Weapons ban squeaks by

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A ban on certain assault-style weapons must survive tense negotiations in a more wide-ranging crime bill before it becomes law, tempering the euphoria of gun-control advocates celebrating a razor-thin House victory.

"My next priority is to get the crime bill passed and on the president's desk, with the assault weapons ban in it, as soon as we can," an ecstatic Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., said shortly after the House approved the ban he authored.

To get there, the bill that squeaked through the House by a 216-214 vote Thursday — in a sharp rebuke to the National Rifle Association — next must get through a House-Senate conference resolving differences in the two chambers' crime bills.

The Senate crime bill, passed in November, included an almost identical ban on assault-style weapons. The House crime bill, passed two weeks ago, didn't mention it.

Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., who authored the amendment on the weapons ban, said she expected the conference committee to adopt the ban.

"It would be a very foolish act to take it out," she said.

A line of Arlington County, Va., police officers greets Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen as he arrived on Capitol Hill Thursday to lobby House members to vote in favor of the assault weapons ban bill. The bill narrowly squeaked by the House, 216-214.

Stenholm votes against; reaction mixed locally

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

Reaction across the state and West Texas was mixed when it was announced that the U.S. House of Representatives voted to ban some semiautomatic assault weapons.

Rep. Charles Stenholm (D) was on the losing side of the battle. Stenholm and most other Texas lawmakers voted against the ban. Of the 30-member delegation, only eight Democrats—Reps. J.J. Pickle, Michael Andrews, John Bryant, Ronald Coleman, Chet Edwards, Henry Gonzalez, Sam Johnson and Craig Washington—voted to prohibit the weapons.

Stenholm called the gun ban "misdirected."

"The first problem is that it attempts to control certain semiautomatic weapons and not the criminals who use them," Stenholm said.

"The second problem is that this effort has focused on these undefined 'assault weapons' which account for less than 1 percent of recorded violent crime, while handguns or other means of violence continue to be the preferred tool of most gang mem-

Brooke Eoff can do (and does) it all

By BARBARA MORRISON Staff Writer

GARDEN CITY — From athletics to academics — the reach is long, but definitely not too far for a Garden City teenager who likes "to do it all."

EOFF

City senior Brooke Eoff enjoys the challenges and the opportunities her school years have brought her.

The daughter of Zane and Theresa Eoff, Brooke recently placed third in the Region 1A Accounting Contest staged in Levelland. The win entitles her to participate in the State University Interscholastic League meet scheduled for May 7.

"It's exciting and I love to compete in UIL," she said. "I'm especially excited about qualifying in accounting, since that is what I plan to major in (in college)."

The May trip will be Brooke's second to the state meet. She competed in the keyboarding contest her freshman year.

English and journalism instructor Teresa Sanders is extremely proud of Brooke's successes. "She's absolutely remarkable," said Sanders. "She's in so much and excels in everything she does from athletics to academics."

UIL competition has been a primary occupant of Brooke's time. In addition to accounting and keyboarding, she has competed in literary criticism, editorial writing and regional ready writing.

But Brooke's reach for success doesn't end there. She was a critical member of the basketball team which played in the regional tournament last February. And she has advanced to the regional tennis tournament the past two years.

She was also a member of the Small Schools Academic Decathlon team and is the top ranking senior girl in the GHS class of 1994.

"It's really neat going to a small high school," Brooke explained. "When it's small, you aren't limited to one interest. You get to do every-

Clinton aides subpoenaed in Foster probe

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Whitewater special prosecutor Robert Fiske subpoenaed the White House Thursday in his investigation of the conduct of President Clinton's aides after the apparent suicide of Vincent Foster.

The sweeping subpoena appeared aimed at determining whether any documents were taken from the deputy counsel's White House office or concealed from investigators after his body was found July 20 in a Virginia park outside Washington.

White House Special Counsel Lloyd Cutler pledged to cooperate "fully and promptly." Deputy counsel Joel Klein was directed to oversee collection of the material, and he said some was expected to be turned over by next Tuesday.

Clinton, asked if he would claim executive privilege to withhold any of the requested documents, told reporters "I don't know anything about" the subpoena. He said he had been busy with last-minute lobbying for House passage of an assault weapons ban.

Fiske's investigation already has reaffirmed the original finding that Foster's death was a suicide, according to a source familiar with the case.

However, questions have been raised about whether White House aides tried to hide documents that had been handled by Foster.

As deputy counsel and a former law partner of Hillary Rodham Clinton's, Foster worked on some personal legal matters for the president and his wife, including their involvement in the Whitewater land development project that is the principal target of Fiske's investigation.

Whitewater documents were found in Foster's office after his death, but then-White House Counsel Bernard Nussbaum initially refused to let investigators see them. Eventually, material was turned over to investigators.

A torn-up handwritten note by Foster was found in his briefcase several days after Nussbaum searched it. Some 30 hours passed before it was turned over to investigators. The FBI concluded that the time was spent checking with Foster's widow and with Clinton to resolve privacy and executive privilege questions.

Fiske's subpoena demanded all documents and communications written by Foster, sent to him or referring to him.

Freeze ready to retire from teaching

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

Goliad Middle School counselor Lee Freeze has been in the education field for 41 years and says it is time to retire.

Freeze has served in the position of counselor at Goliad for the last 33 years. He began his career in Bradley, Okla.

"I taught there for three years. I was also the principal, baseball and basketball coach as well as a school bus driver when someone couldn't make it. I got paid $2,700 a year to do all that!" commented Freeze with a smile on his face.

Freeze moved to Lamesa and was an eight grade teacher and coach at a little school southwest of town in Union. He then moved to Brownfield and was a junior high counselor there for four years before moving to Big Spring.

"I received my bachelor of science degree in industrial arts and counseling from Southwestern State University in Weatherford, Okla. I got my master's in elementary education and counseling from the University of Oklahoma and my counselor certification at East Texas State University."

Freeze grew up on a poor cotton farm in southwestern Okla. "I hoed and pulled cotton for years and this motivated me to do something besides working on a farm. It was an incentive to go to college."

"I was a principal for three years and after that, I was ready to get into anything else and I've always had an interest in counseling. The number one reason I got into counseling was because I would no longer be involved in discipline problems," said Freeze.

"I get a big thrill when I see some former student out of school who is working, making a living and doing well and I didn't think that when they were a student they would make it. I like to see any student achieve to their potential."

One of Freeze's main responsibilities is the administering of standardized testing. "I have to see that it gets done, to make sure the tests are taken and turned in to the right people. I have to keep the students permanent records in order. I do some individual counseling when I can. I would like to do more group counseling but with the structure of the kids schedules, I can't."

"I also stay in contact with parents whose kids are failing. I sent out letters after mid-term to parents whose children are failing two or more classes. I let them know at that time that the child still had time to pass. I sent out so many letters and only got a ten percent response back from parents that wanted to talk to me about their kid's letter."

"There is always the exception, but general speaking, these days the students seem more immature and have less respect for teachers and authority. They don't seem to have an interest in making good grades. I believe it is because of lack of parental involvement and there are no role models."

Freeze does not want to sound bitter or leave on a "sour grape" note, but felt people should know how he and some teachers feel about education in the 90s.

"I'm busier and things are more difficult now. I have to shuffle a lot of

 Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., said he would work "to ensure that this important provision will be part of the final crime bill that we send to the president."

Schumer said he wasn't worried about a Senate filibuster if it is included in the crime bill because those participating would be delaying passage of the crime bill's many popular features.

"As a Democrat, I hope they filibuster," he said. "It would be the silliest thing from a Republican point of view."

The assault-weapons provision barely survived a Senate vote last November before it became part of the crime bill, and it won Thursday on a last-minute vote switch by Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind.

Nevertheless, Feinstein predicted victory even if the provision is sub-

Brooke credits her mother as a primary support factor and takes pride in the rest of her family. "I'm the oldest of four girls," she said.

Brooke's sister Kelly is a junior, sister Whitney is in the seventh grade and another sister, Summer, is in the fifth grade. "They all like to participate," Brooke laughs.

When asked if the participation ever takes too much of her time, Brooke is firm and the response is a very quick, "Oh, no! I love being involved!"

After graduation, Brooke plans to major in accounting. She has been awarded the President's Endowed Scholarship to attend Texas A&M University.

Pat DeAnda, Stacy Bawls, Raul Marquez and Mark L. Sundy are vying for a seat on the city council in district two.

Ladd Smith and Tom Guess are vying for the district four position on city council.

John Coffee and John Paul Anderson are on the ballot for the district six city council seat.

Howard College board of trustees candidates Harold Davis and Donald B. McKinney are running unopposed in their precincts. Davis represents precinct three and McKinney precinct four.

Larry Hollar is running unopposed for BSISD board of trustee in district two. Don Baker is running for district four and is also unopposed.

The following is a list of polling places for the Howard County Junior College District Board of Trustees:

County Sheriff's Department is glad to see this bill passed by the House.

