Curfew considered to combat crime

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

A possible teen curfew will be one of four items slated for a public hearing Tuesday when the Big Spring City Council meets.

In an earlier address to the council, Big Spring Police Chief Jerry Edwards reported on juvenile crime in the city, recommending a teen curfew.

Juvenile crime is on the rise, but is not the only matter of concern for Chief Edwards. Criminal activity, overall, is on the rise.

After losing seven police officer positions in 1991 due to city budgetary problems - a factor, but not the only factor - Edwards said that the police department is trying to stop current problems before the get any bigger. Big Spring, according to Edwards, has been experiencing a problem that is not unique to here - repeat offenders.

First of all, depending on the crime and the offender's past record, prison is a maybe-maybe not situation. For those offenders sent to prison, some are back on the streets after serving one-third or less of their sentences. With records indicating that 5 to 10 percent of offenders do over 90 percent of the crimes, this means that most of the faces remain nearly the same.

Convenience store thefts are on the rise as well because of their hours, locations and the general nature of their business.

According to Edwards' Uniform Crime Report, these stores are considered easy targets for thefts because of their attitudes of being user friendly. Alcoholic beverages and tobacco products are in easy access and most stores never require people to pay for gasoline prior to pumping.

As of June 1, there had been 888 reported thefts. Of these thefts, 586 or 66 percent have occurred in convenience stores and 7-Eleven, mainly due to their volume of stores, account for 41 percent of that 66 percent.

Juveniles are a big part of this problem as well and by recommending the adoption of a juvenile curfew, the police department is not saying that any juvenile out late at night is a criminal or is in jeopardy. The curfew is aimed at minors under the age of 17 years.

Police officers would have the option of warning, citing or detaining juvenile violators. Teens cited could then be referred to Teen Court for further action.

Chief Edwards emphasizes in his report that juvenile offenders of the curfew would not be placed in custody nor held in any type of detention because the charge would be a misdemeanor.

As a way of enforcing parental responsibility towards the curfew, officers would also have the option of warning or citing the parents for permitting the child's action.

This ordinance would also be in effect for persons or establishments who knowingly allow juveniles to remain in their businesses after curfew hours. Violators would be subject to a citation just as parents would be.

The council meets at 5:30 p.m. in Building 1109 at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airport Tuesday.

Heat raising temperatures, electric bills

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

With recent temperatures topping 104 degrees, people are flocking to the coolest places they can find - usually an air-conditioned room at home.

To TU Electric, this means a surge in the amount of power requested by customers at a given time and recently, TU Electric filed a proposal of new strategic rates with the Public Utility Commission of Texas and cities within the TU Electric service area.

For TU Electric customers, the current electricity rates probably won't change anytime soon, according to District Manager John Toone.

"We (TU Electric) don't think we'll see any increases in the next few years. We have a lot of capacity and there's no need to build any more power plants. Hopefully the state won't levy any new taxes on our corporation that will cause a rise in rates."

Currently, TU Electric customers pay a $6 per month charge for facilities (meters, readings) and a summertime, June through October, rate of 6.26 cents per kilowatt hour (kwh) plus fuel costs. Summer months are also called "On peak months."

Off peak months are considered winter months (November through May) when rates are a little lower.

Electricity rates during winter months are 5.89 cents per kwh for the first 600 hours and all hours over 600 are billed at the rate of 4.12 cents per kwh plus fuel costs.

Toone said that TU Electric serves 2.3 million customers in 88 counties in North Central, West, and East Texas and the demand can get quite enormous at times.

"You can't store electricity," Toone said, "you have to have it when people need it."

How much demand occurs when the temperature rises? Toone said that TU Electric's power demand rose to a record electric load of 18,324,000 kilowatts on July 29, 1993. So far in 1994, the peak electric load reached 17,213,000 kilowatts on June 23 (a day that saw temperatures rise to 99 degrees).

During the month of June, electrical consumption has been slightly higher than the same time in 1993.

As temperatures rise, so goes the flick of thermostat switches which many people believe should be left on.

Toone also dispels a common myth about thermostats. He said, "It is not true that leaving thermostats on will reduce your bill."

The best way to reduce bills is to understand and follow a few basic energy conservation tips:

Gas prices up; now holding steady

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

With summer comes sun, fun and travel as well as unpredictable gasoline prices but the supply is still plentiful and pump prices seem to be holding steady so far.

But the price you pay at the pump in Texas is slightly higher than the overall national average.

The national average at the gas pumps for the first part of June was $1.10 per gallon, 2.7 cents lower than in the same time period of 1993.

Locally, most pumps, including Exxon, Phillips 66, Fina, Conoco, Texaco and Chevron have self-serve regular unleaded gasoline at $1.15 per gallon and super unleaded at $1.25 per gallon.

Travelers to other Texas cities, for people planning vacations, can expect to find self-serve regular unleaded in Amarillo at $1.06 to $1.10 per gallon; Dallas, $1.03 to $1.07 per gallon; Lubbock, $1.07 per gallon; Abilene, $1.08 to $1.11 per gallon.

The American Automobile Association (AAA) releases its Texas survey of stations and their gasoline prices before each major holiday and if current trends continue, look for these prices to be slightly different when the Fourth of July rolls around.

As far as wholesale prices are concerned, Fina Refinery Plant Manager Jeff Morris said that he doesn't expect prices to go much higher than they currently are.

Prices are determined after the wholesaler sells to the distributor who then sells to the retailer who sells to the public.

Morris said that its pretty much up to the distributors and retailers as to what they charge.

And competition plays a large part in retail pricing.

Across the nation

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The average price of gasoline nationwide rose more than two cents a gallon over the past two weeks.

The price rose to 118.4 cents per gallon, up 2.08 cents, between June 10 and June 24, said Tribby Lundberg, who directs the biweekly Lundberg Survey of more than 10,000 gas stations nationwide.

Retail prices rose more slowly than wholesale prices, suggesting that the cost at the pump will keep climbing as retailers catch up, Lundberg said.

The cost to the consumer may also continue growing because retailers often raise their prices when demand grows in the summer, he said.

The overall average prices per gallon at self-service pumps were: regular unleaded 111.60 cents; mid-grade 112.16 cents; premium 130.56 cents; leaded 114.66 cents.

