the owner's knowledge of criminal activity on the premises.

The end result of a nuisance abatement suit (where the property is found to be a nuisance by a court) may include fines and/or jail and the closure of the property for one year.

Usually, property owners take the necessary corrective actions to prevent the continuation of criminal activity on their property before court action becomes necessary, but the Attorney General's Office has developed a test to help law enforcement agencies establish whether activity at a particular site establishes a nuisance:

- Is the house or business habitually used for drug dealing, prostitution, gambling, reckless discharge of a firearm, liquor law violations, or organized criminal and street gang activity?
- Are there unsanitary conditions?
- Is there a history of habitual arrests (six or more) for these activities at the location?
- Will this activity continue indefinitely if action is not taken to prevent it?
- Is there a common reputation in the surrounding area that the location is a haven for illegal activities?
- Have the lives and/or businesses of people in the surrounding area suffered or been adversely affected by the alleged or related activities?

To further aid in the eradication of nuisance sites the Attorney General's Office, in 1993, established a Narcotics Control & Vice Interdiction Section to assist law enforcement agencies and prosecutors in conducting investigations and developing local strategies for filing cases.

Veteran

My father-in-law, Edward Jones, is a World War II veteran.

My husband is the main reason I "celebrate" Veteran's Day because if it hadn't been for the Persian Gulf War, Keith and I probably would not be married.

In December 1990, Keith's mom put his picture and address in our hometown newspaper so the community could write to him and show their support. My mom saw the article and mailed it to me.

Keith and I grew up in the same town, attended the same church and schools and eventually became close friends in high school. I went off to a four year university and Keith entered the Marine Corps and we had lost touch with one another.

We began writing back and forth during the war. Needless to say, our letters got longer and more personal while he was overseas. I started to fall in love with him even though I hadn't seen him in years.

We made plans to see other when we both happened to be home in June 1991. We decided to start dating even though he would be in North Carolina and I would be out here. When it was time for me to fly back, Keith took me to the airport. There was a lady in front of me in line who asked if we were married and I said no. She replied, "it will be just a matter of time then because y'all look so happy."

Keith flew out to see me at least once a month, proposed in Nov. 1991 and we were married in Jan. 1992. I thank God for having such a wonderful husband and Veteran's Day means even more to me these past few years.

Take a few minutes to tell a vet how much you admire him or her for the sacrifices they made to make this country what it is today.

a park bench and plants. Price spends his days in the park trying to figure out what to do with his life. During each act, he meets a different woman who gives him their outlook on life.

In the first act, Walter meets an environmentalist named Ellie who is portrayed by Tabatha Alexander. Alexander is a senior at Forsan High School and this is her first theatrical performance.

Alexander does a wonderful job portraying a young paralegal who is a member of the Sierra Club and is very open about her sex life.

There are parts in the first act that made me blush. Ellie asks Walter about his sex life and goes into some detail about hers. A few audience members seemed to squirm in their chairs when Ellie talks about exotic oils and having sex to improve her abdominal muscles. All in all, the first act is funny and full of laughs.

In the second act, it is three months later and Walter is now selling California hot tubs. He has only sold one and does not enjoy what he is doing. Walter really wants to be a writer but does not think it is a responsible job. He also has a hard time dealing with the fact that his wife, Alice, is now working to help pay the bills.

"Haley" is portrayed by Sarah Crippen. Haley was once an executive for one of the largest advertising agencies in the country. She began to feel the stresses of being successful, so she quit and is now a bag lady.

Haley talks to Walter about how stressed out and frustrated he looks. She even helps him with his sales pitch and it is pretty evident he hates his job. Those exchanges and when the two sing a commercial jingle are the highlights of act two.

In act three, Walter meets "Lenore", a prostitute, portrayed by Ronda Fowler. Lenore came from a typical middle class family and moved to Los Angeles. She is in this particular line of work because of the money.

In the beginning of the act, Lenore runs up to Walter and asks him to pretend he knows her. A customer of hers decided not to pay for his services so she steals his watch and runs into the park. She wants to convince the man that Walter is her pimp.

Throughout act three, Lenore talks to Walter about how lucky he is to have a wife who loves him very much. She convinces Walter to give up being a salesman and follow his dream of being a writer. Fowler is a veteran of the stage and is really a talented actress.

The play lasts almost two hours and there is a 15 minute intermission. There are parts that are slow but it is really an enjoyable play. If there were ratings for plays, I would rate it between PG13 and R only because some of the content is not suitable for younger audiences.

Big Spring is lucky to have talented actors and actresses in the area.

Punishment phase begins in Smith trial

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — Former Texas A&M University administrator Robert Smith has been convicted of soliciting gifts from a vendor who was negotiating a multimillion-dollar contract with the university.

The punishment phase began today, and Smith could receive a year in prison and a $3,000 fine for the misdemeanor conviction.

Smith, a 58-year-old former vice president of finance and administration, was convicted Thursday of soliciting a trip to New York for his wife while conducting a business deal.

Former speaker
sees silver lining

FORT WORTH (AP) — On the day after Republicans seized control of Congress, former House Speaker Jim Wright found some consolation in the election.

"I'm peering out my window and looking for a silver lining," he sang Wednesday from his ninth-floor office above Burnett Park in downtown Fort Worth.

"The silver lining for me," Wright told The Dallas Morning News, "is that I am no longer involved in this. I bear no responsibility for these things."

He also saw an upside to the involuntary retirements of his successor as speaker, Tom Foley of Washington, and of his old friend Jack Brooks of Beaumont, who — had he won — would have had the longest tenure in the House.

Both had long careers in the House and would have chafed under minority party status, he said.

Doctor, nurses not immune in death

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court says the parents of a woman who committed suicide cannot sue the public hospital that refused to admit her for care and confiscated her medication.

The court, however, did say they could proceed with a wrongful death claim against the doctor and nurse who examined her at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas.

On Feb. 14, 1988, Pennie Johnson, at the age of 24, committed suicide by stepping in front of a moving truck. She had had mental health problems for nearly 10 years.

Hours before her death, she had left Parkland, angry and threatening to throw herself in front of traffic if she didn't get back her pills.

South Texans worry about political clout

HARLINGEN (AP) — Only two counties south of the Nueces River supported GOP winner George W. Bush over Ann Richards, who was viewed as the first governor to take a serious interest in South Texas.

Now, politicians in the Democratic stronghold of the Lower Rio Grande Valley worry that Bush's victory could once again turn this growing area into a forgotten corner of Texas.

"Ann was very sensitive to our needs. She made the efforts to include us in government," said Gilberto Hinojosa, a Democrat who won the Cameron County judge's seat in Tuesday's polling.

Meno keeping his options open

AUSTIN (AP) — State Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno says he'd like to keep his job. But he's keeping his options open now that Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, who appointed him, has been beaten by Republican Gov.-elect George W. Bush.

"I think this is an exciting position, and it's one where you have a tremendous opportunity to contribute, and I've really enjoyed it. If it ends at that, it ends at that," Meno said Thursday. He came to Texas from New York and says he'd like to stay here even if he changes jobs.

Bush, who made education reform a leading campaign issue, said in Houston that he hadn't made a decision about Meno but added, "I'm going to be fair."

Bush claims willingness to work to fulfill promises

HOUSTON (AP) — Republican Gov.-elect George W. Bush says he knows he will have to include Democrats as he works to fulfill his campaign promises, but he says he's comfortable with such bipartisan endeavors.

"I made it really clear to people in Texas that in order to be an effective government, you don't think in terms of being a Republican or a Democrat. You forge philosophical alliances," he said Thursday.

"My dream is to rise above partisan politics," Bush said, adding he wants to govern in terms of what's best for Texas.

And so Bush said he plans to work well with Democratic Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, who presides over the Senate, and House Speaker Pete Laney, D-Hale Center. He has spoken with both men since his election.

"We (he and Bullock) had a very good discussion about a general willingness to work together for what's best for the state," he said.

"I will make it clear to them that I want to be helpful, that I'm not going to be an obstructionist. On the other hand, if the drift of the agenda is something I'm not going to like, then I'll be a part of the process to make sure it heads hopefully in the way I want it to head."

The newly elected governor was in Houston Thursday to thank volunteers and other supporters at his local campaign headquarters.

After spending the weekend at his lake house in Athens, Bush said he will return to Austin to resume the transition from managing partner of the Texas Rangers baseball club to Texas governor.

In about a week, Bush plans to announce some appointments, though he would not provide details. He also said he has not yet decided what he will do about appointments made by Gov. Ann Richards.

Bush, describing Tuesday's election as a mandate for change, repeated his plans to reform welfare and education system.

Astronaut Ellen Ochoa uses a globe and shuttle model to talk about the experiments being performed aboard the shuttle in a televised view. The video will be used for educational purposes.

New platforms installed at Mir

SPACE CENTER, Texas (AP) — Astronauts installed a platform today for new reclining seats to be used aboard Atlantis next year when the shuttle picks up three passengers from the Russian space station Mir.

Atlantis' next flight after its current 11-day mission is a planned June docking with Russia's orbiting outpost.

The shuttle will carry two cosmonauts to Mir and return with two cosmonauts and U.S. astronaut Norman Thagard. The three are to ride a Russian rocket to the space station in March.

After three months in orbit, Thagard and the cosmonauts will be too weak to return in conventional upright shuttle seats because of space-induced muscle and bone loss. Cosmonauts always return from Mir in a reclining position.

The reclining seats will be installed after Atlantis has docked with the space station.

Today, astronaut Jean-Francois Clervoy fitted a support platform and mounting bracket into the floor of Atlantis' crew compartment. NASA wanted to be sure the hardware fits when shuttle surfaces undergo the structural stress caused by space flight.

"There was no problem at all," Clervoy said. "It was easy."

Jury rejects teen's 'urban survival' defense

FORT WORTH (AP) — Tarrant County jurors have rejected claims that a teen-ager had to kill two men to survive in his inner-city neighborhood and have convicted him of capital murder.

Daimion Osby, 19, was convicted Thursday in his retrial in the shooting deaths of two Fort Worth men.

In Osby's first trial, in April, his attorneys argued that he suffered from a kill-or-be-killed paranoia from growing up in a high-crime urban area. That ended with a hung jury when one juror held out for an innocent verdict.

Lawsuit filed to close apartments

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Dan Morales has filed a lawsuit seeking the closure of a Fort Worth apartment complex because of repeated gang shootings, drug dealings and prostitution.

"I am placing the resources of my office behind efforts to release the stranglehold that gangs and drug abusers have on our communities," Morales said Thursday.

Police have been called to the Sun Shadow Apartments almost 1,200 times in the past 17 months.

The lawsuit was filed against Kenneth Egans of Las Cruces, N.M., and Phillip Hermans of Fort Worth, the owners of the complex. Neither men have listed telephone numbers.

Morales said the lawsuit was filed under the state's public nuisance law. Under the law, locations are public nuisances when people habitually go there for prostitution, gambling or drugs.

