491 Polls Had Been Cast in City Election Up To 2:50 O'clock This Afternoon

A total of 491 votes had been cast in the city election up to 2:50 this afternoon and the prospect was that the total vote would be one of the heaviest on record. A long line of voters had to stand in front of the polling place at the city hall through out the morning, there being insufficient accommodations inside:

While interest in the outcome is apparently quite high, there has been little evidence of excitement. Candidates and their friends were out bright and early this morning and solicited votes from vantage points near the polling place.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 1.-After one of the most strenuous and spirited campaigns in the history of the city the voters of Milwaukee will decide at the election tomorrow whether the "Cream City" shall continue under the Socialist regime or be gov erned by a non-partisan set of officials. The interest in tomorrow's election naturally centers in the contest for the mayoralty. Mayor Emil Seidel, Socialist, who was elected two years ago, is again a candidate, asking for his, re-election upon the strength of his administration's official record. His opponents is Dr. Gerhard A. Bading, former health commissioner of Milwaukee, who was nominated on a non-partisan ticket, having the support of both the Republican and the Democratic party organizations. MAKERS OF COTTON

Washington, D. C., April 2.-One thousand manufacturers of cotton goods, representing many sections of the country, were on hand this morn ing when the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association began its six teenth annual convention at the Ra leigh Hotel in this city. The meeting will last three days. Most important of the subjects which will come before the association will be the report of the special committee appointed to in vestigate the effects that the proposed tariff changes may have on the cotton industry.

President Ellison A. Smyth, of Green ville, S. C., called the gathering to order at 10 o'clock this morning and delivered his annual address. Other speakers and their topics at the initial session included: Secretary Charles Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor, "Work of the Bureau of Manufactures:" D. R. Coker, Hartsville, S. C.; "Growing Long Staple Cotthe General Electric Company, "Illuminating Engineering Co-operation;" Dr W. D. Hunter, of the Department of Agriculture "The Government's Efforts to Check the Spread of the Cot ton Boll Weevil." and Edward C. Suf fren, of New York, "A Trip to Africa and the Red Sea District in Connection With the American Cotton Goods Trade.

Three important addresses will be made at tomorrow morning's session, as follows: John Barrett, directorgeneral of the Pan-American Union "Central and South American Market for Cotton Goods:" J. E. Sirrine, Green ville, S. C., "Modern Mill Construc tion" and George W. Neville, president of the New York Cotton Exchange

BRYAN TO BOLT IF REACTIONARY NAMED

New York, April 2.-The Times ublishes this dispatch from Wash ington: That William J. Bryan will bolt unless both Presidential candidates and Central locomotive pulling a caboise platform are to his liking is the information received by several Western Senators and Representatives high in the councils of the Democratic party.

This means that he will boit the nomination of either Judson Harmon say, the preliminary step. They do not go so far as to assert that Mr. Bryan has entered into any negotia tions with the men who are threat-ening a bolt from the Republican party, but they say their information is that Mr. Bryan will be quite will ing to form an alliance with any radical Republican who may bolt the nomination of President Taft.

Mr. Bryan regretted bitterly the position he assumed in the campaign of 1904, when, for the sake of party regularity, he supported the candi dacy of Alton B. Parker, and he has told his friends he would never be put in the same anomalous position again.

His own political ambitions being out of the way, there is nothing to prevent his following his preferences and he does not intend, it is said, to support another Parker.

'The Peerless leader has already said he would support either Wilson or Clark, but it is understold here that, along with the Wilson managers he believes there is practically a conspiracy between Clark, Harmon and Underwood to prevent the New Jersey Governor from getting the necessary two thirds of the delegates to the Baltimore convention. Par ticularly is this true in the South, according to Wilson headquarters.

Jim Witt, whose home is in Sulphur Springs, Texas, has accepted a position with C. J. Barnard & Company, as decorator and salesman. Mr. Witt has worked with A. Harris & Company, Sanger Brothers and a number of the largest department stores in Texas. He is counted one of the best sales and dress goods men in the State and the Barnard store is very fortunate in securing the services of a man with the repu tation which Mr. Witt holds among the leading merchants of the State At present he is confined to his bed to with a slight illness but he will rebe built at Paris in the near future. turned to work in a day or two.

