Moore Board to help city with Settles Hotel

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

During Wednesday's meeting of its board of directors Moore Development for Big Spring Inc., unanimously agreed to a request by Big Spring City Manager Lanny Lambert for financial assistance in continuing with the Settles Hotel renovation project.

The estimated cost for redeveloping the Settles Hotel into a 72-unit elderly housing project (700 to 900 square feet per apartment) is $4.5 million with the city's obligation being about $500,000 ($60,000 of which must be raised within the next 12 months for predevelopment purposes such as surveys and studies).

Moore Board has agreed to split the $60,000 cost with the city and put up $30,000.

According to Lambert, the cost to the city and the Moore Board can and may be reduced if additional financing is obtained from other sources during this time period. The loan from Moore Board will also be repaid from rent proceeds if the project is successful.

As to how the Settles Hotel project will effect the elderly housing market in Big Spring, Lambert said, "We believe that we're looking at a different market. We're looking at efficient apartments at a subsidized rate ($350 to $450 per month with utilities)."

Lambert also told the Moore Board that Abilene's Windsor Hotel - originally designed by the same architect that designed the Settles - was reconstructed by a firm from Lubbock. He added it's good to know there is someone local that can do the work.

He said, "We (the City Council) believe the Settles project and a new jail can become the cornerstone of our downtown renaissance and we believe that we can raise the $500,000 needed through conventional financing methods."

According to the National Development Council, which has been to Big Spring to look at the Settles Hotel, the structure is in good shape and is a doable project for Big Spring.

Sally Loveland heads the NDC and in talking with Lambert on other occasions has said in order to meet code regulation for residential use, a stairway will have to be added to the building and added that another factor warranting consideration is whether to seek historic designation for the property, and, for historic tax credits, to comply with the Secretary of the Interior's historic standards rehabilitation.

Loveland added historic tax credits can be used effectively with low income housing tax credits to increase the equity

The Coahoma High School Big Red Band recently came in first place at the University Interscholastic League regional marching contest in Abilene. This is the first time in several years the band has received all number one ratings from the judges.

And a one and a one and a one

Coahoma's band marches to first

By KELLIE JONES

The Coahoma High School Big Red Band recently came in first place in the University Interscholastic League regional marching contest in Abilene.

Not since the 1990-91 school year has Coahoma scored all ones from the judges. A panel of three judges rate each band's performance and gives them a score of one, two or three. If all three give the band a one, they come in first place.

There is a more positive image of being in the band and we were able to double the size in one year.

The band is not able to advance this year because UIL rules state the districts must switch off every year. This year, those bands in Class 3A and 5A districts can advance then next year, Class 1A, 2A and 4A bands can go on to other competitions.

John Ivie is in his second year as band director and the size of the group has doubled since he has been in Coahoma. "We practiced every day three weeks before the competition. The key to the band's success at competition was that the kids decided to work hard this year and have an exceptional attitude," Ivie commented.

Band Captain Sean Scott adds, "It was unbelievable. I've been in band all four years of high school and we haven't made all ones until now. To get all ones my senior year is really unbelievable."

Ivie says the popularity of the band has really turned around in the last couple of years and more students decided to join.

The Settles Hotel project has been endorsed by Moore Development for Big Spring, Inc., and Big Spring Main Street as a vital link to the renovation and economic development of Big Spring's downtown area. Moore Board is assisting the city by providing a $30,000 loan and Big Spring Main Street has donated $500 to the predevelopment study and surveying efforts of the city.

Local man dies in construction accident

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

A construction worker hired to help build the new city prison at the airport has died. Raul Cavazos, 51 of Big Spring, was putting metal on the roof of the dining room when he stepped through a portion that was not covered, falling 20 feet to the ground.

Emergency personnel responded to the construction site around 1:30 Thursday afternoon and transported Cavazos to Scenic Mountain Medical Center. He died shortly after 7 p.m. from his injuries.

Mid-Tex Detentions, Inc. is overseeing the project and hired several contractors to build the new jail. The name of the contractor Cavazos worked for is not being released at this time.

NAACP elects officers at annual banquet

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The Howard County chapter of the NAACP will have its 11th Annual Banquet Saturday at 7 p.m. at Alberto's Crystal Cafe. This year's banquet will also include officer elections, the first time the two functions have been combined.

Current chapter president Clarence Hartfield Jr., said as a result of action taken at the 84th National Convention of the NAACP, this year's officer elections will be open elections.

During the banquet nominations for the next two-year term for each office will be taken and then eligible members will vote for officers to serve the 1995-96 term, which will begin on Jan. 1, 1995.

Hartfield said this is being done to generate more participation in local chapters.

The current slate of officers include Hartfield; Sam Hartfield, vice president; Hebrew Jones, vice president; Leroy Perry, treasurer; Barbara Davis, secretary; and Patsy Edmonds, assistant secretary. According to Hartfield, any member can be elected to an office, including current officers, but the main goal is to increase member involvement in the process.

The banquet will also include the election of seven at-large delegates to the national convention from Region 6, which includes the Howard County chapter.

According to Hartfield, each chapter in Region 6 will be voting on delegates nominated to the national convention (to make up the 64-member national board) and final votes will be taken and tabulated at each chapter's next meeting. The NAACP is divided into seven regions.

As for the Howard County chapter Hartfield said 1994 has been a pretty rough year because of the things that have happened at the national level with former NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Chavis. He said things like that filters down to the local chapters and puts the local chapters on the defensive.

He said, "This effects your fundraising and your membership, but I think we will survive. I have had more people call me (interested in membership) since all of the national attention began."

Locally, our vision is still education and economic development. Things are meshing together and we have had a setback (nationally), but I do believe we'll survive."

Hartfield said the Howard County chapter of the NAACP

Revised Wright Fibers application to be submitted to finance authority

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

At its first meeting with new executive director Carol Taylor members of the board of directors of Moore Development for Big Spring Inc., agreed to submit the revised Wright Fibers application to the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority for consideration.

Owner Herb Wright, present at the meeting, told board members he would like to thank them and the City Council for helping the project take off.

Danette Toone, director of the Business Development Center at Howard College, said, "We've done another credit analysis on a conservative basis for the loan application that will be submitted to TAFE."

The application to TAFE is asking for $400,000, which will be used for working capital.

In approving this application for TAFE's review, the board looked at the following items:

- Would Moore Board be able to submit the application to TAFE?

- The board's position on matching equity.

- Terms and conditions of the loan requested.

- Length of time given to have equity infused into the business.

- When would interest stop accruing on the original $2.5 million loan?

•When would lease payment on Wright Fiber's present building begin?

Also during the meeting, attended by several City Council members, City manager Lanny Lambert told Moore Board members that Mayor Tim Blackshear has appointed a 35-member panel from the community to serve as Big Spring's long-range planning committee.

The committee will oversee development of Big Spring master plan.

According to Lambert, letters were mailed out Thursday afternoon to prospective committee members.

The committee will sit throughout 1995 and will have approximately 13 public hearings to gather input from the community to include in the master plan.

Blackshear added he thought it would be a good idea for Taylor to sit on the committee as well because a long-range plan will definitely effect economic development.

During her first meeting as Moore Board's executive director, Taylor outlined several areas she wanted to focus on saying she wanted to establish a good working relationship with the county, city, Chamber of Commerce, Howard College and the Big Spring Independent School District.

One method of maintaining a good relationship with the various entities, according to Taylor, is to issue a director's report following each meeting to facilitate communication.

As she has mentioned previously, Taylor said she plans to invite members of the City Council and County Commissioners to an economic development orientation so she can offer insights into the inner workings of an economic development office and the peripheral activities that make successful economic development programs.

Taylor has also met with Howard College President Dr. Cheri Sparks and Toone to discuss moving the BDC in a new direction.

She said, "In a quick review, I discovered that there is no formulated business retention and expansion program developed for local industry. The BDC has, in the past, assisted with new business start-ups only."

Taylor added that there is a critical need to support our local businesses.

She said, "New industry attraction is extremely important but retention and expansion should have the same priority."

Settles

the project can attract. "Based on my preliminary estimates, the historic tax credits will bring an additional $260,000 of equity to the Settles project," Loveland said.

Lambert told the Moore Board that Big Spring still has a 50/50 chance of acquiring HUD funding for the project and that chance is enhanced with help from Moore Board.

Most applications for various financing sources are due towards the end of December and according to Lambert, the city should have some indication in February or March of whether the city will have any success in obtaining the funding for the project.

Several members of the City Council were present at the meeting including Tom Guess who said the Settles is an issue much like the widening of Gregg Street (adding a center lane) a few years ago and people are unsure of what will happen. Some are for it and some are against it.

Guess said, "When Gregg Street was finished businesses along Gregg began to give their business new looks and so on and when the Settles is finished, I think people will do the same and downtown Big Spring will pick up."

Gail Earls, representing Big Spring Main Street, said, "Downtown Big Spring is the heart of our community and the Settles Hotel is one way to get that heart pumping again."

Band

"It used to not be popular to be in band but we started winning trophies last spring and fall. There is a more positive image of being in the band and we were able to double the size in one year," Ivie said.

Dianne Johnson, a junior, is the band's drum major, Bethany Graves is the flag captain and Marva Pruitt is the flag instructor. All 70 members of the band, including the six flag members, marched in the competition.

Eight other Class 2A bands competed Oct. 29 at the Wylie High School Stadium in Abilene and included Stamford, Hawley, Haskell, Cisco, Anson, Tuscola (Jim Ned), Baird and Hamlin. Stamford, Anson and Jim Ned join Coahoma in scoring all ones in Class 2A competition.

The Roscoe High School band scored all ones in Class 1A, Colorado City, Breckenridge, Clyde and Abilene Wylie scored ones in Class 3A.

NOVENA PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy spirit who make me see everything and shows me the way to reach my ideal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones your perpetual glory. AMEN Thank you for your love towards me and my loved one. Say this prayer for three consecutive days asking for your request. After the third day your wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted.

T.Y.

In the midst of our sorrows, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown to us in the loss of our beloved husband and Father, Charlie Gonzales. We especially wish to thank Father Delaney and Rev. Quote of the Day

"Newspapers are the schoolmasters of the common people."

Henry Ward Beecher, clergyman, 1887

Let's live up to title of a proud Texas community

Big Spring was recently named "A Keep Texas Beautiful Proud Community," by the state Keep Texas Beautiful organization.

This is a proud accomplishment for this community.

Unfortunately, it seems the only ones who truly care are a handful of citizens who worked hard to make Big Spring a member of this organization.

What is hard to understand is the litter - beer bottles lining the roads, plastic bags left flying on trees or any of the other types of litter that take away from the pride of any community.

We can't let one group do all the work for this community. That is simply too much to ask of these caring people. We have to help.

If it is nothing more than looking around your own neighborhood and picking up the trash there, it will help. If it is nothing more than picking up a piece of litter in a parking lot, on the sidewalk or where ever and putting it where it belongs, that helps.

We all have to do our part. We are all citizens of Big Spring. Our pride in ourselves is reflected in how our community looks.

Letters to the Editor

Judge Campbell qualified for post

Editor:

In the 18 years I have had privilege of serving as District Attorney for the 118th Judicial District, I have never written a letter in support of a political candidate. However, there is a state wide race for a position on the Court of Criminal Appeals where the consequences of not speaking out are too great to risk silence.

On the one hand we have the incumbent Judge Charles F. Campbell - a fine, fair minded judge without the slightest hint of blemish to his character. Running against the three term veteran is Stephen W. Mansfield. The position of Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals, the supreme court for criminal matters in Texas, demands honesty and integrity. The people must tolerate no less.