The law requires public-nuisance sites to be closed or to post a bond of $10,000. If there are more violations at the site within a year, the bond could be forfeited and the property closed for a year, Morales' office said.

hours before delivering its verdict, which carries an automatic life sentence.

Osby, who must serve 35 years before he can be paroled, was convicted in the double slaying of Marcus Brooks, 19, and his cousin Willie "Peanut" Brooks, 28, in April, 1993.

Light up City Hall with appeal

The Big Spring City Council has halted a street light removal program which has left many citizens in the dark.

Citizens turned up at Tuesday's council meeting to protest the removal of street lights. And, the council agreed to halt the program pending appeals by local citizens even though three-fourths of the program was completed.

According to the plan, there is to be only one street light at every intersection and one per 500 feet. Resident Edward Slade told the council Tuesday that the street lights on Broadway have not been turned off in accordance with the plan and presented the council with a petition to halt the program.

While it is a good idea to try and save money, sometimes the medicine can kill the patient.

That is what can happen in a dark city.

Fear rules the times we live in. We are afraid to leave our homes, afraid to walk our own streets, afraid to be home alone, afraid of nearly every-thing as violent crime has risen.

Folks are already bolting, chaining, burglar-barring their homes. There are motion detectors, spotlights, burglar alarms that a frightened populace have put on their houses.

Safety has to be a consideration when turning out the city's lights.

If you have a problem with the lights being taken down, fill out an appeal form at City Hall. It will be forwarded to the committee who will decide the fate of a program.

If it is supposed to be only along non-residential strips of road, that might work. Lights off in the residential area could create more problems than it saves money.

Political ads a curable disease

There used to be liquor commercials on TV. Not only for beer or wine but genuine 86-proof, skull-popper hooch. Now, you don't see them.

There used to be cigarette commercials on TV with macho guys and sexy women filling the air with smoke. They're gone, too.

Commercials for booze and smokes were banned from TV by Congress because we don't want children and young people getting the idea that being sloshed or sucking in smoke is acceptable behavior.

At the time the decisions to outlaw such commercials were made, there was a lot of walling about how they infringed on free speech, private enterprise and freedom of choice.

They didn't. Any American adult who chooses to can still drink or smoke himself into an early grave.

But it can be argued that the bans probably prevented many impressionable kids from thinking there is something glamorous about hitting the sauce or lighting up.

So maybe it is time to seriously consider banning a product that is clearly dangerous to our mental health.

I'm talking about political advertising on TV. By now, everyone agrees that we just finished watching some of the lowest, dirtiest, most deceitful political campaigns in memory.

From local offices up to races for the U.S. Senate and governor, we were swamped with smears, trick photography, flat-out lies and con games.

That's one of the reasons why the turnout was so low. People turned away in disgust.

And there is no reason to believe that TV campaigning will get any better because the professional liars who hire out to run these campaigns know that lies and deceit are easier to sell than truth. They aren't going to walk away from a good thing.

It's TV advertising that allows a rich mope such as Michael Huffington, a man with few credentials or ideas, to be pushed by a scheming and ambitious wife into spending $27 million of his family fortune to try to buy a seat in the U.S. Senate.

With the reach of TV and that much of daddy's money to play with, a Michael Huffington might have crushed an Abe Lincoln or a Thomas Jefferson.

That's all it takes to be a serious candidate today: a big wad and the phone number of a professional political hired gun.

Those who aren't born with the money that Huffington can take another approach: selling their souls and future votes to special interests. They become something like junkies. But instead of thinking day and night about where their next dope hits will come from, they're obsessed with raising money for their next TV campaigns.

But try to imagine political campaigns without unlimited TV advertising, campaigns in which each candidate is allowed only a limited and an equal amount of air time.

Most of the roving campaign liars would be out of work. It's one thing to create a 15-second commercial in which the opponent's face melts and reappears as Satan. But it's another to write a lengthy speech for the candidate to deliver before an audience of voters who just yell: "Hey, cut the bull, pal, and tell us what you are going to do."

There's a political cliché that tells us: "Television is the precinct captain."

While there's truth in that, it's also an insult to the dying breed of flesh-and-blood campaign workers who rang doorbells, handed out literature and talked to voters. They might have tried to sway you, promising small favors or calling upon your friendship or shared background. But if they pushed too hard or told whoppers, you could challenge them, talk back or slam the door in their faces. But what can you say to the liar who enters your living room by way of your TV set?

Without TV commercials, a candidate would have to find ways to generate loyalty among grassroots people, the volunteers who would be the heart of a campaign. That means having ideas that are more than some spin doctor's slick sound-bite creation.

Instead of relying on morphing, media buys and malevolence, a candidate would have to actually hoof into Elks Clubs, old people's homes and community centers to make real speeches, hold real debates and prove that he or she has something to offer. Instead of hiding behind his pollster and marketing whiz, a candidate would have to get back to the factory gates, the subway platforms and anywhere else a pamphlet could be handed out, a hand squeezed or a question answered.

It would rejuvenate political organizations at the grass roots, and that would carry over into stronger national parties. It would no longer be every rich man for himself and to heck with paying dues and party values. A person might have to prove that he could run for highway commissioner before he aims at the U.S. Senate.

Most politicians say they favor campaign reform. Some of them even mean it.

Good, then there is no reason they should want to preserve the means to tell lies that would make a used-car dealer blush.

Adieu Ann

Friends and foes alike will miss her

AUSTIN (AP) — Ann Richards made the governor's mansion a haven for grandchildren and motorcycles, and turned the Statehouse into a stage for her acidic one-liners.

As the silver-haired Democrat who matched wits with David Letterman and Jay Leno prepares to leave public office, even Republicans admit they'll miss her dynamic personality.

"She used humor as well as any governor this state has ever had and probably as well as any national political figure," said Republican political consultant Mark Sanders. "It gave people in other states a new impression of Texas."

"Too many people think there are cowboys and Indians still running around here and she was an articulate person who gave people an intelligent impression of what's going on here," he said.

Elected in 1990 after serving two terms as state treasurer, Richards' ability to rub elbows with the stars and punctuate any idea with a cutting barb made her a national celebrity. She also became one of the state's most popular governors. Crime has fallen three years in a row, student test scores are up and Richards says Texas leads the nation in creating new jobs.

But she couldn't translate her 60 percent approval rating into re-election Tuesday as she was swept aside by a GOP tide and, perhaps, a bit of backlash over her famous tart tongue.

An exit poll of voters showed that 31 percent of voters felt Richards had unfairly attacked Republican George W. Bush, whom she called a "jerk," "shrub" and "boy George."

Only 14 percent felt Bush had unfairly attacked Richards. The poll of about 1,600 voters had a margin of error of 3.5 percentage points.

Richards, 61, said the race would have been boring if she held back. After all, it was her caustic wit that catapulted her to national prominence in 1988 when she ridiculed Bush's father at the Democratic National Convention.

"Poor George," she drawled about the elder Bush, then the vice president and a presidential candidate. "He can't help it. He was born with a silver foot in his mouth."

A star was born — and Bush continued to be her best material when he became president.

Of his economic recovery plan, Richards called it "a Brylcreem agenda, a little dab'll do ya." On his performance in foreign policy, Richards said, "Even a 17-year-old debutante can bow from the waist."

Texas Gov. Ann Richards sets on a motorcycle in a stylized photo for the cover of the July 1992 Texas Monthly magazine. Gov. Richards casually mentioned in 1992 that she would like to celebrate her 60th birthday with a motorcycle ride. Friends and foes alike have said they will miss her on Capitol Hill.

And after it appeared Bush would lose to Bill Clinton in 1992, she said, "Stick a fork in George Bush. He's done."

Richards says the humor was born from despair. A recovering alcoholic, she found the lighter side the only way to deal with life after liquor.

"In that way she is sort of a great model for people, a great inspiration that they can take control of their lives and achieve whatever they want," said Karl Rove, the GOP consultant who helped orchestrate Richards' defeat.

For Richards, the lighter side includes a parrot named Gracie, a love of sports, her grandchildren and, of course, motorcycles.

In 1992, the governor casually mentioned that she would like to celebrate her 60th birthday with a motorcycle ride. Harley-Davidson promptly presented her with a pearl-white cycle decorated with the Texas flag.

To keep from violating ethics laws she gave the bike to the Department of Public Safety. But she plopped a helmet on her neatly stacked coiffure, went through driver's training and received her motorcycle license last year.

"There's something about turning that throttle up, turning your head and watching that machine go with you," she said. "You feel as if the machine itself is a sort of extension of you."

Richards' spunk played well in Hollywood. She frequently traveled to California and convinced producers to make movies in Texas. Campaign donors included Steven Spielberg, Mario Thomas, Anne Archer and Lily Tomlin.

Richards always played down the attention she received.

"All of the hype and the publicity stuff, you know the only value of that? It makes people think about us," she said. "And if it makes people think Texas is a good or interesting or profitable place to be, then that's great."

GOP rivals at the crossroads

WASHINGTON TODAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas is setting the standard for conservatism in the 1996 Republican presidential field. But some of his potential rivals are following a different path.

A crowd of GOP governors won landslide re-election victories this week, and several are considering presidential races. They are chief executives who must deliver, even if that requires compromise with political opponents.

In Congress, you can just say no.

Gramm was an architect of GOP efforts to kill health care reform, campaign finance reform and a number of other bills this year.

His interpretation of the election: "The American people endorsed what I have fought for in the Senate, what I have fought for in the House, what I have believed in, and we're now going to have a Congress that is committed to that."

Yet the American people also endorsed Republican Govs. William Weld of Massachusetts and Arne Carlson of Minnesota, who have liberal social views; plus Govs. Pete Wilson of California, George Voinovich of Ohio, John Edgar of Michigan, Jim Edgar of Illinois and Tommy Thompson of Wisconsin.

All are within the GOP mainstream. And they're bound to influence the 1996 nomination process, either behind the scenes or as presidential candidates themselves.

Republican Party chairman Haley Barbour talks fondly of his "magnificent governors" as managers, problem-solvers and policy pioneers. He said they've "been able to demonstrate conclusively that Republican ideas work."

If any of them run for president, the demands of the conservative GOP primary electorate may send them rightward. But the down-to-earth job of governor is generally not the place for unyielding dogma and rhetorical fireworks.

"You have to pick up the garbage and respond when there's an earthquake or a jailbreak," said Bob Behn, director of the Governor's Center at Duke University.

As Behn noted, North Carolina voters send Jesse Helms to the Senate. For governor they elect moderates.

Wyoming and Pennsylvania provide other examples of that pattern. Wyoming Gov. Mike Sullivan, a Democrat, won re-election four years ago by a record margin. This year, conservative GOP Rep. Craig Thomas swamped him in a Senate race after contending Sullivan wasn't hard-line or partisan enough to make it in Washington.

Pennsylvanians elected moderate GOP Rep. Tom Ridge governor this week. But they're sending self-described rabble-rouser Rick Santorum to the Senate. Santorum, a GOP congressman, made headlines during the campaign by suggesting Social Security benefits should start at age 70 rather than 65.

