Find out tonight during halftime who reigns as homecoming queen

One of the highlights of Homecoming week is the nomination and final selection of Homecoming queen. On Monday, students at Big Spring High School voted for five finalists out of 18 senior girls.

Today, students will vote on who they want to be homecoming queen out of these finalists: Holley Armstrong, Kristi Birrell, Sarah Bristow, Stacey Hollar and Kathy Smith.

Holley is the daughter of Pat and Joy Armstrong and a member of Business Professionals of America. She also is in Who's Who in American High Schools, the Spanish Club, student council, S.T.A.G.E., D-FY-IT and the National Honor Society.

Armstrong also plays varsity basketball and runs varsity track. She is the Key Club

Sweetheart and represents the Key Club as their nominee.

Kristi is the daughter of Greg and Clarice Birrell. She is the senior class secretary and member of the National Honor Society. Birrell is also involved in student council, Business Professionals of America, the Sign Language Club, Who's Who in American High Schools and D-FY-IT.

She also plays varsity basketball and volleyball. Kristi is the volleyball team's nominee.

Sarah is the daughter of Jeanne Bristow and Keith and Ellen Bristow. She is the first vice president of student council and a Key Club calendar girl. Bristow is also busy in the Business Professionals of America, D-FY-IT, Who's Who and Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Moore Board names new director

■ New officers named at annual meeting

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Carole Taylor is excited to be in Big Spring, and she hopes to transfer some of that excitement to luring new business to this area.

Taylor, a native Texan, was selected by Moore Development for Big Spring to be its new executive director during the group's annual meeting at the Dora Roberts Community Center Thursday afternoon.

The board examined resumés from 75 applicants, then interviewed three finalists before selecting Taylor to replace Ted St. Clair, who is stepping down after four years as executive director. She will receive an annual salary of $50,000 and a benefit package that includes insurance and car usage.

Before coming to Big Spring, Taylor was an economic development manager at Commerce City, Colo., then worked as a private consultant in the Denver area. She is one of about 600 certified economic developers in the United States.

Board secretary/treasurer Scott McLaughlin said that all three finalists were impressive, but added that Taylor's qualifications and enthusiasm were the major deciding factors.

"She had an overwhelming resumé, and an overwhelming amount of experience," McLaughlin said. "I see in her a very tenacious closer, and that's what we need - someone who can close the deal."

"She's very well versed in economic development," board president Glen Fillingham said. "She's been successful in bringing over 4,700 jobs to other communities, so it's going to be a pleasure to work with her."

Taylor sees her roles as being a proactive agent in attracting businesses to the Big Spring area.

"The old style of economic development was to stick a cigar in someone's mouth, slap him on the back and tell him what a great place this is," she said. "That won't work anymore ... CEOs are more concerned with how the move will affect their bottom line."

The future in attracting business, she said, would be in luring small, stable businesses, along with giving a helping hand to existing companies.

"Truthfully, it would be nice to attract a 3,000-employee business," she said.

In other business Thursday, the board elected new officers. Fillingham was selected president, Charles Dunham vice president and McLaughlin secretary-treasurer.

Crop Insurance reform topic of town meeting

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Congressman Charles Stenholm will be in Abilene Oct. 18 to host a town hall meeting on the Federal Crop Insurance Reform Act of 1994.

The meeting starts at 9 a.m. at the Kiva Inn with Ken Ackerman, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, on hand to comment and answer questions.

"This town hall meeting will provide an excellent opportunity for folks to speak directly with agricultural policymakers," Stenholm said.

He also said legislation to rejuvenate the FCIC was included in the bill passed by the House and Senate providing for major reorganization of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Stenholm, chairman of the House Agriculture Subcommittee, said "The reorganization bill will revamp the federal crop insurance program by expanding producer participation, while at the same time eliminating the need for Congress to consider future off-budget crop disaster bills."

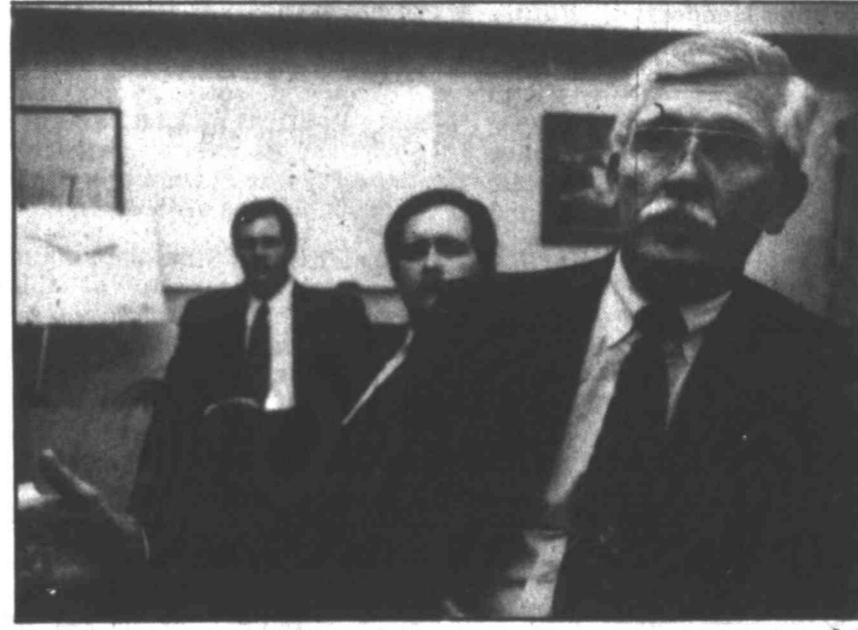

He added that the approved changes in the law will provide producers with federally-funded catastrophic risk protection coverage for crops, along with incentives for the purchase of additional coverage from private insurers.

Crop producers will be required to at least carry the catastrophic protection plan in order to receive USDA farm program benefits.

Locally, farmers will be able to receive relief for crop damage due to this past summer's drought, high winds and hot temperatures.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm's office has announced that Howard County farmers are eligible to apply for low-interest emergency loans for crops losses incurred from June 1 through July 27.

For family farmers who cannot obtain credit through normal channels, the U.S. Farmers Home Administration will make loans available at below-market interest rates.

Arthur C. "Cappy" Eads, right, a member of Gov. Ann Richards' "Law Enforcement Truth Squad," makes a point as John Hatch, Jim Parker and Barry Macha watch during a press conference Thursday afternoon offering rebuttals to George W. Bush's attacks on Richards' actions in fighting crime.

'Truth Squad' takes aim at Bush's penal code comments

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The name sounds like a military interrogation team, but members of Gov. Ann Richards' "Law Enforcement Truth Squad" were in town Thursday afternoon offering rebuttals to George W. Bush's attacks on Richards' success in fighting crime in Texas.

The truth squad consists of prosecutors, lawmakers, sheriffs, crime victims and rank-and-file police officers.

Making the trip to Big Spring were John Hatch, law enforcement coordinator for Richards' campaign; Arthur C. "Cappy" Eads, Bell County district attorney and former president of the National and State District and County Attorneys Associations; Jim Parker, former state representative and past director of the Governor's Legislative Affairs Office; and Barry Macha, district attorney for Wichita County.

LET'S sole purpose is to blanket Texas and talk about the new penal code.

Eads said, "The new penal code is the largest single bipartisan effort in the history of the state of Texas and we find it outrageous that we have a political candidate (George W. Bush) saying Ann Richards is soft on crime. If he wants to run for governor and talk about education, welfare, and the economy, fine, but when he starts talking about crime and the penal code he should tell the truth."

He added that Bush is exhibiting a cavalier attitude by saying anything to get elected. Macha said, "In a court of law, you must tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Unfortunately, George W. Bush has not been telling the whole truth about the tough new penal code."

According to LETS, Bush isn't telling the truth when he says the new penal code is soft on small time drug users and petty thieves. What he doesn't say is that under the old law, they would have received, on average, an 11-year sentence, but served less than 18 months.

Under the new law, that same first time offender drug dealer

Celebration Saturday honors families

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Scurry Street, between 5th and 6th Streets, will be closed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday for "Fiesta de Familias," the conclusion to Hispanic Heritage Month celebrations in Big Spring.

The Hispanic Women for Progress and the Heritage Museum of Big Spring will transform the museum into an archive of Hispanic heritage Saturday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

On Sept. 17, 1968, a joint resolution was approved by Congress which, as amended by Public Law 100-402, authorized and requested the President of the U.S. to issue annually a proclamation designating the month beginning September 15 and ending October 15 as "National Hispanic Heritage Month."

Hispanic Heritage Month is a month-long observance with a host of festivities and commemorations to recognize the significant contributions of Hispanics in America.

According to the Hispanic Women for Progress, this is not only a time for Hispanics; it is a time for all Americans to observe and explore how Hispanics have put their own special imprint on the fabric of American culture and society.

Margaret Trevino, president of Hispanic Women for Progress, said, "Hispanic Heritage Month should be celebrated to let others know about Hispanic culture. This time is not intended to increase the number of parties, celebrations, and dances, but rather to allow 30 days for more education of American at large about the contributions of Hispanic Americans to our country."

The archive will focus on the contributions of local families and their preservation of Hispanic culture and heritage.

The families highlighted will would receive automatic probation, two to five year years, but the judge has the leeway to add 60 days in a state jail facility or 30 days in county jail, with no good time credit. If that person has a drug or alcohol addiction, the judge can order him to serve an additional year in a substance abuse felony prison.

If the drug dealer revokes his or her probation, they are sent to the state facility to serve out all of their sentence without any good time credit. For example, if they are given three years probation and they revoke it, the offender must spend three calendar years in the state facility.

If the person has one prior felony on their record, they can be sentenced up to 180 days in the state facility. If they have two prior convictions, the judge can send them to the state jail for up to one year. If the offender has one prior felony, whether probated or not, the judge can sentence them up to 60 days in the county jail.