However, Mr. Mansfield has been anything but frank about his qualifications. He claims to have 16 years of experience in law, but he neglects to explain that virtually all of that experience was in the capacity of in-house lawyer for an insurance company. Claims that he has handled 100 misdemeanor and felony criminal cases have not borne up under scrutiny. He has been unable to provide case numbers or the names of other lawyers or judges who could substantiate his pronouncements. The only three names given by him were connected to representation he provided in some municipal court not even a court of record.

Other misleading statements include Mr. Mansfield's curious assertion to have been born in Houston when the record shows he was born in Brooklyn, Mass. Mansfield's statement that he had been a solo practitioner in Houston from 1980 to 1984 is exploded when a check with the State Bar of Texas revealed he had only been licensed to practice law since Dec. 14, 1992, thus creating an impossibility that he had practiced privately during the four year period. His Sept. 27, 1994, quote that "I do the best I can with what little I have" can hardly be a solace to an electorate desperate for integrity in its positions of trust.

Judge Campbell, in the alternative, is endorsed by both Republicans and Democrats, prosecutors and defense lawyers, together with most major newspapers and reflective citizens.

This is an important enough matter for me to break an 18 year tradition. It is important to all of us.

Lezar should replace Bullock

Editor:

The power to change things in Texas is in the hands of the lieutenant governor who as president of the Senate can bury legislation he doesn't like or ensure a floor vote on legislation that he supports.

Voters should inform themselves about the most important race in the state by reading the Sept. issue of "Texas Monthly." Though the magazine is complimentary of Bullock, it notes that he has been married five times. It also describes his explosive and vengeful nature and his "relentless" drive for power.

All this is in a magazine that espouses the same liberal philosophy that Bullock embraces.

Like Clinton, Bullock flippantly on the issues. In 1988, he said that a state income tax could not solve a state deficit crisis. Two years later he proposed an income tax for exactly that purpose.

When a reporter reminded him of his earlier position, Bullock said, "I lied." (See: "Do we need an income tax. YES," by Bob Bullock, Corpus Christi Caller Times, March, 1991; "Income tax bill to be filed" and "Bullock to push for state income tax," Dallas Morning News, March 1991; and, "Bullock can espouse either side on an income tax," by F. West, The Houston Post, March, 1991.)

There have been significant increases in taxes during the Richards-Bullock years. Mr. Bullocks opponent, Tex Lezar has been a leader in the areas of term limits, tax constraints requiring voter approval and initiative and referendum. Tex Lezar, the Republican candidate, offers the voters a true option.

We believe that voters have a right to accurate information on the issue of taxes. What Texas needs is government reform!

FEATURES

Reveling in the wide open

Justice of the Peace W.G. Cantu revels in the wide open spaces of northern Kenedy County ranchland near Sarita, Texas. With 439 residents, Kenedy County is the third least populated county in the United States.

Gangs don't worry residents of Sarita but rattlers do

SARITA, Texas — When Norias resident Irma Salazar sends her 6-year-old daughter to play outside, she doesn't worry about street gangs or traffic. Her only concern is rattlesnakes.

Salazar, like other residents of the most isolated areas in the nation, considers poisonous snakes preferable to those urban problems. She is among approximately 1,245 South Texans who have the distinction of residing in two of the least-populated areas in the United States: Kenedy and McMullen counties.

"To me, it's a lot safer," said Salazar, 32, the postmaster in Sarita. "Everybody knows everybody and just about everybody is related." Kenedy and McMullen counties, with 439 and 806 residents, respectively, were among those listed as the nation's least-crowded places to live, according to 1992 Census Bureau figures. They ranked third and 18th, respectively.

Plenty of space is part of the lure of living in these counties, their residents say. "You couldn't get me in the city. The neighbors are too close together," said Charles Goff, 68, a small-engine repairman from McMullen County. "I like the open spaces.

"Out here, everyone pulls together and everybody works together. We like it just the way it is."

Salazar says she likes being able to look out of her kitchen window at a view that often includes wildlife such as nilgai, impalas, wild turkeys, roadrunners and deer.

Combine the two counties' populations and it still would take about double that number to match the average turnout for a game of the Corpus Christi independent minor league baseball team, the Barracudas. Nine Boeing 737 airplanes easily could carry the two counties' combined populations.

In these places, the landscape seems as vast as the cloudless blue sky. Visitors can drive for miles across the dusty highways with nary a sight of dwellings or commercial establishments. Only the sight of an occasional drilling rig, grazing horses or cattle, clumped underneath the shade of a rare stand of trees, breaks the endless acreage. Low-slung mesquite trees and spiky cactus are the most frequently seen vegetation.

Even some of the amenities commonly available to Texas' rural residents are not available here — in neither county, for example, can one find the ubiquitous red-roofed Dairy Queen that so often serves as a gathering point in small towns. Mail delivery is almost nonexistent. Residents pick up their bills and letters at rented boxes in the county seats of Tilden, 95 miles northwest of Corpus Christi, or Sarita, 68 miles south of Corpus Christi.

On the King Ranch's Norias division, residential mail is delivered in a bundle to a general store, where people come by to pick it up.

There are no mayors, city councils or police departments. County officials — a judge, commissioners, sheriff and justices of the peace — constitute the local government. Law enforcement is a different business altogether — in McMullen

THE FACTS

Facts about the counties from the 1990 and 1992 census figures:

Story by The Corpus Christi Caller-Times. Distributed by The Associated Press.

County, officials say the most frequent complaint is about cattle crossing the road. In Kenedy County, it's more likely to be Mexicans in the country illegally, who often are spotted walking along the railroad tracks through the community in search of a better life.

"There is no noise. When we see a car, we know it's not from around here," said longtime Sarita resident Antonia Cantu Hernandez, 85.

Virginia Guevara, deputy voter registrar, agreed. "It's real quiet. The best thing is probably knowing everybody. If anybody strange comes through town, everybody knows it."

With about 1.3 miles per person, McMullen County residents say there's plenty of elbow room here. With that room comes a fierce determination to retain their independence. That's the bond that holds the community together. A sign declaring "Free State of McMullen County" is posted right inside the county limits.

"It stands for our pioneer spirit," said resident Jane Wheeler, 57. "We like to try to stay free from a lot of assistance and just take care of our own."

"It doesn't mean we go wild and break the law," she said. "It's just that if we take care of our own, we don't need any assistance. Everybody helps everybody just like in an old-fashioned community."

Tilden, first named "Dogtown," was one of the earliest settlements in McMullen County, which was created in 1858. In 1871, a county court was established. But residents, displaying their independence, refused to use it. The court later disbanded. By 1877, the county was reorganized. In 1870, 230 people lived in the county. By 1880, the population had risen to 701. In the 114 years since, the population has increased by only 105 residents. And that's the way they like it.

"I wouldn't live in a big town — no way," said McMullen County Sheriff Ira Potts, 66. Potts, a 21-year San Antonio Police Department veteran, said speeding and an occasional burglary are the most common transgressions in McMullen County.

"In big cities, you can go to bed at night with your gas tank full and the next morning, you're out of gas," he said. "You don't have those problems here."

Because the nearest neighbor may be a mile or more away, residents have learned to fend for themselves — and each other. "You have to learn to live out here. You don't get into anything you can't get out of," Potts said. "But, if your neighbor needs something, you don't ever turn them down."

Three restaurants, two grocery stores, one bank, five gas stations, one motel, one school and two churches (Baptist and Catholic) are among the establishments that serve the community. The average weekly wage is $438.78, and the unemployment rate is less than 1 percent. The economic base is cattle raising, kitty-litter production and natural gas processing. Motorists headed south on U.S. Highway 77 cross the Olmos Creek to enter Kenedy County and are greeted with a historical marker and a warning to beware of poisonous snakes. Cadres of cattle, their eyes heavy-lidded in the bright afternoon sun, barely glance at the passing motorists.

The decades have brought little apparent change to the lifestyle in this county, where ranching still reigns supreme. The county, one of the state's youngest, was created in 1921 and named after pioneer steamboat Capt. Mifflin Kenedy. The main industries are cattle and horse production and hunting leases. Although ranching layoffs in the 1970s and '80s forced many cowboys to find other work, many remaining residents still live and work on the massive King Ranch's Norias division, or for the neighboring Kenedy Ranch.

The county seat of Sarita is named for Sarita Kenedy East, the matriarch who once headed a cattle kingdom as big as Rhode Island — the 400,000-acre La Parra Ranch. Such improbably large spreads were once common in Kenedy County, says County Judge J.A. Garcia. He should know — his family's ranch, with a history that dates back to 1860, once stretched across 35,000 acres. That land since has been divided among descendants, and Garcia now owns 2,300 acres, on which he grazes 150 head of cattle.

"The people who live on this county live on ranches ... they used to all work at the Kenedy Ranch," said Garcia, 57. In addition to the King Ranch, Kenedy Ranch and Garcia Ranch, the county's other largest spreads are the Armstrong Ranch, Iturria Ranch and McGills Ranch, Garcia said. "But ranching is not as lucrative as it was," he said, "so when the children grow up, they pretty much move away."

Ranching, hunting and fishing on Baffin Bay and the oil and gas business provide the mainstay of the county's industry. There is a single school district — Kenedy Countywide Common School, with 47 youngsters in prekindergarten through sixth grade.

The majority of Garcia's court cases are for drunken drivers nabbed along the 51-mile stretch of highway that intersects the county, with almost all defendants from out of the county.

Poll puts Bush
ahead of Richards

MIDLAND (AP) — A new statewide poll shows George W. Bush taking his first statistically significant lead in the race for Texas governor. The Mason-Dixon Poll, a telephone survey conducted by an independent political research consultant, indicated that 48 percent of 824 registered voters support the Republican candidate. Gov. Ann Richards was favored by 44 percent of those polled; 8 percent were undecided.

"It reflects what I see around the state of Texas," Bush said. "I believe that it indicates that I am going to win. ... Polls bounce around, but I believe this reflects the mood of the final week."

But Richards laughed, saying, "I'd be generous about that poll if I could, but it's been discredited by everyone. There's not even a newspaper in Texas that'll pick it up anymore."

Officials with the Mason-Dixon Poll did not immediately return telephone calls Thursday night.

Bum Phillips says
Richards should stay

ORANGE (AP) — Democratic Gov. Ann Richards has added another well-known Texas man to her list of supporters: former Houston Oilers football coach Bum Phillips.

"If you've got a good quarterback ... you damn sure don't take him out and put in a little rookie free agent that ain't never played in a game," Phillips said of Richards Thursday at a rally in his hometown of Orange.

Richards also got some more help from Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, who earlier endorsed her.

The 1992 independent presidential candidate campaigned with her in his hometown of Texarkana; plans to spend about $100,000 on radio and newspaper ads for her, according to Richards' campaign; and is in a television ad to be aired by the campaign.

"I'm real proud to have the endorsement of two people like that who are the real thing," Richards said. Asked whether she's appealing to the "Bubba" vote, she said, "I hope Bubba votes for me."

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for Richard Minns will not say why the former health spa tycoon pleaded guilty to eight counts of passport fraud.

U.S. District Judge Lynn Hughes accepted the plea Thursday, the second day of Minns' trial.

Rescue personnel lift the body of Carroll Gene Davis of Fritch from a water valve at the Amarillo Regulating Reservoir Thursday. Davis' body was retrieved about 200 feet from the channel's reservoir entrance where he was clearing debris from the intake structure.

Workman drowns
cleaning a reservoir

AMARILLO (AP) — A workman drowned Thursday while cleaning debris from a city reservoir.

Carroll Gene Davis, 41, of Fritch, and a co-worker were cleaning debris from a water intake at the Amarillo Regulating Reservoir when he vanished into the 61/2-foot-diameter pipe, said officials with the Canadian Municipal Water Authority.

Davis had worked with the water authority for five or six years and was one of the authority's three certified divers, General Manager John Williams said.