Until now, the prospective 1996 field has been dominated by inside-the-Beltway players: Gramm, Senate Republican leader Bob Dole and former Cabinet members Jack Kemp, Dick Cheney, Jim Baker and Lamar Alexander.

The pressure from the right has been palpable. Most of the field endorsed and campaigned for Oliver North's unsuccessful Senate bid in Virginia. Most addressed the annual Christian Coalition convention. And by the end of the congressional session, Dole had even gravitated toward Gramm's scorched-earth approach to legislation.

"Phil Gramm is more rhetorically conservative than Ronald Reagan and he has to be considered one of the three or four top contenders for the nomination," said David Frum, author of a book about how conservatives missed an opportunity to shrink government under Reagan.

Letters to the Editor

Shouldn't safety devices be required?

Editor:
"Local man died in construction accident." (Friday, November '94).

Why doesn't the State of Texas require safety-devices for all workers working on above-ground structures regardless? Surely it's time someone (higher-up) got their act together er in hopes of preventing other accidents ending in death.

Writer would like Furr's back

Editor:
We miss the Furr's Cafeteria! We are Senior Citizens and depended on the good home cooked meals, at least, once a week or more, when we didn't feel like cooking. Where else in town can you get fruit and jello, a chocolate pie, if you're in the mood, vegetables, home cooked style and beans. No other place in town is adequate. I hate buffet style. It is either that or fast food here. That is O.K. some of the time, but a home cooked meal is the best, and Furr's does it best. I'm not a steak and potatoes guy.

Don't miss your chance to tailgate with the Steers

How many fans does Memorial Stadium hold? Maybe we'll find out Saturday.

Despite Big Spring's success this season, crowds at Memorial Stadium haven't been all that much to write home about. Sure, the crowds have been good, and Steer fans support their team well, but in this West Texas land of football fever, which reached national prominence thanks to Odessa Permian and the book "Friday Night Lights," Big Spring crowds seemed a bit disappointing.

Saturday should be different. In the Steers' last home game, a 36-12 win over Monahans, Big Spring fans came out in force on a cold evening, and they were treated to the Steers' most exciting home win of the year. When Steer senior linebacker Leslie Adkins scooped up a fumble, the fans screamed.

The scream grew louder and louder as Adkins ran and ran, and 73 yards later the Memorial Stadium crowd may have been as loud as it has ever been...

...considering the Steers haven't hosted a playoff game since 1940.

Sounds like hosting a playoff game is about as common as Halley's Comet, so if you're a Steer fan, or just a football fan living in or near Big Spring, do yourself a favor:

DON'T LET THE MOMENT PASS YOU BY!

Get out there and tailgate. The Memorial Stadium parking lot has plenty of room, the surrounding Howard College campus has plenty of space and there are plenty of pick-up trucks in Big Spring with which to tailgate.

Go to the store and grab you some grub. Take a radio and listen to some college football before game time, to get you in the mood. Think about it - the best thing about college football, for the fans, are the tailgate parties, and there's no reason why Big Spring can't be the high school tailgate capitol of the world Saturday.

Maybe you don't care about the Steers, or about football in general. That's fine - no one said you had to. But here's a word of advice for you: GET OUT OF THE WAY!

There's a huge truck speeding through Big Spring, and it's called Playoff Fever. For the first time in 54 years, the Steers and Playoff Fever join forces... in Big Spring.

An asthma attack can be alarming. A severe attack can be fatal when care is not given in time. That's why we created the Asthma Clinic at Scenic Mountain Medical Center. Even if you or your child are under a doctor's care for the condition, the Asthma Clinic can give you an added edge in managing attacks. Our licensed respiratory team will work closely with your doctor to:

- diagnose and treat your asthma
- instruct you on the proper use of prescribed medications
- give you a "peak-flow meter" to determine when it's time to get medical attention
- teach you breathing and relaxation exercises
- discover your personal "triggers" that bring on an attack, and how to avoid or cope with them

And most important, you'll have 24-hour access by phone to a licensed respiratory technician at Scenic Mountain. When you have a question or concern, we'll quickly access your personal data to give you the information you need. We can even advise you when it's vital to get emergency treatment that could save your life, or the life of your child.

Steers have hosted a playoff game before

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

When Big Spring was awarded home field for Saturday's bi-district playoff clash with El Paso Parkland, a lot of Steer fans were wondering...

Have the Steers hosted a playoff game before? The answer is yes, but you have to go way back.

Big Spring played its first playoff game 54 years ago, and the game was right here in Big Spring. The opponent in that 1940 game was another El Paso team - El Paso High. Big Spring and El Paso played to a 27-27 tie, but El Paso was declared the winner by virtue of penetrations. El Paso had five penetrations to Big Spring's four.

Since then, the Steers have qualified for the playoffs five more times, but they've never hosted another playoff game - until Saturday.

In 1953, the Steers returned to the playoffs and put together a postseason run rivaled only by the 1989 team. The '53 Steers finished the season 9-4 and reached the state championship game. However, after playoffs wins over Brownwood (54-12) and Gainesville (44-13), the Steers lost the championship game at Port Neches, 24-13.

The Steers were forced to play the state final on Port Neches' home field after losing a coin flip, but 41 years later the Steers have had some luck in the flipping department. El Paso Parkland used its option to flip for home field, and Parkland coach Lou

James and Big Spring coach Dwight Butler used a "phone flip." James picked a town in Texas (he chose Ennis), and Butler said the last digit of that town's zip code was odd. Butler was right, and that's why Steer fans will spend a comfy weekend at home instead of a long one in El Paso.

In 1986, the Steers went 9-2 and returned to the playoffs, but Hereford beat the Steers in bi-district 26-17.

In 1989, the Steers beat Hereford in bi-district and rolled to the state semifinals. The Steers finished 11-3 and reached the state semifinals before falling 54-6 to Tyler Chapel Hill.

The 1990 Steers, who gave the school its first back-to-back playoff qualifiers, once again beat Hereford in bi-district play, 17-7, but this time they lost in the next round, 40-17 to Burkburnett. The '90 Steers finished 9-2-1.

What happens for the '94 Steers is anyone's guess, but so far, considering the site of Saturday's game, fate could be smiling on Big Spring.

Steers riding win streak

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers have come full circle in 1994, and here are some of the quotes and details that show the rise the Steers made - from a slow-starting, young and inexperienced squad to a playoff team:

Borger 25, Big Spring 0

The Steers showed how young they were in the '94 opener, turning the ball over four times as the Borger Bulldogs controlled matters at Memorial Stadium. Borger burned the Steers in many areas, but particularly in the passing game, where Borger receiver Tim Baker caught six passes for 148 yards against Big Spring's green secondary.

Big Spring 10, Sweetwater 8

This game foreshadowed Big Spring's turnaround. The Steers, still not clicking on all cylinders offensively, poured defense all over the Sweetwater Mustangs in Sweetwater. Big Spring limited Sweetwater to 141 total yards and handed the Mustangs their only loss of the regular season.

Sweetwater had just eight first downs in the game.

Safety Brien Burchett said: "Anytime you play Sweetwater, it's a special night, and when you beat them in their house, in this bowl, man! It's just great.... I started crying before the game was over."

Estacado 21, Big Spring 17

If not for a late fumble, the Big Spring's Dustin Waters (12) cuts up the middle for yardage in the Steers' 54-14 homecoming win over Fort Stockton. Number 88 for Big Spring is Daniel Franks.

Steers might have won two tough road games in a row, but Big Spring lost the ball after a 73-yard kickoff return by Manuel Cervantes seemed to have the Steers in position to win in the final minutes.

Though Big Spring's passing game had yet to be discovered, the Steers played well enough to win.

Big Spring 28, Snyder 11

Big Spring returned home and made a switch at quarterback in this easy win.

Bucky Crenshaw alternated series with Dustin Waters as quarterback of the Steers. The pair completed just 6 of 15 passes for 83 yards, but the defense was the star again, holding Snyder to five first downs.

Waters, who had quit talking to the media after the Borger game, broke his silence just long enough for these prophetic words:

"I'll talk to you after we whip up on Andrews."

Levelland 28, Big Spring 7

Just when the Steers seemed to be turning things around, they went to Levelland and had their heads handed to them. The story was Levelland's ability to run on Big Spring - the Lobos gained 273 rushing yards against a tough Steer defense.

Lake View 21, Big Spring 17

This game hurt. Big Spring outgained Lake View 312 yards to 182, but a crucial interception and a fumble late in the game killed two chances for a go-ahead touchdown.

Big Spring 54, Ft. Stockton 14

In a wet Homecoming game, Big Spring smashed Fort Stockton and earned its first district win. Senior linebacker Leslie Adkins intercepted two passes, one for a touchdown.

Big Spring 35, Pecos 8

Junior split end Marc Baker said "We finally played smash-mouth football tonight."

That pretty much said it all in this easy win at Pecos. Quentin Dickson sat out the game with a "sprained" left knee, but the Steers did their damage in the air, gaining 234 passing yards.

Big Spring 36, Monahans 12

The Steers won the game they had to win, mowing down Monahans in a battle for sole possession of second place in District 4-4A. The Steers won at home with efficiency, not turning the ball over. Surprisingly, Monahans outgained Big Spring 285 yards to 206, but the Steers' opportunistic defense fell on two fumbles and had three interceptions.

Boxing needs a lot more than Foreman

Random thoughts while getting playoff fever:

... George Foreman. Forty-five years old. Weighs just shy of 300 pounds.

Steve Reagan
Sports Writer

Heavyweight champion of the world. And they say we're no longer in the age of miracles. My esteemed sports editor, the suave and very dignified Mr. Hargrave, has already dissected this subject with his usual wit and clarity (no, I'm not bucking for a raise) (but I'm not stupid, either), but I do want to add my few cents' worth. Basically, my opinion is this: I'm not sure the fix was in, but I'm not sure it wasn't, either. Think about it: Boxing, once described as the "sweet science," has degraded to the point where it is dominated by shysters and clowns. Where there once was one champion is seven or eight weight classifications, now there are so many so-called champs in umpteen weight classes that you need a computer just to keep up with the whole mess. Quick, tell me the name of the WBF junior welterweight champion. Give up? Can't say? Neither can I. Boxing's integrity (and I use the term loosely) is about at the same level as pro wrestling, and we all know how legit that Please see REAGAN, page 10A

Franklin heads back to state

■ Runner hopes for top 10 finish in cross country

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

While most of Big Spring will be focused on a football team Saturday, one Big Spring athlete will fight his own personal battle half a state away.

Big Spring High School senior Joe Franklin is running in the state cross country finals Saturday in Georgetown. Franklin, the two-time district champion, is coming off a slow run at the Lubbock Regional, but he did what he had to do. He finished ninth, thus qualifying for the state meet. Franklin will run at noon in the boys' Class 4A race. The Georgetown course is appropriately one of the most challenging in the state - a hill raises the course 414 meters in the first quarter-mile, and in the last mile runners must climb a portion of that hill again, said BSHS cross country coach Randy Britton. Franklin is shooting for a top 10 finish. "I know I can," he said. "Physically, I'm fit. I just need to work on my mental aspect. I just think I'll do it, and then I can do it. Last year, I just went down just happy I went.

