

Needs No Sherlock Holmes to Know Who are Properly Underwared These Days

Note the feisty, nervous uncomfortable person who is hunching his shoulders up on one side then on the other—that person is wearing either ill-fitting underwear, or underwear of the wrong weight. Then behold the serene one who seems only intent upon the thing he is doing, entirely oblivious of the fact that he is wearing underwear, because he wears the right sort; probably he is wearing a Combination Suit, the ideal in underwear comfort. We commend Union Suits, because we believe they are the right Underwear.

No Factor Can Ever Compare With Religion In Any Man's Life

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

By WILLIAM J. BRYAN, Statesman and Lecturer

RELIGION is the ONLY FOUNDATION UPON WHICH A SYSTEM OF MORAL CODES CAN BE BUILT. Neither now nor in the years to come can we find a man or group of men whose code of morals has not been founded on the teachings of Christ. If we wait for a man to be fully matured before he gets his moral foundation he is ruined, yet the law says that he cannot vote or dispose of his property until he is mature and is of age.

We will all find that the FOUNDATIONS OF OUR CHARACTER WERE MADE IN OUR YOUTH. If there are any who think that religion makes a man a weakling let him look at the great body forming the men and religion forward movement and deny that there is such a thing as a God.

We need one day in every seven, or maybe more, for the supplying of spiritual nutriment. We must feed our physical bodies three times a day. If our souls were as hungry as our physical bodies the churches need never be empty. AS FOOD SUSTAINS US PHYSICALLY, SO DOES THE CHURCH MORALLY AND SPIRITUALLY.

It will always be found that the youth with high moral ideas would surpass the one who thought of nothing save himself and his own pleasures.

NEVER HAVE WE NEEDED THE STRENGTH OF MORALS IN A NATION MORE THAN WE DO NOW. FOR NO FACTOR CAN BE COMPARED WITH RELIGION IN EVERY LIFE. WE HAVE GOVERNMENT, AND WE HAVE EDUCATION, BOTH PROBABLY THE BEST IN THE LAND, AND THE GOVERNMENT MAY PLANT AND INSTITUTIONS EDUCATE, BUT GOD MUST GIVE THE INCREASE.

Improvements Needed to Make Our Army Inferior to None

By Major General LEONARD WOOD, Chief of Staff, U. S. A.

Major General LEONARD WOOD

THE number of graduates of West Point should be increased, and the first thirty alternates who pass the highest successful examinations each year should be appointed to the academy by the president. At least THREE-FOURTHS OF THE OFFICERS OF THE ARMY SHOULD BE WEST POINT GRADUATES.

A FITTING RESERVE SHOULD BE PROVIDED. MEN IN CIVIL LIFE SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED TO GO INTO THE ARMY FOR SHORT PERIODS.

In Europe it is generally recognized that training in the army is BENEFICIAL TO ALL MEN, and a similar idea should be encouraged here. If this is done the United States will be much better prepared for emergencies than it is now.

We now want to reorganize the army along safe and conservative lines. We want legislation to make the militia available for service outside of the country, and we also want legislation which will enable us to CALL OUT VOLUNTEERS WHENEVER NEEDED.

We want a well balanced army, so that it can be organized into working units and so that it can be mobilized at places where it is needed with the smallest expenditure of time and money. When we get what we are now working for we will have AN ARMY INFERIOR TO NONE IN THE WORLD.

"Why Do I Have to Be Poor When Others Are Rich?"

By Professor EDWARD A. ROSS, University of Wisconsin

THESE are some of the questions which the people of today are asking themselves:

- WHY DO I HAVE TO BE POOR WHEN OTHERS ARE RICH?
- WHY MUST WE DO THINGS WE HATE TO DO?
- WHY MUST I BE HAMPERED BY HONESTY AND VERACITY WHEN OTHERS PROFIT BY THEM?
- WHY MUST ONE BE LOYAL TO A HUSBAND WHEN THERE IS SOME ONE ELSE ONE LIKES BETTER?
- WHY NOT GET A DIVORCE WHEN BOTH PARTIES TO A MARRIAGE HAVE CEASED TO CARE FOR ONE ANOTHER AND WANT SOME ONE ELSE WHO IS ALSO DISSATISFIED?

