Sexual assaults under investigation

By KELLIE JONES

Staff Writer

The Big Spring Police Department is investigating reports of an aggravated sexual assault of a child and a sexual assault at the state hospital.

Officers received the first report Tuesday morning from a 13-year-old Hispanic female who stated she was sexually assaulted in the northern part of town.

"This report was delayed coming in to us by a couple of days because she was so scared. This is being pursued as an aggravated sexual assault because the actor threatened the victim with a handgun.

"The suspect is known by the victim and is a 20-year-old Hispanic male. The case is being assigned to detectives and is under investigation," said Lt. Scott Griffin.

Around 6 p.m., officers responded to the Big Spring State Hospital in reference to a sexual assault. Griffin says a 30year-old white female alleged she had been raped by another patient earlier in the afternoon.

Griffin added, "this case is also being assigned to detectives and the identity of the offender is known."

Susan Smith confesses she knew the 'truth would prevail'

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Even as she gave tearful television interviews pleading for the return of her two sons, Susan Smith knew her tale of a carjacker driving off with the boys eventually would unravel. "I knew from day one, the truth would prevail, but I was so scared I didn't know what to do. It was very tough emotionally to sit and watch my family hurt like they did," she wrote in her police confession.

The Nov. 3 confession led authorities to her car submerged in John D. Long Lake, with 3-year-old Michael and 14month-old Alex still strapped in their safety seats.

"It was time to bring a peace of mind to everyone, including myself," she wrote, according to transcripts of the confession released by a judge Tuesday.

When she finally told the sheriff the truth, it "felt like the world was lifted off my shoulders." Mrs. Smith wrote that she was suicidal and distraught over unrequited love when she let her car roll into the lake. She wrote that she didn't want her sons growing up without a mother.

"My children, Michael and Alex, are with our Heavenly Father now, and I know that they will never be hurt again. As a mom, that means more than words could ever say," she wrote.

For nine days after the children's Oct. 25 disappearance, Mrs. Smith and her estranged Christmas and the Cowboys have a record-breaking season." This year, for the first time,

The Spirit of Christmas will expand its program statewide to include all markets where Bank One operates.

The program will be in 191 participating Bank One cities across Texas, and new to the program include Abilene, Brenham, Corsicana, Denton, Sherman, Denison, Greenville, Marshall, Odessa, San Antonio, Port Arthur, Beaumont and Orange. With the addition of these markets, The Spirit of Christmas anticipates collecting and distributing more than 75,000 gifts to approximately 25,000 children in 1994.

This year's program began Nov. 15 and will run through Dec. 15. The Spirit of Christmas works in conjunction with the CPS agency of the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services to distribute the gifts to children who otherwise would not have a Christmas.

According to Bank One, anyone can participate in the program by stopping by any Bank One office and selecting a card listing a child's specific holiday wish. Gifts will be purchased, wrapped and then returned to the bank where employees and volunteers will see that they are delivered before Christmas.

In 1993, more than 72,000 gifts were given to approximately 22,000 children.

Anyone wanting to participate in the Spirit of Christmas program should contact statewide coordinator Debra Benton at (214)290-7845 or Midland coordinator June Carpenter at (915)688-6332.

Lady Bird talks about assassination

AUSTIN (AP) - Lady Bird Johnson says conspiracy theorists are incorrect about President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Mrs. Johnson told Texas Monthly magazine in its December editions that she believes the Warren Commission report, which concluded Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone gunman in Kennedy's Dallas assassination.

However, she said her late husband, President Lyndon B. Johnson, was thinking conspiracy just hours after Kennedy's

"The reason he wanted to get on that plane in Dallas and get airborne as soon as possible and get sworn in as president had to do with his fears about a conspiracy, but he certainly wasn't going to get the plane in the air until the president's body and Mrs. Kennedy were aboard," she said.

Kennedy, the 35th president, was murdered in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, and authorities accused Oswald of firing a high-powered rifle from the Texas Book Depository.

Santa Fe says bid too low

CHICAGO (AP) — Santa Fe Pacific Corp. is telling shareholders not to tender their stock to unwanted suitor Union Pacif-• ic Corp. because its $3.3 billion bid is too low.

But Union Pacific says its $17.50-per-share offer is better for Santa Fe shareholders than Burlington Northern Inc.'s competing bid of $3 million.

"They say their goal has been to achieve the best results for their shareholders. Our deal would do that," Union Pacific spokesman Gary Schuster said Tuesday.

Burlington's bid, which Santa Fe has tentatively accepted, was worth about $16.07 a share, at Tuesday's stock price.

Santa Fe, based in the Chicago suburb of Schaumburg, told its shareholders in a letter Tuesday they should hold out for a higher bid from Union Pacific, citing a statement Union Pacific made in October that it might pay as much as $20 a share if it is allowed to examine Santa Fe's financial records.

Store manager wanted in robbery hoax

HOUSTON (AP) - Authorities are seeking a convenience store manager who's been charged with stealing $10,000 that he had claimed was taken by two black men.

Mounir K. Soliman, 39, of Cypress has been charged with theft and making a false police report, said Brookshire Police Chief Joe Garcia.

Garcia said the case irked him for two reasons.

"This is another of those 'blame-the-black-man' deals, and that makes me mad as hell," Garcia said, referring to the South Carolina case where a mother blamed her two sons' disappearance on a nonexistent black man, then later admitted to killing the boys.

Second, the suspect had promised to surrender Monday after he failed a polygraph, Gar-

"We're looking for him," the chief said late Tuesday.

Soliman left the store on Nov. 12 with a bank bag containing about $10,000, Garcia said. He called police about 30 minutes later saying he had been robbed at gunpoint by two black men. He provided details for a composite sketch of one of them.

"We became suspicious because of inconsistencies in his story," Garcia said.

Legislative priorities set; spending limit already approved seem to agree on the top funding priorities of the upcoming legislative session.

Gov.-elect George W. Bush, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney are all putting education at the top of their lists for the 1995 Legislature, which convenes in January.

