Carnival kicks off celebration

Cinco de Mayo also remembers mamma

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

There is no country on earth where tradition is more implanted than in these United States.

Through the years, millions of people from every nation, bringing every culture, have landed somewhere in the 50 states to try and make a foreign land a place to call home. The country has been blessed, because as these people arrived, they brought with them the flavor and memories of the places they had come from.

Tradition

Nowhere is that tradition so alive as in the celebration of Cinco de Mayo — the fifth of May — the celebration of Mexican Independence.

Locally, the tradition continues.

Raul Marquez, chairman/organizer of the local event says this year's planned activities will offer something for everyone and a special gift for mothers. The program kicks off at McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark Thursday evening with a carnival and concludes Sunday at midnight.

This year, the festival also has a special Mother's Day focus. "There is a tradition that mothers just love," says Please see CELEBRATE, page 1

Mariachis will play and Mother's Day will be celebrated this weekend during Cinco de Mayo. A carnival kicks off the events Thursday with many more events planned throughout the weekend.

Why celebrate Cinco de Mayo?

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

Long ago, in a land far, far away...

Was a country, a church, and a government. The country was Mexico and the day was May 5.

For years, children of Hispanic descent, have grown up learning about May Fifth — Cinco de Mayo. While for many, it is only a celebration for the here and now, not unlike the Fourth of July, the date is firmly entrenched in Mexican history.

As long ago as the 1860s, the Catholic Church and a conservative fraction of the Mexican government, established rules and written documents about how that government would function. They chose Maximilian of Austria to lead them and received approval from Napoleon III.

However, it was discovered Maximilian and his wife, Carlotta, had been duped. There was no throne and a nation of people who supported them did not exist.

Maximilian was also unaware of the existence of Benito Juarez, a liberal rebel, and his vast number of followers already in place in the new land. However, Maximilian accepted the challenge to invade Mexico with the promised assistance of Napoleon's French army.

Benito Juarez and the majority of the Mexican public were resistant to the invasion. Juarez's troops fought the invasion valiantly. On May 5, Juarez' forces defeated the European invaders at a major battle near Puebla, Mexico.

Although the battle continued, and the Juarez coalition experienced many raging defeats, a spirit was born that Fifth of May in the 19th century. That spirit is what others call "heart."

That spirit is still alive today.

317 years of teaching honored

By BARBARA MORRISON

If the mind is considered a vast sea of knowledge, then several employees of the Big Spring Independent School District have proven to be "seasoned sailors."

The Big Spring High School cafeteria set the stage Monday evening for the annual Employee Appreciation Banquet. The theme for the event was "Cruising To Success Through Education," and was attended by 200 teachers, administrators, cafeteria personnel, school board members, and other B.I.S.D. employees.

Superintendent Bill McQuay gave special recognition to the combined total of 317 years of service given the school district by 11 retiring employees. "We'd like to recognize those who have given their time and their hearts to serve the boys and girls of this school district," he said.

Those retiring are: Betty Addy, Lee Freeze, Una Goswick, Bobby Grant, Jean Hart, Clarence Hawkins, Margaret Horton, Ray Lawlis, Helen Milner, Ruth Nanny and Carol Stephens.

Additionally, several others were honored for extended years of service:

Texas Insurance Commissioner J. Robert Hunter, left, and Rep. David Counts, D-Knox City, conduct a hearing on the availability of insurance in rural areas Tuesday at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

High risk auto insurance concerns are expressed

DD TURNER

Concerns about high-risk auto insurance pools were expressed at a hearing on the availability of insurance in rural Texas Tuesday.

The hearing was conducted at the prompting of Rep. David Counts, D-Knox City, with J. Robert Hunter, newly appointed Texas insurance commissioner.

Counts said the purpose of the hearing was to identify problems and possible solutions concerning insurance in rural areas.

Amy Johnson, counselor for the Office of Insurance, said a concern of her's was the number of people in the high-risk auto insurance pool who had excellent driving records.

"Why are these people, mostly from rural areas, in this pool?" she asked.

A possible explanation was given by one man, who explained he had just written a policy for a person, for whom every dollar counted. The person ended up in the high-risk pool because it saved him a few dollars as opposed to a standard policy.

Larry Hollar, with State Farm Insurance in Big Spring, said if the state high-risk pool cost more, it would help bring people into standard policies. "There is no incentive for people to get out of the pool."

Homeowners' insurance was also discussed including cash value replacements and full

Howard County Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown, 63, died

Tuesday afternoon in a Lubbock hospital after suffering an apparent stroke.

Last Saturday, Brown was taken by ambulance to Scenic Mountain Medical Center then airlifted by helicopter to Lubbock Methodist Hospital and had remained in very critical condition until his death.

"We're going to miss him. I hate to see it happen. Louis has been a commissioner for a long time. He was a pretty good ol' boy and had been in this business for a long time. We will really miss him," commented Howard County Judge Ben Lookhart.

Brown was elected and took office on Jan. 1, 1977. He has served on the Howard County Commissioners Court since that date. He was re-elected in November 1992 and last took office on Jan. 1, 1993.

Services are pending with Valley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

Marquez. He explains each year starting around midnight on May 5, a small band of Mariachi singers hired by the family will arrive at the front door of the mother's house.

Marquez says the singers strum the guitar and softly serenade the chosen mother with some favorite lyrics. "The different Mariachi groups will travel around all night," he said. "Until they have sung to every mother whose family has requested their music. My own mother loves it."

That tradition, Marquez adds, will be incorporated into the scheduled festivities. On Saturday and Sunday, a special Mariachi singer, Pepe Franco, will be on hand to serenade the crowd and the mothers.

The celebration schedule is as follows:

"They were right," Gladden laughed. "I've worn out four superintendents and four assistant superintendents!"

Whale harassed, photographer fined $10,000

The Associated Press

HONOLULU - A commercial photographer who sold footage to television's "I Witness Video" of a pilot whale biting his assistant was fined $10,000 for whale harassment.

The fine, the maximum possible in a whale harassment case, was levied Tuesday against Lee Tepley.

Tepley, an experienced underwater photographer, should have known better than to violate the Marine Mammal Protection Act by chasing the pod of whales, said Hugh J. Dolan, the federal administrative law judge who fined him.

"Brian Keith Smith, 25 of 1208 Wood, was transported from the city jail on charges of possession of a controlled substance with the intent to deliver, tax stamp violation and outstanding DPS warrants. He posted a $30,400 bond and was released.

Infrared image tells dying story of Everglades

EVERGLADES NATIONAL PARK, Fla. (AP) - An infrared satellite image of the endangered Everglades tells the story.

Thin white lines signify 120 miles of canals that sliced up and drained for development about half of the 8,000 square miles of the Everglades' marshlands 80 years ago. Red denotes the sugar plantations where marshland once existed.

Farther south, a pink blush in the water represents the plant-choking algae that environmentalists say is caused by phosphorus-rich agricultural runoff.

Gov. Lawton Chiles on Tuesday signed into law a $685 million plan to save the dying Everglades from decades of pollution - a plan environmentalists say is actually a death warrant for America's biggest marshlands.

Historic accord signed today

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO leader Yasser Arafat signed a historic accord today that will give the Palestinians autonomy in lands occupied by Israel for nearly 27 years.

The signing came after more than six months of tortuous negotiations fraught with setbacks and bloodshed. It grants Palestinians self-rule in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank town of Jericho and opens the way for Israel to withdraw its soldiers from the two areas.

A smiling Arafat was the first to sign the papers in three thick black books and a stack of files, using his own pen instead of one offered. He then shook hands with Rabin.

President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt, who presided at the signing ceremony, said the agreement meant "a revolutionary change" in relations between Israel and the Palestinians.

