Facets of violence explored

■ Workshop also celebrates 10 years for Rape Crisis

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Rape Crisis/Victim Services will be celebrating its 10 year anniversary in August.

To commemorate the event, they, along with the Big Spring Police Department, Howard College and Big Spring Association of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Counselors, are sponsoring a workshop on violence.

"Violence: Multiple Problems, Multiple Solutions!" is the name of the workshop that will focus on such topics as sexual violence, occultism, male sexual abuse, domestic violence and child abuse. It will be Aug. 18.

The keynote speaker is Cecelia McKenzie, with the Texas Department of Health. She is a program administrator for sexual assault prevention and crisis services.

Judy Edwards will also be speaking at the day long event. She will focus on sexual violence and give an overview of battered child syndrome, victim's rights, crime victimization and crisis intervention.

Edwards has been the program director at the Crime Victim Crisis Center since 1993. She has provided leadership and training assistance to establish the San Angelo and Big Spring Rape Crisis Centers.

She has received the Governor's Award for Crime Victim Assistance for Outstanding Contributions by a Program throughout the state of Texas in 1989.

Big Spring Police Chief Jerry Edwards will also address the group and give an overview of community violence.

Greg Reid, from El Paso, will end the workshop with discussions about crimes of the occult and sexual abuse of males.

Reid is currently a private investigator and youth worker who works mostly with at-risk kids. He is also a survivor of ritual abuse and has been studying the occult since 1987.

He is dedicated to teaching and making communities, professionals and individuals more aware of the occult and the unreported crime of sexual abuse of males.

Juvenile crime could worsen as teen-age population increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Juvenile court cases involving serious crimes grew tremendously from 1988 to 1992, according to the Justice Department, and a criminologist says the problem is bound to worsen as the population of teen-agers increases.

According to a Justice Department study released Sunday, of 118,700 serious crimes, aggravated assault cases increased the most, up 80 percent to 77,900 in 1992. Homicides increased by 55 percent to 2,500, robberies went up by 52 percent to 32,900, and forcible rape cases rose by 27 percent to 5,400.

James Alan Fox, dean of criminal justice at Northeastern University, said declines in the adolescent population over the past few years is bottoming out. If the problem is not addressed, crime among juveniles is bound to increase "because we'll have a tremendous growth in the number of juveniles."

"Even though there are fewer kids now, there's a small core group that is committing violence at an unprecedented rate, the young and the ruthless," Fox said.

That is what has prompted a 68 percent increase in the number of juvenile court cases involving the offenses of murder, aggravated assault, robbery and forcible rape, he said.

Overall, juvenile court cases increased by 26 percent to 1.5 million, said the study by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

Even though there are fewer kids now, there's a small core group that is committing violence at an unprecedented rate, the young and the ruthless.

James Allen Fox

"Criminals are getting younger, victims are getting younger," said Wesley Skogan, a political science and urban affairs professor at Northwestern University. "It's a combination of bravado, hopelessness, access to firepower and the allures of the drug market."

The report demonstrates the need for quick passage of the crime bill, said Attorney General Janet Reno.

"We have to fight crime with every tool we have," Reno said in a written statement. Among other things, she said, the nation must "begin turning juvenile crime around before we are faced with a lost generation — with crime bill initiatives like boot camps, anti-gang initiatives, a ban on gun possession by minors, safer schools

Curfew, proposed jail top Tuesday's council agenda

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council will consider approval of the proposed youth curfew and consider the recent decision made by Howard County Commissioners concerning a new jail Tuesday.

In a special meeting of the Commissioners' Court July 19, commissioners voted in favor of building a jail only, at a downtown site, instead of a jail and combined law enforcement center.

The council must now weight its options concerning what role it will play in the building of a new jail.

At last week's meeting City manager Lanny Lambert told the commissioners, "I think we're missing a great opportunity to build a combined law enforcement center."

The proposed teen curfew will be heard in its second reading. At the council's last meeting, the ordinance was unanimously approved in its original form with amendments.

In other business, the council will consider an ordinance adopting a 1994-95 city budget.

Also up for consideration will be approval of an ordinance amending the city's code on keeping livestock, fowl or swine in the city limits and approval of a policy for delinquent rents at the Airpark.

The council will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Building 1109 at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

Rampaging walls of water become devastating killers to all in the way

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Damage estimates from floods that began in Georgia more than two weeks ago are well into the millions of dollars, thousands of people are homeless and more than 400,000 crop acres are under water.

This is just a glimpse of the awesome force of flood waters.

Thirty-one people have died so far in Georgia and 41 counties have been declared national disaster areas because of two feet of rain dumped on central and southwest Georgia by Tropical Storm Alberto.

According to the National Weather Service, flooding can occur anywhere and at anytime in the U.S. and with massive destructive force.

On June 9, 1972, in the Black Hills of Rapid City, S.D., 15 inches of rain in five hours caused 238 deaths and $164 million in damages.

A dam break in Jamestown, Penn., on May 31, 1889, created a 36 to 40 foot wall of water and killed 2,200 people. This is the worst flood in U.S. history.

In late December 1991 and early January 1992, flooding of the Guadalupe, Brazos, Trinity and Colorado River Basins in south central Texas left 15 people dead and caused $100 million in damages following 17 inches of rain.

According to a report by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, several factors contribute to flash flooding, but the intensity of rainfall and its duration are the two key elements.

Flash floods occur within a few minutes or hours of excessive rainfall, dam or levee failures, or a sudden release of water held by an ice jam, and can move or destroy anything in the path of rushing waters.

Floods also produce devastating mud slides that often occur with little or no warning.

