NCAA second-round game at home. The Hawkeyes were in the Women's Final Four a year ago.

Betsy Harris scored 24 points for the Crimson Tide.
 Alabama will meet defending champion Texas Tech at Austin, Texas. The other game will match top-seeded Penn State against fourth-seeded Seton Hall.

MIDEAST

The Mideast semifinals, at Fayetteville, Ark., feature No. 1 Tennessee (31-1), which beat visiting Clemson 78-66, and longtime intersectional rival Louisiana Tech (28-3).

Labonte earns second win of NASCAR season

By The Associated Press

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — A timely caution flag helped Terry Labonte to his second NASCAR Busch Grand National victory of the season in the 300-lap portion of the Miller Genuine Draft 500 Doubleheader.

Labonte led for more than 200 laps on the .526-mile Martinsville Speedway track Sunday before edging David Green by one-quarter of a second to win $22,400.

"I don't think (my car) would've worked much longer," Labonte said of the finish.

Labonte took the lead for the first time after a caution flag on lap 71 when Hermie Sadler, who had led the first 70 laps, spun in Turn 2 after contact with the lapped car of Chad Little. Labonte was able to slide ahead of Green when the caution flag went up.

"That caution helped me. I thought he had me there, but I managed to beat him back to the (yellow) flag. I don't think I could've held him off if the caution hadn't come out," Labonte said.

Green, who had started on the pole, was running behind Labonte when Sadler spun and became involved himself in an effort to avoid Sadler's car. After pitting, Green came from the rear of the field to challenge Labonte over the final 30 laps, pulling alongside him on several occasions, but never completely passing him.

"I had him there in the corner," Green said. "I think if I could have gotten around him, I could have gotten away from him."

 Labonte led laps 71-157, then briefly lost the lead to Kenny Wallace. Wallace led 26 laps before Labonte regained the lead for the final time on lap 184.

The 1984 NASCAR Winston Cup champion, Labonte has been winless on that circuit since 1989. However, after a strong start to the season, he is fifth in the standings entering next week's event at Darlington, S.C.

On the Busch Grand National circuit, where Labonte is only a part-time competitor, he has two victories and has finished no lower than sixth in five races. He leads the series point standings, but plans to run only 20 of the 28 events remaining on the 1994 schedule.

Labonte and Green of Owensboro, Ky., drove Chevrolets. Wallace of St. Louis, finished third in a Ford with Randy LaJoie of Norwalk, Conn., fourth in a Chevrolet. Doug Heveron of Liverpool, N.Y., was fifth in an Oldsmobile.

Rounding out the top 10 were Larry Pearson, Tim Fedewa, Johnny Rumbley, Rodney Combs and Tommy Ellis.

Labonte won at an average speed of 71.502 mph in a race that lasted 2 hours, 12 minutes, 25 seconds. There were 10 cautions for 52 laps. His previous victory had come Feb. 26 at Rockingham, N.C.

A 200-lap race for NASCAR Late Model Stock Cars completed the doubleheader and was won by Bugs Hairfield of Chesterfield, Va., who came from 33rd starting position.

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 1994
ARIES (March 21-April 19): You might be shaking your head about what goes on early this morning. Pressure runs high. You work through an issue thanks to a partner. One-to-one relating is highlighted. Let those creative juices flow. Tonight: Go where the fun is.***
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Plans may change radically during the day; pull back and deal with it. Later in the day you will feel more anchored, and a family member will come to the rescue. Follow your instincts in a partnership. Tonight: Celebrate the positives in your life.***
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your finances are unstable. Don't count on a relationship to pull you through. The key to success is realism. This afternoon you're feeling sensitive, but you feel better after a key talk. Emphasis is on friendship. Tonight: Be a party animal. Let off steam.***
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stay solid with your priorities. You enjoy yourself and maximize a situation. Loosen up about choices. You feel better due to your skill in coming to terms with a problem. Tonight: Pay bills.***
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Did you wake up on the wrong side of the bed? The outlook improves as the day progresses. You can get to the core of a problem. Expect a change in how you feel. You could encounter new ideas and surmount restrictions. Tonight: Be your happy-go-lucky self.***
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The trick is to stay cool. You see matters with a new perspective and try things in a new way. Gather information and look at past patterns. You might feel a tug between what you want and where you're going. Make choices carefully. Tonight: Keep your own counsel.***
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A shake-up seems imminent. Seek increased security. Do not get upset with a family member or a boss. Right now everyone is under stress. A partner offers you a hand. Tonight: Be docile.***

