Rural fire takes one life

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

A Howard County resident has apparently died in a fire. Around 9 a.m., the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department was notified of a structure fire in the 12,000 block of North County Road 43.

Units arrived on the scene and began extinguishing the blaze. A few minutes later, fire officials called for a justice of the peace and ambulance to the scene because a woman had reportedly perished in the fire.

According to Justice of the Peace Jack Buchanan, Lacy Robinson, who is in her mid 80's, died in the fire that had broken out in her home. "I am ordering an autopsy because this was an unattended death. This was under questionable circumstances and since it was a fire, I want to know what happened. She possibly died from smoke inhalation but I want to know for sure," said Buchanan.

Details are still sketchy at this time and County Fire Marshal C. Roy Wright said he was called to the scene and will begin an investigation.

AUSTIN - In a game that absolutely screamed for a hero, the Big Spring Steers provided the unlikely one around.

Weak-hitting catcher Brandon Hamblin put the Steers on the verge of the school's first-ever state team sport championship with a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Steers a 3-2 win over Brenham Thursday.

The Steers (27-7) face Belton, 9-5 winners over Carthage, at 1:30 p.m. today at Disch-Falk Field for the state Class 4A baseball championship. Brenham ended its season with a 32-4 record.

Actually, the Steers had more heroes than Hamblin. Luis Bustamante turned in a sterling pitching performance, limiting the high-powered Cubs to only four hits in his nine innings of work.

Designated hitter John Oliva came through with a big-time performance as well, going 3-for-4 and scoring the winning run.

But it was the player nicknamed "Hambone" who wore the hero's label the best.

After Bustamante left Brenham runners stranded on second and third in the top of the ninth, Oliva started the winning rally with a leadoff single up the middle.

Trey Terrazas followed with a sacrifice bunt attempt, but Brenham reliever Graig Harrison's throw to second was too late to get Oliva, and the Steers had runners on first and second with no outs.

Frankie Martinez was intentionally walked to load the bases, bringing Hamblin to the plate.

Donations needed to get fireworks off the ground

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Anyone driving on the highways and roads of West Texas will notice fireworks vendors in place for the annual sale of Fourth of July fun.

But with fireworks illegal in most cities, fireworks displays, like the one sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, is a safe, legal way to celebrate Independence Day.

The annual display will be on South Mountain on the evening of July 4 as soon as it gets dark. This event, organized by Tammy Watt, manager of the Big Spring Mall; Carolyn Cawthron from Rip Griffin's; and David Wrinkle of KBST; is funded solely through donations.

At a cost of about $8,000 annually, Watt says that their goal is half complete. Watt said "We enjoy putting this on for the community and eventually, we would like to make this project self-sustaining. We want it to start taking care of itself."

Donations to complete the project for this year's display, according to Watt, may be sent to the Big Spring Mall to her attention or to the attention of David Wrinkle at KBST.

The display is free to the public, but it will take more donations to get this year's project completed, according to Watt. "This is something that is put on for the community," Watt said, "and the community looks forward to it. This is one of the few times that the community stops (for) when it gets dark and is time for the display.

"The fireworks company that we work with puts together an excellent display each year that can be seen all over the area and this year, I'm also working with Randy Stevens, musical director at First Methodist Church, who is putting together a community choir of about 40 or 50 people who will perform that night. This is going to be a neat deal and a lot of fun."

Big Spring has a lot to offer during the Fourth of July, according to Watt, and the fireworks display is one of the most fun.

Disease takes Clay's fight

Watching her son's decline hard on mother

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

O'DONNELL - Ponder a spider web.

It is constructed in such a way that large chunks can be torn away with little damage or effect to the structure.

But within spiderwebs are certain critical strands. When one of these is broken, the entire web falls away.

Patrick Clay Kingston was six-years-old when he was diagnosed with Duchenne's muscular dystrophy, a degenerative disease of the muscles for which there is no known cure.

Until lately, Clay's spirits were strong. He lived from event to event, with each happening reviving him and becoming the source of energy he so desperately needed in his fight. At 33, sports were his passion and although physically unable to play, his soul was the largest fan the Dallas Cowboys ever had.

Now, the silent soldier is tired. He seems to have lost a critical strand - his fighting spirit.

Attached to a respirator and unable to speak since 1981, Clay Kingston is suffering from battle fatigue. The war he wages is against a dark and seemingly elusive enemy who at this moment, he would welcome as a friend.

Clay wants to die.

Clay's mother, Judy, tells of her tragedy and of the maternal heartache and anguish in watching her oldest son give up.

"He wishes he could go to sleep and not wake up," she quietly explains as tears choke her voice. "When you look at all the pain and suffering and see it happening, you can't help but ask God why?"

Judy attributes Clay's change in spirit to several recent infections and the unexpected deaths of people he knew. "He was shocked when that 14-year-old was killed not so long ago in the four-wheeler accident because he knew him and then his aunt died of cancer. It just seemed to take the fight right out of him."

His mother knew his fight was gone when he turned down a trip to see his beloved Dallas Cowboys play the Big Spring Police Department in a charity basketball game.

"Stan Parker with the BSPD was so sweet," Judy said. "He offered to do just about anything so Clay could see the game, but Clay just said no, he didn't think he was up to the trip."

Clay was recently hospitalized for recurrent infections. Since then, he has gone through three rounds of antibiotics but repeated fevers have taken his strength. "The fever and infections will be with us from now on," Judy said.

"I told him I know he's tired, but I also told him that as his mother, I can't and will not sit back and do nothing when he is sick. I refuse to stand by and just watch him die."

Judy is struggling with the decision she has made. "I don't know, maybe this is what God wants - for me to give up and let him take him. But I won't. I'll fight to the bitter end to keep him alive. I'll fight it every step of the way."

She pushes back the thought she might be fighting against fate. "In my mind, I know I'm probably doing him a disservice," Judy ponders. "But my heart tells me to fight and my heart is winning."

Clay's father is working in Garden City, awaiting a long-ago promised early retirement buy-out from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, before he will be able to join his family. Clay's mother spends her days with her son in the house they recently moved to "on top of the Cap Rock" located near O'Donnell on the family farm.

Even in illness, Clay's love for his mother is evident. "Clay doesn't like me to leave him alone hardly for a minute when he's awake," she says. "He's afraid I might fall and get hurt or something." Judy's respite comes when Clay sleeps - which is most of the day now, she says.

While he sleeps, Judy finds herself looking through photo albums with snapshots of Clay in his early childhood. "I look at the pictures of him when he was six and I can see the pain in his eyes, even back then. In high school, he weighed 150 pounds and loved to eat," she laughs. "Now he doesn't want to eat at all," she adds seriously.

The stress of Clay's illness and going through much of it without her husband near is taking its toll on Judy. "You get tired of it, watching your son hurt being able to take away his pain," she says.

 material exploded and killed Abundio Valdez, 37 of Fort Worth, Wednesday morning.

Valdez was reportedly on top of the truck checking to see if the temperature was hot enough when the accident occurred, blowing him off the equipment. He was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center and was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Jack Buchanan.

Buchanan has received a preliminary report from Pathologist Dr. Jerry Spencer in Lubbock. "Mr. Valdez died from thermal burns and blunt force injuries. This resulted in a skull fracture and a broken neck," said Buchanan.

Retired city employee Clyde Harrison used to be a heavy equipment operator and has worked with tar pots "off and on all my life."

Harrison explained there could be several reasons why the truck exploded. "One could be that the thermostat control is not working. Or the top part where the lid is could be closed. It might have been jarred closed by accident and this accumulates the gas and causes it to explode.

The temperature of that tar can be 260 degrees and go as high as 35 degrees Celsius. Another explanation could be that the Bunsen burner was left on which causes more heat. Those types of trucks usually have an escape hatch to release pressure," Harrison said.

James Spencer, who is president of Tribble and Stephens, the general contractor says he expects OSHA to continue their investigation into next week and will be able to release their findings at that time.

Bush: Texas can't afford vouchers

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Texas just can't afford a statewide voucher program in which parents could use tax money to pay private school tuition for their children, says GOP gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush.

"When you multiply the number of private students times a voucher, we're broke," Bush said after a Thursday speech to the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals.

Bush, who is challenging Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, said he supports a proposal for a pilot program in which economically disadvantaged students in some school districts would be given vouchers for private schools.

 "I was looking for a squeeze bunt attempt," Hamblin said. "We had talked about it earlier, and the coach told me if I came up in that kind of situation, I'd try a squeeze bunt. I hadn't been swinging the bat that well lately. But I looked over at Coach (Bobby) Doe, and he told me to swing away...I've never been so nervous in my life."

"We didn't have a lot of speed at third," Doe said. "So I thought I'd give (Hamblin) a chance at hitting the ball."

After taking Harrison's first pitch for a strike, Hamblin jumped on a belt-high fastball, driving it into center field for the game-winner.

"That was a great hit," Oliva said. "Brandon hadn't hit for a while, and we didn't know if he'd be able to come through. He had some bad swings today, but he had a big one there."

Doe said scouting reports on the Cubs indicated they had trouble hitting off-speed pitches, and that was certainly the case with Bustamante.

The senior right-hander struck out five and walked two. He was especially strong in the late innings, retiring nine of the last 11 batters he faced.

