Iraqi troops are still on the move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iraqi troops continue to move toward the Kuwaiti border despite claims from Baghdad that it is pulling back from its confrontation with a growing U.S. force in Kuwait, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Madeleine Albright said today.

Albright said she had just talked to Gen. John Shalikashvili, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, "who told me there is in fact evidence they are still moving from north to south with reinforcements, and no evidence that they are moving from south to north."

She said there was some indication of a reduced level of alert for those Iraqi forces near the border "but there is no movement away from the border."

The official Iraqi news agency said today that Iraq's elite Republican Guard had begun pulling back from the border Monday night.

The agency said the "important part" of these formations have already moved out and were heading to new positions north of Basra, Iraq's second-largest city and the southern capital.

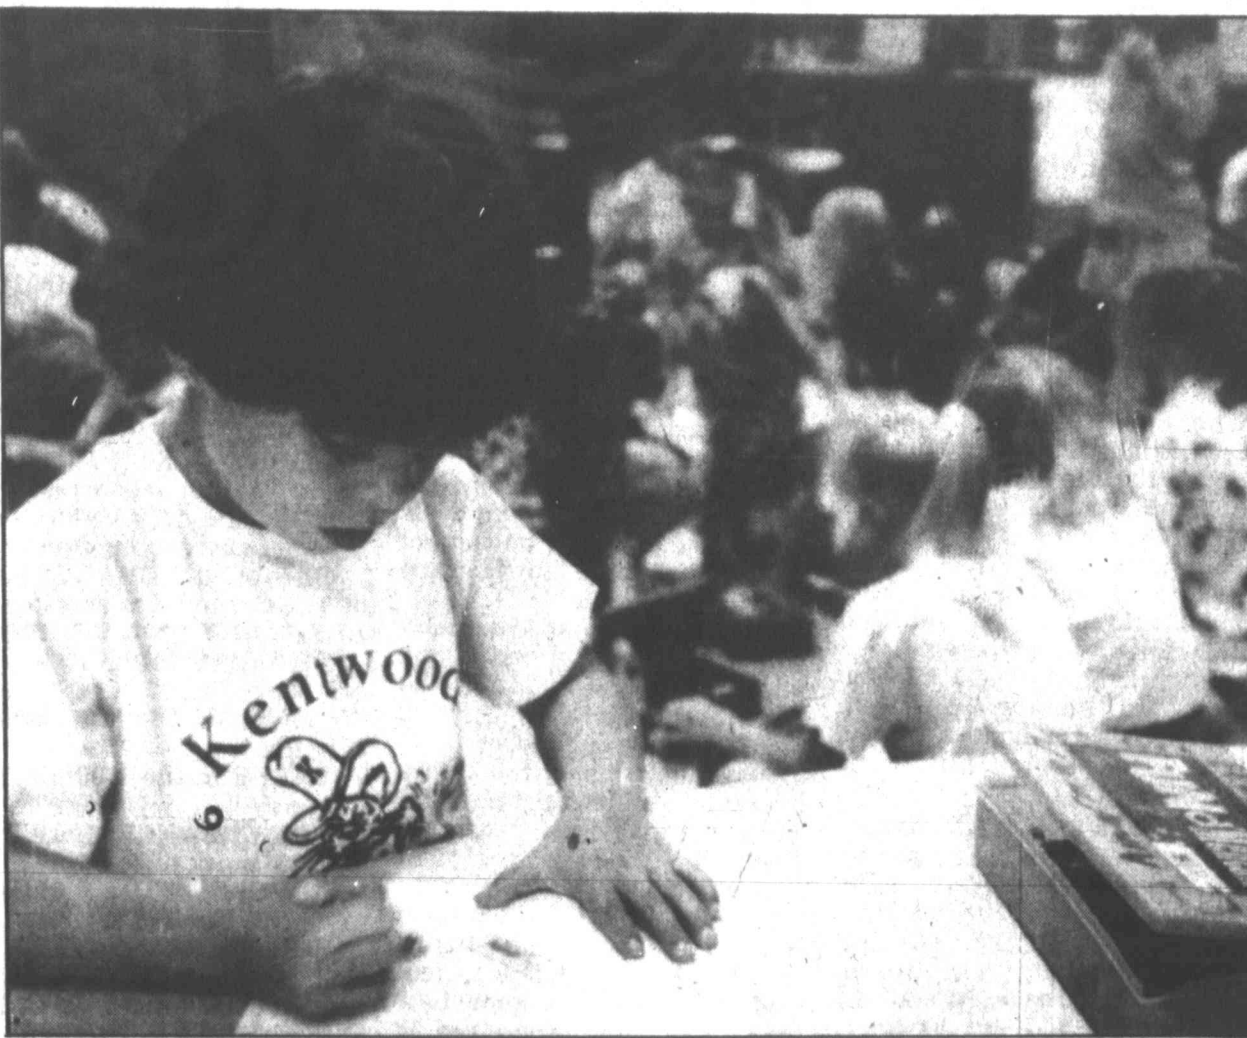

Albright, appearing on CNN, said the statements were indicative of Iraq's habit of saying one thing and doing something else. "This was the pattern in 1990," she said.

On CBS, she said it is imperative that steps be taken to ensure that Saddam "cannot continue to mess with us all the time."

As to the dispute over whether Iraqi troops are in fact pulling back, Albright said Iraqi "frankly has blown it big-time

Board close to filling director's position

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

After months of interviewing and screening potential successors to Ted R. St. Clair, the Moore Board is expected to make an offer to a candidate, recommended by the selection committee to become the next executive director.

Acting president Glenn Fillingim said the interview process concluded Friday with interviews of three finalists.

The position will be offered in open-session during Moore Board's Annual Meeting Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Dora Robert Civic Center.

Fillingim added officers for the 1994-95 year will also be selected.

The selection committee originally had selected four finalists for the executive director's position, but according to Fillingim, one of the finalists dropped out to accept another offer.

Prevent a fire or explosion: Take volatile chemicals outside

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

During Fire Prevention Week, members of the Big Spring Fire Department and Howard County Volunteer Fire Department will be making rounds to area schools to give students fire prevention tips.

A coloring contest for kindergarten through sixth grade is also being held this week. Big Spring Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles says it is a team effort between the two departments to host this year's contest.

"We have passed out the coloring books and the teachers will choose first, second and third place of each grade level. The winners work will be displayed at the mall on Oct. 15. Also on Saturday, both departments will have an exhibit at the mall with our fire trucks and the Jaws-of-Life," Settles explained.

While at the schools, fire officials will be teaching children the importance of participating in fire drills at school and at home as well as how to stop, drop and roll if their clothes catch on fire.

Taking care of your smoke alarm and preparing a family fire exit plan are also important ways to prevent fire injuries. An even more effective way is to prevent fires in the first place.

"People have been injured when they are cleaning with gas. The vapors are dangerous because if you are cleaning near a water heater or refrigerator and it clicks on, there could be an explosion or flash."

"It should be done outside and you should store flammable liquids away from the house," Settles said.

Another prevention tip is to be careful when using extension cords. They should be for temporary use only and if you need more than one outlet, purchase a multi-strip outlet with a trip switch. If it gets overheated, the switch will trip the mechanism off.

Having fire extinguishers near the exit of the kitchen and others in the bedrooms are also good ideas so they can be used to fight a fire wherever breaks out.

"Another important thing to remember is to wear tight fitting clothes when you are cooking. People often cook breakfast in their robe and nothing has gone wrong but there is always the potential of their clothes catching on fire."

"If a skillet catches on fire, use an extinguisher, baking soda or cover it with a lid. Do not use water or try to pick it up because the handle will be hot, you will probably drop it and the grease will pop up and catch your clothes on fire," Settles continued.

