Academy students learn about police support services

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

Support services of the Big Spring Police Department was the subject of Thursday night's Citizen Police Academy.

Dispatchers are responsible for conveying information from the public to the department, to officers responding to a call and to other public service agencies.

The dispatcher must go through a telecommunication school which is a minimum of 40 classroom hours, 16 hours of the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) and Texas Crime Information Center (TCIC) school, telephone answer school, learn the Federal Communications Commission rules and receive a minimum of 80 hours of on-the-job training.

A dispatcher's job can be very stressful at times when an emergency arises. They are responsible for radio communication for the police department and when requested for the Department of Public Safety and sheriff depart-

The dispatchers must also receive walk-in customers and have a working knowledge of all of the departments and duties within the police station to insure a citizen's needs are taken care of properly.

They handle the 911 enhanced emergency system, the telephones and TDD which enables them to communicate with the hearing

Special to the Herald

The Fifth annual Spring City Arts and Crafts Festival will be April 9-10 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on the Howard College campus in Big

More than 200 artists and craftspeople from more than a dozen states will be on hand with original art, limited edition prints and handcrafted items. The event will also be used as a fundraiser for organizations such as the Permian Basin Food Bank, Big Spring Women's Club, Beta Sigma Phi, Morning Optimist Club, Girls Softball Association, Howard College, and others.

Hours for the show are Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge

Mel Prather, organizer for the show, said he was pleased with both the quality and variety of entries for the 1994 event.

"We always get more requests for booths than we have available. As a result, we can be more selective in the various categories. We've found that shoppers prefer certain items during this time of year so we've increased those categories and cut back on some of the less popular items.

Talking about some of the expanded categories, Prather said they had increased the number of participants selling items such as quilts, cedar chests, finished wood items, candy, gift items and even seasonal items.

Even though most of us are happy Christmas is over, there are still a lot of people who continually look for seasonal items to use this year. One of the complaints we've had from patrons at previous shows is our lack of seasonal items, especially Christmas decorations.

The show has also drawn attention Please see SHOW, page 2

April is being designated as Sexual Assault Awareness Month and Child Abuse Prevention Month. As part of the observation, survivors of incest and sexual abuse in Big Spring are telling their stories in an effort to raise the community's awareness.

"Hope" (who's name has been changed to protect her identity) has lived in Big Spring for 20 years and says her abuse began at an early age. She says both her parents emotionally and physically abused her ever since she can remember.

"The sexual abuse by my father began when I was nine years old as part of his sex education. My father used the Bible to get what he wanted. He would take me to church and listen to sermons then bring me home and make me do things.

"Hope" had eight brothers and sisters and from what she can determine, at least half of them were sexually abused. Her father kept the children separate and the siblings never got to really know one another and could not talk about what had happened to them.

"Hope" said she feels like her mother OK'd what was going on because during this time it was calm in the house and she worked nights and left "Hope" with her father.

"Hope" and her family moved to Big Spring when she was 12 years old and the abuse continued until she was 16. When she was in tenth grade, "Hope" told a friend what her father was doing to her. That friend told her parents and "she was responsible for getting me to a therapist. The therapist suggested I tell my mom and I did. She asked my father about it and he said it happened only once and would not happen again. He disowned me. No one told me to tell anyone else other than my mom. Howard County.

Boll weevil traps available

Special to the Herald

There continues to be considerable interest in overwintering boll weevil survival, especially in newly infested areas of the southern High Plains as Howard County.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, together with the Plains Cotton growers, are making traps available to interested consultants and

The only stipulations placed on participants is they follow the guidelines provided with the traps as where to place them, how to check them and providing trapcatches to Extension agents so that this information can be plugged into the High Plains Boll Weevil Update, a service that tracks weevil infestations as reported in the southern High Plains and adjacent Rolling plains areas. This information will be summarized and provided through a PCG newsletter and DTN subscribers. The particulars of the program

Traps will be provided from

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. through the local County Extension agent to interested consultants and produc-

- Traps will be provided in sets of four only: four traps, four poles, twelve pheromone and four kill strips. This will allow traps to be run for six weeks. Each pheromone will last two weeks. It is recommended that at least four traps be placed per trapped field. These should be placed on the sides nearest overwintering habitat.