Clinton: U.S. can't solve world's problems

ATLANTA (AP) - President Clinton says the United States cannot solve the world's problems, but "we will not hesitate to act alone" when vital interests are at stake. He defended his foreign policy against suggestions that he has been indecisive, particularly on Bosnia.

But he conceded in a 90-minute internationally televised appearance that "the problems are more difficult than I thought."

Clinton issued tough new warnings to Haiti's military rulers and North Korea's Communist government.

He said wielding U.S. military force to restore democracy in Haiti remains an option and "we cannot rule it out anymore."

Teen's lashing sentence reduced to four strokes

SINGAPORE (AP) - The American teen-ager convicted of vandalism will be lashed four times instead of six, but his father decried Singapore's refusal to spare him the "barbaric punishment."

Citing close relations with the United States, the government today reduced Michael Fay's sentence, noting that President Clinton had publicly commented on the case three times.

"To reject his appeal totally would show an unhelpful disregard for the president and the domestic pressures on him on this issue," a statement said.

It said the Cabinet had advised President Ong Teng Cheong to reduce the sentence, advice the president must act on according to law. The statement did not say when the painful strokes with a 4-foot rattan rod would be meted out.

No longer top dog on Haiti

WASHINGTON (AP) - After 13 months, Ambassador Lawrence Pezzullo is no longer the top State Department adviser on Haiti. Based on his up-close look at President Clinton's foreign policy team, Pezzullo's concluded it was like watching the gang that couldn't shoot straight.

"I've been to meetings that are indescribable," Pezzullo says. "You don't know what the meeting is for. The discussion is all over the lot. And then you come out and you haven't decided anything."

Pezullo had expected to go quietly after he and Secretary of State Warren Christopher decided their policy differences were too great for him to stay on.

Council, school board elections important too

Saturday is election day.

Voters this time are asked to elect the people they want to represent them on the Big Spring City Council, Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees and the Howard College Board of Trustees.

It may not seem as exciting as a presidential race or a down and dirty gubernatorial or senate race, but these races are of equal, if not more, importance.

The members of the city council will decide how to run this city for the next years. They will be making decisions that affect you. To have your say in those decisions, turn out to vote.

The same goes for the school board and the college board, who are both charged with spending your money to provide the best possible education for your children.

It doesn't matter there are not any senate races, presidential races, these races are closer to home, in fact, are your home.

Remember to take time Saturday, vote and have your say.

Another yawner for the Washington establishment

WASHINGTON — The threat by an influential congressman to end the $10 billion federal construction free-load for Washingtonians who ride the region's subway system didn't scare anybody.

In the town that's pampered above all others by lavish congressional spending, the "enough-is-enough" statement was issued by Rep. Bob Carr, D-Mich., chairman of a House transportation appropriations subcommittee. But it lacked something.

Carr's warning, in fact, had all the urgency and relevancy of a Paul Revere ride to warn about the British threat on the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Carr was too late. Americans, whose taxes have been siphoned for years into the Washington Metro system while their own state and local mass transit needs stood in a long federal line, have already paid $10 billion for "America's Subway" in Washington.

And Carr's warning that Congress won't pay any more federal money for a variety of plans to extend the Metro rail system was another yawner for members of the Washington establishment.

These Washington barons of campaign finance, media spin and lobbyist hype were shaking billions of dollars in pork-barrel favors out of the congressional money tree long before Carr ever came to Congress. And they'll still be shaking the tree long after he's gone.

So Washington establishment movers and shakers, whose practice is to shooze national legislators when they cooperate and rap political knuckles when they occasionally don't, will go right on planning for spending on Metro extensions.

Meanwhile, there are other billions of federal dollars still to be spent on other congressionally-approved Washington-area pork-barrel projects.

There's ongoing construction for a $1 billion downtown federal office building whose use is still unknown in a city with acres of empty office space.

And there's a spree of private land speculation exploding in the Maryland suburbs, where a new $1 billion Food and Drug Administration "campus" will be located, although available free federal land is nearby.

In a permanency to which the Washington establishment is accustomed, those and other projects have kept humming along despite the advertised spending austerity of the Clinton administration and, before that, the spending austerity of the Bush administration and, before that, the spending austerity of the Reagan administration.

Carr's "enough is enough" threat to Metro officials, in addition to being non-threatening to the veteran Washington pork-barrelers, did suggest that at long last an obvious truth about Metro spending had dawned on at least one member of Congress.

As if he hadn't realized what was going on all those years of congressional financing for Washington's Metro — while he was a part of it — Carr declared: "I think I speak for most people in America. The folks at Metro have got to get it through their noses that there's got to be an end to this gravy train."

He continued: "Too many other communities in America have taken a back seat while Metro gets special treatment ..."

Adding a comical touch to Carr's vow that he wouldn't support more taxpayer financing of the Washington Metro construction was the reality that Congress — Carr included — has already guaranteed continued Metro spending to the year 2001.

There's still another 13.5 miles of Metro construction to extend the system to a full 103 miles, and the pliant Congress — Carr included — long ago pledged itself to keep shoveling the money Metro's way, at about $200 million a year to finish the rail network.

The minimum regard, even the contempt for all of Congress, expressed by the Washington establishment for Carr's threat against future spending for Metro expansion was evident in a reaction by Jack Evans, the Metro board chairman.

Referring to Carr's declaration that he intended to end the process through which Washington Metro has soaked up the major share and first serving of all federal mass transit spending, Evans sniffed: "See how well Congress is running the country with this kind of short-sighted approach."

Leonard E. Larsen writes commentaries twice weekly for Scripps Howard News Service.

Congress is going to fling $20 billion or more at crime. They are still mulling over how it will be spent, but we are promised more prisons, cops on the streets and tougher sentencing laws.

But in scanning the day's top crime stories, it is hard to see how the $20 billion and new laws would have prevented any of them.

In the northwest suburbs of Chicago, a likable bartender broods because his girlfriend dumped him. He kidnaps her as she leaves her job and when the cops close in on his car, he kills her and himself.

Obviously, he wouldn't have been discouraged by any "three strikes and you're out" sentencing threat. Nor would an extra cop or two in his community have made a difference.

About the only way the murder-suicide might have been prevented would have been if he didn't own guns. But he had been a law-abiding person, so there isn't a law-abiding anything to prevent someone like him from arming himself.

Only a total ban on gun ownership could have stopped him. But Americans don't want a total ban, and no politician would dare suggest it, so the two deaths couldn't be avoided.

On the same page was the story about the arrest in the killing of two men in a suburban pizza parlor. It was a typical, mindless 1990s crime. Two men die, and the total loot was a stereo and $14.

If people are stupid enough to murder for $14 and a stereo, how do you prevent it? You can't. The cops can't, the prosecutors can't, nobody can.

It happens somewhere just about every day. If it isn't a pizza parlor, it's a convenience store, a tavern, a gas station or a taxi. For a small business with open doors, there is safety only in thick bulletproof glass and a pistol within reach.

So what will Congress do — provide every small business with a glass wall and a gun of its own? Of course not. It won't do anything except huff and puff and blow a lot of money.

Oh, there is a chance it might ban the so-called assault weapons and limit the size of ammunition clips. And that makes for a good TV sound bite.

But the reality is that assault weapons are used in only a small fraction of crimes. A standard six-shooter is still the weapon of choice for those who want to commit murder.

So if Congress really wanted to prevent shootings such as the above, it would forget about registration, cooling-off periods and background checks, and boldly ban all handguns, assault weapons and any other form of firearm.

It can't do that because the majority of Americans would be furious. They want their guns. In recent years, gun ownership has soared. Records indicate that in Chicago's North Shore suburbs, which are much safer than most places, gun ownership has gone up about 400 percent.