Everett brings home Police Olympic gold

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Bringing home the gold is a dream of anyone who competes in the Olympics. Imagine bringing home three gold medals and one bronze one. That is exactly what a Big Spring police officer did when he competed in the Texas Police Games also known as the Police Olympics.

Sgt. Oscar Lee Everett participated in the games that were held June 20-24 in Abilene and were sponsored by the Texas Police Athletic Federation. The group began having these games in 1976 but this is the first year for an officer from Big Spring to compete in the events.

"There were events such as archery, skeet shooting, flag football, volleyball, softball, track and field, bowling, Tae Kwon Do, billiards, table tennis, weight lifting, canine demonstrations, SWAT demonstration, pistol competition and swimming," said Everett.

Everett won a gold medal in singles bowling, one in doubles bowling and he also came in first in the all events category while taking the bronze in teams competition. "I bowled a score of 1070 in a five game format in the singles. Then a 1083 in

Everett said that he was the only one representing the department this year, but wants to see that change when the competition is held in South Padre Island next year.

"The idea behind this is to build comradery and a chance to show the community that we have pride in ourselves and the department. It was a lot of fun and there are officers here than can compete in things like shooting and Tae Kwon Do."

"A lot of the teams that were there this year had their departments sponsor then or a police association. It would be nice to have the money to be able to go next year and have a few of us there."

Everett gets the honor of possibly going to the national competition in Mobile, Ala. in October. "If I can get the finances or donations, I'll be able to go. Anyone who received gold medals were invited and if you win gold at the nationals, you advance to the international competition."

There were 412 departments from around the state of Texas that participated in the Abilene games with about 1,300 competing.

No cause yet
 A two-story housefire on S. Birdwell, Sunday, required the attention of 14 fire department personnel and assistance from county firefighters as well. The cause of the fire has not been determined and no injuries were reported, but damage was estimated to be around $150,000.

Heat

- Air conditioning and heating represent more than 40 percent of residential energy use. Water heating uses 19 percent; lights and small appliances use 19 percent; the refrigerator, dishwasher and dryer use about four percent each; the electric range and television use about three percent each; and the washing machine uses just one percent.
- About half the summer electric bill is the cost of air conditioning. TU Electric recommends a thermostat setting of 78 degrees or higher in the summer. This setting in a typical home can save almost $200 during the summer, compared to a setting of 72 degrees. A rule of thumb is that an electric bill will increase by about 5 percent for every thermostat setting below 78 during the summer.
- Proper maintenance of air conditioning equipment is important. A dirty filter on a unit will cause it to use more electricity. Also, the outside condenser unit of a central air conditioning unit should be kept clean and free from grass clippings.
- Fans - ceiling, table or floor - will help circulate the air and allow the air conditioning to be kept comfortably on a higher setting.
- The proper amount of ceiling insulation can reduce cooling costs. This would be a level of R-30, which is about nine inches of blanket-style insulation and 10 to 17 inches of blown or loose-fill insulation.
- Customers can check for air drafts at electrical outlets, along baseboards, around plumbing pipes and fireplace dampers. Sealing these air leaks can reduce heating and cooling bills by about $50 per year.
- Caulking around windows and doors in an average home will save about $32 a year.

Whistleblowers collect under obscure law

HOUSTON (AP) — An obscure law dating back to the Civil War could make federal whistleblowers extremely wealthy if only they knew about it, The Houston Post reports.

Known as qui tam, the rule falls under the federal False Claims Act, The Post reported Sunday.

It allows citizens to collect up to 25 percent of what the government recovers if the individual files a sealed lawsuit on behalf of the government.

"It's one of those areas of law that may explode if enough people find out about it," said Richard Kuniansky, a Houston attorney.

Consider the tipster who told the U.S. Attorney General that National Health Laboratories Inc. might be ripping off Medicare with unnecessary blood tests. When the laboratory settled with the government last year for $100 million, the tipster pocketed $15 million.

Voodoo only explanation for woman's gouged eyes

DALLAS (AP) — Friends and family of a woman whose eyes were gouged out say only voodoo can explain the act.

"What happened that day in Dallas is totally beyond understanding," said the Rev. Norah Banks Jr. of Pilgrim's Rest Baptist Church in the women's hometown of Arcadia, La. "It is the work of Satan."

Doretha Crawford, 34, and Beverly Johnson, 35, have been charged with blinding their sister, Myra Obasi, 30, in a religious frenzy. The sisters are accused of beating Ms. Obasi with their fists, then gouging out her eyes with their fingers during a prayer session March 18 at a church-home in south Dallas.

Although Ms. Obasi has asked that her sisters not be prosecuted, Dallas Assistant District Attorney George West said no decision has been made about whether to proceed to trial.

The family points to a "voodoo man" named Benny, while a Dallas prosecutor says witnesses' "fear of voodoo" is interfering with his investigation.

Davidians say they are not going to Colorado

WACO, Texas (AP) — Surviving Branch Davidians dispute reports that they plan to rebuild in Colorado, and some say a home established by one sect member won't be the same without leader David Koresh.

Fire destroyed the group's Mount Carmel compound near Waco on April 19, 1993, following a standoff with federal authorities.

Sheila Martin, one of several Davidians still living in Waco, said few Davidians are likely to join what sect member Wally Kennett announced would be a new haven for as many as 30 Koresh followers. Even if a few of Koresh's followers relocate to the Baldwin, Colo., cabin, it would be nothing like Mount Carmel, she said.

"I don't think anyone expects it to be the same without David," Ms. Martin told the Waco Tribune-Herald in Sunday's editions. "He was the glue that kept us all together."

Most would just visit, she said.

Bush: U.S. must remain strong in foreign affairs

HOUSTON (AP) — It's the personal one-on-one approach that is needed in foreign affairs if the United States wants to keep its superpower status, former President George Bush says.

"We still have an obligation to lead the world," Bush said Sunday. "What is needed is patience ... policy, you need personal diplomacy."

Without this "strength in leadership," Bush insisted that America would lose its grip as the sole superpower.

"We are the superpower and we must stay involved in the rest of the world," Bush said.

Speaking before about 1,000 members of the Texas Restaurant Association, Bush gave nostalgic impressions of world leaders and illustrative nuances of life as president emeritus.

Two teens killed in chase with police

MCKINNEY (AP) — Two teenagers were killed and a third was critically injured when their car collided with a motor home while being pursued by police.

Collin County authorities said the teen-agers were theft suspects who had been pursued for about six miles at the time of the accident at U.S. 75 and U.S. 380 in northern McKinney.

