Head Start requesting $2 million loan TexMex

Nearly 193,000 children, between the ages of three and four years old, are considered to be living in poverty in Texas.

The Southern Regional Education Board recently published a report on statistics gathered in 1993. Of those 192,700 children, 25 percent are enrolled in a Head Start program across the state.

The Greater Opportunities of the Permian Basin Inc. is requesting $2,626,148 from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to continue the Head Start programs in Howard and Ector counties.

"The Lakeview Center has been open for about seven years and this is considered a continuation fund so we have to apply for the money every year," explained Head Start Assistant Director Richard Smith.

"The primary objective of Head Start is to insure that no young child shall lack the environmental stimulation and opportunity to fulfill the full range of his or her developmental capabilities. Additionally, this project intends to increase awareness among parents of available services and involve them in basic education opportunities in the area," said Smith.

programs. The planning commission does not take action on any items but rather decides whether or not to support an ment" to support the Head Start organization's attempts to

"This is set up for children ages three to six but primarily we'see kids that are three and four at Head Start. Between the two counties, we employ 134 people and 258 children are enrolled," noted Smith.

"This is an all day program full of activities to help children with their fine and gross motor skills. They are involved in cutting, identifying shapes, singing songs, playing games, arts and crafts and playing on the playground equipment.

"We serve two meals a day and two snacks. This is for children who's parents are considered low-income. We have income guidelines that are based on the family size and income. If they meet these criteria, their child can attend Head Start for free. I believe Head Start meets or exceeds any paid program that is out there," added Smith.

Officials say they should know by the end of August whether or not they will receive the money to continue the program but Smith does not anticipate any problems.

The program is nine months long and parallels the public school's calendar for holidays, bad weather days and teacher in-service days.

DALLAS (AP) - Frank Murphy's favorite eating place is a Mexican restaurant on Dallas' north side, and it didn't shake him up too much to hear that somebody was saying Mexican food was bad for

"I ate here last night, too. And I did it Saturday night. I'm endeavoring to enjoy life. I hate fat-free food. It doesn't taste good," the 35-year-old Murphy said outside On The Border in suburban Addison.

Earlier Monday, a consumer group held a news conference in Washington, D.C., to warn that most Mexican dishes in restaurants will saddle you with up to a full day's worth of fat and sodium, and more than 1,000 calories.

Will that stop Murphy from returning soon for more Mexican food?

"Of course not," he said. Neither Rick Busch, 23, nor Nancy Swenson, 23, had heard the warning about the high fat and sodium content of Mexican food, which was aired prominently on the evening news in Dallas Monday night, but they weren't surprised.

'We're both chiropractic students, so we're very much into health foods, and what we had tonight, I wouldn't say was nutritional, but you've got to live a little," Ms. Swenson said with a smile.

"We knew we did wrong. We sinned, OK?"

The Mexican food warning came from the same group that previously attacked the fat in movie popcorn and in Italian and Chinese meals.

"Oh, yes, popcorn's bad for you. So they started making it in those hot air popcorn makers, but nobody ever ate any of that stuff. Without salt on it, it wasn't any good," Busch said.

"We both work out and we check out the biochemical ramifications of everything, believe me. But it (Mexican food) is fun to do every once in a while. It's addictive, I think. I do it about once a week," he said. His friend interrupted.

"You've got to balance out with good nutrition. I'm more into organic foods than Mexican, but I've got a sweet tooth for Mexican food," Miss Swenson said.

"And the margaritas," added Busch, who knows her well.

She smiled.

"Oh, yes, and the margaritas. They have the best margaritas in town here," she

But most diners, she said, 'just come in and have dinner and drinks. They don't seem to think about it. If you really want Mexican food, you've got to have fat."

Moore board tables rent request

Officials wait for Serbs' response to peace plan

Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - The United States, Russia and Europe waited today to see if Bosnian Serbs accept or reject a peace plan that requires them to surrender about a third of the land they have captured.

Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic suggested this morning that the Serb assembly may conditionally approve the plan. Bosnia's Muslim-dominated parliament endorsed the plan Monday. Serb rejection would likely escalate Bosnia's civil war and force NATO and the United States to become more deeply involved in the region.

The Bosnian Serb assembly debated the plan, which requires them to give up 13 important towns and key communications links, for 10 hours Monday before breaking off without a vote. Debate resumed this morning behind closed doors.

Deputies arriving for today's session in Pale, a Serb stronghold east of Sarajevo, refused to talk to reporters. Karadzic said only, "Nothing has been decided

But the Bosnian Serb Srna news agency later quoted Karadzic as saying "The plan will most probably be accepted, with some conditions.'

Sources close to the Bosnian Serb leadership said those conditions include modification of maps to provide for Serb access to the sea and give Serbs control of part of Sarajevo.

the Serbs apparently also want a constitutional arrangement that would give them virtual autonomy in Bosnia and firm guarantees that United Nations sanctions against Bosnia will be lifted.

But Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic is urging the 83-member Bosnian Serb assembly to reject the plan, despite appeals to accept it from Slobodan Milosevic, president of neighboring Serbia.

Milosevic long supported the Bosnian Serbs' fight but now wants the United Nations to lift sanctions on Serb-dominated Yugoslavia. ,

The plan's authors — the United States, Russia and Europe — want a clear "yes" or "no" on the plan from both sides by today, when their representatives meet in Geneva, and it was not clear what their reaction to conditional Serb acceptance would be. They have said they would accept changes in the plan only if all sides

If the Serbs reject the proposal, the United States and its allies have threatened to lift an arms embargo against the Muslims and tighten sanctions on neighboring Serbia for fomenting the war.

Defense Secretary U.S. William Perry said Sunday the United States and other NATO nations may have to plan a greater military role if war flares anew. The Clinton administration has said it is willing to commit thousands of troops to enforce the peace plan.

The Bosnian civil war erupted in April 1992 after Muslims and Croats voted 1992 to secede from Yugoslavia, Serb-dominated sparking a rebellion by Bosnia's Serbs who make up about onethird of the population. About 200,000 people are dead or missing in the fighting.

Serbs have won control of 70 percent of Bosnian territory. The peace plan would leave them with 49 percent and a Muslim-Croat federation with 51 percent.

