Armed robber sought

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Police Department is investigating an armed robbery at a fast food restaurant

Police are looking for a man in his late 20s, six feet and weighing 180 pounds.

According to reports, shortly before 5 a.m. on Monday, a black male entered the Whataburger Restaurant at 1110 South Gregg. He pointed a small caliber handgun at the clerk and demanded money from the cash register.

The clerk complied and the suspect escaped with an undetermined amount of money. The clerk was not injured in the incident.

The suspect is described as being in his late 20s, six feet tall and weighing 180 pounds. He was seen fleeing the scene in an early 1980 model brown Ford Thunderbird. Police say the case is still under investigation.

If you have information about this incident, please call the police department or CrimeStoppers at 263-TIPS.

Collision leaves motorcyclist dead

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

An Odessa resident who has relatives in Big Spring died in a weekend motorcycle accident.

According to Odessa Police Department reports, Mike Choate, 31, was traveling southbound on Grandview around 7:50 p.m. Saturday when his 1983 Honda Motorcycle collided with a car traveling northbound on Grandview.

"A 1978 Chrysler driven by Zella Wilson Gregory, 70 of Odessa, attempted to make a left turn onto 52nd Street and was struck by the motorcycle. Apparently, she pulled out in front of him while trying to turn left.

"Gregory was issued citations for failure to yield the right of way while turning left and for not having a valid Texas driver's license on her person," explained Cpl. Sherry Sparks, spokesperson for the Odessa Police Department.

Choate was transported to Medical Center Hospital where he died at 8:40 p.m. Saturday of head and internal injuries. Reports say he was wearing a helmet at the time of the accident.

Don't wait for Prince Charming to come

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Texas Gov. Ann Richards tells today's girls to forget Prince Charming, because in the long run, he'll probably leave you with a royal mortgage and all his noble offspring.

Work instead, she says, on becoming self-sufficient.

"Prince Charming may be driving a Honda and telling you you have no equal, but that's not going to do much good when you've got kids and a mortgage, and I could add he's got a beer gut and a wandering eye," the governor said.

"Prince Charming, if he does ride up on a Honda, he's going to expect you to make the payments."

Richards delivered her stern lecture Monday to several hundred high school girls at a gathering called Girls State. Girls State and Boys State gather annually to create mock governments to learn more about how the state functions.

Richards told the girls to prepare themselves for a reality in which half of all marriages end in divorce.

"I know that isn't going to happen to you, but it is going to happen to half of you," she said.

The divorced governor noted that 70 percent of divorced women find themselves slipping into poverty, and said most working women earn only 75 cents for every dollar men earn for the same job.

"That's a pretty somber observation. It's not meant to be depressing. It's meant to be honest with you about what to be prepared for," Richards said.

"One of my staff members was telling me that when I speak to young women I ought to summarize by saying life is hard, no one is going to help you or love you, so stop whining and get to work."

Richards, a 1949 alumnus of Girls State, also urged today's young women to reject stereotypes portrayed on television and in advertising.

"Please throw the television yardstick, the advertising for the lipstick and the shampoo and the body powder, throw that idea out," she instructed. "Keep using it if you want, but for God's sake, don't crawl on the hood of an automobile with a tiger."

After the speech, Richards said it was important to speak frankly to girls because they grow up thinking someone else will care for them.

"I want these girls to understand they must rely on themselves. They must take responsibility for themselves. Girls so often are taught that someone else is going to take care of them," she said.

Hot checks were were handiwork of ex-husband

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Sherry Jacobs of Coahoma recently had her name printed in the Big Spring Herald for writing a hot check and discovered that a warrant had been issued for her arrest.

When she saw her name, Jacobs was perplexed because she does not even have a checking account at the present time.

"I found out that after I moved out, my soon to be ex-husband had found some old checks from an account that had been closed. He had forged my name on the checks and that was how my name got listed in the public records," said Jacobs.

Jacobs went to the county clerk's office and was able to get everything straightened out with County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson.

"The merchant had received the check back saying that the account was closed so we issued a warrant for her. We didn't incorrectly issue the

Local bus driver finishes well in state rodeo; McCuiston takes third in safety poster contest

By KELLIE JONES

Big Spring resident Beverly Norman recently competed in the state bus rodeo in Odessa, placing 18th out of 42 drivers. She had come in fourth in the regional rodeo and was the only driver to represent Big Spring in the state contest.

"The rodeo consists of a written test covering bus rules as well as the commercial driver's license, an inspection with buses having defects and the driver having to find them with a time limit. They also had to drive an obstacle course," said Howard Stewart, transportation director for Big Spring Independent School District.

Norman has qualified for the state competition three times including 1987 and 1993. She has been driving a school bus for the school district for 20 years. The top ten drivers from the state competition will be going to nationals in Boston later this year. Those winners are from Lewisville, Mesquite, Garland, Kleen, Dickinson, Huntsville, Monahans, Katy and Lubbock.

Also, the state school bus safety poster contest is over with a Big Spring student taking third place.

Kacy McCuiston from Bauer Elementary came in third for the state competition for fourth through sixth graders and received a ribbon for her efforts. McCuiston had placed first in the Region 18 competition for her age group earlier this year.

