Local jobless rate up at 7.2 percent

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

The unemployment rate for Howard County and the city of Big Spring is up for the month of February compared to January's figures.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, Howard County's rate of those out of work is 7.2 percent which is an increase of 1.8 percent from January. Big Spring's unemployment rate for last month was 8 percent an increase of 2 percent.

"The main reason for the change is because many of those hired for seasonal and inventory work were laid off the end of January and first part of February," said Yolanda Gonzales with the TEC.

"There seems to be a trend across the state and country for laying off in the mining, transportation, communications, utilities and ser-

The numbers for January's Howard County labor force were 13,913; with 13,164 employed and 749 unemployed. Big Spring reported a labor force of 9,852 with 9,007 working and 565 filing unemployment insurance claims.

Although last month's rates were up slightly, they are not as high as they were a year ago. The TEC reported in February 1993 that there were 13,637 Howard County residents in the civilian labor force with 12,620 working and 1,017 unemployed. The unemployment rate of the county at that time was 7.5 percent. In Big Spring, the civilian labor force stood at 9,416 for February 1993 with 8,635 working and 781 unemployed. The unemployment rate at that time was 8.3 percent.

The state of Texas reported a 6.8 percent unemployment rate for the month of February which is up one half percent from January's rate of 6.3 percent.

Wallace suing Standard, county

By KELLIE JONES

Staff Writer

Howard County and Sheriff A.N. Standard have been slapped with a lawsuit by former Howard County Deputy Jimmy Wallace.

The lawsuit was filed in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas in Abilene on Friday, March 25; the county and Sheriff Standard were served with papers Tuesday afternoon.

According to the lawsuit, Wallace was employed with the Sheriff's Department for almost eight years and decided to run for sheriff in the 1992 election. Wallace was then placed on administrative leave without pay by Standard and said at that time that Wallace's candidacy was a conflict of inter-

The lawsuit also claims that Wallace was told to come by the office in March 1992 "to pick up a copy of a letter from all of the deputies on day shift stating that they did not want him to return, which he (Wallace) did. It also claims that Wallace was not contacted further regarding his reinstatement and on June 9, 1992, Standard commented that "for all practical purposes, he's been Wallace claims that even after the election, he was never reinstated to his former position and he was given no reason for his termination. Wallace alleges in the lawsuit that his dismissal was based upon his political affiliation, or lack thereof, or supposed lack of loyalty.

When Standard won the Democratic nomination, he said that the door was open for negotiation and sent a registered letter to Wallace from the Sheriff's Office inviting discussion of the matter.

The suit states that the county and Standard are named because they knew or should have known the dismissal of Wallace would violate his First Amendment rights.

Wallace also claims that he has endured severe mental anguish, emotional suffering, sleeplessness, anxiety, depression and humiliation. The county and sheriff are being sued for past and future emotional

The suit also states that Standard and the county were "willful, malicious, wanton or in conscious regard of the plaintiff's rights. Plaintiff hereby sues the sheriff and county for punitive damages."

The suit goes on to mention that the defendants slandered Wallace and presented him in a false light. Wallace said in the suit that he received excellent job performance ratings during his tenure but that the county and sheriff misrepresented to Please see SUIT, page 2 initially considered to be a minor revision to the overall ordinance, the council at first took the above vote as action taken during a second reading. They then asked City Attorney Mike Thomas to consider whether or not that was possible.

"I then rethought the revision and decided it to be more of a considerable change than we first realized," advised Thomas.

"Therefore, the action that in actuality was taken was a first reading of the amended ordinance, which will come before us again as a second reading for possible approval by the end of March, Thomas explained.

Lifeline water rates for water customers, councilmembers argued, should be changed from $1.80 per thousand gallons to $1.88 per thousand gallons.

The eight cent increase taken March 8 was two cents less than the 10 cent increase city officials had previously set, having maintained it was necessary to create the $146,159 in revenue needed to cover the annual increase, based on 1993 water usage figures.