NOAA and the NWS recommend planning ahead during thunderstorm and severe weather season by knowing where to go if told to evacuate, preferably to higher ground.

Most flash flooding is caused by slow-moving thunderstorms, storms repeatedly moving over the same area, or heavy rains from hurricanes and tropical storms.

People caught in a storm should never try to walk, swim, or drive through a flood. Just six inches of fast-moving flood and prevention programs that will help steer young people away from a career of crime."

Past-federal reports showed the homicide rate among those age 14 to 17 leaped by 124 percent between 1986 and 1991. Other federal statistics have shown a one-third increase between 1988 and 1992 in the number of people under age 18 arrested for homicide, up from 1,765 to 2,343.

water can knock a person off their feet, and two feet of water will float a car.

Nearly half of all flash flood deaths are automobile related.

"How can two feet of water hurt you when you're in a car?," is a common question according to NOAA.

Water weighs 62.4 pounds per cubic foot and typically flows downstream at six to 12 miles per hour. When a vehicle stalls in the water, the water's momentum is transferred to the car. For each foot the water

The new report showed one area of decline: a 12 percent decrease in the number of drug law violation cases handled by juvenile courts from 1988 to 1992.

But Andrew Chishom, a University of South Carolina professor of criminal justice, said that may be misleading, as young people involved in the drug trade may be entering juvenile court because of drug-related assaults and homicides instead.

Reservations must be received by Aug. 10. Space is limited and those who are interested should send their check, money order or voucher to: RC/VIS Workshop, P.O. Box 1693, Big Spring, Texas. 79721-1693.

rises, 500 pounds of lateral force is applied to the car.

But, the most important factor is buoyancy. For each foot the water rises up the side of the car, the car will displace 1,500 pounds of water. Simply stated, the car weighs 1,500 pounds less for each foot the water rises.

To answer a confusing question, NOAA and the NWS distinguish flash flooding and flooding as two different events. Flash flooding occurs within six hours of a rain storm and flooding is a longer event and may last a week or more.

Teen threatened to participate in killings

HOUSTON (AP) — Relatives of a suspect charged with capital murder after four people were fatally shot at a Kilgore lounge said the 19-year-old man's uncle threatened him into taking part in the killings.

Ray Don Mosley, 31, and his nephew, Daroyce Lamont Mosley, 19, have been charged in connection with the East Texas town's second multiple murder in a little more than a decade, police said.

Attorney: Most charges should be dropped

McAlLEN, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for Hidalgo County Sheriff Brigid Marmolejo Jr. and three of his assistants say most charges should be dropped against the men in their money laundering, racketeering and bribery trial.

A federal judge was expected to rule today on motions to acquit the men on five of eight counts.

Marmolejo, former Chief Jailer Mario Salinas, Chief Deputy Eloy Zavala and detention officer Edelmiro Flores are accused of accepting bribes from jail inmates in exchange for food and conjugal visits.

They were indicted in January.

Scientist meet to fight brown tide threat

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A coffee-colored algae known as brown tide is killing young fish and vegetation in Laguna Madre, threatening the South Texas lagoon's sensitive food chain, researchers say.

Paul Montagna, a marine researcher at the University of Texas-Marine Science Institute at Port Aransas, says researchers at first thought brown was sort of "an annoying rash."

"Now I'd call it a cancer, one that definitely can be fatal to the system," he said.

The dangerous bloom is threatening the viability of the Laguna Madre ecosystem, the survival of its sport fisheries and its $400 million contribution to the area's economy, experts say.

Health problems blamed on implants

FORT WORTH (AP) — Deborah Few complains that immediately after she received breast implants, she felt a burning sensation in her chest, followed a few months later by kidney failure and later still by multiple sclerosis.

She wanted to tell that story over the weekend in Fort Worth to 60 women attending a conference of the group she founded — Implant Survivors United. But the 35-year-old couldn't because she didn't feel well enough.

Although some in the medical profession may disagree, Ms. Few is convinced her breast implants are to blame for the litany of health problems she's developed since cosmetic surgery six years ago. She says doctors have given her less than 15 years to live.

Teens arrested in brutal slaying of homeless man

HOUSTON (AP) — A 13-year-old boy is among three suspects in the stabbing death of a homeless man who officials say was the victim of "bum bashing."

Murder charges are pending against the three teen-agers in the death of James Griffin, who lived in a makeshift camp in a wooded area of northwest Harris County.

Griffin was stabbed 10 times, including wounds that pierced his aorta and jugular vein and severed his spinal cord, sometime late Tuesday or early Wednesday, said Harris County sheriff's deputy John Denholm.

"It was a brutal murder," Denholm said.

The boys, also ages 15 and 16, were taken into custody Saturday and held in the Harris County Juvenile Detention Center while authorities prepared charges.

Law officers would not release names of the three since they are minors. But Denholm said they are students at Stovall Middle School, Grantham Middle School and Aldine High School.

The trio have all given statements in connection with the case. According to detectives, the three had decided to go "bum bashing" and armed themselves with sticks.

When the 50-year-old Griffin refused to give them a cigarette, the boys beat him, then stabbed him when he fought back, Denholm said.

Arrests followed deputies' interviews of other youths who had heard the suspects discussing the murder.

Detectives said attacks on indigents have apparently become more frequent over recent weeks in north Harris County. While there have been no official reports of such incidents, officials learned of the trend while investigating the killing.

"They apparently go off in the woods, get some sticks and hit the bums for some type of perverse kick," said Denholm, adding that victims of the assaults are "just not the types who are going to come forward and report it. Most are alcoholic or drug dependent."

Ruiz taking state to court again

TYLER (AP) — Inmate David Ruiz, whose 1972 lawsuit protesting Texas prison conditions resulted in sweeping reforms, is back in court, this time alleging retaliation by prison employees.

