Unemployment down

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate fell four-tenths of a percent in May, the government said today, but the report still signaled the economy may be cooling off.

The decline to 6 percent, from 6.4 percent in April, was almost certain to alarm Wall Street, which has been concerned that increased employment will fuel inflation and harm the value of investments.

But the lower unemployment rate was tempered by a smaller-than-expected increase in the number of workers added to the nation's non-farm payrolls. The Labor Department said its survey showed new hires up by 191,000, considerably less than most analysts had expected.

The actual increase could be considered even smaller when taking into account the 70,000 striking Teamsters

Texas' unemployment at lowest point in three years

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Texas' unemployment rate is at its lowest in three years.

Figures recently released by the Texas Employment Commission put the state's unemployment figure at 6.2 percent. Several Texas cities are following suit with lower unemployment rates below 4 percent.

Gov. Ann Richards said all Texans should share in the credit for Texas' improving economy.

Locally, the unemployment figure for Big Spring was 5.8 percent for April. Big Spring has a current civilian labor force of 9,701 people with 9,136 employed and 565 unemployed. These are the most current figures available.

Unemployment figures for April improved over March's 6.8 percent (labor force 9,540; employed 8,888; unemployed 652) and February's 7.9 percent (labor force 9,536; employed 8,779; unemployed 757).

Cowboys return for basketball rematch - police up by one

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Dallas Cowboys are coming to Big Spring. Well, at least some retired ones.

For the second year in a row, several former players will challenge members of the Big Spring Police Department in a basketball game at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum June 11 starting at 7 p.m.

Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Harvey Martin, Robert Newhouse, Tony Hill, Billy Joe Dupree and Eugene Lockhart will be making the trip to Big Spring this year.

"The money raised at the game will go towards the Julie Wennik Memorial Scholarship Fund. She was a 1992 graduate from Big Spring High School who died in a car wreck on May 4, 1993," said Sgt. Stan Parker, coordinator of the game.

"We will be raffling off a Roger Staubach autographed jersey and four footballs autographed by the players who will be here for the game. A Troy Aikman autographed jersey will be auctioned off during the game as well," said Parker.

Tickets for the game can be purchased in advance at the police department, Rocky's on Gregg Street, Neal's Sporting Goods on Gregg Street or at Circuit Electronics on Wasson Road. Tickets are $5 each and can be purchased at the door as well.

Last year, the police department won by a score of 73 to 72 and the money raised was used for the D-FY-IT program.

Parental consent lines being drawn

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Just as President Bill Clinton has signed legislation that would have pro-life protesters arrested, jailed and or fined for blocking entrances to abortion clinics and clinics offering related services, along comes another fight, here in Texas - parental consent for teens wanting abortions.

A rule being considered by the Texas Department of Health to ensure that minors have access to abortion counseling and services without parental or spousal consent has sparked a controversy with pro-life forces.

The fight stems from the way certain rules are worded. According to Carol Pavlica of the Texas Department of Health, family planning clinics offer services and supplies. This means, in order to avoid unwanted pregnancies and abortions, contraceptives are offered to women.

Pavlica said, "These are not abortion rules. We set up standards of health care for both men and women and these standards include descriptions of education and planning."

According to Rosemary Merriam of the Texas Family Planning Association, family planning clinics counsel more than 800,000 young girls and women each year. "How many pregnancies do you think that avoided?" Merriam asked.

"The other side always distorts the facts," she said. "With our services, women can get a gynecological exam, cancer screening, tests for sexually transmitted diseases, birth control and more. We also offer prenatal care. Basically, women receive indirect counseling because they ask for what they want from the services that we provide. The woman chooses what she wants."

According to Merriam, one of the goals of the Texas Family Planning Association is to avoid pregnancy when unwanted or a problem. Offering birth control is a part of this process.

"Previously," Merriam said, "we have had to put up with 12 years of anti-choice (referring to the Reagan and Bush administrations)." She added abortions are avoided whenever possible.

Representatives from the Right to Life Committee Inc., said at a hearing May 20, this proposed rule would gag counselors from suggesting that pregnant girls under 18 seek help from their parents.

According to Texas Right to Life Committee press secretary Lisa Salcedo, "This gag rule eliminates parents as a resource and source of support for their daughter when she needs them."

Merriam said, "You're not dealing with people off the streets. These counselors are trained professionals and if you had a 16-year old daughter who was pregnant and couldn't talk to you, I would think that you would want her to get help from trained professionals."

Despite claims of gag rules that will lock out parental guidance, health officials and abortion rights groups say that there is nothing in the proposal that would gag counselors.

Instead, it directs providers to encourage teenagers to talk to their parents or other trust-

Legislation protecting abortion clinics is coming under Constitutional fire

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Last Thursday President Bill Clinton signed legislation calling for stiff fines and jail time for pro-life protesters if they block access to abortion clinics.

Though local reaction has been quiet so far, Odessa's Planned Parenthood Clinic Director Carla Holeva is excited about the new law saying that it is definitely needed.

"This legislation was a long time in coming and I'm excited for it and the extra protection that it will offer and that's needed. It offers women a safe feeling for something that they want, is legal and that they have a right to have," Holeva said.

The Odessa office of Planned Parenthood, home office of the Big Spring branch of the organization, is not yet equipped to perform abortions and other related services, but Holeva says that there are plans to offer these services in the future.

Opponents of the Clinton measure see this as an infringement on their freedom of speech, the right to uphold their religious beliefs and a blow to the First Amendment overall. Because of the high emotion surrounding the abortion issue, court action had already begun, in an attempt to stop the measure, even before President Clinton signs it into law.

Holeva said that she was not surprised by the reaction of pro-life groups. She said, "These types of reactions are to be expected."

The two groups filing lawsuits to block the action by Clinton were the American Life League and the American Center for Law and Justice, a pro-life law firm filing on behalf of Operation Rescue and Randall Terry. The American Center claims the legislation is a violation of the religious freedom of the clients it represents.

With the measure passing both houses of Congress by comfortable margins, Clinton responded to critics by saying "It is not a strike against the First Amendment. It ensures that all citizens have the opportunity to exercise all their Constitutional rights, including their privacy rights."

union members who returned to work after a nationwide trucking strike.

Katharine G. Abraham, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the unemployment rate has declined seven-tenths of a percent since January. But the increase in the number of new jobs was lower than 260,000 average increase for the previous four months.

The rate has declined this year for whites, blacks and Hispanics and for adult women and men, but there has been no clear trend on teen-age employment, Abraham said.

She said when large movements occur in a single month, such as the sizable decline in the unemployment rate, "the magnitude of those changes often turns out to have been overstated once additional data become available."

She said it was "nonetheless clear that unemployment continues to trend downwards."

As expected, most of the new jobs were in service-related industries, although growth in that sector was slower than in prior months. Abraham said employment in finance, insurance and real estate declined, which she said reflected in part "the impact of rising interest rates on refinancing and home purchases."

Economists say mortgage refinancing has come nearly to a standstill.

The number of retail jobs increased a modest 31,000. Construction employment was up 12,000 after larger gains in March and April. The size of government payrolls declined about 3,000.

The number of factory jobs was down by about 2,000. Abraham said there were "no noteworthy changes" among individual industries.

The report said Americans worked an average 34.9 hours a week during May, up slightly from 34.7 in April. However, the number of factory hours, which had been at a post World War II high, were down slightly to 42.1 hours from 42.2 hours. Overtime also showed a modest decline. Average hourly earnings were up slightly to $11.11 from $11.05.