"We don't see any use of assault weapons for hunting. They are not any good and can be used against citizens and peace officers. We (the department) don't have any use for the weapons and neither should anyone else. They injure innocent people when they put that many bullets out," said Deputy Barney Eden.

Air needs clearing about Moore issue

The recent action by the Big Spring City Council has had the effect of polarizing the community - either for or against the proposed change in the bylaws of Moore Development for Big Spring Inc.

In light of the polarization, the six members of the council needs to explain and try to make their constituents understand the reason for voting for the changes. Mayor Tim Blackshear, the lone dissenting vote on the motion to change the bylaws, has asked the question be put on the city council's agenda for its next meeting May 24.

Blackshear said his reasoning for putting the matter on the agenda was to get a full discussion, in open session, about the situation.

This is a good move. It allows the council to explain their position, explain why the question of accountability has come to light now. It also allows members of Moore board to state their position as to accountability and keeping politics out of business development.

It will allow the citizens of this community to obtain a better grasp of the entire situation, looking at the problem from an overall perspective.

It is not about personalities, it is a question of law and that's where the discussion needs to remain.

Personalities cannot be allowed to enter into this. No one is impugning the reputation of the business people who are serving on this board. They are respected people of this community, doing a job for the betterment of this community.

Blackshear said his belief was the statute allowed enough leeway for cities to develop the bylaws as best suited that city. Councilman John Coffee, who voted to amend the bylaws, thinks the move will help the council to be more accountable to the people who elect them.

Both men have expressed the opinion the council does not want to be involved in the negotiations, only final approval.

That is a good start. It still allows Moore board to do what it does best - business development - while giving the council what it needs when it is held accountable for the actions of its boards.

If used right, the May 24 meeting can be the facilitator for clearing the air and getting on with business.

Welfare workings

Scripps Howard News Service

Before President Clinton finalizes his welfare reform proposal in the next few weeks, he should look over the simpler blueprint Massachusetts is considering. It avoids a serious pitfall of the Clinton concept - namely the danger of creating a new entitlement, to two years' job training, accompanied by cash benefits, free health coverage and day care.

Presidential candidate Clinton regularly mentioned the two-year grace period during the campaign. If elected, he said, he would "empower people with the education, training and child care they need for up to two years." Then, "after two years, (the would) require those who can work to go to work." Critics now lambaste Clinton's "two free years."

And the administration's welfare task force is qualifying this commitment. Its February draft asserts that welfare recipients will move "as quickly as possible" into work, with two years usually the outside limit for cash benefits. Still, the idea of a two-year cushion in the form of job training has taken root.

Gov. William Weld starts from a different premise in his plan for Massachusetts. Job training has a poor track record, he says and others concede, work is the best route to work - and it is what most people on welfare say they want.

Under his scheme, all able-bodied applicants for welfare - except new mothers, teenagers required to finish high school, and those caring for disabled dependents - would immediately look for jobs. Weld estimates that half the caseload would qualify as able to work.

The state would provide cash benefits for the first 60 days, plus health care and day care. Those not employed after 60 days would be given paid community service jobs for 25 hours per week and would spend 15 hours a week in an assisted search for non-subsidized employment or in vocational study. Whether working in private or community jobs, participants would keep their subsidized day care until it phased out as their incomes rose. They'd keep their health coverage one year longer than under present law.

In order to implement Weld's plan, Massachusetts would need 30 waivers from the federal government. Presumably the Clinton administration, usually respectful of state initiatives, will grant these.

It should also consider copying the governor's clear mandate for work as preferable to its own more ambiguous work-preparation phase.

 The Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, on President Clinton and Bosnia:

Between meetings on the Bosnian Serb siege of Gorzade, President Clinton slipped away from the White House the other week to tape a question-and-answer session with high school students for MTV. ... (The) questions he got were the ones he deserved, especially an inquiry ... about his preference in underwear. ...

What's an interested citizen to think? Somehow, as someone said to us the other day, it doesn't seem so peculiar to ask Bill Clinton a question in public about his underwear. This was not meant as a compliment. Indeed, it was intended to lament the passing of what used to be called - don't laugh - the dignity of the office. ...

And now, Mr. President, back to Bosnia - please.

Letters to the Editor

A councilman's view of action

Editor:
 I would like to take this opportunity to reply to ex-mayor Max Green's letter to the editor in Sunday's Herald concerning the Moore Board and the subject of accountability.

Before we discuss accountability however, I would point out that the action the Big Spring City Council took at it's last meeting to require the board to obtain the approval of the council is required by statute. Sec. 21 of the Development Corporation Act of 1979 provides: "The city will approve all programs and expenditures of the corporation and annually review any financial statements of the corporation, and at all times the city will have access to the books and records of the corporation." Webster's dictionary defines programs as: 1. (prographien, from Greek to write before): a public notice. 2. A brief usually printed outline of the order to be followed, of the features to be presented and the persons participating.

This is what the council felt the Moore board should do as required by statute - to "write before" a brief printed outline of the order to be followed, the features to be presented, and the persons participating. All the council asks is that after the board makes a proposed commitment of the taxpayers money, the council approve the commitment. The council neither participates in nor is asking to participate in any of the private negotiations leading up to a commitment. That is the purpose of the board. But the statute directs that the council approve all programs and expenditures.

The Moore board is not elected. It is appointed by the council. The council is elected by all of the citizens of Big Spring and is politically responsible to the citizens. If, as an elected official, I am to be responsible for the actions of the Moore board, is it fair that I be responsible for any action take of which I had no knowledge until after that action is taken and finalized? I think not.

I like ex-mayor Green's dictionary definition of "accountable." The only thing is, I think he is confused as to who is ultimately accountable. His definition mentions the word "answerable," "explainable" and gives as a synonym "responsible." The council must be able to answer and explain to those who elect them. "Responsible" is defined by the dictionary as: 1. liable to be called on to answer. 2. able to answer for one's conduct and obligations.

It is not the Moore board who must answer to the taxpayers, but the city council. Max Green correctly states that the city council must approve the budget of the board. But of course, the approval of a budget only approves what may happen in the future. Without the prior approval of what actually takes place, the council cannot be responsible.

Last but not least, the public should know that all the bylaws of other cities' boards so far considered all require approval by the councils of those cities. Only the dollar

In fact, they - unlike, say, salesmen and others who must travel to earn a living - don't even have to look for parking spaces. For special parking lots are reserved for lawmakers.

Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., thought it was about time Congress did away with its special parking privileges, and so he brought before the Senate a modest resolution that would have asked the Washington Metropolitan Airports Authority to eliminate the special spaces.

Well, as McCain put it, a resolution declaring World War III might have evoked less emotion on the Senate floor.

Sen. John Danforth, a Missouri Republican serving his last term, was perhaps the most adamant advocate of holding onto the free spaces. Passing McCain's resolution, he claimed in a display of interesting logic, would promote the false impression that members of Congress were "ripping off the country by perks and pay."

Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun, a freshman Democrat from Illinois, chimed in: "When is this Congress-bashing going to stop?" She added: "Having a parking space at the airport is not something that represents a rip-off of the American people. The fact that I can park my car and leave it there allows me to do my job."

People who are not members of Congress park their cars at the airport and leave them there in order to do their jobs, too. The difference is they pay $26 per day if they feel the need to park right next to the terminal. If the airport authority charged for the prime spaces reserved for Congress, it would receive about $1.6 million per year in revenues. But the authority, a creation of Congress, is not going to make a move without congressional approval.

In the end, McCain's resolution lost by a 53-44 roll call vote. ...

 The Herald-Sun of Durham, N.C., on Rwanda:

Rwanda is one of those countries in central Africa that would be more familiar to David Livingstone than to most Americans. But wholesale slaughter - genocide, if you prefer - has put this little spot the size of Maryland on the front pages.

Nobody knows how many people have been bludgeoned, hacked to death, shot or otherwise killed in Rwanda. The bloodbath apparently stems from an old power struggle between the long-dominant Tutsi, which had been favored by the Belgian colonial regime, and the Hutu majority.

Many Tutsis fled Rwanda after Belgium granted independence in 1962. Those who stayed behind made up 10 percent of the population - but it was a 10 percent highly resented by the Hutu. They remembered the haughty and aristocratic Tutsis with disdain, even hatred. ...

What is going on in Rwanda is being left to the Rwandans, or at least left to those who are still alive. All this country can do, or for that matter should do, is offer food, medicine and other humanitarian aid to Rwanda. As experience in the Balkans and Somalia has shown, civil wars can be ended only by the parties fighting them, not by armed intervention.

 The Greenville (S.C.) News on new optimism:

Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization plan to sign an agreement on Palestinian self-rule ... Wednesday. The ... signing seems to bring the Middle East closer to peace.

For peace to finally come to that troubled region, however, Israel must strike deals with its other neighbors. There was, then, great significance in Israeli Prime minister Yitzhak Rabin's recent reiteration that his country would give up settlements on the strategic Golan Heights in return for peace with Syria.

