Car batters beauty salon

A worker begins cleaning up outside the Genesis Hair and Nail Salon where a driver ran into the wall of the business.

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Scary moments visited a patron of a local beauty salon Wednesday afternoon.

An elderly lady attempting to park at Genesis Hair and Nail Salon on Fourth Street accidentally ran into the wall of the business. When 88-year-old Clarie Brauer Conger hit the wall, she hit the area of the salon where the wash bowls are located.

"Teresa Villarreal was having her hair washed when we heard an explosion. It really scared us. We could not find the where the explosion had come from and went to check on Teresa. The back of her head was bleeding. She said her neck hurt and she wanted to throw up," said Jessie Payen, a manicurist at the salon.

A witness to the accident said he was coming out of the salon and heard an engine rev, then noticed Conger's car hit the wall, back up and stop.

Villarreal, 37, of Knott, was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center where she was treated and released.

No citations were issued and no other injuries were reported.

Board questions council's need for communication

By TIM JONES
Staff Writer

Moore Board officials agree on accountability, but not on communication.

"No Moore director disagrees with our being accountable," said Jim Purcell, president of the board of directors for Moore Development For Big Spring Inc. "We do disagree with the communication, however."

The Big Spring City Council voted 6-1 at its Tuesday meeting to ask the board to re-write its by-laws to give the council approval of the board's programs and expenditures.

"To the best of my knowledge, not one city council member ever contacted me, or any other director, prior to Tuesday's City Council meeting about by-laws being discussed."

Tuesday's city council meeting's published agenda stated only this: "Item 7.4, discuss state economic development laws."

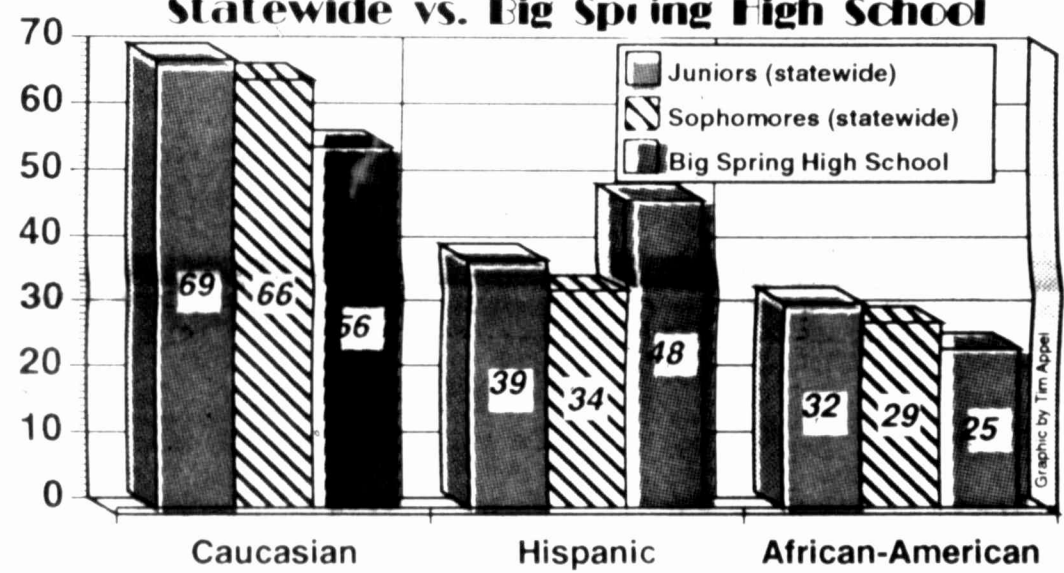

"Our by-laws were approved by city council action, as they were written. I personally decry the council crying misdeed," Purcell said. "It's impossible to read the minds of the new council when only one member remains from the time those by-laws were drafted and approved."

Moore directors have said when Moore was being formed, the cities of Abilene and Brownwood were polled and asked what didn't work in their

Minorities struggle on assessment test

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

A recent report stated that nearly twice the number of whites pass the required statewide achievement test as Hispanics and African-Americans.

The Austin-American Statesman said its analysis of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) results from the 1992-93 school year found that of juniors taking the test for the first time, 69 percent of the white students passed, compared to 39 percent of the Hispanics and 32 percent for African-Americans.

Among sophomores taking the TAAS for the first time, the state-wide results were 66 percent for whites, 34 percent for Hispanics and 29 percent for African-Americans.

In this year's senior class, two of five black students have yet to pass the test, one of three Hispanics and one of nine whites have not passed the test.

Local numbers from Big Spring Independent School District vary somewhat differently from the state totals.

"The numbers we are given are not separated from those taking the test for the first time from those who are having to take part or all of it again because they did not pass the first time," explained Big Spring High School principal Kent Bowerman.

According to their numbers, 51 percent came

BSISD trustee president going for another term

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School District board of trustee president Don Baker is running for a third term in the May 7 election.

Baker was appointed to the board in August 1987 to replace Doc Voorhies, who left Big Spring. He ran for his first full three-year term in May 1988, then ran again in May 1991.

He has served as board secretary and vice president in the past and has held the current position of president for two years.

"After I was appointed, I got my feet wet and realized it was a good opportunity to serve the community. I enjoy this, and the satisfaction that you get from helping out is great," said Baker.

Baker said one of the most important things the board has tried to accomplish was a bond election that was held a few years ago.

"We were pushing for renovations and to build new schools. Rannels is in bad shape and it needs to have something done."

"Another big issue is the financing of education. It is out of our hands. It's a big impact on our district and the way it is handled in Austin really affects us."

The recent purchase of computers for the elementary schools is something Baker said was needed.