- Each trap set will be accompanied with a fact sheet outlining trap use and how to make decisions as to whether insecticidal control is necessary. Also included will be a set of data sheets for producers to record trap catches and other pertinent information.

for a traffic violation and must run their information through the NCIC, TCIC and municipal court records to see if they have any warrants or such on their record. A dispatcher could also have to send an ambulance on a call or send a fire truck to the scene of an accident or fire, whether it is the city or county volunteer department. A dispatcher is also responsible for recording all radio and telephone calls as well as making sure the videotape machine is running when an officer brings someone in that has been arrested.

Jailers are also an important part of the support system within the department. When a suspect is brought into the department, a jailer will assist officers in the booking process by searching the arrestee, entering information into the computer, performing sobriety tests and intoxilyzer tests.

A jailer will take mug shots, fingerprints and have the suspect dress in prison clothes if they cannot post bond. Prisoners are fed three times a day and jailers are responsible for cooking the meals.

The police department also handles animal control for the city by picking up loose and uncared for animals. There are two animal control officers and are supervised by Lt. Terry Chamness. Animal control officers must check the animals for vaccinations and rabies. They are trained in euthanizing an animal if it is not adopted out or claimed in 72

Next week, academy members will learn about traffic patrol and how officers enforce traffic and DWI

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incidents: •Raymond L. Tate, 66 of 1212 East Sixth Street, was arrested on a revocation of probation warrant. Tate had been on probation for a driving while intoxicated charge. He posted bond and was

David G. Morales, 17 of 207 South Benton, was arrested on robbery and burglary of a habitation charges. He and orders are to be placed by Monday, April 11, at the County Extension Office in Big Spring. Traps will be available for these orders later in

- Weekly trap catches will be reported to the local Extension Agent who in turn will provide this information to the Spur Boll Weevil

The value of this program lies in the exchange of trapping information. If there is a high response rate of participants, then researchers will be able to keep up with where weevils are appearing and ultimately be able to develop a better weevil management program this year.

Individual producers will benefit by knowing where weevils appear first and if they might be in danger of having early infestations. Management guidelines for early weevil infestations will be provided in the fact sheet enclosed with each trap from around the country, attracting exhibitors from as far away as Ohio and Colorado. Some of the more unusual items will include swings made from discarded car tires, fresh roasted cinnamon almonds, tree spirits, stick fish and potpourri pies.

More traditional items will include pottery, ceramics, jewelry, clothing, tole painting, furniture in finished and unfinished form, scented oils and hair accessories. Others will offer handmade purses, jackets, vests, baskets, original art and limited edition prints.

There will be a drawing by the Permian Basin Food Bank and concessions will be used by Beta Sigma Phi, the Morning Optimist Club, Howard College and the Girls Softball Association to raise funds. The Big Spring Women's Club will be selling their current cookbook and a number of other organizations will be handing our literature on their organizations.

("Southwestern Bell" or "Company") filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") to restructure the Company's Local Transport and Directory Transport categories of its Switched Access Service. This matter has been assigned to Docket No. 12784. The tariff sheets in Southwestern Bell's application, if approved, will bring the Company's intrastate Access Service Tariff into structural parity with the Company's interstate Tariff No. 73 for Local Transport. Southwestern Bell's companion interstate tariff became effective on January 1, 1994.

Final debate takes new tone - civility

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Democratic Senate candidates Jim Mattox and Richard Fisher broke little new ground in their final face-to-face meeting before next week's runoff election.

But an hour-long debate between the two Thursday had one new twist a semblance of civility.

