Where was the ark?

Farmers would like more of the same

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Severe weather made driving difficult yesterday, but area farmers are thankful for the rain and are asking for more.

The flooding that covered many Big Spring and Howard County streets yesterday has gone and no roads are closed, according to the police department and sheriff's office.

The rainfall broke a 44-year-old record, according to the Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring. Between 8 a.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. today, 4.92 inches of rain were recorded.

This breaks the record of 3.23 inches set for May 10, 1950. The service recorded no rainfall for today as of 8 a.m. The heaviest rainfall in the city, about 7 inches, fell in the Silver Heels addition.

A tornado warning for Howard County was issued at 1:16 a.m. today, but no reports of touchdowns or damage have been received by the police department, sheriff's office or city government offices.

The Midland office of the National Weather Service reported up to 7.5 inches of rain fell in parts of Howard County. It reported no weather-related problems in Howard County other than periods of flooding.

Boyce Hale, who owns property three miles north of Big Spring, kept track of the rainfall and reported 6.79 inches from 6 a.m. Tuesday to 6 a.m. today. He is one of many farmers who praised rather than cursed the rain.

"It was a godsend," said Hale. "We needed this." No crops have been planted on his farm yet, so even a more severe rain would not have hurt the field.

Farther north in the county, some farmers are disappointed in the rainfall and hope for more. Rodney Brooks of Coahoma described it as a "planting rain" and added, "It hasn't rained enough. I'm hoping we'll get some more and it will keep us out of the field for a few days."

Doug Ingram, a farmer who resides in Luther, reported about 1 2/10 inches of rain fell on his farm yesterday. "We still didn't have underground moisture," he said. "We still need some more rain."

Williams named Herald's publisher

Herald Staff Report

Charles Williams has been named publisher of the Big Spring Herald, announced Dave Smith, group publisher, Thomson Newspapers Inc. The change will be effective May 23.

Williams, who joined the Herald in February 1993 as controller, takes over the helm from Patrick J. Morgan, who is returning to Missouri. Morgan has purchased a weekly newspaper in the Kansas City area.

"The Herald has a long history with the community and I am pleased to be a part of that," said Williams. "It is my desire to continue producing a quality newspaper for our readers."

WILLIAMS

Prior to moving to Big Spring, Williams worked for Goodson Newspaper Group, which owns daily newspapers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He grew up in Colorado and has more than 30 years of business experience, 10 in the newspaper business.

He graduated from Wichita State University in Wichita, Kan., with a masters of science degree in administration and also holds a bachelor's of science degree in accounting from the University of Colorado in Boulder, Colo.

Smith echoes the Herald's staff in wishing Morgan good luck in his new venture.

Dorothy Garrett celebrated 900 people turn out to say thanks

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

About 900 people filled Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Tuesday night to honor one of Big Spring's most generous and caring residents, Dorothy Garrett.

The theme of last night's celebration was "To Dorothy with Love" and was considered a huge success by organizers.

"We sold around 870 tickets for the dinner but I feel like there were probably about 900 in attendance for the reception to meet Dorothy," said Marae Brooks of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Big Spring Mayor Tim Blackshear made a special presentation to Garrett, and Johnnie Lou Avery gave her two books filled with letters, cards, mementos and thank you notes from residents expressing their love and gratitude.

"I believe there are probably 400 to 425 letters and cards in these books. Some of them are three pages long with others are just a short note to say thank you and congratulations. People also sent along mementos and we put in a copy of the program in this book as well," said Avery.

Annie Matt Angel and Joe Pickle toasted Dorothy and Tumbleweed Smith created an audio/visual presentation that showed family pictures of the Garretts and all the great things she and the Dora Roberts Foundation has done for the city of Big Spring and West Texas.

"I feel like the success of last night is indicative of what Big Spring can do when we pull together because it was a community wide effort. It was a great night for a great lady," said Howard College President Cheryl Sparks.

"I can't believe this. This is such a surprise and I can't believe all the people that showed up especially considering the bad weather we have had today," commented Garrett last evening.

Area juvenile facility loses certification

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY—A Sweetwater juvenile detention facility used to house Mitchell County juvenile offenders lost its certification this week.

The information was presented to the Mitchell County Commissioners' Court Monday by Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Ron Munnis. Munnis presides over the 32nd Judicial Juvenile District which encompasses Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher Counties.

The name of the facility is RECOR and is owned by the juvenile district board, according to County Judge Ray Mayo.

According to Mayo, Munnis reported to the commissioners the certification for RECOR was withdrawn by Glen Harrison, juvenile court judge for Nolan County.

In withdrawing the certification, Harrison stated, "the facility is not suitable for the detention of children in accordance with the Texas Family Code."

Mayo said RECOR is owned by American Rehabilitation and Corrections Corporation and has been operating the detention center on behalf of the juvenile board.

The commissioners heard reports stating the juvenile department had informed the board of a number of measures which had to be corrected in order for the center to meet both contractual as well as standards established by state law.

On April 28, an additional audit of the facility was conducted by Munnis "to determine if these corrective measures had been accomplished." According to Munnis' report, they were not. On May 5, another independent audit was conducted and again reflected no changes.

Examples of the corrective measures were rooms needing to be replaced with metal doors; porcelain bathroom fixtures needed to be replaced by stainless steel; and the fire and security alarms were not operational.

"The corrections had nothing to do directly with the children," Mayo said. "They had to do more with the structure itself, rather than the treatment or detention of children."

Mayo said no Mitchell County juveniles were detained in the facility at the time Harrison withdrew certification. "We were fortunate that we're not having to look for new places for our kids," he said. "Harris County had several kids there." The structure has a capacity of 56.

According to Mayo, the juvenile board is working on correcting the problems. "They're working to get it recertified," he said. "They want it to reopen as quickly as possible."

Rangers to investigate hanging at city jail

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Texas Rangers have been called in to investigate an apparent hanging in the Big Spring Police Department city jail.

According to reports, the on-duty jailer observed 34-year-old Douglas Keith Frank slumped in the southwest corner of the downstairs holding cell around 10:05 Tuesday evening.

The jailer called for assistance and preliminary investigations have determined that Frank apparently fashioned a loop from his pants, placed his head in the loop and hung them (pants) from the pipe support in an effort to hang himself.

Police personnel cut him down and began CPR on Frank while an ambulance was called. He was transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center and was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace William Shanks.

Shanks has ordered an autopsy to be performed later today to determine the exact cause of death. The Texas Rangers are investigating the incident with the assistance of the police department.

Reports indicate Frank had been arrested around 8 p.m. Tuesday for public intoxication and outstanding traffic warrants.

Price tag on jail, other renovations at $10 million

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Plans for a new county library, a proposed jail/sheriff's office/police department building and renovations to the county courthouse were presented to the Howard County Commissioners during their Monday meeting.

No price tag has been set for the total package, but Commissioner Bill Crooker estimates a "ballpark" figure at around $10 million.

Architect David Aguirre, of Aguirre and Associates of Dallas, drew up plans for the following buildings:

- County library - The new county library will be located at the former Bluebonnet Savings building on Main Street between Fifth and Sixth streets.

- Main features of the new library will include an angled entranceway facing Sixth Street, and different sections for both mainstream and children's books. Also, a pocket park type area will be west of the library which can be used for a variety of functions.

- Joint city-county jail building - Plans call for the facility to be built immediately south of the county courthouse on Third Street. Both the city police department and sheriff's office will be in the building, as well as the jail and dispatch offices for 911 emergency services.

Aguirre said efforts will be made for the building to blend in as well as possible with the existing court-

Austinites worried about liberal image

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Some call it bigotry, others a decision based on morals and money. The overwhelming vote to repeal health benefits for unmarried partners of city employees has some people wondering what will become of Austin's liberal image.

"They whipped us bad," said Scottie Shelton, a city electrician whose lesbian companion lost her benefits. "This is a wake-up call to liberal Austin and freethinkers everywhere."

The city voted 62 percent to 38 percent Saturday to restrict benefits to the immediate families and husbands or wives of city employees.

Political observers said there has been no great ideological shift in this lively college town that belies traditional Texas conservatism by always voting Democratic. They pointed to Saturday's mayoral election, in which two progressive candidates won 75 percent of the vote and will face a runoff.

Nevertheless, backers of the repeal said it proved their strength.

"We are now the strongest political force in Austin," said the Rev. Charles Bullock, president of Concerned Texans Inc., which organized the petition drive that put the issue on the ballot. "We're not going to just back off now."

That's just what people like Cheryl Kay are worried about. Kay, a part-time waitress who has lived with an Austin fireman for five years, called the repeal measure a well-disguised attack by the religious right against homosexuals.

But Bullock — who has called the policy "morally wrong" — said an analysis of the voting showed support for repeal crossed racial, geographic and party lines, even though its most vocal backers were from Christian groups.

"We said, 'Here's our concerns, and people jumped on the bandwagon. We have moderates, we have radical right, we have liberals,'" Bullock said.

City Council had adopted the policy in September, making Austin the first Texas city to offer benefits to domestic partners. About 25 other cities and numerous corporations nationwide have similar programs.

house, and to be as unobtrusive as possible.