The people ask these questions, and they are not satisfied. There is a tendency to apply to their conduct the rule that ANYTHING IS ALL RIGHT IF IT DOES ANOTHER NO HARM. As a result we are getting a code of ethics that does not fill the bill.

A new map of the oil regions of Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma comprising parts of the counties of Wilbarger, Wichita and Clay counties, Texas; Tipton and Comanche counties, Oklahoma is now offered to the public. This is the only map ever published showing the direct connection of the original surveys joining Texas with Oklahoma.

This information is not obtainable either in the General Land Office in Texas or the United States and can be obtained only from this map or by actual surveys on the ground. The map is 25x39 inches and covers an area of three thousand five hundred square miles. All creeks, rivers, railroads, towns and villages are shown and also gives the original surveys in each of the five named counties. All "wildcat" wells now drilling are shown in red; the oil fields of Electra and Petrolia are also correctly shown. A new feature of this map is the trend or extension of the oil sand is outlined by red arrows. I have only a few of these maps. The price is $2.50; cloth $3.50. Your check will do me. W. M. SOME HISTORY BEHIND JOHN BAKER'S HOME RUNS.

When John Franklin Baker clouted Matty and Marquard for those heroic homers last October, not one in 1,000,000 knew that behind those heroic hits was a little story.

Last summer wee Donnie Bush of the Tigers had a bat that looked like one of Zbyszko's legs. It was a war club that would make a Fiji Islander's eyes sparkle. It took a man with shoulders to wield the Dudgeon and Donnie, who is only a human mite, found that he had much trouble to lift the stick.

Baker happened along and got to talking to Donnie, and picked up the latter's bat. He swung the bat around and got stuck on it right away.

"Want that stick, Baker?" Bush said.

"Sure I do," came back the Mack-man's reply to the tiny Tiger.

"It's yours," said Bush.

That was the stick that Baker used to pole those four-basers, and that's the model that he used when he ordered a dozen of the same sort last winter.

AND SOUTHPAW PITCHERS.
Doc. White, the left-handed pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, has a convincing answer for the everlasting question: "Why can't a left-handed batter successfully hit a southpaw twirler?"

White's answer to the query was: "It's the simplest thing in the world. The majority of pitchers in the big leagues are right-handed, are they not? When you were a kid and played lots, the majority of pitchers then were right-handed, were they not?"

Admitting that, isn't it reasonable to assume that a ball player, from his earliest days to the time he gets into the big leagues hits against the right-handed pitchers twice as often as he does against southpaw?

"Well, that's the answer, and that's all there is to it."

"If the big leagues should decide to carry half a dozen left-handed pitchers and only one or two right-handers, you would find that in the course of a very short time all these fellows who cannot hit left-handed pitchers would soon be able to solve the port-side shoots.

"Take Cy Cobb, for instance," says White. "I used to pitch against him when he first broke into the American league. He was the easiest kind of a proposition for me. But now—well, I can't fool him any more, and no other left-hander can; I don't care who he is."

"It is claimed that Vean Gregg, the Cleveland southpaw, was the only man who could serve up something. Ty could hit last season. This may be true, but you can gamble that if Gregg stays in the American league very long Cobb will be able to get him."

REFERS TO ROOSEVELT'S VIEWS ON RECIPROcity.

By Associated Press
Dexter City, Ohio, May 13.—When Taft remarked here today he "understood this was a Roosevelt town," if man yelled back "It is." "They say you are against me because I favored reciprocity," said Taft. "You are utterly illogical in opposing me on that ground because before I entered into it, Roosevelt commended me most highly for going into the business and approved it in every way. Now that he finds reciprocity is not popular with the farmers he repents and says that—well, he has changed his mind."

The Swine or The Flower?
Ah me! I saw a huge and bathosome sty wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred,
Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;
Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of lard!"

I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first
One glistening mass of roses pure and white,
With dewy buds amid dark green foliage nursed;
And, as I lingered o'er the lovely sight,
The summer breeze, that cooled that Southern scene,
Whispered, "Behold the source of COT-TOLENE!"