New cars keep police rolling

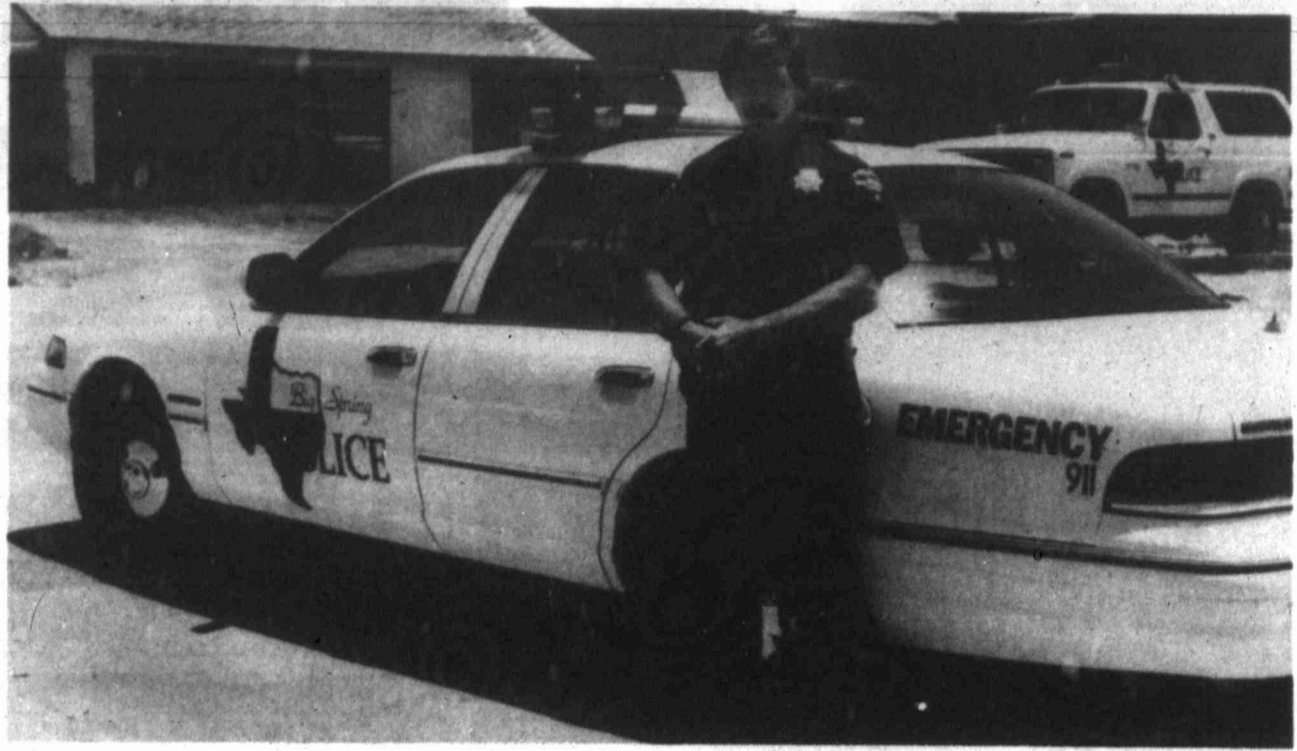

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Police Department has recently purchased five new patrol cars as part of their fleet program. The 1994 Ford Crown Victorias have a sticker price of about $14,200 per car.

"We buy five cars every year as part of the fleet program that we started in 1983. It's designed to extend the life of the vehicle, provide more coverage to the citizens, provide quicker response to emergencies and overall lower the cost of vehicle maintenance," explained Capt. Lonnie Smith.

Smith said the cars come with a law enforcement package that has heavier suspension, electrical and cooling systems. "We have found that we need to have other options put on the car than a regular state bid priced car. These officers are in their cars for a 12 hour shift and our studies show that, since 1983, having these options are beneficial to the program.

"These options provide a safer environment for the officer and reduce driver fatigue. Those options include such things as electric windows and locks as well as a tilt seat to adjust to the driver." Before the fleet program was introduced, a patrol car could be on the road 24 hours a day and having 100,000 miles put on it in a year. This is because more than one officer was assigned to the car and the department discovered that it was too costly to maintain the vehicles.

The fleet program has been phased in during the past 11 years and now every officer has their own vehicle.

"The city bought some when we first started the program. We had to buy used cars for a couple of years because of economic problems. In 1991, the city bought 16 new cars to replace some old ones and finish up assigning out cars to the officers," Smith continued.

When the new cars arrived last week, the logos were put on the vehicles and the word "emergency" was added to all the patrol cars at the same time. The cages, light bars and other police equipment was installed before the cars were assigned to the officers.

The old cars were given back to the city service center who will assess if the vehicles can be repaired and are still usable. If so, they will be assigned back to another city department. If not, the cars will be sold at a city auction.

A 1984 and a 1986 Chevrolet Impala and three 1985 Ford Crown Victorias were given back to the city and had anywhere from 85 to 100,000 miles on each of them.

Sheriff

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incidents during a 24 hour period ending 8 a.m. Tuesday:

- Crescencio Alvarez Jr., 19 of Austin, was arrested for burglary of a vehicle. He was released after posting a $7,500 bond.
- Troy Michael Allen, 34 of HC 61 Box 288, was arrested for revocation of probation. He was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.
- Donald Timothy Slotkne, 26 of 2603 Larry Drive, was arrested for driving while intoxicated. He was released after posting a $1,500 bond.

City receives grant for home renovations

The Texas Department of Commerce has approved the city of Big Spring to receive a $300,000 Home Renovation Grant.

City Manager Lanny Lambert said that the grant would be dispersed to low-income homeowners in the form of loans of up to $15,000 for improvements to roofs, heating, etc., so that homes can be brought up to Section 8 (government) standards.

According to Lambert, the time frame for starting the project has yet to be determined, but the money should be available in the fall.

Simpson's lawyer on evidence offensive

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — O.J. Simpson's lawyer began attacking the evidence against his client and stressing his anguished mental state after the football hero pleaded innocent to murdering his ex-wife and her friend.

Simpson was forlorn and morose and occasionally shut his eyes as he appeared in court Monday, wearing a dark suit jacket and white shirt buttoned to the neck. He was not allowed to wear a tie, belt or shoelaces because he has been under a suicide watch.

He responded "Not guilty" to charges of murdering Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman, and twice answered "Yes" when Municipal Judge Patti Jo McKay asked if he had been correctly identified and whether he understood the charges.

Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark later told reporters that Simpson was the "sole murderer" and that there is evidence he planned the slayings. But she added that "premeditation" can mean that a crime is planned only moments before it happens.

Shapiro questioned reports about bloodstains in Simpson's car and driveway, saying police tests could not prove the blood matched Simpson's. DNA tests, which are more conclusive, could take several months to complete.

"The conclusion of the chemist was that there is no conclusive evidence of blood spots. I think the closest that they came was a chance of one in 15 people having the same blood type," Shapiro said.

Shapiro also noted that four doctors examined Simpson and found "no evidence of any body scratches whatsoever." He said Simpson had small paper cuts on his left hand and a slightly larger cut that he probably sustained when he slammed down a glass after being informed of his wife's death.

News reports have quoted unnamed police sources as saying Simpson had scratches on his body when he was questioned by police the day after the bodies were found. Goldman fought fiercely for his life, investigators say.

Clark, the prosecutor, would not discuss specific evidence.

Ms. Simpson, 35, was nearly decapitated and Goldman, 25, was stabbed 22 times, Time magazine reported.

