Early morning voting puts Bush ahead in the county

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

If it was up to just the voters in Precinct 203 in Howard County, George W. Bush would be the next governor of Texas. However, the polls are still open and all the ballots have not been counted.

An exit poll conducted at Goliad Middle School Tuesday morning shows Bush received two-thirds of the votes. U.S. Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison also received two-thirds of the votes compared to her Democrat challenger Richard Fisher while it is a dead heat between Congressman Charlie Stenholm and challenger Phil Boone.

Of those polled, two-thirds of the voters cast their ballots for Republican challenger Wilma Hogan over incumbent David Counts for the District 70 state representative spot.

In the race for Howard County Commissioner, Republican Jerry Kilgore received 60 percent of the votes and Democrat Donnie Reid received 40 percent of those polled.

Opinion polls taken a few days ago, shows Fisher lagging behind Hutchison by 28 percentage points. The race for governor continues to be at a dead heat across the state. A poll published by the Dallas Morning News and Houston Chronicle show Bush with 46.6 percent of the votes and Richards with 44.4 percent but with the three percent error, Richards could be ahead.

Voters echoed similar sentiments at Precincts 410, 402 and 410 in a similar exit poll conducted at the Big Spring High School Library.

As of 8:30 a.m. 15 voters had cast ballots and of the voters who took part in the poll, George W. Bush seems to have the early nod in the Governor's race.

One man said he voted for Bush because he's Republican and he reflects his own ideas of how Texas should be run.

Another voter said he made his own checklist and Bush came out ahead of Richards by a few points.

The issues seem to be crime and education and who's telling the truth according to one man who said he almost left the Governor's slot empty when he voted because it was too hard to know just where the candidates stood after seeing all of the negative ad campaigns.

One woman summed it up this way, saying "I think this election will be very interesting because at the very least people have shown an interest in the political process because of Ann Richards and George W. Bush."

The polls are open until 7 p.m. and it promises to be a long night for all the candidates as 55 percent of the registered voters in Texas head to the ballot box today.

Staff writer Carlton Johnson also contributed to this report.

Quilted back together

Timothy Thede, center, holds the helmet he has had to wear for three years before doctors replaced his missing forehead bone in this photo taken in October in Fort Worth. Timothy, 8, suffered nearly fatal skull injuries in a car crash.

Boy's forehead rebuilt after near-fatal wreck

FORT WORTH (AP) — Timothy Thede, 8, is delighted with the new quilt he takes with him everywhere he goes.

Doctors used pieces of Timothy's own skull three weeks ago to rebuild his forehead.

"Basically, Timothy has a quilted forehead," said Dr. Michael Zide, an oral and facial surgeon who performed the surgery along with neurosurgeon George Cravens and Dr. Robert Anderson, a plastic surgeon.

"They fixed my head. They did good work," Timothy said.

The boy suffered nearly fatal skull injuries in a car crash 3 years ago. He flew through the windshield when a car he was in went out of control on a wet road and slid into a gravel truck. A hand-size chunk of glass gouged open his forehead and ripped into his brain.

Timothy Thede

Doctors at Cook-Fort Worth Children's Medical Center gave him only a slim chance of survival.

Timothy suffered some brain damage, primarily short-term memory loss and extreme attention deficit disorder. But gradually he learned again how to walk, talk and feed himself, all the while wearing a protective plastic helmet.

For three years, the only medical option was to have a metal or plastic plate installed where forehead bone had been, until Timothy's parents met Cravens in August.

Cravens brought in Zide, who enlisted Anderson. The three decided to use Timothy's own skull to quarry the bone they needed to rebuild his cranium.

For each portion of his forehead, the doctors made a soft metal template mirroring the missing part and then scanned Timothy's skull to locate an area with similar contours.

They then removed the piece that matched the forehead's contours and sliced it into two layers. One layer was returned to the part of the skull it came from; the other was cobbled with other parts to create Timothy's new forehead.

In an five-hour operation Oct. 13 at Harris Methodist Fort Worth hospital, the doctors linked seven pieces of bone, held together with tita-

Christmas white light idea beginning to sparkle and shine

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The Chamber of Commerce's Holiday Lighting Committee met Monday afternoon at Howard College to continue its preparations for the upcoming holiday season, which will include white lights replacing the old pole decorations from years past.

The committee is headed by Howard College president Dr. Cheri Sparks who said the committee wants to see how it can improve the Christmas decoration program.

After looking at the results of September's FAXNET survey and other information, the committee is implementing an idea similar to what's being done in Sweetwater and Marshall — strings of white lights to decorate the downtown and local businesses.

The white lights that will be used can be left in place year round. According to Sparks, using the lights and leaving them up would allow businesses and others who participate to use them for other special occasions and holidays as well and would also avoid the hassle of storage each year.

For the buildings that will be decorated, the committee says the electrical capacity for any breaker is about 6 strands of lights, but no more than three strands should be connected.

Randy Mason, a committee member and owner of Mason Roofing, said the white lights recently purchased by the chamber are more weatherproof and that colored lights tend to fade over time.

He said, "Everything will look much nicer with the lights being put up in a uniform manner. The straighter you hang the lights, the better. It makes a world of difference."

Sweetwater is selling its merchants and residents a 50 foot string of lights for $7.

Sparks said, "We want Gregg Street, and we want the mall. We have to start somewhere and we want to include everyone in the community. The long-term vision is to have the entire city involved. We need to provide the idea and let people know that this program is available."

Sparks added that the idea would be to light the court house and let it serve as the focal point with other areas decorating with lights as well.

She said, "County Commissioners, Main Street Inc., the banks, and merchants on Gregg Street are in favor of the lights. What we accomplish will depend on everyone."

Gail Earls, a member of the committee and Big Spring Main Street Inc., would also like to see the city use lights to decorate the Settles Hotel for the holidays.

James Ray Morton, 54, was found lying on the highway and Long pronounced him dead at 12:30 a.m.

A preliminary investigation indicates Morton was standing on the side of the road near the inside lane of northbound traffic and was hit by a vehicle that did not stop. The force of the impact threw Morton and he landed in the inside lane of traffic. Two other cars ran over his body and the drivers stopped to call authorities to report the incident.

Lights

She said, "This would really be something to see when everything is lit."

The Chamber of Commerce has already purchased 600 strands of lights (each strand containing 100 lights) with each strand being 67 feet in length. The lights will be sold at $7 per strand as will three types of fasteners to keep the lights up and in place.

The chamber can also order shingle tabs (which fit underneath shingles holding lights in place), plastic clips, and small suction cups.

The plastic clips, according to Mason, are easier to use and will be ordered for the lights the chamber currently have in stock, but the other two devices can be ordered.

The tabs are approximately eight cents each; clips are seven cents each; and suction cups will cost 10 cents each.

The committee is currently working to secure someone to install the lights for those participating in the holiday lighting project.

According to Big Spring Mall manager Tammy Watt, Trinity Memorial Park will be participating in the holiday lighting and has committed to putting up 100 strands of lights.