Only 17 of 160 deputies in the Muslim-dominated Bosnian parliament voted against the plan Monday, which is also supported by the government's Croat

WHO'S THE SUIT?

Four-month-old Ryan Mellinger appears perplexed as he is held by Texas Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush during the grand opening of Bush's Dallas campaign headquarters Monday.

Study: Monday most likely day for heart attacks

DALLAS (AP) - If you thought Mondays couldn't get any worse, consider this: a researcher has determined that working people are more likely to have a heart attack on Monday morning than any other day of the week.

Results of the study, led by Dr. Stefan Willich at the Free University in Berlin, were reported in the July issue of Circulation, an American Heart Association scientific journal.

"Assuming that Monday is usually a day of more stress for more people, we may expect a higher occurrence - a higher risk - of heart attacks," Willich said Monday.

Willich, a visiting assistant professor Harvard University, said the researchers analyzed 2,636 heart attack victims in Augsburg, a midsized city in Germany. The victims, 75 percent of them men, were hospitalized between 1985 and

Among the working population, heart attacks occurred 33 percent more often on Mondays than on other days of the week. The occurrences were evenly distributed throughout the rest of the week, with a slight dip on Sundays.

Among non-working people, no day stood out as high risk, Willich said.

Previous studies have shown that heart attacks are more likely to occur in the morning.

Willich said he would like to study another culture in which the workday begins on a different day of the week to compare results. In the meantime, he said his findings are merely an "interesting phenomenon."

Dr. Gary Weingarden, a cardiologist who practices in Richardson and Plano, said the study's conclusion is "potentially valid," but he considers it only a minor factor in predicting heart attacks.

Stress, affected by a person's moods and thoughts, can cause changes in hormones and adrenalin levels. That, in turn. can affect blood clotting, cause spasms of the coronary arteries and increase blood pressure all factors in causing heart attacks, Weingarden said.

"It's not a huge leap of faith to see perhaps Monday morning would be higher than any other morning because of stress," he

Dr. Redford Williams, director of behavioral medicine research at Duke University, agreed that Willich's theory appeared

You could take Monday mornings off, "but you may just be postponing it," Williams joked.

Public Citizen, Texas Citizen Action and the Environmental Defense Fund's call for action comes as a special committee created by the Legislature is looking at utility regulation.

The consumer and environmental groups want changes in the law they say would favor less-polluting energy sources and a 50 percent pollution cut by the companies.

Utility company representatives said they care about the environment and already meet or exceed state and federal emissions laws. "We are continually looking for any way we can to make the air and water as clean as possible in our operations. We believe we have done that," said TU Electric Co. spokeswoman Joan Hunter

She said TU Electric has an "outstanding" environmental record. Three of its lignite coalfired plants rank No. 1, 2 and 4 on the emissions list because they are so large, she said. Those plants are in Titus, Rusk and Freestone counties.

TU Electric, with 2.5 million customers, was the secondlargest electricity generator in the state last year and in recent years has been the biggest, she said. "We ... meet all and exceed many environmental standards," Ms. Hunter said.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Link sought in man's death

FORT WORTH (AP) Authorities are attempting to determine if the gunshot wound a Fort Worth man suffered in a 1992 crime spree contributed to his death.

Tommy C. Garnett, 39, who had suffered frequent seizures after the shooting, was found dead early Friday morning by his wife, Lora, police said.

Garnett was heading to work at a convenience store on July 20, 1992, when he was shot in the head as three men tried to rob him while he sat in his car at an intersection.

He was the first victim among five people, including American Airlines flight attendant Kelly Davis, attacked and robbed by the three men during their crime spree in Fort Worth and Arlington.

All three attackers have been sentenced to long prison terms for assault and robbery, but police may file an additional homicide charge depending on the ruling of the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's

Ms. Harris told police investigators that she stabbed Ms. Leaks at Ms. Leaks' home after

Yorktown man cleared of charges

CUREO, Texas (AP) - Assault charges filed against a laundromat owner accused of being too rough with two boys he caught stealing from him have been dropped.

Yorktown Laundromat owner Jerry Pierce, who was jailed briefly after being arrested last month, says he believes the system owes him more than legal exoneration.

"I was the only one who didn't do anything wrong and I went to jail. I think I deserve an apology," Pierce told The Victoria Advocate Monday.

DeWitt County Attorney Bill Natho, who was harshly criticized by several Yorktown residents in the wake of news accounts of the case, said the county didn't have enough evidence to convict Pierce and added that all the publicity would have made it tough to find 12 impartial jurors.

The prosecutor said he only was doing his job when he ordered Pierce's arrest, basing his decision on evidence that the boys had been bruised when Pierce apprehended them.

Hutchison touts NAFTA in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) Don't expect Sen Kay Bailey Hutchison to take sides in a brewing state highway war.

On Monday she said Texas should have at least two interstate highways to Mexico — an updated I-35 and a new I-69.

'I don't think we have to take one or the other. I think we need to have both. I think it's important that we have them both," Hutchison said.

She's also in favor of more bridges at the Mexican border to handle the anticipated commerce generated by the North American Free

Agreement "To have two very strong highways out of Texas, out of Mexico, is going to be good for all of Texas," Hutchison said while taking a tour of the Port of Houston, which also expects

Slab damage coverage changed to cash in on NAFTA.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Office of Public Insurance Counsel says consumers have suffered a setback in their insurance coverage of water damage to foundations and slabs in homes more than 10 years old.

Under a legislative mandate carried out on Monday by Texas Insurance Commissioner J. Robert Hunter, coverage for slab damage from broken water pipes in houses more than 10 years old will be offered to consumers only by insurance companies that choose to provide it.

The change, due to go into effect later this year, was applauded by insurance companies that said slab damage from broken water pipes is a costly claim that has driven up consumer rates

Consumer groups criticized the change as an erosion of homeowners' protection, particularly to residents of the Corpus Christi area, where slab damage is an epidemic.

Time to get Whitewater over

The Whitewater hearings are scheduled to begin next week. Hopefully what will come out of these hearings is a clue as to what went on and if there were any wrongdoings on behalf of President Bill Clinton and First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton.