These motions were read by the MOISANT AVATORS

Judge who sustained the contention of the State that they should not be filed. Their exact nature was not made p lic but it is supposed that they asked the quashing of the indictment on the grounds that the grand jury was prejudiced, and illegal and that Norris could not be forced to testify before it under the State's theory that he wrote the letters himself.

Some intimation of their contents was given from the declaration of Assistant County Attorney Baldwin that the State proposed to try the case before the court and twelve men and not before the people. The motion for the change of venue followed Dr. Norris, J. P. Wallace and J. H. Dubose swearing to the motion which alleges a combination to bring about a convic-

491 Polls Had Been Cast in City Election Up To 2:50 O'clock This Afternoon

A total of 491 votes had been cast in the city election up to 2:50 this afternoon and the prospect was that the total vote would be one of the heaviest on record. A long line of voters had to stand in front of the polling place at the city hall through out the morning, there being insufficient accommodations inside.

While interest in the outcome is apparently quite high, there has been little evidence of excitement. Candidates and their friends were out bright and early this morning and solicited votes from vantage point near the polling place.

The election officers could not estimate how many socialist votes had been polled, but the fact that about 500 votes had been cast early this or Oscar W. Underwood. MAKERS OF COTTON

Washington, D. C., April 2.-One thousand manufacturers of cotton goods, representing many sections of the country, were on hand this morn ing when the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association began its six teanth annual convention at the Ra leigh Hotel in this city. The meeting will last three days. Most important of the subjects which will come before the association will be the report of the special committee appointed to in vestigate the effects that the proposed tariff changes may have on the cotton industry.

President Ellison A. Smyth, of Greenville, S. C., called the gathering to order at 10 o'clock this morning and delivered his annual address. Other speakers and their topics at the initial session included: Secretary Charles Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor. "Work of the Bureau of Manufactures:" D. R. Coker, Hartsville, S. There is a wide difference, of course, between the political and the partisan consideration of a great problem. I am constantly impressed with our indifference, in dealing with such matters, to what has already occurred n other countries and even at home. In our monetary legislation, for example, how little attention has been paid until recently to the monetary systems of great countries like England and France and Germany. In railway legislation, how little thought has been given to the governmental attitude toward railways in England and France, where as here, private ownership prevails. And now, in debating our government's attitude toward industrial corporations, how little is said about the example of a great competitor in the world's trade like Germany. He has nobody to de | definite; (c) to retain the anti-trust nounce, being as far from an extrem law as it is, relying upon court decisions in pending cases for further clarification. Of these three methods my preference would be for the third. Let us keep the anti-trust law as a declaration of National policy. Whether it is good or bad, it is the law, and as such ought to be fairly tested; if it is a bad law, the people will find it out, and they may also and, as in other trails, that not all lefendants are guilty. It really meant to say was that he was a little late in getting his hat into the ring. Indeed, it would seem his "coming out" could not possibly have been hastened more than it was.

