911 is centralized

City, council, 911 officials work on finalizing details

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

City and county officials met behind closed doors Wednesday afternoon to discuss the emergency 911 system. After an hour of discussion, it was decided that 911 would become centralized.

"There were three main topics we all agreed on. We would centralize all 911 dispatching, it would be located in the basement of the courthouse and 911 would be the authority," explained Howard County Judge Ben Lockhart.

Lockhart, City Manager Lanny Lambert, Mayor Tim Blackshear, Chief Jerry Edwards, Sheriff A.N. Standard and 911 Coordinator Carl Dorton were all in attendance.

Last Monday, Sheriff Standard addressed the county commissioners about the importance of centralizing the 911 system.

In recent history, there has been some miscommunication concerning who is responsible for dispatching emergency calls for the sheriff's department in the early morning hours when they do not have a dispatcher.

According to the 911 contract between the city, county and 911 district, there is to be a written policy detailing how the city dispatchers are to handle 911 emergency calls for all county entities. However, that had not been done by the sheriff's department and those calls were forwarded to them so that someone could dispatch deputies to a scene.

When asked for his reaction on yesterday's decision, Standard stated, "I have no comment for you about this."

"Carl Dorton will begin looking into the cost of moving the dispatchers to the basement. We are looking at a time frame of about one to two months to move to the new office," said Lockhart.

"I will be talking to my board of managers individually today to give me a direction to go on. Everybody tentatively agreed that we need to have this and it is a very good move for the community," said Dorton.

"We also agreed that we need to have extended coverage and to begin that immediately. We need to make arrangements for the dispatchers to begin handling 911 calls for the sheriff's department during that down period in the morning," Lockhart said.

"Sheriff Standard and I will be talking with each other

Brown, Hale lead graduates for Westbrook

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

WESTBROOK - A dozen tassels will hang from the mortarboard caps of the graduates when Westbrook High School conducts its 1994 commencement Friday evening. Eighth grade graduates will also be honored.

Leading the way will be valedictorian Jay Browne and Sheila Hale and Greg Conaway who tied for salutatorian honors. The program begins at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

While excelling in the classroom with a 4.39 GPA, Browne also transcended the extracurricular field. His list of activities includes four years of participation in basketball and baseball, two years in football, four years in FFA, Annual Chamber of Commerce Fly In, Christmas in April, class government and several UIL competitions.

Browne says he plans to attend Western Texas College in the Fall and then transfer to Texas A&M to major in computer engineering. He is the son of Jimmy and Leona Browne of Colorado City.

Hale's grade point average is also notable. Finishing with a 4.26, her achievements extend beyond the classroom.

A member of the Gifted and Talented program, she has been active in UIL activities, tennis, basketball, softball, writing, cheerleading, FHA, class government and was voted several honors by her peers, including the most likely to succeed.

Like Browne, Hale plans to attend WTC and then transfer to Texas Tech University to major in interdisciplinary studies.

Conaway is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Conaway Jr. and tied with Hale to receive salutatorian status.

Honors and activities include Who's Who in American High Schools, a member of the Mitchell County Youth Center Board of Directors, athletic honor student, baseball, basketball, football numer-

Kindergarten Center teacher Ruth Nanny helps student Natasha Neighbors with word recognition by using flashcards. After working for the BSISD for 27 years, Nanny will be retiring at the end of the school year.

Family was big help when Ruth Nanny chose teaching

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Ruth Nanny has worked for the Big Spring Independent School District for 27 years and is ready to retire.

In 1967, she worked at Kentwood Elementary serving meals to students then moved to the high school baking bread in the kitchen.

"I was then an aide in the Head Start program and did that for four years. I started going to night and summer schools at Howard College to get my degree while working there. As an aide for Head Start, you were required to get your degree.

I then took off for one and a half years so that I could attend the University of Texas of the Permian Basin full time. I graduated in December and went back to Head Start in January," said Nanny.

Nanny then taught kindergarten at Lakeview for seven years and at Marcy for two years. When the Anderson Kindergarten Center opened eight years ago, Nanny moved there.

"God has had a hand in all of this. I wasn't smart enough to make the decision. Did I want to be a teacher? It was the furthest thing from my mind. I have five children and needed a job where my hours would work with theirs. That is when the kitchen job at the high school opened and I could work eight to three. It was perfect.

Then, Head Start opened and decided I would try it-what do I have to lose. When I was attending UTPB, I didn't have to go all five days. My classes worked out so all my classes were either Monday, Wednesday and Friday or all on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

I graduated in December and a full time teaching job came open at Head Start the next month. Teachers usually don't leave at mid-term but her husband was a pilot and got transferred. Everything has fallen into place for me," Nanny explained.

Nanny says that teaching these days is a bit more challenging because more and more children are in pre-school and have Barney and Sesame Street to learn things from.

"We still meet individual needs and try to

Big Spring receives further I-27 support

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce has received some good news concerning the Interstate 27 project.

During Wednesday's chamber meeting, Executive Vice President Terry Burns read a letter from the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce stating "they fully support the I-27 project from Lubbock, through Big Spring to San Angelo. They are dedicated to the task and appreciate Big Spring for their support to obtain this goal. However, they will remain neutral about I-27 being expanded south of San Angelo to Interstate 10. The road could go through Junction or (through Sonora to) Del Rio," said Burns.

Burns added the Big Spring chamber does support the interstate being built to go through Del Rio. This would be very beneficial to Big Spring because of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the fact that Del Rio is on the Mexico border.