What they want is for criminals not to have guns. Unfortunately, there doesn't seem to be a way to keep guns from criminals. Under present and future laws, someone without a criminal record can buy guns. Then they can sell them at a profit to criminals. That happens now, and it will happen after Congress creates new paperwork.

Drugs are also behind much of our crime. The need for it drives users to steal and kill to feed their habit. The profit in it causes dealers to kill rivals over territory.

So Congress will provide some new meaningless laws — maybe a few hundred million for rehab. But they won't do much good because the demand is intense, our borders are sieves and the supply is plentiful, and there are billions to be made in profits.

Besides the street crime, the drug industry gives us official corruption. In New York, many cops have given up trying to bust drug dealers. Instead, they take a cut of the business or rob the dealers and sell the stuff themselves. If it's happening in New York, can we doubt that it is happening in other drug-drenched cities?

A friend of mine is a very smart judge who spent several years running a narcotics court. When I asked him how the battle was going, he said: "It's over. We lost. The only thing we can do is legalize the stuff."

Of course, if he said that publicly, he would be shouted down, as was Milton Friedman, the Nobel Prize-winning economist. Anyone who talks about putting drugs on the same plane as booze — licenses, taxes, controls, and low-cost fixes for hard-core addicts — is considered a nut out to destroy our society.

Those were the same objections I heard about 10 or 12 years ago when I suggested that casino gambling be legalized. How the do-gooders howled.

Now we have riverboat casino gambling all over Illinois. And we are barely keeping up with the competition in all of the other states that have legalized it.

But I haven't noticed that the sky has fallen.

No, Congress isn't going to do much besides blow hot air and spend a lot of money. It is caught between politics and reality; practicality and the do-gooders; laws written on paper and the laws of the city streets.

Why, not one congressman has mentioned dogs. I note that because I once asked former Chicago Police Supt. James Rochford what the most effective home burglar alarm system was.

"A dog that barks," he said. Maybe Congress should provide a tax deduction for everyone who owns a dog.

Why not? Some mutt's bark is better than a congressman's bite.

Acquittal not a shining moment

Scripps Howard News Service

The acquittal of Dr. Jack Kevorkian on charges of violating Michigan's assisted suicide ban was hardly a shining moment for the jury system. Kevorkian had deliberately broken a law passed for the purpose of blocking his public campaign for legal euthanasia. Yet the nine women and three men jurors found him "not guilty," for various reasons, some of them confused.

Some jurors hung their hat on a technicality: Doubt was cast on where the suicide took place, and the judge instructed the jury to acquit unless the death occurred in Wayne County. Others simply sympathized with the dead man, afflicted with a degenerative nerve disease.

Still others mistakenly availed themselves of the provision of the law that permits medical treatment intended "to relieve pain or discomfort" even if it causes death. To be sure, Kevorkian testified that he sought to alleviate suffering. But the suicide contraption to which he hitched Thomas Hyde administered not sedatives but carbon monoxide, certain to kill.

No doubt this messy verdict reflects real ambivalence in society about suicide in instances of terrible suffering. Though only 30, Hyde was partially paralyzed by Lou Gehrig's disease and in great pain. Yet even such tragic cases, in our view, do not justify the dangers of authorizing doctors to kill.

Kevorkian himself, with his baldly utilitarian view of the doomed or dying, should be warning enough. At various times in his career, he advocated making death row prisoners permanently unconscious for use in medical experiments; and setting up suicide clinics, equipped with his "self-execution machines," where doctors could harvest organs for transplant from the newly deceased.

We have serious qualms about Kevorkian's utopia. Who would protect the old and ailing from inducement to do the sensible, expedient thing and ask to be killed? Pressure to relieve burdens on family or, when government pays for expensive medical care, on society would fall heaviest on the poor and friendless. Nor is this purely a matter for speculation. In the Netherlands — where physician-assisted suicide is accepted — some nursing homes publicly advertise that they do not practice euthanasia.

It matters little that "Dr. Death" won his latest skirmish in Michigan, but Americans must make very sure he loses his crusade.

Time to stop being a victim

If anyone deserves sympathy after Monday's domestic disturbance call that put a police officer in the hospital, it is that officer.

Not the woman involved, even though she was being beaten and threatened.

You may ask why she doesn't deserve as much sympathy as the officer. The answer is very simple — she choose to remain a victim of the man who was threatening her.

The woman summoned the police, who came to her aid. In the process, her relative also came running to her aid, stupidly driving while intoxicated.

He has ended up jail for aggravated assault and DWI. Driving while intoxicated, at a high rate of speed, was this person's choice. Granted, he thought he was going to help his relative.

So what happens? He does a stupid thing — fights an officer — and an officer is put into the hospital.

The woman should have called the police. She was being threatened by her husband. But, she should have been prepared to press charges against the abuser.

That is one way to escape from the abuse.

DD Turner

Most women stay in an abusive situation because they don't believe they can make it on their own. Poor is better than beaten.

There are too many services around to help battered women get their lives back together again. But the first step is getting away from the abuser.

Domestic disturbance calls has resulted in more officer deaths than anything else. More often than not, the police officer is turned against by the person making the call. Arrest the abuser and the family turns on the officers for messing with their "loved" one, even if that "loved" one was just beating the living crap out of them.

So here we have this situation: one officer in the hospital, one relative facing legal problems, and a threatened woman not pressing charges.

Come on, women. We have to stop choosing to be the victim. We have to stop staying in an abusive situation just because it is all we know.

There is too much out there in this world to stay in a place where you are fearful all the time, waiting for the time bomb to go off.

Cutting off a penis or setting fire to the abuser is not the answer either.

Granted, it is not that easy to leave. It means overcoming a lot of fear — fear of being alone, maybe not having as much money, taking care of the kids by yourself.

But, those fears can be overcome. It's a fear we, as women, must overcome. Otherwise, we keep ourselves victims of an abuser, trapped in an intolerable situation simply because we fear change.

Change is the only constant in this life. It isn't something to fear. It is something to accept and move through, looking for something better.

Because there is better out there. We just have to choose to see it.

Choosing to step away from the abuse is better than a police officer in the hospital with a broken ankle and a relative facing legal problems.

High priestess gets 62 years for cult slayings

The Associated Press

MATAMOROS, Mexico - Five years after their son's disappearance led police to a harrowing site of ritualized murder, James and Helen Kilroy learned that five cult members will serve more than 60 years in prison.

"It's a sense of relief to us that it is done, but I can see where the people of Mexico can feel safer, too," Mrs. Kilroy said Tuesday upon learning of the sentences.

Mark Kilroy, a 21-year-old University of Texas pre-med student on spring break, vanished during a night of bar-hopping in Matamoros, on March 14, 1989.

A month later his mutilated body was unearthed with 14 others at a ranch and nearby farm west of Matamoros. They were victims, lawmen said, of a drug-smuggling cult that believed human sacrifices would provide spiritual protection from arrest and rival drug dealers.

Federal Judge Francisco Salvador Perez on Monday sentenced the cult's reputed godmother, Sara Maria Aldrete Villarreal, to 62 years in prison for the murders of 13 of the victims and other charges.

Elio Hernandez Rivera, David Serna Valdez, Serafin Hernandez Garcia and Sergio Martinez

Salinas each received 67-year prison terms. Other offenses involved drugs and weapons.

"I'm glad to hear that after five years they have finally been given a sentence," said Mrs. Kilroy said by telephone from her home in Santa Fe, Texas.

Since their son's death, Mrs. Kilroy and her husband have campaigned to educate youngsters about the dangers of drugs.