LETs also pointed out several accomplishments made in law enforcement under a Richards administration Bush seems to be forgetting including:

- The number of inmates being released each year was cut to 18,000 compared to 43,000 in 1990, Bill Clements' last year in office.
- Crime is down 25 percent since Richards took office.
- Crime, in every statistical category, was down during the first six months of 1994.

According to State Sen. John Whitmire, chairman of the Criminal Justice Committee in the Texas Senate, Bush is attacking his own party every time he attacks the new penal code.

Whitmire said, "George Bush is campaigning by using scare tactics and fear. The new penal code is far better than the old law and was passed with bipartisan support - 53 of the 58 Republicans in the Texas House of Representatives and all of the Senate Republicans supported the bill."

"Every time he attacks the new penal code, he is attacking his fellow Republicans, the prosecutors, police chiefs and officers, victims, sheriffs and countless other groups and concerned citizens who worked with me for over two years in helping write this law."

Eads said, "The loudest boos come from the cheapest seats and it's disingenuous and dishonesty towards crime victims for Bush to run the commercials he's been running on crime."

According to figures released by the Texas Department of Public Safety for the first six months of 1994, Texas experienced a continuous decline in its crime volume and for the first time since 1976, all categories of crime were down.

The violent crime rate dropped 5.6 percent; murder, down 10 percent; rape, down 7.5 percent; robbery, down 6.9 percent; and aggravated assault was down 4.7 percent.

Mark Clark, a 16-year veteran of the Houston Police Department and director of the Combined Law Enforcement Associations of Texas, said "Where George W. Bush goes to spread half-truths about crime in Texas, we'll be there also."

Merlinda Chavez, one of the event's organizers, said, "We have tried to make this a yearly event. For our first year with the museum, things were super. We want to let people know how important family is to us."

Trevino said, "We have always wanted to recognize families and their contributions to the community and this year we were able to do more. One of our main objectives is to try to encourage kids to stay in school so they can at least enjoy a comfortable level of living."

The children's dance and presentation will begin at about 2:15 p.m. The group is called Grupo Mestizo and is directed by Velia Marmolejo and assisted by Lupe Ortiz.

Dances, in costume, to be performed will be El Volonchon and La Bamba (in English and Spanish) and will have narrations to explain the meanings of the dances.

The poem entitled "Fantasma" will also be performed in Spanish.

As a remembrance to the celebration, the Hispanic Women for Progress will also sell "Fiesta de Familias" T-Shirts.

Trevino said, "Children at Marcy Elementary have made and donated flowers that will be used as decorations and several area businesses have donated refreshments to the event."

"Everyone is invited to join the celebration of 'Fiesta de Familias.'"

NEWS IN BRIEF

Hurricane expected to make Texas soggy

A hurricane along the west coast of Mexico is expected to combine with an upper level storm system approaching the state from the west to produce heavy and strong gusty winds across West Texas through Saturday.

Forecasters warned that rain triggered by the remnants of Hurricane Rosa can be heavy from the Panhandle southward into the Concho Valley. The hurricane and storm system will also bring rainfall into North Texas tonight and Saturday.

Skies will be clearing from the west late Saturday.

Lows tonight will be in the 40s and 50s in West Texas and in the 50s and 60s elsewhere across the state.

Highs Saturday will be in the 60s and 70s in West Texas, the 60s in North Texas and in the 70s in South Texas.

Early morning temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in West Texas and in the 50s and 60s across the rest of the state. Extremes ranged from 46 at Dalhart to 68 at Brownsville.

Baptist seminary may hire first woman teacher

FORT WORTH (AP) — Conservative trustees of Southwestern Baptist Seminary say a woman is expected to be hired as a full-time teacher for the first time in the institution's 86-year history.

The selection of Karen O'Dell Bullock, 41, could be approved next week when trustees meet for the first time since July when Ken Hemphill was elected to replace former president Russell Dilday.

If chosen, Ms. Bullock would be an assistant professor of church history, officials at the nation's largest theological seminary said.

Not only would Ms. Bullock be the first full-time female teacher at the seminary, she would be one of the few women teaching on theology faculties among Southern Baptists.

Ex-mayor indicted for fraud in bank failure

DALLAS (AP) — A former mayor of Plano has been indicted on 14 federal counts of fraud, conspiracy and misapplication of funds relating to a failed Dallas bank and related companies.

Jack Harvard, who also was chief executive of the failed Willow Bend Bank, was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in Sherman.

The indictment alleges that, between 1985 and 1990, Harvard took illegal payments, doctored bank books, lied on loan documents, conspired to hide insider loans from bank examiners and bought a house with an unauthorized bank check.

Chapman denies he is target of FBI probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Rep. Jim Chapman is the latest lawmaker to deny he's a target of a Justice Department probe examining political funds handed out by the head of a bankrupt moving company that once had lucrative military contracts.

Earlier this week, Rep. Bill Sarpallus, D-Amarillo, said he wasn't a focus of the investigation into campaign contributions and honoraria dispersed by Leslie Alfred Taber, the president of the now-defunct Sherwood Van Lines of San Antonio.

A third incumbent, West Columbia Democratic Rep. Greg Laughlin, also has been embroiled in the investigation.

Supreme Court denies effort to remove sheriff

EDINBURG (AP) — A South Texas sheriff convicted on federal charges can remain in office until sentencing, the Texas Supreme Court has ruled.

Agency could ease border health problems

EL PASO (AP) — U.S. and Mexican physicians grappling with the border's unique health problems are anticipating some long-desired relief as a result of legislation authorizing an international health agency.

Medical officials on Thursday praised a recent bill creating a U.S.-Mexico Border Health Commission, a weapon they have long said is needed to effectively battle the border's ailments.

"It was needed a long time ago, and it is very urgent," said Dr. David Smith, Texas health commissioner and member of the binational commission. "It's critical, actually."

The legislation was approved by the U.S. Senate last week in the wake of House approval and must still be signed by President Clinton.

The bill authorizes a binational panel to conduct a comprehensive assessment of health needs along the U.S.-Mexico border.

The panel would allow doctors on both sides of the 2,000-mile frontier to attack health problems jointly and launch efforts to prevent other problems, said officials, who noted combined efforts are necessary because health problems don't respect borders.

The border also has to be addressed specifically because it is commonly a breeding ground for diseases the rest of the nation may rarely see, such as rabies, cholera and leprosy, officials said.

"This border has been crying for help," said Pepe Gonzalez, former director of the Laredo-Webb County health department.

Although doctors on both sides have been aware of problems for years and have a long-standing history of working toward solutions, the commission provides a new, more powerful vehicle for their efforts, said Smith.

Dr. Betty Stephenson, president of the Texas Medical Association, said the commission's work will also have ramifications far beyond the border.

She noted ailments like salmonella have been carried to northern states by migrant workers who became infected in the border area. That may not happen in the future if the diseases can be stopped from flourishing in the region, officials said.

"To say that this is a problem that can be pushed onto these four border states (Texas, Arizona, California and New Mexico) is incorrect. It's an international problem," said Smith.

Cheerleader mom gets a new trial

HOUSTON (AP) — The woman accused of trying to hire a hitman to kill the mother of her daughter's cheerleading rival will get another day in court.

An appeals court Thursday upheld a judge's ruling ordering a new trial for Wanda Holloway.

Mrs. Holloway, 40, was convicted in September 1991, but the presiding judge ordered a new trial after agreeing with defense attorneys that a juror should have been disqualified because he was on probation for a drug offense.

The Harris County District Attorney's office appealed, and both sides had been waiting for a ruling from the Texas 1st Court of Appeals in Houston. Mrs. Holloway, meanwhile, has been free on bond.

"Now, we do it again," prosecutor Casey O'Brien said. "My personal opinion is we will have the same outcome."

O'Brien said he didn't know when the new trial would begin, but he prefers that a date be set

Richards, Bush clash over use of SEC investigation

HOUSTON (AP) — GOP gubernatorial challenger George W. Bush says Gov. Ann Richards is playing "typical old-style Texas mudball politics" by raising the federal investigation of a Bush stock sale as a campaign issue.

Richards, meanwhile, said Thursday that the 1991 investigation of Bush by the Securities and Exchange Commission is fair political game, and denied her accusations amount to personal attacks.

Both candidates stumped in Houston Thursday, with Bush answering questions on a radio program and Richards appearing with the mayor of Texas' largest city.

In his interview at radio station KTRH, Bush responded to Richards' allegation that his father, former President George Bush, influenced the outcome of an SEC investigation three years ago.

The federal agency investigated the younger Bush in 1991 for possible insider trading in his sale of $848,560 in Harken Energy stock. The sale came just two months before Harken stock plummeted and the company announced massive quarterly losses.

In October 1993, the SEC said the investigation into Bush was finished and "no enforcement action is contemplated with respect to him."

Bush, who has denied selling the stock based on insider knowledge that Harken was about to announce a loss, said Thursday that he was fully exonerated. He called Richards' accusations an unwarranted personal attack.

"It's typical old-style Texas mudball politics to try to drag me through the mud when in fact I sold my stock, I did it properly, the SEC investigated it completely," Bush said.

Quote of the Day

"One has to accept that democracy cannot function without the media."

Homecoming 94: A time of memories, a time of honor

Today is Homecoming at Big Spring High School, a time to remember those "golden rule" days of learning.

It is a time of reunions and remembering old friends. And, for the class of 1944, it will be a time for celebrating 50 years of life after school.

A parade will kick off the festivities this afternoon beginning at 4 p.m. It will be followed by the Steers versus Fort Stockton at 7:30 p.m. at Steer Stadium.

After all the reminiscing, there will be one event with a solemn note: Big Spring High School students who served in the "war to end all wars" will be inducted in the Big Spring High School Hall of Fame, a fitting tribute to those who served their country, and the world, well in its time of need.

It is a time for memories and also a time of honor.

Public stoning police can't stop

A few more horror stories about the teen-age morons who try to murder strangers by flinging rocks at cars on the Chicago Skyway:

Last Sunday afternoon, Ralph Rodrie, 43, of La Porte, Ind., was driving to a birthday party with his friend Linda.