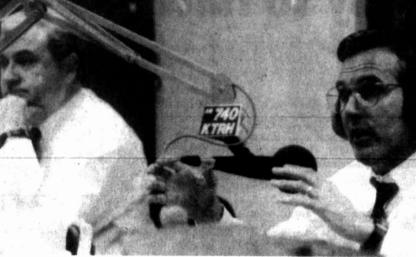

"We're at the end of a long road," Fisher said after a tame appearance with Mattox on a phone-in show on Houston radio station KTRH. "We're very close to the finish line.'

'I think were both kind of dog tired." Mattox said when asked about the low-key debate.

Fisher and Mattox fielded more than a dozen questions, spanning diverse topics like the federal deficit, international affairs, Social Security and crime and refrained from much of the mudslinging that has marked a campaign that ends with Tuesday's balloting. The winner will face incumbent Republican Kay Bailey

"I think we've got to get away from the high school politics and showmanship," Fisher said afterwards. "This isn't a game of showmanship. This isn't a television show. This is trying to get elected to the United States Senate.'

The Dallas businessman said he thought Mattox had responded to his presence in the race by assuming his position on issues like campaign finance reform. Fisher also said Mattox was concentrating much more on small business issues.

"Win or lose, Jim's come around," Fisher said. "He sounds a little bit more like me. I'm rather happy to see I'm being parroted to an extent." Mattox, however, denied any turns

"Anytime you re-enter a lawsuit, there is the possibility of losing as much as winning," they said.

Gov. Ann Richards also expressed

"The most important thing to remember is that we want state control of our penitentiary and prison system. We have been through a situation where we have been under recommendations, such as putting two gang members in one cell, are questionable, he said. Under the federal prison lawsuit settlement, the state has agreed to isolate in single cells prisoners who are dangerous to the staff, themselves or others.

Board doing what it is supposed to

This is my response to "Don't armchair quarterback" letter to the editor by Keith Stone. Let me say that this letter has nothing to do with the failure to renew Coach Steve Parks' contract; but to the implication that the residents and parents of the community have no qualifications to even discuss how well a coach coaches or a teacher teaches.

I admit that the majority of parents and residents are not college educated and know the latest technics but don't fail to give them credit for knowing what is best for their children. I guess the job for as is to pay taxes to support schools and then let the NEA, the state and federal government tell what is best for

Keith, I have the greatest respect for you and your family as I did in 1963 when you played baseball for me; but I disagree with you on the rights of parents, residents of the community and the taxpayers.

I for one, feel that I have the qualifications to discuss whether a teacher or coach is doing a good job. We as parents must have done something right when you, your brothers and our son and daughter were in Coahoma Schools for all went to college and did quite well. We had pretty good athletic teams

Yes, there will be mistakes made but the majority of the time the parents are right. It is not the job for a governmental bureaucracy to force anything on the people. Let us not forget that a government should be of the people, by the people and for the people. This pertains to the schools also. You are right when you say that school boards set the guidelines and then hire a superintendent to implement them.

Just remember that the school board is elected by the people. I'm sure the school board acted upon the wishes of many people. It remains to be seen whether this was the right approach but the people have spoken. This is the democratic process upon which our nation was founded.

Of all the coaches I have personally met, I have great respect for them as good Christian people with fine moral values. Some are good coach-

Smoking: Easy to hate issue A vanishing

There seems to be no limit to the abuse being heaped on those 40 million Americans who still smoke.

They have been banned from public buildings, many workplaces, restaurants, sports arenas and are threatened with higher taxes.

As one who has shaken tobacco at least for now — I have now joined in kicking and stomping those who still indulge in their disgusting habit. The other day, I. visited a tavern and saw an old friend at the bar. He waved at me to join him, but I sat down at the other end. He walked over and said: "You mad about something?'

"No," I said, looking down my nose at him. "I am not angry at you. It's just that you are my social inferior, lacking high station or birth." "I'm what?

"Well, to put it another way, you are of inferior social status. You have been lowered in class, rank and social position.

