Big Spring sets record high Monday

The Associated Press

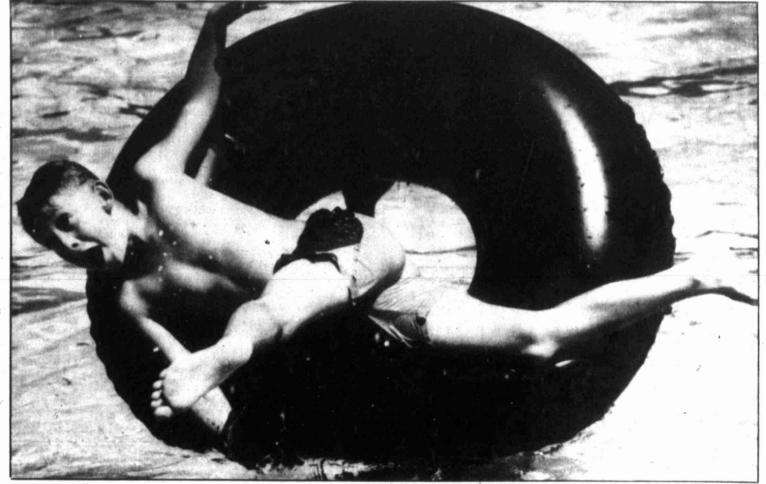

EL PASO — Texas braced for another round of record-breaking temperatures today as a heat wave kept its grip on the state.

Big Spring set an all-time record high on Monday with an official reading of 115 degrees at 4:58 p.m. The record had previously been 112 degrees which was set on June 15, 1924. The highest temperature on June 27 was 111 degrees in 1945.

Charles Yates, the meteorologist for the United States Department of Agriculture Ag Research Service in Big Spring, also said that the temperature on Monday night at 10 p.m. was 98 degrees and the city has seen temperatures above the century mark for four days in a row and it is expected to be above 100 degrees again today.The National Weather Service said temperatures at or above the century mark could be expected around the state for several days. No precipitation was in the forecast.

A heat advisory is in effect through Wednesday for the portion of North Texas west of a line from Bonham to Fairfield and includes the cities Stephenville, Waco, Sherman,

Second blaze destroys Birdwell Lane residence

By KELLIE JONES Staff Writer

A second fire that broke out in a home on South Birdwell has prompted an arson investigation and the state fire marshal's office is being called in to determine the cause of the blaze.

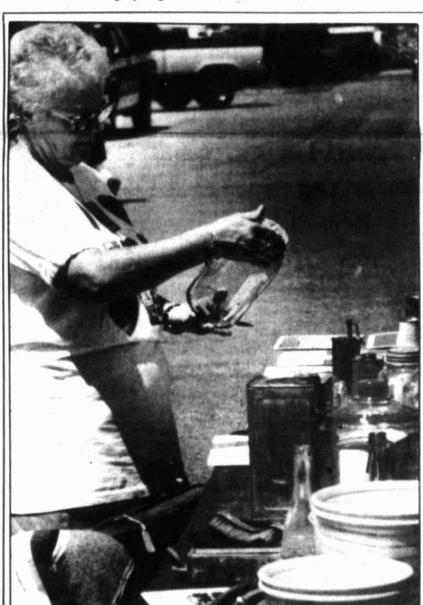

According to reports around 10:15 p.m. Monday, fire units were called to 2800 South Birdwell and when they arrived, the house was completely engulfed in flames. This is the second time within two days that firefighters have been called to battle a blaze at the same address.

"When the city fire units arrived at the scene, they saw that the house was totally engulfed in flames and called for county units to assist them. Three city and five county units battled the blaze for about three hours," said County Fire Marshall C. Roy Wright.

Parts of the first fire were suspicious and so is this one. I talked with City Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles on the scene and we both decided to contact the state fire marshal's office because we don't have all the resources here to investigate this incident," explained Wright.

Wright said that 90 percent of the structure was destroyed and burned to the ground. Only the east part of the property, including the garage, was not "The owner is still out of town and we are wanting to talk with her. We called the state fire marshal's office last night and they should be here to investigate it sometime today. The area has been sealed off pending the investigation," added Wright.

