One vote gives Reid win; Wilkerson bests Cathey

By TIM JONES Staff Writer

In keeping with what has become a traditionally close race, Howard County Democrats appear to have chosen Donnie Reid over Roosevelt Shaw by one vote for Precinct 2 commissioner.

In the two previous primaries, the Precinct 2 vote was just as close. In 1988, the race was determined by a cut of the cards after the runoff election was tied, and in 1990, just three votes separated the two candidates.

REID

Unofficial, but complete returns show Reid with a 466-465 victory over Shaw.

Three other local races were decided in Tuesday's primary runoff elections.

A little more than 16 percent of the county's registered voters turned out at the polls for the run offs.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said Shaw has five days after the election to petition the Democratic chairman for a recount; or two days after the executive committee formally declares its canvas Friday. He must make a deposit by certified check for the recount. The rate is $15 per precinct for electronic recount and $50 per precinct for a manual recount.

Shaw indicated "there would probably be a recount" just before leaving the Howard County Courthouse Tuesday night.

Reid said he expects there to be a recount. "I knew it would be close, because it's traditionally close in Precinct 2,"

Reid said. "But I certainly didn't expect it to be this close."

There were two overvotes and 21 undervotes cast in the precinct 2 race.

Ray said, "An overvote is where both candidates appear to be punched and an undervote is where neither appears to be punched."

In the Republican race for Precinct 2 commissioner, Jerry Kilgore defeated John Wayne Metcalf by a margin of 14 votes, Kilgore getting 134 votes to Metcalf's 120.

In the November election, Kilgore will face the official winner of the Democratic precinct 2 race.

"I appreciate the support of the voters and their efforts to get out," Kilgore said. "I know what it takes, and I'll be highly visible and out there in person until November."

In the Democratic race for Precinct 4 commissioner, Homer L. Wilkerson defeated incumbent Bobby C. Cathey, by a margin of 59

State trends followed by area voters

By JOHN A. MOSELEY News Editor

Area voters followed statewide trends for the most part during Tuesday's Democrat and Republican primary runoff voting.

Dallas businessman Richard Fisher, who defeated former state attorney general Jim Mattox for the right to face Kay Bailey Hutchison in the race for U.S. Senator in November, was the favorite in all four area counties.

Fisher, the recipient of 54 percent of the statewide vote, was a bigger winner locally — winning by a 306-118 margin in Mitchell County, 103-51 in Martin County, 47-25 in Glasscock County and 50-29 in Borden County.

The Fisher-Mattox race proved to be the only one in which area voters were in complete agreement with statewide results, however.

BORDEN COUNTY While supporting Fisher's successful campaign, Borden County's Democrats favored Rene Haas over incumbent Haul A. Gonzales by a 55-25 margin in the race for Place 1 on the Texas Supreme Court. Gonzales won the statewide race with 54 percent of the vote.

The county's voters were almost evenly divided in the race for Place 2 on the Court of Criminal Appeals, backing Gene Kelly by a 39-34 margin over Betty Marshall. In statewide returns, Marshall took 60 percent of the vote.

According to Borden County Clerk's Office personnel, there were so few Republican voters during the primary, that county GOP officials chose not to hold a runoff.

GLASSCOCK COUNTY Democratic runoff returns showed Glasscock County voters narrowly supporting Gonzales' bid for re-election to the Supreme Court by a 37-33 margin, while backing Kelly over Marshall, 28-25.

Only 16 voters turned out for the two races on the Republican runoff ballot. Don Wittig, who received 55 percent of the statewide vote in the attorney general's race, was a 10-6 winner over Patricia (Pat) Lykos.

However, Glasscock County's GOP voters picked Sam Bayless by a 9-6 margin over Sharon Keller in the race

Jail proposal revised

By TIM JONES Staff Writer

The city council voted "twice" Tuesday night on their revised proposal to the county on the jail project to allow a councilman to change his vote.

The proposal stated that the city will demolish the Permian Building on the downtown site, at a cost of $320,000, and furthermore agrees to pay the county a $75,000 access fee yearly to house city prisoners.

The motion was the same both times, but Councilman John Coffee changed his vote from a "yes" vote to a "no" vote.

Coffee said he changed his vote because of a lack of understanding by county officials of the city's indebtedness.

In terms of the old Crawford Hotel site preparation, on lots 14 and 15 in the western half of the downtown block 12, the city agrees to pay, if ultimately necessary to build over those lots, $63,000 of the $78,000 needed to excavate and clean those lots.

The county will bear $15,000 of the total costs, the cost Howard County would incur in preparing the remote site.

The first vote was 5-1, with Councilman Ladd Smith opposing. Councilwoman Stephanie Horton was absent, sick in the hospital.

However, after county officials left, a motion to reconsider the proposal was unanimously approved. The same proposal was resubmitted and the final vote was 4-2, with both Coffee and Smith opposing.

Man convicted of sexual assault

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

It took the jury 30 minutes to convict 39-year-old Jesus Barrientos of sexually assaulting a child.

Four women and eight men began hearing testimony in the case at 9 a.m. Tuesday and began deliberations that afternoon.

Barrientos has been found guilty of sexually assaulting a 16-year-old girl who has Down's Syndrome. During testimony, it was revealed that Barrientos was staying with the girl's mother at the time of the incident which took place on or about Dec. 14, 1991.

During testimony, the girl used anatomically correct dolls to show the jury what she said Barrientos had done to her. When cross-examined by defense attorney Don Richard about recent events such as what she did last night, she could only answer that Barrientos was mean to her.

The victim's mother testified that she went to check on her child and knew something was wrong. The girl went to the bathroom and the mother discovered her daughter's panties were wet. After further investigation, the mother concluded that the girl had been sexually assaulted and named Barrientos as the suspect because he was the only male in the house at that time.

The girl was taken to the emergency room and was examined by a doctor and nurse who took the stand and testified that they had followed procedure when collecting evidence for a rape kit.