'Fiscal restraint' turns into $91,292 in raises for agency heads

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — The executive directors of 13 state agencies received $91,292 in pay raises this year despite a salary freeze for rank-and-file employees and calls from lawmakers for fiscal restraint.

Mother's misery nearing the end

The Associated Press

WACO — Denice and Leonard Logan have waited years for justice in the death of their 10-year-old daughter whose disappearance prompted a massive search.

For reasons still unknown, Cheryl left school on the morning of Nov. 3, 1986, after telling her teacher that she wasn't feeling well and needed to go to the bathroom.

The fifth-grader never returned and her body was discovered in a field near her home.

Although Ricky Kevin Smith, 29, pleaded guilty in January 1992 to killing Cheryl in exchange for a life sentence, the 10th Court of Appeals in Waco reversed the conviction last year. It said Smith's confession should not have been allowed against him.

Last week, Smith was indicted on a murder charge in Cheryl's death.

Now, Mrs. Logan must watch prosecutors try again to prove that Smith sexually assaulted her daughter, then strangled and suffocated her.

"Hurt, pain and anger. That's how I feel," Mrs. Logan said. "You want to take care of it yourself sometimes. That thought does cross your mind."

Smith was arrested, along with Clinnie Childress, a few months after Cheryl's body was found.

He was indicted on a capital murder charge in February 1987 by a grand jury that cleared Childress, who had an alibi. Smith remained jailed about nine months, until prosecutors dismissed the charge to reopen the investigation. Then in January 1992 he pleaded guilty.

Heat relief is nowhere near

The Associated Press

No relief was in sight for the heat that has gripped Texas since last week.

Forecasts called for continued clear to partly cloudy skies and hot temperatures tonight and Tuesday. Long range forecasts call for more of the same through the rest of the week.

A heat advisory was in effect through Tuesday for western and central portions of North Texas.

Wink had the state's highest reading on Sunday when the Mercury reached 115. It was 112 at El Paso and Midland, 111 at Lubbock, 108 at San Angelo and 100 at Dallas and Fort Worth. The 112 readings at El Paso and Midland tied all time high records for those cities and the 111-degree reading at Lubbock was an all-time high reading.

The directors' salaries are set by the Legislature in the appropriations bill. However, the budget board relied on an exemption that allows pay increases with the governor's recommendation, the newspaper said.

The raises — which averaged about $7,000 per executive director — drew harsh criticism from Republicans, who say Democrats have been running a costly state government.

"These increases are out of line," said George W. Bush, who is challenging Democratic Gov. Ann Richards in the November election.

Congressional lines flow into court today

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Democrats say the current alignment for the state's 30 congressional districts are just fine. Republicans heartily disagree and head to court today to seek to have the lines redrawn.

"It is our contention the districts were done solely by race, and we find that immoral and not within our understanding of what a colorblind Constitution is all about," said Edward Blum, one of six Republicans comprising Coalition for a Color Blind Texas. The group filed the redistricting lawsuit Jan. 26.

"The minority districts are so bizarre and unwieldy that they separate neighbor from neighbor, they bust up subdivisions and cities and counties in order to create districts for a racial outcome," Blum was quoted as saying in Sunday's editions of The Dallas Morning News.

Blum said his group was encouraged to file the lawsuit following last year's U.S. Supreme Court ruling that white voters may challenge the constitutionality of voting districts in which minorities are in the majority.

In that decision, a group of white voters from North Carolina challenged a state reapportionment plan that created two majority black congressional districts.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor wrote that district maps deserve court attention when they're "so bizarre" that they appear "unexplainable on grounds other than race." She said such maps "bear an uncomfortable resemblance to apartheid."

Since that ruling, similar lawsuits have been filed in Georgia, Florida and Louisiana.

Nationally, Republicans hope to change enough districts to shift the balance of power in Congress, where Democrats hold a majority.

In Texas, Democrats have 21 seats to nine for the Republicans.

"If this Texas suit is successful, it will undoubtedly inspire other lawsuits in other states and send even more Republicans to the U.S. House," Texas GOP congressmen wrote in a letter seeking contributions for the lawsuit.

State Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle said the GOP suit — which goes before a panel of three Republican judges — has a good shot this week.

Teen curfew should be given serious consideration

Should there be a curfew for teens in Big Spring? That is the question the Big Spring City Council will be discussing at its Tuesday meeting.

The idea of a curfew was presented to the council at its last meeting by Big Spring Police Chief Jerry Edwards, who cited a rise in juvenile crime as the reason for a curfew.

The curfew is aimed at minors under the age of 17. If approved as Edwards has presented it, officers would have the option of warning, citing or detaining violators who could then be referred to Teen Court.

The curfew does not overlook parental responsibility for children. Officers would also have the option of warning or citing parents for allowing their children out past the curfew.

What is sad is that the city has to take responsibility for getting children off the streets at a decent hour. That is the parent's responsibility.

But as juvenile crime continues to climb, something has to be done to curb the rate of growth.

While a curfew may not be a perfect answer, it is the best we have at the moment.

Ann's speech was right on the mark

I know Big Ann Richards was going to take some heat for recent remarks in a speech to the young women at the Girls State Conference.

Brenda Brooks

When she said we should not become dependent on anybody, but instead should determine their own future. Some people have responded by saying her remarks were "anti-family". They thought it sounded too negative.

Well, it sounded like good common sense to me. Of course, as far back as I can remember, my FATHER has always told me the same thing: YOU are responsible for yourself. You need to be prepared to make a living in this world, because you don't know what kind of man you might end up with.

Well, fortunately, I've ended up with a decent good man, but he's not Prince Charming nor am I Snow White, and neither one of us believes in Santa or the Easter Bunny.

So, we're teaching our girls the same message. It is as simple as making my kids wear life vests when we are on a boat, not because I expect the boat to sink, but just in case it does, maybe it will keep them alive.

It's a fact that half of all marriages end up in divorce court. It doesn't matter what your race, creed or religion happens to be. It surely isn't a matter of whether you are Democratic or Republican.

Why even of Mr. Family Values himself, Rush Limbaugh, has been there twice so far. Still not convinced? OK, quick quiz: how many of your friends have ever been divorced?