According to Susan Lewis, committee chairperson for the Big Spring screening project and president of the Howard/Glasscock Unit of the ACS, and Duane McBride,fField representative for ACS District 2, women who qualify for the free screenings don't have to be in dire need to have the screenings done.

Screenings will take place at the Texas Department of Health on Lancaster Street and actual mammograms will be done at Methodist Malone and Hogan

According to Lewis, the screening program began a while ago, but miscommunications about information caused a slow down in the screenings, but there are still funds available from the grant to perform about 100 more mammograms.

The screenings at the TDH are to answer a few basic medical questions. Lewis and McBride

Commissioners purchase cellular phones

By CARLTON JOHNSON Staff Writer

County Howard Commissioners, in their regular court meeting on Monday, approved the purchase of cellular telephones for commission-

County Judge Ben Lockhart said the county could purchase the phones, but commissioners will pay their own phone bills. Cellular phones will allow commissioners to stay in better contact with what's going on and allow more access to the public.

William Commissioner Crooker said having cellular phones would be fine with him because they are extremely helpful in emergencies. "I can understand pinching the dollar, but under certain conditions, these phones will be very helpful."

Commissioner Bobby Cathey pointed out regardless of who has the phone number to a cellular phone, the commissioners would still be responsible for their own bills, meaning whether you make a call or receive a call, the airtime is billed to your account.

"We're going to be responsible for all bills when people get hold of the phone numbers. I think that paying your own phone bill will regulate how much you use it," Cathey said.

Scheduled to address the Commissioners' Court was Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard, but he was unable to make the meeting. However, commissioners did look into the possibility of having new air conditioning units put into the request," Crooker said. Sheriff's Office.

Lockhart said, "It's very unpleasant down there if you've ever been there.'

Because of the expense, Lockhart said he will have plumbing and air conditioning people come in as soon as possible to see if anything can be done to fix old units in the court-

The courthouse does get rather warm when the temperature outside rises as it has the last couple of weeks, and Crooker stated it makes sense to at least look at getting present units fixed because four new units for the SO (about one-quarter of the first floor) would run about $6,000 each. "We certainly wouldn't be able to deny anyone else who makes the same

Crooker pointed out that there's the potential for spending close to $100,000 for new air conditioning units in the court-

In other business, commissionapproved authorizing Aguirre Associates, Inc. to draw final plans for the Howard County Library as well as drawing plans for the courthouse and

Plans for the courthouse and jail are still in the developmental stages, according to Lockhart, but the old Bluebonnet Savings building should be available to the county somewhere around December 1. The old Bluebonnet Savings building will be the new home for the Howard County point out that a screening is in no way intended to take the place of regular doctor visits. Even though mammography is a woman's most powerful weapon against breast cancer, routine check-ups and monthly selfexaminations are necessary to insure early breast cancer detection.

"A screening is like a check-up and gives doctors a base to work from," Lewis said. Since 1987, more than 100,000 women have received low-cost mammographic screening during Texas Breast Screening Projects like this one. Lewis also said that this grant the knowledge of breast cancer will spread and help other women," McBride said.

Lewis, McBride stress that if you think your chance of getting breast cancer is one in a million, think again. Fact is, the chances are one in nine. But mammography can help medical personnel detect most breast cancers long before they can be felt and this is when treatment is most success-

The ACS recommends that women have a screening mammogram by age 40; with women age 40-49 having a mammogram every one to two years; and women without symptoms age 50 and over having one once

The ACS is a nationwide community-based voluntary health organization and breast cancer is just one of the many cancers that the ACS fights to prevent and eliminate, but it is still the most common form of cancer among American women, accounting for more than 30 percent of the cancer developed

It is estimated that more than 180,000 women will develop breast cancer this year alone and about 46,000 women, this year, will die because of breast cancer.

The number of deaths due to breast cancer, according to the ACS, could be much lower if more women had mammograms beginning at age 40.