This year, I just want to go down there and do better than I did last year." Franklin finished 40th last season in his first state meet. Franklin said thinking about his slow time in Lubbock upsets him, but he's negated that with a good week of practice. "I feel so much better this year than last year, it's amazing," said Franklin, who added that cold weather Saturday could work to his advantage. "I think I run better in the cold weather, than in hot, humid stuff. I feel better running in cooler weather, like it is now." Franklin said Britton has told him to relax and run his race, simply because he has nothing to lose. However, Britton makes it clear that he wants Franklin to do more than just run the meet and have fun. Britton wants Franklin to concentrate on his top 10 goal. Britton said: "The challenge of getting to the state meet, for some kids, is the most important thing. Well, when some people say, 'Well, go down and have fun,' well, that's kind of a little asinine to say that. I don't know if you can have fun when you hurt. "Joe's fresh. You ask questions like, well, how do you feel mentally? 'Oh, coach, I feel great!' Those are the signs you want to see at the end of a season, where some of these kids are going 'Gosh, I'm tired; this is boring. I tired of it.' Their bodies are OK, but not their mind. So maybe we can get everything together. Maybe this will be the best run of his career. I hope so, for him, cause he deserves it - to finish as high as he possibly can."

New era begins for Coahoma

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

COAHOMA - At first glance, it is easy to discount the Coahoma Bulldogettes' chances of success this season. For starters, they have a new coach who's spent the last few weeks installing a new system. They have only one returning starter - guard Elizabeth Hernandez (sr., 5-foot), and only four other players who saw time with the varsity last year.

Then there's the realigned District 6-2A. Of the six teams that will compete in 6-2A this season, only Coahoma failed to make the playoffs in 1993-94. Jim Ned won the state 2A championship, Winters came in second to Jim Ned in their old district, and Stanton and Wall were first and second in the league last year. Additionally, the Forsan Queens made the Class 1A playoffs last season.

Given these circumstances, it would be understandable if the Bulldogettes (16-14 in '93-94) were at least a little intimidated by their prospects this year. And, to some degree, they are. "It is (a little intimidating), especially going up against the defending state champions," sophomore wing Tori Elmore said. "But I think we'll be able to play with them. Our defense will be the key." Senior guard Mandi Herring, however, is having none of this intimidation business. "I think we have a better chance this year, because all the girls work together," she said. "I think by working together, we have a better chance to get things accomplished this year." New coach David Cox, who comes to Coahoma after a stint in Eula, said that a smooth transition has helped get things off in the right direction. "Everything's been really great," Cox said. "At first... the girls were a little hesitant. Coach (Phillip) Ritchey (who coached the Bulldogettes last season) was well-liked, and I came in here wanting to change things. But the girls have been very receptive and positive about things." Change is a major word to use in describing the Bulldogettes this year. While Ritchey preferred a patient, half-court game, Cox plans to increase the tempo. "We're hoping to become more of a full-court team, pressing and running when we have the opportunity," Cox said. "I told the girls I felt we could improve our ball-handling and team defense, and I've seen some improvement in those areas." Cox also wants the team to improve its quickness, and to that end encouraged all his players to join the cross country and track programs. His advice has been heeded: Participation in cross country improved from three girls last year to 28 this season. That's not to say there haven't been rough spots. Two seniors Cox was expecting to help the program had to drop out for various reasons, meaning that senior leadership will be at a premium this season. Then there's the district, and even Cox admits it will be tough going for the Bulldogettes. "We're the only team in this district that didn't make the playoffs last year," he said. "Stanton will be extremely good this year, and Wall, Please see NEW ERA, page 10A

Bulldogs younger, quicker

COAHOMA - The Coahoma Bulldogs will be a little bit taller, and little bit younger and a little bit faster than last season. If that translates into the team being a little bit better, it means that District 6-2A teams will be a little bit sadder as a result. The defending district champion Bulldogs, 26-7 last season, open the 1994-95 season Tuesday at home against the Colorado City.

Nichols' style - up-tempo with plenty of three-point attempts - will be back. For a nice change, however, the Bulldogs will be taller than they normally are (seven players 6'0 or taller have a chance of making the varsity roster), meaning that Nichols is counting on some inside scoring to take the heat off his outside bombers. All of this has Nichols feeling OK at his team's chances at a district repeat. "I think Stanton will be very, very good, and Forsan will be much improved over the past couple of years," Nichols said of the district race. "I look for it to be a real tight race, and I'll be disappointed if we're not right in the thick of it." Most of the players have been playing football until this week, meaning that some adjustments have had to be made. "Most of them are familiar with what we're trying to do anyway," Nichols said. "We're taking it slow as far as what we're putting in, however. The guys are in pretty good shape; the football guys just need to get into basketball shape." Among those coming up from the JV that have most impressed Nichols are guards Chris Arguello (sr., 5-10) and Jason Archibald (sr., 5-8) and wings Brandon Shifflett (sr., 6-2) and Adam Tindol (jr., 6-1). "Most of those guys coming up from the JV are going to help us," McGuire said. "I think our first six or seven players should be just as good or better than last year." Ward realizes that with so little returning varsity experience, the junior varsity transfers are going to have to be as good as last year's record indicated. "The young players are going to have to step up and play for us," he said. "But they're all good players, and I think this'll be a good year for us." DeLaRosa, the best player on the best team in district last year, agrees that the JV transfers should work out fine. That would help erase the only foul memory from last season, a bi-district loss to Anthony. "I'd like to win district Please see BULLDOGS, page 10A

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Dennis Rodman, AWOL from the San Antonio Spurs, missed practice Thursday, the day after his three-game suspension by the club was to have ended. San Antonio coach Bob Hill and general manager Gregg Popovich were unable to reach him by phone several times during the day before making contact in the afternoon. It was not immediately clear why Rodman skipped the workout. "We would like to have this guy on our team, but it takes two to tango," Hill said. "He has to cooperate." Popovich had said Rodman, the NBA's leading rebounder the last three years, would remain suspended. Rodman was expected to meet with Popovich and Hill before Friday morning's practice.

During his title fight last week against Michael Moorer, Foreman was essentially a punching bag for nine rounds. Moorer landed innumerable blows on Foreman's head and body, and the crowd assumed that the fight was history. But wait! In the 10th round, Foreman came back to life, and quickly floored Moorer with two quick blows to the head. A knockout. A new champion. Good, old caddy George Foreman, the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Someone who's fairly literate. Someone who would be a good spokesman for the sport. Someone not currently doing time for one felony or another. Enter Mr. Foreman. Don't get me wrong - George used to be one heck of a fighter, and I still remember the night he first won the heavyweight crown - oh, say 30 or 40 years ago - when he mopped the ring with Joltin' Joe Frazier.

Who can forget the Rumble in the Jungle, when Muhammed Ali rope-doped the crown away from Foreman? Both of these episodes were great for boxing. But all that happened more than 20 years ago. George is a nice guy and all, but don't try telling me he deserves to be the heavyweight champion of the world. Give him a pulpit, give him a sitcom, give him a hand - but don't give him the title belt.

New era

Continued from page 9A although everybody says they're down this year, in the same breath they say that (Wall) is always tough. If his team seems daunted by its task, however, it does a good job of hiding its worries. "I think we've improved a lot," junior guard Audra Bingham said. "We've got a better chance this year because we've got some experience, and the coach has worked really hard with us, which should help a lot."

And, McGuire added, maybe gain a measure of revenge for the football team's barely missing out on the state playoffs. "We've got an incentive to beat those teams that beat us in football," he said. "I guess that would be a good payback."

Schlichter pleads guilty to fraud

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Former NFL quarterback Art Schlichter wanted to go home to his family after pleading guilty to a federal charge of bank fraud. The judge agreed with the prosecutor that Schlichter was an "economic danger" and ordered him into custody.

"He's a self-admitted gambling addict that has cost him careers and relationships, yet he hasn't gotten counseling," assistant U.S. Attorney John Ham said. "Clearly he is an economic danger to the merchants and other people he comes in contact with."

Schlichter, 34, entered the plea agreement Thursday before U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pro and was taken into custody immediately. The maximum sentence for federal bank fraud is 30 years and-or $1 million, but Schlichter is expected to get 18 to 24 months, said Frank Cremen, his attorney.

The former Ohio State quarterback worked as a radio talk-show host for KVEG-AM in Las Vegas from February to July.

Former Ohio State and NFL quarterback Art Schlichter, right, is escorted in handcuffs from federal court in Las Vegas Thursday after pleading guilty to bank fraud.

Ham said Schlichter used his job at the station and athletic accomplishments to help make contacts and get money from people. Schlichter stole checks from a woman who had moved to Avon, Colo., and convinced Las Vegas acquaintances to give him other blank checks that he deposited into banks and wrote to numerous people for a total of $175,000, according to a criminal information filed in the case.

Schlichter starred at Ohio State before he was drafted in the first round by the Baltimore Colts in 1982. He sat out the 1983 season when then-NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle suspended him for gambling. Schlichter returned to the Colts for the 1984 and 1985 seasons.

Cremen asked that Schlichter be allowed to return to Indianapolis so he could see his two children and estranged wife, and spend the holidays there. Cremen suggested that Schlichter be put under electronic surveillance.

Schlichter wrote bad checks in Indianapolis as recently as two days ago and opened five different checking accounts there last month, Ham said.

Dangerous Deion concerns Cowboys

IRVING (AP) — Deion Sanders worries the Dallas Cowboys. They squirm when the opposition has a talented player who can talk trash with the best of the Cowboys.

So when Sanders left Atlanta to sign with the San Francisco 49ers, the Cowboys' chief NFC rival, the Dallas coaches took notice. They know Sanders has the ability to dog the NFL's best receivers and turn an interception into a game-breaking play.

"Deion is the best at what he does," Cowboys coach Barry Switzer said. "He's a leader. He's talented. He has big play ability and he has proved it many times."

Wide receiver Michael Irvin and Sanders have had some classic duels when Sanders played for the Falcons. Irvin has won a few, so has Sanders. "I hope he'll follow me all over the field on Sunday," Irvin said. "We have some things planned if he does. I'm sure there will be some conversation." Sanders can't wait for Sunday.

"Come on," he says. "I thrive for stuff like this. I live for stuff like this." And he expects to see a lot of Irvin.

"He feels like he must get the ball a numerous amount of times during the game," Sanders said. "He wants the ball, he craves for the ball, he craves for the big play. I hope to see a lot of him. Mike is a great receiver."

Alvin Harper, the Cowboys other wide receiver, has benefited in the past as the 49ers worried about Irvin. If his sprained knee heals, Harper is looking forward to an Irvin-Sanders lockup because he might get more passes.

Traditional powers meet in first round

DALLAS (AP) — In the last two years, Waxahachie and Southlake Carroll have combined to win three state titles and reach the semifinals once.

Tonight, they meet in the first-round of the Class 4A playoffs.