More than likely, more mud will be stirred up, obscuring the facts of the matter. We only have to remember the Iran-Contra hearings and the confirmation hearings of Clarence Thomas to understand the fallibility of Congressional hearings and the lack of truth arrived at.

It is good, though, the hearings are about to begin. It will be good for the Clintons, guilty or not, to start the process of getting this behind

It is good for this country, also, to get this behind it. Too much time is spent on such items, that running the country seems to have been forgotten on Capital Hill, mired in the morass of scandal.

America's future is at stake. She is a hurting country - too many homeless, too many unemployed, too many abusers and abused, too much violence.

That cannot be forgotten as the witch hunt continues.

original decision explaining why he was ordering Richard from his adoptive home and given to the biological father he has never seen.

In that original decision, Justice Heiple cited no case law to justify why Richard must be taken from his home. In reference to himself in last week's decision, though, the justice actually quoted captions that appeared beneath his photo in the newspaper; he cited dates and page numbers of photo captions he did not

And where, in his decision, was his concern for the child? Heiple wrote that, for Richard, "it is to be expected that there would be an initial shock (when the court removes him from his adoptive home), even a longing for a time in the absence of the persons whom he had viewed as parents. ... It will work itself out in the fullness of time." For the photo captions he cited the page numbers; for his certainty that Richard will not truly suffer, he cited nothing at all.

He wrote of the "journalistic terrorism" that so upset him. If the justice wishes to write about terror, perhaps he should consider what might go on in a little boy's heart on the day he is handed over to people he has never seen before.

If Heiple and the other four justices who refused to grant a new hearing to Richard – Michael A. Bilandic, Charles E. Freeman, Moses W. Harrison II and John L. Nickels — are so utterly confident that there is no need to listen to new plead ings on the boy's behalf, then they ought to have the courage to show up on the day he is handed over, and to witness what they have done. Justices Heiple, Bilandic, Freeman, Harrison and Nickels ought to try to find the guts to look into that little boy's eyes as he is taken away from his home, and to tell him why what they have done to him is fair.

Gov. Edgar said from his hospital room, where he was recovering from coronary bypass surgery: "This is a dark day for justice and human decency in Illinois. The highest court in this state has committed a travesty.

"This is not just another lawsuit, as Justice Heiple smugly suggests. It is not about the rights of street thugs. ... It is about a young boy whom the court has decreed should be brutally, tragically torn away from the only parents he has ever known — (who) loved and nurtured him from the second he joined their family. ...

"Frankly, I cannot imagine how the justices who prevailed in this case will be able to sleep at night. This young child should have found a champion — a protector — in the highest court of this state. Instead, he found justices who betrayed their obligations to him and to the people who placed them in their lofty positions."

A court cannot command the citizens of a state to trust it and count on it for justice; a court cannot order the citizens to hold it in high regard. Respect must be earned, not demanded. Justice Heiple, like any person, is entitled to say anything he chooses, to call anyone any names he wishes.

The rest of us, though, must not let our attention shift from where it ought to be: that little boy. A Supreme Court justice, no matter how powerful he may be, cannot hold an entire state in contempt of court.

Argentine president condemns building bombers as 'beasts'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina are bodies." A few yards away (AP) — A seven-story building housing two Jewish groups was destroyed by an explosion Monday, killing at least 17 people in what Argentina's president called an attack by "beasts and savages.'

Dozens were injured in the 9:55 a.m. blast and rescue workers believed perhaps dozens more were trapped beneath the rubble. Jewish groups said more than 40 people survived. About 100 worked in the build-blood, received several stitches for cuts on his face and scalp. He said a police car was parked in front of the building at the time of the blast. "If the police were in that car, they didn't make it out alive," Wohda said.

President Carlos Menem said the attack was planned "from abroad and helped by people here." He called the perpetrators "beasts, savages."

In March 1992, a bomb destroyed the downtown Israeli Embassy, killing at least 28 people and injuring more than 220. Responsibility for that blast was never determined.

Israel blamed Muslim fundamentalists for the bombing, and Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres indicated he believed Monday's explosion also was the work of Muslim extremists.

"We know who the strings lead to," Peres told Israeli television Monday. "We will have to make a supreme effort to catch these terrible people." He said Israel had sent a relief team to Argentina.

Menem said Israeli security and intelligence agencies were working with Argentine authorities to determine the cause of the explosion. As part of the investigation, Menem ordered Argentina's borders closed.

Rescue workers climbed the pile of rubble, all that remained of the building housing the Argentine Associations, the country's principal Jewish community group, and the Argentine Israelite Mutual Association, a social aid organization.

Fire Department work is excellent

I would like to express my appreciation to the Fire Department and Police Department for the professional manner they handled the near disaster on Westover and Dallas Street fires.

Folks, these could have been disasters like we have never seen in Big Spring. We had a major grass fire in the Westover area and a major house fire on Dallas. If these fires had not been contained, and in a hurry, they would spread like wildfire as the wind was extremely high on both days. The Police Department quickly cordoned off the areas and the Fire Department was extremely professional and quickly contained these fires - saving property and possibly loss of life.

We have a highly trained, thoroughly skilled professional Fire Department that has saved millions and millions of property value and possibly hundred's of lives over the years. Our Fire Department is "second to none" in their handling of any emergency operation.

I want to take this opportunity to tell them I appreciate their efforts for us in these two potentially dangerous fires and how proud I am to work with them on the Big Spring City Council! Sincerely,

Believes curfew wrong for majority

In response to the teen curfew, I think it's wrong because first of all, the Constitution says all men are equal, and the adults haven't got a curfew and even though some teenagers might be destructive, it doesn't give the right to ruin the other teens' fun. It's totally unconstitutional.

What the cops need to do is have more undercover ones with unmarked cars parked near where kids hang out or even if the cops are young looking have them right there, and if something goes down, then they could handle it. Sincerely,

Rwandan rebels declare victory; announce plans to install government

KIGALI, Rwanda (AP) — Tutsi rebels declared victory Monday and planned to install a new government as millions more of their countrymen fled toward uncertain safety in neighboring nations.