Most economists had expected the report to show job growth continuing at a reasonably healthy clip, while also indicating some cooling in the economy.

Weekly jobless claims in recent weeks have suggested a slowing in hiring gains, although economists note that the weekly numbers can be extremely volatile.

Still, such a weekly trend "typically does signal a slackening of employment gains," said Stephen Roach, senior economist with Morgan Stanley & Co. in New York. "There's been a pretty steady deterioration in (weekly) jobless claims from mid-April to mid-May."

5.8 percent is a slight improvement over April's unemployment rate for 1993 which was 6.6 percent.

Also brightening the future outlook for Texas was a vote by the U.S. House of Representatives approving almost $200 million for improvements of Texas' defense installations.

"It would be easy for us to point to these successes and say our work is done. But that is not true," Richards said. "With NAFTA and expanding technological developments, we face greater opportunities in the future."

The National Right to Life Committee accused the President of empowering abortion-rights activists in an effort to curb peaceful protesters' free speech by using federal authority.

In defending the legislation President Clinton said, "no person seeking medical care, no physician providing that care, should have to endure harassment or threats or obstruction or intimidation or even murder from vigilantes who take the law into their own hands because they think they know what the law ought to be."

We have laid the groundwork for Texas to be a global hub. This state can lead the way for economic growth into the future."

Texas, too, has seen an increase in the creation of new jobs. "In the last three years, we have created more than 500,000 private sector jobs. Texas has led the nation in job creation the last two years," Richards said.

"As governor you have to work hard to produce a healthy economy and you have to promote the state as a new business location. Texans are working hard in small businesses and new entrepreneur start-ups."

ed adults about contraceptives and pregnancy.

Texas law does not require minors to get parental consent for abortions or contraceptive services. "Not only is it legal to provide confidential family planning services to those seeking them, it is sound policy," according to Texas Family Planning Association Executive Director Peggy Romberg.

Texas health officials will take up this matter again in July and pro-life groups have said that they will push for changes.

Anytime they need my help, I want to be there."

As for the positive outlook for the future of employment in Texas, Richards said, "These figures show our economy is continuing to rebound. That is something that should make all Texans proud. Throughout this state, we've worked together to recruit jobs to rural and urban areas. All Texans should share the credit for our improving economy."

"It takes hard work by business, labor, government and the private sector to create jobs."

Clinton to meet with leaders of energy states

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress won't approve relief for the battered domestic oil and natural gas industry without White House support, Texas lawmakers say.

Their comments Thursday came as President Clinton agreed to meet June 16 with lawmakers seeking to boost the industry's sagging fortunes through tax breaks and regulatory relief.

Lawmakers have been seeking a White House meeting since March, when some 107 members from 29 states wrote the president requesting a session.

Among the proposals they will present to Clinton are tax credits to preserve marginal production and encourage new drilling; allowing producers to deduct some geological and geophysical costs; permitting the export of Alaskan crude oil; and regulatory relief.

"We feel we will not be able to achieve a desired result through the Congress without (Clinton's) active efforts," said Rep. Bill Archer of Houston, ranking Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Echoed Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock: "This could be the last chance this year for any action to reverse the punishing effects of tax laws and regulations that work against our own energy interests here at home."

"With less than 50 legislative workdays left with health care and welfare reform yet to be decided, it is vital to have the administration's support for positive action," added Combest, who represents one of the largest domestic oil-producing regions.

At the time the letter was written in March, oil prices had been hovering around $14 a barrel and some 13,500 jobs were lost over a five-month period.

Since then, oil prices have climbed back up to $18 a barrel or more.

But the need to help an industry that has lost more than half a million jobs in the last decade remains, lawmakers and industry officials said Thursday.

Archer said the need for reform of the nation's energy policies will remain pressing so long as the United States continues to increase its reliance on imported energy supplies.

Last year, the nation posted its lowest domestic oil production since 1958, averaging 6.8 million barrels a day. The country's oil imports rose to 6.7 million barrels per day — accounting for 49.5 percent of U.S. oil consumption.

The president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, which represents small- and mid-sized producers, said she remains hopeful the administration will endorse at least part of the lawmakers' package.

"I think it's entirely fair to ask for a reinvestment of a little bit of that windfall that the rest of the economy got with the low oil prices," said Denise Bode.

The increase in oil prices in recent weeks hasn't translated into new security for the industry, Ms. Bode said. In fact, she added, "The only thing that's certain about this industry is the uncertainty and instability of prices."

Capitol will be older but safer

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Although the 106-year-old Texas Capitol will look older after it is restored to the 1888 architecture, it will be safer.

"It was time for it to have a facelift, and it needed a major facelift," Dealey Herndon, executive director of the State Preservation Board, said Thursday. "From a safety standpoint ... we're going to have a fabulous building when it's finished."

David Stauch, project manager, said that the building was in good structural shape, "but it had been jeopardized over the years far more than anybody knew."

"We found more damage by ongoing, half-baked repair work and all kinds of remodeling work. That was the biggest surprise to me." Ms. Herndon and Stauch led reporters on a tour inside the Capitol past mazes of scaffolding and dozens of workers cutting wood, breaking through walls and installing electrical and plumbing systems.

The building has been closed for nearly a year as part of a $187 million project to restore the Capitol, build an underground annex and renovate the old Land Office building.

Legislative staffers and some state senators will start moving into offices in the Capitol in August. By October, the building should be re-opened to the public.

The Senate chamber is nearly finished, but the House chamber is practically unrecognizable, as workers installed a new floor.

But Ms. Herndon promised that the House chamber would be ready for the regular legislative session that starts in January. "You can't find anyplace else in town for the House members to meet, vote, do all the things they have to do. This has always been the driver and this chamber has got to be ready and it will be."

The most drastic changes completed so far are in the basement, which used to be crowded with cubbyhole staff offices with low ceilings of exposed wires.

Herndon said the basement, which also housed the building's electrical transformers, used to be a fire trap.

Now the ceilings have been raised to 12-feet, and the cubbyhole offices have been knocked out to widen the hallway to 22-feet.

Hand signals could mean jail for gangs

The Associated Press

FORT WORTH — A new interpretation of a disorderly conduct law could spell trouble for gang members.

Hand signals that police say are used by gang members to challenge or insult rival gangs or identify themselves now may result in a ticket.

Police have been authorized to cite — under narrowly defined circumstances — anyone who uses hand signals to incite violence.

A police memo sent to officers states that they may ticket people for flashing signs only if the officers can describe the hand signs, understand what they mean and show "how the resulting disturbance was directly related to the throwing of the sign."

Hand signals precipitated a Wednesday gang shooting at an east Fort Worth basketball court, police said. No one at the court was hit, but a bystander suffered minor wounds when he came under fire while pursuing the suspected gunman, police said.

The new interpretation of the disorderly conduct law, sent to officers May 4, follows a highly publicized proposal to hire gang members as street counselors.

Lt. Ed Daniels, head of the police department's gang unit, said the policy is "at least another tool to try."

"I think what we're looking for is something where an officer sees something beginning and can breach it before it escalates," he said.

University of Texas law professor Robert Hardgrave called the policy intriguing.

"This provides some interesting legal questions regarding free speech and invites a legal challenge," he said.