Rabin has made such a statement before. But some Israeli experts on Syrian affairs said Rabin's restating of the principle on the eve of a visit by U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher was aimed at priming the Israeli public for serious talks with Syria.

One thing Rabin can count on is opposition from many, if not most, of the 13,000 Israelis who live in 32 Golan Heights settlements and would be forced to choose between leaving or living under Syrian authority.

Even so, Rabin expressed what should be plain to everyone. The best guarantee for Israel's security would be peace and good relations with its neighbors.

amount varies from approving all expenditures above $5,000 to Abilene's $50,000.

The council wants to keep the Moore board out of politics just as Max Green does. Then the political heat falls on the council. If we are to inform our constituents we must be informed.

Moore doing job created to do

Editor:
 I would like to express my opinion of the Big Spring Moore Board.

The purpose for the Moore Development Board is to help attract new business to Big Spring. A majority of voters, like myself, voted for the sales tax increase to raise funding for this business development board. The funds are for assisting companies with sound business plans who need money to qualify for bank loans or who do not qualify for bank funding like the Wright Fiber Co.

I voted for the tax increase because of banking regulations imposed by our government have made it very difficult or impossible to start a new business.

Another reason is that our area does not have a lot of resources to attract new business. For example: You have the money to open a manufacturing company. One: You have to travel a 200 mile radius of Big Spring to have a customer base of one million. Two: In a lot of cases your raw materials are coming from a metroplex area. Three: Our community cannot offer a better wage scale or a large pool of labor to choose from. Four: Your transportation expenses are going to be high because you are not close to any large population. I am sure all of us can add to this list.

I work with a group of business development people from Texas and California. We were recently in the TU Electric R&D (research and development) offices and Big Spring's development board was mentioned. Jim Stockwell, a mechanical engineer at the table, was aware of the board and stated it had a $750,000 annual revenue. This was proof to me that people was watching us.

Our board members are the best the community has to offer. Every person on the board is a proven, successful business person and gives their time at no cost to the community. So I ask you, are you willing to give the time it takes to study a business plan and make a decision you can sleep with? Do you have the background and track record to qualify to be that person? Then, when you do make a decision to put up with the negative response our community sends to the board.

The Wright Fiber business plan was passed by the state of Texas for funding and for more money than we put up. I can assure you the State Department has some of the best finance people. I can still recall five years ago when our state was looking at losing a lot of its industrial companies because of workman's compensation and taxes. Our state departments have done a remarkable job in putting our state back in the lead again.

This leading attitude is something I can sense at conventions like the Small Business Innovation Research Conference in Houston I attended last week. John Schneider, with Purdue University, told me he wished his state had all the resources Texas has to offer. These are things that make me proud and aware of what my state has to offer.

I encourage you to write articles that will open the eyes and ears of our community. Realize what a good thing we do have and recognize the good people who give their time to make it happen. If we allow ourselves to create a bureaucracy for the development board, I can promise you the present board members will not stay involved. I wouldn't.

The best thing our community can do is to get behind Moore board and trust their judgment. We are going to have to make this Wright Fibers project work, whatever it takes. More money, management, whatever. If we do not make Wright Fibers work, I can assure you Big Spring's next proposal to the state for funding will be very difficult.

You can help turn this around. Please do so.

Questions raised with council action

Editor:
 Accountability or control? Is there a consensus of opinion from all members of the community about changing the bylaws of the Moore board? Are the council representing all the members of their constituency?

Why, after several years of establishment of the Moore board has it been decided that the bylaws need to be re-written? Why were they not written according to the law in the first place? Must we consult other cities on the proper way to do things? Are there no qualified lawyers in Big Spring who could research the proper way to write bylaws for boards established here? Do we not have knowledgeable people in Big Spring? If this be the case then we are a poor, small city indeed.

These questions need to be addressed by the council. The citizens of Big Spring deserve answers.

It seems the decision to re-write the Moore board bylaws was done rather hastily without notification to the board or to the community in general.

I believe all of us agree that every city council member, county commissioner and all boards must be accountable for their actions and fiscally responsible.

It should be pointed out that the directors of the Moore board are highly respected citizens and that Mr. Ted St. Claire's reputation is above reproach. These men have been recognized leaders, let them lead.

City council members are replaced every few years. Will the bylaws be re-written every year or two at the whim of a new council? If the Moore board has to seek the approval of the council for every program or business venture it tries to bring to Big Spring it will be crippled in its efforts.

Less government control, more freedom to function will mean better growth and more jobs for Big Spring.

Pool ordinance is a life saver

Editor:
 Big Spring parents and grandparents owe their thanks to the members of Big Spring City Council for the Councilmen's choice of children over a view. The Council vote on first reading of an ordinance to require fencing of residential swimming pools was unanimous. Second reading will be at the next Council meeting.

Specifications mentioned at the Council meeting (height of fence, type of gate, etc.) are ones recommended by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

For every drowning in a residential swimming pool, there are as many as 10 near-drownings, according to USCPSC. Many victims sustain permanent brain damage. An interesting figure to note is the USCPSC's estimate that the average lifetime costs for a near-drowning victims age two years, with a life expectancy of 12 years is $1,980,000.

That compares to 1993 figures for the average cost of a 4-sided pool fence at $2,230.

Remember safety in school zones

Editor:
 I know school is almost out, but people need to remember the safety of our children, particularly at school and school crossings.

Morning and afternoon people seem to ALWAYS be in a hurry, but remember during school hours a.m. and p.m., we have special speed limits for safety sake.

I'm a school crossing guard. I love and care for my kids as if they were my own. The last two weeks, people (parents mainly) seem not to notice cross walks. One lady last week almost ran over me in the crosswalk with my stop sign up, it made her mad when I asked her to please slow down and stop for the kids.

Parents and grandparents, we need your help. PLEASE start earlier so you won't have to be in such a hurry.

And also, "thank you" to the ones of you who honor our kids with your courtesy and safe driving.

Sincerely,

Law officers applaud weapons ban

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — Law officers in several Texas cities are praising a U.S. House vote banning 19 types of assault-style weapons, but they also say the ban is just one step toward curbing violent crime.

"If we can make it difficult for these gang members to get their hands on these types of weapons, then I think it's positive... It's gotten to a point where you're almost grappling for things to do that will have an impact," said Deputy Police Chief Gilbert Sandoval in San Antonio.

Dallas Police Chief Ben Click, who also supported the ban, acknowledged that Thursday's vote on the assault-weapons bill is not a cure-all.

"I don't see it as being the complete answer to guns and violence, and yet it's a piece of it," he said. "These are the types of weapons that have no hunting or sporting value. These weapons were designed for one thing and that is to kill people."

Fort Worth Police Chief Thomas Windham supported the ban but called it a "surgical approach to the real problem in this country, and that's the issue of guns."

Among the banned weapons are AK-47s, AR-15s and Uzis. The legislation stops the future production and sale of the 19 weapons but does not affect guns on the list that already are legally owned.

In San Antonio, where gang violence has proliferated, gun shows are banned in city buildings and the city's daily newspaper no longer accepts ads for assault-type rifles. Mayor Nelson Wolff and a City Council majority urged federal lawmakers to pass the measure.

"These guns are made for killing people, not for hunting," said Wolff, adding that he supports the right to own firearms and has a gun himself.

But he said: "I cannot think of any conceivable reason why any citizen would need weapons of this type."

Leslie Farington, owner of Don's Gun Sales Inc. in San Antonio, thought of a few reasons. "I would say that the person that is a law-abiding citizen is conscious about the firearms, that they are strictly for defense of the home or for hunting or for target practice," Ms. Farington.

Her shop sells some of the guns that will be banned, and sales of the weapons increased as the vote neared, Ms. Farington said.

"It's taking the liberty away from the people of the United States," she said. "According to the Constitution, we have the right to keep and bear arms."

Gov. Ann Richards, herself an avid hunter, praised the House action.

"It's one more step toward making our streets safer," she said. "This bill makes it harder for drug dealers and other bad people to get guns that kill our peace officers and innocent people. It makes it easier to keep Uzis and other automatic weapons out of the hands of children."

Col. A.E. Dieterman, assistant police chief in Amarillo, said he doubts the ban will put much of a dent in crime, because assault weapons account for a low percentage of the weapons used in crime and they still will be available on the black market.

"I don't oppose the ban on certain assault weapons, but I don't see where it's really going to do that much to curtail some of the crime we're seeing," said Dieterman.

Lubbock Police Chief Ken Walked called the ban a small step in the right direction.

"There is no apparent, legitimate need for people to have those kinds of weapons," Walker said. "This alone will not solve the total violent crime problem. However, it will restrict some of the tools used by the violent criminals."