The clash of would-be titans isn't really as big of a game as it seems because Carroll, the former 3A power, is 5-4. The Indians are 9-0 and were ranked second in the season's final Associated Press poll.

Yet, when it comes to tradition, few games this weekend match teams with the postseason experience that these schools offer.

Their game highlights the first-round of the playoffs, which began with a few games Thursday and doesn't end until the seven state champions are crowned by Dec. 17.

The two-time defending 3A champion Dragons had a tough first season in 4A.

They ended their state-record streak for consecutive regular-season victories at 72 and were shut out the next week. By going 3-2 in District 9-4A, they made the playoffs as the second-place team.

The Indians, who won the 4A title in 1992 and reached the semis last year, are rolling under first-year coach Thomas Brooks.

If their game is the best according to reputation, then the best according to records is the 4A game between 10-0 La Marque and 9-0-1 Bay City.

The first-round pairing of unbeaten is unique because the bi-district round pits district champions against other districts' second-place team, which usually has a loss.

In Bay City's case, the Black Cats finished second in the district because of a tie with El Campo.

This marks the third time since 1990 that the teams meet in the playoffs. Bay City won the first two meetings 20-14 in 1990 and 20-15 in 1991.

La Marque was No. 3 in the season's final poll and Bay City was seventh.

As for the top team in 4A, defending champion Stephenville, the Yellowjackets play Lubbock Estacado (8-2) on Saturday.

Here's a quick look at big games in the other brackets:

— Two-time defending Class 5A Division II winner Converse Judson, stumbling into the postseason at 7-2-1, opened Thursday night with a 49-12 victory over Austin Bowie.

Another key game in their half of the bracket is the Region III battle between Deer Park (9-1) and Houston Clear Lake (10-0). By record, that's the best first-round game of the "big school" title chase.

The worst record matchup in any class is the Region II game between Duncanville (4-5-1) and Dallas Skyline (4-6).

— Defending Class 5A Division I champ Lewisville is in Division II this year, meaning there will be a new winner.

The front-runner has to be Austin Westlake, the former 4A power that moved to No. 1 in the final poll. The Chaparrals (10-0) play San Antonio MacArthur (6-3-1).

Another 4A-ex making its mark in 5A is A&M Consolidated. The 9-1 Tigers, who were fifth in the last poll, get to host Klein Forest (7-2-1).

Chemical drops could help diagnose Alzheimer's

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chemical drops that dilate the pupils in routine eye exams may be used to diagnose Alzheimer's disease, a lethal disorder that destroys the mind but is difficult to identify in a living patient.

In a study published today in the journal Science, researchers at Brigham and Women's Hospital and the Harvard Medical School in Boston report that an eye drop drug called tropicamide causes the pupils in the eyes of Alzheimer's disease patients to dilate about four times more readily than in the eyes of people without the brain disease.

Huntington Potter of Harvard said Alzheimer's patients are so sensitive to tropicamide that their pupils will change by about 23.4 percent, while patients without the disease show only a 5 percent change.

Although medical science now has little to offer Alzheimer's patients, Potter said there eventually will be drugs to stop the progression of the disease and an early diagnosis will be critically important.

Clinton reaching out to young economies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hoping to increase prosperity at home, President Clinton is reaching out to the "young, vigorous" economies of Asia to expand trade ties that he says offer untapped potential for growth.

Still getting over jet lag from his last round of travel, Clinton departs today for the Philippines and Indonesia, where he will attend the second annual Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation summit with 17 world leaders.

Clinton, taking note of his party's devastating losses on Election Day, acknowledged Thursday that many Americans are insecure about their economic future and wary of expanding global trade. "For too many of our people, trade still appears to be a gale force wind, just another threat ready to blow away the prospects of a stable job at a good wage, just another problem adding to the already unstable, uncertain condition of their lives," he told an audience at Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service.

Case indicates growing racial fears

UNION, S.C. (AP) — Investigators had no choice but to question black men after Susan Smith falsely claimed a black carjacker abducted her two sons, Jesse Jackson acknowledged.

But the case indicates there are growing racial fears around the nation, Jackson said Thursday while laying a wreath for 3-year-old Michael and his 14-month-old brother Alex at the lake where authorities say their mother drowned them.

Jackson said Mrs. Smith "exploited a climate of racial hostility and fear that is much bigger than Union." But he admitted that "she did sound believable," and praised investigators' handling of the case.

Doctor-assisted suicide law passes in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — As soon as Oregon voters passed a law allowing doctor-assisted suicide, AIDS patient Tim Shuck started planning to take advantage of it.

On Thursday, official tallies showed the ballot proposal had passed 52 percent to 48 percent. Shuck, who learned in April that the HIV virus is invading his brain, had talked to his doctor about suicide a day earlier.

"It allows me to have some control over my life," said Shuck, 45. "My decision was based on what my needs are going to be. Once my brain is gone, I see no purpose for me to be around."

When the measure on Tuesday's ballot takes effect Dec. 8, Oregon will become the only place in the nation that lets doctors hasten death for the terminally ill.

A patient with six months or less to live will be able to ask a doctor to prescribe a lethal dose of drugs. At least two doctors must first agree that the patient's condition is terminal, and the patient must ask three times, the last time in writing. Doctors must wait 15 days before filling the final request for a lethal prescription.

Doctors who follow the law's guidelines cannot be prosecuted or sanctioned by professional organizations and licensing boards. Other health professionals, such as pharmacists, do not receive the same protection.

The law pushes Oregon to the forefront of the movement to give the dying the freedom to choose when and how to end their lives. But it also raises difficult questions for doctors who have been trained to heal, not kill.

"Nobody wants Oregon to become a drop-in center for death," said Dr. Susan Tolle, director of the Center for Ethics in Health Care at Oregon Health Sciences University.

EXPLOSION

An offshore oil platform burns out of control on Lake St. Catherine near New Orleans Thursday. The rig, owned by Janex Oil of Dallas, exploded when contract workers were performing routine maintenance, injuring three. One man was blown from the rig and is still missing.

'Kill the ump' may become punishable

WOODCLIFF LAKE, N.J. (AP) — Don't kill the umpire. Don't even yell at him.

In the state where one town has already banned cursing, another wants to prohibit unsportsmanlike conduct — by players and spectators alike.

The proposed ordinance would prohibit anyone attending or participating in a Woodcliff Lake-sponsored sporting event from fighting, verbally abusing or threatening anyone else at the game.

Violators could be fined up to $100. School sporting events would not be covered.

Most residents and officials interviewed Thursday in this borough of 5,300 were in favor of the proposal. But the state's American Civil Liberties Union chapter said it would place an unconstitutional restraint on free speech, and promised to challenge the ban if it is passed and enforced.

"Speech that is merely offensive to sensibilities may still be protected by the First Amendment," said Legal Director Marsha Wenk. "Speech must do more than offend or annoy or disturb to be banned."

The proposal had been scheduled to be introduced to the council Wednesday, but instead was referred back to the parks and recreation committee for more work.

Councilman Salvatore Princiotto said the ordinance should stand up in court because of its narrow scope. He said it's not as broad as the law passed last month in Raritan that makes it illegal to curse anywhere in public.

Similar measures have been enacted in Arkansas, Delaware, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Oklahoma.

New history standard guidelines defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the architects of proposed national standards for teaching world history says a new wave of criticism directed at the guidelines is coming from people "of a far-right conservative view."

David Nash, co-director of the project, disputed claims the guidelines are a witches' brew of "politically correct" ideas that belittle Western civilization in the name of multiculturalism.

Dozens of teachers, parents, historians with widely different views helped 35 education groups put together proposals designed to make history come alive for students in fifth through 12th grade, Nash said Thursday.

"We were able to achieve a very broad-based consensus among all of the participating organizations," he said. "We have tried them out with hundreds of teachers all over the country."

But some conservatives and others say they found the guidelines unbalanced. Parts of the curriculum guide — "World History: Exploring Paths to the Present" — cast U.S. and European history "in a fairly unflattering light," said Gilbert Sewall, president of the American Textbook Council and member of a board that advised the authors of the guidelines.

"There are some good parts. ... I have mixed feelings," Sewall said. "I guess I'm saying in order to understand the world today, we have to look carefully at the Western foundations of the nation and the world."

The guide divides world history into eight eras from "The Beginnings of Human Society" through "The Twentieth Century," drawing extensively on archaeological evidence to explain ancient cultures and track human development.

Two killed in embassy robbery

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A gunman shot and killed two Haitian employees of the U.S. Embassy, critically wounded a third and escaped with the embassy payroll.

"It was strictly a criminal act for the money," said embassy spokesman Stanley Schrager. "Tragic as it was, it could have happened in any country in the world."

The employees were carjacked Thursday as they were returning to the embassy with 110 pay packets they had picked up at a bank, Schrager said. He gave no dollar figure, but said it was a considerable amount of money.

The victims were found in their vehicle on a dirt road in Canape Vert, a hillside residential suburb of Port-au-Prince.

Slain were Kessel Jean-Paul and Sandra Rigaud, both in their mid-20s. Lamartine Guerrier, an embassy driver, was airlifted to the United States for treatment, Schrager said.

IRA suspects arrested in postman's death

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police arrested two Irish Republican Army suspects on Thursday after gunmen killed a postman in a botched robbery, sending shock waves through Northern Ireland's fragile peace process.

The killing was the first in the British-ruled province to be linked to the IRA since it announced a cease-fire in September, but the group denied breaking its pledge.

Ireland's justice minister, Maire Geoghegan-Quinn, immediately rescinded plans to release jailed IRA prisoners early. The first two inmates would have been released Friday.

"The early releases were based on the premise that we had a cease-fire from the Provisional IRA," Geoghegan-Quinn said.

In a statement to Belfast media, the IRA said its Sept. 1 cease-fire meant "a complete cessation of military operations. All our units were instructed accordingly. This position has not changed."

Neo-Nazi group outlawed in Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — In the sharpest blow against the fascist movement in months, the government outlawed a paramilitary neo-Nazi organization Thursday and police seized knives, propaganda and bank accounts in nationwide raids.

The group, Viking Youth, is the fourth fascist organization banned by the federal government in two years.

No arrests were reported. Federal Interior Minister Manfred Kanther said Thursday that Viking Youth wants to restore a fascist state in which Jews would be forced to wear yellow stars and people the extremists considered "inferior beings" would be sterilized.

The group has been giving paramilitary training to young Germans and teaching them neo-Nazi beliefs, Kanther said.

IT'S CARNIVAL TIME

Thousands of colorfully dressed Cologne citizens with their faces painted gather Friday at the city's Old Market Place celebrating the start of the German carnival season exactly 11 minutes after 11 o'clock on the 11th day of the 11th month of the year. The carnival season ends on Feb. 28, 1995.

JERUSALEM (AP) — A suicide driver on a motorcycle exploded a bomb in the Gaza Strip today, and Israeli officials said three soldiers were killed and a dozen Israelis and Palestinians were wounded.

Army radio said the suicide driver had explosives strapped to his body and was killed in the attack at a main junction on Gaza's north-south highway, patrolled by Israeli and PLO forces. One report said the motorcycle rammed an Israeli vehicle.