Bobby Myers Pitches Masterly Game,

Striking Out Eleven Men.

Special to the Times:
Durant, Okla., May 14.—Wichita Falls made a clean sweep of the series here, winning the third and last game yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. Yesterday's victories moved the Drillers into second place in the percentage column, with only Bonham between them and the first station.

Bobby Myers pitched yesterday's game and while he was reached for eight hits, they were widely scattered and netted only one score. He sent eleven Durant players back to the bench or strike-outs and seemed to be in splendid form. Naylor is still on the injured list and Chapman worked behind the bat again today.

The Drillers left last night for Greenville for a series of four games. Since leaving home they played seven games, winning six and if they are able to keep up this pace for awhile first place will be theirs. Yesterday's score:

OUR BIRTHDAY.

Five years ago today—on May 14, 1907—the first issue of the Daily Times was printed. This is our birthday and for a five-year old we are feeling pretty strong.

That first issue told of the plans for extending the Northwestern, which then halted just across the river in the Big Pasture, but which now extends all the way across Western Oklahoma, putting Wichita Falls in touch with the people and products of that inland empire.

The first issue told of the plans for building the Wichita Falls and Southern—now a reality. "This is not a paper railroad," said the Times then.

The first issue told of plans for building the opera house—and the splendid edifice on Tenth street bears witness today to the fruition of those plans.

Looking back at that first issue and realizing the progress which this first decade has shown, we can only hope that the next five years may record a story of advancement and of growth that will make the accomplishments of the past seem puny in comparison.

ELIMINATION OF PROHIBITION

The Tribune is of that school which believes prohibition to be a moral question and a subject of police power. It sympathizes profoundly with those who are insistent that it should be eliminated from politics and relegated to the domain to which it properly belongs.

How can prohibition be eliminated from politics when the chief exponent of anti-prohibition is straining every nerve to secure the exalted station of United States senator, with no other claim or commendation except that he led the recent fight against prohibition and as such leader distinguished the contest by the most lavish and extravagant use of money ever known to Texas politics.

But for the fact of his leadership of the anti forces, Jake Wolters would be practically unknown today. The leadership brought him notoriety because of the charges of corruption in the campaign he conducted. He is known to have barely escaped jail for refusing to tell the source of the vast sum he expended. He boasted that he would go to jail rather than say who furnished those thousands or what use was made of them.

But for the fact of that leadership, Jake Wolters would have found it difficult to have justified his candidacy for the state senate, and would have never dreamed of the United States Senate. But for that leadership, he would still be the paid lobbyist of the Pullman Car company, a position he held for years. But for that leadership the contest for United States senate would be pitched on economic lines and not on prohibition.

But with Jake Wolters a candidate for high place, anti-prohibitionists force the issue. With a governor who was not content to let the people settle the prohibition question, but who must inject himself and state politics into the fight, anti-prohibitionists are forcing the fight. So long as aspirants to the highest office in the gift of the people come with no other claim upon the electorate than their relation to the prohibition question there will be prohibition in politics.

The Tribune deprecates the condition. But the Tribune does not believe the prohibition can be eliminated so long as men who seek political office whose only claim upon public consideration is due to their leadership in anti-prohibition fights—Austin Tribune.

NEWSPAPER GAME.

WANTED—Man to help run country weekly; must know the business from the hell-box up; $12 per week. In contemplation of the above, which appeared in a state paper recently, we find little to cheer and less to enthuse. We can sympathize with the editor of the Byers Herald, who last week received the following misadvice:

Editor Byers Herald: Why don't you say something 'bout us common folks staid of town people all the time and hall games. We had a baby at our place last week but it wasn't in your paper. We have to have twins or triplets before you say something in your paper when I thrashed I was going to take your paper but now I won't say 'tild'n say nothing 'bout our baby. It will be a long time before you get another chance.