Both Lubbock and Amarillo Chambers of Commerce have indicated that at this point they will remain neutral concerning where they would like to see I-27 built, whether it be through Big Spring or between Midland and Odessa.

"Odessa and Midland have made a pitch to Lubbock but they are still neutral at this time. Next month, we will go to Lubbock and make our pitch to them to either support us or remain neutral," Burns explained.

"It will be at least a year before we here anything about the decision of where I-27 will be built," said Jeff Morris, president of the chamber.

At-A-Glance

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce discussed the following Wednesday:

- The convention and visitors bureau reported that after attending a meeting in Austin, the Texas Department of Highways is supportive of building a hike and bike trail in Big Spring. The DOT will provide 80 percent of the money through a grant and the chamber will be responsible for raising the other 20 percent.

- A community workshop will be held June 14 by the Texas Department of Commerce. Residents of Big Spring are encouraged to attend a wine and cheese reception the evening before, June 13, to meet the TDOC representatives.

- Retirement ads will be placed in several June publications as well as a magazine called Second Careers which is designed for those searching for a job after leaving the military.

- The health fair was considered a tremendous success with at least 3,000 people in attendance. Because of the great response, it will be moved from the Big Spring Mall to the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Turn the laugh track on at 'Noises Off'

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

A review

The play's the thing, but so are the eccentricities of the case in "Noises Off," the play by Michael Frayn which is being presented by the West Texas Center for the Arts.

Directed by Tracie Wilkerson, the play features members of the West Texas Players, a group formed early this year: Kay Oylar, Kelly Gray, Aaron Hunsaker, Dana Lloyd, Michelle Barrera, Barry Trahan, Michelle Werner, Matthew Fleharty and Pat Barrera.

The "play within a play" requires most of the cast to play two roles, that of the actors and that of the actors' characters.

The subplot is the play the "actors" are trying to put together, with limited success. The comedy of errors involves a country home owned by the Brents, played by actors Frederick and Belinda (Trahan and Werner).

The Brents have supposedly moved to Spain, or so housekeeper Mrs. Clackett, played by Dotty (Oylar) tells people. But, they are only hiding from Vicki the tax collector, played by temperamental actress Brooke (Lloyd).

Roger the realtor, played by Garry (Hunsaker) stops by to show the house—not to a client but to Vicki, his lover. Meanwhile the Brents sneak back to their house, expecting a quiet weekend because everyone thinks they're in Spain.

To further complicate things, enter a burglar played by aging grande dame Selsdon (Pat Barrera). Stagehand Tim (Fleharty) and production assistant Poppy (Michelle Barrera), commanded by dictatorial director Lloyd (Gray), periodically pop in to soothe injured egos and run errands.

All the roles are capably acted, and Oylar maintained a likable presence with her Cockney-accented housekeeper. Pat Barrera, as Selsdon, initially seemed to overact the part.

However, her loudly projected voice and exaggerated English accent proved suitable for a character who seems to consider herself larger than life.

In Acts 2 and 3, Barrera used a variety of amusing facial expressions as Selsdon finds herself unable to consistently cope with the backstage and onstage weirdness.

The best moments belong to Gray as Lloyd, the director who verbally and physically abuses his cast, only to be completely worn down by them at the end.

Gray is consistent and superb as the spoiled English director. He maintained his accent throughout the play, while several of the other actors drifted in and out of an English accent. He struck the right blend of traits, injecting some sympathy into a character who could easily become too unpleasant to be funny.

Fleharty, as the perpetually bewildered Tim, has many small, wonderful moments as he becomes dragged into backstage intrigues and onstage substitutions for injured actors.

The first act dragged slightly, with a little too much talk. The second act, which shows the backstage confusion while the play is taking place before an imaginary audience, is a fine example of physical comedy.

The cast has very little dialogue in Act 2, except for a stunning revelation Poppy makes to Lloyd (so stunning that the "actors" interrupt the play to peek backstage and see what's going on).

However, they seemed to have a wonderful time attempting to beat each other up, give each other flow-ers, shove each other through stage entrances and chase after an elusive bottle of whiskey, among other lunacies. The audience at Wednesday night's dress rehearsal had just as much fun watching them.

Some of the dialogue in "Noises Off" has been changed to reflect a West Texas setting, but the "Fawcety Towers"-style English mania is preserved. There are plenty of laugh-out-loud moments, particularly in Acts 2 and 3.

One suggestion to increase audience enjoyment of the play: all the actors save for Gray, Oylar and Pat Barrera might speak their lines a little more slowly and clearly—at times, it was difficult to understand them.

The play will be presented at the Howard College auditorium tonight through Saturday at 8 p.m., with a Sunday matinee performance.

Tickets are $2.50 to $7 and are available at the West Texas Center for the Arts at Howard College, 264-5115, or at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

This July 4 fireworks display was given. So far, committee members have raised $4,000 with an additional $4,000 needed. Chamber members expressed the need for the community to support the display and to make donations.

There was some discussion of Rep. Charles Stenholm coming to Big Spring in the fall to hold a public forum about health care.

The results of a survey of chamber members was done to see how they felt about changing the bylaws of the Moore Board to include city council approval of individual expenses and programs. The response indicated that 79 percent of the members oppose such a decision.

Chamber members are gearing up for their annual membership drive to be held Wednesday, May 25.

The minority committee has indicated they would like some sort of bulletin board to be posted at the chamber office. This would give people the opportunity to post upcoming events and for residents to know more about what is going on in Big Spring.