At the arraignment, Shapiro demanded a preliminary hearing as soon as possible, and the judge scheduled it for June 30. Preliminary hearings force prosecutors to publicly present their evidence to determine if a case should go to trial.

Shapiro also asked for a special neck pillow for Simpson's cell so he could sleep. The judge said that would be up to Simpson's jailers.

A grand jury also is investigating the murders. If it indicts Simpson first, his case would go directly to trial without a preliminary hearing.

Hayden Hale of the Young County Volunteer Fire Department talks with Margaret Strickland, co-owner of the Stovall Hot Water Well Monday about the fire that destroyed the 1929 landmark founded by E.C. Stovall in South Bend. An explosion in the northwest part of the building caused the fire which took only 45 minutes to burn to the ground.

Explosion, fire destroys historic mineral resort

The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Texas — An explosion and fire Monday destroyed the historic Stovall Hot Wells, a resort whose mineral baths once drew up to 300 people a day.

No one was hurt in the morning explosion, which authorities said was apparently caused by high natural gas pressure in a pump at the site. The blaze is under investigation, said Charlie Parker, the Young County fire marshal.

South Bend is 11 miles south of Graham and about 100 miles northwest of Fort Worth.

The cause of the fire should be known by Tuesday, Parker said. "I've heard some talk that the firefighters seem to think there was a gas pocket in the water that came up and ignited and that caused it," Parker said.

The fire came 65 years after an oil gusher — followed by 130-degree mineral water said to have curative powers — heralded the start of a resort boom at the site.

The spa was owned by Margaret Strickland of Anchorage, Alaska, and her daughter, Karen Kershner of Graham. Ms. Strickland said she bought the baths in February of last year and had planned to seek investors to help refurbish the decrepit main bathhouse.

The chances of rebuilding the uninsured baths "depend on a lot of factors," Ms. Strickland said.

"It was very healing," said Ms. Kershner, who lives in Graham and managed the baths. "People would come here for arthritis, poison ivy — almost anything."

Ms. Strickland said she had been negotiating with a company to dehydrate the water and sell the bottled minerals.

The wells, which Ms. Strickland says have more recuperative properties than water from the Dead Sea, are billed as "the strongest concentration of mineral water found in the United States."

The baths' heyday was in the early 1930s. By 1932, bathhouses for men and women were constructed with 37 tubs. The baths were followed by massages, acupuncture and other treatments.

Recently, about eight people per day visited the baths, paying $8 for a 15-minute dip.

Discharged airmen kills four

The Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash. — A man who had been discharged from the Air Force for psychiatric problems dressed himself in black, took a taxi to a hospital at his former base and stalked the halls spraying bullets from an AK-47. Four people were killed and 21 wounded before a military police officer shot him dead.

One of the first people killed Monday at Fairchild Air Force Base was the psychiatrist who had recommended Dean A. Mellberg's discharge.

"He knew where he was going," said Undersheriff John Goldman. Eight of the wounded were in critical condition today. Among the wounded were a 3-year-old boy and a 5-year-old girl. Hospital officials would not release their conditions or the names of the victims.

Goldman identified the gunman as Mellberg, 20, of Lansing, Mich. He had been stationed at Fairchild as recently as February and was discharged in May, Goldman said. Details of his psychiatric problems were not immediately available.

The gunman wore black jeans, a black T-shirt and sneakers.

Death should not be part of Whitewater investigation

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Creating a potential problem for House leaders, the Banking Committee chairman says the death of Deputy White House Counsel Vincent Foster should not be part of any Whitewater hearings.

The reservation by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez on Monday complicates a bipartisan agreement reached last week. Democratic and Republican leaders concurred that narrowly focused hearings should be convened, with the topics including Foster's death last summer. He was found dead of a gun wound in a park in northern Virginia in what authorities ruled as a suicide.

Meanwhile, the Senate was to vote today on the latest GOP proposal to expand Senate Whitewater hearings.

The Republicans want an inquiry into all Whitewater-related matters dating from the start of the Clinton administration in January 1992. Republican attempts to broaden the hearings were consistently defeated on party-line votes last week, and the newest plan is also likely to lose.

Gonzalez, D-Texas, said in a letter to House Speaker Thomas S. Foley on Monday that he sees "no reason to further torment the family of Vincent Foster."

"No congressional committee is in any way capable of acting as coroner or homicide investigator. ... I would urge that this subject be deleted, on the ground that it lacks legitimate purpose," he said.

Gonzalez said he also had reservations about the committee investigating the handling of papers found in Foster's office.

House Democratic and Republican leaders agreed last week that the chamber's Whitewater hearings would look into Foster's death, the handling of his papers and contacts between White House officials and federal banking regulators.

Briefs

Will home test kits help AIDS effort?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration takes up the difficult question this week of whether allowing home test kits would help or hinder the fight against AIDS.

Three companies want FDA approval to sell such kits in drug stores. Users would prick a finger, mail in a blood sample and find out by telephone if they have HIV, the AIDS virus.

"This could change the shape of the epidemic," said FDA Deputy Commissioner Mary Pendergast. "You have to look at the macro issues of public health and at what's this going to do to human beings."

Seeking guidance, the FDA has convened an advisory committee meeting on Wednesday to hear some 80 people argue the issue.

Russian domestic leader to visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agreements on space, oil exploration and the environment are on the agenda this week when the man who runs the domestic side of the Russian government visits the United States.

Not well known in the West, Prime Minister Viktor Chernomyrdin has emerged as an increasingly powerful figure in Moscow, second only to President Boris Yeltsin.

The stocky former communist bureaucrat is the man in charge of day-to-day operations of the Russian government, and U.S. officials, most prominently Vice President Al Gore, are assiduously courting him.

"Chernomyrdin is running the government day to day," said a senior administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity. "Yeltsin as the leader of the country is involved in foreign policy issues, but not as much perhaps in day-to-day government as he once was."

Michael Fay leaves prison for home

SINGAPORE (AP) — Michael Fay, the American teenager whose flogging for vandalism dragged Americans and Asians into a rancorous cultural clash, walked out of prison today saying he was in good shape and eager to go home. He looked pale and thinner after 83 days behind bars but sounded cheerful as he told reporters: "I am happy to be out. My health is good. I'm looking forward to the future very much."

"I am looking forward to going back to my own country. That's all I have to say," he told reporters outside the U.S. Embassy after a shower, rest and change of clothes.