Richard questioned witnesses about the importance of the rape kit and if it was used to compare the evidence with a suspect. A chemist for the Department of Public Safety testified the tests revealed that spermatozoa was found on a vaginal swab that was taken from the girl. The chemist also testified this test only excluded any sterile man as suspects in this case.

During closing arguments, Richard questioned why Barrientos' samples were never compared or DNA tested against the ones taken from the girl in the emergency room.

Assistant District Attorney William Dupree contended that this test was not necessary because the mother's statement was enough evidence to show that Barrientos was the only person that could have sexually assaulted her daughter because he was the only male adult in the house at the time.

Sexual assault of a child is a second degree felony and Barrientos could face two to 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The punishment phase of the trial began at 8:30 this morning.

The defense is asking for probation for Barrientos.

Low-tech helps man keep eating

FORT WORTH (AP) — Surgeon Michael Zide and a maintenance worker found a solution for the skyrocketing cost of high-tech health care — at least for one cancer patient with a jaw problem.

An hour before the man's surgery, they fashioned cabinet hinges, nuts, bolts, screws and some common liquid plastic into a device that protects the patient's jaw without immobilizing it.

The cost: about $5. The result: Saturnino Aguilar can eat solid foods.

"I'm a lucky man," Aguilar told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Monday. "I'm a very lucky man."

Dallas Morning News wins sixth Pulitzer

DALLAS (AP) — A series that sought to chronicle the universality of violence toward women has won The Dallas Morning News its sixth Pulitzer Prize.

The prize Tuesday for international reporting marks the fourth straight year the newspaper has won journalism's most prestigious honor. The newspaper previously received the award in 1993, 1992, 1991, 1989 and 1986.

The team's entry, "Violence Against Women: A Question of Human Rights," was published as an occasional series of 14 stories from March to June of last year.

The series was assembled by 30 reporters, photographers, editors and graphic artists, led by international editor Jim Landers, who also served as a writer on the project, and assistant international editor Patricia E. Gaston.

Mark England and Darlene McCormick of the Waco Tribune-Herald were finalists in the investigative reporting category for their stories on sexual abuse and other crimes in the Branch Davidian compound.

For teen, it was kill or be killed

FORT WORTH (AP) — A defense attorney says a Fort Worth teen-ager had no other real choice but to shoot and kill two men who set upon him in a southeast Fort Worth parking lot.

"It was a kill-or-be-killed situation," attorney Bill Lane told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"If a high-crime area where there isn't enough police protection, you'll be dead if you count on calling 911. It's jungle warfare out there," said Lane, whose client, Damion Osby, 18, went on trial Tuesday on murder charges.

Attempting to add a new wrinkle to the legal theory of self-defense, attorneys Lane and David Bays say their client, Damion Osby, was acting under what they call an "urban survival syndrome" when he shot and killed two men in a parking lot April 18, 1993.

Council delays homeless eviction

DALLAS (AP) — Homeless people living in a shantytown on the west edge of downtown Dallas apparently will have six more weeks before they're forced out of the area.

The Dallas City Council was expected to approve a recommendation today from its Health and Human Services Committee to delay evictions for six weeks for people under Interstate 45.

Under the plan, Dallas County would help find counseling for the homeless and housing in the form of apartments and-or treatment centers.

Fisher defeats Mattox

Faces Hutchison in November

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Richard Fisher won the Texas Democratic U.S. Senate runoff race against Jim Mattox for the old fashioned way. He spent a lot of money.

Fisher, a Dallas millionaire who has never held elected office, defeated longtime politician Jim Mattox on Tuesday. His victory sets up a November general election contest against U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas.

With 99 percent of the precincts reporting early today, Fisher had 54 percent, or 399,119 votes to Mattox's 46 percent, or 346,337.

"I've been through boot camp. I'm ready for the real thing," said Fisher, who also served as an adviser to Ross Perot's independent presidential bid in 1992.

Fisher has spent about $3.6 million of his own money within the past year campaigning for the Senate seat.

In 1993, he spent $2 million to finish fifth out of 24 candidates in the special election that Mrs. Hutchison won for the remaining 1 1/2 years of Lloyd Bentsen's term.

Since the start of this year, Fisher has spent at least $1.6 million — more than a 2-to-1 edge over Mattox — on the March primary and the runoff.

"When it's ample money against very little money, ample money usually wins," said longtime Democratic consultant George Christian.

The money Fisher poured into radio and television ads offset the greater name recognition enjoyed by Mattox, who had served in the Legislature, Congress and two terms as state attorney general.

In the runoff, Mattox did well in East Texas and Travis County. But Fisher, who frequently spoke Spanish while campaigning, rolled up huge margins in predominantly Hispanic South Texas. He also won Dallas and virtually the rest of Texas.

U.S. Senate candidate Richard Fisher celebrates his victory in the runoff race against Jim Mattox for the Democratic nomination Tuesday. Fishers' mother, Babs, son, Anders and daughter, Texana, join the celebration.

Raul Garcia of San Angelo, a member of the state Democratic executive committee, said "Richard instills in you that spirit that brings you up and makes you want to do something for your fellow man."

Mattox and Fisher fought bitterly in the campaign. But after the results were clear, both candidates called for unity.

For Mattox, it was his second statewide defeat. In 1990, Ann Richards beat him in a runoff and then was elected governor.

Mattox said he would like to remain in politics, but did not specify in what capacity.

Meanwhile, Fisher turned his aim to Mrs. Hutchison, saying she has accomplished nothing in Congress.

Mrs. Hutchison said, "I think Richard is calling himself a new Democrat. I don't know exactly what that means. I just know what I am, and I am going to offer a conservative, budget-cutting ... reform for the people of Texas."

Meanwhile, Texas Democrats quickly rallied around Fisher.