His teammates, meanwhile, staked him to an early lead when they scored two unearned runs in the third inning. Martinez led off with a double, then scored when Brenham's Jason Nutt threw wild to first on Hamblin's sacrifice attempt. Courtesy runner Frankie Green later scored on a balk by Brenham starter Brian Glaesmann.

The Cubs, however, tied the game in the top of the fifth on a two-run double to left-center by right fielder Kevin Mutscher.

"We just didn't hit the ball," Brenham coach Earl Hathaway said. "We made too many baserunning mistakes, which hurt us, and we just didn't produce."

Fire continues to burn out of control

PINE SPRINGS (AP) — A wildfire continued to rage out of control at the Guadalupe Mountains National Park today.

Firefighters struggled Thursday to contain the blaze, which had charred 3,200 acres of brush and woods at the rugged West Texas park.

The fire was first reported Wednesday in the park's remote northwest corner. Lightning was the probable culprit, park officials said.

No one has been injured and firefighters have saved buildings that had been threatened since they began battling the blaze late Wednesday.

The fire had moved "a long way from anything" by Thursday afternoon, said park fire information officer Rich McCamant.

Judge orders victim picture hung in cell

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who was convicted of driving while intoxicated in a case stemming from a fatal traffic accident has been ordered by a judge to hang a photograph of his victims in his prison cell.

State District Judge Ted Poe Thursday sentenced Manuel Lopez, 22, to 10 years in prison, the maximum allowed in Texas for drunken drivers who kill.

Julian Luviano, 31, and his wife Gloria, 25, were killed. Their 5-year-old daughter, Amy, suffered a broken arm and pelvis, and their son, Julian Jr., 4, still in Hermann Hospital, is paralyzed and cannot breathe on his own.

Prosecutor Kelly Siegler said Lopez had been drinking all night and into the morning of March 26 when, after only one hour of sleep, he got behind the wheel to take a friend to work.

San Angelo woman has huge tumor removed

DALLAS — A San Angelo woman wants to learn to roller-skate with her grandchildren, now that surgeons have cut her weight in half by removing a 156-pound tumor from her abdomen.

Evelyn Geffers, 63, underwent surgery May 25 at Parkland Memorial Hospital to have the ovarian tumor removed after years of desecrating by her family.

"She had that tumor for at least 15 years," said Dr. Thelma Hurd, a Parkland cancer surgeon and assistant professor of surgery at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas.

Dr. David Miller, chief of gynecologic oncology at Southwestern Medical Center, estimated that only four or five tumors in medical history have been larger than Mrs. Geffers'.

But State District Court Judge Jeanne Muerer said the health department's order against Formula One was improperly drawn.

GOP chairman downplays party's abortion critics

FORT WORTH (AP) — While pro-choice advocates are criticizing Republican Party opposition to abortion rights, GOP Chairman Fred Meyer says the party is growing because of its conservative philosophies.

Controversy over a platform is to be expected, Meyer added, especially when a political party is growing.

"There's only one person who agrees with every word of the platform — and that's the chairman, whoever he or she may be.

Lubbock's only blood bank closed

The Associated Press

LUBBOCK — Federal authorities say they will move to revoke United Blood Services' license in Lubbock after an inspection uncovered problems with collection methods.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration this week shut down the blood bank — the only one in Lubbock. No blood was contaminated, the FDA said.

But inspectors who interviewed donors, employees and former employees were told of various problems:

— People under the influence of alcohol were accepted as donors.

— Employees sometimes improperly drained excess blood or exposed blood to air.

— Some donors weren't questioned about behaviors that pose a high risk for contracting AIDS.

"The nature of the deficiencies ... leads us to conclude that they are a direct consequence of management's disregard for the applicable regulations and standards," said Ronald D. Cheesmore, the FDA's associate commissioner for regulatory affairs.

"It is our view that the corporate incentive program, which rewards management for high levels of production and low numbers of errors, has caused or contributed to an environment of non-compliance," Cheesmore wrote in a letter dated Monday.

Baptist board behind ousted president

The Associated Press

DALLAS — The governing board of the state Southern Baptist convention has taken a stand behind the ousted president of a Fort Worth seminary and ordered a study of seminary teaching statewide.

The 213-member executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas adopted a resolution condemning the firing of Russell Dilday as president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, officials said Thursday.

The trustees of the 4,000-student seminary in Fort Worth "acted irresponsibly and unconscionably in the manner in which they removed Russell Dilday from the presidency of the seminary," the resolution stated.

The resolution noted that board members wished "to formally record our disapproval of the dismissal of Dr. Dilday, to remind Southwestern's trustees of their moral obligation to provide an equitable and generous severance package for the Dilday family, and to insist that the terms of the severance package neither infringe on Dr. Dilday's freedom to speak under the guidance of the Holy Spirit nor restrict his right to serve Christ according to the dictates of his own conscience."

There was no count of the show of hands at the quarterly board meeting in Dallas Tuesday, but the resolution had the support of "a clear majority" of the board, spokesman Orville Scott said.

The convention board also authorized the appointment of a 15-member committee to study the state of theological education in Texas' Southern Baptist seminaries.

The Baptist General Convention of Texas has about 5,500 congregations consisting of more than 2.5 million congregants, Scott said.

News of the resolution came as a surprise to Dilday on Thursday night.

"It's a very strong statement of affirmation," he said from his Fort Worth home.

He said he welcomed the convention board's support on the severance agreement, since progress has been slow on that front.

Game called because of BEES?

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — It was probably the strangest reason to call off a baseball game in the history of our national pastime.

A Little League baseball game at the Perrin Beitel Little League baseball diamond was called because of bees.

Officials said hundreds of bees swarmed onto the field and into the stands, stinging players, fans and even an umpire. The bees apparently became upset when some youths threw rocks at their hive at the base of a telephone pole on an adjacent field, officials said.

The game-ending melee sent everybody scrambling to safety, and a forfeit was declared after both teams agreed not to resume.

Although at least six people were stung, none, seriously, a health official didn't take samples of the winged attackers to determine if they were of the Africanized variety.

"We just ran for cover," said spectator Cathy Bomberg, who was stung more than a dozen times along with her 4-year-old son, Gregory. "There were 40 or 50 of them around my head."

The hive was eradicated quickly by a vector control officer summoned from the Metropolitan Health District.

Due to confusion at the scene, it was unclear whether anyone had been stung, so no samples were taken by the officer to determine if the variety of the insects, said chief sanitarian Sam Sanchez.

The Bantam League game between the Dodgers and Rockies, featuring youths ages 8 and 9, was in the next-to-last inning at about 8 p.m. Wednesday when the bees took to the field, apparently aroused by the rock-throwing. District Fire Chief Vernon Grams said.

Umpire Joe Strezishar heard screams and noticed fans running in all directions. Then he was stung five times.

The game never resumed. The Dodgers were behind by two runs when play was suspended and were stung with the loss after their coach decided to forfeit.

Bob Logan, an official with the Perrin Beitel Little League, said

The bees had been seen at the base of the telephone pole for the past several years, said league official Bob Logan.

We salute!

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local citizens or groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community:

- VA Medical Center for conducting a stand down for homeless veterans, which helped out 67 veterans and their families. "Lest we forget."
- Kevin Hoelscher and Matthew Seidenberger for being named salutatorian and valedictorian respectively of Garden City High School.
- Melissa Ware and Gwen Mason for helping to save the life of Ricky Martinez who nearly drowned in the municipal pool. That was good and fast work.

Going straight to the heart of the problem

Pick a day, any day.
Pick a newspaper, any paper.
Fighting in Israel.
Hatred in Haiti.
War in Bosnia, Yemen, Rwanda.

Paul Harvey Singapore's senior minister, Lee Kuan Yew, recently observed, "Human beings, regrettable though it be, are inherently vicious..."
On this planet in rebellion, he's right, of course. Crime, divorce, abortion, incompetence, greed, irresponsibility come naturally to us.
Public officials seek remedies for ills we seem helpless to prevent.
We pile laws upon laws seeking salvation by legislation because the 10 Moses brought down from the mountain are too simple to be significant.
Why is there crime?
People choose to meet their own needs -- real or perceived -- at the expense of other people.
Why is there war?
Nations choose to meet their own needs at the expense of other nations.
Why is there divorce?
Husbands and wives forsake each other's interests in pursuit of their own.

Why is there racism, alcoholism, child abuse, animal abuse, lying, cheating, greed, laziness, teen pregnancy?
The answer's the same...
"Me first; you... whenever."
Like undisciplined children, we lie on the floor threatening to "hold our breath until we turn blue," whining and complaining and demanding.
So how do we make self-centered whiners into self-disciplined adults?
More government programs, more regulations?
Communism tried that and failed.
What if, as a last resort, we go to the back of the bookshelf?
Spaceship Earth came with a book of instructions; let's see what it says.
It says we should not be slothful in business; in fact, it says he who does not work -- let him not eat.
It says women should wear modest apparel.
It says don't steal anything -- anything!
It says don't get drunk -- period.
It says you sleep only with your own wife.
It says you don't do what you "want," you do what you'd "ought," and for those whose consciences are anesthetized, it specifies which is which.
If that book were not a divinely inspired road map from here to hereafter, it would still be the best rule book for a good life here.
We can ignore that book or deny it. We can challenge it, revise it, rewrite it, reject it...
But when we have done our worst, it will still be there waiting for us, haunting us, calling out to us, "Behave or be damned; believe and be saved."