Discussion of the state budget followed approval by the Legislative Budget Board on Tuesday of a proposal that will limit government spending over the next two-year budget period as required by the Texas Constitu-

"As he said during the campaign, Gov.-elect Bush will make public education his top priority." said Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes. "Education and criminal justice are at the top of his list and other state agencies can fight for the rest."

Bullock and Laney said basic services such as education, prisons, health care and highways are their top priorities.

"I feel that mainstream Texas and mainstream U.S.A. is a lot more interested in seeing the Legislature fund basic services education, our prison system, mental health and retardation and our highways — than it is seeing the Legislature create a lot of other new programs at the expense of the basic services," Bullock said.

"I have looked closely at some of the bills being pre-filed and Bullock said.

AUSTIN (AP) — State leaders apparently some House members and some senators don't agree with me on that because I do see that quite a few new programs are being suggested in bill form."

The spending limit approved by the Legislative Budget Board prohibits legislators from spending tax-generated revenues in excess of the state's growth rate for personal income.

"We rank 50th in the country in per capita spending. The spending cap adopted today will help ensure that we continue to wisely manage tax dollars sent to us," Bullock said.

Comptroller John Sharp has estimated that personal income in Texas will grow 13.98 percent during the 1996-97 budget cycle. Based on that estimate, the

Running not a problem solver

hy did Billy Best run away?
Billy is suffering from Hodgkin's disease and has been undergoing painful chemotherapy treatments. He fled from his home, staying away for nearly a month, because he thought the chemotherapy treatments were killing him instead of helping him.

It cannot be easy to suffer through cancer or any degenerative disease, especially one where the cure seems almost worse than the disease itself.

And, sometimes the most caring and understanding people don't understand the fears of the patients undergoing these treatments.

While most cancer treatment places offer counseling, it just doesn't hurt to let the patient express his fears and concerns. Whether anything is resolved, the patient has expressed his

But, there is a deeper concern with Billy - running away. Granted, he is only 16 years old but he is and has already faced the greatest fear most of us will face - dying.

In all probability, Billy ran away because he thought no one was listening to him, and he achieved one thing with his flight: stopping the chemotherapy treatments.

But, his flight didn't solve anything. Sooner or later, in order for him to live, the treatments have to start again.

That is the way it is with any problem. Running from it doesn't make it go away. Problems still have to be faced, and hiding from them only makes them bigger.

It takes courage and strength to face problems. Billy showed this by sticking with his treatments as long as he did and by returning from his self-imposed church supposedly ignored her own sister's poverty.

And after all, courage and strength aren't based on fearlessness, but rather on facing what frightens you and yet continuing to do what needs to be done.

But even the unfriendliest accounts say the Georgia town she lived for much of a decade (1957-66) was a tonic for Susan. The woman born Edythe Marrenner in a Brooklyn tenement, loved the pace and peace of the South. And she loved Eaton Chalkley.

When he died in 1966, a grieving Susan sold their ranch. Her body was returned here in 1975, and buried next to Eaton. (She died of a brain tumor.)

"She was a stunning beautiful lady," Hiram Bray says. Bray worked for the local radio station and later the Times-Free Press. He once asked the great Susan Hayward to make a radio spot promoting careful driving. She obliged-though carpenters and painters swarmed her new ranch houseand ushered Bray and friend Bob Green into a bathroom. the bank. And they left her alone. Protected her.

After her death, there was a flurry of international interest. The newspaper in 1980 received a letter from Ivy Kirk of England, a senior citizen who had been saving five years to pay tribute to Hayward. She had haunted England's "jumble" sales, buying old furniture to refinish and sell. The town found Mrs. Kirk a free place to stay, took her to all the regional sights, treated her like British royalty. Her four-day visit stretched to three weeks.

It's no surprise that somebody eventually got the idea to establish a Susan Hayward museum to give visitors something to see other than a small marker at a gravesite. But a Carrollton committee was stopped in its tracks last year when Hayward's twin sons objected, citing their mother's love of privacy.

"I think they thought we wanted to make money out of it," Bray says, shaking his head. "We loved her, and she loved this town. I believe with all my heart if she knew about our plans, she would approve of the idea."

The town wants to consolidate precious memories about its movie goddess, to give them an address. What possible harm could there be in that?

OPEC holds on production aiming for higher prices

BALI, Indonesia (AP) — By deciding not to raise oil production for another year, OPEC is seeking higher prices rather than a greater share of the world market, a key minister said today.

The 12-month rollover of the 24.5 million barrel-a-day ceiling was a sign that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries was beginning to think in strategic terms, said Erwin Arrieta, Venezuela's minister of energy and mines. He said OPEC had suffered from taking a short-term outlook in the past. Some of the group's 12 members had wanted to boost production next year with the hope of earning more.

The cartel had been expected to keep its current output ceiling of 24.5 million barrels a day. But most officials talked in terms of a three- or six-month extension until Saudi Arabia, the OPEC heavyweight, opted for a full year.

Saudi Oil Minister Hisham Nazer said the move would bring about higher prices in late 1995.

Still, Arrieta said OPEC could review the rollover agreement at its next meeting at Vienna in June if conditions warrant. Kuwait's oil minister, Abdul Mohsen al-Madaj, a'so said a June review was needed. However, the OPEC Secretariat said the next meeting was to be administrative and not an interim review of output policy.

Emirates and Venezuela.

Their meeting ended Tuesday, a day early, after former Nigerian Oil Minister Rilwanu Lukman was elected as secretary general. Lukman's three-year term begins Jan. 1.

Iraq kept a low profile in Bali. Its oil minister, Safa Hadi Jawad, said on arriving that his country expected to resume oil exports next year, but he did not elaborate.

Iraq, once one of the world's top producers, has been barred by U.N. sanctions from selling oil since its August 1990 invasion of Kuwait, a fellow OPEC member.

As soon as Iraqi crude was shut off, Saudi Arabia, Iran and others quickly increased output to offset the loss. Once Iraq is back, the big suppliers will face the unpopular move of cutting back their oil production.