Some other fire prevention tips include:

- Check your heating appliances and have them serviced if necessary.
- If you use a space heater, keep all materials at least three feet away from it. Do not put near a bed where sheets may fall on it and catch on fire.
- Keep matches and cigarette lighters away from children. Kids as young as three years old can operate a lighter.
- Clean the vent-a-hood above your stove.

It will be a 'golden' time for class of 1944 this weekend

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The Big Spring High School class of 1944 will celebrate its 50th reunion Friday and Saturday as part of Homecoming 1994.

The reunion committee, coordinated by Pat Simmons, has been planning the "golden" reunion since March. Traditionally, every five years, four classes - the classes of 1943, '44, '45, and '46 - have celebrated with a reunion, but in 1989 it was decided that each class should have their own golden anniversary.

Simmons said, "This is a big deal for us."

She added the committee has really worked hard the last two months.

The class plans to have a float in the Homecoming parade Friday followed by dinner at the La Posada.

After dinner the class of 1944 will gather at the Howard College Student Union Building Fireplace Room for a visitation period.

At 9 a.m. Saturday official reunion registration will begin in the Tumbleweed Room of the Student Union Building.

A catered lunch will be served followed by a trip to Big Spring High School for Hall of Fame inductions, several from the class of 1944. BSHS veterans of WWII are this year's inductees.

Simmons said, "Since these were war years (years of the class of 1944) many of our boys enlisted before finishing school and completed their education later, however, we consider them members of our class and are proud that they cared enough about our country and were willing to serve as the war raged on."

Class pictures at 6 p.m. will begin the evening activities followed by a banquet in the Cactus Room. Barkley Wood, student body president for the class of 1944, now living in Alexandria, Va., will serve as master of ceremonies and the program called "Share Time" will be made up of recalled tidbits, teachers tales, and tales by Boyce.

Two teachers of the class of 1944 are also expected to attend the reunion: Reta (Davenport) Weeg of Big Spring and Sallie Sue Young of Odessa.

According to Simmons, classmates will be coming from Virginia, California, Florida, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri, Colorado, and all over Texas.

United Way contributions near $50,000

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

According to United Way Campaign Chairman Rey Villarreal pledges and contributions just received from Big Spring Independent School District employees has pushed total pledges to date beyond the $50,000 mark. This represents 23 percent of United Way's 1994-95 goal of $225,000.

Executive Director Carrol Jennings said, "I'm confident that we'll make our goal. Most of our money comes from employee campaigns, many of which are just getting started."

United Way pledges have more than doubled in the last 26 years, from $102,000 raised in 1968 to $211,000 in 1993. The United Way's most successful pledge year was 1991 when area citizens pledged $242,000.

Salary and compensation for the new director has not been discussed, but in previous meetings, it has been indicated that what ever is offered to a new director would not effect Moore Board's deal with St. Clair, who received his salary for the year in exchange for continuing to help Moore Board through the end of 1994.

Fillingim said the search committee had as many as 75 applications to review, but the list was narrowed to 11 or 12 and then to four to begin the final interviewing process.

According to Fillingim, Moore Board would like to have its new executive director in office by Jan. 1, 1995.

Despite the fluctuation of the economy during the last two decades, the average pledge total each year has been $208,000.

As for the current campaign, Villereal said, "One of our goals is to make sure that we contact as many people in Howard County as possible."

He also added that with many corporate campaign drives just beginning, he anticipates the contribution total to exceed $100,000 by the end of October.

Corporate campaigns include participants such as TU Electric, Fina Refinery, and the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The United Way will have a campaign report breakfast open to the public sometime in late October to let people know how the campaign has progressed.

Jennings said a final campaign celebration will take place in December and allocation meetings will begin in January 1995 to decide how much money United Way member organizations will receive. He added funds will be given out on Feb. 1, 1995, and will be for the months of January and February.

up here" at the United Nations. "They have blown their credibility and I hope they understand there are no mixed messages," she said.

President Clinton said Monday night that he is doubling U.S. air power in the Persian Gulf despite Iraq's promise to withdraw its troops shadowing Kuwait. He declared sternly, "We're interested in facts, not promises."

"Saddam Hussein has shown the world before ... that he cannot be trusted," Clinton said in a prime-time Oval Office address Monday.

Responding to Iraq's complaints about punishing U.N. sanctions, Clinton said Saddam knows what he must do to get his oil on the world market again: "Full compliance, not reckless provocation."

Clinton's seven-minute speech came hours after Iraq's ambassador to the United Nations said Iraqi forces would abandon their positions near the border of oil-rich Kuwait.

But with no immediate proof of a withdrawal, Clinton added 350 warplanes to his Persian Gulf arsenal in hopes of forcing Saddam from the brink.

with wrong cards

HOUSTON (AP) — The mayor of a Gulf coast city has left home too often with the wrong credit cards, and they have proven to be his undoing.

Jurors on Monday convicted League City Mayor Joe Lamb of two felony charges that he had used municipal credit cards for personal expenses.

The sentencing phase of Lamb's trial was scheduled to begin today. He was accused of charging as much as $9,000 from March 1991 to May 1993 on the city's American Express and Hertz credit cards.

Cashier indicted for stealing wages

RICHMOND (AP) — A Rosenberg woman has been indicted on a theft charge accusing her of stealing $68,000 in wages earned by mentally and physically impaired residents at the Richmond State School.

The second-degree felony theft indictment accuses Sonya Balderas, 25, of stealing money that was earned by residents for such jobs as assembling plastic cup lids, filling one-pound boxes with nails, putting together fishing leaders and working in the campus laundry.

"This is a sad and unfortunate case. It is an example of the strong picking on the weak," said Fort Bend County prosecutor Kathy Holton.

Ms. Balderas faces a maximum punishment of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine if she is convicted, the prosecutor said.

Sarpalius denies
FBI investigation

AMARILLO (AP) — U.S. Rep. Bill Sarpalius, D-Amarillo, denied Monday that the FBI is investigating him for possible financial disclosure violations.

"I want to make it clear that I am not a target of any investigation," he said. "I've never been subpoenaed. I have never appeared before any grand jury. I've never had any of my records seized."

Sarpalius presented documents to reporters at a Monday news conference to rebut published reports that the FBI is investigating him and two other House Democrats over ties to now-defunct Sherwood Van Lines of San Antonio and its president, Leslie Alfred Taber.

Contractor abuse reported in Cotton Bowl project

DALLAS (AP) — Some contractors in the Cotton Bowl renovation may have cost minority businesses more than $1 million through policy and legal abuses, according to a city audit.

Large, non-minority companies used the smaller minority-owned businesses as a front by reporting that they performed work or provided supplies and services when they did not, City Auditor Daniel Paul said.

Paul said a City Council committee requested Monday that the city manager and attorney's office meet with him and report back in two weeks.

Zedillo promises
Richards to help fight drug dealers

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — President-elect Ernesto Zedillo is promising to fight drug dealers in his country and protect the human rights of undocumented Mexican citizens in the United States.

"The reforms integrated into our system of justice will be the response to criminal violence and all the causes of delinquency that accompany narcotics trafficking," Zedillo said Monday during his first visit outside Mexico City since winning the Aug. 21 elections.

Zedillo also used a high-publicity appearance with Texas Gov. Ann Richards to convey stability and rule of law in this northeastern state where the plot was hatched to assassinate his ruling party's No. 2 man, Jose Francisco Ruiz Massieu, who was gunned down in Mexico City on Sept. 28.

"We will fight decisively, tirelessly, and with all the force of the government, against narcotics trafficking and all the political bosses who accompany the traffickers," Zedillo said.

The Mexican government has not ruled out possible links between drug traffickers and the Ruiz Massieu assassination.