"This flying object, a stone about the size of a bird, hit my windshield just to the left of my face. Smashed the glass and there were splinters everywhere, in my face, my hair, my clothes."

"They embedded in my hands and my face. I was lucky I wear glasses or they would have gone in my eye."

"If that had happened, I'd have been blinded. Then I would have probably slammed on the brakes. That would have been tragic because there was a bus loaded with kids behind me. If I braked, the bus driver might have gone out of control and we might have had kids' bodies all over the place."

"We stopped and Linda phoned 911. It was a wasted call. They said that if we didn't see who threw the rock, maybe it was just debris that fell off a truck. That was ridiculous, so they told us to call a non-emergency number to make a report."

"Why bother? When we reported it to somebody at the tollbooth, he was disgusted. He said there were as many as four incidents in one shift. He said a baby missed being killed by an inch or two. But the police don't do anything. Well, when there are dead people all over the road, maybe they'll wake up."

Mike Zelek, 33, of Bartlett, Ill.: "About a mile before I got to the tollbooth, I saw this kid about 15 come out from behind a light pole and throw something."

"It was a rock the size of a softball. Lucky for me, his aim wasn't good and the rock smashed the outside mirror on the passenger's side."

"I told the tollbooth attendant what happened and he said he'd report it. But he didn't even take my name."

Doug Johnson, 47, of Highland Park, Ill., saw three teen-agers throwing bricks.

"One of them hit the door of my car. Put a big gash in it. Better the door than my head, though. I stopped at the toll-booth and that woman never even picked up the phone. I said: 'Hey, aren't you going to call the police?' So she picked up the phone and said maybe two words and hung up. I waited about 20 minutes for the police, but they didn't come, so I gave up."

Gary Baierl, 26, a graduate student at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., was in his two-seat sports car with his wife when he heard a loud sound.

"I thought it was something shooting, and I just kept going because stopping didn't seem like a good idea."

"Then my wife noticed a deep mark on the back window behind her head. That's where it must have hit and made the noise. If it had gone through, it would have killed my wife."

"I pulled off and called the police and gave them my name and phone number. But nobody ever called back. It makes you feel defenseless and powerless—quite accurate. That's exactly the way it is."

When I wrote an earlier column about people being injured and almost killed, Chicago police vowed to pay close attention.

Now they say they have been paying close attention, but the sad reality is that they haven't been able to do much.

The teen-age lice are simply too alert and nimble and they scamper away before the police can use the off ramps, park their cars, jump out and get to them. Yes, the police say the design of the toll road makes it almost impossible for them to catch the deadly little monsters.

When we called the Skyway offices, an employee asked that his name not be used.

Then he said: "This is a terrible problem. I told people here just this morning that it is only a matter of time before someone is killed."

"When that happens, we'll have more cops around than we know what to do with."

"We get reports of this every day. It's getting worse and worse and there's nothing we can do. People drive up with broken windshields and tell us what happened, but we can't do anything about it. We are so frustrated."

"Please, can't you do something about it?" Well, I'm flattered that he asked, but, no. Since I'm not the police chief, the mayor, or even an alderman, there isn't much I can do.

In our lawless society, we're on our own. I suppose I could suggest that some public-spirited citizens take it upon themselves to patrol near the Chicago Skyway, and if they see any of these teen-age vermin, jump out and fling them onto the highway.

But that wouldn't be wise because you would be arrested as a heartless fiend, the useless little thug's useless parents would sue you, and if they didn't, the ACLU would.

So let us wait until someone is killed or maimed. Then I can write that I told you so. And won't that make the survivors feel good?

Undercurrent of fear percolates through Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Beneath efforts to spruce up the capital for the return of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide percolates an undercurrent of fear that jubilant celebrations could erupt into violence.

Hundreds of thousands of Haitians are expected to take to the streets Saturday when the populist priest returns from three years in exile.

Lt. Gen. Hugh Shelton, commander of the 19,500 U.S. forces in Haiti, expressed concern about possible mob violence and announced plans to whisk Aristide by helicopter from the airport to the presidential palace, rather than allow a motorcade.

And some affluent Haitians worried that followers of Aristide, who championed the rights of the disenfranchised before the 1991 coup, would come after them seeking retribution.

Palestinian police trying to find soldier

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip (AP) — Palestinian police fanned out across the Gaza Strip before dawn today to try to find an Israeli soldier before his Muslim militant captors make good on threats to kill him before day's end.

The kidnapping of 19-year-old Cpl. Nachshon Waxman, who also holds American citizenship, is threatening to wreck the fragile Israel-PLO peace accord and plunge the region into new violence.

Hundreds of troops, using night vision equipment and spotlights, combed fields and orange groves and inspected bunkers and tunnels that are known hideouts of Hamas, the militant Muslim group that holds Waxman.

A Palestinian security official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said 55 Hamas followers were arrested today. A day earlier, some 9,500 Palestinian police arrested about 100 Hamas activists in an unprecedented crackdown.

Assassination probe continues to expand

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Investigators expanded their probe Thursday into the slaying of a ruling party leader, focusing on allegations that a senator and a second congressman have been linked to the murder.

A key suspect in the Sept. 28 slaying of Jose Francisco Ruiz Massieu was quoted by authorities as implicating Sen. Enrique Cardenas Gonzalez and Rep. Manuel Garza Gonzalez, both of the northern state of Tamaulipas.

Testimony by congressional aide Fernando Rodriguez Gonzalez, reported Wednesday by the federal attorney general's office, appeared to confirm that political rivalry and resistance to reform were motives in the killing.

Iraqi troops halt retreat

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Hours after expressing satisfaction that Iraq had responded to America's show of force in the Persian Gulf by pulling back from Kuwait, U.S. officials today were facing another possible test of their resolve from Saddam Hussein.

Iraqi units that had been heading away from the Kuwaiti border halted their retreat late Thursday, prompting Washington to announce today it will increase its troop strength if Iraq delays withdrawing army units.

The United States also greeted skeptically Saddam's early morning offer to recognize Kuwait as a sovereign state — with the understanding that it would lead to the lifting of the crippling embargo on Iraqi oil sales.

"Such offers have been heard before," the State Department said in Washington, noting Iraq has yet to follow through. The proposal came after a meeting between the Iraqi leader and Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Kozyrev, who arrived in Baghdad Thursday to try to defuse tensions between Iraq and a U.S.-led coalition backing Kuwait.

But shortly after the statement was issued came reports that some Iraqi units had stopped in Naziriyah, about 100 miles northwest of Kuwait.

A White House official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said they were three Iraqi brigades, or about 3,500 soldiers. One of the units is heavily armed with tanks, he said.

"We don't like what we are seeing," a senior military official at the Pentagon said, also on condition of anonymity. "They are clearly south of where we would like them to be."

Earlier Thursday, President Clinton declared Iraq had "heard our message" and was withdrawing. But he warned the United States would not let down its guard.

In Jiddah, Saudi Arabia today, Defense Secretary William Perry said the United States is prepared to send more than the 30,000 ground troops and roughly 500 warplanes already on their way to the Persian Gulf.

"We cannot accept that deployment which we consider threatening and destabilizing," Perry said at a news conference.

"If the Iraqi forces return to their original location, we will terminate our deployment when it is completed and shortly thereafter" begin a withdrawal.

Iraq's ambassador to the United Nations, Nizar Hamdoon, confirmed the Republican Guard troops had pulled back to Nasiriya, but said he didn't know why.

"I'm not sure where the brigades have stopped, but they are not in the same area which had created all the tension; they are up to the north," Hamdoon said from New York.

It's official - Rabin, Arafat Nobel winners

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The Nobel Peace Prize was awarded today to PLO leader Yasser Arafat, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, and Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres.

A member of the Nobel Peace Prize committee said he would resign in protest of the award to Arafat.

"By concluding the Oslo accords and subsequently following up on them, Arafat, Peres and Rabin have made substantial contributions to a historic process through which peace and cooperation can replace war and hate," said the Nobel Peace Prize award committee.

The prize carries an award of $933,000.

The selection was highly controversial, especially following the kidnapping this week of an Israeli soldier by Palestinian extremists. Rabin has demanded that Arafat reign in the extremists, throwing the peace process into its worst crisis since the peace treaty was signed last year.

Committee member Kare Kristiansen, one of five voting members, said ahead of the announcement that he would resign in protest of the award to Arafat, said committee head Francis Sejersted. Kristiansen has scheduled a news conference later today.

Kristiansen, a committee member since 1991, had "made it clear before the final decision that if Arafat was included, he would resign," Sejersted said.

He said the other four voting members stood behind the selection.

Arafat, speaking in Alexandria, Egypt, said: "I have to repeat that this prize is not for myself but for my people who suffered a lot ... for our martyrs and for our children."

Unprecedented truce brings fresh start to weary Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Today brought a historic fresh start for the war-weary and compromise-wary people of Northern Ireland, as pro-British gunmen joined their IRA opponents in an unprecedented truce.

The Ulster Defense Association and Ulster Volunteer Force, the two Protestant "loyalist" groups responsible for killing more people this decade than the Irish Republican Army, began their cease-fire at midnight, 44 days after the Catholic-based IRA ended its campaign against British rule.

The conflict over political-religious identity has seen nearly 3,200 slain in the past quarter-century. Now a growing cast of unlikely peacemakers are preparing to sit down at the same table.

"There's no reason why loyalists can't talk with people who have supported the IRA," said Gusty Spence, founder of the outlawed UVF, who delivered the loyalist declaration Thursday. "They represent their people, we represent ours, and we can do business in this new climate."

His remains a maverick view. The pro-British Protestant members of the Ulster Unionists, Northern Ireland's largest party, will meet Saturday to debate their own still-meager appetite for discussions with the Irish government and leaders of Sinn Fein, the political ally of the Irish Republican Army.

There are grounds for hope for a peaceful end to the Northern Ireland dilemma that didn't exist a few short months ago. Wishful thinking is suddenly in vogue.

Yet no realistic scenarios for agreement have yet emerged. Both sides, seeking to justify their role in so much suffering, confidently predict they will hold the advantage at a so-far theoretical negotiating table.