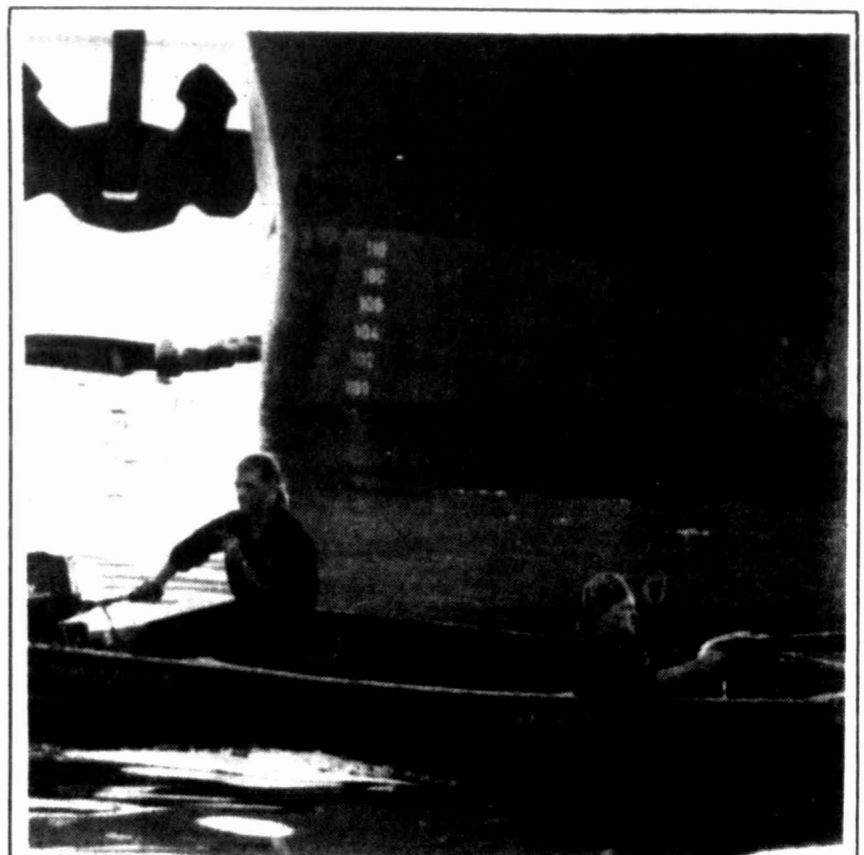

The majority of the 30-member Texas congressional delegation opposed the ban. The only two surprises came from Democrats Ron Coleman of El Paso, who voted for it, and Martin Frost of Dallas, who voted against it.

Frost had voted in 1991 for a much less restrictive assault weapons ban and in November for the Brady Bill. Frost said Thursday his vote reflected a changed constituency after redistricting, which added rural areas.

Coleman, who has never before voted against a National Rifle Association position, voted for the ban after talking with his local police chief and sheriff. He also was lobbied by President Clinton.

"If it is a political offense that costs me my job to try to take Uzis out of the hands of school kids and make it harder for drug thugs and gangs to get the machine guns that wantonly kill our police officers and children, then so be it," Coleman said.

El Paso County Sheriff Leo Samaniego said: "I don't think people have any business owning military weapons, and that's what they (assault weapons) were manufactured for, not shooting rabbits or anything."

Catching oil

Gene Neal, left, and Bobby Simmons of Garner Environmental Services pull a catch boom around an oil spill at the AIRCOR dock 45 in the Port of Texa City Thursday. The Norwegian tanker Bow Sun left the Union Carbide dock in the port and crashed into the AIRCOR dock, spilling 30,000 gallons of fuel oil into the channel. The channel will be closed until the cleanup is complete.

What will be state's cost for crime bill?

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock is raising questions about the possible long-range cost to Texas of federal anti-crime legislation.

"It appears that Texas stands to gain some enticing immediate federal help, but it also appears that the state and Texas cities would be picking up the tab when the federal funding is phased out," Bullock said Thursday.

He said Texas' congressional delegation should "proceed with caution, and above all they should come home and ask their city and state officials what this will cost them in the long run."

The House and Senate have passed separate versions of the anti-crime legislation. It has not yet gone to a conference committee to work out differences.

Judge explains tough sentences

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — The judge who sentenced five cultists for the ritualized killings of 13 people refuted criticisms that his penalties were excessive, saying the prison terms were imposed within the law. "This was a very delicate and complicated case," said Judge Francisco Salvador Perez of the Fourth Federal Judicial District. "We are talking about 13 homicides and four indictments, multiplied by five."

The five, who were convicted for the April 1989 killings of University of Texas student Mark Kilroy and 12 Mexicans, can appeal Perez's ruling. An attorney for Sara Maria Aldrete Villarreal, the reputed godmother of the cult, attacked her 62-year prison sentence as excessive.

Perez sentenced Elio Hernandez Rivera, Serafin Hernandez Garcia, Sergio Martinez Salinas and David Serna Solis to 67 years each.

Reprieve expected for death row woman

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors expected one of four women on death row in Texas would receive a reprieve that would keep her next week from becoming the first woman to be executed in the state in 131 years.

A federal judge in Houston was considering whether to halt the scheduled early Monday execution of Pamela Perillo, 38, who was set for lethal injection for the February 1980 robbery and slaying of a Louisiana man in Houston.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the state's highest criminal appellate court, earlier this week rejected a petition from attorneys for Perillo. The appeal, which raises 37 constitutional and factual issues, then went to U.S. District Court Judge Ewing Werlein Jr. in Houston.

"That's why they pretty much will get a stay," Shirley Cornelius, an assistant district attorney in Harris County, said Thursday. "It just takes so much time."

Since 1982, when the state resumed carrying out capital punishment, 76 men on death row have been put to death, making Texas the nation's leader in executions. The 369 men on death row also make it the nation's largest.

Officers shoots two, commits suicide

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Corpus Christi police are trying to figure out why suspended officer George Cervantes opened fire at two people, then committed suicide.

Cervantes, 32, turned his gun on himself early Thursday after wounding Gerardo Morales and Guadalupe Torres, who was involved in an incident that got him suspended three weeks ago, officials said.

Ms. Torres, 21, and Gerardo Morales, 24, were in Memorial Medical Center, although no information about their conditions would be released Thursday night, nursing supervisor Essie Medina said. Garrett said their injuries were not life threatening.

Cervantes, who was married and the father of a 9-year-old daughter, was suspended without pay April 18 after an internal affairs investigation.

Garrett refused to discuss the investigation other than to say the incident that sparked it involved Ms. Torres.

Voters to decide on legalized bingo

SNYDER (AP) — Voters here Saturday will decide whether Bingo is a G.O.

On one side, there's the Citizens for Moral Values, a coalition of ministers and others who believe any gambling breeds greed.

On the other side, there's the group that considers bingo as all-American as the Little League uniforms that could be purchased with the proceeds.

The election on legalized bingo has sparked campaigning from the churches to the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall.

"It seems innocent and safe enough, and perhaps it is," said East Side Church of Christ minister Tom Holcomb, a member of Citizens for Moral Values, formed to block the pro-bingo vote.

Short ballot but good turnout expected

THRALL (AP) — Despite a small ballot, City Clerk Barbara Kelm expects a respectable turnout in Saturday's election.

A city commissioner is running unopposed for re-election, and no one wants the city marshal job in this town of 550 people that is about 40 miles northeast of Austin.

"There's no cutthroat campaigning going on," Mrs. Kelm said Thursday.

Mayor James Dvorak said he thinks it's kind of a waste of time and money to have an election when no one is running for one job, and there's no doubt about the outcome of the other. There are no write-in candidates.

"I see no point in having an election," he said. "We have to have two ladies and the city clerk sit there (at the polling place) for 12 hours and there is no way the outcome could change," he said.

Pitched space station battle prepared for

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space station's annual bumpy ride through Congress has begun once again.

And defenders of the controversial $30 billion program are strapping on their seat belts in preparation for the toughest journey yet.

Phone industry seeking partial deregulation

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — A legislative committee has heard a proposal from Texas' local telephone industry to partly free rates and services from state Public Utility Commission regulation.

Sen. Carl Parker, co-chairman of the Joint Interim Committee on Telecommunications, said he wanted to know more about the competition that exists among telephone service providers before judging the industry proposal.

"The only justification for regulation is to protect the public, not for economic protection," said Parker, D-Port Arthur.

Under the plan presented Wednesday by the Texas Telephone Association, telephone services would be divided into three tiers of decreasing regulation.

Basic telephone service — including voice access to local and long-distance calls, Touchtone dialing and 911 service — would continue to be regulated by the state.

Telephone companies would be given some flexibility in a category called discretionary services, including call waiting, call forwarding and Caller ID, which allows customers to see the number of an incoming call before picking up the phone.

In the discretionary services category, a local telephone company would be limited to a certain total for overall charges collected, but it could decide on its own how to price each individual service.

Suit goes against anti-abortion protestors

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Four anti-abortion defendants must pay damages to 10 women's clinics because their protests during the 1992 Republican National Convention were a conspiracy, a Harris County jury ruled.

Today the same jury considers how much, if any, punitive award should go to Planned Parenthood of Southeast Texas, which received $204,585 in actual damages. The group is asking for $1 million in punitive damages.