In teaching girls to believe in themselves, it doesn't mean they can't believe in someone else. In fact, women who have taken responsibility for themselves make better wives. There are plenty of wives who have left their husbands to "find themselves". If they had any sense, they would have "found" themselves BEFORE they got married. Most of the divorces in this country have nothing to do with whether a woman can earn a living. Most are due to a lack of commitment to making marriage work. The commitment to treat your spouse with the same respect and honor you treat your friends.

Of course, if I'd have written Ann's speech for her, I'd have made one change. Instead of "Prince Charming could easily turn into an overweight beer guzzler with a wandering eye", I would have said, "Prince Charming could easily turn into O.J. Simpson." How many of you would have thought Mr. Clean himself was capable of murdering two people. People are innocent until proven guilty, and I'm not saying he murdered them. I do feel however he was emotionally capable of doing so.

It seems such a waste. It disturbs me that all the attention has focused on O.J. The victims seem forgotten. Marie, one of my friends, was upset because O.J. was her hero. Due to age we live in, heroes as we had in the past won't ever exist again. The heroes of old were just like our present day heroes, except the masses didn't have access to every detail of their private lives.

Can you imagine the furor if Thomas Jefferson was president now? A black mistress, who was the half-sister of his wife? In my experience, public figures don't make good heroes anyhow. You don't really know those people. They have a staff of people who jobs are to make them look good to the public.

Heroes should be people you know: Parents, friends, neighbors. Charles Barkley said it right "just because I play basketball, doesn't mean I need to be your kid's role model." Amen Charles. Brenda Brooks is a freelance columnist for the Herald.

Simple majority? Not in the Senate

LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing his Democratic colleagues of trampling the rights of minority Republicans, Sen. William Cohen delivered a warning meant to make any self-respecting senator wince.

Democrats, the Maine Republican declared, are turning the Senate into "something akin to the House of Representatives."

A place where a simple majority rules and the minority gets rolled.

Washington Today

If Democrats were chastened by this grim look into the future, they didn't show it by falling on their faces to beg forgiveness.

Cohen, usually the most mild-mannered and even-tempered of politicians, became agitated when majority Democrats used a rare tactic to torpedo Republican amendments to expand hearings into President Clinton's Whitewater land venture. Democrats stopped the Republicans cold by substituting their own language for nine straight Republican proposals. Under normal circumstances, Republicans would have been allowed a yes-or-no vote on their original language.

Cohen accused them of changing the Senate's unwritten rules that give the minority at least some measure of power.

It's not easy to fight for the right of the minority to tie the Senate in knots. But Cohen did so.

Cohen said Democrats may be remembered for taking "an institution that we had loved," a chamber that "revered the rights of the minority," and turning "this body into another one which will not bear much resemblance to what it used to be."

Cohen's Maine constituents, and millions of other Americans, may have thought that both houses of Congress were run by simple majority rule: 218 votes passes legislation in the 435-member House; and 51 does the same in the 100-member Senate.

That's only half right. Simple majority rule works in the House because the chamber has time limits for everything and when the bell rings, there's a vote.

The Senate only has time limits by unanimous consent. That means any one member, upset with any part of a bill, can keep anything from happening by all sorts of delaying tactics known as filibusters.

Republicans, currently holding 44 of 100 seats, can force Democrats to compromise, to pull a bill off the floor or keep the chamber gridlocked.

The delaying tactics can be beaten with 60 votes. Problem is, Democrats only have 56.

"The Senate is designed to protect the minority from being steamrolled under by a simple majority," Cohen said in an interview.

"That's why the Senate is referred to as the world's greatest deliberative body," he said. The idea is "to slow legislation down that may be rushed through by a majority in the House over the objection of the minority, to expose an issue to allow the public to react."

"In the House, the majority runs roughshod over the minority." Larry Margasak has covered Congress for The Associated Press since 1983.

Serving up the EEOC to Congress

Whatever happens to Hans Morsbach, the Chicago restaurant owner being hounded by federal bureaucrats, he's now had his case brought to the attention of Congress.

Mike Royko

Rep. John Porter, normally one of our quieter legislators, stood up Thursday and raised some hell about the way Morsbach is being treated by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Porter compared the methods used by the EEOC to those of the Spanish Inquisition.

He said: "Chicagoans have been following the EEOC's work ... and frankly they're mad, and they have a right to be mad."

"Recently in Chicago, a restaurant owner, Hans Morsbach, was notified by the EEOC in writing that he was guilty of hiring discrimination. The letter explained that because he placed 'an ad with a hiring agency for someone who was young and 'bub,' he is guilty of age discrimination."

Morsbach was informed by the EEOC that he must hire four people over the age of 40, give them back pay and seniority and post a notice in his restaurant stating that he will no longer discriminate because of age.

"The EEOC has decided he is guilty and determined his sentence, and if he doesn't comply he will be hauled into court and must hire an attorney to defend himself. What really galls, however, is that he's prevented from knowing anything about the genesis of the charge against him because the EEOC refuses to give him any information on this, citing confidentiality."

"Well, Morsbach didn't place any such ad with a hiring agency and his hiring record is an excellent one. He has employed a very diverse group of individuals in his restaurant. Morsbach doesn't know what hiring agency is involved, when the incident occurred, or what the word 'bub' means. Regardless, Morsbach must invest time and resources when he goes to court to prove his innocence."

"This is crazy. It's crazy that out of the blue comes a charge that the accused knows nothing about. It's crazy that the agency deems him guilty but at the same time refuses to tell him anything about the charges against him. And crazy that his only recourse is an expensive court proceeding."

"This is an important agency charged with the role of protecting the civil rights of employees and protecting them against discrimination. These are important considerations for this country."

"But in this case apparently, and apparently in many others, it proceeds like the Spanish Inquisition. This is not right. This matter should be looked into and corrected."

Porter deserves praise for taking up Morsbach's case. But was anybody listening?

Probably not. His speech came while his fellow congressmen were in the midst of figuring out ways to spend hundreds of billions of tax dollars. So it's hard to get congressmen interested in one restaurant owner's problems when they are whooping it up with tons of our money.

When Porter finished his speech, I actually believed that the next voice would be that of Rep. Bobby Rush.

Why Rush? Because Morsbach's restaurants are in Rush's South Side congressional district. If anyone was going to bat for Morsbach, it definitely should have been his very own congressional representative.

But, no, if Rush was in the chamber, he didn't say anything. And so far, he has apparently shown no interest in Morsbach's problems.