Fay, 19, was given four strokes of a rattan cane on top of a four-month prison term and a fine equivalent to $2,244 after pleading guilty to spray-painting cars and other mischief.

Hood execution blocked by court

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia Monday spared a Texas death row inmate scheduled for execution just after midnight.

Charles Dean Hood was set for lethal injection for killing a man and woman in Plano in November 1989.

Scalia's brief order said Tuesday's execution must be postponed until the full Supreme Court has a chance to study Hood's formal appeal.

Hood was convicted of the slayings of Ronald Williamson, 46, and Williamson's girlfriend, Traci Lynn Wallace, 26. The two were found fatally shot at Williamson's home in Plano.

Hood was living at Williamson's home and also was employed by Williamson.

Testimony at his trial indicated that after the slayings, Hood tried to cash a $400 check forged against Williamson's company account. He also was accused of stealing Williamson's Cadillac, jewelry and credit cards.

Hood was arrested in Vincennes, Ind., driving Williamson's car. He is a native of Morgan County, Ind.

Pentagon ready to put radio in sky over Haiti

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is ready to put the equivalent of a "radio station in the sky" over Haiti to broadcast messages to the Haitian military and its citizens, Defense Department officials say.

The missions would be handled with aircraft run by stealthy special operations and psychological operations units. They flew similar missions during the incursion into Panama in 1989 and the war against Iraq in 1991, said the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The units would make use of specially outfitted aircraft such as EC-130s, which are slow-moving propeller planes

Quail Dobbs clowns around for rodeo

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The 61st Annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion gets underway Wednesday and promises to be fun for all ages.

Rodeo clown Quail Dobbs will once again entertain the audience with his antics that kids love to watch.

"I think it is important to get kids involved in the rodeo and I have several acts that I do between events. I have a car act and I have a chicken that pulls me around the arena," said Dobbs.

"I have a dog I might use for the first time at the rodeo. She does tricks like walking on her hind legs, jumps through a hoop and jumps rope," he continued.

Dobbs works the barrels at the rodeo while two other clowns, Rick Chatman and Jimmy Anderson—known as bull fighters—distract the animal while the cowboy runs to safety after a ride.

The car act gives some children in the audience a chance to help out Dobbs by picking up the pieces after he "blows up" his car that he refers to as the space shuttle.

"It is a really neat act. The lights are turned off and it's a typical clown act with slapstick comedy," he said.

The steering wheel falls off and the radiator catches on fire. Then fireworks come shooting out of the car. Kids and adults really love this act.

Another part of the rodeo kids will enjoy seeing is the grand entry by the Hardin-Simmons University Six White Horses.

"These horses are very famous and six girls will be riding them during the grand entry each night. The horses have been in several presidential inaugural parades. Dr. Beal Beasley is in charge of the horses and we are very honored to have them come over and be in our parade on Saturday as well," Dobbs explained.

He will be at the Howard County Library on Thursday to give a performance to the kids who are involved in the reading program. "Those children who read so many books during the year who are in this program received a free ticket to the rodeo. I'll bring my dog Susie up there and put on a little act for them."

After the rodeo each night, Dobbs and the other clowns along with the trick riders and some of the cowboys will be available for an autograph session for the children.

Children can also get autographs from the newly crowned Miss Rodeo Texas after the rodeo on Friday and see her in the parade on Saturday. The Miss Rodeo competition will be held in San Antonio with the winner being announced on Friday morning.

She will then fly to West Texas that afternoon and be here for the rodeo. This will be considered her first professional appearance as the new Miss Rodeo Texas.

Quail Dobbs and his dog take a break at last year's Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion. Dobbs, who is from Coahoma, is planning several clown acts to entertain at this year's rodeo.

Owusu to represent council

Special to the Herald

Drexell Owusu, a Big Spring High School senior, will represent BSHS at the 58th National Association of Student Councils (NASC) conference June 24-28 at Parkway Central High School, Chesterfield, Mo.

OWUSU

NASC is sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the nation's largest school leadership organization. Sharon Richardson, student council advisor, will accompany Owusu to Missouri, along with 35 other Texas delegates.

With a theme of "Gateway to the Best," the national meeting will include training sessions on leadership skills, effective communication, motivating other students and effective student activity projects.

The delegates will hear such speakers as journalist and "Dateline" co-host Stone Phillips and Olympic gold medalist Bonnie Blair.

"Our hope is to equip these student leaders with the often-overlooked skills they will need to be future leaders," said Dale Hawley, director of the Division of Student Activities, National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Owusu is the son of Josh and Doris Owusu of Big Spring. He has served as student council vice president and will serve as president during the 1994-95 school year.

He is a member of the National Honor Society, ranking in the top one percent of his class, and is a recent graduate of the Junior Leadership Program of Big Spring.

He will serve as a junior consultant at one of the 13 Texas Association of Student Councils summer leadership workshops at Southwest Texas State University this summer.

Actor heads for bright lights, big city

Special to the Herald

LEVELLAND—Start spreading the news. Jason LeGrande will leave for New York City in the fall.

The South Plains College sophomore, who graduated from Big Spring High School in 1992, recently was accepted for admission to the prestigious American Musical Dramatic Academy, a two-year professional training program for the performing arts.

LeGrande was one of more than 100 budding young thespians who attended a regional audition for the program in March at a Dallas hotel.

"I had to perform two contrasting monologues," LeGrande said. "Then I had to go through an interview. I wasn't nervous. They made you feel really comfortable, and that helped. They just made you feel at home."

He also was at home with his audition material, choosing lines from "The Rivers and Ravines," an SPC production he performed in as a freshman. His comedy monologue included lines from "Each Day Dies of Sleep."

"They said very few people make it," LeGrande said. "They have those regional auditions all over the country. I had in my mind that I'd try again if I didn't make it the first time. I worried until the day I got my acceptance letter."

That day came in late April, when he was notified of his

"I used to have the goal of being famous. But I really just want to better myself as an actor. It's not a dream, it's a goal."

admittance to the American Musical Dramatic Academy's studio program.

"It was a wonderful feeling," LeGrande said. "I was so excited. I know it's something I'll never forget."

But before he can give his regards to Broadway, there are a few loose ends to tie up. He is completing work on an associate of arts degree in theater by attending SPC summer sessions. He also has the role of Charlie Cowell in the upcoming production of "The Music Man."