Baghdad recently recognized Kuwait, a move the U.N. Security Council said was a significant step toward meeting conditions that would allow a resumption of oil sales.

U.S. takes control of uranium cache

ERALD

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States is taking control of a huge cache of enriched uranium — reportedly enough for 50 nuclear bombs — discovered at a poorly protected site in Kazakhstan, a Clinton administration official says.

The former Soviet republic, after months of secret talks, is said to have agreed to turn over the weapons-grade uranium for storage in the United States.

Defense Secretary William Perry and Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary were announcing details of the agreement at the Pentagon today.

One official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said the uranium had posed a "potentially severe danger" in the effort to curb the proliferaby selling tion of nuclear material and keep it out of the hands of radical states such as Iran and Iraq.

Remark raises questions about Helms' leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lashing back at a combative Sen. Jesse Helms, President Clinton suggests the veteran Republican is unfit to lead the Senate Foreign Relations Committee after saying Clinton would need a bodyguard for his safety if he ever visited North Carolina.

Clinton tersely denounced Helms' remarks Tuesday as "unwise and inappropriate" and said Republicans would have to decide whether to put their "trust and confidence" in the North Carolina Republican.

White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta was more blunt. He said Republicans should take "a very hard look" at whether they want the Foreign

"somebody with these kind of extreme views.'

Without apologizing, Helms said his remarks were a mistake. Last week Helms caused a stir by saying Clinton wasn't fit to be commander in chief.

While attacking Helms' remarks, the White House hoped they would feed fears that the incoming Republican Congress will be governed by leaders with radical views who will try to lead the country too far to the right.

Still grappling with how to deal with the Republican landslide, Clinton began laying down markers on key GOP proposals and setting out areas

Relations Committee chaired by where the two sides might find agreement.

> At a news conference, Clinton said he opposed a constitutional amendment to allow voluntary prayer in public schools; last week he said he'd consider such an idea. "I do not believe that we should have a constitutional amendment to carve out and legalize teacher-or student-led prayer in the classroom," Clinton said.

He also rejected incoming Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole's offer to support a world trade agreement if Clinton would back a cut in capital gains taxes.

Trying to shape the GOP agenda, Clinton suggested the administration would be happy to work with Congress on shrinking government, enacting campaign and lobbying reforms, the line-item veto and relieving states from carrying out orders from Washington.

Clinton said he would resist any efforts to repeal the family leave law, a ban on assault-style weapons and the Brady restrictions on handgun purchases.

The flap over Helms' remarks reverberated through Congress and the White House.

Sen. Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., who hopes to become the next Senate Democratic leader, said on ABC-TV, "I think his ability to lead the Foreign Relations Committee is very much in doubt as a result of the comments, not only tonight, but throughout his tenure.'

The New York Times, in an editorial in today's editions, said Helms "lacks the dignity and balance" to chair the committee. "What Senator Bob Dole has on his hands is a mean-spirited, loose-lipped legislator who has moved from being an embarrassment to the GOP to being a global liability for the nation," the Times said.

The Secret Service, charged with protecting the president, said it was looking into Helms' statement, made in an interview with The News & Observer of Raleigh, N.C.

Reform ideas could put more people on the street

WASHINGTON (AP) - Advocates for the poor say many families could go hungry or become homeless under a welfare reform plan backed by Republicans taking control of the House next year.

Under the GOP's welfare overhaul, part of its "Contract With America," low-income Americans would no longer be automatically eligible for federal welfare benefits, such as food stamps or cash assistance.

The GOP's plan would also cap federal welfare spending, and combine 10 federal nutrition programs, including food stamps and school lunches, into a single block grant that would be distributed to the states in a lump sum.

More than 27 million Americans receive food stamps to help them buy groceries, and 14 million needy people are on the rolls of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, including 9 million children.

Both programs, along with Supplemental Security Income for the elderly and disabled, would lose their status as "entitlements" under the GOP bill.

Police and the FBI had only a scant explanation for what happened in the middle of Tuesday afternoon in the crowded police headquarters. Police Chief Fred Thomas described it as a "hectic and chaotic situation.'

In a city already known as the U.S. "crime capital" because of its many homicides, it was an event that could only add to that reputation. The four deaths brought to 369 the total number of homicides in the District this year, compared with 467 for all of 1993.

Following Tuesday's shootings, the head of the police union complained about headquarters security.

"They've got no metal detectors down here, no security," said J.C. Stamps, president of the Fraternal Order of Police. "We need more protection just like anyone else, and they should see that now."

The police headquarters shares space in a large building with other city agencies such as the motor vehicle bureau. The mayor's office is in a building across the street.

The dead policeman, Sgt. Henry Joseph Daly, had been on the police force for 28 years. Daly, 51, was married with grown children.

The others were a man and woman with 8 and 7 years experience with the FBI. All were members of the "cold case squad," a two-year-old joint FBIpolice task force that reviews unsolved murders three months or older.

"We believe the gunman was suspect" of the squad, said Tony Daniels, head of the FBI's Washington field office.

Hawks suffer first defeat

JACKSONVILLE - In the second half, the Jacksonville converted three straight Howard turnovers into points, and that led them to a 91-85 win over the Howard Hawks Tuesday.

The loss was the first for Howard, which fell to 7-1.

Kavossy Franklin led the Hawks with 23 points, while Lawrence Burleson added 15. Greg Jones had 25 points to lead all scorers for Jacksonville.

The Hawks are home Friday and Saturday for their Thanksgiving Classic. They open at 8 p.m. Friday against Ranger, and play Lon Morris Saturday at 8 p.m.

LUBBOCK (AP) Washington's Rhonda Smith, one foul away from ejection, never lost her cool.

Smith pumped in 10 of the Huskies' final 12 points in their 79-75 upset Tuesday of sixthranked Texas Tech. She finished with 38 points and 11 rebounds.

"Rhonda, just be smart. Play your game," Smith said she thought to herself as the Lady Raiders took a 71-69 lead. "Last year I would have fouled out because of frustration.