"This is a really great project. The kids will have to know in the future how to use a computer. Now, we can prepare them for the future."

Baker and his wife, Linda, who is an administrative assistant at Malone and Hogan Clinic, have three children. Their oldest son, Craig, and only daughter, Meredith, have graduated from high school, and 16-year-old Marc is a sophomore.

Despite NATO action, life is bleak in Bosnia

The Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Relief workers struggled to improve conditions in the battered Muslim town of Gorazde with Serb attacks there halted by threatened NATO air strikes.

The three-week Serb pounding of the U.N.-declared "safe haven" destroyed its water plant, wrecked its hospital and stranded thousands of hungry refugees whose villages were destroyed. Hundreds were killed.

"We're obviously concerned that (conditions) are going to be a breeding ground for disease," UNICEF spokeswoman Alison Warner said Wednesday.

U.N. officials said Serb forces destroyed outlying villages, sending refugees fleeing into town.

pus-wide passed the TAAS during the 1992-93 school year. Of those, 56 percent were white, 48 percent Hispanic and 25 percent African-American.

"The number for the African-American students may be a little lower than the state average, but you have to keep in mind that out of our whole student body, only 6 percent are African-American, so that will skew the results," said Bowerman.

In addition, seven students did not graduate in 1993 because they could not pass the TAAS. "Two of those were white, four were Hispanic and one was African-American."

Another part of the Austin newspaper's analysis included looking at how economically disadvantaged students did on the TAAS.

State-wide, at 244 high schools where less than 20 percent of the students were economically disadvantaged, the TAAS passing rate for such students was 40 percent, compared with an overall passing rate of 63 percent.

In Big Spring, 26 percent of the students are considered economically disadvantaged. In that group, the overall passing rate was 48 percent.

Most students, regardless of socioeconomic factors, pass the exit-level TAAS by graduation day across the state. Last school year, 89 percent of the 180,000 seniors in Texas public schools passed the exam.

"The state's goal for the percentage of students passing the TAAS is 90 percent. However, our goal is 100 percent. We work with the kids and make sure they are productive citizens," said Bowerman.

"The only way to be a productive citizen is to be educated and having a high school diploma so that's what we are aiming for. We are improving our scores in all three subjects (reading, writing and math) and we are working hard to improve our overall scores."

"Aaachoo!" Allergy season is here. If you're sneezing, your eyes are itchy, your nose is running, and you're coughing, you're not alone. Allergies affect millions of people every year.

The most common allergen is pollen. When you breathe in pollen, your immune system reacts, thinking it's a harmful invader. This reaction causes the symptoms of allergies.

According to the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology, allergies affect about 15 percent of the population. Symptoms include sneezing, itchy eyes, a runny nose, and hives.

When does allergy season begin? It varies by region. In Big Spring, it typically starts in late March or early April and lasts through late fall.

There are several ways to manage allergies. Over-the-counter antihistamines can help relieve symptoms. For more severe cases, a doctor may prescribe stronger medication.

Prevention is key. Keep windows closed during high pollen counts. Use air conditioning. Shower and change clothes after being outdoors. Avoid mowing the lawn or raking leaves.

If you suspect you have allergies, see a doctor for a proper diagnosis and treatment plan.

Flowers in bloom, allergies explode

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

"Aaachoo!" Allergy season is here, West Texas. If you have been experiencing itchy, watery eyes, runny or congested nose and sneezing, then more than likely you are allergic to something in the air.

The most common things Big Spring residents are allergic to are "careless weed, spiny pig weed, white ash, Mexican firebush, western water hemp and rough redwood pig weed," said Dr. R. Marc Schwarz, who specializes in the evaluating, testing and treating of allergies.

According to Schwarz, an allergy is the body's reaction to a foreign body. "A person will breathe in pollen and the body undergoes reactions to protect itself. It releases histamine, which is responsible for a lot of the symptoms."

When does allergy season officially begin? Schwarz says it depends on the temperature and when things begin to bloom.

"It usually begins in March, but it started later this year because of the cooler weather. It was late arriving because we did not have as many dust storms either."

If a person has a mild case of allergies, doctors recommend treating it first with antihistamines.

"Unfortunately, these only work for a while then stop being effective. That is when we recommend allergy testing," Schwarz said.

Allergy testing involves introducing the suspected allergy into the body to see if there is any type of reaction. If so, a minute portion of that allergy is given in the form of a shot to build up the body's resistance to that foreign body.

'A person will breathe in pollen and the body undergoes reactions to protect itself. It releases histamine, which is responsible for a lot of the symptoms.'

"We begin with a minute amount then increase the amount of the allergy over time. It usually takes five to six months of maintenance to achieve this goal," said Schwarz.

If a person knows that they are allergic to something, the best choice would be to eliminate that substance. "If you are allergic to certain foods, then you know not to eat them. We can't avoid pollens and such. If you are allergic to molds, you should not use a humidifier. If it's dust, you need to do dust control and we have videos to show people how to do that."

Schwarz adds people should remember that animals can bring in some of the allergies such as dust or pollen. The animal will roll around in the grass and bring it into the house.

A way to determine if you have allergies is if you have a cold for more than three to five days. Other symptoms include watery, itchy eyes; frequent headaches, nasal congestion and/or a dry, persistent cough.

People often keep track of when they have colds, and if they keep occurring within a few days of each other from year to year, then there is a strong possibility that they have allergies and not a cold.

Area man receives top Cooperative Council award

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

CORPUS CHRISTI - A St. Lawrence man has been named Texas Cooperator of the year for 1993.

Alfred J. Schwartz received honor at the annual meeting of the Texas Agricultural Cooperative Council last month.

Schwartz has been a co-op supporter for 37 years, beginning in 1956 as a member of the Wall Cooperative Gin.