"I know Richard deserves a little rest right now, but it won't be long before we get together to talk about the general election," said Richards, who is seeking reelection. "We are going to put on a well-run coordinated campaign."

Gonzalez survives Haas

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Incumbent Texas Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez, savoring his victory over challenger Rene Haas after a bitter and costly campaign, says he hopes the race will lead to judicial election reform.

"Now that this shameful campaign is behind us, I call upon all the supporters of the Haas campaign to join us in true reform. We've got to find a way to get judges out of partisan politics," Gonzalez, 54, said after winning the Democratic nomination in Tuesday's runoff election.

Gonzalez supports a proposed system in which judges initially would be appointed to the court, then face voters in retention elections.

Ms. Haas, 46, a Corpus Christi lawyer, has said the system should be changed so that Supreme Court justices don't take donations from lawyers with pending cases. She said in a statement that her race focused on crucial issues.

"We talked about important cases, and we talked about reform," she said. "From now on, all Texas judicial candidates will talk about the issues, and I believe that important reforms will take place. Those changes were the point of my candidacy in the first place."

The race was painted as a battle between business interests that generally are the defendants in lawsuits, which supported Gonzalez, versus trial lawyers who bring lawsuits on behalf of injured people, who supported Ms. Haas.

It was an expensive fight. Gonzalez had raised $1.6 million for the primary and runoff through April 2, while Ms. Haas raised about $2.3 million.

During the campaign, Ms. Haas called Gonzalez a judicial activist who ruled in favor of large insurance companies and against women. Gonzalez defended himself as an independent whose decisions are based on the law and merits of each case. He said his victory should not be seen as a win for business and insurance company interests.

"This is a victory for honesty and integrity," he said.

Gonzalez, 54, first was named to the court in 1984 by then-Gov. Mark White and went on to become the first Hispanic elected to statewide office in Texas.

He faces no GOP opposition in November: Republican nominee Oliver Kitzman has said he wouldn't campaign against the "respected conservative" justice.

With 99 percent of precincts reporting, Gonzalez had 394,511 votes, or 54 percent. Ms. Haas had 335,075 votes, or 46 percent.

Voters also chose nominees Tuesday for another statewide judicial post: Prosecutor Betty Marshall, a Democrat, will battle former prosecutor Sharon Keller, a Republican, for Place 2 on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals after each secured her party's nomination.

Ms. Marshall, 47, co-chief of appeals for the Tarrant County district attorney's office, beat lawyer Gene Kelly of Universal City.

Owner forced from 'homely home'

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — A homeowner's association that objected to the color and improvements made to a residence has bought the house and intends to force out the owner.

The home is owned by Luis Bonnett Jr., 45, a military veteran with a long history of mental illness.

The Great Northwest Community Improvement Association bought the house at a sheriff's auction April 5 for $15,000, sheriff's records indicate.

It is the same association that took Bonnett to court in 1991 and got a $250,000 judgment against him that forced the sale.

Bonnett, who lives on Social Security disability compensation, must vacate the house May 6. He bought it in 1989 with $32,000 received in a job disability settlement.

"I'm not going to open the door. They are going to have to take me away in handcuffs. If I go, I will have to pay rent. I can't afford to buy another house," he said.

Bonnett and the association ended up in court after Bonnett painted his house green and built a small decorative wall in front without the permission of the neighborhood association.

A French paratrooper helps a child onto a truck in Kigali, Rwanda Tuesday. About 1,300 foreigners, including aid workers and missionaries, were flown out of the capital. The evacuation is virtually complete and French and Belgian troops are expected to leave within a few days.

Fighting escalates; 1,300 flee Rwanda

The Associated Press

KIGALI, Rwanda — Machine-gun and artillery fire rocked this Central African capital today as rebels and government troops fought pitched street-to-street battles. More than 100,000 desperate refugees carrying their belongings on their backs streamed out of the city ahead of the ethnic warfare.

With as many as 20,000 troops of the rebel Rwanda Patriotic Front pouring in from the north to reinforce small groups already in the city, members of the provisional government in Rwanda left for the countryside.

Rebels and army troops were fighting street-to-street in the center of the city. A government helicopter gunship fired rockets at rebel positions. At least one shell hit the parliament building, sending up a steady plume of smoke.

About 500 army soldiers near the airport, on the eastern edge of the Kigali, were engaged in direct combat with rebels this morning. Many of the government troops appeared terrified. A Rwandan army official said dozens of civilians were killed.

Mortar shells could be heard landing at a rate of five to 10 a minute, and the rat-tat-tat of machine-gun and automatic-weapons fire was nearly constant.

Tuesday night, the U.N. commander in Rwanda, Gen. Romeo Dallaire, said rebels were meeting with little initial resistance and appeared to be winning control of the capital.

A Canadian priest said today the army had begun to withdraw, killing civilians and burning everything in its path. The priest, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said at one parish soldiers rounded up 85 Tutsis and shot them.

An estimated 20,000 people have been slain in a week of savage massacres and violence — the latest eruption of a decades-long feud between the country's two main ethnic groups. Hutus dominate the government and comprise 90 percent of Rwanda's 8.5 million people. The rebels are mainly Tutsis, who make up 9 percent of the population.

Bus bomb claims six Israeli lives

The Associated Press

HADERA, Israel — A bomb exploded on a crowded bus today moments after it pulled into a station in northern Israel, killing six people and wounding 25. An extremist Islamic group opposed to Arab-Israeli peace talks claimed responsibility.

One passenger, Shosh Amuransky, wept as she told of passengers having to step over a small boy's body to get out after the explosion.

"There were pieces of flesh and blood around me," she said. "We couldn't get the doors open. We had to go out the windows."

As police cleared the area, another bomb went off on a bench about 20 yards from the bus. No one was injured, police said.