Risk factors for breast cancer include being older than 50, having a personal or family history of breast cancer, never giving birth, and first giving birth after age 30.

Breast cancer is most commonly thought of as a woman's disease, but about 300 men die of breast cancer each year.

Women interested in screening may contact Katie Grimes, Patient Services chairperson of the Howard/Glasscock Unit of the ACS at 263-3613; Lisa Brooks at 267-1465 or Duane McBride at the ACS, District 2, 2304 W. Wadley in Midland or phone 683-6374.

Rattlers take a bite outta crime

PASADENA - A would-be snake thief got more than he bargained for when he and an accomplice tried to steal seven snakes from a pet store, police Officers said the man and a male accomplice went to the C&C Critter Co. pet store Monday afternoon on the pretense of selling two Western diamondback rattlesnakes. Store owner Shawn Cochran said he told them he could not buy or sell venomous snakes because such sales are prohibited While he was talking to the store, the pseudo-salesman grabbed a handful of snakes from a tank in the front.

The man ran to his truck and drove through a trailer park behind the store, apparently unaware there were only two ways out of the park,

A store employee saw the man snatch the serpents and alerted Cochran, who jumped in his van and sped into the other entrance of the trailer park, hoping to cut off the thief.

The owner's vehicle struck the venicie being ariven by the snake snatcher, which overturned.

"He was trying to find an outlet, and as he turned I clipped the back of his truck and flipped it," Cochran said, who was uninnationwide during the 1950s, jured. "He crawled out of his truck, and I saw a rattlesnake crawl out with him."

least three trips to New York, including one with his wife, at the expense of Barnes & Noble.

Margraves said the travel was for legitimate business and posed no conflict of interest because the earliest trip was taken after Barnes & Noble was selected to run the bookstore.

Smith has declined to discuss any expenses Barnes & Nobel may have paid.

Prosecution rests with a bang and a whimper from the defendant

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH — The murder trial of teen-ager Kristi Koslow headed into the defense stage today after prosecutors rested their case with a bang and a whimper.

The bang came Monday with a courtroom video of an interview the defendant gave reporters the day after her father was beaten and slashed and her stepmother slain.

The whimper came from Miss Koslow.

"I don't know what actually happened," she told the media March 13, 1992. "It's scary. It's hard not knowing why someone would do this.' Twelve days later, acting on a tip from an informant, police arrested Miss Koslow and her two purported co-conspirators, Brian Salter and Jeff Dillingham, both 19 at the time.

versial statement in which she admitted soliciting Salter, her boyfriend, and Dillingham to kill Jack and Caren Koslow.

Both signed statements telling how they broke into the Koslows' elegant Rivercrest home and attacked the couple with a metal pry bar and a knife.

A jury previously convicted Dillingham of killing Mrs. Koslow and assessed the death penalty. Salter received a life prison sentence in a plea bargain agreement with prosecu-

During seven turbulent days of testimony, the state called 23 witnesses in an attempt to convince the jury that Miss Koslow ordered her parents killed before her 18th birthday so she would inherit a perceived multimillion-dollar fortune.

LAPD ends its labor dispute

LOS ANGELES (AP) - City police officers have overwhelmingly approved a new contract, ending a bitter two-year labor

The contract would give officers a 7 percent raise over two years and a $1,500 equipment bonus. Patrol officers would also receive a 2 percent bonus.

The contract was ratified by a vote of 3,155-317, said Danny L. Staggs, president of the Police Protective League. Police voted last week and the ballots were counted on Monday.

Colorful Mover's Guide available at Post Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bit of the fuss and bother of moving to a new home may be eased by a just-released Mover's Guide, available at post offices.

The colorful guide contains the U.S. Postal Service's official change of address form, four new-address postcards to send to publishers, businesses or others and some helpful hints about

In addition, discount coupons worth $60 are included for products and services from such companies as Ryder trucks, MCI, Kmart, Current checks and labels and SC Johnson Wax cleaning products.

Test marketed in 10 cities last summer, the booklets "went like hot cakes," said post office spokeswoman Sandra Harding.