"It'll look like an office building," Crooker said after reviewing the plans. "A stranger wouldn't know if there's a jail there or not."

• Courtroom renovations — After an inspection of the courthouse, Aguirre and Associates found the need for several renovations to bring the building up to Americans With Disability Act standards.

Suggested improvements include all of the building, from the exterior to the roof. They range from improved lighting on the exterior to replacing access panels throughout the building to a new roof.

As far as financing the construction and renovations go, Crooker said the Commissioners' Court was looking at two options, either going with a bond election or issuing certificates of obligations.

The major difference between the two is the commissioners will be able to issue the certificates without voter approval, although citizens can petition the court for a repeal.

It has been at least 20 years since the county paid off its last bond issue, so debt service should not be a problem, Crooker said.

In other action Monday:

- Accepted the retirement, with 30 days' notice, of County Engineer Bill Mims. Commissioners took this action after meeting in executive session.
- Asked whether the retirement action was initiated by the county or Mims, Crooker answered: "A little of both."
- Appointed Emma Puga Brown to serve out the remaining term of her husband, the late Commissioner Precinct 1 O.L. "Louis" Brown, who died last week.
- Mrs. Brown will serve until immediately after the Nov. 8 election, Crooker said.

Police

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

- Burglary of a vehicle was reported in the 1700 block of Yale.
- Thefts were reported in the 1800 and 2600 blocks of Gregg, 400 block of Johnson and 3100 block of Parkway.

- Assaults were reported in the 1400 block of West Third, 1300 block of East 18th and 1600 block of Sycamore Streets.
- Richard Lee Baxter, 35 of 3326 Calvin, was arrested for public intoxication.
- Darrin Franklin Buttons, 25 of 2911 West Hwy. 80 #59, was arrested on an outstanding warrant from the Arlington Police Department.

Sheriff

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incidents:

- Joe Rosendo Morelino, 66 of 4203 Muir, was arrested for theft over $20 and under $200. He posted bond after being transferred from the city jail.
- Javier Francisco Casillas, 29 of 206 N.W. Second, was surrounded by his attorney for revocation of probation. He had been on probation for possession of a controlled substance. Casillas posted bond and was released.
- Shawn Leigh Walker, 29 of P.O. Box 2292, surrendered himself to the sheriff's office for revocation of probation. Walker had been on probation for theft over $750 and under $20,000. Bond was posted and Walker was released.

- Danny Rodriguez, 18 of 1512 11th Place, was arrested on two separate warrants to revoke probation. He had been on probation for burglary of a habitation and aggravated assault on an officer. No bond was set and he remains in the county jail.
- Miguel Delgado, 61 of 1002 N. Main, pled guilty in county court to driving while license suspended. He was sentenced to 10 days in county jail, fined $200 and ordered to pay $205 in court costs.
- Michael Dean Williams, 46 of Forsan, was arrested on a felony charge of driving while intoxicated and unlawfully carrying a weapon. He posted bond after being transferred from the city jail.

Martin Co. 4-Hers clean up at District Roundup

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

FORT STOCKTON - Competition was the order of the day recently for several Martin County 4-H families. The group traveled to Fort Stockton to attend the annual District Roundup.

According to County Extension Agent, Kathryn Burch, the event is similar to UIL. Several areas of competition were on the same day.

The Martin County Junior 4-H Consumer Decision Making team finished second in the event. Members of the team are Cory Flanagan, David Butler, Justin and Jeffery Burch. The team was required to judge snacks, toys, alarm clocks and sunscreen.

Individual members also finished strong. Jeffery Burch finished third, Justin Burch was fourth, Butler was fifth and Flanagan finished seventh.

Burch said the purpose of the contest is to teach members to make qualified, sound decisions. Each contestant was required to make a rationale presentation to the judges explaining their reasoning behind the rating they placed on the different items.

In addition to the consumer division, the District Fashion Show was staged. Hali Tubb took top honors in Junior Buying and Recreation Wear with her striped shorts ensemble. Tubb is the daughter of Richie and Jill Tubb.

Jessica Holloway's ensemble took first place in the cotton division and second place in the Senior Dressy Wear category. She is the daughter of Jerry and Tahita Holloway.

Tarah Schuelke competed in the Fashion and Fabric Design contest, placing first in the new garment category. Her design featured a close fitting vest with cotton lace and broomstick skirt.

Schuelke's design will advance to the state competition June 1 at Texas A&M University. She is the daughter of Kenneth and Patty Schuelke.

County needs to follow own guidelines

"A little of both."

That is how Howard County Commissioner Bill Crocker describe the initiation of the retirement of County Engineer Bill Mims.

Mims had come under fire recently because of not following the county's Affirmative Action policy.

This policy is now being rewritten by Big Spring City Councilwoman Stephanie Horton at the behest of the court.

Will the new policy be followed by each department head? That is a question that remains to be answered.

The elected officials of this county need to realize the policy is meant to equalize hiring practices, giving everyone a chance at the job.

The court needs to put someone in charge of making sure this policy is followed.

It doesn't matter how often a policy is rewritten; if it is not followed, it is no good.

FAA criteria outdated

When our country was young, 35 was "old." A man that age had raised a family, buried a wife and had a life expectancy of just three more years.

They had no fancy names for sickness in the mountain, bush or brackish country. You died of "fever," or you died of "colic," and generally, you died young.

Today, in 1994, a new baby boy can expect to live 75.7 years; a girl 78.5 years.

And once today's baby has lived past the precarious first year of life, much longer.

The typical 65-year-old American man can now expect to live 81 years; the typical woman 85 years.

Medical, nutritional and sanitation sciences are adding to the human life span an additional week every two months!

Recognizing that Americans are living longer, healthier, more vigorous lives, "retirement at 65" is no longer either sensible or legal.

But one agency of government is so behind the times in its criteria that it continues to turn commercial airplane pilots out to pasture when they are at peak proficiency!

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB), which tends to rubber-stamp FAA decisions, have intimidated Congress with their profession of "safety first."

But that objective has been carried far too far.

All this has been brought into sharp focus by the FAA grounding of one of the most gifted pilots who ever flew.

I have socialized with Bob Hoover. He is the ultimate gentleman, kind and gracious.

I have flown with Bob Hoover. At 71, his gifted hands work the controls of a Mustang, a Sabreliner or a Shrike with the deftness and artistry of a concert pianist.

I have trusted my life to those hands rolling a twin at low level with one engine feathered AND when he shuts down both engines, lands out of the bottom of a loop, rolling to a stop in front of the crowd with both props feathered.

Nobody flies with more perfect precision than Bob Hoover.

He's been grounded.

Failed to pass his physical? No.

Heart murmur? Blood pressure? Rules infraction?

None of those things.

Hoover was grounded because a couple of FAA inspectors, attending an Oklahoma City show, filed a report stating that in their view "his flying did not look sharp."

And when a court ruled in Hoover's favor, finding no evidence that he was in any way impaired, the NTSB overruled the court.

Have pilots no civil rights? Mac McClellan says, "Pilots have less civil rights than a purse snatcher. If the FAA wants to get you, it will!"

Civil aviation is aghast. If bureaucrats can ground Bob Hoover, they can ground anybody!

The FAA's chief psychiatrist, who approved Hoover's grounding, concluding that Hoover was "impaired to the point where he should not fly" — that psychiatrist neither examined nor tested Hoover.

Yet all the psychiatrists and other doctors and pilots who have testified that Hoover is entirely well and an incomparably smooth pilot are ignored in favor of the bureaucrats and their for-hire physician witnesses.

I have studied available transcripts of the several hearings and court proceedings and have concluded that the FAA, stubbornly jealous of its prerogatives, trashed every rule of judicial review in persecuting this man.

The composition of the FAA and the power it has grabbed for itself over the years demand prompt congressional scrutiny.

PERSPECTIVE

Weapons ban misses mark

Mike Royko

Listening to congressmen argue the ban on 19 types of so-called assault weapons, I had trouble making up my mind. Both sides of the debate sounded absolutely right.

On the one side, we had those who wanted these weapons banned because they have only one purpose — killing people.

These are not sporting weapons. If you blast a wild turkey with one of them, there will be nothing left to eat but feathers. And they're really too big to put under your pillow or a nightstand for home defense.

On several occasions, they have been the weapons of choice by loony characters who have decided to shoot up restaurants or the places where they used to work.

Contrary to some views, they are not the same as a standard police-type six-shooter. Fully rigged, they make it easier to rapidly spray lead in large quantities all over the place. They improve one's aim or ability to shoot from the hip.

And they have more glamor appeal than a regular handgun. A street-gang punk in a big city might be more inclined to display his macho in a drive-by shooting with such a powerful-looking weapon in his hands.

Then comes the argument from the other side:

Fact is, these weapons — as frightening as they look — are used in only a small number of killings. The weapon of choice is still the standard handgun. In Chicago, for example, the hands-up favorite is the .38. Which makes sense. You can carry your handgun in your pocket, your purse, your belt, or a shoulder holster.