"We can only surmise ... that he hit his head or something else happened to cause him to go in," Williams said. "There is water flowing through the pipe, but it is not at such a rate that he could not swim out."

Williams said the two divers had removed the grating at the entrance to the pipe to clean it but were not planning to enter the water line.

But shortly before 3 p.m., when Davis failed to resurface, Jackson notified authorities and swam in search of his partner, Williams said.

Shortly before 6 p.m., divers found Davis' body in the pipe, about 2,000 feet from the intake's entrance, police said.

Court says company not liable for extramarital affair

AUSTIN (AP) — The jilted spouses of a boss and secretary who had an affair say the company should have done something to stop it.

The Texas Supreme Court, however, ruled Thursday that the company wasn't liable.

The dispute stemmed from a 1991 extramarital affair between Joe Gollas and Pam Snyder, according to court records.

Gollas was vice president of Helena Laboratories Corp.; Ms.

Snyder, his executive secretary. Gollas and his wife Allison separated in March 1991, the court documents said. A month later, Gollas and Ms. Snyder had an affair, which lasted about six weeks.

Ms. Snyder's husband, Robert, and Gollas' wife, Allison, found out about the affair and sued Helena Laboratories, saying the company had a duty to prevent its employees from engaging in extramarital affairs.

Shooting ends man's double life

DALLAS (AP) — Susan Grant doesn't know what drove her beloved husband to hatch a one-man scheme to burglarize the homes of athletes while their parents were watching them compete.

"I don't understand what he was thinking. I don't think I ever will," she said Thursday. "Some people have a double life. I don't know anything about that. I'm going to have to leave that to the psychologists."

Richard Roy Grant, 56, was gunned down breaking into the Denton County home of a Pilot Point wide receiver during last Friday night's game in nearby Aubrey, about 40 miles north of Grant's suburban Arlington home.

The revelation that the insurance agent also was a burglar stunned family members and friends.

"We were all so busy with our jobs and our occupations, and our sports ... we didn't have time to question if things didn't match up or whatever," Mrs. Grant said.

"Unfortunately, the people who are left are the ones who are going to be hurt the most. My husband paid the ultimate price. But he doesn't have to deal with this."

Mrs. Grant knew an award-winning, successful life and health insurance agent. He was the first to help a neighbor change the oil in his car. He was like a father to her two sons throughout their nine-year marriage.

But he also had health problems. Failing eyesight, a bad back, high blood pressure and a thyroid condition made him angry and depressed.

"It basically was eating him alive," she said.

Ronald Stokes, the stepfather of a Pilot Point High School wide receiver, shot Grant five times after he pried and kicked open his front door, investigators said. No charges have been filed against Stokes.

Denton County Sheriff Welton Lucas said deputies knew "straight off the bat" the incident was "different than your regular burglary."

The next day, authorities found Grant's 1993 Subaru Legacy in a field near Stokes' home. Inside were a map and a newspaper clipping on which detailed residence locations had been written next to mug shots of Pilot Point football players.

Officials have linked Grant to the burglaries of at least three Pilot Point athletes' homes and have notified authorities in six surrounding counties about the case.

"We're in the process of slowly just finding out how many he really has done," Lucas said. "We'll never know exactly."

One month after probation, murderer back in jail

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — A 17-year-old is back in jail a little more than a month after he was released from prison in the murder of a San Benito woman.

Last April, a Cameron County jury sentenced Ruben Corona to six months in jail and 10 years' probation after finding him guilty of murdering 37-year-old Diana Conde.

The victim's family and friends were outraged by the sentence with some promising revenge. Police said they had never heard of giving probation to convicted murderers.

At the time, one of the jurors who sentenced Corona said he was given probation because the jury could not link Corona to the murder weapon.

Corona got out of jail in late September and moved to Austin after reporting that he was the target of death threats in Cameron County.

New party labels
reveal voter discontent

NEW YORK (AP) — The political party labels in Tuesday's election might as well be D for Disgusted and R for Revolted, based on a poll in which many said the vote outcome makes little difference.

The Associated Press poll taken Oct. 28 through Wednesday found 42 percent of all adults and 38 percent of voters think it wouldn't matter much which party controls Congress.

Among voters, 30 percent wanted the Republicans to take control and another 30 percent wanted the Democrats to keep their reign on Capitol Hill.

However, 45 percent said they personally would vote Democratic, compared with 38 percent who said Republican. This 7-point advantage is an improvement over a statistically insignificant 1-point edge for the Democrats in an AP poll taken three weeks earlier.

The AP poll of 1,006 adults, including 782 registered voters, is based on random sampling by ICR Survey Research Group of Media, Pa., part of AUS Consultants. Results have a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points overall, 4 points for voters.

Jury finally seated in Simpson trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They look more like his fans than his peers.

One juror in the O.J. Simpson trial drives a Pepsi truck. Two others work for the post office. There is an insurance claim adjuster, a flight attendant, a courier, a job counselor, a teacher and an Amtrak manager.

About the closest any of the 12 jurors come to being a peer of the millionaire football star and actor is a man who works in quality control for Hertz Corp., the company for which Simpson was a spokesman.

Legal analysts said Simpson should be pleased with the panel selected Thursday after a tense, grueling day in which attorneys exercised their peremptory challenges. Fifteen alternates still must be chosen.

Discovery step toward gene therapy

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Researchers have isolated cells from monkey embryos that can be used to regenerate tissue and create genetically altered monkeys with disorders that mimic human diseases.

The discovery is an important step toward human gene therapy in which any kind of tissue, such as blood or bone cells, would be grown in the laboratory to replace diseased tissue.

Alex Smith, 14 months, and his 3-year-old brother Michael smile as they celebrate Alex's birthday earlier this year. The mother, Susan Smith, who reported her two boys missing after a carjacking, will be charged with their murder.

Boys' bodies found in the car in lake;
mother confesses

UNION, S.C. (AP) — She spun a heartbreaking tale of being dumped on a lonely road by a carjacker who abducted her two young sons. Her tearful pleas on national television for their return inspired a search from Georgia to Seattle.

Now Susan Smith has confessed to killing her sons, according to an arrest warrant. And the nine-day search by authorities and hundreds of volunteers for 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alex ended where their mother's story began: at a local lake.

Mrs. Smith's burgundy 1990 Mazda was pulled out of the John D. Long Lake on Thursday night, the bodies of two children in the back seat. She was to be arraigned today on two charges of murder.

Union County Sheriff Howard Wells would not take questions at a news conference and did not discuss a possible motive. He said the identity of the bodies would have to be confirmed through an autopsy.

The arrest warrant did not say how they died. Police did not say if Mrs. Smith's estranged husband, David, was a suspect.

Residents of this mill town who searched and prayed for the children reacted with anger and bitterness. Dozens of people outside the county courthouse gasped and sobbed when the charges were announced.

"If you could see the way she acted that night, that's the main thing that gets me," said Rick McCloud Jr., who was at home with his parents on Oct. 25 when Mrs. Smith pounded on their door, crying for help.

"Just to think, for a solid week I was defending her. It gets me sick to my stomach."

"Is there ever an explanation for murder?" David Smith's grandmother, Sara Singleton of Los Angeles, told KNBC-TV. "Two little innocent children? There is no explanation for murder."

Solicitor Thomas Pope said Mrs. Smith's confession led investigators to her car Thursday afternoon. It had been driven off a boat ramp. Divers had searched the lake several times, but the water was too murky to see the car, authorities said.

Mrs. Smith, 23, told authorities an armed man jumped into her car at a stoplight in a sparsely populated area at the edge of town near the lake. She said he ordered her to drive several miles; then forced her out and took off with her two sons still strapped in their safety seats.

"Our lives have been torn apart by this tragic event," Mrs. Smith said earlier this week, her husband by her side. "I can't express how much they are wanted back home."

Police circulated a composite sketch based on Mrs. Smith's description of the alleged kidnapper, and people called in tips from around the country. People in Union staged prayer vigils, hung yellow ribbons and posted pictures of the children.

"If she didn't want those children, she could have given them to me or any other mother in Union," said Karen Huss, who has two young children. "We would have taken them."

Hill given death in doctor's murder

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — The killer of an abortion doctor and an escort remained calm and defiant as a jury recommended that he die in the electric chair.

"You have a responsibility to protect your neighbor's life and to use force if necessary to do so," a subdued Paul Hill told the jury Thursday before they began considering his fate. "In an effort to suppress this truth, you may mix my blood with the blood of the unborn and those who have fought to defend the oppressed."

"However, truth and righteousness will prevail. May God help you to protect the unborn as you would want to be protected."

The jury then deliberated nearly four hours before choosing the death sentence instead of life in prison for Hill. It took just 20 minutes Wednesday to convict him of murder.

Hill showed no emotion as the recommendation was read. Circuit Judge Frank Bell is not bound by it and could give Hill a life sentence. A sentencing date was not immediately set. Death sentences are automatically appealed in Florida.

Leaders of the National Organization for Women and the Feminist Majority had said Hill shouldn't be executed and called on the government to do more to round up anti-abortion terrorists.

Some anti-abortion activists said Hill's execution would help their cause. "The hope is that it will cause people to open their eyes to what is happening in our country and act, finally, like abortion is murder," said Donna Bray, director of Defenders of the Defenders of Life in Bowie, Md.

Another Hill supporter, the Rev. David Trosch, said an execution could lead to more anti-abortion violence.

"In time it will motivate people," said Trosch, a Roman Catholic priest from Mobile, Ala., who has been removed from the priesthood for advocating murder. "Particularly when Paul has actually been executed, it will motivate people to become very active, to take action, violent action if necessary."

Hill, who represented himself, offered no defense after the judge barred him from arguing that the slayings were justifiable to save fetuses. He called no witnesses and asked no questions of those who testified against him.

Wielding a 12-gauge shotgun, Hill ambushed Dr. John Bayard Britton, 69, retired Air Force Lt. Col. James H. Barrett, 74, and Barrett's wife, June, 68.

Kid shows off
military shell at school; 12
injured in explosion

FOLKSTON, Ga. (AP) — A military shell that a teenager was showing off to schoolmates detonated inside a full classroom, spitting shrapnel into a dozen students in a blast that was felt a quarter-mile away.

Shannon Chesser, 16, was in critical condition today as doctors worked to save his leg. He had dropped the 60 mm shell that Gregory Douglas brought to their music class Thursday.

Douglas, 17, said moments before the explosion that the shell was harmless, said emergency worker Jed Norton.

Four students were in serious condition today and two, including Douglas, were in fair condition, said Gerri Lowe, a spokeswoman for University Medical Center in Jacksonville, Fla.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Cuba sending harsh message to its people

HAVANA (AP) — While projecting a more moderate image to the outside world, the government has been sending an altogether different message to Cuba's dissidents: Behave yourself or else.

Dozens of activists have been harassed by police in recent weeks, including Rene del Pozo of the Cuban Commission for Human Rights and National Reconciliation.

Del Pozo says his mental state after repeated detentions and pre-dawn phone calls from security agents is such that he plans to leave the country.

Activists say the government campaign appears designed to discourage them from thinking that the economic reform program under way since last year will lead to political liberalization as well.

Serbs feeling the bitterness of defeat

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Isolated from the world and under pressure from friends and foes alike, Bosnian Serbs for the first time in 31 months of war feel the bitter taste of defeat.

But they are far from giving up or losing the war. Indeed, instead of ending it, the surprise gains by rival Muslims and Croats could indefinitely postpone a settlement to the worst bloodshed in Europe since World War II.

The sudden shift in the fortunes — Bosnian Serbs lost part of the strategic town of Kupres late Thursday to Bosnian Croat and Muslim soldiers — may also put the United States, which supports the Muslim-Croat federation in Bosnia, at loggerheads with Russia, a traditional Serb ally.