After 14 weeks of ethnic bloodshed, the Tutsi-dominated rebels said they had swept away the last Hutu government resistance and that a truce was in place. The rebel leader said he hoped the end of the fighting would halt the desperate human flight out of Rwanda.

'There is no need for anyone to flee Rwanda," said Maj. Gen. Paul Kagame of the rebel Rwandan Patriotic Front. "We guarantee all Rwandans stability and security."

The refugees fled for fear the rebels would try to avenge the slaughter of an estimated 200,000 to 500,000 people — most of them Tutsis - by Hutu militias. Thus far, there has been little evidence of widespread rebel reprisals against Hutus.

Still, between Wednesday and Sunday, up to 1 million Hutu civilians and soldiers had already pushed into Goma, Zaire, from the northwestern Rwandan town of Gisenyi.

And refugee officials reported late Monday that an estimated 1.9 million more Hutus were streaming toward the southwestern Rwandan border town of Cyangugu and had started another exodus into Bukavu, Zaire, 60 miles south of Goma. About 100,000 people crossed at Bukavu on Sunday and Monday. If the rest of the 1.9 million on the move cross into Zaire, nearly 3.5 million Rwandans - about half of the estimated prewar population of 8 million — would be living in refugee camps in neighboring

Before last week's mass flight, more than half a million made their way into the country's other neighbors: Tanzania, Burundi and Uganda. Hundreds of thousands more are displaced within Rwanda.

Leaders of the rump Hutu government had apparently encouraged the latest human flood through Rwanda's southwestern corner, where French forces have declared a humanitarian protection zone, del Mundo said.

"The refugees are saying they are moving because their leaders told them they can no longer protect them," del Mundo said. "Despite the assurances from the French, they are responding to what their leaders are saying."

In the capital, Kigali, Kagame declared that the war with the Hutu government was over, but suggested the rebels still might confront French troops protecting the area where Hutu government leaders were hiding.

"We have captured all of Rwanda up to the French protection zone and a cease-fire is effectively in place," Kagame

He called the refugee flight "a very unfortunate situation that must be reversed.

"Among them are innocent people," Kagame said. "Others can't forget they have a lot of blood on their hands and will have to answer for it."

The rebels want the French to arrest the leaders of the Hutu government. The French say their 2,500 troops have a U.N. mandate to carry out a humanitarian mission, and arresting government leaders is not part of that mandate.

N. Korean leader laid to rest

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) A flower-laden hearse bore the body of Kim Il Sung on a funeral journey through his Stalinist capital today as hundreds of thousands of North Koreans jammed streets and squares to weep and wail for their fallen "Great Leader."

"The whole country is enveloped in the bitterest grief ever in the history of the nation, spanning five thousand years!" the North's official news agency proclaimed. Kim, 82, died July 8 after nearly five decades of absolute rule over his reclusive communist state.

Only top officials, including Kim's son and successor Kim Jong II, were permitted to attend the secrecy-shrouded funeral ceremony at the presoutside idential palace Pyongyang, the capital, where Kim's body had lain in state all week.

But what followed could not have been more public. Official Northern media said 2 million people crowded the streets while a hearse with Kim's coffin - draped in a red party flag and piled with white flowers - was driven slowly through the streets.

The North's official media clamped a strict blackout on the hour-long funeral ceremony, reporting nothing until it

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) The comet train struck Jupiter Monday with an explosion several times more powerful than all of the world's nuclear weapons, leaving black scars the size of Earth.

A Shoemaker-Levy 9 comet fragment called G slammed into the gas bag-like planet and set off a fireball that was briefly brighter in some wavelengths than the whole planet. Some observing instruments watching from Earth 480 million miles away were momentarily

Fragment G was followed by an equally large fragment H, and at least two more of the 21 fragments of Shoemaker-Levy 9 are of similar size. By Monday afternoon, nine fragments had smashed into Jupiter since the bombardment started on Saturday. The last fragment, W. is expected to hit the planet

Upcoming is a triple whammy. Beginning Wednesday, three fragments will slam into the planet's upper atmosphere at about the same spot over a 20hour period.

The first of the three fragments, Q, is expected to hit just before 4 a.m. EDT on Wednesday. R follows 10 hours later and S will be 10 hours after that. The Jovian rotation is 10 hours, which means the fragments will hit at nearly the same spot on the planet.

Comet fragment G, the largest in the comet train, hit the planet early Monday with the biggest explosion yet - estimated at the energy equivalent of 6 million megatons.

Later, a Hubble Space Telescope image showed that G's explosion created an almost perfect circle, centered with a dark spot and then shaded with a bruise-like edge.

"So there is now a black eye on Jupiter," said Hammel. She said the eye portion of the scar is 80 percent of the size of Earth, and the bruise area goes far

Canadian-style health plan gets no respect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jim McDermott and other liberals backing a Canadian-style health plan are the Rodney Dangerfields of the debate over how to repair the U.S. medical system. Their plan to replace dead. ... I think private insurance with government payments has gotten little respect in Congress.

But now, with a bloc of 90odd votes, McDermott and his backers are poised to wrest concessions from House Democratic leaders, who will attempt to write a compromise health plan.

"They can't get to 218 (votes, a majority) without us," said McDermott, a psychiatrist and Democrat from Seattle. "They need every one of us. They can't write us off."

They have been promised a separate vote on the House floor on their American Health Security Act, which would pay all medical bills, from doctor and hospital charges to prescription drugs and nursing home care, with a new 10.5 percent payroll tax. The government would decide how much to pay the providers.

Regulator says Clinton sought help

WASHINGTON (AP) - A high-level banking regulator says in a confidential memo that President Clinton sought his "advice and counsel" on Whitewater last New Year's weekend. Eugene A. Ludwig, the comptroller of the currency, made clear in the memo — and in an interview Monday — that he wasn't comfortable with the request by his old college friend who now is the president.

The memo, obtained by The Associated Press, could be a worrisome political problem for Clinton when Whitewater hearings begin next week -Tuesday in the House and two days later in the Senate.

While Whitewater special counsel Robert Fiske looked into the request and found no criminality, the hearings are to spotlight administration-regulator contacts in full public view.

Elders' son convicted on drug charges

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) -The 28-year-old son of Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders was convicted Monday of selling $275 worth cocaine to an undercover officer last summer.

