

TWO KILLED--ANOTHER WOUNDED IN HOOD COUNTY

By Associated Press.
BULLETIN—Granbury, April 5.—Dr. J. B. Thilley and Luther Garrell were killed, and T. M. Wilson badly wounded at Hill City in a series of mysterious shootings today. A young man is suspected.

PICTURE SHOW CLOSED. NEAR RIOT RESULTS

Special to The Times.
Electra, Texas, April 5.—The issuance of an order by the city authorities, closing the two moving picture shows here, was the cause of considerable excitement last night and while serious trouble was averted, feeling ran high at times. The order was based upon the existence of meningitis cases here and resulted in the closing of the city school today.

The opening of a new theatre was scheduled for last night, G. B. Dolan being the proprietor. He had engaged a vaudeville troupe for the occasion and the Electra Theatre also had a vaudeville engagement. About 6 o'clock a notice was posted on the door of each show, forbidding any performance last evening. Manager Dolan of the new theatre, however, opened his doors on schedule time, with a large audience. The Electra Theatre remained closed.

The appearance of the city marshal interrupted the performance at the new theatre, and the entire force, including the pianist, the "spickee" and the latter's megaphone were placed under arrest. The engine was stopped, cutting off the lights. Manager Dolan hurried to the office of the mayor and made bond for himself and performers, returning to the theatre. The performance was started again and once more the officers interfered, with the result that the effort to present the show was abandoned.

According to W. B. Austin, undertaker, there has been only one death from meningitis here and it is believed that the number of cases is small. Last night's incident created considerable comment, particularly among those who had paid admission to the show. Manager Dolan stated this morning that he would re-open his doors tonight.

GOOD ROADS CLUB MEETING TONIGHT

Improvement of Highways Leading Into City Will Come Up Tonight.

Several matters of importance in connection with the improvement of the highways leading to this city will come up tonight at the meeting of the Wichita County Good Roads Club, which will be held at 7:30 at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. President Culbertson is anxious for every member to be present and extends a special invitation to the members and directors of the Retail Merchants' Association. He says that some questions of particular interest to them will come up for attention.

CIRCUS DIRECTOR COMING SATURDAY

Geo. W. Saam, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. of Fort Worth will arrive here tomorrow on the noon train. Mr. Saam will take charge of the Y. M. C. A. circus and complete all plans. He is a man of large experience in this kind of work and will contribute very much to the success of the show. He has been interviewed personally and by letter from time to time by the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. since he began to prepare for the big show on April 9th.

Mr. Saam will remain in the city until Wednesday morning and will add several numbers to the program.

CRAZY SNAKE IS REPORTED DEAD

By Associated Press.
Oklahoma City, Okla., April 5.—"Crazy Snake" or Chitto Hargo, responsible for the Indian uprising in Oklahoma a few years ago is reported dead at Old Hickory Creek, his old "stomping ground."

ANOTHER BIG GASSER BROUGHT IN AT ELECTRA

Lone Star Co. Opens Big Gas Flow On Holloway No. 4 Tract.

With a roar that was audible five miles away, a new gas well was brought in late yesterday afternoon near Petrolia. The new well was put down by the Lone Star company on the Holloway No. 4 tract, about four miles from Petrolia.

The roar of the well could be plainly heard at Petrolia and there was much interest in the new development. The well was of six-inch bore and its capacity is estimated at 25,000,000 feet daily.

The Lone Star company had been drilling for oil and had reason to believe that it would strike a flow, but the gasser was brought in instead.

BEAUMONT MEN KILL EACH OTHER

M. A. McKnight and W. C. Whitney the Two Dead Men, Were Prominent Contractors.

WHITNEY FIRED FIRST SHOT

McKnight Drew Revolver While Dying on the Ground and Shot Whitney Dead.

By Associated Press.
Beaumont, Texas, April 5.—In a street duel here today M. A. McKnight and W. C. Whitney, leading business men, killed each other. Both were contractors.

McKnight had apparently killed Whitney when Whitney, lying on the ground fired one shot with deadly effect. The two men had previous trouble. This morning, as Whitney was passing McKnight said, "Whitney I want to talk to you," and whirled Whitney around, firing. Whitney tried to get his pistol out as he ran away, but fell after a few steps. Drawing his pistol on the ground he fired shooting McKnight through the heart. McKnight was 60 and Whitney 40.

The men had quarrelled over a grand jury report involving school houses erected by Whitney, although not naming him. Whitney had built court houses in many Texas towns.

COUNTY COMMITTEE TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Request of Wilson Men for Primary Will Be Considered Then.

A meeting of the county democratic executive committee will be held sometime next week, according to Chairman Huff, to act upon the request of the Wilson committee for a preferential preference primary. Mr. Huff stated today that so far as he knew there was no other organization in the county to help bear the expenses of a primary, the Wilson men having agreed to pay half.

Mr. Huff himself is for Underwood of Alabama, but says that he does not know of any other Wichitan who favors the Alabama aspirant. It is understood that there are a number of Harmon and Clark men here, but neither have formed any organization. As a result, there is no one to pay the other half of the expense.

The question of who is county chairman seems to have been settled, as Mr. Huff now admits that he holds that position.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS CLASH WITH STRIKERS

Strikers Threw Bricks and Stones and Used Clubs and Revolvers—Many Were Women.

Passaic, April 5.—A battle between several hundred striking mill operatives and forty deputy sheriffs and policemen took place at Garfield today. The strikers threw bricks and stones and used clubs and revolvers. Many women were among them.

VENUE EVIDENCE CONTINUED TODAY

STATE CLOSES TESTIMONY AND DEFENSE SUBMITS TESTIMONY IN REBUTTAL.

NOTHING VERY SENSATIONAL

Only Feature This Morning Was Declaration of State Witness That Fair Trial Could Not Be Had.

Special to The Times.
Fort Worth, Texas, April 5.—The State this morning put in its evidence combating the motion for a change of venue of the Norris case. Judge Simmons has given the defense the afternoon to put on other testimony for the change of venue. A feature of the morning was the surprise given the State when Dr. John F. Boeyer, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, gave it as his opinion an impartial and fair trial could not be had because of the mental condition of the people. He said men might go into the jury box and without perjury return a verdict not fair and impartial. He said the majority to whom he had talked thought Norris innocent.

The State announced its surprise at this testimony.

Among the numerous witnesses who gave it as their opinion a fair trial can be had was Major K. M. Van Zandt and men called in from the various country precincts.

Thursday Afternoon Session.
At 2 o'clock Senator Odell presented to the court the exceptions of defendant to the ruling that no more evidence could be introduced. He set forth in his allegations that there were a number of witnesses from various precincts of the county who had been called to testify that such prejudice or bias existed that a fair trial could not be obtained. The names of numerous witnesses were also given by whom it was expected to establish the conspiracy charge.

All these, about fifty in number, were called to the front and then excused. W. E. Connell was the first witness introduced by the State to combat the application for a change of venue. Witness said he was a deacon of the First Baptist Church and a banker. He had lived in Fort Worth fourteen years and knew the people. In his opinion, Dr. Norris could get a fair trial in Tarrant county.

Cross examined by Mr. Gillespie witness said he did not think general prejudice against Dr. Norris existed, although he had heard many say they did not like Dr. Norris. Witness recalled when Dr. Norris preached a sermon at the time of Jim Moore's death. Witness had not approved of the sermon but he couldn't say what the officers of the bank thought of it. Witness had seen no subscription list to a fund to be used to prosecute Norris and if a meeting was held in his bank he didn't know it. Most of the church people seemed to be on the side of Dr. Norris and the majority of all people for a time seemed to favor him, but he thought this sentiment was changing. Witness didn't hear the mayor's speech and didn't know that the mayor and Dr. Norris had a spat over the picture show opening on Sunday. Witness said he had heard a great many people say they thought Dr. Norris had shot at himself through the church window (Laughter). Witness had opposed the clean-up campaign, as he did not think it would do any good. Witness favored Sunday closing, but did not think Norris should have written the alleged Winfield Scott item. He condemned that article, thinking it was too harsh and beyond reason. Witness had not contributed, nor promised to contribute anything to the private prosecution in this case. Witness himself had remarked that there seemed to be a great number of lawyers on defendant's side and suggested he thought Mr. Baskin ought to have some help. Witness had received a letter from William Reeves saying something about a subscription, evidently under impression that witness was on a committee to raise funds.