LeGrande is no stranger to the SPC stage. His previous roles have included Oberon in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Caleb Stratman in "The Rivers and Ravines," Vince Fontaine in "Grease," Matthew Harrison Brady in "Inherit the Wind" and Sgt. Merwin J. Toomey in "Biloxi Blues."

He credits Jay Brown, theater instructor at SPC, and his theater program with helping to develop his interest in acting, an interest he says began because he needed a fine arts credit as a junior in high school.

His interest grew under the tutelage of Tim Haynes, theater director at BSHS. "It's pretty addictive," said LeGrande. "It's a natural high. I used to want to be a doctor. You can't get bored with acting. Every time you perform, you make the role different."

"Whether I'm successful or not at the professional level, I'll continue to do it as long as I'm able to. If I have kids, I'll be taking them with me to do community theater."

LeGrande's interest in acting was piqued in December 1992, when he visited relatives in Houston and heard about an open audition for the television soap opera "The Guiding Light."

He was among 2,000 aspiring actors who waited in line for an audition. He also was one of 34 who were invited to read a script of an actual scene.

"I just wanted to get some experience and see what it was like," LeGrande said. "All they were looking for was the right look."

He will begin the first of four semesters at the American Musical Dramatic Academy in October. He has been told his schedule will consist of classes in various aspects of acting from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday.

"I'm really looking forward to it," LeGrande said. "I've never been to New York City before. It's going to be an awesome experience."

"I used to have the goal of being famous. But I really just want to better myself as an actor. It's not a dream, it's a goal. It's something I want to accomplish. Actors are a dime a dozen. It's a hard life, but I have a chance, just as much as anybody else."

The many faces of Jason LeGrande include the character of Sgt. Merwin J. Toomey in "Biloxi Blues, above, and Vince Fontaine in "Grease," below.

Racing game packed with video thrills

By BRITT and BRIAN WARNER
Thomson News Service

GAME: Virtua Racing
COMPANY: Sega of America
SYSTEM: Sega Genesis
PLAYER LEVEL: Difficult
PLOT SUMMARY: Heat waves rise slowly off the searing hot asphalt as you edge your Formula 1 race car up to the line and rev the engine. Your hands are sweaty against the leather steering wheel, but your mind is on nothing but the race.

The green flag is dropped and you go screaming out in front of the pack. You and the rest of the pack go thundering down the straightaway, engines racing, and cut into the turn. Another driver moves past and cuts you off.

You fight to get past him but you enter the turn too late. The back end of your car swings wide and you go skidding up the embankment towards the edge of the track.

You gain control with just inches to spare, but you're now headed straight for the left wall at over 300 mph. Do you have what it takes to race a Formula 1 car and survive?

STRUCTURE: Virtua Racing is the new home version of Sega's hit arcade game Virtua Racing. This game puts you in the driver's seat of a hot new Formula 1 racing car with a choice of automatic or 7-speed manual transmission.

The automatic is a little slower on the pickup, but it's a lot easier and it lets you concentrate more on your steering. The 7-speed manual is more for the racing buffs and those few who are already used to the controls.

All of the races take place on three different tracks labeled Big Forest (Beginner), Bay Bridge (Medium), and Acropolis (Expert).

All three tracks are heavily detailed with scenic backgrounds, bridges, tunnels, and even skid-marks on the asphalt, but each one is slightly different. Big Forest has a wide, open track with easy turns and a long straightaway. Bay Bridge is a lot more difficult.

The track is narrow and often enclosed between two walls (which makes it easier to have a serious wreck). It has mostly tight U-turns with a shorter straightaway on the bridge.

Acropolis is the most difficult of the three courses, but by far the most fun. It has a lot of tight turns, including an enormous hair-pin turn and a long, twisting path through a narrow canyon. This course requires a lot of skill to keep from flipping and skidding all over the track.

Virtua Racing has a special feature that no other game has, called the VR (Virtual Reality) View. While driving you can swivel the vantage point of your car at the touch of a button. With the first view you're behind the wheel and you can actually see your arms steering. The second view is from directly behind the car. This is the most common view for racing games.

BRIAN'S COMMENTS: Virtua Racing is a smooth game. The 3D graphics are incredible. I just couldn't believe how fun this game is.

I don't normally like racing games, but this is an exception. Everything is exceedingly well done in this game. The cost of this game is a little steep, but it is definitely worth it.

Help Mom and Dad Learn the Game A Parent's Soccer Quiz

Soccer is a very popular sport for boys and girls.

Throughout the country, millions of kids play soccer. But many of their parents did not grow up playing or watching the sport. Their kids can help them understand the game.

During the World Cup, families have a chance to watch big-time pro soccer on TV.

The World Cup is a tournament among teams representing 24 countries from around the world.

Like all pro sports, the rules are tougher, but the game kids play is the same in many ways.

Kids might want to begin by finding out what their parents already know about the game.

Ask your parents questions. Their answers don't have to be exact, but judge for yourself if they are close enough.

What is the object of the game?

To play skillfully as a team member in a sportsmanlike manner while trying to kick a ball into the opponent's goal.

Can you name some ways soccer is different from American football?

- Soccer ...
 - does not have time-outs. It is almost nonstop.
 - has few set plays. Coaches don't send in plays.
 - does not have a special defensive and offensive team. Players keep their positions whether their team controls the ball or not. (In U.S. college, high school and club games, substitutes can be used. In World Cup play, only two substitutes are allowed. Goalkeepers can be substituted.)
 - The goalkeeper is the only player who can handle the ball and only in the penalty area.
- Soccer is a game of kicking, dribbling and passing while controlling the ball with your feet or body.

What are the basic skills? (Maybe our young players could show their parents how these are done.)

Heading: using the head to hit the ball. The ball should hit in the center of the forehead, just below the hairline.

Dribbling: controlling the ball while running.

Passing: moving the ball from one player to another.

Receiving: using many parts of the body (except hands) to gain control of the ball.

Tackling: using the feet to get the ball away from an opponent without tripping him.

Kicking: using the feet for passing short or long distances or shooting at the goal.

Look through your paper for news of the World Cup.