Thursday's 10-2 conspiracy verdict shocked anti-abortion activists, including Rescue America's Don Treshman of Houston, who said it was the first time such a verdict was backed with an actual damage award.

"This is the first time any of us were required to pay damages," said Treshman, who cast doubt on whether the verdict would stand during appeal.

The plaintiffs disagreed. "We're very, very happy. We're very pleased for our community that this kind of conduct won't be tolerated," said Neal Manne, attorney for Planned Parenthood of Southeast Texas.

The jury of seven men and five women had been faced with a complicated 32-page charge with more than 500 questions. The dissenters were a man and a woman.

Planned Parenthood of Southeast Texas and nine other Houston abortion clinics filed the lawsuit against Operation Rescue, Rescue America, Dallas Rescue, The Lambs of Christ and several anti-abortion group leaders, claiming they conspired to interfere with the clinics' business.

The jury decided Dallas-based Operation Rescue-National, Houston-based Rescue America, Treshman and Keith Tucci, former head of Operation Rescue-America, should pay the $204,585 in damages to Planned Parenthood. Nine other defendants were excused from the damages.

Planned Parenthood was the only plaintiff seeking damages.

It was not immediately known how the payment damages would be divided among the defendants.

"We basically won our case," Planned Parenthood Deputy Executive Director Judy Reiner said.

Clinton facing sexual harassment suit

The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Lawyers and relatives of former state worker Paula Corbin Jones give confusing accounts of her plans — and possible motivation — for suing President Clinton for sexual harassment.

A television station broadcast an interview with a woman identified as Jones' older sister, Charlotte Brown, who said Jones had told her about an encounter with Clinton in 1991 and that she said at the time that it "smelled money." A second sister told the Washington Post that she thought Brown was lying.

Attorney Daniel Traylor had said he would file suit on behalf of Jones, claiming Clinton violated her civil rights in a May 8, 1991, encounter.

He said Jones would seek an apology and damages.

But Traylor failed to appear at a press conference he had scheduled Thursday, and several hours later a clerk from another law firm announced that the lawsuit would not be filed "for reasons we are not at liberty to disclose."

William Stanley, of Gilbert K. Davis and Associates of Fairfax, Va., said the suit would be filed today. Stanley said the law firm was also representing Jones.

Jones held a Washington news conference last February to publicize her allegations at a meeting of the Conservative Political Action Committee.

The White House denies an encounter with Jones took place but took the threat of litigation seriously enough to hire Washington lawyer Robert Bennett to defend the president.

At her news conference, the former Arkansas Industrial Development Commission employee said that while she was working at a convention at the Excelsior Hotel in Little Rock, Clinton sent word through a state trooper that he wished to see her alone. She said she went to a room where she fended off an improper advance and left within 15 minutes.

Little Rock television station KARK aired an interview with Charlotte Brown, whom the station identified as Jones' oldest sister. She said that after the alleged hotel room incident, Jones went to her house and seemed thrilled. The Associated Press could not locate Charlotte Brown on Thursday night.

"She told me she went up to the room and seen him and she told me he made, you know, sexual advances," Brown told KARK. "... she refused."

Brown described herself as a Clinton fan, and said Jones is greedy and is being coached. She said she didn't believe that her sister had been the victim of sexual harassment.

"She told me which ever way it went, it smelled money," Brown said. "She told me that in my mother's living room."

But Jones' and Brown's younger sister, Lydia Cathay, told The Washington Post that she didn't believe Brown's account.

"I'm extremely upset," Cathay said. "She's lying."

Singapore citizens regret bowing to U.S. pressure

The Associated Press

SINGAPORE — With the lashing of an American teen-ager for vandalism over, some in Singapore were debating today whether their government sent the wrong signal by agreeing to reduce the number of strokes from six to four.

"We tried to take a diplomatic way out. But it was wrong in principle," said businessman Tan Peng Choo. "Our ties with the United States should have no bearing on the issue here, which is a question of law."

The government-licensed

Straits Times, which usually reflects official thinking, devoted much of its front and editorial pages today to the debate over the case of 18-year-old Michael Fay.

Fay received four lashes with a rattan cane in Queenstown Prison on Thursday, a day after the government cut the number of strokes in response to appeals from President Clinton.

The Times said "the gut feeling" of many Singaporeans, based on calls to the newspaper's office and interviews with people in the street, "seems to be regret" that the government was "giving in to American pressure."

Ross Alliston of Arlington, Va., looks over a MAK-90 semi-automatic rifle at the Potomac Arms gun store in Alexandria, Va. Thursday. The house voted 216-214 on a bill that bans the MAK-90 along with 18 other types of assault-style weapons.

Piles of corpses turn legislators' minds

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Corpses convinced Congress. Legislators stood before their colleagues and told of gruesome murders back home: children mowed down in a schoolyard, an outgunned officer sprayed with bullets from a van, a boy slain on the steps of his church.

The vote in the House for a bill to outlaw the sale and production, but not the ownership, of "street sweepers" and 18 other types of assault-style weapons, lawmakers said, reflected a revulsion in hometown America with the slaughter in the streets.

"The fact is, the people of America are shooting each other all over the place," said an upstate New York Republican, Sherwood Boehlert.

The final vote was as close as could be: 216-214. Democrat Andrew Jacobs Jr., who represents Indianapolis, first voted "no" but changed to "yes" when he saw that his vote would be decisive. He slipped out of the chamber without waiting for back slaps from the winners.

Three years ago, a less tightly drawn bill to control assault weapons was defeated 247-177. Thursday's vote was a stunning setback for the National Rifle Association, which for years had the clout to defeat any gun control legislation and exercised it skillfully.

The first crack in the NRA's hold occurred last year with enactment of the Brady bill, requiring a five-day wait and records check before the purchase of handguns. Now assault weapons — semiautomatics, capable of firing a spurt of bullets in a short time — are under attack. The Senate has already voted for an assault weapon ban.

Members of Congress said their constituents were sick of the violence in America. Many said the preponderance of their mail and phone calls still reflected the NRA's ability to rally its membership, but other citizens have started making themselves heard.

The police were influential, too. By and large, the police of America got the word to Congress that they wanted the bill passed.

"They're begging the House to take these weapons off the street," said Rep. Eric Fingerhut, D-Ohio.

Briefs

She knew in an instant

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP) — It took scientists five months to confirm what Willie Mae Ruffin knew in an instant: The man known as Henry Miller is really her son Kevin, who was kidnapped 18 years ago.

"We knew all the time," Ruffin said. "But now everybody knows that he's my child."

Ruffin's son now goes by his childhood name, Kevin Portis. He was reunited with his mother in December, and both say they knew at first sight they were family.

But police waited for DNA tests before announcing Wednesday that Portis, 22, is the son of Ruffin and Kenneth Portis, who are separated. Now a kidnapping case is being prepared against Mamie Singleton, who raised Portis about 50 miles away from his mother in Mead Valley.

Portis was kidnapped from a park near his home in Inglewood, which is next to Hawthorne, on May 26, 1976.

He had doubts throughout his childhood about his relationship to Singleton. When he wanted a driver's license, Singleton couldn't provide him with a birth certificate and state officials told him he didn't exist.

But he knew nothing of his real family until Singleton's granddaughter, Myisha Alvarez, called a missing children hot line. Late last year, investigators sent her a picture of a 5-year-old Portis.

"It looked just like him, the way he looks now," Alvarez said.

Million dollar town of 'miracles'

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (AP) — So many lottery jackpots have been won on this city's "Miracle Mile" that a sign outside town reads "$150 million won (so far)."

Now it's time to change the sign: Another multimillion-dollar winner has been sold on South Main Street.

Factory worker John Staninecz Jr., who turned in a ticket Thursday worth $6.5 million, is the fourth person since 1990 to buy a big winner along Fond Du Lac's business district, which has five lottery machines.

"I bought one ticket, one single dollar," Staninecz said.

The Miracle Mile reputation attracts ticket buyers nationwide. Last July, people from all 50 states and Canada showed up to buy tickets for a $111 million drawing. The jackpot was won by Leslie Robins, a teacher who lived a short walk from the South Main Street supermarket where he bought his winner.

Lottery officials don't suspect foul play, but they refuse to guess the odds of so many big winners being sold within less than a mile of each other.

"It's like any supernatural event or wonder of the world," said Karl Kurth, a state gaming official. "Services lottery machines in the city, of 37,000. 'It defies all the odds.'"

Chunnel finally opens between France, England

Club honors 40-year members

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The 1955 Hyperion Club met recently to install their new officers and to honor two women that have been members for 40 years.

The club began in 1955, thus the name 1955 Hyperion Club. Mrs. J.T. Anderson Jr. and Mrs. Roy B. Reeder are charter members and have belonged to the organization for 40 years.

"They have done everything that is to be done in this club," said outgoing president Mrs. Robert F. Penner. The women were honored with certificates of appreciation and heart-shaped plaques.

"When I joined, I didn't dream I'd live this long, much less be a member for 39 years," said Anderson.

"I'm real proud of the way this club provides things for the schools, civic organizations and the needy," said Reeder.