That's why the shotgun is used in so few crimes, although it is probably the most devastating of available firearms. I once arrived at the scene of the shooting of a big-time Chicago mobster named Roger Touhy as he was being put into an ambulance. A cop told me: "They only got him in the lower leg with one shot."

Which was true. But they had used a shotgun and most of his calf was gone. In only a few minutes, he lost enough blood to feed a family of vampires and was gone.

But you can't tuck a shotgun into your belt, and if you carry one on a bus or subway, someone is sure to be alarmed.

If anything, Chicago police stats show that there are all sorts of mundane or bizarre weapons used in more crimes than the weapons that Congress just voted to ban.

Cutlery: the standard kitchen knife, the boning knife, the carving knife are far more popular. So is the baseball bat, fists and feet, and the automobile.

It is amazing, really, how many devices people use to kill each other. Police records show that these have all been used as murder weapons:

A cane, chair, concrete chunk, electrical cord, hammer, hot water, house brick, clothing iron, golf club, ice pick, jack handle, lead pipe, mirror, panty hose, plastic bag, rope, scissors, shoestring, sock, sweater, adhesive tape, phone cord, and toilet.

Toilet? Yes, stuff someone's head in one and even if he can swim, he is doomed.

All of these have been used to kill in Chicago almost as frequently as the newly-banned assault weapons.

And that tells us why so much of the talk in Washington is simply political blather.

One, the majority of murders do not involve assault weapons. They are most frequently used by drug dealers in settling territorial disputes, and who cares if these thugs kill each other, anyway?

Two, the vast majority of murders involve husbands and wives, girlfriends and boyfriends, boyfriends and girlfriends, roommates, neighbors and other relationships.

That's why baseball bats are more frequently used than assault weapons. In the heat of a domestic dispute, most people don't have time to go to a gun store and fill out a lot of forms to conform to the patty-cake Brady Bill. A guy reaches into the closet and gets out a five iron and whacks her on the head.

The congressmen who voted for the assault weapon ban know that it won't make even a tiny dent in the crime rate. But they say it is a meaningful first step.

Those who voted against it said they saw the same thing, and they also know it is a meaningful first step. They fear that the next step will be other guns. Then others. And the ultimate goal of the anti-gun lobby is to ban the private ownership of all weapons.

That is their ultimate goal, although the anti-gun people won't admit it. It would be foolish strategy.

But nothing else makes sense. If people are shooting each other with pistols of .22 and .38 caliber, why the big deal about exotic, expensive weapons that few people own and fewer use in crimes?

Because, as politicians, they have to do something, even if it means almost nothing.

And tomorrow, Eddie might go berserk and kill Edna in their kitchen. Maybe with a pot, a paring knife, or his old .22.

But Congress will have done its job and the sound bites will be all over the tube.

And we not only pay these guys, but give them free parking?

Letters to the Editor

Stop taking our freedoms away

Editor:

This is in reference to Karen Crandall's letter on May 8.

I completely agree with what she said except for the part about Chuck Harder.

Chuck Harder is in no way affiliated with "We the People" organization. He is however, the founder of "For the People" network, 3 River Street, Whitesprings, Fla. It is a 50(c)(3), not for profit organization, that is solely funded by its listeners and members. It is not controlled by any political party, their slants or views or their own agenda. His programs are documented from over 30 newswide services from around the world, as well as expert guests and eye witnesses. His programs are carried daily from 1 to 4 o'clock, on AM radio 790 Lubbock or 1250 Snyder.

As a member and listener for three years, I have yet to have seen him proven wrong. Chuck Harder is Pro-American and consumer advocate, who believes in the Constitutional rights and freedoms of every American. He tells you how we are losing our basic freedoms, slice by slice, and reveals the people who are behind these treasonist acts.

I urge all readers to tune-in and listen and come to your own conclusions.

Karen was exactly right about Waco and gun control. Waco was also a test for the American people to see how we would react, and we failed miserably! No major publicity, we set idly by like passive sheep being led to slaughter as a government "out of control" works its will on the people!

Step by step, slice by slice, the "Global Elitist," "New World Order Crowd," are going to take away our guns and the last few freedoms we have.

We only have to look at Waco, the Randy Weaver case in Idaho, or the Scott case in California, to see they mean business.

Waco, Texas was the first time in American history that American tanks were used on American people, on a church and a home of 35 years. 80 people, including 27 children, were murdered that day. Who will be next?

If any churches, groups or organizations are interested, I have a video produced by attorney Linda Thompson, "Waco, The Big Lie Continues," contact me at Box 384, Coahoma or call 394-4207.

All abuse victims deserve sympathy

Editor:

In response to DD Turner's article "Time to Stop Being a Victim." All victims of abuse deserve our sympathy. It is not a simple choice. It is more than a choice to leave or stay; sometimes it seems like a choice to survive.

Why do victims stay? Fear. Those who have not been in this situation do not know such fear. Fear of the unknown. Fear of not being able to provide for their children. These fears are very real. There are many services; but help takes time. There's also the fear of retaliation. It is naive to think that a victim will leave an abuser and always live happily ever after.

I feel for the officer; domestic cases put officers in a very bad situation. I realize many officers are hurt or killed in domestic violence calls.

What happens after the arrest? They can't stay in jail forever. How many women are killed by their husbands/boyfriends? Remember the young woman who was killed in front of the grocery store by her husband? Or the woman, Tracy Thurman, that was beaten so severely that she was permanently crippled. These women left their abusers.

People are different. Situations are different. Let us not judge, for we do not know. With compassion, understanding, and hope things can change. Judging people does not accomplish anything. Victims have low self-esteem and being looked down on and judged just makes it worse. What should we do? We can show others that there is hope; fortunately, there are people who will help. And we pray to God if we are in this situation, and we can thank Him if we are not.

Bad mix: Drinking, driving, lawyers

Fellow named Cliff goes bowling on his regular league night, at the Elk Grove Bowl in Elk Grove Village, Ill. Has a couple of beers during the evening, he says, and another before he heads for home.

Home is in nearby Oak Lawn, Ill. On his way to his house — he is 41, he makes his living calibrating test equipment for X-ray machines, and he lives with his mother — he is pulled over by the police. "I get a ticket for improper lane usage," he says, "and then they say they're going to charge me with DUI. Of which I am innocent. I was tired, not drunk."

Bob Greene

Whether he was drunk or not is not the point here. That's for the courts to sort out. But within several days of the arrest, unusual mail begins arriving in his mailbox. Lots of it.

The letters all begin with salutations using his name, as if from friend to friend.

"Don't give up your rights or driver's license without a fight!" one begins. "In police reports I saw you were charged with driving under the influence. ... DUI is not the type of offense where you want to appear alone before a judge without the help of a lawyer. ... I offer a FREE FIRST APPOINTMENT, reasonable rates, small down payments. ..."

From another letter: "The public record at the DuPage County Judicial Center indicates that you were recently charged with the offense of DUI. This is an invitation to discuss how our office can help you with your court case. ... Our office is prepared to be your advocate in court. We will be with you at every court appearance. ..."

Another: "Our firm is aware of trial, then as an experienced criminal trial lawyer I am well prepared to defend your case. ..."

Cliff is becoming benumbed by this — but not so benumbed that some of his correspondence does not have the power to startle him. For instance, there is the coupon that one lawyer mails him:

"SAVE 10 PERCENT DISCOUNT ON LEGAL FEES WITH THIS COUPON — Valid only if presented at first Free Appointment — 10 percent Discount on Total Legal Fees, not on Down Payment/Retainer." The coupon is decorated with an illustration of a judge's gavel — with stars coming out of it.

Then there is the law firm that promises, "We can provide expert testimony by former police officers, doctors, pharmacologists and toxicologists." An impressive offer — from lawyers who have never met their client.

And there is the lawyer who sends a photo of himself carrying a briefcase. It includes his price ("First arrest — $650"), his terms ("Payment Plans") and his extras ("Unlimited free phone consultation"). But that is not the eye-catching part. No, this lawyer has typed on his solicitation to Cliff: "Don't take a day off from work to meet with me. I will meet you in court."

Cliff says, "This stuff makes me feel worse than being arrested."

Another letter: "We note from the public records published by the DuPage County Circuit Court Clerk's Office that you were charged with the commission of a serious traffic offense. Our law firm ..."

And the Clintons are trying to reform the medical profession?

Richards: Future looks bright

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Gov. Ann Richards said the state's future looks bright, but she believed the threatened cancellation of the space station project would be a devastating loss.

In an address billed as the "State of the State," Richards on Tuesday touted her three years in office as marked by the creation of thousands of jobs and the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

"It is good and it is going to get better," Richards told the Greater Houston Partnership, an organization of Houston-area business and political leaders. "The news really is good. There is no question the picture flatters us."

"I know you all know I worked hard on that sucker I did it because I was convinced if you look geographically at the location of Texas, we would be smack dab in the middle of the largest free trade zone in the world."

Ann Richards
Governor

But Richards, who faces re-election in November, warned that losing the space station would be devastating to the nation, Texas and Houston.