Drink carefully while celebrating

Editor: It's well known that the framers of Independence were visionaries. Less well known is the fact that many of their ideas fermented in America's colonial taverns. Thomas Jefferson wrote much of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia's Indian Queen tavern; Paul Revere planned the Boston Tea Party at his favorite meeting place—the Green Dragon tavern.

It's no wonder, then, that two centuries later men and women in Big Spring will celebrate America's independence in much the same way as those who started the holiday did: enjoying a cold beer. And whether celebrating near the water, at the ballpark or in the back yard with family and friends, Standard Sales Co., Inc., Odessa's distributor of Anheuser-Busch beers, hopes adults are guided by one of the cornerstones of democracy: With freedom comes responsibility.

So as you toast the architects of independence, remember that drinking and personal responsibility go hand in hand. "Know When To Say When" this Fourth of July.

Sincerely,
Donald E. Murphey

Moynihan testing the health reform waters

WASHINGTON (AP) — After finding few takers for a health reform plan with mandatory employer contributions, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan is testing the waters on the Senate Finance Committee with a new proposal that replaces workplace mandates with incentives to buy insurance.

Moynihan was conferring with fellow Democrats today before presenting his ideas to the full Finance Committee in a closed-door session this afternoon.

It was still being fine-tuned, but aides said the New York Democrat this time will eschew mandates on employers or individuals but dangle subsidies before businesses instead to entice them to pitch in.

Study finds 1 in 4 welfare mothers abusers

WASHINGTON (AP) — One in four mothers on welfare abuses alcohol or drugs, according to a new study that says "getting them unhooked" must be the central element of welfare reform.

The report, released today by the Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University, also finds that mothers on welfare are three times more likely than other mothers to be substance abusers.

By the center's count, more than 1 million of the 4.2 million parents on the rolls of Aid to Families with Dependent Children in 1991 were alcohol and drug abusers or addicts.

Among the youngest parents on the AFDC — the group targeted for job training and work programs under the Clinton administration's new welfare reform proposal — the rate of addiction and abuse is 37 percent.

Rabin cleared in Hebron massacre

JERUSALEM (AP) — Cleared of blame for the Hebron mosque massacre, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is promising tighter security in the volatile city but warning that another massacre is possible.

"If there is a Jewish madman who decides to open fire at one of a thousand mosques," Rabin said Sunday, he could not guarantee security forces would stop him. "Theoretically it could happen. I hope it won't," he said.

Rejecting Palestinian claims of conspiracy, the 338-page report blamed the attack solely on gunman Dr. Baruch Goldstein, an American-born physician. He was bludgeoned to death after the attack by angry worshippers.

Dollar falls below 100 yen at close

TOKYO (AP) — The dollar today tumbled to its first close below 100 yen since World War II, prompting calls in Japan for stronger central bank action to halt the yen's climb.

The strong yen and the trouble it brings for Japanese exporters discouraged buying on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, where prices plunged 2.24 percent.

The dollar closed at 99.93 yen, down 0.47 yen from its Tokyo finish Friday and below its 100.45 yen at the end of last week in New York.

The U.S. currency has fallen 5.45 yen, or 5.2 percent, in the last three weeks, closing at post-war lows on three of the last four trading days, most recently 100.40 on Friday.

Traders said the dollar was sold by institutional investors fearful of inflation in the United States. The recent attack on the dollar has led to speculation that the U.S. Federal Reserve Board will soon boost interest rates for a fifth time this year.

Poe poem comes up short at auction

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — A manuscript of a poem Edgar Allan Poe wrote for his 14-year-old cousin came up short on the auction block.

Auctioneers had hoped the poem "Elizabeth" would fetch between $30,000 and $40,000. It sold for $24,000.

The poem, believed to have been written in 1829, was one of four that Poe dedicated to Elizabeth R. Herring, a cousin. It was among nearly 900 items auctioned Sunday, said Jim Smith of Remember When Auctions Inc.

Helping offset the Poe disappointment was the sale of a 1942 letter written by John F. Kennedy while serving as a Navy ensign in South Carolina during World War II. The document, expected to sell for $7,500, sold for $31,000.

No insanity plea planned for Simpson

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Nicole Brown Simpson lay curled in a fetal position, clad in a black dress with her feet bare, blood marking her legs, arms and face. Ronald Goldman slumped in the dirt, his back against a tree stump, blue jeans and sweater dark with blood. That is what a coroner's investigator saw on the morning of June 13.

DNA analysis of blood collected as evidence could clear O.J. Simpson, who will not plead insanity because he did not kill his ex-wife and her friend, defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey said.

"In California, you don't approach the question of insanity until you have a trial on guilt," Bailey told CNN on Sunday. "California really is ahead of the world with the best procedure around because it's inconsistent to talk insanity and guilt or innocence in the same proceeding."

Simpson pleaded innocent to charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of Ms. Simpson, 35, and Goldman, 25.

Reportedly, blood found at the scene is of the same type as Simpson's, and blood was found in Simpson's Bronco and in his driveway.

Prosecutors are pinning much of their case on the results of DNA tests from blood samples, Bailey said.

"If the DNA comes back and is not a match, then the police had better get busy opening the investigation they may have prematurely closed," Bailey said.

Meanwhile, a hearing was scheduled for today on a media request for the release of sealed documents from the 1989 case in which Simpson, 46, pleaded no contest to misdemeanor battery against his then-wife, Ms. Simpson.

Ms. Simpson and her friend, a waiter at a trendy restaurant, were found slashed and hacked to death outside her townhouse.

A neighbor discovered their bloodied bodies near the gated entrance to Ms. Simpson's townhouse early on June 12, after seeing Ms. Simpson's dog wandering around the neighborhood, according to the report by a Los Angeles County coroner's investigator.

The report was obtained by TV's syndicated "American Journal" for a show scheduled to air today. The show gave The Associated Press a copy of the report Sunday.

On the trail

Members of the American Indian Movement, on their way to Washington D.C., stopped off in Parkersburg, W. Va., to conduct a rally Sunday to bring attention to the issues facing Native Americans. The group began their walk in San Francisco in February and will end in Washington D.C.

Dole wary of N. Korean promise

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Senate Minority Leader Robert Dole says the United States should keep up pressure on North Korea in case the communist regime reneges on a promise to freeze its nuclear program.

"You look back over history and their word has not been good," Dole, R-Kan., told C-SPAN.