Redirect by Mr. Clendenen witness said he had heard of no one in Fort Worth who was trying to convict the defendant in this case. He had heard people say they believed Norris was guilty and ought to be punished. Witness knew of no one who was aiding and abetting Charles Dickinson in his animosity toward Norris. No one that he knew was aiding Mr. Reeves, who he believed had trouble with defendant in East Texas over the sale of the Baptist Standard. Witness had opposed the employment of William McDonald at $1,900 per month to be paid out of church funds. He suspected this money was to come out of the insurance money to be collected.

Rev. Julius B. French, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, testified for the State that in his opinion no such prejudice existed against defendant as would prevent him from obtaining a fair trial here. The vast majority of people were favorable to Dr. Norris. He knew of no one bent on securing Dr. Norris' conviction and of no combination against him.

Mr. Clendenen asked witness if he believed business or professional men of the city would countenance the conviction of Dr. Norris unless he was guilty.

Objected by Senator Odell as irrelevant because the theory of the law was not whether people wanted a man convicted or acquitted, but whether they had so prejudged his case that he could not procure a fair trial.

Overruled; accepted. Witness replied in the negative.

Cross examined by Mr. Cummings, witness said he had gone to the County Attorney's office with Mr. Bouda to examine some documentary evidence against Dr. Norris. He and Dr. Norris had never had any personal difference. Dr. Norris at one time in the Pastor's Association had said one of the members owned saloon property. Witness explained that he had joined some friends in buying a piece of property on Ruik street which he had never seen. As soon as he learned there was a saloon there he had sold out and regretted the transaction very much.

Cross examined by Mr. Gillespie, witness admitted that Dr. Norris had antagonized a crowd of people by his activities in having picture shows closed, etc. This crowd was very large, judging from its votes. Its prejudice would probably find its way into the jury box, no matter what precautions might be taken.

G. H. Connell, banker, deacon in the First Baptist Church and chairman of the finance committee, said he believed Dr. Norris could get a fair and impartial trial in Tarrant county.

Cross examined, he said, taking into consideration the existing prejudice a jury might be obtained that would give him a fair trial. If a jury should be selected indiscriminately he thought some of its members might be prejudiced.

Sheriff William Raa said: "I think Dr. Norris could get a fair trial in Tarrant county."

Cross examined by Mr. Gillespie, witness said he attended the mayor's speaking and voted for the resolution condemning Dr. Norris if he wrote the X-Ray article. Witness did not know that it was generally understood now that Dr. Norris wrote it. If it was proven that Dr. Norris wrote it there would be strong prejudice against Dr. Norris. Witness summoned all grand juries. The same grand jury was recalled after it was discharged to reindict Dr. Norris, the first indictment being defective.

Lon Beavers, county clerk and trustee of the First Baptist Church, said he knew of no reason why Dr. Norris couldn't get a fair trial in this county.

Cross examined, witness said there was strong opposition in the city to Dr. Norris on account of the stand he had taken for closing picture shows on Sunday, for prohibition, etc. Witness admitted that this prejudice might find its way into the jury box, but with the number of qualified jurors in the county he saw no reason why an unprejudiced jury might not be obtained. He was then excused.

Judge Irbly Dunklin of the Court of Civil Appeals, formerly District Judge and formerly a trustee of the First Baptist Church, who mailed his resignation as trustee to the church last Sunday, testified for the State that he had not heard the country people discuss the Norris case at all, and the discussions he had heard in the city chiefly concerned the burnings, alleged assaults and anonymous letters. He had heard numerous expressions of opinion.

FIRE BOYS GIVE ANNUAL BANQUET

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN ENTERTAIN OVER HUNDREDS GUESTS WITH SUMPTUOUS FEAST.

SPEECHES WERE MADE

Firemen Extolled By City Officials and Citizens—Support Pledged to Organization.

The Third Annual Banquet of the Wichita Falls Fire Department at the department's quarters in the city hall Thursday night was a most enjoyable affair and the fire boys demonstrated that they were excellent hosts as well as brave and efficient fire fighters.

More than a hundred guests including many ladies were present to pay tribute to the firemen and to enjoy their delightful entertainment and the good things to eat.

Proceeding the banquet a short meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms where city officials and others paid high compliments to the work of the firemen.

I. H. Roberts presided at this meeting. In his opening talk he said that instead of praising the firemen he had thought to point out where they might do their work better but after much reflection he had come to the conclusion he had nothing to say along that line. He said that the reputation of the Wichita Falls Fire Department was statewide and its reputation for efficiency was almost national.

Judge Hughes, member of the city council, said he had been reminded of the existence of the department at every meeting of the council for Chief Stampfli was always present to ask the council to buy something for the department. He said the council had always been glad to grant the chief's requests wherever possible and he was sure the money could not have been better spent. The department had done good work, he said, but had done nothing more than its duty.

M. J. Gardner who was next called upon said he had no speech to make and his declaration "that he was proud of the fire boys just the same" brought forth enthusiastic applause.

Dr. J. F. Reed another member of the city council spoke words of high praise of the boys.

B. J. Bean, a member of the first fire department the city ever had, recalled the days of the bucket brigade and the old hand drawn hook and ladder wagon. He contrasted the work of the soldier and of the volunteer fireman. The business of the soldier, he said, was to destroy property, maim and kill and to leave widows and orphans; the business of the volunteer fireman was to save property and lives. The volunteer fireman, too, deserves all the more credit from the fact that his work is unselfish. He called attention to the fact that very few of the volunteers owned a dollar's worth of property, but nevertheless were willing to risk their lives to save the property of others.

Judge Rye declared that the work of the volunteer firemen was the grandest of all occupations. He emphasized the unselfishness of the firemen's work saying that it was done without hope or of glory and with little reward.

City Attorney Householder declared that the work of the volunteers appealed to the noblest instincts of manhood.

J. C. Ward said that he believed in the most liberal support possible to the fire department and when the city council had gone as far as it could and the firemen needed anything more he was ready to give as much as any man in town.

City Attorney Elect W. N. Bonner spoke very eloquently in praise of the efficiency of the department as now organized and with its present equipment.

Mayor Elect Bell closed a ringing speech with this pledge "I promise you, Mr. Chief, that if it is within my power to give, the fire department shall have your heart's desire in equipment and everything necessary to promote its efficiency."

Chief Stampfli closed the speechmaking with a review of the year's work. He said among the improvements contemplated was a substitution in Floral Heights. He said also that the water company was contemplating the abolishment of the water tower and the substitution of direct pressure all the time.

Following the speechmaking the guests were ushered to the firemen's hall where the banquet was spread. The hall had been prettily decorated; firemen's bunting and the national colors and carnations adorned the two long banquet tables that stretched across the hall. The tables fairly bent beneath the good things to eat. On

ABOUT ELECTION FOR COUNTY SCHOOL TRUSTEES

WEATHER FORECAST

Tonight generally cloudy, warmer; Saturday unsettled, colder.

The rural high school law, enacted by the last legislature, provides for the election of five county school trustees, whose duty it is to administer the rural high schools of the county, as the three trustees of a common school district administer the affairs of their district. These trustees are to be elected at the same time that common school trustees are, which is the first Saturday in April. This being the first election for this purpose since the law providing for it became effective, a full board of five members must be elected.