"This is a big deal, my friends," she said. "The space station is going to create new technology. It's going to improve our lives. It's going to create medical technology. It's going to create products and spinoff companies you and I cannot even begin to predict."

However, Richards said lawmakers in Washington were bowing to a taxpayer ultimatum to cut spending and the space station, headquartered in Houston, made a good target.

"We cannot kid ourselves. We are not out of the woods on this one yet," she said.

"I have been through another one of these with the superconducting super collider, and let me tell you it is not a pretty picture," she said. "It is one of the most difficult things I have dealt with, both in the vote and in the aftermath."

Richards credited jobs growth for a big part of the state's economic resurgence, and she said the state was poised to take advantage of NAFTA.

"I know you all know I worked hard on that sucker," she said of the trade agreement. "I did it because I was convinced if you look geographically at the location of Texas, we would be smack dab in the middle of the largest free trade zone in the world."

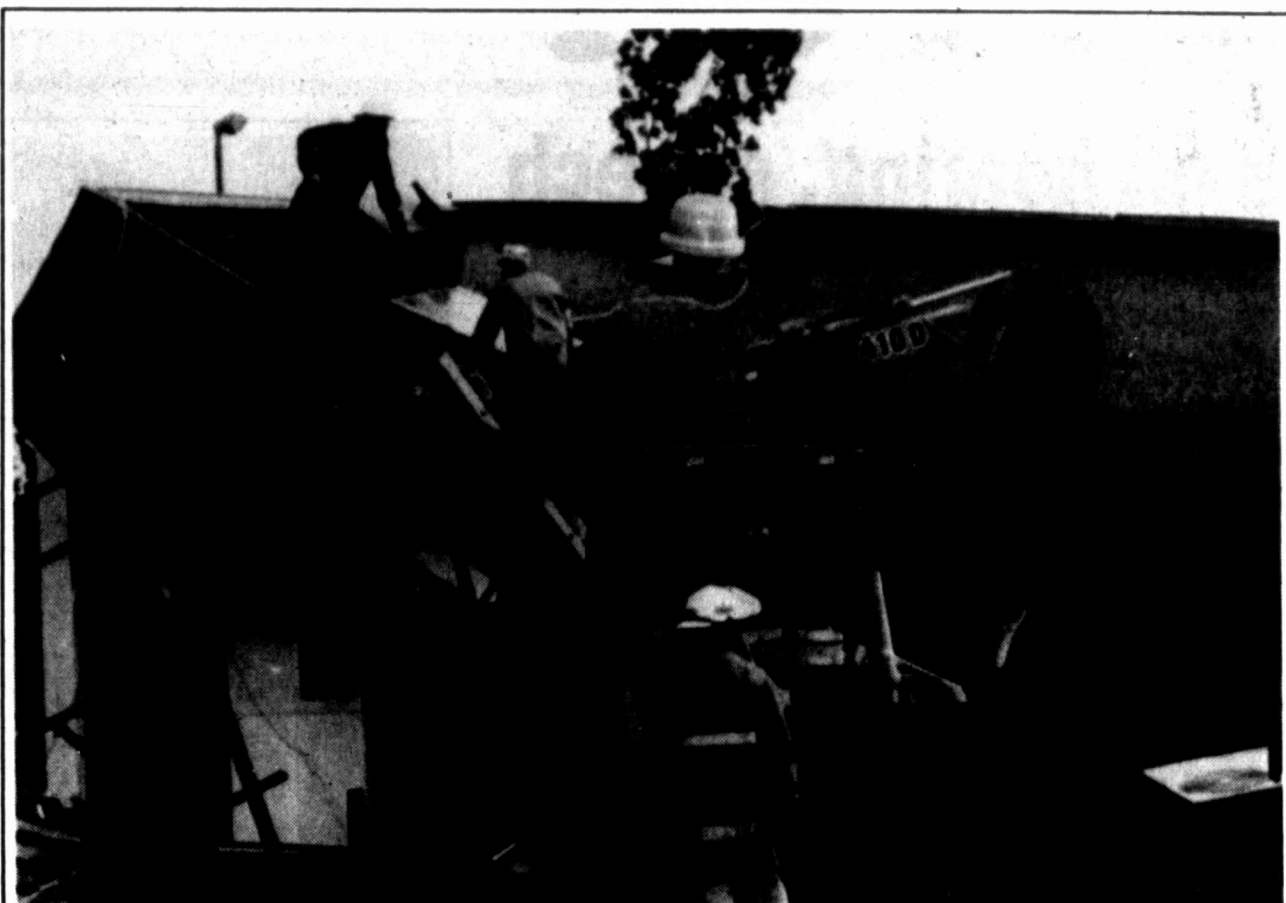

She said four of the state's big cities are among the nation's 10 leading cities for job growth.

"A half-million more Texans are on jobs today than three years ago when I took office," she said.

And in a slap at November Republican opponent, George W. Bush, Richards said: "I'm absolutely floored when I hear suggestions from some people out there who ... suggest that the governor has nothing to do with creating jobs."

But Bush spokesman Reggie Bashur said the Texas economy "has grown in spite of her policies."

"The governor neglects to tell Texans that during her term, the state budget has increased 47 percent from $48 billion to more than $70 billion," Bashur said.

Firefighters and workers crews clear the rubble from storm damage Tuesday at the drive-through at the First National Bank in Sweetwater, which suffered damage when water collected on the roof during a downpour. The weight of the water was too much for the structure.

Severe weather to continue

The Associated Press

Strong thunderstorms roared across West Texas during the night, producing heavy rainfall, hail, high winds, prompting the National Weather Service to issue five tornado warnings.

Flash flooding was widespread in West Texas and in the southwestern portions of North Texas.

Forecasts called for the stormy weather to continue across most of the state tonight and Thursday.

Two tornado warnings were issued for Howard County and Martin, Midland and Mitchell counties each had one tornado warning issued during the night.

Large hail pelted a vast area of West Texas.

Some of the worst flash flooding was reported in Bosque and Hamilton counties in southwestern North Texas.

A flash flood watch was in effect for tonight in the Panhandle.

Forecasts called for thunderstorms to continue in West Texas east of the mountains tonight and Thursday.

A flash flood watch was in effect for a vast area of North Texas through tonight. The watch covered a line west and south of a line from Jacksboro to Dallas to Tyler to Carthage.

In South Texas, the scattered showers and thunderstorms were Highs Thursday will be in the 70s and 80s except in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where expected to continue through tonight.

Lows tonight will be in the 50s and 60s in West Texas and in the 60s elsewhere.

The strongest storms reported during the pre-dawn hours were in a line from Motley to Dickens counties in the eastern South Plains.

Early morning temperatures were in the 50s and 60s in West Texas, the 60s in North Texas and in the 70s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 53 at Lubbock and Dalhart to 79 at McAllen.

Public comment taken in UIL audit

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — A public hearing has launched a sweeping state audit of the University Interscholastic League, which oversees public school athletic and academic contests.

A panel of auditors and consultants with state Comptroller John Sharp's performance review team took comments Tuesday at a public hearing launching a three-month UIL audit.

The Legislature mandated the audit last year to study the UIL's rules, regulations and financial management.

Officials representing superintendents, athletic directors and coaches offered mostly praise. But Bill McArdle, president of the Texas Christian Interscholastic League, said the UIL should include private schools.

"We have long admired the UIL in the way it goes out of its way to be fair," said McArdle, whose group represents about 100,000 private-school students. "But there is one flaw, the exclusion of the students in private schools."

McArdle said Texas is one of only three states that excludes private schools from its athletic and academic competitions.

"There have been concerns that if you allow private schools in, they would recruit and form athletic powerhouses, but none of the major private schools have become a dominant power," McArdle said.

Paul Curtis, superintendent of Liberty Hill schools in Central Texas, praised the UIL as an organization "run by school people with rules created by school people and enforced by school people."

Charles Matthews, a 1932 Texas

high school graduate who said he has had a 50-year association with the UIL as an educator and administrator, testified that the league is a "grassroots organization."

"It's the most democratic organization we may have in the public schools today," said Matthews, adding that the UIL takes great pains to "hear all concerns of schools in the rule-making and appeals structure."

The public hearing was the first of many around the state, during which teachers, coaches, parents and students are invited to comment on UIL policies and management.

The UIL writes and enforces the rules of Texas school athletic competition and oversees student competitions in academics, music, drama, debate, computer skills and other subjects.

The UIL is associated with the University of Texas System, which provides its office space. It receives services from UT and funding from membership dues paid by schools.

contest entry fees and ticket sales at athletic playoff events.

"We are interested in all of this not because somebody got a bad call in a game, or because somebody's son or daughter didn't get to compete. We're looking at it strictly from a fiscal responsibility standpoint," said state Sen. Kenneth Armbrister, D-Victoria, the sponsor of legislation calling for the audit.

UIL Executive Director Bailey Marshall said he welcomes the performance review of his agency.

"If someone can tell me how we can do something better than we're doing it, then I'd love to hear about it," Marshall said.

'Ring of fire' blazes when the moon blocks the sun

The Associated Press

EL PASO — Classes were postponed, work came to a halt and adults exhibited almost childlike glee when faced with the spectacle of a ring of fire floating in the clear Texas sky.