A new business, Consumer Credit Counseling, will be having a ribbon cutting ceremony at 10:30 a.m. on May 24 at 309 Main Street.

handle the cuing for the round dances.

Stukel said callers are hard to find, especially locally. He said a caller visits Big Spring, teaching the art.

Saturday begins with a round dance workshop at 1 p.m. followed by a square dance workshop at 3 p.m. Dancing follows the workshops at 8 p.m.

Stukel, who started taking square dance lessons in 1968, said the biggest change is square dancing is becoming more complicated.

"During the Saturday workshops, we will work on the latest steps and on the more complicated calls," he said. "There used to be about 50 to 60 basic calls. Now, there are close to 78."

Stukel said Big Spring is home to the best dance hall for square dancing. "We have a good large room with no obstructions and a good wooden floor which is good for dancing."

Although a good attendance is expected, Stukel said he has seen a decline in interest in square dancing. "It runs in cycles and it is at a low peak across the nation. Our club has about 23 members, which is the lowest it has been."

But, he added, it is good exercise and good fellowship.

Cost for the festival is $25 per couple for all events; $10 for Friday evening; and $20 for Saturday events.

reach the child. I have to come up with fun things to keep their attention and expose them to new worlds. It's hard when they say 'we've already learned this in pre-school.'

When asked why she decided to retire this year Nanny responded, "It just felt right. I thought about it last year and what my husband and I wanted to do. There were too many questions at that time and from the beginning of this year, it has felt right. I am smart enough to realize it's time to retire. I am still a good teacher and I want to go out on that note.

I have to give credit to my husband and kids. A.D. was working shift work while I was going to school and trying to study. I was gone a lot and they backed me all the way. I don't think I could have done it without them. I never got any flak from any of them and I'm grateful," Nanny added.

work out how the calls will be handled for them. I will write up a proposal on how to do that and give it to Standard for his approval," said Edwards. This proposal will be used to handle the emergency calls for the sheriff's department until the centralized system is put into place.

"I feel like the meeting was productive and a joint dispatching service would save us all money and be good for the community," Lambert said.

BSSH honors nurses with luncheon

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

"Charting the Course for a Healthy Nation" was the theme at Big Spring State Hospital's Annual Appreciation Luncheon for nurses recently.

As a combination effort observing National Nurses' Week, the event was chosen to honor all registered and licensed vocational nurses employed by BSSH.

In addition to acknowledging all nurses, the hospital provided special awards naming the Psychiatric L.V.N. and Psychiatric R.N.s of the Year.

BSSH employee Adam Yanez presented the L.V.N. award to Don Belcher. "It was very difficult to make the decision," said Yanez. "But Don was chosen because he works on the floor with direct care staff whenever needed. He also supervises with a strong but compassionate hand and is well-respected by his staff."

Bonifacio Salazar made the presentation for two R.N.s. "This year, the selection was so close and the candidates so equal, we had to choose both," said Salazar.

Chosen was Melvin Berry for his willingness to take on extra assignments and acceptance of challenges. "He has accepted challenges with the highest sense of willingness and enthusiasm," said Salazar.

Also chosen was Pam Yanez, who started working for the hospital first as a secretary. Unit Administrator Leslie Yarbrough explained, "She started looking around and decided she wanted to do more."

"She went to school, made great sacrifices and achieved her goal by completing Howard College's Associate Degree in Nursing program. She has set a real example to all our staff," Yarbrough added.

Concerns about Social Security and Veterans Administration benefits topped an informal meeting between Big Spring residents and a member of Rep. Charles Stenholm's staff.

Jayne Schoonmaker, of Stenholm's San Angelo office, was in town Tuesday to give people an opportunity to discuss problems they may be having.

"Most of those who came to talk to me expressed concerns about VA claims and benefits as well as Social Security Administration regulations and disability claims.

"I feel like we had a good turnout and I am so pleased with the amount of people that responded. I was kept busy the whole two hours I was here and talked to 12 people. Getting the opportunity to visit with people really makes the trip worthwhile," said Schoonmaker.

In past meetings, Schoonmaker said the majority of those who came to talk with her were senior citizens concerned with health care and the economy. "We did have a tremendous response from all ages on the crime bill and gun legislation," said Schoonmaker.

Stenholm's staff has been making the trip to Big Spring for the past three years and they try to come every three months or so. "As long as there is a need, we'll keep coming. We do this because people don't like to call on the phone or feel like their letters aren't professional enough. They would rather visit face to face with someone."

Gooch, Keyes top students at Sands

By BARBARA MORRISON

Use of grant money defended

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards is standing by Texas Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno's handling of a multimillion-dollar state grant whose funding has been suspended by the National Science Foundation.

Meno said Wednesday he's the one who asked that the grant funding be temporarily stopped, while the math and science program it supported could be re-tooled to be more effective.

Some state university faculty members have said the Texas Education Agency mismanaged the program, leading to the possibility that it could be terminated.

Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush's campaign seized on news reports about the program's suspension to criticize the TEA and the Democratic governor.

"The TEA train is off the track," said Bush spokeswoman Deborah Burston-Wade.

"Gov. Richards has abandoned her responsibility to oversee her appointees at the agency," Ms. Burston-Wade said, citing Meno in particular.

Meno denied any mismanagement. The program developed by the University of Texas was put in place in 1992-93, Meno said. But he said he asked last year that its funding be temporarily stopped.