No. 13 Washington (4-0) used close man-to-man coverage to shut off Tech's outside shooting game and win the championship of the Preseason NIT. The Lady Raiders (3-1) hurt themselves by poor free-throw shooting, 19-of-36.

The Huskies, who hadn't beaten Tech in three previous attempts, snapped the home team's 24-game Lubbock winning streak.

Smith was voted the tournament's most valuable player.

"I don't think it's revenge," the 6-3 senior center said, referring to Washington's 1993 loss in Lubbock during Tech's run to the NCAA championship. "I think it's more or less don't let it happen twice."

The Huskies jumped to an 11-2 advantage and led until Tabitha Truesdale's basket gave Tech a 69-67 lead with 5:05 remaining. Truesdale finished with 20 points.

But Smith's basket put Washington on top to stay at 73-71 with 3 minutes to go.

"This is not really a tournament as much as it is an endurance contest," said Washington coach Chris Gobrecht, whose team got to the finals by beating Northwestern, Seton Hall and Southwest Missouri State. "You saw two tired teams, and they exposed their weaknesses all night

Last season, the Big Spring Lady Steers lost their fifth game of the season at Lamesa.

What a difference a year makes.

That 1993 loss at Lamesa dropped the Lady Steers to 1-4, but it brought about an aboutface that carried Big Spring to another 20-win season and another district title. Thanks to a 64-43 win over Lamesa Tuesday night at Steer Gym, the Lady Steers are 3-2, and the urgent need for a turnaround doesn't exist.

"That's what started it for us last year. We went up there and got embarrassed," said Big Spring coach Ron Taylor. "The kids, they remember that, and they were pumped up tonight."

Lamesa (1-2) kept the game respectable, considering Big Spring led 28-5 midway through the second quarter. The Big Spring starting five of Sarah Bristow, Kerry Gregg, Robin Wise, Kristi Birrell and Robbi Hall poured it on early, and the FORSAN - Two teams went with a youth movement Tuesday at Forsan Gym. The only difference was that the Forsan Queens didn't do it on purpose.

Despite facing a huge disparity in almost every statistical category, the Queens held off the Grady Lady Wildcats for the better part of four quarters. The trouble for Forsan, however, was that the game went into overtime, where Grady finally subdued the Queens 51-49 in nondistrict basketball action Tuesday.

Deborah Light led all scorers

19 with

D. LIGHT points for Forsan (2-1). The Lady Wildcats, who improved to 3-2 with the win, were paced by Tarah Scheulke, who had

17 points, and Allison Cooper and Angela Tubb, who had 16 and 14 points, respectively. The Queens led through most of the game but were forced to do without senior starters Laurie Light and Tisha Hillger, who sat on the bench with foul trouble for most of the game and eventually fouled out. In their place, Forsan was forced to go with freshmen Marlena Light and Amanda Burton.

The Queens led 37-35 heading into the final eight minutes, but Grady tied the game almost immediately on a jumper by Scheulke, who gave the Lady 'Cats the lead on their next trip down the floor with another jumper. Deborah Light hit one of two free throws to make the score 39-38, and that's where the score stayed for the better part of three minutes. The two teams then traded the lead until Tubb scored on a putback with 31 seconds left in regulation, sending the game into overtime tied at 45.

Grady then won the game by being slightly better on the free throw line than the Queens. The Lady Wildcats converted four of six charity shots in overtime, while Forsan made only two of six

It wasn't free-throw shooting that concerned Forsan coach Johnny Schafer afterward - it was Grady's huge advantage in rebounding (50-23) and the lack of experience on the court for the Queens.

"When you've got two seniors sitting on the bench, it's hard to do the things you want to do," Schafer said. "(Grady's rally) had something to do with us not having experience on the floor - but I don't want to take anything away from our freshmen. They played a great game, and they shouldn't have had to be on the floor in that situation."

Grady coach Johnny Peugh also has a lineup peppered with underclassmen.

"Our kids are young and probably don't know how to take advantage of that (height) advantage," Peugh said. "And Forsan has a good basketball team. We tried to attack them, and they shut a lot of things

Sports Writer putting Texas A&M on probation will make this a Thanksgiving to forget, at least where college football is concerned. In this neck of the woods, you know it's Thanksgiving when Texas plays Texas A&M.

Growing up rooting for Texas Tech never left me with any great love for UT or the Aggies, but even I bow to the obvious: Every time the Longhorns played A&M, you knew something special was going on.

But look at the TV channel guide today and you'll see a strange thing: Texas is playing Thanksgiving, but A&M is nowhere to be found.

You see, the Aggies are in the NCAA pokey for crimes against humanity, the free world and other right-thinking folks throughout the galaxy. Being on probation means they can't appear on TV.

The schedule makers in the Southwest Conference apparently took note of that fact and decided that, since the traditional UT-A&M matchup couldn't be shown on Thanksgiving, they'd give the masses an alternative.

Some alternative.

For your viewing pleasure, the SWC is pleased to bring you, live on Thanksgiving ... Texas vs. Baylor.

BAYLOR?!?!?!?!?!?! Nothing against what is undoubtedly a great center of higher learning, but the thought of Baylor being A&M's stand-in Thursday leaves me sort of ... well, sort of ... you look is in.

Baylor? Baylor's supposed to take Texas A&M's place in the Great Turkey Day Rivalry? Geez, that's like Dallas skipping out of their annual Thanksgiving Day game and letting Tampa Bay host the thing instead. You know what I mean?

OK, I can see the conference's desire to rake in as much TV money as it can, but why put us through this? Why not just have Texas play the Aggies, anyway, and let the tube money be damned? Let tradition rule, darn it all.

Could you imagine the sight? Thousands of Aggie or Longhorn lovers (or haters, for that matter) huddled around the radio Thursday? Why, it's a scene right out of Norman Rockwell.

The Cowboys are looking for another unlikely hero this Thanksgiving against the Green Bay Packers.