The Mini Page Teacher's Guide

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.
For use with issue: A Parent's Soccer Quiz

Main idea: This issue is about the game of soccer. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty. Ask the children to do the following:

- Design a trophy that could be given to the best soccer player at the World Cup.
- Discuss the following: Do you like playing soccer? Have you ever seen a professional game? Why is the World Cup so important? Which team would you like to see win? Which position on a soccer team would you like to play most and why?
- Create a chart to keep track of the results of the World Cup.
- Look through the classified ads of your newspaper for people selling sports equipment.
- Find the following words: equipment, tournament, penalty, defensive, lineup, offensive, halftime, opponent, boundaries. Define and make up a new sentence for each one.
- Write a newspaper article describing a soccer game.
- Look through your newspaper for articles on the World Cup.

Rookie Cookie's Recipe
Nutty Banana Bread

You'll need:

- 1 3/4 cups whole wheat flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup pecans, chopped
- 1/2 cup oil
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 cups ripe bananas, mashed

What to do:

1. Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and pecans in a large bowl. Mix well.
2. In a medium bowl, combine oil and eggs. Mix well.
3. Add bananas to egg mixture. Mix well.
4. Add banana mixture to dry mixture. Mix only until smooth.
5. Pour in a greased loaf pan.
6. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes.
7. Remove from pan when cool.

A Kid's Soccer Quiz for Parents

Equipment

What equipment do soccer players need?

- shorts
- socks
- shin guards
- shoes
- balls
- goals to shoot for
- corner flags to mark boundaries

The field is a flat rectangle. The pros play on a field 100 to 130 feet long and 50 to 100 feet wide.

Players

How many people are on a soccer team?
11

Can you name the four main positions?
• goalkeeper • defender • midfielder • forward

What does a goalkeeper do?
The goalkeeper is the only member of each team who can use his or her hands on the field. Goalkeepers wear a different jersey from all other players.

What do defenders do?
They defend the goal and try to take the ball away from the opposing team. They often start the plays from the wings (or sides) and "mark," or guard, the other team's wingers.

Can you name the three types of defenders?
Fullbacks guard and help create attacks up the wings. Sweepers "sweep," or run to either side to help out teammates in defending the goal. They usually do not mark any special player. Strikers guard the middle and mark the opposing strikers.

Terms

What do these soccer words mean?

- throw in
The way the ball is put back into play after it goes over the sideline.
- kick off
A pass used to start a play at the beginning of a game, at halftime, or after a goal has been scored.
- penalty kick
A direct free kick that is awarded after a serious foul in the penalty area.
- free kick
One given after a foul has been committed outside the penalty area.

Officials

Name the officials.
The linesmen and the referee. (Soccer is known as a simple game, with only 17 laws, or rules.)

What do the linesmen do?
One linesman stands on each sideline. One job is to decide who gets control of the ball when it goes out of bounds.

What does the referee do?
The referee is the only official who goes onto the playing field. He enforces the laws, keeps time and awards free kicks. He blows a whistle and flashes cards to control the play and the players. A yellow card is a caution. A red card signals that the player is ejected and cannot be replaced.

This is one way a coach might line up his players on the field. In soccer terms, this is called the 4-3-3 lineup. When using number symbols, it is the custom not to list the goalie.

- 4 defenders
- 3 midfielders
- 3 forwards

rock out!

WHAT YOU NEED: 2 cup water - 5 cups sugar - pie pan - string or bamboo skewer - grown-up candy thermometer - foil - patience

WHAT TO DO: Stretch the string across a pie pan so that it is suspended across the top. You'll have to weight the ends so that it does not touch the bottom of the pan. Or You Can punch holes in the edge of the pan and tie the string. You Can also lay a skewer across and out the pan like in the drawing.

MORE STUFF: Dissolve the sugar in the water and cook until it reaches 250°. This temperature is also called hard ball, and most cookbooks will tell you how to do it without a candy thermometer. Don't stir after you've dissolved the sugar.

Dear Roger,
Rock candy is a great way to see what crystals are about. Rock candy is just crystallized sugar. You absolutely need a grown-up to help you with today's experiment because it involves cooking sugars at dangerous temperatures hot enough to burn or hurt you badly.

Beakman Place

EVEN MORE STUFF:
Pour the hot liquid into the pan. The string should be 3/4 inch under the surface of the sugar water. Cover the pan with foil and don't touch it for a whole week. In 7 days, lift out the string or stick and it will be covered with sugar crystals!

YOU CAN STILL WIN

Els wins Open

By The Associated Press

OAKMONT, Pa. — Ernie Els was playing so poorly that he wanted to be somewhere else. Instead, he became the U.S. Open champion.

The 24-year-old South African began an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Open championship Monday with bogey, triple bogey at unforgiving Oakmont, quickly falling behind Loren Roberts and Colin Montgomerie.

It was during the embarrassing triple on No. 2, after he'd taken a drop on the third tee from an unplayable lie and then pitched through the green, that he told his caddy, "Why in the hell did I make that putt at 18 yesterday to get into this thing? I just wanted to get out of there."

His caddy, Ricky Roberts, was having none of it. "Dig in there," he told Els. "Hang in there."

Els listened, steadied himself and won with a par on the second hole of sudden death when Roberts' 35-foot par putt caught the lip and spun out.

The victory made Els the fourth foreign-born player since 1927 to win the American national championship.

South Africa's Ernie Els hugs his caddy as Loren Roberts watches at right during the Monday playoff round of the U.S. Open. Els won the tournament, beating Roberts with a par on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff.

In addition to a $320,000 first prize, the victory also provides a 10-year exemption on the PGA Tour.

On the day he won his first major championship to confirm his stature, the quiet young man appeared very aware of what it all means.

"I always wanted to win a major. It came early for me," he said. "I hope I can handle it. I don't want to let it change me."

"I'm going to play a lot of golf tournaments. I want to play well in the tournaments I play. People will expect me to win every week. That won't happen."

"I have a long road in front of me."

O.J. Simpson's theater of the weird

Most of us of a certain age can recall where we were and what we were doing when President Kennedy was killed. I imagine the same thing will be true of the night O.J. Simpson self-destructed, live and in living color.

Steve Reagan

Friday night will rank, without a doubt, as one of the strangest evenings of my life. Watching the Simpson melodrama unfold gave new meaning to the word surreal.

As I watched, I kept telling myself it couldn't get any weirder.

Little did I know. I don't mind saying O.J. used to be one of my heroes. I say used to be because, after the way he jacked with our collective psyches Friday, there's no way I'll ever forgive him, innocent of murder or not.

Watching Friday's events, right there on CNN or ESPN or ABC or whatever alphabet combination of TV network you want to use, left me feeling punch-drunk.