"I'm concerned because the figures are based on our best year,' argued Ladd Smith, mayor pro tem. "We are okay with a smaller eightcent increase if the year continues as it has the first few months," Lambert concluded, "But if we have a wet and rainy summer, and usage drops, even a 15 cent hike wouldn't be of much help."

Council agrees to downtown jail effort

By TIM JONES Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council agree to work at getting the new jail built in a downtown location at a special meeting Tuesday.

Also, the council decided to pay for the demolition of the Permian Building in exchange for the county providing dispatch services at no additional costs The city and county will negotiate about office space, dispatch services and the city's cost of up to $75,000 a year for housing city prisoners in the new jail.

Councilman Charles Beil announced the owner of the Permian Building will gift the structure to the county, if unpaid 1993 and 1994 taxes could be absorbed. The amount of past due taxes is approximately $4,300.

Beil said Drew Mouton, council for the taxing entities, told him the deed to the property could state that the county would then be responsible for those taxes. "We could join the other taxing entities in absorbing those past due taxes," Beil said. District 1 councilmember Stephanie Horton singularly opposed the downtown location, while the remaining six councilmembers favor building a jail downtown. Horton said there is a petition circulating with approximately 2,000 names supporting the remote site.

That location is bounded on the east by the Lamesa Highway, on the AUSTIN - The Texas attorney general's office, media and public watchdog groups praised new guide-lines adopted by the General Services Commission outlining the costs state agencies may charge for the release of public records.

The guidelines, adopted Tuesday, didn't include a provision widely opposed by Texas Attorney General Dan Morales, media and public watchdog groups that would have allowed the state to charge new fees for public records searches that take more than 15 minutes.

The so-called 15-minute limit had drawn criticism during public hearings from opponents who said it would result in a more secretive government because charges for public documents would increase signifi-

Others testified that the public should not be subject to unreasonable charges for copies of documents that show how their tax dollars are being spent.

"We are very pleased the way the process worked," said attorney Laura House, a director of the Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas. "The public spoke and the General Services Commission responded. Hopefully, this will alleviate a lot of the confusion about what the governmental bodies can charge for public records.'

Under the new proposal, personnel and overhead charges can't be added to requests for copies of 50 pages or less if the documents are or should be "readily available infor-

As now written, the guidelines leave it up to the agency to decide when requested public records are "readily available" - and when they aren't available. If the records aren't readily available, much of the cost of gathering the information can be recovered from whoever requests it.

Although the previous proposal had defined "readily available" as information that could be located in 15 minutes, the new guidelines state that information is considered readily available unless it "requires a, substantial amount of time to locate and prepare for release.' The commission adopted a guide-

Gerald Heep, director of internal audit for the commission, said the commission staff complied with Morales' wishes to drop the 15minute limit because the attorney general interprets the Texas Open

"Instead of being objective, it will be subjective and each agency will determine what is a substantial amount of time," Heep said.

Black contractors allege discrimination

AUSTIN (AP) — Black contractors in Austin are warning they'll sue the city of Austin and try to shut down iob sites unless the city negotiates to include more blacks in city purchasing and construction work.

A campaign of protests will begin on Monday unless the city enters into negotiations, an attorney for the Austin Black Contractors Association said Tuesday.

A pattern of discrimination was documented in a city-financed study, problem, attorney Eric Vickers of St. Louis said.

"It is appallingly clear from the study that African-Americans have been blatantly excluded by the city from participating in the bountiful economy generated by the city through its contracting and procurement activities," Vickers said in a letter to Mayor Bruce Todd.

Todd said the city recognizes that it needs to improve and has made substantial progress. He said the city wants to work with minority businesses, not fight them in court or witness civil disobedience.

"We would hope they would not revert to that," he said.

According to a report last fall by consultants J.D. Miller & Associates, the city spent $220.3 million for construction, goods and services during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1992. Of that amount, companies owned by blacks received 1.6 percent, Hispanics 2.6 percent and women 1.8 percent, the consultants found.

Man crushed under San Antonio city bus

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A San Antonio man was crushed under the double-rear wheels of a city bus as he tried to get the driver to stop so he could board, police say.