Lights and clips can be purchased through the chamber, which is also working on a holiday events calendar.

Organizations wanting to be included in the calendar should contact the chamber as soon as possible.

"Afterward, when it was over, we went on a vacation," said Timothy's father, Bill Thede. "Timothy deserved a vacation."

Except for the scar that runs along his front hairline, Timothy is happy to have a forehead that is basically like every other second-grader.

municate directly or indirectly with the victim (Brito)," states his probated judgment. On Friday, police officers received another stalking report from Brito after an incident at her house.

A warrant for Amaro was signed by County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson and he was arrested Monday evening for revocation of probation. He remains in the city jail under a $3,000 bond.

Because Amaro received a probated sentence in September, the recent incident cannot be enhanced. If he had received a final conviction, under the law, it would have been upgraded from a Class A misdemeanor to a third degree felony.

"Routinely, a probated sentence cannot be used to enhance a case because it was not a final conviction. We are researching it to see if we can but I am discouraged because we can't at this time. I am not optimistic," said District Attorney Rick Hamby. Wilkerson is handling the case and could not be reached for comment before press time.

•ACCIDENT at the intersection of FM 700 and Goliad. Firefighters assisted the ambulance crew in treating the victims.

Great Shootout
down to the wire

HOUSTON (AP) — The Great Texas Shootout heads to the polls today as the duel between Democratic Gov. Ann Richards and Republican challenger George W. Bush comes down to the wire.

The two took their neck-and-neck campaign for a marathon criss-cross through Texas Monday, stumping for votes in the state's three largest cities on the final day of the campaign considered too close to call.

"I have done my job of showing Texans that I'm fully prepared to lead Texas into the 21st century," Bush said during a rally at a downtown Houston hotel. He was joined by his parents, former President George Bush and his wife, Barbara.

FORT WORTH (AP) — Dalmion Osby's brother-in-law testified that Osby feared for his life in the days before the shooting deaths of two men in east Fort Worth last year.

Lenard Cryer told jurors Monday that people who live on the mean streets of east Fort Worth cannot trust police to defend them from crime.

"You got to take care of yourself 24 and seven," Cryer told jurors, meaning 24 hours a day, seven days a week. "The law can't do it."

Osby, now 19, faces capital murder charges in the April 18, 1993, shooting deaths of cousins Marcus Brooks, 19, and Willie "Peanut" Brooks, 28.

Neither side disputes that Osby shot and killed the men during a fight in an east Fort Worth parking lot over $400 won in a dice game.

EDINBURG (AP) — The Hidalgo County sheriff has ended a months-long legal battle by resigning amid mounting pressure against him and an impending sentencing date for federal corruption charges.

Hidalgo County Sheriff Brig Marmolejo Jr., who clung to his post for more than three months after his conviction, submitted a terse resignation letter to county commissioners Monday.

"It will allow us to begin a new era with the (next) sheriff," County Judge J. Edgar Ruiz said.

Ruiz said county commissioners probably would accept the resignation today.

to stable

LOS EBANOS (AP) — A woman who nearly drowned when the family pickup plunged into the Rio Grande has been upgraded to stable condition. Her newborn boy, delivered in an emergency Caesarean section, remains critical.

Amada Pena, 25, had no pulse when rescuers pulled her from the river Friday, Hidalgo County sheriff's officials said. She was resuscitated on the river banks of the U.S. side and taken to Mission Hospital, where doctors delivered her baby.

"It's a miracle patient. I'm very happy for her," Cristina Santa-Ana, a supervisor at Mission Hospital, said Monday.

A supervisor at the neonatal intensive care unit at McAllen Medical Center said Mrs. Pena's boy remained in critical condition Monday. Ms. Santa-Ana estimated the fetus was about 32 weeks old at the time of delivery.

The accident occurred Friday when a pickup driven by Mrs. Pena's 45-year-old husband, Isidro Pena Lara, fell off a ferry raft at the Los Ebanos crossing about 25 miles west of McAllen.

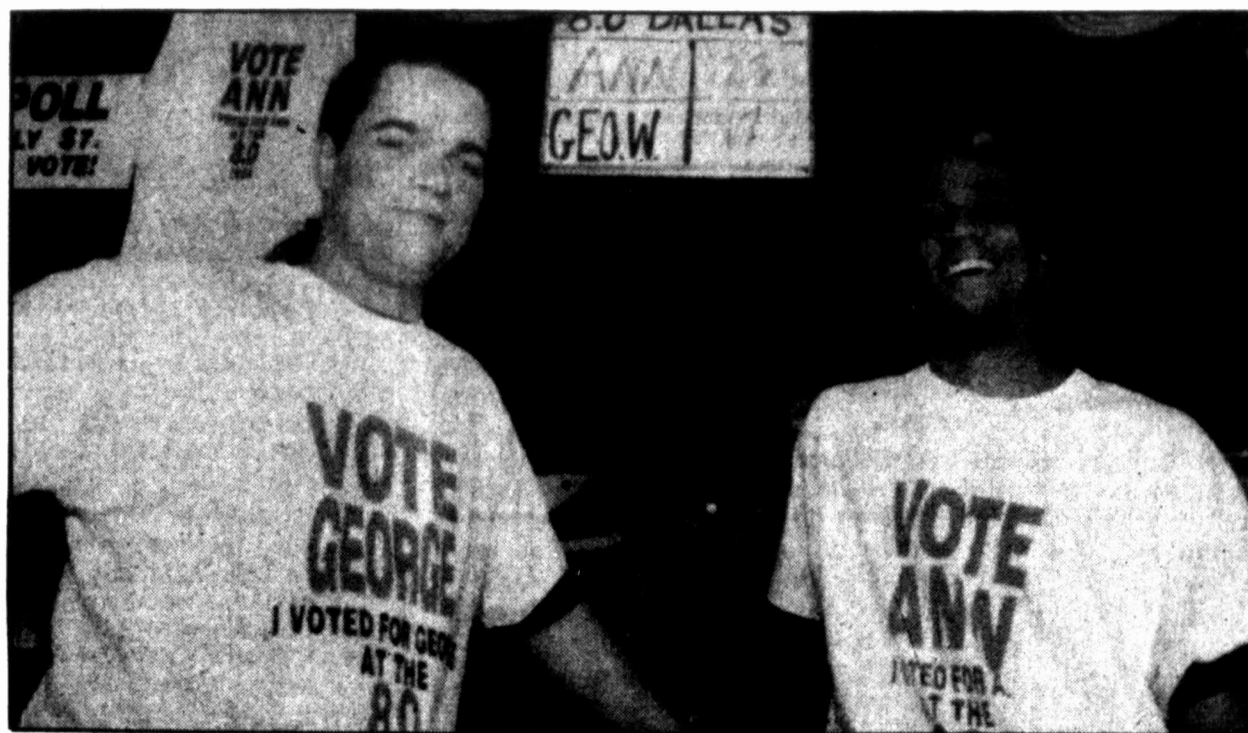

The couple's 5-year-old boy, Daniel Pena Guardiola, drowned.