For the first time since the war started in April 1992, Bosnia's Muslim-led government forces — now backed by Bosnian Croat forces — handed the much better-armed Serbs a string of strategic defeats.

GOING HOME

The bodies of Khmer Rouge victims David Wilson of Australia, Jean-Michel Braquet of France and Mark Slater of Britain, contained in wooden boxes, are loaded onto a Kampuchea Airlines Boeing 737 in Phnom Penh for return home. The tourist trio were killed last month after being taken hostage by the guerrillas following a July 26 train ambush. The Khmer Rouge warned the United States, France and Australia to keep their people from risking their lives in Cambodia.

Fire survivors angry with the government as they return home

DURUNKA, Egypt (AP) — As survivors of this week's disastrous oil fire buried their dead today, charred remains were still being pulled from wrecked houses and families picked through the rubble.

President Hosni Mubarak was expected today to visit the town 200 miles south of Cairo, three days after a freak accident sent burning oil from a depot on the edge of town cascading through the streets, killing more than 475 people.

On Thursday, visiting Prime Minister Atef Sedki was greeted by calls from angry survivors for government help. They questioned why a fuel storage terminal was built so close to houses. "We want compensation," townspeople chanted as Sedki toured under heavy police guard. He promised that the fuel tanks, kept in reserve for the army, would be moved.

Mohammed Abdel-Hamid Mursi, an official in the Assiut governorate, said that as of Thursday night, 299 bodies had been recovered.

But government officials said more than 475 may have died in Durunka and that it could take weeks to recover the remains.

At least 40 others were killed in floods in southern Egypt on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mexico's chamber says Proposition 187 could hurt booming U.S.-Mexico trade

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Casting aside traditional silence on U.S. politics, Mexico's president and leading businessmen are exhorting California voters to reject an anti-immigration ballot question.

The American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico warned at a news conference Thursday that Proposition 187 could hurt U.S.-Mexican trade that is booming under the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

Proposition 187 would cut off public schooling and deny all but emergency health care for illegal immigrants as part of California's effort to confront a long-brewing budget crisis. The ballot proposition, to be voted on Tuesday, is a major issue in the state's governor's race.

"For months the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico has silently watched the political rhetoric emerging from the growing controversy over Proposition 187," said chamber president Charles Griffin.

"We cannot keep silent any longer because we feel U.S.-Mexican trade may well become one of its tragic casualties," he added.

Griffin warned that passing the initiative could create the first problem in the harmonious trade partnership forged when NAFTA linked the United States, Canada and Mexico on Jan. 1.

"The nature of Proposition 187 potentially damages U.S.-Mexican relations and trade," said Griffin, whose independent lobby is one of the most powerful in Mexico, with 2,900 corporate members from both nations.

U.S. Commerce Department figures show that NAFTA is vigorously expanding trade between the three nations, whose 360 million consumers form the world's largest free-trade zone.

American exports to Mexico are projected to rise 19 percent to a record estimate of $50 billion by year's end, according to the department.

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari on Tuesday issued his most forceful condemnation of Proposition 187, suggesting it was tantamount to an unobserved crackdown on undocumented Mexicans.

N. Korea's new leader to keep father's policies

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Kim Jong Il, North Korea's apparent new leader, issued a statement today praising the policies of his late father and promising that communism will triumph.

The signed treatise was his second statement after nearly four months of silence and another sign of more activity recently.

North Korea watchers have said that could signal North Korea's gradual move to establish Kim as the official leader following the July 8 death of his father and president, Kim Il Sung.

"Since you don't have the population, you don't have the problems that other counties have," Garcia said. "Things are simpler. They're a lot easier to cope with here.

"In a big county, all you hear about is rape and murder and all these bad things going on. In Kenedy County, we don't have any of that."

To an urban visitor's eyes, the sight of vast, undeveloped brushland can be intimidating. But the occasional visitor quickly finds that the residents — unused to strangers or media attention — are perhaps more hospitable than their big-city peers.

Maybe the attraction is the "small town" atmosphere, residents say. Perhaps it's being able to name nearly every resident. Or maybe the appeal is a more relaxed pace of life.

"It's very friendly — like the whole county is one big family," said Lily Verastegui, 78, owner of Joe's Food Market in Tilden. "If something happens, everyone is right there to help. Of course, it's impossible to keep a secret here."

Precinct 2 Justice of the Peace W.G. Cantu, 64, grew up on the Kenedy Ranch in Sarita, where his father was a foreman for the late Sarita Kenedy East. He says most Sarita residents still work on the ranch, where they are employed by Kenedy-San Pedro Ranch manager Mike East.

Cantu left Kenedy County when he was young at the insistence of his father, who wanted him to have a more prosperous career and an education. So Cantu went to St. Louis, Mo., where he spent 23 years supervising a stockroom and working for the Teamsters union.

"Every three years, I would get a feeling I wanted to come home," Cantu said. "My mom would say, 'Come home,' and my dad would say, 'Wait a little bit longer.'"

He finally returned and now lives in Sarita.

"Due to the fact that it's a small town, people usually get along with everybody. Our children are well-behaved. They don't get into much trouble, like in the big cities," Cantu said. "We all try to help each other."

The big night has arrived for Steers

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Technically, the Big Spring Steers could lose tonight at Andrews and still reach the playoffs.

To the team, though, backing into the playoffs isn't an option.

"We don't think about point-differentials or anything like that," said Big Spring senior defensive end David Foresyth. "We're just going there to win."

FORESYTH

That's straight talk from one of many BSHS seniors who may be less than 12 hours away from qualifying for the playoffs for the first time in their varsity careers. Big Spring (5-4, 3-1 in District 4-4A) hasn't reached the playoffs since 1989, but the Steers are in great position to change that.

If you care enough to read this story, you probably know the Steers' playoff picture, but just in case...

* If Big Spring wins, it takes the runner-up playoff spot in 4-4A.
* If Andrews (2-7, 2-2) beats Big Spring and Pecos beats Monahans, Andrews goes to the playoffs and Big Spring stays home.

* Here's the tricky one - if Monahans beats Pecos, Big Spring goes to the playoffs unless Andrews wins by 10 points or more. That's the point-differential tiebreaking system Foresyth was referring to.

As for checking on the Monahans score, Big Spring coach Dwight Butler said: "At halftime, we'll check and see what the deal is. The coaches have to know, because the score with Monahans might affect what we have to do at the end of the game, whether we go for it on fourth down or go for a field goal. But I doubt we'll ever let the young men know. The coaches probably won't check until halftime, and we won't tell the players one way or the other."

Butler and Foresyth expressed deep loathing for the thought of backing into the playoffs, and they don't plan to. Still, Andrews is a traditional rival for the Steers, and Andrews' version of the Mustang Bowl isn't an easy place to win. Yet if Big Spring can play as well as it did in another Mustang Bowl - a 10-8 win at Sweetwater Sept. 9 - the Steers might not have to worry about any tiebreakers.

"Winning at Andrews is always sweet," Foresyth said. "We won over Sweetwater and we've won over Monahans, and for the seniors, winning in Andrews would be the icing on the cake for this season."

Andrews has chance to salvage its season

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Last week, Big Spring beat Monahans, a team that had high hopes before suffering through a terrible start.

The Steers' opponent tonight might as well be Monahans, Part II.

Andrews (2-7, 2-2 in District 4-4A) was picked by most observers to win 4-4A, but the disappointing Mustangs have struggled the entire season. Injuries have hit them hard - their top returning running back from last season, Kevin Lawrence, did not suit up for a district game this season, and quarterback Chris Miller just returned to the field last week.

Big Spring has the top 4-4A defense, allowing 221.1 yards per game. Tonight, the Steers go up against the worst offense in 4-4A - Andrews averages just 199.6 yards per game.

Despite being in and out of the lineup, Miller (5-foot-10, 175 pounds) is the third-best passer in 4-4A in terms of yardage, behind Lake View's Sterlin Gilbert and Big Spring's Bucky Crenshaw. Miller's favorite target is receiver Chris Fisher (5-8, 150), 4-4A second-best receiver with 25 catches for 472 yards and six touchdowns.

Tonight's game also features a battle between two of the best cornerbacks in 4-4A. Big Spring's Tony Rodriguez leads the loop with five interceptions, while Andrews' Cuit Guevara is second with four picks.

Andrews has to win to make the playoffs, and it has to win by 10 or more points if Monahans beats Pecos.

"This system is much better than flipping a coin. It's really the fairest way to do it, unless you're going to have an overtime or a playoff game, something like that," said Andrews coach Mike Lebby.

The tongue and baloney sandwich was named the Barry and Jerry Sandwich.

Playoff fever sweeps over Big Spring

Random thoughts while shaving:

Tonight ends a journey - a mystical, magical journey that has demanded every bit of energy I could muster.

And now that the journey is nearing its end, a small tear is forming at the corner of my eye. The left one, I think.

Yes, dear friends, it's almost time to bid a fond farewell to Football '94 (high school version). Oh, there will still be some high school games left, but that's the playoffs, and that's different. The all-consuming, all-encompassing football season is about to come to a halt.

It's sad, yes it is. How will I go on? What will I do? Where will I go? Oh, heck, I can't keep this up. Yes, there will be many things I miss about the football season, but I doubt I'll shed a tear when the final whistle blows tonight.

For one thing, I'll be too busy covering basketball games. But there's still football to be played. Some area teams (don't ask us which ones) are going to be in the playoffs, and your friendly neighborhood sports staff will be there.

Actually, if there's a part of football season I really, really love, it's the playoffs. You can take your wars, your natural disasters, your deadlines, your heartbreaks and joys and hopes and fears - take all that, mix it up really well, and you'd have a high school football playoff.

I've never seen people get so high (using natural methods, anyway) or so low as at playoff games. It's as if our emotions are somehow put under a magnifying glass, or maybe turbocharged, this time of the year. It's been said that high school football in West Texas is more than a contest between teams - it's a clash of communities, a test of one's way of life vs. the other's.

If that's so, then the playoffs mean that your way of life has been validated by the regular season. Great joy and happiness reign in the land. Strangers smile and say kind words to each other as they pass on the street, children laugh and play, the sun shines and it rains money.

OK, OK, I'm exaggerating a bit - but only a bit. Those who remember the Steers' 1989 trip to the state semifinals will recall full well the fever that hit this town. Anything or anybody that had anything to do with the Steers acquired a special status.