Jason Garrett, a third-stringer who played college football at Princeton, will start at quarter-

"I've got a chance to make a name for myself," Garrett said. His teammates think he'll be OK.

"He'll do a fantastic job," quarterback Troy Aikman said. "We're not worried about Jason. He's got good stuff."

"He did a great job against the New York Giants and Phoenix when he had to play last year," fullback Daryl Johnston said. "We feel very confident he can get the job done if everyone else performs. We don't foresee any problems with Jason in there.'

Garrett starts against the Packers because Aikman sprained his knee and backup Rodney Peete strained his right thumb ligament in Sunday's 31-7 victory over Washington.

Garrett has played for five years in three professional football leagues. He spent the 1992 season on the Dallas practice squad, and moved onto the active roster in 1993, replacing Steve Beuerlein.

He won a game against the Giants last year after Aikman left with a pulled hamstring, taking the Cowboys on two touchdown drives. The following week Garrett started in a 20-15 victory over Phoenix.

"It was a good experience for me last year," he said. "I think I learned a lot. What's important is I'll be practicing with the first team this week. That really helps. I'm confident. I know my limitations and strengths.

"We'll probably scale the offense down a little bit. My strengths are I know the offense and I think I can throw the short stuff with good accuracy."

ARLINGTON (AP) - Jose Canseco, who bounced back from career-threatening elbow surgery to finish fourth in the American League with 31 home runs, has been named the Texas Rangers' player of the year.

Canseco was chosen by the Dallas-Fort Worth chapter of Baseball Association of America, the team announced Tuesday.

Canseco hit .282 in 111 games and was seventh in the AL with 90 RBIs. He led designated hitters in homers and RBIs.

Canseco beat out first baseman Will Clark and Juan

This would be the perfect time to point out some food safety tips for preparing meals such as how to prevent cross-contamination and food-borne illness. Although that information is of great importance, I think I will save it for another time.

It seems that as the holiday season begins, we sometimes lose sight of what this time of year is all about. We place too much emphasis on the small things, like what's for dinner! On Thanksgiving morning, someone rises way too early to put the great bird in the oven and then spends the entire morning basting, mixing, slicing and stirring, preparing a feast fit for Any of this sound familiar? Then everyone sits down at the table, using dishes that no one has seen before and stuffs themselves just like that Thanksgiving turkey.

Waco Tribune-Herald

WACO - Members of one local club stand head and shoulders above the others.

That's no tall tale. After all, the membership requirements for Heart of Texas Tall Club are that women must be 5-foot-10 or taller and men must be at least 6-foot-2 to join.

And they're measured in their stocking feet.

While meetings may include gripe sessions about the problems of being tall, most of the focus is on activities members can do together, such as murder mystery weekends, sock hops, shopping trips, camp outs, dinners, game nights and theme parties. Members go on trips to the horse races, entertainment events and festivals en masse. Or they may have a family field trip and take their kids to the zoo or Discovery Centers. And there are frequent conventions.

Carole Chisum, who is 6-foot-1, said she felt at home the first time she attended a Tall Club event. Like many tall women, Chisum, an administrative manager at Sherwin-Williams Co., felt compelled to wear flat shoes lest she tower over men at various events. "When I first walked into a (Tall Club) party, I was wearing flats," she said. "Then I had to look up to everyone. I said I'd never again wear flats to a party."

"It was so much fun," agreed 6-footer Kathy Vierzba, a programmer/analyst at Texas Farm Bureau. "My feet never touched the ground the first time I went. It was the first time I'd ever felt petite in my whole life."

"It's fun to be around taller men," said Jeanette Penland, 5foot-9, an emergency room nurse at Providence Health Center. "I feel tall. I'm taller than the average male."

Yet, Penland said, she is almost short by Tall Club standards. She's met female mem-

The local chapter had its organizational meeting last month, but Tall Clubs have been around for a long time. The first was organized in 1938 by Kae Sumner Einfelt, a tall woman who - ironically worked as an animator for Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." She ran an ad in a Los Angeles newspaper asking if others would be interested in forming a social club for tall people. The response was overwhelming. Tall Clubs have existed in Dallas and Austin for many years, and members of the local group say they've traveled on weekends to those chapters' activities.

Members say the activities do not revolve around being tall. Yet, they say, there is sometimes stigma attached to height, especially for women.

Vierzba said she has attended Tall Club events with other women at resort hotels, only to hear people from outside the club wonder if they were part of a women's basketball tournahearing the clever comebacks that members concoct when others are less than tactful about their height. Some haul the other people up short.

She said she especially enjoys Please see TALL, page 2B

"They'll ask us, 'How tall are you,' and we'll say things like 5 feet, 18 inches," she said. "What's funny is when people can't figure it out."

She described a T-shirt sold in Tall Club circles that has the slogan "No, I don't play basketball; do you play miniature golf?"

At club meetings, members can laugh about such problems associated with their height.

Cosmetic Surgery. A comparison of the 17 most common cosmetic/plastic surgical procedures reported by academy members between 1990 and the first half of this year found:

Liposuction has replaced eyelifts as the most common type of cosmetic surgery, with more than 104,000 patients undergoing the fat-reduction process each year. The procedure accounted for almost 10 percent of female patients getting cosmetic surgery.

— Men made up 25 percent of all patients, up 11 percent from four years ago.

Twenty percent of male patients sought hair transplants; another 10 percent underwent nose surgery and six percent got liposuction. Nose surgery was up 30 percent over four years ago.

 Health concerns about silicone breast implants caused augmentation surgery to decline 48 percent over four years, but practitioners suggested that the popularity of the procedure is already on the upswing.

Researchers at the University of Manitoba find still more evidence that lung function can recover after smoking stops, but that use of a bronchodilator had little additional effect on those with mild obstructive pulmonary disease, the fourthleading cause of death in the

The Lung Health Study. reported in this week's Journal of the American Medical Association, evaluated the lung power of more than 5,800 former smokers aged 35-60 with pulmonary disease over five

The team, lead by Dr. Nicholas Anthonisen, said the comparison of randomly assigned groups from 10 clinical centers, "give the strongest evidence to date that smoking cessation results in substantial benefit to lung function." The most dramatic effects were found in the first year, but enhanced function was found over the entire period of the study.