Meno said he wanted the program to be re-tooled to bring "cutting-edge" math and science courses to schools statewide, rather than just producing outstanding pilot programs on a few campuses.

The federal grant is $2 million a year for a total of five years, renewable annually, Meno said. He said the re-designed program deserves continued funding, and he plans to meet next week with National Science Foundation officials.

"I certainly am going to make a strong pitch for it," Meno said. He said it would be "unfortunate" for Texas to be penalized for "a prudent management style of protecting the taxpayers' money and getting maximum use out of it."

The state will work toward improving math and science education with or without the grant, he said.

Richards backed up his action. "I think what they did was appropriate, because you want all kids to benefit," she said.

Molesting sentence requires giving up piano, warning sign

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — A 66-year-old music instructor has been forced to give up his prized $12,000 piano and post a sign on his front door warning children to stay away as part of his sentence for child molesting.

George R. Marrs, 66, pleaded no contest Wednesday to charges he fondled two children, ages 9 and 10, who came to him for piano lessons.

State District Judge Ted Poe sentenced Marrs to 30 days in jail, 20 years of deferred adjudication and 20 hours of community service a week for an unspecified amount of time.

Poe, who is known for his unusual sentencing, also told Marrs that for the next 20 years he must have a sign on the front door of his home that reads: "No Children Under the Age of 18 Allowed on These Premises By Court Order."

"Since the defendant didn't go to prison, it's only appropriate that the people in the community know that he is a danger to the community," the judge said.

Marrs, who for years gave piano lessons to young children in his home, must give his piano to a Houston children's home and is not allowed to buy a new one.

Poe told Marrs he could not even play a piano until the end of his 20-year probation.

"He stole the desire from these girls to play the piano, so he shouldn't be able to play the piano either," Poe said.

Task force scrutinizes 50,000 suspects in the I-70 killings

The Associated Press

WICHITA, Kan. — A police task force is scheduled to review a list of some 50,000 potential suspects in a string of killings along interstate highways.

A serial killer who killed two women at a Wichita bridal shop in 1992 apparently has struck again in Texas, and a three-state task force will begin meeting again next week to pore over a list of potential suspects, investigators said Wednesday.

Wichita police were sending a detective to the task force meeting in Jefferson City, Mo., on Monday to try to determine how many slayings attributable to the so-called I-70 killer have occurred since he murdered six people in April and May 1992, said Capt. Ron West.

Because the killer is believed to have murdered three people in stores near I-35, he is now being referred to as the I-70/I-35 killer.

Interest in the case was rekindled recently, West said, when investigators in Texas concluded that the same killer shot a woman to death in an Arlington dancewear shop on Nov. 1.

In addition to the seven identified victims, West said, the task force — involving Kansas, Missouri and Indiana authorities — will try to determine next week whether the killer is responsible for any other slayings that have occurred along I-35. In addition to Wichita, the interstate runs through Minneapolis, Des Moines, Kansas City, Oklahoma City, Dallas and San Antonio.

"We are going to look at the cases that occurred in 1993 and some that occurred in 1994," West said. "There is no doubt that this person is a serial killer, and the indications are that it has continued."

West said task force investigators would use a database that includes the names of 50,000 people who were near the scenes of at least one of the crimes. The lists will include all known witnesses as well as people who were registered in nearby hotels and motels on the dates of the slayings.

A computer will determine whether any people were in the area of two or more killings, West said. Anyone who was in two or more cities on the dates of the murders will be considered a prime suspect, he said.

The suspect is a white man, thought to be 33 or 34 years old and 5-foot-5 to 5-foot-7. He has sandy blond hair with a reddish tint, West said, and talks softly without an accent. Anyone with information about any of the slayings has been asked to call police.

There are several similarities that tie the cases together. Six of the victims were women. The victims were alone in small stores when they were killed, usually in strip shopping centers that did little walk-in business. All were shot in the head with a small-caliber handgun.

A summary of the slayings: — April 8, 1992 — A shoe-store clerk was found shot to death in Indianapolis.

— April 11, 1992 — Two women were shot to death at a bridal shop in Wichita.

— April 27, 1992 — A ceramics-store clerk was shot to death in Terre Haute, Ind.

— May 3, 1992 — A Western-footwear clerk was shot to death in St. Charles, Mo.

— May 7, 1992 — A video store clerk was shot to death in Raytown, Mo.

— Nov. 1, 1993 — A dancewear-shop clerk was shot to death in Arlington, Texas.

Death row inmate dropping appeals

BEAUMONT (AP) — A convicted murderer says he wants to die and is withdrawing all his appeals to clear the way for lethal injection.

In a May 15 letter, death row inmate Michael Lee Lockhart confesses his guilt in the 1988 slaying of a Beaumont police officer and tells a state district judge he's dropping all appeals of his execution.

In the letter addressed to state District Court Judge Larry Gist, Lockhart asks the judge to set an execution date for him, the Beaumont Enterprise reported today.

"It is time that I take responsibility for the crimes I've committed against mankind. I will not allow my attorney to file any more appeals on my behalf," Lockhart wrote.

Lockhart was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to die for shooting Beaumont police officer Paul Hulsey Jr. to death at a motel on 11th Street on March 22, 1988.

Lobbyist for A&M enters no contest plea

AUSTIN (AP) — A former lobbyist for the Texas A&M University System has pleaded no contest to a charge of official misconduct stemming from alleged fraudulent reimbursement practices.

Timothy Shaunty, 49, who was with the A&M System for 23 years in areas of teaching and research, had served as its legislative affairs director in Austin for the 1993 Legislature. He was fired on March 31, according to A&M System spokeswoman Terri Parker.