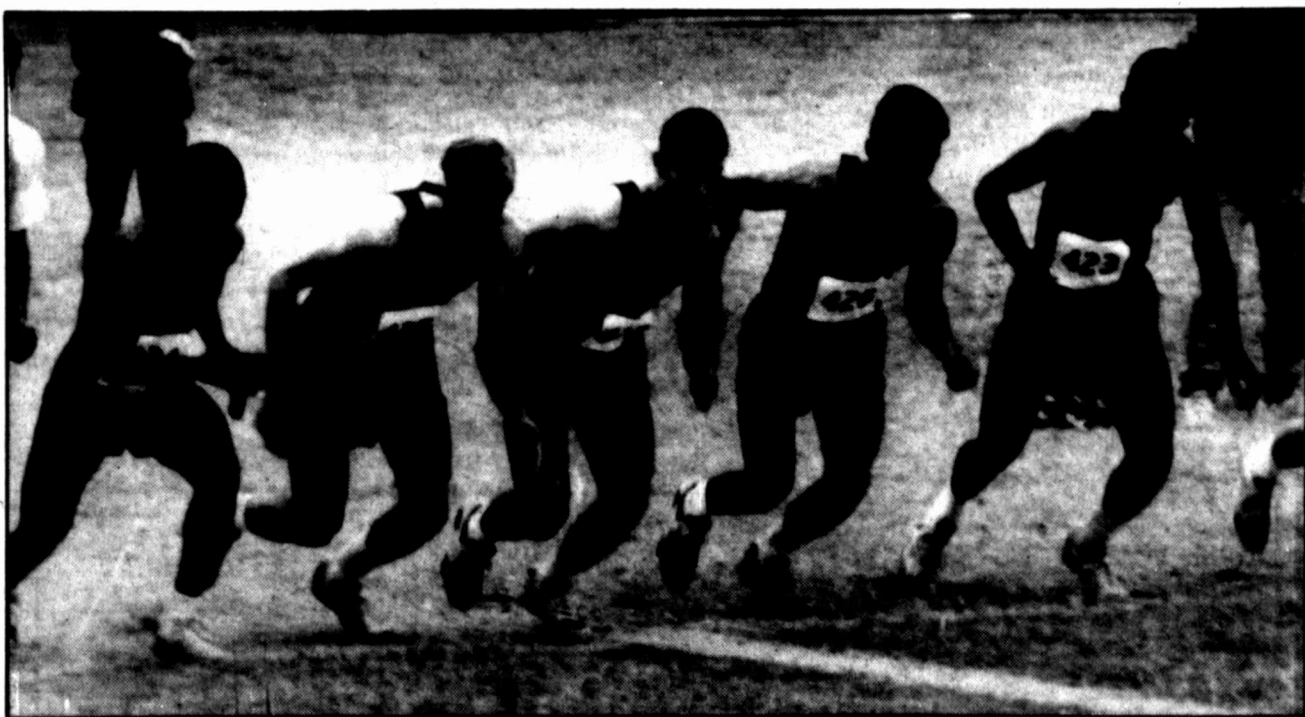

The team, not to sound too melodramatic, was a unifying force to this town. Suddenly, Big Spring was no longer the place that lost Webb Air Force Base or a town struggling through economic hard times. The potholes, bad water and abandoned buildings were forgotten.

Instead, Big Spring had something to be proud of, and by golly, we were proud of the Steers. Their success became our success.

And now, it seems, the whole process is about to start again. The emotions generated by the regular season are about to be increased by a factor of 10. Let's get ready to rumble.

Tarpley will miss five games

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Mavericks Roy Tarpley will miss at least the first five games of the season because of bursitis in his left knee, the team said. It was the latest development in a troubling week for Tarpley, who is returning to the NBA this season after a three-year drug-related ban.

The power forward was clocked driving 92 mph in a 55 mph zone on the Dallas North Tollway at 2:50 a.m. Saturday. Less than an hour later, his 1986 Mercedes Benz was found abandoned after slamming into a utility pole near the tollway. Tarpley said a friend who borrowed the car was responsible for the accident.

"This type of injury is a result of overtraining," said Dr. T.O. Souryal, team physician.

Big Spring JV ties Andrews; Steer freshmen win big

Big Spring JV 32 Andrews JV 32

Big Spring's junior varsity earned a tie with Andrews in the season finale for both teams. Frankie Green scored on runs of 15, 8 and 20 yards to lead Big Spring (1-6-2). The Steers' other score came on a 6-yard run by Brody Dunn. Jarrod Helms scored two two-point conversion runs.

Big Spring 9th 26 Andrews 6

ANDREWS - Big Spring's freshmen spoiled Andrews' hopes for a perfect season with a season-ending victory. Big Spring (7-2) received touchdown runs of 3 and 2 yards by Antwoyne Edwards, a 6-yard touchdown run by Brock Gee and a 3-yard TD pass from Gabriel Mendoza to Bam Dickson.

Stanton JV 32 Coahoma JV 31

COAHOMA - Stanton rallied from a third-quarter deficit, then held off a Coahoma comeback to take a wild win in the season-ender for both teams. Coahoma (5-4-1) scored first on a 5-yard touchdown run by Wes Kirby, but Stanton rallied to take a 8-7 lead at the half. Kirby scored again on a 6-yard run to give the lead back to Coahoma early in the third.

Kirby's run, however, was just a prelude of things to come. He tallied another TD on a 26-yard pass from quarterback Jay McHugh to give the JV Bulldogs a 19-6 lead. Stanton closed the deficit to three points, but McHugh put Coahoma back up by nine on a 1-yard TD run. The two-point conversion pass, however, was intercepted and returned 101 yards, giving Stanton two points.

From there, the Buffalos scored twice more to take the lead before Coahoma launched a late comeback. McHugh passed 11 yards to Jedd Cathey to make the score 32-31. A late 37-yard field goal try by McHugh was good, but the clock had expired before the ball was snapped.

Andrews 38 Runnels A 12

ANDREWS scored 38 unanswered points to take the season finale for both eighth-grade teams.

Runnels scores came on a 1-yard TD plunge by Brian Vanderbilt in the first quarter, and a 50-yard pass from Jeremy Brunson to Tory Mitchell.

Also playing well for the Yearlings (6-3) were Ricky Brackeen, Haven Carr and Michael Strain.

Runnels B 31 Andrews 8

JOHNNY DeLaCruz ran for two touchdowns and passed for another to lead Runnels B to its season-ending win over Andrews.

DeLaCruz opened the scoring with a 61-yard touchdown run, and added a 35-yard TD run and a 35-yard scoring pass to Daniel White. Runnels' other score came on a 27-yard pass to White from Bandy Rollins.

Also having a good game for Runnels were Landon Wegner, Kurt Miranda, Monty Hendricks, Gilbert Rubio, Blake Proffitt, David Martinez, Arthur Olague, Robert Burris, Chris Luna, Mike Krueger, John Hubbard, Jason Choate, Jason Cantu, Jon Rodriguez, Dusty Clayton, Eric Padilla, Felix Martinez, Matt Simon, Jon Hull, Phillip Kuykendall, Jason Campos, Josh Long, Marchello

Williams, Ben Moses, Jason Mims, Tony Bingham, Jacob Flores and Daniel Makowski.

Andrews 7th 6 Goliad White 0

ANDREWS - Andrews blanked Goliad's "White" team in seventh-grade football action. Playing well for Goliad were Jason Matthews, J.D. Smith, Oscar Solis, Larry Myers, Jerry Baeza, Frank Moncada, Ricky Solis, Jimmy Hawkins, Matt Lawdermilk, Scott Crowell, Jose Carnero and Jamie Womble.

Goliad White ended the season with a 6-3 record.

Andrews 36 Goliad Black 0

ANDREWS - Goliad "Black" also suffered a shutout in its final game of the season. Playing well for the Mavericks (5-4) were James Clements, Lance Brock, John Partee, Kyle Britton, John Bagwell, Mario Yanez, Chris Spence, Joe Loya and Anthony Ortega.

Stanton 7th 26 Coahoma 7th 12

STANTON - Adrian Hernandez scored two touchdowns to help lead Stanton's seventh-graders to a season-ending victory over Coahoma.

Hernandez scored on runs of 79 and 15 yards, while Will Harris ran for 8 yards and Blaine Smith passed 10 yards to Brady Cook for the other Stanton touchdowns.

Coahoma scores came on a 58-yard pass from Delvin White to Mario Garcia and a 65-yard run by Lance Montelone.

Stanton ended the season 5-4, while Coahoma suffered its first loss in six decisions.

Stanton 8th 50 Coahoma 8th 20

STANTON - Stanton received three touchdowns from quarterback Kyle Herm and a pair of scores from Chad Smith to take a season finale over Coahoma.

Herm scored on runs of 2, 33 and 27 yards, while Smith scored from 7 and 6 yards out. Other Stanton scores were provided by Carlos Chapa (34-yard run) and Jody Louder (30-yard run).

Coahoma's scores came on a 22-yard pass from Vincent Garcia to Rodney Grant, a 15-yard TD run by Blake Nichols and a 33-yard run by Sebastian Goillandeau.

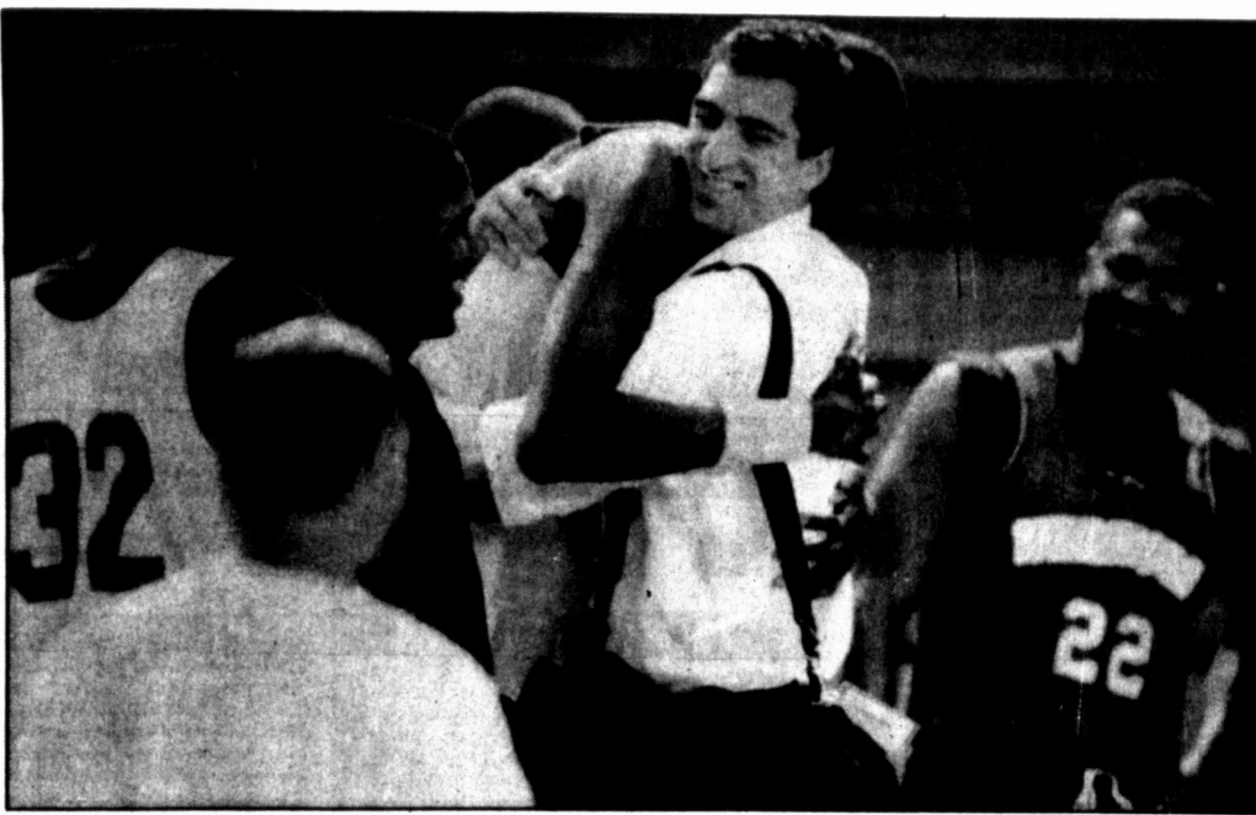

Stanton ended its season with an 8-1 record, while Coahoma fell to 4-3.

Garden City JH 24 Roscoe 0

GARDEN CITY - Garden City won the battle of the trenches to post a shutout win over Roscoe in the junior Bearkats' final game of the season.

Garden City (7-1) opened the scoring when Pedro Mata stripped the ball from a Roscoe running back and rumbled 55 yards for the touchdown. Mata later scored on a 5-yard run. Other Bearkat tallies came on Robert Guerrero's 6-yard run and Adam Frysack's 5-yard run. Coach Jimmy Fine said Garden City's defense played its best game of the year, and also commended the starting offensive line of Curtis Schmitz, Steven Hoelscher, James Rudloss, Scott Gully, Trent Owen, Kyle Schwartz and Sergio Sidon.