"When did all this happen?" So I explained that I had watched a Sunday-morning gathering of Washington deep-thinkers on TV. They talked about the national anti-smoking crusade. And George Will, one of Washington's deepest thinkers, said that those who still smoked had become "declasse." Not being of the French-speaking persuasion, I looked up "declasse in a dictionary. "And," as I told my friend, "the definition included all the things I have said about you. What it amounts to is that because you smoke, you ain't got no class.'

A look of sadness and defeat fell across his face. "I don't know how much more of this I can take," he said. "I can't smoke where I work. The company allows professional back-stabbing, malicious gossiping, career-climbing and other stress-inducing behavior. But I have to slink outside on the sidewalk for a few puffs. Then strangers walk by and look at me like something they scraped off their

"I can't smoke at home, even on the back porch, because my wife says the second-hand smoke endangers the health of her cat. "Some of my favorite restaurants have banned smoking completely. They eagerly sell me all the vodka martinis needed to destroy my liver and enough cholesterol to clog a cannon, but they can't put aside a ventilated corner for smokers.

'So what remains? The tayern, which has traditionally been a peaceful haven for those seeking to escape the everyday woes of life.

"But I come in here and what do I get? You tell me that I am 'declasse' a social inferior. Nobody ever called me a social inferior before." He stared wearily into his glass.

This has all happened so quickly. How did we suddenly become society's favorite whipping boy?' Because somebody has to satisfy the craving of the modern liberal reformer. The Brady bill has been passed, and there is only limited interest in saving whales, horned toads and spotted owls.

"But are we the worst menace in our society? What about the moronic scum shooting up the city streets, killing children and 7-Eleven clerks? Why not a national crusade to require the death sentence for every violent murder?' Be careful what you say. Many of those killers you call "moronic scum" happen to be victims of social injustice and society's failure to gangbanging killer?"

In some eyes, yes, because you can read the surgeon general's warning on a cigarette package, but no similar health warning is printed on a gun butt, and if it was, the education-disadvantaged lad could not read it anyway.

'What about people who eat grease and fat and glop, which are this society's favorite taste treats? Because they become fat and their arteries clog, aren't they also a burden on the nation's health-care program? I don't see Slick Willie talking about putting a $1.50 tax on the belly-busters he is always eating."

Of course not. No sane politician is going to slap a sin tax on something that millions of American parents feed to their kids because it is easier than cooking. Besides, the generation that considers you a social inferior grew up on belly-busters with cheese and fries. It is their soul food.

Then why don't they go after all the foolish women who have babies they can't support and become a burden on our welfare system, and the fathers who flee their responsibilities; or people who engage in unsafe sexual practices and become a burden on our health programs? Why don't George Will and the other smoker-bashers say they are 'declasse'?"

And be accused of insensitivity and political incorrectness? Those you mention are all victims of society, history, man's inhumanity, etc., and so on. You, on the other hand, are responsible for your own actions and must be punished for your weak-

breed of men

By ALAN FRAM

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON- They worked across the street from each other, in distinctly different worlds. Now. Harry Blackmun and Jamie Whitten are bowing out of extended public service careers that made each an institution.

Blackmun, 85, announced Wednesday that he would retire from the Supreme Court after 24 years that saw him evolve into its most dauntless liberal voice. He was best known as the author of the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that established a constitutional right to

Whitten, 83, the Mississippi Democrat whose nearly 53 years in Congress is a record, said Tuesday he will not seek re-election to the House seat he has held since November

As chairman of the mighty House Appropriations Committee until he became ill in 1992, Whitten was one of the last of the baronial Southern chairmen who once wielded nearly unfettered power.

The two men's lives have had some marked parallels. Both came of age during the Depression. Both became more liberal later in their careers. And both seemed to believe they could use their work to help people, Blackmun with the cases he considered. Whitten with the hundreds of billions of dollars his committee controlled.