Elections will be held in both rural and independent districts, and every person casting a ballot is expected to vote for all five trustees. Their distribution throughout the county is to be as follows:

One trustee is to be chosen from each commissioner's precinct and one from the county at large, making in all five. Again, two of the five must reside in independent school districts and the remaining three must reside in common school districts.

It is to be regretted that there are no candidates for these important positions, thus leaving the public at a loss to know who would fulfill all requirements in qualification and service.

The board appointed by the commissioners' court last July is as follows: Precinct No. 1 R. H. Suter; Precinct No. 2 J. F. Gillette (resigned to teach); Precinct No. 3 C. H. Clark, Iowa Park; Precinct No. 4; N. F. Strickland, Fowlkes; County at Large W. B. Mimick. Their terms will expire with the qualification of their successors to be elected tomorrow. They are not disqualified for election.

MISSISSIPPI IS STILL RISING

LEVEES AT BREAKING POINT ON REELFOOT LAKE—WATERS LEAP OVER EMBANKMENTS.

DROWNED NUMBER 18

Situation at Memphis Where Portion of City is Flooded Shows Little Change.

Memphis, Tenn., April 5.—Many lives are endangered in the flooded districts. At Craigs Landing, Mo., eleven employees of a box factory are marooned and no boats can be found to rescue them. Their position is a perilous one. At an island south of Hickman, Ky., a man and several children are perched in trees, which the flood threatens to sweep away. At Dorena a widow and six children have taken refuge in the attic of their home and refuse the aid of rescuers. A party is being organized to carry them away by force.

On Reelfoot Lake, south of Hickman 400 laborers are combatting the waters which leap over the levees at times and a break is feared.

With the exception of Cairo and New Orleans the Mississippi rose at all points south of St. Louis within the last twenty-four hours.

Conditions here show little change today.

Five Drowned at Bird Point.
By Associated Press.
St. Louis, Mo., April 5.—A family of five were drowned in the flood waters near Bird Point. Two others are reported drowned, bringing the death list up to eighteen.

A summary of the situation last night was as follows:
At Hickman, Ky.: Three thousand five hundred refugees, including the 2,000 made homeless when factory district was submerged. Distress relieved when food and tents were ported out yesterday.

At Columbus, Ky.: Eight hundred to 1,200 driven from homes, encamping on hills overlooking the town.

New Madrid, Mo.: Eight hundred homeless; business and residence section flooded, three to five feet of water.

In Dorena, Mo.: Nine hundred to 1,000 driven from homes, rescued by Hickman, Ky., residents; many head of live stock lost.

Memphis, Tenn.: Twelve hundred driven from homes in low part of north section; gas plant out of commission; authorities warn residents of close-in district to boil water before using.

At Craigs Landing, Mo.: Eleven employees of Mengel Box Company of Hickman, Ky., endangered by remaining in camp when thirty-nine others were rescued.

Hundreds of steamboat landings between Hickman and Arkansas City submerged.

A dozen river steamboats of the first-class tied up at Memphis.

REV. G. LYLE SMITH WILL PREACH TONIGHT

Rev. G. Lyle Smith, of El Reno, Okla., who has been called to the pastorate of the Christian Church here is in the city looking over the situation with a view of deciding whether he will accept the call. He will preach this evening at the church, and all members and friends are requested to be present.

Rev. Smith is one of the leading ministers of the Christian Church in the southwest and the local congregation are very anxious that he accept the call.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS TO CELEBRATE EASTER

At the First M. E. Church, South, on next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Wichita Falls Commandery U. D. Knights Templar will observe Easter in commemoration of the resurrection of Christ. Sir Knights, Dr. J. W. Hill will preach the sermon.

It will be the first time such a service has ever been observed by the fraternal order in this city, for the reason that the commandery has been recently organized. Its membership already numbers fifty-five and the commandery is growing rapidly. The Knights will meet at the Masonic Hall at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, don their uniforms and march in procession from the hall to the church, arriving at the church at about 10:45.

A splendid program for this occasion has been prepared and it is expected that the attendance will be large.

Plans Laid Before Governor.
Austin, Texas, April 5.—Plans for the industrial development of Freeport, a town recently established at the mouth of the Brazos, have been laid before Governor Coultz by E. P. Swenson and Sons of New York, heavy investors in the State. Associated with Mr. Swenson in the development of this enterprise are some of the best known moneyed men of New York and other eastern cities. The plans contemplate the development of what is considered the largest sulphur deposit in the United States and part of the machinery is already on the ground. Sulphur will be marketed not later than July 1. It is the purpose of the New York syndicate to put in a regular line of steamers to operate between Freeport and various points on the Atlantic and Gulf ports, and a line of tank steamers is also to be established between Freeport and Tampico, Mexico, together with a million barrel storage tank at Freeport.

MAINES' G. O. P. VOTE DIVIDED

ROOSEVELT BOOMERS EXPECT TO SECURE PART OF THE DELEGATES.

TAFT CLAIMS THEM ALL

Sentiment for Colonel Believed Strongest in Rural Districts—Taft Wins in Cities.
Boston, Mass., April 5.—The first real test of the relative strength of Taft and Roosevelt among the Republicans of New England will come next week, when Vermont and Maine will elect their delegates at large and district delegates to the national convention. These will be the first delegates named in New England to attend the Chicago convention. The recent visit of President Taft to Massachusetts and New Hampshire and the speech making tours of the same section by Colonel Roosevelt who also included Maine in his itinerary, gives evidence of the fact that both candidates consider the New England States to be an interesting political territory this year as some of the other States that have been known in the past as "doubtful."
Vermont is perhaps the least interesting of any of the New England States this year from the viewpoint of the Republican campaign managers. If outward and visible sign count for anything President Taft can safely rely upon the support of the Republicans of the Green Mountain State in his campaign for re-nomination and re-election. The progressive movement which has found fertile soil in the neighboring State of Massachusetts and New Hampshire appears to have made little or no headway among the Republicans in Vermont.
The situation in Maine, on the other hand, is entirely different. There is a vast amount of Roosevelt sentiment in the Pine Tree State, but conflicting statements and claims have so confused the issue between the two candidates as to make an accurate forecast of the result difficult.
In the rural sections, especially Aroostook county, the great potato growing region, the feeling against the President on account of his reciprocity policy, which removed duty from potatoes, is said to be very strong, although the Taft supporters say that this has been exaggerated. The Taft sentiment seems to predominate in the cities where the attempt to organize the Roosevelt supporters have not been very successful.
The Roosevelt sentiment is strongest in the country towns, and it has been figured out that it is the town of 1,000 population or less which control the Republican State convention in Maine. As Aroostook is the strongest Republican county in the State and stood faithful two years ago, when the State went Democratic it may be seen that a Roosevelt feeling is something to be reckoned with.
It is generally conceded that the first district, which embraces the city of Portland, will elect Taft delegates, notwithstanding the fact that when the Roosevelt Club was formed in Portland several weeks ago a representative gathering was present and when Colonel Roosevelt visited the city a few days later he was given a cordial reception.
The Roosevelt boomers in the first district are those who supported Colonel Frederick Hale, the son of former Senator Hale, for the Republican nomination for Congress against Congressman Asher Hinds, and this factional quarrel has overshadowed the main issue and enlisted the Hinds support for the President.
The Taft managers believe that the solid Taft delegation from Maine is a certainty. On the other hand, the Roosevelt supporters declare with equal confidence that Roosevelt will sweep the State, with the possible exception of the first district. One of the immediate results of a Roosevelt victory in Maine would be to give renewed energy to the efforts of the progressive Republicans to win out in the presidential preference primaries in Massachusetts on April 30.