However, the most recent statements from the Mexican attorney general's office indicate that anti-reform elements of the ruling party in this northeastern state of Tamaulipas conspired to kill Ruiz Massieu and other ruling party officials.

Tamaulipas Gov. Manuel Cavazos Lerma, whose name reportedly was on the death list of the assassination plotters, said Richards' visit demonstrated that his state is safe.

"We will not allow the prestige of the state of Tamaulipas to be harmed by the actions of two or three people," he said, referring to those accused of promising to pay a Tamaulipas farmhand $15,000 to kill Ruiz Massieu.

Richards said she pledged law enforcement resources in locating Manuel Munoz Rocha, a fugitive Mexican congressman from Tamaulipas who is accused of masterminding the scheme.

Mexican newspapers have reported that Munoz Rocha is hiding in Brownsville, Texas. "We just barely discussed that because I don't think anyone is sure that this is accurate," Richards said.

In a speech to ruling party faithful that was closed to U.S. reporters, Zedillo vowed to pressure the United States to protect the human rights of Mexicans who cross north of the border.

Prison employees suspended for use of excessive force in quelling disturbances

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Nine corrections employees were suspended Monday after an inmate died and two others were hurt in disturbances over the weekend at the Terrell prison near Livingston.

"Unauthorized and excessive use of force may have been used by employees during attempts by inmates to overpower prison guards in a recreational area," said Andy Collins, executive director of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Charges were expected to be filed against both inmates and prison staffers, Collins said.

"This agency will not tolerate unnecessary use of force, and should we find that excessive force was involved in this incident we will prosecute those involved to the fullest extent of the law, just as we will prosecute inmates who assault officers," Collins said.

Michael McCoy, 30, serving a six-year term for burglary and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle in Galveston County, died late Sunday at the prison hospital in Galveston.

The prison system, in a statement, said McCoy was taken to the hospital Friday night after he was found unconscious in his cell.

The cause of death was not immediately released.

The corrections agency said it had appointed a review group to identify issues that may have led to the incident.

In addition, officials said the FBI and authorities in Polk County, where the Terrell unit is based, also have been notified.

No moving gators unless a threat

HIGHLAND VILLAGE (AP) — State officials say they can't move the alligators residents along Lake Lewisville say inhabit the area unless they become a "threat to life, limb and property."

That news came Monday from Ernest DeLa Rosa, district supervisor for law enforcement for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department following reports from residents that at least two alligators have taken up residence in the area near Highland Village.

"How many children would have to be eaten in order for them to do something?" said Dr. Robert Neal, who said he won't allow his children to play near a cove where the gators were sighted.

DeLaRosa pointed out the alligators are a protected species, but he said his officers would take immediate action if any problems are reported.

"We certainly don't want anyone to get hurt, but we can't just walk up there like a dogcatcher," he said.

Nursing home facing loss of Medicaid

AUSTIN (AP) — A Dallas nursing home that must relinquish control to state regulators is also faced with the possibility of suspension from the federal Medicaid program following accusations of poor patient care.

A trustee appointed by State District Judge Joseph Hart is temporarily managing Kenwood Nursing Home.

The 120-bed home is one of more than 24 long-term care facilities temporarily taken over by a court-ordered trustee following Texas Department of Human Services investigations.

A DHS team found last week that one tube-fed female resident, weighing 88 pounds, was receiving only 720 calories of a nutritional supplement daily, compared with a nutritional consultant's recommendation of 2,144 calories a day.

Kenwood staff failed to follow doctors' instructions in care of several other residents, with one losing more than 40 pounds in less than a year and another suffering from severe pressure sores, the survey found.

The DHS, which sought court intervention because of the findings, also contended that a lack of hand washing and proper housekeeping practices led to an unsanitary environment.

In a proposed 23-day termination by DHS Commissioner Burt Raiford, Kenwood would be suspended from Medicaid unless deficiencies discovered by the agency are corrected within the period.

John Bottoms, a licensed nursing home administrator from Austin, was appointed by Hart to supervise all financial, personnel and health care activities at Kenwood.

Half of oil spill removed from bay

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — About half the crude oil spilled into Nueces Bay from a ruptured pipeline has been removed, but the U.S. Coast Guard warned boaters to stay away from areas still tainted with sheen.

Environmental workers used vacuum pumps and skimmers Monday in what Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro called a "tribute" to the state's rapid spill response team.

Mauro's agency helped to coordinate the cleanup after investigators said lightning caused the weekend pipeline rupture that released an estimated 400 barrels of oil.

The Coast Guard said there was no danger of the oil's igniting or of a health threat to boaters, swimmers or fishermen.

The cleanup was expected to take several more days, with workers clearing beaches in Corpus Christi and Nueces Bay.

Booms installed Sunday screened off Oso Bay and prevented oil contamination of sensitive nesting and feeding areas for birds and other animals, said Ken Rice, a conservation biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Cleanup crews moved from Oso Pier to the Nueces Bay Causeway by late Monday to help remove oil there.

Also, workers had contained patches of the light crude oil with booms at Indian Point Park and in Nueces Bay at the south end of the causeway.

Meanwhile, officials with the pipeline owner, Koch Industries, reviewed events that led to the spill. A spokesman said earlier that the oil leaked from a Koch pipeline four miles from Portland, flowed into Gum Hollow Creek and then spread into Nueces Bay.

The spokesman said the lightning caused a malfunction at the company's Three Rivers pumping station, freezing a valve and placing too much pressure on the pipeline.

'Learn not to burn'

Fire Prevention Week is here. For many people, it will simply mean cautionary newspaper articles they won't read. After all, fires are something that happen to other people...right?

Wrong. Think back to Friday's top story in the Herald. A Howard County family luckily managed to escape a propane gas explosion that destroyed their home.

Not all fire stories are so dramatic, but a fire doesn't have to involve an explosion to kill people. We see stories almost every day about fires caused by children who played with matches and lighters, or adults who failed to completely extinguish a cigarette before tossing it into a wastebasket.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless otherwise indicated.

Being prepared and informed is the best way to prevent such tragedies in our homes. The Herald printed a fire safety quiz Monday and today is running the last of a three-part informational series on fire safety.

When you see fire safety information, take time to read it. If you've seen it before, read it again. What you see on those pages may save your life, or that of someone you love.

Time to say goodbye to incumbents

Why do American businessmen spend a billion hours a year filling out forms for government?

Paul Harvey
Columnist

Because it is bigger than they are. There are now more Americans working for government than for industry.

Every generation of campaigning politicians promises to reduce the size of government, and every generation of elected politicians enlarges it.

Part of this is our fault. Americans nag Congress for not cutting spending, yet we are inclined to vote for the congressmen from our own districts who promise us more bridges, roads, post offices and public buildings.

Having acknowledged the degree of our own complicity, it is not you and I who keep approving bigger salaries, bigger pensions and more perks for the officials we elect.

The National Center for Policy Analysis has fed the numbers into its computer, and you will not like what came out.

For every one-dollar pay raise American workers receive, government employees get a raise of more than four dollars.

Federal, state and local governments are all guilty of over-paying employees, but the disparity is more flagrant at the federal level. Wages and salaries of federal civilian employees, on average, are 26 percent higher than wages in private industry. Include fringe benefits, and the federal-employee income averages $46,164. That's 46.2 percent more than the average income of the rest of us.

Include the greater amount of allowable time off from work, and the hourly compensation of government employees is 64 percent higher than yours. It is easy to understand why your taxes keep going up.

The average American family with children now pays out 37.6 percent of its total income in taxes. When both a husband and wife are employed, two-thirds of the wife's earnings go to pay federal taxes.

Even when states try to curtail government extravagance on their own, they are thwarted by chronic spendthrifts in Congress. Some states have valiantly sought to reduce welfare cheating, such as the trading of food stamps for cash.