Ramiro Arispa, 45, died Tuesday shortly after he slipped under the and the city has not rectified the VIA Metropolitan Transit bus, police Officer B.J. Cordona said.

Witnesses said the man lunged toward the bus and started banging on the side when he slipped. The back tires went over his back, pelvic and torso area," Cordona said.

The six-year veteran bus operator, A.L. Renteria, explained to VIA officials he saw the man at the bus stop but Arispa made no aftempt to board the bus, VIA spokeswoman Susan Karkoska said.

"The driver stopped at a red light near the bus stop, and it was when he was in the middle of the intersection that he heard the man pounding on the side of the bus like he was trying to board," Karkoska said.

Opportunity the key word

The Texas Supreme Court has mandated that each school have an equal amount of money per pupil for their operation. Which is OK but unconstitutional. Nowhere in the Constitution of the state of Texas nor nowhere in the Constitution of The United States of America will you find such a mandate.

Why? Simply because our freedom is guaranteed by a few simple words - that all men are created equal, and have an equal OPPORTUNITY, but not mandated that they be funded equally.

Our well intentioned nature does not like to see poverty. child/wife/husband abuse nor do we like to see crimes committed. And when we see in the news reports about so many children having children, we are appalled. Yet we subsidize this very thing. We are actually subsidizing illegitimacy. Through our welfare program. And while 30 to 40 years ago this touched the ghetto and black people only, now it is single white mothers. And a Labor Department study has shown that among white women below the poverty line, 44 percent of all births are illegitimate, compared to only 6 percent for women above the poverty line. In 1991, this amounted to no fewer than 707,500 babies born to single white women, representing 22 percent of white births. The only way to top this illegitimacy is to cut off the oxygen that sustains it. Stop the welfare checks that say that the government will play the role of father and provider.

Our Legislature gave us the opportunity to vote on the mandated funding bill. And we rejected the CED bill, only to be forced to accept SB-7, which is the same as CED - with additives; 224 pages of it. The Legislature made provision for ten million dollars to be set aside for schools that have a high pregnancy rate. Subsidizing school kids to have babies. Of course, sixty percent of this school funding falls upon the

What does this all mean? Really nothing, I guess. The turnout for the last primary election was about twenty percent in Howard County, about 17 percent state wide. And the politicians love it! Without your vote, they have enough special interest groups to be re-elected. And now they can treat us like mushrooms keep us in the dark and feed us b- -l s- -t. And our president wants to reform the health program. In my nearly three score and ten years, one thing I have learned. If it ain't broke, don't fix it.

Basically, enough is enough. It is time for structural changes in our taxing system, and if the current Oscars rated D - depressing The Academy Awards are over, and once again, I am left out of most movie conversations because I won. Nor do I intend to. Many of my friends say to me: "You've got to see 'Schindler's haven't seen any of the movies that

No, I don't. I know what it is about. It is a depressing subject about one of the most terrible events in history. And I have a rule against spending $7 to sit for two hours or more in order to be depressed.

If I want to be depressed, I can turn on public radio in the morning and hear the latest reports on mutilation of females in Africa, air pollution in Slovakia, and the plight of the homeless, foodless, sightless and toothless in Third World nations.

Or I can just stare in the mirror while shaving.

And I'm not going to see "The Piano," either, because I read a review and I can tell it, too, is

Besides, the actress in "The Piano" won an Oscar for playing someone who can't talk. That doesn't make sense to me. How do I know she is such a great actress if she doesn't talk? After all, if George Bush didn't have to talk, he'd still be president of the United States.

And Harpo Marx didn't talk in a lot more movies than this actress didn't talk in. But they didn't give Harpo an Oscar. Of course not. They don't give an Oscar for comedy, even though it is much harder to make people laugh than to make them depressed. Just read or watch the day's news.

I won't see "Philadelphia," either, even though Tom Hanks won an Oscar as best actor for playing a man dying of AIDS. For one thing, it is still another depressing movie.