Montana Democrats.
Helena, Mont., April 5.—Member of the Democratic State central committee of Montana are arriving here for the meeting tomorrow to fix the date and place of holding the State convention that will select delegates to the national convention at Baltimore. The Wilson supporters, headed by Governor Norris, expect to control the State convention. Clark and Harmon, however, both have their followers among Montana Democrats and it appears certain that a hard fight will be made to prevent instructions for Wilson.

Clark to Speak in Louisville.
Louisville, Ky., April 5.—Democrat great and small, from many parts of Kentucky and from other States as well, will worship tomorrow night at the shrine of Democracy's patron saint, Thomas Jefferson, the occasion being a banquet under the auspices of the Jefferson County Democratic Club of this city. Speaker Champ Clark will be the guest of honor and principal orator. His subject will be "Thomas Jefferson." J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago will speak on "The Rule of the Majority," and former Senator Blackburn of Kentucky will speak on "The Democratic Issues of 1812."

GOOD FRIDAY IS BEING OBSERVED

Today is Good Friday and is being observed with the usual exercises at the Catholic, Episcopal and German Lutheran churches.
Good Friday is observed as the anniversary of the death of Christ. Just as Easter is celebrated as the anniversary of the day upon which He arose from the dead. The services are among the most solemn in the ritual of the churches and with Catholics the day is one of fasting and prayer.
At a recent luncheon in Chicago the hostess read from a London paper a number of puns on the names of English authors. "They ran like this: Why is Rider Haggard? Because he has to Marie Corelli. Whereupon the guests all turned to the manufacture of similar jeux de mots, the hostess announcing that she who perpetrated the best should carry home the plant in the center of the table. Here, then are the alleged jokes manufactured on the spot:
What did George Washington Cable? News that turned David Gray.
Is Richard Henry Savage? No, but Hamilton Mabie.
What gives Albert Bigelow Paine? The way William Dean Howells.
The last was a "howling" success and its blushing author was unanimously awarded the palm.

GOOD FRIDAY IS BEING OBSERVED

Today is Good Friday and is being observed with the usual exercises at the Catholic, Episcopal and German Lutheran churches.
Good Friday is observed as the anniversary of the death of Christ. Just as Easter is celebrated as the anniversary of the day upon which He arose from the dead. The services are among the most solemn in the ritual of the churches and with Catholics the day is one of fasting and prayer.
At a recent luncheon in Chicago the hostess read from a London paper a number of puns on the names of English authors. "They ran like this: Why is Rider Haggard? Because he has to Marie Corelli. Whereupon the guests all turned to the manufacture of similar jeux de mots, the hostess announcing that she who perpetrated the best should carry home the plant in the center of the table. Here, then are the alleged jokes manufactured on the spot:
What did George Washington Cable? News that turned David Gray.
Is Richard Henry Savage? No, but Hamilton Mabie.
What gives Albert Bigelow Paine? The way William Dean Howells.
The last was a "howling" success and its blushing author was unanimously awarded the palm.

HIS TROUBLE NOT OF HEART

Real Facts in Regard to F. R. Huffman's Illness—Relief Obtained By Curing His Stomach Afflictions.
Waynesville, N. C.—Mr. F. R. Huffman, of this city, says: "I suffered dreadfully with what I thought was heart trouble, and tried various medicines in vain. After other remedies had failed, Theford's Black-Draught restored me to health. I would not feel safe without Black-Draught in the house. I consider it worth its weight in gold. It cured my indigestion, and by this means I was restored to health. I can not express my gratitude for its benefits."
Good health depends on the condition of your digestion. Poor digestion and poor health do not go together.
Theford's Black-Draught will thoroughly cleanse and set in order your digestive system.
It has done this for others, during the past 70 years, and is today the most popular vegetable liver remedy on the market. Try it.

SONGS OF WILD BIRDS

Of Mrs. Reina Gridley, who is appearing this week at the Berland theatre, the Chicago Herald says: "Reina Gridley has mastered the songs of wild birds and warbles their songs perfectly."
Mrs. Gridley is really wonderful in her imitations of the wild birds, and those who heard her last night were carried away to the woods with the call of the wild. Lee Gridley, the mandolin player and harpist is an artist of exquisite style and rare ability. The two make a decidedly clever vaudeville attraction.

A HOT FIGHT IN ILLINOIS

STRAW VOTES INDICATE PREFERENCE FOR ROOSEVELT BUT TAFT MEN CONFIDENT.

A DEMOCRATIC CONTEST

Sullivan Fighting Wilson, Hearst Supporting Clark and Harmon Men Active.

Chicago, Ill., April 5.—With both sides almost ready for Tuesday's Statewide primary, conflicting claims continued to be made today. Though an act passed at the eleventh hour by the legislature in special session the voters of both parties are to have an opportunity to express their preferences for the presidential nominations.

On the presidential question Illinois is not only almost pivotal but a puzzle. President Taft is supposed to lead on the Republican side, but local conditions make it difficult to estimate what may happen. The various straw votes taken by the Chicago newspapers exhibit a preference for Roosevelt over Taft, but the President's followers say that these results should not be taken too seriously. About the only statement that can be made with absolute certainty is that a feeling of equal confidence seems to pervade both camps on the eve of the battle.

The situation on the Democratic side appears to be even more tangled. Unprejudiced political students, however, are inclined to believe that much depends upon Roger Sullivan, the Illinois member of the national committee and for many years the most influential leader in the State. Sullivan has no use for Bryan or any of his candidates, and as Wilson is supposed to be highly favored by Bryan, Sullivan's power, or what remains of it, will be thrown against the New Jersey candidate. Hearst is helping—Clark and the Harmon men are equally active. The outcome certainly cannot be predicted.

The names of a multitude of candidates will appear on Tuesday's ballot for United States senator, representatives in Congress, governors and other State officers and members of the legislature, not to mention the many candidates for county and municipal offices.

Three Republican candidates are in the field for the toga of the venerable Senator Shelby M. Cullom, who aspires to another term. They are Hugh S. Magill, the so-called progressive candidate, former Lieutenant Governor Lawrence Y. Sherman and William Grant Webster. The general opinion is that Senator Cullom will win out. J. Hamilton Lewis, formerly a congressman from the State of Washington, but now a Chicago lawyer, is the sole Democratic candidate for United States senator.

Eight Republicans and four Democrats are seeking the governorship. Governor Deneen heads the Republican list as a candidate for re-nomination. Len Small, of Kankakee, is the Republican candidate who has the endorsement of the so-called Lincoln League, an organization composed almost wholly of men who are friendly to Senator Lorimer. John E. W. Wayman, State's attorney of Cook county, is generally looked upon as the "personal liberty" candidate. Walter Clyde Jones, of Chicago, is the standard bearer of the ultra progressive faction of Illinois Republicans. Charles F. Hurburgh, of Galesburg, claims a considerable following. Richard Yates, who was governor some years ago, is in the field again. The other candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination are J. McCann Davis, clerk of the State supreme court, and John J. Brown, of Vandalia, who is personally strong in the southern part of the State.

There are four entries in the Democratic race for the governorship, but it is in reality a three cornered contest among former Congressman B. F. Caldwell of Springfield; Samuel Aischuler, of Aurora, who was the Democratic candidate in 1909, and Edward F. Dunne, former mayor of Chicago.

Candidates for lieutenant governor, secretary of State, treasurer, attorney general, and other places on the State ticket, and also for representatives in Congress, are numerous of both tickets. The prohibitionists and socialists have named one candidate each for the various places to be filled.

The nominations of the Republican and Democratic tickets will be but the beginning of what is expected to be the hottest political battle Illinois has seen in 20 years. The Democrats have carried the State for President and Governor just once since the civil war. They won the electoral vote for Grover Cleveland in 1892 and elevated John P. Altgeld to the executive chair the same year. Not since then have they been so sanguine of victory as they are today. The factional rows in the Republican party have increased in bitterness in the past four years. The several leaders of these factions are providing the Democrats with all the campaign ammunition they will need. The Democrats, too, have their differences but are much less rabid than they used to be.