But ultimately, each will be remembered quite differently, in part because they are creatures of wo very distinct institutions.

Blackmun works in a world of black robes and hushed chambers, at once forbidding and dignified. When the high court is in session, attorneys address the nine justices in only the most respectful of tones. And the finished product often deals with some of the highest profile issues that society faces.

Whitten's environment, though similar in its abundance of marble columns, is far earthier. His committee controls about one-third of the $1.5 trillion federal budget, and his source of power was his ability to dole out money for highways, water projects and other programs largely as he saw fit. Handshakes and backroom deals were his stock-in-trade.

Blackmun will always be remembered as the graceful scholar who was appointed by a Republican president, Richard Nixon, as a conservative but who gradually came to be viewed as a liberal. He rejected that perception and said he was always somewhere in the middle of that spectrum, that it was the court that had moved.

He remains intellectually sharp, forever examining issues. Just a few weeks ago he announced his outright opposition to capital punishment, saying he now believes that the death penalty cannot be administered in a constitutional way Whitten's mark is on the grittier side. He began his congressional career as an unabashed segregationist, but abandoned that view as blacks began to vote more heavily. And as he built up seniority, his power on the Appropriations panel increased - as head of its agriculsuperintendents there is more lung ture subcommittee beginning in 1949, then in 1979 as chairman of cancers of the large intestine and the full panel.

> Whitten never hesitated to use that power, although it was diluted by a 1975 rules change that forced subcommittee chairmen to be more responsive to other members.

To his own northern Mississippi district, he brought money for the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway and the Natchez Trace Parkway. And while others ruefully accused him of distributing pork, Whitten who came to Congress during the New Deal — said he believed the government's role was to use its money to nurture economic growth.

After suffering what some on Capitol Hill said was a stroke in 1992, Whitten seemed weakened and at times disoriented. Months later, his fellow Democrats stripped him of his committee subcommittee chairmanships. And last year, they killed a multibillion-dollar rocket engine project in his district that he had successfully defended for years.

Blackmun may well be replaced by someone similar. Indeed, President Clinton made a campaign pledge to fill Supreme Court vacancies with people who support abortion rights, and Clinton seems likely to look for a moderate as well.

But Whitten is among a vanishing breed of Capitol Hill dinosaurs: born before World War I, in Congress before World War II and a one-time chairman whose power was nearly unchallengeable.

His type soon will be gone forever. Alan Fram covers Congress for The Associated Press.

Living Water Ministries is stepping outside the usual bounds of spreading Christian messages with its second annual SPLOTZ (Spiritual People Like Odd Thingz) musical comedy dinner theater. This year's effort, "Gloria and Esau's Excellent Adventure," will be 7 p.m. April 15 and 16 at the Big Spring Country Club. Tickets are $15 for adults and $8 for children 12 and younger. Cornerstone and the Living Water office are selling

The show, written by Lanny Hamby, revolves around Archie and Edith Baker, a couple unhappy about their daughter Gloria's relationship with a radical young man. (Yes, the plot was inspired by the television show "All in the Family.") Seeing family troubles ahead, Archie then relates the Biblical story of Jacob and Esau to Gloria. "A lot of people don't know the story of Jacob and Esau is about family dynamics," said Hamby. "We needed something to make the story more relevant for today." The musical comedy incorporates much singing and dancing into its storytelling, using music from the 1950s. The show lasts about two hours, but may be slightly shorter by the time rehearsals are completed.

· Hamby, who plays Archie Baker, has worked on the project for about six months. Living Water's Celebration Arts Department, which is presenting the show, has spent nearly three months putting the show together.

Hamby estimated about 25 to 30 people are involved with the production, either as performers or as behind-the-scenes workers. "A lot of folks have a talent and have come

He also credited choreographer Aline Howard with giving the show a professional, polished look

The first SPLOTZ, which was presented nearly a year ago, was popular enough with people inside and outside Living Water Ministries that the church decided to make it an annual event.