Man gets 75 years for shooting wife

FORT WORTH (AP) — A Tarrant County jury has set 75 years as punishment for a man convicted of shooting his wife to death during a fight over the length of her skirt.

The sentence was set Thursday for Wendell Marshall, 40, who was convicted in the death of his wife, Teresa Marshall, 34, who was shot in the back with the head with a 20-gauge shotgun in March 1992.

"It's a sad situation all around," said Arnold Wood, a brother of the victim. "We have feelings for their family, but Wendell was abusive to Teresa. A lot of stuff came out here that we heard as rumors."

Marshall, who shot himself in the face in an unsuccessful suicide attempt moments after his wife's death, sobbed after the verdict.

"Frankly, I don't have any explanation for that sentence," said defense lawyer Tom Zachry.

Lottery vendors in violation of fed law

AUSTIN (AP) — Disability rights advocates are upset that nearly two-thirds of Texas lottery retailers surveyed by the state are violating a federal requirement to be accessible to people with disabilities.

The advocates, who have announced a fresh campaign of lawsuits to force businesses to remove barriers to the disabled, call the compliance rate inexcusable and shameful.

But lottery spokesman Steve Levine said Wednesday the state is "fairly pleased with the amount of people who have been in compliance or who indicated to us they would comply."

Mickey Moore, president of the Texas Retailers Association, said retailers, especially small ones, still might be poorly informed about requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

State law requires all businesses selling lottery tickets to comply with the federal civil rights law.

Handful of donors dig deep for candidates

DALLAS (AP) — More than a dozen Texans have contributed thousands of dollars to state candidates, digging deep in their pockets for the democratic process, according to an analysis by The Dallas Morning News.

Using a computer-assisted analysis, The News reviewed campaign donations of $500 or more from the last statewide election in 1990 through the Feb. 28, 1994, reports, filed with the Texas Ethics Commission. Federal and legislative races were not included.

Hi, Brad. See you, Buddy!

Paul Harvey

I enjoy reading the Daily Leader published in Brookhaven, Miss., because it introduces me to that area's homefolks one at a time.

That's how I met Brad Tillotson.

Brad loves trains.

From his mother's earliest remembering, baby Brad got excited every time he saw a train.

He was utterly fascinated by trains.

When Brad was 8, his mother, Linda Sue Tillotson, drove Brad down to Thayer's Crossing in time to watch the Amtrak 4:45 come high-balling by.

His animated delight was such that his mother from that day has driven Brad to Thayer's Crossing twice a day every day.

For 15 years.

You see, Brad was born what we call "retarded" 23 years ago.

Yet the lad's twice-daily vigil beside the Amtrak tracks has become so significant that the engineer, approaching Thayer's crossing, always blows the train whistle for Brad.

And the engineer will wave and perhaps call out, "Hi, Brad. Comin' through. See you, buddy."

One day, the train stopped. And this day, there were two Amtrak officials aboard. It was with their permission that a trainload of passengers was kept waiting while Engineer Wilkinson, Conductor Wahl and the officials got off the train to chat with Brad and present him with a conductor's cap and a shirt with an

Amtrak locomotive across the front. The conductor says he later explained to the passengers that the train had to stop to fix "a flat tire."

Over the years since, passengers as much as crew look forward to their approach to Thayer's Crossing. All wave; some toss gifts.

Indeed, on the Amtrak's newest route guide, which lists points of interest between Memphis and New Orleans, there is a prominent mention of the Amtrak mascot who can always be counted upon to wave them on their way.

Brad is now 23. His enthusiasm has not waned one whit. His mother says, "He's got to be at that crossing twice a day."

When the weather is bad and Mother suggests perhaps he should not go out, Brad will grin and ask, "Do you want me to get fired?"

So dutifully, in rain or snow or whatever -- she delivers Brad to his rendezvous.

Brad now has a portable scanner which keeps him in radio contact with the train crew; if the train might be minutes late, he knows how many minutes and why.

The one night the train was hours late, an Amtrak dispatcher telephoned from Wesson to let him know. And Brad was dutifully at trackside, at Thayer's Crossing -- at 10 p.m. -- waving a flashlight.

As I say, I enjoy reading the Daily Leader. I get to meet the folks of Brookhaven, Miss. -- individually.

And even as Amtrak crew and passengers are cheered by the tall lad in his conductor's cap standing at Thayer's Crossing and waving -- I am encouraged by this exceptional young man and by his loving mother.

So many of us with so much more give so much less.

Credibility problems

Leonard Larsen

WASHINGTON — Poor, put-upon President Clinton is getting another hammering; this time because of revisions — not lies, mind you — but large revisions in what he promised he'd do as president during his presidential campaign.

Clinton, who already has said he is the most abused American president since they invented the office, is accused of twisting and turning away from a couple of his larger campaign vows: that he'd reverse the wrong-headed Bush administration on trade policy with China and on treatment of Haitian refugees.

As President Clinton is reminded by everyone from Capitol Hill elevator operators to foreign potentates, he didn't do any such thing as reverse the Bush policy.

It's now the Clinton policy — as it was the Bush policy — to discourage Haitian escapes from Haiti and to return most Haitians picked up at sea. And, more recently, it's become the Clinton policy — as it was the Bush policy — to continue China's trade status as a "most favored nation."

Just as it was President Bush's hope, it's also President Clinton's hope — or so it's now said — that China's rulers will be nice and ease up on human rights violations.

There's the suggestion that the Chinese will be cooperative since the president has made it clear his administration is listening closely to China's hired American business lobbyists who, it turns out, know what's best for Chinese-American trade and are also the best judges of human rights in China.

But look here, say the Clinton critics, rushing up again to abuse the poor put-upon president, the man has abandoned his campaign promises concerning China and Haiti. He said he'd change things and now he won't.

It's the more strident Clinton abusers who're saying those were big campaign lies that he told about China and Haiti. More restrained abusers and even some of the dwindling band of Clinton apologists have merely suggested that — ahem — President Clinton has damaged his own credibility. Again.

The trouble in the Clinton credibility department is that it's been drained, dribbled away in all the little, unnecessary lies that didn't have to be told by the president, his wife and the helpful cronies he brought with him to the White House.

A president ought to have a rainy-day supply of credibility, a reservoir of national confidence in his word, a belief among Americans that he tells the truth, most of the time anyway.

But there's been a drip-drip-drip out of Clinton's credibility, a spilling of petty lies that began early and keeps on dripping.

There've been lies — the only word — about everything from wholesale firings at the travel office to the haircut at the Los Angeles airport to the Clintons' great good luck in commodities trading and, most recently, to a presidential pal's golf excursion aboard the presidential helicopter.

Not one of them was worth a White House lie and neither were more significant others: the half truths and artful dodging that became the endlessly emerging Whitewater scandal and the denials that weren't quite denials concerning stories of then-Gov. Clinton's relationships with young women.

What the president, his wife and the White House crew seem not to understand is that the petty lies about small matters become bigger and more enduring lies that keep on bouncing in the public's view.

The travel office scandal and the haircut foolishness could have been stopped before they started, with no lies told.

Instead of dribbling out lies about their Whitewater investments and the $100,000 profits in commodities trading, the Clintons should have come clean, told the difficult truth about how politicians go into sweet-heart deals with friendly favor seekers.

Even concerning the Clinton skirt-chasing, they could have used the truth instead of petty lies that never put the stories behind them.