Hubert Davis free throws give New York 3-2 series lead

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Superstars get the calls, the NBA adage goes. Second-year guards who play 14 minutes don't get the calls.

Tradition took a hard hit at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night, certainly a harder hit than Hubert Davis took with 2.1 seconds left, leading to his two free throws and an 87-86 New York victory over Chicago.

SportsExtra, page 8

"It looked dead certain we weren't going to win," coach Pat Riley said. "But we got a great, great play by a young player, hitting two pressure free throws."

Down 86-85, the Knicks inbounded the ball to John Starks, whose path to the basket was cut off. He passed to Davis, who took the shot from just inside the 3-point line.

Contesting the shot was perennial All-Star and Olympian Scottie Pippen.

Davis got the call, and when Anthony Mason deflected an inbound pass intended for Pippen, the Knicks had their victory in Game 5 of their Eastern Conference series, giving them a 3-2 lead.

Chicago coach Phil Jackson was furious with the call by referee Hue Hollins, saying he "never saw a game end quite like that."

He stomped out of a postgame press conference without answering a question, and Pippen also refused to comment.

Hollins' late call was defended by fellow referee Darrell Garretson, Patrick Ewing of the New York Knicks, left, steals the ball from behind Chicago Bull Luc Longley Wednesday at New York's Madison Square Garden. The Knicks won 87-86 to take a 3-2 lead in the Eastern Conference semifinal series.

the NBA's supervisor of officials. "It's important to define what a shooter is," Garretson said. "A shooter remains a shooter until he regains his balance. Hue is looking for contact on the shot."

New York needs one victory for its first series win ever against the three-time defending champion Bulls.

Patrick Ewing had 20 points and 13 rebounds, Charles Smith 16 points and Charles Oakley 14 points and 11 rebounds for the Knicks. Pippen scored 23 points, B.J. Armstrong 21 and Horace Grant 14 for the Bulls, who must return to New York for Game 7 on Sunday if they win Friday night.

Consecutive baskets by Ewing, his first points since the first quarter, gave the Knicks a 79-73 lead with nine minutes left. The Bulls pulled within one four times, the last time at 85-84 on Pippen's two free throws with 1:29 left, before Armstrong gave them an 86-85 edge with 44 seconds left, just before the 24-second clock expired.

Ewing, fouled by Bill Cartwright, missed two crucial free throws with 31 seconds left, but the Knicks got the ball back with 7.6 seconds remaining after a missed shot by Armstrong.

New York trailed by as many as nine points in the first half as Starks and Anthony scored two points each on a combined 1-for-6 shooting. However, the two starting guards each scored seven of the Knicks' first 20 points of the second half and made six of their eight shots in the third period, helping them lead by as many as six before settling for a 73-71 edge going into the fourth quarter.

Sidewinders come from far and near for state meet

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

Gymnasts from far and near will be in Big Spring Saturday for the YMCA state gymnastics meet. That's only fair, because gymnasts come from far and near to compete for the local team.

Russ McEwen has built the reputation of the Big Spring YMCA Sidewinders to the extent that girls throughout West Texas are more than eager to sit through two or three-hour drives several times a week just to train in his gym.

Once such youngster is Julie Golsen, a 9-year-old from Rankin who makes a 200-mile round trip three times a week to Big Spring. The weekly trekking has paid off for Julie, who has advanced two gymnast levels since beginning the sport in September.

She became interested in the sport, naturally, by watching the Olympics on TV. After participating in power tumbling for a year, she began training under McEwen on the advice of her tumbling instructor.

She enjoys training in Big Spring, but admits she could do without the long-distance traveling.

"It does (get boring) sometimes," she said. "But there's two different routes to take here, so if we get tired of one route, we'll try another one."

The state meet begins at 10 a.m. Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on the Howard College campus. The first group of competitors will be Level 4, or beginner's class, gymnasts. Level 5 gymnasts will compete in the afternoon session from 2:30-4:30 p.m., with Levels 6-7 and optional competitors taking the floor for the evening session at 7:15 p.m.

McEwen wants everybody who can possibly attend to do so, but said the best show will be put on by the evening-session competitors.

"Level 4 is the beginning level of gymnastics, and those girls will do very simple routines, and all the girls will do the same routines," he said. "It'll be the same music over and over and over, and the same beam routines over and over and over."

That sameness will continue, with progressively harder routines, through Level 7 competition. But once the optional gymnasts (Level 8 and above) take the floor, the fun really starts, McEwen said.

"People may see some similar routines, but typically, they're going to see each girl perform a unique routine," he said. "You'll see eight different routines on the floor, hear eight different pieces of music and see eight different beam routines."

"The evening session will be more exciting," he added. "There's much more crowd involvement, the kids get more excited in what's going on, and there's going to be some good quality gymnastics."

One of the best optional gymnasts at Saturday's meet will be 11-year-old Stephanie Stewart of the Sidewinders. Since starting in gymnastics five years ago, the tiny Big Springer has advanced to Level 10 competition, which is just one step below Elite (Olympic level) status.

Advancing that far that fast has taken a lot of hard work.

"Actually, I practice about four hours a day," she said. "If you want to be good, sometimes you've got to do what hurts."

This no-pain, no-gain approach to the sport has advanced Stewart to the point that she's attempting routines that she admits can be downright scary.