Toys 'R' Us pulls realistic toy guns

NEW YORK (AP) — Weeks after a New York City police officer shot and killed a teenager carrying a toy gun, Toys 'R' Us has decided to stop selling realistic-looking toy firearms, The Wall Street Journal reported today.

Other retailers already have pulled some toy guns off shelves or are considering the move, the Journal said.

Bradlees Inc. will discontinue sales of several types of guns before Christmas, said company spokeswoman Aileen Gorman.

KayBee Toys Inc. also has decided to reduce its inventory of toy guns, according to the Journal, which offered no details.

Last month, a 13-year-old boy was fatally shot in the stairwell of a housing project by an officer who mistook his toy gun for the real thing. Hours later, a 16-year-old was chased and shot by an officer who thought the gun in his belt was real. The second youth was wounded in the stomach.

Open door forces
AA plane to land

SEATTLE (AP) — An American Airlines jet flying from Dallas to Tokyo was forced to land here after a passenger tried to open one of the plane's doors.

Flight 61 was more than 30,000 feet above Jackson Hole, Wyo., Thursday when a man tried to force a door open. The flight crew subdued him, said Dick Thurston, an FBI spokesman in Seattle.

Asked about a motive, Thurston said, "I think it's safe to say that his behavior was probably erratic."

The MD-11 jet was carrying 167 passengers and 19 crew members, KING-TV reported.

She was just trying to meet her deadline

NEW YORK (AP) — The editor in chief of a Columbia University student newspaper had a problem: The paper was holding space for a photo of a new fire truck, the deadline clock was ticking and the truck sat in the firehouse.

Solution: Ruth Halikman pulled the fire alarm.

The shiny new truck pulled out of Manhattan's Engine Company No. 47 and photographer Rich Altman of the Columbia Daily Spectator snapped away. Deadline met.

But Halikman, a senior, now had another problem. The paper's managing board wasn't happy with her stunt and met Monday night to discuss it.

"Ruth decided that the best way to deal with the issue was to resign," Managing Editor Mike Stanton said. "She said she didn't really understand what the consequences of pulling a fire alarm meant."

Aristide facing difficult transition

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are concerned that Haitian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide may face a difficult transition once the dust settles from his triumphant return to Haiti after three years in exile.

After a farewell gathering Thursday night at the Organization of American States, President Clinton was preparing his own send-off today at a White House ceremony before Aristide's flight home Saturday.

The administration is delighted with the results thus far of the U.S. military intervention in Haiti. As part of the effort to call attention to the U.S. role there, Clinton has invited family members of some U.S. troops for a White House visit.

At the OAS Thursday night, Aristide was almost giddy with anticipation about his return, regaling the hundreds of guests with expressions of hope and gratitude in four of the 10 languages he masters — French, Spanish, English and Creole.

"We feel hope, we Haitians," he said. "We are moving slowly but surely from misery to poverty with dignity."

"How proud we are today to move side by side with the U.S. troops and the multinational forces in Haiti to uphold democracy."

The Aristide camp chartered a jet for the return to Port-au-Prince.

CONYERS, Ga. (AP) — They came from across the country, and around the world, armed with video cameras and rosaries, faith and hope.

They camped for days and stood in the rain for hours, listening to scripture readings, singing "Ave Maria," waving white paper and white handkerchiefs — and waiting for a message from the Virgin Mary.

HEAVY DUTY RAINS

The intersection of President Street and General MacIntosh Blvd. in Savannah, Ga., remains under water Thursday. President Street as well as many others were closed due to heavy rains, high tides and slow drainage. Since early Wednesday, more than 8.5 inches of rain have fallen in what has been the wettest October on record in Savannah.

Children's Defense Fund steps up anti-gun campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Children's Defense Fund is stepping up its anti-gun campaign, suggesting the deaths of 50,000 children by gunfire over the past 15 years should be enough to send thousands into the streets in protest.

"So where is everybody?" the group asks in a public service announcement introduced Thursday by its president, Marian Wright Edelman. She said ABC, CBS and NBC have agreed to air the ad, which, along with five print ads, is part of a new public education campaign against gun violence.

"Every parent, religious, political and community leader and caring adult must ask why we have allowed violence to grow like a malignant tumor ... and why our public policies place a higher priority on protecting guns and profits than on protecting children," she told a news conference.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, meanwhile, reported that the homicide rate among young men 15 to 19 more than doubled between 1985 and 1991. The rate was 13 per 100,000 in 1985 and 33 per 100,000 in 1991, the CDC said. The nation's highest homicide rate — 41 per 100,000 — is among men ages 20 to 24, the CDC said.

Guns claimed the lives of 88 percent of the 15- to 19-year-olds killed in homicides in 1991. From 1985 to 1991, 97 percent of the increase was attributed to guns.

Researchers attributed the rise to the recruitment of younger members by drug gangs and increased use of guns to settle disputes.

"When it comes to violence, in the past what may have led to fistfights now leads to gunfire," said Dr. David Satcher, CDC director.

Bacteria forces recall of Coors beer

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — About 150,000 cases of Coors beer has been pulled off of shelves in Denver and the Dallas-Fort Worth area after a bacteria that sometimes occurs in canned and bottled foods was discovered in two batches of brew, company officials said Thursday.

Hugo Patino, Coors' vice president of research development and quality assurance, said Thursday the company is in the process of identifying where the batches have gone nationwide. He said Coors currently has about 5 million cases of beer on the national beer market.

The spoiled beer, which is thicker than normal and is cloudy, represents about 2 percent of Coors' total beer stocked with retailers and distributors, he said.

The bacteria identified as having caused the problem include Original Coors, Coors Light, Coors Extra Gold, Coors Dry, Killian's Irish Red, Keystone, Keystone Dry, Keystone Light, Keystone Ice, Coors Arctic Ice and Coors Arctic Ice Light.

Patino said consumers and distributors should look for cans that have product codes bearing only the date DEC2 and JAN01, with the last letter of the code being A through N. Bottles bearing the same dates, with the last letter of the code A through F also are affected.

The Coors Consumer Information Center is 1-800-642-6116.

Steers look to run against Panthers

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

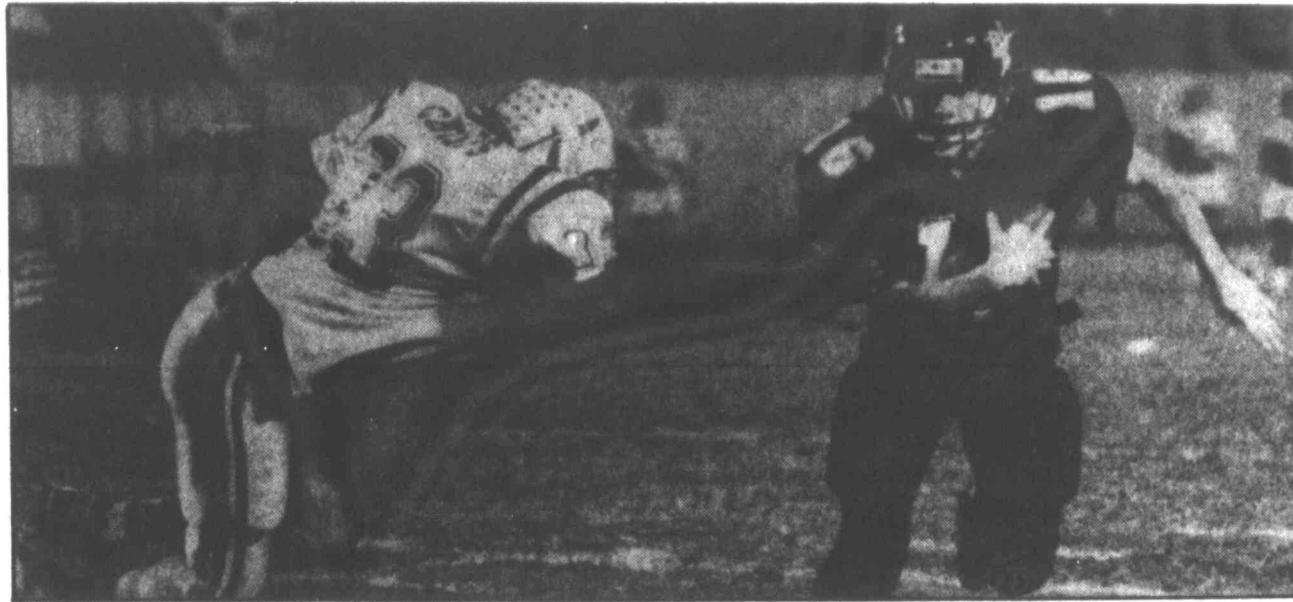

If ever a team had an opportunity to look past an opponent, this is it.

At least that's what Fort Stockton coach Dave Drummond is hoping.

On paper, Fort Stockton looks like little more than Homecoming fodder for the Big Spring Steers. The Panthers (0-6, 0-1 in District 4-4A) may not look much better in person - they are last in the district in defense by a wide margin, and they lost their first district game 49-18 to Monahans.

"It's just like last year - we have a bunch of young kids," said Drummond, who is in his third season at Fort Stockton. "Our senior and junior classes are extremely small, with football players I mean. We have only seven juniors and maybe 10 or 11 seniors on the whole team, and some of them are playing for the first time since ninth grade. At times, we had six sophomores playing on defense against Monahans."

Fort Stockton has clinched its 11th straight losing season, and if you're looking for a reason, start with defense. Fort

Big Spring quarterback Bucky Crenshaw (16) attempts to escape an onrushing Lake View defender during last Friday's loss to the Chiefs. The Steers celebrate homecoming tonight against Fort Stockton.

Stockton is the worst team in the loop at stopping the run. The Panthers have allowed an average of 398.7 yards per game this season, and 301.2 of those yards come on the ground.

That's a bad omen when you're playing against Big Spring (2-4, 0-1), a team that runs most of the time. Drummond praised Quentin

Dickson - the Big Spring tailback who leads the district with 716 rushing yards - but he also praised Steer fullback Donnie Hill.