Attorneys for the five vowed to appeal the sentences.

"It's an exaggerated sentence totally out of judicial reality in Mexico," declared Ms. Aldrete's attorney, Horacio Moya Quintanilla.

His client has maintained her innocence, blaming police torture for her confession.

Police said Ms. Aldrete, a well-groomed college honor student in Brownsville, Texas, led a secret life as a "high priestess" who lured some of the victims into the cult's rituals.

Authorities said Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo, a Cuban-American from Florida, headed the ring. Many of the victims had been involved in the drug trade, but some innocent people were sacrificed in rituals invoking spirits through a variation of the Afro-Caribbean religion Palo Mayombe.

Good future predicted for offshore oil, gas

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — OPEC's Indonesian secretary-general Subroto on Tuesday predicted a strong future for offshore oil and gas development as inland energy sources are depleted and the world population spirals upward.

"The offshore sector will definitely be the place to be in the years to come," Subroto said at a luncheon during the 26th annual Offshore Technology Conference.

"The main, if not the only uncertainty, is whether or not the incentives for timely investment in extensive offshore exploration and development will be there soon enough."

Wrong house, government suing for its money back

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — A lawsuit has been filed against a Houston man who moved into the wrong house as the result of a series of errors in a botched house sale.

In a lawsuit filed in federal court Tuesday, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs is seeking $11,893 from Keith I. Brown.

In the lawsuit, the government says that the errors began Feb. 21, 1989 when Brown bought the house at 13206 Pebblewalk Circle South.

Brown thought he had purchased the residence at 13206 Pebblewalk Circle North and moved into that home. The VA had ownership interests in the Pebblewalk Circle South residence, not the Pebblewalk Circle North home.

"I'm a victim," Brown told the Houston Chronicle Tuesday. "The federal government is trying to hurt a poor of working guy out here."

Representatives of the U.S. attorney's office, which filed the lawsuit in federal court, declined to comment, the newspaper reported.

Brown said he got access to the wrong home because of errors made by a real estate agent and the VA.

After living in the wrong house for approximately six months, Brown said a real estate agent told him about the mistake.

After the discovery Brown informed the VA he did not want the Pebblewalk Circle South home.

Exporting Countries, said oil demand will probably rise faster than world population, which is expected to increase from 5.5 billion to 8 billion in the next 20-30 years.

"The consensus opinion is that the demand for oil, in absolute terms, will continue increasing for the foreseeable future, although oil's share of the total energy market might decrease to some extent," he said.

"Gas, on the other hand, can expect to enjoy both a growth in absolute volume and a growing share of the total energy market."

Texas A&M faces a state audit

DALLAS (AP) — Texas A&M University will come under the scrutiny of state auditors this month when they begin their first audit of management controls at the school and its system.

The move comes on the heels of a request from State Sen. Carol Parker, D-Port Arthur, who in a March 31 letter asked state Auditor Lawrence Alwin to do the audit quickly. The management audit had been scheduled for 1995.

A&M officials said Tuesday they consider the examination routine.

Still, it comes nine months after the Texas Rangers began a criminal investigation into allegations that former Texas A&M Board of Regents' chairman Ross D. Margraves Jr. and other top administrators may have used their positions for personal gain or the benefit of their business and/or political associates.

Houston set to annex racetrack

HOUSTON (AP) — The city of Houston and Harris County are betting on annexation of the new Sam Houston Race Park to reel in more tax money.

The city wants to annex an area that includes the new track, and the county is poised to tack 15 cents onto admission fees as allowed by state law.

Mayor Bob Lanier's administration plans to ask City Council on Wednesday to begin work on annexing a 559-acre tract that includes the state's first Class I track by year's end.

Meanwhile, the Harris County Commissioners Court was expected Tuesday to tack 15 cents onto the price of admission to the track.

State schools fall short in special ed

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 60 percent of the state school districts that serve disabled students in nursing homes are violating special education requirements, according to a state survey.

However, the Texas Education Agency has refused to identify the districts that fall short of meeting the standards.

The survey said that 17 of the 261 children found in Texas nursing homes were not being served by their local districts, despite a federal law that guarantees access to education for disabled children.

Insurance election too close to call

AUSTIN (AP) — Opponents and supporters of Saturday's ballot proposal to eliminate insurance benefits for the unmarried partners of city workers say the election is too close to call.

Campaign manager Michael Brandes of Concerned Texans, which is pushing for passage of the repeal measure, said "It's close. It's going to be a matter of turnout."

Those fighting repeal have waged a highly visible campaign, including television commercials and news conferences.

Proposition 22 supporters have had no news conferences since submitting enough petitions to force the citywide vote on the benefits approved by the City Council last year.

Home equity loan ban could be thing of past

AUSTIN (AP) — A longstanding state constitutional ban against home equity loans may become a thing of the past under a recent federal appeals court ruling.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that savings associations and consumer finance companies can lend money secured by the borrower's home equity.

The Texas Constitution effectively prevents loans secured by home equity by denying lenders the right to secure the loan with a lien against the home. The only exceptions are loans to buy the home, pay taxes and make home improvements.

But the ruling handed down in New Orleans by a three-member panel of the court says federal regulations allowing such liens for savings associations override the state constitution.

The federal regulations were approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and its successor, the Office of Thrift Supervision. A federal law enacted in 1992, the Parity Act, extended the reach of those regulations to finance companies and state savings associations, the court ruled.

Reservation system to dump non-payers

HOUSTON (AP) — System One, the computer reservation system owned by Continental Airlines, will dump Southwest Airlines and other carriers that refuse to pay for its services beginning next week.

"We just feel very strongly that it's time to deal with the freeloaders," System One President Bill Dillenderfer said in a telephone conference call with reporters.

"They were receiving services that were valuable and facilitated the transaction of their business and they weren't paying for it. As near as I can tell, that's not what capitalism is all about."

Y'all come hear Nix, orchestra play May 7

By JANET AUSBURY

Local musical favorites Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys will perform with another local musical favorite - the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra - Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium.

Attire for the Nix evening is "strictly denim," said Suzanne Haney, publicity chairman for the orchestra. The audience is encouraged to dress casually in preparation for a good time.

Even the orchestra musicians will wear jeans, white shirts and bandannas to keep up with the fun hoe-down spirit. "The clothes stereotype is not valid this time," said Haney. No black ties and tails here!

Gene Chartier Smith will conduct the evening of Western swing and contemporary country/western music. "It's going to be a lot of fun and some surprises," he said. "Just imagine Jody Nix and his music, backed up by an entire orchestra."

The performance by Nix and the Texas Cowboys is co-sponsored by Bowlin Tractor and Implement and Feagins Implement. The symphony performance is being funded in part by a grant from the Dora Roberts Foundation.

"It is only through the tireless efforts of a handful of devoted volunteers and through the generosity of Big Spring businesses and individuals that we are able to present entertainment of this caliber," said Haney.

Attire for the evening is "strictly denim," said Suzanne Haney, publicity chairman for the orchestra.

Nix first performed with the symphony in November 1990 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. This same performance was Smith's first time to conduct the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra.

Haney said the performance was so well received that symphony organizers have received numerous requests for a repeat performance.

Those who have not heard these particular performers should take advantage of the opportunity to experience West Texas culture at its best, she added.

"Many people in Howard County have not heard the orchestra, many have not heard Jody Nix and still others have never been inside our historical and beautiful municipal auditorium," said Haney.

After the concert, a reception at the Red Mesa Grill will give concert attendees a chance to meet Nix, Smith and the orchestra musicians. The reception will be hosted by Keith and Cindy McGuire.

Haney praised local restaurant owners for their support of the orchestra. "We are truly grateful for their help," she said.