"Some of it is scary," she said. "But some of it is like getting up and walking. You do it so many times, it becomes natural ... One thing is, Russ would never make you do something you aren't confident you can do."

Admission to the meet is $3 for adults and $1 for children.

Rockets reach for the knockout punch

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX — The Houston Rockets have the Phoenix Suns' number. It's 42 percent.

That's what the Suns have shot while the Rockets have ballhawked and run to a 3-2 lead in their Western Conference semifinal. It's the kind of defense Houston needs to close out the series tonight in Game 6.

If they win, the Rockets will join the 1969 Los Angeles Lakers as teams that have dropped the first two at home and still won a seven-game playoff.

"Our defense has been carrying us. That and the team's unity," said Hakeem Olajuwon, who has 22 of Houston's 40 blocks. "We need to play together as a team, play with confidence, and stay aggressive on defense."

In Game 2, the Suns staged the greatest fourth-quarter rally in NBA playoff history, coming from 20 points behind in the final 10 minutes to force overtime and win, 124-117. The "Choke City" label pinned on the Rockets afterward united them and led to their three-game winning streak, Olajuwon said.

"Most teams would fall apart or lose confidence, but we came together," he said.

Coach Rudy Tomjanovich said it hurt for a team that held 50 of 54 fourth-quarter leads in the regular season to be accused of choking.

Phoenix has been subjected to some slurs after a 109-86 blowout in Game 5, which saw the Rockets ahead by 32 points in the fourth quarter, and Tomjanovich said the result is predictable.

"You look at Dan Majerle, you look at KJ (Kevin Johnson) and those guys, and that's a dangerous situation, because those guys are first of all great competitors and winners, and they just don't stay down long," Tomjanovich said. "That's going to fuel them."

Johnson scored 38 points in back-to-back games at home, only to see the Rockets win by 16 and 11 points. In Game 5, he tried to get his teammates more involved in the offense, and a debacle ensued.

Stallings fourth at SEC championships

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Former Stanton High School track star Jeremy Stallings, now running for the University of Florida, finished fourth in the 800-meter run at the Southeastern Conference Track and Field Championships at the University of Arkansas May 12-15.

Stallings' time in the race was 1:49.1, and the event was won by two-time defending NCAA champion Jose Parilla of Tennessee, who finished in a time of 1:47.13.

Stallings' season-best time of 1:48.27 is the 13th best time in the NCAA this season. The top 18 times qualify for the NCAA national meet June 1-4 in Boise, Idaho.

He will next run at the Georgia Tech Invitational in Atlanta Saturday.

PENWELL — Four Big Spring racers placed in the top six in the Mini Stock Shoot-out Feature race held recently at the 1-20 Speedway in Penwell.

Bob Shaffer, Kenneth Collins, John Anderson and Joe Rose placed third through sixth, respectively, in the race. The event was won by Floyd Duncan of Odessa.

Earlier that evening, Rondel Brock of Big Spring finished second in the second heat of the Mini Stock Shoot-out preliminaries.

Tennis camp, league slated for Big Spring

A tennis camp for boys and girls ages 7-18 will be at Big Spring's Figure 7 Tennis Center June 6-10.

The camp sessions will be 9 a.m. - 12 p.m. The cost of the camp is $90. Big Spring's municipal tennis professional, Bill Willis, will direct the camp. For more information or to register, call Willis at 263-5548.

Also, anyone 18 or older interested in playing in a men's or ladies' doubles tennis league should call Willis.

Fishing

Fishermen took advantage of rising waters at Lakes Ivie and Spence last weekend to make good catches. Lake Ivie was up over 2 ft. and spilling, while beleaguered Lake Spence picked up 4.7 ft. of new water. The Ivie volume was 38,000 act. ft. and Spence 33,500.

Lake J.B. Thomas missed out on the heavy rains but did have some nice catches. Mike Brasel, Ira, caught a 5.5 lb. black bass and limited on crappie. Tim Williams, Snyder caught an 8 lb. black bass. Crappie continued to bite well and white bass showed signs of stirring.

Lake Spence waters rose to 72 degrees, and results warmed also. For instance, the Basin Bunch Black Bass Club from Odessa had a two-day tournament as did the Andrews Black Bass group. Cliff Shipman had the biggest bass the first day at 4.86 lbs.; and Jesse Guzman Jr. the second day at 4.76 lbs. Tourney winners were Cliff Shipman, 10.11 lbs.; Larry Whisnant, 5.44 lbs.; Wahne Wrokmann, 5.34 lbs. The 29 entries reported 22 fish, all released.

For the Andrews club Tom Connelly topped with a 7.7 fish the first day and Randy Caddell at 3.44 lbs. the second day. Tourney winners were Randy Caddell 9.11 lbs.; Gloria Fitzgerald, 4.19 lbs.; and Johnny Smith 1.94. There were 38 entries, 29 fish caught and released.

Fishing out of Paint Creek Marina, Carl Flack, Colorado City, used top-wate catch a 16-1/2-lb. striped bass; Jerry Treadway, Odessa, used cut shad to catch 12-1/2 and 13-1/2-lb. striper; Leon Castelberry, Seminole, 11-1/2-lb. blue catfish; Kevin Belt, Hale Center, an 18-3/4-lb. striper on cut shad; Ron Grigg, Vance Jenkins and James Greer, Odessa, 15 striper from 3 to 11 lbs. and aggregating 80 lbs.; MT. Wheelless and Gene, along with Paul Lane, San Angelo, reeled in 15 striper, trolling; Gene Wheelless and Paul Lane caught 10 striper, trolling; Allen Wilkson, Odessa, 16-3/4-lb.

striper; Justin and Preston Franis, and Terry Brown, Robert Lee, striper, 3 to 4-1/2-lbs on cut shad; Gene Dozier, Odessa, 9-1/2-lb. striper; James Greer, Odessa, 7-1/2 and 7-1/2-lb. striper.