"Mrs. Reeder and Anderson are very active in their church and extremely active in the community," said Penner.

"The club itself is also very involved with the community by providing scholarships as well as providing either volunteer services or monetary donations for the VA and state hospital. We also help out the Boys Club and made donations to the battered women's shelter, Dora Roberts Community Center and Heritage Museum," Penner added.

Penner also said that the club has a committee that looks into the needs of the community and brings back suggestions. They will suggest what causes the club might want to donate to whether it is in the form of services or monetary donations.

Also during the meeting, new officers were installed to serve during the new club year with Mrs. Dwight Blackwell Jr. in charge of the installation.

Mrs. Tommy Tompkins is president, Mrs. Jay Cunningham is vice president, Mrs. Lanny Lambert is the new recording secretary, Mrs. H.B. Perry is treasurer, corresponding secretary is Mrs. Charles Beil and parliamentarian is Mrs. Robert F. Penner.

Benefit concert Saturday

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Two local bands will perform in a concert to benefit Christmas in April 7 p.m. Saturday in the amphitheatre at Comanche Trail Park.

Sexas, a rock band, and Overseer, a Christian hard-core grunge band, will play to raise money for the well-known local charity. Tickets are available at the door for $3 per person and $5 per couple.

Sexas is a relatively new band, formed late last year. Angelique Hilario is the singer for the band, Frankie McIntosh and Sandy Huff are guitarists, Terry Murphy is the bassist and Ben Kilgore is the band's temporary drummer.

Drummer Sandy McIntosh will join the band permanently after returning from Germany.

The McIntoshes began playing music while still children. They encouraged Hilario, their cousin, to pursue a singing career. Fellow Big Spring natives Huff, Murphy and Kilgore have also played for many years in various bands.

The band describes its sound as being influenced by such diverse sources as Metallica, Led Zeppelin, Janis Joplin, and Boston. They compose and perform original music.

All money raised by the concert will go to Christmas in April. Sexas paid the $75 deposit required to get the amphitheatre for the show.

Hilario encouraged rock fans in Big Spring to attend the show and help Christmas in April help others.

Business students to compete nationally

Special to the Herald

Michelle Gutierrez, Kelly Lockhart, Gloria Martinez, Mary Mata, Bernadette Valentine and Jennifer Whitehead will represent Howard College at the 1994 National Leadership Conference of Business Professionals of America, May 7-10, in San Francisco, Calif.

These students earned the right to represent Texas at the national conference by placing first, second or third in their respective events at the state competition in March. Gayla Williams serves as the local advisor to the chapter.

Students' individual contests and rank at the state contest are as follows:

Michelle Gutierrez: third in office assistant and keyboarding.

Kelly Lockhart: first in legal concepts and third in employment skills and business law.

Gloria Martinez: second in administrative assistant and third in document formatting.

Mary Mata: first in business law, second in information processing assistant and document formatting, and third in business knowledge skills.

Bernadette Valentine: second in banking concepts and third in financial assistant.

Jennifer Whitehead: first in medical concepts and second in office specialist.

The theme of the conference is "Gateway to Golden Opportunities." During the four-day conference, over 4,200 students will participate in business-related competitive events and workshops.

World needs a mother

By J. P. DELANEY
Sacred Heart Church

"But Mary kept in mind all these words, pondering them in her heart." Luke 2:19

It was a busy moment of a busy day. The bus was crowded in that noon rush hour of the holiday season, when a young, pleasant-faced woman boarded the bus with her small sons.

The smaller sat with his mother, while the older, a child about four, took a seat across the aisle from them.

His eyes flashed out the window, then toward his mother, then toward his little brother. After he had sized up everything and everybody, the four-year-old leaned across the aisle and whispered faintly, "Mother."

But Mother did not hear, for all the noise and the distraction of the bus. The child leaned still farther toward her, and in one of those childish whispers that start the echoes, he exclaimed, "Mother."

She heard, turned to him and smiled. The boy brightened, and with all the breath in his little body he told her in a sort of whisper, "Mother, I love you."

The mother returned a loving look. Passengers glanced at one another and smiled, turning tender faces toward the mother and her son. The bus became a place of joy, simply because a small son had told his mother that he loved her. The heart of everyone felt a tender tug.

We do something similar on Mother's Day. As we whirl along on the busy, crowded, distracted, unfeeling, thoughtless way of life, we take time out to tell our mothers that we love them. Sad it is that we must be reminded and prompted to do this.

Yet, better far than forgetting them altogether is our custom of picking out one Sunday of May to show our love and respect for the most important members of society.

Like that small boy, we want to say, "Mother, I love you."

And, oh, how the world needs a mother today! Did you ever notice how skillfully a mother calms the quarrels of her children? Did you ever observe how cleverly and firmly a mother will settle the arguments between her sons and daughters? How she defends the weak? How she curbs the strong?

A world mother is what the world needs today and all the time.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

JERUSALEM: ANCIENT FORTRESS WHICH STOOD UNCONQUERED IN THE HEART OF ISRAEL SINCE THE DAYS OF JOSHUA, WAS FINALLY TAKEN 500 YEARS LATER BY THE NEWLY ANOINTED KING DAVID (CIRCA 1000 B.C.)...

...THE JEBUSITES, WHO LIVED IN THIS STRONGHOLD HIGH ON MT. ZION, WERE SO CONFIDENT THEIR FORTRESS COULD NOT BE SUCCESSFULLY ASSAULTED THAT THEY INSULTED DAVID'S ARMY BY ONLY MANNING THE WALLS AND BATTLEMENTS WITH MEN WHO WERE BLIND AND PITIFULLY LAME!

BUT DAVID'S MEN FOUND A TUNNEL, LEADING FROM AN OUTSIDE WATER-SUPPLY SPRING, DIRECTLY INTO THE MIDDLE OF THE CITY! IN THE DARK OF NIGHT, DAVID LED HIS TROOPS THROUGH THE TUNNEL, TOOK THE JEBUSITES UNAWARES, AND CAPTURED THE FORTRESS WHICH WAS TO BECOME HIS CAPITAL—THE 'CITY OF DAVID'! AND SINCE THAT DAY, JERUSALEM HAS BEEN CONTINUALLY FOUGHT OVER—RIGHT UP INTO MODERN TIMES!

NEXT WEEK: CAN A MAN BE CALLED WISE WHO HAS A THOUSAND WIVES?!!

Experience key for Stanton relays

By STEVE REAGAN

STANTON - The annual Stanton girls' relay reunion will take place in Austin May 14.

Well, maybe that's not quite right, but one can be excused for feeling that the Stanton High School's girls relay team has taken up a second residence in Austin.

For the third straight year, Stanton's girls will be sending a squad to the state ULL track meet at the University of Texas, and for the second year in a row, they are prohibitive favorites to bring home some hardware.

Lupe Chapa, Laura Herm, Sande Bundas and Kristen Wyckoff will compete in the 800 and 1,600 meter relays at the meet, which will be held at Memorial Stadium on the UT campus.

Chapa, Herm and Bundas, all juniors, will be making their third straight trip to Austin, while Wyckoff, the comparative baby of the group as a sophomore, will be making her second appearance at the meet.

That's 11 years of combined state track meet experience, which makes their coach, Frank Riney, optimistic about their chances of finally winning a gold medal (their previous best finish was a second place last year in the 800).

"I think going to the state meet is an addictive thing," Riney said. "The more you have, the more you want. I'd hope you never get tired of it."

"Two years ago, they went in the 800 relay, and they were excited just at the prospect of going to the state meet," he added. "Last year, they went in all three relays, and expected to get a medal in all three. I think that experience will pay off this year."

All that experience has meant that, while the thrill of going to the state meet might be wearing off slightly, the excitement is still there.

"We kind of expected to go," Herm said. "But it will be new if we win. This year, we just want to go down there and win at least one gold medal."

"Going into that big old stadium never gets old," she added. "It's an experience a lot of people don't get to go through."

Last year, expectations for the group were high because they qualified all three relays (400, 800 and 1,600) and had either the best or second-best times in the state in each event. Consequently, there was a bit of a letdown when they didn't bring home the gold.

Oddly, running only two relays this time is seen as an advantage to the group.

"The 400 was our worst relay," Bundas said. "We would've liked to go to state in all three, but since we're not, we're just focusing on the other two. That might have helped us in a way."

"This gives us a chance to zoom in on the other two relays, which I think we're better at," Wyckoff said. "We were all disappointed we didn't qualify in the 400, but we just said we wouldn't have to worry about it, we'll just have the other two relays to accomplish what we want."

And what they want, quite frankly, is gold.

"We are looking forward to it this year," Chapa said. "We feel like this is our year, and I think we can do it. I think our experience can pay off this time."

"They've always been real close to each other," Riney said. "They've been running in summer track since the second or third grade, and in that time, they've developed a closeness you don't get in in bigger towns. They think like a unit."