Astronomers, reporters, devoted eclipse chasers and the merely curious took time out across El Paso Tuesday morning to watch the moon and sun engage in a celestial slow dance called an annular eclipse.

"I thought it was spectacular," said Diana Lewkowicz, 18. "It'll be a long time before I get the opportunity again. It was real pretty."

Lewkowicz, a high school student, spent the morning conducting experiments along with university professors at an elementary school dubbed "Eclipse Central."

A large number of scientists and journalist converged on Dr. J.

Leighton Green Elementary School to mingle with students, who were given a few moments of freedom to enjoy the show and conduct experiments.

Crude cardboard pinhole projectors, sophisticated telescopes, glasses with mylar lenses and eclipse screens were in evidence everywhere as the group spent hours staring skyward to watch the rare ring eclipse.

"It was wonderful to be able to see the excitement" of the kids, said astronomer David Menke, who has chased eclipses around the world.

"Each eclipse is unique and each eclipse is fantastic," said Menke, a self-proclaimed "eclipseophile." "This eclipse was also fantastic."

Several miles away in El Paso's downtown plaza, people seemed to agree.

"It's entertainment from God," said Jud Burgess, a graphic artist who designed a logo for T-shirts commemorating the event.

Experts focus on hearing, speech

By JANET AUSBURY

Had your hearing checked lately? If not, this is the right time to do it—May is Better Hearing and Speech Month.

To raise awareness and share information on these issues, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf hosted a luncheon for area speech-language pathologists, audiologists and guests last week at the Spanish Inn.

"The purpose of Better Hearing and Speech Month is to celebrate, educate and re-affirm commitment to the professions," said Jean Roundtree, a speech-language pathologist contracted with Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Kristilie Reyna, speech therapist with the 87-20 Special Education Cooperative, reported on the upgrading of personnel standards for speech-language pathologists in Texas public schools.

Gene Adkins, director of special education for the Big Spring Independent School District, mentioned a recent survey showed a need for more speech-language pathologists in the public schools. Currently, more jobs are available than there are people to fill them.

John Yater, executive director of DRRC, reported on the center's support of graduate student Joel Jennings with a scholarship in audiology at University of Texas in Austin.

The center has supported Jennings' academic efforts since last year. Jennings will complete his master's degree this month and will begin his clinical fellowship year. In June 1995, he will become the center's first full-time audiologist.

Glen Carrigan, audiologist at SWCID, discussed a new master plan developing at the college. SWCID now has some of the most current equipment available to evaluate hearing and fit hearing aids.

Roundtree reported on a recent trip to the Texas Laryngectomy Association Conference, where a new product, an in-dwelling voice prosthesis for laryngectomy patients, was announced. The prosthesis was developed by Dr. Eric Blom and was approved by the Food and Drug Administration April 26.

She also reminded attendees about the New Voice Club at DRRC, a support group for laryngectomy patients and their families.

Need an excuse to head for Hawaii? This July, the forecast is really chile for the spectacular Kohala Coast of Hawaii's Big Island, where some of the world's most interesting cuisines will be demonstrated at the Mauna Lani Bay Hotel and Bungalows by prominent American chefs Emeril Lagasse, Rick Bayless, Julie Sahni and Alan Wong.

"Some Like It Hot: Cuisines of Chile Climates" is the theme of the fifth annual "Cuisines of the Sun" food and wine celebration sponsored by the resort, to be held July 23-27.

It's dubbed "the ultimate summer camp for foodies," and lucky participants will be guided through a gastronomic tour of regions best known for showcasing the chile pepper.

Guests will learn to prepare curries with Julie Sahni; taste chilies with Rick Bayless, enjoy a Bayou Bash with Emeril Lagasse and explore the still-evolving Hawaiian regional cuisine of Mauna Lani Bay's own Alan Wong.

The schedule? Mostly morning classes and evening feasts. There's also a Margarita Madness competition when guests team up to create drinks.

The address of the AAA five-diamond resort: One Mauna Lani Drive, Kohala Coast, Hawaii, 96743-4000. For information or reservations, phone Sharon Bianco at the hotel, 1-800-367-2323. That's the last free thing you'll do, for the all-inclusive package is $1,480 single occupancy or $2,180 double occupancy, including four nights in an ocean-view accommodation and attendance at all 10 events. It's $700 per person on a daily basis or per event (excluding a room).

Have trouble keeping all the different shapes of pasta straight. The National Pasta Association is offer-

Parents, children invited to Kindergarten Preview

Special to the Herald

S.M. Anderson Kindergarten Center is preparing for the annual "Kindergarten Preview" Thursday at the Kindergarten Center. Anderson Kindergarten Center is located on 229 Airbase Road. Mrs. Suzanne Madero is principal.

The annual event is planned for parents, and children who will be attending the Big Spring ISD Kindergarten program for the 1994-95 school year.

Children who are eligible to attend kindergarten for the 1994-1995 school year must be five years old by September 1, 1994.

At the Kindergarten Preview, families will have an opportunity to tour the school facilities, meet the teaching staff and principal and attend a PTA meeting with the PTA officers for next year.

The Kindergarten Preview times will be as follows:
 3:30 p.m.-5:00 p.m. School tours for parents and children who have last names beginning with A-L.

5:30 p.m.-6:00 p.m. PTA meeting.
 5:45 p.m.-7:15 p.m. School tours for parents and children who have last names beginning with M-Z.

Parents are encouraged to bring their future kindergarten students so that they can see the school and meet the teachers. It is suggested that parents try to leave very young children at home so that the parent can focus attention on helping their child to see the school.

Kindergarten Preview is an opportunity for parents to view the progressive early childhood program and facilities at the Kindergarten Center. This is also the time that the kindergarten Staff takes a preregistration count of eligible future students in order to plan for the next school year.

If parents are unable to attend the "Kindergarten Preview," please call the school office at 264-4151 to give preregistration information over the telephone. Official registration for all 1994-95 kindergarten students will be August 1994.

Smoking, X-ray therapy boost lung cancer risk

By DON KIRKMAN
 Scripps Howard News Service

Women who smoke and receive X-ray treatments for breast cancer greatly increase their chances of contracting lung cancer later in life.

This warning, issued by researchers at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, is based on a study of nearly 1,100 Connecticut women who were treated for breast cancer.

"This is the first time that a combined risk for lung cancer from cigarette smoking and therapeutic radiation has been shown," Columbia-

Presbyterian's Dr. Alfred Neugut said. "Women who have been exposed to both cigarette smoke and radiation may have a large potential risk for developing lung cancer."

Neugut and his research team estimate that breast cancer victims exposed to radiation alone are three times more likely to contract lung cancer than those who didn't receive X-rays.

The risk soared when women were exposed to both X-rays and cigarette smoking.

Neugut said lung cancer showed up among women who were treated for breast cancer before 1980 when radiologists used wide-beam X-rays.

Stars sent packing

By The Associated Press

VANCOUVER, British Columbia — Vancouver's in the Final Four. It's hard to believe, even for the staunchest supporters of the Canucks.

After a regular season marked by inconsistency, the Canucks have won two playoff series and are in the conference finals for the first time in 12 years.

"Hopefully we won't stop here," a hoarse coach Pat Quinn said after Vancouver defeated the Dallas Stars 4-2 Tuesday night to win the best-of-7 Western Conference semifinal 4-1.

"The fans have been just great. I came here seven years ago looking at 9,000 people in the stands. I'm happy for our team, obviously, but probably more happy for the people who supported us along the way."

Many in the announced sellout of 16,150 were dancing in the aisles in the last minute, when the Canucks put away the Stars.

They cheered for Pavel Bure's two goals and just as loud for goaltender Kirk McLean, who held Dallas to 11 goals in five games.

"I think we've learned some lessons the last couple of years," Quinn said. "We believe we're a pretty good team now and capable of doing some good things."

Vancouver was eliminated in the second round the last two years by Edmonton and Los Angeles after winning division titles in the regular season.

This season the Canucks struggled with a 41-40-3 record before the playoffs and were down 3-1 in games to Calgary in the first round.