He relocated to the St. Lawrence area in 1957 and was elected to the board of Cap Rock Electric in 1963. He was elected board secretary in 1973.

Additionally, Schwartz was a member of the organizational board of the Glasscock County Cooperative Gin and served there for nine years. He was instrumental in organizing the Coynosa Cooperative Gin in 1980 and has served on that board since its beginning.

Schwartz is a regional director on the Executive Board of the Rolling Plains Cooperative Compress and is a member of the delegate body of Plains Cotton Oil Mill and the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association. He also serves on the Pool Marketing Committee.

As owner and/or operator of 3,500 farm acres in Glasscock, Reagan and Pecos counties, Schwartz markets all his cotton and seed production through regional cooperatives. He is past president of the St. Lawrence

Chapter of the Germania Farm Mutual Insurance Company and was instrumental in organizing the St. Lawrence Cotton Growers Association.

Associate Vice-President of the Texas Agricultural Co-op Council, Tommy Engelke, presented the award to Schwartz, calling him a "major player in carrying the co-op flag."

"This is an annual award and prior winners make up a pretty elite group in Texas," explained Engelke. "Alfred Schwartz has been an architect of several cooperatives in his part of the state. He's worked aggressively in the cooperative cause and is what we refer to as a 'mover and shaker.'"

Grady wins two in a row

GRADY - What does Grady Independent School District and the Dallas Cowboys have in common? "We're like the Cowboys. We've just won back-to-back awards," Grady Independent School District Superintendent Tom Walker

Walker is talking about the District 8A University Interscholastic League All Around Spring Meet Sweepstakes Championship. The award is given to the high school which gathers the most district points in the UIL academic, tennis, golf and track and field contests.

"There are 12 schools in our district," Principal Richard Gibson explains. "This is the second year in a row we won both the literary and the spring meet all around."

Gibson explained points are gathered from competitions in grades ninth through 12th. "I have both trophies in my office, and I guess you could say that I'm pretty proud," he said.

Grady High School accumulated a total of 381.3 points to win the coveted all around title.

"We didn't get any points for golf since we don't have a team, but we received 30 points in tennis, 29 points in track and field, and got the rest from the UIL academic contest," Gibson explained.

Following Grady was Meadow High School with 347 points and Sands High School with 240 points.

Fatal accident still under investigation

By KELLIE JONES

A blood test has been ordered to determine if alcohol was a factor in a motorcycle accident that claimed the life of a Big Spring woman.

"Anytime there is fatality in an accident, we have a blood test done on the driver. It may take a few days, or a few weeks if the lab is busy, for the results to come back," said Chief Jerry Edwards.

Officials with the Big Spring Police Department continue to investigate the accident that occurred in the 1600 block of Harding early Monday morning.

Thirty-five-year-old Kenneth Hagins of Ackerly remains in stable condition in the intensive care unit of Scenic Mountain Medical Center. The passenger, 34-year-old Irene Polomo, died at the scene of the accident.

Reports say that Hagins was wearing a helmet but it came off when the motorcycle struck a curb, causing it to flip and eject the two riders.

Masonic Lodges plan open houses

Big Spring Masonic Lodge #1340, Staked Plains Lodge #598 and Coahoma Lodge #992 have joined 940 other Masonic lodges across Texas in scheduling a simultaneous statewide public open house 2-4 p.m. Sunday, May 1.

The lodges are located at 2101 Lancaster, 211 1/2 Main Street and College Street at North Avenue (Coahoma) respectively.

An open invitation is extended to anyone interested in learning more about Masonry and what Masons do.

Significant points of interest about the lodge rooms will be explained, including some of the more prominent symbols utilized in Masonry to teach Masonic philosophy.

Storm sufferers survey damage

The Associated Press

LANCASTER — It was a miracle only three people died in the powerful twister that rampaged through this Dallas suburb, destroying the town square, dozens of businesses and about 200 homes, Gov. Ann Richards says.

"God was looking over Lancaster, Texas," Richards said after touring the city on Wednesday.

"The devastation that has taken place here with a very minimal loss of life — we lost three people — and that is a terrible tragedy," she said. "But when you see the fact that so many people lived, I think it goes directly to the good work of this town and its mayor who made sure there was an alert that went out."

The governor, who took a 30-minute aerial tour of the twister's 6-mile long and half-mile wide path of destruction, said there was only one casualty in one city block she viewed because so many heeded warnings and took shelter.

"And thank God for bathtubs," she said. "There were a lot of bathtubs that saved a lot of lives in this tragedy."

The governor expects that President Clinton will declare Lancaster a federal disaster area.

"First, let me tell you the kind of hole you feel in your heart when you've seen something like this happen in a community," she said.

Stormy weather continued across a vast area of Texas early today. Severe thunderstorms were reported over Northwest Texas and the system was moving eastward into western portions of North Texas during the night.

A tornado watch was issued early today for a vast area of Central Texas and Southwestern Texas until 9 a.m.

The watch area was along and 70 statute miles north and south of a line

Texas Gov. Ann Richards views the tornado damage in Lancaster. A tornado touched down there Monday night, killing three people and destroying about 200 homes.

from 35 miles southwest of San Angelo to 55 miles south southeast of Stephenville.

The area covered by the watch included 40 counties, including nine in Southwest Texas, 17 in North Central Texas and 14 counties in South Central Texas.

Earlier, the governor had declared Dallas County, which includes Lancaster and nearby DeSoto and 11 other counties disasters from the spring storms, which also pelted

North Texas with large hail and heavy rain.

Buddy Young, a regional representative with the Federal Emergency Management Administration, told reporters at the town square he was "very encouraged by the hard work being done to recover from this type of disaster."