Now 21 million copies of the booklet have been printed and shipped to the nation's nearly 40,000 post offices — at no cost to the Postal Service.

Harding said the booklets could save the agency as much as $1 million in printing costs for the change of address forms and new address cards.

Targeted Marketing Solutions Inc., of New York produced the booklets, selling the advertising and arranging to have the material printed and provided to the Starting in 1993, M&M International electronically deposited drug profits in banks around the world for a network of drug money brokers, according to federal indictments handed down last week in Atlanta.

Whitewater hearings

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - House hearings on the Whitewater affair are scheduled to start July 26, focusing initially on the removal of files from a White House lawyer's office soon after his death.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, chairman of the House Banking Committee, announced Monday that special counsel Robert B. Fiske Jr., top aides to President Clinton and federal banking regulators were invited to testify.

After the opening hearing on removal of files from the office of Vincent Foster, the inquiry will shift to contacts between administration officials and federal banking regulators.

White House counsel Lloyd N. Cutler quickly pledged administration cooperation, saying in a statement: "As the president has previously announced, the White House will cooperate fully with the responsible congressional committees."

The Senate will begin similar hearings no later than July 29. Senate Republicans have tried to broaden the subject matter, to include aspects of Clinton's forinvestment in the Whitewater land development in Arkansas.

But Democrats have insisted on a narrow focus - Foster's death, the handling of his documents and the administrationregulator contracts — to avoid interfering with Fiske's criminal Gonzalez, D-Texas, said he invited Fiske to the initial hearing to report on the 'Washington phase' of his investigation.

This phase has covered the propriety of the White Houseregulator contacts; circumstances of the death of Foster, the deputy White House counsel who handled some Whitewater matters for the president; and removal of Whitewater papers from Foster's office by White House officials.

Gonzalez said previously that he does not want to focus on the circumstances of Foster's death. which authorities ruled a suicide by gunshot.

While there have been questions about whether Foster took his own life, Gonzalez has discouraged hearings on that subject to avoid tormenting Foster's family any further. However, Fiske can report on his examination of the suicide ruling.

Haiti remains under strengthened international economic sanctions for the refusal of top military leaders to step down. The recent interception of more than 1,300 Haitian boat people has seriously strained the U.S.'s ability to handle the situation.

Interception of 1,330 Haitians taxes U.S.'s handling capabilities

The Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti -The interception of 1,330 Haitians on the high seas has stunned U.S. officials and taxed America's ability to handle the refugees.

The Haitians picked up Monday, combined with 786 Haitians apprehended over the weekend, nearly equal the 2,239 intercepted in all of

The surge, which is expected to continue, could dramatically increase pressure on the Clinton administration to quickly resolve Haiti's festering political crisis.

U.S. Coast Guard officials, who stationed about 15 cutters and patrol craft off Haiti after the new policy was announced, hinted the new Clinton policy caused the refugee tide.

The policy, which took effect June 16, allows boat people a hearing aboard a U.S. vessel to see if they are fleeing persecution from Haiti's military installed government and may deserve asylum.

Refugee advocates say there is no reason for Haitians, suffering repression and economic devastation since a 1991 coup ousted elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, to

"People are just totally discouraged. They just don't see any future," he said. "They have no jobs, the cost of living is killing them, and they're living in an absolute prison."

U.S.-led economic sanctions, aimed at restoring Aristide to power, have banned air traffic and most financial dealings with America. The administration is also poised to revoke U.S. visas of all Haitians in Haiti.

Koreas agree to historic summit

The Associated Press

PANMUNJOM, Korea - North and South Korean officials compromised after hours of haggling today and agreed to hold the first summit between their

The summit, which would bring the nations' two leaders together for the first time, could help reduce a half-century of enmity and settle tensions over the North's suspected nuclear weapons program.

Negotiators agreed to hold a first summit meeting July 25-27 in the North Korean capital followed by a second meeting in the South Korean capital at a later date to be decided during the first meeting, officials said.

Unification Ministry spokeman Kim Hyong-ki said the two sides expected to sign a formal agreement on the arrangements later today.