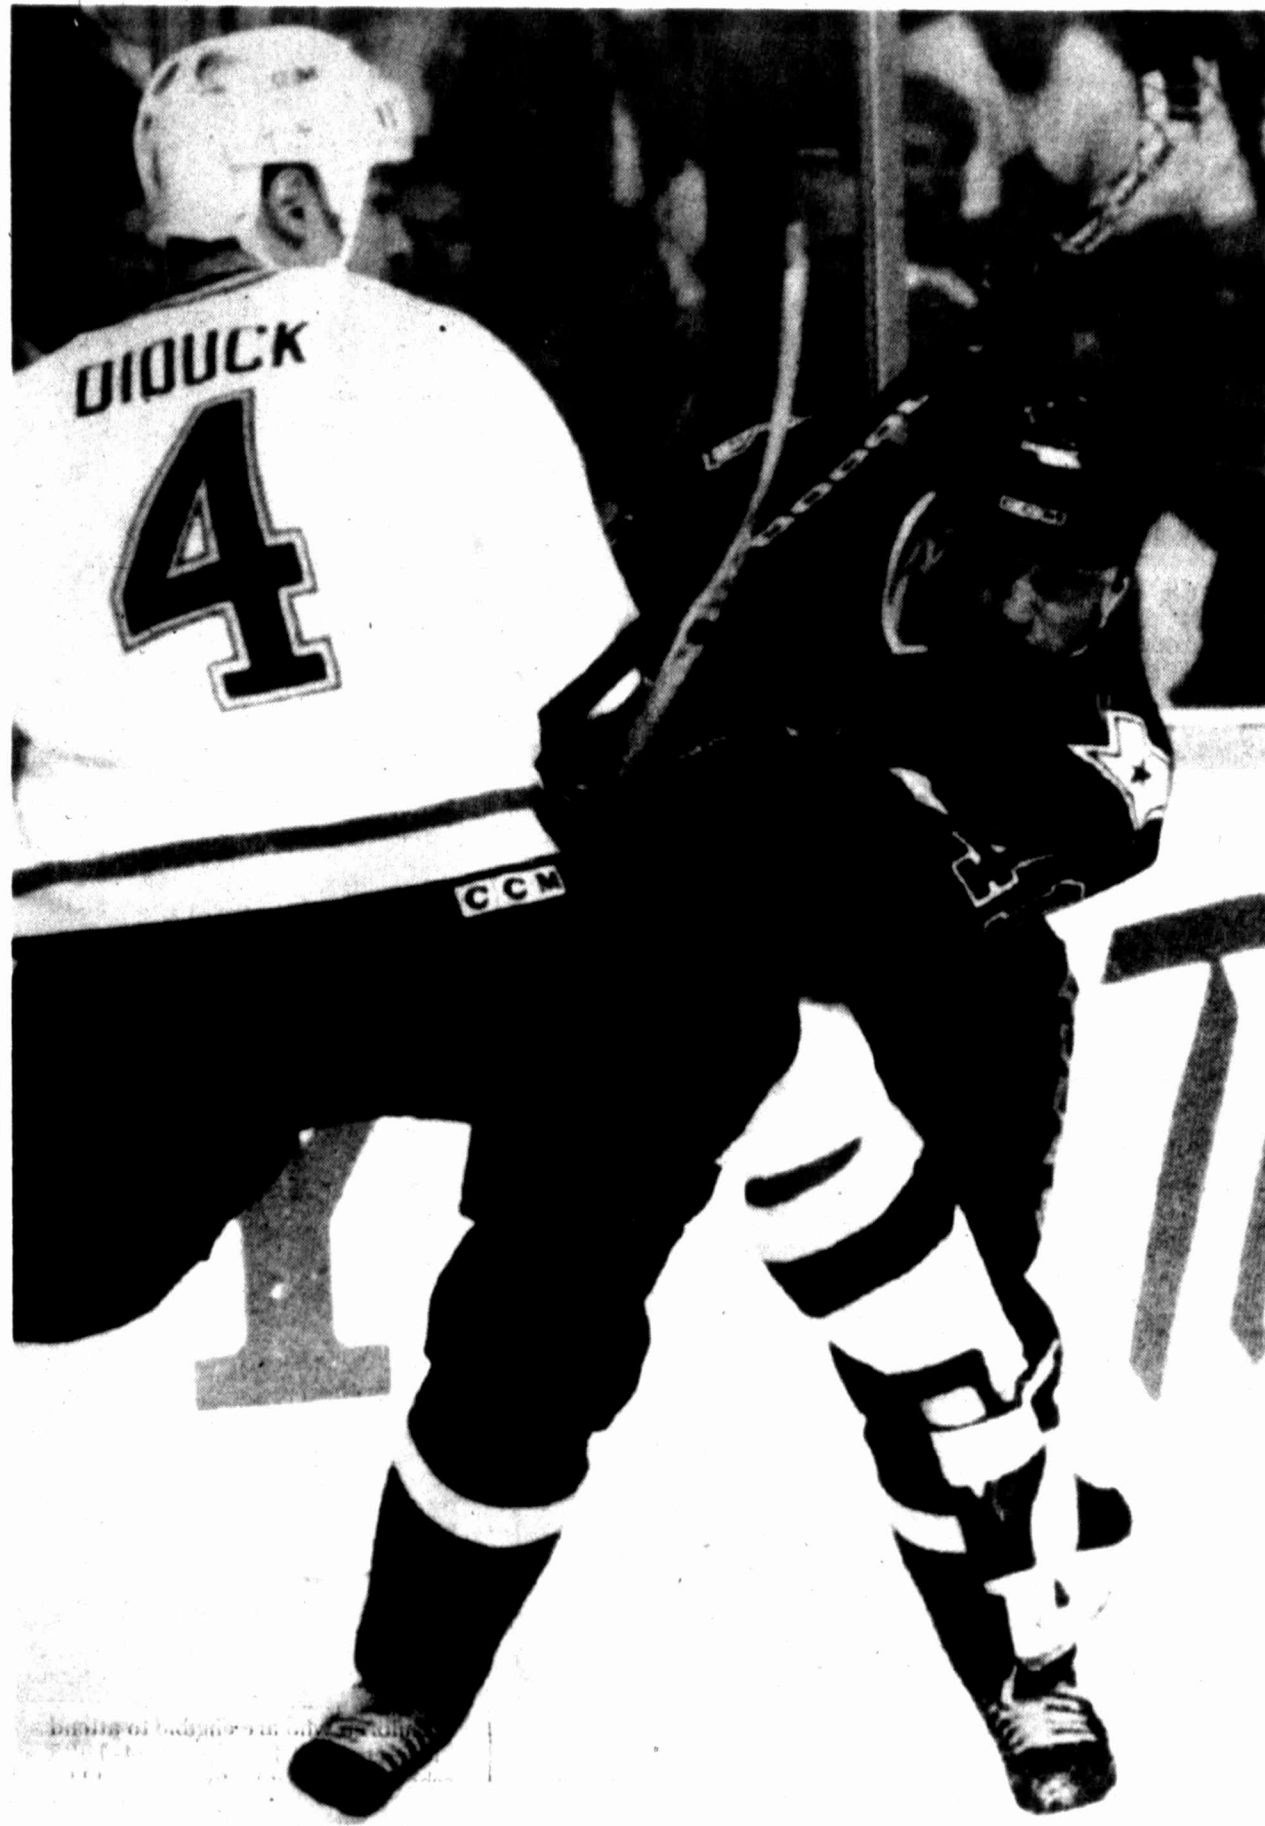

Fortunes turned in Vancouver's favor when the Canucks won three consecutive overtime games from the Flames, followed by two road victories in Dallas to open the series against the Stars.

Bure leads the NHL in playoff goals with nine and has a 10-game points streak, a club record, going into the third playoff round, against Toronto or San Jose. The Sharks lead the Maple Leafs 3-2 in that semifinal.

Nathan La Fayette and Bure scored for Vancouver in the first period of Game 5, with Murray Craven adding another in the second and Bure an insurance goal in the third.

Vancouver led 2-1 after the first period and 3-1 after 40 minutes.

"We've played patient, disciplined hockey in the playoffs and seem to be getting more turnover chances," said Vancouver forward Geoff Courtnall. "Our biggest con-

The Stars had the lead only once, when they won 4-3 in Game 3.

Mike Modano and Dave Gagner scored power-play goals in the last Dallas game of the season. Russ Courtnall was stopped six times by McLean in Game 5 and 30 times in the series as he went scoreless.

Dallas coach Bob Gainey tried to gain an upper hand late Tuesday when he requested McLean's stick be measured. Referee Terry Gregson found it to be legal and the Stars were assessed a bench minor for delay of game, all but sealing defeat.

"Kirk McLean played the kind of goal you need to advance," Gainey said.

Hawks to learn as they go against Navarro

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Howard College baseball coach Brian Roper has his thoughts about most of the teams in the state JUCO tournament.

"We know Odessa and Hill are two great teams from playing them," Roper said as he began sizing the field.

"Galveston is probably going to have the best athletes, the best personnel, and they were at the World Series last year. They've got a lot of phenomenal players."

"Northeast Texas has two players that could be first-round draft choices...Galveston will be loaded with them, too. McLennan will probably have the best pitching staff at the tournament."

Roper stops when he gets to Navarro and Laredo.

"Navarro and Laredo are the two teams we don't know much about."

Howard (45-9) plays Navarro (32-14) Saturday, 5 p.m., at Tarleton State University in Stephenville. Depending on Howard's fate in that opening game, it will play the winner or loser of the Hill-Laredo game, which follows the Howard-Navarro game Saturday night.

Knowing little about the Hawks' Saturday opponent doesn't bother Roper.

"Baseball's a game where it's not as much of a chess match as say football," he said. "In football, you do all kinds of scouting. We don't have a scouting report on Navarro, but it's not that important that we have one. What's important is for us to continue playing like we're capable of. When you come down to it, the team that throws strikes, makes the routine plays and gets the hits with runners in scoring position is going to win."