Deputy Prosecutor Chris Palmer said he will seek at least 10 years in prison for Kevin Elders at sentencing Aug. 29.

Circuit Judge John Plegge ruled in the non-jury trial that Elders had failed to prove entrapment.

Elders had claimed that an acquaintance who set up the drug deal had threatened to expose Elders' drug habit and embarrass his mother during her Senate confirmation hearings unless Elders obtained cocaine for him.

The surgeon general also testified briefly that she and her family had been subjected to open opposition from the time she was nominated for the job by President Clinton.

Elders was convicted of selling one-eighth ounce of cocaine to the undercover officer and the acquaintance. The offense carries up to life in prison.

peculiar with these newts or who knows. We just haven't been able to figure out anything," said Michael Wiederhold, a researcher at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

Glenn calls for IRS to protect privacy of American taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nice thing about working for the Internal Revenue Service is it's easy to see your tax files. But it's also easy to see other people's tax files — too easy, complains Sen. John Glenn.

When Americans sit down and provide the government with their most personal information, the IRS has a moral and legal obligation to keep it private and confidential," said Glenn, chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee.

IRS Commissioner Margaret M. Richardson agreed.

"Abuses of taxpayers' right to privacy will not be tolerated," she said in remarks prepared for delivery today to Glenn's committee.

Glenn, D-Ohio, released new IRS statistics Monday showing that more than 1,300 of its employees had been investigated since 1989 for unauthorized snooping in the IRS computer

Richardson said the IRS has 'made significant progress' since Glenn first revealed the snooping problem last year.

"We have a better detection system, a strong penalty guide, an IRS-wide privacy policy, an advocate for privacy and plans to make our systems of the future much more secure from any employee's abuse," she

Glenn also released IRS data showing that the agency's electronic filing system had been agency spotted the questionable used by crooks to get an undeserved $15 million in refunds this year.

"I do not believe that the agency currently has the capacity or technology to catch most refund schemes," said Glenn. "There must be better controls on electronic filing.

IRS spokesman Frank Keith said, "We have made significant progress in dealing with refund fraud, both on paper and in the electronic arena. We remain convinced that the electronic filing program is an important part of our plans to modernize the IRS."

Keith confirmed statistics provided by Glenn's staff showing a difference between the early detection rates of phony refund claims filed on paper and those filed electronically.

During the first four months of this year, the IRS found that paper tax returns seeking $55.3 million in refunds were fraudulent. The agency discovered the fraud early enough to prevent $53.1 million of that from going out to the cheaters.

For electronic filings, the IRS found $44.1 million in fraudulent refunds, of which $29.1 million was spotted before refunds

During that four months, the IRS approved almost $62 billion of refunds.

In 1993, electronic filers tried to dupe the IRS for $54 million in undeserved refunds. The refunds in time to prevent about $29 million from going out, but the checks for another $24 million were mailed.

That compared with $82 million worth of falsely claimed refunds on paper filings, of which $72.9 million was detected in time to prevent payment.

Under electronic filing, available nationally since 1990, authorized preparers and commercial companies can file returns for taxpayers via computer, cutting the refund time from six or seven weeks to two

Keith said electronic filing may make it easier in the long run to prevent refund fraud. The figures cited by Glenn's staff, he added, "may not detect the extent to which we prevented fraud from ever getting into the system this year."

For 1995, new companies that want to file electronic returns will have to submit to fingerprinting for criminal background checks and authorize for credit checks, Richardson said.

Time to get Whitewater over

The Whitewater hearings are scheduled to begin next week. Hopefully what will come out of these hearings is a clue as to what went on and if there were any wrongdoings on behalf of President Bill Clinton and First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton.

More than likely, more mud will be stirred up, obscuring the facts of the matter. We only have to remember the Iran-Contra hearings and the confirmation hearings of Clarence Thomas to understand the fallibility of Congressional hearings and the lack of truth arrived at.

It is good, though, the hearings are about to begin. It will be good for the Clintons, guilty or not, to start the process of getting this behind them.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless other wise indicated.

It is good for this country, also, to get this behind it. Too much time is spent on such items, that running the country seems to have been forgotten on Capital Hill, mired in the morass of scandal.

America's future is at stake. She is a hurting country - too many homeless, too many unemployed, too many abusers and abused, too much violence.

That cannot be forgotten as the witch hunt continues.

And where, in his decision, was his concern for the child? Heiple wrote that, for Richard, "it is to be expected that there would be an initial shock (when the court removes him from his adoptive home), even a longing for a time in the absence of the persons whom he had viewed as parents. ... It will work itself out in the fullness of time." For the photo captions he cited the page numbers; for his certainty that Richard will not truly suffer, he cited nothing at all.

He wrote of the "journalistic terrorism" that so upset him. If the justice wishes to write about terror, perhaps he should consider what might go on in a little boy's heart on the day he is handed over to people he has never seen before.

If Heiple and the other four justices who refused to grant a new hearing to Richard -Michael A. Bilandic, Charles E. Freeman, Moses W. Harrison II and John L. Argentine president condemns building bombers as 'beasts'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A seven-story building housing two Jewish groups was destroyed by an explosion Monday, killing at least 17 people in what Argentina's president called an attack by "beasts and savages.

Dozens were injured in the 9:55 a.m. blast and rescue workers believed perhaps dozens more were trapped beneath the rubble. Jewish groups said more than 40 people survived. About 100 worked in the build-

The cause of the explosion was not known. Buildings on the rest of the block were heavily damaged and cars parked near the building were

Shards of metal and glass lay everywhere on the street. Alongside one burned-out car were at least two bodies, covered hastily with bedsheets and foam gym mats. One rescue worker warned people nearby, 'Watch where you walk. Those are bodies." A few yards away lay a woman's black-leather Nicolas Wohda, 56, who works in an office next door to the destroyed building, told The Associated Press that he "felt a huge bomb, and then I don't know what.

Wohda, his shirt soaked with blood, received several stitches for cuts on his face and scalp. He said a police car was parked in front of the building at the time of the blast. "If the police were in that car, they didn't make it out alive," Wohda said.