Ruiz contends in a lawsuit filed in a Tyler federal court five years ago that 21 state prison employees have sought revenge for his original lawsuit. Among other things, he claims he has been denied medical care for problems with his eyes, headaches and back; that his mail has been interfered with and that he has been wrongly classified as a gang member.

In the retaliation suit, Ruiz seeks unspecified compensatory and punitive damages and injunctions to bar future retaliatory actions.

Jury selection was scheduled to begin today in the court of U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who presided over the 1972 case.

The employees deny any retaliation against Ruiz, who they say is a member of a prison gang known as the Mexican Mafia. Ruiz is an inmate at the Coffield Unit in Tennessee Colony.

Stalking turns violent when woman shoots

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A man who police allege stalked his ex-girlfriend for six months was shot by the woman, who told police she fired upon her ex-boyfriend as he attempted to assault her.

The 30-year-old woman, whose name was not released by authorities, was questioned by police and released. She told them the 33-year-old man forced his way inside her duplex after following her home, then prevented her from calling police.

The woman pulled a handgun from her purse, ordered the man to leave and fired at him when he said, "Go ahead and shoot me," the Fort Worth Star-Telegram quotes a police report as saying.

After the man collapsed, the woman called 911, said Detective Curt Brannan.

A police spokesman said the investigation will continue.

The man was in fair condition Sunday at John Peter Smith Hospital, where he was recovering from a single gunshot wound to the abdomen.

Brannan said the man had stalked the woman since they broke up about six months ago, forcing her at times to stay with relatives. She was in the process of obtaining a restraining order, but no order was in effect, he said.

"We're in the process of going through offense reports involving past assaults," Brannan said.

A police report says the ex-boyfriend has been arrested at the woman's home on previous occasions for "violent attacks."

Stalking has been a crime in Texas since March 1993.

Woman turns down her dream

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — For years she had considered becoming a Texas Ranger, but when the call came offering her the job, Texas Department of Public Safety Sgt. Lisa Sheppard turned it down.

The 33-year-old criminal investigator rejected the promotion because she didn't like what she considers to be the strings attached to becoming a female Ranger. Being a Ranger would mean trading her spot as a solo law enforcement officer in a field office to join a company headquarters office, as her three female predecessors have done.

"I'm at the point where I don't think of myself in terms of gender anymore. I'm an investigator," Ms. Sheppard told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times for its Sunday editions.

Service to designate parts of 33 Texas counties as critical habitat for the endangered golden-cheeked warbler, said Smith, who contends the agency has no statutory authority to act because of a recent appeals court decision.

Smith's district includes parts of the area proposed for protection. The warbler breeds only in the mixed cedar woodlands of Central Texas. Its decline is blamed partly on the clearing and fragmentation of those woodlands.

"This is a direct shot at the Interior Department to get them to stop spending taxpayer money to appeal a legitimate court decision," Smith, R-San Antonio, said Sunday in a prepared statement. "Secretary Babbitt would do better to spend his budget helping private property owners cope with the burden of environmental regula-

Will parental responsibility have to be written into law?

Gay bashing, Jew bashing, now bum bashing. A new wave of hate crimes hits the streets with the death of a homeless man in Houston.

Arrested was a 13-year-old boy along with two other boys, ages 15 and 16, according to an Associated Press story.

It is a sad commentary on the United States, the land of the free and home to all races, colors, creeds and nationalities, that we can't get along with one another.

It is even worse when it is done simply for kicks by children.

John Norris, a homeless man interviewed for the article, noted, while he is glad these teens were caught, he expects more.

"There's an awful lot of kids around here with nothing to do and no one to make them stay in at night," Norris

"They don't have anything, and I guess it helps them feel better about their lives to come bother folks that are worse off than them."

We, as citizens, need to find some way to help these children. It is not the government's responsibility to babysit the children we produce. It is ours.

We talk about curbing juvenile crime but it starts at the family level. Parents are responsible for their children, do we have to write it into law before they start taking that responsibility?

Of peace, beauty and three tenors

The soccer teams from around the globe may or may not have converted Americans to their sport during the World Cup. But at least one event

Bob Greene
Columnist

related to the competition was a wonderful treat for some of us who might not otherwise have paid the attention we should.

I refer to the so-called

"Three Tenors" concert that was held at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles last Saturday night, and that was telecast to a worldwide audience of an estimated 1.3 billion. If some Americans are considered parochial and closed-minded because of their rejection of soccer, then others of us must admit our woeful ignorance of beautiful, serious, classical music, as it has traditionally been sung by the great opera artists of the world. Some of us -- and we should take no pride at all in confessing this -- simply never took the time to properly listen to it, and to savor it.

But the concert by Jose Carreras, Placido Domingo and Luciano Pavarotti last weekend, because it was presented as part of the World Cup festivities, tempted many of us to spend our time with the music and the music-makers -- and it was gorgeous. Already some experts who specialize in this kind of music are denigrating the World Cup concert -- they are saying that it was too slick-ly packaged, too obviously designed to turn a big profit, too gaudy and too watered-down and too glib.

Whatever. For those of us who, inexplicably, needed an excuse to listen to this music, it was close to transcendent. And even though, because we are new to this, we have no right to compare the Dodger Stadium performance to other great presentations of classical and operatic music, there were some facets of the concert that it was a pleasure to ponder even for those of us who are amateurs.

The setting and the symbolism, for starters. Whatever criticisms say Carreras, Domingo and Pavarotti graced the audience with seemed more than fitting there. Los Angeles itself has become an urban symbol in recent years -- the fires, the riots, the earthquake, the looting; the O.J. Simpson tragedy/carnival that has dominated the news this summer. Los Angeles has come to represent the theory that the center will not hold.