Exercise rider Bobby Perna rides Kentucky Derby favorite Holy Bull during morning workouts at Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ky. Thursday. Holy Bull, who will be ridden by jockey Mike Smith, drew the number-four post position for Saturday's Derby.

Strong field to run for the roses

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - Iron Liege, Gallant Man, Round Table, Bold Ruler. That was the order of finish in the 1957 Kentucky Derby, memorable for the storied racing names it left as its legacy.

"I could see any of 8 or 10 of these colts this year going on to be superstars," trainer Gary Jones said. "I just don't know which ones yet."

Most of the trainers here agree this is the strongest Kentucky Derby field in years, perhaps since 1957. It's arguable.

Jones kept his undefeated filly, Lakeway, out of the Derby because of the strong field. "If you're going to try to win the Derby with a filly, you'd like to have a little weaker group," he said.

On Thursday, 15 3-year-old colts were entered for the 1 1/4-mile Derby, including 8-5 early favorite Holy Bull, winner of the Florida Derby and Blue Grass, and 3-1 second choice Brocco, the Santa Anita Derby and Breeders Cup Juvenile winner.

Of the field, 13 are stakes winners and the only two non-stakes winners, Blumin Affair and Strodes Creek, have placed in Grade I stakes. Among them, they have 26 stakes victories.

"I kind of wish I had my 3-year-old in a different year," said Dick Mandella, who trains San Felipe winner Soul Of The Matter for owner-songwriter Burt Bacharach.

"You can go quite a ways down this field, and anybody can have their day. And that's probably what it'll come down to. All these horses have done just enough to prove how good they are."

In post-position order, the field is Soul Of The Matter, Valiant Nature, Powis Castle, Holy Bull, Ulises, Mahogany Hall, Strodes Creek, Go For Gin, Tabasco Cat, Brocco, Smilin Singin Sam, Southern Rhythm, Blumin Affair, Meadow Flight and Kandaly.

Holy Bull's trainer, Jimmy Croll, said he had been hoping to draw the No. 5 post position. "Five is our lucky number," Croll said.

"Four is close enough," Croll's wife, Bobbie, said.

All starters will carry 126 pounds, and if they all go to post at 5:30 p.m. EDT Saturday, the total purse will be $888,800, with $638,800 going to the winner.

Mike Smith is set to ride Holy Bull, who has only one loss in eight career races. That came in the Fountain of Youth, won by 2-year-old champion Dehere, after Holy Bull developed a breathing problem and never got into the hunt.

Holy Bull is expected to take the early lead along with the Panamanian-campaigned Ulises, who will be in the post position just to Holy Bull's outside.

"It's a real good post position. The other speed is right next to me, so I can tell what they're doing," Smith said. "Probably the hardest thing to do on this horse will be sit still."

After Holy Bull, the next three favorites were the 1-2-3 horses in the Santa Anita Derby.

Gary Stevens will ride Brocco, who lost a pair of California stakes to Valiant Nature and Soul Of The Matter before coming back to win the Santa Anita Derby on April 9. Brocco will try to stay close to the pace, and trainer Bandy Winick said if the others let Holy Bull alone on the lead, he'd go after him.

"If Holy Bull starts to get away, we'll move early," Winick said.

Despite grand slam, Astros find way to win in extra innings

By The Associated Press

The Houston Astros couldn't blame the "Wild Thing" for this one.

Mitch Williams, who has treated his new team to some late-inning anxiety this season, was warming up in the bullpen Thursday night when Cincinnati's Brian Dorsett hit a game-tying grand slam in the bottom of the ninth.

However, the Astros were able to rally for two runs in the 10th for a face-saving 8-6 victory.

Greg Swindell was pitching a six-hitter and holding a 6-2 lead with two outs in the ninth, but he then gave up singles to Roberto Kelly and Tony Fernandez.

Houston manager Terry Collins went to his bullpen, choosing Tom Edens, the Astros' most effective reliever recently, instead of Williams.

Bad move.

Edens walked Bret Boone and grooved a 2-0 fastball to Dorsett, who homered off the facing of the third deck in left.

"A ninth-inning, bases-loaded homer is a dream come true," Dorsett said. "It was a real thrill. It would be a lot sweeter if we'd won."

Collins justified his selection of Edens by saying: "Tom has pitched well. He just fell behind and got a ball up in the strike zone. If Tom gets ahead, I think he can put him away with his breaking stuff."

Fortunately for Edens, the Astros were able to squeeze out a pair of runs with a modest but effective 10th-inning rally off Jeff Brantley (1-1).

"This was a test of our team," Jeff Bagwell said. "It would have been pretty devastating if we'd have lost that one."

Williams (1-2) did make an appearance in the ninth, getting the final out for the win.

Elsewhere in the NL it was: Florida 5, Philadelphia 0; New York 8, St. Louis 1 and Los Angeles 9, San Francisco 6.

Marlins 5, Phillies 0

At Miami, Chris Hammond pitched a seven-hitter and Jerry Browne tripled home three runs in the first inning.

Hammond (2-3) walked one and struck out five in pitching his first nine-inning complete game. Hammond pitched a complete game last Sept. 14, a six-inning, rain-shortened loss to Pittsburgh.

Mariano Duncan had three hits for the Phillies, who have lost six straight road games.

Browne's triple came off Ben

Rivera (2-2) in the first, and the Marlins added two runs in the second on Dave Magadan's first homer.

Mets 8, Cardinals 1

At St. Louis, Bret Saberhagen pitched a five-hitter and the New York Mets continued a long-ball barrage with three home runs.

The Mets have hit 15 home runs in their last six games and have 41 in this season, one behind league-leading Colorado.

David Segui hit a two-run homer off Allen Watson (2-2), Kelly Stinnett hit the first of his career, and Bobby Bonilla hit his fifth - and third in two games - for the Mets.

Saberhagen (4-1) struck out a season-high seven and didn't walk a batter in recording his second complete game. Saberhagen, who has 71 career complete games, won in St. Louis for the first time since the 1985 World Series, when he was 2-0 and was named the series MVP for Kansas City.

Dodgers 9, Giants 6

At San Francisco, Ramon Martinez (1-2) gave up seven hits in eight-plus innings for his first victory of the season, and Los Angeles hung on after taking an 8-1 lead.

Dave Martinez ended the game by striking out with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Mike Piazza hit a two-run homer and Eric Karros went 3-for-4 as the Dodgers got 16 hits.

Matt Williams hit his major-league leading 13th homer for the Giants. John Burkett (3-2) allowed six runs and eight hits in 4 1/3 innings.

Royals 11, Blue Jays 9

At Toronto, Brent Mayne hit his first career grand slam as Kansas

City rallied from a five-run deficit and beat Toronto.

Kansas City, which fell behind 5-0 in the first, trailed 7-3 in the third before Felix Jose's RBI single and Mayne's first homer. Joe Carter had five RBIs for Toronto. He leads the AL with 39 RBIs.

Tom Gordon (2-1) won despite allowing eight runs and seven hits in 6 2/3 innings. Jeff Montgomery got five outs for his third save.

Angels 4, Athletics 3

Catcher Jorge Fabregas, a newcomer to the major leagues, is unfamiliar with most opposing hitters, but he knows how to throw them out after they reach base.

Fabregas made two key inning-ending pickoffs as the California Angels defeated the Oakland Athletics 4-3 Thursday night.

Random thoughts while feeding the cats:

 I'm not the biggest pro basketball fan around, but I have to admit I was impressed watching the Phoenix-Golden State playoff game Wednesday night.

For those of you who missed it, the two teams scored 42 points each in the first quarter (that's each, folks) and both were over 100 with time to spare in the third quarter.

I don't remember what the final score was (I told you I wasn't that big a fan) but I was in awe watching these athletes play.

 The next time you think things can't get worse, try to visualize

Steve Reagan

Dick Vitale talking in pig Latin. Things could be worse.

Speaking of announcers - obnoxious or otherwise - for my money, Vin Scully is without question the best radio play-by-play man baseball's ever been blessed with.

The man's great on TV, but he really shines on radio. Nobody, but nobody, paints a mental picture of the game like Scully. He is a treasure, and may he live forever.

As for the worst baseball announcers, I'd have to say it's a photo finish between Tim "Let me explain this sport to you dunderheads" McCarver, who reminds me of a really bad lecturer, and Norm "Stats are my best (and only) friend" Hitzges, who probably has statistics on how many times Jose Canseco went to the bathroom in May 1989.

Speaking of stats ... I may think baseball is the greatest sport God ever invented, but I have to admit it lends itself to the biggest stat nerds in the known universe.

I was watching the Rangers' game Wednesday, and Greg Lucas actually informed me on Kirk Gibson's batting average "when the count is 3 and 1."

Think about that, folks ... someone had to sit down at their computer, and figure up Gibson's batting average during different counts - not just his regular, plain Jane batting average, mind you.

The only question I have is: Why? Are there some baseball fans out there so bereft of information about their favorite players that they need to know how likely he is or isn't to get a hit when's the count's at 3 and 1 or 2 and 2?