"Their fullback does a great job blocking for their running back, and of course their big offensive line is a factor," Drummond said. "Big Spring is a very good football team - better than their record indicates."

Fort Stockton's best chance to move the ball will probably be through the air. The Panthers' fourth in the district in offense at 239 yards per game, compared to Big Spring's 236.5 - have gained 783 yards passing and 651 rushing. The Panthers have the third-, fourth- and fifth-best receivers in the district in terms of yardage: Hector Valenzuela (19 catches, 238 yards), Javier Fabela (12-141) and Tre Parker (13-128).

Ruben Leyva (5-foot-9, 133 pounds, sr.) quarterbacks the Panthers. Leyva, who missed two games because of an injury, is third in the district in passing at 433 yards, but he's completed just 35 percent of his passes (33 for 95).

"They put a lot of people out for the pass," said Big Spring coach Dwight Butler. "They run anything from a single-wing to a no-back offense, and they can do enough crazy stuff to kind of catch you off guard. Basically, though, you've just got to get enough pressure on the quarterback."

It's obviously been a long year for the Panthers, and Drummond doesn't expect any miracles tonight.

"For us to be in the hunt against them, we have to play good defense - much better than we've played it all year," Drummond said. "Then we have to move the ball, and we're not sure how to do it against them. And also, Big Spring is going to have to have an off night."

THURSDAY FOOTBALL

Runnels A 24 Lamesa 0

LAMESA - The Runnels Junior High 'A' football team slammed Lamesa on both sides of the ball.

The Runnels onslaught started in the first quarter when Tory Mitchell scored on a 5-yard run. Mitchell set up the score with a 60-yard run, and Josh Ontiveros added the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, Chauncey Ford returned a Lamesa fumble 60 yards for a touchdown. Brian Vanderbilt scored in the third quarter on a 9-yard run, and the defense scored again when Carlos Vierra tackled a Lamesa player in the end zone for a safety.

Aaron Boadle kicked two extra points for Runnels (4-2).

Ricky Brackeen, Haven Carr, Adam Garza, Joe Owens, Brandon Turner, Vierra and Boadle led Runnels' defensive effort. Offensively, James Phillips, Chris Conatser, Daniel Thomas, Jeremy Brunson, Michael Strain, Chris Keller, Vanderbilt and Mitchell led the attack.

Runnels next game is at home Thursday against Monahans.

Runnels B 28 Lamesa 12

LAMESA - Runnels' B team won to improve its record to 4-2.

Tony Bingham started the scoring for Runnels, catching a 20-yard TD pass from Bandy Rollins. Johnny DeLaCruz followed with a 26-yard TD run. Rollins added the two-point conversion.

DeLaCruz scored again in the third quarter on a 42-yard run, and Landon Wegner followed with a 9-yard TD run.

Daniel White kicked two extra points for Runnels, who plays at home Thursday vs. Monahans.

Offensive standouts for Runnels included Gilbert Rubio, White, Jacob Flores, Phillip Kuykendall, Rollins, Nathan Grogan, Matt Simon, Daniel Makowsky and Josh Long.

Defensive standouts included Jon Hull, Wegner, DeLaCruz, Felix Martinez, Kurt Miranda, Dusty Clayton and David Martinez.

Midland 22 Big Spring 9th A 13

MIDLAND - The Big Spring freshman "A" team suffered its first loss of the season.

Browns squeak by slumping Houston

HOUSTON (AP) - The Cleveland Browns don't want their good feeling to spoil another season.

Cleveland did just enough to beat the Houston Oilers on Thursday night, using caddy and Vinny Testaverde's 25-yard touchdown pass to Mark Carrier for an 11-8 victory that gave the Browns their first 5-1 start since 1965.

The Browns, who have faded in the second half of the last two seasons, don't expect that to happen again.

"This ball club is much more mature. We stay focused," defensive tackle Michael Dean Perry said. "We can play the whole season. The most important thing is that this team really wants to win. It feels good to be 5-1."

Testaverde completed 15 of 25 passes for 196 yards, and the Browns befuddled the Oilers offense, in disarray trying to weave a tight end alignment with its run-and-shoot.

"We didn't take a step forward," Oilers assistant head coach Kevin Gilbride said. "But you've got to realize offensively we lost a lot of people."

"It was a disappointing game. I was very disappointed in our protection early on. We improved as we went along. We had some chances, but we just couldn't capitalize on them."

It was the Browns' second victory in nine games against the Oilers.

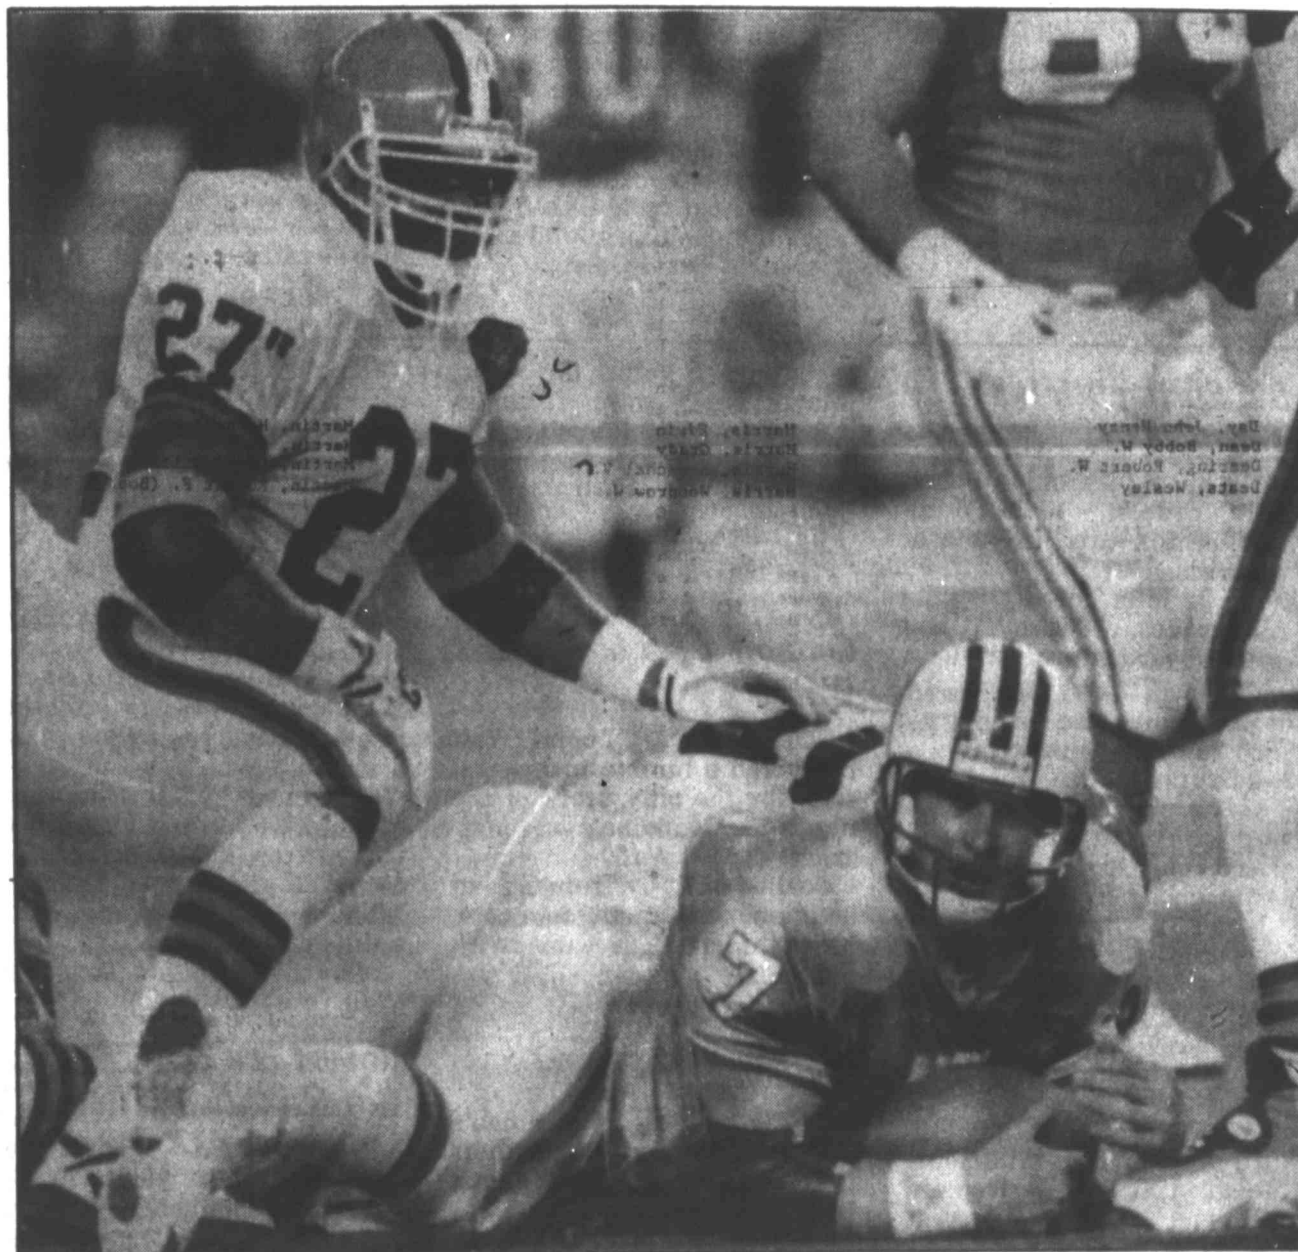

"It feels good just to get a win here, we haven't had much success in the past," Perry said. "We just tried to play solid defense. We blitzed a lot and tried to rattle him, but he kept his poise."

Cornerback Darryll Lewis intercepted two of Testaverde's passes, but the Oilers were unable to capitalize on either of the interceptions.

