EIGHT INNINGS OF GLASSY BALL

LOCALS TAKE OPENER FROM SHERMAN-BECKHAM AND ANGEL MAKE GOOD.

BAD BLOW UP IN NINTH

Drillers Get Back to Earth in Time. Some Good Playing Witnessed Yesterday.

Eight innings of 18-carat baseball was served at the City Park yesterday afternoon and although the locals tried to give the game away in the other half inning, they could not.

Up to the last half inning it was as pretty a game as anybody could have asked. That fellow Angel is sure some pitcher and if Fred Morris and a few others hadn't ascended in the ninth he would have had a clean shut-out.

Angel is from the black-land town of Lillian and looks it. He has been hanging around the Drillers' camp for some days and hadn't worked out before yesterday and nobody knew much about him.

The new pitcher used a straight ball almost altogether yesterday, varying it once in a while with a well-controlled out-shoot. He also used a pretty drop at rare intervals.

There was another stranger in the game, the same being Beckham, who occupied first base. Beckham is from Southwestern University, which has turned out several good ball players in the past and will probably turn out more in the future.

Beckham faultlessly hit the ball at that position. He has been also heard at that session.

Other than the allowance of ay other of bills and the adoption of never right of way, nothing alone at the open session.

Judging from the number of delegates pledged to Clark, as published yesterday, the old-time unflinching tendency of the Democratic party to do the wrong thing at the right time is going to assert itself.

We had February weather in March and March weather in April; please Mr. Weatherman, won't you give us a little April weather in May?

All the fun in Texas tomorrow will not be confined to the Democratic contests. The Taft and Roosevelt forces in this State have a pretty little scrap all their own and it will be worth seeing. Cecil has been making a game fight and his own scalp is at stake.

"Back of all reform lies the means of getting it. Back of the question what we want is the question, how are we going to get it? The immediate thing we have got to do is to resume popular government."—From a campaign speech of Woodrow Wilson.

The Mexican situation has been consigned to page seven, between the want ads and the market report, the West Virginia Allens have been completely lost sight of and the Titanic inquiry is about to be crowded off the front page. Politics has the right of way.

"Personally," says Senator Bailey, "I would prefer either Underwood or Clark to Judson Harmon, but I firmly believe that if we nominate Harmon we can elect him." That is to say Senator Bailey prefers Harmon because he thinks Harmon can win. Every man should be allowed to think as he pleases, and not allow others to do it for him.

What Texans do in the precinct conventions tomorrow may make or mar Democracy's chances for victory next November. With the situation in its present stage, this State's forty delegates pledged to anyone of the candidates will count for something and it behooves every Democrat to proceed with care and discretion. Don't stand for anything that looks like machine politics; be at your precinct meeting and do your part to keep it straight.

We have inspected the announcement columns of a goodly number of papers of the state, and so far as we are able to ascertain, the record carries more names in its announcement than any publication in Texas, and the Record is published away up here in the Panhandle country where the political offices are not supposed to be very remunerative, and therefore not very much sought after. Including the city candidates, we have already put about fifty into the public confidence. We call that going some, anyway—Vernon Record.

Not being excessively modest as to their ability for office holding has always been a very noticeable characteristic of the average Wilbarger county citizen.

The mission of a newspaper is practically described in this from the Dallas Times-Herald: No newspaper that is a real news paper is an organ. It should be the ambition of every editor or publisher to make his newspaper one that furnishes believable news to even those persons who despise its editorial policy. Few people think alike and it is not reasonable to expect that the newspaper man of good judgment would attempt to trim his sails to fit every political wind that blows. The publisher is responsible only to his own conscience in his editorial columns because they reflect his own opinions but in his news pages he is responsible to the people. He must always strive to tell the truth and bar the remotest suggestion of bias. The highest ambition of every newspaper should be to make even the most vigorous opponents of its editorial policy point to its news columns and say: "We disagree with its logic, but we can ever trust its statements of facts."