Pena and his mother, Maria de la Luz Lara, were rescued on the Mexican side of the river and treated at a hospital in Diaz Ordaz, the family's home town.

The raft at Los Ebanos, which carries three vehicles at a time, is powered by crews pulling on parallel ropes strung from shore to shore.

Investigators were checking reports that some type of mechanical failure may have caused the pickup to speed off the ferry as it loaded from the steep U.S. banks.

HOW THEY ARE GOING TO VOTE

Danny Versfelt, left, and John Taylor declare their voting intentions by wearing a t-shirt supporting the candidate of their choice at Dallas' 8.0 Restaurant Monday. The restaurant was keeping count of how many t-shirts were sold supporting Texas gubernatorial candidates Ann Richards or George W. Bush, and as of Monday, Richards was winning 23-17.

Tigua's claim court misinterpreted gambling when ruled against tribe

EL PASO (AP) — An appeals court misinterpreted a federal gaming law when it ruled against the Tigua Indians in legal efforts to bring casino gambling to Texas, attorneys have charged in court documents.

Tribe attorneys filed a motion Monday asking the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to reconsider its decision striking down a lower court ruling that ordered Texas to negotiate a gambling compact, or treaty, with the tribe.

"We're going to continue fighting this thing," said tribal Gaming Commissioner Vince Munoz.

The motion for a rehearing argues the New Orleans-based court wrongly concluded that a past tribe agreement to prohibit gambling on the reservation supersedes the 1988 Indian Gaming Regulatory Act. That act allows tribes nationwide to operate reservation casinos under certain conditions.

The documents also state the 5th Circuit's ruling "expressly conflicts" with a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision that upheld another appeals court's ruling in a similar case.

In that decision, the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the 1988 law supersedes a prior agreement between the Narragansett Indians and the state of Rhode Island and ordered that state to negotiate a compact.

The 5th Circuit has 10 days to respond to the Tiguas' request, which is only one in a series of legal maneuvers the tribe has pursued to keep its gambling aspirations alive in the face of state opposition.

Texas has opposed the Tiguas' bid to open the state's first modern casino almost from the outset.

Officials maintain the Texas Constitution forbids the type of gambling the tribe wants to offer and have refused to negotiate the gaming compact the Tiguas need to pursue their efforts.

Last year, the Tiguas sued in federal court and secured a ruling that ordered the state to come to the bargaining table.

But the state won on appeal to the 5th Circuit, which pointed out the Tiguas had agreed to forego any gambling operations in exchange for federal recognition in the late 1980s.

The 5th Circuit now has several options in the Tiguas' case.

Convicted killer Turner
wins reprieve

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Condemned killer Jessel Turner remained on death row today after a federal appeals court granted him a reprieve about four hours before he could have been executed for killing a Houston taxi driver.

Turner won his reprieve from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals about 8:15 p.m. Monday, shortly after a federal district judge in Houston refused to halt the lethal injection, which had been scheduled for just after midnight.

Turner, 34, said he was "sloppy drunk," just wanted to get home and had no intention of killing Houston cabbie Charles Hunter nearly nine years ago.

But prosecutors said the murder of Hunter and theft of his Yellow Cab was the culmination of a crime spree that left another man shot, four women abducted and one of them raped.

Attorneys in their appeal insisted someone else took the cab driver's wallet in the Feb. 10, 1986, slaying. State attorneys said Turner took the car, was arrested later and was found with the murder weapon.

He said he passed out in the back of the taxi and the driver, Hunter, shook him to wake him up.

"He reached in and pulled out my pistol," said Turner, who acknowledged he was carrying a weapon. "He thought it was to rob him. He freaked out. That's when we started wrestling and the pistol went off."

Turner said he pushed the driver from the car and took the cab home.

Court documents show Turner has given several different versions of what happened that night. He was arrested a short time later driving another car. The murder weapon was found in the car.

The execution would have been the 12th this year in Texas and the 83rd in the state since capital punishment resumed in Texas in 1982. Both totals are the highest in the nation.

Alzheimer's - misunderstood thief

Alzheimer's disease is a thief. It is a thief of memories, of ability to function.

It is a thief of a person's "golden years." It is a thief of a person's judgment and personality.

Former President Ronald Reagan has announced he is in the early stages of Alzheimer's. It is sad for this man, who has meant so much to his country, will suffer so much in his final years.

And, the patient suffers, along with his family. And, this is happening to about 4 million Americans, 100,000 of whom die every year.

And, this disease also necessitates 24-hour care, which becomes very expensive for most Americans, most of whom cannot afford this type of long-term care.

Opinions expressed on this page are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless otherwise indicated.

The causes of Alzheimer's are still not understood. And, understanding is often hard to come by. There is nothing worse than watching someone you love deteriorate right before your eyes.

While locally there is no Alzheimer's support group available, information can be obtained through Reflections, the geriatric-psychiatric unit of Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Also, the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas can help with any questions about Alzheimer's at (214) 648-3404.

Paying people to stay poor

By most measures, our nation has never been more prosperous. Corporate earnings are up. Employment is up.

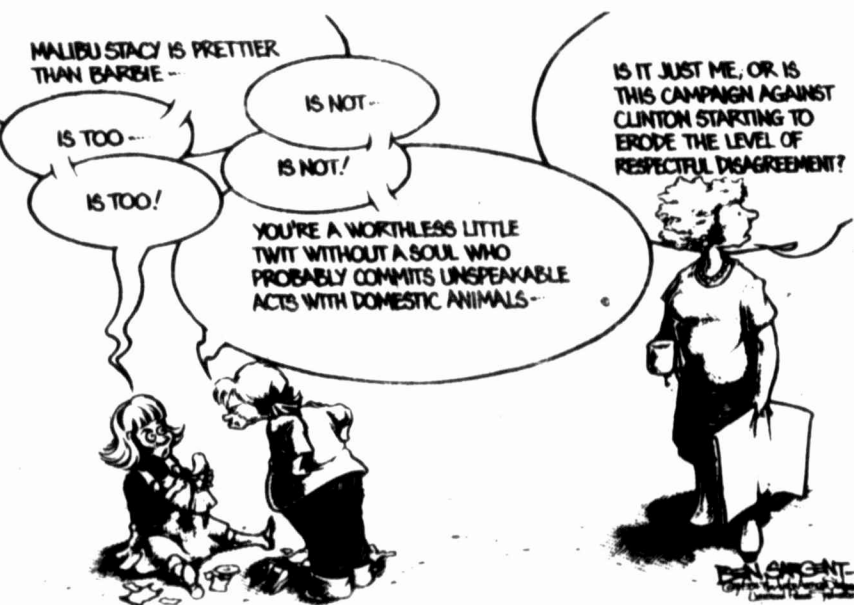

"Help Wanted" signs are everywhere. Yet 2.26 million Americans are presently receiving unemployment pay. One in 10 Americans is still on food stamps -- even though 28 percent of food-stamp families have incomes above the poverty level.

