Bush ousts Richards

DALLAS (AP) — George W. Bush, the eldest son of the former president, Tuesday became only the second Republican to be elected Texas governor since Reconstruction.

Bush, 48, defeated Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, one of the nation's most visible incumbents.

"What Texans can dream, Texans can do," Bush told cheering supporters. "This victory tonight is a great honor. The vote carries with it an awesome responsibility. Texas is ready for a new generation of leadership."

Bush credited his campaign's key themes of reform in education, juvenile crime and welfare, adding, "I think Texans caught wind of that."

Bush's father, who now lives in Houston, called it "a great night for Texas."

"It was a tough race, but we admire him for the way he kept the campaign focus on a positive, forward-looking message," the elder Bush said.

"A year ago, people were saying well, 'You didn't have much of a chance.' But he fought the good fight and stayed on the issues and made his mother and I very, very proud."

The charismatic Richards, who lost despite solid job approval ratings in pre-election polls, said she wished the Republican well in the next four years.

"He deserves Godspeed," Richards told supporters shortly after phoning her congratulations to Bush.

"I don't want anyone here to feel like they lost a thing. I don't want any of us to go home with anything but a great deal of pride in our heart. We had a great four years."

"We have done a lot of good for Texas. This is not the end of the world, it is the end of a campaign," Richards said.

Bush's stunning victory came on the same night U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison breezed to re-

Since 1874, the only other Republican to gain the governor's office was Dallas oilman Bill Clements. He was victorious in 1978, lost in 1982, then won again in 1986.

Richards, who hadn't lost an election since entering public life with a run for Travis County commissioner in 1976, trailed Bush about 54 percent to 45 percent with more than two-thirds of precincts reporting. Libertarian Keary Ehlers had about 1 percent.

Vote returns from counties showed Bush winning substantial support across the state.

Bush called his win "a rather significant victory. ... And I believe it will give me a chance to have some political capital ... to make necessary changes for Texas."

An exit poll of voters conducted outside precincts around the state found Bush's anti-crime

Voter turnout over 50 percent county wide

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

There were 15,121 registered voters eligible for Tuesday's election and 8,280 voted, giving Howard County a voter turnout of 54.76 percent. State officials had predicted a voter turnout of about 55 percent.

Howard County voters for the most part followed state trends at the polls in major statewide races that included giving the nod to George W. Bush, governor; Bob Bullock, lieutenant governor; Dan Morales, attorney general; John Sharp, comptroller; Garry Mauro, land commissioner; Rick Perry, agriculture commissioner; and Jim Nugent, railroad commissioner.

Howard County voters, in the state treasurer's race, voted in favor of Republican challenger David Hartman 3,977 (50.34 percent) to 3,923 (49.66 percent) for incumbent Martha Whitehead, but statewide, with 53 percent of all precincts reporting late last night, Whitehead was ahead 51 percent to 49 percent.

City puts apartment complex on notice to clean up its act

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

No action was taken at the time, but members of the Big Spring City Council met in executive session during its Oct. 11 meeting to discuss and potential litigation with the Northcrest apartment complex.

According to Councilwoman Pat DeAnda city officials had received several complaints and concerns about crime and other problems with the complex.

As a result, Mayor Tim Blackshear has written a letter to the owner of the complex - Medlock Management in Lubbock, Texas.

The letter states Northcrest Apartments has been identified, again, as the number one location for drugs and crime in the Big Spring community.

Blackshear has asked Medlock Management to undertake several courses of action to alleviate the problems, including:

- Aggressive management (practices) to evict, ban, and deny rental to any individual or group involved in illegal activity in Big Spring.
- Beefing up and hiring more

Kilgore said, "I knew it would be a close race. There seems to be a mood around the country (party politics), but I don't think it affected the local races much."

Light removal program stopped pending appeals

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Big Spring city council members voted Tuesday night to discontinue the street light removal program until the lighting committee can hear appeals from local residents.

City Manager Lanny Lambert reported to the council that three-fourths of the TU Electric light removal program was complete. However, complaints from residents and downtown merchants prompted city officials to reconsider the proposal.

According to the plan, there is to be only one street light at every intersection and one per 500 feet. Big Spring resident Edward Slade addressed council members and said both street lights on Broadway Street have been turned off which is not in line with the figures Lambert stated.

Slade and other residents on the street signed a petition and presented it to the board asking them to reconsider turning out the lights at night.

Gail Earls, a downtown business owner, also reported to the council that 55 lights from Gregg to Nolan and from First to Fifth Streets had been turned off. Earls adds several businesses are open after dark in the downtown area so there is a need to keep the lights on. She also invited city council members to take a drive through the downtown area at night to see how dark it is when the lights are not on.

Pat DeAnda, Chuck Cawthon

and John Paul Anderson, who make up the lighting committee, were all absent from Tuesday's meeting.

Lambert asked residents to fill out appeal forms and they will be forwarded to the committee. Lambert also assured the group the committee will listen to their complaints and make a decision at a later date.

Also during the meeting, the traffic commission submitted a proposal to erect stop signs at the intersection of Lexington Street and Washington Boulevard as well as at Virginia Street and Washington.

A year ago, residents living on Washington attended a public hearing to express concern about the high volume of traffic on their street, the number of accidents and people speeding in the residential area. They proposed putting up stop signs at certain intersections.

Council members unanimously approved, on the first reading, to put up a three-way stop sign at Lexington and Washington. A four-way stop intersection will be designated at Virginia and Washington.

Residents supported a recommendation by Lambert to put up stop signs at Lincoln and Washington as well. During a time period of one year, there were six accidents at the Virginia intersection and four at the Lexington intersection.

The police department also works their Selective Traffic Enforcement Program on Washington and have issued several citations this year.

IN BRIEF

Ground beef recalled; 1-800 number given

Monfort Inc. of Greeley, Colo., is recalling about 9,000 pounds of ground beef sold at Wal-Mart stores in Texas. Wal-Mart officials in Arkansas say they are not sure how many stores in Texas received the tainted beef and there is a chance some of it may have been sent to the Big Spring store.

The USDA said the beef in question may be contaminated with E.coli O157:H7 bacteria, a potentially deadly bacteria that can cause bloody diarrhea and dehydration.

The meat sent to the Wal-Mart stores was labeled "Monfort 100% Pure Ground Round" in 48 ounce packages with "Freeze by 11 03 94" on the label.

"This is prepackaged meat that no one at Wal-Mart touches. Monfort grounds the beef and ships it to the stores. It goes from the case to the counter. This is the three pound chunk and states it should be frozen by November 3. Most of this has either been eaten by customers or is in their freezer," explained Betsy Reithemeyer, public relations for Wal-Mart.

"Our standards and the USDA's states if you cook the beef well at a temperature of at least 160 degrees, it will kill any bacteria. If the customers in Big Spring have any concerns, they can call the USDA's meat and poultry hotline at 1-800-535-4555," Reithemeyer continued.

She also states if you have purchased the beef, return it to Wal-Mart for a full refund. In fact, the return policy states the customer's satisfaction is guaranteed 200 percent.

security guards for the apartment complex - especially during late night hours and weekends because the Northcrest problems are overworking the police department.

•Implementing a parking lot curfew for non-resident "visitors" from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m.

•Adding more security lights around the complex.

•Cleaning up and providing more aggressive maintenance to the apartment units. The level of filth and depressing appearance has been a factor in attracting the criminal elements to the complex.

•Requiring management to work closer with the local law enforcement agencies to prevent and crush crime.

•Implementing any other programs that will stop crimes and drugs at Northcrest.

Blackshear added that the complex has reached a serious level of criminal activity and that action must be taken now to reverse this trend because it is a very dangerous problem to the Big Spring community.

According to statistics provided by Police Chief Jerry Edwards, the BPD averaged 327 calls for service at Northcrest from Nov. 1, 1993 to Oct. 11, 1994. Of those 327 calls 161 occurred between the hours of 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. and 91 of those calls occurred after midnight.

During this time period the 327 calls for service averaged to be one call per day and included 49 offense reports, 18 incident reports, 44 juvenile arrests, three juvenile arrests, four armed subjects, 27 food parties, 47 domestic disturbances, and 32 fights.

and education reform messages played well, while Richards' criticizing his lack of political experience failed to strike a significant chord.

The poll was conducted by Voter News Service, a cooperative of the four television networks and The Associated Press. It also found that voters didn't give Richards much credit for the state's robust economy or her record of building 75,000 new prison beds.

The survey showed that Bush also enjoyed the support of more men than did Richards, and that he won the backing of his father's base of support. The elder Bush carried Texas two years ago in his race against Bill Clinton.

Richards, 61, was no stranger to close elections. She defeated Republican oilman-rancher Clayton Williams by fewer than 100,000 votes in 1990.

Campaigning furiously in the closing days, she picked up the endorsement of billionaire Ross Perot, 1992 independent presidential candidate. She had ridiculed Bush as being too inexperienced to serve as governor.

Bush is managing partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team. This was only his second try for office, having lost a 1978 election for Congress to then-Democrat Kent Hance of Lubbock. He said voters who wanted change would cast ballots for him.

The younger Bush had waited until the campaign's final day to involve his father, who attended a rally in Houston on Monday.

Opponent Val Varley was unavailable for comment about the race.

One of the most anticipated races was between State Rep. David Counts who won a long hard battle with Republican Wilma Hogan to retain his seat as District 70 State Representative.

Counts said, "I am proud of the vote and I got a lot of support in Howard County and district wide. I look forward to working with the people in Howard County. I appreciate the hard work of my supporters."

He also said he could work with George W. Bush as the next governor of Texas.

"I can work with anybody," he said, "The House and Senate are still controlled by the Democrats. We need to work together to get things done that are necessary to move the state forward. We need to concentrate on getting children educated in Texas so when they come to that fork in the road to make the decision to be either a criminal or productive citizen, they choose the right path. I will do whatever is necessary to continue the economic recovery in Big Spring to create jobs. I am excited about the future of Texas."

Republican Wilma Hogan, who carried Howard County with 51.48 percent of the votes cast, was unavailable for comment late Tuesday night.

With 66 percent of the precincts reporting in the race for the 17th Congressional District seat, incumbent Democrat Charles Stenholm was declared the winner late Tuesday night with 56,416 (54 percent) votes to 47,782 (46 percent) for Republican challenger Phil Boone.

Howard County voters favored Boone by the slim margin of 3,749 votes (51.19 percent) to 3,575 votes (48.81 percent) for Stenholm.

I will try to serve my precinct to the best of my ability."

Choate

"I feel like a big balloon with all of the air gone out of me. After you go through the campaign for six months or so you have to sober up and represent the people. "The best way to thank the people who supported me is to do the best job I can as a commissioner."

Choate added "I'm going to look some more for ways to save money for the county. Our county for years has run in the black because we have some good people taking care of the books, but it doesn't hurt to look for more ways to save."

Wilkerson commented, "I appreciate all of the people who voted for me and I thank those who supported me. Sonny Choate is a fine man and I know he will do a good job for the county. He has my total support."