His agency was ready to establish an office within 24 hours of a federal disaster declaration, Young said.

Richards said that the request for federal aid would be on its way to Washington soon and would pave the way for federal aid.

Another twister in Gainesville, north of Dallas, injured about a dozen people Tuesday as it ripped through a mobile home park. At least 15 trailers and several businesses were destroyed in that storm.

No one was killed in the Gainesville tornado.

A&M Chairman Resigns; Blames Media

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of the Texas A&M system board of regents has resigned, effectively immediately, blaming news coverage about probes into his business dealings.

In stepping down Wednesday, Ross Margraves said he hopes his departure will remove a "cloud" hanging over the school.

A&M is being investigated by the FBI, Texas Rangers and the Brazos County district attorney's office after an anonymous letter in October accused Margraves of personally benefiting from A&M dealings or steering business to his friends.

Margraves, whose term expires next February, said he did not resign at the request of Gov. Ann Richards or out of fears that any of a number of investigations will soon yield critical findings.

Sheriff, Deputy Wounded; Suspect Killed

CHILDRESS (AP) — For 10 frustrating minutes, Childress County sheriff's deputy Larry Lacy remembers, he and four other officers negotiated with a man they intended to send to psychiatric evaluation.

Then, when Owen Tipta pulled out a butterfly knife Wednesday and stabbed Sheriff Reese Bowen and deputy Barney Gilley, Lacy remembers firing.

"Everything happened in slow motion for me," he said.

Tipta, 38, whose wife is director of a mental health center in Childress, was fatally shot at his home. Officials planned to send his body to Lubbock today for an autopsy.

Lacy said he and deputy Kevin Overstreet shot Tipta when he pulled a butterfly knife out of a pocket and began stabbing the sheriff and deputy.

Mexican Government Importing Riot Gear

LAREDO (AP) — Civil rights leaders say they're concerned about the millions of dollars worth of riot-control vehicles that Mexican government officials are quietly importing from the United States.

It may be an ominous sign that Mexican officials are worried about civil unrest during or after presidential elections on Aug. 21, they told the San Antonio Express-News.

"This is an ominous sign of something to happen. I don't like it," said Sergio Aguayo, head of the Mexican Academy for Human Rights and a leader in the pro-democracy movement.

"The possibility of a free and fair election is the last chance we will have for a peaceful transition to democracy. If the change is contaminated or polluted by violence, it will be very difficult for the country to recover by peaceful means," Aguayo said.

The equipment includes commando vehicles equipped with water cannons and armored trucks fitted with plows to break through barricaded streets, the newspaper said in its Wednesday editions.

High-Speed Rail Remains Controversial

AUSTIN (AP) — Nearly three years after an agreement was signed to build a high-speed rail system between major Texas cities, the project remains a drawing on paper.

State officials say Texas TGV Corp. has defaulted on its franchise because it missed a crucial financial deadline last year.

Even Texas TGV Corp. officials say the project, estimated to cost $8.4 billion, has to be overhauled. They are seeking new ownership.

Settlement reached on McIntire plane crash

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — A Harris County judge has approved a settlement that awards $950,000 to each of the families of three Reba McEntire band members killed in a plane crash.

Joey Cigainero, 28, Terry Jackson, 28, and Tony Saputo, 34, and seven others died in 1991, when their private plane slammed into a mountain near San Diego two minutes after takeoff following a McEntire concert.

The families said pilot negligence led to the deaths. They sued Duncan Aircraft Sales Inc. of Venice, Fla., because the company provided the pilot along with the plane.

Duncan lawyer Martin Rose said the pilot shared responsibility with an air traffic controller. Pilot Don Holmes, who died in the crash, was flying low while awaiting clearance from a controller who turned his back on the radar screen for 1 1/2 minutes to type a report, Rose said.

The settlement was approved Tuesday by Harris County Judge Scott Link, said Tom Davis, the families' lawyer.

The lawsuit reached Texas when the families attached their case to another lawsuit against Duncan already filed here.

President Clinton speaks at the funeral services of former President Richard Nixon Wednesday at the Nixon Library and Birthplace in Yorba Linda, Calif.

Nixon always wanted it both ways

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Candidate came aboard, the campaigner's mask erased as he turned away from the crowd, unsmiling as he went to his compartment in the chartered airliner. No small talk.

COMMENTARY

Not with the Richard M. Nixon of 1960, brusque and distant when he did deal with the political reporters who traveled with him. The impression was heightened when the Nixon entourage put up at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York and John F. Kennedy, in the city for a joint appearance, turned up in the lobby, saying he'd come over to get a haircut.

He did, after a genial chat with newsmen, almost all of whom were traveling with his Republican rival for the White House.

Eight years, two election defeats and one political revival later, there was a new Nixon approach. Author Theodore H. White wrote that the snarling self-pity of prior campaigns was gone.

"Gentlemen, this is not my last press conference," Nixon said as he began his New Hampshire presidential primary campaign in 1968, wryly recalling his bitter, "last press conference" concession of defeat in the election for governor of California.

To emphasize the new look, Nixon threw a campaign cocktail party for the political press that night in New Hampshire, stood on a chair and promised a more open, accessible campaign. Next morning, he went unannounced to a town hall question-and-answer session taped for campaign television, avoiding coverage by political reporters.

Later, there was lunch at Antoine's during a New Orleans campaign stop. Nixon reminiscing about a dinner there with his wife in 1941, recalling not only what they ate but exactly what it cost.

But it was invited audiences only, no reporters allowed, in the theaters where Nixon campaign-staged 10 TV interview forums with carefully selected questioners.

Having it both ways, or trying, was a Nixon trait.