Dole, in an interview broadcast Sunday, said he is afraid North Korea could use the talks to stall for time and eventually renew its nuclear program.

"My biggest fear is we might be taken for a ride and they might be buying more time and when it's all over we might not gain anything," Dole said.

Appearing on the same show, Assistant Secretary of State Robert Gallucci said President Clinton has not taken North Korea's promises at face value.

"We do not deal with North Korea yet on a basis of trust," Gallucci said. "We deal on a basis of what they do and what they say that can be verified."

The administration has offered North Korea better relations in exchange for giving up its nuclear program. It has accused North Korea of using its nuclear program to produce weapons, a charge Pyongyang has denied.

A growing international crisis over the nuclear program eased after North Korea promised former President Jimmy Carter it would halt the program in return for a resumption of high-level talks with the United States.

Winds fan wildfires; 10 homes destroyed

The Associated Press

Fire crews battled fatigue and 100-degree temperatures Sunday as they fought wildfires that charred about 9,000 acres of Southern California brush and timber, and destroyed 10 homes.

A 2,000-acre fire burning out of control in the San Bernardino and Angeles national forests moved to within one mile of Wrightwood, a community of 3,200 about 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

Southwesterly winds kept flames away, but the fires forced the evacuation of about 80 rural homes in the area, said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Vance Persing.

The fire started Saturday near a Boy Scout camp in San Bernardino County and spread west and north into the Angeles National Forest, destroying 10 homes and 50 automobiles. Damage was estimated at $2 million.

More than 825 firefighters aided by water-dropping helicopters and airplanes battling the blaze Sunday in temperatures as high as 102. By late evening, it was 50 percent contained.

"The heat really takes a lot out of them," said Forest Service spokesman Paul Johnson. "They really start to tire after two days on the fire lines."

Saturday's gusty winds turned erratic Sunday, helping fire crews work around the blaze.

"The winds are really squirrely," Persing said. "At times they're calm and at other times they really kick up."

Some residents of the area voluntarily evacuated their homes, taking horses and livestock with them.

A 3,000-acre fire in the Soledad Canyon area of the Angeles National Forest in Los Angeles County also burned out of control Sunday.

Letters flow into EEOC over religious harassment clause

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — They arrived by the thousands — letters, postcards, handwritten notes on looseleaf paper. Some bore biblical passages. Others featured pictures of flowers or clouds.

And almost all of them — nearly 56,000 at last count — asked the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to scuttle its proposed guidelines defining religious harassment in the workplace.

"I implore you, please come to your senses and DROP this item of consideration as 'harassment,'" wrote Alice Mahaffey of Warrior, Ala. "You are overstepping your area of expertise."

"Quite frankly, I think you have gone off the deep end," agreed John Alquist of Charlotte, N.C.

"It is unnatural for people not to talk about politics and religion, even in the workplace," Alquist wrote. "If you can stifle religious discussion, will political dissent be next? Besides, who gave you the right to suspend the First Amendment, anyway?"

The EEOC says the draft guidelines issued last October were merely an attempt to interpret and explain existing law.

"The purpose of the guidelines was not to create any new legal theories or in any way abridge the exercise of free religion in the workplace," says commission spokesman Reginald Welch.

Nevertheless, the proposed guidelines triggered howls of protest from citizens fearing they would create "religion-free work zones," or mandate freedom from religion instead of freedom of religion.

"I am guaranteed freedom to practice my faith so long as it does not hinder the freedom of others to practice theirs. Or not to practice," wrote Don and Kathy Fredrickson of Gladstone, Ore.

"If I want to read a Bible at work, during a break, I should be allowed to do so and I should also be allowed to keep it on my desk at work," wrote Paul John Steinbart of St. Louis.

The controversy erupted last fall after Atlanta labor lawyer Dudley Rochelle began advising her business clients that the only way to avoid religious harassment lawsuits under the guidelines would be to eliminate all religious expression from the workplace.

Church groups quickly got involved, deluging congressional offices and the EEOC with letters and telephone calls.

More than 130 House members have cosponsored legislation to require the EEOC to remove religion from its harassment guidelines. The Senate voted 94-0 on June 17 to urge the EEOC to rewrite the proposed guidelines.

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., and Sen. Hank Brown, R-Colo., also asks the commission to make clear in any new guidelines on workplace harassment that religious symbols or expressions of religious beliefs are not restricted and cannot be used to prove harassment.

As originally drafted, the guidelines define unlawful harassment as any verbal or physical conduct that "denigrates or shows hostility or aversion toward an individual because of his/her ... religion ... or that of his/her relatives, friends or associates."

Welch said they will now be redrafted to address the concerns of the people who made comments. He gave no timetable and said the new version might be published for public comment before the commission takes final action.

But the commission is not inclined to drop religion from the guidelines altogether.

"To not speak to the fact that religious harassment does occur would perhaps elicit the comments and concerns of many of the same people who are saying it shouldn't be there," Welch said.

The numbers of religion-based complaints filed with the EEOC has been small: 1,386 out of 72,120 complaints filed in the 1992 fiscal year, and 1,449 out of 87,887 last year, said spokeswoman Hope Williams.

Of several hundred complaints examined by The Associated Press, a handful mentioned firsthand knowledge of what might be considered religious harassment.

12,000 attend rodeo

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

The beasts were back at this year's Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

If anyone was keeping score, Don Gay's All-Star Rodeo stock probably scored a TKO — or at least a standing eight-count — on the cowboys this year, although several fine human performances were posted.

More than 300 contestants entered this year's rodeo, which was witnessed by more than 12,000 people.

Payout figures were not available.

In late action Saturday, Becky Bradley of Randlett, Okla. clocked a 17.46 to win the barrel racing competition. Laura Angell of Cameron was second with a 17.49.

Joe Don Griffin and Zane Powers were the runaway winners in team roping Saturday. Their time of 6.8 seconds easily bested the second-best time of 14.4 posted by Curtis Evans and Stormy Pruitt.

The competition was much closer in bull riding, where Ty Shafer's 73 score barely held off a 71 earned by Billy Latham of Wichita Falls.

Big Spring had reason to cheer one of their own Saturday night, when Bill Stockton posted the best time of the night in calf roping, tying down his calf in 10.2 seconds.

Aside from his best score in the bareback bronc second go, Chris Guay's two runs netted him a 158 average, good enough for overall honors in the event.