Choate, the first elected Republican to the Commissioners' Court in 22 years, received 1,110 votes (52.73 percent) to 995 (47.27 percent) for opponent Homer L. Wilkerson.

Buchanan returned as JP Precinct 2

By KELLIE JONES

Staff Writer

Jack Buchanan received 664 votes (67.96 percent) to retain his position as Howard County Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2. This is Buchanan's second term as Justice of the Peace for Coahoma and Sand Springs.

Buchanan commented, "I am real excited and it is an honor for me to be elected to a four year term. I also want to thank all the voters who took the time and effort to get out and vote, especially those who voted for me.

"I will continue to represent all of those in my precinct and I appreciate the privilege to be able to serve in this capacity for four more years."

Republican opponent Gaylan Harding, who received 313 votes (32.04 percent) said he had "no comments at this time" when contacted Tuesday night.

Stenholm squeaks by Boone

STAMFORD (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charlie Stenholm, a Democrat bandied as a possible candidate for Speaker of the House, managed a victory Tuesday over political newcomer Phil Boone.

The Stamford Democrat claimed 80,669 votes, or 54 percent, to Boone's 69,249 votes, or 46 percent, with 97 percent of the precincts counted from the 17th Congressional District.

Stenholm, Democratic Deputy Whip since 1989 and founder of the Conservative Democratic Forum, said this was his closest race ever.

"This is a Republican landslide," said Stenholm, 55, who was elected 16 years ago. "The anger at incumbents is the most severe I have ever seen."

But he insisted he represented his district as best he could.

"The people are fed up with their government as they perceive it," Stenholm said. Is he part of that? "Absolutely. I'm an incumbent. This is the only job I've ever held where experience counted against you."

In 1992 he beat Republican Jeannie Sadowski by 66 percent despite bad press from 88 bad checks at the House Bank.

Boone, 34, an Abilene businessman, made his first race for office a campaign for term limits and presidential line-item veto power.

"I've said from the very beginning, if you are satisfied with the way Congress does business, then vote for my opponent," Boone said.

"But if you're fed up, tired of the excuses and political game of I'll-scratch-your-back, you-scratch-mine that has failed this nation, then the choice is clear: Phil Boone."

Republicans take 10 governorships

Republicans seized 10 Democratic governorships and protected their territory all across the country Tuesday as the party captured a majority of statehouses for the first time since 1970.

Two Democratic giants, Mario Cuomo of New York and Ann Richards of Texas, were washed away by the GOP tide.

Cuomo, seeking an unprecedented fourth term, was vanquished by state Sen. George Pataki, who tagged the veteran Democrat "too liberal for too long" and struck a responsive chord with New Yorkers.

The giant-killer in Texas was George W. Bush, eldest son of the former president, who insisted despite the state's healthy economy and Richards' high job approval rating that she was a "failed leader."

In New Mexico, Republican businessman Gary Johnson knocked off a third Democratic incumbent, Gov. Bruce King, who was seeking his second consecutive term and his fourth overall.

Preaching in near unison on the need for fiscal discipline and tougher anti-crime measures, Republicans came away with at least 28 statehouses and were leading in two other contests.

"When spending and taxes become issues again, voters turn back to the GOP," said Neil Newhouse, a Republican pollster whose firm handled seven statehouse races.

The GOP swept seven of the eight most populous states. The spoiler was Florida's Democratic Gov. Lawton Chiles, who narrowly overcame a dogged challenge by Jeb Bush, George W.'s younger brother.

The scope of the GOP victories and the party's dominance in politically vital states gave Republicans a headstart on the 1996 presidential campaign and a slew of platforms from which to criticize President Clinton.

Popular Republican incumbents in the Midwest and Northeast steam-rolled to victory over weak Democratic opposition. California Gov. Pete Wilson also survived his race against Democrat Kathleen Brown.

The GOP captured a big prize with Tom Ridge's victory in Pennsylvania. Other gains came in Idaho, Oklahoma, Kansas, Wyoming, Rhode Island and Tennessee. The GOP picked up Connecticut's independent seat as well.

There were some Democratic survivors, among them Govs. Howard Dean of Vermont, Bob Miller of Nevada, Jim Guy Tucker of Arkansas, Roy Romer of Colorado, Zell Miller of Georgia and Ben Nelson of Nebraska. Ben Cayetano kept Hawaii in Democratic hands while John Kitzhaber did the same in Oregon.

Quote of the Day

"Unhappiness with the media is nothing new; the messenger has always caught hell for bringing bad news."

J. Herbert Altchull, Journalist, 1992

So long elections, hello work

Election Day has come and gone, and we can all breathe a sigh of relief. Well, those of us who got out and voted and those of the candidates who won can, at any rate.

Why a sigh of relief? Think about it; no more mudslinging campaign ads, no more whining politicians complaining about the mudslinging while picking up a handful. No more rhetoric, no more ... no more ...

Now, it is the time for all concerned to get down to the business of running our state and our country. It is time to put aside partisan politics and do what was said - work for a better tomorrow in the United States and Texas.

It doesn't matter who you voted for, as long as you voted. That gives you a voice in the process, a voice in demanding legislation or no legislation, a voice in how this country is run.

Opinions expressed on this page are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless otherwise indicated.

If you didn't vote, too bad, so sad. You lost your voice in the process of government.

And, it doesn't matter if your candidate won or lost. The main thing is to hold them all accountable for what they promised. To do this, we need to know what they promised and pay attention to what's going on. This way, we don't need the opposition to tell us whether they did what they said they would.

It's been an election year, and there will be more. Keep the hip boots handy.

Doing right by old buildings

COLQUITT, Ga. - I can see my hometown through the plantation shutters of Room 1 in the Tarrar Inn, the old hotel on the square.

Rheta Grimsley Johnson
Columnist

Every now and then I look out at Mac's Feed and Seed, the flashing "OK Used Cars" sign, the quiet Colquitt street and pinch myself.

The look of this room is more Peabody Hotel than peanut town.

The outside is painted the pale pink of a seashell, and there are fancy wrought iron gates and a balcony all done up in white wicker. I want to sit in my slip under a ceiling fan and do nothing. Tennessee Williams would live right here, were he living. This is about the prettiest old hotel I ever saw, if you don't count those in pictures from Key West.

I remember this hotel differently, as a tired, gray lodging, called different names at various times, according to who owned it at the moment, but best known for a fabulous cook in the 1930s, Millie "Ma" Harrell.

Ma Harrell should have been here tonight. She should have been at the grand re-opening of the hotel where she cooked meals so wonderful that people still talk about them 50 years later. It was a nice touch that Ma Harrell's daughter, Anniebell Bush, was at the gala, recalling how she married on the staircase, the first of the hotel's brides. "Right over there," she kept saying with a wistful look.

And appropriate, too, was David Hunter's presence. His father was William Elijah Hunter, a Confederate soldier-that's another story-a doctor and the first Colquitt mayor. Dr. Hunter built this very hotel in 1903 after fire had destroyed the 1861 model.

You'd have to know small towns to appreciate the ribbon-cutting. If you know small towns, you agree it's not cities that throw the really world-class windings. A party in Philadelphia or Atlanta gets lost in the crowd, just another flake in a snowstorm.

But this is hard-scrabble Southwest Georgia, a town known for its peanuts and mayhaw jelly. Here a swan ice sculpture and champagne and fresh salmon and hundreds of guests in their Sunday best, well, all that makes an impression.

The hotel was down to its last gasp when banker Clyde Jinks, his sister, Ruth, and his wife, Joy, decided to renovate.

They spared no expense, giving the inn Clyde's mother's maiden name.

There are 12 rooms, three banquet halls and a restaurant that will serve Southern dishes like marinated quail breast cooked in mayhaw sauce.

Since all of Colquitt turned out, I kept running into relatives. Aunt Margie said she used to walk to the hotel from the Five and Dime across the square for Ma Harrell's 50-cent lunches. Cousin Amy helped find the antique furniture that interior designer Maureen Cook used to such great effect.

The doctor who delivered me, Turner Rentz, was here. His architect son, John, masterminded the hotel rehabilitation. Cousin Dixie recalled the 1930s when a lot of teachers boarded here.

There was even a murder at the hotel - a real Southern Gothic story of a romance gone bad - providing the requisite ghost.

I'm always amazed when people do the right thing by old buildings. There's usually too much working against old edifices to harbor hope. Especially in a small town, where $1 million renovations are unheard of.

But Colquitt pulled it off, turned a lump of coal into a diamond, a hobo hostel into a fine hotel. Makes you want to honeymoon.

I have really enjoyed working as your resident deputy and I left with no ill feelings at anyone. I do hope for the good of the community that at some time that Coahoma and Sand Springs resident deputy position will be brought back and these programs maintained for the children.

Anger mixes with sorrow at deaths

Editor:
Tonight my rage and anger were surpassed only by my sorrow. I wept down to my soul, for the two little boys that were killed by their mother. My Christian upbringing tells me I should feel compassion and pray for this mother, but God forgive me, I can not. This murder of and crimes against innocent children must stop!

Mothers, Fathers, Aunts, Uncles, PEOPLE please stop hurting the children. They are our hope, our future, our lives. I believe that to rob a child of their innocence or their future is the most evil thing that can be done.

Please, get help. Call a family member and tell them you need time out if you feel out of control, and then seek out some type of professional help. I will save my prayers for the adults who ask for help before it is too late to save or protect the children.

Sincerely,

Drugged teachers ponder returning to classroom

LOS FRESNOS, Texas (AP) — Two high school teachers are wondering whether they will ever wish to return to the classroom where a student slipped drugs into their soft drinks.

"I just never would have dreamed of this. Maybe I was naive," said Mary Boisen.

Boisen said fellow special education teacher Elizabeth Pechacek began suffering from the effects of a still-unknown drug during a power outage at the school on Nov. 2.

Officials at Los Fresnos High School and the local constable's office were investigating a student in their class for learning disabled students. Authorities offered a $500 to $1,000 reward Tuesday for information.

"It was just horrific, a horrible situation," Pechacek recalled. "I really thought I was going to die because I lost control of my life and I didn't know how long it was going to last."

She felt like the classroom was spinning and heard students laughing at her.

"I thought I was going to have a heart attack because my blood pressure went up 50 points by the time I got to the nurse's office," she said.

She was hospitalized for about five hours.

"It took me two or three days to remember what my name was and what my address was," she said. "I'm kind of in a fog. I was having nightmares and I couldn't sleep."

Pechacek believes equal doses of the drug were placed into each teachers' cans of soft drink, but Boisen didn't drink all of hers.

"Drugs, poison, whatever it was — it made my heart beat very, very, very fast," Pechacek recalled. "I do not know what their intention was, to try to kill me or to make a name for themselves."

After nearly a week of reflection, Pechacek said she doesn't believe all the students who were laughing had realized the seriousness of the incident.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Teens charged in execution-style murders

DALLAS (AP) — Two West Dallas teen-agers have been charged with capital murder in the execution-style slayings of two 16-year-old cousins.

Antonio Saenz and Elpidio Estrada, both 17, were detained Tuesday in lieu of $500,000 bond each in the deaths of Ralph Bustos of Lancaster and Thomas Bustos of Dallas, whose bodies were found near Mountain Creek Lake.