But instead, the United States Congress is voting to throttle those state experiments. Senate and House conferees have already voted to deny the states' rights to reform welfare.

National welfare reform in Congress is dead - now they are determined to choke off any state efforts to reform it.

More and more, it is appearing that in November, you are going to have to vote no to all incumbents!

Support from parents band welcomed

Dear Forsan Band Parents and students:

Thank you for the tremendous support you have given the Buffalo band. There has been much hard work done by many parents. Someday when your kids are parents they will appreciate the hard work you put in for them. They will appreciate the nights you spend in the parking lot waiting for that late band bus to come in.

A special thanks to all of the parents who worked on the smorgasbord dinner last Friday night and thanks to the parents who sold the hats and window stickers. It is so great that you are working so hard for all the students.

I really appreciated the parents who went with us on the Howard Payne trip. You spent some long hours taking care of problems that I could not have covered. It was very gratifying to see so many parents travel so far to watch their kids perform. I believe it will be a memory that you will never forget.

Finally to my band. Thank you for representing your community and school so well. The Howard Payne administration called to tell me that you left quite an impression on campus, not only in your performance, but in your actions.

You kids that cleaned the stadium after the band left without me telling you to really showed me that you are growing into adults. The lifeguard at the pool told the Director of Student Life Ann Harris that you were the best group of kids they had ever worked with. That is worth much more to me than the performance, but that great performance sure didn't hurt.

Words can't express my admiration for Meagan Stanley. She was determined to perform at the Howard Payne game and she did. She may be going through some very difficult physical problems, but you will not hear her whining and feeling sorry for herself. Every time I see her, she has that beautiful smile on her face no matter how she feels.

The Howard Payne Athletic Director said Meagan had made a big impact on his football team. Her attitude under such circumstances is the best role model anyone could have.

Meagan, the football team signed that game ball for you out of great love and respect. Again, I thank the Forsan parents and students. You made me feel good to be a teacher again.

Sincerely,
Bob Fishback
Forsan Band director

Forsan Band makes a great impression

Editor:
Last Saturday, guests at Howard Payne University were members of the Forsan High School band, directed by Mr. Bob Fishback. Along with this 130-member organization were sponsors, moms, dads, other relatives and friends of the band.

The entire group made a magnificent impression! Musically, the band was wonderful with its musical renditions, and it added much to half-time activities at the football game.

All in all, it was a great day for us to meet such wonderful people, and recognize yet another organization of young people who represented their community in the very finest way.

They will always be welcome guests at Howard Payne University!

Kindest regards,
Don Newbury

No surprise that Gilman won

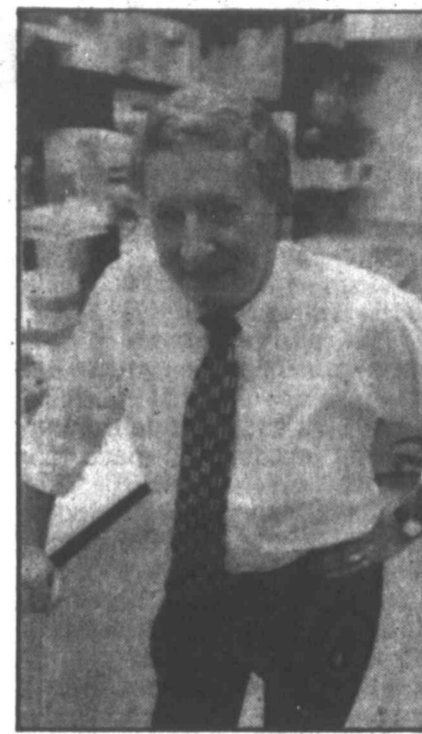

DALLAS (AP) — The work of one of the newest Nobel Prize winners in the field of medicine has been described as revolutionary.

That's why Alfred G. Gilman's colleagues at The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas weren't surprised to learn Monday that Gilman had won the coveted prize.

"Inevitable" was what Southwestern Medical School Dean William Neaves called the recognition of Gilman's work in the discovery of the G-protein, part of an internal "switchboard" in cells that has helped scientists understand killer diseases such as cancer and diabetes.

"We are pleased, but hardly surprised, that the Nobel Assembly has seen fit to honor Dr. Gilman with this award, recognizing work that clearly is of revolutionary importance to the scientific community and the world," said university President Kern Wildenthal. "Finally," was the reaction of fellow Nobel laureate, Johann Deisenhofer, who won the prize for chemistry in 1988.

Gilman, chairman of the department of pharmacology at UT Southwestern, and Martin Rodbell, a scientist emeritus at the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences in North Carolina, were the first to identify G-proteins and the role they play in letting cells react to signals from other cells.

Dr. Alfred G. Gilman, 53, poses in a lab at The University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. Gilman, along with Dr. Martin Rodbell, won the Nobel Prize for medicine for his discovery of an internal "switchboard" in cells.

They made the discovery, while working separately, from the 1960s to the mid-1980s. Rodbell and his team were working at the U.S. National Institutes of Health at the time.

Gilman was working at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

"For the moment it means enormous pride and enormous excitement and gratitude," said the 53-year-old Gilman, who will split the $930,000 prize with Rodbell. "We'll see beyond that."

The scientists found that once a cell has received chemical signals from surface proteins called receptors, G-proteins transmit and modify these signals within a cell to produce the cell's response. Problems with G-proteins - too many or too few of them - can lead to disease.

Gilman said it is far from complete.

"When we know the whole switchboard, when we know how every piece in that switchboard is wired... every which way each arrow goes, we'll have a much better ability to design and use drugs with greater specificity, less toxicity, more precision in treating disease," he said.

Gilman, who joined the university in 1981, is the fourth UT Southwestern faculty member to win the Nobel Prize. He earned his undergraduate degree in biochemistry from Yale University and his medical and doctorate degrees from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

Dr. Martin Rodbell hugs his wife Barbara at a news conference in Gaithersburg, Md., Monday where he met with the media after being named the recipient of the 1994 Nobel Prize in medicine along with Dr. Alfred Gilman of Dallas. Their work on the G proteins, a key component of the communication system that regulates cellular activity, was recognized.

Rodbell decries bottom line attitude in science

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The world ain't the same," says Nobel Prize winner Dr. Martin Rodbell, since he became a scientist. And neither is science.

"Now everything is bottom line, everything is how to make a buck," Rodbell told a news conference Monday after being notified he was co-winner of the Nobel Prize in medicine.

Rodbell said that at the National Institutes of Health he had "the privilege of being able to think for myself, to be against, to be for, but always to be myself."

But the scientist said he retired in June from the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences, because there was no more money for his work.

"The budgets at NIH, particularly where I was working, were finally cut down to the point that I didn't have money to continue," he said. "That is not NIH's fault. That's the way things have been going for a long time."

Spending on science, said Rodbell, is controlled by goal-oriented research instead of the basic search for knowledge that drove his work.

"I think the attitudes of Congress and the executive branch has always been... toward the end goal. Build a better mouse trap. Have someone go to the moon," he said. "Underlying all of that is that they are not willing to take a

Magellan ends mission, dying in Venus's atmosphere

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The spacecraft Magellan headed toward its death in the atmosphere of Venus after a five-year mapping mission that revealed towering volcanoes and crisp-edged craters on the surface of Earth's nearest neighbor.

Scientists were to fire thrusters today to send the spacecraft down through miles of Venus' carbon dioxide and sulfuric acid clouds. The fall is a last experiment to explore the spacecraft's aerodynamics as it plows through the atmosphere.

"That data will be used to help program the Mars Global Surveyor, when it tries to use aerobraking on Mars," which also has a carbon dioxide atmosphere, said Magellan project manager Douglas G. Griffith.