So what a pretty feeling it was to see and hear, in a ballpark in that huge and often troubled city, three great artists who traffic only in beauty and serenity. Metaphorically and literally, the baseball stadium became an oasis -- a calming and peaceful place to escape thoughts of clamor and dissonance. Beautiful music has always been said to serve that function -- to give the world a chance to take a deep breath and to reflect, to feel something worthy, to somehow be a little better, if only for the duration of a song.

I have not yet read -- but I'm sure I will -- stories that condemn the concert because it inevitably catered to the haves in a world of have nots. The tenors were clad in formal clothes; the audience members, at least most of those who were visible on the telecast, were elegantly turned out, also. An argument is certain to be made that such a scene, in Dodger Stadium, in Los Angeles, was an affront to people who could never afford a ticket to such an event, never mind afford the kinds of clothes many of the audience members wore.

But the fact is, it was televised -- it was available to virtually anyone with a set. Amid the vulgar and cacophonous video and audio offerings that by default pass for popular culture these days, the singing in the ballpark was a stunning alternative. It was more than great music -- it was a demonstration that civility for its own sake has value, that we can and should be soothed as a people, that art applies to life -- that art can elevate us.

And of course there was the most self-evident aspect of all: the talent and the discipline of those three men (and of the members of the symphony orchestra behind them), the artistry and the hard work that brought them to this place on this night. That in itself should have been a gift to any young people who might have been watching; the message that this kind of thing, and this kind of world, is possible.

Soccer? More of the nation probably understands it now. To some of us, though, the World Cup was interesting, but the non-athletic event that took place in the ballpark was better. It was glory.

Another example of inaction, ineptitude

Editor:
Did I miss something?
I thought the County Commissioners were considering a new jail with a county-city law enforcement center and combined 911 function.
For months I've read/heard rhetoric ad nauseum about location, size, options ... but everyone seems to be moving toward a unified system to promote overall efficiency and avoid any 911 lapses.

Now, just right out of the blue, the commissioners line up and do the new West Texas Back Step: They bring up only the jail for vote... and then break into the County Shuffle to a chorus of "let's let the voters decide."

This is just another example of the ineptitude and inaction of the Commissioners Court and Sheriff A. N. "Stonewall" Standard.

Big Spring

More than RV uses benefit

Dear Editor

I would like to make a comment in regard to Mr. Bell's saying "Its beyond me as to how people can afford RVs and then come in and stay overnight at the expense of Big Spring citizens".

We have "RVed" for 30 years or better and have stayed in free parks throughout the southwest. When we stay in the parks that are provided by the city or county we eat there, also buy gas and sometimes groceries, so you see Mr Bell this is an asset to the town where the park is and is not an expense to the town.

I would like to list a few of the towns that provide this service in the West Texas area, Lamesa, Andrews, Littlefield, Levelland, Dumas, Boys Town, Tuscola, Irran, Kermit and many more.

In years past I can remember the nice letters that have appeared in the Herald saying how they enjoyed staying in the park and how friendly the people were they shopped before leaving town. There is no need for restrooms to be there as people coming in overnight do not ever use them. You all say you want Big Spring to grow and prosper, then council, with people like Mr. Bell comes along and makes remarks like this.

Maybe some of the surrounding towns like Stanton and Coahoma should maintain a park like this, then their merchants could receive the benefits that RVs provide.

Thanks,
Maxine Hinsley

Fullfilling lives can be lived from a sitting position

DEAR READERS: Today, letters from people who were told they'd never walk again -- and they didn't! However, in spite of it, they lived fullfilling lives:
D E A R A B B Y : Y o u r response to "Sitting" was weak. True, that verdict was devastating; however, doctors have a good reason for delivering such a hopeless prognosis.

Miracles sometimes happen, but many a life has been wasted waiting for one. As a paraplegic and a wheelchair basketball player, I've encountered numerous individuals who are highly successful from a seated position.

Abby, most of what people do as adults can be done from a wheelchair -- work, play, raise families, etc.

"Sitting" would have been better served had you requested responses from people who never walked again, but with determination, therapy and the grace of God went on to live happy, productive lives from their wheelchairs. -- DUG JONES, FOR THE NORTH FLORIDA RENEGADES WHEELCHAIR BASKETBALL TEAM, GAINESVILLE
DEAR DUG: You are absolutely right. Thank you for enclosing a picture of the North Florida Renegades Wheelchair Basketball Team. What a handsome group of athletes you are!

DEAR ABBY: You asked to hear from readers who had been told that they would never walk again, but with determination, therapy and the grace of God, they did.

Before retiring, I was an occupational therapist dedicated to helping disabled people become independent. I encouraged patients to gain their highest level of achievement without fostering false hope. Some people will never walk again, but they need to know that they can still lead normal, independent lives.

Many paraplegics and quadriplegics climb mountains, scuba dive, snow and water ski, and even ride motorcycles. They also have sex and become parents. Some people have learned to appreciate their lives, discovering new directions and purpose because of their injuries or illnesses.

I have AIDS and am faced with my mortality every day (we all are, but we don't realize it).

My advice: Don't wait for a miracle. Work on being as independent and healthy as possible, and make the most of your life while you can. -- LIVING POSITIVELY

NEWS IN BRIEF

Some refugees head back home

GOMA, Zaire (AP) — Some 3,000 Rwandan refugees set off for home after Zaire reopened the border crossing, but there was no sign the 1 million starving people crammed into squalid, disease-ridden camps here were ready or even able to head back en masse.