Ralph Bustos had been shot several times with two types of weapons, including a shotgun, according to an autopsy report, and Thomas died of multiple gunshot wounds. They apparently had been dead for several days, police said.

Police were still trying to piece together the events that led from Thursday, when the Bustoses' relatives reported them missing, to Sunday, when an anonymous caller told police the boys had been "executed" at the lake and their car torched.

Dallas court judges wanted out of office

DALLAS (AP) — Some City Council members are demanding the ouster of two traffic court judges who were thought to have been removed months ago.

The council voted in August to not reappoint Municipal Judges Richard Sacks and Max Fuentes Jr., based on recommendations from an advisory panel.

But council members Max Wells and Chris Luna were surprised to learn the two were still hearing cases.

City Attorney Sam Lindsay explained that Dallas' charter allows the judges to remain on the bench until their replacements are appointed.

Increase in heroin seizures show rise in drug's popularity

HOUSTON (AP) — Heroin's rising popularity has resulted in more seizures of the drug than ever in Houston, federal authorities say.

U.S. Customs Service agents say 197 pounds of the illegal narcotic have been confiscated in Houston since 1990, more seizures than anywhere inside a four-state Southwest region.

The numbers underscore a disturbing renaissance in the drug. Customs spokeswoman Judy Turner said heroin is becoming increasingly popular among drug addicts.

Federal officials say heroin that's hitting the streets today is cheaper, purer and more lethal.

Also, users now can snort or smoke it instead of inject it, a more socially accepted method, particularly for those concerned about the spread of the AIDS virus through dirty needles.

"Two years ago, heroin was very seldom seen, except for a matter of a few grams or pounds," Ms. Turner said. "Heroin is becoming more the drug of choice. We're seeing heroin on the border more now."

The 67 pounds of heroin seized here between Oct. 1, 1993, and Sept. 30 is part of a steady increase in the amount of heroin confiscated in the Houston area — which includes Galveston, Freeport and Corpus Christi.

In that same period, authorities confiscated 15,402 pounds of cocaine. But cocaine has a potential street value of $45,000 per pound, while the same amount of heroin is worth $1 million.

The 67 pounds of heroin seized is a dramatic increase over the 9 pounds taken into custody in fiscal year 1991.

Tainted meat being recalled

DENVER (AP) — Monfort Inc. of Greeley, Colo., is recalling about 9,000 pounds of ground beef sold at Wal-Mart stores in Arkansas and Texas and at Safeway stores in the Denver area, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

The USDA said the beef in question may be contaminated with E.coli 0157:H7 bacteria, a potentially deadly bacteria that can cause bloody diarrhea and dehydration.

The meat sent to the Wal-Mart stores was labeled "Monfort 100% Pure Ground Round" in 48 ounce packages with "Freeze by 11 03 94" on the label. The USDA said a small amount of that batch may have been distributed to states neighboring Arkansas.

The Denver-area batch was marked "Manor House 100% Pure Ground Beef" in 5-pound packages with "USE OR FREEZE BY 11 03; EST 969" on the label.

The USDA urged consumers who purchased the suspect beef to return it to the place of purchase.

Late last week, Florida officials notified the USDA that tests showed E. coli present in a sample of Monfort ground beef sold at a Lakeland, Fla., grocery store.

A Monfort spokeswoman on Monday said the Florida case involved a 10-pound package of meat shipped from the Greeley plant about three weeks ago.

K.T. Miller said Monfort was working with the Food and Drug Administration to identify all meat that left the plant the same day.

The tainted meat, which was sent to Lakeland, Fla., was discovered by a meat inspector from the Florida Department of Agriculture. No illnesses have been reported in that area, Miller said, adding she would eat the tainted meat.

"If they sent it back, I'd cook it and eat it," she said. "That's how confident I am of eliminating the bacteria."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Postal rate hike
coming in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plan on paying more to mail a letter in early January.
Sam Winters, chairman of the Postal Service's governing board, said Tuesday that the agency hopes to raise rates as early as possible in January.
"Our customers should plan accordingly," Winters said.
The post office has proposed a 10.3 percent increase in stamp prices including a three-cent boost in the first-class rate to 32 cents.
The independent Postal Rate Commission is considering the proposal and is expected to rule within a few weeks.
Because the proposed increase will provide "just enough" income to operate the Postal Service, Winters said, it is important to raise the rates as soon as possible.

Steroid use comes home to roost

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — The controversy over the use of steroids in sports has come home to roost for owners of racing pigeons in the Netherlands.
A few drops of the steroid cortisone in a pigeon's drinking water or eye drops can improve a bird's flying ability, Ad van Heyst, spokesman for the Dutch Pigeon Fanciers' Organization, said Tuesday.
Owners of doped pigeons "always seem to have very good results," he said. "They said they've found the solution to keep pigeons in perfect health."
In fact, the drug weakens the pigeons' immune system, making them more susceptible to diseases, he said.
Pigeon racing authorities plan to ban bird-doping and begin drug testing pigeons in April before the next racing season.

AIDS-activating protein found

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Scientists say they have discovered a protein that may activate the AIDS virus in the body and cause it to develop into AIDS.
The discovery by University of Pennsylvania scientists could lead to treatments that might enable infected people to put the human immunodeficiency virus on hold indefinitely. They still would carry the virus but might not contract the fatal disease itself.
HIV-infected people can be healthy and live for years before the virus attacks the body's immune system.

Californians approve explosive Proposition 187

Voters unleashed their famously foul mood Tuesday, cracking down on crime and long-term politicians and sticking to their guns in Milwaukee.
Californians approved the most explosive ballot measure in the nation Tuesday, voting to deny illegal immigrants access to public schools, social services and all but emergency medical care.
"California ... is a state of legal immigrants, and proud of it," said freshly re-elected Gov. Pete Wilson, whose campaign caught fire with his support of Proposition 187. "We don't need lectures from outside California."
With 30 percent of the vote tallied, the ballot initiative was passing by 63 percent to 37 percent.
Voters in Maine, Nebraska, Nevada and the District of Columbia approved congressional term limits, Nebraskans for the second time in two years.
By a 4-to-1 landslide, Georgia voters approved the nation's toughest sentencing law, mandating life in prison for a second violent felony. California voters gave firm approval to a law already on the books, ordering 25 years-to-life for three-time serious felons. Passage makes it virtually impossible for lawmakers to alter the law without another ballot referendum.
Floridians turned down a proposal to allow up to 47 casinos. The rejection was almost 2-to-1 despite the $16.7 million campaign by casino proponents, the most expensive campaign in state history.
Rhode Island voters said no to proposals to permit casinos in four cities and towns, including the state capital, Providence, and appeared close to rejecting a proposal for a fifth in West Greenwich, which the Narragansett Indians hoped to build. The Narragansetts may still build a casino without voter approval, but it would have to be on their own land in Charlestown, 25 miles away.

State law now requires any casino proposal to be put to local and statewide vote. Rhode Islanders passed a separate ballot question Tuesday, which will add the law to the state constitution so the General Assembly cannot alter it, by 68 percent to 32 percent.
Most of South Carolina's popular video poker games may continue pouring out cash. Voters in all but nine of the state's 46 counties appeared ready to keep the status quo, rejecting a

joke turns
fatal

WEST MONROE, La. (AP) — A girl who jumped out of a closet and shouted, "Boo!" when her parents came home in the middle of the night was shot and killed by her own father.
"I love you, Daddy," were 14-year-old Matilda Kaye Crabtree's last words to her father.
No charges were brought against 53-year-old Robert Crabtree, Ouachita Parish Chief Deputy Richard Fewell said the case would be turned over to the district attorney as a matter of routine.
"It's sad," Fewell said. "This is something every kid has done. I don't know how the father is going to live with it."
Matilda and a friend, whose identity was not released, were supposed to be spending Saturday night at the friend's home but had decided to go to the Crabtrees' while Matilda's parents were away, Fewell said.
When Matilda heard her parents drive up around 1 a.m. Sunday, she and her friend came up with a practical joke: They hid in her bedroom closet and made noises to make her parents think someone had broken in, Fewell said.
Crabtree got his gun, and when Matilda jumped out, her startled father pointed the .357-caliber pistol loaded with hollow-point bullets and shot his daughter in the neck, the chief deputy said.

A Vancouver police officer searches the home of Dr. Garson Romalis for clues after the doctor, who performs abortions, was shot and wounded while at breakfast.

Canadian abortion doctor wounded by sniper fire

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — A doctor who performs abortions was shot and wounded at his breakfast table Tuesday by a sniper who fired through a sliding glass door, police said.
Dr. Garson Romalis managed to dial 911 and was taken to Vancouver Hospital, where he was listed in stable condition after losing a large amount of blood.
Someone with a rifle fired at least three times from a lane behind Romalis' house, striking the gynecologist in the upper leg, police said. The gunman escaped. The doctor's wife and daughter also were at home but were unharmed.
"It's fairly obvious that this was planned," police Inspector Dave Boyd said. "It's definitely not a drive-by."
The shooting followed what police described only as a strange phone call the doctor's wife received at home Monday. The time of the call — around 7:20 a.m. — was the same as that of Tuesday's attack.
In Washington, Justice Department spokesman Carl Stern said the FBI is helping in the investigation. Stern said it is unknown whether the shooting was motivated by the doctor's performing of abortions.