The Greenhouse hosted the reception for Larry Wheat's performance last November, and Main St. Deli and Bakery hosted a party following the March performance of the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra.

Advance tickets to the concert are available at Blum's Jewelers, Dunlap's, the Chamber of Commerce, Feagins Implements or Bowlin Tractor and Implement.

Tickets are $10, $7.50 and $5 and will also be available at the door. For more information, contact the Chamber at 263-7641.

The total weight of a dozen Extra Large eggs should be 27 ounces. Because hens can't lay identically sized eggs, the U.S. Department of Agriculture long ago set standards according to weight per dozen. In other words, consumers will find eggs of varying size in each carton, even after sorting, but the total weight of 12 eggs must meet uniform weight standards. So if there are some smaller eggs, the carton will include larger eggs to make up the difference.

Here are the standardized weights of eggs per dozen: Jumbo is 30 ounces; Extra Large is 27 ounces; Large is 24 ounces; Medium is 21 ounces; Small is 18 ounces; and Peewee eggs are 15 ounces. Professionally written recipes, by the way, always call for large eggs.

Beware weighing eggs that have been stored in the refrigerator for awhile; uncovered eggs placed in those refrigerator-door racks eventually lose moisture through their shells. Therefore, older eggs that have been mishandled might weigh slightly less, leaving a disgruntled consumer with egg on her face. Buy eggs from a reliable retailer, and keep them chilled and covered in their original cartons.

General Mills is introducing two baked-snack products.

Cheerios Snack Mix is sort of a "nuts and bolts" mixture with pretzel sticks, lightly seasoned Cheerios, thin whole-wheat crackers, cheese crackers and a few peanuts that go to the bottom of the package. Available as Original (with the peanuts) or Cheddar Cheese flavor (no peanuts) at $1.99 per 8.5-ounce package. Just 130 calories for 3/4 cup (45 of those calories from fat), but just 1 gram of saturated fat, a total of 5 fat grams per serving.

The second new snack is Pop Secret Pop Chips, $1.99 for a 5-ounce package.

According to recent surveys, consumers' No. 1 nutritional concern is fat content, so the Pop Chips are baked, not fried. They have 3 1/2 grams of fat in 31 chips, which is 60 percent less fat than average potato chips.

Tips for adult children caring for aging parents

By DR. MICHAEL FREEDMAN
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A relatively new publication has some valuable tips for the so-called sandwich generation, those caught in the middle of caring for aging parents and their own children.

In addition, members of this generation have other responsibilities at home and at work.

Among suggestions offered by "The Sandwich Generation" in helping their parents or parent remain independent and safe are:

—Intervene in parents' lives only when physical safety, health and financial well-being are threatened.

—Provide or get help for those household chores aging parents may have trouble with.

—Evaluate meal balance to ensure the parent or parents are maintaining proper nutrition for themselves.

—Walk through a parent's home to make sure it's safe. Remove such hazards as scatter rugs and extension cords.

—If someone is hired to do chores, clearly communicate your expectations and what you — and your parents — want done. Also, make sure your parent is part of the hiring decision process to offset the possibility of hiring someone your parent immediately dislikes.

—Finally, listen to your parent's concerns and complaints and respond accordingly.

One of the more common causes of memory loss among elderly people is drug abuse.

I'm talking about people over 55 who may require less medicine than a younger person and may react negatively to a normally recommended dosage.

Older people taking too much medication, or the wrong drugs, may suffer from what is called metabolic dementia. Drugs most often abused in this situation, intentionally or not, are sedatives such as Valium and other types of tranquilizers.

When misused, these drugs can become toxic in the body and cannot be metabolized properly, resulting in dementia. Alcohol also can affect the body the same way.

Many of the nearly 20 million Americans who suffer from chronic lung disease — a large segment of them older people — may enhance their health and physical condition through a carefully-designed exercise program.

The Spurs lost four straight this season after being for one game and flagrant and technical fouls in Game 4 on San Antonio.

Jazz jolt Spurs

By The Associated Press

The San Antonio Spurs, who had a miserable shooting day in losing Game 2, got worse in Game 3.

The Spurs shot 35 percent from the field and scored just 25 points in the middle two periods, including an NBA record-low nine in the second quarter, against Utah on Saturday. They figured to rebound Tuesday night at Salt Lake City, even without three-time rebounding champion Dennis Rodman.

The Jazz, however, held San Antonio to 31.8 percent shooting and routed the Spurs 105-72 to take a 2-1 in the best-of-5 first-round series.

"We just got a good old-fashioned whipping for the second night in a row," San Antonio coach John Lucas said. "What you're seeing is a frustrated team. They expected to play well."

The Spurs lost for the 20th time in 21 games in Salt Lake City, including four straight this season. Rodman was absent after he was suspended for one game and fined $10,000 for flagrant and technical fouls in Utah's 96-84 win in Game 2 on Saturday at San Antonio.

The Jazz shot 53 percent from the field, with Karl Malone finishing with 24 points and 13 rebounds. Jeff Hornacek scored 15 points and John Stockton had 12 assists for Utah, the host for Game 4 on Thursday.

"I can say that these were our best back-to-back games of the season, but they are behind us now," Malone said. "The biggest game of the season is Thursday night."

In other playoff games Tuesday night, Chicago completed a sweep of Cleveland with a 95-92 overtime victory. Miami opened a 2-1 lead on favored Atlanta with a 90-86 decision and Portland stayed alive against Houston with a 118-115 win.

In tonight's games, New York is at New Jersey and Phoenix at Golden State in series in which the visitors have 2-0 leads.

David Robinson and Antoine Carr scored 16 points each for the Spurs. Terry Cummings, who started in place of Rodman, finished with six points and 11 rebounds.

Robinson, who scored 71 points in the last game of the season to win the scoring title, hit only eight of 21 shots as San Antonio avoided matching the lowest-scoring game in playoff history by getting a basket in the final seconds.

"Dennis will be back and we'll see what it does to our game, but I don't think he'll make up 30-odd points," Lucas said of the low-scoring

Houston Rockets' Hakeem Olajuwon blocks Buck Williams' shot during their NBA playoff game Tuesday in Portland, Ore.

Rodman.

Leading by 14 points at halftime, the Jazz outscored the sputtering Spurs 32-16 in the third period to put the game away.

Blazers 118, Rockets 115

Rod Strickland scored 25 points, 10 in the fourth quarter, and tied a team playoff record with 15 assists as Portland avoided playoff elimination at home against Houston.

Vernon Maxwell sank two 3-pointers in the final 27 seconds, one from 40 feet, pulling the Rockets within one point.

But Clyde Drexler deflected Maxwell's forced 3-pointer with three seconds left and Houston trailing 117-115. Maxwell admitted after the game that he thought the Rockets were behind by three.

The Blazers withstood a 36-point performance by Hakeem Olajuwon to prevent a first-round sweep.

Buck Williams had 22 points and 10 rebounds on 9-for-10 shooting for Portland. Drexler also scored 22 for the Blazers, who beat Houston for the first time in seven tries this season.

"We were just embarrassed," Williams said. "We know we're a much better basketball team than what we've shown in the last two games. Everybody played hard.

Everybody stepped it up."

Bulls 95, Cavaliers 92, OT

Chicago did again what it has done on the way to three straight NBA championships — sweep a first-round playoff series.

Scottie Pippen sank the go-ahead basket on a driving left-handed layup with 1:25 left in overtime as the Bulls eliminated the Cavs for the fifth time in seven years.

Pippen committed eight turnovers against the smothering defense of Cleveland rookie Chris Mills, but still led the Bulls with 23 points and 11 rebounds. Toni Kukoc scored 18 points for the Bulls, who meet the winner of the New Jersey-New York series in the next round.