Woodrow Wilson, really and candidly is the only Democratic presidential candidate whose name is before all the people of the United States. The others, Clark, Harmon and Underwood, are candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination in spots only. In states where Clark is stronger than either Harmon or Underwood, the names of the two latter are withdrawn and combinations formed by the supporters of Harmon, Clark and Underwood to defeat Wilson. This of itself is, or ought to be proof conclusive that Wilson is the strongest candidate, and if the Democrats hope to win this presidential election they must nominate as their candidate a man who can make an effective appeal to the independent voter.

Neither Underwood or Clark can do that, and as for Gov. Harmon, he seems to have been left at the starting post. Either Underwood or Clark could poll the full Democratic strength. No one has ever doubted that. So could Cubison, or any other Southern man. But that will not be sufficient to elect a president. Woodrow Wilson, in the humble judgment of this paper, is the only candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination who can hope to defeat either Taft or Roosevelt, and if you want to see Wilson the nominee, don't fail to attend the Democratic precinct conventions tomorrow, Saturday, May 4th at 2 p. m.

Up to the hour of going to press no additional names had been added to the already long list of candidates for congressman-at-large. There are only two to be elected and up to date there are twenty aspirants. Northwest Texas is entitled to one of these positions by reason of the fact this section of the State has furnished the greater portion of the increased population of the State during the past ten years. Judge Lancaster of Plainview, was the first candidate from this section of the State to offer, and before doing so made an honest, straightforward effort to find out, if possible, if there were others who were likely to become such. Finding none, he announced, and later Judge Browning from an adjoining county, became a candidate. Both are excellent men, but it would hardly be right for Northwest Texas to ask the balance of the State to vote for both of our candidates, and therefore the Times is going to pick on Lancaster as between the two. South Texas is probably entitled to the other, and in Judge Garret of Houston, they have a man who will be a credit to the State.

A new reason for Bailey's determination to not offer for re-election is presented in the Dallas News which purports to quote the senator as saying that he quit politics for the reason that the people wanted him to declare his position on prohibition. That is a new angle of vision, as directed toward the senator's action, and it is respectfully referred to Col. Wolters, who aspires to the Bailey succession and who declares that prohibition is not an issue. If it was in fact big enough to run Bailey out of the senate, it must be a pretty live subject, even though Bailey agrees with Wolters to the extent of declaring that it ought not to be an issue.—Temple Telegram.

The question is, or at least should be one in the senatorial campaign. So long as the federal government continues to issue liquor licenses to dealers in territory where the people—a majority of them, at least—have said that liquor must not be sold as a beverage, the local option law is defective. The quickest way to remedy such a defect in our federal law is to send men to the senate and congress who will support or favor a federal law that will withhold issuing licenses to liquor dealers in prohibition territory.

The bride and several hundred guests waited in vain in the German Presbyterian Church at Sayreville, N. J., for Emil Flagg, the bridegroom. Finally everybody got tired and went home.

Judge Buckley has established a precedent in San Antonio, by deciding that you can "kick around" any "dwarf" that steals your gingerbread.

Mary Kroup, 1 year old, of Islip, L. I., was born with two little fingers on the left hand, so when Erwin Howell, 12, a neighbor, shot off part of his thumb, nothing was easier than to cut off Mary's extra fingers and use it in giving the boy a new thumb.

To the Democratic Voters of Wichita County

On Saturday, May 4th at 2:00 p. m., you will be called on to express your preference for a Democratic candidate for President.

Believing that Hon. Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey, measures fully up to the Jeffersonian standard as being thoroughly competent, thoroughly honest and a firm believer in the right of the people to control in all government matters, we ask your support for him.

Governor Wilson is in the prime of life, a man of high intellect, a native of the South in sympathy with Southern ideals, and has shown a proper grasp of the things needed to redeem New Jersey from corporate control.

We love him for the enemies he has made, for every machine politician from Maine to California with selfish interests to promote is an anti-Wilson man fighting him bitterly. He is the only man willing to trust his candidacy before the people of the whole United States and who is not "running in spots."