A man rises in his own estimation when he settles down, and in the estimation of his creditors when he settles up.

News From Oil Fields

From Across the River.

At a depth of a little over 600 feet Tuesday the drill of the Big Pasture Oil and Development company, in its well at Loveland, dug into red shale or oil sand. The strike is another excellent indication of an oil deposit and has given further encouragement to the driller and the officers of the company. This company had only recently completed the casing of that portion of the well which caved two weeks ago; and the shale was found soon after going beyond the depth that had formerly been attained.

Work at replacing the casing at the Campbell well, southeast of Frederick, had reached a depth of about 1200 feet the first part of the week.

The stockholders of the company which is being formed for the purpose of developing the Samuel Finley farm and lands adjacent thereto held a meeting Tuesday afternoon, and made arrangements for immediately applying for a charter. The company will be known as the Northwest Electric Gas and Oil company, of Frederick, Oklahoma. The capital stock will be $200,000, and the company's holdings will include 2,800 acres of leased land in a promising field.—Frederick Leader.

Drilling Near Randlett.

Randlett, Okla., April 5.—The Basin Oil Co., of Randlett, Okla., incorporated for $250,000 under the state laws of Oklahoma, and composed of Texas oil men and one local man, Jerry Crowley, real estate man, are now drilling 3 miles due east of this place.

At a meeting of the chamber of commerce Monday night the Basin Oil Co. was endorsed and recommended to the people of this community and a committee was appointed to assist them in securing a few more leases. They lack just ten quarter sections of having their territory all leased and in the meantime are drilling. A number of oil men have been in this neighborhood lately and the oil proposition is taking on life.

Negroes to Discuss Lynch Law

Shawnee, Okla., April 5.—The sixth annual convention of the Constitutional League of Oklahoma, an organization of negroes, began today in the town of Lima, near this city, and will continue over tomorrow. The purposes of the meeting are to consider the "Jim crow" case now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States, the need of a reform school for negro youths only and lynch law.

The capital stock and bonded indebtedness of all trusts at the beginning of Roosevelt's administration amounted to $3,784,000,000. At its close the figures stood $31,672,000,000 of which 70 per cent was water. This is according to a statement recently issued by Senator La Follette, and it true shows that the Mr. Roosevelt reputation as a trust buster is a great deal better than that as a trust builder.

The Times is glad to announce that the subsidy necessary for the securing of the glass bottle factory has about been subscribed, less than a half thousand dollars of the amount yet remaining unsubscribed, and the soliciting committee composed of Messrs. G. D. Anderson, Marvin Smith, M. A. Brin, J. B. Marlow, Miles O'Reilly, T. B. Noble, R. M. Moore and J. S. Bridwell, think that that the full amount will be subscribed before the day ends. This speaks well for the work of the soliciting committee, and if the new enterprise is not secured it will be no fault of the people of Wichita Falls who have never yet failed to do the right thing in matters of this kind.

SANITATION IN TEXAS.

Galveston News. Not long since there was considerable excitement in the state because of the meningitis outbreak. Towns quarantined against each other, sometimes enforcing their mandates with shotguns; railroads abandoned some of their train schedules; factories shortened their hours; mercantile establishments laid off some of their employees; opera houses closed their doors; pastors dismissed their congregations; public gatherings were discouraged; ladies refrained from visiting the stores; merchants from smaller towns expressed alarm at visiting cities to buy their spring supplies. The capitalist, the merchant, the professional man and the laborer alike suffered.

And what was the cause? R. Percy Babcock, state registrar of vital statistics, reports that during 1911 there were 259 deaths from spinal meningitis. In consequence Texas as a whole was more or less frantic. Meningitis is a preventable disease.

It is preventable like many others which annually overshadow the meningitis record of last year. Yet, these other preventable diseases seemingly attract little attention from the public. In 1911 there were 2,909 deaths from tuberculosis. This is a preventable disease, as is meningitis. There were 1,756 deaths from pneumonia, 925 from typhoid fever, 349 from malaria—all exceeding the meningitis death record. Several other preventable diseases claimed their numerous victims, such as smallpox 47, measles 222, scarlet fever 105, whooping cough 120, diphtheria and croup 281, erysipelas 48, tetanus 86.

Clean bodies, clean homes, clean premises, good ventilation, sunlight and exercise, together with proper food, is the panacea given by the medical fraternity for the prevention of preventable diseases.

Texas cities generally are awake to the necessity of sanitation. Some of them are doing more than others. A few are doing nothing.

Galveston is one of the cleanest cities in the state. But there is not enough activity here to assure the city continuing in that enviable position. It requires constant vigilance and united effort to keep a city clean in the proper physical sense.

WHY HARMONITES OPPOSED A PREFERENCE PRIMARY.

Fear of violating the law, we are asked to believe, restrained the Democratic State Executive Committee from granting the people an opportunity to express their will. The law makes no express provision for a Presidential preference primary, and the committee was pleased to construe the absence of such provision into an implied forbiddance, a construction which is valid if we may assume that the sovereign people of this State can do nothing that has not been expressly permitted by the Legislature. But since it is not the people who derive their freedom from the Legislature, but the Legislature from the people, to argue that because a Presidential preference primary is not expressly permitted it is therefore forbidden, is to proceed from a false and peculiarly tortuous assumption.

While itself fearing to brave the terrors of the law, the State committee is quite willing that the county committees should do so if they wish. We can not see that county primaries would be less in violation of the law than a State primary. If the peril which it described made a full warrant for the refusal of the State committee to order a primary, it seems to us that instead of tempting the county committees to encounter those perils, it should have warned them against them. So much deference it owed to the law and so much kindly solicitude for the physical freedom of Democratic officers.

The argument of the State committee's action is hardly plausible, or even ingenious. The reason of its refusal to order a primary lies in another direction. Its refusal was due to the conviction on the part of the majority of its members that a primary would result in sending to the National convention a delegation instructed for the man whom they don't want to see nominated. Its members prostituted the power of a public office to further a factional end, denied the people a right which inherently belongs to them to accomplish an end which they cherish as pariahs.

onus and odium of jennying the people an opportunity they are entitled to, and so the committee preferred to incur the charge of arrogance rather than place the stigma on Gov. Harmon's campaign. It was clearly a case of public duty being subordinated to a factional interest.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

(Dr. George F. Melien in Chattanooga News.) In the presidential year, prior to the nominating conventions, the suggestions of men for the second place on the tickets is a rarity. The claims of the various candidates seeking to head the lists are so clamorous that so important a position as vice president is lost in the din. Yet the work of the conventions that meet respectively in Chicago and Baltimore this year will face a responsibility next to that of naming a president in choosing a vice presidential candidate. Platforms, or declarations of principles, are a vital part of the procedure, but these have grown to be secondary in importance to the personalities of candidates.

The office of vice president has always, more or less, held a slight place in public regard. The fact is the more patent the farther away we get from the ideas of constitutional government cherished by the fathers, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, who subsequently became presidents, did not disdain to hold the office of vice president. Aaron Burr and George Clinton, their followers in the office, were deemed men of presidential size. Burr was elected as a republican on the ticket with Jefferson, but immediately his federalist machinations for the first place when the election was thrown into the house of representatives damned him politically. Clinton went to the position with Jefferson's second election in 1804, and was elected on the ticket with James Monroe in both 1808 and 1812. He died in the office, and those seeking for a precedent of third termism will find it in the career of the New York statesman.

In these latter years it has come about that with difficulty men of presidential aspirations and capacity have been persuaded to seek the vice presidency. The fact is, not infrequently it has been successfully attempted to place in that position men of the caliber whom wily politicians sought to sidetrack or to efface completely.