One way or another, American taxpayers will spend $350 billion this year on 79 welfare programs. Since 1965, we have spent $5 trillion waging a war on poverty, and we have more poor than before.

How come? Because most of the money never goes to poor people -- it goes to the bureaucrats who administer the many welfare programs. Welfare has become our nation's biggest business!

The National Center for Policy Analysis has fed the numbers into its computer, and guess what: We could cancel any and all government welfare programs -- fire all those bureaucrats -- and with the money welfare now costs us, we could afford to give each poor person in America $8,939 in cash every year!

For a family of four, that comes to $35,756 per year. Then, that army of welfare bureaucrats would have to accept constructive jobs -- instead of spending our money to pay poor people to stay poor. Why don't we do it? Too simple.

Paul Harvey
Columnist

And the welfare-poverty industry has enough clout in Congress to out-shout you.

Scholarly studies confirm that the welfare system discourages work and encourages dependency, single motherhood and the breakup of families.

The so-called underclass -- with all its crime and other anti-social behavior -- is subsidized and sustained by the welfare state.

American taxpayers are presently giving 40 percent of their personal income taxes to the "welfare establishment."

Brace yourself. It's likely to be more than that soon. President Bill Clinton proposes that welfare recipients -- after two years on unemployment pay -- should be parked in "government jobs at prevailing wages."

Even such a liberal senator as Iowa's Tom Harkin says, "This whole idea of government jobs for everyone -- what kind of nonsense is that? If everybody is living off tax dollars, who's left to pay taxes?" It will be interesting to read from upcoming election returns whether American voters are ready to disinherit the freeloaders.

Demonstrating farther how you can invest your money more wisely than your uncle can is the example of Social Security.

A young person entering the work force today, after a normal lifetime of earning, will receive $12,994 a year -- in 1994 dollars -- from Social Security, assuming it has not gone bankrupt by then.

If the same worker would put the same amount of payroll taxes into an annuity at six percent, by retirement time, he or she would have a nest egg of more than $800,000!

From that, the worker could draw $60,000 a year for the rest of his or her life -- five times the benefits provided by Social Security!

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for making reunion a success

Editor: As the class of '44 returned to Big Spring for their 50th High School reunion they still consider Big Spring "home." The warmth and love we shared 50 years ago in the '40's was rekindled this past week.

The warmth and consideration I enjoyed in '44 was experienced again in '94. As I moved through the community preparing for the reunion, I was astonished and pleased at the help and donations I received. It is a good feeling to know we have those that still care and wanted to help in our celebration. I want to publicly thank Big Spring Printing, Hillcrest Baptist, Heritage Museum, Scenic Mt. Medical Center, Carl Knappe, Kay Kenemur, Harry Middleton, KBST, Cable T.V., and Kellie & Carleton of Big Spring Herald.

W the Class of 1944 say

THANKS! We shall not forget the Howard College Food Service, our thanks to Tom Holland, Docle and staff for the wonderful food, and service rendered to us during this very special event. Also, to our gracious Mayor, Tim Blackshear for taking time to be with us, thanks!

I would like to extend to Craig Fischer my deep appreciation for endless hours he spent on making our Homecoming this year such a wonderful event with the induction of World War II veterans being inducted into the "Hall of Fame." 21 from our class was present to be inducted. Every BSHS ex needs to support Craig and Janice Rosson as they work each year to honor some ex that has accomplished a tremendous goal, or served in an area for a great purpose. They need praise not criticism!!!! HOME COMING IS SUCH A GREAT TRADITION.

The Lord rained on our parade, it was moment of refreshment, but it didn't dampen our spirits, we just broke out the umbrellas. The spirit of BSHS students was something to behold. You stood proud in the rain to honor our veterans on floats depicting various areas of wars. You did show pride and patriotism. Thank You! We salute you back. You, too, will someday be an ex!

THANKS Big Spring for being the great little community, lets keep the love spirit going. Last but certainly not least, I want to publicly thank Polly St. Claire and Millie Cunningham and others for their hard work to beautify Big Spring. The class of '44 returning home took notice of the change since our last reunion in '89. Thanks gals for a great job! Now let's all do our part in helping to get Big Spring clean and keep it clean!

God bless Big Spring, my home town!

War crimes tribunal convenes

First since World War II, judges consider Bosnian crimes

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Presiding behind bullet-proof glass and protected by armed guards, three judges opened the Yugoslav War Crimes Tribunal today, the first international war crimes hearing since World War II.

The first order of business was getting jurisdiction of a torture-murder case against Bosnian Serb Dusan Tadic, one of the most notorious war crimes suspects.

Prosecutor Richard Goldstone opened the hearing by lamenting that the Nuremberg trials of Nazi war criminals had failed to end crimes against humanity.

"(After) Nuremberg, it was generally anticipated by the international community that a new era had begun," he told the court. "It was not to be. The past five decades have witnessed some of the gravest violations of humanitarian law."

The tribunal, however, faces obstacles that didn't hinder victorious World War II allies who already had their defendants under lock and key.

Set up by the Security Council a year ago, it has no one in custody, and wants to try suspects who for the most part are protected by their governments.

Tadic is being held in Germany, which has indicated it would surrender him to the tribunal. He was indicted by a Bavarian court on Monday for genocide, murder and aggravated assault.

Goldstone said witnesses' statements implicate Tadic in atrocities committed in the Prijedor region of Bosnia in 1992.

Journalists watch court proceedings behind bullet proof glass as the hearing got under way at the Yugoslav War Crimes Tribunal, the first international war crimes tribunal held since Nuremberg, in the Hague. Hearings opened with a move to get jurisdiction of a torture-murder case against Bosnian Serb Dusan Tadic, currently imprisoned in Germany.

Tadic, a 38-year-old former bar owner and karate instructor, allegedly helped create death lists of Muslim citizens and was involved in forced deportations. Tadic and a group under his command summarily executed unarmed non-Serbs, according to eyewitness accounts cited by Goldstone.

Goldstone said a statement by American war crimes investigator Michael Keegan described how Tadic and others beat prisoners at three concentration camps in Prijedor unconscious with metal rods and truncheons.

Tadic then forced a fourth prisoner to drink motor oil and bite off the testicles of the other three prisoners, who subsequently died, according to Keegan's statement.

On Monday, the alleged commander of a notorious concentration camp for Bosnian Muslims became the first suspect indicted by the tribunal.

But it is unlikely the commander, Dragan Nikolic, will be tried soon. He apparently remains in Bosnian Serb territory, and the Bosnian Serb constitution prohibits foreign trials of its own people.

Nikolic was the commander of the Susica Camp set up by Bosnian Serb forces after they took over the Bosnian city of Vlasenica in April 1992.

He is accused of killing eight Muslim detainees and torturing or otherwise mistreating seven others. He is also accused of illegally imprisoning 500 Bosnians and of orchestrating illegal deportations -- a reference to the practice of using terror to force another ethnic group to leave coveted territory.