Billy leaves, trying to understand the pain

BOSTON (AP) — Billy Best knows other cancer patients are pulling for him. He just isn't ready to come home and deal with the grueling treatments.
The 16-year-old, facing four more months of chemotherapy to fight Hodgkin's disease, took off from his suburban home on Oct. 26.
He packed a duffel bag, grabbed his skateboard and headed for the bus station with a wad of money collected from selling off possessions such as his guitar amplifier.
His mother said Tuesday that her son had called home Monday night from "somewhere in Texas."
"We did have a calm conversation, but he said he's still not ready to come home yet," Susan Best said, adding that she told Billy about the hundreds of people who have called offering support.
Billy also called once last week and told his father "he still feels like the medicine is killing him and he doesn't want to do it," William Best said.
"I just wish I could talk to him and tell him it's all right to feel the pain," said Aaron Fastman, a 20-year-old from Woodstock, N.Y., who was diagnosed last summer with Hodgkin's disease and has just completed his fourth round of chemotherapy.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Texas Utilities Electric Company ("TU Electric"), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission"), hereby gives notice that on October 25, 1994, it filed an application for Commission approval of its 1995 Integrated Resource Plan and its Three-Year Action Plan for the 1995-1997 period. That Integrated Resource Plan includes, and TU Electric is seeking Commission approval of, the following: the demand-side management ("DSM") programs that are to be implemented and administered by TU Electric, eight DSM Resource Purchase and Operating Agreements through which TU Electric will receive 72 MW of demand reduction, and a Renewable Resources Agreement through which TU Electric agrees to buy 40 MW of electric energy generated by a wind plant. In addition, TU Electric is requesting Commission certification of facts making it eligible to receive bonus SO<sub>2</sub> emission allowances. TU Electric is also requesting that the Commission determine that a current cost recovery mechanism is the appropriate manner for TU Electric to recover its costs for the proposed DSM programs and contracts that are in excess of the amount included in current rates for DSM expenditures and that the Commission determine that TU Electric is entitled to recover an appropriate markup on all of its DSM expenditures. TU Electric is further requesting a good cause exception to Commission Substantive Rule 23.23(b)(8) that would allow the payments to be made by TU Electric under the Renewable Resources Agreement to be recovered through TU Electric's purchased power cost recovery factor.
TU Electric also gives notice that it has filed for Commission approval Notices of Intent to file applications for Certificates of Convenience and Necessity ("CCNs") for approximately 288 MW of new simple-cycle combustion turbine generating capacity, fueled primarily with natural gas and scheduled for operation in 1999, at an estimated expense of $145,262,000; approximately 100 MW of new wind-powered generating capacity, scheduled for operation in 1999, at an estimated expense of $102,747,000; approximately 214 MW of new combined-cycle combustion turbine generating capacity, fueled primarily with natural gas and scheduled for operation in 1999, at an estimated expense of $194,703,000; approximately 650 MW of new combined-cycle combustion turbine generating capacity, fueled primarily with natural gas and scheduled, with phased construction, for operation in 2000 and 2001, at an estimated expense of $449,554,000; and approximately 650 MW of new combined-cycle combustion turbine generating capacity, fueled primarily with natural gas and scheduled, with phased construction, for operation in 2001 and 2002, at an estimated expense of $395,650,000. All of the estimated expenses include an Allowance For Funds Used During Construction. In accordance with Commission Substantive Rule 23.31(h)(3)(A), the locations for these generating units have not been determined.
TU Electric hereby gives notice that it is also seeking a good cause exception to Commission Substantive Rule 23.31(c)(5) that would otherwise require TU Electric to conduct, prior to requesting CCNs for the proposed generating units for which Notice of Intent approval is sought, an additional DSM resource solicitation.
Persons with questions about these projects should contact Kermit L. Stosberg of TU Electric at (214) 812-3225. Persons who wish to intervene in the proceeding or comment upon action sought should contact the Public Utility Commission Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or 458-0221 for the text telephone. The deadline for intervention in this proceeding is 70 days after the date the application was filed with the Commission.

HEALTH NOTES

Dysfunctional Eating
Much has been written about the eating disorders of young women, especially college students, but a study by a team of nutrition, psychology and sports and medicine experts from Cornell University and Ithaca College found that more than forty percent of male college lightweight football players had unhealthy eating behaviors, the most common being binge eating.
Researcher Wanda Koszewski says athletes in other sports with weight restrictions, such as wrestling, crew and body building, are at risk for an eating problem that could jeopardize their health.
Athletes have been known to use such high-risk tactics to lose weight as jogging in hot showers while wrapped in plastic bags, using diuretics, laxatives, steroids, amphetamines, self-induced vomiting and fasting before weigh-ins then gorging themselves later. Athletes who achieve hypohydration—low body fluids—significantly increase their risk of injury, especially in a contact sport.

Easy victory for Rick Perry

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry easily won re-election Tuesday over Sulphur Springs dairy farmer Marvin Gregory.

With about 60 percent of the vote counted, the Republican incumbent led 61 percent to Gregory's 37 percent. Libertarian nominee Clyde Garland, a Houston manufacturer, captured 2 percent.

Perry told voters he deserved another term for delivering on promises to downsize the Texas Department of Agriculture and push for the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Perry, 44, used to farm cotton and wheat and raise cattle in Paint Creek. He was elected in 1990 in an upset over Democrat Jim Hightower.

Perry declared his victory margin as "a clear and strong mandate" to keep the Texas Department of Agriculture on its current track.

"The agriculture community, the rural Texans, are extremely happy with the job we've done over the last four years," he said.

He speculated that many Democrats crossed party lines because he helped bring stability to the department and to the agriculture industry.

Hutchison' soundly beats Fisher

DALLAS (AP) — Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison swept to a landslide victory Tuesday, dominating her opponent in every region of the state.

Claiming a full six-year term, Mrs. Hutchison defeated Democrat Richard Fisher, a Dallas financier who has never held public office.

"This time, it's for real!" Mrs. Hutchison told hundreds of supporters in a packed ballroom in a North Dallas hotel.

"Today, America corrected its course. The people of American have spoken and our voices are making a difference. Just a year and a half ago, Texans started a ripple across the water that has turned into a tidal wave across this country."

With 50 percent of the precincts county, Hutchison held a commanding lead over Fisher, 1,470,496 votes to 914,442, 61 percent of the votes cast. Libertarian candidate Pierre Bloudeau had only 1 percent, 18,297, of the votes.

Mrs. Hutchison said her reelection was a mandate for her to return to Washington to fight for a balanced budget amendment, tax breaks for homemakers, fewer regulations for small business owners, term limitations and a strong national defense.

She also acknowledged that she was savoring the victory. "Well, after four elections in 18 months, you know, it's been a marathon and I am having a great time. You see the crowd here — everybody that has been with me through really some pretty tough times in politics," she said. "We knew that Texas was rough and tumble, but it was real rough and tumble. And now we're enjoying the victory and ready to go to work."

U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison reacts to supporters at her victory party Tuesday night in Dallas. Hutchison swept to a landslide victory over challenger Richard Fisher.

Mrs. Hutchison finished first in the May 1993 special Senate election to choose a successor to Lloyd Bentsen, then easily won the June runoff against appointed Democratic Sen. Bob Krueger with 67 percent of the vote. She also breezed past six little-known opponents in this year's GOP primary.

An exit poll showed Mrs. Hutchison dominated Fisher throughout the state by tying together a strong coalition of Republicans and independents.

Her largest margin was in West Texas and she carried both Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston by substantial margins.

An exit poll was based on 1,594 interviews Tuesday outside voting places around the state conducted by Voter News Service, a cooperative of four television networks and The Associated Press.

Among low-income voters, Hispanics and blacks, Fisher appeared to run better than Mrs. Hutchison. Fisher, a one-time adviser to presidential candidate Ross Perot, didn't appear to energize the independent vote.

Bullock sent back for a second term

DALLAS (AP) — Democratic Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, arguably the most powerful officeholder in Texas, won his second four-year term Tuesday over Republican Tex Lezar.

"This election is not so much a victory for me as it is a victory for Texans who want their problems solved without partisanship or gridlock," Bullock said. "I am grateful to the voters of Texas for placing their faith in me. ... It's time to roll up our sleeves and go to work."

With 12 percent of precincts reporting, Bullock had 59 percent compared with 41 percent for Lezar.

The lieutenant governor presides over the Senate, makes committee appointments, sits on several key boards and committees and controls the flow of legislation in that chamber. It is one of the most important political jobs in the state.

But the race was probably the least eventful of the campaign season.

Bullock, 65, took off from campaigning from late September through October to recover from heart bypass surgery.

After winning numerous endorsements, even from Republicans, and securing opinion poll leads of 40 percentage points over Lezar, Bullock said he would rest for the balance of the campaign on doctors' orders.

Lezar, meantime, attacked President Clinton, hoping for a Republican sweep prompted by dissatisfaction with the president's policies.

He also reminded voters that Bullock advocated a state income tax in 1991. But Bullock abandoned his income tax stand and was instrumental in pushing through a constitutional ban on such a levy unless approved by the voters.

Bullock first was elected to office in 1957, when he served one term in the Texas House. He then went into private law practice but returned to state government in 1967 as an assistant attorney general and as an aide to the governor in 1969. He was secretary of state in 1971-72.

In 1974, he was elected to his first of four terms as state comptroller.

Lezar, 46, was a speech writer for Richard Nixon and served as chief of staff to Attorney General William French Smith under Ronald Reagan and as an aide to former Texas Secretary of State George Strake.

TEXAS ELECTIONS AT-A-GLANCE

A look at Tuesday's general election results:

— The election of George W. Bush as governor and reelection of Kay Bailey Hutchison to the U.S. Senate will give Texas a Republican governor and two Republican U.S. senators for the first time since Reconstruction.

— Bush will become only the second Republican governor of Texas since 1874. Dallas oilman Bill Clements won two elections, in 1978 and 1986.

— Gov. Ann Richards lost for the first time since entering politics with election as Travis County commissioner in 1976.

— Richards didn't get the overwhelming support of women that helped her defeat Republican Clayton Williams in 1990. A statewide exit poll of voters showed her with a very slender lead over Bush with women. — Kay Bailey Hutchinson, who captured Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen's seat in a special election last year, won her fourth election in 18 months.

— Republicans were making a run at controlling the Texas Railroad Commission for the first time this century. Republican Carole Keeton Rylander was leading her race and Charles Matthews was making a strong challenge to incumbent Democrat Jim Nugent.

— Raul Gonzalez, the first Hispanic elected to a statewide office, easily won reelection to the Texas Supreme Court. Attorney General Dan Morales, the first Hispanic to hold a non-judicial statewide office, also kept his job.

— Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, a Democrat who turned Republican, won another term by beating East Texas dairy farmer and one-time supporter Marvin Gregory, a Republican who turned Democrat.

— State Comptroller John Sharp turned back a bid by Teresa Doggett who, if she had won, would have been the first black and the first woman to hold the office.

— Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, was trailing as the night wore on in his bid for a 22nd term in Congress that would make him dean of the entire 435-member delegation.

— Republicans picked up one seat with the victory of William M. "Mac" Thornberry over Amarillo Democrat Bill Sarpalis. — The Associated Press

Republicans sweep into control of the Senate

Resurgent Republicans moved to take control of Congress for the first time in 40 years Tuesday, capturing the Senate and making a stunning showing in the House. The GOP won a string of governorships, too, in elections that sent President Clinton a chilling midterm message.

"Government is too big for its britches."

A projection by Voter News Service, based on voter surveys and returns from key precincts, said Republicans would capture the House. "The burden of government is now on them," said Clinton press secretary Dee Dee Myers.

Republicans haven't controlled both chamber of Congress since 1954. And they won the races for governors in seven of the eight most populous states — more bad news for Chiles in Florida.

Bob Dole, in line to be Senate majority leader come January, cast the results as a "vote of no confidence in the Clinton agenda." GOP Chairman Haley Barbour said voters were sending Clinton a booming message: "Government is too big for its britches."

A projection by Voter News Service, based on voter surveys and returns from key precincts, said Republicans would capture the House. "The burden of government is now on them," said Clinton press secretary Dee Dee Myers.

Republicans haven't controlled both chamber of Congress since 1954. And they won the races for governors in seven of the eight most populous states — more bad news for Clinton when he seeks reelection in two years. Those wins gave Republicans the majority of governorships for the first time in a quarter century.

"The GOP needed to gain seven seats for Senate control, and they had eight after taking Democratic seats in Arizona, Ohio, Michigan, Maine, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and two in Tennessee. A win by Rod Grams in an open Minnesota race meant Republicans held all 13 of their seats — and were assured of 52 in the new Senate.