The radical Islamic group Hamas said it carried out the attack in retaliation for the Hebron mosque massacre of 30 Palestinians. "Our attacks will not cease until the occupation of our lands is ended," a Hamas spokesman, Ibrahim Ghosheh, told The Associated Press in Jordan.

Hamas, which is trying to derail the Israel-PLO peace accord, claimed responsibility last week for a suicide car-bombing in nearby

Afula that killed seven Israelis.

The blasts in Hadera, just south of the port of Haifa, came about an hour before a nationwide two-minute siren for Memorial Day, which honors Israeli soldiers killed in the Mideast wars. Israel's Independence Day starts tonight, and Hamas has said a new bombing campaign was tied to that observance.

Jobs, crime occupy minds of the folks back home

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Lawmakers from every corner say they found out at home that Americans are preoccupied with violent crime, an issue that has touched a nerve and that they want Washington to address — pronto.

After two weeks of feeling pulses and meeting voters, the legislators also said they found agreement that the nation's health care system needs fixing, but some concern for the formula laid out by President Clinton and first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton.

As for the Whitewater affair — a term that's come to encompass everything from the Clintons' investments to the suicide of a White House aide — members of Congress said it was more of a Washington obsession than the countryside's.

"My constituents who never liked Clinton see this as a validation of their worst fears," said Rep. Dick Zimmer, R-N.J. "His supporters see it as a distraction."

Added Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-Ohio, "The right-wingers talk about Whitewater. I really don't hear about it much except from people who already hate Bill Clinton and Hillary Clinton."

"I think there is far more interest within the Beltway," said Republican Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon. He said Oregonians take news about Whitewater "with a grain of salt."

Rep. Marjorie Margolies-Mezvinsky, a Democrat who represents a Republican-leaning district in the Philadelphia suburbs, said her constituents would like "to get it all out on the table and move on with the issues of the day."

Republican Sen. Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania, agreed. "Most people are not prepared to convict them on the basis of newspaper accounts, but they want to know what the facts are," he said.

But Sen. James Exon, D-Nebr., said voters asked him, "Why do they keep picking on the Clintons?"

These congressional tests of sentiment are far from scientific — lawmakers tend to hear their own views when they listen to the people — but they're important nonetheless. A constituent's face-to-face anger or fear registers in ways no poll can capture.

On health care, some legislators found a sense of public urgency, but others picked up a will to go slow on such a close-to-home issue.

"No one has said to me that health care needs to be passed this year," said Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., but Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., said his people "want health care legislation and they want it quickly."

For the most part, though, what congressmen came back from recess talking about was crime.

"Crime, crime, crime," said Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla.

"It's crime, no doubt about that," added Sen. John Warner, R-Va.

"I think crime is on people's minds, erosion of the culture, breakdown in morals and ethics," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga. "That's been building for years."

Rep. Craig Thomas, a Republican who represents the entire sparsely populated state of Wyoming, told the House crime was a concern in Wyoming, and not just the nation's inner cities.

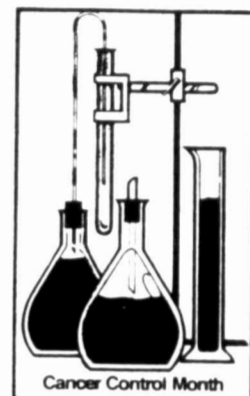

And Rep. John Boehner, R-Ohio, told colleagues of a conversation he had with a married couple in Youngstown, Ohio: "It was the fear in their voice, the fear in their minds about living in America and the crime that is rampant in our neighborhoods," he said. "They don't live in the inner city, they live in the suburbs."

Beta carotene not a cancer fighter

BOSTON (AP) — Scientists who launched a major study to prove that a form of vitamin A prevents cancer were amazed when their findings suggested just the opposite.

After 10 years of study, it turns out that beta carotene might actually cause cancer.

Beta carotene is the vegetable source of vitamin A. Dozens of studies have suggested that people who get lots of it lower their risk of cancer. Beta carotene and other so-called antioxidants are widely touted as natural cancer fighters.

So scientists felt confident when they launched a $43 million study on smokers that they would find in the end that beta carotene pills helped them ward off lung cancer.

Hillary Clinton active venture's final years

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Hillary Rodham Clinton sold Whitewater property and received payment checks from lot owners, according to newly released documents that portray the first lady as having a more active role in the land venture's final years.

The papers also include notations showing that companies owned by President and Mrs. Clinton's Whitewater partners loaned tens of thousands of dollars to the real estate venture.

The documents, released Tuesday, included Whitewater Development Corp.'s balance sheets, bank statements and tax returns. James McDougal, the Clintons' former partner, sold copies of the documents to reporters about a week after he received them from the White House.

They show that in the early years, McDougal ran the land venture designed to be a vacation and retirement community along the White River in Arkansas' Ozark Mountains.

Sophisticated weather satellite now in orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA put the world's most sophisticated weather satellite into orbit today to bolster a pair of aging spacecraft that could conk out at any time.

An Atlas rocket blasted off just after 2 a.m. with the $220 million Geostationary Operational Environmental Satellite, which was supposed to have gone up five years ago for millions of dollars less.

The National Weather Service said the satellite is needed for day-to-day forecasting in the United States. It will also allow more precise tracking of hurricanes and other storms than ever before.

Launch controllers applauded and shook hands when the satellite separated from the rocket as planned a half-hour into the flight. An elated NASA mission director Marty Davis wore a tuxedo and bow tie for the occasion.

Lawmaker survives recall election

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A powerful lawmaker who wrote California's ban on assault weapons survived a recall attempt backed by the gun lobby, while a San Jose councilwoman whose racial remarks angered voters was swept from office.