President Carlos Menem said the attack was planned "from abroad and helped by people here." He called the perpetrators "beasts, savages."

In March 1992, a bomb destroyed the downtown Israeli Embassy, killing at least 28 people and injuring more than 220. Responsibility for that blast was never determined.

Israel blamed Muslim fundamentalists for the bombing, and Israeli Foreign Shimon Peres indicated he believed Monday's explosion also was the work of Muslim extremists.

"We know who the strings lead to," Peres told Israeli television Monday. "We will have to make a supreme effort to catch these terrible people." He said Israel had sent a relief team to Argentina.

Menem said Israeli security and intelligence agencies were working with Argentine authorities to determine the cause of the explosion. As part of the investigation, Menem ordered Argentina's borders closed.

Rescue workers climbed the pile of rubble, all that remained of the building housing the headquarters of the Delegation Argentine Associations, the country's principal Jewish community group, and the Argentine Israelite Mutual Association, a social aid organization.

Rwandan rebels declare victory; announce plans to install government

KIGALI, Rwanda (AP) -Tutsi rebels declared victory Monday and planned to install a new government as millions more of their countrymen fled toward uncertain safety in neighboring nations.

After 14 weeks of ethnic bloodshed, the Tutsi-dominated rebels said they had swept away the last Hutu government resistance and that a truce was in place. The rebel leader said he hoped the end of the fighting would halt the desperate human flight out of Rwanda.

"There is no need for anyone to flee Rwanda," said Maj. Gen. Paul Kagame of the rebel Rwandan Patriotic Front. "We guarantee all Rwandans stability and security."

The refugees fled for fear the rebels would try to avenge the slaughter of an estimated 200,000 to 500,000 people - most of them Tutsis - by Hutu militias. Thus far, there has been little evidence of widespread rebel reprisals against Hutus.

Still, between Wednesday and Sunday, up to 1 million Hutu civilians and soldiers had already pushed into Goma, Zaire, from the northwestern Rwandan town of Gisenyi.

And refugee officials reported late Monday that an estimated 1.9 million more Hutus were streaming toward the southwestern Rwandan border town of Cyangugu and had started another exodus into Bukavu, Zaire, 60 miles south of Goma.

About 100,000 people crossed at Bukavu on Sunday and Monday. If the rest of the 1.9 million on the move cross into Zaire, nearly 3.5 million Rwandans — about half of the estimated prewar population of 8 million — would be living in refugee camps in neighboring countries.

Before last week's mass flight, more than half a million made their way into the country's other neighbors: Tanzania, Burundi and Uganda. Hundreds of thousands more are displaced within Rwanda. Leaders of the rump Hutu government had apparently encouraged the latest human flood through Rwanda's southwestern corner, where French forces have declared a humanitarian protection zone, del Mundo said.

'The refugees are saying they are moving because their leaders told them they can no longer protect them," del Mundo said. "Despite the assurances from the French, they are responding to what their leaders are saying."

In the capital, Kigali, Kagame declared that the war with the Hutu government was over, but suggested the rebels still might confront French troops protect-ing the area where Hutu gov-ernment leaders were hiding.

"We have captured all of Rwanda up to the French protection zone and a cease-fire is effectively in place," Kagame

He called the refugee flight "a very unfortunate situation that must be reversed.

"Among them are innocent people," Kagame said. "Others can't forget they have a lot of blood on their hands and will have to answer for it."

The rebels want the French to arrest the leaders of the Hutu government. The French say their 2,500 troops have a U.N. mandate to carry out a humanitarian mission, and arresting government leaders is not part of that mandate.

N. Korean leader laid to rest

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - A flower-laden hearse bore the body of Kim Il Sung on a funeral journey through his Stalinist capital today as hundreds of thousands of North Koreans jammed streets and squares to weep and wail for their fallen "Great Leader."

"The whole country is enveloped in the bitterest grief ever in the history of the nation, spanning five thousand years!" the North's official news agency proclaimed. Kim, 82, died July 8 after nearly five' decades of absolute rule over his reclusive communist state.

Only top officials, including Kim's son and successor Kim Jong Il, were permitted to attend the secrecy-shrouded funeral ceremony at the presidential palace outside Pyongyang, the capital, where Kim's body had lain in state all week.

But what followed could not have been more public. Official Northern media said 2 million people crowded the streets while a hearse with Kim's coffin — draped in a red party flag and piled with white flowers - was driven slowly through the streets.

The North's official media clamped a strict blackout on the hour-long funeral ceremony, reporting nothing until it

Comet explosions scar Jupiter

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) -The comet train struck Jupiter Monday with an explosion several times more powerful than all of the world's nuclear weapons, leaving black scars the size of Earth.

A Shoemaker-Levy 9 comet fragment called G slammed into the gas bag-like planet and set off a fireball that was briefly brighter in some wavelengths than the whole planet. Some observing instruments watching from Earth 480 million miles away were momentarily blinded.

Fragment G was followed by an equally large fragment H, and at least two more of the 21 fragments of Shoemaker-Levy 9 are of similar size. By Monday afternoon, nine fragments had smashed into Jupiter since the bombardment started on Saturday. The last fragment, W, is expected to hit the planet Friday.

Upcoming is a triple whammy. Beginning Wednesday, three fragments will slam into the planet's upper atmosphere at about the same spot over a 20hour period.

"You'll have three - boom. boom, boom," Heidi Hammel of the Space Telescope Science Institute said Monday. "You are going to have one heck of a

The first of the three fragments, Q, is expected to hit just before 4 a.m. EDT on Wednesday. R follows 10 hours later and S will be 10 hours after that. The Jovian rotation is 10 hours, which means the fragments will hit at nearly the same spot on the planet.

Comet fragment G, the largest in the comet train, hit the planet early Monday with the biggest explosion yet - estimated

Canadian-style health plan gets no respect

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Jim McDermott and other liberals backing a Canadian-style health plan are the Rodney Dangerfields of the debate over how to repair the U.S. medical system. Their plan to replace dead. ... I think private insurance with government payments has gotten little respect in Congress.

But now, with a bloc of 90 odd votes, McDermott and his that's not going to backers are poised to wrest concessions from House Democratic leaders, who will attempt to write a compromise health plan.