This latest little scandal about the White House helicopter suggests it's a cultural thing now in the Clinton White House, a reflex to issue petty lies first while they're deciding whether to tell the truth or to lie some more.

When the reservoir of credibility is drained, who'll believe them about China, or Haiti, or anything else?

Helicopters replace divots?

Mike Royko

It was kind of fun watching the White House groping to explain why three aides used a presidential helicopter to fly to a country club to play a round of golf.

The question was first raised by a congressman who said using a helicopter seemed extravagant, since the golfers could have driven to the course in less than an hour.

In contrast, it costs thousands every time a Marine helicopter takes off.

So we called the White House and asked why a helicopter was used to fly three guys for a day of goofing off.

After being switched about a dozen times, we ended up talking to Lisa Mortman of the White House media affairs office.

Sounding surprised, Ms. Mortman said: "I can't see this happening at all. So you're saying someone took Marine One to play golf?"

So we are told.

"No, this is not something White House aides would do. We don't have access to the helicopter. It's not like we sit around here and say: 'Hey, I'm having a slow day at work. What do you say we dis all our phone calls, let's grab the keys and take the chopper outta the garage and go play golf!'"

"If you really think about it, that's just not a possibility. It's not one of our perks. It's so out of the realm of possibility. There's just no possible way that could have happened."

So we called the Holly Hills Country Club in Maryland, where the White House helicopter was said to have been spotted on Tuesday, and talked to the head professional.

Pro Mike McGinnis said: "Uh, I have been informed by the White House to tell you that this was just a travel mission to find out how long it took to get from Camp David to Holly Hills, and how long it takes to play.

"See, I played golf with President Bush here lots of times. And President Clinton is looking to maybe play here and this is what they do. They have to come and see it. This was an advance group to find out how long it took to get here, how long it took to play."

So how did this advance scouting group play?

"One guy was pretty good. Shot a 78. The rest were OK. One was the commander of Camp David. He shot a 90. And the other one, he was kind of a rookie."

By the time we finished chatting with the pro, Ms. Mortman called back, sounding a bit subdued. Apparently she had discovered that it was not impossible for aides to zoom off in a helicopter. And she suggested we call some other media specialist.

And before long, we received a fax offering a new explanation for the golf junket.

Now the story was that it was all part of Marine Corps training.

"The use of the helicopter," the fax said, "is in keeping with standard procedures employed for advance trips of this type and was necessary in order to familiarize the air crew with all aspects of flight time and landing zone particulars."

"The senior helicopter pilot who flew the mission is one of the few remaining pilots within the HMX squadron that is familiar with the landing zone at Holly Hills, having last flown to the site two years ago."

"This was a training mission to familiarize the HMX crew with the golf course layout and to verify that safe helicopter operations could be conducted at the Holly Hills Country Club landing zone."

"The actual flight time and associate pilot training is in keeping with standard operating procedures required by the squadron in order to maintain the highest level of pilot and crew proficiency."

How reassuring to know that in these times of military cutbacks, the training goes on.

From the Halls of Montezuma To the shores of Tripoli.

And to the Holly Hills Country Club. But as the day went on, the White House apparently decided that they might be dumb, but not dumb enough to believe the "training mission" yarn. They need Marines and a helicopter to find lost balls?

So Clinton's press secretary said that, no, there were no plans for Clinton to play at that golf course.

The next announcement was that the White House chief of staff would look into the matter to see if any travel rules had been violated.

So in only a few hours we had (1) a White House press aide saying it was ridiculous to suggest that officials would ride a chopper to a golf course.

And (2) a golf pro saying, sure, they were here and played the course.

Then (3) a fax saying, yes, they went, but it was part of a Marine training trip and a recon mission for a presidential golf outing.

And (4) the press secretary saying, uh-uh, the prez isn't going to play there.

Finally (5) it is being investigated. Before the sun went down, the silly double-talk had ended.

It turns out that the golf jaunt had been led by David Watkins, director of the White House office of administration.

He's an old Arkansas chum of Bill and Hillary, and one of the president's golfing buddies.

Apparently Clinton or someone said: "Boy, how stupid can you get," or words to that effect.

And Mr. Watkins turned in his resignation. Now he will be playing golf back in Arkansas. And there will be no Marine to salute him when he gets out of his pickup truck.

Judge leaves children where they are

Bob Greene

Three children in McHenry County, Ill., will not be moved from their foster home. They will, at least for now, be allowed to stay with the foster parents with whom they have lived for the last year and a half.

Their birth mother and her boyfriend, who went to court last week to ask Judge Frank J. Rhode Jr. to take them out of the Crystal Lake, Ill., foster home of Charles and Patricia Lewis, lost their motion. After six hours of testimony, Judge Rhode said he had heard nothing to persuade him that the children faced harm in the foster home.

Of the birth mother and boyfriend, Judge Rhode said:

"They are not displaying motivation to the court. They had better start displaying it. Otherwise they won't see their children."

The birth mother and boyfriend are expected to pursue their efforts to have the children given to them. Judge Rhode will likely hear that motion this summer.

The case is about three children -- a girl now 4, a boy 3, another girl 2 -- who were removed by the state from the birth mother a year and a half ago. Witnesses wish to tell the judge of neglect reaching the point of abuse that, they say, occurred in their presence, he has declined to hear such testimony, and did not permit it at the hearing.

"I'm not going to go back and look at the entire life of these children," the judge ruled, in excluding testimony about what happened in the children's lives before the state removed them from the birth mother.

The birth mother, 22, has had four children by three different men; she gave up one of the children for adoption last year. The boyfriend claims paternity of two of the four children; according to a volunteer in a homeless shelter, he once offered to sell the older girl, who is not his. Judge Rhode has declined to hear this.

There were nine attorneys in court last week. The taxpayer-provided lawyers for the birth mother and boyfriend asked the judge not to allow the foster parents to bring witnesses before him. Those lawyers even asked the judge to bar the foster parents from being present in court.

As odious a legal tactic as that was, at least it could be explained away as lawyers aggressively representing their clients. What could not as easily be explained away was the position taken by lawyers from the office of McHenry County State's Attorney Gary Pack, and by Debra Brauer, attorney for the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) -- two offices that should fiercely look out for the children.

Both the state's attorney and DCFS' attorney asked the judge not to allow the foster parents to bring witnesses, or to cross-examine. "I don't believe (the foster parents) are a party to this," the assistant state's attorney said, and the DCFS attorney agreed.

In so doing, they were narrowly interpreting a statute that says foster parents may be "heard" in court. The state's attorney's and the DCFS attorney's positions were that this meant the foster parents could testify themselves -- but did not have the right to bring in witnesses who could provide the judge with information about the children, and did not have the right to cross-examine other witnesses. This, even though DCFS regional administrator Tom Brinton, outside the courtroom on this went on, said he felt the judge should be allowed to hear "every relevant piece of information anyone has about these children's lives."

Luckily for the children, the judge chose to reject the pleadings of those lawyers. He listened to Phyllis Lamken, a volunteer attorney for the foster parents: "The more evidence the court hears, the clearer picture you will get, the more honest picture, for the best interests of the children."

So Judge Rhode did agree to at least listen to some of the foster parents' witnesses. Thus, he was able to hear DCFS supervisor Diane Breske (whose testimony would have been silenced by DCFS' own lawyer) say, "I do not believe (the children) should be moved at this time ... the more you move kids, the more trauma you cause them." He was able to hear the children's grandfather say that, while he loves his daughter (the birth mother), he does not believe she can now care for the children, and feels they should not be taken from their foster home.