First reports on NAFTA are good feeling hiring pressure. NAFTA, for example, may have helped slightly to reduce the U.S. jobless rate for May to 6 per cent -- a four-year low.

Those with a keen eye for dark clouds point out that, despite the increased business, America's trade surplus with Mexico fell during the first quarter by 41.5 percent. But that's no calamity. U.S. trade with Mexico constitutes only around 7 percent of our total foreign trade; the peso isn't about to trounce the dollar. Moreover, tighter Mexican interest rates and such investment scarcities as the Chiapas Indian uprising and the assassination of Luis Coloso have bumped Mexico's growth rate to an unusually feeble 2 percent. When Mexico's economy picks back up, its citizens will buy still more U.S.-made goods.
Even in recession, Mexico under NAFTA is increasing its imports of American goods three times as fast as is the rest of the world. That is generating some new jobs (plus greater job security) in several U.S. industries. Congress can help multiply these good effects on America's economy by ratifying the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which would extend NAFTA-style free trade to almost every land.

PERSPECTIVE

Raising a ruckus in victory's name

JILL LAWRENCE
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — Bill Kristol's strategy to restore his battered Republican Party is taking an incendiary turn this month. He's inviting prominent party members to slug it out publicly on abortion and family values.

Washington Today

Highlighting deep divisions is not an obvious recipe for victory, but it is a proven one. Consider the Democratic Leadership Council, the centrist rebels who gave the liberal party establishment fits until they produced a sheaf of voter-friendly ideas and Bill Clinton to extol them.

Kristol, chairman of the 5-month-old Project for the Republican Future, was serious enough about following the DLC model that he sought guidance from its founders.

Criticize, analyze, theorize and don't shy away from a fight, advised the DLC veterans whose influence is reflected today in Clinton's positions on crime, defense, trade and welfare.

It's the part about conflict that Kristol seems to have taken to heart.

One of his first acts was advising Republicans to deny there is a health care crisis — Clinton's primary argument for health care reform. The result was a mini-furor and a suitably splashy baptism for the new provocateurs.

Since then, Kristol has issued a barrage of health strategies and policy options; dispensed advice on how to handle the Whitewater and Paula Jones issues (with restraint); circulated a new abortion position for the GOP (return control to the states and scrap the platform's call for a constitutional ban); and scheduled forums this month on his party's chief vulnerabilities: domestic policy, abortion and family values.

"You don't want to have differences swept under the rug and suddenly have huge fights in 1996," says Kristol. "It's very useful to have these debates now."

The DLC's goal was to nudge Democrats toward moderate stands with middle-class appeal. The Project for the Republican Future aims for a broader, more practical brand of conservatism, minus religious overtones.

"We are not the kinds of conservative activists who just want to make a fuss," Kristol says. "We want to develop a winning conservative strategy. That does imply getting votes from people who haven't read all the same books and magazine articles that you have."

GOP policy groups have proliferated since the 1992 election. Republican National Chairman Haley Barbour says that's healthy "as long as they are not antagonistic toward each other."

Barbour also notes that the party's National Policy Forum has heard from 177,000 people at 60 sessions around the country. "They're not here for Washington consumption," he says of those hearings. "We've been out listening to America."

Kristol takes a different tack. His first forum, on domestic policy, pitted Empower America director Vin Weber — a former congressman — against former Bush administration budget director Richard Darman.

For 60 years, Weber said, the GOP has been unable to stop government growth or win public support for its domestic agenda. Empowerment — giving people choices in housing, education and other areas — addresses both problems, he said.

Empowerment, countered Darman, is a meaningless slogan doomed to breed cynicism by delivering less than it promises. It's too expensive to do right, he said, yet too puny to address huge societal problems. "You need an exciting vision," Darman lectured.

'Bub' rap undeserved

Hans Morsbach is a liberal. A Hyde Park and University of Chicago liberal, in fact, which is just about the most liberal kind of liberal that you can find in Chicago.

Mike Royko

So he is confused and angry at finding himself accused by federal bureaucrats of being the kind of guy who discriminates.

Morsbach, 61, is well-known in the Hyde Park area, where he has owned restaurants since 1963.

Currently he operates the Medici on Harper, another Medici on 57th Street and Ida's Cafe and the Pub, both on the U. of C. campus.

Without false modesty, he says: "I think I'm a damn near model employer. I hire black people, white people, young people, older people. I have older people who have worked for me for 20 years."

"I have a history of promoting based on merit, and at this time nearly half my managers are black."

So what's the problem?
The problem sounds so weird that if I didn't know Morsbach, and hadn't seen the bureaucratic documents, I would think he made the story up as a hoax.

Here, believe it or not, is what has happened to him.
A few months ago, a man came into his Medici restaurant and asked the manager about the restaurant's hiring practices.

He was an investigator from the Chicago office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.
"I paid no attention to it," between lung cancer and smoking. Now the Environmental Protection Agency, anti-tobacco activists and the media court similar disregard by misrepresenting findings about "environmental" smoke.

Thus, EPA lowered the standard definition of "statistically significant" risk in summing up the scientific knowledge about the effect of tobacco smoke on nonsmokers. Even so, only one of the 11 studies EPA analyzed showed a statistically significant link between environmental smoke and lung cancer. One had to read the fine print of this week's stories about a new study from Louisiana State University to learn that it showed the nonsmoking spouse of a pack-a-day smoker would suffer no harm in 40 years.

The reason to ban environmental smoke — on airplanes, say — is that it offends nonsmokers. The evidence that it hurts them is tenuous indeed.

Political nannyism. Congress banned smoking in all schools this year, though there are grownups on the ground in Poughkeepsie and El Paso and Fort Wayne who might be capable of regulating this mundane matter. And this is just the beginning: The Smoke-Free Environment Act now wending its way through the House will ban smoking nationwide in all "public" buildings — defined as non-residences where 10 or more unrelated people enter in the course of a week.

Puzzling priorities. Most of the costs of smoking are paid by those who choose to smoke. Tobacco is vastly less disruptive to family and neighborhood than alcohol, which spurs crudeness and imprudence, crime and accidents devastating to life and limb, on a scale sufficient to explain why this country outlawed it by constitutional amendment from 1919 to 1933. Why the fixation on a comparatively innocuous custom already in retreat?

The enemies of smoking would better serve their cause by maintaining a sense of proportion and portraying the facts honestly.

No, say the bureaucrats. He has two options: He can mediate a settlement, which means hiring four people who are over 40 years old, giving them back pay, full benefits, seniority, etc., etc.

And he must post a notice in his restaurant promising to never again discriminate against anyone because of their age.
If he doesn't do these things, then they will take him to court.
That's the way it now stands, with Morsbach not having the faintest idea how an ad about a "young, bub" was placed somewhere without his knowing it.

As he wrote to the EEOC, "I am utterly unconvinced that any of my employees discriminated against anybody. It is conceivable that an employment agency may have placed an ad in our behalf over which we had no control. The Medici never uses lingo such as 'wts' or 'young, bub.' I don't even know what 'bub' means; it is not listed in my dictionary."
"I should state that you have not shown me a copy of the ad nor established that anyone in my organization conceived it or approved it."
"Your suggestion that I should post notices promising to stop discriminating is an insult. The Medici has always enjoyed excellent rapport with its employees. Many have worked for me for decades; we have minority individuals in managerial positions, not because they are ethnically different, but because they deserve the position. I have fired a manager for making an anti-Semitic remark. Being a decent employer is as important to me as making money."
We called the EEOC and asked about the ad for someone who is "young, bub." A bureaucrat said they would get back to us. They didn't.
So Morsbach is now deprived of his most basic legal rights: facing his accuser and being shown the evidence against him.

Why all the furor about a custom in retreat?

Why all the furor about a custom in retreat?

Suffering shoplifter receives jury award

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A shoplifter who suffered a broken arm, leg and rib when store employees caught him taking cigarettes has been awarded $13,000 in damages for excessive force.

"The fact that this admitted thief is now getting damages from the very entity he was stealing from strikes one — at least at first glance — as a classic example of chutzpah," Superior Court Judge John Phillips said Wednesday in ruling John Barton was a victim of excessive force. "But the true test of our legal system may be how the law is applied to thieves and the disreputables."

Barton, 41, was caught with several cartons of cigarettes in his sleeves in 1991 at a Costco warehouse store in Sand City, about 80 miles south of San Francisco.

He said he shoved an employee aside, then was surrounded by other workers who twisted his arm behind his back, threw him to the ground and pinned his legs. A Costco employee said Barton also cursed, spat at and bit the workers.

Plane crash kills three

BANNING, Calif. (AP) — Two small planes collided and plummeted onto an Indian reservation, killing all three people aboard.

No one on the ground was hurt Thursday afternoon in the crash 10 miles from Banning.

One victim was in a Piper Cherokee headed for landing at Banning Airport; the others died in a Cessna 207 on a photographic mapping survey, the Federal Aviation Administration said. The victims' identities were not released.

The planes hit the ground a mile apart on the Morongo Indian Reservation, about 85 miles east of Los Angeles, and started a brush fire that burned 20 acres.

The cause of the accident was under investigation.