Mills had a career-high 25 points and 10 rebounds. Mark Price scored 22 points and Tyrone Hill had 15 points and 13 rebounds before fouling out with two minutes left in overtime of what turned out to be the last game at Richfield Coliseum. The Cavs are moving to an arena adjacent to the Cleveland Indians' Jacobs Field next season.

"They realized this could be the last game in this building, and they wanted to extend it a little," Pippen said. "They played the whole 53 minutes of basketball. It was a game all the way to the wire."

Sweetwater shoots Steers in showdown

Second loss to Mustangs puts Steers' playoff hopes in jeopardy

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

SWEETWATER — It's perhaps a good thing that Sweetwater is leaving District 3-4A after this season. It's doubtful that fans could take too many more Sweetwater-Big Spring baseball games.

In a series that has been defined by weird occurrences, the two teams saved their weirdest for last. The Mustangs took advantage of 10 Big Spring walks then received some umpiring help in the final inning to take an 8-5 win over the Steers Tuesday night.

The win secures at least a first-place tie in the district standings for the Mustangs (9-3), while Big Spring (19-6, 8-3) must defeat Monahans Friday then go through a series of tiebreaking possibilities before it can determine what if any postseason action it will see.

More on that later.

The Mustangs never did hit Big Spring starter Frankie Martinez hard, but then again, they didn't have to. The senior fireballer never did figure out the strike zone, walking nine while striking out six and allowing one hit.

In fact, it was Martinez's control problems that opened the way for Sweetwater to grab the lead for good.

The Steers had just taken a 4-2 lead on an home run by Luis Bustamante, a run-scoring single by Ricky Gonzales, a single by Todd Parrish and a Terry Clemmer wild pitch. But with six outs to go, Martinez and the Steers' defense couldn't make it stand.

Mike Humphries led off the Sweetwater sixth with a walk, then was safe at second when Gonzales mishandled a throw. Craig Hulcy then walked, loading the bases and prompting Big Spring coach Bobby Doe to lift Martinez in favor of reliever Bustamante.

It did not have the desired effect. The first batter to face Bustamante, Kerry Carr, laced a two-run single into left to tie the game, and by the time the Mustangs were finished, they had parlayed three walks and three hits into six runs and an 8-4 lead.

Whether the Steers could have rallied from that deficit in their last at-bat in the seventh is debatable, but hey, this is Big Spring-Sweetwater, remember? A certain weirdness is required.

The bizarre factor was supplied by the umpires in the Steers' final at-bat.

After John Oliva led off with an infield single, Trey Terrazas worked the count to 3-1 before a Clemmer fastball in the dirt made it ball four. At least, the plate umpire thought it was ball four. And everybody in the stands with a scorebook thought it was ball four.

But the first base umpire disagreed and, after considerable discussion, the umpires agreed to give Clemmer another try at Terrazas. Terrazas responded with another bit of weirdness.

He hit a high fly to right that Chad Pierce bobbled for an error. But Terrazas thought Pierce had caught the ball and headed back to the dugout. By the time he realized his misdeed, the umpire called him out for leaving the field of play, and a potential Big Spring rally had stubbed its toes.

Coahoma wins again as McGuire throws one-hitter

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

COAHOMA — For most of Tuesday's District 6-2A game between Eldorado and Coahoma, it looked like Coahoma ace Brandon McGuire was going to throw a no-hitter.

And lose.

McGuire (6-1) instead fired a one-hitter and struck out 18 as the Bulldogs beat Eldorado 4-2. The game was a masterpiece in terms of McGuire's performance, but none of the Bulldogs were rushing out to buy frames after the game.

"We got lucky," McGuire said. "We should have brought in eight more runs than we did. I was pleased with the win, but not pleased with the way we did it."

Those were Coahoma coach Doc Rowell's sentiments as well. Rowell juggled his lineup from previous games and saw the revamped card produce plenty of baserunners but just as much frustration.

The patterns of the game finally broke in the fifth, with Eldorado leading 1-0. First, Eldorado marked its first hit in the scorebook when Ricky Gutierrez lined a McGuire pitch into left field for a clean single. Eldorado scored in the third when Gutierrez walked, stole two bases and came home when Coahoma catcher Brian Ruiz's throw to third got by third baseman Marshall Wright.

Coahoma (9-5, 4-0) loaded the bases in the second and fourth innings but had nothing to show for it, and the Bulldogs loaded the bases again in the fifth.

Rodney Gressett and McGuire led off with consecutive singles, and one out later pinch hitter Murphy Henry singled to load the bases. Eldorado's Joe Sanchez (0-4) fanned Wright for the second out, and it looked like he was going to wiggle out of trouble again until he walked Bulldog shortstop Mike McMillan on four pitches. McMillan's free pass tied the game, but Sanchez struck out Jeff Phernetton to keep the score 1-1.

McGuire was still slinging bullets on the mound - he retired six of the final seven Eagles he faced, five on strikeouts.

Forsan's Sims defeats pressure; streaks to state 1A tennis finals

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

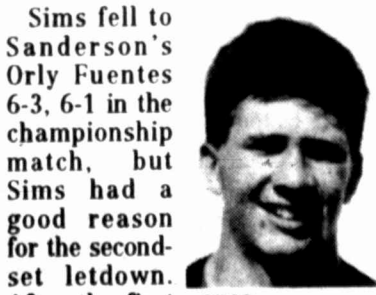

FORSAN — Shane Sims can't stand pressure, but he's fooled many people into thinking he loves it.

Sims, a junior at Forsan High School, stars in football and basketball for the Buffaloes. He's excelled in UIL public speaking competitions. Still, perhaps his hugest accomplishment to date, at least in athletics, came last weekend when he grabbed one of the eight spots in boys' singles at the UIL Class 1A state tennis finals, which are May 13-14 in Austin.

Yes, Sims did it under the pressured setting you'd expect at the Region 1-1A tournament in Levelland, but he felt the added burden of losing the first set of each regional match he played. Sims won his first-round match 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 over Valley's Joe Valdez, then beat Nazareth's Nathan Hoelting 4-6, 6-4, 6-0 in the quarterfinals. In the semifinals Friday, he started slowly again against Miami's Andrew Neighbors, but he won 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

All this from a guy who would rather hit the ball in a playful practice than in a tight match.

"My favorite kind of tennis is whenever I can joke around and have fun. At regional, it wasn't like that," Sims said. "I'd rather come up here and hit on a Saturday, or hit right now, than in a tournament. I don't like pressure."

SIMS

Forsan tennis coach Bryan Stringer. "The last two weeks, he's squeezed in an entire extra season, as far as I'm concerned, getting ready for regional."

Sims started playing tennis in the sixth grade, and he said Stringer has been with him each step of the way, except last season when Stringer took a year-long break from coaching to return to school. The thought of reaching regional came up as far back as seventh grade, Sims said, but state didn't become a goal until the reality of the regional.

With all roads now leading to Austin, the workouts grow harder than they've ever been for Sims.

"Right now, most of our practices are geared toward conditioning," Stringer said. "We think they're going to be tough matches, and it's going to be hot down there. We're also working on him hitting some pretty exact shots - where it used to be 'Hit the left side of the court,' we're asking him to hit within a 1-foot square. Our targets have gotten smaller, and I think that's what it's going to take to play with those people."

"I'm happy I made it there," Sims said. "I'm going to play to win, but it's just an honor to get there. I'm one of the best eight players in Texas. I hope everything falls, and I hit well up there, and if I do, maybe I can come out with a win or two. I'll just play it by ear."