For some reason, this was testimony the state's attorney and DCFS' attorney apparently did not feel the judge needed to hear. But he listened, and he kept the children in their foster home. There is more, and we will discuss it later. For now, though, the children are staying where they are.

Single minds mingle together

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Being single in Big Spring isn't easy. Just ask any member of "Single-Minded," a new club for local unmarried people.

Lynn Morgan, a founding member of the new group, said the group's purpose is to do things together that members don't like to do alone, such as attend movies and discuss them.

"Aside from work and grocery shopping, I spend most of my time in my bedroom watching TV," said Morgan. Staring at the same four walls used to drive him stir-crazy, but now he has an alternative.

Church groups and bars aren't good options for many members of Single-Minded. Club members who are divorced, such as Morgan, have sometimes felt like the "odd man out" at their churches.

Bars are out because, as he explained, "Most people who are at bars are looking for one person. We all love to be with a group. This way, nobody gets rejected."

Meetings also keep members informed about fun activities they might otherwise not know about. Club members recently attended the play "Noises Off" after talking to a fellow member who was helping with props. "Nobody had known the play was going on," Morgan explained.

The group also serves as a way to re-acquaint newly single people with the delicate art of socializing. Recently divorced people, accustomed to the comfort of a long-time partner, may have fairly loose table manners. Hanging out with the club for snacks and coffee allows them to brush up on basic etiquette.

Another sad reality is that in many cases, divorcing a spouse means divorcing many of one's friends as well. For those who have lost friends because of a failed relationship, Single-Minded provides an opportunity to meet new friends who have tread the same ground and can offer advice.

Single-Minded has been in existence for several weeks. A singles club for Big Spring is not a new idea; a group last year was formed but eventually fizzled.

Morgan believes the group died out because the age of members was too widespread, from 20 to nearly 90 years old.

The current group is largely 35-45 years old and divorced. There are members in their early 50s and the group is recruiting young and/or never-married members as well. All unmarried people are welcome.

Single-Minded currently meets 8 p.m. Mondays at Herman's Restaurant. A picnic at Scenic Mountain is planned for 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Future events may include going to the theater in Midland or even a trip to Las Vegas.

Although matchmaking is not part of the group's agenda, Morgan admits members could find romance within the confines of the club.

Or, if not within the club, perhaps with someone encountered during one of the group's outings. The first step, however, is to get out of the house and meet other people.

"I'd like to get married again," Morgan said. "I loved being married. But I'm not going to find someone under my bed, and if I did, I wouldn't want to marry them anyway."

Burning down the house

What's so exciting about this building? It's paid off, and the Lions Club is sending the mortgage up in smoke to celebrate.

Not really—just the mortgage

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

You have probably heard of a barn raising party, a birthday party or even a retirement party, but how about a mortgage burning party? Yes—it's true! That is what the Big Spring Evening Lions Club will be having Saturday afternoon.

After five years of diligent work, the club's building is finally paid for. "For the past several years, we have been paying on the building every month from income generated by bingo. The money from bingo is generated in the community and to help pay for the upkeep of our building," said Bob Noyes, club secretary.

"Here at the end, members have loaned the club money to pay the mortgage. None of the money collected from the public through our fund raisers is used for the building or for members. That money goes back into the community to be used for our various projects."

At noon on Saturday, the mortgage burning party officially kicks off at 1607 E. Third Street. The public is invited to attend for hot dogs and sodas. At 1 p.m., the Lions Club will host bingo games.

"From six until seven that evening, we'll serve cake and soft drinks then have HARC (Howard County Association of Retarded Citizens) bingo starting at seven," said Theresa Hodnett, club member.

During the year, the Evening Lions Club hosts several fund raisers to help pay for the various community projects they take part in. One of the biggest fund raisers the Lions Club hosts is a barbecue held at Big Spring High School at the first home Steers football game.

"We try to help the community as much as possible. We offer the Eye Bank, which provides eyeglasses for those who can't afford them. We also have a camp in Kerrville for the physically handicapped," said Hodnett.

Last year, the club bought jogging suits for the patients at Big Spring State Hospital. They help with Christmas in April and have a Lions Queen Scholarship. "We choose a queen each year from the community and provide her with money for college," explained Hodnett.

Don't forget church

By KEN McMEANS
College Baptist Church

Summer is a great time for a change of pace. The children are out of school, the weather is perfect for outdoor activities, and everyone seems to be in the mood for some fun.

Churches cater to this change by offering a wide assortment of summertime festivities designed both to appeal to sun lovers and to attempt to reach some who might not otherwise be reached by typical Sunday worship.

Everything from traditional vacation Bible schools to Fourth of July picnics should work to draw people towards God's kingdom. Summer should be a time for tremendous growth and outreach in churches everywhere. You may be the very key to the greatest summer your church has ever known!

If summer is such a great opportunity for reaching out to many who have never met our Lord, why is it that most pastors dread summer? With no intent on getting too personal, I think you already know the answer to that question.

For many in the church today, summer has become a time to throw off all restraint and responsibility. "As goes the world, so goes the church!"

What a pity. God's desire is quite the contrary. "As goes the church, so goes the world." If Christ's church could learn to lead instead of follow, that dynamic would revolutionize our culture.

Some of you may be thinking that this pastor is a communist dictator in disguise. "He just wants to take away my fun! After all, summer is the only time of the year that I can be away. God knows how much I serve Him the rest of the year, everybody needs a break. You see, God and I have this arrangement, I let Him have the school year, and I take the summers to do whatever I want. God understands!"
Rather than speak for God, why not let Him speak for Himself through His word, the Bible.
"You are the salt of the earth; but if the salt loses its flavor, how shall it be seasoned? It is then good for nothing but to be thrown out and trampled underfoot by men. You are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hidden. Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven." Matthew 5:13, 14 and 16.

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your reasonable service. And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God. Romans 12:1-2.

And which of you, having a servant plowing or tending sheep, will say to him when he has come in from the field, "Come at once to sit down and eat?"

But will he not rather say to him, "Prepare something for my supper, and gird yourself to serve me till I have eaten and drunk, and afterwards you will eat and drink?"

Does he think that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I think not. So likewise you, when you have done all those things which you are commanded, say, "We are unprofitable servants. We have done what was our duty to do." Luke 17:7-10.

In summary, the key to an effective summer for your church is not whether or not you take a vacation, but whether you take a vacation from God and His work in the Local Church.

Don't go away too often, and when you are home, "Serve the Lord with all your might."

Just one more thing: I hope you have a fantastic summer!

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

A CASE OF "WOMENS LIB" OVER THREE THOUSAND YEARS OLD!

IT IS RECORDED IN JUDGES, CHAPTERS 4-5 THAT DEBORAH (CIRCA 1296 B.C.) "...THE WIFE OF LAPIDOTH, JUDGED ISRAEL AT THAT TIME." THIS WAS BEFORE THE ADVENT OF KINGS. WHOEVER JUDGED ISRAEL WAS ACCREDITED LEADER OF ALL THE PEOPLE. DURING THIS PERIOD, THE ISRAELITES WERE BEING SEVERELY PERSECUTED BY A CANAANITE KING, NAMED JABIN, AND THEY APPEALED TO DEBORAH TO RID THEM OF HIS DOMINATION....