"One guy came up to me and asked, "When are you going to do SPLOTZ again?" recalled Leo Free, pastor of Living Water Ministries. Hamby explained the appeal of the show: "Nobody expected something like that from a church."

The Celebration Arts Department spreads the gospel through other untraditional means such as mime. Free's son Josh is part of a mime group that has traveled worldwide. The department has also participat-Please see SPLOTZ, page 6.

It's time to take out the trash in

On Saturday, April 9, Howard County volunteers will join other Texans in the Ninth Annual "Great Texas Trash-Off.

This event is part of the Texas Department of Transportation's "Don't Mess with Texas" anti-litter campaign and is considered the largest one-day cleanup in the nation.

The Boys Club of Big Spring, Kiwanis Club of Big Spring and Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 379 are the local organizations who are part of the Adopt-A-Highway program and will scouring the county roadways for litter.

The Boys Club has adopted two miles of the Snyder Highway from Interstate 20 north to Gail Road. 'We adopted this part of the highway several years ago. We thought we should do some sort of civic service in the community and decided this was one way of helping out. We always participate in cleanup projects in the community," said Boys Club Director Bert Andris. He added that there will be about a dozen volunteers helping out Saturday morn-

The Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 379 will be cleaning up a part of FM 700 from Wasson Road to Business 20. "We have been doing this for about four or five years and I hope there will be about 10 or so volunteers that morning," said Don Boling, chapter member.

Kiwanis Club volunteers will be picking up litter from Hearn Street to two miles south on Highway 87. They will begin at 9 a.m.

There is a new twist to this year's project. The Department of Transportation is encouraging all Texans to kick the littering habit for at least 24 hours in observance of Last year marked the largest event in the history of the Don't Mess with Texas campaign. There were 85,000 volunteers state-wide picking up more than 7 million gallons of litter across the state. That is enough garbage to fill the beds of 17,000 pickup trucks.

Since the Don't Mess with Texas and Adopt-A-Highway programs were launched in 1986, the state has seen a 72 percent decrease in roadside litter.

The public is encouraged to help out the organizations by going to the sights and picking up litter on the roads. Keep Texas Beautiful groups will be sprucing up city streets and parks on Saturday as well.

Four-under 68 gives Mize lead

By The Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Larry Mize survived the weird winds and prickly pin positions at Augusta National on Thursday to take the lead at the Masters, and Greg Norman battled his first-round jinx with a gutsy performance that left him two strokes back.

Mize rebounded from a bogey at No. 15, where he was one of a slew of players hitting into the water, to birdie 18 and finish at 4-under-par Player after player complained about the pin positions, but not Mize, the 1987 Masters champion.

"Maybe I'm dumb, but I just didn't think the pins were that tough," he said. "You expect them to be tough here.

That was easy for Mize to say. He needed only 25 putts.

Tom Kite and South African Fultom Allem were a stroke back at

He made only two pars on the back nine — 11 and 15 — and finished Chip Beck, Hajime Meshiai of Japan bogey, birdie, bogey, hitting the sand at 16 and 18.

It's probably my worst first round in this tournament and yet I Langer of Germany was at 2-over- 1," Pavin said. "That's the way it them. It was an inspiration."

Norman's six bogeys Thursday were five more than he made in 72 holes at The Players Championship two weeks ago when he shot 24 under par.

On a day in which unusal winds from the northwest confused club selection on a course that usually plays to southerly winds, ball after ball plunked into the water at 15.

Tom Watson, the 44-year-old twotime Masters champion, was in the lead at 4-under-par until he made a triple bogey 8 after finding the water at 15. He bounced back with a birdie on 18 to finish at 2-under-par 70.

Watson, Mize, Norman, Payne Stewart and Nolan Henke were among the players who hit the drink at 15. Henke made 10 on the hole.

Norman slapped his second shot into the water on the par-5 hole, but rolled in a 15-foot putt to save par. You would have thought it was Sunday and he had just won his first Masters. He tossed the ball into the crowd and smiled from ear to ear as he walked off the green.