Kim said officials from the two countries would meet July 1 to arrange the agenda. South Korean officials have said they hope North Korea's nuclear program will be at the top of the agenda, but North Korea has insisted the nuclear issue can only be resolved in direct talks with the United States.

The summit and the reopening of U.S.-North Korea talks, suspended since last year, were brokered by former President Carter during a visit to the two Koreas earlier this month.

The U.S.-North Korea talks are due to restart July 8 in Geneva. White House press secretary Dee Dee Myers said Monday the talks "will continue as long as they're productive.'

The Clinton administration has said it will improve diplomatic relations if North Korea cooperates in resolving concerns over its nuclear program.

North Korea claims its nuclear program is peaceful but has so far refused full inspections as required under the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty.

The agreement today followed eight hours of haggling behind closed doors here at Panmunjom, a border village inside the Demilitarized Zone that separates the two Koreas.

Lawyers want access to Simpson evidence

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Defense attorneys and prosecutors are asking a judge for access to evidence that could either link O.J. Simpson to a bloody crime scene or help exonerate him.

Simpson, 46, has pleaded innocent to murdering his ex-wife and her friend, Ronald Goldman. Their stabbed and slashed bodies were found outside Nicole Brown Simpson's condominium on June 12. Simpson has been jailed without bail since June 17.

On Monday, Ms. Simpson's father disputed a coroner's report that said she was on the phone at 11 p.m. the night she was killed. A defense lawyer had said the timing of the call bolstered Simpson's alibi.

A judge scheduled a hearing today to decide whether to give defense lawyers access to blood samples and other evidence, and whether prosecutors can take a sample of Simpson's hair. Simpson was to attend the hearing.

Prosecutors say they found a knit cap at the crime scene that contained black, curly hairs of "African-American origin."

Simpson's lead attorney, Robert L. Shapiro, wants access to blood samples, Simpson's white Ford Bronco, a ski cap or mask found near the victims, and gloves found at the crime scene and at Simpson's Brentwood estate. Prosecutors said last week that there was no . ski mask.

'So, now you begin to have a problem saying that he was at the scene or could have been. That is the defense: He was elsewhere.

Shapiro's motion indicated that the defense could turn the preliminary hearing, which is scheduled to start Thursday. into a mini-trial. Shapiro said nearly every witness likely to testify at the trial might be called at the preliminary hearing.

The preliminary hearing normally is a brief proceeding in which the prosecution presents a bare-bones version of its case to justify a trial.

Simpson's defense has sought to bolster his image in the media and cast doubt on the police investigation, citing a coroner's report that said Ms. Simpson talked to her mother on the telephone at about 11 p.m. on June

Shapiro has said Simpson was home waiting for a limousine ride to the airport at 11 p.m.

Cancer can't steal child's spunk

Naomi Collins, 8, was first diagnosed with cancer almost two years ago. She thought she had beaten it, but the disease returned in April. Doctors hope another year of chemotherapy will cure her.

By JANET AUSBURY Features Editor

As the temperatures rise, 8year-old Naomi Collins won't be joining her friends in the pool.

Neither will she spend the night at their houses, or go on trips with them. Her cancer chemotherapy keeps her pretty close to home these days.

Naomi is thin but otherwise healthy looking. Far from being a weak invalid, she is spirited and active. She helps her mother. Donna Creamer, look after 6month-old brother Samuel.

She engages in forceful if childlike debate with 4-year-old sister Anastasia Collins. When told by her mother to quit aggravating her sister, Naomi replies, "Why? Sisters are supposed to aggravate each other.

Two years of periodic illness and treatment have not sapped Naomi's energy. In September 1992, a stomachache and lump in her abdomen sent her to the emergency room at Scenic Mountain Medical Center just a few days after the family moved from Ohio.

"At first we thought maybe something was wrong with her pancreas or spleen from drinking the water here," said Creamer. It turned out to be much more serious. Naomi's entire left kidney was removed as a result of the cancer called Wilm's tumor.