Magazine sued for using picture

NEW YORK (AP) — Two lesbians are suing a magazine for $17 million for publishing a photo they say revealed their relationship without permission.

Valerie Merriwether and Rosetta Ford filed suit Wednesday over a photograph in the June issue of Popular Photography showing them snuggling in a limousine in formal clothes en route to their wedding-like "commitment ceremony."

The caption reads: "Lesbian couple: Light from the limo sunroof illuminates two women on the way to their commitment ceremony in a church in Greenwich Village." Merriwether and Ford, both postal employees, said neither their families nor their co-workers had been aware of the relationship.

The photograph was shot by the limo driver, Kathy Shorr, in 1988.

Merriwether said she denied Shorr's request to allow the photo to be published, telling Shorr that she and Ford come from religious families who would be heartsick about their relationship.

Business angle hurting health insurance plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Businesses would be forced to buy health insurance for workers and their families beginning in 1998 under a version of President Clinton's troubled health care plan approved by a Senate committee.

But the measure attracted only one Republican vote Thursday in the Senate Labor Committee, and it was likely to encounter stiff opposition elsewhere in Congress.

At the same time, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, toed the Democratic party line and offered a blueprint for health insurance as a basic benefit on the job.

Defy NATO, open flow of arms to Bosnia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting White House warnings of foreign policy disarray, Congress says the United States should defy its NATO allies and open the flow of arms to Bosnia.

A House measure to lift the arms embargo, passed 244-178 Thursday, amounts to a slap at President Clinton's foreign policy and a vote of no confidence in the ability of the United Nations to resolve the conflict in the former Yugoslavia.

Last month, the Senate passed a similar measure but then muddled the waters by passing a contradictory proposal urging the administration to lift the embargo only if Western allies support the move, the position supported by Clinton. Further votes and negotiations between the House and Senate will be needed before Thursday's action becomes law.

NATO hopes to draw Russia into accord

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Offering Moscow a "special relationship" befitting a nuclear power, NATO hoped to draw Russia into its cooperation accord with former Warsaw Pact countries today.

But the alliance stopped short of granting its former enemy any say in policy making, and Moscow's reaction was not immediately known.

Foreign ministers of the 16 Western allies are sitting down with counterparts from 18 countries from Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union that have already signed on to Partnership for Peace.

Republicans block Whitewater hearing

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Republicans pressing for congressional Whitewater hearings blocked a Senate vote that would have started the probe because it carried restrictions imposed by the Democrats.

A highly partisan debate ended late Thursday night with no vote and Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell accusing the GOP of "filibustering their own issue."

Republicans knew they had no chance of getting their proposal for hearings passed after Mitchell slapped it with an amendment for more limited hearings that would have to be voted first.

"They are in the majority," said

Republican leader Bob Dole. "We don't have the votes." The Mitchell plan would have started hearings in the Banking Committee no later than July 29.

But Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., who wrote the Republican plan for hearings said Mitchell's version "inhibits the committee from undertaking its constitutional responsibility."

Mitchell retaliated: "They are not interested in a vote on the Whitewater issue. They are not interested in an investigation. They are interested in a political circus to attack President Clinton."

Offered as an amendment to the unrelated Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act, the Mitchell plan would authorize the committee to investigate:

— Communications between officials of the White House and the Treasury Department or Resolution Trust Corp. relating to the Whitewater Development Corp. and the Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan Association.

— The Park Service Police investigation into the suicide of White House deputy counsel Vincent Foster.

— White House handling of documents in Foster's office after he died.

"It doesn't even allow us to look at Whitewater, which is what this is all about," argued Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, speaking of the inner workings of the now-defunct real estate business in which President Clinton and his wife, Hillary, were partners.

He promised to seek amendments to other legislation that would expand the scope of the hearings if the Mitchell amendment passed.

Republicans also objected to holding hearings so close to the four-week summer break scheduled to begin Aug. 15.

"The goal is to have a couple of weeks of hearings, go home for recess and everyone forget about it," said Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss. "We want to change the date to July 11 or 12. There is no justification for the kind of delay."

D'Amato, proposed that a special Banking subcommittee, evenly divided between Democrats and Republicans, investigate 17 areas, including:

— Details of the operations and management of Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan Association and Whitewater Development Co.

CDs stable rate partly due to lack of weak loan demand

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A senior bank regulator is offering an explanation for what most savers know all too well — the rise in interest paid on bank deposits is lagging the increase in other interest rates.

Federal Reserve Board member, Lawrence B. Lindsey says banks try to keep rates on savings accounts relatively stable and generally don't cut or increase them as fast as rates in financial markets.

And, in recent years, banks have paid substantially higher premiums for deposit insurance because of bank failures in the late 1980s and early 1990s, he said.

"Taking this historical pattern of stickiness into account, rates on these types of deposits (savings and money-market accounts) do not appear to be noticeably out of line with previous experience," he said.

Lindsey said rates paid on certificates of deposit "appear to have been on the low side of historical norms over the past year or so, perhaps in part because loan demand had been rather weak."

But now that loan demand has increased, "rates on retail CDs have been rising steadily as banks have needed to raise funds," he told the House Banking consumer subcommittee Thursday.

Since February, the Federal Reserve has nudged its key short-term interest rate up by 1.25 percentage points, to 4.25 percent.

An unidentified injured man is helped from an eight-story apartment building in Allentown, Pa., Thursday. Officials say two natural gas explosions shook the building for senior citizens, injuring at least 87 and killing one.

Gas main explosion kills one, injures at least 87

The Associated Press

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Workers apparently ruptured a gas main and set off two explosions at an apartment house for senior citizens, killing one person and sending hundreds fleeing, many on canes and walkers.

At least 87 people were injured Thursday evening in the blasts at an eight-story building at the John Gross Towers, a public housing complex with about 400 elderly people in two buildings.

Mary Martin, 84, said she suddenly found herself face down with shards of glass embedded in her forehead.

"When that glass started coming down, oh, the noise it made," she said at a Red Cross shelter. "We'll say our prayers every night."

Contractors installing a fuel oil tank apparently ruptured a 2-inch gas main, Mayor William Heydt said. UGI Utilities Inc. said it received a report of a gas odor 10 minutes before the first explosion.

The first blast occurred as 73-year-old William Kray opened the door to his apartment, and the second one was about 10 minutes later, while the building was being evacuated, authorities said.

U.S. soldiers set up Patriot missiles during a military exercise at the Osan Air Base south of Seoul Friday. North Korea issued new threats of war against Japan and South Korea Thursday, apparently trying to frighten them into withdrawing their support for sanctions over the North's nuclear program.

U.S. soldiers in Seoul go quietly about business

The Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea — When Pfc. Alan Bowen is busy repairing engines on Humvee vehicles, he doesn't dwell on the nuclear crisis in North Korea. He doesn't have to — it's always in the back of his mind.

"I never think about it," the 25-year-old Texan said quietly on Thursday, turning a coffee mug in callused hands. "And I never don't think about it."

Across base, P.J. Fry, a colonel's wife, was making a quick stop at the commissary to buy sodas for her two sons. A small frown creased her forehead at the mention of North Korea.

"I'm just doing what I always do, looking after my family," she said. "I think if it were really dangerous, they'd get the dependents out of here."

On a sunny afternoon, Seoul's Yongsan garrison resembles nothing so much as small-town America:

dusty baseball diamonds and shopping malls, pizzerias and movie theaters. There's a small knot of customers around the one-hour photo booth, and the drone of a lawnmower fills the air.

But Yongsan is a company town, existing for one purpose: It's the headquarters of the U.S. 8th Army, home to 7,500 American soldiers, dependents and civilian employees.

U.S. forces in South Korea, numbering about 36,000, are a crucial line of defense against any attack by North Korea. The North says economic sanctions — which the United Nations is considering to force the Communist state to open its nuclear program — would mean war.

That leaves soldiers and their dependents here more aware than ever that military life can be a risky business. Most are matter-of-fact about it.

"I just keep busy so it's not constantly on my mind," said Pfc. Joshua Madarasz, 20, a computer operator from Oakland, Calif. "You have to get through each day."

Madarasz' wife and two infant daughters are back home, and he talked about how badly he missed them. He paused for a moment, then added: "Of course, if they were here, I'd worry about that."

The U.S. military has contingency plans for evacuating dependents and non-essential personnel, but officials say there are no plans to activate them. Last month, Yongsan had its regular twice-a-year evacuation drill, in which families gathered essential documents and checked in at assembly points.

In the base's schools, kids learn American history just as they would at home. The high school vice principal, Leon Brashier, says some take a particular interest in the 1950-53 Korean War, in which more than 33,000 Americans died.

"At home, they'd just read about it in a book, but here they can see some of the places where it happened," he said. "It's a lot more real."

Brashier said he didn't believe his high-school students thought much about the possibility of another war in Korea. But Janelle Watkins, a 17-year-old junior whose parents are both supply sergeants, disagreed.

"I worry about it all the time — all the time," she said, hanging out after school with friends in a fast-food restaurant on base. "But I don't ask my teachers. Some questions, they can't answer."

S. Korea prepares for possible war

The Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea today ordered a nationwide check of underground shelters and emergency water supplies, quickening the pace of preparations for possible war with its northern communist rival.

The measures reflected the growing sense of crisis over North Korea's refusal to permit full nuclear inspections at its main nuclear complex.