Use of a bronchodilator in conjunction with quitting smoking "results in relatively small improvement ... that appears to be reversed after the drug is discontinued," they added.

Researchers at the University of Illinois have found that genes resistant to a common antibiotic - tetracycline have been passed naturally between two otherwise incompatible types of bacteria: one that lives in people, the other in animals.

A team headed by microbiologist Abigail Salvers found that the DNA sequences of tetracycline-resistant genes from a common bacteria found in the intestines of cows, pigs and sheep and another bacteria found in human intestines were at least 94 percent identical.

The implied threat, Salyers said, is that "the use of antibiotics to improve animal growth might increase the acquisition of resistance by human pathogens, and thus shorten the useful lifetime of antibi-

The match is even more significant since animal bacteria samples were collected from farms in the Midwest, North Carolina and Scotland, while human samples came from labs in California, Illinois and France. The results were first reported in the journal Applied Environmental and Microbiology. The researchers found that the gene transfer took place through a process called conjugation, in which two bacteria bump into one another and exchange DNA segments. Such transfers appear to be stimulated by tetracycline within the "bacteroides" strains studied.

It must be guppy love, so study says

By WILLIAM ALLEN

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

What do women find most attractive in a man?

His body? His personality? His after shave?

If guppy love is any clue, a woman chooses a man because she sees that other women want him, too.

Lee Dugatkin, a biologist at the University of Missouri at Columbia, has found that female guppies don't choose a male just because he's a hunk. They prefer a male that another female already has picked as a

"If a particular behavior is common among animals, it around dumpy-looking males often turns out that we find it in humans as well — and vice versa," Dugatkin said.

Dugatkin has studied the social behavior of tropical guppies — particularly how they choose mates. It's part of a larger effort to understand the roots of behavior, including human behavior.

Among his other recent find-

 Choosing another female's mate, or "mate-copying," is such a powerful effect in guppies that a female will often change her original choice of a mate if she sees another female choose another male.

Male guppies try to hang in the guppy world, those are the fish with less orange. Looking good compared with his buddies increases the chances that a male will be preferred as mate by a roving female.

As fishy as this sounds, Dugatkin's results are important to humans because they challenge the reigning idea that mate choice in animals is based solely on genetically determined physical factors. Previously, animal behavior experts thought males won mates by defeating competitors in combat or showing more color in ritualistic displays.

But the power of cultural factors must be considered when trying to understand how mate selection evolved, Dugatkin said. These factors play a major role in determining what animals find attractive and how they go about making themselves desirable to others.

"We've always underestimated what animals can do,' Dugatkin said. "The bottom line is that they're doing something much more subtle, requiring them to have more cognitive abilities than we expected."

He observes guppy behavior partly in the mountain streams of Trinidad, the southernmost Caribbean island, just off the northern coast of Venezuela.

Members list some of the more practical problems that come with taller heights. Airline and movie theater seats are often too close to the row ahead for tall people to be able to comfortably stretch out their legs. Getting into small cars is like putting on a tight pair of shoes, and tall people often have to reach under their knees to get the inside door handle.

Woe unto the stores who offer average and petite size clothing, but not talls. Club members keep track of which chains neglect them and advise tall customers to avoid those stores. They also sharing the 800 numbers of mail-order catalogs that feature extra long clothing.

Nationwide, Tall Club consumers have had clout. Thanks to them, king size (6-feet, 6 inches long) and California king size (7 feet long) beds were introduced.

Tall Clubs International has adopted the National Marfan's Foundation as its national charity. Marfan's syndrome is a rare, inherited disorder of the connective tissues. It is usually found in people who are tall and loose-jointed. Marfan's syndrome patients usually do not live beyond age 50, and a cure for the condition has not been found. Therefore, many Tall Club chapters raise money for medical research.

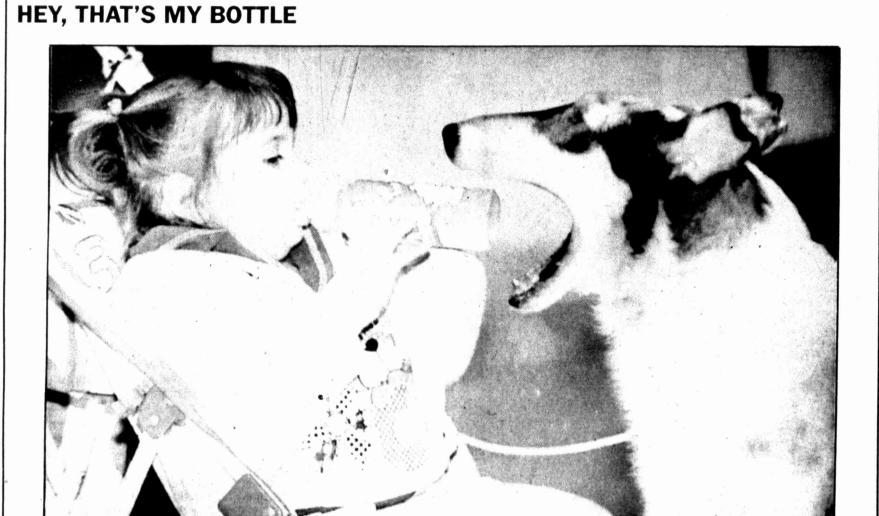

Lobbying for tall products and supporting Marfan's syndrome research is far from the main purpose of the Tall Clubs, however, members say.

The clubs want members to enjoy themselves, have fun and feel good about being tall.

"Usually, people join our clubs because they're fun." explained Chisum.

The estimated 4,000 members nationwide come from all walks of life. They include former pro football players, engineers, bankers, truck drivers and ski resort employees. The only factor members have in common is that they're tall.

"I've met people from all over the country" through being in the Tall Club, Vierzba said.