Sprint duo stars at BSHS

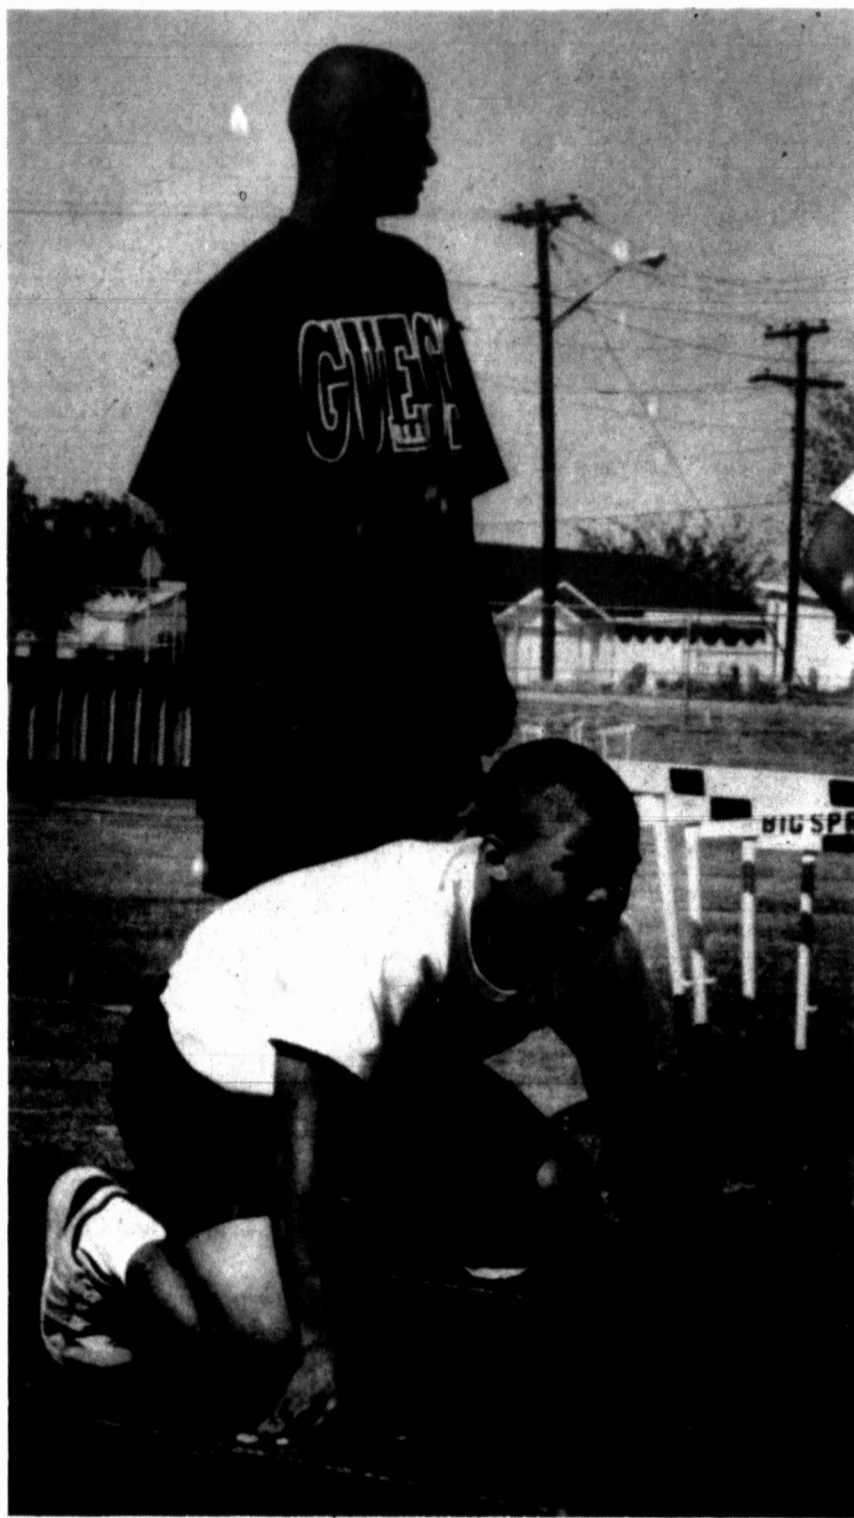

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

Big Spring track coach Randy Britton likes to say that everyone on his team is a key performer, that he doesn't count on just one or two people to provide key points at a track meet.

He amends that comment slightly when talking about sprinters Harvey Simpson and Lonnie Jackson.

Simpson, a junior, and Jackson, a senior, each compete in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and the 400 relay, and Britton says good performances from the duo are vital if the Steers are to repeat as district champions Friday in Andrews.

Area Track Bests, page 10

Harvey Simpson, front, gets ready to run at practice Tuesday. In the background is teammate Tyrone Banks.

The race of the day at the district meet should be the 100 dash, where Jerome Bryant of Lake View, Simpson, James Kennedy of Lake View and Jackson have the four best respective times in the district so far.

"Harvey's going to have to have his best race from start to finish to break into the top two," Britton said.

Ironically, if Simpson does come through, it will prove to be his swan song at BSHS. His father, a chaplain at the local Federal Correctional Institute, is being transferred to Miami, and Simpson will be joining him soon.

"I don't want to move that much, because I'm doing well in track and football here," Simpson said. "But my parents want me to go with them ... I want to finish good here."

As far as the district meet goes, Simpson says he just needs to stay within himself.

"I just have to run my race, do the best I can," he said. "If I come in second, I'll see them at regionals, but the main thing is to win my races."

Jackson, while not having the sterling times of Simpson, has developed into more of a team leader.

"He had questions about whether he wanted to run this year," Britton said. "But he's come on and done a good job. He's a leader on our relay teams."

"I should be a little bit of a leader," Jackson said. "I've been on the varsity for four years, and I know what's going on."

Leadership does not necessarily mean being very vocal, he added.

"I don't have to say much to motivate them," he said. "When it's time to work, I'll tell them that. And when it's time to relax, I'll tell them that, too."

Steers, Lady Steers dash for District 3-4A title Friday

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

To the Big Spring Steers' way of thinking, track season begins Friday.