While "Boss Murphy" of New York may not approve of him, we believe that his candidacy meets with cordial approval from the Democratic masses and that he can sweep New York against any republican candidate. A thorough believer in state rights and local self-government, while not advocating either the initiative, referendum or recall in national matters, he is candid enough to admit that in some states it works well and may have been made necessary by local conditions.

Texas, and that the support of Texas will serve notice to the politicians, that the Democratic masses are in earnest.

We appeal to you to go to your voting box at 2:00 p. m. sharp; that you send none, but Wilson men as delegates to the county convention; instruct them to vote for none but Wilson men for delegates to the State convention, and to favor instructions for him as the choice of Texas for President.

The man who wants to send an uneducated delegate wants to take power away from the people and place it in the hands of the politicians. Success for Wilson means Democratic success in November.

We have no enemy for any other candidate, as all are good Democrats, but Governor Harmon has already been left at the post. Mr. Underwood has no chance in the doubtful States of the North, and Mr. Clark is noted for putting his foot in it every time he opens his mouth that we would be on the defensive from the first day that the campaign opens until it closes with him as our nominee, but with Wilson success is certain.

South Canadian river and Woodward a distance of 40 miles, has been completed, and construction trains for the use of the workmen are being operated daily. Following the completion of the short gap between the river and Woodward, about thirty days work will still remain before through train service will be started and this thirty day time will be occupied in straightening the track, ballasting the road bed, and placing the ties so that when the first passenger train is operated over the portion of the extension practically all of the preliminary work will have been completed.

There are a number of new towns along the route of the extension of the Northwestern, and as soon as the first passenger train reaches a number of these, celebrations of different kinds have been planned, and the event will be of some importance in that part of Oklahoma.

The present extension is being built as far as Porgan, a distance of 397 miles from this city. A report gained circulation over the city at noon today that a cyclone would strike Wichita Falls at two o'clock sharp this afternoon. Scores of people telephoned the Times office to ask about the report, while atmospheric conditions were said to be favorable to cyclones none had been reported in this section up to three o'clock this afternoon.

SILHOUTTES ARE AGAIN THE FAD

A New York Artist Says the New Style is the Oldest Type of Photography in the World.

Silhouettes are again the fad. The art of cutting silhouettes was carried to a high degree of perfection by the ancients, as the monochromes on the Egyptian vases testify. Since then it was not much used until the middle of the Eighteenth Century, but was much in vogue in the beginning of the Nineteenth Century, when, owing to the invention of photography it became almost obsolete.

Now society has turned to it again, and carefully made silhouettes are begin to rival in popularity the portraits of art photographers.

"The making of silhouettes has in most cases consisted in tracing a person's shadow on the wall and reducing this outline to a smaller size," says Gustav Wälte, a Fifth Avenue silhouette artist.

"A successful silhouette maker must first of all be an artist, and it requires a peculiar skill which only a few can acquire. Before I took up I studied art at the Royal Academy at Stockholm, and for several years devoted my time to painting.

"I must have inherited my taste for silhouette making from my father, for I gave up painting and began to devote all my time to it. It is not generally known that many prominent artists have turned their attention to cutting silhouettes. Charles

Dana Gibson attained considerable skill at it. However, it takes a peculiar temperament, and of course the financial returns from it are very small. The average person associates the silhouette artist with the faker who cuts profiles at fairs, and circuses while you wait. Some of these fakers do very creditable work, but a silhouette that is really worth while must not only give a correct profile but also show the characteristics of the subject.

"Some of the old-fashioned silhouettes that were cut out of white paper and mounted on black velvet are highly prized today, and many of them have brought high prices. Most of the silhouettes of the present day were quickly and carelessly made, for there are few real silhouette artists in America.