Naomi was taken to the hospital in Lubbock again, as she had when she first became ill, and more fluid was removed from her lungs the next day. Biopsy results showed the presence of cancer cells.

Now Naomi is undergoing more chemotherapy and will soon return to Lubbock for intensive five-day sessions. The shots and catheterizations don't bother her as much as they do some children.

"It's no big deal. They put the needle in, I watch. When they take it out, I watch," she said, widening her eyes and pulling her hand from her arm in imitation of a needle.

Naomi's white and red blood cell counts must be watched to monitor her health and know when she is physically ready for chemotherapy. The chemo and illness has made her prone to more colds and flus.

Having a chemo catheter in Naomi had chemotherapy for her body also restricts her activities. She cannot swim or spend the night with friends. This year, she will probably not be able to spend the summer with her father as she has done in the

What bothers her the most about being sick and having chemo? "Losing my hair," she says, "even the hair on my skin."

Most of the children at Coahoma Elementary School, where she has most recently attended, have been understanding about her illness.

Bills for medical treatment are piling up on the Creamers. Insurance does not cover all the costs, and long-distance phone calls to Midland, Lubbock and other places where Naomi has been treated all add up.

Creamer has started the Naomi Collins Medical Fund at First National Bank. Any money the family has left over after Naomi's treatment will either go to Candle Lighters or will be saved for any future treatment Naomi might need as a result of the cancer or chemo.

Doctors are optimistic that a year of chemo will destroy Naomi's cancer. The treatment leaves her fatigued, but she is determined to attend the first day of school this year.

And after the cancer is gone and the bills are somewhere close to being paid, what does Naomi want to do? "Have a party," she says.

HOUSTON — Second chances are a rarity in baseball, and Craig Biggio knows it.

So when the Astros second baseman got his second chance, he made the most of it Monday night, stroking a game-winning double that drove in Kevin Bass in the 11th inning for a 7-6 Houston victory over Cincinnati in front of 21,197 at the Astrodome.

The victory pulled the Astros within 2 1/2 games of the Central Division-leading Reds.

The Astros led 6-2 entering the ninth inning, but saw the Reds rally for a tie on 2-run homers by Hal Morris and Eddie econd homer of the against his former team.

In the bottom of the ninth, Biggio came up with Mike Felder on third and only one out. Felder was pinch-running for Sid Bream, who had hit a pinch-hit double to right field.

But Biggio, who is hitting .299, lined out to shortstop and Ken Caminiti later grounded out, sending the game into extra

In the 11th, Biggio got his chance again. Bass hit a single and moved to second on a passed ball by Taubensee. This time, Biggio doubled to win the

"It's nice to get a second chance and be able to come through," Biggio said. "You don't get those often. I was looking for a fastball, but I got a breaking ball over the plate.

"Every run is important when Taubensee. It was Taubensee's you play these guys. This win is a big lift for us.

Indeed. The Astros had lost two straight and six of their last 10. After leading the division two weeks ago, they were 3> games behind when the hot Reds came to town

'It's a big, big win for us,' manager Terry Collins said. "It was tough to lose the lead like that tonight. But at least we didn't give up.

The Astros knew the Reds are one of the best rallying teams in baseball. Cincinnati had come from behind to win 22 times this year, so few people relaxed when Houston took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Caminiti's RBI single, Luis Gonzalez's RBI double and James Mouton's RBI sin-

"I don't know if you noticed," Bass said, "but when we got that big lead on them, they weren't even blinking.'

Reds Manager Davey Johnson was blinking in the top of the 11th when he saw Jacob Brumfield trying to steal third with one out. Brumfield was gunned down by catcher Tony Eusebio, severely damaging the Reds' scoring threat.

"You've got to give us credit, we battled back," Johnson said. 'And then we make that baserunning error.

"He was just running on his own. He hasn't played much lately and I guess he just got a little overanxious. It was a mental mistake. I know he hasn't been out there much, but you've got to remember when you're not supposed to run. We deserve to lose the game when we make a mistake like that."

Collins called it "the play of the game for us. Eusebio made a great throw to get him out."