Magellan has been the first craft to demonstrate the potential of aerobraking, which uses a planet's atmosphere to adjust a craft's orbit. The Mars-mapping Global Surveyor is to be launched in 1996.

Scientists will lower Magellan to within 90 miles of Venus's surface. It will eventually lose power and contact with Earth, possibly by Wednesday, ending the $900 million mission.

Scientists can only speculate on Magellan's ultimate fate.

Some of its parts may disintegrate, but the sturdiest components could drift and land on Venus as late as next Monday, Griffith said.

As it nears the surface, Magellan would "just flutter down at 30 to 40 mph. It does not go in like a meteorite," Griffith said. "It will heat up. Maybe things will start to burn into cinders, but we don't really know for sure."

Venus is 25 million miles from Earth at its closest approach. Magellan began orbiting Venus in August 1990 after a 15-month flight.

Since there was no practical way to return Magellan to Earth, researchers planned the slow dive to get another batch of experimental data under controlled conditions rather than simply wait for Magellan to wear out.

"We are not destroying it," Griffith said last week. "We are trying to get the last bit of good out of it before it destroys itself."

KUWAIT (AP) — The prime minister told Kuwaitis to be calm, despite a huge buildup of Iraqi forces a few miles across the border. But worried residents rushed to withdraw savings as the first of thousands of U.S. troops landed.

"There is no reason for worry or fear on the part of my brothers the citizens," Crown Prince Sheikh Saad al-Abdullah al-Sabah told an emergency session of Parliament on Monday. "The military situation has changed a lot in Kuwait's favor, and it will continue doing so in the coming hours."

Social Security to cut its work force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under orders from the White House, Social Security is planning deep cuts in its work force, and critics say that means more busy signals, longer waits and less attention to finding fraud.

The Social Security Administration, according to documents obtained by The Associated Press, intends to pare its payroll by nearly 5,000 employees over the next five years, with the deepest cuts occurring after the 1996 presidential elections.

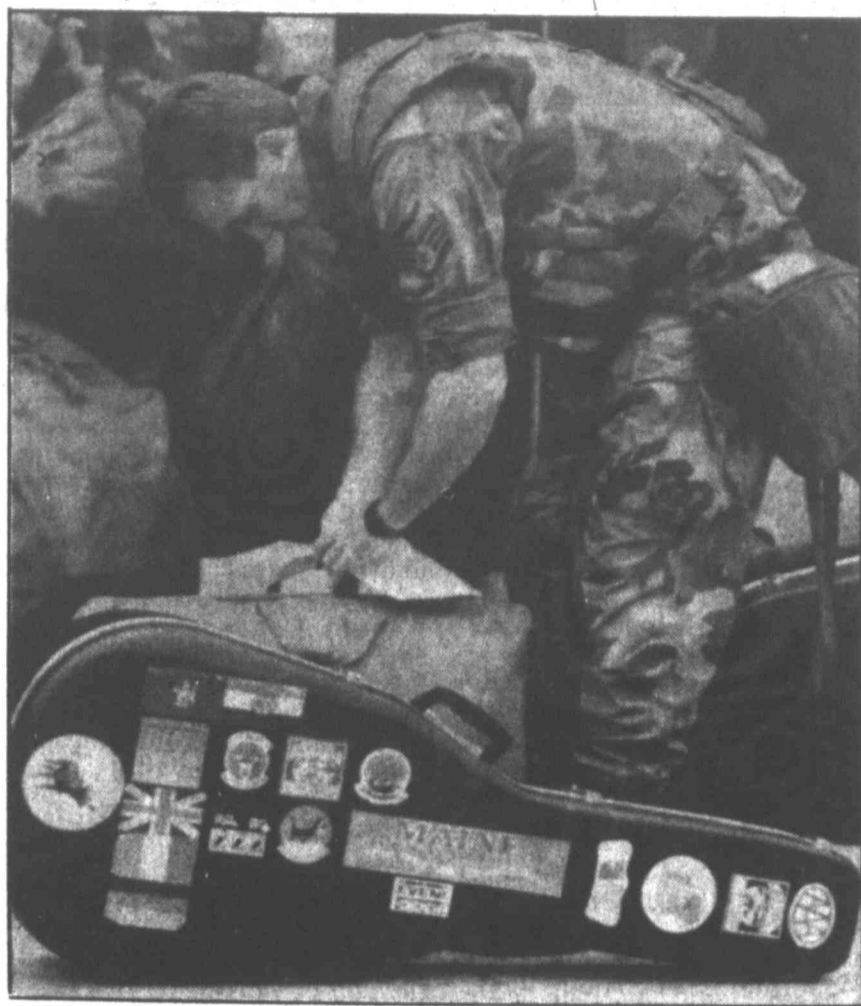

Agency officials say they are under orders to cut the work force as part of President Clinton's drive to streamline government by eliminating 272,000 federal jobs.

To police, the 70-year-old French-Canadian was a key to solving the mystery behind the mass murder-suicide of 53 members of a doomsday cult reportedly involved in arms smuggling and money laundering.

Police confirmed Monday that di Mambro had been identified as one of 25 charred bodies found in a burned-out Alpine chalet last Wednesday. The role he played in the deaths of 23 cult members in a farmhouse in another village, and five other followers in a building he owned in Canada was unclear.

Contentious meeting leads to Arafat, Rabin
winning peace prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The Nobel Peace Prize committee, during a contentious meeting, has decided to give this year's award to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO leader Yasser Arafat, a newspaper reported today.

The award was not to be announced formally until Friday.

But the Oslo daily Aftenposten reported the news early, based on unnamed sources, after the committee had trouble deciding during a meeting last week who should win the award for achieving last year's historic Middle East peace breakthrough.

The newspaper said the five-member Norwegian awards committee's decision so angered one member, Kare Kristiansen, that he has threatened to resign in protest.

Aftenposten reported that the decision to give the prize to Rabin and Arafat still could be reversed if the committee, in the face of the controversy, takes the unprecedented step of changing its decision.

The difficulty centered on whether the $933,000 prize, the most coveted of the six Nobel awards being given this month, should be shared equally among both sides to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

Aside from Rabin and Arafat, other key players included Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres and Mahmoud Abbas, a founder of the Palestine Liberation Organization who signed the peace accord with Israel last year in Washington.

Aftenposten, citing unidentified sources, said Kristiansen, who is a long-time supporter of Israel, adamantly opposed to giving the prize to Arafat. Kristiansen still considers Arafat a terrorist, according to the newspaper.

Denver's teachers go on strike

DENVER (AP) — Risking jail and $100-a-day fines, Denver's public teachers went on strike Monday for the first time in 25 years.

The state went to court later in the day to demand a court order forcing the teachers back to work. The hearing was postponed until Tuesday to give teachers time to prepare their case.

Officials worked to keep classes running for the district's 63,000 students with substitute teachers, administrators and teachers who refused to join the strike against the city's 107 public schools.

Students reported light attendance. At one high school, students were sent to an auditorium to watch "Jurassic Park."

Superintendent Irv Moskowitz said operations were "very close to normal" in many schools, and the screening of "Jurassic Park" was unusual.

About 3,000 of the district's 3,800 regular teachers stayed away from class, said Leonard Fox, spokesman for the teachers union.

District officials didn't return telephone calls seeking figures on student attendance or the number of teachers who crossed picket lines. State Labor Commissioner Joe Donlon contends the strike is illegal and strikers could face $100-per-day fines and up to 60 days in jail.

The last time that Denver teachers walked off the job, in 1969, the strike lasted 14 days.

Teachers called the strike Sunday after rejecting a one-year contract that would have given them a $1,001 raise. Denver teachers make an average of $35,004 per year.