Other overall winners in the roughstock events included Paul Peterson (80 score) in saddle bronc riding and Pete Hessman (85 score) in bull riding.

Mark Weakley's time of 8.8 seconds won him the overall title in calf roping, while Scott Berger did likewise in steer wrestling with a clocking of 4.5.

Judi Engle's run of 17.01 seconds posted Friday proved good enough for overall honors in barrel racing, while Cory Koontz and Steve Purcella took the crown in team roping.

Romania's Dorinel Ionel Munteanu, left, and United States' Paul Caligiuri battle for the ball during the first half of the Group A first-round World Cup match Sunday at the Rose Bowl. Romania won 1-0, but the Americans can still make the second round as a wild card.

Romanians rain on U.S. parade

By The Associated Press

After losing its biggest World Cup game, the United States was left to play a waiting game.

It could end as early as Tuesday or as late as Thursday. It could have been much easier.

Romania beat the Americans 1-0 Sunday, winning Group A and leaving the U.S. team in third place. Only the four best third-place teams will advance to the second round. While the United States still is in good shape to get a berth, it figures to find tournament favorite Brazil or defending champion Germany as its opponent.

Switzerland got second place despite losing 2-0 to Colombia, which became the first team eliminated from the tournament.

"A draw or a loss, we still finish second in the group," Switzerland coach Roy Hodgson said. "There's no use crying too much over that ..."

Bulgarians were crying tears of joy after their first World Cup victory in six trips to the soccer championship. Star Hristo Stoitchkov had two goals on the penalty kicks as Bulgaria routed

While the United States still is in good shape to get a berth, it figures to find tournament favorite Brazil or defending champion Germany as its opponent.

Greece 4-0, the second loss by that score for the Greeks in the event.

Today, Group C concludes with Germany against South Korea at Dallas and Spain vs. Bolivia at Chicago.

Also, Cameroon goalkeeper Joseph-Antoine Bell, the leader of a players' rebellion that shook the team, quit the squad Sunday. Cameroon, whose players claim they have not been paid salaries or bonuses by the soccer federation, plays Russia on Tuesday.

"I decided it might might give the team more peace if I don't play anymore," Bell said. "There are too many people who have nothing to do with the team around it."

Stockton first on seniors' stop; Frost takes GHO

By The Associated Press

DEARBORN, Mich. — The Stockton family golf tradition got a major boost from dad this weekend, and Junior almost made it historic.

Dave Stockton won the Senior Players Championship for the second time in three years Sunday with a 4-under-par 68 in the final round. That gave him a 271 total, 17-under par and six strokes better than the rest of the field.

It was the lowest competitive score ever on the Jack Nicklaus-designed course, which opened in late 1990. Stockton set the mark of 11 under in 1992.

And Dave Jr., a 25-year-old rookie on the PGA Tour, finished tied for third in the Greater Hartford Open after starting the final round sharing the lead.

The Stocktons were bidding to become the first father-son combo to win PGA events in the same week, and the first to win the same tournament.

Dave Stockton, who won the GHO in 1974, had such a large lead that he spent a good part of his round checking on his son's progress. He repeatedly asked ABC-TV crew members for Dave Jr. updates while carving out his own triumph.

"He's my new idol," said Jim Albus, the runnerup at 11-under. "I think he was more worried about Junior than he was about himself."

And afterwards, he was more proud of Dave Jr. than he was of himself.

CROMWELL, Conn. — After being paired with Greg Norman in the first round of the Greater Hartford Open, David Frost said he felt he was being overlooked by the fans.

He was the center of attention Sunday when he edged Norman by a stroke to capture the tournament.

Still, Frost, who played behind the PGA Tour's top money-winner in the final round, said he understood why the crowd was pulling for Norman.

"He's the number one player in the world. He's the kind of guy people love to come out and see. He draws the crowds, whether he's in the United States, Australia or Japan," Frost said.

Frost, who shot a final-round 69 for a 72-hole record 12-under-par 268, is the 24th different winner in 25 tournaments this year, with Nick Price being the only two-time winner.

Frost's ninth career victory also frustrated Dave Stockton Jr.'s bid to make history with his father. Stockton Jr., who entered the final round tied for the lead at 11-under, shot a 72 and finished in a four-way tie for third at 271.

Dave Stockton won the Senior Players Championship at Dearborn, Mich., earlier Sunday by six strokes. The Stocktons were trying to become the first father-son combination to win PGA events on the same weekend, and the first to win the same tournament. The elder Stockton won the GHO in 1974.

LA edges Houston; Texas falls to Angels

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Known for his bunting, Brett Butler somehow becomes a big hitter when he faces Doug Drabek.

Butler homered for the second straight game and also singled twice, driving in two runs Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Houston Astros 5-4.

Butler hit a solo home run with two outs in the seventh inning off Drabek, breaking a 4-4 tie. Butler has five homers, his most since hitting six in 1988 for San Francisco.

The home run made Butler 25-for-55 (.455) lifetime against Drabek.

"Doug is a guy I've been able to hit pretty well. He's a quality pitcher but for some reason I can see the ball leaving his hand better," Butler said. "Doug is one of the best pitchers in the league. I can't explain why I've been able to hit him, but it worked out for me today."

"I haven't had too many game-winning home runs and I hate hitting in the dome," he said.

"Today, Doug threw me a breaking pitch that I was just trying to hit hard. I got out in front of it and pulled the ball."

Drabek (10-4) was foiled in his bid to become the first 11-game winner in the NL. Drabek gave up seven hits and struck out seven in seven innings.

Kevin Gross (7-4) also went seven innings, allowing five hits and striking out five.

"Our guys got some runs early and kept pecking away at him. They did a good job against one of the best pitchers in baseball," Gross said.

Todd Worrell pitched two innings and got his sixth save in 11 chances.

"Ideally I like to throw just one inning, but some games you have to go more. I prepare myself to go two innings and today it worked out," Worrell said.

Los Angeles Dodger Eric Karros, right, slides safely into home plate under the tag of Houston Astros catcher Scott Servais during the second inning in Houston Sunday. The Dodgers beat the Astros 5-4.

It meant a two-game swing in the standings," said California left-hander Mark Langston, whose seven innings of solid work set up the victory.

"We knew this was an important series going in," Angels manager Marcel Lachemann said after his club took 2-of-3 from Texas.