...DEBORAH APPOINTED A MAN OF GREAT VALOR, BARAK, TO LEAD TEN THOUSAND ISRAELITES AGAINST THE VAUNTED ARMY OF SISERA, KING JABIN'S GENERAL, WHO HAD NINE HUNDRED CHARIOTS OF IRON! BARAK, KNOWING DEBORAH ALSO AS A GREAT PROPHETESS AND SEER, INSISTED SHE BE WITH HIM ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE AND, BECAUSE OF THIS, SHE SAID THAT SISERA WOULD DIE BY A WOMAN'S HAND AND NOT BY A MAN'S... FOLLOWING DEBORAH'S ADVICE, BARAK ATTACKED THE CANAANITES FROM THE HEIGHTS OF MT. TABOR, DRIVING SISERA'S ARMY HARD AGAINST THE BANKS OF THE KISHON RIVER, WHERE HIS CHARIOTS COULD NOT MANEUVER AND, IN FACT, WERE SWEEPED AWAY BY THE WATERS, GIVING ISRAEL A GREAT VICTORY!

THE GENERAL, SISERA, ESCAPED FROM THE BATTLE AND SOUGHT REFUGE BY HIDING IN THE TENT OF HEBER, THE KENITE. HERE, HEBER'S WIFE, Jael, SLEW HIM WHILE HE SLEPT—THIS FULFILLING DEBORAH'S PROPHECY AND PLACING HER NAME NEXT DEBORAH'S AS THE TWO PERSONS MOST RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CRUSHING DEFEAT OF THE CANAANITES!

NEXT WEEK: THE MAN WHO LOST HIS HEAD OVER A DANCE!

Steers ready for series

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

If the Big Spring Steers are the least bit uptight on the eve of their state quarterfinal series with Fort Worth Brewer, they're doing a good job of hiding it.

As the Steers wrapped up the week's practices Thursday, they looked every bit like a team that was coolly confident of success against Brewer.

The best-of-three series starts tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Scott Field on the Abilene Christian University campus. The winner advances to the state UIL baseball tournament, which begins June 9 at Ditch-Falk Field on the University of Texas campus in Austin.

On paper, the Steers (24-7) have the edge in experience over the Bears (21-8). This marks the fourth straight year Big Spring has made the playoffs, and the team is gunning for its second state tournament berth in the past three years.

But Brewer, which is making its second straight playoff appearance, is on a roll right now. In their past 15 games, they have only lost once and are undefeated in the playoffs. By comparison, the Steers are coming off a grueling, come-from-behind series win against Fort Worth Arlington Heights.

"I think (Brewer is) just as good, if not better, than Arlington Heights," said Big Spring first baseman Brandon Rodgers. "So we can't overlook them. We'll have to play good baseball."

But while the team knows it could be in for a tough fight against Brewer, it also believes it can win.

Big Spring baseball coach Bobby Doe tries his hand at bunting during Thursday practice at Steer Park. The Steers take on Fort Worth Brewer in a best-of-three baseball playoff beginning tonight in Abilene.

"I believe we're going good now," Rodgers said. "The defense and the sticks are looking good. Now, we've just got to execute... I think we're pretty confident. We think we can beat them."

One thing in the Steers' favor is their ability to win close games. They have won six of their last seven contests decided by two runs or less.

"In close games, it seems that in the seventh inning, we always come out and just play real hard," pitcher Frankie Martinez said.

Head coach Bobby Doe acknowledges his team's knack for winning the close ones, but can't put his finger on the cause for all that late-inning success.

"You always hope your team can win close games, but I don't think it's a talent," he said. "But if you can win a lot of close games, it definitely helps down the line."

Doe hasn't scouted the Bears, but said a key will be how the Steers fare in tonight's first game. Last week, the Steers lost the first game of their series with Arlington Heights and had to rally for two wins the next day.

Understandably, Doe does not want to have that situation repeat itself, so the pressure is on Martinez, tonight's starter, to keep Brewer at bay.

To do that, he will have to reverse his recent form. In his last two starts, Martinez has not lasted past the fourth inning, and against Arlington Heights, he was lifted in the top of the third after getting shelled for nine hits and six runs.

Part of the problem, he said, was a sore shoulder that hampered his throwing motion.

Sands' Keyes resigns post

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

ACKERLY - For the fourth straight season, Sands High School will be adjusting to a new football coach.

Bob Keyes, who came to Sands in 1992 as the school's principal, took over the football team for the '93 season and helped change the Mustangs from a 4-6 squad - their record under Karry Owens in '92 - to a 10-1-1 bi-district champion. Keyes said he accepted an offer Tuesday to become principal at Hawley High School, north of Abilene in Jones County.

KEYES

Keyes, 45, is strictly a principal at Hawley - he won't be coaching. A key in his decision to leave Sands is the possibility he'll be superintendent in Hawley by the '95-96 school year. Hawley superintendent Ed Womack is retiring after the upcoming school year, and while there are "no guarantees," Keyes said his chances for the job are good - too good to pass up.

"I'd kind of planned on coaching my whole life, but as you get older, the number of hours and the work you have to put in kind of wears on you after a while. Of course, if you're in administration you put in long hours, too," Keyes said. "This is something I'd like to try. There are no guarantees, it's not put in writing that I will be superintendent, but the prospects are there. I have a good chance to make that move."

Keyes, who graduated from Abilene Christian University in 1970, has been a head football coach at Sands, Borger and Cisco Junior College, and he's been on the coaching staff at ACU, Amarillo High, Hereford, Round Rock and Graham. He came to Sands after a four-year stint as Borger's football coach and athletic director.

Leaving Ackerly will be difficult, Keyes said, because of the close friends he has made and the potential of the Sands football team. Standout tailback Heath Gillespie and tight end Benji Rodriguez have graduated from last season's team, but the rest of the players can come back for '94.

"With all the players we have coming back, we'll be OK," said senior quarterback/safety Steven Cantu. "I thought Coach was really looking forward to doing it next season with us. I was really sur-

Pacers go for knockout

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Reggie Miller's 25-point fourth quarter that carried Indiana Pacers to the brink of their first trip to the NBA Finals had the New York Knicks struggling to recover from shock Thursday.

"It was a sleepless night," guard John Starks said. "I got to sleep at about 5 a.m. and woke up again at 7. But it gave me a lot of time to think about what happened."

With the Pacers down by 12 points in the fourth quarter, Miller hit a barrage of 3-pointers, five of them without a miss in the first 6:07 of the period.

The Pacers scored 23 of the first 26 points of the quarter — 19 by Miller, who finished with 39 points — and went on to a 93-86 victory Wednesday night and a 3-2 lead in the Eastern Conference finals.

"He was great for them and bad for us," said Knicks forward Charles Oakley. "He just turned it up. It was one of those game you just have to forget and move on."

At the Knicks practice facility Thursday, veteran guard Rolando Blackman shook his head and had two words, "Killer Miller."

"It's a simple situation," coach Pat Riley said. "We have to get back into the right frame of mind. We had a double-digit lead at home for 37 minutes and there were moments where it looked like we could take the lead to 20. Then in the fourth quarter it was almost like we exhaled because the game was like that for so long. Turnovers (six in the first seven possessions) got us started and then Reggie got hot."

"The game changed dramatically in 20 minutes. The game turned and we couldn't catch it again."

The Knicks must win Friday night at Market Square Arena to even the series and force a seventh game in New York on Sunday.