As many as 10,000 refugees have died in recent days of cholera, hunger, exhaustion and dehydration. Aid workers fear thousands more will die before the international aid operation is fully underway.

Zairian authorities opened the border Sunday for the first time in two days for those wanting to go back. Soldiers had refused to allow refugees back into Rwanda until abandoned weapons stocks along the road could be cleaned up.

DNA war starts in Simpson case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Blood scrapings, hair samples, cells of tissue and three little letters: DNA. That's the latest battleground in the O.J. Simpson case.

Prosecutors hope so-called genetic fingerprinting can tie Simpson to the slaying death of his ex-wife and her friend.

Simpson's lawyers want a share of the blood found at the scene of the slayings and at Simpson's estate so they can conduct their own tests, but the prosecution says there's not enough to go around.

A hearing was scheduled for today.

Documents suggest disagreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the eve of congressional hearings on Whitewater, newly obtained documents suggest sharp disagreement between Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen and his department's top lawyer over certain aspects of the Whitewater investigation.

The documents prepared by Jean Hanson, the Treasury counsel, urged that Bentsen go before Congress last March and say he knew in advance that White House officials had been briefed improperly about an active Whitewater investigation.

But Bentsen gave no such testimony when he appeared at the March 3 House budget hearing. Instead, he denied knowing in advance about the controversial White House briefings conducted by Hanson and Deputy Treasury Secretary Roger C. Altman.

Sinn Fein fails to endorse peace offer

LETTERKENNY, Ireland (AP) — Sinn Fein, the IRA's political ally, refused to endorse a British-Irish offer to hold peace talks on Northern Ireland, but the party's leader insisted they were "totally committed to winning peace."

The Sinn Fein party did not call for the Irish Republican Army to cease its guerrilla war against British rule in Northern Ireland, which both Britain and Ireland have said is mandatory before they will deal with Sinn Fein.

A man and woman hold a Confederate flag as a march, sponsored by the NAACP against the Confederate flag flying over the South Carolina Statehouse, passes in Myrtle Beach, S.C. Saturday.

Southerners take a stand on the Rebel flag

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — One hundred and twenty-nine years after Lee bowed to Grant at Appomattox, this town of miniature golf courses, amusement parks and packed beaches is where Southerners are taking a stand on the Confederate battle flag.

Thousands marched here Saturday as tourists watched from sidewalks and simmered in traffic jams.

"Dixie, we're gonna bring your flag down," sang the predominantly black anti-flag marchers. The pro-flag group, all white, launched its rally with rebel yells and chanted: "Never take it down!"

Deep in the sea of rebel flags, some shouted racial slurs and wore T-shirts reading "You wear your X and I'll wear mine;" "It's a white thing;" and "The original boys in the hood," depicting Ku Klux Klansmen.

"The Confederate flag says the same thing to me that the swastika says to my Jewish brothers," countered the Rev. John Hurst Adams, a bishop in the AME Church.

With anti-flag sentiment growing and supporters digging in their heels across the South, a showdown looms in South Carolina. Civil rights leaders threaten Labor Day demonstrations in the resort town of Hilton Head Island and promise an economic boycott if the banner continues to fly over the statehouse, as it has since 1962.

"This would be one more feather in their hat. We're not going to let it happen," said Michael Parker, taunting black marchers with a portrait of a Klansman on horseback bearing a flaming cross.

Both sides agree the starry blue "X" on a red field is a powerful symbol; what it symbolizes depends on who's talking.

"It's heritage, it's honor, it's glory," said demonstrator Sherman Todd, 31, who wore a flag T-shirt reading: "It's A Southern Thing. Y'all Wouldn't Understand."

Throughout the region, battle lines are being drawn.

Airlift off mark; scares refugees

KATALE, Zaire (AP) — A U.S. aid airdrop criticized beforehand as a publicity stunt missed the target by a half-mile Sunday, scattering bundles over terrified Rwandan refugees who thought they were being bombed.

"I can't believe it," said British aid worker John Wallis, as he slashed at wrappings with a bowie knife, and flour spilled into a muddy cornfield. "This is criminal. I'm speechless."

The U.S. military, however, said the three C-130 cargo planes dropped the food precisely where the United Nations asked them to drop it — over a coffee plantation — and virtually the entire 17 tons was recovered.

Because of the drop, U.N. and volunteer officials said, trucks from Goma to the Katala camp empty because aid workers did not get enough advance notice to load them.

Zairian villagers carry away U.S. aid in Katala, north of Goma, Zaire, that was erroneously air-dropped away from the Rwandan refugees Sunday.

held up much of the day.

Trucks with a total capacity of 40 tons — twice the airdrop amount — drove the 30 miles from Goma to the Katala camp empty because aid workers did not get enough advance notice to load them.

Workplace becoming increasingly more violent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The workplace is no longer simply a place where people earn a living. It's increasingly becoming a place where they fall victim to violent crime.

A Justice Department report released Sunday says nearly 1 million violent crimes occur in the workplace every year, with about 10 percent involving offenders armed with handguns.

That amounts to about one-sixth of all violent crimes in America, an average of about 971,500 per year from 1987-1992, according to the study released by Lawrence A. Greenfeld, acting director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics.

But that's to be expected, said Wesley Skogan, professor of political science and urban affairs at Northwestern University.

"The workplace is the place that people in the labor force spend a very significant time of their life," Skogan said. "That's where you are when you're out of bed."

"People spend much less of their time walking around on

Mount Hood claims two more victims

MOUNT HOOD, Ore. (AP) — People die on Mount Hood.

The 11,237-foot dormant volcano — Oregon's highest peak — is as deceptive as it is deadly. It looks solid but isn't; its icy slopes can collapse without warning.