Ranch play tells desert tales

Corpus Christi Caller-Times

KINGSVILLE - Orphanedchildren who became cowbovs. romances that blossomed amid the dusty brush, and a cattle ranch that birthed a city these are elements of "Tales of the Wild Horse Desert," a King Ranch-size epic about the history of the famed 825,000-acre ranch.

The musical comedy, adapted from a short story written by a member of the King Ranch family, celebrates both the 90th birthday of the city and the ranch's hard-working cowboys. It will feature 240 area residents as actors, dancers or singers. Officials say that if this year's performance is successful, the show may become an annual community tradi-

Performances will be Friday through Sunday (Nov. 18-20) in Jones Auditorium at Texas A&M University-Kingsville.

"Wild Horse Desert" is a compilation of fact and fiction, fashioned from true stories and longtime legends told by vaqueros who rode the vast range that comprised 19th-century South Texas, said Janell Kleberg, who wrote the short story that became this play.

At the end of the play, some of the King Ranch's longtime vaqueros will be recognized on stage in ceremonies that some say will be a highlight of the ry," Mrs. Kleberg said. "They are the most interesting, remarkable group of people that you'll ever have the privilege of being associated with."

Mrs. Kleberg has lived in South Texas 25 years and is married to King Ranch vice president Stephen "Tio" Kleberg, a member of the founding family. Her 50-page short story was adapted for the stage by David Deacon, a drama professor at A&M-Kingsville.

Music was composed and arranged by Richard Morgan, also of A&M-Kingsville, and will feature the Ballet Folklorico of A&M-Kingsville, Mariachi Cascabel, Mariachi Javelina and the King Star Baptist Church choir.

Performances of the play will be part of events planned for the 1994 La Posada de Kingsville, an annual Christmas celebration. Other activities will include the fourth annual King Ranch Ranch Hand Breakfast on Nov. 19, a Christmas tree forest, a fiesta market, a Dec. 3 Parade of Lights and a Dec. 4 posada procession.

Retired King Ranch cowboy Alberto "Lolo" Trevino, who plays a trail boss in the play, said he hopes the dramatization of early cowboy life will make people appreciate olden times and their elders.

"It will help people to understand how hard it was," said Trevino, 64, a fourth-generation kineno, a term of respect for King Ranch cowboys. He was one of 14 children and his father was a cowboy and driver for Richard Kleberg. "We are like a good seed that was planted at this ranch so many years back. We are the roots of those first cowboys."

The tropical Wild Horse Desert - known in Spanish as the "Desierto de los Muertos (Desert of the Dead)" — was named by Spanish settlers and early missionaries for its inhospitable lack of water. It runs 150 miles from the Nueces River to the Rio Grande, and includes the King Ranch. Santa Gertrudis Creek, which runs through the ranch, is its only reliable source of fresh water. The area later was called the Nueces Strip, a starting point of the Chisholm Trail. Ranch founder Richard King sent cattle up the trail to Kansas.

"Wild Horse Desert' begins in 1849 and continues through 1904, when the township of Kingsville was created. The play recreates events such as the exodus of a Mexican village to King's Rancho Santa Gertrudis, the Civil War, battles with bandits and arduous cattle drives.

It follows the stories of three orphans who become vaqueros Pacho, Maloney and Rollinson. It was during this time that the kinenos were born - the phrase means "King's men" and it refers to the earliest King Ranch cowboys. Even today, the word carries significance and pride, Kingsville native Baldemar Quintanilla Jr., who is acting in the play in honor of his grandfather, a longtime kineno.

Deacon describes the production as "a combination of 'Huckleberry Finn' meets Lonesome Dove' as told through the eyes of 'Little Big

Tips from the pecan growers of America on one of the nation's favorite holiday nuts;

Two pounds of in-shell pecans makes 1 pound of shelled nuts or 3 1/2 to 4 cups.

Shelled pecans stored in an airtight container will stay fresh in the refrigerator about nine months and in the freezer for two years. Pecans can be refrozen many times without losing quality.

Toasting pecans intensifies the flavor. Toast in a 350 degree F oven on a cookie sheet in a single layer for about 10 minutes. Stir occasionally until pecans are crisp and light

Lowering expectations is one of the most important things you can do to help Christmas become the happy, peaceful holiday it should be, says Farrow. "People forget to relax and enjoy themselves, which is Christmas that these events shut-ins are good ways to get staving off stress at Christmas: Mark off every third item on your list of things to do. 'You may find that many 'must-do's' aren't really necessary," she says.

 Take care of yourself. Stick to your exercise program, take warm baths, see a movie and give yourself the "little pleasures" you would at other times of year.

DEAR READERS: By popular fearing a knock on the head or demand, here is my traditional Thanksgiving column: Tomorgiving Day, so take a few minutes to think about what you have to thankful for.

row

Thanks-

How's Columnist y o u r health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands maybe millions — are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a veterans hospital? Or a rehabilitation clinic for crippled children?) If you awakened this morning and were able to bear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes, praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. In fact, onethird of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight. Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, call someone. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues. Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. Concern for fair play under the law. Your country may not be a rose garden, but it also is not a patch of weeds.

Freedom rings! Look and listen. You can still worship at the church of your choice, cast a secret ballot, and even criticize your government without a knock on the door at midnight. And if you want to live under a different system, you are free to go. There are no walls or fences - nothing to keep you here. As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer; perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow: O, heavenly Father:

We thank thee for food and remember the hungry. We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless. We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service. That thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen. wonderful Have Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours. - LOVE,

An afterthought: Want an instant high? The surest cure for the post-holiday blues is to do something nice for someone. Why not call someone who lives alone and invite him (or her) over for dinner? Better yet, call and say, "I'm coming to get you, and I'll see that you get home." (Many older people don't drive, and those who do don't like to go out alone after dark.) Try it. And let me know the results.

P.S. Special greetings to those of you in the military who wrote from remote corners of the world to tell me that you are using my Thanksgiving prayer on this Thanksgiving

IS THE PLACE TO CO
Reason Number 1:

Taco Villa cooks Texas grown, choice bear fresh in our kitchen every day.