Rushing title may elude Emmitt

IRVING (AP) - Emmitt Smith sees his fourth consecutive rushing title starting to run away from him on the fleet feet of Barry Sanders.

"I never say never but the first half of the season was very difficult and it's probably going to get harder," Smith said. "All the defenses we play are keyed to stop the run. They are trying to shut it down and sometimes they do. But we're still winning ball games."

The defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys have rolled to a 7-1 start, best in the NFL along with San Diego, but Smith has drifted 287 yards behind Detroit's Sanders in the battle for the coveted rushing title.

Sanders has 1,035 yards to 748 yards for Smith, who is seeking to become the only runner besides Jim Brown to win the title four consecutive seasons.

"I think even more than in the past teams are looking to stop the run," Smith said. "They are selling out to get that done."

"Am I the only guy in the league teams are out to stop? Everybody else seems to have an easier go. Maybe it's a compliment. I don't know whether to pat myself on the back or be mad about it."

Smith quickly pointed out he didn't want to be construed as whining.

"I'm happy we're winning," Smith said. "I'm having a pretty good season but it's not what people are used to seeing. I'm not giving up on the title. Anything's possible."

Smith meets the New York Giants on Monday Night Football and he had two big days against them in 1993. After gaining 117 yards in the first game, Smith, playing with a separated shoulder, gained 168 yards on 32 carries in an overtime win that gave Dallas the NFC East championship.

"This might be one of those years I'll be happy to get a grand (1,000 yards)," Smith said. "It's been a little frustrating. I'm struggling a little."

Then Smith looked over to the locker next to him where full-back Darryl Johnston was dressing. Johnston is one of the best blockers in the NFL and a prime reason why Smith has won three consecutive NFL rushing titles.

"We're getting our bleep stuffed," Smith joked. Johnston joked back "Now, you're getting your bleep stuffed."

CHURCH IN BRIEF

Baker's Chapel

Baker's Chapel AME Methodist Church will have barbecue dinners Nov. 5 at the church cafeteria, 911 N. Lancaster. The dinners will consist of your choice of one meat (brisket, pork ribs, sausage or chicken), potato salad, red beans and dessert. Asking a donation of $5 a plate. You may pick up dinners or we will deliver. Call 267-7158. Dinners served 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Funds from this function will go toward church anniversary efforts Sunday, Nov. 27 (goal of $6,500). To make a donation, contact Sandra Green, 263-3830. Rev. Floyd Green, Jr. is pastor.

First Church of the Nazarene

The First Church of the Nazarene welcomes Dr. James Garlow for revival services Sunday, Nov. 6 at 6 p.m. and Monday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m. Dr. Garlow is the pastor of Metroplex Chapel in Fort Worth and has previously presented services in Big Spring. The community is invited.

L.A.M.B.S. (Ladies About the Master's Business) will prepare Thanksgiving baskets Tuesday, Nov. 8 in the Fellowship Hall. The baskets, which will be packed with groceries and toiletries, are an annual ministry of the women's group. The congregation of the church has been bringing items for the baskets throughout October.

This Sunday is "catch-up" day for those who have not participated yet. Food, toiletry items or money for perishables can be donated. Baskets will be delivered to shut-ins Tuesday evening and Wednesday.

Baptist Association

The churches of the Big Spring Baptist Association will host a World Missions Conference beginning Sunday, Nov. 6. The conference calls for a different missionary to speak in five different churches beginning Nov. 6 and going through Wednesday evening.

Big Spring churches involved in the Missions Conference are First Baptist, Berea, Crestview, East Fourth St., La Fe, Iglesia Bautista Central, Salem, College, Baptist Temple, Hillcrest, Midway, Central, Elbow and Northside.

Also included are First Baptist, Coahoma; First Baptist, Forsan; First Baptist, Garden City; First Baptist, Sand Springs; First Baptist, Stanton, Tarzan, Lenorah.

First United Methodist Church

The 16th annual performances of the Living Christmas Tree are 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3 and Sunday, Dec. 4 in the church sanctuary.

Rehearsal dates include: Saturday, Nov. 12 Half day 9 a.m. to noon, Saturday, Nov. 19 all day rehearsal, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Lunch will be provided. Monday, Nov. 28-Friday, Dec. 2 rehearsals 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3, Living Tree rehearsal with orchestra, 2 p.m. Anyone interested in participating in this year's Living Tree should contact Randy Stevens to register at 267-6394.

The community is invited to the Advent "Come To The Manger" activities. During this period, there will be only one Sunday morning service of worship at 10:50. Sunday evening, Nov. 27, there will be the Hanging Of The Greens and a special presentation of a tree in Garrett Hall decorated in handmade Christmas. The Pathfinders Sunday School Class will serve dessert following the program.

Women's Club prepares craft show

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Women's Club is hosting an arts and crafts show at the mall on Saturday to raise money for the scholarships they give out to local students.

It is not too late to sign up for a booth if you have items to sell. Booths are $45 if you want to participate in Saturday's show and the one the club will sponsor on Dec. 3. The price for having a booth at just one of the shows is $30. Contact Julie Lawrence at 264-7927 for more information.

Pauline Hilger is in charge of the club's newsletter and publicity and says there will be lots of gift ideas for residents to purchase. "There will be baked goods, arts, crafts, painted t-shirts, woodwork, Christmas items and wreaths," Hilger said.

Lawrence adds there will also be tamales, Thanksgiving items, hair bows, ceramics and cross-stitch items.

Hilger says they need more club members so they can provide more services to the community. "We meet on the second Monday of the month at the Sunrise Restaurant on Interstate 20 at 7 p.m. We have speakers, style shows and demonstrations at our meetings.

"We need some younger members who are able to get out into the community and do things. In the past, we have had booths at the county fair but we couldn't this year because we just don't have enough members," Hilger adds.

At previous meetings, Howard College President Cheryl Sparks has been a guest speaker, Linda Elrod has given decorating tips and Connie's has put on a fashion show for the 22 club members.

The club has already given three scholarships to students who are attending Texas Tech and Howard College. The monetary amount depends on how much money the club can raise.

If you would like more information about how to become a member of the Big Spring Women's Club, contact Hilger at 263-8791.

Also on Saturday at the mall, members of the Art Guild and Boy Scouts will have booths. The craft show is from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

CLUBS IN BRIEF

FCE Club

Family Community and Education City Club met with Nadine Hodnett their last meeting. Eight members attended. Roll call was answered with "Something I bought and didn't like."

The hostess read the devotional from Ephesians 4:29. After a business meeting, Jowill Etchison gave a program of "Hints and Shortcuts Worth Sharing," by Dorothy Blackwell. A quiz from the American Diabetes Association was passed out so people can know for sure about diabetes in their life.

Next meeting will be a Thanksgiving dinner at Janice Bennett's Nov. 11 at noon.

Tall Talkers

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club met 6:45 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 1, in the meeting room of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. Toastmaster was Josh Owusu. Table Topics were led by Reeves Moren.

Best Speaker award went to Lanelle Witt and the speech was entitled "Interest Rates." Best Evaluator trophy went to Cliff Cunningham. The goal of Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club is to educate people to become better communicators and leaders. For more information, contact any Tall Talkers member or Bailey Anderson at 267-3008.

1970 Hyperion Club

1970 Hyperion Club's October meeting featured Liz Lowery, speech instructor at Howard College, presenting a reading of Erma Bombeck. According to Lowery, an oral interpreter should consider the author's background and viewpoint, add her own experiences, and attempt to relate to the experiences of her audience.

The club met in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Anderson. Sherri Key and Cindy Middleton served as co-hostesses. During a short business meeting the budget was approved, the Ways and Means Committee was activated, and plans were made for the annual Christmas party.

The November meeting will feature a topiary tree demonstration by Karen Fraser.

Kiwanis Club

Four new members were recently inducted into the Big Spring Kiwanis Club: Larissa DeSantis, Kay Barnett, Linda Perez and Willie Lane.

Kay Barnett is sponsor of the Key Club. Kick-off of the club's annual peanut sale is scheduled for Nov. 25-26 in the Big Spring Mall.

Outreach Aglow

Big Spring Outreach Aglow monthly Harvest Luncheon is

Wednesday, Nov. 9, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 811 Highland Dr. Those who can come at 11 a.m., bring a covered dish and a utensil. Speaker is Carol Coyle; topic, "Healing of Marriages."

Carol and husband Royce have lived in Big Spring 18 years. They attend Miracle Revival Center. Carol is a wife, homemaker, home schooler and grandmother. Royce works for Feagan's Implement.

Carol and Royce were married, divorced, and remarried again 10 years later. Royce was delivered from alcohol and Carol received inner healing from childhood.

Bring a friend. For more information call 263-8637.

Smocking Arts Guild

The Tumbleweed Chapter of the Smocking Arts Guild of America, The Arts Assembly of Midland and The Texas Commission on the Arts, present Classes with designer/author/creator Laura Jenkins Thompson Nov. 10-12. Classes at the Golf Course Road Church of Christ in Midland. For more information and registration, call 697-3579 or 683-5748. Registration deadline is Nov. 6.

First Christian prepares 25th holiday bazaar

By BARBARA MORRISON
Staff Writer

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.

And, there is nothing quicker to remind a person about home than a good, old-fashioned church bazaar.

If it's the homey feel you're looking for, the search is over.

The annual Fall Bazaar of the First Christian Church is 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. The church is located at the corner of 10th Street and Goliad and promised everyone not only a feel, but also a true "taste," of the event's trademark homemade crafts and goodies.

This year's bazaar is especially significant. Church member Shirley Beauchamp said, "Since this is our 25th anniversary, we're promising to make it the biggest and the best."

Promised fun and fare items include crafts, breads, pies, cakes, cookies, candy and desserts (all homemade, of course), but doesn't stop there.

Lunch begins at 11:30 and consists of salad, chicken spaghetti, garlic bread, dessert and tea or coffee. The price is $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children under 10. Beauchamp said the meal will be served in the Fellowship Hall or can even be delivered by calling 267-7851 in advance.

The bazaar began as the brainchild of church member Charlene Driver 25 years ago. According to Beauchamp, the idea of having such an element did not meet with instant success and, in fact, was initially faced with opposition.

"It just wasn't the thing to do back then," Beauchamp said. "People didn't like the idea of selling things in a church."

However, Beauchamp explained, thwarting Driver wasn't easy. As one of the leaders of the church, Driver enlisted the help of good friend, Ella Smith.

"They didn't let their spirits dampen simply because this had never been done before," Beauchamp said. "They knew larger churches in larger cities were having bazaars, so they figured, why not in Big Spring?"

Obviously, Driver and Smith had their way. The beginning bazaar earned approximately $2,000 for church supported projects. And, the bazaar of today is still carried out in the same way, 25 years later.

First Christian Church's 25th annual Christmas bazaar will feature such items as ornaments, like these from a past bazaar.

Woman battles Satan one soul at a time

By RON DURHAM
San Angelo Standard-Times

SAN ANGELO — On the day Leonardo and Maria Talamantes learned their son Sammy had been murdered, they also buried Leonardo's brother Joel.

An aunt, who was very close to Maria, died the same weekend.

Such life-blows have only served to transform Maria from a political activist to a missionary. Now, she says, she protests against Satan more than against the system.

"It moves me so much to fight Satan," she said at the Talamantes' modest home in the San Angelo barrio. her voice breaking and her eyes misting.

"The children and the elderly — they're the ones I like to work with most," she said. "They're the ones with the most needs."

Sammy Talamantes, slain in April in McAllen in a murder that remains unsolved, was a model son, a graduate of San Angelo Central High School and Angelo State University and a former music teacher at Edison Junior High School.