On Saturday, the mountain claimed its latest victims: a pair of hikers without proper equipment who lost their footing on a northeast glacier and started an avalanche.

They slid 700 feet, cartwheeled over rocks and were pushed into a crevasse by the onrushing snow. Two others, pulled down the mountain by the rope that tied them all together, survived.

"People shouldn't be climbing to the summit this time of year," said Tyson Bradley, 28, who guides visitors up Hood's southern face. "It's a rotten volcanic mountain. It's not solid to begin with."

There are no warnings posted on the mountain, and no restrictions — anyone can climb anywhere, anytime.

That's the problem. Anyone does.

More than 15,000 people a year climb Cooper Spur, a ridge that runs up the northern face next to the glacier. Some people just drive to the end of a dirt road and start walking, equipped with nothing more than the shoes on their feet. They head for the snow, another 3,000 feet up.

"The snow draws you in because it gets steep gradually," Bradley said.

On Eliot Glacier, where the four hikers fell Saturday, proper equipment is needed even in the best conditions. None of the group used ice axes or crampons, spikes worn on the feet.

NOTED DOCTOR 'PSYCHS' PEOPLE SLIM & SMOKE-FREE

NEW WEIGHT LOSS-STOP SMOKING METHOD HAILED AS BREAKTHROUGH-SUCCESS RATES TOP 95%

BIG SPRING: Betty Powell was an "expert" on weight loss. "You name it, and I've tried it," she said. "... diets, shots, pills, Nutri-systems, Jenny Craig, Slim Fast, etc. Oh sure, I'd manage to lose a few pounds, but I always regained them, with a few extra to spare. I'd almost given up hope, when some of my friends told me how they each had not only lost weight but kept it off through a group hypnotherapy session conducted by Dr. Kaloski. Three and a half months after attending the seminar I had lost 43 lbs., reaching my goal weight of 115. It's been a year now and I haven't gained back a single pound! Best of all, I did it without dieting."

Frank Lopez was a 3 pack-a-day, 31 year smoker who had tried "the Patch", nicotine gum, while-kunckle willpower and even other hypnosis programs. "Five wall-climbing days was the longest I ever made it," he said. "Dr. Kaloski helped me quit smoking with absolutely no withdrawal. It's been 2 years and I've never felt better."

These people, and thousands more like them, are now being helped through the highly innovative and often remarkably successful techniques pioneered by Dr. B. E. Kaloski. Holder of Doctorate Degrees in both Counseling Psychology and Clinical Hypnotherapy, Kaloski founded the nation's largest chain of private hypnosis clinics. He is a Fellow of the National Board for Hypnotic Anesthesiology, past president of the American Board of Hypnotherapy and author of "Psych Yourself Slim" and "The No Nonsense Guide to Smoking Cessation." With over 100,000 patient hours in group and private practice, he is one of the nation's most experienced hypnotherapists.

"Success rates have just skyrocketed with this method," said Kaloski, referring to his Multiphasic Motivational Programming, so revolutionary that it is part of the prestigious American Institute of Hypnotherapy's training program for Doctorate degree students. "All habits are the result of both conscious and subconscious processing. Both are equally vital and important and each must be addressed. MMP is the only program that has been designed to provide dynamic intervention on both levels. Results may at times seem truly miraculous but these techniques are based on sound, proven, time-tested principles."

"Contrary to popular belief, everyone can be hypnotized. A hypnotized person is not asleep; they're just fully relaxed, intensely focused, aware and always in control."

According to Dr. A.M. Kraemer, noted author, educator and researcher in hypnosis, Kaloski's made a major breakthrough in weight and smoking control. "By merging hypnosis with other therapeutic techniques, he's created a unique and innovative program that, more than anyone's, produces remarkable results. I highly recommend his seminar, especially to those who've had little or no success with other programs."

In recent interviews on NBC and CBS, Kaloski listed the major obstacles faced in losing weight and quitting smoking and explained how a person overcomes them with his method. "First, most people rely on willpower - a very unreliable method. Willpower means you have to deprive yourself of something you want. With my method, willpower is unnecessary since you can't feel deprived of something you don't want. We redirect a person's priorities so that the desire for the fattening foods or cigarettes is replaced by a stronger desire for a slim, trim figure, vibrant health, longevity and abundant vitality. After our seminar a person eats less because they actually want less. They don't smoke because they actually don't want a cigarette. That's important."

"Second, they concentrate on changing the action but not the attitude... a big mistake. Before the weight can come off and stay off the body, it must come off from between the ears. The same principle applies to smoking. The only way to permanently lose weight or stop smoking is to change one's attitude toward food and cigarettes. That's exactly what this program accomplishes."

"Third, they often find a great void in their life without the food or cigarettes that have been their friends for years. This often causes a relapse. I've solved that problem by programming everyone, while in hypnosis, with three positive replacements to fill that void. Smokers also benefit by not gaining weight after quitting."

"The first hour is the same for everyone. That's when we lay the crucial groundwork for success. After a short break, I conduct the weight loss session, which takes about 30 minutes - sending the smokers off to puff to their heart's content since it'll be the last cigarettes they'll ever have. I then conduct the stop smoking session."

At his seminar, he also shows people how to improve other areas of their life as well, such as exercise motivation, stress, memory & concentration, self-esteem & confidence, financial success, procrastination, alcohol, insomnia, pain relief, depression, fears & phobias, to name a few.

Dr. Bruce E. Kaloski backs his seminars with a lifetime guarantee

"I feel strongly committed to those who take my programs and offer a lifetime guarantee-free attendance at future seminars."

"While my private session fee is $295, I can offer these seminars for just $39.95 for either program or $59.95 for both, thus putting them within the reach of almost everyone. I also offer a discount for groups of 3 or more."