One whose feelings is hurt. D. J. C. Troubles such as these, however, fade into puny insignificance when we read the account which the editor of the Hammond (Okla.) Advocate gives of himself, as follows:

The Leedy Herald took occasion last week to pull us over the coals about not reading proof in a way that proofs ought "fer to be read." In other words he insinuates that our proof reader has been keeping had company.

But listen to a plain straight tale. On Wednesday, our proof reading day, the editor, who is also proof reader, was on other business. We arose at six o'clock, helped our wife get breakfast, then went down to the office after breakfast, instructed our printers, secured two good ads on the way. At eight o'clock we started out for our school which is a township graded school of which all Custer county ought to be and is justly proud, and of which we are principal, taught school all day, came home at five, went to the office and worked till after and led the prayer meeting. After prayer meeting, we went back to the office and wrote "copy" till twelve o'clock.

Now, if the Herald editor will come over to Hammond and keep up with us for a solid eighteen hours, we would just like to see the kind of proof he would read the other six, as strong and able as he is.

The Waxahachie Enterprise suggests that "results in Saturday's primary wrote a message on the wall that Governor Colquitt, Colonel Wolters, Hieston Johnston et al, ought to be able to read without the assistance of an interpreter." And the preservation is very true. The Wilson victory in Texas, as we see it, means the downfall of the machine in Texas, which supported Governor Harmon and which is now supporting both Governor Colquitt and Colonel Wolters. The opposition has been in the majority all the time; but heretofore the machine has been able to divide it on some extraneous issue or another, with the resultant success. The opposition this time refused to divide; if, indeed, it didn't succeed in getting the machine to do a little dividing itself. The result was an overwhelming victory. Governor Wilson on the late returns lacking only ten votes of getting twice as many convention votes as Harmon and Clark together. The effort has been long under way by the machine to divide the opposition against Governor Colquitt and Colonel Wolters. If the Wilson result is any criterion—and we believe it is a certain one—the effort will be wholly without avail, and the results in the Colquitt-Ramsey and Wolters-Shepard races can be easily foretold.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

Clarence Ousley's Reply to Judge Swayne

The Times a few days ago published the charge delivered by Judge Swayne of Fort Worth to the grand jury, in which extended reference was made to the Norris case. Following is reproduced Clarence Ousley's reply to Judge Swayne:

With much reluctance, but under a commanding sense of duty to two grand juries, composed of honorable citizens, to a set of faithful county officers, to diligent city officers and to several witnesses for the State in a recent prosecution, I challenge the statement made from the bench by Judge James W. Swayne, made in a charge to the grand jury of the Seventeenth district court, that "somebody has been trying to put up a job" on Rev. J. Frank Norris of this city.

And I voice the view of all unprejudiced men that his utterances in respect to this matter violate every judicial propriety and tend to arrest the free course of grand jury inquiry. Never before, perhaps, in the history of English jurisprudence, did a trial judge instruct a grand jury to refrain from investigating crime from any angle or as to any individual; never before, perhaps, did a judge presume to pronounce a possible defendant innocent in advance of testimony, as Judge Swayne did in the statement, "I am as thoroughly convinced as I am of anything on earth that Dr. Norris did not burn his own house—I don't care who swears it;" never before, perhaps, did a judge denounce witnesses testifying at the behest of the State as "that crowd that has been swearing against Dr. Norris."

The entire deliverance has the effect of an indictment against eighteen out of twenty-four men constituting two grand juries, against the department of the county attorney, against the sheriff's department, against the city police, against the State's witnesses and against a large part of the citizenship of Fort Worth—an indictment charging in effect that they were all conspirators or the dupes of a conspiracy. It has the further effect in view of the arson charge now pending, of creating bias in the public mind to such an extent that it will be difficult to obtain an unprejudiced trial jury, for the opinion uttered comes with the solemnity of a deliberate judicial determination. It is no hot partisan or sympathetic friend speaking; it is a man clothed with judicial prestige who is presumed to know something of the evidence, and who in wholesale fashion impeaches the intelligence or the civic virtue of a cloud of witnesses and proclaims to the world that there is an infamous plot in this city to destroy an innocent man.