The informed public that takes an interest in political movements and by plays recalls easily the one time effort to erase from the political map Theodore Roosevelt, a man who had no desire or intention of being elected. This was in 1909. That crafty move upon the political checker-board two then United States senators were directing. They were T. C. Platt and Matthew S. Quay. In their prime they were the shrewdest and most coldly calculating of political artists. They plainly saw in the growing proportions of the strenuous New Yorker a mighty factor that would need to be dealt with vigorously and, at the same time, mysteriously, if the politicians of their quality would longer continue influential and dominant. They had known, in the study of their government's history, the public careers of such men as John G. Calhoun, George M. Dallas, Hannibal Hamlin and others to be put in eclipse by holding the vice presidential chair.

When Platt and Quay were plotting and planning for the Roosevelt effacement, it was wise Mark Hanna who archly suggested that it was possible for a vice-president to become a president. He had a number of instances that he could cite. To the disgust and discontent of the politicians of the Platt-Quay type, history has shown how significant were the possibilities held out by the office. —Statesmen who had eager eyes on the presidency refused to accept nomination for the second place, and thereby lost the first. Twice Daniel Webster, in declining a nomination for the vice presidency lost the goal of his ambition. Both in 1840 and 1848, when respectively William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor soon died after entering upon office, Webster in the event of an acceptance would have held the position so ardently coveted.

Five vice presidents became presidents by the death, in most instances assassinations, of presidents. These were John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, Chester A. Arthur and Theodore Roosevelt. Besides Adams and Jefferson, already mentioned, Roosevelt was another vice president who became president by choice of the American electorate. That in eight instances vice presidents should have become presidents whether by succession or election, indicates that the office is not to be lightly esteemed, or, for that matter, rudely spurned.

The greatest drawback attached to the position of vice president is that it is regarded more honorary and ornamental than useful and opportune. There is thought to be little occasion offered for the winning of public distinction or the rendering of devoted public service. The occupant of the chair is looked upon as a mere figure-head. His sole duties are to look dignified and to maintain order in a body whose most imposing feature is the wicker air that seems to pervade every movement and remark. He is no participant in weighty legislation, frames no measures, has a vote only in the event of a tie vote of the senators. Simply to preside for four years over a body of men esteemed and declared to be the most exclusive attractive club in the United States would within itself hardly seem a sufficient inducement for a statesman of the highest quality and aspirations. It has followed, therefore, that the two great parties since the civil war have presented every four years for the vice presidency the names of men who, as a rule, were not ranked high in the scale of statesmanship. For example, since 1876, when party alignments became more pronounced and uniform let one try to name the various candidates on either ticket, republican or democratic, of the vice presidency. While he will recall easily the heads of tickets, he will flounder vainly in an endeavor to name the vice presidential nominees. He will be able to recall Thomas A. Hendricks on the democratic side or John A. Logan on the republican, but most of them have faded from the average memory. The effort will, at any rate, serve to remind one of the transitoriness of fame.

In the pending presidential contest, there has been on neither side a serious suggestion of names for the vice presidency. The public mind is so absorbed in the daily sayings and prospective fortunes of rival candidates for the first office that the second is entirely overlooked. Perhaps when we are a little further along and many determine beforehand with some certainty who will be who in each party, then some discussion of probable vice presidential nominees will spring up. However matters may turn out, it behooves each party to nominate only men of presidential size and capacity, because one of these will be elected in November and eventually may become president.

AS TO DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

The supporters of Gov. Judson Harmon—those of his supporters we mean who throw their hands up in horror when the initiative and referendum is mentioned, and who say they are against Gov. Wilson because of the fact that he favors the initiative and referendum. If they want to act honestly with themselves should get acquainted with the political record of their favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination. The facts are these: Gov. Harmon was elected governor of the State of Ohio on a platform calling for the initiative and referendum, and as the governor of that State with the veto power in his hand has approved that law and it is now in effect in many cities in the State of Ohio. So much for the initiative and referendum. —Again, it might be well enough for the ardent admirers of Senator Bailey to bear in mind that Gov. Harmon was a member of President Cleveland's cabinet, and the Cleveland administration stood out boldly for the doctrine of free raw material. Those who know President Cleveland's political history are fully aware of the fact that no man was allowed to hold a position in his cabinet whose views on such important matters did not entirely harmonize with that of his own. Therefore, it would seem, that at that time Gov. Harmon favored the free raw material doctrine. And as for those who are not particularly opposed to Gov. Wilson as the Democratic presidential candidate, but favor Underwood because of his long residence in a Southern State, it might be well to read up on the history of the two men whose the Times does not fancy the idea of injecting into this presidential campaign sectional sentiment. A recent issue of the Atlanta Journal, known as Hoke Smith's paper, says in effect that Oscar W. Underwood had a very narrow escape from being not only a Northerner, but a Republican and protectionist. Therefore, when his friends set up the claim that their candidate is the only true born Southerner in the presidential handicap, they are, to make use of a slangy-expression skating on tolerably thin ice. The facts as to the early life of both Underwood and Wilson are about as follows: Underwood's grandfather and father were Kentuckians of decided unionist leanings. His grandfather was an old line Whig, and a colleague of Henry Clay in the United States Senate. During the civil war Underwood's grandfather was a leader of the union forces in Kentucky and a close friend and counselor of Abraham Lincoln. His father was a prominent lawyer and one of the promoters of the L. & N. railroad, and was also a northern sympathizer. At the close of the war he moved with his family to the State of

I. N. May, aged 47 years, died at his home on the Union ditch near the city yesterday afternoon after an illness with Bright's disease. He is survived by a widow and three daughters. Mr. May had been a resident here for eight or ten years and was highly esteemed as a citizen. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World and his funeral will be held under the auspices of that order at the Kemp School house at four o'clock this afternoon.

E. G. Hill, undertaker, office 8nd parlor 900 Scott Ave. Phone 225. Prompt ambulance service.

The bonus of $15,000 for the bottle glass plant still lacks several hundred dollars of completion and the committee is again at work today in an effort to close up the matter. While there is little doubt that the entire bonus will be raised, members of the committee are impatient at the delay which has attended the raising of the small amount needed to complete it. Between $300 and $400 is still needed to make the plan a certainty and the committee men hope to secure this small amount today.

expressions of opinion both for and against Dr. Norris that would disqualify parties from serving on the jury. He had heard of no combining, trial to encompass Dr. Norris' conviction.

Based on his opinion, he said, on his experience as District Judge, the citizenship of the county and what he had heard, he thought Dr. Norris could get a fair trial here. A prejudiced juror would either have to perform himself to get on the jury or would have to be influenced by public sentiment, whereas witness was sure public sentiment was more in favor of Dr. Norris than against him. The possibility of obtaining an unsafe jury would depend on the amount of prejudice in the county and the character of men entertaining it.

Court recessed for ten minutes. At the end of the recess the court announced that he would allow one more day for the hearing of evidence on the change of venue motion and would give the State until noon tomorrow to finish.

George Mulkey, former police commissioner, testified that, in his opinion, the defendant could obtain a fair and impartial trial in Tarrant county.

On cross examination he said a great number of people were prejudiced against Dr. Norris, who had been bitterly denounced by certain men. Some of those who had been opposed to Dr. Norris had industriously circulated reports about him. He did not believe that those advocating a wide open town were in the majority here.

J. C. Barden of Arlington, was of the opinion that Dr. Norris could obtain a fair and impartial trial in Tarrant county.

W. H. Guelich of Swift & Co.'s plant said, in his opinion, Dr. Norris could get an impartial trial in Tarrant county.

Cross examined by Senator Odell, witness said that Mayor Davis formerly resided on the North Side and was mayor of North Fort Worth. He was popular with the men employed at the packeries and they were loyal to him. Witness had served on a jury in Kansas. Many employes at the packeries, he said, were foreigners, some of whom could not speak English, and were not qualified to serve on juries.