The Predictions of Jeremiah

(Fuel Oil Journal)
Class me with those who grieve. As against all the clarion tongues shrilling in triumphant outcry mine is the still, small voice raised in dissent. I can not concur in the popular acclaim that Standard Oil is too rotten to live and so putrid that it shocked the olfactory of those surgeons-at-

Within my ken is no English term defining vivisection applied for the sole purpose of producing death, which is the reason why I have sprung that new one on you.
Believe me, I refuse to shout with the populace and to carry a large vermillion brick slung in a long black sock with which to smite a Goliath of Gath—or of Gotham. I will not join the maddening throng and assault the gates of No. 26 Broadway with a smattering ram for the sole purpose of squaring myself with the protes-tariat and beating Murphy of the fifth ward for adleman.
I wish to tell you this seriously and without levity, for in my opinion

Standard Oil is not a malefactor but a victim. A victim of popular clamor,
a victim of newspaper verbiage,
a victim of the restless element; a victim of political alchemists turning the water of mental sobriety into the intoxicating wine of balloony; a victim of that tidal wave of mad reform (reform is not meant) now sweeping over the country and which counts unusual profits made by elimination of waste as a crime, and which before your baby boy is old enough to vote the democratic ticket without a scratch will prescribe gutting and gibbeting for any man who has accumulated fifty dollars.
Understand me plainly. I am telling you this with the voice of prophecy and it is neither part nor parcel of the editorial opinion of this journal. I am writing this to you with the bridge off and no man's curb between my teeth. I do not even know if it may not offend the very man who is providing the space wherein I tell you this. He knows me only as a literary privateer sailing the sea of que issued by the King of Thought.

If, perhaps, I scuttle a ship or two for his friends he will not count it against me as treason.
I recall the cartoons of Mr. Rockefeller, scribbled vultures and with the talons of a harpy—that fabled bird zhat lived on human blood. I have seen him played up on the first page by deplimentary artists who drew him bald; and by others limned as lean as a fasting priest and fitted with a head that suspiciously resembled a five-gallon kerosene tin, and feeding on newly-born children. I have read him painted wordwise and blacker than the devil by illiterate making heavy meals on beer and winers, plus as much fry bread as the bartender would permit them to pocket gutwise and noisily. I have heard the street gamins shriek as they ran, "All about John D."; I have heard that immature spawn of the devil's dam—the itinerant street lecturer— inveigh against this man as a priest inveighs against sin; I have heard the throaty demagogue standing on a barrel belting epithet and anthem, tearing the Rockefeller soul to pieces with hands hairy as they were unwashed and flinging the fragments of it down the ears of his whooping auditors as one would scraps of the butchers' slaughtering to a pack of dogs. And I have heard the hurricane of their voices roaring acclaim like the thunder of the storm god's artillery shelling an army of confessors, while at the time, indirectly and through a multiplicity of ramifi-

Your mileage book; it would compel you to order your regular dinner a la carte and at greater cost; it would put manacles on the grocer who sells twenty pounds of sugar for one dollar
when his pound rate is six cents; it would prevent you accepting a gratuitous pair of suspenders from the tribe of Benjamin who pull you logwise into their joints and sell you suits of clothes by sheer brute strength; it would impair the earning ability of the pure in heart who frequently are willing to tear off for you three lies for a dollar and who would chuck your filthy money into your corrupt face were you to ask them to wrap up one for fifty cents.
I wish to protest against the inebriety of it all; against that intoxication produced by swallowing one's own prejudice and following it with a chaser of other men's inverity—a mixing of drinks which puts one under the table quickly. Knowing that the attractive dividends of the Standard Oil Company were to a great extent the result of highly organized economy and elimination of waste; knowing that it discovered and held, and knowing that it discovered and held, a world market to hold, a world market without which the independents could not have existed at all; knowing that it relieved over-production
by this same "found the world selling; knowing that it bought and stored production at times when it didn't really know where to sell it again quickly; knowing that it has been the uncle of the industry and loaned money on petrolic diamonds; knowing that it has had none, or possibly few,
classes with its laboring people;
knowing that its payroll is wider than seven seas; half-knowing that at this very time it is buying the refined surplus of independent companies which can not fight the Dutch-Shell Company at the four points—of the compass on a market—badly shot up;
feeling that a group of mighty organizers—always rare and too few in any industrial epoch—have been thrown to the bears to still the clamor of restless political hysteria I pass it to