The night's marquee race was in Virginia, where Sen. Charles Robb gave Democrats a rare dose of good news, narrowly beating Iran-Contra figure Oliver North. Across the Potomac, Marion Barry won his comeback race for District of Columbia mayor four years after a cocaine arrest forced him out.

If one man personified the Democrat's plight, it was 30-year Rep. Thomas Foley of Washington, at risk of being the first House speaker voted out of office since 1860. Another embattled Democrat, Dan Rostenkowski, lost in Illinois. The former Ways and Means Committee chairman is under indictment on ethics charges.

The election reshaped next year's debates over health care and welfare reform, a balanced budget amendment, curbs on costly benefits programs such as Social Security and Medicare and perhaps even congressional term limits.

Marching to the right as the Democrats lose control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans who seized the Senate and House will now unleash a conservative agenda of spending slashes, tax cuts and a down-sized government — a policy reversal as dramatic as President Reagan's 14 years ago.

"The American people have rejected government — tonight," rejoiced Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas. "They've asked for more freedom."

As stunned Democrats endured an Election Day that cost them control of Congress for the first time since the 1950s.

the GOP prepared to push a barrage of initiatives through Congress on its opening days next January, including:

— A constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget, which has fallen just short under Democratic majorities. It would then have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states.

— A strengthening of the president's power to kill individual projects in big spending bills, called the line-item veto.

— A revamping of Congress' operations and procedures, aimed at trimming its 30,000-plus staff, reducing the number of committees and clamping some restrictions on lobbyists and campaign contributors.

Also promised were GOP initiatives cutting taxes for families, the elderly and some investors; harsher treatment of criminals; a mild revamping of the health-care system; tougher work requirements for welfare recipients; and a halt to the recent slide in the Pentagon's budget.

Behind the scenes, Republicans were pondering deep spending reductions that would pay for the tax cuts and for additional whacks at the still-huge federal deficit. But the party was saving talk of those details for later.

The major force impeding them will be President Clinton, who like the ascendant GOP will have to decide when to compromise and when to aggressively confront his rivals. And as Republicans did in recent months against Clinton initiatives, Democrats could use Senate filibusters to derail GOP measures they forcefully oppose.

Perry

Perry said he would spend his next term working to promote Texas farm goods globally, and increase exports.

"With NAFTA, we're going to be very involved with taking Texas to the next level," he said.

Gregory, 56, campaigned contending that Perry overlooked the needs of farmers.

Steers' playoff hopes begin with linemen

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Every good football team has to have strong linemen, on both sides of the ball.

The Big Spring Steers have reached the playoffs in large part because the linemen, who usually remain anonymous, do their job well, and that's a sentence that didn't seem destined for the light of day in August.

TIMMERMAN

"We had two coming back on the offensive line, out of five, and defensively we had just one out of four," said Big Spring coach Dwight Butler, who employs the multiple I-formation and the 4-3 defense. "We start off as probably just a pretty good JV bunch."

The linemen have come around, and it was never more evident than in the 36-12 win over Monahans Oct. 28. Monahans boasted two 300-pound linemen and outsized Big Spring at nearly every slot, but the Steers dominated from start to finish.

"They were slower than us, they couldn't keep up, and we are just as strong as them, upper-body wise," said Big Spring defensive lineman Kinney Dupree (5-foot-10, 270, jr.). Dupree is one of the big bodies on the line, and he plays next to one of the smallest - noseguard Jon Green (5-7, 200, jr.). Butler called them an unlikely pair.

"One is a big kid that doesn't move extremely well, and the other one is not very big but moves extremely quick. Kinney's game is power, and Jon Green's game is based around quickness."

"Kinney has some speed himself," said Green, coming to his teammate's defense.

Dupree returned the favor: "Hey, John and I worked lifting weights all summer, and he was almost catching up with me on the bench press. He's really strong."

The linemen stick together. They don't get the recognition a running back or a quarterback receives, but some of them like it that way.

"That makes it more fun," said senior offensive tackle Norman Timmerman (6-1, 215), who has quietly starred for Big Spring the last two seasons. "As long as the backs give us credit, that's all that matters."

The Oilers (4-4) used a dominating defense to win. Curtis Woodruff scored two touchdowns for the winners, while Josh Matthew scored one. Peanut Lattimore ran the ball well, and Jose Badillo, Jeffery DeLosSantos and Trey Kuykendall blocked well. Chris Silva intercepted a pass for the Steers (0-8). Angel Torres and Chris Castanuela also played well on defense.

Shane Birt intercepted a pass for the Cowboys. Chris Valencia, Mike Smith and Ben Kelton also played well on defense.

Jason Choate caught a TD pass from Anthony Hernandez for the Packers (4-2). Jaraul Parnell ran for a TD and an extra point.

Other stars for the Packers were Andy Whitworth, Cris Garcia, Jimmy Wallace, Mike Manzanera, Mario Hernandez, Anthony Hernandez, Tyrone Brooks, Derrick Pope and Joseph Bumbulis.

Cowboys get good news about Harper

IRVING (AP) — After the Erik Williams accident, the Dallas Cowboys needed some good medical news. They got a double dose of it on Tuesday.

The Cowboys medical staff reported that injuries suffered by wide receiver Alvin Harper and offensive lineman Derek Kennard aren't as bad as earlier feared.

Williams, a Pro Bowl offensive tackle, was lost for the season with a knee injury two weeks ago in an automobile accident. Dallas had to plug rookie Larry Allen into his position.

Harper, who landed awkwardly trying to catch a Hail Mary pass as the half ended in Monday night's 38-10 victory over the New York Giants, was thought to have torn a left knee ligament. Owner Jerry Jones said he was worried Harper was gone for the season.

However, an MRI examination on Tuesday showed it was just a sprain to the outside ligament of the knee. Harper was listed as doubtful for Sunday's game in San Francisco, but it wasn't the season-ending injury the Cowboys had feared.

"I'm thrilled," quarterback Troy Aikman said. "It's the first good injury news we've had around here in a long time. There's no question there was a big sigh of relief around here."

"This is a very positive development," Dallas coach Barry Switzer said. "It's just the opposite of what the doctors told me last night. We think now that Alvin will be back soon, maybe this week. Maybe we can put Oral Roberts out there on the tower and get Alvin healed."

Random thoughts while fishing under my sofa for spare change:

It's time to raise the white flag, surrender, call it quits, etc., etc.

I have fought the good fight, and I have been vanquished. The king is dead. Long live the king.

Dave Hargrave is now officially champion of the football pickers among the Herald sports staff.

I relinquish my crown with great reluctance and sadness. I am not what you'd call a poor loser, but neither am I jumping up and down for joy.

I have to admit, for someone who has only been in these parts a little more than a year, Dave's picked up pretty well on this high school football stuff.

So, congratulations, Dave.

And thanks for not being too insufferable in victory. This is not to say, however, that Mr. Hargrave was above just a little bit of gloating. I discovered that he does a very good Renfeldt laugh ("heh-heh, heh-heh, heh-heh...") whenever he discusses winning the prediction contest.

And a bit of a self-satisfied smug grin crosses his face from time to time.

And he... oh, never mind. You might wonder if I'm just a little bit peeved by this turn of events. Of course not.

I am an adult. I am above getting in a snit just because I lost a stupid contest.

There are more important things going on in the world - things like poverty, war and disease - than a meaningless clash of prognosticators.

I am not upset in the least. NOT IN THE LEAST, MIND YOU!!!!!!!

Steve Reagan
Sportswriter

The Demos and me were both big losers

SO WHAT IF HARGRAVE WON THE STINKING CONTEST???? DO YOU THINK I CARE? HA-HA-HA-HA-HA-HA!!!! LET HIM GLOAT! LET HIM CELEBRATE! I SPIT ON THE WHOLE THING! PATOOIE!

If you need me further, I'll be holding my breath in the corner of the room.

Is it just me, or does it seem to you that the Dallas Cowboys have been dropping like flies lately?

Erik Williams - out for the year with a knee injury.

Alvin Harper - knee sprain, doubtful this week.

Derek Kinnard - hobbled by foot injury.

Nate Newton - ditto.

Add the normal bumps and bruises a team acquires during a season to those four injuries, and it's plain to see that Dallas is hurtin' for certain.

The Cowboys are especially hurting on the offensive line. With Williams, their best blocker, lost for the season, the Pokes cannot afford to lose anybody else for any stretch of time, which is why the nagging hurts to Kinnard and Newton are causing such concern.

Emmitt Smith may be the greatest running back in the NFL, but if he doesn't have the big guys blocking up front for him, all he's going to do on game day is lie down.

Much was made in the pre-season about the lack of depth Dallas suffered from the multitude of free-agent departures, but while everybody was healthy, the problem wasn't critical.

Well, it's critical now.

The Cowboys face an important contest with San Francisco this weekend, and they need all the healthy bodies they can get. There is no way on God's green Earth that Dallas is going to beat the 49ers using a bunch of second-stringers.

Healthy, the Cowboys are without a doubt the best team in the league.

As of now, though, everything's in doubt.

Stanton girls count on speed

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

STANTON - Lots of speed and an unrelenting pressure defense served the Stanton Lady Buffs well last season - but not well enough by their way of thinking.

A 26-7 record and a District 6-2A championship were all well and good, but the Lady Buffs' dreams of playing in the state tournament were cut short in the area round of the playoffs by eventual state champion Jim Ned.

The goal for this season's team is unchanged, and the good news is that most of last year's players are back to try to make it reality. The bad news, however, is that Stanton's district, which was tough enough last year, became even tougher with realignment.

Jim Ned and Winters, both playoff teams last year, moved in this season, joining fellow playoff teams Stanton and Wall to make the league one very crowded house.

If they are going to break this traffic jam, the Lady Buffs will need to make optimum use of their two strong points - speed and experience. The team is blessed with an abundance of both.

State track meet gold-medal winners Lupe Chapa (5-foot-2, sr. guard), Laura Herm (5-4, sr. guard) and Sande Bundas (5-11, sr. post), along with fellow returning starter Kindra Woodfin (5-11, sr. post), form the nucleus for this year's team.

Head coach Frank Riney said the quartet, which have two Joining those four in the starting lineup will be fellow senior Traci Moore (5-5 wing), who Riney said will provide the team with a proven three-point shooter. Another state track meet veteran, junior wing Kristen Wyckoff (5-6) will be first off the bench for Stanton this year.

Rounding out the roster are senior wing Shauna Butler (5-8), junior wing Jaclyn Chandler (5-7) and sophomore post Jan Holland (5-9).

The Lady Buffs open their season Monday at Midland, which made the Class 5A playoffs last year, and things get tougher from there. Stanton will play at tournaments in Wylie and Abernathy that usually attract state-ranked teams.

"It'll be real good for us to play that caliber of competition early," Riney said. "We want to be sure we're tested, and that we know what our strengths and weaknesses are."

Riney said he wants his team to take a "one game at a time" attitude this season, a sentiment echoed by Woodfin.

"(Our goal) is to get out of district, first of all, then go from there," Woodfin said. "As long as we play like a team, we can go as far as we want."

Buffalos looking up this year

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

STANTON - Stanton boys' basketball coach Doug Gordon is looking toward the future, hoping to regain a little of the past.