Solar-powered car makes, 2485 mile trip

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Under a blistering sun, a solar-powered car cruised 2,485 miles from Perth to Sydney in just eight days, smashing the old record as it crossed the finish line today.

The Aurora Q1, looking like a high-tech yellow cockroach, traveled from Australia's west coast to the east at an average speed of 31 mph. The previous trans-continental solar record of 20 days was set in 1982.

The crossing was sponsored by Dick Smith, an electronics and computer shop entrepreneur who also owns Australian Geographic magazine.

The Aurora Q1 captured 18 percent of the solar energy that reached its sleek 13-by-6 foot surface.

About 60 businesses donated the $375,000 needed to design and construct the car.

Opposition candidate claims election fraud

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Opposition candidate Cuauhtemoc Cardenas said Mexico's presidential election was fraudulent and demanded that the Congress name an interim chief of state and hold a new round of voting.

Cardenas said president-elect Ernesto Zedillo of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, should not be allowed to take office Dec. 1.

"There was really no election, since citizens went to vote but not to elect," he told about 1,000 supporters Monday from his leftist Democratic Revolutionary Party outside the Chamber of Deputies.

The 500-member chamber was meeting inside to certify the Aug. 21 presidential election which, by official count, Zedillo won with 50.18 percent of the vote. Diego Fernandez de Cevallos of the conservative National Action Party was second with 26.96 percent and Cardenas third with 17.08 percent.

Cabinet approved, now Haiti's government can get down to work

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haiti's new government can now get to work.

After seven hours of sometimes heated debate, legislators in Parliament's lower house on Monday overwhelmingly endorsed President Jean Bertrand Aristide's 17-member cabinet.

The new ministers, whose task is to turn around the country after three years of military repression, will be sworn in today in the national palace.

Aristide's pick for prime minister, 57-year-old Smarck Michel, was ratified over the weekend by both houses. Michel's platform includes an economic recovery program based on reducing tariffs, increasing exports and privatizing unprofitable state enterprises.

Meanwhile, more U.S. soldiers who arrived in Haiti in September to help restore Aristide's elected government flew home as part of U.S. troop cutbacks. The Pentagon has announced a drawing down of about 9,000 soldiers by Christmas.

Some 6,000 will be left behind, down from a peak of 21,000 troops.

His work in Haiti done, Lt. Col. Bob Defraites boarded a U.S.-bound transport plane with visions of a hot tub waiting for him back home.

"The work was good, the living conditions were lousy," said Defraites, of Washington, D.C., one of dozens of soldiers leaving Monday. "I'd like to soak in a bathtub, that sounds good."

The American presence here has been warmly welcomed by most Haitians, who credit the troops with ending the terror of the military regime that overthrew Aristide in a September 1991 coup.

Still, news of the U.S. pullout has left some Haitians worried.

Two bombs explode in Tehran, killing two people

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two powerful bombs exploded in Tehran's crowded southern neighborhoods, killing at least two people, the official Iranian news agency said today.

A brief dispatch by the Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Cyprus, said the blasts occurred Monday night, killing three people and wounding scores of others.

A later dispatch, however, quoted an unidentified security official as saying the explosions killed only two people and injured no one.

This was the third incident of street bombs exploding in Tehran this year. At least three people were killed and 16 others wounded in two separate explosions, one in January and another in April.

In its earlier report, IRNA, quoting witnesses, said a bomb planted inside a trash can killed two people in a nearby parked car in Tehran's Fadayian Eslam neighborhood. It also said the second bomb went off at the Chit-Sazi intersection, one of the city's most crowded, killing a passerby.

Iran, a nation of 60 million people, has been riddled by unrest for the past two years, as economic conditions have failed to improve ever since its 1980-88 war with Iraq.

Riots have occurred in nearly every major city, as well as a series of bombings and attempted bombings of Shiite Muslim shrines.

The situation was so unstable that last week parliament passed a bill allowing security forces to shoot on demonstrators without fear of prosecution if someone was killed.

In a statement today, the Mujahedeen Khalq, an Iraq-based opposition group, blamed the Iranian government for the explosions, saying authorities were trying to "set the stage for further missile attacks" on the group.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Silicone oil approved for retina treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A silicone oil product has government approval as a tool to treat detached retina, an eye condition that can cause blindness. The Food and Drug Administration announced Monday that the product, marketed as Adatomed Silicone Oil, successfully treated 60 percent to 75 percent of patients participating in clinical trials in the United States and Europe. Detached retina is a disorder in which the transmission of light signals from the retina to the brain is interrupted. Injury and disease, including AIDS, can cause a detached retina. About 18,000 to 30,000 Americans develop the condition each year.

Standard treatment for the disorder is surgery, but FDA Commissioner David A. Kessler said that for some people, including many with AIDS, the surgery is not successful. "Silicone oil offers a new alternative that could save their sight," said Kessler.

The oil, a clear, colorless fluid, is injected into the eye and holds the retina in place until it reattaches to the inner surface of the eye.

Flying metal kills
one in school bus

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A freeway pileup sent metal scaffolding flying off a truck through the side of a school bus, killing a 7-year-old boy. Thirteen others were injured in the accident.

Tou Xiong was sitting behind the driver when the piping tore through the bus Monday and struck him in the neck, said Sheriff's Sgt. David Iusehwitz. "The bus driver slammed off and on the brakes ... and there was this big truck with pipes on it," said 11-year-old Cameron Davis, another of the 17 youngsters being taken home from Calhoun Elementary School.

Traffic on Interstate 94 was slowing down for an unrelated accident when a car slammed into the rear of the truck carrying the scaffolding. The car became lodged under the rear of the flatbed and caught fire.

The impact also sent the flatbed into the back of another car, which hit the back of a second semi-trailer, and the scaffolding was sent flying into the bus.

Court refuses to reinstate adoption

CHICAGO (AP) — The custody battle over Baby Richard is probably destined for months of more litigation despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that cleared the way for the adopted 3-year-old to be turned over to his biological father.

The Supreme Court justices on Monday made no comment as they left intact a ruling by Illinois' highest court that awarded permanent custody to his biological father, Otakar Kirchner.

Hours later, Kirchner's lawyer asked the Illinois Supreme Court to order the boy's adoptive parents to give him up immediately.

Cook County Public Guardian Patrick Murphy, meanwhile, asked the Circuit Court in Chicago to grant the adoptive parents temporary custody pending a hearing on the child's best interests.

Chemo pain drives teen away from his treatment and home

BOSTON (AP) — Suffering through more chemotherapy was too much for Billy Best, so the 16-year-old packed a bag, wrote a goodbye note to his parents and took off. Now other young cancer patients wish they could lure him home. "I just wish I could talk to him and tell him it's all right to feel the pain," said Aaron Fastman, a 20-year-old from Woodstock, N.Y. diagnosed last summer with Hodgkin's disease, the same condition Billy has. "But he's just got to heal himself. He has a long life ahead of him. He can do his treatments right next to me if he wants."

Best, who fled his Boston home on Oct. 26, called his parents last Friday from Texas to tell them that he was all right, but needed more time.