WHY MEN OGLE AT CHORUS GIRLS

(Chicago Tribune)

I have never written a play for a man, because as a class, as a whole, men are not the best kind of theatre-goers; they are generally alike, there is no mystery about their theatrical tastes.

When a man has been fighting all day in his office he wants diversion, nothing that makes him think, or feel, or learn anything. If he goes to the theatre at all it is because his women friends want him to take them to see something they like, which is usually nothing that he likes.

If he goes alone he wants to hear light music, and—well, to see all that goes with such music. More men go to see the musical show than to listen to music. What they see is diverting, what they hear doesn't matter. In some theatres, where the big audiences are made up almost exclusively of men, they even laugh heartily at what they hear, which is often worse than anything they see.

But Do Men Have Hearts?

Man as a theatre-goer is an artistic alien, an egoist in search of escape from himself. All artistic effort in the theatre presumably is to please both men and women, of course. I am perfectly willing to get under the man's vest and reach his heart, if I can, and I always try to do so, but it is difficult, because his vest even is often a gay and festive challenge. There is nothing under his vest but his shirt after all.

Man's interest in the theatre is not of a thoughtful kind.

Man as a theatre-goer is difficult to understand. As a theatrical figure in plays on the stage he sees himself interpreted in all his moods, and yet he does not seem to care a bit whether it is a true picture of him or not.

He lacks the gift of introspection. He knows nothing about himself spiritually and does not care. If he has any sympathies at all with what his prototype is doing on the stage, it is usually with quite another viewpoint than that of the woman who is with him in the theatre.

Belasco's Sympathy With Woman
My sympathy has always been keenly in accord with the woman's viewpoint. Not merely because of her tenderness of sex, but because of her quicker sensibility, her truer conception of dramatic incident and feeling. So the woman's viewpoint has always been the most important to me as a playwright, as a producer, as a manager.

The province of the theatre is to trace life in its eventful moments, in the big purposes of love and passion and hatred and jealousy and death. These are the coins with which a woman pays the price of living, an exchange so great, so tremendous in the transition of the few years we call life, that men have never understood its value.

This is why the woman's viewpoint of drama is deeper and finer than the man's. His idol, or rather his lash of life that alone whips him into the fury of action, is business. His whole being stirs only to the clink of money. The woman's price of pain, great and terrible as it is, and as it should be even to him, is what he calls sentiment.

To a man sentiment is more or less painful, too, but it is confusing and he discards it as a useless adjunct of the practical course, the sensible thing for him as a man to do.

Why Sex Alters Viewpoints

A woman's whole existence is in the tragedy of her sex. The man's whole existence is in the tragedy of his failure to succeed in the world, save that which comes to him through the penalties of her sex of which man really knows nothing save when as a sort of watchman over her he is perplexed by them.

That is why their viewpoints of a play are so different. Sitting side by side, the man and woman at the play are as far apart as they can be. To the man in the theatre nothing is ever so real, so significant to him, as it is to the woman. To her the mystery of the play, even if poorly acted may scar her soul or uplift it from the mud and turmoil of her misfortune.

The sort of thing which pleases the man in the theatre is not to be wholly despised, either. His love of woman is inherited, inevitable and pardonable. But what surprises me is that he seeks the illusion of this sort of entertainment as if it were really a recreation. He sits upright in his seat in an immaculate dress suit and ogles his evening away. He will tell his wife that the music is beautiful when he means that the girls look beautiful and when she knows what he really means but pretends otherwise.