There are a few newspapers in the State that favored statewide prohibition in the campaign of last-year that are now supporting Col. Jake-Wolters for the senatorship and Gov. Colquitt for the governorship, but if there are newspapers that took the anti end of that argument in the campaign of 1911 that are now supporting either Cone Johnson for senator, or Judge Ramsey for governor, the Times has failed to note them. From this it would seem the pros are not quite so narrow in their views of such matters as the antis. But, from an anti viewpoint, that which is counted as narrow-mindedness in a pro newspaper that will not support for office any but the candidate who agree with its view on that particular question, is regarded as evidence of loyalty to both man and principles in cases where newspapers that took the anti side of the question in the campaign of last year, and can anti. DEATH OF SENATOR TAYLOR. Senator Robert Love Taylor of Ten nessee died at Washington City yesterday, death being attributed to the after effects of a surgical operation. At his death he was in his 61st year. He was elected to Congress from the First Tennessee District in 1878, defeating Congressman Pettibone, a Republican, by a narrow majority, the usual Republican majority in the district being about 10,000. During the campaign, Mr. Pettibone, who came from the North, attempted to ridicule Bob Taylor by referring to him as "Fiddling Bob." Taylor smarting un der the attacks by Pettibone, finally struck upon a plan that silenced Petti bone for the balance of that campaign and landed him in Congress. Ln one of their joint debates, after Pettibone had closed and Taylor was making his rejoinder, he quietly reached down and picked up his old fiddle in one hand and a carpet bag in the other, and holding them as high as he could exlaimed: "Gentlemen of the First Congressional District of Tennessee, here is the issue, which one do you want to be your representative?" That was the last joint debate the two had, but it was sufficient, and while Pettibone gave him the name of "Fiddling Bob. he at the same time placed a weapon in the hands of his opponent that forced him to retire from politics. That was in 1878. Taylor was afterwards de feated for Congress and then served under the first administration of Cleveland as Commissioner of Pen sions at Knoxville. Later he was made the Democratic nominee for governor, and was elected. After serving his J. R. Newlands, first term as governor he was renom nated, and the Republicans nominat ed as their candidate Alford Taylor, the talented brother of 'Fiddling Bob." That was a most notable con test and was watched with interest throughout the United States, for the reason, perhaps, that it was the only instance on record where two brothers one a Republican and the other a Dem ocrat, had been selected as opposing candidates. That campaign wen down into history as "The Campaign of the Roses." Bob wearing the white rose and Alf the red. Bob was elected, and at the end of his second term retired to take the lecture field, but after being out of politics for four years was again made the nominee of his party for governor, and was elect ed. The election which is being held to day will in all probability be the last in which there is only one voting box, the conditions at the city hall this morning making it very apparent that a change is necessary. Throughout the morning the voting room was crowded to its capacity and even when the voters were fined up, it was none too comfortable. There is a movement to have two, possibly three, city voting boxes hereafter, one at the city hall, one at the court house and one in the western part of the city, convenient to Floral Heights.

night and M. E. Brin was appointed The question of auditing the books of John Thomas who has been serving as acting secretary, was referred to the finance committee.

J. G. Culberson called attention to the fact that the directors of the oil well tool shop at Ramona, Okla., had agreed to move the plant to this city in case a site 50x150 feet should be donated and a bonus of $800 subscribed. He pointed out that J. A. Kemp has offered to furnish a site for the factory and that $150 of the bonus asked has been raised, leaving a balance of only $650 yet to be subscribed.

In describing the factory he stated that the plant would probably be-gin operations in this city with a large steam hammer, a gas engine two large lathes for turning oil well tools, and a number of other modern improvements which go with a well equipped oil well tool shop.

The directors of the plant believe that at the present time there is enough work accummulated in and ariund Wichita Falls to keep the oleum, for one room. Used but little, plant in operation for the next four 275-3tc or five months, even if no more de-velopments take place in the oil fields adjacent to this city. The need of such a plant has been felt in this section for some time, as oil well workers are compelled to send their tools to Tulsa, Nowata and other points in Oklahoma, or even as far

It's The Time of The Year

When you figure on squeezing your corn covered mud hooks into a new pair of tans. We want to remark right here that you thad better get a quarter's worth of our corn salve before you try to sit through a doctrinal sermon with your pedal extremities jabbed into a pair of canvassed ham colored hoof cases that makes them feel like you were running them through a wringer. A box of this corn remedy is worth ten dollars to you to get your walkers in shape to wade around through the weeds this Summer at the picnics, those occasional Summer gatherings that the fool killer hasn't the nerve to tackle alone. Better get them in shape before you get a real flat wheel as we have never seen a shoe that would fit a bouquet of corns. We are dissatisfied with our goods and will sell for cash or an approved credit anything in the house.