The self-contained denial was one way of doing it as, for example, when he learned just before the 1968 election of an impending halt in the bombing of North Vietnam. He said he'd been told it was a cynical attempt to influence the election but that he didn't believe it was. That made and disowned the accusation at the same time.

Or the "secret plan" to end the war in Vietnam. "I never said I had a plan, much less a secret plan, to end the war," he wrote in his memoirs. What Nixon did say in 1968 was that, if elected, he would end the conflict; when asked how, he wouldn't say, on grounds that would undercut the administration. A reporter coined the "secret plan" description and the phrase caught on.

He never apologized for Watergate, although he did write in one of his last books that he had failed to establish a moral tone that would have made it unthinkable. But when he was asked in 1986 what lessons he took from the scandal that forced his resignation, Nixon retorted: "Just destroy all the tapes."

After the Nixon enemies list was disclosed in 1973, he told H.R.

Haldeman to compile a list of journalists he considered to be fair or even friendly. It wasn't nearly as long.

He often was awkward when he tried to make conversation in unexpected situations. A 1968 anti-Vietnam War marchers demonstrated against his policy. Nixon went from the White House to the Lincoln Memorial to talk with some of them, and tried to chat about the approaching college football season. When a motorcycle policeman escorting a presidential motorcade was injured in an accident, Nixon stopped to express his concern, and then asked how he liked his job.

To keep track of people he'd see again, Nixon would focus on one fact about each of them. One correspondent was introduced to Nixon as the father of seven children; for years afterward, he asked about them every time he saw the man. Another had short hair, a crew cut. It registered. When another reporter with a crew cut traveled abroad with Nixon early in his term, the president introduced him to other world leaders by name. The wrong name. He thought it was the other guy with the crew cut.

Clinton, White House welcomes Indian tribes

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — American Indian leaders have been meeting with presidents since George Washington, but never in the numbers coming to the nation's capital this time.

All the nation's 545 federally recognized tribes were invited to send representatives to a 2 1/2-hour meeting Friday afternoon with President Clinton. Nearly all of them will be here, organizers say.

"We have high expectations," said Ron Allen, chairman of Washington's Jamestown S'Kallam tribe.

"We made it very clear ... that we have no intention of coming back here for a photo-op session. We had every intention of coming here for a meaningful dialogue."

The White House says this is the first time all the nation's tribes have been invited to meet the president.

In the 1992 campaign, Clinton courted Indians as few other candidates have done in recent history, inviting them to meetings in Little Rock, Ark., and giving them a plank in the Democratic platform.

Tribal leaders responded with strong endorsements of him, but the relationship has soured since the administration proposed a 13 percent cut in the Indian Health Service's 1995 budget.

Tribes rely heavily on the federal government not just for health care — the IHS serves 1.3 million Indians — but also for education, housing, nutrition and other services.

Clinton administration officials say the president is determined to listen to the tribes' concerns.

Mandela asks for extra day at the polls

The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Nelson Mandela urged election officials today to consider an extra day of voting after staggering logistical problems led to mile-long lines and charges of irregularities.

Mandela, the African National Congress leader expected to be South Africa's first black president, said in an interview that it was clear to him there had been "massive sabotage."

Mandela did not give examples of the sabotage, but ANC spokesman Carl Niehaus said he was referring to ballots that did not reach polling stations and other situations that made it impossible for South Africans to vote.

Mandela urged that the election be extended one day, through Friday. The three-day election was scheduled to end today.

The army worked through the night printing millions of extra ballots, and air force planes rushed them to polling stations.

Photographers were dispatched around the country to help issue temporary identity cards for voters. Helicopters circled rural areas announcing where polling stations were open.

The problems began Tuesday when polls opened, many several hours late.

Some stations were keeping people from voting after running out of the invisible ink applied to voters' hands to prevent multiple votes. Other sites lacked electricity or the lamps under which people placed their ink-stained hands to be read.

Delays were the worst in the Zulu stronghold of Natal. On Wednesday, Zulu nationalist leader Mangosuthu Buthezi threatened to withdraw his Inkatha Freedom Party from the election.

Representatives of the Independent

Electoral Commission met overnight with Buthezi and said a decision would be announced later today on extending voting through Friday in Natal.

The meeting seemed to appease Buthezi, who agreed only last week to participate after protracted negotiations. "The crisis has receded," he said.

He visited polling stations today and criticized "ineptitude" by organizers but said he had "no intention of pulling out" of the election.

The IEC blamed Buthezi's last-minute entry did not leave enough time to prepare polls and distribute ballots across the vast, mountainous region.

At one Natal voting site, election workers were having to conduct on-the-spot voter education because it had been ignored during Inkatha's boycott. There was a huge backlog while Jere Nam Naidoo and other polling officials were showing first-time voters how to mark "X" on ballots.

You know the names, look up the number

Warning: This is another one of those "Tell us what you think" columns.

Just thought it best to be right up front about this.

I'm getting tired of something, and I don't care who knows it.

What's bugging me?

Well, it's you. Yes, you. The faithful reader (they are out there, aren't they?).

Here's the problem - you read this sports section every day, and some of the time, maybe most of the time, you say, "Goshdarnit, I wish the Herald would do a story on this," or "Why can't the sports people down at the Herald get off their butts and put this in the paper every week," or "I'd sure like to tell those sports guys down at the Herald a thing or two."

You know who you are.

You say those things, but how many of you actually call the "sports guys down at the Herald" to tell us what's on your mind?

I've been here 9 1/2 months now, and I can count the number of complaint calls I've received on two hands.

Come on! We're doing a good job down here, but not that good.

Here's what really bugs me. People will stop me at a ball game, or at the grocery store, and they'll say something like, "Hey, you're doing a great job down there at the Herald, but..."