Palestinian police said four Palestinian passers-by in a taxi were wounded along with about eight Israeli soldiers.

The attack was claimed by Islamic Jihad, a militant Islamic group opposed to Israel-PLO peacemaking.

Islamic Jihad leader Sheik Abdullah Shami said the bombing was in retaliation for the Nov. 2 car bomb killing of Hani Abed, an Islamic Jihad leader whose death was blamed on Israel.

"This is one of our first responses in answer to the death of Hani Abed," said an announcer at a rally of about 3,000 people in Gaza City.

Army radio said the military believed Islamic Jihad was behind the attack.

The explosion occurred 200 yards from the Jewish settlement of Netzarim. Israeli troops and PLO police gather at the junction to conduct joint patrols, and leaflets distributed after Abed's death threatened to attack one of those patrols.

"We heard a tremendous boom and (saw) smoke above the junction," said Haim Yifrah, a resident of the settlement who was near the intersection at the time of the attack.

Serbs turn more hawkish trying to reverse the trend of losing

PALE, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bosnian Serbs gave their hawkish leader Radovan Karadzic near dictatorial powers today in the expectation that he can reverse their recent battlefield losses.

Reports from the northwest Bosnian front seemed to bear out Serb determination to strike back hard at Muslim-led government forces and their Croat allies.

Serb military officials said government soldiers were on the run in the Bihac pocket, sandwiched between Bosnian Serb units moving up from the south and rebel Serb forces in neighboring Croatia to the north.

Bosnian radio reported fierce fighting in the region, saying more than 2,000 explosions rocked the town of Bihac.

"They have been pulverizing Bihac and its outskirts," said the late Thursday report. It said Serb shelling of the towns of Cazin, Buzim, Velika Kladusa and Bosanska Krupa had killed and wounded an unspecified number of civilians.

There was no independent confirmation of the Serb claims.

The Bosnian government may soon get a break from the U.N.-imposed arms embargo. The United States announced Thursday that it plans to stop enforcing the ban against the government next week.

The new fighting coincided with the Bosnian Serb assembly's decision to let Karadzic act alone in waging the war, instead of convening the assembly on important decisions.

The assembly also gave Karadzic the power to declare martial law, which would give him unchecked rights, for instance, to sharpen punishment against draft evaders by imprisonment or confiscation of their property.

Karadzic, who fell short of immediately proclaiming martial law, said special military committees will immediately be formed in each district of Serb-held territory to govern along with civilian officials. Serbs hold 70 percent of Bosnia.

The Bosnian Serb leader had pushed for more power in recent weeks as the mostly Muslim government forces, sometimes supported by Bosnian Croat militias, captured hundreds of miles of Serb-held territory.

Karadzic had warned that Bosnian Serbs would destroy government army formations around Bihac.

Jim Campbell poses with his prize-winning acrylic painting, "Dune II," in his office at Big Spring State Hospital. The ribbon he received is visible on the painting's upper right corner. Campbell also received $200 for the painting in the Midland Arts Association and Midland College 17th Annual Juried Art Exhibition Sept. 29.

Those who have occasion to stop by Big Spring State Hospital might want to look more closely at the paintings on the walls next time. Chances are, they'll see one painted by one of BSSH's own employees.

Jim Campbell, the hospital's patients' rights officer, won a $200 merit award Sept. 29 in the Midland Arts Association 17th Annual Juried Art Exhibition. His acrylic painting "Dune II" was one of 11 merit winners.

Not all the paintings submitted were even entered in the show. "Dune II" and another of Campbell's paintings were two of 195 art works chosen from a total of 214 to be exhibited in the show Sept. 24 to Oct. 22.

Campbell has entered shows for a decade and has won several prizes for his work. He enters spring and fall shows and has sent works in to competitions as far away as San Antonio and Dallas.

ble." His prize-winning painting of a sand dune on Mustang Island, near Port Aransas, took him nearly four months to complete.

The many individual strokes used to paint blades of grass took much of the time. "It was tedious but not complicated," he said. He likes working with acrylic paint because mistakes are easy to fix and the paint dries as quickly as water. Some oil paintings can take weeks to dry.

Campbell developed an artistic streak when he was very young. He earned a degree in applied studio art from University of Texas in Austin.

He hasn't competed recently in local shows but appreciates the attention various arts receive in Big Spring. "This is a pretty art-minded town," he said.

It's difficult for an artist to sell paintings anywhere, whether here or in a large city like Dallas. "The market is tough," he explained. "You have to buy groceries before you can paint."

Still, many of his paintings go on to shows for the purpose of being sold. He has donated other paintings to the hospital, where they decorate hallways and offices.

Another contributor of paintings to BSSH walls is Superintendent Robert von Rosenberg. "He's quite an artist," said Campbell.

Campbell is currently sketching ideas for his next paintings. When spring rolls around, those sketches will likely be completed paintings on display at area art shows.

Sales, auctions raise money for churches

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Looking for something to do this weekend? How about attending a rummage sale or silent auction to help raise money for local churches?

First Christian Church, 911 Goliad, is having a rummage sale sponsored by the Christian Women's Fellowship. The sale is from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. If you get hungry while shopping, there will be hot dogs for sale.

The church is in the process of remodeling and the money from the sale will be used to purchase new fold-out chairs, dishes and wall hangings.

The old furniture and other items from the church will be for sale along with some things from church members.

"There will be clothes, ping-pong table, dishes and large items just to name a few. If needed, we can deliver the large items that are sold. We will also have a baked goods table and some crafts left over from last weekend's bazaar.

"The sale will be in the Fellowship Hall. There will be items ranging in price from a dime to $50. Some of the money will also be used for our outreach programs. We just donated some money to the flood victims in Southeast Texas," said Christine Brockman, the church's assistant administrator.

Brockman said they raised $2,100 at last weekend's bazaar and wants to thank everyone who attended.

The Children's Day Out Program at The First United Methodist Church, 400 Scurry, is sponsoring an open house and reception in conjunction with a silent auction this weekend.

Proceeds will go toward the purchase of new playground equipment. Items available for bidding include movie tickets, tools, restaurant gift certificates, cosmetics, handcrafted items, home baked goodies and more.

The children and parents who participate in the program will be honored at the 10:50 a.m. worship service on Nov. 13. Immediately following the service, the congregation is invited to tour the education building.

The silent auction will begin before Sunday school and continue until 1:30 p.m. in the Youth Hall.

For more information, call 267-6394.

The Boy Scouts are conducting a food drive this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Please place canned and nonperishable items in bags and leave on your front porch before 9 a.m. Saturday.

The boys will be picking up the items in different neighborhoods throughout the day. The food collected will be distributed between the Northside Community Center and Salvation Army.

Hospital chaplain ministers in crises

By JEN SANBURY
Killeen Daily Herald

KILLEEN — Something about the way ink flows so smoothly from the nib of old-fashioned-type fountain pens appeals to Kirk Brown. It's a fascination that's hard to explain.

So is his ascent to the chaplaincy at Metroplex Hospital. Unlike the effortless fluidity of his handful of fountain pens, his career path has been a little rough.

Brown, 36, moved to Killeen from Illinois nearly three years ago to become Metroplex's full-time chaplain. Before that, he spent nine years pastoring in Midwestern Seventh-day Adventist churches.

In his first assignment, he worked in four "teeny little dying churches" in separate counties in Kansas. He "rode the circuit" on Saturdays, though he didn't go to all churches each Saturday. If he had, it would have been a 275-mile round trip. After about a year, he said he started to feel burned out, but continued for another year and a half.

"I was young, energetic, all fired up and worked real hard, but didn't think I had much to show for it," Brown said. "In the ministry — at least in the area where I was working — when you're starting out green and that kind of thing, they ... throw you in and see if you can swim."

So he moved back to Lincoln, Neb., where he had attended Union College, and pastored two churches: one in town and another small one out in the country. From there he moved to a church in Illinois, where he stayed only a year and a half before resigning out of frustration.

"In ministry, what I always wanted to do was just to pastor a church," said Brown. "I didn't want to pastor the largest church in the state. Not four churches. Just a church. Finally, there I am ... and it kind of turned out a mess."

Metroplex Hospital Chaplain Kirk Brown of Killeen, shown standing by the open pages of the Bible, once looked through the yellow pages for a direction in life during his own career crisis.

The church had a history of congregational conflict, which Brown said wore him down.

"I was so angry and disillusioned that I just said, 'I need to do something else for a while,'" he recalled. "I resigned, and I didn't have a job. What do you do with a master of divinity if you're not going to be a pastor? So you just sit down with the yellow pages and think, 'What can I do to make a living?'"

In hindsight, the bad experiences and the despair he felt because his career didn't seem to be working out the way he had planned turned out to be the best growing experiences of his life, Brown said.

His resignation was in August 1991 and in September he began working on the clinical pastoral training required to become a chaplain. By November, he was under consideration for the Metroplex position, thanks to a mutual friend he shared with Ernie Sadau, president/CEO of the hospital, whom he didn't know. By January 1992, Brown's occupation — and his outlook — had changed.

"I had it all figured out," he said. "Now I'm going to take it as it comes. That's what frustrates me about life."

"There was that side of me that said, 'This is it. I'm finished. Let's go do something else,'" he continued. "It wasn't that serious ... it was just because of the anger and frustration. How can I turn my back on myself?"

Bernard Galvin, 87, of El Paso, lost the sight in his left eye 40 years ago. He's regained use of that eye after a cataract operation.

Sight returns 40 years after injury

By CHARLIE EDGREN
El Paso Herald-Post

EL PASO — Bernard Galvin was pounding on an ax with his hammer when a metal fragment flew up and pierced his left eye. It was 1954, and Galvin was 47 years old.

"I stand pain pretty well," Galvin said. "And the fear of losing my eye eliminated any pain. I went to the emergency room right away and an ophthalmologist used an electric magnet to remove it. He told me I wouldn't ever see out of that eye again, that I was permanently blind in my left eye."

Galvin accepted the verdict and went on with his life.

"The side that's blind really causes you trouble," Galvin said. "You used to be able to take care of both sides, but now you stumble and bump into things. You can't pour anything into a cup with any degree of your former accuracy. If you're pouring from a coffee pot, next thing you know you're pouring it onto the table. There are a lot of little things like that."

He wore glasses and said he could still drive, but had to be extremely careful because his sense of distance was distorted. Then, about a year ago, he noticed a problem with the vision in his good right eye. He said an ophthalmologist diagnosed a cataract forming, but paid no attention to the blind left eye.

"At the street level I'd been hearing about a doctor who specializes in cataracts," Galvin said. "I decided to go see Dr. Bobby Maddox on my own initiative; no one referred me to him."

"I told him I was blind in my left eye. After many examinations we set up an appointment for surgery."

The bad news: Galvin has macular degeneration in his right eye.

"That's usually caused by a circulatory deficiency in the back of the retina, which receives the light rays," Maddox said. "The fovea is affected, a tiny area responsible for detail vision and color vision. It's real vascular (full of blood vessels) and subject to hardening of the arteries. You still have side vision, but the straight-ahead vision is affected."