Lake Ivie water was 62.4 surface and 57.8 degrees bottom, and large-mouth bass fishing was excellent. Half of boats checked had one or me keepers on their strings. Most of the species were in 3 to 10 ft. of water, which was clear in the main body and muddy upstream. Best baits were spinners, cranks, top-water, along shoreline. Small-mouth bass were hanging around rocky shelves in 1-20 ft. of water and preferred dark plastic worms, crank baits, minnows and jigs.

Channel catfish improved to good and excellent, best results being up-river-as fresh flows continued, some ranging up to 8 lbs. Both rod and reels and trollines got results, while yellow catfish, with live bait of minnows and goldfish, was slow. A few white bass were being taken by trollers. Crappie results were meager.

Spurs start shakeup

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — For two decades, Bob Bass and the San Antonio Spurs have been synonymous.

On Wednesday his status as vice president of basketball operations came to an end when Spurs chairman Robert McDermott announced Bass will "step aside" and become an advisor to the team.

The decision came after days of meetings by Spurs owners about the future of Bass and coach John Lucas. McDermott said the first-year ownership board was unanimous in its decision to keep Lucas.

The Spurs governing board's confidence in Lucas and Bass had been in question for days amid reports that some owners were dissatisfied with the team's first-round playoff loss and felt that management changes were in order.

Texas uses broom on A's

By The Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Texas Rangers may still be a sub-.500 team in baseball's worst division, but they started their road trip the way they wanted — with a sweep of the Oakland Athletics.

"We came in here and won three games," first baseman Will Clark said. "We're going to Seattle, so we need to get on a roll and be more consistent. The offense is going great and Kenny (Rogers) threw the ball well today."

The Rangers, three games into a 10-game road trip, got a three-run homer from Clark and a complete game from Rogers to finish the sweep with a 6-2 victory Wednesday.

In his strongest start this season, Rogers (4-3) allowed two runs on 11 hits, struck out four and walked none. After two straight extra-inning games, Rogers' first complete game of the season gave the bullpen a chance to rest.

"I wanted at least seven innings today," said Rangers manager Kevin Kennedy, whose team is 18-19. "The way the pitching's been the last couple of days, we'd like to get at least seven. Fortunately, we got a big enough lead and Kenny was throwing the ball well and didn't get fatigued."

A 6-0 advantage was big enough Wednesday, but the Rangers blew a 7-0 lead Monday and a 5-0 lead

Tuesday before coming back to win both games in extra innings. Texas got its first series sweep this season and only its second three-game sweep in the last two years.

"We didn't come back today because Rogers was too tough," A's manager Tony La Russa said.

Former Ranger Bobby Witt (3-4) faced 10 batters and gave up eight hits in the inning. Clark hit his fifth homer, Manuel Lee got a two-out RBI single and Junior Ortiz followed with a run-scoring double for a 6-0 lead.

Days counting down to Indy 500

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — These are busy days at Indy: for the drivers already in the Indianapolis 500 lineup, for those still trying to get there.

Computer printouts are as important as wrenches at this point, the days before the final weekend of qualifications. And race crews are trying to learn every bit of data about their cars.

The slightest variation can mean the difference between a spot on the 33-car grid and a padlock on the garage door, between a 500-mile ride on May 29 and a first-lap failure.

"The plans are just to go out and get the race setup, start filling the car up, putting in some long runs out there and start trying to get a good balance that's going to take us 500 miles," said Al Unser Jr., who will start from the pole position.

Unser and most of the other top drivers who already have qualified for the race practiced in backup cars Wednesday.

The fastest driver in his primary car was Raul Boesel, who did 45 laps with a top speed of 223.214.

"We got a lot of work done," said Boesel, who will start from the middle of the front row, between Unser and Emerson Fittipaldi.

When qualifications resume Saturday, three spots remain to be filled before the slowest cars are bumped, one by one, by each faster qualifier. After Sunday's last round of qualifications, the track will be closed — except for a final two-hour practice Carburetion Day, May 26 — until race day.

Al Unser Jr. drove 107 laps in teammate Fittipaldi's backup car, and Fittipaldi drove 96 laps in the backup of Paul Tracy, the third driver for Team Penske. For the seventh straight day, Fittipaldi was the fastest in practice, at 229.510; Unser's best was 224.944.

Others who practiced in other cars besides the ones in which they qualified included Robby Gordon (224.910), Mario Andretti (224.557), rookie Scott Sharp (221.795) and Nigel Mansell (221.697).

San Francisco Giant shortstop Royce Clayton tags out Houston Astro baserunner Scott Servais on a pickoff play Wednesday. Houston survived the setback and won the game 4-2.

Astros beat Giants 4-2

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — San Francisco fell to the Houston Astros 4-2 Wednesday night.

The Giant-killer was Doug Drabek. Drabek (6-1) won his sixth straight game, striking out a season-high 10 and allowing eight hits in eight innings. He lowered his ERA to 2.60 and was within three outs of his third straight complete game.

Mark Portugal, meanwhile, fell to 4-3. He gave up all four runs on seven hits and three walks. He struck out seven.