Oh, no - the dreaded but. Invariably, this person will bring up a story idea from last football season that we should have investigated. Or maybe it's something about the recently completed basketball season. Maybe it's about a story we missed during the 1986 football season.

Just because I'm a sports editor doesn't mean I'm set in my ways and won't listen to any suggestions. Granted, I won't like some suggestions, but you'll never know until you call, will you?

"Boy, that would have made such a good story. I was really mad that you didn't do a story on it."

My question is always the same: "Why didn't you call us and tell us then?"

If I missed a story, I missed a story - there's no going back. In case you haven't noticed, Steve Reagan and I are the only sports writers at the Herald. No matter how hard we try, some sports, some athletes and some story ideas are going to miss the coverage they deserve. I'd like to know all about every sport in this area, but I never will.

If you have suggestions for us, call us. Call us before the fact, when we can still do the story. Call us after the fact and you'll get "Sorry, ma'am, if we'd just known ahead of time."

Have you seen the Local Sports Schedule that we run in most of our sports sections these days?

I wish it was my idea, but it wasn't. I returned a reader's call one day - the message said "...wants to talk to you about a local sports schedule" - and the next day we had a local sports schedule. It was a great idea, and I was ashamed that I had never thought of it.

Just because I'm a sports editor doesn't mean I'm set in my ways and won't listen to any suggestions. Granted, I won't like some suggestions, but you'll never know until you call, will you?

If you keep throwing the Herald down in disgust, but you never call and tell us why, the paper is never going to change.

Erickson fires no-no vs. Brewers

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — There were two outs in the ninth inning and 17,988 fans were on their feet when Scott Erickson threw one of his few poor pitches, hanging a 1-2 slider to Milwaukee cleanup hitter Greg Vaughn.

Vaughn took a mighty swing — and managed only a high fly to shallow left field, apparently preserving Erickson's no-hitter Wednesday night and wrapping up the Brewers' 6-0 loss to the Minnesota Twins.

"When I hit it, I thought, 'He got it,'" Vaughn said.

The AL's first no-hitter of 1994 didn't end that simply, though.

As the ball drifted down to left fielder Alex Cole, shortstop Pat Meares flashed into the picture. The two just missed each other before Cole made the catch.

That helps explain Erickson's restrained reaction — only a slight pumping of both fists into the air — after pitching the best game of his wildly vacillating career.

"It's not like I've practiced what I would do if it were to happen," he said. "Besides, I seriously thought that they were going to run into each other."

Yes, the 26-year-old right-hander had negative thoughts even during the final play of his most glorious achievement.

And who could blame him?

If someone tried to pick the man least likely to pitch the major leagues' second no-hitter of the year, Erickson might have been the choice.

"I really didn't expect it," said Erickson, the first Minnesota pitcher in 27 years to turn the trick. "I really didn't feel that good before the game."

"I took the field and the first two guys hit bullets and I said, 'This might be a long night.'"

He has had many, many long nights since he had 20 wins and helped the Twins take the World Series in 1991, his first full big-league season.

Going into Wednesday, he was 9-24 in his previous 40 starts. He still hasn't won consecutive decisions since September 1992.

Last season, he was 8-19, leading the majors in losses, hits allowed (266) and runs allowed (138). This season, he was 1-3 with a 7.84 ERA and opponents were batting .384 against him.

Then came Wednesday, and baseball's most hittable pitcher became unhittable.

"That's what makes this game so great," Twins manager Tom Kelly said. "You see a lot of weird stuff in baseball."

When Erickson was great in 1991, he threw a darting 90-plus mph fastball and a slider that fell out of sight.

For some reason, he lost the ability to control his fastball and his slider began hanging in the strike zone.

"I kind of reverted back to the slider I had a couple of years ago," he said Wednesday. "I was just

Home run bats quiet, but Rangers still pound Toronto

By The Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Winning two straight games would seem to a modest streak, but in the mild, mild American League West it's a major accomplishment for the Texas Rangers.

The Rangers' 11-3 rout of the Toronto Blue Jays on Wednesday night marked the first time this season they have put victories back to back.

"Two in a row, three in a row, five in a row, we'll do whatever it takes to win this division," said Texas' David Hulse, who had three of the Rangers' 12 hits, 11 of them singles.

The Rangers improved to 7-11 for the season, leaving them only one-half game out of first place in the mediocre American League West.

Texas' offense thrived for the second straight game by ignoring home run cuts and concentrating on making contact. The Rangers also stole four bases Wednesday.

Sluggo Jose Canseco had two RBI singles as the Rangers set a season-high for runs.

"I've really been seeing guys cutting down on their swings, especially Jose," said Hulse, who has hit safely in his last six games to boost his average to .355.

"We're doing that a lot in batting practice and it carries over into the game. That allows you to go the other way when you've got two strikes."

Kenny Rogers (2-2) threw six-hit ball over 7 2-3 innings, walking two with seven strikeouts.

The Rangers jumped to a 10-2 lead after four innings.

"That was a lot of offense coming together real quick," Rangers first baseman Will Clark said.

The Rangers, who started the day 10th in the American League with 22 homers, took a boom-or-bust mentality at the plate while getting off to a slow start. Texas led the majors with 181 homers in 1993.

The Rangers didn't get an extra-base hit until Juan Gonzalez had an RBI double in the eighth.

Texas has nine steals in its last two games and 13 in 15 attempts in its last four games. Of the Rangers' 21 hits in their last two games, 10 have been singles.

"We've got more speed than some people think," Kennedy said.

The insertion of Oddibe McDowell into the second spot in the lineup has also helped. McDowell has been on base six times in the two games he's played since being recalled from the minors.