Dr. Kaloski will personally conduct his highly acclaimed seminar in Big Spring on Tuesday, July 26 at the Best Western Big Spring at Highway 87 & I-20 (exit 177) starting at 7:30 pm. Registration is at the door beginning at 7:00 pm. Cash, Check, MC/VISA are accepted. (921) 422-

PARIS (AP) — In his final French TV interview following the Tour de France, Miguel Indurain was asked to say a few words.

With a bit of hesitancy, Indurain said in French, "Thank you everyone. Until next year."

That's what everyone is waiting for, the 1995 Tour, to see if Indurain can win his fifth consecutive title.

"There's still a year to go before the fifth one and we have to train with hope and drive," Indurain said. "Whether it's possible or not, only the road can say for sure."

He has been making it look easy so far. He finished his fourth victory in a row by brushing his opponents by the largest victory margin in six years.

With Sunday's victory, the Spaniard joined cycling greats Jacques Anquetil of France and Eddy Merckx of Belgium as the only riders to win cycling's greatest event four consecutive years.

Anquetil, Merckx and France's Bernard Hinault have won five, but not in consecutive years.

If Indurain keeps riding the way he did this year, he could do what no rider has ever managed — win six Tours.

Indurain turned 30 this year. But he just seemed to get stronger, one by one knocking out his biggest challengers of the past — Tony Romin Claudio Chiappucci and Gianni Bugno. All were gone by the end of the second week, victims of illness or exhaustion.

Indurain crossed the line 5 minutes, 39 seconds ahead of Piotr Ugrumov of Latvia. Marco Pantani of Italy was third, 7:19 back.

It was the largest difference between first and second in the Tour since 1988, when Indurain's former teammate, Pedro Delgado, won by more than seven minutes.

Indurain rode near the head of the pack most of the day on the 21st stage from Euro Disneyland to the Champs-Elysees, a total of 109 miles.

The stage was won by France's Eddy Seigneur, who overtook Frankie Andreu of the United States in the last 200 yards.

This year's race started in Lille, northern France, on July 2 and covered 2,479 miles in a counterclockwise course around the country, with a crossing of the English Channel thrown in for good measure.

Miguel Indurain of Spain rides with the pack past the Arch of Triumph on his way to winning the Tour de France cycling race in Paris Sunday.

Sheehan hangs tough to win Women's Open over Green

LAKE ORION, Mich. (AP) — Patty Sheehan missed her 20th high school reunion while winning the U.S. Women's Open.

"I missed it all weekend, darn it," Sheehan said Sunday after her 1-stroke victory over Tammie Green. "Wooster High School in Reno, Nev. And I didn't finish first in the class, either. I was down the list a little bit."

Sheehan, 37, already an LPGA Hall of Famer, wore the red and white of the Wooster Colts as she carved out her fifth major victory and her second Open title in three years on the Old Course at Indianwood Golf and Country Club.

"I stayed home and practiced all last week," Sheehan said. "I worked pretty hard. That seemed to pay off. I felt pretty good when I got here. I thought I'd play pretty well."

"Obviously, I didn't know I was going to win. But I put three hours a day into it last week."

Sheehan and Green both closed with par-71s on the 6,244-yard Old Course, Sheehan finishing at 277 and Green at 278.

Liselotte Neumann of Sweden shot a 69 and was third at 281. Spain's Tania Abitola and Peru's Alicia Dibos tied for fourth at 283.

Those were the only golfers to break par as Indianwood came back to punish the field for the liberties taken in the early rounds, right after the course was softened by rain.

Rockets get game

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston basketball fans would love to keep reliving last year's NBA championship season, the only one in the Rockets' 27-year history.

At least that's what Houston entrepreneur Allen Olafson is hoping. In fact, he's banking on it.

Olafson is marketing a new trivia game he created called "Clutch City ... finally, The Board Game." The game recounts the Rockets' 1993-94 season in great detail.

The game started while Olafson followed the Rockets' road to the NBA title while recovering from back surgery.

Just to pass time, Olafson made a scrapbook out of clippings from newspaper sports sections.

Dallas and Buffalo should repeat, but stuff happens

Carlton Johnson
Staff Writer

The moment I've been waiting for is here. Football training camps are opened and for once - knock on wood - the Dallas Cowboys will start the season without any holdouts.

And hopefully, Emmitt Smith will be more careful when riding around in golf carts. I'm sure Barry Switzer would like that a lot!

Keep in mind that the training camps are just beginning and preseason games aren't far away, but the loose lips are already aiming at the ships they intend to sink.

In the NFC East, the Arizona Cardinals have given the white horse and lasso to Buddy Ryan, who thinks the Cardinals will make a serious run at the Cowboys.

The NFC East could be as interesting this year with the Cowboys, Cardinals and Giants as it was with the Cowboys and Giants last year, but I wouldn't count on it. Washington will have something to say about the division, what with former Cowboy assistant Norv Turner taking over as head coach, and foaming at the mouth to beat Dallas. Redskins fans will be looking for that Super Bowl form of three years ago. Good luck!

Miami will be a question

unless the Cowboys have a total breakdown during the season, they will repeat as NFC Champions, but don't take your eye off of Green Bay and San Francisco.

The 49ers, again, should make easy work out of defending their NFC West title, but they will need to come up with a better plan than last year's if they intend to dethrone the Cowboys.

Last year, former Cowboys' defensive coordinator Dave Wannstadt was able to get his feet wet as the Chicago Bears' head coach. Now that he knows the territory, the Bears may give Green Bay and Detroit a serious battle for the NFC Central title. Detroit is good with Barry Sanders, but Green Bay is still the best team in the division.