But I also thought that Hanks' acceptance speech — hailed by movie critics and others as eloquent and moving - was one of the worst public displays of incoherent, weepy blubbering that I have ever seen and

When Anthony Hopkins won the Oscar for playing a loony who killed and ate people, he didn't stand there weeping and blubbering about victims of serial killers or any murder victims at all. Don't the many innocent people who get murdered deserve Hollywood's sympathy? Isn't getting murdered a serious social and health problem?

Over the years, there have been awards to actors who were in movies about all sorts of death. But not one of them got as weepy and blubbery as did Hanks.

When "The Godfather" won a slew of awards, the recipients didn't shed tears for the many widows and orphans of those bumped off by Mafia mugs.

All Hanks had to do was go up there, thank the usual suspects, and, if he wanted to convey a message, say something like: "I hope I have contributed to the understanding of some of the social issues that are related to one of this nation's many health problems." Simple enough.

And had he really wanted to give us something original, he might have said: "We should call on the government to shut down the gay bathhouses in San Francisco and all over, where irresponsible individuals pass the disease around. I mean, if we can browbeat smokers with taxes and social condemnation, what about self-absorbed people who bring health problems on themselves, then blame society for it?"

But if he said that, his agent would have had a stroke and the audience would have hissed and thrown lapel ribbons at him, so the weepy, blubbery approach was probably a better show-biz touch.

So how can I go see a movie that is so depressing that it makes the star turn into a sobbing wreck many months after he finished shooting the last scene?

No, I'm not going to see any of these movies. Even "The Fugitive," which is the least depressing, made my skip list. That's because a friend who saw it told me that when Richard Kimball's stunningly beautiful wife is murdered by the onearmed man, it is really gory. Her head is bashed and blood is splattered all over the place.

I don't go to movies that show stunningly beautiful women getting their heads bashed. If they made a movie in which somebody cuffs Whoopi Goldberg's ears, I might rent the video, but that's my limit.

It is not that I'm against violence in movies. But there should be lim-

For example, when John Wayne shot someone, you didn't see blood squirting out of their chest or their eyes, ears and nose. Hollywood used to know how to kill people without chasing me bers of the audience up the aisle with their hands over their mouths.

And when he finally won an Oscar for his role as a fast-shooting but boozing U.S. marshal in "True Grit," John Wayne didn't get up and weep and blubber about gun control or the perils of heavy drinking.

One other thing about John Wayne movies: When he died, he didn't blame anybody but himself.

And he never ate anyone he shot. (C) 1994 By The Chicago Tribune

My mother said, "Son, as you get on with your life, you will come to find out that not everybody in this world is going to think you are as cute and smart as I do.'

Of course she was right. She was also right about, "You can't find true love in a nightclub," and, "One day you will regret giving up your piano lessons.'

I never really looked for true love in a nightclub, but if I had, I don't think I would have found any, knowing what I now know about night-

This letter came from a woman who reads my column in a Florida newspaper. I would give you her full name, but by the time she ended her letter, she must have been filled with so much indignation she found it difficult to keep a steady hand. I couldn't make out her last name, but her first name was Anita.

Here is a reader who finds nothing redeeming about what I write whatsoever. And she puts it about as bluntly as I have ever seen it put. The letter is an absolute mesterpiece.

It never wavers from its purpose. Anita writes like a surgeon going after your gallbladder.

I can't print the entire letter, for reasons of space, but here are the high points: Dear Lewis Grizzard:

I really like that last paragraph: "Nothing you write is concise, amusing or remotely interesting."

WASHINGTON - President Clinton can dazzle people with his command of the intricacies of federal programs, rattling off numbers and spitting out statistics. But when it comes to his personal finances, look

The nation's policy-wonk-in-chief seems to be checkbook challenged. At least that's the image the president keeps exuding. And, to a point, it's one the White House doesn't mind cultivating. After all, the less he knew about his own household finances, the less accountable he may be for the tangled Whitewater transactions. Clinton, for example, says he's not sure whether he and Hillary Rodham Clinton still owe back taxes associated with that controversial land investment. "If we do owe, we'll make it good," he said recently.