"This is the first time I've been 5-1 in my NFL career," Testaverde said. "It feels good. I was nervous all week about this game because we had a bye week, and usually when a team comes back from a bye week they don't play like they want to."

But the Oilers had a bye week, too, and they were the ones who didn't play well.

The Oilers haven't started a season 1-5 since 1986, when they went 1-8 before winning their second game. They were almost shut out for the first time since 1976 in the Astrodome.

Houston quarterback Bucky Richardson (7) is tackled by Cleveland's Stevon Moore during the second half of their game Thursday in Houston.

Cross country with a twist on display Saturday at Big Spring Relays

Event planned as fun alternative

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

If you like your cross country with a twist, the Big Spring Relays might be for you.

The annual event, which is at McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, will consist of four-person teams running relays of a mile each over the old Webb Air Force Base golf course.

The average person may not consider this fun, but for runners accustomed to three-mile treks over open country, the event will definitely be a welcome change of pace.

"We call it a fun event," said Big Spring High School cross country coach Randy Britton.

"Not only our kids, but all the other athletes like it, too ... It's really a timing event."

With cross country season entering the home stretch (district and regional meets are less than a month off), Britton said the event will take some of the pressure off the athletes.

Odessa, the defending boys' champions, will not be back this year, but the Lubbock Coronado girls' team will be back to defend its title.

Competition begins at 10 a.m. with the girls' relay, followed by the boys' event at 10:30 a.m.

Teams expected to compete include several Lubbock high schools, Lamesa and District 4-4A squads from Monahans, Andrews and San Angelo Lake View.

Big Spring's girls relay team will be led by freshman Marisol Carnero. Others on the squad will be Kelly Hinojos, Amber Phelps and Dawn Shobert.

Running for the BSHS boys will be Ismael Rodriguez, Tim Rigdon, Robert Rios and defending 4-4A cross country champion Joe Franklin.

Britton, who said attendance at the meet might be hampered by conflicting meets in the area, said that while individual distances might be shorter, cross country skills will still be required to win.

"You can run a fast mile and still not be a good 3-mile cross country runner," he said. "This event is going to benefit the cross country runner."

Britton emphasizes steady progress over results from his teams, and with the girls' squad slowed by injuries, that is doubly true for this event.

"I expect a fast time from both teams," he said. "This is a fun meet for them, but it's still a timing meet. I want them to run a fast mile for endurance purposes."

BOSTON (AP) - Kevin Kennedy, who was released this year as manager of the Texas Rangers, was interviewed Thursday for the vacant manager's position at the Boston Red Sox, the Red Sox said.

Kennedy, 40, was released as the Texas manager after finishing the abbreviated season with a 52-62 record, which left his team at the top of the American League West.

Kennedy played as a catcher for the Baltimore, St. Louis and Los Angeles teams from 1976 to 1983.

He was 138-138 in two seasons with Texas. Before that, he held various coaching jobs for the Dodgers and Montreal Expos organizations.

All normal on Rollie front

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Efforts resumed to resolve basketball coach Rollie Massimino's status at UNLV, a day after Massimino rejected a buyout offer and stormed out of a meeting with the university's president.

Massimino met privately with his players but refused to comment publicly.

NTSU given invitation

DENVER (AP) - The Big West Conference invited Boise State, Idaho, North Texas and Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo to join the league and all but North Texas immediately accepted, commissioner Dennis Farrell said. North Texas will announce its decision Monday.

SPORTSEXTRA

ESPN has it all - but Timbersports? You've got to be kidding!

Random thoughts while waiting for the weekend:

I love ESPN. I love Boomer and Mike and Robbin and Charlie and Keith and Sportscenter and NFL Prime Time and all that stuff.

I love the highlight shows. I love Baseball Tonight (when-ever it returns).

I can even stand the Friday night boxing show. There are, however, two things about the sports network I could do without:

1. I wish Roy Firestone's "Up Close" would just "Go Away."

2. The Timber Sports series should go up in flames. Let's talk about Roy first.

Nothing personal against the guy, mind you, but if I want to spend 30 minutes watching someone try to ingratiate themselves to people, I'll stand in line at a loan office.

If you're looking for in-depth profiles, if you want hard-hitting investigative reporting, if you want substance, try something else. If, on the other hand, you want a poor-man's version of Charles Kuralt, Firestone is your man.

I'm not saying the guy fawns over his interview subjects (well, OK, I am) but Firestone is not likely to ever be confused for Mike Wallace or Howard Cosell.

I guess, in the large scope of things, there's nothing inherently wrong with this approach. But there's already too much saccharin on the tube nowadays. Do we really need this, as well?

As far as Timber Sports is concerned, I'd have to say it ranks right up there with fishing shows among my personal favorites. Don't get me wrong: I enjoy fishing. Some of the best times I've ever had were when I was on a boat in the middle of the lake, miles away from any concerns.

Watching other guys catch fish, however, is not my idea of a good time. The same theory applies to Timber Sports. I'm sure if I ever tried it myself, I would find chopping or chain-sawing logs an excellent diversion. On the other hand, watching these new-age lumberjacks sweat it out for thousands of dollars in prize money doesn't exactly qualify for my hall of fame.

One part of the competition did tickle me, though. During the hot-saw portion, in which these guys slice through logs with souped-up chain saws, the announcers actually said that these folks were professionals, AND PLEASE DO NOT TRY THIS AT HOME!!!!

Yeah, like I'm going to watch this, then run out to the garage, rev up by 450 custom Stihl, and start slicing and dicing my way through the neighborhood. It might be a good idea to bring one to work the next time my boss and I discuss raises, however.

New minister arrives from across the ocean

Malcolm Pointon goes from New Zealand to 14th and Main Church of Christ

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Malcolm Pointon, new minister at 14th and Main Church of Christ, is a long way from his native New Zealand. However, coming to Big Spring is almost like coming home for him.

What would bring someone from the South Pacific all the way to West Texas? Well, try love, for one thing.

Pointon's relationship with 14th and Main Church of Christ dates back to 1980, when he met his wife, Big Spring native and church member Tammy Prew. She was in New Zealand on a youth mission.

Pointon was a schoolteacher, having received his bachelor's degree from University of New Zealand. However, a new career path was opened to him, and he came to Lubbock in 1981 to attend Sunset School of Preaching.

Meanwhile, he and Tammy married, maintaining a relationship with the 14th and Main church. In 1984 they returned to New Zealand, traveling around as part of their mission work.

The family has visited Big Spring on many occasions and the children, daughters Stefanie and Kasey and son Jordan, have friends here. Making the transition wasn't too hard for them, Pointon said.

They moved to Big Spring in May after the church requested they return so Pointon could serve as a minister here. "I've been supported by this congregation for years, so it was a chance to give back," he said. The church had sponsored the couple during their decade in Pointon's homeland.

Because he has lived and visited here many times before, any sense of culture shock has long since worn off. Some noticeable differences still remain, however.

The surfboard that adorns the top of his office bookcases won't get much use here, he admits, since he is no longer mere minutes from the ocean. And the large hills that are the pride of Big Spring seem small compared to the mountains of New Zealand.

The pace of living in New Zealand is much slower than it is here, Pointon said, and that is partly because the cost of living is much higher in his native country. "We used to go out to dinner, maybe twice a year," he recalled. "Here, people go out to eat all the time." Houses and cars are twice as expensive in New Zealand as they are here.

He laughs when people talk about the high price of gasoline in Big Spring and surrounding areas. In New Zealand, gasoline cost $4 a gallon. Here, he said, he happily fills up his tank without wincing at the price. "People don't realize how blessed they are," he said.

His children are rapidly becoming Americanized, using terms such as "garbage" instead of "rubbish" or "mom" instead of "mum." Pointon loves to tease them, asking, "What? What did you say?"

He's also taken up his old hobby of motorbike riding, recently facing such typical hazards as a spill over the handlebars and the more unusual problem of being charged by a cow. "They're not that aggressive back home," he said of the angry bovine. "Usually if you stand your ground, they'll stop."

Fortunately, the aggressive Texas nature hasn't translated to his congregation. He's found them friendly and welcoming, as they always have been. "The church has been gracious and generous," he said.

The family has committed themselves to spending at least three years, possibly more, in Big Spring. Eventually, Malcolm wants to resume his studies for a master's degree in clinical psychology, which he pursued until leaving New Zealand this year, and return to mission work.

In the meantime, he enjoys helping the congregation through preaching and Bible studies, and has seen the number of Bible study attendees grow. His buoyant sense of humor shatters the stereotype of ministers as dour, serious folk.

"I tell people not to tell others that I'm a preacher," he said. "I say, 'Tell them I'm a church worker.'" That way I can get to know people without them acting differently around me than they normally would."

Malcolm Pointon, who joined 14th and Main Church of Christ in May as a minister, has been involved with the church since 1981. He met his wife, Big Spring native Tammy Prew, while she was in his native New Zealand in 1980.

Episcopal church now has Spanish services

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

It has been predicted by the turn of the next century, Hispanics will be in the majority here in Texas. With the group's population growing, there has been a push to offer church services in Spanish and is now available in the Permian Basin.

Through the funding support of the St. Nicholas Parish in Midland and others, St. John's Episcopal Church in Odessa is now the center of a new venture in mission and ministry.

The funds do not come from St. John's, but they are providing the facilities, office space and priestly monitoring to offer some of their services in Spanish for the Hispanic community.

Bernardo Martinez began the Hispanic ministry in June and travels throughout West Texas to spread his message. He has preached in Odessa, Midland and Andrews and plans to visit Big Spring, Monahans and Pecos in the future.

"We began this because we wanted to involve all of the Hispanic population at St. John's Episcopal to join our church so we offer the complete service in Spanish," he explained.

Martinez completed his seminary work at the Seminary of the Southwest in Austin and has lived in the Abilene and Sweetwater areas before moving to Odessa. He is originally from Nicaragua and will assist in the English services.

As part of his learning, he will take part in the pastoral life of the parish, but his primary role will be to develop Episcopal life among those who speak Spanish.