"He's a very hard worker, and that's the one characteristic that I really am proud of him for," said

Rangers blast Belcher, Tigers for easy victory

By The Associated Press

DETROIT — A crushed Diet Dr Pepper can rested in Tim Belcher's lap.

He sat facing his locker, his long legs resting inside. It had been at least two hours since he left the game, yet Belcher had donned only jeans and sneakers. His shirt would be in there, someplace.

This is how it is when a free-agent pitcher signs a guaranteed contract worth $3.4 million, then loses his first five decisions.

"I don't know the answers," Belcher said after the Texas Rangers defeated the Detroit Tigers 7-2 Tuesday. "I'm not even sure I know the questions. I'm just not pitching very well."

"You know, they say when it rains, it pours. But this is drowning."

And that's a fact. His longest previous losing skid was four games in 1989 while pitching for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"But I was injured then," Belcher said. "There isn't a thing wrong with me now."

But there might be, if things don't turn around soon.

"This gets a little crippling mentally," Belcher said. "But I'd rather have it be mental than physical. Because you're really helpless when you're hurting physically."

In six starts this season, Belcher (0-5) has given up seven home runs and 22 walks. His ERA climbed to 9.91 with this latest setback. The Rangers tagged him for six runs on nine hits and three walks in the 4-2-3 innings he lasted.

To make himself feel better, Belcher has taken to watching videotapes of when he was pitching better. A favorite tape is his 1988 playoff victory over the New York Mets.

"I view the tapes mostly to put me in a good positive frame of mind, not so much to get a mechanical key," Belcher said. "There's just something nice about watching that game against the Mets."

"I can't find anything nice in a Tiger uniform yet, that's for sure."

Texas starter Kevin Brown (2-4) can sympathize with Belcher. He got off to an awful start this season, too. The difference is that Brown has turned things around in his last two starts.

He blanked the Toronto Blue Jays 1-0 last Thursday. Then he scattered eight hits in giving the Rangers their first complete game of the season against the Tigers.

Two of the hits off Brown were solo homers by Tony Phillips and Mickey Tettleton. He struck out eight and walked one.

"I think I'm back on the right track," Brown said. "I have to admit it was tough. You can't go through a period like that without doubts. But I think I did a pretty good job of not carrying it with me."

"It's like the old saying, 'That which doesn't kill us, makes us stronger.' You come back with a little piece of knowledge you didn't have before."

During his losing streak, Brown allowed at least five runs in each start and worked less than seven innings three times. His ERA is still a lofty 7.24. But the rest has changed.

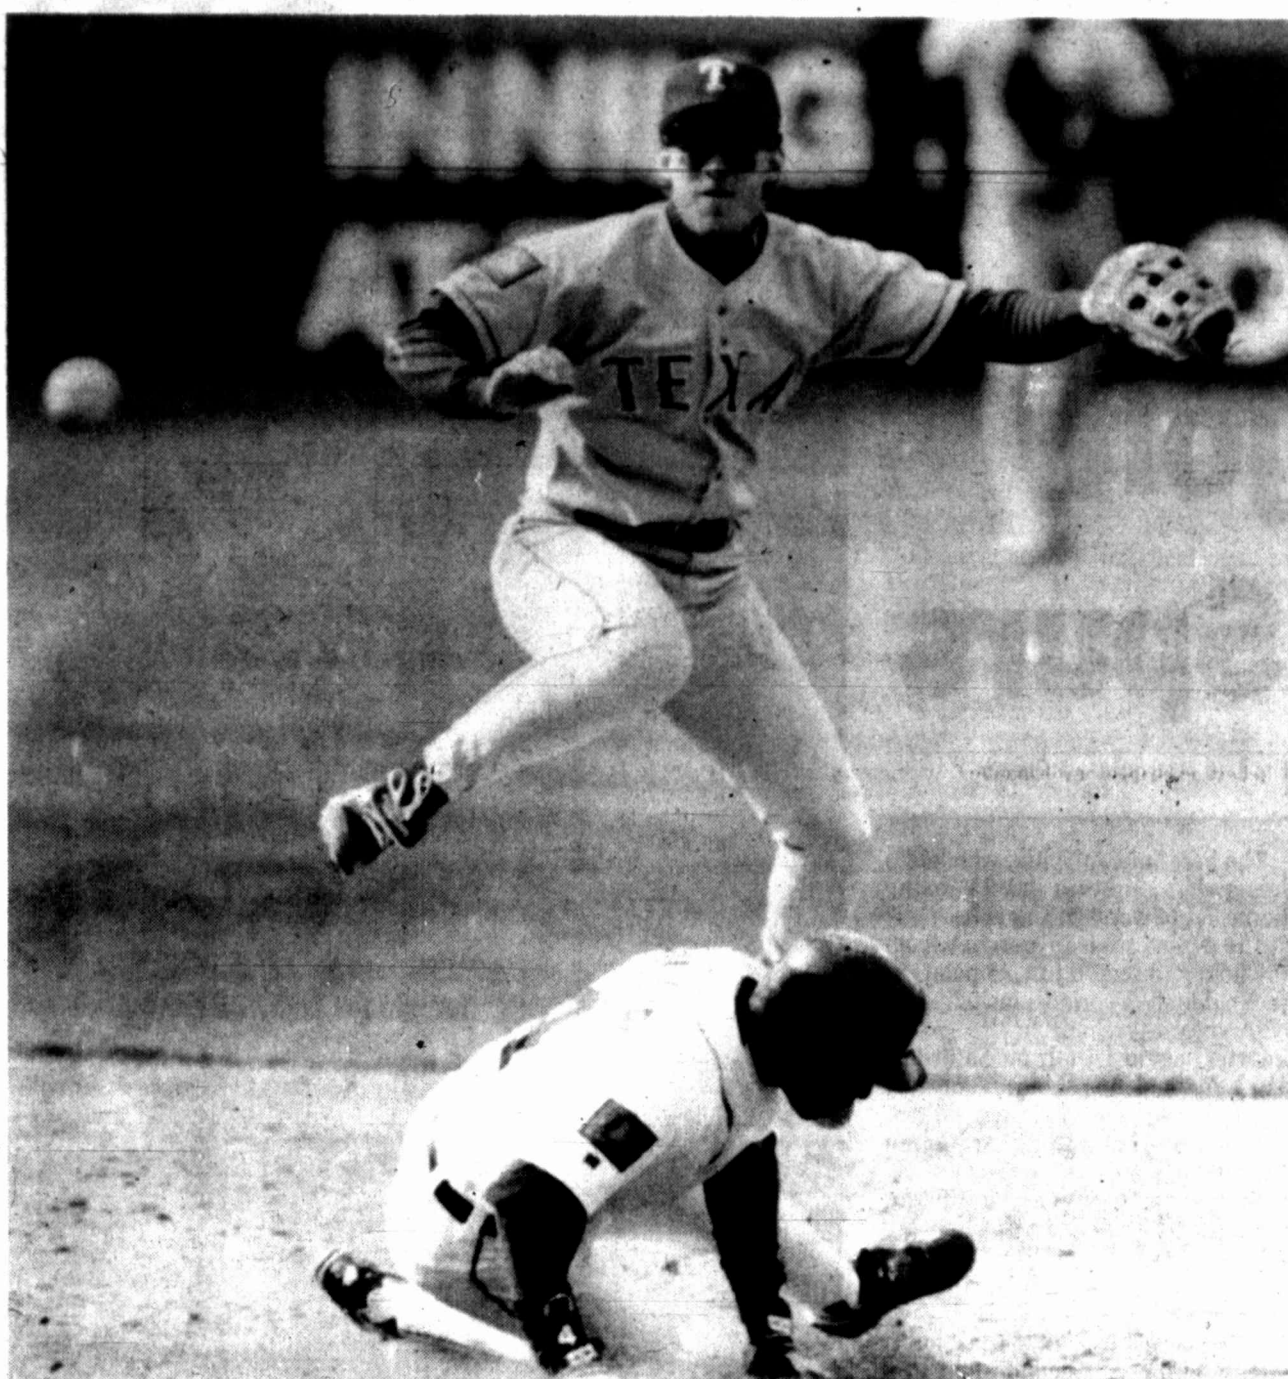

"He has been twice as coachable this year," Texas pitching coach Claude Osteen said. "Kevin was pitching hard, with no release. So he was just throwing. He's worked hard on that."