Call me a fuddy-duddy, but as far as I'm concerned, the only thing I want to know about Gibson is the name of his barber, so I can avoid the guy at all costs.

Tied for the lead

Hal Sutton watches his approach shot to the ninth green during first round play in the BellSouth Classic in Marietta, Ga. Thursday. Sutton shot a 6-under 66 and is tied with Tom Kite for the lead.

Many people have asked why someone would want to run for a place on the City Council. The picture above is reason enough.

On May 7, the voters have the opportunity to influence the type of city government that will prepare Big Spring for the 21st. century. With your help, John Paul Anderson has the energy and dedication to provide positive representation for District 6 and for all of Big Spring.

On Saturday, vote for the kind of leadership that will make the future bright for our city and our families.

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1994

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You have tons of energy today. Be more powerful and creative in your approach. Allow another to gain insight and feel better with you. Listen carefully to your inner voice. The unexpected occurs. Tonight: Do for you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be more sincere about what's happening. Approach a situation creatively. You find that another is in a bad mood. Be easygoing. You have reason expect positive changes. A new approach works wonders. Tonight: Vanish while you can.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your sincerity in dealing with a partner allows someone to see you in a new way. Being vulnerable opens up a new door. Seek what you want. Be more clear about your choices. A happy-go-lucky attitude entices another. Tonight: Hang out with friends again.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Momentum has been building. Make a must appearance, to please a partner. Conversations reveal the depth of another's feelings. Tonight: Be with friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Come forth with your beliefs and feelings. The more direct you are, the better off you will be. Clarity helps in handling a problem. Dynamic thinking allows a project to get off the rocks. Break past restrictions. Tonight: Try a new exotic restaurant.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Another truly cares about you. Make opportunities to be closer to another. Listen carefully to your inner sense. You are in better shape than you thought. Tonight: Be a bit of a wild thing with the one you love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you are willing to bare your soul, you'll see that another responds, expressing depth in caring. Financial problems ease up. You see life in a more positive way and come out on top. Touch base with your needs. Tonight: Accept an invitation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You might have to work today. As you plug along, you feel really good. The unexpected makes you happy. Be more direct in managing a situation. Tonight: Have a long-overdue chat with an associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Creativity surges. You feel better than you thought possible. Allow yourself to get into the moment. Financial matters ease up because of a project you have been doing on the side. You need to think about a child's information. Tonight: Learn a new dance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Creative brainstorming brings the results you want. A loved one opens up and shares with you. Be sincere in how you deal with another who responds to your energy. Take some time to get your home in order. Tonight: Entertain at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have a tendency to chat up a storm today as you look for changes. Your awareness of which way you want to go and what's important makes you more open. You are looking for positive changes on the home front. Tonight: Go for spontaneous.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Watch your spending today. You might want to do something very much, but be aware of the price. Don't get carried away. Conversations with a friend are valuable, as you get another perspective on a situation. Tonight: Try an intimate dinner for two.

IF MAY 7, 1994 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Float with the opportunities that surround you this year. Much will pop out of the blue. It is important for you to have a sense of inner direction, as decisions will be made quickly. Sometimes you will not have time to think things through in a customary way. Learn to discharge your temper more often but in a less volatile manner. Opportunities to come to understandings with partners will come easily. Communications will flow and you'll reach a new level of understanding. An exotic foreigner could change your year considerably, especially if you are single. ARIES reads you cold.

THE ASTERISKS (*) SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

Dear Abby - Letters...

D.A.R. member looks ahead to harmony

DEAR ABBY: Can we please put the Marian Anderson-Daughters of the American Revolution episode in its final resting place?

Quite some time before Ms. Anderson passed on, a group of ladies from the White Alloe Chapter of the DAR in the little town of Parkville, Mo., were helping 79-year-old Lucille Douglass and her friends raise money to restore a one-room brick schoolhouse built in 1885 for black children.

The DAR ladies spent many hours at the local historical archives searching out information to get the little school listed on the National Historic Register. A publication in 1885 stated that students at the all-white Park College were making bricks for the school building.

The school grounds were cleared of brush by men who were Veterans of Foreign Wars. An Italian construction company owner, experienced in historic renovation, offered free labor to help with the restoration once the funds are raised. Union plumbers and plasterers also have volunteered their services.

Since Parkville is a suburb, we feel this project exemplifies the Kansas City motto of "Harmony in a World of Difference."

Please, Abby, no more brickbats for the DAR. Just give this tiny point of light a chance to flourish and burn brightly for others to see and emulate. — VIRGINIA L. RAU, REGENT, WHITE ALLOE CHAPTER OF THE D.A.R., KANSAS CITY, MO.

DEAR VIRGINIA L. RAU: Consider it done.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have been together for the better part of three years. We met and lived together in Las Vegas.

Our financial matters were always kept separate, on his insistence. We split all the bills 50-50. If I was a day late with my half, he'd throw a fit. However, I always paid my share, no matter what.

We recently moved to Oregon and are living with my parents. We pay no rent, but are expected to pay for our own long-distance calls and one-third of the water bill. It doesn't amount to very much, but I've paid it myself, my boyfriend hasn't kicked in with one dime. Meanwhile, he has run up more than half the telephone bill.

He gets angry when I remind him (nicely) that he has to come up with some money. What should I do? — OUT OF PATIENCE

DEAR OUT OF PATIENCE: You don't say whether you or your boyfriend are employed. From your description, he appears to be a slow-starter with minimal ambition. Perhaps you should be grateful that you are discovering the "real" man — warts and all. Tell him that the 50-50 split he insisted upon in Las Vegas still applies. And demand that he carry his share of the load, or you will be saddled with him and his bills forever.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter from Jackie Riley in regards to a 1948 hospital bill for the birth of a baby, you neglected to include wages earned during the time.

In 1948, my father's wages were $50 for a 60-hour week. I picked strawberries and was paid 2 cents a quart. My mother worked for J.C. Penney Co. at 65 cents an hour. A hospital bill of $64.25 was difficult for the average family — and had to be paid in installments. Very few people had health-care insurance.

So much for the "good old days!" — SHIRLEY DILLARD, FELTON, DEL.

OH! BECAUSE I'M THE BAD LUCK GUY I'M SICK OF THAT AND I'M SICK OF BEING CALLED...

LUCKY EDDIE!

BLONDIE

WHAT ARE YOU FRIED RICE COOKING WITH JUST A HONEY BUNNY BEHIND YOU?

GOOD FOR YOU, DEAR... THAT SOUNDS VERY HEALTHY

I WONDER WHAT HE MEANT BY A BIT OF SEASONING?

SAUSAGE, HEATBALLS, SHRIMP, CHICKEN, PASTRAMI...

B.C.

NEW OERSIZE GROW HEAD.

GASOLINE ALLEY

Amj! I like the auction idea! No, Chip!

No telling what goodies we'll turn up!

No, Chip!

Besides, it'll give Mom and Pop an excuse to look after the twins!

Well, in that case!

BEEBLE BAILEY

I GET SO TIRED OF STIRRING

I GOTTA SWITCH TO MY OTHER HAND

I HATE TO DO THIS, IT SEEMS TO CHANGE THE TASTE

HMM, SOME OF YOUR LEFT-HANDED STEW I SEE

COOKING IS SO MYSTERIOUS

SNUFFY SMITH

PAW!! MY SISTER ZONIE IS COMIN' TO VISIT FER TWO SOLID WEEKS!!

THEN I'M GOIN' FLOAT FISHER FER TWO SOLID WEEKS!!

IT WORKED, ZONIE!! COME AHEAD

PEANUTS

I THINK SNOOPY GETTING A LETTER FROM US

WE DON'T KNOW HOW TO WRITE, DO WE?

NO, REMEMBER WHAT I USED TO TELL YOU?

WHAT WAS THAT?

CALVIN AND HOBBS

I SIGNED UP TO PLAY BASEBALL EVERY RECESS, AND I DON'T EVEN LIKE BASEBALL THAT MUCH

I MEAN, IT'S FUN PLAYING BASEBALL WITH JUST YOU, BECAUSE WE BOTH GET TO PITCH, BAT, RUN AND CATCH ALL AT ONCE! WE GET TO DO EVERYTHING

MOSTLY WE JUST ARGUE OVER THE RULES WE MAKE UP. THAT'S THE PART I LIKE!

BUT THIS WILL BE WITH TEAMS AND ASSIGNED POSITIONS, AND IT'S BORING PLAYING IT THE REAL WAY!

DO YOU EVEN KNOW HOW TO PLAY THE REAL WAY?

SEE, THAT'S ANOTHER PROBLEM - SUPPOSE THEY MAKE ME A HALFBACK. CAN I TACKLE OR NOT?

GEECH

NADINE? WHAT TIME DO YOU WANT TO GO TONIGHT?

HOW ABOUT WE LEAVE EARLY AND GET SOMETHING TO EAT FIRST?

SOUNDS GOOD TO ME.

THAT'S BECAUSE I'M TALKING WITH MY MOUTH FULL.