Many Hispanics have joined the Episcopal Church who feel they are outside the ministry of the Roman Catholic communion for a variety of reasons. In many cases, this is because of policies regarding birth control and divorce.

According to a newsletter from St. John's, "There may also be historical, cultural or sociological factors at work separating numbers of our Hispanic population from the Roman Catholic communion."

"The only other expressions of Christian faith available in our area conducted in Spanish would seem to be those faith groups which, quite simply, are not compatible with the growing numbers of professional and middle class, educated Hispanic families. Thus, the Episcopal Alternative is ideally suited to provide spiritual community, liturgical worship and an expression of Christian faith compatible with the Hispanic community."

The Spanish services are currently held in Odessa at the St. John's Episcopal Church which has two locations.

Services are held on Saturdays at 7 p.m. at the 4141 Tanglewood location. Sunday services are 7 p.m. at 401 West County Road, where a Wednesday evening prayer service is also hosted.

For more information, contact the church at (915) 362-3881.

SPRING TABERNACLE ANNIVERSARY

Members of Spring Tabernacle Church dish out dinner at the church's ninth-anniversary celebration Wednesday evening. Spring Tabernacle is accustomed to serving large quantities of food to large numbers of people; according to church member Mona Lue Tonn (pictured second from left serving food), anywhere from 75 to 90 people are served in the church's free food giveaway each Tuesday and Thursday.

Meat goat seminar to offer sales, samples

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

West Texas as the land of unusual livestock? Believe it. The growing popularity of ostriches and their relatives for meat has been previously documented, and goats are getting their share of attention as well.

Increased interest in the production of goats as an alternative agricultural enterprise for this area has led the Texas Agricultural Extension to develop a special meat goat seminar Wednesday, Oct. 19 at the Dora Roberts Fair Building, Howard County Fairgrounds.

Registration fee is $10, and attendees will receive two hours of continuing education units (CEU) from the Texas Department of Agriculture.

A special sale of meat goats, including Boer goats and crosses, will be offered as part of the program. An opportunity to taste goat meat and learn about its nutritional values will also be provided.

Subject matter to be covered in the full-day event includes breed types and selection of meat goats, feeding and nutrition, herd health management, potential market for meat goats in Texas, fencing, an evaluation of meat goat types and viewing of exhibits as well as the sale.

Dr. Bruce Carpenter, extension livestock specialist in Ft.

Stockton, is coordinating the event. Extension agents from Midland, Martin, Howard, Wink, Ward, Andrews, Crane and Ector counties have served on the planning committee.

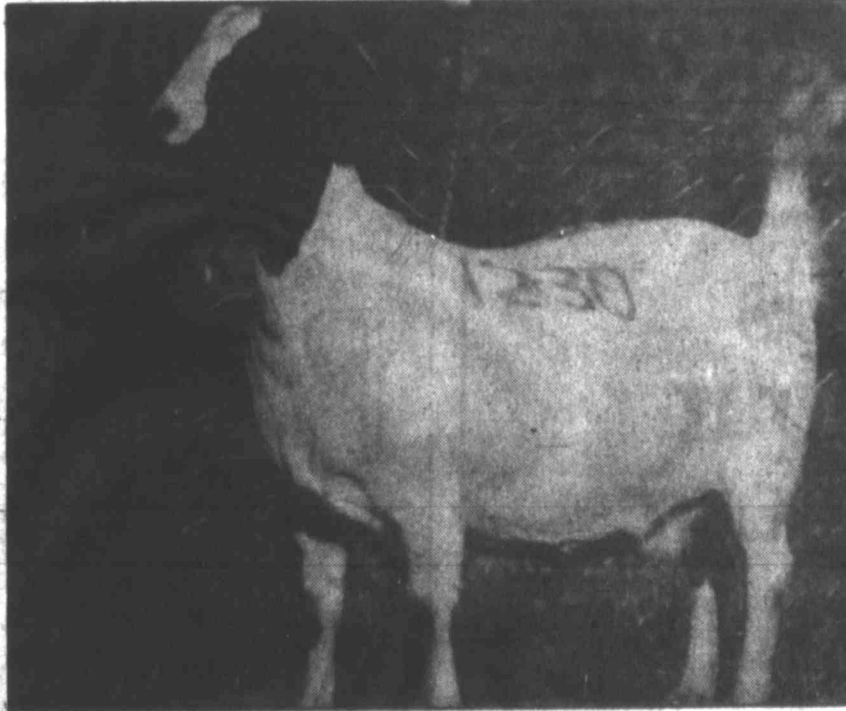

The goat industry isn't new to Texas. Spanish explorers brought them to the area as far back as the 1500s. Hispanics in the Southwest use "cabrito," or young goat, in many dishes. Outside the Southwest, other ethnic groups such as Middle Eastern, Asian and European have traditionally used goat meat.

As the meat has gradually increased in popularity, breeders began to search for better quality goats. A breed called the Boer, which originated in South Africa and was identified in New Zealand, was found ideal for the meat goat business.

Up until a few years ago, quarantine restrictions made the import of Boer goats difficult. Now that more goats have been imported, they are commanding high prices, with purebreds and crosses valued as breeding stock.

Don't discount your blessings

By TOM FULLER
First United Methodist Church

A man who knows more about animals than I do told me some peculiar ways certain creatures act...things which they do instinctively to protect themselves, but which actually lead to their destruction.

He described how coastal crab-harvesting fishermen keep their catches from escaping. When the first crab is caught and placed in a bucket, the fisherman has to put the lid on the bucket because his catch can easily escape by climbing out.

But as soon as a second crab is caught and dropped into the bucket with the first one, both are doomed. The crabs will keep each other from escaping. When one tries to reach the top by stepping on the other, the one on top reaches the top and the one on the bottom will reach up and grab the escaping crab, and pull it back down to the bottom.

Even though, theoretically, they could easily solve their problem by pooling their resources, standing on top of each other and going "over the wall," crabs are too dumb to figure that out. Their preoccupation with climbing higher than the others and getting out first dooms the entire bucketful to the cookpot.

The other animal my friend described is a turtle with two heads. Rarely one will even have three heads, like one pictured in last Sunday's Herald. This curious critter resembles a human Siamese twin.

Though quite a few two-headed turtles survive birth, virtually none make it to adult life. They all die of starvation. Soon after the Siamese turtle begins to function on its own, walking and foraging for things to eat, each head starts trying to snatch food away from the other one.

Both heads will learn to fight over the smallest morsel, finally grow exhausted from the battle...and end up so underfed, the turtle, both heads and all, starves to death!

Do those animals remind you of some people you've known? Many folks in this richly-blessed society feel as if they are somehow missing out on happiness. The wife turned out to be a disappointment. Live would surely be better with the girl at the office. He was such a lover before they were married, but now he doesn't seem to care.

Blessed are you who are happy with simplicity; one spouse, a couple of kids, enough money to get by and a modest life. Jesus said, "If you want to be happy...give up all right to yourself!" People of the world will never understand that. People of the Kingdom can't miss it!

San Angelo resident Anne Davidson fits a special dress on one of her handmade dolls in her sewing and dressing room.

Dolls become everyone's kids

By KACEE HARGRAVE
San Angelo Standard-Times

DOLL MAKERS: Creating Children of The Imagination
SAN ANGELO — Bud and Anne Davidson have dozens of laughing, crying, sleeping, crawling, rocking, goat-riding, piano-playing children frolicking around their household.

But no matter how many little ones they have, the couple works to conceive many more.

In fact, they're teaching others how to make their own.

The Davidsons are doll makers, and the creations they've made in their garage workshop are truly their children.

In their workshop, the couple has equipment to pour doll molds, sand the bodies and paint them. Using magazines and their own imaginations, they begin their work mixing liquid slip, which makes the doll's skin white, black or brown, depending on the doll's chosen ethnicity.

Bud pours the slip into molds to create the faces, hands, arms, legs and feet, and occasionally a few shoulders and necks. The body parts are left to dry and are then sanded and cooked in a kiln at 2,400 degrees.

After "firing" them, Anne lovingly paints the tiny bodies, dresses them in frilly outfits and for a finishing touch, powders and diapers the babies' bottoms.

It's not as easy as it sounds, though. It can take days and even weeks for one doll to come to life.

"It's very interesting work," Bud said. "It's kind of contagious when you get to working on them."

Bud is the "mold pourer" of the family, while Anne's specialty is painting and dressing the dolls. To keep each of the dolls unique, Anne uses different hair styles and makeup colors. She even has special tailors in Houston and Tennessee that create outfits for various occasions.

Every once in while, Bud admits he will be making dolls in the garage and realize Anne has disappeared. After a couple of hours, he'll go looking for her, only to find her on the couch playing with Billy, Sugar Britches or any of the other dolls they have created.

Just looking around the house, it's apparent they are addicted. Once they began making dolls four years ago, they said they couldn't stop.

It all started when Anne wanted to make a doll for her granddaughter.

"I wanted a memory that would last," she said. "I wanted something she could have when I'm long gone."

With that one doll, Anne was hooked, and the more Bud worked with her, the more fascinated he became.

"I started out helping Annie clean their little fingers and fingernails," he explained. "She couldn't see very good, so that's where I got started."

The two began taking lessons. They travel all over the state learning how the perfect their craft and show what they had done.

The Davidsons have entered nine of their dolls in contests and have won nine first-place ribbons.

"I don't know how many more teachers there are, but there are a lot of doll makers out there," Anne said. "People are really picking up on the porcelain now, because it's a memory that lasts."

Bud and Anne now teach others their craft three days a week.

Gay church draws ire of Alabama townfolk

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The new church behind the public library would be a model of Bible Belt conservatism if appearances counted for anything.

The gray trim blends into the dark brick exterior, and a plain cross hangs on a clean, white wall just inside the door. The only thing missing is a steeple.

But this house of God is not as traditional as it seems.

Homosexual men and lesbians dominate the congregation. Because of that, many local churchgoers are hoping the church will disappear just as quietly as it was built.