Oh sure, there have been meets to go to the past couple of months, but those have been "practice" affairs, of little more use than to get the team ready for the real deal.

The real deal is here. The Steers and Lady Steers will see how perfect their practice has made them when they travel to Andrews Friday for the District 3-4A track and field meet.

"We've had all our practice meets," boys' coach Randy Britton said. "This is what I call the beginning of track season. It's not a matter of what you've done up to this point. It's what you do after this point."

What the Steers hope to do is win their second consecutive district title, but Britton knows that will be no easy task. As has been the case the past few years, Big Spring is expected to have stiff competition from San Angelo Lake View for team honors.

Although Lake View probably has the best overall times going into the meet, Britton sees his squad as the favorites.

"It's going to be between us and them," Britton conceded. "I've always been an advocate that the defending champion is the favorite until they get beaten. They are going to have to dethrone us."

The Steers are coming into the meet under a full head of steam, having dominated last week's Big Spring Relays. Big Spring will be without two key performers, sprinter Lehebron Farr and jumper Drexell Owusu, but Britton will not be using that as an excuse for failure.

"All our people are key," he said. "I don't ever want to rely on one or two people - you get burned that way. Everybody has to contribute ... We really have to concentrate on getting every person we can into the finals - and just load up."

A key for the Steers will be to hold their own in the field events, then use the first track event - the 400 meter relay - as a springboard.

"It can have a domino effect," Britton said. "It can have either a good domino effect, or just the opposite."

Lady Steers hoping history repeats itself

Big Spring girls' track coach Jay Kennedy will be the first to acknowledge that, on paper, his team doesn't have much of a chance at the district title.

That is just fine with him.

"If everybody (in the district) runs their best times, Lake View will finish first, followed by Fort Stockton, Andrews and us," Kennedy said, adding that the last time such a finish was projected, the Lady Steers won the district championship.

Of course, Kennedy concedes that the Lady Steers can't just close their eyes and hope that lightning strikes again. His young team will have to have better results than it has produced so far.

Kennedy is hoping that field participants, such as Kathy Smith and Charlotte Bumbulis, can jump-start the Lady Steers to a good showing.

"If we can finish the morning with close to 50 points in the field events, that'll be a good indicator that we'll have a good meet," he said. "If we can do that, and place in the 3,200 (run), it'll be a good indication that we'll have a good day."

Other keys for the Lady Steers include placing in all three relays and getting a strong performance from freshman Latisha Hurrington in the 400-meter run.

In fact, if the meet comes down to the final event, the 1,600 relay, Kennedy just might be the happiest man in the stadium.

"I hope it comes down to the mile relay," he said. "We're due for a great mile relay."

Mavs stun Blazers, avoid worst record in history

By The Associated Press

While most teams worry about the playoffs this late in the season, the Dallas Mavericks find themselves thinking about the 1972-73 Philadelphia 76ers.

Now they don't have to anymore. At least not this season.

The Mavericks made sure they won't tie the 76ers for the worst record in NBA history (9-73). They did it with their 10th victory of the season, a 108-107 upset of the Trail Blazers at Portland.

Among teams playing for the playoffs, the Los Angeles Lakers lost a chance to pull within three games of Denver, falling to Golden State 128-117 just two hours after the Nuggets lost to Phoenix 107-102.

Last season, the Mavericks didn't win No. 10 until the next-to-last night of the season. They came out the following night and beat Houston to finish the year 11-71.

For Portland, the loss put it into a tie with Golden State for the sixth playoff seed in the Western Conference. Both teams have six games left, and the Warriors have the easier schedule.

Jamal Mashburn's 20-footer, a steal and layup by Fat Lever and a baseline layup by Jimmy Jackson in the final minute gave Dallas the victory.

Jackson led the Mavericks with 24 points, while Mashburn added 20 and Lever 14. Portland's Clyde Drexler led all scorers with 29 points.

Rockets 98, T-wolves 89

At Houston, Hakeem Olajuwon scored 42 points, three short of his season high, and Robert Horry added 17 points and a career-high 13 rebounds. The victory was Houston's fifth in a row and tied last season's franchise record for victories (55).

Warriors 128, Lakers 117

At Inglewood, Calif., Chris Mullin, Chris Webber and Billy Owens scored 25 points apiece and Golden State kept Los Angeles behind by at least eight throughout the fourth quarter.

Webber added 10 rebounds and nine assists to barely miss a triple-double.

Suns 107, Nuggets 102

At Denver, the Nuggets chose to focus their defense on Phoenix's high-profile players. That left usual benchwarmers like Frank Johnson and Mark West wide open.

Johnson was 5-for-6 from the field and West was 6-for-8.

Kevin Johnson paced the Suns with 25 points and 10 assists. Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf led Denver with 25.

Bulls 111, Nets 105

At Chicago, Scottie Pippen had 25 points, nine rebounds, nine assists and six steals as the Bulls moved within a half-game of New York and Atlanta in the battle for the best record in the Eastern Conference.