The pay package was worth $5.1 million. The teachers sought a package closer to $8 million. Teachers had also sought such things as a union voice on school governance committees and restrictions on how often teachers can be called back to school beyond normal classroom times.

Troop buildup delays action on sanctions

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iraq's saber rattling appears to have cemented support in the Security Council for delaying any talk of easing the crushing U.N. economic sanctions against Baghdad.

U.N. resolutions call for lifting the oil embargo — but not the full trade sanctions — after a weapons monitoring system is working and Iraq has eliminated its weapons of mass destruction.

But the Iraqi troop buildup near the Kuwaiti border has apparently united the council in calling for a postponement of any debate on easing the sanctions.

"No one in the council is prepared to discuss these issues under threats," said Security Council President David Hannay.

Iraq is insisting the embargo, imposed after the 1991 Gulf War, be lifted. Some of the 15 Security Council members, led by France and Russia, had favored easing the sanctions.

But with its newest threatening gestures, Kuwaiti Ambassador Mohammad Abulhasan said Iraq has "destroyed whatever support they had in the Security Council." Kuwait is not a member of the council, but was invited to take part in a council meeting Monday.

President Clinton on Monday ordered B-52 bombers and more fighter jets into the Persian Gulf, despite an Iraqi announcement that it is pulling back its forces from the border. Up to 70,000 U.S. troops were mobilized or standing by for duty in the region.

The Security Council began circulating a long-awaited report Monday night that said Iraq was cooperating with U.N. weapons monitors and that a complex system to monitor any Iraqi attempts to reacquire weapons of mass destruction was up and running.

The program, the most elaborate and complex weapons monitoring system ever, uses video cameras and chemical sensors to monitor missile test ranges and factories that could be used to manufacture weapons. Helicopters and aircraft will also be used to photograph missile ranges and areas where weapons could be built.

Bush defends
Hussein decision

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Former President Bush defended his decision to end the Persian Gulf War without toppling Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein, saying the mission was to kick Hussein out of Kuwait, not eliminate him.

"We would have lost the support of the other countries," Bush said Monday as he stumped in Florida for his son Jeb who is running for governor.

Bush also said he did not want a single American to lose his or her life in "downtown Baghdad, searching for a villain who had the security system second to none."

"The United States should never measure its macho standing by how many people you can slaughter," Bush said. "That army was defeated. They were running down the highway of death with their hands in the air and I just did not feel — and I know my decision was morally correct — that you don't measure victory by stacking up dead bodies."

Anti-nuclear group
protests ships landing

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A militant anti-nuclear group today opposed the visit of U.S. Navy ships as part of the 50th anniversary of the landing of Allied forces to liberate the Philippines during World War II.

In a statement, the Nuclear-Free Philippines Coalition decried "this wanton assault of the Philippine constitution by U.S. nuclear armed vessels."

The group also claimed the port calls encourage prostitution. "We feel ashamed that our territory and women are being offered for the sexual appetites of an en masse of thousands of American visiting servicemen," the statement said.

The 1987 Philippine constitution bans nuclear-capable ships from entering the Philippines.

'Cats may not remain anonymous for long

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

LENORAH - Few people outside six-man football's District 5 know anything about the Grady Wildcats, but that could change this week.

The 'Cats would just as soon stay anonymous, but their 54-22 win over eighth-ranked Klondike Friday may vault them into the top 10 of the state six-man poll.

"I hope we're not in the poll this week, either," said Grady third-year coach Roger Smith. "Nobody's recognized us all year, and that's fine with us. To most people, we're just a little school out in the middle of nowhere, and we kind of prefer it like that."

On the football map, however, the dot that marks Grady keeps getting larger. Grady (5-1) finished 8-2 last season, but its 3-2 district mark was good only for a second-place tie with Klondike and Wellman.

Klondike won the runner-up playoff spot in a three-way coin flip, which helped fuel Grady's fires for this season.

Grady's strong senior class leads the team.

"All of our seniors - except for Jeff Thigpen, who just got here this year - all five of us have been here ever since kindergarten, and they've played all four years of high school," said senior Matt Hale, who sees time at running back, defensive end and placekicker. "We hadn't beaten Klondike in the three years that we'd been here."

Hale isn't the only player with a multitude of duties. Grady's roster is small, even by six-man standards. Season-ending injuries to Brady Peugh, Michael Madison and Freddy Hinojosa have cut the 'Cats roster to just 11. Still, Grady keeps winning, though it lost its season opener against Ropes, a team ranked as high as No. 1 for losing three games, including one to Klondike.

"I think that helped us some," said Rawley Mims, a senior center and defensive end. "It kind of showed us where we needed to be. They just dug down a little deeper than we did."

When you have just 11 players, all have to contribute, yet the bulk of the offense has come from quarterback Timmy

Garza and running back Tommy Hewtty, both seniors. Hewtty has been nearly unstoppable, scoring 18 touchdowns during the last three games, all the while passing all the credit to his blockers.

"We never felt like we ever wanted a superstar," Smith said. "Yea, Tommy's kind of become a star, but just to be around Tommy you know he understands the team concept. He doesn't look at himself as being better than anybody."

Hewtty said: "One thing that's got us going is that for a lot of us, this is our senior year, our last chance. But some people forget that our defense is doing a really good job. You do a good job, keeping Klondike from scoring more than two or three times."

Grady plays at Loop Friday, then at home Oct. 21 against Sands. Vance McMorries, a senior end and cornerback, said rankings mean little, though it adds to Grady's belief that it's good enough to make the playoffs, something it hasn't done since 1991.

"We're good enough to go to the playoffs - we just can't take Loop and Dawson for granted," said McMorries. "Coach Smith is a motivator - he gets everybody to do their job. He's a really good coach that got us to

Emmitt enjoys 'day off'

IRVING (AP) - Emmitt Smith is hoping his injured hamstring will let him play all the way against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Smith got plenty of rest last Sunday against the Arizona Cardinals, playing only a half in the 38-31 loss.

"My hamstring was getting tight, and I'm not sure how much longer I could have played," Smith said. "It was good to get a huge lead so I could get treatment at halftime and not have to play anymore."

Smith said he hopes to practice on Wednesday.

"I'm still sore but I feel it getting better," he said. "I'll be fine. I've still got some time to let it heal completely. It doesn't feel as tight as it did last week."

The Cowboys gave Buddy Ryan his worst loss as an NFL coach in the rout during which Smith carried the ball nine times and scored two touchdowns. He gained 22 yards as the Cowboys took a 28-0 halftime lead.

"We didn't need him against the Cardinals, but we will against the Philadelphia Eagles on Sunday," said offensive line-man Nate Newton. "And we'll have to have him all day in that game."

Smith pulled his right hamstring in the first half of a 34-7 victory Oct. 2 over the Washington Redskins. He also wasn't needed in the second half of that game.