"David and Oddibe can create some havoc on the bases," Kennedy said. "Oddibe has done everything we asked."

The highlight of the night for Toronto came in the first when Joe Carter's run-scoring single gave him a major league record 30 RBIs for April.

"It's bittersweet," Carter said. "But you'd like to win the game. You want to be consistent throughout your career but you always want to get off to a start like this."

Carter set his major league mark when he drove in Paul Molitor from second to push Toronto's lead to 2-0.

Carter started the day tied with Ron Cey (1977), Dale Murphy (1985) and Dave Winfield (1988), all of whom had 29 RBIs in April.

Astros' bats come to the rescue in victory

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — The Houston Astros rallied with big home runs, then used a lot of little things to beat the Chicago Cubs.

Jeff Bagwell drove in the go-ahead run with a groundout in the seventh inning Wednesday night as Houston rallied from five runs down for an 8-5 victory over the Cubs.

Houston trailed 5-0 after two innings before coming back to hand Chicago its 10th loss in 12 games. Ken Caminiti hit a three-run homer and Andujar Cedeno added a solo shot for the Astros.

"Home run balls got us back in the game, but it was the little things like (Bagwell's) ground ball that drove in the go-head run that were important," Astros manager Terry Collins said.

Shane Reynolds (1-0) picked up his first win since Sept. 27, 1992, with three scoreless innings of relief.

The Astros tied it 5-5 in the sixth on Cedeno's sacrifice fly.

Houston then took the lead in the seventh off Jose Bautista (0-2). Steve Finley singled, stole second and moved to third. He then scored on Bagwell's slow roller to third.

The Astros added two runs in the eighth on an RBI single by Finley and Craig Biggio's RBI double.

"We should have won that game. It's unfortunate it's been that way this year," Chicago's Mark Grace said. "We're finding ways to lose games."

"There's still time left this season, but not a lot of silver lining. We can't wait around. We had every reason to win this game. It's inexcusable to lose a five-run lead and not continue to score," he said.

Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the first when Grace scored on third baseman Caminiti's grounder.

The Cubs increased their lead to 5-0 in the second. Steve Buechele led off with his fourth homer. Mark Parent singled and moved to second on a sacrifice by Willie Banks.

Karl Rhodes followed with an RBI double, before Ryne Sandberg and Grace drew walks. A wild pitch by Doug Drabek enabled Rhodes to score and May's sacrifice fly scored Sandberg.

Houston closed to 5-1 in the third when Cedeno, starting for the first time since spraining his right ankle Friday night in St. Louis, led off with his fifth homer of the season, a towering 443-foot shot to left-center.

"I haven't seen one hit that far in a game. They said it was 443 feet, but it's 500 feet in my book," Caminiti said. "I'm estimating 500-plus. He's got all sorts of power and he's growing up. He takes a hack and he usually connects."

The Astros cut it to 5-4 in the fourth when Biggio walked, Luis Gonzalez singled and Caminiti hit his second homer.

Chicago manager Tom Trebelhorn was ejected in the seventh inning by plate umpire Brian Gorman for arguing about a stolen base call at second base.

Chicago shortstop Shawon Dunston and Houston's Steve Finley look for the call on Finley's steal attempt in the seventh inning of their game Tuesday. Finley was safe on the play.

'Other' teams looking for shot at brass ring

By The Associated Press

Three teams have won the last seven NBA titles, leaving a host of star players still looking for that elusive championship ring.

The list includes the four big men — David Robinson, Hakeem Olajuwon, Shaquille O'Neal and Patrick Ewing — who made 1993-94 the Year of the Center in the NBA.

Also on the list are perennial all-stars like Charles Barkley, Clyde Drexler, John Stockton, Karl Malone and Danny Manning.

"From Day 1, my goal was to win a championship," said Ewing, who was 7 years old when New York won its first NBA title in 1970. Now in his ninth season with the Knicks, Ewing leads them into the first round of the playoffs Friday night against New Jersey.

New York is the second seed in the Eastern Conference behind surprising Atlanta, which plays host to Miami in their opener tonight.

"I play basketball because it's fun, but I also play because I want to win," said Manning, traded to the Hawks from the Los Angeles Clippers on Feb. 24. "When I say 'win,' I mean win a championship. When I win one championship, I'll want to win another one."

In other playoff openers tonight, Indiana is at Orlando in the East, while it's Denver at Seattle and Utah at San Antonio in the Western Conference.

On Friday, it's New Jersey at New York and Cleveland at Chicago in the East and Portland at Houston and Golden State at Phoenix in the West.

Orlando, making its first playoff appearance in its five-year history, has put rookie Anfernee Hardaway at point guard, replacing Scott Skiles.

Many thought the pair wouldn't get along, particularly after Hardaway visited the Magic before last year's draft and predicted he would win the starting job from Skiles — the NBA record-holder for assists in a game with 30 — if Orlando picked him. But Hardaway has nothing but praise for Skiles.

"Scotty really made it easy on me, and I thank him a lot for that," Hardaway said. "He was a man about it when I became the starting point guard. He still gave me tips, still met me coming off the court to point out some things during games. I'm still learning from him and he's also listening to me when I point out things. It's a real good relationship."

Said Skiles: "I've tried to pass along what I can to Penny, but he's so good, it might not matter if he ever gets down the finer points of being a point guard. He's so good, he can get the ball where he wants when he wants regardless of the situation, and that's not easy. He's going to get to a point where he can take over games."

Seattle is the top seed in the West and has the home-court advantage throughout the playoffs because of its NBA-best 63-19 record.

"I hope the guys realize how difficult this is going to be," said Ricky Pierce, Seattle's veteran guard. "We can't just write ourselves into a championship. We have to be focused and ready to accept the challenge in front of us now."