Joining Watson and Norman at 70 were Tom Lehman, 51-year-old Raymond Floyd, Seve Ballesteros

The only others to break par were Australian Ian Baker-Finch, Corey Pavin, Russ Cochran, Brad Faxon, and 58-year-old South African Gary Player, a three-time Masters champion, all at 1 under par.

Smith provides leadership to young Lady Steer track team

On a team almost devoid of seniors, leadership can be at a premium. That makes Kathy Smith a precious commodity for the Big Spring High School girls' track team. Smith's first love in sports in volleyball, but the BSHS junior also enjoys running and jumping. She must, that is, because she competes in five events for the Lady Steers.

"I like to do what I can to help out the team," she said. "I'm one of the older people on the team, and there's not that many of us. The competition is so much different than in junior high, and I've got more experience with the level of competition."

Still an Oiler – for now

Houston Oiler quarterback Warren Moon walks past a cameraman on his way to a meeting with Oilers general manager Floyd Reese Thursday. Moon says he wants to finish his career with the Oilers, but is not willing to take a pay cut to do so.

NEW YORK — On a day when New York scored many runs, the Yankees manager had his personal favorite.

"I thought the 13th run we scored was a big run," Buck Showalter said after New York beat the Texas Rangers 18-6 Thursday.

They had the momentum coming back to 12-6," said Showalter, referring to the Rangers' five-run outburst in the sixth, capped by Juan Gonzalez' two-run homer that Mulholland (1-0).

New York scored at least once in each of the first seven innings, collecting 19 hits off six Rangers pitchers, who also contributed nine walks Danny Tartabull drove in four runs with four hits, including a pair of doubles, Mike Gallego homered twice for three RBIs, Bernie Williams hit a three-run homer. Mike Stanley had three RBIs and Wade Boggs and Don Mattingly had two each.

Boggs had four hits and is now 8-

On McGee's hit, Morrow tried for third base, and Coahoma's throw knocked out Yankees starter Terry for-10 in the first two games, while Mattingly's first RBI made him the ninth Yankee to have 1,000 RBIs.

Tartabull's fast start, in which he has six RBIs on five hits in two games is a surprise even to him.

'Usually, I'm a very slow starter. My first eight seasons, I've had trouble getting off the block with the cold weather and all that good stuff,' Tartabull said.

Rangers starter Kenny Rogers gave up eight earned runs on nine hits with two walks and left without retiring any batters in the fourth.

Big Spring Jazz beat Coahoma

A Howard County softball show down at the Roy Anderson softball complex Thursday resulted in a 9-8 win for the Big Spring Jazz over the Coahoma Bulldogettes.

Coahoma led 8-7 going to the bottom the seventh, but the Jazz had one last rally in them. Big Spring's Erica Lanspery, who homered in the fourth inning, grounded out to start the inning, but Mandi Morrow followed with a single. Heather James lined out for the second out, but Kathy McGee then hit a blooper to right for a base hit.

went past third, allowing Morrow and McGee to score the tying and winning runs

The agony and ecstacy of being a Texas Rangers fan

Red alert, Ranger fans: the best and worst of times are here. Every year, the Texas Rangers open the season brimming with confidence that this year, by gummy, will be the year they finally make the playoffs.

Their fans, while equally hopeful, are not quite so optimistic.

You see, we've seen this movie before - 23 times before, to be exact. How many times have the experts looked at the Rangers, noticed all those awesome bats, and declared this year to be the year? Subsequently, how many times has Texas proceeded to go into the toi-

How many stars are in the sky? It really is a special kind of agony to back the Rangers. Oh sure, the Chicago Cubs haven't won a World Series since the invention of the light bulb, but the Cubbies are different. They're so pathetic, they're lovable sort of like that black sheep uncle you see cracking dirty jokes at a family reunion.