Florence Fairbanks Fashion Letter

New York, April 5.—The importers and the large shops have had their spring openings and even the most fastidious women must admit that the displays were unusually interesting and attractive. The styles shown promise a season of charming toilettes. The modes show enough of change to make them exceedingly interesting, but these changes, save in exceptional instances, are not revolutionary, do not run to bizarre extremes. Even the most distinctive innovations are more often gracefully picturesque than freakish, and a very decided majority of the models from the most authoritative Paris makers are exceedingly wearable frocks, lovely without being sensational.

It is among the evening frocks and the dressy afternoon frocks that one finds the most daring experimenting with new ideas and, at the same time, the most wonderful of the new materials. All the skirts have added fulness, but there are varying grades of it and fulness does not by any means necessarily imply drapery. Tailored skirts are, with few exceptions, almost as straight of line as they were last season, though they are not so narrow, thanks to skillfully introduced plaits and tunic arrangements. A majority of the simpler, short one-piece frocks also retain a straight and narrow skirt outline. The skirt if the material allows, is filled into the waistband but it is so weighted and drawn down that it hangs comparatively straight and even when it is flounce trimmed, does not have a bouffant effect.

Paquin has sent over some of the most interesting of the coquettish skirt draperies, and also has launched a number of accordion plaited skirts in very soft silks, falling perfectly straight, and limp so that the outline is narrow as that of a plain skirt, yet perfect freedom of movement is made possible. One of her tailored models has appealed to almost all the importers and is tremendously clever in its adaptation of drapery on the panner order, to a material as heavy as serge and to tailored finish.

A very chic little cutaway coat whose tail is slightly draped belongs with the skirt, and though few women could wear the model well, it bespeaks cleverness. One importer shows this model in a black satin frock and red cloth coat, and though one cannot imagine a fastidious woman wearing it, it is exceedingly piquant.

Red is, by the way, a very important item among relieving colors and in bright shades, such as geranium and cardinal flashes in discrete touches upon even the most conservative frocks. With white and white and black combinations it is particularly pleasing. Some admirable results are obtained by using sheer white linonerie material such as marquisette or voile or batiste, embroidered in red and black in combination with solid black.

Serges, Bedford cords, whipcord and tweeds are the materials most frequently used in the wool tailored models, and the cutaway coat is first favorite, though often the front slope away but slightly. There are plenty of coats in which they do not slope at all, a fortunate thing for the woman who has failed to suppress her hips to the proper unobtrusiveness.

Belted effects in coats, as in frocks are extremely popular but the belt need not go all the way around the waist and may be loose—or simply drawn, so it can be adapted to widely different styles. It is undoubtedly true that in a large majority of the best new models waist lines are a trifle smaller as well as longer and the curves of the figure are more defined than they have been during the past few seasons, but, as yet, the change is but slight and it remains to be seen how far the movement will advance during the coming season.

Charmeuse, and the other soft satin finish silks are still favored coat materials and some particularly lovely models of such materials are shown in the deep ivory, biscuit and champagne shades, with hand embroidery or lace in the same color and with handsome fastenings made of cords of the silks.

There are many beautiful coats of white charmeuse or dull finish satin too, coats intended for day time rather than evening wear during the summer months. The smartest of these are made rather simply, with buttons and cordings of the satin and with or without a little heavy, handsome lace about the collar and the sleeves. Some of the best looking have no trimming at all save the satin, but are gracefully cut and lined with exquisite flowered chiffon in the dainty pompadour or pony designs.

Good looking coats of black charmeuse are made up on similar lines, and these too have the flowered chiffon lining. The lightest and sheerest of rough silk or wool sponges in white lined with color makes smart cover-all coats for summer and reversible materials are made to give much the same effect. White, with a pale corn color lining, collar and cuffs, is a combination often seen and charmingly cool looking.

Long coats of soft, loosely woven linen in white and cream and string color, inset with heavy lace to match embroidered, preferably in the geranium or some other oriental or lingerie.

Cotton ratine is having a great vogue for misses' suits, with crystal or ball ivory buttons for trimming, and is one of the new tub material's now in great demand for shirt waists.

White corduroy is being used in separate skirts and proves a most durable and practical material for that purpose.

Gases in Stomach Poison the Blood. Gas forms in your stomach because the food you eat ferments and turns sour.

Allow this fermentation to go on and these gases become poisonous and the poison gets into the blood.

MINONA stomach tablets stop the fermentation almost instantly, turn the poisonous gases into liquid, and eliminates the poison mostly through the kidneys.

If you have any stomach trouble such as gas, sourness, heaviness, flatulency, or shortness of breath, MINONA will give gratifying relief in five minutes.

What $10.00 Invested in The Powell Oil & Development Company May Do for You.

600 barrel well, oil at 60 cents per barrel, the present price, would be $360.00 per day. $360.00 times 265 would be $131,400 per year. 37 acres of land cut up into lots of 600 square feet will make 6188 lots, divide this into $131,400 and you will find that each share is worth $21.00 per year, or is worth on the market at 10 per cent. par value, $210.00, but figure that we put down 40 wells, then you can get the result by multiplying this by the above.

THREE DARING AVIATORS COMING

MISS MATHILDE MOISANT WILL BE ACCOMPANIED BY MONS. HOUPERT AND SIGNOR ALVAREZ.

TO EXHIBIT FOUR DAYS

Lieut. Anderson Gives Interesting Facts Concerning the Moisant Flyers.

Lieutenant Jim Anderson, formerly a member of the U. S. Signal Corps, who is at present in the city completing arrangements for the holding here of an aviation meet next week, has had a life of adventure and danger tacked in the life history of but a few. When connected with the U. S. Signal Corps about two years ago, he was stationed on the top of Pike's Peak in Colorado for three months, during which time he was the principal in any number of unusual events. He has also been an aviator himself, but has grown so stout or late he seldom makes flights now except as a passenger. In discussing aviators an aviation meet yesterday afternoon Lieutenant Anderson said:

"Aeroplanes and aviators are no longer a decided novelty in this country as they are becoming so numerous but to find an aggregation that is composed of world famous flyers that have won reputations for delivering the goods and not disappointing the public is really no easy task. When a local organization or committee decides to hold an aviation meet they cast about for flying talent and in nine cases out of ten 'fall' for some very sensational advertisement appearing in one of the aerial trade journals that makes all sorts of promises which sound good while their price is very low.

"After the local committee or organization are compelled to give back the admission price and spend the rest of the next two years explaining to their rural neighbors why they failed to get real flyers, the realization creeps upon them that it would have been better to have secured the services of some thoroughly reliable and legitimate concern to furnish the aviators and the aeroplanes even if the price were somewhat higher. Aviation is like anything else. It pays to buy the best and as a rule the best is generally the cheapest.

"Two years ago the Moisant International Aviators Incorporated of New York City came into existence and startled the entire world by placing on the road an exhibition company headed by twelve of the world's greatest flyers. Most of them were from France where the art of aviation is at least a hundred years in advance of the game in America.

"John B. Moisant, a daring young American capitalist who had learned to operate a monoplane in Paris, decided to bring to these shores the greatest flying team that he could secure in Europe. He did so and before coming to his native land he set the world talking by his sensational flight from Paris to London carrying a passenger in a monoplane.

"After winning the ten thousand dollar Statue of Liberty Race in New York and several other events that made him the premier aviator of this country, John B. Moisant was killed in an attempt to break a world's record at New Orleans on Dec. 31, 1911. Before this however he, his brother, A. J. Moisant and his two sisters, Mathilde and Louise, had all agreed to devote their fortunes and if need be their lives to making a success of the Moisant Military Monoplane, the Moisant factory, and the great Moisant School of Aviation in New York. They were and are today a wealthy family having acquired great holding in Central America and South America besides controlling several large banking concerns in Salvadore and Guatemala.