"They can't get to 218 (votes, a majority) without us," said McDermott, a psychiatrist and Democrat from Seattle. "They need every one of us. They can't write us off.'

They have been promised a separate vote on the House floor on their American Health Security Act, which would pay all medical bills, from doctor and hospital charges to prescription drugs and nursing home care, with a new 10.5 percent payroll tax. The government would decide how much to pay the providers.

The single-payer bill eked through the House Education and Labor Committee on a 22-21 vote without recommendation. Other major panels ignored or rejected it.

In making that bill palatable to moderate Democrats, acting Ways and Means Chairman Sam Gibbons lost McDermott's vote in committee by concessions to the insurance industry and by roadblocks put up to states' enacting their own single-payer plans.

Gibbons, one of 91 original cosponsors of the McDermott bill, has distanced himself from the single-payer advocates.

Regulator says Clinton sought help

WASHINGTON (AP) - A high-level banking regulator says in a confidential memo that President Clinton sought his "advice and counsel" on Whitewater last New Year's weekend.

Eugene A. Ludwig, the comptroller of the currency, made clear in the memo — and in an interview Monday - that he wasn't comfortable with the request by his old college friend who now is the president.

The memo, obtained by The Associated Press, could be a worrisome political problem for Clinton when Whitewater hearings begin next week -Tuesday in the House and two days later in the Senate.

While Whitewater special counsel Robert Fiske looked into the request and found no criminality, the hearings are to spotlight administration-regulator contacts in full public view.

Elders' son convicted on drug charges

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) -The 28-year-old son of Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders was convicted Monday of selling $275 worth cocaine to an undercover officer last summer.

Deputy Prosecutor Chris Palmer said he will seek at least 10 years in prison for Kevin Elders at sentencing Aug. 29.

Circuit Judge John Plegge ruled in the non-jury trial that Elders had failed to prove entrapment. Elders had claimed that an acquaintance who set up the drug deal had threatened to expose Elders' drug habit and embarrass his mother during her Senate confirmation hearings unless Elders obtained cocaine for him.

The surgeon general also testified briefly that she and her family had been subjected to open opposition from the time she was nominated for the job by President Clinton.

Elders was convicted of selling one-eighth ounce of cocaine to the undercover officer and the acquaintance. The offense carries up to life in prison.

Dead newt causing headaches

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Scientists tried to figure out how to fish a dead newt from its tank Monday without splashing water that could float shuttle around space Columbia's laboratory and damage sensitive equipment.

It's the second full-grown newt to die in four days aboard the shuttle. Only four were flown, along with lots of newt eggs.

"There's either something peculiar with these newts or who knows. We just haven't been able to figure out anything," said Michael Wiederhold, a researcher at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

Glenn calls for IRS to protect privacy of American taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nice thing about working for the Internal Revenue Service is it's easy to see your tax files. But it's also easy to see other people's tax files - too easy, complains Sen. John Glenn.

'When Americans sit down and provide the government with their most personal information, the IRS has a moral and legal obligation to keep it private and confidential," said Glenn, chairman of the Senate Governmental Committee.

IRS Commissioner Margaret M. Richardson agreed.

"Abuses of taxpayers' right to privacy will not be tolerated, she said in remarks prepared for delivery today to Glenn's committee.

Glenn, D-Ohio, released new IRS statistics Monday showing that more than 1,300 of its employees had been investigated since 1989 for unauthorized snooping in the IRS computer

Richardson said the IRS has 'made significant progress'' since Glenn first revealed the snooping problem last year.

"We have a better detection system, a strong penalty guide, an IRS-wide privacy policy, an advocate for privacy and plans to make our systems of the future much more secure from any employee's abuse," she said.

Glenn also released IRS data showing that the agency's electronic filing system had been agency spotted the questionable used by crooks to get an undeserved $15 million in refunds

this year. "I do not believe that the agency currently has the capacity or technology to catch most refund schemes," said Glenn. "There must be better controls on electronic filing."

IRS spokesman Frank Keith said, "We have made significant progress in dealing with refund fraud, both on paper and in the electronic arena. We remain convinced that the electronic filing program is an important part of our plans to modernize

Keith confirmed statistics provided by Glenn's staff showing a difference between the early detection rates of phony refund claims filed on paper and those filed electronically.

During the first four months of this year, the IRS found that paper tax returns seeking $55.3 million in refunds were fraudulent. The agency discovered the fraud early enough to prevent $53.1 million of that from going out to the cheaters.

For electronic filings, the IRS found $44.1 million in fraudulent refunds, of which $29.1 million was spotted before refunds went out.

During that four months, the IRS approved almost $62 billion of refunds.

In 1993, electronic filers tried to dupe the IRS for $54 million in undeserved refunds. The refunds in time to prevent about $29 million from going out, but the checks for another $24 million were mailed.

That compared with $82 million worth of falsely claimed refunds on paper filings, of which $72.9 million was detected in time to prevent payment. Under electronic filing, available nationally since 1990, authorized preparers and commercial companies can file returns for taxpayers via computer, cutting the refund time from six or seven weeks to two

Keith said electronic filing may make it easier in the long run to prevent refund fraud. The figures cited by Glenn's staff, he added, "may not detect the extent to which we prevented fraud from ever getting into the system this year.'

For 1995, new companies that want to file electronic returns will have to submit to fingerprinting for criminal background checks and authorize for credit checks, Richardson said.

The center's nutritionists bought takeout portions of the 15 popular Mexican dishes at 19 table-service restaurants in Chicago, Dallas, San Francisco eight years teaching and coaching in the Coahoma school system, has accepted the head boys' basketball coaching position in Carrizo Springs, a Class 3A school about 80 miles north of

In addition to his basketball coaching duties, Ritchey will be an assistant coach on the varsity football team, and he and his wife, Carmen, both will teach math.

Ritchey did a little of everything during his Coahoma tenure. He started as a junior high coach before moving to the high school as a varsity football assistant five years ago. Since then, he also served as the head baseball coach for the start of the program before coaching the girls' basketball team for the past three years.

In the past three years as coach of the Bulldogettes, Ritchey compiled a 48-43 wonloss record.