Ogling is a diversion among men in the theatre that has been responsible for the sort of shows that women don't care to see. I am told that in this class of entertainment lines are spoken on a public stage to certain audiences exclusively of men that are inconceivable for their vulgarity and inanity.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR GOES TO DALLAS CO.

Rev. E. S. Lowrance to Leave Wichita Falls After Two Years Service Here.

Rev. E. S. Lowrance, who has been in Wichita Falls with the Central Presbyterian Church for more than two years has accepted similar work near Dallas, and will move there next week. He will organize and build a church at Kaufman and supply Crandall and Maypearl, besides doing a general evangelistic work. He closes his service on Sunday with the Central Presbyterian Church. A successor has not been fully determined upon, but the church hopes to have some one to take up the work in the near future.

TIRED OF LIMELIGHT

Girl in the Beattie Case Going to Chicago to "Escape Notoriety."

Peoria, Ill., May 3.—Beulah Binford, who figured as "the woman in the case" in the trial which resulted in the execution of Henry Clay Beattie for the murder of his wife at Richmond, Va., is going to Chicago to escape notoriety. On her arrival here with her mother she was besieged by curiosity seekers and said she would leave for Chicago at once.

"For heaven's sake!" cried Beulah, "can't people let me alone? I am not in the limelight. I am not doing things that would cause notoriety and I do not seek it. I am living a sane life and intend to do so until I die."

According to the girl and her mother, they have been in California, secluded in a small coast town and reoperating after the ordeal through which they passed less than eight months ago.

When asked if she would return to be footlights Beulah replied: "No, never. I do not care to get into the limelight. God knows I have been in it enough."

Rohatco's Mineral Water.

Highly recommended by physicians and patrons who have tested its merits, for indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, kidney and bladder trouble. This water stimulates the secretion of the stomach, increases digestion and favors a more complete absorption of the food and prevents the action of germs that cause typhoid and other infectious diseases.

This water can be purchased at the wells or delivered in jugs or cases. This well is located one mile south of Alamo school building in Floral Heights, two deliveries daily morning and afternoon. G. J. Rohatco, Owner. Phone 1601—1 long—4 shorts.

GOVERNOR WOODROW WILSON

The Power of Politics Lies in the Primary

Wilson Democrats of Wichita County Should Attend the Precinct Conventions to Be Held in Each of the Voting Boxes

Saturday, May 4th, at 2 p. m.

And There Express Their Preference For a Presidential Candidate By Instructing Delegates to the County Convention to Vote for Wilson / Delegates to the State Convention

Why He Should Be the Democratic Standard Bearer

Since James K. Polk was elected in 1844 (before the annexation of Texas), no Democrat from the South has been President of the United States; during the last half century, no Democrat from the South has even been seriously mentioned for this high position; during this fifty years the South has furnished three-fourths of the Democratic Congressmen, and over three-fourths of the Democratic electoral votes; it has loyally supported Northern and Western men for the highest offices, but it has felt that the day would come when its loyalty would be remembered and one of its sons again direct the destinies of the nation.

"The hour and the man have arrived; a man who has had neither time nor inclination to serve predatory interests and reap the pecuniary rewards which such service brings; a man who has been too busy studying, teaching, and applying the principles of government to become a professional politician; a man of whom his political enemies could only say that he was austere, truthful and painfully honest; a man born, reared and educated in the South, who lived six years in the very stronghold of the enemies of Democracy, and then, in the most brilliant campaign since the war, turned a New Jersey Republican majority of 80,000; and, above all, a man who has lived a clean life, carried out to the letter; pledges made, and been an inspiration to all who believe in the principles of government announced by Thomas Jefferson.

"No political machinery, no party bosses, can take Texas from Woodrow Wilson if the people exercises the privilege which is theirs, of attending to their own business in their own way."

News From The Oil Fields

Log of Well at Loveland.