Special counsel Robert Fiske is reviewing the records and may be the first one to give the Clintons the bad news — if any taxes are owed.

The Clintons now say they lost about $47,000 on the Whitewater land deal, a downward revision.

Some private accountants have suggested the Clintons could wind up finding some of the Whitewater interest payments they deducted challenged and have to pay back

Clinton has never exhibited too much savvy — or interest — in mastering household cash flow.

"It's like in any family where one person handles the family finances and the other person doesn't," said Clinton spokeswoman Dec Dee Myers. "He's always been more interested in policy."

Maybe that would explain why

Clinton: - With a straight face could claim a charitable contribution of old clothes while governor of Arkansas and value his used undershorts at up to $2 a pair.

- Could "forget" a $20,000 loan he obtained to help his mother buy a house, allowing it to be counted during the 1992 campaign as part of what he claimed was a Whitewater

After all, it wouldn't look too good for Clinton to be making big bucks on land speculation at the same time he was pounding Republicans for a decade of greed and excesses.

And until they were pressured, and after The New York Times revealed details earlier this month, the Clintons also didn't divulge the $100,000 killing Mrs. Clinton made in cattle and other commodity futures in the late 1970s.

On Tuesday, the White House released additional documents suggesting Mrs. Clinton was able to turn a $100,000 profit from a mere $1,000 investment.

Now that's the kind of person anyone would want in charge of their household books.

Frank Luntz, a Republican and former Ross Perot pollster, suggests Clinton is being a bit too glib on the tax issue.

If it turns out the Clintons underpaid their taxes or were trying to evade paying what they owed, that will not sit well among Americans, particularly with the April 15 tax day approaching, and Clinton "will pay the price" politically, Luntz said. But Democratic pollster Mark Mellman said "everyone knows the tax system is pretty damn complicated. You can easily make a mistake. I don't think there's any evidence at all to suggest a malicious attempt to avoid taxation."

Paul Begala, a Democratic consul-tant who advises the White House, says he doesn't see any inconsisten-cy between Clinton's reputation for being a master of detail and his pur-ported lack of attention to his own

"I think the world is full of people who pour all their energies into work who then go home and have a messy apartment," Begala said. He was quick to say he wasn't accusing the Clintons of having messy quarters, just trying to make

Now that Easter is approaching, Big Spring churches are celebrating with Holy Week activities and other reminders of the holiday's true sig-

As is the case with many Christian holidays, a significant Jewish holiday is also celebrated at this time— Passover. Passover began Sunday, March 27, and lasts eight days.

The name Passover comes from the Biblical story about God passing over the home of the Children of Israel when he took the firstborn children of the Egyptians. After this event, the last of 10 plagues sent to the Egyptians to force them to free the Israelite slaves, the Israelites were finally freed.

Passover is also a nature feast, celebrating the first harvest offered at the Temple of Jerusalem in

In memory of the Exodus from Egypt, cakes of unleavened bread (called "matzoth") are eaten. To prepare for the holiday, homes are thoroughly cleaned. The ceremony on the eve of Passover is called the "seder," meaning "order," and either one or two seders may take place.

The seder signifies the order of rit-uals that will happen during the feast. The story of the Exodus, psalms of praise and commentaries on freedom are important to the cer-

Five symbolic foods are also important: a roasted lamb bone. representing the lamb sacrificed on the evening of the Exodus; a roasted egg, representing the Temple sacrifice offered on all holidays; bitter herbs, representing the bitterness of slavery in Egypt; a mixture of ground apples and nuts with wine, representing the mortar that Israelite slaves used to make bricks and parsley, representing spring.

The lamb bone and egg are symbolic; the other foods are to be eaten. A dish of salt water is provided for dipping and to represent the tears of the oppressed. A stack of three matzoth is set; half the middle matzah is hidden at the start and ransomed for a gift from the child who finds it.