(Our meat is not cooked in a dumped into a plastic bag, shipped a lexas, boiled in the bag and served like regular meat. 'Cause Texans know the difference.)

ake he exas aste est ry our COMBO BURRITO

A real Texan pleasin' treat. It's the bowboys choice. Spicy West Texas beef, real cheddar cheese, pinto beans & selse rolled in a fresh steeming testille.

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD

Start your ad with the item for sale, service you are offering, or job title of the person you're looking for. Be descriptive. The detail information is what sells the item to the reader. Always include the price of the item. Avoid abbreviations they only confuse the reader. Run your ad for an ample length of time. Remember, always check your ad for correct phone numbers. addresses, etc. on the first day of publication.

How do you write a Classified Ad that gets Results?

Be Thorough

Sure you want your ad to stand out from the rest, but don't skimp on the sort of nformation that sells. The item's condition, size, age, brand name, and color are some of the basics readers want to know. Without them, your ad may be passed by.

Steer Clear of Abbreviations Ok so you want to include all the important basics, now don't confuse your reader by using strange abbreviations. What is perfectly clear to you might be unrecognizable to someone else!

Be Honest

Exaggerating your item's finer points may bring in a lot of responses, but a buyer who's misled won't appreciate it--and will take his business somewhere else.

Be Accessible

Including a telephone number or address puts you in touch with potential buyers. Be sure to state the hours you can be reached: a caller who can't get through the first time often won't call again.

Don't hesitate to call us with any questions or problems you may have. Our professionally trained sales staff know the ropes, and would be happy to pass their knowledge on to you. That's why we're here: to help you get the results you deserve.

Do you have a car, pick-up or motorcycle you need to sell? If you do, here's a deal especially for you!!!

1st week: You pay full price --- If car doesn't sell... 2nd week: You get 25% off --- If car doesn't sell... 3rd week: You get 50% off

--- If car doesn't sell... 4th-7th week: Run your car ad FREE!!!

BUYER BROKER FRANCHISE

Etten Phillips local resident, Big Spring hative and owner of Blien-Phillips Real Estatethas just purchased exclusive rights from national franchisor BUYER'S RESOURCE REAL ESTATE, INC., in Denver, Colorado, to provide that company's exclusive buyer brokerage services to home buyers in the Big Spring and Howard County area. Buyer's Resource has awarded 90 franchises nationally since its incorporation in 1989. Phillips' office, BUYER'S RESOURCE REAL ESTATE OF BIG SPRING, is the eighth of nine

Texas franchises Buyer's Resource Real Estate of Big Spring has a new location at 801-B East FM 700, conveniently located near the Golden Corral restaurant and the new Wal-Mart Supercenter. We offer specialized services exclusively for the real estate buyer. The concept of exclusive buyer representation, which arose from consumer demand, has soared to great heights. The real estate industry, home buyers, corporate relocation specialists and the media have recognized and respect its Buyer's Resource brokers and sales associates work exclusively for home buyers, never for sellers! We know that sellers have always had their own agents but we think, along with consumer sentiment, that home buyers should have their own agents as well. At Buyer's Resource, buyers are always clients and sellers are always customers, whom e treat fairly. We are not against sellers-we are against unequal representation! We offer a valuable service to our customers, the sellers, because our buyer clients are already pre-qualified for loans and will be looking at specifically selected properties only.

At Buyer's Resource of Big Spring, each party to the transaction has equal representation. The scales are balanced, not upped infavor of the sellers as in a "traditional" real estate office. Traditionalists represent sellers and are required, by law, to put the seller's best interests first and to bring the best possible sales price for the property, as an exclusive buyer's broker would do, because they work for the sellers! It's time for change in the industry and in the local market. Buyer's Resource of Big Spring is ready to embrace it, not resist it! Consumers are demanding more in real estate transactions than just adequate disclosure of available agency relationships, they are demanding equal representation by their own agents! Why do you think that in a court trial both the plaintiff and the defendant have their own attorneys? RIGHT! Equal representation! Should buyers accept less? We say

NO at Buyer's Resource Attorneys there is an inherent conflict of inter est! Why should real estate transactions be any different? We say THEY SHOULD NOT at Buyer's Resource. It has long been written that man cannot serve two masters. We think that ethics dictates that each party needs separates but equal representation to avoid a conflict of interest no that's fair! "Dual Agency" was created by the Multiple Listing Service and was the preferred way to practice real estate so that the Realtor could earn both sides of the commission. Dual Agency is purely a matter of economics not rightness or fairness. We at Buyer's Resource want to change this practice to one that is the right thing for both parties. We don't take listing, we don't show only our "in-house listings" because there are none! There is no conflict of interest at Buyer's Resource of Big Spring. We support the concepts of single agency, that is sellers should have their own company working exclusively for them and buyers should have their own company the same exclusive representation. The time is right, the time is here, the time is

Buyer's Resource brokers and sales agents will represent you, the home buyer, exclusively, to find and then help you to buy the RIGHT property for the BEST price PERIOD! Buyer's Resource Real Estate of Big Spring is here to serve you. Nationally, Buyer's Resource is a powerful force for home buyers. You've seen us on CNN, CBS This Morning, ABC's Good Morning

You've read about us in the New York Times, USA Today, US News and World Report, Wall Street Journal and others. Call us today at 263-8034 or 1-800-335-1872 for a free Homebuyer's Bill of Rights or our Ten Questions You Should ask a Real Estate Agent Before Buying A Home brochures.

We'll tell you all about the new, informed, consumer-oriented way to buy Real Estate. Stop by 801-B East FM 700 to talk with us and to hear about the movement that is sweeping the U.S.! You'll see why using Buyer's Resource Real Estate of Big Spring is the only way a fully informed buyer should buy property. As members of the local MLS, we can show you any properties listed in the area. We can also show unlisted properties and those For Sale By Owner. All of these and many more services are offered at no extra cost to the buyer. Each Buyer's Resource office locally owned and operated.