Early in the day, the consensus among the newsroom staff was that chances of Simpson getting arrested were about 50-50. After all, the guy, up until last week, was so shiny clean you almost had to wear sunglasses around him.

O.J.? A murderer? Nah, can't be.

O.J.? Take a knife and slash his ex-wife's throat, then kill a friend of her's in the process?

Are we talking about the same guy in the Hertz commercials? The bumbling detective in the Naked Gun movies? The All-American Heisman Trophy winner? The Hall of Fame running back? The modern embodiment of Mr. Nice Guy?

Get outta here. Then, in the early afternoon, came the news that an arrest warrant had been issued. For Simpson. For two counts of murder. With "special circumstances," which, under California law, could allow for the death penalty.

Mr. All-American on Death Row. Run that through your mental movie house for a minute or two. Lovely image, don't you think?

More news flashes filled the afternoon: O.J. to surrender himself! O.J. fails to show for arraignment! O.J. on the lam! Police organize manhunt for O.J.! Film at 11!

At his most demented, Salvador Dali couldn't have painted a scene more surreal than what was happening in Los Angeles. And across the country, those of us with an interest in the story kept receiving mental sucker punches.

The one that finally floored me came when I was watching Simpson's Ford Bronco tool down an L.A. freeway, followed by a phalanx of police cars. Simpson was a passenger in the car, the TV anchor man said, and was holding a gun to his head.

Oh great, I thought. He's going to blow his brains out. His final act as a human being will be to fill my TV screen with his gray matter. Won't "Hard Copy" be pleased?

Major story or no, I had to get away from it awhile, so I turned to the NBA Finals.

Guess what? NBC, by using a split-screen, was able to show us both Game 5 of the Finals and the Simpson saga. That way we could watch O.J. kill himself AND see Hakeem Olajuwon slam dunk at the same time.

That did it. I turned the TV off. Call me a wimp, but I had had enough. Let Simpson either off himself or do the right thing and surrender. Let "A Current Affair" or "Inside Edition" display all the gory details in super slow motion for the next six months. Let the Rockets lose.

I didn't care. Steve Reagan is a sportswriter for the Herald.

Challenge bull Dodge Ram to add spice to Big Spring rodeo Thursday competition

By DAVE HARGRAVE Sports Editor

Don Gay, an eight-time bull riding world champion, is bringing in quality stock for the Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion, but one bull in particular will get lots of attention.

As part of the Dodge Truck Rodeo Bull Challenge, Dodge Truck is putting up at least $2,000 contending Don Gay's 1,900-pound bull, Dodge Ram, can't be ridden by any of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association bull riders entered. Don Gay's All-Star Rodeo Company is producing the Big Spring rodeo, which is in its second year as part of the Dodge Truck Series rodeo program.

The bounty started at $1,000, but renowned rodeo clown Quail Dobbs said the bonus for riding Dodge Ram is up to $2,000. The bounty increases $500 for each rodeo Dodge Ram bucks off his rider.

Dodge Ram has been ridden twice in 48 tries, Dobbs said. "He can be ridden," Dobbs said. "If you had one of those bulls that couldn't be ridden, it would make a mockery of it. But it's going to take a pretty good hand and a lot of luck to ride that bull."

Dodge Ram - his real name is No. 110 Bearkat, Dobbs said - will appear just twice at the rodeo, and only once is the bounty up for grabs. That ride will be Thursday, and the rider will be determined by the luck of the draw.

"That bull will be in the hopper just like any other bull," said Richard Atkins, who along with Dobbs is on the rodeo's board of directors.

Raymond Wessell of Cedar Point, Kan., stayed on Dodge Ram for the full eight seconds earlier this year in Victoria.

"I think I just got lucky and stuck with him, even though he was throwing all he had at me," Wessell said. "That was the longest eight seconds I've been through in some time."

Gay said: "What makes it so difficult is the fact he likes to roll left and then change back to throw the cowboy off balance. Cowboys have to try and roll with him, and they can't always anticipate what he's going to do."

Dodge Ram will be ridden Saturday night as well, but that is not a bonus run. Only Thursday's run will be for the bounty.

"Whoever rides him could very well win the event, because he's that good a bull," Dobbs said. "And not only can he win if he does it on Thursday; he gets $2,000."

Gray first to interview for HC post

By DAVE HARGRAVE Sports Editor

Packed boxes litter the Howard College assistant women's basketball coach's office. Is the coach moving?

Nobody knows.

Not even the coach. Terry Gray, 30, has been assistant coach for the Lady Hawks the past two seasons, and replacing head coach Royce Chadwick was something he hoped might happen down the road.

That road shrank in a hurry Thursday afternoon when Chadwick accepted an offer to become the women's head coach at an NCAA Division I powerhouse - Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches.

The departure of Chadwick, who also has resigned his position as Howard's athletic director, plunged Gray into a coach's limbo and Howard into a coach search.

Gray agreed soon after the Lady Hawks' season ended to take the head girls' coaching job at Wharton High School, a position he had in 1990 when he led the 4A Lady Tigers to their first district and bi-district titles.

However, he said he hasn't signed contracts at Wharton, so he's not bound to the school.

That's news to Gary Grogan, superintendent of Wharton schools, who knew nothing of Gray's interest in the Howard job until asked about it.

"You can't be two places at once," Grogan said. "I am unaware of his contractual status. I really thought he was under contract with us, but maybe he isn't."

Wharton Athletic Director Jesse Crow could not be reached for comment.

Only Howard administrators know how much of a chance Gray has of becoming the Lady Hawks' next coach, but Gray at least has the honor of being the first interviewed. Howard is interviewing Gray this afternoon, and as of Tuesday morning he was the only candidate on Howard's interview calendar.

"It's college policy to post the opening within the college for five days, before we do any outside advertising," said Terry Hansen, Howard's vice president for administrative systems. "Our game plan is to take care of the women's coaching job first, and then we'll get to the athletic director position."

Hansen said Gray will meet today with Cheryl Sparks, the college's president, and her administrative cabinet. Several inquiries about the position have been made, Hansen said, but Gray is the only person who has applied at this time.

"We have no deadline - we're just going to fill it with the best applicant we can find," Hansen said. "Right now, there's not a whole lot to report."

Gray said he took the Wharton job thinking Chadwick, 36, was going to be in Big Spring for some time. Earlier this year, Chadwick was interviewed for the head coaching job at Midland College, which is fielding a women's team for the first time next season, but Chadwick pulled his name out of consideration before Midland selected its coach.