"He said he still feels like (the medication) is killing him and he doesn't want to do it," said Billy's father, William Best.

Billy's thinking surprised some doctors, who say up to 80 percent of people who undergo full chemical and radiation treatments emerge cancer-free. But Fastman understands.

"I can relate to what he's thinking, absolutely," said Fastman, who has just completed his fourth treatment of chemotherapy.

Hodgkin's disease is a cancer of the body's lymphatic system, which is used to fight infection. It is fatal if untreated.

Billy's first five treatments had eradicated the cancer from everywhere but the area around his windpipe. But doctors said the treatments, which had been causing hair-loss, nausea and lethargy, were needed for four more months to eliminate all traces of the disease.

Other young patients recall going bald while their peers fretted over hair styles, and dropping weight uncontrollably while friends pumped iron at the gym.

For teen-agers — already under the typical pressures of growing up — the physical pain of chemotherapy and the emotional trauma of facing a deadly disease can seem insurmountable, experts said.

The driver of the truck escaped injury. The crash was caused by an extreme weight shift of the liquid cargo during an attempt to turn onto the exit ramp.

Teen receives the maximum sentence
in beating death

BATH, N.Y. (AP) — It came as a relief to the parents, however small, that "enough people cared enough" to see to it that their 4-year-old son's teen-age killer got the maximum sentence.

Heading Dale and Doreen Robie's heartbroken plea Monday, a judge imposed a sentence of nine years to life for 14-year-old Eric Smith, who lured preschooler Derrick Robie off the sidewalk one summer's morning and bludgeoned him with rocks.

The couple talked Monday night about getting on with their lives, knowing that life will never turn out the way they could have wished. "We're the ones who got the maximum sentence," Mrs. Robie said in an interview.

Eric cast his eyes downward but displayed no emotion at the sentence. He will serve at least three years at a lockup for juveniles; he could be transferred to prison at age 18, but more likely at 21.

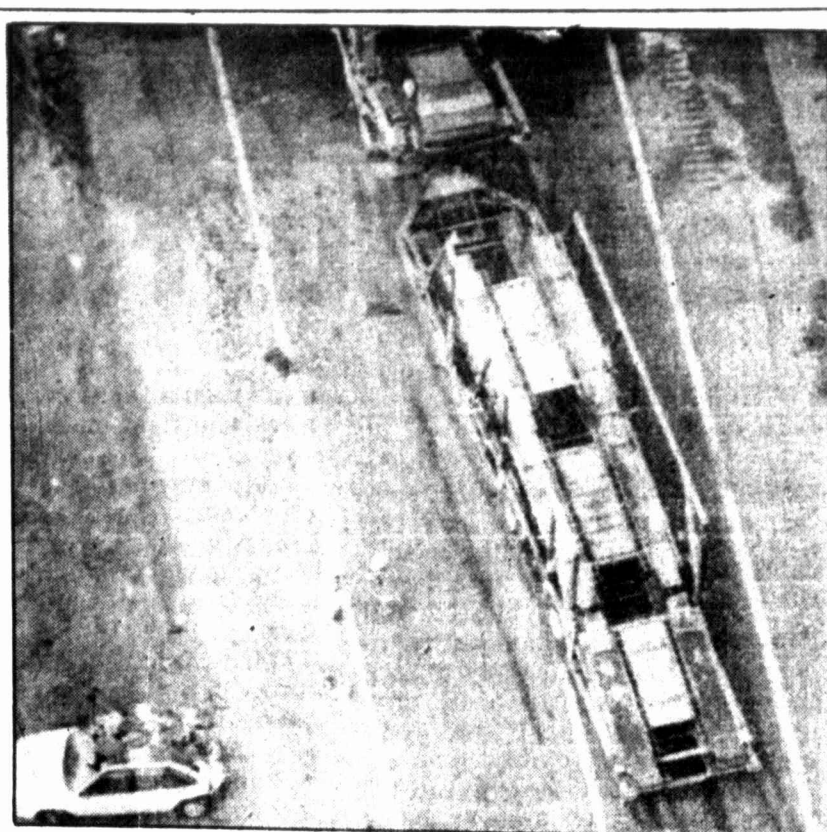

"When Derrick came into this world I cried and when Derrick left this world I cried," Robie, his voice trembling, told the Steuben County Court. "I have felt the whole realm of loving and losing."

Afterward, the 34-year-old printer said, "We got what we came for."

Eric "is just as dead as my son," his wife said. "I know that's a pretty harsh way to put it but I just feel that he's not even part of the human race anymore."

"It was a little bit of a relief to know that enough people cared enough to put him away for the maximum amount, whatever that may be."

A week after the slaying on Aug. 2, 1993, Eric confessed to leading Derrick on a supposed shortcut to a day camp they attended in the western New York village of Savona. In a wooded area, he choked the boy and bashed his head with a 26-pound rock, then sodomized the body with a stick.

An aerial photograph shows fire crews looking over the scene of a crash on northbound Interstate 75 near Flint, Mich., Monday, that left at least three people dead. The crash, involving eight cars, six of which burned because of spilled fuel, occurred as a truck hauling automobiles plowed into traffic stopped for the presidential motorcade according to state police.

Fiery wreck kills three

MUNDY TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP) — A tractor trailer slammed into freeway traffic stopped for President Clinton's motorcade, causing a fiery chain reaction that killed three people.

Six cars caught on fire in the Monday afternoon wreck and a mother and her infant and another woman died when they were trapped in their cars, police and witnesses said.

"We have a massive mangled mess of wreckage and we've not been able to pull them all apart yet," state police Sgt. Dan Monroe said.

President Clinton, who spoke at the University of Michigan-Flint, issued a statement saying he was "deeply saddened."

Witnesses told WJRT-TV in Flint that the crash on Interstate 75 ignited at least four stopped cars and two cars on the truck, which was hauling automobiles.

Man returns to old middle school, opens fire

WICKLIFFE, Ohio (AP) — A paranoid schizophrenic returned to his childhood middle school with a shotgun and opened fire in the hallways, killing a custodian and wounding three other men before he too was shot and arrested.

None of the 500 students at Wickliffe Middle School was injured. A police officer and a teacher were in critical condition, and an assistant principal and the gunman also were wounded, police said.

Keith A. Ledeger, 37, will be charged today with murder and attempted murder, Police Chief Jim Fox said.

Eleven-year-old Tanya Krishack said she was in the school's office when the gunman arrived shortly after 2 p.m. Witnesses said he was wearing a dark jacket, possibly from a camouflage outfit.

"I saw this guy and he had a gun ... It was really big and he was pointing it at the custodian," she said. "He told me to move and I got out. Then when I closed the door, he shot and I started to run."

The gunman asked for Assistant Principal James A. Anderson, 51, and shot him in the lower back and buttocks. He was treated and released.

Custodian Peter Christopher, 41, confronted the gunman and was killed.