In Gordon's first season, 1991-92, the Buffs finished 26-6 and reached the semifinals of the regional tournament. He expects similar results from this year's team.

"This is the most athletic, the most talented team we've had since then."

What has Gordon smiling is a boatload of returning players and a few promising new ones. Only two players graduated off last year's 14-17 team - only Johnny Titsworth was a starter - and taking their place are several key newcomers.

One of them, Jerele Lee, isn't so new. The 6-foot senior missed last season because of shoulder surgery. Lee played varsity at Stanton two years ago.

Coming from the junior varsity are Nick Hull (6-0, jr.) and Jerrod Stallings (5-10, jr.). Billy Joe Marquez (5-8, sr.), who missed part of last season due to injury, will return.

Marquez is one of a whopping nine seniors that will see time this season for Stanton, yet the projected starting lineup has just two seniors - 5-8 guard J.J. Ortiz (4 points, 4 assists per game in '93-94 district play) and 6-3 post Eric Martel (7 points, 11 rebounds).

However, the other three starters may be the best of the lot. At least they are the most intriguing.

Jason Hopper (6-2, jr.) surprised a lot of fans last season by leading the district in scoring at 17.9 points per game. Point guard Taylor Looney (6-0, jr. - 8 points and 9 assists per game) was the other sophomore sensation last season, and Stanton may have another sophomore star this year in Leo McCalister.

McCalister (6-0), the younger brother of former Stanton star Kenny McCalister, scored 25 points per district game last season in JV ball, and he'll be the varsity Buffs' shooting guard this year.

Michael Martinez (5-8, sr.) returns as Stanton's sixth man, and other players Gordon can turn to include Cody Hirt (5-11, sr.), Wade Roberts (6-2, sr.), Luis Castro (5-7, sr.) and Kenneth Kendall (6-1, sr.).

"A lot more experience - that's what we'll have more than anything," said Looney. When asked to point out any problems the Buffs might have this season, he added, "We're not used to winning. Last year, we'd get down to where it counted, and we'd get a tough break or make a mistake. This year, we need to make it to the playoffs outright, so that nothing has to happen for us to get there. We have to control our own destiny."

Hopper, who said he was surprised he and Looney played as well as they did as sophomores, wouldn't be all that surprised if the Buffs make a playoff run this season.

"I think we'll have more depth than anybody in district," he said. "A lot of teams can't sub as much as we do and stay in the game."

Big Spring tailback Quentin Dickson doesn't forget that. He thanks the linemen in every interview, but even that doesn't leave him immune from some good-natured team ribbing.

"Quentin gives us a lot of credit, but he's got some speed, and he could do well with any team," said Timmerman, who then cracked a smile.

"With the little speed he has." However, Timmerman's not much for joking around. Butler said the offensive line has two on-field leaders - Jason Roberts and Timmerman. He called Roberts (6-2, 250) the vocal leader; Timmerman the quiet leader. Timmerman likes that description.

"I'm not the kind of person that tries to get all the players up. That's not my nature. I just try to keep everybody from joking around."

Mario Cavazos (5-7, 215, sr.) is the center of the offensive line, and filling in the five-man front are tackles James Escobar (5-11, 215, jr.) and Timmerman, and guards Tim Rios (5-10, 250, jr.) and Roberts. John Jenkins (5-10, 190, jr.) has filled in at center, guard, tackle - wherever he has been needed.

On the four-man front of the 4-3 defense, which was tops in District 4-4A, are Green, Dupree and defensive ends David Foresyth (6-3, 200, sr.) and Arthur Barrera (6-0, 185, sr.).

"You'd have to consider David Foresyth the leader," said Butler. "He's a returning all-district player, and whether he does it by verbal commands or just example, he's a leader just because he's been there."

As for Timmerman, Butler said: "Norman's one who does his job and doesn't say anything. He never complains, he never gripes - it's like he doesn't exist until you start grading the film. And then you see him, and you see that if he hadn't have done what he had done, we wouldn't have gotten anywhere."

That's the general assessment of linemen - if the line goes, so goes the season. If you're Timmerman - a senior who's playing in his first playoff game Saturday - your season's going pretty darn well.

"Well, joking around is OK, sometimes, but this isn't the time. It's time to get serious. We're in the playoffs, and this is my last year. I'm not going to play in college, I don't think. Now's the time. This is it."

Pet travel tips make Fido's holiday easier

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Holidays are lurking just around the corner, and this often means time to pack up the family and visit relatives. Sometimes the family pet may even get to go along.

The American Kennel Club has a brochure available, "Canine Travel Tips," to help pet owners make their beloved critter's trip a fairly peaceful one with a minimum of protesting barks or meows. "Canine Travel Tips," although geared toward dog owners, contains information also useful to cat owners. It contains helpful information to make animals' travel easier during international trips, flights, car, train bus and boat travel.

The brochure can be ordered by writing to the AKC at 5580 Centerview Drive, Raleigh, N.C. 27606, or calling (919) 233-9767.

PET CAR-TRAVEL TIPS FROM THE EDITOR

You won't find these in the AKC brochure, but a few days of travel with a car-hostile animal provides a wealth of information in itself.

If car windows must be rolled down, make sure they are only open enough to get a paw through at most. Don't have windows wide open so the animal can jump out or become trapped in the window opening.

Be especially careful at rest stops and fast food drive-through windows. The moment you reach for your burger and fries may be the moment Kitty decides to make a break for it. Most drive-through personnel will be understanding if you keep the window cracked open just wide enough to pass money and food through.

Don't let the animal roam freely in the driver's area of the car. Your pet may decide it really likes sleeping on the dashboard right in front of you, or down by the accelerator and brake pedals.

This is not something you want to deal with while driving in 70 mph bumper-to-bumper traffic through a sprawling downtown area under construction. (It's been done, but it's NOT recommended.)

If your pet is fairly small and really hates traveling, it may hide under a car seat for most of the trip. After a few hours on the road, your pet may decide it hates traveling, and you, so much that it will not come out from its hiding place when the trip is finally over.

The fact that the pet emerged from its hiding place at every single stoplight, gas station and fast food drive-through for the last 400 miles means nothing. All the animal knows is that the trip wasn't over those times the car stopped, and it has NO reason to believe the trip's over now.

Coaxing with food sometimes helps. Other times, leaving the pet in the car and going about your business for a few minutes will convince the animal the car really isn't going to start again (for a few hours or days, anyway).

If all else fails, reach under the car and pull the animal out. Just be careful of teeth, claws and your pet's ability to run away from you much faster than you can run after it.

Of course, the best pet travel tip of all may be to leave the pet at home. Find a reliable friend or relative to stop by your house to feed your pet daily, or find a good boarding kennel. The peace of mind may be worth any extra expense.

Flutemaker crafts musical legacy

By GALE BRADFORD
Fort Worth Star-Telegram

WEATHERFORD, Texas — Butch Hall lifted the cedar American Indian flute to his lips and fingered the holes. A haunting tune filled the still air, made all the sweeter by the aromatic smell of cedar shavings that littered Hall's wood-working shop.

Hall, 49, is of Cherokee descent and he credits that ancestry for his love for Indian art. He uses his talents to make American Indian art in the shape of museum-quality, traditional courting and love flutes, ceremonial pipes and war clubs.

"Even as a young boy, my father, who was born in Tecumseh, Okla., took me to visit reservations and the museums and on archaeological hunts for arrowheads and that sort of thing," Hall said.

"I've always felt a closeness to that side of my heritage. But also, on my mother's side, the Italian side, I come from a very long line of famous Italian furniture makers that go all the way back to Milan, Italy," he said.

Hall's wife, Laura, has decorated their home around his collection of American Indian artifacts, and her painstaking handiwork, penchant for detail and research guarantee the authenticity of the products they make and sell, Butch Hall said.

The Halls said flutes were traditionally used by American Indians for courting.

"Up through 1977, the Lakota reservation still practiced the tradition of courting with these flutes. A young man would create a melody for some girl he was interested in and play it for her," Butch Hall said.

Tunes were distinguishable and an Indian swain could tell his beloved that he waited for her or missed her through his music. When an Indian died, his tunes and his flute were buried with him, Hall said.

American Indians built the most complex flute of any civilization, which curiously makes it the easiest to play, Laura Hall said, adding that her husband courted her with his flute-playing.

Hall's flutes, various ceremonial pipes and war clubs all bear Laura Hall's designs and include fur decorations, hand-painted feathers and inlaid glass beads.

Pipes were used in ceremonies such as the making of war or peace, healing, and in rituals to ensure a good hunt or a good harvest, Butch Hall said.

Butch Hall of Weatherford, Texas, plays one of his handmade American Indian flutes that he makes from native cedar in a workshop behind his home. Hall is of Cherokee descent and says the flutes were originally used in courting rituals.

Workshops focus on diabetic issues

It is estimated that 800,000 Texans have diabetes. The Big Spring Consortium for Health Education is sponsoring two workshops on Nov. 18 to help health care professionals and those who have diabetes learn more about the disease.

Dr. James Gavin III, senior scientific officer at Howard Hughes Medical Institute in Chevy Chase, Md., will be the featured guest speaker.

"New Research in Diabetes Care: Implications for the Health Professional" is the title of the day-long workshop to be held at Big Spring State Hospital, Allred Building Auditorium, beginning at 8:15 a.m.

Preregistration is required with a fee of $35 to Howard College Division of Continuing Education by Nov. 15. This seminar will provide education for those health care professionals who provide care and treatment for the diabetes patient.

Topics will include: "A General Overview of Diabetes Mellitus and the Diabetes Control and Complications Test Experience," Gavin; "Prevention of Foot Problems and Implications of Improper Care," Dr. Carlos Dimidjian, DPM; "Nutritional Guidelines and Exchange Meal Plans," Christine Little, MS, RD; "Diabetic Emergencies, Blood Glucose Monitoring, Long Range Complications, Community Resources," Elaine Emery, RN, CDE.

Contact hours have been requested from Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Texas Dietetic Association, Certification for Social Workers and Texas Department of Health.

A second workshop is planned from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Howard College Student Union Building - Tumbleweed Room. This workshop is designed for those who have diabetes and will focus on issues facing the diabetic, especially prevention and delay of complications associated with diabetes.

Gavin will present this program. Lunch will be provided at this workshop, which is free of charge. Space is limited; one may reserve a space by calling (915) 264-5132. Deadline for reservations for this workshop is Nov. 14.

For more information contact the Howard County Extension Office at 264-2236, or for registration information contact Howard College Division of Continuing Education.

Sponsors for these workshops are Big Spring State Hospital, Texas Agricultural Extension Service - Howard County.

Researcher calls Pill 'best kept secret'

SEATTLE (AP) — Women are scared of taking the birth control pill, even though it can safeguard them from deadly cancers and diseases, said a researcher who calls the pill's health benefits "one of the best kept secrets in America."

Reports on the pill's adverse effects have left women with "a lopsided perspective on pill safety," said Dr. David Grimes, vice chairman of the Department of Obstetrics/Gynecology and Reproductive Sciences at the University of California at San Francisco.