"Upon the terrible death of John's sister Mathilde declared that she was ready to take his place in the flying end of the game and immediately started upon a course of instruction at the school that they had founded the previous year. Within three months she was granted a pilot's license by the Aero-Club of America. There are but two women holding this distinction in the United States. Miss Mathilde Moisant and Miss Harriet Quimby. Both are graduates of the Moisant Aviation School and both operate Moisant Monoplanes.

"Miss Harriet Quimby is the dramatic editor of Frank Leslie's Weekly and therefore can only devote certain months in the year to the flying game. Miss Moisant on the contrary is never satisfied unless she is demonstrating somewhere that the Moisant Monoplane is the best machine that flies today. She is really a wonderful flyer with the real bird-instinct that made her brother the greatest flyer the world had ever seen. She seems a part of her delicately constructed aircraft and while in its does stunts that make older and more experienced flyers of the male sex step back and admit that she has them bested.

Miss Moisant is now touring with her instructor, Mons. Andre Houpert of France, and a daring Spanish birdman, Signor Francisco Alvarez. They have been in Mexico all winter and since leaving that revolution ridden country, have exhibited in New Orleans, Shreveport and Dallas. The recent exhibition in Dallas was the second by the Moisant International Aviators. Last week they exhibited there under contract with the city officials.

"In Shreveport, Miss Mathilde Moisant had a very serious accident that completely demolished her monoplane and nearly resulted in her death. Nothing but her very clever handling of the machine and her remarkable nerve saved her from being killed outright. Miss Moisant and her fellow flyers are at present in Tyler and will hold a four days aviation meet in this city Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Excursion trains will be operated on probably every railroad entering this city and it is planned to make the event one of the most successful affairs of any kind which have ever been pulled off in this part of the state. Thousands of people are expected to be in the city to witness the flights, and three of the country's most famous aviators will keep the crowds thrilled continually.

Lake Wichita has been chosen as the place to hold the meet and in front of the grandstand spiral slides, and aerial stunts will be pulled off which have never before been seen in this city.

BATTLE OF SHILOH FOUGHT 50 YEARS AGO

Survivors Both Blue and Gray Will Hold Reunion There Beginning Saturday.

Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., April 5.—A reunion of the survivors of the great battle of Shiloh will begin on the battlefield here tomorrow, on the semi-centennial anniversary of the historic conflict. It is a reunion of the Blue and the Gray and from as far south as Texas and as far north as Wisconsin and Michigan the old warriors have journeyed hither to mingle together in peace and to exchange reminiscences and recall the events that made history in sight of old Shiloh church fifty years ago. The reunion is under the auspices of the Battle of Shiloh Association.

The battle of Shiloh, the most ordinary of the battles that marked the early period of the civil war, was fought fifty years ago, on April 6 and 7, 1862. Shortly after the capture of Fort Donelson, Gen. Grant moved his army to Pittsburg Landing, on the Tennessee River, about 20 miles from Corinth, Miss. The army, numbering about 40,000 men, was in six divisions. The division commanders were Generals Sherman, McCornum, W. H. L. Wallace, Harburt, Prentiss and Lew Wallace.

At about the same time that the Federals moved to Pittsburg Landing the Confederates concentrated at Corinth with Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston in chief command, and General Beauregard as second. The four Confederate corps commanders were Generals Bragg, Hardee, Polk and Buckner. In numbers the army about equalled the Federals.

On April 1, both armies were expecting reinforcements. Grant expected Buell with about 40,000 men, and Johnston expected Van Dorn with 30,000. Johnston, however concluding to attack Grant before he could be joined by Buell, started from Corinth on April 3, but owing to heavy rains, he could not attack until early dawn of Sunday the 6th. By persistent and continuous fighting, Gen. Johnston succeeded in driving the Federals back during the day from the vicinity of Shiloh church nearly to the river.

At the close of the day's fighting Nelson's division of Buell's command arrived in part on the battlefield and helped to repulse the last charge of the victorious Confederates. The day's fighting was a triumph for the Confederates, though they lost the brave Gen. Johnston, who fell while leading a charge.

The battle of the 7th was begun at break of day by Buell on the left, who had come up during the night with some 20,000 men. Grant was further strengthened by the addition of Lew Wallace's division, which had been absent the previous day through a misunderstanding of orders. The battle of the 7th was quite as severe as that of the 6th, and it was not until noon that the Federal successes warranted them any assurance of victory. Two hours later, Beauregard, now in command, ordered a retreat, and the Confederates moved back without interference to Corinth, as the Federals were in no condition to make pursuit.

The losses in the two days' fighting were: Confederates, killed 1728; wounded 8012; prisoners 959; total 10,699. Federals, killed 1725; wounded 7882; prisoners 3956; total 13,572.

"THIS IS MY 48th BIRTHDAY."

Basil Hood.
Captain Basil Hood, the well known English dramatic author, was born April 5, 1864, the son of the late Sir Charles Hood. He was educated at Wellington College and at the Royal Military College at Sandhurst. After completing the course at the last named institution he was gazetted a lieutenant in the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment. He served in the British army twelve years and attained the rank of captain in 1893. In 1898 he retired from the service to devote himself to playwriting, in which he had already attained considerable success. In addition to several original plays, Captain Hood is the author of the English version of "The Merry Widow" and "The Dollar Princess." He has also written numerous short stories and is the author of dramatic versions of Hans Anderson's Tales.

Congratulations to Rear Admiral Francis M. Ramsey, U. S. N., retired, 77 years old today. Frank T. Bullen, well known English writer of deep-sea stories, 55 years old today. Henry St. George Tucker, Virginia lawyer, educator and politician, 59 years old today.

COTTOLENE
CONTAINS NO HOG FAT
USE 1/3 LESS

The American people are waking up to the fact that hog lard is often indigestible, and sometimes unhealthful.

Cottolene, a pure, vegetable product, is fast replacing hog lard for frying and shortening. It makes better, more healthful food—and is more economical. Cottolene is economical because it goes one-third farther than butter or lard.

Cottolene is packed in air-tight tins, never sold in bulk, and its purity and freshness are guaranteed.

Meeting to Aid Dixie's Progress. Nashville, Tenn., April 6.—If the expectations of the arrangements committee are fulfilled, the fourth annual meeting of the Southern Commercial Congress, which will begin its sessions in this city next Monday, will be attended by 2,000 or more delegates, representing every State from Maryland to Texas and from Missouri to Florida. The demand for accommodations already gives assurance that the gathering will be the largest and most representative of its kind ever held in the South.

The importance of the gathering is forecasted by the large number and wide prominence of the men who are on the program for addresses. Included among the speakers will be Senator Newlands, of Nevada, Louis W. Mill, president of the Great Northern Railway; President E. B. Craighead of Tulane University, New Orleans; Maurice F. Egan, United States minister to Denmark.

The Attorney General recently approved and the insurance commissioner filed an amendment to the charter of the Wichita Southern Life Insurance Company, increasing its capital stock from $115,000 to $140,000.

To Unveil Statute of Naval Hero.
Washington, D. C., April 5.—Impressive military and civic exercises will mark the official dedication two weeks hence of the memorial erected in Potomac Park to John Paul Jones. The Secretary of the Navy will preside at the exercises, and addresses will be made by President Taft and Gen. Horace Porter of New York. The ceremony of unveiling the statue will be performed by Admiral Dewey. Appropriate music will be furnished by the United States Marine Band. The exercises will be followed by a parade of soldiers, sailors and marines, the National Guard and various military and patriotic societies. A vessel of the navy will be stationed in the Potomac River opposite the statue and will fire a regulation salute at the conclusion of the exercises.