(Frederick Leader)

Progress has been delayed at the Big Pasture Oil and Gas Development company's well at Loveland during the past week. Drilling had to be suspended for three days while repairs were being made on the boiler. A new boiler has been ordered for the outfit but has not yet arrived. Monday the drill was working in soft, sticky clay, which was very difficult. This clay adheres to the drill, is difficult to bail and oozes back into the well almost as fast as it can be bailed out. It appeared Monday that it probably would be necessary to stop and put in eight inch casing to overcome this difficulty. Driller Carson is proceeding just as rapidly as circumstances will permit, and the arrival of the new boiler will do away with the necessity of having any further delay on this account. The company is exerting every effort to get the pay sand, which it feels confident lies beneath, just as soon as possible.

A traveling man who was at Loveland said that interest in the result of the boring at Loveland was wide spread, and that in numerous cities he had seen the Leader eagerly welcomed in order that the latest news from Big Pasture No. 1 might be ascertained.

Below is published the log of this well to the depth of 750 feet, showing indications of the most favorable kind:

Yesterday afternoon the Leader received a telephone message saying oil had been found in the Cabelks well, at Rocky Ford, but not in paying quantities. A slight oil deposit was struck at 1,200 feet and a better showing was made at 1,500. The indications are most encouraging, but the well has not been brought in yet. Rocky Ford is six miles east and a mile north of Grandfield—Frederick Leader.

Altus Will Try Again

(Altus Times)

With a firm conviction that Jackson county is underlaid in part at least with paying strata of gas, or oil, the Altus Gas and Oil Company, composed of local business men, has let a contract for sinking a 1,500 foot hole on the northwest corner of the James Humphries' farm, 13 miles southeast of Altus, and by the hour this issue of the Times is in the hands of its readers it is believed that the drill will have already started on its downward path and into the bowels of the earth.

H. P. Nichols of Petrolia, Texas, the man who drilled the well for the city of Altus, has the contract and the price is close to $10,000, according to one of the members of the company, the driller to furnish everything. Humphries' farm was chosen as the place for sinking the hole for the reason that it is in the center of Stinking Creek valley, and about the lowest spot in the county, and believed by many persons to be the most promising spot for pay sand in the entire county.

The Altus Gas and Oil Company has something like 5,000 to 8,000 acres under lease near Humphries, Plev Valley and Hightower switch. A. H. Jackman is president, Benjamin Russell vice president, A. S. J. Shaw, secretary, and S. C. High-

A New Game for Poker Fans

Louisville Times.
They've sprung a new game, the poker fiends. It's called "drink or smell." The entertaining amusement may be played by any number from two to eight, and is governed by Hoyle's rules for straight poker.

First, one must have a pack of cards and a table. Next a lifesize bottle of Kentucky mountain dew and one glass.

Note: One glass.
A hand of poker is dealt around, and the winner, after the regular draw, is entitled to a drink. The losers only have a smell from the neck of the bottle. This continues until the juke is exhausted, when another bottle is procured.

There is only one drawback to the game. That is, admit no gamblers. Otherwise the game will terminate thusly:
The wisenheimers will allow one or two men, depending upon the size of the game, to win all the pots and get away with most of the refreshment. Then, when the bourbon is gone, a "little game for a quarter and a dollar" will be suggested and usually begun. Naturally the man in the best condition has the best chance. "Drink or smell" is all right—when gentlemen play it.

ANOTHER SESSION OF COUNCIL TUESDAY NIGHT

Little was done at the meeting of the city council Thursday night—that is little business was transacted in open session. There was an executive session that lasted longer than the open session and the reporter and others were excluded from attendance hereon. What was discussed was not even hinted at. Several things might have been discussed at that session but it wouldn't be proper to surmise what they were.

The session was adjourned to meet again next Tuesday evening when what was done in the executive session may be learned. The report of the treasurer and other officials will also be heard at that session.

Other than the allowance of a number of bills and the adoption of two ordinances giving the Fort Worth & Denver right of way, nothing was done at the open session. The ordinance for right of way for spur tracks on along Michigan avenue in the vicinity of the brick plant.

over, treasurer. The progress at his well will be watched with interest.