Navarro had its chance to see Howard play Sunday, when the Hawks swept a doubleheader at Hill Junior College.

Navarro coach Keith Thomas got a look at John Major (11-1), Howard's ace left-hander, who will be pitching Saturday. Navarro's top pitching star may be a reliever rather than a starter — Jamie Mullikin, a sophomore southpaw from Houston, has 18 saves, which Thomas believes is tops in the nation.

"Jamie Mullikin reminds me a lot of the kid Howard is throwing against us, the Major kid," Thomas said. "We thought Major was good — he has good command of his curve. Mullikin is a lot like that, he throws the same way."

Thomas said he has yet to decide on a pitcher for Saturday, but it will be either sophomore right-hander Dean Mitchell (9-3) or sophomore left-hander Nacho Morales (7-1). Howard's deepest concern, however, may be the heart of Navarro's batting order, which has Hawk-like numbers.

Navarro's No. 3 hitter, freshman shortstop Johnny Hunter, hit .430 from the right side of the plate this season with 57 RBIs. Batting behind him is left-handed hitting first baseman Matt Piskor (37-6) and switch-hitting outfielder Ronnie Martin (34-3). Piskor and Martin are sophomores.

"We've been hitting the ball really well lately," Thomas said. "We've peaked at the end, so we feel really good about going into the tournament."

Also, anyone 18 or older interested in playing in a men's or ladies' doubles tennis league should call Willis.

Pacers pancake Atlanta

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA — The Indiana Pacers hadn't played in eight days and coach Larry Brown was worried that the layoff might hurt. It did — but only in the first half.

Reserve Antonio Davis scored 12 of his 15 points in the third period and the Pacers overcame an early 12-point deficit Tuesday night in a 96-85 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in the opener of their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Dale Davis contributed 14 points and a game-high 15 rebounds for the Pacers, who had five players scoring in double figures.

Game 2 in the best-of-7 series is Thursday night in Atlanta, where the Hawks had the best home record in the conference (36-5) during the regular season.

Since then, however, they are 2-2 in the playoffs.

Antonio Davis hit on all six of his shots in the third quarter after the Pacers fell behind 23-11 early and trailed 53-47 at halftime. They outscored the Hawks 32-19 in the third quarter for a 79-72 lead.

"I was hopeful we could stay close in the first half and kind of get rid of the kinks," said Brown, who already has guided the Pacers to their most successful postseason.

Atlanta, the No. 1 seed in the East, went 8:55 between baskets late in the third period until Stacey Augmon scored with 4:38 left.

With 3:16 remaining, Danny Manning scored to get the Hawks to 85-83, but the Pacers got the next seven points — five by Reggie Miller — to put the game out of reach.

The Hawks made only one of their first 12 fourth-period shots and scored only 32 second-half points, a franchise record-low for the playoffs.

"I was worried about the layoff, but I didn't want to bring it to the team's attention," said Brown, whose club finished the regular season on an eight-game winning streak. Indiana then swept the

LEE'S RENTAL CENTER & SELF-STORAGE
Serving You For 24 Years -Experience Counts-
1606 E. FM 700
263-6925

"Family Owned and Operated" WE RENT EVERYTHING, ALMOST!

Have you been to Lee's Rental Center & Self Storage lately? We invite all of you to come by so you can see our "for the better" changes and growth.

Let us mention one important change first. Lanny Pierce, Lee's son, and his family have moved back to Big Spring to work with the organization. Guess you could say, you now have the "older seasoned" along with the "younger, fresh, and energetic" here to assist you for your rental needs. Our goal is to assist you, our valued customers, as efficiently and courteously as possible, and all of our crew makes us very proud of the good jobs they do.

New equipment? You bet!! New and larger trenchers, concrete saws and equipment, magnetic sweeper, pressure washers, OSHA approved scaffolds, concrete breakers, carpet cleaning and installation equipment, lawn and garden machines, air compressor, generators, ground compaction equipment, and much, much more!

If you rent equipment, it means you don't have to spend the money to purchase these tools, nor have to have the room to store them for long periods of time, nor keep them serviced through the years. This can be a real savings to the customer.

How many times do you find yourself looking for a tool or item, and you can't remember where it is stored, or maybe loaned out to your friend or neighbor? Renting solves these problems.

You, our customers, assist us by letting us know what equipment is needed. No new equipment can be considered unless it is known there is a need for it. Thanks for your keeping us posted about your needs.

Speaking of ideas, through the years many customers have shared their ideas of how they have solved certain problems, and these can be passed onto other customers when they have similar situations. This network of customer ideas is usually very helpful.

Another growth in progress is our planned expansion to have a special room for party goods. The foundation is in place, so the room will be a reality soon. This will group our party supplies, like punchbowls, coffee urns, champagne fountains, glasses, cups and plates, tables, chairs, etc. all together. We also have baby beds, high chairs, roll-away beds when company comes to see you.

Lee's Rental continues to serve Big Spring and all the neighboring communities as your 5-Star U-Haul dealer for over 19 years now. We have available trucks, trailers, boxes, and many other moving supplies. Please do call us at 263-6925 to make your U-Haul reservations. We can give you personal assistance here locally. Your personal needs are always considered. The sooner you call us for your U-Haul reservations, the better we can serve you.

The Self Storage units are easy access with wide enough drive space between units to make loading simpler. The hilltop location gives you peace of mind of no high waters seeping into your storage.

It continues to be our goal as we reach toward our 20th anniversary this next spring, is to serve our customers with practical rental needs at reasonable rates.

Hints On Horses
 Facts From The American Veterinary Medical Association

Buying a Horse

You can maximize the joys and minimize the expense of horse ownership if you use some horse sense and heed a few hints before you buy.

First, be prepared to spend at least an hour a day grooming, exercising and caring for the animal.

If you're buying a horse for a child, test the youngster's commitment by having him or her work at a local stable for a month or two.

Decide where you'll keep the horse and how much it will cost. Because riding is a team sport—of the horse and rider—it's important to get a horse that suits your style and temperament. A nervous, fearful rider should have a calm horse. An experienced rider will want a sensitive horse that responds to the lightest commands.

A good place to buy a horse is where you ride or plan to keep the animal. Riding instructors are also good agents and horse breeders are another good source.

When going to look at the animal, the first-time horse buyer should be accompanied by an experienced horseman or horsewoman. Look at the horse's eyes and ears and general demeanor when it's brought out. Does it look alert? Be sure you see the animal in a well-lit place, preferably outdoors in the sunlight. Watch the owner saddle up. Does the horse stand quietly; does it kick or bite?

Don't get on the animal right away. Ask the owner to ride the horse first. Watch how the animal acts when mounted—does it stand still or dance around? Ask the owner to take the horse through its gaits. Does

Free Consumer Guide For Selecting Homecare Services

In celebration of National Home Care Week, November 29-December 5, 1992, a complimentary consumer guide is now available for finding and selecting a provider of home infusion and respiratory therapy services.

"Thinking About Home Care, a free consumer guide published by NMC HOMECARE, will help people identify and select a home care provider that can meet their individual needs," says President Peter Spears. "It is an educational resource that explains the type of home infusion and respiratory therapy services available, who is eligible for care, the types of disease treated at home, and a checklist for making the right choice."

Spears explains that NMC HOMECARE developed the guide, based upon extensive experience in providing comprehensive homecare services for a wide range of clinical conditions including AIDS, cancer, and nutritional and respiratory disorders.

"Patients and their families face constant and enormous adversity in dealing with their illness," adds Spears. "We have designed this literature to ease their burden and enable them to make an informed decision."

The consumer guide is available free of charge by writing to NMC HOMECARE corporate headquarters, 1601 Trapelo Road, Waltham, MA 02154 or calling its toll-free number: 1-800-732-1175 or the local NMC HOMECARE office.

NMC HOMECARE, one of the nation's largest infusion and respiratory therapy companies with 70 service locations throughout the country, is a subsidiary of National Medical Care, Inc., a W.R. Grace Company.

Your Computer
 Go "Online" To Get Computer Software, Advice

Did you know that your personal computer can be a veritable supermarket of low-cost, high-quality software and advice about using computers?

A new online information service makes it easy for PC users with a modem to use more than 2,000 software programs—including free software and "shareware" that users can try before they buy. The new service, ZiffNet for PRODIGY, provides software and advice to help people get the most from their PCs.

With an online information service, software and information is stored on a mainframe computer. With a PC and a modem, you can use the online service to connect to the mainframe through phone lines and "download" copies of the software to your PC's hard disk for immediate use.

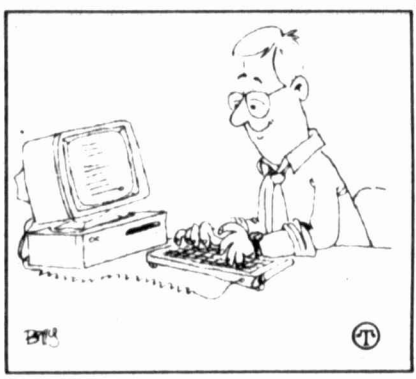

ZiffNet for PRODIGY offers "push-button" downloading of productivity-boosting software, as well as other information about computing, to users of PRODIGY, a hugely popular online service. As a "Custom Choice" on PRODIGY, ZiffNet for PRODIGY is available as an option in addition to the regular monthly PRODIGY fee.