Much license is allowed to lawyers in defending persons accused of crime and a license too often abused to the shame of the profession, and to the outrage of helpless witnesses; and much is to be endured in the excitement and passion of factional feeling. For these reasons citizens of Fort Worth, members of the two grand juries and witnesses, have borne in patient silence much insinuation and downright calumny because they respected the law's presumption of innocence, because their lips were sealed by official oath and because they were willing for the truth to develop or to stand as judicially ascertained under all the safeguards of the law.

Nothing will be said herein that is intended or can be fairly construed to question the verdict already rendered or to influence verdicts hereafter to be rendered. Indeed, as to the verdict rendered in the perjury case, all intelligent men who read the trial judge's charge will agree that whatever the impression made upon the jury by the evidence submitted, a verdict of acquittal was imperative, for the charge specifically declared that if the oath was not administered afresh at the time of the interrogation at which the perjury indictment was returned, there could be no conviction. The weight of testimony was that the oath was not administered afresh at that time. Under this charge from the bench the men who composed the grand jury that indicted would have acquitted if they had composed the trial jury.

Therefore, as to the perjury case the defendant is innocent under the terms of the law, as declared by the judge, and as to the arson case he is presumed to be innocent until guilt is established.

The point of comment is not the innocence or the guilt of the defendant; it is the unprecedented, inexcusable and shocking prejudgment by Judge Swayne and his unwarranted reflections upon a body of men called to the State's service and a group of citizens recklessly arraigned as conspirators against innocence and righteousness. Such conduct calls for protest in the name of judicial propriety, grand jury efficiency, fair dealing and common justice. No man should question the processes of a court in the exercise of its functions, when its functions are exercised according to the spirit of the law. But when a judge abandons the judicial attitude of his position, when from the bench he utters aspersion and when he undertakes to prevent grand juries from the free exercise of their responsibilities, under their oaths make investigation without spite or malice and to render judgment without fear or favor, then criticism becomes a duty which will not be restrained by a man clothed with authority and arrogant to himself the powers of judge, grand jury, petit jury and supreme arbiter of truth and justice.

Who were the grand juries that brought the indictments against this defendant? Here is the first, which was assembled in December, a full month before any of the sensational episodes developed: J. Grow, Mansfield; Joel East, Eberman; M. L. Bowles, city; L. B. Brown, Smithfield; George Hunter, Saginaw; George Colvin, city; Julian Palk, city; J. R. Walker, Azle; T. B. Yarbrough, city; W. W. Wilson, Crowley; A. S. McMorris, city; Clarence Ousley, city. Of these twelve men six were from the city of Fort Worth and six resided outside of the city. Of these twelve men eight are State-wide prohibitionists, and a majority are active members of the church.

Here is the second grand jury: B. F. Dwiggins, city; Elmer Renfro, city; K. C. McGee, city; Walter Watts, city; James Daniels, Grapevine; A. H. Copeland, Arlington; James Sidebottom, Johnson Station; Judd Allen, Keller; James Childress, Benbrook; T. P. Hittman, Euless; H. C. Cantrell, city; A. M. Scott, city. Of these twelve men a majority are prohibitionists and a majority are church members.

As to the first grand jury, it is here affirmed upon knowledge that when assembled no member of it had the remotest contemplation of any investigation of any person whatever; and it is further affirmed upon knowledge that at the outbreak of the sensational incidents under review no member entertained a suspicion of the guilt of any person whatever.

As to the second grand jury, it is affirmed upon reliable information that at the outset a majority believed in the innocence of J. Frank Norris.

As to both, it is manifest upon the face of these facts that a majority being prohibitionists and some church members voted to indict.

To prove conspiracy or a plot or prejudice, it must be shown that such men as J. Grow of Mansfield, George Hunter of Saginaw, L. B. Brown of Smithfield, J. R. Walker of Azle, James Daniels of Grapevine and A. H. Copeland of Arlington, all prohibitionists, church members, God fearing men and good citizens, who enjoy the love and respect of their neighbors, were too stupid to weigh evidence, or were parties to an infamous conspiracy. No intelligent and fair man will believe either alternative, one of which is necessary to sustain Judge Swayne's charge of a "job." It is such men as these whom Judge Swayne in-dicts, and the simple recital of the facts is sufficient to refute his charge and to demonstrate the recklessness of his speech.