The gunman pushed aside a seventh-grade girl in the side with the butt of his gun. Teacher Lowell Grimm pushed her to safety inside a gymnasium, and she wasn't seriously hurt.

PUC Ruling to Affect Winter Bills

For many years, TU Electric has provided lower rates in the winter months—November through April. Beginning this year, the design of those winter rates has changed because of a ruling by the Public Utility Commission.

Modifications of the long-standing winter rate structure will mean higher winter bills for high-use customers.

For example, if a customer uses a winter average of 3,000 kWh per month, the bill will increase about $8 a month from last winter. Customers who use an average of 5,000 kWh per month will see an increase of about $20 per month from last winter.

Saving energy is important.

TU Electric has programs that will help you save electricity. We have a financing program that makes it easier to replace inefficient heating and cooling equipment with a high-efficiency heat pump. We can also help you with energy saving tips on caulking, weatherstripping and insulation for your home.

To lessen the effect of higher rates on your budget and even out your electric bills throughout the year, you can request Average Billing. While Average Billing won't save energy, it will make the cost of your electricity very predictable, month to month.

Call us. We can help.

If you have questions about the new winter rate structure, energy conservation, heat pump financing or average billing, call TU Electric at 1-800-316-2135.

Lady Buffs running toward the gold

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

STANTON - If there's a track, court or hill nearby, chances are you'll find one of Stanton's girls running on it.

For the past three years, Stanton High School has been blessed with quality runners, and that quality has ascended the Lady Buffs to the top echelon of state competition in three sports: track, basketball and cross country.

The latest milestone reached by SHS' runners came last weekend in Lubbock when the girls' cross country team qualified for the state meet, to be held this weekend in Georgetown.

The senior trio of Lupe Chapa, Laura Herm and Sande Bundas are old hands at this state meet business, having made regular appearances at the state track and field meet for the past few years.

Add freshman Wendy Woodfin, sophomore Sandra Chapa, junior Jennifer Adkins and senior Traci Moore to the mix, and you've got one of the best cross country teams in the state.

Third-year coach Rhonda Jones knows this group is good, but even she doesn't have an idea just how good they can become.

"I still don't think they've run the best they can run. I have pretty high expectations for them," Jones said. "They exceeded my expectations at the district meet ... but I feel they should have won at regional last week."

Although Stanton's girls have been fixtures at the state track meet, success in cross country has been harder to attain. The team's breakthrough came last year, when it qualified for its first-ever regional meet. The girls have taken that one step further this year.

"This year, they had a goal of going to state," Jones said. "Last year, their goal was to go to regional, and they went and they were satisfied. This year, ..."

After smoking the field at the district meet three weeks ago, the Lady Buffalos slipped to third behind Stratford and Wall at the regional run Saturday. That finish was good enough to qualify the team for state, but it has Jones worried about her team peaking too soon.

"I was really worried that they might have peaked at the district meet," Jones said. "But last week, as a whole, the team ran well."

As expected, Chapa, Bundas and Herm form the emotional core of the team. After some disappointments, the group finally won gold at the state track meet last year and is hungry for more.

"I think we want to go to state in three sports - track, cross country and basketball - and this is the first of the three," Herm said. "We are really excited about all this."

Which is not to say that the transition from track shoes to basketball shoes to cross country shoes has been seamless, at least for Herm.

"It's been hard for me, personally," she said. "I'm a sprinter ... and I would much rather sprint for 200 yards than run two miles."

While the three seniors catch all the attention, it is freshman Woodfin who was the team's star, winning the district meet. Woodfin slipped to 40th at the regional meet, but Jones expects her - and the rest of the team - to rebound at Georgetown.

"I told them all year that if they had as much faith in themselves as I did, there'd be no stopping them," she said. "They are so competitive, they are tough to beat."

Jones credits good, old-fashioned hard work for the team's success. The team runs almost every day, at distances up to four miles.

"You can't really compare times, because the courses are so different, so you just have to go by pure talent. And it's obvious, by looking at last year's state track meet, that we've got some good runners," Jones said. "I think our chances are pretty good for the team title, and I think we can definitely place in the top three."

Dallas routs Giants

Knee injury may cost Harper season

IRVING (AP) - First Erik Williams. Now Alvin Harper. The defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys are crippled with the San Francisco 49ers on the horizon.

"Not having Harp and Erik and maybe Derek Kennard, good heavens, we're going through what the 49ers did earlier in the year with all those injuries," quarterback Troy Aikman said. "There's no question we're not going to be as good a team. We've got some guys who are going to have to grow fast."

Emmitt Smith rushed for 163 yards and scored twice and Aikman threw a touchdown pass and ran for another Monday night as the Cowboys won 38-10. But they lost one of their biggest weapons, Harper, in a wild play at the end of the first half.

Williams, the Cowboys' Pro Bowl offensive tackle, was injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago and suffered a knee injury that will keep him out for the season. An MRI was to determine Harper's fate today.

Kennard, the starting left guard, sprained a big toe and might not play Sunday against the 49ers.

"Not having a guy like Alvin with his big play ability hurts us," Aikman said. "I'm anxious to see how Kevin Williams will respond. He can't make the big plays Alvin does, but he'll be OK."

Wide receiver Michael Irvin said, "We were praying for Alvin on the sidelines. He said he will play, but that's Alvin. He'll play only if God is willing."

The two-time Super Bowl champions improved to 8-1, best in the NFL, with their 12th straight victory over an NFC East opponent.

Dallas owner Jerry Jones

Dallas Cowboy Leon Lett (78) pulls down New York Giant quarterback Dave Brown (17) for a 5-yard loss Monday. The Cowboys won 38-10.

said he wasn't optimistic about Harper.

"It could be a tear, and we're worried about him being out for the year," Jones said in the press box during the game. "The way the doctors were talking, I didn't like the way it sounded."

Dallas plays at San Francisco (7-2) in an important game for playoff home-field advantage. But the Cowboys weren't thinking about San Francisco as they handed the Giants (3-6) their sixth consecutive loss.

"We dominated the game from start to finish, but we have a tragic loss because Harper is probably out for the season," Dallas coach Barry Switzer said. "It just devastates us. We'll have to go to a second team player against the 49ers."

It's the first time the Giants had lost six straight games since 1980. Dallas, which has won five consecutive times against New York, hadn't beaten the Giants this badly since a 52-7 romp in 1966.

New York coach Dan Reeves said the loss was "embarrassing."

Aikman hit Harper with a 22-yard touchdown pass early in the second quarter, and the rout was on.

Smith scored twice from a yard out as Dallas continued its blitz of the reeling New York defense.

Later, Smith ran 28 yards, Aikman completed a 22-yard pass to Kevin Williams and Aikman scrambled three yards for a touchdown, his first since 1992.

Daryl Johnston bulled nine yards for a touchdown after Dixon Edwards recovered Dave Brown's fumble. Brown completed only four of 17 passes for 56 yards before he was replaced by Kent Graham, whose first pass was intercepted.

The Giants got their only touchdown late in the fourth quarter on a 9-yard pass from Graham to Howard Cross.