The pennant-race talk sounded proper until you look at the records. Texas is 33-40 and the Angels, just 13 games out, are 33-43.

At seven games below .500, the Rangers set a new low for a first-place team in major-league history. The previous low of six games below .500 was set earlier this season on several occasions by the Rangers.

"It's still a four-team race, and every game we play against a team in the division is important," Lachemann said.

The threesome of Jose Canseco, Will Clark and Juan Gonzalez lead the majors with 188 RBIs among them. However, Canseco (5-for-37), Clark (2-for-25) and Gonzalez (5-for-39) are all in a slump.

Clark's 0-for-4 performance occurred with men on base in each of his at-bats.

Top seeds show mellow streak at Wimbledon

By The Associated Press

WIMBLEDON, England — Though the heat is on as a wild Wimbledon enters its second week, the rhetoric from some of the most feared contenders is anything but warlike.

Boris Becker is extolling the joys of fatherhood. Guy Forget is complimenting the British fans who will be rooting for his defeat. And Goran Ivanisevic, famed as much for his hot temper as his sizzling serve, describes his new self as quiet and cool.

"I'm playing mentally much more cool this year," Ivanisevic said. "If I'm confident, I'm less nervous. In Paris (at the French Open), I was more nervous, but here I'm just very quiet. It's nice to play on grass."

Forget, father of a 4-year-old boy, has been comparing notes with Becker and Jeremy Bates, who say the recent birth of sons has improved their tennis by making them less obsessed with the game.

"Yes, it made me calmer," said Becker, a three-time Wimbledon champion. "It made me realize that tennis is not the most important thing in the world for me. Of course, I'm going to give it 110 percent, but I think I'm much calmer on the tennis court than I was before."

Certainly fatherhood hasn't hurt his game, Becker has lost only one set heading into his fourth-round match Monday against ninth-seeded Andrei Medvedev.

Forget plays Bates in a father-vs.-father showdown on Centre Court. The two also played in the fourth round two years ago, with Forget winning — and Bates will be trying again to become the first British man since 1973 to reach the quarterfinals.

"I know the crowd will be behind Jeremy, but whatever the results I know they will still applaud me whether I win or lose," Forget said.

Forget is ranked 1,130th in the world after missing a year of play with a knee injury that required surgery, yet he ousted fifth-seeded Jim Courier in the second round.

Before his injury, but after the birth of his son, the 29-year-old Frenchman was playing some of the best tennis of his career.

"It might sound funny, but when I had my kid, my game went right up ... as soon as I could take all that stupid pressure off myself," he said.

In other fourth-round matches, 1992 champion Andre Agassi plays sixth-seeded Todd Martin in an all-American clash, French Open champion Sergi Bruguera plays No. 10 Michael Chang in a battle of baseliners, and top-seeded defending champion Pete Sampras plays Daniel Vacek, a hard-hitting Czech who has out-aced Sampras during the first three rounds, 63 to 61.

Sampras has tried not to be distracted by the upsets of other top seeds: Courier, Stefan Edberg, Michael Stich and women's three-time champion Steffi Graf.

"I'm more or less concerned about my match, who I'm playing. I can't be worried about what everybody else is doing," Sampras said.

With Graf gone, several of the women's fourth-round matches have taken on special interest. Among them: ninth-seeded Lindsay Davenport vs. Gabriela Sabatini; Martina Navratilova, seeking her 10th title at age 37, vs. Helena Sukova; and second-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, the favorite, vs. strong grass-court player Zina Garrison Jackson.

Forget O.J. - Find your heroes closer to home

Before I mention O.J. Simpson, let me reflect a moment on what it means to have heroes close to home.

Heroes should be the parents who manage to keep families together, brothers and sisters who guarantee there will always be someone to fight with, friends to discuss the new boy or new girl in town with and grandparents to tell you what your mother and father did wrong when they were your age.

But my favorite heroes are the ones you find under the Friday night lights.

Friday nights have really changed, but oh how the game has remained the same!

I remember 1982, traveling to Big Spring one Friday night as a member of the Midland Lee Rebels to face Bobby Earl Williams and the Big Spring Steers. We were about to kill the Steers.

After all, we were the Lee Rebels (feared throughout the land). But someone forgot to tell that to the Steers.

We escaped with an 8-7 victory, but after further review of the game film at the Lee fieldhouse that following Saturday morning, we realized we got away with a gift. Our game-winning two-point conversion should have been ruled a fumble, because the player who scored began his celebration a bit too soon and actually lost control of the ball before he broke the plane.

You can go to any game you want in West Texas during football season because the level of play is so much better than anywhere else. I've seen enough high school football to be able to say that.

The best game I've ever seen was in Barrett Stadium in 1981 when the Lee Rebels led the Permian Panthers 7-6 for most of the game, but with 13 seconds left, Permian's Bobby Knott kicked a 37-yard field goal to defeat the Rebels 9-7.

That's what I call giving the defending state champions a run for their money.

Only in West Texas can you find sports action like that and the support to boot, where the heroes are all of the fans who come out to watch the games, the players who participate and the kids (who can't wait to play the same position that big brother plays for the Steers, the Rebels, the Panthers or the Mustangs).

It is, in today's society, fashionable to be like our greatest sports heroes. Remember the "I want to be like Mike" Gatorade commercials and "You better eat your Wheaties" cereal commercials? Those commercials were pretty good, but a commercial is still only a packaged image of usually 30 to 60 seconds, designed to sell you something.

You know, maybe Andre Agassi is right in his Canon EOS commercials, "Image is Everything." The only thing I don't like about that is that we're getting the wrong images.

In the last decade or so, we have been blown away by some of the activities and events surrounding some of our most beloved heroes. Just to name a few, we had Pete Rose's betting, Mike Tyson's rape conviction, Magic Johnson contracting HIV (but maybe his tragedy is actually doing more good than we know if he continues his AIDS awareness programs), Michael Jordan's gambling, Michael Jackson's alleged child molestation and now O.J. Simpson's double murder charge (for which the death penalty is possible, but not likely considering his status).

Do we always have to imitate people on television or those who make six-, seven- and eight-figure salaries?

It makes sense that we should search for heroes closer to home because we know the territory and it's easier to help if they fall. Most people know O.J. Simpson as a great football player and not as a person. If he's guilty, there is nothing in the world his fans can do to help him.

I wonder if Willie Nelson would consider changing the title of his popular song to, "Mama Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To Be Famous?"