Judge Swayne tells the grand jury "to examine and see if somebody else didn't do it and try to get some other witnesses." He insinuates that detectives who testified for the State might have been influenced by rewards. I join in the admonition to the grand jury "to examine and see if somebody else didn't do it," and I submit for the grand jury's information that there were other detectives. I call upon them to summon Detective Willis of the Burns agency, Detective O'Flaherty of Fort Worth, Detective John H. H. of Fort Worth, Detective Simpson of Fort Worth, Detective McDonald of State Ranger fame, and Detective Ed Davis of Oklahoma—the last named being the uncle of the defendant—all of whom were employed by the defendant's friends. Here are more detectives than testified for the state—some as a matter of fact, only one detective testified for the State and he testified in rebuttal. These men are experienced officers; surely they were not working for a reward; they were diligent in trying to fix the crime upon others than the defendant. Let the grand jury also hear the defendant himself, who did not see fit to testify before the trial court in his own behalf; let all these men tell what they know or what they have learned, and let the grand jury render judgment accordingly.

This is no longer a question of the guilt or the innocence of the defendant; that issue belongs to the courts who will determine it upon the evidence under the law. This is a question of the guilt or the innocence of two grand juries, the county attorney's department, the sheriff's department, the department of the city police, a group of witnesses and a large body of citizens; this issue belongs to the public because Judge Swayne has thrust it upon the public; and this answer is made, not as to James W. Swayne, a private citizen, whose personal accusation is worthy of nothing more than contempt, but to a presiding judge, whose gross violation of judicial propriety would not otherwise be understood beyond this city.

This communication is made with profound regret. For propriety's sake, for my oath's sake, I have hit my tongue while I heard this community two grand juries, honorable witnesses and myself assailed without justification and maligned without reason. So long as the misrepresentation and abuse came from partisans and from hired lawyers, I held it to be the duty of all other citizens to refrain from public expression, but when a judge upon the bench makes official record of indictment against good citizens acting under oath as solemn as his, I dare to protest, whatever the cost to myself, and to invoke the judgment of all fair citizens upon the issue which he has wantonly provoked.

OUSLEY AND THE RECALL.

Waco Times Herald. We are printing on this page the caustic criticism of Judge Swayne by Clarence Ousley. We do this in no partisan spirit, but for reasons which will disclose themselves as we proceed.

In the first place these remarks, by the Fort Worth editor, make an important chapter in a cause celebre, and in the second place they raise the issue of Mr. Ousley's fidelity to his own preachments.

For months and months Mr. Ousley has been crying out against the Recall, and particularly has he insisted that the judiciary should be above the passions of the hour.

But here we have him using his pen and his paper to bring a judicial officer into public contempt, which it seems to us, is far worse than it would be for the public to pass on this officer's fitness to administer justice.

We would suppose that Judge Swayne would take note of this assault on what is called the judicial dignity, and should send Mr. Ousley to jail, what would be Mr. Ousley's opinion of the sanctity that both hedge a judge about?

We believe in every proper regard for the courts and for the men called to preside therein. But certainly there should be some method of holding a federal judge, for instance, to a decent regard for the rights of the individual. Judge Swayne is only a State judge, and therefore is answerable to the public at stated intervals. Already a movement has been started by Editor Ousley to have him "recalled" at the next general election, and Editor Ousley has been telling us that the temple of our liberties would fall about our heads if we subjected our judges to popular clamor.

It is a question—this thing of dealing with the judiciary—that no man cares to decide offhand. We want our courts for the adjudication of disputes as to property and for the trial of offenders against the peace of society. We also want them to protect us from hasty and dastardly legislation. But we can not acquiesce in the notion that a judge can rightfully become a despot, imprisoning at will and sanctioning wholesale robbery.

We are not here making accusation against Judge Swayne; the right or the wrong of what he has done is not under consideration. We are dealing with judicial practices in general, merely using this Ousley libel to show that there is a libel—or rather should be—to the judicial authority when same is exercised against the inalienable rights of the individual.