The North insists its nuclear program is peaceful, but by denying international inspectors full access, it has deepened suspicions that it is producing nuclear weapons.

The United States and others are seeking to impose punitive sanctions, a step the hard-line government says it would regard as an act of war.

President Clinton talked by telephone with his South Korean counterpart, Kim Young-sam, for nearly one hour today and confirmed U.S. plans to seek punitive U.N. sanctions against the North, Seoul officials said.

"The two presidents agreed to impose sanctions through the U.N. Security Council and through close consultations among the United States, Japan and (South) Korea," chief presidential spokesman Choo Don-shik said.

South Korea's 650,000-member army and the North's 1.1 million-member force are on heightened alert.

About 223,000 shelters and 60,000 underground water supply points throughout the country will be checked to see whether they are up to par, said a Home Ministry official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Also, Seoul's once-a-month civil air raid drill will be expanded nationwide beginning this month, the official said.

During the 30-minute drill, held on the 15th of each month, streets are cleared, cars are stopped and people rush to underground shelters.

South Korea, meanwhile, responded coolly to plans by former President Jimmy Carter to visit the two Koreas. Carter said he is making the trip as a private citizen in hopes of discussing "important issues of the day" with leaders.

South Korean officials believe his trip to the North may adversely affect the push for sanctions over the North's nuclear program.

In the telephone conversation with Kim, Clinton said Carter would not carry any message from him to North Korean leaders on the nuclear issue.

Diplomatic efforts to resolve the Korean stalemate intensified.

U.S. Undersecretary of State Peter Tarnoff was arriving in Seoul later today to consult with South Korean officials. Japanese Foreign Minister Koji Kakizawa was also scheduled to visit over the weekend.

Japan supports sanctions, Russia expected to follow

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Japan supports sanctions against North Korea, promising to comply with whatever the U.N. Security Council decides, and Russia is expected to follow suit, a U.S. official says.

"There are no grounds for portraying U.S. and Japanese views as diverging on this issue," Assistant Secretary of State Robert L. Gallucci told the House in an unusual statement that he said was endorsed by the Japanese government.

"Japan believes it is time to show an appropriate response to North Korean actions, including sanctions, at the U.N. Security Council," Gallucci said Thursday.

The statement, he told the Foreign Affairs Committee, was prompted by a New York Times report that Japan was reluctant to go along with President Clinton's plan to punish North Korea for refusing to allow complete international inspection of its nuclear facilities.

He said Russia also is expected to back sanctions, while China's vote cannot be predicted despite its statements against such action.

Gallucci said the Japanese political minister in Washington contacted the State Department after the article appeared "to reassure us that what we had consulted over so intently on Friday and Saturday last week was indeed the Japanese position, and that what we were reading in The New York Times this morning was not the Japanese position."

After the meetings, Japan had joined the United States and South Korea in publicly calling for U.N. sanctions.

The Times report said the Japanese were concerned about North Korea's reaction, posing strong resistance to sanctions and balking at a cutoff of the hundreds of millions of dollars that North Koreans living in Japan send to the North.

Gallucci said there was no resistance or balking on the part of Japan.

Determining China's position "is more complicated and difficult," he said.

In this file photo, Mark Bullard attempts to repair a damaged spot on his plane before taking it back out to compete in the Big Spring Model Aircraft Association's fly-in. A variety of model aircraft will swoop through the skies over Moss Creek Lake on Saturday.

Take off with model aircraft

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Feeling flighty? The Big Spring Model Aircraft Association's 12th annual Model Aircraft Fly-In and Swap Meet may be the perfect place to indulge those tendencies.

From 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Moss Lake Park will host 30 to 40 modelers and pilots, some from as far as Austin. Contest Director Steve Gay said most participants are from Big Spring, San Angelo, Abilene, Odessa, Midland and Snyder.

A highlight of the fly-in and swap meet is the awards ceremony at 2 p.m., starting with the People's Choice Award. Attendees are given ballots to vote for their favorite aircraft. Awards are also given for the pilots' choice aircraft, youngest pilot, oldest pilot and farthest distance traveled to attend the meet.

The Big Spring Model Aircraft Association, in existence for 20 years, has members ranging in age from 13 to mid-70s. "It's a hobby for all ages," said Gay. "There are female as well as male pilots in the club."

Not everyone in the club builds and flies planes—Some members enjoy building the models but don't fly them. Others pilot planes but don't consider themselves good enough at model-building to make their own aircraft.

Spectators are welcome and encouraged to attend the show and swap meet. The event normally draws "quite a few" spectators, said Gay, but the club would like to see more.

All attendees need to stop at the lake concession and pay a park entry fee of $2 per car and pickup load or $4 per van or motor home. Out-of-town pilots can be admitted free by checking with the park superintendent.

"It's a get-together to visit with fellow modelers, swap stories, trade airplane parts and just have a good old time," said Gay.

The club is scheduling another fly-in for September at Comanche Trail Park Lake. The airplanes will have floats so they can take off and land in the lake.

Gay said the club hopes to make the September float-and-fly an annual event to increase spectator participation.

'March for Jesus' to tie in with rodeo

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Local Christian groups are gearing up for their second annual participation in the March for Jesus.

The march is an international event that was founded in London, England in 1987.

The idea caught on and spread rapidly throughout the world, and Big Spring residents participated in the march for the first time last year.

"The idea was originally brought up to try and touch the red light district in London. The group met in the district and marched. It was not a protest or issues-oriented march nor did it have a political agenda. It was just to get together and march for Jesus," explained local organizer Steve Howard.

In 1988 and 1989, the movement came to the United States.

This year's march has been scheduled for June 25, which happens to coincide with the Howard County Rodeo parade.

"We have permission from the rodeo to march behind them, and we are hoping the city council will give us approval to do so at their meeting next week," said Howard.

Howard expects at least 1,500 people to be involved. "Anybody can march and I want to emphasize that this is not a protest. It is just an opportunity for praise and prayer. It's a chance to bring Christians and people together regardless of race, religion, denomination, age, etc."

"We encourage people to make banners or flags to carry. The only requirement is it should not exalt a particular church or issue, just Jesus," Howard added.

The march will actually begin in New Zealand at 10 a.m. their time. During the next 24 hours, there will be a march taking place across the world with 16 to 18 million people in more than 180 countries involved, he said.

The parade and march in Big Spring begin at 10 a.m. at the corner of Sixth and Main. Those involved in the march will break off from the regular rodeo route and meet at the courthouse around noon.

"There will be more praising and prayer by the group as well as city and church leaders. There will be buses and cars for senior citizens to ride in if they feel like they can't walk the whole way. We encourage people who want to can ride on horses or be pushed in wheelchairs. We want everyone to be involved," Howard said.

The first meeting to finalize plans will be Saturday, June 11 at Cornerstone Bookstore.

Public Notice
On March 23, 1994, GTE and Contel ("The Companies") filed applications with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") to restructure the Companies' Switched Transport rate category and reduce the Carrier Common Line (CCL) charge of its Switched Access Service. The tariff sheets in GTE and Contel's applications, if approved, will bring the Companies' state access tariffs into structural parity with their interstate tariffs for the Local Transport rate category, which became effective on December 30, 1993.
GTE and Contel propose to implement the new tariffs on a revenue neutral basis. The Local Transport category of GTE and Contel's Switched Access Service is primarily for interexchange carriers.
Persons who wish to intervene should file a motion for intervention with the PUC by June 17, 1994 with reference to Docket No. 12866 (GTE) and/or 12865 (Contel). Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deal.

Our freedom has its price

By ED WALKER
Baptist Temple Church

D-Day! That phrase brings back many memories to us all. We ask each other, "Where were you on April 6, 1944?" This was the day that launched the beginning of the end of the war in Europe. On this day tens of thousands of brave soldiers lost their lives on both sides of the conflict.

This week we remembered them in many activities. We observed many of the survivors return to the very beaches where their comrades fell. We saw the tears and heard the stories of valor and victory and loss. Our lives were touched once again by the scenes of the news footage of the landing on Omaha Beach. We again were carried back to that time.

I was not even born when that event took place, but I grew up with those stories and saw the movies of what took place. I studied in history about the brave men that fought there to secure freedom for a large part of Europe.

I feel as if I left a part of me on those beaches as well, because of what I have seen and heard. I pray that never again will it be necessary for tens or hundreds of thousands of men and women to face each other in such a terrible conflict.

Freedom did not come cheaply. On those beaches in Normandy, those men lost their lives in order that we can live in a nation that allows dissent.

It was by the blood of those many that the price for freedom for the United States and much of Europe for the past fifty years was paid. To them I say, "Thank You!"

There is another shedding of blood that bought freedom for all mankind. It was not a dramatic event like that at Normandy, but it was an event that changed the whole world. We even count time as a result of this event.

I am talking about the death of our Lord Jesus on the Roman Cross that paid the price for our sins. It was the price demanded from the dawn of time and was paid there on a remote hill in Judea.

Freedom? Yes, it bought freedom for us. Freedom from an eternity out of the presence of a loving and caring God. Freedom to love one another. Freedom to pursue a love relationship with a living God. The price for freedom has always been blood; and that price was paid by Christ.