"We have to have a positive attitude, or we'll be eliminated," forward Charles Smith said. "The difference between this year and last year is that we've been through this before."

Starks said the Knicks are "angry and disappointed it's come down to this. The simple fact is that we're in the same position as last year. But we have no doubt in our minds that we can go up there and get a victory. We know we can beat this team."

To beat the Pacers, the Knicks will have to overcome a partisan Indiana crowd becoming accustomed to upsets.

The Pacers defeated the fourth-seeded Orlando Magic and the top-seeded Atlanta Hawks before facing New York. Previously, Indiana had never won an NBA playoff series.

Puck finally falls Rangers' way vs. Vancouver

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Once again, the New York Rangers outshot, outplayed and outthrustled the Vancouver Canucks. This time they even managed to win.

"We've had a couple of unfortunate breaks in the last little while but that has not hindered our confidence at all," Rangers center Mark Messier said after Thursday night's 3-1 victory tied the Stanley Cup finals at a game apiece.

During the regular season, the Rangers were a team that couldn't be beaten once they took a lead into the third period. Their record in such contests was 40-0-4.

But in the playoffs, they have lost twice after taking leads into the third period, most recently Tuesday night's 3-2 overtime loss to the Canucks in Game 1.

"We've played unbelievably all year with a lead, we've held it, and that didn't enter our minds at all," Messier said when asked if the Rangers were thinking about blowing a one-goal lead Thursday night.

Certainly coach Mike Keenan wasn't worried.

"You have to show confidence in your leadership and confidence in your players," Keenan said. "For that reason, I put the same group of people on the ice" who gave up the tying goal to Vancouver in Game 1.

"Ultimately, they got the job done. That's all that matters to us. Mistakes are made from time to time. But you have to give them a chance to respond and that's what they did for us."

Tuesday night, the Rangers were leading 2-1 when Martin Gelinas scored with one minute left in the third period. Rangers goaltender Mike Richter blamed himself for giving up a "soft" goal.

On the ice for the Rangers at the time were Mark Messier, Adam Graves, Alexei Kovalev, Brian Leetch and Jeff Beukeboom.

Thursday night, it was Messier, Graves, Leetch, Beukeboom and Steve Larmer on the ice for the last minute. Leetch was thinking back to Game 1, especially after one particular play.

This time, Richter admittedly played a better game. He made 28 saves, including a couple of big ones in the last minute.

Mark Messier, N.Y. Rangers	195	97
Glenn Anderson, N.Y. Rangers	203	89

Note: Totals through Game 2 of the Rangers/Canucks Stanley Cup Final.

"Gelinas had a whack at the doorstep and you can't believe that it could happen again," Leetch said. "And then the puck goes into the corner and it's a relief."

What happened then was even more of a relief for the Rangers. Leetch managed to control the puck behind the New York goal line and send it all the way up ice into an empty net for the final margin of victory.

"We had lots of chances in the last five minutes, at least three good chances," said Vancouver's Greg Adams, who scored the winner in the first game.

Wilson tops draft list

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Four years ago, when baseball's amateur draft reached the 57th round, the Pittsburgh Pirates chose pitcher Paul Wilson out of Boone High School in Orlando, Fla.

Thanks, but no thanks, Wilson told them, choosing Florida State instead. "It wasn't the right time," Wilson said. "If they drafted me sooner, I might have gone. I wanted to play ball."

The wait paid off on Thursday when Wilson went No. 1, picked by the New York Mets in what club officials have termed the most important draft in club history. The Mets are in the middle of a major reconstruction and they hope Wilson can play a prominent role in the project. Wilson is anxious for the chance.

Waiting for Friday's College World Series opener against LSU in Omaha, Neb., Wilson learned the Mets had selected him. "I'm going to the Big Apple," he said. "Being No. 1 makes it a little bit sweeter."

Signing him may not be a major problem for New York. "There will be some negotiations, but I don't think it'll last that long," the 21-year-old said. "I don't plan on holding out. I want to play ball."

Wilson is 12-5 with a 2.08 earned run average. Equipped with a 95-mph fastball, he had 154 strikeouts in 134 innings.

"There were hints beginning about 10 months ago, but nothing concrete," Wilson said. "They kept me at a safe distance. That's why it feels so good."

Wilson got the call early Thursday. "They woke me up," he said. "It was a good wakeup call. I didn't do much sleeping."

After the Mets chose Wilson, the Oakland Athletics selected high school outfielder Ben Grieve from Martin High School in Arlington, Texas. Grieve, the son of Texas Rangers general manager Tom Ringer, batted .485 with three home runs and 11 RBIs in this season and was rated the high school prospect closest to the majors by Baseball America.

Keys

prised, but I guess if he wanted to go, we can't do anything about it."

Senior fullback/linebacker Neil Allen said: "I'm angry - this is the fourth year since I've been in high school that we've had a new coach. But it's whatever's best for Coach Keys. If he gets a better job, it's OK."

"It's been tough. Every coach that's come in, we've had to learn new plays. I just hope this year, when we get a new coach, we don't mess up. I want it to be like last year."

Keys said another reason he wished to go to Hawley was to be closer to his father.

"My Dad's in Abilene, he's 80, and it's getting to the point where in a few years he's going to need somebody there to help out."

The search for a new football coach at Sands is just beginning, and Keys said no decisions have been made in that regard. Sands Consolidated School District Superintendent Don Bryan was unavailable for comment.

"I'll remember the people here, the good friends, and they'll be some tears, and more tears on my part," Keys said. "Last football season was a great experience for me, and I'll always be indebted to the kids."

When the A's picked Grieve, that left Kent University right-hander Dustin Hermanson available for the San Diego Padres. Hermanson, also 21, was 5-4 with a 2.69 ERA this season and had a higher rating than Wilson with the Major League Scouting Bureau.

Arizona State third baseman Antone Williamson went next, drafted by the Milwaukee Brewers after batting .356 with 13 home runs and 67 RBIs. Then the Florida Marlins picked high school shortstop Josh Booty from Shreveport, La. Booty hit .429 with 12 home runs and 36 RBIs.

The California Angels selected high school outfielder McKay Christensen from Fresno, Calif. Christensen a running back who scored 44 touchdowns last season, has signed to play football at Brigham Young and had advised all major league teams that he plans to begin a two-year Mormon mission either this summer or after the fall semester.

Left-handed pitcher Doug Millon from Sarasota, Fla., High School went next to the Colorado Rockies. Millon was 12-2 with a 1.21 ERA this season. The Minnesota Twins then chose LSU second baseman Todd Walker, who hit .380 with 12 homers and 56 RBIs this season. Then the Cincinnati Reds took left-hander C.J. Nitkowski from St. John's.

Jaret Wright, a right-handed high school pitcher from Anaheim, Calif. whose father, Clyde, pitched for California, Milwaukee and Texas, went next to the Cleveland Indians, followed by third baseman-outfielder Mark Farris from Angleton, Texas, High School, who was picked by Pittsburgh.

Georgia Tech supplied two of the next three picks — shortstop Nomar Garciaparra, chosen by the Boston Sox, and catcher Jason Varitek, selected by the Seattle Mariners.

The Shadow may know who'll win this weekend, but I don't

Random thoughts while dreaming of vacation:

Whatever you do, please don't ask me who's going to win this weekend's series between Big Spring and Fort Worth Brewer. Several people have already, and I'll tell you the same thing I told them: I am clueless.