As for the Minnesota Vikings' chances in the NFC Central, Warren Moon may be the shot in the arm they need, but remember Moon, like Joe Montana and Steve DeBerg, has age working against him.

If parity has reached the NFL, it needs to find a home in the AFC, and soon. Until another team figures out how to get to the Super Bowl, the Buffalo Bills are still the team to beat.

Despite four consecutive Super Bowl losses, Buffalo has been a consistent NFL powerhouse. Marv Levy still has a good nucleus to work with, and as long as a team has the caliber of players Buffalo has, the Bills have to be considered AFC front runners again.

Miami will be a question until Dan Marino proves that he's back and in top form. The rest of the AFC East seems unlikely to challenge Buffalo for the division title.

Aging veterans Ronnie Lott and Boomer Esiason may be able to generate sparks for the New York Jets, but they will have to be big ones to bring down Buffalo.

Houston without Moon is like losing a backup quarterback at best. Cody Carlson was to Moon what Steve Young was to Montana for so many seasons, but Moon is gone and Carlson has his chance. He can do the job, but with a suspect offense and a defense minus Buddy Ryan, the Oilers are a question mark in the AFC Central, but may still be good enough to steal the division title. Of course they will have to get past the Pittsburgh Steelers, who seem to be on an upswing (minus some much needed consistency).

The AFC West may be the division to watch in 1994.

John Elway seems to have things going his way and the Denver Broncos' front office is giving him the talent that he needs, but he'll need help getting past the Los Angeles Raiders and Kansas City Chiefs, who should probably start looking for a permanent replacement for Montana if he can't play more than half the season.

On paper, the Dallas Cowboys and Buffalo Bills should clash again in the Super Bowl, but this is the NFL and bad things happen to powerhouse teams.

Astros pound Pirates again; Jays down Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — For years, the Houston Astros were known as a team that slapped singles and used its speed. Not this season, though.

Jeff Bagwell homered twice and drove in five runs and Craig Biggio hit a grand slam Sunday as Houston Astros routed the Pittsburgh Pirates 13-1.

The Astros won three times in the four-game series, outscoring the Pirates 38-11. Houston pulled within one game of the NL Central-leading Reds, and begins a three-game series at Cincinnati on Monday.

"Since I've been here, without a doubt, this is the best offense I've played on," Biggio said.

Bagwell leads the majors with 98 RBIs. He has hit 32 home runs, and his 20 homers this season at the Astrodome broke the team record of 18 set by Lee May in 1974. Bagwell has five multi-homer games this year.

Bagwell had a two-run single in the third inning. He hit a solo homer in the sixth and a two-run homer in the seventh. Bagwell homered Saturday night in an 11-0 romp.

"If we were in last place, it wouldn't be that big of a deal," Bagwell said.

Biggio's slam, his sixth home run of the season, made it 9-0 in the fifth.

Blue Jays 4, Rangers 2

TORONTO — The Toronto Blue Jays may still be spinning their wheels in the standings, but they've apparently emerged from their season-long funk.

The streaking Blue Jays won their eighth straight game Sunday, a 4-2 victory that completed a four-game sweep of the Texas Rangers.

Brad Cornett gave up five hits in six innings for his first major-league win for the two-time defending World Series champions, who are 7-0 at home since the All-Star break.

On July 3, the Blue Jays were 13 games under .500. Despite their recent success, however, Toronto has been unable to make up any ground on the New York Yankees who just finished a 10-1 road trip.

"We made some good headway trying to reach that point. But really we just have to concentrate on winning the next game," said Paul Molitor.

Keenan gets wish to coach Blues, but it costs him plenty

NEW YORK (AP) — In a settlement that will cost him more than half a million dollars, Mike Keenan will become coach and general manager of the St. Louis Blues.

A 10-day-old dispute between Keenan, the New York Rangers and the Blues was settled

Sunday after eight hours of talks at the office of NHL commissioner Gary Bettman.

The resolution included a $100,000 fine and 60-day suspension without pay for Keenan, plus a trade that sent Petr Nedved to the Rangers for Esa Tikkanen and Doug Lidster.

Keenan also must return four-fifths of his $500,000 signing bonus to the Rangers, whom he coached last season to their first Stanley Cup title in 54 years.

The suspension begins immediately.

Spain wins Federation Cup over U.S.

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Arantxa Sanchez Vicario used a tough match as a springboard to an easy victory in the Federation Cup finals.

Sanchez Vicario, who survived a three-set battle with Germany's Anke Huber on Saturday, cruised to victory Sunday over American Lindsay Davenport as top-seeded Spain won its third Federation Cup, sweeping the second-seeded United States 3-0.

"I think the fight I had yesterday was good," Sanchez Vicario said. "I was worried. I controlled the points better today."

Conchita Martinez helped clinch the title for Spain as she beat Mary Joe Fernandez 6-2, 6-2 in the first singles match.

Sanchez Vicario, ranked No. 2 in the world, broke Davenport in the first, fifth and seventh games to wrap up their decisive match, 6-2, 6-1, in 1 hour, 3 minutes.

Martinez and Sanchez Vicario later won a meaningless doubles match, 6-3, 6-4 over Gigi Fernandez and Mary Joe Fernandez.

Sunday's championship confirms Spain's strong standing in the tennis world.

Spain's Sergi Bruguera and Sanchez Vicario took the men's and women's titles at the French Open this year. Martinez won the women's title at Wimbledon.

"It was great to win this tournament for our country," Sanchez Vicario said. "We are very proud."

U.S. team captain Marty Riessen was impressed by the Spaniards.

"I think they both played really well," he said.