Juan Gonzalez had four hits and three RBIs, and Jose Canseco hit his sixth homer for the Rangers.

The Tigers, seeking their fourth straight victory, took a 1-0 lead against Brown in the second inning on the homer by Tettleton. But Canseco homered with two outs in the third before Will Clark doubled and Gonzalez gave Texas the lead with an RBI single.

Dave Hulse singled home Bill Ripken for a 3-1 lead in the fourth, and the Rangers broke it open with three runs in the fifth. Canseco and Clark scored on a double by Gonzalez, and Manuel Lee singled in Ivan Rodriguez to chase Belcher and make it 6-1.

Phillips homered in the Detroit eighth. Rodriguez added a run-scoring grounder in the Texas ninth.

Texas second baseman Doug Strange leaps over Detroit's Tony Phillips at second base and throws to first to double up Alan Trammell during the fifth inning of their game Tuesday in Detroit. Texas won, 7-2.

Cowboys sign Peete

By The Associated Press

IRVING — Detroit free agent Rodney Peete has signed a one-year contract with the Dallas Cowboys, filling a vacancy created when backup quarterback Bernie Kosar went to the Miami Dolphins.

Peete accepted a one-year, $575,000 contract Tuesday that includes a $125,000 signing bonus. Last year, he was paid $1.2 million.

Peete, 28, was drafted in the sixth round in 1989 out of Southern California. He was a rival of UCLA's Troy Aikman in the Pac-10 Conference but said last week, "I know my place with the Cowboys. It would be as insurance for Troy."

Dallas has a third quarterback, Jason Garrett, who started one game last year when Aikman was injured.

Peete started 47 games for the Lions. He was 489 for 873 attempts and 6,494 yards.

His best performance was four touchdown passes against the Chicago Bears.

Coahoma

"He's just a good ballplayer, and a good pitcher," said Eldorado coach Rick Singleton, who saw McGuire shut out his Eagles earlier in the season. "He's really consistent, and he's head-strong. He's what you look for in a pitcher."

McGuire kept the Bulldogs in the game until they finally broke loose in the sixth.

Pinch hitter Rocky King led off with a walk and stole second. King took third on a wild pitch, and Kelby Bailey moved to second after a walk to put two Bulldogs in scoring position.

Gutierrez came to the mound to replace Sanchez, and he struck out Gressett. However, the third strike eluded catcher Johnny Joe Arispe, and King scored while Gressett reached first. Arispe was catching in place of starter Clay Butler, who left the game in the third after being hit on the right arm by a McGuire pitch. Butler suffered merely a bruise and will have a sore arm for a few days, Singleton said.

Arispe couldn't stop another Gutierrez pitch, and Gressett moved up to put runners on second and third again. Gutierrez fanned McGuire, but Ruiz, Coahoma's hottest hitter in recent games, smacked a liner into left field for two huge runs.

"I was just trying to get a hit," Ruiz said. "I was 0-for-3, but I got one right down the middle."

Ruiz's RBIs came in handy when Eldorado (4-10, 1-3) once again scored without a base hit in the seventh. The Eagles scored the same way they did in the third — Ruiz's attempt to cut down a runner at third base went into left field.

With a win Friday at Ozona, the Bulldogs can clinch at least a tie for the district top spot. That should make Tuesday's lack of timely hitting and four-error performance in the field a little easier to deal with for Coahoma players.

"These kids are used to Little League and Saturday sandlot ball, but now we've put a little bit more pressure on them," Rowell said. "We've got three freshmen starting, we've got a freshman DH, and we're going to have games like this because we're so young. But it's nice to know we're 4-0 in district."

Dear Abby - Letters...

Medicine cabinet trap rude, childish

DEAR ABBY: Why on earth would anybody want to embarrass a guest for daring to open the medicine cabinet? Did it ever occur to hosts that a guest may have a legitimate reason to open the cabinet?

Sure, there are snoops who may be curious about your private life, and drug abusers who are looking for prescription drugs. But what about guests who are looking for mouthwash because there was too much garlic in the dip? Or someone needing hand lotion, aspirin or dental floss?

If there are personal items such as medications, cosmetics or contraceptives, they shouldn't be in medicine cabinets when guests are expected.

To booby-trap a medicine cabinet with marbles that will come tumbling out and make a racket to deliberately embarrass someone is unbelievably childish and rude.

If somebody did that to me, I would also walk out of the house — never to return. — DENNY IN BOULDER

DEAR ABBY: Will you please help me inform people that they should never talk to, pet or try to feed a Seeing Eye dog?

These dogs are working, and when they are distracted, they can't help the person they were trained to assist. This is a constant problem for people who have Seeing Eye dogs.

Some people say if you ask the owner if it is OK to pet their dog, it puts them in an awkward position because they hate to say no. Is it OK to talk directly to the sightless person about his or her dog? — KAREN FLYNN, 13, AZLE, TEXAS son with his or her pet; the dog is working. They should not try to pet the dog.

DEAR KAREN: You are right. When people see a person with a Seeing Eye dog, they should understand it is not just another pet.

A comment such as, "My, what a beautiful (or well-trained) dog!" is permissible, but beyond that, no questions, please.

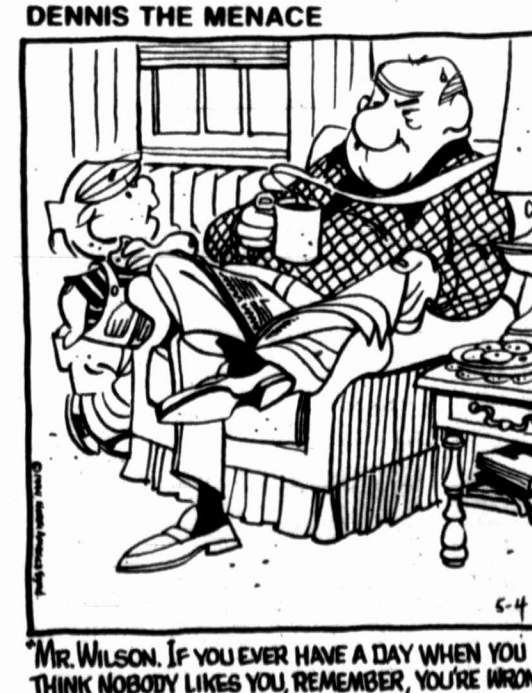

DEAR ABBY: I have read that you are something of an expert on the American presidents, so perhaps you can come up with the anti-war remarks made in a speech delivered by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He was severely criticized for it because he was a West Point graduate. — CURIOUS IN ABILENE, TEXAS

DEAR CURIOUS: I am far from an expert, but I have enjoyed learning about the American presidents, and the quotation to which you refer was made by President Eisenhower when he spoke before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in 1953:

"Every gun that is made, every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies, in the final sense, a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and are not clothed. This world in arms is not spending money alone. It is spending the sweat of its laborers, the genius of its scientists, the hopes of its children. ... This is not a way of life at all in any true sense. Under the cloud of war, it is humanity hanging on a cross of iron."

For an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person, order "How to Be Popular." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447.