During the seder reading, each person drinks four cups of wine at specific times. A cup of wine is set aside for the prophet Elijah, the legendary guest at Passover ceremonies. A traditional multi-course meal follows the reading.

Different families subscribing to different branches of the Jewish faith may celebrate Passover a little differently. However, the ceremony serves as an important reminder of freedom from slavery, just as Easter reminds Christians of Christ's sacrifice to free them from original sin.

Feast at Easter with these recipes

Easter is a time to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Easter is also a time to welcome the Spring season, a time to spruce up your Easter table with a bouquet of fresh daffodils and tulips, a time to don your bonnet for the Easter Parade, a time for baked ham or leg of lamb, a time of rebirth and the beginning of new life on earth.

This Easter you may want to try one or more of the following recipes for your Easter feast. The ham casserole is a good way to utilize left-over ham.

CRUNCHY HAM CASSEROLE

3 cups diced baked ham 1/2 cup chopped pimento-stuffed

2 hard cooked eggs, chopped 1 cup diced celery

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Wednesday in a copyright story that Jones met with Switzer in Texas on Tuesday night and reached an agreement with him to take over as coach. The newspaper did not attribute its story.

Switzer won three national titles in 16 years at Oklahoma but resigned after several of his players were arrested for violent crimes. He has not coached since 1989.

"After our discussions, we have mutually decided that I would no longer be the head football coach of the Dallas Cowboys," Johnson said, sitting to the right of Jones at the Cowboys' Valley Ranch headquarters after two days of meetings.

Their kind words aside, problems between the two began almost as soon as Jones bought the team in 1989, fired Tom Landry and made Johnson his coach.

"This boiled down to a personal thing between Jimmy and Jerry,' said defensive coordinator Butch Davis, who has been with Johnson throughout his 15-year coaching career. "It was nothing about football, it was nothing about management. This was personal."

Assistant coach Joe Brodsky said it was something else, too.

"He worked 24 hours a day for five years. I saw burnout coming," he said.

Johnson, 50, tried to soft-pedal his stormy relationship with Jones before the cameras on Tuesday, but the two have been trading verbal salvos since the Cowboys defeated the Buffalo Bills 30-13 in the Super Bowl.

"I feel better about Jerry as a friend," Johnson said.

Jones said he gave Johnson, who had five years left on his contract at S1 million per year, a "big-time thank you." No dollar amount was mentioned, but it was believed to be a multimillion deal.

IRVING, Texas (AP) — There was little doubt whose side Dallas Cowboys fans were on after learning that coach Jimmy Johnson was resigning in a dispute with owner Jerry Jones.

"Jerry must've got stupid after he got rich, because if he had been that stupid, he wouldn't have gotten rich," one bitter fan told allsports radio station KTCK-AM after Tuesday's announcement.

Switchboards at talk-radio stations across the state were lit up with callers wanting to give their opinions on the bizarre ending to one of the stormiest yet successful relationships in sports.

"I don't know what to say first -I'm awful mad and I'm awful sick," another caller said.

In Johnson's hometown of Port Arthur, fans were lined up solidly behind their local product.

"We would be more than happy to roast Jerry Jones here in Cajun country," J.D. DuPlantis said. "I think the NFL ought to take his franchise away."

Fans also were sad at St. Edward's University in Austin, where the Cowboys hold their sum-visiting Andrews. Big Spring (13-4, 2-1 in District 3-4A) put it all together - solid, clutch hitting, strong pitching from Mike Oliva (2-0) and strong defense.

First, the hitting. Big Spring delivered twice in two-out situations to put Andrews (6-8, 0-2) on the ropes.

Todd Parrish led off the second for the Steers and walked. He stole second without a throw, but two outs later he was still there. Parrish did come around to score, however, when Luis Bustamante hit a 3-1 pitch up the middle for an RBI single. Big Spring led 1-0.

Big Spring battered Andrews pitcher Jason Pierce in the third with some more two-out magic. With one out, Ricky Gonzales and Mike Sizenbach hit consecutive singles, but Oliva flied out to left for the second out. This time, lefthanded hitting Brandon Rodgers was Mr. Clutch, hitting a first-pitch single through the left side to score Gonzales.