"I wouldn't trade anything for what I've done here," he said. "It was a learning experience, and it has definitely prepared me for the next step. Working for (former athletic director) Steve Park probably helped me as much as anything. He's influenced me as much as anybody else.

The downside to the move is that he'll moving a few hundred miles away from his family. Philip's wife, mother, brother, sister, sister-in-law and brotherin-law all coach and/or teach in area school systems. The family has more than 65 years of combined experience coaching and teaching in Howard County.

"That's one of the toughest parts about doing this," he said of the move. "We all live here, and we've been close all our lives. That's the only drawback to the move - and it's a big

Coming from a family of teachers and coaches makes for some interesting family gettogethers, mother Jo Ann said.

"We're excited for the opportunity he has to coach boys' basketball. We hope he has a lot of success - and gets back here real soon."

James Washington, who finished second in MVP balloting in last season's Super Bowl victory over Buffalo, says the outgrown Cowboys had Johnson.

"He was a great coach for a young team, but we had guys leaving the team who didn't want to play for him," the outspoken strong safety said.

our bandwagon.' Despite leading Dallas' defense in the Super Bowl, Washington wouldn't have started the game if the Bills hadn't been in the no-huddle, run-and-shoot offense.

Regular starting strong side safety Darren Woodson was the players and the players can moved to linebacker in the Cowboys nickel defense.

But Washington helped turn a close game into a rout. First he forced a Thurman Thomas fumble that led to a field goal. Then he picked up another Thomas fumble and ran 46 yards for a touchdown to tie the game at 13.

Dallas rolled over the disheartened Bills 30-13 as Washington intercepted a pass that led to a touchdown. He also had 10 tackles.

Washington, who said he felt like Johnson was always trying to get rid of him, said he should improve this year.

"Maybe this year I'll at least have a shot at the Pro Bowl," Washington said. "Jimmy was trying to phase me out and I didn't start last year. I had a personality conflict with Jimmy. With him you make one bad play and you're on the bench. I think I proved in the Super Bowl what I can do.

"Now I want another Super Bowl and maybe I can win MVP this time. I'd really like to go to the Pro Bowl."

Washington will move into a safety spot vacated by Thomas Everett, who took the free agent road to Tampa Bay.

"I feel more relaxed around Barry," Washington said. "He's a great motivator. I think he'll turn things up around here."

HOUSTON (AP) - It started as a laugher for the St. Louis Cardinals, but by the time the sixth inning was over the Houston Astros were doing the laughing.

It was then that Torre, who had an unhappy 54th birthday Monday, started to parade his pitchers.

When the inning was over, the Astros had collected seven hits, five walks and a hit batsman. Sixteen Astros went of the plate. The third pitcher, lefthander Bryan Eversgerd (2-1) took the loss when Bass singled again in the inning to score Mike Felder to give the Astros a 12-11 lead.

Caminiti added a two-run single, and James Mouton added a sacrifice fly off reliever Steve Dixon to round out the scoring in the sixth.

Mike Hampton (2-1) picked up the win by pitching a perfect fifth and sixth, striking out two. Todd Jones struck out three in the last three innings to collect his third save.

Rangers 6, Indians 5

CLEVELAND (AP) - Manuel Lee couldn't quite understand the fuss his teammates were making over him.

"I saved the game, but I've made better plays than that," the Texas shortstop said after his over-the-shoulder catch of Omar Vizquel's pop fly started a game-ending double play Monday night as the Rangers beat Cleveland 6-5.

Texas took the lead in the top of the ninth on an RBI double by Jose Canseco, whose two-out drive off Jose Mesa (7-5) banged off the bullpen fence in center

Sandy Alomar started the Cleveland ninth with a single and moved to second on Kenny Lofton's grounder to first. Vizquel then lofted a pop fly

Alomar broke toward third in hopes of scoring the tying run if the ball fell in - leaving himself no margin for error. So when Lee reached out and snared the ball, Alomar was easily doubled off second.

Tom Henke got his 11th save after Darren Oliver (3-0) pitched two perfect innings for the win.

The Indians, back from a 5-5 road trip, lost for only the fifth time in 29 home games and fell a game behind the AL Centralleading Chicago White Sox.

The Rangers lead the AL West at 45-47, the latest that any division leader has ever had a sub-.500 record. Canseco, though, said the Rangers aren't obsessed with getting back to .500.

Hey, sports fans! What's your best sports memory?

At home, watching every sports team imaginable while channel surf? In a dark secluded bar Monday night, I was chat-

y o u

ting Hargrave with a friend Sports Editor about the Eagles (the musical group, not Philadelphia's football team), Dr. Hook (not to be confused with curve-balling Dr. K, Dwight Gooden) and other worldly interests before we found our way into a sports discussion.

That's always seems to happen with me. Why is that?

Well, while we were talking, I started thinking about my favorite sport and my favorite sport to watch. Sounds a bit redundant here, but it isn't. Just a simple, laid-back chat with a friend let me realize something I hadn't really thought about before:

My favorite sport isn't the same thing as my favorite sport to watch. Not necessarily, anyway.

Baseball is my game - if you read my column every so often (hope somebody does), you know that by now. Still, when it comes to being at a sporting event, sucking in the adrenalin and getting rowdy, nothing beats college football.

After World Cup, rodeos, hang gliding, and other sports I know little about, baseball and college football have been on my mind a lot. I'm ready for them.,

When someone asks me what is the most exciting sporting event I've ever attended, I don't have to think

I remember the date - Dec. 2, 1989. (Wish I could remember more important things, like the name of a pretty lady I danced with Friday night.) Florida State came to Florida Field in Gainesville to play the University of Florida. I attended UF at the time, and I watched the game with about 73,000 other folks in the stadi-

I always took a seat cushion to every game I went to, but I didn't need one that night. Never sat down. Everyone stood, watched the game and screamed before each play. Quarterbacks stepped away from the line of scrimmage, telling the referees they couldn't get their teammates to hear the signals.

That just made the crowd louder.

It was the last regular-season college games for both Emmitt Smith and Deion Sanders. FSU won 24-17, and only when the game was over did we finally sit down.

My seat cushion was gone.