The Apostle John says in Chapter 8 and verses 34 & 36; "Jesus answered, 'Truly, truly, I say to you, everyone who commits sin is the slave of sin... If therefore the Son has made us free from sin by His shed blood. Have you allowed yourself to be liberated? Are you free in Him today? If not you can be.

If you would like more information, please call Baptist Temple Church at 267-8287. We would invite you to meet with us and hear more about this freedom on Sunday morning at 11 a.m. May God bless you!

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

...HOWEVER, ON THE NIGHT OF HIS BIRTHDAY FEAST, HERODIAS' DAUGHTER DID SUCH A SPECTACULAR DANCE IN HIS HONOR THAT KING HEROD VOWED WITH AN OATH TO GIVE HER WHATEVER SHE ASKED AS A REWARD. AT THE INSTIGATION OF HERODIAS, THE DAUGHTER ASKED FOR JOHN THE BAPTIST'S HEAD! HEROD COULD NOT GO BACK ON HIS KINGLY VOW, SO....

JOHN THE BAPTIST WAS IMPRISONED BY KING HEROD FOR PREACHING THAT THE MARRIAGE OF HEROD TO HERODIAS HIS BROTHER'S WIFE—WAS UNLAWFUL. HE WAS AFRAID TO KILL JOHN, A HOLY MAN AND PROPHET, BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MIGHT RISE AGAINST HIM...

...HE GENT A DECREE TO THE PRISON AND ORDERED JOHN'S BEHEADING. THE DECREE WAS CARRIED OUT AND THIS GOOD MAN'S HEAD WAS THEN PRESENTED TO HERODIAS' DAUGHTER!

NEXT WEEK: A PROPHET WHO WOULDN'T FORGIVE THE PEOPLE, THOUGH GOD DID!

AUSTIN - Bobby Doe has earned a reputation as a riverboat gambler, and he did nothing to disprove that theory at the state baseball tournament Thursday.

Doe's Big Spring Steers went against the book several times against the Brenham Cubs, and the unorthodox moves paid off more often than not as the Steers downed the Cubs 3-2 to advance to the Class 4A state championship game.

The first of the Steers' moves concerned the starting pitcher. Popular logic states that you pitch your best hurler in the first game of the tournament, because you can't assume you'll win that game and advance to the title game.

If Doe had followed that theory, he would have gone with Frankie Martinez, who leads the staff with a 10-3 record.

But Doe received a scouting report that said the Cubs had trouble hitting off-speed pitching, so he went with junkball specialist Luis Bustamante, who has started only one game in the past month.

Bustamante made Doe look like a genius, pitching nine strong innings and allowing only four hits to earn the victory.

"He was excellent," Doe said of Bustamante. "You can't give any more than he did. That's what you've got to have to play in the big house."

One move that didn't pay off for the Steers, however, was in the bottom of the seventh inning. Big Spring loaded the bases with two outs, but Bustamante's attempt at a drag bunt didn't fool the Cubs, who fielded the attempt cleanly for the third out.

Two innings later, with almost the same situation, Doe went against form one last time, and this move put the Steers in the state championship game.

Catcher Brandon Hamblin, who has been battling a prolonged slump, came to the plate with the bases loaded and no outs in the bottom of the ninth.

If ever there was a spot for a bunt, this was it, right, coach?

Wrong. "We didn't have a lot of speed at third, so I thought I'd give (Hamblin) a chance at hitting the ball," Doe said.

Hamblin, who admitted he'd never felt so much pressure in his life, responded by lacing a single into center field to drive in John Oliva with the winning run.

"He's a great guy, and a great friend," shortstop Ricky Gonzales said of Hamblin. "He's been in a slump, but he came through. He'll replay this over in his mind a lot, I'll bet."

For his part, Hamblin still looked a little overwhelmed by it all after the game. "This is the best feeling I've had in my life, so far," he said. "We came down here to do a job, and we're going to do it, no matter what. That's our motto: Whatever it takes."

BUSTAMANTE

Steers passing out the ulcers on the road to state title

AUSTIN - First this team makes me shave my beard, then it makes me sweat a river, then it does its best to give me ulcers.

How 'bout them Steers, huh? If you just awoke from a coma, let me inform you that the Big Spring Steers are one victory away from doing something no other BSHS team has ever done: win a state championship. They may have already done it by the time you reach the end of this sentence.

Am I excited? Yep. Am I looking forward to today's state championship game? Well, sorta. If you think it's been hot in Big Spring lately, come on down to Austin for a few days. Not only is it as hot down here as it is back home, but the 90 percent humidity makes Big Spring seem like Antarctica.

For the life of me, I don't know how the team was able to perform Thursday. I was sitting in the shade, and I thought I was going to pass out. It was 92 degrees when the game started, and it quickly got hotter.

I guess I shouldn't moan too much, though. The Steers were playing on artificial turf, which increases the temperature by about 20 degrees.

But the team took the conditions a lot better than a certain sportswriter I know.

"I don't think it was that much of a factor," first baseman Brandon Rodgers said. "To tell you the truth, it wasn't that big a deal."

Of course, while he was saying all this, he was sweating like a pig, but who am I to

First this team makes me shave my beard, then it makes me sweat a river, then it does its best to give me ulcers.

How 'bout them Steers, huh?

quibble?

Then again, they must have enjoyed the hot conditions, because they kept playing and playing and playing...

The Steers scored two runs in the third inning to take the early lead, but Brenham came back with two in the fifth to tie the contest.

Big Spring looked like it might win the game in regulation when it loaded the bases with one out in the bottom of the seventh. But Reed White struck out and Luis Bustamante's attempt at a bunt single failed.

Extra innings. At the state tournament. With the thermometer rapidly approaching 100. Oh, joy.

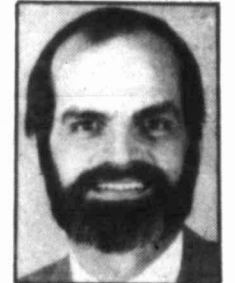

But Bustamante, who turned in one of the finest pitching performances seen this year, hung tough and kept the Cubs from scoring, and catcher Brandon Hamblin won the game with a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth.

Now, the Steers are just one win away from the goal of every high school baseball team in Texas. By the time a lot of you read this, the result of the championship game will be known.