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Events change your perspective on a situation. What was a given may no longer be. You feel pressured by others. Put your best foot forward, and seek constructive solutions. Tonight: Work late.***
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The road to security lies in a conservative approach. Your mind meanders to new ideas. Be willing to test these notions on an expert. Tonight: Escape to a play or movie.***
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You're out of sorts. Either others are reactive or you are. Maintain a steady focus on your ideals, desires and priorities. Work through a problem by negotiating. Tonight: Talk with your best friend.***
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your nerves are shot. Too much has happened too fast. You might overreact to a situation. A partner comes through for you and offers you a rare opportunity. You feel better than you have, because you handled a problem positively. Tonight: Be responsible.***
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You might feel pressured by friends or a loved one. You are more sensitive to situations than you thought. Be honest with yourself about the direction you need. Creativity is high. Accept an offer to increase your knowledge. Tonight: Exercise.***
IF MARCH 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Learn to work with the unexpected in the year ahead. A partner will support your handling of the year's many changes. Be ready to rush in where others fear to tread; you'll emerge successful. Creativity will flow strongly this year, providing insight and detachment. Expect positive strokes, more laughter and greater financial security. Schedule an important trip after November. If you're single, the focus will be on romance. If you are attached, you'll visualize the next step, although you might not act on it. CANCER holds you down.
THE ASTERISKS (*) SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Military uniform acceptable for wedding

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a young, handsome serviceman. Recently he was home on leave, and we attended the wedding of a close relative. I asked him to wear his dress uniform because he looks good in it and I am very proud of him.
Since then I have heard that some people at the wedding said my son should not have worn his uniform because it was not a military wedding. It was a formal wedding, but he wasn't in the wedding party.
Was it out of place for him to have worn his uniform? - PROUD MOM
DEAR PROUD MOM: Your son was appropriately dressed for the occasion. "A uniform (formal or otherwise) is considered proper attire for a man or woman in the military - even after they have retired," says Letitia Baldrige, my authority on etiquette.
I personally think men and women should wear their uniforms on all formal occasions as long as they can get the zippers up.
DEAR ABBY: People who do not return telephone calls after repeated messages have been left drive me crazy! I'm not talking about the person who occasionally forgets to return a call - nearly everyone has done that.
I am a thirtysomething professional man, and there have been times when I must speak to someone.
One secretary told me, "Mr. So-and-So is very busy, so don't feel bad if he doesn't return your call." (I felt like saying, "I won't take it personally; however, I find that behavior extremely unprofessional.")
I have also had secretaries tell me, "Sorry, he returns only important calls." (What am I - chopped liver?)

Abby, what do you think about people who do not return phone calls? I am considering using my last-resort method: When I am asked my company affiliation, I'll say, "The state lottery!" All kidding aside, I need an answer. - IRRITATED IN CLEVELAND
DEAR IRRITATED: Simply because someone calls your office does not obligate you to return the call. But unless you consider the person a pest, or suspect that the caller wants to solicit you for a cause to which you do not care to contribute, it's common courtesy to return telephone calls - or have someone in your office return them.
DEAR ABBY: I read with amusement and amazement the negative comments you printed regarding "The Childless Couple." I find it hard to understand how anyone could take it seriously.
I knew it as "Musings of a Father," recorded by Los Angeles disc jockey Dick Whittinghill, with the orchestra of Billy Vaughn.
Incidentally, the label gives only the music composer, Billy Vaughn, credit. The words are by "Anon." The year was 1964. - MADMAN MOSKOWITZ, SEATTLE
DEAR MADMAN MOSKOWITZ: Thanks for establishing that "The Childless Couple" was around at least 30 years ago.

This date in history

The Associated Press
Today is Monday, March 21, the 80th day of 1994. There are 285 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
On March 21, 1965, more than 3,000 civil rights demonstrators led by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. began their march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala.
On this date:
In 1685, composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born in Eisenach, Germany.
In 1790, Thomas Jefferson reported to President George Washington in New York as the new secretary of state.
In 1804, the French civil code, the "Code Napoleon," was adopted.
In 1918, during World War I, Germany launched the Somme Offensive, hoping to break through the Allied line before American reinforcements could arrive.
In 1940, a new government was formed in France by Paul Reynaud, who became prime minister, succeeding Edouard Daladier.
In 1944, comedian Charles Chaplin went on trial in Los Angeles, accused of transporting former protegee Joan Barry across state lines for immoral purposes. Chaplin was acquitted, but he lost a paternity suit despite tests showing he wasn't the father of Barry's child.
In 1945, during World War II, Allied bombers began four days of raids over Germany.
In 1946, the United Nations set up temporary headquarters at Hunter College in New York.
In 1960, some 70 people were killed in Sharpeville, South Africa, when police fired on demonstrators.
Today's Birthdays: Bandleader Mort Lindsey is 71. Actor Al Freeman Junior is 60. Actor Timothy Dalton is 48. Actor Matthew Broderick is 32.
Thought for Today: "Skeptics laugh in order not to weep." - Anatole France, French author, critic and poet (1844-1924).