Oh, sure — Big Spring, given its experience (all but three team members are seniors) and habit of winning big games (the Steers are seeking their second state tournament berth in three years), should be considered the favorite.

But if there's one coaching cliché that holds true, it's that all bets are off come playoff time.

The Steers could be playing the Wanda Tristler School of Beauty All-Stars, and there's still a chance Big Spring could lose. The reason? Anything, and I do mean anything, can happen in the playoffs.

As Exhibit A, I turn your attention toward the Steers baseball team of two seasons ago. Those folks had a losing record during the regular season, but turned hot at exactly the right time, winning three one-game playoffs in the postseason to qualify for the state tournament.

If everything had gone according to what was expected, the Steers never would have gotten close to Austin that year. They were a young, relatively inexperienced team going against teams that should have beaten them to a pulp.

But it didn't happen. And that, Faithful Readers, is why I am hesitant to make a prediction. This time, Big Spring is the senior-laden playoff veteran, while Fort Worth Brewer is a relatively young team.

A definite key to how the series will go will be in the first game tonight.

Frankie Martinez, the staff ace, was shelled last Friday against Fort Worth Arlington Heights, setting the stage for the grueling doubleheader comeback the next day.

If he starts out much the same way tonight, the Steers could be in for a long, tough series. If, however, he comes out smoking like he did in the middle of the season, Brewer could be on the receiving end of a short series.

Martinez, who blamed part of last week's problems on a sore shoulder, said he will be ready to go this time around.

"My shoulder hurt a little bit, and I couldn't get into my rhythm," he said. "My mechanics weren't as good as they should have been, and I kind of just stopped the whole thing off. But my mechanics are coming back, and I'm getting more velocity on my fastball. I should be in good shape Friday."

If that's the case, folks, I will hazard a prediction, and say Big Spring in a sweep. If the Steers get up a game right from the start, Brewer won't have the firepower to come back.

Public Notice

On March 23, 1994, GTE and Contel ("The Companies") filed applications with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") to restructure the Companies' Switched Transport rate category and reduce the Carrier Common Line (CCL) charge of its Switched Access Service. The tariff sheets in GTE and Contel's applications, if approved, will bring the Companies' state access tariffs into structural parity with their interstate tariffs for the Local Transport rate category, which became effective on December 30, 1993.

GTE and Contel propose to implement the new tariffs on a revenue neutral basis. The Local Transport category of GTE and Contel's Switched Access Service is primarily for interexchange carriers.

Persons who wish to intervene should file a motion for intervention with the PUC by June 17, 1994 with reference to Docket No. 12866 (GTE) and/or 12865 (Contel). Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1994

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Others could be a bit difficult to handle. A parent, boss or respected older friend might throw a tantrum. Adjust your plans. All your charm and humor will not make any difference, only actions count. Tonight: Lighten up. ***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Say little today. Adjust to another's moods and changes of plans. Do not minimize the opportunity to soothe an upset friend. Good communications follow a partnership. Tonight: Take some time off. ***

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't push. Allow yourself to be more creative in how you deal with a situation. An opportunity to break new ground with a partner comes out of dissatisfaction. You renew yourself by working on a project or hobby. Tonight: Dote over loved ones. ***

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A must appearance is in order. An associate who feels left out might cause trouble. There is an element of jealousy. Open up to the new potential in your life. A parent would appreciate some additional attention. Tonight: Out and about. ***

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Relax and center. It is a busy day, and you might need to rest. You get to handle an issue more positively. Creativity flows if you let go of inner tension. Tonight: Relax at the movies. ***

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A partner might be difficult right now. It seems as if a loved one wants things their way. Be careful with flirtation. If you are attached, tread with care when dealing with children's issues. Give another the space to see what's going on. Tonight: Do your own thing. ***

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Push comes to shove.

Opportunities for greater financial security come your way. Family members fume because they are not getting what they deem correct. Let creative juices flow. Tonight: Out with a friend. ***

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It would be wise to say little and stay focused on rest, relaxation and hobbies. It's a day for misunderstandings. Put your best foot forward. Creative thinking will help you cope with the chaos. Tonight: Allow another to indulge you. ***

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are in touch with your spirituality. A financial risk could get you in trouble. Use caution with money. A loved one cares greatly. Be vulnerable with a partner. Tonight: Let go of stress. ***

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Adjust to a family member's change in attitude. You might want to check out a piece of property or investigate a situation more carefully. The more centered you are, the better off you will be. Show your generous spirit. Tonight: Home is your castle. ***

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not reveal your inner thoughts. Be sociable. You can feel good about yourself and your nurturing qualities. Look to the positive. Tonight: Go to your favorite hangouts. ***

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Watch a tendency to overstep and get yourself in trouble. A friend might try to entice you into doing something that you clearly know isn't good for you. Long-distance news is exciting. Tonight: Keep it cheap. ***

Dear Abby - Letters...

Pursued driver longed to hear siren's call

DEAR ABBY: I was recently followed on the freeway by a male driver who stayed directly behind my car through a series of lane changes and speed changes. I went from suspicious, to nervous, to really scared as I realized that he was, indeed, following me.

He then followed me off the freeway and through a series of turns while I searched in vain for a police station. I could find absolutely no signs indicating the location of the police station, sheriff or highway patrol. Finally, I pulled into a business where there were a number of men standing outside. After slowing to survey the situation, the pursuer drove on.

Abby, why don't police stations have more signs indicating their location (also the sheriff and highway patrol)? Without a car phone, it could be dangerous to stop to call 911.

Your readers would benefit from some advice on the best course of action if they are pursued on the road. —DESPERATELY SEEKING THE POLICE STATION

DEAR DESPERATELY: I hope that law enforcement and transportation departments everywhere will take note of your suggestion for better police "locator signs." It's a good idea.

Incidentally, the California Highway Patrol said that you acted appropriately when you were being pursued on the road. You headed for a lighted, populated area; kept your car doors locked and the windows rolled up; left a "space cushion" around your car for easier maneuverability; and were alert to strangers. Most important, if you are faced with weapons, surrender your vehicle calmly, without a fight. Vehicles can be replaced. Lives cannot.

DEAR ABBY: I am asking you a question I am sure many people would also like answered. Why do doctors prescribe medicines to patients that cost a fortune, then after a few doses, change the medication to something else that also costs a fortune?

I have a full bottle of medicine that cost me $26. I took it twice, then the doctor gave me another prescription to fill. When I asked him, "What should I do with the bottle I have?" he said, "Just throw it out!"

My son-in-law had two full bottles of insulin — never opened. His doctor changed his prescription to another type.

"I am close to 80 and cannot afford to throw money away. Please put this in your column because the next time a doctor prescribes 100 pills to be taken one a day, I'm going to say, "Why don't you prescribe only 20 pills, and if you want me to take more, I'll order more?"

Please don't use my name. — NOT MADE OF MONEY

DEAR NOT MADE OF MONEY: When the doctor gives you a prescription, if you are concerned that it may not agree with you or that it may be changed, ask the pharmacist to give you only part of it. If it works out OK, then you can return to the pharmacist for the remainder of the medication. The cost may be a little higher in smaller quantities, but if the medication is changed, at least you won't be stuck with medication you can't use.

NOT CONFIDENTIAL TO HELEN BRODKEY IN OMAHA: Happy birthday, dear sister. Who's counting?

For Abby's favorite family recipes, send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet No. 1, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)