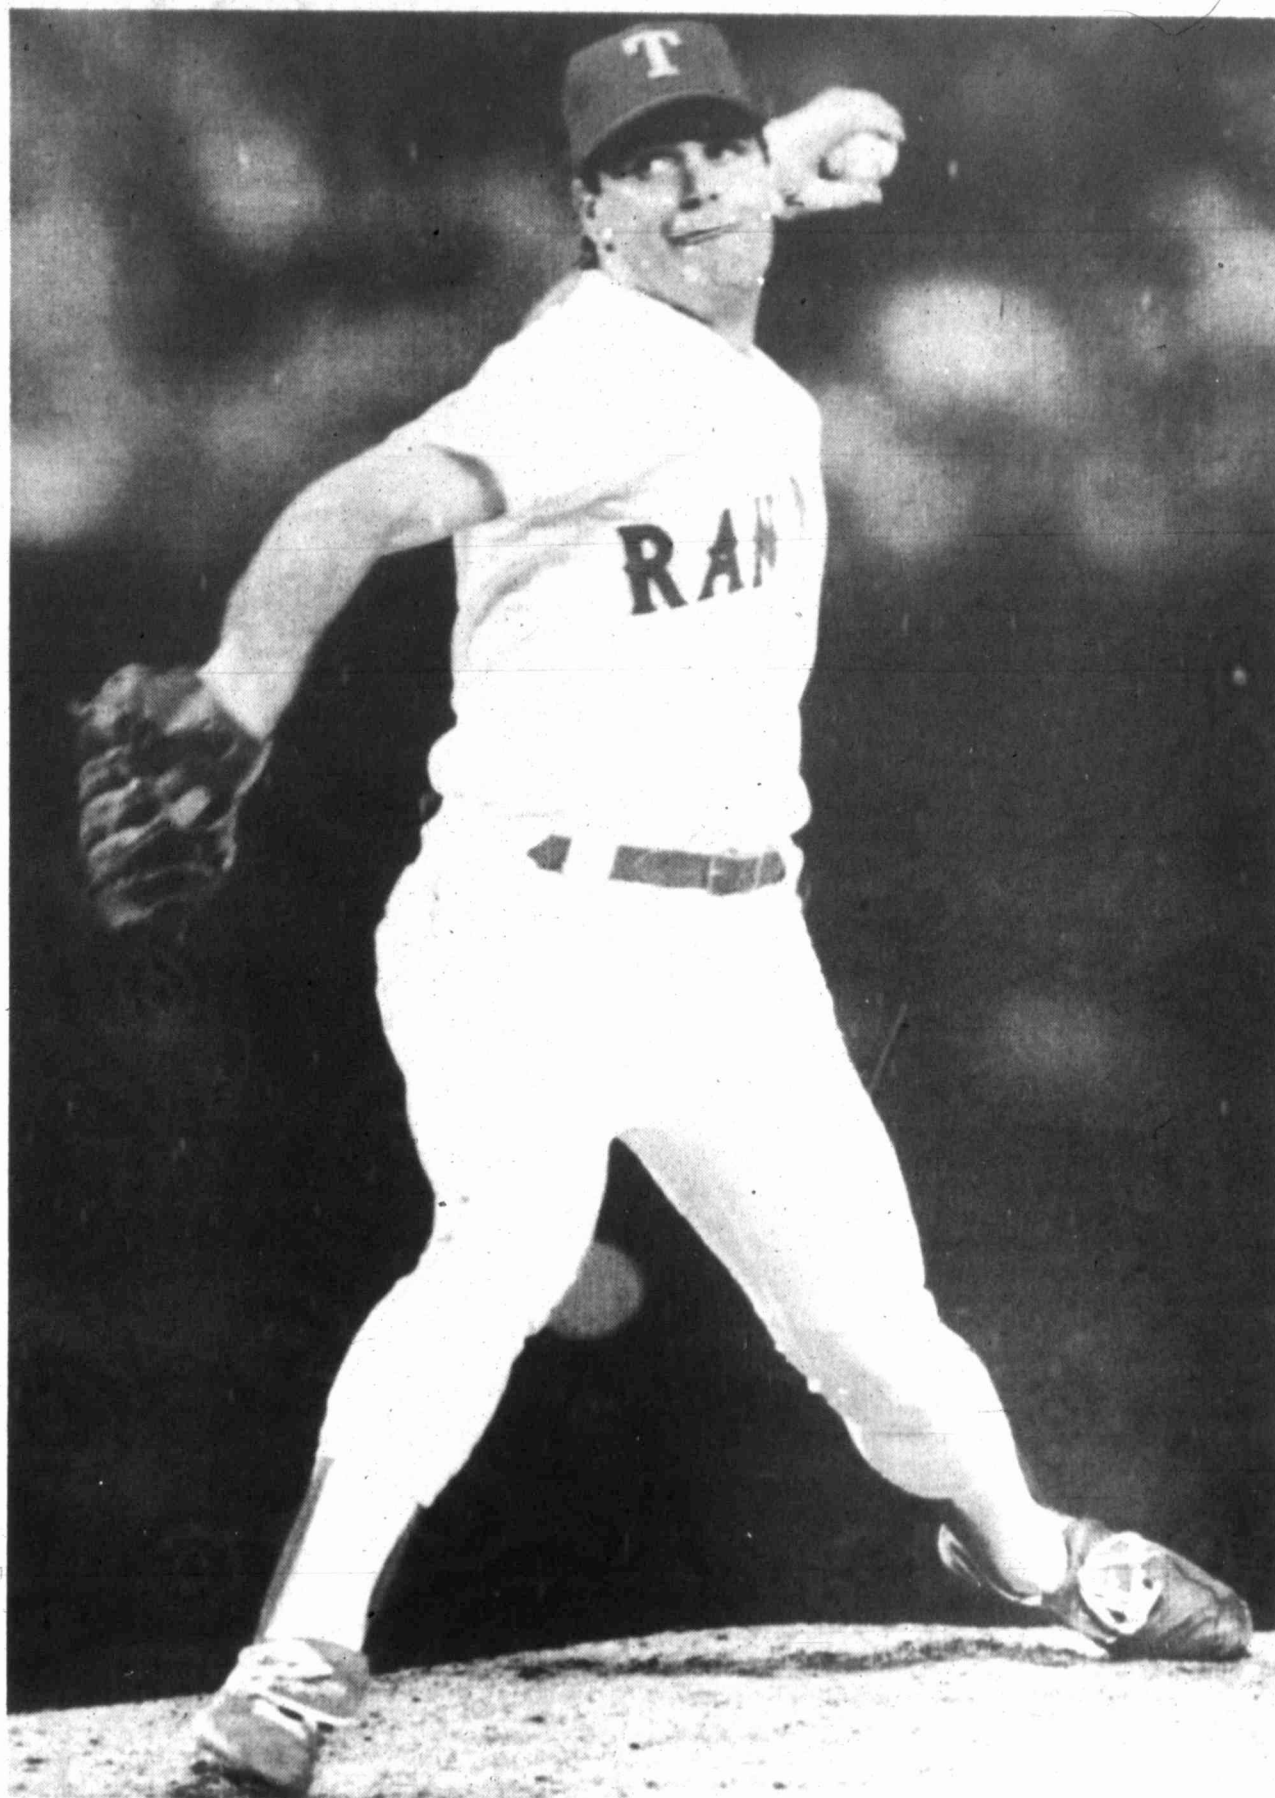

But, regardless of how the game turns out, one thing is a lead-pipe cinch:

I am going to be on intimate teams with the nearest swimming pool.

Stay cool, folks.

Texas Ranger starting pitcher Kenny Rogers throws against the Kansas City Royals Thursday in Arlington. The Rangers won the game 7-4 to take a five-game lead in their division, the largest first-place lead in Ranger history. Rogers' eight wins is a tie for second in the American League.

Rangers roll past Royals

The Associated Press

ARLINGTON — After an 0-2 start with a 9.28 ERA, Kenny Rogers has gotten his act together.

Rogers won his sixth straight decision and Juan Gonzalez broke a streak of 26-game homerless drought, leading the Texas Rangers to their ninth victory in 11 games with a 7-4 win Thursday night over the Kansas City Royals.

Rogers extended his scoreless streak against the Royals to 25 2-3 consecutive innings before giving up a run in the seventh and went on to match the longest winning streak of his career.

And he's still learning how to be a smarter pitcher.

"Until the last two years, I didn't know how to pitch," said Rogers, who initially was drafted as an outfielder and spent the early part of his career as a reliever.

"Now I don't try to get strikeouts. You don't want to throw seven or eight pitches to get a batter out when you can throw three or four and do the job."

Rogers (8-3) has also benefited from enviable offensive support. The Rangers have scored an average of 8.8 runs during Rogers' winning streak.

"It's easy to win when you have the run support," Rogers said. "It always helps getting seven or eight runs a game when you're on the mound. I know our offense can get runs. When you get a big lead you're able to get guys out without having my best stuff."

Rogers escaped a two-out, bases-loaded jam in the fifth and went on to improve to 8-1 in his last 11 starts.

He allowed two runs and eight hits over eight innings, striking out five with two walks to help the AL West-leading Rangers to their third straight victory.

Texas went over .500 for the first time this season and took a five-game lead over Seattle, the largest in club history.

Rogers threw 124 pitches on a hot, humid night. In the early innings, he thought it might be a short outing.

"I felt gassed about the third," Rogers said. "It was as humid as I've seen in Texas. I changed shirts a number of times and by the seventh I didn't know what I was going to do. But I got through it."

Rangers manager Kevin Kennedy likes what he sees from his ace lefthander.

"He's become one of the best in the league," Kennedy said. "This guy is for real. I believe it and he believes it. He gets us into the late innings time and time again."

Gonzalez, the two-time defending major-league homer king, had a solo shot in the second, then added an RBI single in a four-run third. Gonzalez's first homer since May 4 ended a drought of 99 at-bats.

He went 3-for-4 with a double and two RBIs and homered for only the second time in 113 at-bats at home. He is hitting .500 (11-for-22) in his last six games with eight RBIs.

Gonzalez, who has only seven homers, has watched rivals Ken Griffey Jr. and Frank Thomas set the AL home run pace.

Lucas says 'So Long' to Spurs

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — John Lucas is leaving the San Antonio Spurs amid reports he's heading to Philadelphia.

"It's been clear over the past weeks that John has been questioning ... whether he wanted to go forward with the Spurs," said Spurs president Jack Diller. "As he requested, we've given him his release."

Houston television station KPRC-TV reported Thursday that Lucas would become head coach of the 76ers. After Lucas' resignation from the Spurs was announced, Philadelphia owner Harold Katz said he likely would contact Lucas right away about that possibility.

"There is a mutual release for him to negotiate with other teams. John Lucas is an intriguing name and I probably will be contacting him right away," Katz said through spokesman Joe Favorito.

Lucas, in a prepared statement issued in San Antonio, said he didn't have any new job lined up. But he told KRIV-TV in Houston he still wants to coach in the NBA.

"I hope there will be some opportunities for me to pursue," Lucas said Thursday. But when asked if he was going to Philadelphia, he replied: "That's not true."

Spurs center David Robinson, in Los Angeles, couldn't believe he was losing his coach.

"I'm shocked, just shocked," said Robinson, who appeared on "The Tonight Show With Jay Leno" Thursday night. "I'll tell you what John, wherever you are, I'm mad. I'm real mad at you."

"I think it's been pretty well documented that he's my biggest supporter, my biggest fan. He has helped me come along as a basketball player as much as anybody I've ever been around."

Lucas compiled a 55-27 record with the Spurs this past season, his first full year as coach in San Antonio. He led the Spurs to the NBA playoffs both seasons he coached the team.

Lucas, 40, was hired as Spurs coach in December 1992 after the firing of Jerry Tarkanian. It was the first professional coaching job for Lucas, a former NBA guard who overcame drug and alcohol problems and established a now widely known rehabilitation clinic in Houston for athletes.

Vancouver puts New York's Stanley Cup party on hold

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The New York Rangers fans were in a party mood, which was just what the Vancouver Canucks needed.

With a 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 Stanley Cup finals and playing at home in friendly Madison Square Garden, the Rangers were primed to capture their first title in 54 years. And their fans were ready to celebrate.

Instead, just as Vancouver coach Pat Quinn had promised, the Canucks seemed to feed off the energy provided by the crowd Thursday night and took a 6-3 victory, sending the series back to Vancouver for Game 6.