Women who take the pill for a decade or longer reduce their chances of getting ovarian cancer — the most deadly gynecologic cancer in the United States — by about 80 percent, Grimes said.

And the risks decrease the longer the pill is taken, with protection lasting at least 15 years after a woman goes off the pill, said Grimes, who spoke at the American Medical Association's Science Reporters

Conference over the weekend.

About 11,000 women die of ovarian cancer each year in the United States, according to Dr. Charles Drescher, a physician at Swedish Hospital Medical Center in Seattle and an associate professor at the University of Washington.

Oral contraceptives also safeguard women against endometrial cancer, the most common gynecologic cancer in the United States, reducing the risk by as much as 50 percent, particularly for high-risk women, Grimes said.

This comes as no surprise to the medical community.

"None of that is particularly new — it's been demonstrated in previous reports," Drescher said.

But there is a lingering fear, based on 10- to 20-year-old research, that the pill will increase a woman's chance of developing breast cancer or blood clots, said Dr. Benjamin Greer, director of the gynecological oncology division at the University of Washington's School of Medicine.

More recent research has shown that is not the case. Research showing the pill to be beneficial to women's health is "entirely contrary to the view held by most American women," Grimes said. There is "gross misinformation and gross confusion about oral contraceptives."

The pill, which regulates the body's hormonal levels, also cuts in half the risk of pelvic inflammatory disease, or infection of the fallopian tubes, which affects about one million American women a year.

It reduces the danger of ectopic pregnancy by about 90 percent, Grimes added, and by reducing menstrual flow, it lowers the chance of developing iron deficiency anemia.

Still, for all its benefits, the pill is not a panacea for all of women's health problems.

"It's not a magic pill or anything," Drescher said. "You have to put it in the perspective of the individual patient."

HEALTH IN BRIEF

Large doses of vitamins and bollops of zinc and disease-fighting bacteria seem to prevent the recurrence of bladder cancer, a study by researchers at West Virginia University School of Medicine indicates.

"We were quite surprised by these findings, so much so that at first we didn't believe them," said study director Dr. Donald Lamm.

More than 50,000 Americans contract bladder cancer annually, most of them over age 55. Though the tumors are surgically removed, they recur in 90 percent of victims.

The West Virginia researchers tested two therapies on 65 bladder cancer patients. The one that worked best was a triple treatment that included megadoses of vitamins A, B6, C and E and small amounts of zinc and a disease-fighting bacteria called BCG.

The treatment prevented bladder cancer recurrence in 60 percent of those who received it, Lamm said. The success rate was so high that all bladder cancer victims at WVU's hospital were switched to the therapy.

A vaccine that prevents a widespread strain of liver-damaging hepatitis may be in the offing, scientists at the federal government's National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases say.

Tests with laboratory monkeys have successfully prevented hepatitis E, the most common type of hepatitis in many countries in Asia, Africa, the Middle East.

HEV, as it's called, is transmitted by a virus that occurs in contaminated water. Most outbreaks occur after floods or during rainy seasons. The disease kills 20 percent of pregnant women who contract it.

The vaccine is being developed by scientists at the NIAID's Laboratory of Infectious Diseases in Bethesda, Md. Tests on monkeys show one dose of the vaccine prevents infected monkeys from developing the illness, and two doses wipe out all signs of the disease.

"This study leads us to predict that an HEV vaccine will protect humans from hepatitis E," said Dr. Robert Purcell, chief of the laboratory's hepatitis viruses section.

The next step is to test the vaccine in humans.

Also on the way is a two-drug treatment that knocks out the bacteria that causes gut-wrenching duodenal ulcers.

Dr. Robert P.H. Logan of University Hospital in Nottingham, England, says daily doses of the drugs clarithromycin and omeprazole healed all 154 ulcer patients who received the treatment.

Better yet, 94 percent of those who got the drugs remained ulcer-free a year later.

Lynching survivor opening museum

MILWAUKEE (AP) — After 64 years, James Cameron remembers every detail of the night an enraged mob dragged him from his jail cell, beat him and slipped a noose around his neck. Two other black men died that night at the hands of the mob. Cameron was saved at the last minute.

Now he's documented his story and that of other lynchings for what he's called America's Black Holocaust Museum, a collection opening Wednesday in a dilapidated former boxing club in downtown Milwaukee.

Ropes from a Ku Klux Klan robe, a ceremonial KKK rifle that spits fire from its barrel instead of bullets, letters describing lynchings, and stark black and white photographs of black men twisting from ropes are among the artifacts. One picture shows the lynching he survived.

The soft-spoken Cameron, now 80, with grey hair and a trim mustache, calls it his "Chamber of Horrors."

"We might have to have a nurse on duty here," Cameron said. "I'm going to do just like the Jewish Holocaust museum. I'm going to let it all hang out, just like it happened."

One black history professor applauded Cameron, who wrote a book describing his lynching titled "A Time of Terror," and gives speeches aimed at counteracting present-day KKK activities, for preserving this bitter history.

James Cameron, founder and director of the America's Black Holocaust Museum, poses at the museum's new location in Milwaukee, Wis. The new museum opens to the public today.

His own attack took place on a summer's night in 1930 in Marion, Ind., after Cameron, then 16, and his two friends decided to rob someone.

Cameron said he took a gun, walked up to a parked car and ordered the white couple out. But he recognized the man as a customer at his shoeshine stand. He handed the gun to his friend and ran.

Shots rang out behind him. All three teen-agers were arrested. The next day, news that the man had died — and false rumors that the woman had been raped — inflamed the town's residents. At nightfall the mob broke through the jail door.

His two friends were beaten and hanged.

He too was taken outside and beaten. A noose was placed around his neck before someone yelled out that he hadn't been involved in the shooting. The mob let him go and returned him to the jail.

Cameron served four years in prison as an accessory to manslaughter. Almost a lifetime later, the retired boiler engineer and self-taught historian was pardoned, in February 1993, by Indiana Gov. Evan Bayh, who noted his accomplishments and that he had been a victim of mob violence.

Pit bulls prove to be potent gang weapon

EDITOR'S NOTE — Pit bulls have become the weapons of choice of many drug dealers and gang members, "four-legged guns." Illegal dogfights, long a problem in the rural South, have spread to the back alleys of the big cities. Here's a look at how these ferocious dogs are being used and abused.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Sherry DeGenova cringes each time she sees a snarling pit bull being paraded down the street, a common sight in inner cities across the country.

"It's terrible what's being done to these dogs," says DeGenova, kennel manager at the Hartford Animal Control Shelter.

More and more, she says, the dogs are being used against other pit bulls in illegal, high-stakes dogfights. Then, when they have been defeated and maimed, the injured animals are abandoned and left to roam the streets.

Warring drug dealers also train the dogs to be killers and then use them as "four-legged guns."

"We're seeing a disturbing new trend, a nationwide trend. Members of street gangs are using pit bulls as status symbols and as weapons," says Rachel Lamb, a spokeswoman for the Humane Society of the U.S., based in Washington, D.C. "It's a huge problem in Washington."

In the nation's capital, the Humane Society's dog pound destroys as many as 10 to 15 pit bulls' each month, says Rosemary Vozobule, director of humane law enforcement.

"These are dogs we've found running down the street or left abandoned in boarded-up houses," she says. "In some areas of the city there are dog fights every single night."

In Hartford, the dog pound recently had to destroy six pit bulls confiscated at an impromptu dog fight in the inner city.

"In the cases of many of these dogs, it's doing them a favor to put them to sleep, considering how they've been treated during their lives," DeGenova says.

Illegal "backyard breeders" beat their dogs and bind their legs to make them more vicious, she says. They wrap heavy chains around the puppies to build up their chests, and sometimes even pen their pit bulls with smaller dogs and encourage the pit bulls to tear apart the weaker dogs.

Dog wardens say most of the abandoned pit bulls are either too maimed or too vicious to be eligible for adoption.

In Bridgeport, Connecticut's largest city, the situation is totally out of control, says Ralph Corson, the city's chief animal control officer.

Wedding cake takes unexpected ribbon

Special to the Herald

Billye Grisham, owner of Creative Celebrations, returned from a Tulsa, Okla., cake show with an unexpected prize: a winning ribbon for a cake she didn't expect to place.

"When I received the invitation to enter the Oklahoma Cake Show, I thought, 'Why not?'" Grisham explained. She checked several categories of cakes and sent in her entry form.

Meanwhile, decorating wedding cakes kept her so busy she didn't have time to prepare an entry for the show. Cake decorators who enter competition are supposed to decorate for the points known to be critiqued by judges.

However, the show weekend of Oct. 21-22 was upon them, and Grisham did not want to miss the show. She and her staff gathered cakes from the shop and headed for Tulsa.

She said she did not enter the contest to win a ribbon, but rather to learn new decorating techniques from the decorators and nationally known judges who taught lessons on their decorating specialties.

"My goals were accomplished and the winning ribbon was an aside," she said.

"I got a chuckle from the 'points for improvement' indicated by the judges. These are things I teach my cake decorating students all the time. I had not followed my own techniques!"

Cakes were entered not only from Texas but from Arizona, Kansas and Oklahoma. Judges came from as far away as Canada.

The three-tiered cake that earned Grisham a ribbon was her first entry in such a show. "I am my own best competitor, so I have never entered competition before," she explained.

No scents is good sense for the chemical-sensitive

By DOUG GROW
Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune

MINNEAPOLIS — Getting up in the morning is becoming ever more complex. You need to be mindful of what you eat and sensitive about what you say. You need to be cautious about where you exhale.

At one time or another, we've all tried to move upwind from people who smell bad. But since the beginning of time, most of us have presumed that human beings had an inalienable right to smell any way they wished.

Wrong. Not, at least, in social work classes at the University of Minnesota.

Jean Quam is director of the School of Social Work. She admits that when she first was approached about the idea of a fragrance ban, she thought the idea smelled weird.

But, she said, because social work has a mediating tradition, she decided to hear out the idea. There was a staff person and a graduate student in the school who reacted violently to strong fragrances. After listening to their stories about environmental illness (also known as multiple chemical sensitivity), Quam decided to support the fragrance ban.

Accessibility has become a national priority. Throughout the country, she said, we are building ramps and elevators for people who get around in wheelchairs. If strong odors from soaps, perfumes and after-shave products make classes as inaccessible for some people as a staircase does for others, why not do the simple thing necessary to make those classes accessible?

Besides, those who have environmental illnesses are covered under the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990. Smelling too much may be a violation of federal law.

First notices about making social work classes "fragrance-free" went up last year. But this year, the notices have become more prominent. And in some cases, Quam said, students have been asked to leave class and wash off perfume or after-shave colognes.

Not surprisingly, not all have been impressed at the efforts to make the classroom a less smelly place.

One student sent an electronic message to the Minnesota Daily, complaining that the fragrance ban was another sign of "the movement of intolerance... Maybe the next time I have a class in Ford Hall, I will be sure to wear a heavy dose of perfume in conjunction with possession of a Cosmopolitan with all the perfumed flaps wide open. Get real."

In fact, if the student entered Ford Hall with Cosmo flaps flapping and if another student or teacher complained, the perfumed student would be told to take a hike.