Denver, despite a 2-2 split of the season series with the Sonics, matches Miami's 42-40 record as the worst among the 16 playoff teams.

Erickson

throwing in the pen the other day and it felt a little different. I don't know if it was a different grip or just a different arm angle or something.

"It's a very touchy pitch. The release point and all that stuff has to be perfect."

He wasn't perfect against the Brewers, walking four — including two in the high-tension ninth inning — and hitting a batter.

But he was as good as any Minnesota pitcher has been since Dean Chance no-hit Cleveland on Aug. 25, 1967.

"He was strong, he was sharp, he was awesome," Minnesota catcher Matt Walbeck said. "He was in a self-confident rhythm."

Erickson struck out five and gave a big boost to a staff that entered the game with the major leagues' worst ERA — 7.41 — by almost a full run.

"The pitchers have been taking a beating," said Kent Hrbek, who homered off Milwaukee starter

Jaime Navarro (1-2). "I wanted it bad for him."

Minnesota starters went into the game with an 8.44 ERA. The Twins' also have allowed more hits (271) and homers (41) than any other team.

"It wasn't a perfect game, but it was perfect for what we needed," said Kirby Puckett, who had four hits in support of Erickson. "He's taken a lot of abuse, so I'm happy for him."

The other no-hitter in the majors this season was by Atlanta's Kent Mercker, April 8 in Los Angeles. The most recent AL no-hitter had been by Jim Abbott of the New York Yankees, against Cleveland last Sept. 4.

Erickson did not need any sparkling defensive plays to preserve the no-hitter. Even the two first-inning liners, by Alex Diaz and Bill Spiers, were right at fielders. He threw 129 pitches, including 71 strikes, and 15 outs came on grounders as his slider befuddled the Brewers.

NBA heads for the border; Vancouver gets new franchise

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Basketball isn't about to replace hockey as the No. 1 sport in Canada. With a push from the NBA, however, Shaquille O'Neal may become almost as famous there as Wayne Gretzky.

Six months after admitting Toronto to the league, NBA owners unanimously approved a Vancouver franchise Wednesday. Both teams will begin play in the 1995-96 season.

"Vancouver is a beautiful, fast-growing city," NBA commissioner David Stern said. "It's got a great seaport, great restaurants and great fans."

The addition of Toronto and Vancouver will give the NBA 29 teams. The franchises must pay an entry fee of $125 million, nearly four times the $32.5 million paid by the four expansion teams in the late 1980s.

But Vancouver owner Arthur Griffiths thinks it's a good investment. He said 7,000 people already have agreed to buy season tickets to watch the team play in a 20,000-seat arena now under construction.

"We've been overwhelmed by the response," said Griffiths, who also owns the NHL Vancouver Canucks and the new arena. "We are confident the NBA will be a big success here."

Griffiths said basketball already is popular in Canada, especially in Vancouver.

"We have more high school and college teams than anywhere else in Canada," he said. "When I drive around my neighborhood, I see kids playing basketball all the time. I see them wearing Chicago Bulls jerseys and Phoenix Suns shirts. Now they'll be wearing Vancouver paraphernalia."

The team was going to be called the Mounties, but that name has been scrapped because of licensing problems with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

"We're going to do some test marketing and come up with another name," Griffiths said.

Griffiths said he plans to hire a general manager by the end of the summer.

"We want someone with credibility, respect and a strong track record," he said. "We want somebody who knows how to build a franchise from the bottom up."

An expansion draft will be held in the summer of 1995 to stock the two Canadian teams, who will take unprotected players from existing clubs. Each expansion team also will get a pick in the first round of the 1995 college draft. One team will pick sixth and the other seventh.

Expansion teams usually struggle in their first few years, but Griffiths promised his team will play an exciting brand of basketball.

"The NBA is in the entertainment business, and we plan to give our fans their money's worth," he said.

Stern, who has marketed the NBA on a global basis, said he doesn't anticipate any more expansion before the end of the century. However, he did mention Mexico City as a future frontier.

"We see ourselves as a North American league," Stern said, "but through television, exhibitions and club tournaments we can maintain a presence all over the world."

Vancouver and Toronto will be the first Canadian teams in the NBA since the Toronto Huskies in 1946-47, the league's inaugural season.

Vancouver will play in the Midwest Division of the Western Conference. Toronto will be in the Eastern Conference, but the division has yet to be determined.

To gain admission to the league, the Canadian clubs had to get NBA betting removed from their provincial lotteries. The NBA said it wouldn't award franchises to those cities unless the betting was banned.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Case No. 94-04-37149
IN THE INTEREST OF A CHILD IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF HOWARD COUNTY, TEXAS
THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF HOWARD
TO: Larry Jay Patton

You have been sued. You may employ an attorney, if you or your attorney do not file a written answer with the Clerk who issued this citation by 10:00 a.m. on the Monday next following the expiration of 20 days after you were served this citation and petition, a default judgment may be taken against you.

The Petition of Daniel Roland Smith and Robin Kay Smith Petitioner, was filed in the District Court of Howard County, Texas, on the 22nd day of April, 1994, against Larry Jay Patton Respondent, numbered 94-04-37149, and entitled "In the Interest of Kelleigh Jay Patton, a child who is the subject of the suit. The child's date of birth is 05-27-82 and place of birth is Howard County, Texas. The suit requests termination and adoption of stepchild."

"The court has authority in this suit to enter any judgment or decree in the child's interest which will be binding upon you, including the termination of the parent-child relationship, the determination of paternity and the appointment of a conservator with authority to consent to the child's adoption."
ISSUED AND GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND SEAL OF SAID COURT and Big Spring, Texas, this 25th day of April, 1994.