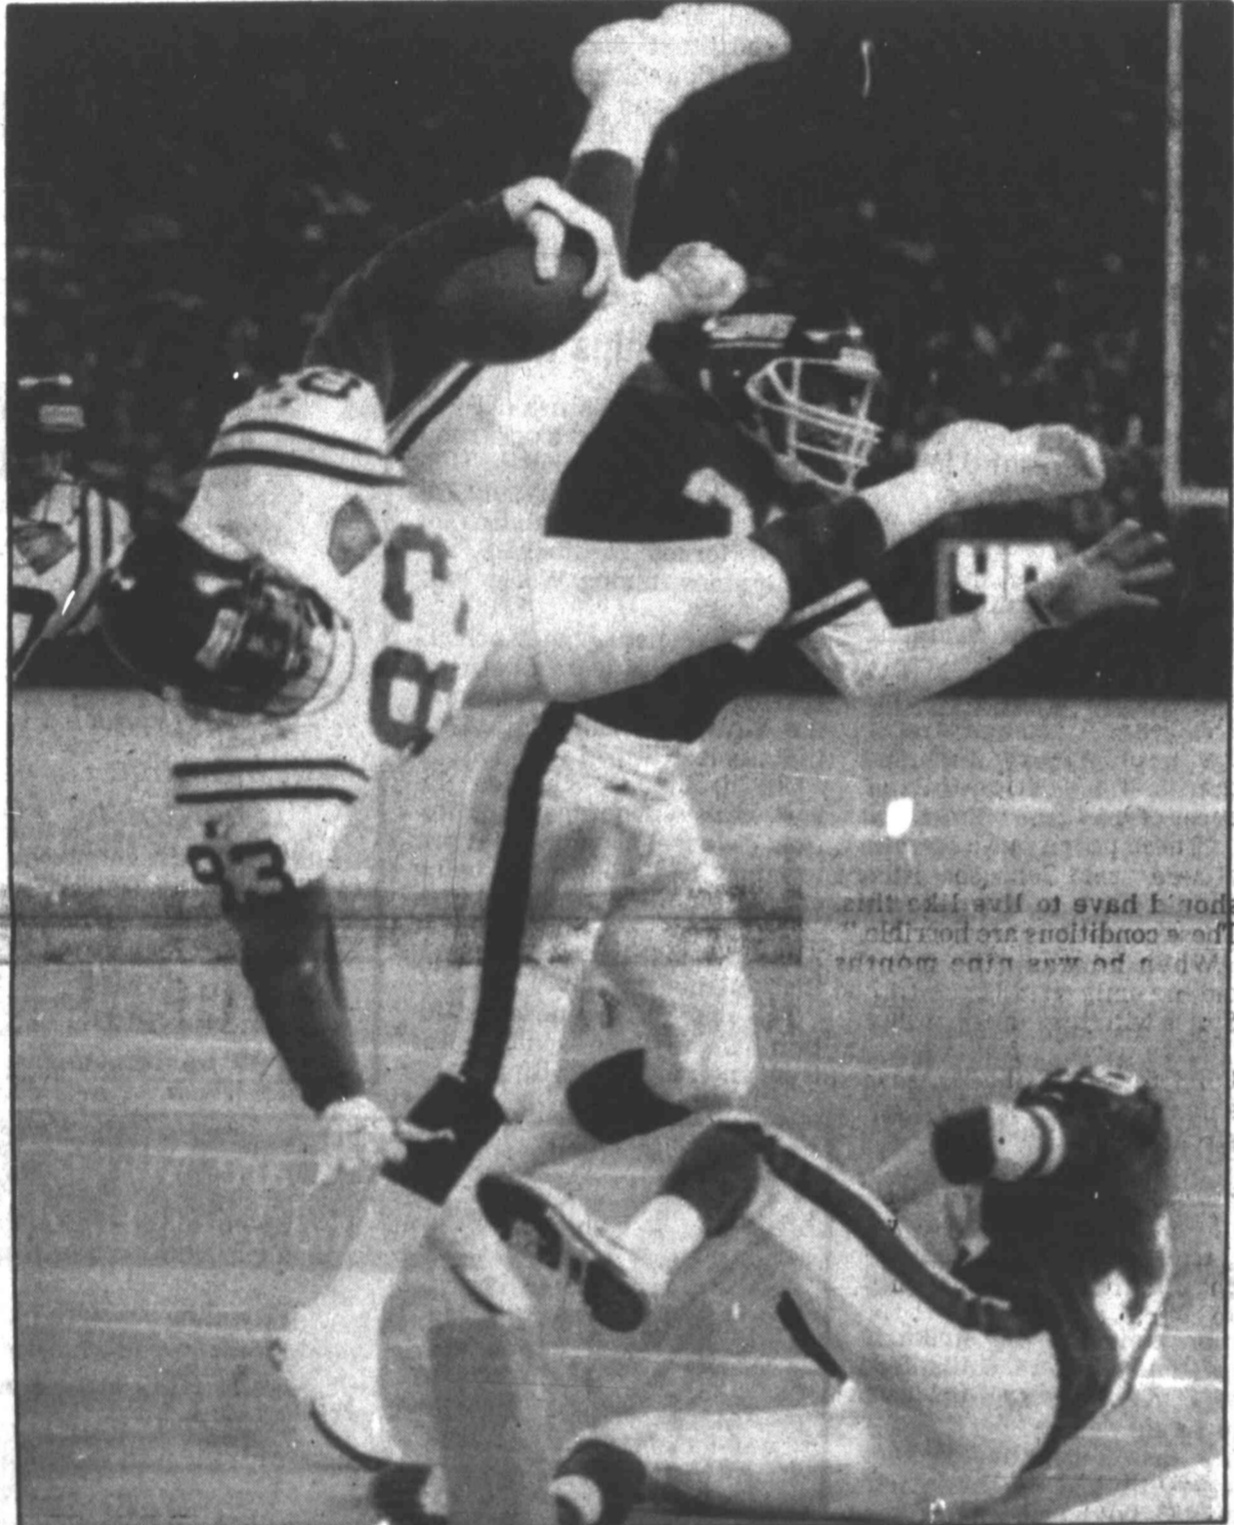

Smith, who has played in 73 consecutive games, said there was no need to push it against the Cardinals.

"It was nice not to have to play so much," he said. "We showed the Cardinals we can do more than just run the ball. With the lead we had, there really wasn't any reason for me to play."

Quarterback Troy Aikman connected on 16 of 22 passes for 231 yards and two touchdowns. Michael Irvin caught eight passes for 136 yards against the blitzing Arizona defense.

"They played a lot of man coverage and challenged us to make plays outside, and that's what we did," said Irvin, who caught a 12-yard touchdown pass. "We love it when teams do that."

Back to the baseball fantasy world. If you were here Thursday, you heard Major League Baseball's owners and players had reached an agreement in mid-September to play the playoffs and World Series. After grappling over how and where to play the post-season, Major League Baseball threw its hands in the air and sold the postseason rights to Pepsi-Cola for $40 billion.

and Pinocchio. Thomas is suspended for the next round.

Texas vs. Kansas City
Texas beat Kansas City in a heated five-game series. Texas Ranger manager Kevin Kennedy charged the Royals' dugout and landed some hellacious hits on K.C. centerfielder Brian MacRae in Game 1. Pepsi-Cola suspended Kennedy for the remainder of the playoffs, but the beating knocked MacRae out of the series, leaving the Royals without their star center fielder. The Rangers named Jose Canseco player-manager.

Cleveland vs. Baltimore
Baltimore, playing under the guidance of owner Peter Angelos in the wake of manager Johnny Oates' dismissal, fell to the Indians in three games. In Game 1, Angelos phoned to the Orioles' dugout and ordered closer Lee Smith to pitch the ninth inning even though the Orioles led 6-0. Smith, who had not thrown in the bullpen, gave up a grand slam to Indians shortstop Omar Vizquel as part of a seven-run rally. Police are still searching for Angelos.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Montreal vs. Philadelphia
John Kruk, proclaiming "this baseball season is a joke," went deep-sea fishing and took buddies Lenny Dykstra and Darren Daulton with him. More than 10 other Philadelphia players skipped the series, and though Steve Carlton and Tim Lincecum came out of retirement for the Phillies, Montreal won in three straight.

Cincinnati vs. San Francisco
Barry Bonds smacked seven homers in the three-game sweep for the Giants, prompting the team to announce that all of their merchandising proceeds for the rest of 1994 will go to the Barry Bonds Child Support Fund.