Parrish added to the clutch hitting with a single to left that scored Sizenbach. Pierce left the mound in favor of Corey Martin, whose first pitch bounced to the backstop to allow Rodgers to score. Big Spring led 4-0 after three.

"We're starting to swing the bats a little bit better, getting some confidence at the plate again," said Big Spring coach Bobby Doe. "We had, oh, two or three games there in a row where we kind of slumped a bit, but I think now we've gotten the intensity up. The Steers scored three times in the fourth. They put runners on first and second with a hits batsman and a fielder's choice, then Gonzales singled to bring home the first run of the frame. Sizenbach singled home Chris Copeland to make the score 6-0, and the final run of the game scored when Andrews left fielder Chris Harris dropped Rodgers' fly ball to allow Gonzales to dent the plate.

While the Steers were putting the pressure on Andrews' pitchers, Oliva felt little heat at all. Oliva threw a complete-game six-hitter and walked just three. He hit two batters and struck out four.

Doe said: "It wasn't his strongest outing so far. I've seen him throw better, but, you know, he threw strikes and let the defense play, that was the main thing."

"I just went out there and did what Coach told me, just throw the ball right over the plate," Oliva said. "Let them hit the ball, and let everybody play defense.

Big Spring's defense came through with an errorless game. Second baseman Trey Terrazas made a running catch of a Jim Bob Cloud blooper in the third, the same inning that left fielder David Akin made a running catch in left-

"At the first of the year, our pitchers were striking them out and everything, and we didn't get to field it a lot, and we were making a lot of errors," said Rodgers, the Steers' first baseman. "But now, we're getting more defensive situations, and it's all for the betthis without each other," said Johnson, happy to be leaving even though it meant giving up a chance for a record third straight Super Bowl victory.

Before the Switzer story broke, Cowboys defensive coordinator Butch Davis was believed to be a strong candidate for the job.

'I'm happy to be considered," Davis said. "Of course, I would love to coach the Cowboys.

Johnson, meanwhile, was expected to spend several more days at the Cowboys' headquarters before head-

Johnson, who originally signed a

Johnson and Jones had been trading verbal salvos since the Cowboys defeated the Buffalo Bills 30-13 in the Super Bowl in January.

The players, who still have to ing to the Florida Keys to relax on his answer to Jones, were staying out of boat and move into a new house in that aspect of the breakup.

Switzer leads the race for Cowboys' job

Johnson walked out on the Cowboys Tuesday after chatting with Jerry Jones, owner of the Cowboys.

You've heard the story by now: Jones had a few drinks after an owner's meeting, and the alcohol went to his head. He said he could fire Johnson and bring in Barry Switzer or some other bozo to coach the Cowboys without missing a beat. Those words found their way to Johnson's ears, and now he's saved Jones the trouble of firing him.

As far as Mystery Sports Theater goes, this has been better than Nancy vs. Tonya. Beats the heck out of the George Steinbrenner-Billy Martin saga, and all the subsequent sequels. Jimmy and Jerry have made sure the soap opera crowd keeps

Is Tom Landry anxious to relive his glory days in Dallas?

Sure he is. And you and the exgirlfriend who took the belt sander to your new car are going to get back together next week.

Apparently the new coach of the Boys is going to be Switzer, and that's scary. Of course, Switzer treated his Oklahoma Sooners as if they were professionals, so maybe he'll fit right in.

But Switzer, and all but one person, is the wrong choice.

The new coach is doomed to fail. He'll be forgiven, and Johnson will be forgotten, only if the new guy wins the Super Bowl. Any less than that; he's a bum. Who would be good under those

Coahoma drops error-filled game

By STEVE REAGAN Sportswriter

COAHOMA - Twelve errors do not make for great art, but sometimes good drama does not require great

The Coahoma Bulldogs and Midland Christian Mustangs combined for the aforementioned 12 errors, not to mention numerous other baserunning mistakes, but still found the time for good pitching and late-inning fireworks.