And the Boston Red Sox know how to stab their fans in the heart, but what the hey, that's Boston, so who cares, right?

We're talking the Rangers, and for the past 23 years, that team has owned a license to drive its fans

You see, we're suckers. We look at all those bats, all those great hitters like Juan Gonzalez and Dean Palmer and Will Clark and Jose Canseco, and we tend to forget that the team is lacking in a few areas.

Like everywhere else.

Defense has always been an afterthought with the Rangers, and the team's pitchers, with a few exceptions like Kenny Rogers, Kevin Brown and Tom Henke, couldn't hit water if they fell out of a stinking

All this means that Texas will pound the heck out the ball. Throwing and catching said ball, however, will be a problem.

Details.

As in years past, Ranger fans will be treated to plenty of 11-10 and 9-8 games, which are great for highlight films but terrible for team confi-

And as team confidence sags, Ranger fans will experience yet again the horrible legacy that goes with rooting for the Ball Team in Arlington.

The season is only two games old, but I make the following prediction with great confidence: The Rangers will, at some point this year, put together an impressive winning streak, stoking the hopes of all their fans in the process.

But all that will be followed by a slump sometime late in the season, knocking Texas out of pennant contention and sending fans back into the throes of depression.

That brings us to another point: Texas unveiled a brand-spankingnew stadium this year. The Ballpark in Arlington. From everything I've seen on TV and in the papers, the 49,000-seat home of the Rangers is a palace.

Cowboys sign 'Moose,' Newton to pacts

By The Associated Press

IRVING — The Dallas Cowboys signed fullback Daryl Johnston to a three-year, $4.2 million contract Thursday and announced that Pro Bowl guard Nate Newton has agreed

That meant the Cowboys, by day's end, would have seven of their eight offensive Pro Bowl players from last season under contract. The last holdout is center Mark Stepnoski.

Johnston, who received a $1.8 million signing bonus, becomes the highest-paid fullback in NFL history, the Cowboys said.

No details were announced on Newton's deal.

Johnston has been with the Cowboys since 1989 and has not missed a game during that five-year span, encompassing 86 straight

IF YOUR BIRTHDAY IS APRIL 9: You are in your element this year. Be willing to express your ideas in a meaningful way. Watch a tendency to be combative. It may be important for you to be more sensitive to your inner feelings. Take frequent timeouts to reduce stress. Creativity will be high. Trust your instincts when it comes to matters of thought. Be willing to play devil's advocate with others to gain more perspective. If you are attached, a partnership will need nurturing. If single, you'll meet people easily, but guard against a tendency to be selfabsorbed. ARIES is a kindred spirit.

'Today is Friday, April 8, the 98th day of 1994. There are 267 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

Twenty years ago, on April 8, 1974, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves hit his 715th career home run in a game against the Los Angeles Dodgers, breaking Babe Ruth's record. The round-tripper was off pitcher Al Downing.

On this date:

In 1513, explorer Juan Ponce de Leon claimed Florida for Spain.

In 1935, the Works Progress Administration was approved by Congress. In 1946, the League of Nations assembled in Geneva for the last In 1952, President Truman seized the steel industry to avert a nationwide strike. In 1970, the Senate rejected

President Nixon's nomination of G. Harold Carswell to the U.S. Supreme

In 1973, artist Pablo Picasso died at his home near Mougins, France, at age 91.

In 1975, Frank Robinson, major league baseball's first black manager, got off to a winning start as his team, the Cleveland Indians, defeated the New York Yankees, 5-3.

In 1981, General Omar N. Bradley died in New York at age 88.

In 1987, Al Campanis, vice president of player personnel for the Los Angeles Dodgers, resigned after saying on ABC's "Nightline" that blacks may lack some of the "necessities" for becoming baseball managers.

In 1990, teen-age AIDS patient Ryan White died in Indianapolis at

In 1992, tennis great Arthur Ashe announced at a New York news conference that he had AIDS (Ashe died the following February at age 49.)