CHALLENGES OPPONENT TO SERIES OF DEBATES.

The Times has been requested to publish the following: "Hon. E. W. Napier, Electra, Texas. Dear Sir: Being convinced that the voters of Wichita and Wilbarger counties have a just right, and ought to know our views on questions that will come before the next Legislature, and how we will each vote on important matters if elected representative of this district; I suggest to you that we have a joint discussion of the issues that are involved, holding at least five such meetings in each county. This will be the most satisfactory way to get our claims before the people so that they may determine whom they will support in this race. In as much as this is a matter of interest to all people in the district I am taking the liberty of handing a copy of this letter to the press. An early reply will be appreciated. Yours truly, 'PATRICK HENRY'."

What the Women of Texas Are Doing for Their State

Austin, Texas, May 14.—Many women of the legislature it was recently taken over by the state.

Mrs. C. Adair is a close rival of Mrs. King in the matter of land ownership in this state. Her ranch is situated near Clarendon and embraces more than 11,000,000 acres of land. Unlike Mrs. King, however, she leaves the active management of the property to others. She spends part of each year in Europe and figures prominently in society in England during her periodical visits to that country.

FEW ARRESTS TODAY IN CHICAGO STRIKE.

Chicago, May 13.—Fewer arrests were made today in the newspaper strike than at any time since the trouble started. As a result of the failure to join in sympathetic strike, pickets who tried to prevent street sales were not as aggressive as formerly. Papers were sold today without police protection.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS IN ALLEN CASE STARTED.

Wytheville, Va., May 13.—Final argument began today in the case of Floyd Allen; it may not go to the jury before late Wednesday. Trial began two weeks ago.

Mrs. Edw. C. Dodd of Texas is known as the Onion Queen from the fact that she has made a fortune out of growing Bermuda onions during the last few years. Her farm is in the Valley of the Rio Grande, near Laredo. She became interested in the industry a few years ago, following the death of her husband, who left her a tract of wild land, which at that time was considered practically worthless. Mrs. Dodd decided to utilize this resource to the best of her ability, and to this end she constructed a system of irrigation and started to grow Bermuda onions. The industry proved profitable from the very beginning and she increased the acreage in onions year by year, until a large part of her farm is now devoted to that crop. Her annual revenue from the onions ranges from $50,000 to $75,000. It is a crop that is enormously profitable, the net returns per acre being from $300 to $500. Mrs. Dodd does her own marketing and has offices in New York during the shipping season, where she looks after the sale of the crop as it arrives in carload lots.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin is chairman of the endowment fund committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which has for its purpose the raising of $100,000, which is to be invested and the proceeds therefrom used to pay certain expenses of the organization. The special object of providing for a revenue from this source each year is to enable more work to be done in the matter of building up and creating an interest in the women's club work. Mrs. Pennybacker is the author of "Pennybacker's History of Texas," which is in use in all the public schools of this state. She is a candidate for president of the General Federation and her chances of being elected are said to be good.

Mrs. J. C. Miles of Taylor has made a great success as a contractor on works of large magnitude. She is now employed in the construction of a large irrigation canal for a company near San Antonio. This canal system involves an expenditure of more than $800,000, and Mrs. Miles has one of the principal sub-contracts of the work. At the time her bid was accepted for this job she had her contracting outfit, consisting of many wagons and other equipment as well as a great number of mules and horses, at her home at Taylor. She took her outfit overland to the scene of the proposed construction work, a distance of about 110 miles. The conveyance attracted much attention along the route. It was headed by Mrs. Miles, and upon its arrival at the place where the construction work was to be done she directed the establishment of the camp. The construction operations are conducted under her personal supervision and direction.

Miss Katie Daffan, who has been prominent for several years in women's club circles in the South, was recently appointed superintendent of the Texas State Confederate Women's Home at Austin, Texas. It was largely through her efforts that the Daughters of the Confederacy organization of Texas brought about the establishment of this home. It was conducted for a time under the auspices of that society. Through an

CONTRACT FOR 100,000 WORDS OF ADVERTISING

Want Columns of Times to be Extensively Patronized by Firm of Marlow and Stone.