Like Chadwick, Gray pulled his name out of consideration for a coaching job with one of Howard's rivals. Ron Jones left Western Texas College for Midland, and Gray interviewed for the job in February before deciding it wasn't for him.

Then came Wharton. Gray said: "We're scheduled to move Thursday. The moving truck is paid for and comes Thursday. As far as I know, I have not had a job offer from Howard College yet, and I do at Wharton, so I have to plan as if we're going to Wharton, and if something were to happen here, then we would have to change our plans. And we certainly would like that to happen."

Gray said he's been asked several times if he feels guilty about the Wharton situation. He doesn't.

"I would have applied for this job three months ago when coach Chadwick was interviewing at Midland and considering that - I would have certainly applied at that time - and I also would have applied for this job if he had stayed another three years and it came open in three years. This job is a job that I'm very interested in, that I've always been interested in, and it just happened to be that the timing for this particular opening came at this time."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Texas Utilities Electric Company (TU Electric), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA), publishes NOTICE of its Statement of Intent to implement the following four proposed tariffs throughout its service territories:

- 1) Rider ED - Economic Development Service;
- 2) Rate GC - General Service Competitive Pricing;
- 3) Rate WPC - Wholesale Power Competitive Pricing; and
- 4) Rider ET - Environmental Technology Service.

The only customers that will be affected by the proposed tariffs will be those customers eligible for service under TU Electric's General Service Rates GS, GP, and HV or its Wholesale Power Rate WP that voluntarily request one of the new services and that qualify for the service under the terms of the proposed tariff. This is not a "major change" in rates within the meaning of the PURA since the charges under the proposed tariffs are less than the charges that would otherwise be applicable under TU Electric's pertinent existing tariffs. The proposed effective date of the proposed tariffs is July 11, 1994, or as soon thereafter as permitted by law.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs and TU Electric's application is on file with the Commission and at each of TU Electric's business offices.

Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is 45 days after the date the application was filed with the Commission. The application was filed with the Commission on June 6, 1994.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Time to sound retreat in war on drugs

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I published letters from some readers who disagreed that drugs should be legalized. Today we'll hear from some of the surprisingly large number who favor legalization.

DEAR ABBY: I commend you for sharing your misgivings about America's war on drugs. You are not alone. Milton Friedman, George Shultz and William Buckley (to mention a few conservatives) have all looked askance at the results of indiscriminate drug prohibition: overcrowded prisons, eroded civil liberties, disrespect for laws in general, and a huge, growing black market.

Countries like the Netherlands regulate popular use of alcohol, tobacco and cannabis without fear of social collapse. Is it surprising that while the Dutch government trusts its citizens to behave moderately, drug abuse is less of a problem there?

American kids perceive the contradiction of our government telling them to "just say no," while continuing to subsidize the tobacco industry. — OREGON READER

DEAR ABBY: I'm an inmate convicted of possession of an excess of one ounce of marijuana, which is a felony here in Georgia.

I wholeheartedly agree on the legalization of certain controlled substances. I have smoked marijuana off and on for 30 years — since I was 19 — and I have known people who have smoked it who are now in their 50s and 60s. All are reliable family people, and none have committed a violent crime.

In Atlanta last February, there was a smoke fest and 30,000 people gathered. — DENNIS THE MENACE

Pot was smoked openly, there were no arrests, and everyone behaved in a proper manner. Look at Sweden and other countries where pot is legal, and you will see it has done no harm to their people. — INMATE 321943, FORSYTH, GA.

DEAR ABBY: While many will find the idea of legalizing drugs morally repugnant, people don't seem to realize that with the stroke of a pen we could eliminate the following:

- Wasted money and human lives spent on continuing the war on drugs — which was clearly lost long ago.
- Street gangs, and the violence and death associated with them. (They survive on drug sales.)
- A majority of robberies, burglaries, carjackings and muggings — which are mostly perpetrated by addicts in need of money for drugs.

Morality is one thing, but when are we going to wake up and solve all these major problems with one simple bill? A prescription system might be the most sensible solution. — COMMON SENSE IN SHERMAN OAKS

DEAR ABBY: I believe our government's scare tactics have backfired, making criminals out of decent citizens. In addition, no one can estimate the quality of drugs sold illegally under the table by crooks. If drugs were treated the way alcohol and cigarettes are — regulated and taxed — our country would be a much saner place. I am an occupational therapist with the U.S. Navy. (Please withhold my name for obvious reasons.) — MADRID, SPAIN

Today is Tuesday, June 21, the 172nd day of 1994. There are 193 days left in the year. Summer arrives at 10:48 a.m. EDT.

Today's Highlight in History:

Thirty years ago, on June 21, 1964, civil rights workers Michael H. Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James E. Chaney disappeared in Philadelphia, Miss.; their bodies were found buried in an earthen dam six weeks later. (Seven men, including a chief deputy sheriff and a Ku Klux Klan leader, were convicted in 1967 of conspiracy in the killings.)

On this date:

In 1788, the U.S. Constitution went into effect as New Hampshire became the ninth state to ratify it.

In 1834, Cyrus Hall McCormick received a patent for his reaping machine.

In 1894, 100 years ago, the Democratic Silver convention opened in Omaha, Neb.

In 1932, heavyweight Max Schmeling lost a title fight by decision to Jack Sharkey, prompting Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, to exclaim: "We was robbed!"

In 1945, Japanese forces on Okinawa surrendered during World War II.

In 1948, inventor Dr. Peter Goldmark of CBS Laboratories demonstrated the first successful long-playing record.

In 1963, Cardinal Giovanni Battista Montini was chosen to succeed the late Pope John XXIII as head of the Roman Catholic Church. The new pope took the name Paul VI.

In 1982, a jury in Washington, D.C., found John Hinckley Jr. innocent by reason of insanity in the shootings of President Reagan and three other men.

In 1985, scientists announced that skeletal remains exhumed in Brazil were those of Nazi war criminal Dr. Josef Mengele.

Ten years ago: French President Francois Mitterrand raised the case of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov during a Kremlin banquet, saying it was casting doubt on the human rights guarantees contained in the Helsinki accords.

Five years ago: The U.S. Supreme Court ruled that burning the American flag as a form of political protest is protected by the First Amendment.

One year ago: The U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Haitian boat people could be stopped at sea and returned home without asylum hearings.