"He devoted all his life to youth," Maria said. "He was a strict teacher. He'd say 'I want you to be good musicians, and good teachers.' He wanted a good future for them."

At the time of his death, Sammy was music director for the McAllen schools. Maria said, "He would say to us, 'You should know how I love these kids. They are my family.'"

"Once, on my birthday, he called and he had his orchestra students all together and they played 'Happy Birthday' over the phone. He gave those kids everything he had."

Then someone took everything Sammy had — his Ford Tempo, and his life. His body was found at his home, where he lived alone, several days after he had been killed.

In an appropriate protest against his senseless death, his parents — Leonardo is his biological father and Maria his step-mother — have given one of Sammy's former music students a scholarship to help her attend a San Antonio seminary.

Through Iris Jaques, who is studying for the ministry, the Talamantes believe Sammy's memory and influence will touch the lives of everyone touched by Jaques' ministry.

A charter member of the original League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), Talamantes has served her community as election judge, member of the Public Housing Authority, the Tri-Region Health board and various other community and political posts.

Now she is more interested in the neighborhood knowing about Christ.

Woman minister faces job loss

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

GALVESTON - Former Big Spring resident Raye Nell Dyer never expected her strong Baptist faith to cost her a job. However, after several years of problems, that seems to be what has happened.

Dyer's last day as Baptist Student Union (BSU) director at University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston was Sept. 9. She had held the position since 1985.

The termination followed months of controversy about whether her performance was satisfactory and why organizations such as the Galveston Baptist Association (GBA), BSU and Baptist State Convention (BSC) wanted her out.

Dyer maintains the problems are because she requested and eventually received ordination, which made some Baptist church members and leaders in the area unhappy. Some have accused her of pursuing her own agenda to the detriment of the church.

Grayson Glass, GBA's director of missions, told the Associated Baptist Press, "The whole problem developed, from our standpoint, not whether she should be ordained but her pushing of this."

"I never had a problem until I was ordained," Dyer said. "It's been one discriminating event after another." About the end of her nine years at UTMB, she commented, "I'm upset, angry, disappointed, yet relieved. This has gone on way too long."

Dyer's problems began in 1991 when she requested her church, First Baptist Church of Galveston, ordain her to the gospel ministry. Some church members were opposed to ordination of a woman, and Dyer offered to postpone her ordination.

Meanwhile, the GBA established a committee to investigate Dyer's theology and make recommendations on her future employment, as well as study the ordination of women. In July 1992, she withdrew her request to be ordained.

In September 1993, Dyer joined South Main Baptist Church and was ordained as a minister in November that same year. In January 1994, she offered to address the GBA's executive board relating to their concerns about her ordination.

In February, the controversy escalated when the GBA and BSU advisory committee recommended Dyer's removal from UTMB. In July, a special meeting of the GBA executive board was called to discuss the situation.

The board voted to rescind the request she be removed and to create guidelines for reconciliation between Dyer and the association, composed of more than 40 churches in Galveston County.

With support from UTMB students and even from 25 campus ministers from 10 states, Dyer felt she and the board could reach an agreement. However, she was disappointed with the guidelines developed by the board. "In summer, I was told they (the board) would work with me on 10 guidelines for reconciliation. Then, they presented them to me," she said. To her, the guidelines read more like orders and implied she was not doing her job.

In the middle of negotiating the guidelines, "a couple of laypeople" asked to see the recommendations. Greever found out and became angry, she said, telling her the guidelines were confidential.

"I told him that he had never told me that," she recalled. "If he had, I wouldn't have agreed to it." According to Dyer, Greever recommended the BSC remove her with haste because she broke confidentiality and was non-conciliatory.

Jack Greever, state student director at the BSC and Dyer's boss, said he has been advised to comment only through an attorney because Dyer herself has retained legal counsel. "I'm waiting for more information," he added.

He could not supply the name of an attorney who would provide comment.

Dyer wasn't sure what her next move will be. "I've considered other denominations, but I have such a rich heritage and investment in Baptist faith," she said. While growing up in Big Spring, she attended Baptist Temple Church.

Many people in Galveston, Baptist and otherwise, are upset by the actions taken against her, she said. "The students are real upset and angry. This is going to be a wake-up call for Baptists in this area," she said.

God will help faithful in times of trouble

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I think we have to learn to accept our problems in life and not let them ruffle us or get us down. I don't think people should pray that God will take away their problems, but that God will help them bear them and accept them and not fight against them. Do you agree? -- Mrs. C.S.J.

Billy Graham

DEAR MRS. C.S.J.: When we face any problem, God does not just want us to rely on our own resources, but to turn in faith to Him for the answer. The Bible tells us to "Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you" (1 Peter 5:7).

But what should our prayers be? Certainly we should tell God what is in our hearts, and share with Him what we want for Him to do for us that we know we cannot do for ourselves. The Bible tells us, "in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God" (Philippians 4:6). At times God answers that prayer by intervening to change the situation and remove the cause of our problems.

But most of all we should pray for God's will to be done. As we are taught in the Lord's Prayer, we should always pray that God's "will be done on earth as it is in heaven" (Matthew 6:10). Sometimes God's will is to intervene and change the situation for us. Sometimes, however, He does not do that, but wants to work in our lives to give us the strength we need to overcome the problem.

Religions fight assisted suicide

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - In a rare confluence of opinion, faith groups from Buddhists to Baptists have united behind the Roman Catholic Church to fight an assisted suicide measure on Oregon's general election ballot.

Supporters of the measure have portrayed the opposition as Catholics who are out of touch with the rest of society.

The Catholic Church has raised three-quarters of the $1 million arsenal being used against Measure 16, much of it from collections during Sunday services.

But Jewish, Muslim and

Buddhist leaders, along with 16 other Christian denominations, now have come out against the measure as well.

Measure 16 would make Oregon the first state to legalize assisted suicide. If a doctor predicts a patient has less than six months to live, and a second doctor agrees, the patient may ask for a lethal prescription. The request must be made twice, then once again in writing, after the doctors have made sure every alternative has been rejected. The patient must take the final step of ingesting the lethal prescription, which could consist of barbituates.

Religious leaders say that decision is one that should not be made by anyone but God.

"The mood of most evangelical Christians that believe the Bible is God's word would be concerned with any measure that would prematurely take anyone's life," said the Rev. Bill Wilson, senior pastor at Portland Christian Center, an Assembly of God church.

"You die when your time is up," said Fu-gen Schmelzer, a member of the Portland Temple of Chinese Buddhists. "There's no running away from the situation."

Computers revolutionize religion

Spiritual communities form in cyberspace

By REBECCA JONES
Scripps Howard News Service

The prophet Isaiah instructed the Israelites to "make straight in the desert a highway for our God."

He had no idea. Nowadays, God is all over the information superhighway. Whether they're posting prayer requests on Christian electronic bulletin boards, debating theology via E-mail or downloading Cyber-Muslim, an introduction to Islam, off the Internet, people in search of a virtual spiritual experience are finding thousands of like-minded believers in cyberspace.

They're also using their home computers to study the scriptures, explore maps of the Holy Land, play Bible-based games or be greeted by an affirmation of faith every time they log on.

The Rock of Ages is quickly moving into the 21st century.

"Truly the emerging information superhighway is one of God's great gifts to the new world of the 21st century," said Donald Messer, president of Iliff School of Theology, in a message he delivered last week in Korea.

Messer sees computers revolutionizing the study of holy texts, as well as expanding prayer networks and aiding in the creation of global spiritual communities, not to mention helping churches run more efficiently.

Already, Iliff has dipped its toe in the cyberspiritual pond by offering a preaching class for ministers taught via E-mail. "(That class) moved off the campus into cyberspace and into the congregations of people struggling to live out the Gospel," Messer said.

To be honest, Messer was the one who found that quote about the highway in Isaiah. But anyone with even a cheap Bible software package could have come up with that in seconds. You'd just ask the computer to Please see CYBERSPACE, page 3B show you every Biblical reference to "highway" and "God." There are hundreds of programs that will do far more.

"If you're reading a scripture passage that says so-and-so was in Jericho, with some programs you can click and pull up a map of Jericho. Or you can open up a Bible commentary that discusses that particular scripture," said Steve Hewitt, editor-in-chief of "Christian Computing", a Kansas City, Mo., magazine that has seen its circulation grow from 100 in 1989 to 100,000 today.

Other programs, for serious scholars, can provide Greek and Hebrew translations. And with the emergence of multimedia technology, Bible scholars can pop a disk into a CD-ROM and get pictures and music along with text.

"You name it and you can find it," said Heil Houk, editor of "Church Bytes", which reviews Bible and church-related software.

Impressive as the range and power of computer software today is, it is in cyberspace where the faithful of all religions are finding the greatest satisfaction. The modem is one more pulpit from which the Word can be spread.

Jim Gallagher has been tracking the growth of Christian electronic bulletin boards since the first one appeared in 1981. At last count, there were around 600. "And I suspect there are another 200 or 300 that I don't know about," said Gallagher, of Lewisville, Texas. "They come and go. People will put a BBS up for a couple of months, then quit because running it is so much work."

The Big Three commercial on-line services — America OnLine, CompuServe and Prodigy — have dozens of electronic religious forums on which members can post messages, prayer requests, announcements and the like. They also have "chat rooms" in which up to 35 people at a time can carry on electronic conversations in "real time," reading and responding to each other's messages instantly.

Through the anonymity of the modem, the participants are known only by their log-on names. Those who read their messages don't know what they look like, their gender, their age, their race.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

HOW THE BIBLE HELPED WIN A WORLD WAR I CAMPAIGN!

THE TURKS, UNDER GERMAN HIGH COMMAND, WERE A CONSTANT THREAT TO THE BRITISH-HELD SUEZ CANAL, ENGLAND'S LIFE LINE TO HER COLONIES DURING WORLD WAR I! IT FELL TO GENERAL SIR EDWARD ALLENBY TO SQUASH THIS THREAT! IN A SERIES OF BRILLIANTLY EXECUTED BATTLES, ALLENBY SUCCEEDED! IN PLANNING HIS BATTLE ENGAGEMENTS, HE AND HIS STAFF STUDIED, ALONG WITH THEIR TACTICAL MAPS, ALL THE RECORDED BATTLES IN THE BIBLE AND, IN SOME INSTANCES, FOLLOWED THE SAME TACTICS THE ANCIENT JEWS HAD EMPLOYED...

ONE SUCH EXAMPLE OCCURS IN THE BATTLE FOR THE PASSES OF MEGIDDO, INTO THE PLAIN OF ESDRAELON, DURING SEPTEMBER OF 1918. TAKING A TIP FROM SUCH ANCIENT GENERALS AS JOSHUA, KING DAVID AND KING OMRI, ALLENBY ATTACKED ON A BROAD FRONT BUT MASSSED HIS CAVALRY AT ONE POINT TO BREAK THROUGH THE TURKISH LINE—THIS DONE, THE CAVALRY RACED HARD, DUE NORTH, TO CUT OFF THE TURKS' ONLY MEANS OF RETREAT AT THE PASSES OF EL AFFULE AND BEISAN, THUS ENTRAPPING THE ENTIRE ARMY SO THE ADVANCING INFANTRY COULD FINISH THEM OFF!

ALLENBY'S STAFF PLACED MUCH CREDIT FOR THE SUCCESS ON CONSTANT STUDY OF THE ANCIENT TACTICS IN THE BIBLE, AND AS ONE BRITISH "TOMMY" PUT IT, "WIF TH' BLOOMIN' TURKS AD STUDIED OUD BIBLE TH WAY WE DID, THEY MIGHT 'AVE MADE HIT A LOT FLIPPIN' ROUGHER FOR US!"

Mixing churches, politics may be awkward

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The political campaign season can be an awkward time for churches trying to balance the church-state separation issue and their desire to hear where candidates stand on moral issues.