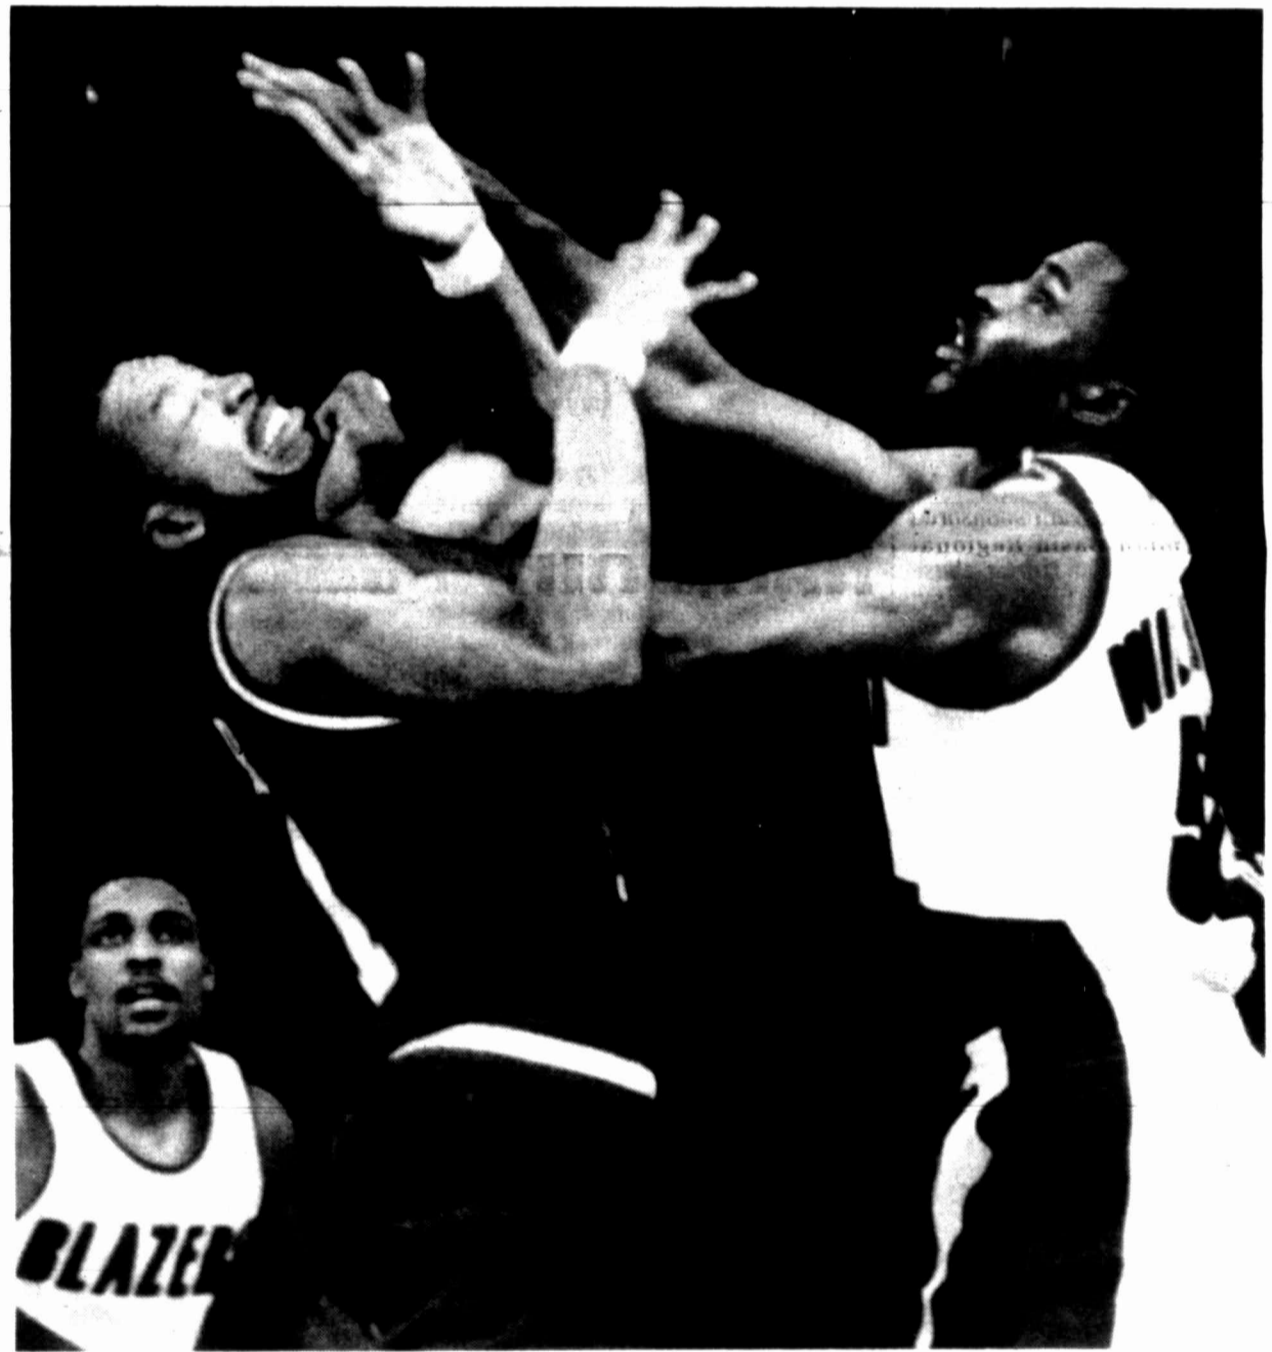

Sonics 116, Clippers 101

At Los Angeles, the Sonics set a franchise record with their 24th road victory despite the fact Dominique Wilkins and Mark Jackson returned to the Clippers' lineup.

Wilkins had 26 points; Jackson was held to four.

Jazz 126, Kings 91

At Salt Lake City, the Jazz stayed within two games of Phoenix in the race for the fourth-best record in the West by posting its third straight lopsided decision. Karl Malone had 21 points and Jeff Hornacek 20.

Dallas Maverick guard Fat Lever, left, takes one on the chin from Portland Trail Blazer forward Buck Williams while battling for a rebound Tuesday in Portland. Dallas won 108-107.

Lady Hawks sign 2A player of the year

Howard College women's basketball coach Royce Chadwick announced the recent signing of Summer Swoboda, the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches' Class 2A Player of the Year.

Swoboda, a 5-foot-11 forward, averaged 24.9 points, 12.2 rebounds and 5.6 assists a game for Bloomington. In addition, she was an unanimous pick as the District 30-2A most valuable player, first team Class 2A all-state and an all-tournament selection at the state UIL basketball tournament.