"It was a motivating factor for us," Canucks captain Trevor Linden said of the Garden atmosphere.

City Little League Tourney

Stars come from behind

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Another Little League game, another thriller.

In the City Little League tournament, close games have been a requirement, and the top-seeded American League Stars followed a rerun of this week's script with an 8-7, come-from-behind win over "Pony's," the second seed from Coahoma, at the AL field.

The hitting star for the three-time defending AL champion Stars was 12-year-old Chris Herrod, but if you looked closely you'd swear it was Jose Canseco. Herrod, who acknowledged a liking for the Texas Ranger slugger, has all of Canseco's mannerisms - the open stance, the waving of the bat and the power.

Herrod blasted a homer over the center-field wall in the second inning to start a three-run "Star rally, but his finest moment came in the bottom of the sixth.

The Ponies, who scored five in the fifth to erase a 5-1 deficit, held a 7-6 lead and were three outs from victory. Greg Grawunder singled to start the inning for the Stars, but the Ponies moved closer to victory when Chris Rodriguez popped out. Grawunder moved to second on a wild pitch, then went to third when Clint Bamert, who

The stage had been set for a party at boisterous Madison Square Garden, where the Rangers aimed to win their first Stanley Cup since 1940 before their charged-up fans.

The Canucks had other plans, though.

When Esa Tikkanen scored from the blue line at 10:06 of the first period, it sparked a swelling roar from the fans. The roar soon turned to groans, however, when linesman Randy Milton called an offside on Stephane Matteau and negated the goal.

The celebratory mood in the Garden was quieted again when Brown scored at 8:10 of the second period on a slap shot from the right circle, snapping a scoreless tie.

The Canucks then went up 3-0 in the third when Courtnall scored on a rebound 26 seconds in and Pavel Bure from the right point on a shot that Richter kicked out and Leetch accidentally kicked in.

Then the Rangers and their fans came alive as the Broadway Blues scored three goals within a period of 3:33 to knot the score. Doug Lidster scored at 3:27, Steve Larmer at 6:20 and Mark Messier at 9:02 on a great shot from the circle after steaming down the right side.

The Canucks remembered all too well that they had blown a 2-0 lead in Game 4 that put them on the brink. This time, they retained their composure with Dave Babych scoring from the left circle at 9:31 to put them back into the lead 4-3.

Then Courtnall scored at 12:20 and Bure at 13:04, both on rebounds.

Knicks will dance to their usual slow tempo in tonight's Game 2

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Because they won the opener of the NBA Finals, the Houston Rockets had no problem admitting they were fatigued and rusty after an eight-day layoff.

The way the players and coaches were talking, the media arriving at the Summit on Thursday were half-expecting cleanup crews to be removing the last remnants of all the sand, mud and grime that seemed to be slowing everyone down.

"Vernon Maxwell told me the ball felt like a beach ball," Kenny Smith said. "It just didn't feel the same, and I think the layoff had a lot to do with that."

Smith and Maxwell are Houston's starting guards, and they combined for 14 points on 5-for-20 shooting in the Rockets' series-opening 85-78 victory over New York Wednesday night. No more effective was the Knicks' backcourt of John Starks and Derek Harper, with 19 points on 6-for-28 shooting.

In Game 2 tonight, however, those same athletes are promising they won't be handcuffed again.

"There was something in the air, I guess," Starks said of Game 1. "It won't happen (tonight). It's imperative that we all have a good game, not just me."

"We know we won't play any worse," Smith said. "That's the worst we've played offensively."

Guys missed shots they normally knock down, so it didn't open things up for anyone else. I don't think we can play any worse offensively."

The Knicks said Thursday they were disappointed with their first-half defense, but hopeful that they can continue their second-half defense. They were especially tough in the fourth quarter, holding Houston to 13 points on 2-for-13 shooting.

"I think we can win games if we can hold people to 13 points in the fourth quarter," Harper said.

The Rockets, however, managed 54 points on 53 percent shooting in the first half, taking a lead they never surrendered. Houston also made 14 layups in the first two periods.

Capriati's dad admits mistakes

The Associated Press

MILAN, Italy — Jennifer Capriati's father says he put too much pressure on his daughter when she was starting on the tennis tour and predicted that she will "return to play tennis again and will be stronger than before."

Jennifer Capriati, who turned pro just before her 14th birthday, left the tour last year after losing in the first round of the U.S. Open. Now 18, she was arrested May 16 on marijuana possession charges and is undergoing treatment at a rehabilitation clinic in Miami.

Her father, Stefano Capriati, said she will be released next week.

Capriati said he regretted that Jennifer saw him "more as a manager and coach than a father. But one day she will realize, if she hasn't already, that I did everything for her."

Ryan Guinn of the American League Colts slides safely into home as the International League Indians catcher attempts to tag him during first inning action of the City Little League tournament Thursday evening. The Colts won 13-12.

turned out to be the winning pitcher, reached on an error.

One out, two on, Herrod at the plate.

Herrod waved his bat over his head, waited on a pitch from Stuart Beall and drove it past shortstop Eric Wigington. The ball rolled into the gap - Grawunder scored, and Bamert never hesitated. He raced around the bases and beat Pony catcher Coby Floyd's tag by a hair.

Stars win, 8-7. "Don't get out," Herrod said, referring to his thoughts before his game-winning hit. "Do anything but get out."

"And hit the ball," Bamert added.

"Oh, yeah. And hit the ball," Herrod said.

Herrod had little trouble hitting the ball, going 3-for-4, and Bamert worked his magic from the mound. Bamert, 11, had his problems, walking four and allowing eight hits, but he struck out 13 Pony hitters. Also, the Stars committed five errors, and just two of the seven runs Bamert surrendered were earned.

After the game, Bamert was talking about the winning run, not his pitching.

"I knew I'd better run as fast as I could, and don't stop for anything. When I got home, I thought, 'Oh, no, I ruined it!' But the umpire called me safe," Bamert said. "I'd like to say that all that I did tonight, the good game that I had, was because of my Dad. He works all day and night with me."

Bamert was praising his father; Star coach Phil Grawunder was praising his entire team.

"That was too close," Grawunder said after the game. "The kids, when they got behind like that, they just stayed with it. We have a lot of young ones on this team, and they tend to get upset when they're behind, but tonight they stayed with it."

Beall pitched well for the Ponies, striking out nine while allowing five earned runs, eight hits and four walks. Clay Hart and Wigington each had two hits for the Ponies.

Scores in other championship bracket games Thursday night included: IL Longhorns 9, AL Braves 8; CL Reds 17, AL Astros 1; IL Rebels 10, NL Rangers 7.

In the elimination bracket, scores were: IL Panthers 13, CL Astros 3; AL Colts 13, IL Indians 12; AL Cardinals 12, IL Royals 11; NL Cardinals 21, NL Lions 6.

Four games will be played tonight, all at 7:30 p.m.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are personality-plus, but another doesn't view life as you do. As your charm, allure and sweetness will not make a difference in a situation. Honor a relationship. Communications flow, you feel soft but manage a situation well. Tonight: You shine.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Shorts inappropriate for tourists in Europe

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I vacationed in Europe last July, and we did all the things tourists do — lots of sight-seeing, etc. It's very warm in Europe that time of year, so my husband insisted on wearing shorts. His came about four inches above the knee.

I thought it was in poor taste — that a pair of trousers would have been more appropriate.

Well, Abby, we are still arguing about whether shorts are appropriate for sight-seeing in Europe. He said your advice will rule for future trips to Europe, and I agreed to go along with your advice. So?

ELLEN IN ATLANTA

DEAR ELLEN: I don't know who wears the pants in your family, but if your husband does, they should be long. (Most churches and museums in Europe will not admit people in shorts.)

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend and I are very much in love and want to get married, but there are several problems. The first is, her mother does not like me.

The next problem is my age. I won't be 18 until this October. My girlfriend won't be 18 until December, which means her mom can prevent our getting married — which is what she has done so far.

By the way, I'm in jail right now — but I will be out in September.

I am now in the process of starting a new life. A minister came by recently and he "saved" me. You see, I took Jesus Christ as my personal savior, which means now I am born again and delivered from sin.

My girlfriend's mother is not convinced. What should I do? — SAVED IN DENNIS THE MENACE

SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ABBY: You will have to wait until you and your girlfriend are both of legal age before you can marry without parental consent. However, I suggest that you both have counseling from your clergyman before you consider anything as permanent as a marriage.

DEAR ABBY: A 17-year-old neighbor girl baby-sits our 3-year-old when we go out for an evening. Her boyfriend (he's 18) comes over to keep her company. I imagine they do a certain amount of necking and petting because all the lights are out when we come home; they look embarrassed and their clothes are in disarray.

My husband doesn't think our sitter should have company while she's baby-sitting.

I say, it's none of our business.

What do you say, Abby? — THE LADY OF THE HOUSE

DEAR LADY: I say, since it's your house, it's your business. Your sitter is paid to take care of the children ... and she should not have her boyfriend there to keep her company.

SURPRISING QUOTE: "Errol Flynn died on a 72-foot yacht with a 17-year-old girl. Walter always wanted to go that way, but he'll have to settle for a 70-year-old wife." — Mrs. Walter Cronkite