Ken Caminiti led Houston with two RBIs on three hits, including his sixth homer of the year and a double. Jeff Bagwell was 3-for-3 with two doubles, a run scored and an RBI.

Did you think the Jordan-less Bulls would get this far?

Last year, rooting for the Chicago Bulls was out of the question. They were the two-time defending NBA champions, and they were breezing toward a third title.

Rooting for Michael Jordan and Co. was like rooting for Donald Trump to win the lottery.

What a difference a year makes. Wednesday night, the Bulls were this close to taking a 3-2 series lead against the New York Knicks, and instead of delighting in their loss, happiness was hard to come by.

In the history of sports, has a defending champion ever been as much of an exciting underdog as the Bulls are this year? Keep in mind, the Bulls are three-time champions here, not just a team that got lucky one year.

Jordan, the wanna-be minor league outfielder, defined the Bulls when he played for them, and his absence defines the team now.

Think back to the day Jordan retired. On that day, how good did you think the 1993-94 Bulls were going to be?

Admit it. You - OK, most of you - thought the Bulls would be doing good to finish over .500 without Jordan. Without their leader on both offense and defense, the Bulls would be a team without direction.

Maybe you were different. Maybe you saw the Bulls making the playoffs.

But can anyone honestly say they knew the Bulls were going to make it this far? Last year's Bulls won Game 5 at New York, and that was the most important victory in their playoff run. Last night's Bulls were a late foul call away from earning the same key road win.

Those closing seconds, when Chicago was trying to in-bound the ball for the last shot that never happened, were the first time in a long while that Jordan's absence hurt the Bulls. Down one point with 2 seconds to go, there's no one you could want having the ball more than Jordan.

But other than those crucial moments, the Bulls have been just fine without No. 23.

Look who they are doing it with. Luc Longley? Pete Myers? Steve Kerr?

Jo Jo English? Wasn't that some figure skater from the 1970s? Bill Wennington?

You've got to be kidding.

Should the Bulls beat the Knicks, they're set. They would easily handle the Pacers or the Hawks in the conference finals, which would send them to the NBA Finals for the fourth straight year.

Hard to believe.

The Associated Press Today is Thursday, May 19, the 139th day of 1994. There are 226 days left in the year. Today's highlight in History: On May 19, 1536, Anne Boleyn, the second wife of England's King Henry VIII was beheaded after she was convicted of adultery. On this date: In 1588, the Spanish Armada set sail from Lisbon, headed for England; it was soundly defeated by the English fleet the following August. In 1643, delegates from four New England colonies met in Boston to form a confederation. In 1780, a mysterious darkness enveloped much of New England and part of Canada in the early afternoon; the cause has never been determined. In 1906, the Federated Boys' Clubs, forerunner of the Boys' Clubs of America, were organized. In 1921, Congress passed the Emergency Quota Act, which established national quotas for immigrants. In 1935, T.E. Lawrence, also known as Lawrence of Arabia, died in England from injuries sustained in a motorcycle crash. In 1943, in an address to the U.S. Congress, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill pledged his country's full support in the war against Japan. In 1958, the United States and Canada formally established the North American Air Defense Command.

May is crucial month for white-tailed deer

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH — You wouldn't feed a child only chocolate bars and expect him to be healthy, and the same holds true for white-tailed deer, wildlife biologist Bill Armstrong says.

tinguishing next fall's trophy from just an average buck is all but impossible. But landowners and hunters who provide supplemental feed for deer during the summer can increase the buck's trophy potential.

Armstrong added. "When you remove those animals from the range that don't have genetic potential to have good antlers, you also are helping provide the remaining deer with a good food supply."

Hill Country it should be about two-to-one."

Irvan riding the wave toward superstardom

Thomson News Service

ATLANTA — How things have changed.

This is what Ernie Irvan had to say after he won Sunday's race at Sears Point.

"They'll probably have me in the NASCAR trailer talking about stinking up the show," Irvan said. "But I didn't want anybody close enough to me to screw things up."

Several years ago, Irvan was in the NASCAR trailer, alright. But for different reasons. He screwed things up with his reckless driving, not by extracting all the drama out of a race, which he did Sunday.

And several years ago, nobody wanted Irvan close to them, either. Who knows what wall you could be body-blocked into. These days, everyone wants to be near Irvan because they know he's headed straight for the lead.

Indeed, Irvan has turned things around. And in the process he has added some electricity to a points race that could have belonged exclusively to Dale Earnhardt.

Nobody, with the exception of Earnhardt, looks fit to keep Irvan and the Robert Yates Racing Team from making off with this year's Winston Cup championship.

Mark Martin is too drab and is too content to play it safe. You wonder when he is going to take some chances and go for a win.

Rusty Wallace blows hot and cold. Morgan Shepherd is on the brink ... but then again he's never been a top 2 or 3 contender before so we'll wait and see.

Alone at the top is Irvan, with Earnhardt pressing.

"I said last season if Ernie ever got his brains working with his foot, he'd be good," Earnhardt said. "It looks like they've done it."

That Irvan's foot bone is now connected to his brain bone is no longer a bone of contention among drivers and observers on the Winston Cup circuit. Irvan takes risks, but calculated risks. He is becoming more and more Earnhardt-like with each race. He doesn't base his moves on what other drivers are doing, he bases them on his skill and faith in his reaction time experience.

That's part of the reason why you see Irvan 40 points ahead of Earnhardt after 10 races, even with Earnhardt having a pretty good year. Irvan has nine Top 10 finishes in ten races this season.