The doctor said sometimes anti-oxidant vitamins are prescribed, and it's been proven that if these are taken for a length of time, it can retard the progress of macular degeneration.

The good news: On Oct. 24, Galvin, now 87, went in for surgery on his left eye, where a cataract had formed.

"The surgery was performed and my eye was kept covered," he said. "The next day the covering was taken off and the eye examined. Much to my surprise, I could see. 'Well, old people have to watch out and not make fools of themselves. But I couldn't believe it. I called and thanked them for restoring my sight. Dr. Maddox removed the cataract. He's exceptional.'"

CHURCH IN BRIEF

First Baptist Church

Rev. Elwin H. Collom, pastor, First Baptist Church, Coahoma, was elected to the Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas during the annual meeting of the 2.6 million-member convention in Amarillo, Oct. 31-Nov. 1.

First United Methodist

The Children's Day Out Program at First United Methodist Church is sponsoring an open house/reception in conjunction with a silent auction this weekend. Proceeds from the auction will go toward purchase of new playground equipment. Items available for bidding include movie tickets, tools, restaurant gift certificates, cosmetics, handcrafted items, home cooked goodies and more.

Children and parents who participate in CDO will be honored at the 10:50 service of worship. Immediately following the service the congregation is invited to tour the Educational Building and continue in to Youth Hall.

First Church of the Nazarene

Veterans will be recognized Sunday during the morning worship services of the First Church of the Nazarene in honor of Veterans' Day, Nov. 11. Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine veterans will be asked to stand so the congregation can express thanks and appreciation for their service to this country.

Sunday during the 6 p.m. service, World Wide Pictures' new dramatic film, "Come the Morning," will be shown. World Wide Pictures is the motion picture ministry of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. "Come the Morning" features a cast of well-known actors and actresses.

Centering on 13-year-old Ben Gibson, the film deals with a family in upheaval. Ben's father has abandoned the family without explanation. His mother, Constance, takes the family across the country to Los Angeles, hoping to find him and reunite the family. Soon all their money is spent or stolen and they are homeless. Ben struggles with bitterness at God for allowing his father to leave.

With the help of a kind church member, the family finds shelter in the Salvation Army where a staff member is instrumental in bringing hope back to the desperate family. "Come the Morning" uses the contemporary issue of homelessness as a backdrop for the message of man's need to reconcile himself to God.

The community is invited to join the church in viewing this film. There is no charge, but a free-will offering will be taken.

CLUBS IN BRIEF

DAR

The Capt. Elisha Mack Chapter of DAR recently met at the Big Spring Co. Club for their monthly meeting. Melinda Croker was hostess.

After lunch and a short business meeting, Rev. Flynn Long, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, gave a bagpipe recital along with a history of the bagpipe.

The September DAR meeting was held in the home of regent Carole Lawson. Co-hostess was Sue Ann Damron. Nadine Hodnett read a poem she had written during WWII. This poem was previously printed in the Herald. A video was also shown covering the renovations being done on Constitution Hall, the headquarters of DAR in Washington, DC.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 19 at the Country Club. Prospective members are invited.

Elbow FCE

Elbow Family and Community Education Club met on Nov. 3, at the home of Erma Steward, members answered roll call with "Things I forget to be thankful for."

The program was presented by Lou Vincent on Thanksgiving and Christmas crafts.

Next meeting will be a pot luck luncheon on Nov. 17 at the home of Zula Rhodes.

Lions Club

Four Lions Clubs had a joint meeting Wednesday as part of a new zone policy by Guy Teague, zone chairman.

Represented were the host Downtown Lions Club, the Big Spring Evening Lions, Sand Springs and Coahoma Clubs. Representatives from various clubs discussed various projects and activities, gleaning ideas from each other.

Guest speaker for the day was Lt. Pam Jordan of the Big Spring Police department, and coordinator for the Citizens Policy Advisory Academy. The academy, now in its second 11-week session, is designed to promote understanding between police and the public.

Tall Talkers

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club's weekly meeting was Nov. 8. Table Topics were led by Dene Sheppard. Best Table Topic speaker was Reeves Moren.

Virginia Martin was voted best speaker. Best evaluator was Reeves Moren.

ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — After 15 years of painstaking work, the Gospel of Luke has been published in Gullah — the language spoken by slaves and their descendants for centuries along the Southeast coast.

"De Good Nyews Bout Jedus Christ Wa Luke Write" is the first complete book of the Bible translated into the language that is a mixture of English and West African tongues. Translators hope to complete the entire New Testament in three years.

"What we are trying to do is let people hear the word of God in our own tongue," said the Rev. Ervin Green, the lead translator. "It's our language. It's just wonderful to come to this."

Green, the pastor of Brick Baptist Church, and a team of 13 other Gullah speakers and linguists labored over the translation.

"What we have also tried to do with this is undo 350 to 400 years of indoctrination that the way we speak is bad and wrong," said Green, in whose brick church slaves were once relegated to the balcony while their masters worshiped below.

Gullah survived in its purest form in isolated black communities of former slaves and their descendants on the sea islands which were once home to massive cotton plantations. But for generations after slavery, blacks were told by their teachers to abandon their native tongue.

"It was drilled into us if you want to get ahead, you must get rid of the Gullah," said Green. He said translation should bring a new respect to the language.

His church is nestled in an oak grove on the edge of the Penn Center which was founded after the Civil War to educate freed slaves. The center now works to preserve the heritage of the sea islands. The new Gospel will be dedicated during a celebration at the center on Saturday.

The book, a 138-page paperback published by the American Bible Society, includes the Gullah text next to the familiar King James version of Luke. The society says at least one book of the Bible is now available in 2,062 of the Hawaiian child's game a hit in Texas

By MIA B. MOODY
Waco Tribune-Herald

WACO (AP) — The name of the game is different, the tops are a lot fancier and everybody is racing to get a piece of the action, but POG doesn't fool the Rev. Nathan Stone.

It's the same game he grew up playing in Hawaii — only fancier, said the 54-year-old Lakeshore Baptist Church minister who was his neighborhood's champ.

In his childhood version of the game, kids played "milk tops" with advertising caps from milk bottles.

Players stacked up three or four milk caps wrapped tightly with tape, then one player hit the top of the stack with something called a kini, to see how many he or she could knock over.

"If the player hit it just right, some of the caps would flip over and he could keep them," he said. "The game was popular up until milk companies started using paper cartons instead of glass bottles."

An elementary teacher in Hawaii revived the game by substituting the milk bottle caps with those of a popular pineapple-orange-guava (POG) fruit drink. She showed the game to students and it caught on.

The mass-produced version of the game, which uses slick cardboard disks called POGs, is similar.

Two or more children sit in a circle. Each player bids an equal number of discs, which are stacked face down in the middle of the circle. The first player throws a slammer, a heavier disc usually made of metal or plastic, on the pile, trying to flip over as many POGs as possible.

When players play for "keeps," he or she keeps each POG flipped over. The unflipped POGs are restacked, and the process continues until each disk is flipped. Players compete to own the biggest and best collection.

The game's popularity is due in part to its versatility: It's fun enough to play at a birthday party. Simple enough to include kids of all ages. Intriguing enough to capture the hearts of collectors.

Tito Nieves enjoys the game so much he chose to play it at his birthday party instead of the traditional party games.

"He likes POGs because it is easy to build a collection," said his father, Jeff Richardson. "They are inexpensive and easy to find."

In fact, several companies, like Coca-Cola, make their own POG discs and keep the styles changing. Prices for the popular discs start at 50 cents for a basic POG, while a slammer can sell for up to $7.

Cecil McDowell, president of Hundred Black Men of Waco, plans to use the game as a way to get youths off the streets. The organization will pass out $75 to $100 worth of POGs to children.

"I think POGs will give them a challenge," said McDowell who found out about the game while visiting California this summer. "Many of the children I have talked to in Waco have never heard of the game, but when I show them how to play, they say, 'Hey, I like this and I would like to play it.'"

Stores have stocked up on POGs and they are going fast, according to Wendell Washington, store manager of M.J. Designs. He said in many stores that sell collectibles, the sale of POG discs have surpassed the sale of collector's baseball cards.

"POG has gained lots of success in a small amount of time at our store because it is fun and inexpensive," said Washington.

Cindy Straten, owner of Czech Point Crafts in West, speculates that like any other collectible, POGs will obtain value based on rarity and what's depicted on them.

What is one of the more popular ones so far?

You guessed it: those carrying the likeness of O.J. Simpson.

Catie Munn, left, places a Pog disk on top of a pile as Brittni Slovak watches in Waco. The disks, made out of slick cardboard, can resemble anything from football players to dinosaurs.

Churches divide over music

By TERRY MATTINGLY
Scripps Howard News Service

With its bouncy melody and yearning for a joyful escape to heaven, "I'll Fly Away" is a popular gospel song among believers who came of age in hard times.

"Some glad morning when this life is o'er, I'll fly away," says this hymn from 1932. "To a home on God's celestial shore, I'll fly away.... When I die, Hallelujah, by and by, I'll fly away."

Rubel Shelly just doesn't get

it. "To be honest, I hate that song," said the popular preacher and writer, drawing laughter from an Appalachian crowd that included many older preachers and laity. "I think it has some lousy theology and I don't like the music much, either."

Folks at Woodmont Hills Church of Christ in Nashville, Tenn., where Shelly has preached for 16 years, are aware of his musical bias. Occasionally, his flock will covertly change the order of worship and ambush him with

"I'll Fly Away." "I've learned to just smile and sing along," he said.

Truth is, Shelly knows that this hymn's message speaks to many people and that singing their old favorites helps them feel at home. It's important for other church members to sing along with them, he said.

Churches must honor the past, but they cannot escape change, said Shelly, during the conference in Johnson City, Tenn., which included the use of musical instruments.

"We're not talking, here, about changing the Gospel."

November shows wonder of nature

By CARROLL KOHL
St. Paul Lutheran Church

There is just something about the month of November that I like. I have tried to put my finger on what it is for many years. All I know is that the older I get the more I know I like this month...but the harder it is to figure out just why. It's not any one thing, but many things all rolled together.

Maybe its the break in temperature from the long hot summer.

Maybe its the cool crisp nights with the crickets' serenade.

Maybe its the bright moonlight nights or the glorious ruby red sunrises or golden sunsets as they reflect through the high fluffy clouds this time of year.

November makes me just want to stop what I am doing and take the time to look and listen to nature, and feel good about life.

The birds' songs seem to be more beautiful in November.

The landscape, like the humans who live in this beautiful world, seems to be saying its the time of year to pause and give glory to our creator.

Have you seen the sandhill cranes coming back for the winter. I saw my first flight the other morning very early and I must admit it was like seeing an old friend that I had not seen for a while. There is something majestic about those great birds as you look out in the morning or evening and see the horizon dotted with them almost everywhere you look. Their graceful and seemingly effortless movement makes me envious of their ability to fly.

The grass is still green, but I don't have to mow it as often now.