Some clergy believe churches should get more involved in politics, and fight for political goals, regardless if it threatens their tax-exempt status.

Other clergy are steadfast that while voter registration drives may be acceptable, church-sponsored debates and other political activity must be avoided.

"We encourage voter registration and non-partisan voter education," said Jim Lund, of the Office of Peace and Justice with the Roman Catholic Diocese of Chicago.

The Chicago Diocese does not encourage things that would tie churches closely with politicians.

During the 1992 presidential election, candidate Bill Clinton discussed issues of faith over the religious VISN television network after he won the Democratic nomination. Clinton's comments at Stone Presbyterian Church in Wheeling, W.Va., became a focal point of the 1992 presidential election.

The pastor at Stone Presbyterian, the Rev. Allen Fisher, encouraged that link with the political process.

"We had no hesitation seizing that opportunity," he said.

"I think the church is missing a huge opportunity to engage people in lengthy conversation about issues that are important to Christians, Jews and other people of faith," Fisher said.

Some church leaders fear sponsoring debates could tread on their tax-exempt status. The Internal Revenue Service says not to worry.

"Can churches invite candidates to debate issues? Yes, no problem," said IRS spokesman Henry Holmes. He said, they cannot endorse or campaign for a candidate.

The Christian Coalition of Chesapeake, Va., founded by religious broadcaster Pat Robertson, also sponsors political forums for candidates.

The coalition concentrates on voter registration and recently completed its first national voter registration drive, said spokesman Mike Russell.

In Dallas, Ted Hedquist, spokesman for the First Baptist Church, with 26,812 members, said the church might distribute material on how candidates would vote on issues, but it avoids speeches and debates, because of tax reasons, and also because "that's not our role."

The Rev. James Orange, associate pastor of the St. Peter Baptist Church in Atlanta, said churches with black congregations have a duty to be politically active.

"I think it's impossible for them not to be," said Orange.

Churches have been the central cultural and social life for blacks, he said.

The Rev. Bill Ellis, West Virginia coordinator for 90 Church of God churches, said clergy should not avoid politicians, but bring them together to discuss issues under a peaceful roof.

"It seems to me that the Founding Fathers were very wise in talking about the state should not have power over the church," Ellis said.

"We've gone to the other extreme and said the church must not have any influence over the state," Ellis said.

On Oct. 23, former Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder endorsed the re-election of long-time foe Sen. Charles Robb, D-Va., at Trinity Baptist Church in Richmond.

Charles D. Chambliss Jr., general counsel to the 5,400-member church, said it came after the church's service.

Larry J. Sabato, professor of government at the University of Virginia, said "the incline is upwards" for churches being involved in politics.

Muslims seek miracles at Catholic shrine

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Noura Abdel-Rashid, her hair covered in the tradition of her Muslim faith, kneels before the statue of a Roman Catholic saint. She prays for "a fiancé who is good."

"Every time a potential husband comes around, I'm inclined to refuse him," the 16-year-old explains. "I don't know why — it's a feeling I have."

Nearby, another Muslim woman says she came to St. Theresa's Basilica to pray for a miracle, a cure for her brother who is "bewitched by evil spirits." A third woman refers to St. Theresa as "a sheikha," a term of great respect among Muslims. Muslim men are among the worshippers, too.

"There are more Muslims now than Christians," said the Rev. Gabriel Aboud, describing the hundreds of people who come weekly to his church in the crowded Cairo neighborhood of Shubra in search of miracles.

Aboud, a believer in miracles, points to more than 6,000 plaques on the walls and handwritten notes giving thanks to St. Theresa for prayers answered. The plaques are from people of all faiths. One is signed "the Levy family" and another is from Abdel-Halim Hafez, who was one of the Arab world's most famous singers.

Aboud does not find it odd that Muslims or those from other religions seek solace in his church.

But the mixture of Islam and Christianity in the monument to a 19th century French nun, St. Theresa of Lisieux, is a rarity these days in Egypt, a predominantly Muslim country of 60 million people.

Islam officially looks down on the revering of saints as a violation of the religion's belief that "there is no God but God."

Moreover, Muslim radicals trying to topple Egypt's secular government have attacked Christians as "kuffar" (non-believers), aggravating relations between Egypt's Muslims and its approximately 6 million Christians.

"We never have problems here," the 83 year old Aboud said, referring to extremist violence that has killed more than two dozen Christians in two years.

Aboud, standing in the marble-and-oak church where he has served more than half a century, attributes it to "the testimony of those who received miracles here that bring the others."

Breast cancer strikes young women

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, married and have four daughters. Two months ago, I discovered a lump in my breast, so I made an appointment with my doctor. He examined me and sent me to see a surgeon, who did a needle biopsy.

A week later, I learned it was a malignant tumor (cancer), so I'm scheduled to have my breast removed in two weeks.

Abby, I am so sick of hearing doctors say that women under the age of 35 are not at risk for breast cancer. Although there is no history of breast cancer in my family, I am living proof that cancer can strike anyone at any age.

If it weren't for doing monthly breast exams on myself, I never would have discovered the lump.

Please tell your readers to feel for "lumps" in their breasts regularly. (Men, too. Although breast cancer is rare in men — it does occur.) -- TEENA

DEAR TEENA: There are going to be a lot of prayers for you — mine included. Thank you for writing to warn my readers. Early detection has saved many a life.

Readers: For more information on breast cancer, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a disagreement, which I hope you can settle. He says I'm overreacting, but I think I have every right to be upset.

Ever since I married "Norm" three years ago, I have supported him and his children from a previous marriage on a teacher's salary. Needless to say, we live from paycheck to paycheck. Our credit cards are maxed out, and we have had to borrow money from our parents to live.

Nine months ago, Norm's sister "Emily" asked him to install heating and air conditioning in her new home. He did, but she hasn't paid Norm one dime! I estimated the total amount to be somewhere between $7,000 and $10,000. With this, we could have paid off almost all we owe on our credit cards, and also for the repairs to our house and car.

I feel used. It's one thing for Norm to expect me to support our family, but for Emily to take advantage of me too is a bit much! I know she has no intention of paying him, and he has no intention of asking her for the money.

Emily's income is three times greater than ours, and she just came into a substantial inheritance, so she can well afford to pay Norm for his work.

The financial strain has taken a toll on our marriage. Am I wrong to be upset? -- FED UP IN ILLINOIS

DEAR FED UP: You are well within your rights to be upset. I suggest that you speak candidly with your sister-in-law and explain that you desperately need the money Norm earned for working on her home. Taking this situation into your own hands may create some friction between you and your husband but, as I see it, it's the most sensible solution.

For an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person, order "How to Be Popular." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

HOROSCOPE

FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 5, 1994

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Today is much improved. You are in an upbeat mood. You accomplish much. You approach another successfully. Creativity, flirtation and humor mix. Consider an unusual offer that could take you away from your normal routine. Tonight: Take off. *****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): One-to-one relating is highlighted. You get closer to a loved one. Money matters are up for discussion. A family member gives you important feedback. Go for your true needs. Be in touch with your feelings and express yourself. Tonight: Get in close. *****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your ingenuity and creativity comes out. You see life with unusual fullness. Communications are active and fun, allowing you options. Be more clear about what you want. Make calls, initiate changes and bring friends together. Tonight: Out and about. *****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Go shopping. It may be important for you to get errands out of the way. Pricing a new item for the household needs to be done with care. Consider inviting friends over for a spontaneous get-together in the next two days. Tonight: Make it easy. *****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your ingenuity comes into play. Today, go for what you'd really like. You have magnetism and energy. Include a friend or family member in a project. Discussions need to revolve around needs. Be your happy, playful self. Tonight: Share your sense of humor. *****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be sure about what you want. You might be asked to play a key role in a community event; be honest with yourself about the importance of this request. Family members play a significant role. Be careful about how you express your temper. Tonight: Home. *****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You are talkative with a friend. Be careful how much you say. Be willing to explain a problem. Communications are active. Popularity is high. Make calls, pay your bills and catch up on neighborhood news. Let your social side emerge. Tonight: You are the party. *****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be careful with spending. It could go overboard. As a result, you might feel intimidated by a situation. Revamp your expenditures and budget. Accept responsibility. Be clear about your choices and remain upbeat. Tonight: Treat a friend to dinner. *****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are personality plus. Everything appears to be going well. Focus on news, a foreigner and a special invitation. Go for the exotic. Prepare to take action. Opportunities come your way because of who you are. Tonight: Try a country restaurant. *****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Kick back and gain information. News could be startling and needs evaluation. Be open with a partner and your relationship grows. One-to-one relating is highlighted. Be aware of what you need and how you depend on another. Tonight: Go for togetherness. *****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Focus on popularity, reaching your goals and getting ahead. A friend's offer makes you happy. Be more upbeat. Friendship and accomplishments are highlighted. Let others make the first move. You have reason for celebration. Tonight: Out with friends. *****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Handle responsibilities. Use your high energy. This may not be a work day, but you can accomplish a lot at home. Clear out errands and knock off those chores. An upbeat attitude helps a co-worker or friend share with you. Tonight: Take the lead. *****

IF NOV. 5 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY:

Money matters are prominent in the coming year, and your prevail. Your creativity, work image and willingness to work long and hard get you ahead. If you are single: You meet people easily in your normal daily routine; don't stay home; relationships will flourish this year. If you are attached: Relationships are active, and community and family activity is very high as well; include a partner in your busy pace. SAGITTARIUS helps you make money.

How do you write a Classified Ad that gets Results?

Be Thorough

Don't let your ad stand out from the rest, but don't skip on the sort of information that sells. The item's condition, size, age, brand name, and color are the basics readers want to know. Without them, your ad may be passed by.

Steer Clear of Abbreviations

OK, so you want to include all the important basics, now don't confuse your reader by using strange abbreviations. What is perfectly clear to you might be unrecognizable to someone else!

Be Honest

Exaggerating your item's finer points may bring in a lot of responses, but a buyer who's misled won't appreciate it - and will take his business elsewhere.

Be Accessible

Including a telephone number or address puts you in touch with potential buyers. Be sure to state the hours you can be reached - a caller who can't get through the first time often won't call again.

Don't hesitate to call us with any questions or problems you may have. Our professionally trained sales staff know the market and would be happy to pass their knowledge on to you. That's why we're here: to help you get the results you deserve.

This date in history

Today is Friday, Nov. 4, the 308th day of 1994. There are 57 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On Nov. 4, 1942, during World War II, Axis forces retreated from El Alamein in North Africa in a major victory for British forces commanded by Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery.

In 1884, Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected to his first term as president, defeating Republican James G. Blaine. In 1922, the entrance to King Tutankhamen's tomb was discovered in Egypt. In 1924, Nellie T. Ross of Wyoming was elected the nation's first female governor so she could serve out the remaining term of her late husband, William B. Ross. In 1939, the United States modified its neutrality stance in World War II, allowing "cash and carry" purchases of arms by belligerents, a policy favoring Britain and France. In 1952, Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected the 34th president of the United States, defeating Democrat Adlai Stevenson. In 1956, Soviet troops moved in to crush the Hungarian Revolution. In 1979, the Iranian hostage crisis began as militants stormed the United States Embassy in Tehran. In 1980, Ronald Reagan won the White House as he defeated President Carter by a strong margin. In 1991, Ronald Reagan opened his presidential library in Simi Valley, Calif., with a dedication ceremony attended by President Bush and former presidents Carter, Ford and Nixon — the first-ever gathering of five U.S. chief executives.

Thought for Today: "To me it seems as if when God conceived the world, that was Poetry; He formed it, and that was Sculpture; He colored it, and that was Painting; He peopled it with living beings, and that was the grand, divine, eternal Drama." — Charlotte Saunders Cushman, American actress (1816-1876).