ALFALFA CROWING IN WICHITA COUNTY

E. D. Conklin, G. L. Hester, Royal Parker and the writer, visited Warren J. Cottrell's alfalfa patch Sunday afternoon and after we had gone through the 10-acre field, we felt as if the owner sure had something to feel proud of. All the way through, we found the alfalfa averaging from 12 to 20 inches, with roots down 24 inches where they would break off. In some places the alfalfa is beginning to bud and within the next two weeks most of the hay will be in bloom and then Mr. Cottrell will make his first crop of alfalfa in Wichita county. He figures on making three more cuttings this year.

We understand there are several other small patches of this hay north and south of the Park that is looking mighty good.

Mr. Cottrell says the only thing this land lacks, is lime, and he is now figuring on having a carload of lime shipped to this county from Jackson county, for the purpose of distributing over his farm as well as other farms in this county. He says it can be loaded on the cars for 25 cents per ton, and its up to the railroads to haul it to Wichita Falls at a very reasonable price.

This lime will not only help the land to grow alfalfa, but will be a blessing for raising wheat, oats, corn, potatoes, etc.

Mr. Farmer, you who said about two years ago, when this Iowa farmer came here and began breaking his 10 acres to put into alfalfa, "will get his eye teeth cut when he grows this feed stuff in this part of Texas," ought to go to this farm the first time you come to town and see for yourself that Cottrell's experience was not all dreams.

We hope to see the day soon, when every farmer in this county who has the nerve to "stick" will have a patch of alfalfa growing on his farm.—Iowa Park Herald.

Buy Site For Permanent Home
San Antonio, Texas, May 3.—The San Antonio Chamber of Commerce has purchased a lot on St. Mary's street, 81 feet by 250 feet. It is the intention of the organization to erect a permanent home on the property, which will rival in size and equipment any similar building in the country. The purchase of land for a permanent home is the result of the combining of all commercial organizations in San Antonio making it necessary to secure larger headquarters. The purchase price is reported to be $79,000.

A CIGAR

That is properly kept is like food properly cooked. There is satisfaction in every puff. A Connecticut cabbage leaf two for a nickel stogy in proper condition has the best pure Havana cigar beat to a whisper when the cigar is bone dry or too moist. The keeping of cigars in the exact condition that appeals to the taste of the connoisseur is not so much an art as it is an everlasting job that must be looked after every-day in the year. When cigars are too dry they powder like thin glass and the wrappers peel, when too moist they are soggy and covered with white mold. Our cigars are properly cared for, a man spends a part of every day on the cigar case, looks foolish don't it? Well we get pay for our pains. We have customers who walk five blocks to buy cigars from us, many of them pass several places where cigars are sold, but left to take care of themselves. We would like to make this talk good.

As Stevenson Saw It
London Chronicle.
Robert Louis Stevenson took a characteristically original view of the rewards of literature. In a letter to Mr. Edmund Gosse, he writes: "As for the art we practice, I have never been able to see why its professors should be respected. They chose the primrose path; when they found it was not all primrose, but some of it brambly, and much of it uphill, they began to think and to speak of themselves as holy martyrs. But a man is never martyred in any honest sense in the pursuit of his pleasure; and delirium tremens has more of the honor of the cross. We are full of the pride of life, and chose to live by a pleasure. We should be paid if we gave the pleasure we pretend to give; but why should we be honored?"

SEPERATE BOARD FOR BOYS' DEPARTMENT
The boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association is to have a board of directors of its own. At a recent meeting of the boys, this was decided upon and ten members of the board were chosen. Five more will be elected at a later date. While the boys' department is under the control of the general directorate, there are many matters which it was felt the younger members were able to handle. Plans for summer activities are under way at the Association. A tennis court has been laid off near the building and there will be other outdoor sports provided for the members. The plans for the joint summer camp are also taking form and it seems certain that the cooperation of Fort Worth and Sherman will be secured.