Los Angeles vs. New York
New York outfielder Bobby Bonilla missed the series, spending his time in court suing Major League Baseball for lost wages. His teammates joined him, hoping they could cash in if a quick decision went in Bonilla's favor. Bonilla lost the case, and the Mets' Triple-A team lost the series.

Atlanta vs. Houston
In a classic five-game set, the Astros won a postseason series for the first time. Atlanta led the series 2 games to 1, but Braves manager Bobby Cox, holding a 5-2 lead in the ninth inning of Game 4, spotted former-Royal, former-Brave, former-Ranger castoff Charlie Leibrandt in the stands and asked him to get the last three outs. Jeff Bagwell hit a grand slam, and the rest is history.

Whether the "Cats have fixed themselves a lofty state ranking, no one in the locker room seems to care."
"In a way, it might help us out. A high ranking will show us that we've improved a lot," Hewitt said. "In another way, it might get us a little excited, get us a little nervous."
"The only poll the counts is the one after the 15th week," said Smith, referring to the poll after the state championship game. "That's the one I hope we're in."

Canseco visits Cuban refugee camp

GUANTANAMO BAY NAVAL BASE, Cuba (AP) — The chants of crowds who have sighted Jose Canseco have been the same wherever he has traveled — even overseas.

Canseco, who was born in a suburb of Havana, visited 19 refugee camps Sunday to deliver on a promise he made to himself while watching news reports of rafters trying to reach Florida.

Thousands of Cuban refugees at Guantanamo Naval Station, Cuba, give baseball superstar Jose Canseco a hero's welcome Sunday.

"Canseco! Canseco!" shouted crowds of refugees who added cries of "Libertad! Libertad!"

Carrying toys for Cuban children living in the tent cities, The Texas Rangers designated hitter said the trip was one of the most educational experiences of his life.

"These people have to get out of here," said Canseco. "No one should have to live like this. These conditions are horrible."

When he was nine months old, he emigrated to the United States with his family in 1964.

"I've always felt a special bond toward Cuba," Canseco said. "After seeing this, I feel a stronger bond."

Canseco drove softballs over a barbed-wire fence into a mass of refugees. But later, he wiped a tear from his eye as a gathering of children sang of wanting to be free.

"I was brought up believing men don't cry," said Canseco. "But I actually almost started breaking down and crying. It was from the heart, and you could tell. Children don't lie."

The player was accompanied by his 66-year-old father, Jose

Sr., and by Seattle Mariners shortstop Alex Rodriguez, who was raised in Miami by Dominican parents.

The entourage delivered 20,000 pounds of toys in conjunction with World Relief Service. The 6-foot-3, 245-pound Canseco was busy passing out toys to children.

"I've gone to hospitals," said Canseco. "I've seen burn victims, disfigured kids, kids in despair. You think you've seen it all, but this puts everything in a whole different perspective."

After Canseco hit a softball for a homer, a crowd of young men surged forward and hoisted him on their shoulders before U.S. military personnel intervened.

Cubans remember Canseco as the 40-40 man — the only player to hit 40 home runs and steal 40 bases in the same season.

"Of course we know him," said Esteban Rivero, who helped prepare the field where Canseco pounded softballs. "He's the greatest Cuban baseball player ever."

Canseco met 30-year-old Euclides Rojas, who was a pitcher for the Cuban national team until he tried unsuccessfully to leave the island aboard a raft.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are coming on more forcibly than you realize. Another needs to get key feedback from you about what is acceptable. A positive approach helps you. Control your temper. Know what is asked of others. Tonight: Smoke the peace pipe with your partner. ****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You need to work through a problem. Get into your gainful activities and stay focused. You could deal yourself a setback. Be aware of your tendency to get tripped by reversal, but be more gentle and easy going. Think twice in dealings. You might be in a sour mood today. Tonight: Vanish. **

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Push comes to shove. Finances are strained. You despair of getting what you really want and frustration ensues. A positive approach promotes happiness, but be aware of your limits. Dealings bring understanding. Remain optimistic. Tonight: Time for play. ****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Responsibilities call. You have an odd way of presenting a situation. Another responds negatively, but be sure you are positive about your options. Don't take another's mood personally. A domestic squabble ends if you stay upbeat. Tonight: Don't push another away. **

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Feel free to ask. Much is going on behind the scenes that you might not understand. You need information. Today's creativity is limitless if you see negative situations to create positive outcomes. Tonight: Hang out with the gang and swap war stories. *****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Watch spending. You could go overboard. You might need to be aware of another's limits. You might need to be aware of another's limits. You might be taking an unnecessary risk to your relationship by pushing too hard. Be aware of what others expect before proceeding. Tonight: Balance your budget first. *****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Despite the hassles around you, you do just fine. Let your creativity surge. Stay on top of a situation. Know more of what's going on. A positive approach permits new beginnings. Be optimistic and ask for the support you need. Tonight: Be a social butterfly. ****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Get a better perspective on what you can and cannot do. There is an intensity right now that you should back away from. Others' tempers flare. They really do not understand what's happening. Tonight: Gather information and choose not to react. ****

IF OCT. 12 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Beware of flirtation. It could get you into a lot of trouble this year. Partners could become jealous, and you could lose out. Remember your long term goals in all dealings: romantic, financial and emotional. Use caution with someone younger than you who may not be taking advantage of you intentionally, but could give you faulty advice. If you are single, choose carefully from the plethora of opportunities that will knock. If you are attached, again, be careful with flirtation. Keep limits in mind. Think long-term. AQUARIUS is provocative.

Day schedule makes nights miserable

DEAR ABBY: My husband works as a security guard full time on the midnight shift. He makes $5.50 an hour. I also work full time, on an afternoon shift, making almost three times as much as he does. We are working these shifts so we don't need outside day care for our children. We have a baby together, and he has a son by a previous marriage who lives with us.

My problem is that he has been on the midnight shift for more than two years, and I have been getting very depressed as time goes by. I would like him to find a daytime job, and I will continue working afternoons. That way we still won't need day care, but we could at least sleep together at night. He knows how miserable I am, but he doesn't even look for a job.

Abby, we are newlyweds of just over a year. This is putting a strain on our relationship because I feel he doesn't care enough to do something about it. On the weekends, he needs to catch up on his sleep and spend more time with the kids, and I feel like a third wheel. We have to be quiet around the house during the day so he can sleep.

I miss my husband so much, but I guess he just doesn't feel the same. He reads Dear Abby, so I hope he sees this. Please tell me what is wrong with him -- or me. -- THIRD WHEEL

DEAR THIRD WHEEL: No amount of money will compensate for the time you spend away from each other.

This is much too serious a problem to hope he reads about it in the Dear Abby column. Collar him and insist that you see a marriage counselor together.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns treating all adult children equally. Three of our children have borrowed money from us. Two have paid us back promptly. The third has not repaid one dime. True, she is not as well off as the others, but she is managing quite well.

We have always tried to treat our children equally, and our estates will be divided equally among them.

To be fair, should we instruct our executor to subtract our daughter's debt from her inheritance?

I have a cousin -- a widow -- now in her 70s, and comfortably well off. She still resents a bachelor uncle who left instructions to subtract the amount of money she owed him from the inheritance he left her. -- MOTHER OF FOUR

DEAR MOTHER: In some families, not all children deserve to be treated equally, but in order to keep peace in the family, they should be.

If you want to be absolutely fair, subtract the amount of money your daughter owes you from her inheritance.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column about the dangers of being locked in the trunk of a car, you made an appeal for Detroit and Japan to install a safety latch in the trunk.

Abby, I own a 1991 Honda Accord, which came with a latch that will release the locked backseat.

I don't know when they started putting them in, but I'm sure glad they did. -- MRS. W.F. STRONG, REDLAKE, MINN.

Good advice for everyone -- teens to seniors -- is in "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447.