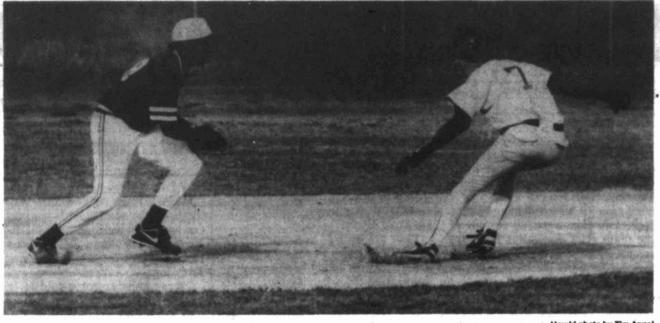

The result? A 4-3 Midland Christian nail-biter in non-district baseball action at Bulldog Field Tuesday afternoon.

The good pitching came from Midland Christian's Neil Truex and Coahoma's Jon White, who limited opposing batters to only 10 hits. But both were handicapped by sloppy fielding (each team committed six errors) that led directly to the lastinning drama.

White pitched well, striking out five, walking three and allowing only one earned run, but the Mustangs found enough chinks in the Bulldogs' defensive armor to build a 4-0 lead heading into the bottom of the sixth. That was when Midland's defense starting falling apart, allowing Coahoma back into the game.

With none one and two out in the sixth. Brian Ruiz got things started for Coahoma by legging out an infield single, then went to second on a throwing error by Truex. Ruiz then scored the 'Dogs' first run when Midland shortstop Chad Bayley misplayed Freddy Olivas' grounder for another error.

Bucky Williams followed that with Coahoma second baseman Brian Ruiz, left, chases down Midland Christian baserunner Geoff Sigler after Sigler tried to stretch a single into a double in the second inning of their game in Coahoma Tuesday. Sigler was tagged out on the only hard-hit ball off Truex, a fading double down the left-field line that scored Olivas and made the score 4-2. Coahoma loaded the bases on a single and a hit batsman, but Truex struck out Chris Arguello to end the threat.

The Bulldogs made one last run at the lead in their last at-bat in the seventh, loading the bases on a walk, single and a passed-ball strikeout.

Coahoma cut the lead to one when Truex walked Ruiz, forcing Jason Harmon home. But with the bases loaded and none out, the Bulldogs couldn't scratch for the tying run.

First, Truex helped his own cause by picking Kelby Bailey off third base. Then Midland third baseman Geoff Sigler forced Brandon McGuire at third on a fielder's choice grounder. Finally, Truex ended the game by forcing Williams to ground

Except for the last inning, when he tired noticeably, Truex (3-3) kept the Bulldogs off-balance the entire game.

Afterward, Coahoma coach Doc Rowell had good things to say about White's effort on the mound.

"We were real pleased with him." Rowell said of White, who was making his first start of the season. "We're still trying to find a second starters ... and he came in and did a good job."

Rowell was concerned, however, by the defensive mistakes. "Parts of the game they played well, but they just had some mental lapses," he said.

The loss dropped Coahoma's record to 3-3.

Howard falls to Texas Tech JV

LUBBOCK - The Howard College baseball team lost 4-3 in 11 innings to Texas Tech's junior varsity squad Tuesday afternoon.

Howard (32-3) scored two runs in the ninth to tie the game, but the Red Raiders scored the winning run in the 11th off Hawk reliever Skip Ames

"I'd just have to say we got beat by a better team today, because I sure thought we played well," said Howard coach Brian Roper. "We just faced a tough, tough lineup today. I was proud of the way our kids handled themselves against older kids."

Howard has defeated Tech's JV team twice in three tries this season, but Roper said the Red Raiders fielded their toughest lineup yet against the Hawks.

"I hope this doesn't effect us in a negative way, because we played so well," Roper said. "I'll take the blame for the loss because I scheduled the game.' Howard returns to Western Junior College Athletic Conference play Friday when the start a three-game series at New Mexico Military Institute Friday at 2 p.m.