The other key setback for the Reds' was Taubensee's passed ball in the 11th. It overshadowed an otherwise strong game by Taubensee, who played for Houston the past two seasons before being traded in April.

Chadwick recalls days at Howard

By STEVE REAGAN Sportswriter

Royce Chadwick said the main thing he wanted to do when he took the Howard College women's basketball coaching position was to win. That he did - in spades.

Five years and 148 wins later. Chadwick is saying goodbye to the Lady Hawks' program he took from mediocrity and molded into a three-time defending Western Junior College Athletic Conference champion. Along the way, the team won two Region V titles and made two appearances at the national junior college women's tournament.

Chadwick, who was given a farewell reception by the college Monday, also picked up some impressive hardware during his tenure at Howard, being named the WJCAC Coach of the Year the past four years running as well as winning various national coaching awards.

That kind of success catches the eyes of other schools, and when perennial women's NCAA Division I power Stephen F. Austin came calling, they made Chadwick an offer he couldn't

Aside from the obvious incentive of seeing his salary doubled, Chadwick will be the beneliciary of income from basketshows. Add to that the intangibles that come from coaching a major-college power, and it's easy to see why he took the job. He insists, however, that this is a very difficult goodbye for him to make.

"It was probably - no, not probably - it was the best five years of my coaching career," Chadwick said. "We had the one of the most electric in my support of the community; the life ... You coach your entire life support of the administration, for moments like that." and we were able to bring in Coach Chadwick has been able to take the basketball program to a higher level," she said. "He has expected quality in all aspects of the program."

Chadwick's approach began paying dividends almost immediately. In his first year at the helm, Howard posted 14 more wins than the Lady Hawks managed the previous season.

And the wins kept coming. Howard posted an identical 27 5 record the next season, then began reeling in the WJCAC

The first came in 1992 when the Lady Hawks had a 26-6 record. The next year was probably the best for Chadwick and Howard as the team went through the regular season undefeated and ranked No. 1 in the nation. It won the school's first Region V crown in 12 years, and finished seventh at the national tournament.

In what proved to be Chadwick's swan song at Howard, the 1993-94 Lady Hawks won their third straight conference and second consecutive regional titles, and capped the season with a sixth-place finish at nationals

All in all, Chadwick said, it was a heck of a ride.

The dormant nature of the women's program at Howard was evident in Chadwick's home debut.

"Our first game was against Ranger here in 1989," he recalled, "and there was about 60 people in the stands. I looked out there, shook my head, and said, 'Man ...,' and of those 60, they absolutely ball camps and TV and radio refused to open their mouths."

Apparently, however, winning cures everything, including lack of attendance. Fast forward five

"Probably the highlight was the Grayson game (in this year's Region V final in Garrett Coliseum)," he said. "There was about 2,000 or so people in the stands. The Grayson night was occasionally loaded reporters' notebooks with quotes he wanted readers to hear; not what the readers wanted to hear. Pens scribbled and mouths smiled as Chadwick spouted his latest treasure trove of humorous quotes. A reporter could be too busy laughing, or scribbling Chadwick's every word, to ask the questions that needed to be asked, like "Why did you decide to do that in the final two minutes," or "Why didn't you use a timeout at the end?"

You don't question a guy you like. Heck, if you didn't work for the local newspaper, you'd buy him a beer.

Chadwick is moving to Nacogdoches, where he'll be coaching the Stephen F. Austin State University Ladyjacks, a perennial powerhouse in NCAA Division I women's basketball. You wonder in the back of your mind just how much Chadwick Howard's athletic director, is really going to miss Big Spring.

Come on! The man will be making more than double the money he took in at Howard, and he's moving from junior college ball to NCAA Division I. He won't need to buy any more clip-on ties, that's for sure

Despite this, Chadwick has said over and over how much he'll miss Big Spring, and how the last five years of his life have been the best.

You can't help but believe him, but be sure to straighten him out on one small detail:

He won't miss Big Spring nearly as much as Howard College will miss him.