Aikman completed 19 of 24 passes for 241 yards before Rodney Peete took over in the fourth period.

Giants linebacker Carlton Bailey said "whatever weaknesses we had, we showed all of them tonight."

Smith, seeking a fourth consecutive rushing title, has 911 yards, 171 behind Detroit's Barry Sanders.

The first half ended on a bizarre play when Harper and Giants defensive back Tito Wooten went down in a tangle in the end zone on a long Hall Mary pass.

Harper, who left the dressing room in crutches, said Wooten "cheap-shotted me. All I've got to tell him is the last game of the season is in New York and he's gonna get hurt."

Harper left, vowing "I'll be ready for Sunday. I'll be ready for Sunday."

After the play, Irvin and Jarvis Williams of the Giants exchanged swings as more players gathered around. No damage was done as both teams pushed and shoved their way to their separate dressing rooms, scattering cheerleaders and halftime performers.

Switzer said he didn't know what was going on.

"I thought they were trying to get in our dressing room, and we were trying to keep 'em out," Switzer said.

Steers follow Waters' lead in turnaround

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Big Spring's Dustin Waters couldn't have had a much more disappointing start for the 1994 football season than he endured.

Yet he couldn't have asked for a much better ending.

That's ending, meaning end of the regular season. Thanks to Waters and his teammates, the Big Spring football season is stretching into mid-November.

Waters, a 6-foot-1, 170-pound senior, started the season as the heir apparent at quarterback. Waters was the guy all those scribes rustling up pre-season previews wanted to talk to. Prognosticators expected Waters to be one of the better signal-callers this side of Abilene.

It didn't work out that way. In fact, Waters didn't throw his first touchdown pass until the 10th and final game of the regular season.

Still, no one's complaining. After all, Waters threw that pass as a wide receiver. Waters said the position changes he has gone through don't bother him.

"It wasn't hard. Not really. Everybody talked about it, the coaches talked about it and the team, and one thing was that for me to go to a college, wide receiver was the spot."

At quarterback, Waters made some dazzling runs in pre-district games, but the passing game never seemed to find any consistency. By the time district play came, Waters was starting at wide receiver - a position he handled with flair in '93 - and he wasn't talking to reporters.

During the week of the Snyder game, Waters began his silence among reporters, simply saying, "I'll talk to you after we beat Andrews." Well, the man keeps his promises and makes solid predictions.

"It helped me concentrate on what I was going to do," Waters said of his media boycott. "It's kind of hard when people say you're all-this, or all-that, and then you don't live up to it."

Waters doesn't need pressure from the media. Like any athlete who's playing for more than just fun, Waters puts enough pressure on himself. During Waters' early-season struggles at quarterback, Big Spring coach Dwight Butler never questioned the senior's ability. He just said Waters was trying to do too much, thinking he had to lead the team on his own.

Waters has moved past that, and his touchdown pass Friday - he took a handoff from quarterback Bucky Crenshaw and fired a strike to tight end Daniel Franks on fourth-and-6 for an 18-yard score - symbolized the season for Waters and the Steers. Waters has battled through a hard year - changing positions, splitting time at quarterback before giving up the reins, adding free safety to his duties - and so have the Steers, who have dealt with death in the extended "family," a heart-breaking district-opening loss to Lake View and early-season growing pains.

"These kids have brought themselves through a lot of adversity," Butler said.

Waters has exemplified that as well as anyone, and he and his senior teammates might appreciate this season more than anyone. After all, those were the same players that endured a winless season when they attended Goliad Middle School.

Maybe the '94 Steers are just late bloomers.

Boxing's begging for Tyson to break out

Free Mike Tyson. Please!

Sure,

he's a convicted rapist, but he's served most of his sentence, and the case is against him was pretty flimsy anyway.

Besides, while he's rotting away in jail, the sweet science of boxing is rotting right along with him.

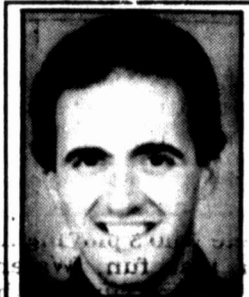

George Foreman? Heavyweight champion of the world?

You've got to be kidding! ESPN Sportscenter anchorman Keith Olbermann said it best when he described Foreman's Saturday night special upset win over Michael Moorer as "the biggest upset since Rick Flair beat Hulk Hogan."

Or vice versa. Any World Wrestling Federation folks willing to help here?

Boxing has sunk to the depths of professional wrestling. Is it possible that Moorer, who by all reports had Foreman beaten, would succumb to a 1-2 punch in the 10th round and roll over like a dog wanting its belly rubbed?

Possibly. But it sounds kind of fishy.

Dave Hargrave
Sports Editor

Face it - boxing has been about as bland as a Quaker rice cake since Tyson went behind bars. Love him or hate him, Tyson and his Michael Jackson voice put fannies in the seats and in front of the television set. He dominated the sport like few had before him; many sports fans never cared to watch a fight until Tyson, hailed by some as the most dominating fighter since Muhammed Ali, entered the picture.

Tyson had one bad night against James "Buster" Douglas, but since that evening has any champion raised the standards of the sport?

Douglas? Yeah, right. He's living off his money in Ohio growing a Venus Flytrap for a haircut. Have you seen that thing?

Evander Holyfield? A class act, a blood-and-guts fighter who may come out of retirement three or four times, who knows? But he never dominated anyone; he always scraped by.

Foreman nearly won the crown a couple of years ago against Holyfield.

Moorer? He proved his worth Saturday. Riddick Bowe? He could have been boxing's savior in the post-Tyson era, but his manager, Rock Newman, deflected publicity from Bowe. Who'd Bowe lose to? Lennox Lewis?

Are we forgetting someone? Everyone is so forgettable here. If Saturday's fight was as fishy as it seemed to be, let's just shut down boxing right now. Before you dismiss the idea of a fix, just ask yourself this:

What's the best thing that could have happened to boxing in the post-Tyson era?

Answer: Some All-American, next-door-neighbor middle-aged preaching dude with a big gut and a bigger head takes on the underdog role and wins the heavyweight crown.

Seems just too good to be true.

On the other hand, if the fight was truly on the up-and-up, what does that say about the quality of boxing out there?

If no one will free Tyson, then let's just give him the go-ahead to fight. Let him train in prison (what else does he do, make license plates?) and let him out every three months for a fight. Give his share of the purse to charity.

Of course, this is all a pipe dream - Tyson isn't going anywhere until next summer. It will be worth the wait, though, when Tyson bursts from the big house and drives Foreman into the ground.

By then, though, Foreman won't be champion. We might have four or five champions by then, and we're just going to have to suffer through it.

If we can handle the next heavyweight championship fight - Foreman vs. Larry Holmes - we can handle anything.

Massachusetts became the first black to be elected to the U.S. Senate by popular vote. Ten years ago: The space shuttle Discovery blasted off into orbit in pursuit of two wayward satellites that the astronauts would retrieve in a daring salvage mission.