The fall flowers are blooming, especially the chrysanthemum.

If you live in an area, or get to travel in an area where there is fall foliage, you can't help but be amazed at how many beautiful colors God has hidden all summer long under those green leaves which now are turning and filling the landscape with every hue of color from gold to brown to red and rose and crimson and a hundred shades in between.

November is my kind of month.

I wish it would stay November all year.

The rest of God's calendar is OK, but November is an extra special evidence of God's majesty and love and genius.

I'm glad Thanksgiving is in November. It just wouldn't seem right to me if it were in any other month of the year. But don't wait until the 24th to give thanks. Take a minute or two, or longer, each day to just pause, reflect, observe and breathe in God's wonderful love in all He has made and shared with us.

Now thank we all our God,
With heart and hands and voices,
Who wondrous things had done,

In whom his world rejoices,
Who from our mother's arms,
Has blessed us on our way
With countless gifts of love,
And still is ours today.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

DID JESUS REALLY CURSE THE FIG TREE?

IT IS RECORDED THAT JESUS, ON HIS WAY FROM BETHANY TO JERUSALEM, AND BEING HUNGRY, STOPPED TO PICK FRUIT FROM A FIG TREE (MARK 11:12-14). BUT, ALTHOUGH THE TREE WAS IN LEAF, THERE WERE NO FIGS AND JESUS SAID, HEREAFTER, NO MAN WOULD EVER EAT FRUIT FROM THAT TREE! SOME AUTHORITIES SAY JESUS, FOLLOWING THE ORIENTAL CUSTOM OF HOLY MEN, PUT A CURSE ON THE TREE, FROM DISAPPOINTMENT AT NOT FINDING FRUIT. OTHER AUTHORITIES STATE THAT, BECAUSE THE TREE WAS IN LEAF AND THEREFORE SHOULD HAVE HAD FIGS, JESUS WAS POINTING OUT THAT, WHEN ONE OUTWARDLY SHOWS A GOOD CHARACTER WITHOUT THE FRUITS THEREOF, HE IS A HYPOCRITE, OF NO VALUE TO THE KINGDOM OF GOD, BUT....

...STILL FURTHER AUTHORITIES MAINTAIN THAT, FOR JESUS TO CONDEMN A TREE, FOR NOT GIVING FRUIT, DOES NOT SEEM COMPATIBLE WITH HIS GENTLE LOVING NATURE AND, SINCE JESUS WAS AT JERUSALEM FOR THE PASSOVER, THIS PLACES THE TIME OF YEAR AT EARLY APRIL WHEN THE FIG TREE HAS JUST BEGUN TO LEAF AND GROW FIGS, WHICH THEN MATURE IN LATE JUNE... THUS, ALL JESUS MERELY DID, WAS REMARK THAT, BECAUSE THE TREE HAD ALREADY BEGUN GROWING LEAVES, BUT NO FRUIT, IT WAS BARREN, AND NOT ONE WOULD HARVEST FIGS FROM IT WHEN THE FRUIT SEASON ARRIVED!

EACH OF THESE THEORIES SEEM TO HAVE VALID POINTS, SO IT REMAINS FOR THE STUDENT TO MAKE HIS OWN CHOICE — WHICH DO YOU THINK?

HOROSCOPE

FOR SATURDAY,
NOV. 12, 1994

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You gain insight through talking to a parent or higher-up. You see life in a new way because of recent events. Communications with a partner enrich you; use them to build on partnership. Share your loving side. Get feedback. Tonight: Intimate dinner with a loved one. ***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Focus on success, creativity, good news. You are finally able to get past a barrier and get to the bottom of a problem. Touch base with another to determine what you really want. A direct or romantic approach works best. Tonight: Party with friends. *****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You have a strong sense of responsibility in a partnership. Because of your attitude, you impress the boss. Reach out to another and have an important discussion. Finishing up a project makes you feel good. Tonight Out and about. ****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Let your ideas flow. Reevaluate your attitude. A positive approach allows you to see life and open up. A creative option comes from out of the blue. Embrace the unexpected and discover excitement. You enjoy your choices in a situation. Tonight: Take a drive. ****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Go with the unexpected. One-to-one relating is highlighted. A partner makes a big difference in how you feel; let this person's care warm you. Be open to intimacy and talks about partnership (this could also involve business). Tonight: Be with the one you adore. *****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Let ideas flow. Get ahead and be sure of what you seek. Opportunities for advancement come naturally. As you visualize life on a deeper level, you will open up. Change seems inevitable as you overcome a hurdle. Tonight: Talk up a storm. *****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You feel nurturing in your dealings with another. Listen carefully to what's being offered and decide which way you want to go. You encounter opportunities to get ahead. Family, real estate and security all play major roles in your day. Tonight: Be a couch potato. ***

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You see solutions and your creativity peaks. Be sincere in dealing with another. Opening up to change lets you to have more and feel complete. Communications are significant. Amorous encounters are favored. Tonight: Pretend it is Valentine's day. *****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take a good look at a family situation; you might think you have the answers, but you do not. Opportunities come from out of the blue. Your decisions are instinctive concerning money. You are on target. Tonight: Entertain at home. Your pad is your castle. ****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The unexpected occurs. Good news causes celebration. Study your options and be ready to move to the next step. Opportunities are exciting and help you view life more creatively and openly. Get past limitations. Tonight: Show flexibility. *****

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your intuition is right on. You are feeling good and are intuitive dealing with money and image. News about work or a partner is very exciting. Prepare to celebrate and know you are a winner. Make a call and visit an older relative today. Tonight: Your treat. ****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have reason for celebration. Your happier side emerges, and you feel good. Be aware of what others are asking of you. Socializing is your strong suit. Be playful, loving and caring. A foreigner or stranger brings good news. Tonight: Just be yourself. *****

IF NOV. 12 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: This is an unusual year in which your creativity surges, especially in your communication skills. You are on a high cycle through the holidays, after which you discover ways to earn money. Your ingenuity runs strong. If you are single: This looks like a romantic, wonderful year; make the most of your surroundings. If attached: You also enjoy the special quality of this year's romance; communications flourish and you feel good. PISCES adds to your creativity.

THE ASTERISKS (*) SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

Born-again student unnerves coach

DEAR ABBY: I have read and enjoyed your column for years, but have never seen my problem addressed. I am a tennis coach (male), in my mid-30s, and live in Florida.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

I coach a woman I'll call Susan. She is intelligent and very sensitive. She and her husband are in their early 50s and quite well-to-do. I have worked with them twice a week for nearly eight years.

Four years ago, Susan was "born again." From being not particularly religious, she has gone to attending church every Sunday, Bible study three times a week, and holds prayer groups in her home several times a month. If the church needs money for anything, the people there ring up Susan — who immediately responds with a generous check. Her husband has stopped tearing his hair out and has resigned himself.

About six months ago, Susan began inviting me to church and telling me it was time I settled down and had a family, and church is a great place to meet single women. I am not interested in her suggestion, and I'm running out of excuses. I don't want to risk losing my best client.

Abby, how can I get her off my back without hurting her feelings? — TRAPPED IN RIGHT COURT

DEAR TRAPPED: Your well-intentioned client is probably unaware that her persistence is making you uncomfortable. Try this approach: "Susan, I really appreciate your concern, but I must come to this in my own time and in my own way." If she persists, repeat it. The ball's in your court! Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently passed away after a long illness, and many friends and relatives were very supportive during that time. His funeral was attended by such a large number of people, there weren't enough seats in the chapel to seat everyone.

"George" — one of my sons — was a pallbearer. A neighbor who attended the funeral had the nerve to ask me a few days later, "Has George cried yet?" What a terrible question! Even though George didn't cry at the funeral, I know his heart was heavy.

It's too bad we all can't cry when people expect us to. Besides, God gives us extra strength when we need it.

Abby, please put this in your column. Some folks are better at controlling their emotions than others. — STILL GRIEVING

DEAR STILL: Shame on that insensitive neighbor. Tears are healing, and some people prefer to shed their tears in private.

DEAR ABBY: To the fellow who complained that his wife said she'd had enough sex to last her a lifetime:

We have been married for nearly 40 years, and my husband read a recent survey that stated "middle-aged couples have sex on the average of once a week."

He says we have to have sex once a day to offset the slack caused by that couple — it's sort of our civic duty, in order to maintain that average. Sign this ... SOMEBODY HAS TO DO IT, ANGORA, MINN.

To receive a collection of Abby's most memorable — and most frequently requested — poems and essays, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's "Keepers," P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

How do you write a Classified Ad that gets Results?

- Be Thorough
Sure you want your ad to stand out from the rest, but don't skimp on the sort of information that sells. The item's condition, size, age, brand name, and color are some of the basics readers want to know. Without them, your ad may be passed by.
- Steer Clear of Abbreviations
Ok, so you want to include all the important basics, now don't confuse your reader by using strange abbreviations. What is perfectly clear to you might be unrecognizable to someone else!
- Be Honest
Exaggerating your item's finer points may bring in a lot of responses, but a buyer who's misled won't appreciate it—and will take his business somewhere else.
- Be Accessible
Including a telephone number or address puts you in touch with potential buyers. Be sure to state the hours you can be reached: a caller who can't get through the first time often won't call again.
Don't hesitate to call us with any questions or problems you may have. Our professionally trained sales staff know the ropes, and would be happy to pass their knowledge on to you. That's why we're here: to help you get the results you deserve.

This date in history

Today is Friday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of 1994. There are 50 days left in the year. This is Veterans Day in the U.S., and Remembrance Day in Canada.

Today's highlight in history: On Nov. 11, 1918, fighting in World War I came to an end with the signing of an armistice between the Allies and Germany.

On this date: In 1620, 41 Pilgrims aboard the Mayflower, anchored off Massachusetts, signed a compact calling for a "body politick" to enact "just and equal laws."

In 1831, former slave Nat Turner, who had led a violent insurrection, was executed in Jerusalem, Va.

In 1889, Washington became the 42nd state.

In 1921, President Harding dedicated the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

In 1939, Kate Smith first sang Irving Berlin's "God Bless America" on network radio.

In 1942, during World War II, Germany completed its occupation of France.

In 1965, Rhodesia proclaimed its independence from Britain.

In 1966, Gemini 12 blasted off from Cape Kennedy, Fla., with astronauts James A. Lovell and Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin Jr. aboard.

In 1972, the U.S. Army turned over its base at Long Binh to the South Vietnamese army, symbolizing the end of direct U.S. military involvement in the Vietnam War.

In 1983, President Reagan became the first U.S. chief executive to address the Diet, Japan's national legislature.

In 1987, following the failure of two Supreme Court nominations, President Reagan announced his choice of Judge Anthony M. Kennedy, who went on to win confirmation.

Ten years ago: The Reverend Martin Luther King Sr. — father of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. — died in Atlanta at age 84.

Five years ago: In a telephone conversation with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, East German leader Egon Krenz ruled out any possibility of East-West German re-unification.

Today's birthdays: Former State Department official Alger Hiss is 90. Former Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is 79.