Martina moves to quarters; Agassi sent packing

By The Associated Press

WIMBLEDON, England -Martina Navratilova has stopped thinking of this as her last Wimbledon. The way she's playing, it could be her first.

"I've gotten much more into the tournament, and nerves are not going to play a part in the rest of the tournament," Navratilova said after overwhelming Helena Sukova 6-1, 6-2 Monday to reach the quarterfinals. "I think that was a danger in the first couple of rounds. Not any more."

Navratilova, 37, has gotten stronger with each match as she pursues a 10th singles title in her 22nd and final appearance at her favorite tournament. She has reached the Wimbledon quarterfinals for the 20th consecutive year.

The fourth-seeded Navratilova — who hasn't lost a set so far - was expected to face a tougher challenge today when she took on No. 5 Jana Novotna, the grass-court expert who beat her in the semifinals last year.

The other quarterfinals paired No. 3 Conchita Martinez of Spain vs. No. 9 Lindsay Davenport, Lori McNeil vs. Larisa Neiland of Latvia, and Zina Garrison Jackson vs. Gigi Fernandez.

Garrison Jackson, runner-up at Wimbledon in 1990, pulled off Monday's major upset by beating second-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario 7-5, 4-6, 6-3. She said she was inspired by the success of fellow Houston native McNeil, who ousted topseeded Steffi Graf in the first round last week and beat Florencia Labat in two tiebreakers Monday.

The men's quarterfinals are set for Wednesday: Pete Sampras vs. Michael Chang, Todd Martin vs. Wayne Ferreira and Goran Ivanisevic vs. Guy Forget.

The biggest name to be ousted Monday was Andre Agassi, the 1992 champion who was beaten by Martin in five sets. Agassi lost the first two sets, came back strongly to win the next two, but Martin dominated the final set 6-1.

Bulls and Donyell Marshall of the University of Connecticut — are representing the NBA players in seeking to immediately bar all NBA teams from signing players until the case is decided in an expedited trial before the start of next season. Wilkins, Manning and Grant, unrestricted free agents as of July 1, 1994, submitted papers to the court explaining how the salary cap would severely restrict their opportunities to play for the team of their choice and prevent them from earning their true market value. "Only the players are deprived of such basic freedoms as the ability to choose your employer or negotiate for your true market value," Grantham said. "It is our intention in this lawsuit to end this injustice before another NBA game is played." The NBA contends that it is currently negotiating toward a new agreement, and that this suit is in response to the one filed by the league last week

"This is no surprise," NBA deputy commissioner Russ Granik said. "Basically, this is a counterclaim to our suit. As we said last week, litigation unfortunately is part of bargaining in sports. The Players Association has been threatening this for months. The league is hoping a judge will rule as in 1987, when it was found that the terms of the previous agreement are effective as long as there is a reasonable belief negotiations will continue.

Grantham noted things have changed since 1983, when the current salary cap and revenuesharing system began. "The commissioner (David Stern) admits that the salary cap is an effort to fix labor costs, Grantham said. "Not only is this practice long since found illegal,

Texas Utilities Electric Company (TU Electric), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA), publishes NOTICE of its Statement of Intent to implement the following four proposed tariffs throughout its service territories: 1) Rider ED - Economic Development Service;

2) Rate GC - General Service Competitive Pricing; 3) Rate WPC - Wholesale Power Competitive Pricing; and 4) Rider ET - Environmental Technology Service.

The only customers that will be affected by the proposed tariffs will be those customers eligible for service under TU Electric's General Service Rates GS, GP, and HV or its Wholesale Power Rate WP that voluntarily request one of the new services and that qualify for the service under the terms of the proposed tariff. This is not a "major change" in rates within the meaning of the PURA since the charges under the proposed tariffs are less than the charges that would otherwise be applicable under TU Electric's pertinent existing tariffs. The proposed effective date of the proposed tariffs is July 11, 1994, or as soon thereafter as permitted by law. A complete copy of the proposed tariffs and TU Electric's application is on file with the Commission and at each of TU Electric's business offices.

Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is 45 days after the date the application was filed with the Commission. The application was filed with the Commission on June 6, 1994.