ZiffNet for PRODIGY offers thousands of high-quality DOS and Windows software programs, including timesaving utilities, business applications such as spreadsheets and word processors, clip art, calendar software and popular games. The service also features hundreds of demos of commercially available software titles, so you can "test-drive" popular applications before you buy them.

With ZiffNet for PRODIGY, members can quickly and easily find, select, download and use the software. The service even includes "For Beginners," a special tutorial section that helps members who have never downloaded software before.

ZiffNet for PRODIGY also offers a range of other information services: news and commentary, including the latest news from PC Week; buying advice from the editors and experts at Ziff, the leading publisher of magazines about computing; technical advice to get the most from the hardware and software you already own; and a bulletin board that lets you talk to and ask questions of industry opinion leaders, Ziff editors and other ZiffNet for PRODIGY members.

BETTER BOATING
 Simple Rules Save Lives On Our Waterways

If you enjoy recreational boating, water skiing, wind surfing or jet skiing, knowing some simple rules about sharing our crowded waterways with commercial vessels could help ensure your safety on the water, experts agree.

Millions of recreational boaters share the waterways with 7,000 towboats and tugboats and over 30,000 barges—a crowded situation that has resulted in deaths and serious injuries. Many recreational boaters don't realize the dangers of operating near tugboats, towboats and barges. They don't comprehend a commercial vessel's size, relatively slow maneuverability and the unseen dangers of getting too close to commercial vessels.

That's why the American Waterways Operators (AWO), the national trade association of the inland and ocean-going tug and barge industry, developed a special boating safety education program called Lifelines. "The sail boater, power boater, fisherman or water skier has just as much right to be on the water as the tugboat, towboat or commercial fishing boat," says Joe Farrell, President of AWO. "However, we all need to be more aware of each other and to understand the constraints, needs, restrictions, abilities and just plain facts of each others' existence on the waterways," he adds.

SAFETY SENSE

Even with the recent technological advancements in air bags and anti-theft systems, drivers' safety and security concerns continue to grow. Whether on expansive freeways or urban streets, motorists need to be more aware than ever. Recognizing this, Shell Oil Company continues to provide free information on safer and smarter driving.

Since 1976, the company has helped drivers with its "Answer Books," which provide useful tips on safe driving, car care and emergency repair. To select topics for the "Answer Books," Shell asks motorists about their biggest concerns and what they'd most like to learn more about. Then the company uses its own experts as well as others with organizations such as the National Safety Council, the Environmental Protection Agency and the American Automobile Association to compile and present easy-to-follow information. For example:

- The Bad Weather Driving Book advises drivers to turn on their low beam headlights in bad weather. Day or night, low beams can help you see better and help others see you.
- If you suspect your engine is about to overheat, try turning on the heater. The Emergency Repair Book says the heater draws heat away from the engine.
- To make your tires last longer, The Early Warning Book advises keeping them properly inflated at all times. Driving on underinflated tires also reduces fuel economy and can be dangerous.
- To decrease the risk of personal attack in or around your car, The Driver's Security Book tells motorists to park in well lit, familiar places.
- Driving less is the single best way to save gasoline, according to The Environment Book. Whenever possible, carpool or use mass transit to conserve fuel. You'll save money and the environment.

There are nine books available in the latest "Answer Book" series, including The Better Mileage Book, The Driving Skills Book, The On-The-Road First Aid Book and The Auto Theft Prevention Book.

For a free copy of any book in the "Answer Series," ask at your local Shell station, call toll-free 1-800-23-SHELL or write to Shell Answers, Shell Oil Company, Dept. M, P.O. Box 4681, Houston, TX 77210.

Silence Is Golden—But Not When It Comes To Talking About Alcohol

"You can drink alcohol, why can't I?" Parents are finding helpful answers to their children's tough questions with the help of a special public service program.

A free kit can help parents deal with preteens' questions about alcohol use.

It's a kit called "Talking About Alcohol," developed by Education Development Center (EDC) to help guide parents through the difficult task of talking to their preteens about alcohol. Since its introduction in 1989, more than 50,000 kits have been requested by parents nationwide, and results of a recent Michigan State University survey indicate that the materials are improving communication and understanding between parents and children.

"Talking About Alcohol," which was commissioned by Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc., consists of a 25-minute audiocassette and handbook, available to parents free of charge by calling 1-800-SEAGRAM. While the kit prepares parents for tough questions from their preteens and helps them learn important facts about alcohol, the main focus is on ways to discuss drinking and how parents can communicate consistent non-drinking messages to their preteens.

UNDERSTANDING SOCIAL SECURITY AND MEDICARE

Over 65 And Still Working? Don't Miss Out On Social Security Benefits You May Be Entitled To Receive

By Martha A. McSteen, President, The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

You may be eligible for Social Security benefits for several months this year even if you continue to work at earning substantially over the Social Security annual earnings limitation. The same is true for dependent spouses and widow(er)s of retired workers.

McSteen tests whether an applicant for benefits has actually retired by looking at current earnings. If an insured worker, dependent spouse, or widow(er) has little or no earnings, Social Security benefits are payable every month of the year. In 1991, eligible individuals aged 65 through 69 are considered fully retired—and eligible for 12 months of benefits—if annual earnings do not exceed $9,720.

But some benefits might be payable even if earnings are considerably over this exempt amount. Over $9,720, $1 in benefits is offset for every $3 in excess earnings—much better than the $1 for $2 offset which formerly applied.

Social Security can tell you if you are eligible for some benefits or you can quite easily determine the answer for yourself. Here's how:

Call Social Security at 1/800/234-5772 and ask how much you are eligible to receive in monthly Social Security benefits. Multiply your monthly benefits by 12 to learn how much you could receive in Social Security benefits this year.

Then estimate your 1991 earnings. From your earnings, subtract the $9,720 exempt amount to determine the excess. Divide your excess earnings by three (because the offset is only one-third) and subtract the answer from your full year's Social Security benefits. The difference is the benefits you are eligible to receive this year even if you do not retire.

For example, suppose your annual earnings are $26,000 and your benefits are $600 a month or $7,200 per year. You would subtract $9,720 from $26,000. The answer, $16,280, divided by three, is $5,427. Subtract $5,427 from your $7,200 annual benefits and you learn that you are entitled to $1,773 for the year, almost three months of Social Security benefits, in spite of earnings well over the exempt amount. Using this example of earnings and benefits, Social Security could pay a partial check for October and full benefits for November and December.

If you told Social Security you intended to continue working, benefits would stop in January, but would begin again late in 1992. The month benefits would resume would depend on next year's exempt amount and your estimated 1992 earnings. Naturally, if you stopped working completely, benefits would be payable every month.

Individuals under age 65 have a lower exempt amount—$7,080 in 1991, and are still subject to a $1 offset for each $2 of excess earnings.

Beginning with the month any worker reaches age 70, there is no longer an earnings test. Full benefits are paid every month without regard to earnings.

You can learn more about issues of special concern to older Americans, including Social Security and Medicare, by joining the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, an organization devoted to improving retirement income and health care. Free brochures about the organization and a copy of its newspaper are available by writing to: National Committee, 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Martha A. McSteen is President of the five million member National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare. She spent 39 years with the Social Security Administration, rising from claims representative to acting Commissioner. As one of the ten original Regional Medicare Administrators, Mrs. McSteen has an understanding of Medicare unique in the nation.

Employers Plan Changes In Benefits

(NAPS)—What will happen to health care insurance, retirement plans, and other employee benefits in 1993? Skyrocketing health care costs and an increasingly diverse workforce will lead to many changes, according to the experts who spoke at BenTrends '93, a recent Washington briefing on employee benefits.

Higher costs will force more than half of U.S. employers to make significant changes in their employee benefit plans, according to a survey released by the Employers Council on Flexible Compensation. The survey shows that fifty-six percent of those employers plan to change workers' health benefits, seventeen percent will change retirement plans and ten percent will alter flextime or leave policies. Nearly 60 percent of those surveyed cited the rising cost of benefits for employers and employees as the primary factor causing changes in their benefits packages.

"Employers are committed to assuring that the quality and value of benefits employees receive does not decrease despite cost increases," said Ken Feltman, executive director of the Employers Council on Flexible Compensation (ECFC).

William Bennett, of Colonial Life & Accident Insurance Company, said "With employee benefits in the U.S. costing a trillion dollars annually, the future will bring us greater cost sharing between employer and employee. But along with that cost sharing will be a partnership with employees selecting benefits to meet their individual needs."

Most of the employers who responded to the ECFC survey—77 percent—believe their employees are well informed about the benefits available to them; and 50 percent expect to increase expenditures for benefit communications next year.

"As more and more companies shift from defined benefit pension plans to defined contribution plans, and employees are becoming more responsible for their own retirement planning, top management must face the fact that employees need more basic investment education," said Albert Schlachtmeyer of Hewitt Associates.