"It's created quite a furor among the Christian community," said Lee Hudson, a Baptist minister and outspoken opponent.

The Metropolitan Community Church of Huntsville is small, with an average Sunday attendance of about 30. No one paid any attention during its first seven years as members met in a rustic lodge and a downtown office building.

But the church has been subjected to scattered protests since it opened its $140,000 worship center about two months ago.

The minister of a nearby congregation erected a sign saying "Homosexuality is a sin," and several neighbors scrawled derisive messages on posters across the street.

A small group of antagonists confronted several members recently following a Holy Union ceremony, in which a same-sex couple was blessed by the church.

"They came over here and were saying things like, 'We'd better go ahead and sell because our property values are going to drop,'" said church member Mancil Self, 37.

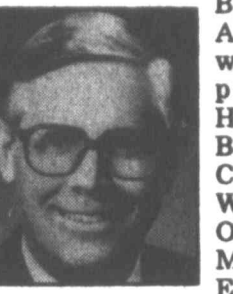

The church belongs to the Los Angeles-based denomination called the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches. The church says the reception given the Huntsville congregation has been worse than most in the denomination, but not as bad as some.

Residents of Matthews, N.C., filed suit last year in a bid to keep a Metropolitan church from moving into a building in their area.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

MONEY IN A FISH'S MOUTH!

ARAMAIC, THE LANGUAGE WHICH JESUS SPOKE, IS STILL USED IN PARTS OF SYRIA TODAY IN ITS ORIGINAL FORM. WITH THE SAME IDIOMATIC PHRASES AND SLANG, ONE OLD EXPRESSION IS "YOU CAN FIND A SHEKEL IN THE MOUTH OF A FISH." MEANING: IF YOU CATCH A GOOD FISH YOU CAN ALWAYS "SELL IT EASILY AT THE MARKET." IF A MAN SAID "THERE'S TWENTY SHEKELS IN THE HORN OF MY GOAT," NO ONE WOULD CUT OFF THE HORN LOOKING FOR THE TWENTY SHEKELS—EVERYONE KNEW HE MEANT THE GOAT'S WORTH WAS TWENTY SHEKELS. TODAY, IF A MAN SAYS, "I'VE GOT SIX HUNDRED DOLLARS TIED UP IN MY CAR," WE WOULDN'T SEARCH HIS CAR LOOKING FOR A TIED UP BUNDLE OF MONEY—WITHOUT ANY OTHER EXPLANATION, WE KNOW IT MEANS HE'S SPENT THAT MUCH MONEY ON HIS CAR FOR REPAIRS OR SOMETHING OF THE SORT...

WHEN JESUS WAS IN CAPERNAUM AND THE ROMAN TAX-COLLECTOR ASKED FOR THE HEAD TAX EVERYONE PAID TO ROME (TWO SILVER COINS, WORTH A SHEKEL), JESUS TOLD PETER, WHO WAS A FISHERMAN, TO GO CATCH A FISH WHICH WOULD HAVE A PIECE OF MONEY IN ITS MOUTH (MATT. 17:27). MANY AUTHORITIES ARE AGREED HE WAS USING THE SLANG OF THE DAY—IN OTHER WORDS, TO CATCH A FISH GOOD ENOUGH TO SELL ON THE MARKET FOR A SHEKEL AND THEN PAY THEIR TAX. DURING THE 1ST CENTURY A.D., WHEN THE GREEKS WERE TRANSLATING THE GOSPELS INTO THEIR OWN LANGUAGE, THEY HAD NO UNDERSTANDING OF THE TRUE MEANING OF THESE ARAMAIC EXPRESSIONS AND SO THE STORY CAME OUT AS THOUGH PETER ACTUALLY CAUGHT A FISH SWIMMING AROUND WITH A PIECE OF MONEY IN ITS MOUTH—WHICH DOESN'T MEAN JESUS COULDN'T WORK A MIRACLE IN THIS CASE, FOR HE RAISED THE DEAD AND HEALED MANY WHO WERE "BLIND, LAME, AND HALT"—BUT IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE HE NEVER PERFORMED MIRACLES FOR HIS OWN COMFORT AND BENEFIT!

MUST'VE BEEN QUITE A COOKOUT

James and Laura Frazer returned to their Port Huron Township, Mich., home Oct. 9 to discover their front lawn filled with more than 1,400 plastic forks. An annual Halloween prank by their daughter Tami Gray and friends first gave the Frazers the illusion that mushrooms had sprouted in their absence, only to recognize the trick as they drove up.

Children of missionaries find culture shock at home

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Jonathan Evans says he still gets thrown by American slang like "right off the bat," but he's slowly adjusting to calling the United States home.

He grew up speaking Portuguese in Sao Paulo, Brazil, where his American parents ran a religious mission. As a teen-ager, they encouraged him to get his college education in the United States. Evans is now enrolled at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro where, despite his American roots, he feels out of place.

"Every day I'm learning that people are not like me. They don't think like I do on some issues," said Evans, 24.

Evans is among thousands of children who have faced difficulty adjusting to life in the United States after spending their childhood in a foreign land with their American missionary parents.

Increasingly, religious denominations, mission agencies and private therapists are recognizing the problem.

Research comparing missionary children to the general population is scant. One 1990 study comparing the psychological and social development of both groups found that missionary kids, or MKs, may have less success working through important life crises.

"Although the call of God to missionary work is extremely important, the sacrifice of family for ministry can have disastrous results. Some MKs described bitter feelings because their parents put the work first," the study said.

Adjusting to life in the U.S. is an experience shared by those whose parents have careers in the military, foreign service or international business.

Sociologists and other researchers describe as "third-culture kids" those who have adopted a mix of their parents' native culture and that of the country where they were raised.

While some have always been overwhelmed by the shock of readjustment, many foreign-raised children benefit from the experience. Studies have shown many are more mature and emotionally tougher than their peers. They have a global vision and speak at least one foreign language.

"The third-culture kid of today is the prototype of the citizen of the 21st century," said Rev. David Pollock, whose non-profit group has held scores of cultural re-entry seminars for returning missionaries and employees of the U.S. State Department.

On the down side, third-cul-

The way I see it, my roots were yanked out from under me and I was forced to live in this strange land called the United States.

ture children experience frequent relocation and all the disruption in friends and education that holds.

"Individuals are living in a state of perpetual grief," said Pollock, who runs Interaction Inc. in Houghton, N.Y. "The separation issues are critical and they leave their mark."

"They have to learn to build friendships even if they may be short. The impact on marriage and family is tremendous if they don't realize that a relationship isn't going to end in a couple of years."

The hardship is more acute for the children of missionaries, researchers and counselors said.

While military children may live in a foreign land for several years at a time, missionary children may spend all or most of their developing years in a foreign culture. Their childhood haunts and best friends are in Caracas, Cairo or a country village with a name Americans can't pronounce.

"The difference I see is that the missionary child spends more time abroad and so their problems are intensified," said Doris Walters, a therapist and former missionary who wrote a 1991 book on cultural readjustment, "An Assessment of Reentry Issues of the Children of Missionaries."

Also, most third-culture children can blame a move that cuts them off from friends on "those stupid people in the personnel department at IBM."

Pollack said. A missionary child is told that God is directing the decision.

"There's the possibility of God getting blamed for turning their life upside down," he said.

That's what happened to Nancy Gladen. She left behind her childhood friends and the places where they played in Monterrey, Mexico. She still balances her checkbook with arithmetic whispered in Spanish. At 18, she followed the expectations of her Southern Baptist missionary parents and enrolled at Baylor University.

"The way I see it, my roots were yanked out from under me and I was forced to live in this strange land called the United States," said Gladen now 32 and finishing her college degree in Denton, Texas.

Daughters get no praise for cleanup

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Lost and Lonely," from the widow whose children cleaned out all her deceased husband's belongings "for her," brought tears to my eyes. And your answer really surprised me. You said the daughters spared her a "painfully heartbreaking task" — wrong!

They denied her the chance to heal! Sorting his belongings gives her a last chance to review old memories — or catch a whiff of his cologne on a suit coat, and choose who would most appreciate something which was his. With his passing, all his things belonged to her — and if she couldn't handle the sorting out, she could have asked for help. Then the kids would have been doing a good deed.

As it is, I think they overstepped their bounds. Grief is bad enough, but grief, emptiness and boredom compound the loss. The "kids" deserve a boot to the rear. And you? For shame. — LINDA SKIPPER

DEAR LINDA: In my defense, that letter (and my reply) — a vacation rerun — was written in the 1970s. I am 20 years wiser now. Give me a break.

You were not the only reader who resented the daughters' behavior — and my answer. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing about that widow whose children "helped" by disposing of all her husband's belongings without her knowledge or consent. Grief counselors caution against prematurely discarding keepsakes or familiar objects used by the deceased. Disposing of them is painful, but it is an important part of the separation and grieving process. For many, it is another way of saying goodbye to a loved one. However, we may need or want to retain some tangible remembrance of the one we loved.

Certainly these children meant well; it is risky, however, to assume that we know what is "best" for others. In addition to losing her husband, this widow was denied the opportunity to distribute her husband's belongings in her own time, and in her own way.

Let's hope that the children who were so eager to help their mother will now show an equal attentiveness in the months ahead — Mom will need their emotional support.

Please print this letter in the interest of families who may find themselves in similar circumstances. — E.G., PALM HARBOR, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to the adult children who cleaned out all their widowed mother's memories:

I would have been extremely resentful if anyone had gone through my husband's things and decided what to do with them.

A homeowner, male or female, always needs tools. I am a 69-year-old female, and I do almost all my own repairs. I alone roofed my two-bedroom house. I removed two roofs in the process and applied tar paper, too. I purchased tools (i.e. sanders, electric drills, hammers, gardening tools, etc.)

How dare anyone make those decisions for me — even if they think it's for my own good. It isn't! — MAE HUTCHINSON, RICHMOND, CALIF.

DEAR MAE: Good for you! I admire your spunk and independence. Not every woman (at any age) can put a roof over her own house!