Because of extremely low water conditions at Lake Fort Phantom Hill, the Big Spring Bass Club's April points tournament April 16 will be held at Twin Buttes Reservoir in San Angelo, with headquarters at the boat ramp.

Mantle can't recall last 10 years

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Mickey Mantle cannot remember much of the last 10 years because of his alcohol problems, and says he finally sought treatment when he worried fans would remember him as a drunk rather than a baseball Hall of Famer.

The former New York Yankees star, collaborating on a story in the April 18 issue of Sports Illustrated, said he often started days during the last decade with the "breakfast of champions," a self-named drink made of brandy, Kahlua and cream.

Sometimes, he said, he would "go through three or four bottles of wine in the course of an afternoon."

"Before all those personal appearances, I'd warm up with three or four vodkas before leaving the hotel, go straight to the cocktail party and have three or four more drinks," he said.

Giants snap Braves' streak; Astros win over floundering fish

By The Associated Press

After closing 1993 with a great pennant race, San Francisco and Atlanta had a great face-to-face clash in their first meeting of 1994.

Just like last year, Barry Bonds was saving San Francisco. Just like last year, the Braves blew a lead. But unlike last year, the Giants prevailed — at least for a night.

"It's not how you start, but how you finish," Bonds said, paraphrasing the old Cy Coleman tune, after San Francisco won 7-5 Tuesday night, sending Atlanta to its first loss following a 7-0 start.

Charlie O'Brien's two-run single off Dave Burba gave the Braves a 5-3 lead in the fourth, but Bonds' two-run homer in the ninth off John Smoltz (1-1) tied the score.

Todd Benzinger singled to chase Smoltz and bring on Mark Wohlers. After a sacrifice and a grounder, pinch-hitter John Patterson doubled home the go-ahead run and scored on Darren Lewis' single.

Steve Frey (1-0) pitched two shutout innings for the Giants.

Astros 7, Marlins 2

Andujar Cedeno, who leads the NL with a .538 average, homered for the third consecutive game. Luis Gonzalez added a three-run homer as Houston spoiled Florida's home opener.

Scott Servais and Cedeno hit consecutive homers in the second inning against Ryan Bowen (0-2), who allowed six runs and seven hits in four-plus innings.

Darryl Kile (1-1) allowed five hits and one earned run while striking out eight in six innings. Tom Edens pitched three scoreless innings for his first save.

Reds 7, Expos 1

Tony Fernandez hit a three-run homer and Reggie Sanders added a three-run triple as visiting Cincinnati won its sixth straight, its best start since it began 1990 9-1 and went on to win the World Series.

Tim Lincecum (1-0) allowed the one run and five hits in eight innings. Denis Boucher (0-1) gave up seven runs and seven hits in four innings.

Dodgers 7, Cardinals 3

Tom Candiotti (2-0) pitched a four-hitter for his second complete game as the Dodgers stopped a four-game losing streak and spoiled the home opener for St. Louis.

Jose Offerman, who began the year 0-for-15, hit a two-run double. Tim Wallach, who entered 3-for-21, hit a two-run home run.

Luis goes Long

Red Sox third sacker hits for cycle at KC

By The Associated Press

Scott Cooper and the Boston Red Sox were terrific, and that made it another terrible day for the Kansas City Royals.

Cooper hit for the cycle and drove in five runs, and the Red Sox romped 22-11 Tuesday night in the highest-scoring game ever against Kansas City.

Cooper went 5-for-6 with two doubles. He became the first Boston player to hit for the cycle since Mike Greenwell in 1988, completing it in the ninth inning with a single after backup shortstop David Howard came in to pitch.

Mo Vaughn homered, tripled and drove in four runs for the visiting Red Sox. Billy Hatcher, Dave Valle and John Valentin also homered for Boston in its biggest outburst since a 24-5 romp over Cleveland on Aug. 21, 1986.

The Royals had never allowed so many runs in 3,986 games since joining the AL in 1969.

The Red Sox combined 15 hits, 11 of them for extra bases, 13 walks and three errors. They scored six times in the first inning off Kevin Appier (0-2) and added eight runs in the sixth off Stan Belinda with only two hits.

Athletics 8, Blue Jays 4

Oakland won at home despite being outthit 9-2 by Toronto. The A's did not get a hit after the first inning, but took advantage of 12 walks and four errors in stopping the Blue Jays' four-game winning streak.

Ruben Sierra hit his fourth homer of the season and second in two days for Oakland. Rickey Henderson drew four walks and scored three times.

Mariners 12, Twins 0

Ken Griffey hit a 462-foot drive into the center-field seats at the Kingdome, leading Seattle over Minnesota.

Griffey's fourth homer of the season was a three-run shot that made it 7-0 in the second inning. Minnesota later made five errors, three on throws by shortstop Pat Meares.

THE BIG SPRING HERALD APPRECIATES YOUR BUSINESS
Here are some helpful tips and information that will help you when placing your ad. After your ad has been published the first day we suggest you check the ad for mistakes and if errors have been made we will gladly correct the ad and run it again for you at no additional charge. If your ad is inadvertently not printed your advance payment will cheerfully be refunded and the newspaper's liability will be for only the amount actually received for publication of the advertisement. We reserve the right to edit or reject any ad for publication that does not meet our standards of acceptance.

Inside they lighten. Outside they darken.
Introducing Transitions Comfort Lenses.
Here's a new plastic prescription eyeglass lens that automatically darkens outdoors and lightens indoors. We call them Transitions Comfort Lenses and they're unlike any ordinary lens. Indoors, the neutral tint softens harsh overhead lighting. Outdoors, the warm-grey tint makes your eyes comfortable. Transitions Comfort Lenses also block 100% of the sun's harmful UV rays and resist scratches. Visit your eyecare professional today and ask for Transitions Comfort Lenses.