Amy Unger-Weiss is the social work grad student who helped Quam and others in positions of authority understand that a fragrance policy would have a meaningful impact on the lives of people with forms of environmental illness.

"I'm sorry some people are angry about it," she said, "but if someone doesn't believe environmental illness is real, if they insist on being scented, I figure it's ignorance on their part. They may also believe that smoking prolongs your life. I'm not responsible for the belief systems of other people."

Costs need not prevent dental care

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column forever, it seems, and I must comment on a topic I've seen several times: bad teeth. You suggested that one reason people don't see a dentist is fear. This may be true, but there is also another reason — money. In my case, I have no dental insurance, and I can't afford dental care.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

At my age (I am 28), my fillings are falling out. I needed four root canals (at $500 each), but I avoided them by waiting for the pain in my mouth to outweigh the pain in my wallet. I finally decided to have the teeth pulled (at about $100 each).

As you said, "A person's general health is threatened if his (or her) teeth are rotting." Therefore, I don't understand why dental needs are not covered by health insurance.

Until they are, I'll have to wait and pray that this great nation of ours will arrive at a plausible health reform that will provide dental care for everyone. —WAITING FOR DENTURES IN BOSTON

DEAR WAITING: Dental insurance may not be as expensive as you think. You may find it would have cost you less than the extractions.

In the interest of your health, try to squeeze dental insurance into your budget, and make some phone calls to find a dentist who will allow you to pay on the installment plan.

DEAR ABBY: I was very moved by the letter from the Utah mother who lost her son, Adam, in an incident involving a toy.

On March 10, 1994, I became chairman of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). Our mission is to protect the public from unreasonable risk of injury from consumer products. This includes most of the products found in the home, especially children's products. Since March, I have worked to revitalize this small but important federal agency to address product hazards quickly and effectively. I work personally with my staff to make sure that every complaint is thoroughly investigated.

I have telephoned parents whose children have been killed by consumer products. We have wept together, then worked at finding solutions so that other children will not die tragically.

Abby, please tell your readers that if they have problems in the area of product safety, or want information about consumer products, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is here to help them. Our toll-free hotline is available 24 hours a day with both English and Spanish-speaking operators. Our number is 1-800-638-2772.

Thank you for getting the word out that a small government agency can make a difference in people's lives. — ANN BROWN, CHAIRMAN, U.S. CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

DEAR MRS. BROWN: Thank you for your informative letter and for your commitment to this important task.

It has been brought to my attention that immediately after reading the letter from Adam's mother, you telephoned her. The best of luck to you as chairman of this "small but important" federal agency. Protecting the American consumer is an awesome responsibility, and your dedication will surely result in fewer injuries and deaths caused by unsafe products.

THE Daily Crossword by CF Murray

Crossword puzzle grid with clues for Across and Down. Includes 'Tuesday's Puzzle solved' and a list of answers.

This date in history

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 9, the 313th day of 1994. There are 52 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: Five years ago, on Nov. 9, 1989, communist East Germany threw open its borders, allowing citizens to travel freely to the West; joyous Germans danced atop the Berlin Wall. On this date: In 1872, fire destroyed nearly a thousand buildings in Boston. In 1918, Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm II announced he would abdicate. He then fled to the Netherlands. In 1935, United Mine Workers president John L. Lewis and other labor leaders formed the Committee for Industrial Organization as part of the American Federation of Labor. In 1938, Nazis looted and burned synagogues as well as Jewish-owned stores and houses in Germany and Austria in what became known as Kristallnacht. In 1953, author-poet Dylan Thomas died in New York at age 39. In 1963, twin disasters struck Japan as some 450 miners were killed in a coal-dust explosion, and 160 people died in a train crash. In 1965, the great Northeast blackout occurred as several states and parts of Canada were hit by a series of power failures lasting up to 13 hours. In 1967, a Saturn 5 rocket carrying an unmanned Apollo spacecraft blasted off from Cape Kennedy on a successful test flight. In 1970, former French president Charles De Gaulle died at age 79. In 1990, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev signed a historic non-aggression treaty with Germany, winning praise from German leaders for his role in the peaceful fall of the Berlin Wall. Ten years ago: A bronze statue by Frederick Hart, titled "Three Servicemen," was unveiled at the site of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington D.C. The statue, depicting a trio of battle-weary soldiers, was included in response to criticism that the memorial did not adequately represent Vietnam veterans. Today's Birthdays: Actress Hedy Lamarr is 81. Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is 76. Sportscaster Charlie Jones is 64.

Working to Solve . . .

The Ozone Problem

What's up? We often ask this question when we want to find out what is happening. This Mini Page issue is about scientists whose job it is to find out what is up in the air.

Scientists often go to isolated Antarctica to research the effects of chemicals and pollutants up in the air.

Scientists launch a balloon in Antarctica. They use balloons to carry instruments up in the air to measure the ozone.

CFCs

We get many benefits from using chemicals such as chlorofluorocarbons, or CFCs for short.

kept us cool and our food fresh and safe.

However, scientists began to realize there were hazards when we released tons of CFCs into the atmosphere.

For many years, CFCs were used to spray paints and hairsprays out of cans. They were also used in air conditioners and refrigerators. These miracle chemicals

Working together

After scientists discovered that we were losing some of our ozone shield, the U.S.A. and 70 other countries agreed to limit the use of CFCs.

This agreement marked one of the first times ever that so many countries joined together to fight an environmental problem.

The week of Nov. 6-12 is National Chemistry Week. Chemistry is part of our everyday life. One purpose of this week is to encourage kids to learn more about chemistry.

Antarctica: a frozen lab

Weather

- Average temperature at McMurdo Station: -9 degrees F
- Highest: 59 degrees F
- Lowest: -126 degrees F
- Strongest winds: 200 mph. It is the windiest place on Earth.

A huge iceberg frozen in McMurdo Sound.

Size

- It's the fifth-largest continent, with 5.4 million square miles. (The U.S. covers 3.6 million square miles.)

Water

- Antarctica has 70 percent of the world's fresh water, which is in the form of ice.
- It is known as the world's largest desert because it gets fewer than 2 inches of moisture per year.

Ice

- Ice up to 3 miles thick covers 97.6 percent of the surface. The rest is rocks.

Bad ozone

Ozone is a gas. Ozone is the same substance everywhere. It can be bad or good depending on where it is.

The bad ozone is closer to Earth, mostly in or near our cities where there is a lot of pollution.

When sunshine hits a special mix of pollutants, a chemical reaction occurs. This ozone mixture is known as smog.

Good ozone

The good ozone exists naturally and forms a shield way up in our atmosphere, about seven or more miles up. This shield protects us from the sun's rays. It helps to keep us from getting skin cancer.

Sometimes chemicals travel up into the atmosphere and destroy the good ozone. When this happens, more of the sun's rays get through to Earth. Over Antarctica the ozone layer is thinner than over the rest of the Earth. We call this the "ozone hole."

Studying the air

Dr. Susan Solomon is an atmospheric chemist. She studies chemicals in the air. Her special interest is the ozone layer.

She led the first national ozone expedition to Antarctica in the fall of 1986. She researched the ozone hole.

Dr. Solomon says: "The ozone layer has been depleted over Antarctica by human activities. We only have about half as much ozone in the Antarctic spring now as we did 15 years ago."

People have begun working to stop the damage. However, it will take a long time to fix. Dr. Solomon expects the ozone problem to be with us until around 2050.

The area around the North Pole is called the Arctic.

The area around the South Pole is called Antarctica.

The Mini Page thanks Dr. Susan Solomon of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. This Mini Page is based on a permanent exhibition, "Science in American Life," at the National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. The exhibition is made possible by a grant from the American Chemical Society.

Answers: Down: 1. gloves, 2. hat, 3. boots, 4. socks, 5. scarf, 6. parka; Across: 3. boots, 4. socks, 5. scarf, 6. parka.

The Mini Page Teacher's Guide

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school. For use with issue: The Ozone Problem

Main idea: This issue is about the ozone layer. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty. Ask the children to do the following:

1. Make a list and draw a picture of things that are up in the air.
2. Study the weather page in your paper. What is the coldest city? Compare that temperature with the average temperatures in Antarctica.
3. The seasons in Antarctica are opposite from ours. Make a chart showing this.
4. Do some research to find out more about this frozen continent. Then hold a press conference. Assign some students to be reporters and others to be scientists just back from Antarctica.
5. Look through your newspaper and see if there are any stories about the environment.
6. Study the content labels of five different products that we use every day, such as toothpaste, hairspray or shampoo. Make a list of the chemicals in each one. Compare the lists. Are any chemicals used for more than one product? Are there any warnings on the labels?
7. Make a list of other environmental problems facing our planet Earth.

A Report From Antarctica

The Mini Page asked Dr. Solomon to tell us what doing research in Antarctica was like. Here are some of the interesting things we learned from her: Her job

"I like atmospheric chemistry because it is taking place in the whole world, not just in a test tube.

"What I like most about being a scientist is that you learn new and interesting things every day of your life."

Dr. Solomon poses on a hill overlooking McMurdo Station. No people live there permanently. It's like a little town overlooking a harbor. There is a church, hospital, bowling alley, and a community center where videos and movies are shown.

Dr. Susan Solomon stands in a dry valley in Antarctica, where there is very little snow. She says, "If you're going any distance from the station, you go in a helicopter."

What do you feel?

"If I had to use one single word to sum up Antarctica, it would be 'cold.' The typical springtime temperature can be -30 to -40 degrees. With the wind chill, it can get colder than that. Minus -100 is not unusual."

What do you hear?

"It is very quiet. There are no airplanes overhead, no traffic. There are lots of times that the only things you hear are your own heartbeat and the wind rushing in your ears."

What do you see?

"Endless white emptiness. When you fly into Antarctica, there are no telephone poles, no power lines. You fly for thousands of miles with nothing but emptiness beneath you ... just open, white emptiness beneath you.

"It is very, very white and very, very blue. In the winter it is dark 24 hours a day. In the summer it is light 24 hours a day.

"The springtime is a beautiful time because you get very long sunrises and sunsets."

Dr. Solomon and other scientists arrive in Antarctica in the winter — at noon, Aug. 23, 1986. In the winter it's dark 24 hours a day. Solomon says, "That's as bright as it's going to get."

What do you smell?

"Nothing, because everything is frozen. One of the things that is striking when you come back from Antarctica, when you approach New Zealand, you suddenly realize that you are smelling plants and vegetation. It is very striking that you are smelling living things again after not smelling anything."

At work in Antarctica

Food

For enough energy to keep warm, people need to eat more than twice as much as they usually do. People store food in refrigerators to keep it from freezing!

Clothing

People need to wear special parkas, insulated rubber boots, long underwear, hats and gloves, as well as regular clothing.

Seasons

If it's summer here, it's winter there. Our seasons are opposite from Antarctica's.

Research stations

No country owns Antarctica. It is governed by a treaty that says it can be used for peaceful purposes only. Several countries have research stations there.

Next week, The Mini Page celebrates the 75th anniversary of Children's Book Week.