One hundred thousand words of classified advertising to be used in six months, is not a bad little contract, and shows the esteem in which character of advertising is held by one firm at least. The contract in question was made yesterday afternoon between the firm of Marlow & Stone and the Times company.

For a long time different real estate men have been using the classified columns of the Times with such success that at present most of the dealers have contracts varying from two to ten thousand lines. Marlow & Stone watched the results pretty closely, and decided that if a little advertising paid, a lot of it would pay better, and therefore closed the biggest contract that was ever made in this city for classified advertising.

The contract is also evidence of a bettering condition in the real estate market. The fine crop prospects now, and the better business outlook generally is creating a demand for property that presages a lively market for the summer and fall, and a return of the hustling days when a man thought it a dull day when he did not make at least one deal.

If You Like a Little Quiet Fun

Ask some pompous person if Grape-Nuts Food helps build the brain.

Chances are you get a withering sneer and a hiss of denunciation.

Then sweetly play with the learned toad.

Ask him to tell you the analysis of brain material and the analysis of Grape-Nuts.

"Don't know? Why, I supposed you based your opinions on exact knowledge instead of pushing out a conclusion like you would a sneeze."

"Well, now your tire is punctured, let's sit down like good friends and repair it."

The bulky materials of brain are water and albumin, but these things cannot blend without a little worker known as Phosphate of Potash, defined as a "mineral salt."

One authority, Geohagan, shows in his analysis of brain, 5.33 per cent total of mineral salts, over one-half being Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined, (Phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent.

Beaunis, another authority, shows Phosphoric Acid and Potash (Phosphate of Potash) more than one-half the total mineral salts, being 73.44 per cent in a total of 101.07.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts show Potassium and Phosphorus (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumin and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor, and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumin and water.

Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

Every day's use of brain wears away a little.

Suppose your kind of food does not contain Phosphate of Potash?

How are you going to rebuild today the worn out parts of yesterday?

And if you don't, why shouldn't nervous prostration and brain-fag result.

Remember, Mind does not work well on a brain that is even partly broken down from lack of nourishment.

It is true that other foods besides Grape-Nuts contains varying quantities of Brain food

Plain wheat and barley do. But in Grape-Nuts there is a certainty.

And if the elements demanded by Nature, are eaten, then life forces have the needed material to build from.

A healthy brain is important if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required.

DELEGATES TO PALESTINE TELLS OF FEDERATION.

To Organized Labor of Wichita Falls —Greeting:

I have just returned from Palestine, Texas, where I spent last week as a delegate to the State Federation of Laborers Union of this place, and I placed the label of the craft before that convention in such a way that I am sure will result in material good to the Broom makers who are employed in this factory and to the company by increasing the demand for Union made brooms. This factory is the only one in the state employing union labor and the delegates went home from the convention enthusiastic to place the matter before the merchants of their respective cities and have them handle the Wichita Falls broom altogether. This factory had some good, strong advertising.

Every craft that I can think of was represented there, amongst them the carpenters were prominent. The craft which we, no matter where located, can patronize is the Garment Workers. I have heard the cry, and uttered myself that we could not get certain Union made garments, but there is nothing that we wear that cannot be gotten bearing the Union label if we demand it, and if the organized labor of Wichita Falls would get together and tell our merchants that we would accept nothing else we would have them handling Union made goods.

The State Federation of Labor is a legislative body. We keep a committee in Austin during every legislative session, whose duty it is to secure the passage of laws for the good of the working people and for the common good of all, and whether you are a brick layer, plumber, carpenter, printer or whatever, your craft may be, you are benefitted by the State Federation and I would be glad to see every local Union in Wichita Falls affiliated with this state central body.

The object and motive of the Federation is endorsed by the best people of the state and no one who toils with his hands and earns his bread by the sweat of his brow, need feel embarrassed when they know what this organization is doing.

Among those who addressed the convention were Ex-Governor Campbell, Professor Ellis of the University of Texas, and the Commissioner of Labor of Texas who indorsed the
